Papy Trial

a censor" of statements made in the legislature.

Parker and State Attorney Phil O'Connel of West Palm Beach argued the defense motion was based entirely on cases involving libel and slander and did not fit the bribery charge.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 22 (AP)—Attorneys for former Rep. Bernie C. Papy of Key West today moved to exclude from evidence all testimony on conversations in or about the Florida House chamber in connection with charges that he attempted to bribe fellow lawmakers.

The alleged conversations from the basis of accusations against Papy, now on trial after a grand jury indictment.

Defense attorneys asked the court to recognize an old English common law of 1688 and strike virtually all of the testimony of the state's star witness, Rep. Brailey Odham of Sanford.

The jury was taken from the room while Odham repeated in more detail than ever before his accusation that Papy offered him cash and whiskey to help defeat a bill denying race bookmakers telephone and telegraph service.

The defense argued that under the common law, conversations in and around legislative chambers between lawmakers about matters pending before them are "absolutely privileged and inadmissible as court evidence.

Judge W. May Walker excluded the jury from the room to hear technical arguments on the point. He did not rule immediately.

Odham testified that Papy made him two bribe offers, one just outside the House chamber's main entrance and immediately inside the chamber the next day. He said that after the second offer, "I told him 'you B . . . I'm not only going to support the bill. Now I'm going to expose you.'"

When the bookie bill then came up for action, Odham charged in the preceding debate "There is money on the line in this House" to defeat the measure but he did not on that day name Papy. He said later he would have if his speech had not been "cut off by parliamentary finagling."

The 27-year-old Sanford oil distributor, youngest member of the House, smiled several times and wiped his hands with a handkerchief during his testimony.

He told the court he and Papy were good friends before the alleged bribe offer was made because Papy had helped get one of his five brothers a job at a Miami race track.

"I had to feel very definite for that bookie bill to turn a friend down," Odham said of Papy's alleged request for his support.

He said after he had told Papy he was convinced it was a good bill and would support it, Papy replied "Do you mind if I get personal?" and then said either "I'll get you" or "I'll give you" "two hundred dollars" to vote against it.

Odham, continuing his statement tion' between the two phrases to make a charge, "I would never have made a charge but I know it meant $200 to me." He said he had a feeling of "hurt, humiliation and a little rebellion all at the same time."

Odhma, continuing his statement to the court with the jury outside the courtroom, said the day after Papy made a $200 offer, the Key West representative approached him again at the rear of the House chamber with a different proposal.

The Sanford representative told the court he was at the desk of Rep. T. T. Cobb of Daytona Beach congratulating him on a speech involving a move to ban cattle from Florida highways.

"As I turned from Tommy Cobb's desk, Bernie Papy, coming from across the aisle, grabbed me by my arm and said 'Odie, I'll make it five and a case of Scotch if you'll just take a walk."

It was then, Odham said, he told Papy he was not only going to support the anti-bookie bill but would expose him.

Papy's resignation from the House and his indictment followed charges of attempted bribery by Odham and Rep. Clarence M. Camp II of Ocala.

Gunfire, Bloodhounds Ends Convict Escape

GAINESVILLE, Fla., July 22-(AP)-Gunfire and bloodhounds ended a short-lived escape by two negro convicts from a State Road Department road camp truck here yesterday. One of the men was recaptured immediately and the other was taken in less than an hour.

The escapade utilized men of the police department, sheriff's office, road department and the Florida farm colony.

The action started a little after 6:00 o'clock last night when Bracey Taylor and Arthur Ralford, jumped off a truck near the outskirts of the city.

Ralford was apprehended almost immediately. Police reported when he was shot four times in the lower right arm and hand by one of the guards. A police car took him to the road camp.

Taylor was captured less than an hour later lying in bushes about 200 feet from where he jumped off the truck.

Soviets Warned Of Intelligence Agents

MOSCOW, July 22, (AP)--Soviet concern over operations of foreign intelligence agents was emphasized in an article in the Leningrad Pravda, which criticized several citizens for carelessly or unconsciously giving out state secrets.

"One should remember," the article said, "that with the end of the war underinining activities of foreign intelligence have not weakened in the slightest. It is known that even bourgeois states, which are identical in character, constantly send among each other spies, diversionists, terrorists and assassins.

"Capitalistic intelligence operates even more actively against the Soviet nation, trying to undermine its military and economic might.

"The strictest maintenance of state-secrets by every Soviet person is of exceptionally great importance for providing security for the country."

day were the traffic men at the gates."

Thakin Nu said Aung San was warned in May that a plot was in the making to kill the entire executive council in order to cause integration of the anti-Fascist Peoples Freedom League, the dominant political faction to which the slain ministers belonged. This, the conspirators believed, would enable them to seize power during the ensuing chaos.

Thakin Nu said a tribunal would be established to inquire into circumstances of the assassinations and would examine all under arrest, including U Saw and other rival political leaders.

"Nothing shall deter me from the firm purpose of achieving the ultimate goal our beloved leader set before us," he was quoted as telling the new times of Burma, the government paper.

He denied that former Premier Ba Maw was arrested or that the government planned to arrest him.

wished to stress that it maintains its unalterable decision to carry out the political program based upon the principles underlying the Linggadjati Agreement (in which the Dutch agreed last Mar. 25 to the independence of Indonesia in 1949).

"The Netherlands government confidently hopes that circumstances will soon permit to resume constructive cooperation with the republic as desired by innumerable Indonesians in Republican territory, which cooperation already successfully exists with the states of East Indonesia and Borneo."

Since the Indonesian republic is not recognized by the United Nations as a sovereign state, any complaint from Indonesian leaders would raise important legal points.

UN experts expressed the opinion that the Security Council could not act on the Indonesian situation unless a complaint was filed by an independent country — either a member or non-member of the UN.

Even though the council could not act directly on the Indonesian communication, it was pointed out that some other country might easily file a complaint on behalf of the Indonesians.

In this connection, it was recalled that the Soviet Ukraine brought the Indonesian question before the council in January, 1946, in London—even without the request of the Indonesian leaders.

At that time, it was charged that the presence of British troops in Indonesia threatened world peace. The Ukrainian representative demanded creation of a commission for an on-the-spot inquiry, but the council defeated the proposal.

Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin in a broadcast from Jogjakarta beamed to Australia, appealed "to the world in general and our friends in Australia in particular to strengthen their efforts to prevent further bloodshed." He said it was clear this "colonial war" was not in the interest of general peace in southeast Asia and the world.

"If efforts are being made in our behalf, they must be made quickly," he said in a speech hear by the Dutch Monitor here.

Associated Press correspondent Harris Jackson reported from Jogjakarta that the Indonesians claimed in a communique to have "made progress west of Semarang" today. This was the first Indonesian assertion of military success since the outbreak of hostilities Sunday.

A broadcast Indonesian communique heard in Batavia said the Indonesians were attacking west of Semarang on the north central coast of Java.

Jackson quoted an Indonesian communique as saying the Dutch bombed Ambarawa, 20 miles south of Semarang. The area was the scene of severe fighting two years ago.

Water Bombs To Be Used On Forest Fires

GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 22 (AP)- The Army Air Forces and U.S. Forest Service plan to demonstrate tommorrow that "the same type of bombers and fighters which devastation of the nation's valuable forest resources."

The "water bombing" is designed only to delay forest blazes in inaccessible regions until parachuting smoke jumpers or ground crews can extinguish them.

Nathan Mayo, state commissioner of agriculture, who announced today that he does not intend to retire at the expiration of his present term. "The rumors are absolutely without foundation", Mr. Mayo declared, "as I expect to be a candidate to succeed myself in the 1948 election regardless of who else runs." "I have an unfinished program in the ultimate development of agriculture," he asserted, "and I am asking my thousands of friends to pass the word that I am not ready to quit my post."

Indonesian Revolt

donesian we likely should encounter some such reasoning as this:

"The Dutch and the Indonesians are racially as far apart as the poles. We have little in common. The Queen of the Netherlands is a benevolent and lovable personage, but she is not one of us. The members of her government are foreigners to us. We want absolute severance from Holland, so that we may rule ourselves in these fairy lands of wealth which have been inhabited by our race for untold generations. It isn't that we like the Dutch less, but we like our absolute freedom the more."

That's what your correspondent believes they think. And that is the basic cause of this fresh outbreak. If we believe the writing on the wall, this means that sooner or later (probably sooner) the Netherlands must relinquish all claims on the wealth of Indonesia.

The same is true of all imperial powers, because the demand for independence is running around the world like a theme song. We are seeing its effect in the west sub-continent of India which has been granted its freedom by England. Britain also is relinquishing Burma—now torn by a bloody internal political crisis.

Around the corner the French are battling to keep French Indo-China in line. French and Italian colonies in Africa are reaching for the sun. Egypt is demanding the withdrawal of British troops from her soil, and relinquishment of control over the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. And so the story goes. Empires are as outmoded as the Georgian stage-coach.

Naturally this doesn't mean that all imperial possessions are going by the board over-night. However, the time is fast passing when intelligent people of different races can be bound together by a jewel studded crown and sceptre. Commonwealths comprising sovereign nations of different races may be formed successfully for mutual benefit—and someday we may get that vast commonwealth which many look forward to as "One World." But empires are all but anachronistic.

And by the same token, any attempt to create a bloc of nations by force, against the will of their peoples, must fall in the long run.

Orlando Bride Held In Murder Inquiry

JACKSONVILLE, Fla July 22-(AP)- A Jacksonville man and his bride were held today in El Paso, Texas, for the Georgia slaying of Myron D. Sutherland, 35, Jacksonville oil filter manufacturing company employee.

Sutherland's decomposed body was found Sunday in an abandoned cabin near the edge of Georgia's Okefenokee Swamp just over the Florida line. In the back of his head was a .22 bullet hole and an exploded shell lay nearby. His 1941 blue Chevrolet sedan with Florida license plate 2D-7123 was missing.

The man and wife held for Georgia police were identified by Det. Lieut. H. V. Branch as Wayne F. Woodruff, 27 and his bride Jeanette, 19, formerly of Orlando.

Detective Don G. Butler said a warrant had been obtained by the sheriff at Folkston, Ga., charging Woodruff with murder and asking that his wife be held. The two were apprehended as they stepped from a California-bound bus.

Glades Park Bill

to acquire private lands by purchase of condemnation.

Dirksen said he appeared at the request of Joel Hopkins, Grandville, Ill., who he said, owns 30,000 acres in the area. Dirksen said he has no objection to expansion of the park if private owners are permitted ot retain oil and mineral rights, plus the privilege of carrying on explorations.

He said he believes 25 years would be a sufficient time to give individual owners exploration privileges.

Rep. Smathers (D-Fla) said legislation looking toward establishment of the park was first passed by Congress 18 years ago, and that 10 State legislatures and five Florida governors "have considered and approved" its establishment.

"It appears to me we owe something to the public interest," Smathers said. "The people of Florida want this park to go on. I see no occasion at this time to delay action.

Peterson said amendments which he will propose to the legislation will provide that no lands can be acquired outside of a boundary agreed upon between the State and Federal government in 1944 and will protect oil and mineral rights of private owners.

The legislation reserve oil royalties (1/8 of production) to Florida on State owned lands if the Secretary of Interior ever permits drilling and oil is found.

peared before the committee under oath.

Photographs were forbidden. Rep. Mundt (R-S. D.) explained that Kravchenko "may be in considerable danger" because of his willingness to testify.

Kravchenko discounted any idea that the Russian government may be scrapped by the Russian people. In one plant he headed, Kravchenko said, there once were 27,000 workers and 100 Cossack guards. Later, he said, the plant had 30,000 workers and over 1,000 guards with automatic rifles and dogs.

The only weapons of the workers, he testified, were the 'chains of their own slavery," adding that "consequently, any hope that the government may be overthrown from the inside by the forces of the people is built on sand."

The witness said the Soviet Secret police is "an important factor and force in the Soviet economy." Special branches of the police, he added, are assigned to all sorts of economic and industrial activity.

In these operations 17,000,000 to 20,000,000 people are employed and "the Soviet government uses their labor free of charge and keeps them on a starvation diet," he continued.

Asked about the Russian search for the atom bomb, Kravchenko told the committee he knew the Soviet Union was "actively engaged" in December, 1942, in getting uranium, source of atomic energy. He said that if Russia had developed the atom bomb at the time the United States did, and if the United States did not have the bomb, "we wouldn't be sitting right now in this place."

Kravchenko scoffed at Russian proposals for disarmament, asking: "Is it possible to propose disarmament and at the same time carry on within the Soviet Union and in the satellite states violent ideological warfare which it aims at rearing millions to hate the United States and England?"

He concluded the Kremlin's main hope is an economic depression in this country, and if it occurs Russia will take advantage of the Communists (here) to produce confusion, general strikes and hell."

the $100 a day provision still applies.

The 15 day amendment was adopted on recommendation of the Sanford Retail Merchants Association represented at the meeting by Ned Smith, president. Mr. Smith stated that in view of Attorney Wilson's opinion that the fee might not be valid at $100 a day, he was withdrawing his objection to reducing it, provided the 15 day limitation was approved, according to Mr. Sayer.

Mr. Smith told the Commission that the Merchants Association at an afternoon meeting, had adopted a resolution requesting the Commission in the future not to adopt any ordinance effecting citizens or merchants on its first reading, but rather to carry it over to the next meeting, Sayer reported.

A letter brom W. D. Ryan, general manager of the Minneapolis Baseball Club, was read in which the City was assured that at the end of the spring training period the Municipal Ball Park would be turned back to the City in as good condition as when they took it over. He also agreed to all conditions stipulated by the City in regard to taking over the park.

Mr. Sayer, in behalf of the City, had written Mr. Ryan outlining the City's requirements and requesting that the park be returned at the end of the season in as good condition as the visiting club found it. The City agreed to furnish sand and clay for the infield, and to furnish a ground's keeper to assist in maintaining the park during the training season.

In response to a City request for bus service to and from the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital, the Silver Cab Company advised that there were not enough people riding there to pay the operating expenses of a bus.

Milk in local dairies was reported to have met Grade A requirements during the present month. Employment of E. L. Levy and B. H. Giles as firemen was approved in accordance with previous action in authorizing the hiring of two additional firemen. Both are experienced firemen, said Mr. Sayer. RCA radio equipment ordered by the City is expected to arrive in the near future, he said.

The Commission was informed that the McCormick Lumber Company Building on West First Street, previously condemned by the City, is now being repaired.

A hearing date was set for July 30 to determine whether or not to revoke the license of J. D. Carlton's beer place on West Ninth Street, concerning which neighbors have complained, Mr. Sayer announced.

Purchase of the first City lot on which they have options by E. R. Doyle and W. D. Forbes who plan a home building project on Magnolia Heights was approved. The purchase at this time was necessary said Sayer, in order to secure FHA approval.

Due to numerous and daily complaints reaching the Sanitary Department from residents in regard to neighbors' chicken yards being too close to their homes, the City Attorney was directed to draw up an ordinance to defining the minimum distance a chicken yard may be located from a neighbor's house. This will be presented at the next meeting, said Mr. Sayer.

The Commission last evening gave consideration to increasing the occupational tax on all types of business.

Balkans would be a threat to peace.

Meanwhile, Britain proposed that the council sidestep a decision on which of the Balkan countries were responsible for the current disorders in that area.

The British proposal was contained in an amendment eliminating a paragraph of an American resolution which Russia and the Soviet satellites had attacked on the ground that it presumed the guilt of Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

A spokesman for the American delegation said the British amendment would be accepted by the United States. This was one of two conciliatory moves made at this morning's council session in an effort to reconcile conflicting Soviet and American views.

The other move was made by France.

The U. S. resolution referred to the report of the Balkan investigating commission which declared that any future hostile action on the part of the three Soviet satellites would be considered a threat to peace.

Boy Reverses Story Of Infant Killing

MASSILLON, O., July 22 (AP) The mysterious deaths of two infants in Massillon City Hospital, apparently solved yesterday by the statement of a six-year-old boy, reverted again today to a puzzling conglomeration of varied stories and differences between officials.

Mrs. Roger Gue, of nearby Navarre, mother of young Roger Gue, who yesterday related to police how he accidentally dropped the two infants last June 6, said her son today had reverted to his original tale of seeing a large boy in a white coat enter the nursery in which the infants were found dying.

She declared she did not now belive her son dropped the babies and told newsmen she and her husband were tricked into letting investigators talk to her son.

These locations, he revealed, will be inspected after due notice has been given to the local Post. After this a final meeting will be held by the committee prior to making its final recommendation for the site to the Executive Committee at the Mid-winter Department conference in January. Final action on the site selection will be taken at the Department Convention in Panama City in April.

Mr. Field told the Headquarters Committee of the manifold advantages of the Sanford lakefront site, where the Memorial building could be seen from the railroad (St. Johns Bridge), the waterway, the highway and the air lines. He told the Post members that if Sanford is inspected by the Committee, local civic and fraternal organizations will be requested by the Post to co-operate in impressing upon the committee members the advantages of Sanford as a site for the building.

William Lasater was commended by the Post for his able handling of the Sanford Junior Legion baseball team, which today is playing in Winter Park.

Defense Motion Of Acquittal Denied In Papy's Trial

State Rests Case As Defense Begins Parade Of Witnesses In Accused's Behalf

TALALHASSEE, July 23 (AP)—Former Representative Bernie C. Papy denied from the witness stand at his trial here today that he had offered bribes to Reps. Bailey Odham and Clarence M. Camp II during the 1947 legislature. The veteran Key West representative said he had told Odham on one occasion only that he heard "they are paying $100 to vote" on an anti-bookmaking bill. He said he had no conversation whatever with Odham the next day when, the Sanford representative has testified, Papy offered him $500 and a case of Scotch whiskey not to vote.

TALLAHASSEE, July 23 (AP)—Circuit Judge W. May Walker today denied defense motions of acquittal on all three counts of an indictment charging former Rep. Bernie C. Papy with offering bribes to Florida legislators.

The motion was made and promptly denied soon after the Senate presented the last of its witnesses and turned the trial over to the defense. Defense witnesses began coming to the stand after the lunch recess.

Defense council at the last minute recalled Papy's accusors. Reps. Bailey Odham of Sanford and Clarence M. Camp II of Ocala. Odham was questioned again closely on whether he had heard Papy make a purported offer of $200 or simply 200.

Odham's statements showing the language both ways were introduced.

Judge Walker ruled out an effort by the defense to get Camp's answer to a question as to whether Papy and two other representatives had a conversation with him on May 12 concerning reports that $100 was being offered for votes for the anti-bookie bill.

The judge said that was immaterial because it occurred five days after Camp testified Papy told him a vote to send the measure to hostile committee would be "worth $100 to you."

Defense motions for directed verdicts of acquittal all were based on grounds that the state had failed to support its charges

Army, Navy, FBI To Get Testimony On Soviet Agents

Witness Says Group Of Communists Active At University

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities plans to hand over to the Army, Navy and FBI testimony that Soviet agents got secret wartime information on American planes and submarines.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-N. J.) told reporters of the intention today as the committee switched its general investigation of Communist activities from spying to union infiltration.

Ann Mathews testified that at least 16 of the 30 officials of the CIO Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers Union Local No. 22 at Winston-Salem, N. C., where members of the Communist Party prior to last January. That was the time, she said, when she ceased being an official of the union local.

Price Of Scotch Is Disclosed At Papy Bribe Trial

TALLAHASSEE, July 23, (AP)—The state finally succeeded in getting the price of a case of Scotch whiskey into the record of the bribery trial of former Rep. Bernie C. Papy today.

It was necessary to establish that a case of whiskey is a thing of value within the meaning of the law dealing with bribery. It took three witness to do it as well as several orders of Circuit Judge W. May Walker overruling objections from the defense.

Papy is accused in the indictment of offering Rep. Bailey Odham of Sanford a bribe of $500 and a case of Scotch whiskey for his vote on the 1947 anti-bookmaker bill.

The first witness, a representative of the State Beverage Department who waited two days to testify, told the court he couldn't say at what price Scotch whiskey sold in May when the alleged offer was made.

However, Wade Wehunt, business manager of the local Elks Club—which holds a disputed dry county club liquor license—said he knew.

So did F. O. Nelson who reported he operated a liquor store in a nearby wet county until last month. Both testified Scotch whiskey sold durnig May at prices ranging from $55 to about $75 a case, depending on the brand.

Reds Reject Jap Treaty Plan Of U. S.

America Hit For Acting Unilaterally; 4 Power Ministers' Meet Suggested

By ROBERT HEWETT

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—Russia rejected a United States invitation to join in preparing a Japanese peace treaty and charged that America had acted in a "unilateral manner" in proposing a preliminary conference for Aug. 19 in Washington, the Moscow radio said tonight.

The broadcast Soviet reply to the Washington invitation declared that Russia "cannot agree" to the proposed Aug. 19 meeting of the 11 nations which fought Japan.

The Soviet note delivered to Washington yesterday declared that the council of foreign ministers, representing the United States, Russia, Britain and China, should be entrusted with preliminary work in drafting a Japanese treaty in accordance with wartime agreements among the powers.

The note suggested that the Russian, British and Chinese ambassadors in Washington meet with a representative of the United States to decide when the council of the foreign ministers should be convened.

The text of the Soviet reply, as broadcast by the Moscow radio:

On July 11 of this year the United States Ambassador Gen. Bedell Smith told V. M. Molotov, the U. S. S. R. minister of foreign affairs, that the government of the United States proposed to call on Aug. 19 of this year, a conference for the preparation of a peace treaty with Japan, comprising representatives of 11 powers, members of the Far Eastern Commission.

At the same time the U. S. government unilaterally began negotiations on this question with the governments of the remaining powers who are in the Far Eastern Commission.

Western Powers Attack Russian Delegate To U N

By LARRY HAUCK

LAKE SUCCESS, July 23, (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's son deputy in the United Nations was lambasted today in one of the strongest personal attacks ever made in the U. N.

After Alexei N. Krasilnikov had delivered a 30-minute speech castigating the Western powers for their opposition to the admission of Soviet-supported Albania to the U. N., Britain's Valentine G. Lawford said in measured words:

"It is deplorable that we should be subjected day after day, week after week, month after month to this junk about provocations, lies, noises and repetitions. We are presumed to be intelligent officials and not a gathering of illiterates.

"We draw our conclusions from facts and not from slogans. I term the Soviet speech a regrettably offensive production."

Col. W. R. Hodgson of Australia took the floor immediately to declare:

"How glad I am that these meetings are now open to the press. Previously we have had to put up with calculated abuse and distortions of this particular representative of the Soviet Union for a long time."

Hayden Raynor of the United States told delegates:

"I won't dignify the utterly ridiculous and irrelevant statements of the Soviet delegate by answering.

"I resent the tenor of his remarks."

Vegetable Group Releases Facts, Figures On State

ORLANDO, July 23, (Special)—Florida Vegetable Committee reports that more than 100,000,000 man hours are required annually to grow, harvest, pack and ship Florida's tremendous vegetable crop.

The value of all farms in Florida has grown from a total of $42,763,048 in 1900 to $515,215,000 in 1945, cacording to Florida Vegetable Committee statistics.

Florida's leading income—producing vegetable crops, in order of importance, says the Florida Vegetable Committee, are; tomatoes, green beans, celery, early Irish potatoes, green peppers, cabbage, watermelons, cucumbers, strawberries and sweet potatoes.

Florida has currently more than 250,000 acres devoted solely to commercial production of fresh vegetables, according to the Florida Vegetable Committee.

Florida farm wage rates have risen approximately 315% since 1932, according to the Florida Vegetable Committee.

Per capita consumption of fresh vegetable in the U. S. has increased from less than 200 pounds per year to nearly 250 pounds, the Florida Vegetable Committee reports. This means an increase of more than one bushel per person per year.

The Florida Vegetable Committee reports that Florida produced more than 60% of the nation's winter and Spring celery in 1946.

Florida's largest short season crop, according to the Florida Vegetable Committee, is watermelons, with an average of more than 8,000 cars being shipped in June and July.

Florida vegetables are available in volume on the nation's markets, according to the Florida Vegetable Committee, every month in the year except August and September.

The Florida Vegetable Committee reports that during the past 20 seasons, Florida's total commercial vegetable acreage has increased at an average rate of more than 8% per year.

More than 106,000 acres of snap beans are planted annually in Florida, according to the Florida Vegetable Committee, with more than 80,000 acres reaching successful harvest in spite of weather, insects, and diseases ravages.

8 Germans Killed In Red Zone Blast

BERLIN, July 23, (AP)—An explosion rocked German police headquarters in the Russian zone of Berlin today, killing eight Germans and injuring nine.

The American-licensed newspaper Der Abend reported it "presumably was an act of sabotage" and that a suitcase found in the ruins "leads to the conclusion that a bomb was smuggled into the building."

Soviet officials maintained silence.

It was the third such explosion in administrative buildings in the Soviet section.

Four policemen and four German workmen were killed. At least two of the injured were reported in critical conditions.

Interest In Civic Affairs Stressed At Kiwanis Meet

Aiken Sings And Relates Incidents Of New York Trip

Need of more interest by the average citizen in the public affairs of Sanford was today stressed by E. F. Housholder, local attorney and former City commissioner, at the Kiwanis meeting today at the Tourist Center. He was introduced by Roy Britt.

Dick Aiken, Sanford tenor, sang two selections, accompanied by Roger Harris, and told some of the incidents before and after his winning on July 4, the Arthur Godfrey talent contest.

Kiwanis president, Lester Tharp, told of the exchange of telegrams with Arthur Godfrey as a result of his having wired Godfrey that Dick Aiken lived here and not in Orlando, of having later telegraphed Godfrey that a crate of Sanford celery will be sent him next season, and getting the reply from the latter that he is very fond of celery. J. C. Hutchison and H. C. Hetzel were appointed by Pres. Tharp to look after the matter.

Allen Robert Lormann, restaurant operator, former orchestra leader and veteran of naval air corps action in the Pacific, with rank of lieutenant when released from active duty, and Roger Leonard Harris, insurance man, former high school teacher, Methodist choir leader and graduate of the Westminister Choir College in Massachusetts, were the two new Kiwanians today inducted by the Rev. W. P. Yealey.

In his talk Mr. Housholder declared, "I don't think there is anything the matter with Sanford," and added that if there is anything wrong with Sanford it would be because of "indolence and negligence" and letting others "do the job."

He recalled the hectic days of the depression period when some extremely excited people were convinced that Sanford would never survive and recover from depression effects. He reviewed a statement made publicly at the time of his retirement from public office to the effect that Sanford was not bankrupt, had many valuable assets and although tried sorely by unforeseen conditions still had the

Anglo-Russian Trade Talks Hit New Snag

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—A British government source said today in Moscow have "taken a turn that British-Russian trade talks for the worse and a breakdown is now rather likely."

The informant said that unexpected disagreement had arisen over the price of wheat which Russia plannd to trade for British machinery.

Negotiations for the trade pact began some weeks ago and early last week were authoritatively reported to be near a successful conclusion. Government quarters had no explanation of the sudden new bargaining difficulties.

Poles' Share Of U.S. Relief Is Cancelled

Survey Mission Says Nation Has Food Needs For Year; Crop Outlook Good

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Poland's share of the $350,000,000 American relief program was cancelled today, on grounds that the Poles have sufficient food, and State Department officials indicated Hungary likewise may be excluded from the program.

The action on Poland was taken on recommendation of a survey mission headed by Col. R. L. Harrison. He reported to Secretary Marshall that Poland has food for minimum needs at least for the remainder of this year.

Better crop prospects in Hungary make likely a decision that country also can get by without American assistance, relief officials said.

Poland is within the Soviet orbit and Hungary is occupied by Red army forces. The decisions on relief, however, were said to be based entirely on needs.

Relief shipments already have started to Italy, Greece, Austria and Trieste, under the program, and preliminary discussions are in progress with China. These along with Poland and Hungary were authorized by Congress to share in the relief program, which the House trimmed to $332,000,000 in voting appropriations.

Harrison reported that "grain and other foods are available to meet the minimum food needs

Senate Suprised By Truman With Informal Visit

WASHINGTON, July 23, (AP)—Breaking precedent, President Truman took his old seat in the Senate today and made a brief speech saying he had spent the best 10 years of his life there.

Grinning happily, the President, a former senator from Missouri, walked onto the Senate floor unannounced after lunching at the Capitol.

He took a rear row seat on the Democratic side as senators and gallery occupants rose and applauded.

The senate at the moment was busy with routine, minor bills. But when Mr. Truman appeared, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), the presiding officer, promptly recognized the President and welcomed him warmly. Vandenberg then said that he recognized the "Senator from Missouri for five minutes."

Senators applauded as President Truman arose and began a brief talk. He said the Senate had been very kind and that he never had had a more cordial welcome anywhere.

"And I've been a lot of places, he added.

The President recalled that Senate rules prevent anyone but senators speaking there. He smiled as he broke the rule.

"I get homesick for this seat," Mr. Truman said, speaking slowly.

"I spent the best ten years of my life in this seat".

The President added that a senator with whom he'd lunched "dared me" to walk in and sit in my former seat.

Senator McGrath (D-RI) was in that seat. When the President walked in—McGrath quickly surrendered it to the Chief Executive

Silver Glen Springs Sale Is Announced

OCALA, July 23 (AP)—H. H. Henderson has announced the sale of Silver Glen Springs, location of early Indian plantings and shellbacks, to four Ferran brothers of Eustis—E. L., C. H., Robert and Lee and two uncles, Harry and Carl Ferran.

The price was $125,000, Henderson said, for the 520-acre area in eastern Marion county which is now a fishing and resort spot.

The place was visited by John Bartram, noted American naturalist, and his son William during their travels and the opening scene of "The Yearling" was shot at the Springs.

Dutch Drive Nears Key Indonesian City

Each Side Says Other Using Jap Troops; India, Australia May Make UN Plea

BATAVIA, Java., July 23, (AP)—Four Java towns were in flames tonight as Indonesian troops retreating on two fronts threatening their capital, adopted scorched earth tactics before a determined Dutch army drive, an Indonesian communique announced.

BATAVIA, July 23 (AP)—Dutch troops driving to slice Java in two have pressed to within 12 miles of the key Republican stronghold of Malang, an Indonesian army communique acknowledged today.

Other Dutch units were threatening the Indonesian capital of Jogjakarta. The Dutch took the important town of Salatiga, on a 46-mile winding highway to the Republican capital.

A dispatch from Associated Press correspondent Harris Jackson quoted a Republican communique as saying that meanwhile, the Indonesians in a counter-drive were nearing the outskirts of Dutch-held Semarang, 27 miles north of Salatiga and the base for the jumpoff of the Dutch drive toward Jogjakarta. Indonesian forces have been reported tempting to infiltrate Semarang, an important Dutch military base on the north coast of central Java.

A Dutch army communique indicated that motorized columns and armor-protected troops were pushing deep into both Java and Sumatra on at least 10 fronts against sporadic resistance.

On Sumatra, the Army communique reported that a Dutch column had moved more than 70 miles to the west of Palembang in the southeastern part of the big island.

Though the column's present location was not revealed, this advance would seem to have put it in control of the rich oil fields that supply the great shell and standard-vacuum refineries at Palembang.

The communique said other Dutch elements lancing east from this Netherlands colonial capital had moved 50 miles before 6:00

Halsey Relates Personal Episode In Pacific Battle

Error In Coded Message From Nimitz Resulted In Anger

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey, retired, says he still believes he made a strategic mistake in the battle of Leyte Gulf during a moment of anger ignited by what he mistakenly thought was an insult from Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.

Halsey recalled the events in an article in this week's Saturday Evening Post.

The time was late October, 1944. Halsey was then Third Fleet commander. Three Japanese task forces were trying to smash General Douglas MacArthur's landing at Leyte.

Third Fleet planes attacked and damaged the central enemy force. Vice-Admiral Thomas C. Kincaid's Seventh Fleet took on the southern Japanese force at Surigan Strait. Halsey's ships and planes then went after the northern Japanese units. Meanwhile, units of the central enemy force went on to attack Kincaid's ships.

Halsey's planes sank one carrier, hit two others and a light cruiser. His big ships in Task Force 34 were closing in and were only 42 miles from bringing the Japanese surface vessels under fire when Halsey received a message from Nimitz, then naval commander-in-chief in the Pacific.

The message read: "The whole world wants to know where is Task Force 34."

Halsey said he was stunned, then flew into a rage because he considered the wording of the message an "insult." Later, however, he discovered the wording was the work of the man who put the message in code and used padding to make it more difficult to break.

The phrase was not Nimitz', Halsey learned, but "it sounded so infernally plausible that my decoders read it as a valid part of the message. Chester blew up when I told him about it; he tracked down the little squirt and chewed him to bits, but it was too late; the damage was done.

"The orders I now gave, I gave in rage. And although Ernie King, Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, then chief of naval operations) later assured me that they were the right ones, I am convinced that they were not."

Halsey ordered units of Task Force 34 south to help Kincaid. Lighter units continued the northern chase and only two of the 17 enemy ships escaped damage or sinking.

In his article, Halsey observed that the American Navy in the Pacific had one basic weakness.

"Although our naval power in the Western Pacific was such that we could have challenged the combined fleets of the world," he said,

National Charter Is Signed For AMVETS

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—President Truman today signed legislation providing a national charter for the American veterans of World War II.

Ray Sawyer, AMVET National commander, said the action makes AMVETS the first World II veterans organization to be recognized officially by Congress.

He added that the legislation gives AMVETS "legal status equal to that of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans and the Spanish War Veterans, the only other Veterans' groups holding congressional charters."

Peace Officers Are Entertained By Aiken

Dick Aiken, Sanford tenor, and Roger Harris, his accompanist, got a "big hand" last evening as they entertained officers from all parts of Florida at the Association at the sky room of the Angebilt Hotel in Orlando.

Just about recovered from the cold that handicapped his singing on the Godfrey talent program in New York, but did not prevent him from coming out first, Mr. Aiken, able to hit the high notes of the songs, "Morning" and "Dinah", with his usual ease.

Jury Indicts CIO Union Leader On Perjury Charges

Denial Before House Group Of Red Connection Said False

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—A Federal grand jury today indicted Harold Ruland, Christoffel, Milwaukee CIO leader, on charges that he committered perjury in telling a congressional committee that he was not a member the Communist Party.

Christoffel testified before the House Labor Committee last March. He was president of the United Auto Workers Local No. 248 at a time when Allis-Chalmers plants in the Milwaukee area were shut down by a protracted strike.

The labor committee was investigating the causes of Labor disputes, work stoppages and strikes with particular reference to any influence of subversive groups.

The indictment said that Christoffel, under oath, "categorically denied" any affiliation with Communist Party. Nevertheless, the grand jury report said, he "was then a member of the Communist Party and had been such member for several years thereto and had worked with the Communist Party and with the Communist political association."

The case was presented to the grand jury by John S. Pratt and Frank H. Patton, special assistants to Attorney General Tom C. Clark.

After Christoffel appeared before the committee here in March, Chairman Hartley (R-N. J.) sent

Budget For Year Is Presented At Pilot Meeting

The budget as presented by Mrs. Marv Rawlins, finance chairman of the Pilots Club, was accepted at the meeting of the group held in the Tourist Center last night.

An increase of dues was voted upon as was a penalty of 25 cents per member for any absence in the future. A discussion of ways of meeting the budget and expences was carried on and plans were made to sell Christmas cards again this year and for holding a rummage sale early in September.

Mrs. Joel Field, president, reported that the telegram of congradulations sent from the Pilots to Dick Aiken who appeared on the Arthur Godfrey broadcast in New York was read over the air. The group voted to send a letter of appreciation to the Police Reserve in Orlando, sponsors of the program on which Mr. Aiken won the opportunity of appearing in the Arthur Godfrey show.

A letter from the Texas City, Tex. Pilot Club was read in which the Local club was thanked for the $25 donation made during the recent disaster there. It was reported that the hospital room furnished and maintained by the Pilot Culb has been painted and redecorated.

Mrs. M. C. Stone was welcomed as a new member in the club. A letter from Mrs. Edith Cameron of Gainesville, chairman of the Florida party given by Florida delegates to the Pilot International held in Columbus, Ohio June 26-29 was read in which she thanked those taking part throughout the state were used Greenery and flowers native to Florida sent by the various clubs throught the state were used to transform the parlors of the Deshler-Wallack hotel into a veritable fairyland. The party was proclaimed by all those present as being one of the outstanding events of the convention. Air plants, sent by Mrs. A. W. Lee of Sanford, were wrapped in Spanish moss and presented to each guest present and a large banana plant, complete with a bunch of bananas which was sent by the Daytona Beach Club created much comment among the guests.

U N Group Makes Greek Inquiry As Rebels Retreat

ATHENS, July 23, (AP)—The United Nations Balkan sub-commission continued today its investigation at Ioannina, where the Greek army claims to have routed a guerrilla force which "invaded" from Albania.

The investigators originally had been scheduled to leave yesterday. Meanwhile, Athens newspapers published unconfirmed reports that a majority of the sub-commission was "convinced" that the guerrillas had struck from Albania.

The Greek Eighth division in Epirus said that it had inflicted 528 casualties on irregulars within four days, exclusive of losses from Greek air force planes.

An estimated force of 800 to 1,000 rebels were being shelled in the forest areas west of Ioannine.

The government said 26 guerrillas were killed and 20 captured on Mt. Olympus and that 25 were killed and 30 captured at Aghia. The rebels seized seven military trucks carrying wheat near Lamia.

The ministry of public order said guerrillas had attacked near the Bulgarian and Yugoslav borders.

A band of 500, including women, was said to have struck at Vromtou, seven miles south of Bulgaria, and burned 70 houses, the school,

"We are now on the pinnacle of success as a community," he asserted. He urged that all civic groups and citizens get behind the effort of Campbell-Lossing Post 55 to secure permanent department headquarters here, and that citizens study and take more interest in the affairs of government.

Mr. Aiken told the Kiwanians that on the night of the big broadcast, he swallowed lemons and drank hot tea in an effort to relieve the congestion of what he termed the worst cold he had ever had. "With this and a little prayer added, I did manage to make a showing," he declared. He added that 50 million people heard of Sanford on the final Chesterfield program on which he appeared.

Congressmen Turn Juvenile As End Of Session Is In Sight

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, July 23, (AP)—Congress goes home this week, and your legislators are acting like a bunch of kids just before school is out.

Nobody can sit still. And order, always a comparative stranger in Congress, has now become an outcast.

A dozen times a day a speaker will bang his gavel to say, wearily, "The House will come to order."

Whereupon a lull, or a faint facsimile of same, comes into the hubbub. This often lasts for ten seconds.

One reason for the disorder is that congressmen, like everyone else, put everything off to the last.

And in addition to the major legislation you read about on the front pages they have a lot of work to do that you never read about at all.

Which may explain why during this last minute drive to get through by Saturday Senators have discussed such redhot issues as what makes a watermelon sweet.

And why the House has had to consider the amount of damage done to the estate of W. H. Rodgers. The Army used his farm near Hartsville, Tenn., for maneuvers. Among the damages claimed:

Orchard grass (rutted by vehicles) $100. Corn (loss of 32 barrels at $6 a barrel) $192. 275 foxholes (refills, at a dime a refill) $275.50.

But in all this rush it's interesting to note that senators still act like senators.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb) has the chore of keeping Republican senators in line. The hour was late and he was trying to shoo the members out when the name of Kenneth Royall came up for confirmation as Secretary of War.

While Wherry, the Senate's champion jitterer, jittered and mumbled to himself senator after senator got up to pay a Royall platitude.

Waterway System In France Is Restored

PARIS, (AP) — France has restored 99 per cent of her inland waterway transport since the war, J. Dubreuil, chairman of a French transport committee, has announced.

Of 12,000 boats on inland streams, 2,000 were destroyed and 5,000 damaged during the war, he said.

He pointed out that the inland system's 3,700,000 tons was 900,000 tons more than the seagoing merchant marine and that Paris's port traffic of 14 million tons surpassed even Marseille's eight million tons of goods handled.

of the Polish people generally for the balance of this calendar year.

He said imports of medical supplies and supplementary foodstuffs for special groups appear justified and that some imports of grain seed and fertilizer would be helpful.

The State Department said in its announcement however, that such special items could be supplied through private relief organizations and other sources, such as the international emergency children's fund. The announcement added:

"In view of the above and of the fact that the funds are available are sufficient to meet only most urgent relief needs, it has been decided not to undertake a relief program for Poland."

Advising that Polish food production is "on the increase," the report said:

Polish officials interviewed were unanimous in stating that the food production, collection, distribution and rationing systems, which they have established, assure that there will be no starvation in Poland or acute malnutrition on a widespread basis even without food imports. With this general statement all members of the mission concur."

a special subcommittee to Milwaukee to make further inquiry into the 11-months long Allis-Chalmers strike.

Subsequently, Hartley submitted a report to Clark with the request that he take "such action as might be appropriate."

The committee report said that there was also "substantial evidence" that Robert Buse, another official of the UAW local, also had testified falsely. Buse was not mentioned in the indictment. He is now president of the local and Christoffel is honorary president.

Christoffel was indicted on six counts, based on a series of questions by committee counsel and committee members concerning any connection he might have with the Communist Party.

The indictment said Christoffel replied negatively when he was asked if he "knew Ned Sparks and Fred Blair." The grand jury said Christoffel "knew both Sparks and Blair and for a number of years had been intimately associated with them in connection with the activities of Communism and the Communist Party."

with sufficient evidence that Papy had offered anything of value for the legislators' votes on any matter, particularly the anti-bookie bill.

They also contended the testimony failed to show any offers made to Odham in "lawful money," and said there was "uncertainty" on the part of Odham "as to statements attributed "by him to Papy."

The motions for directed verdicts were not argued, and the Judge denied them without prejudice to their renewal after the defense has finished its presentation.

TALLAHASSEE, July 23(AP)—Rep. Clarence M. Camp II of Ocala today outlined for a circuit court jury his accusation that former Representative Bernie C. Papy of Key West had offered him $100 for his vote on a 1947 anti-bookmaker bill.

Camp, 37-year-old cattleman and phosphate-limerock miner, testified Papy had made the alleged offer in the mailroom just outside the House chamber after walking with him through the main door on May 8.

He said Papy told him "We're very much interested in House Bill 590. It's going to take a lot of money away from the small counties and we want it referred to the committee on railroads and telegraphs."

Camp said he told Papy he already had promised other House members to send the bill to the railroad and telegraph committee.

Upon that, he reported, Papy patted him on the shoulder and said "Boy, that's fine. If you'll just vote that way it will mean $100 to you."

"I told him," Camp said, "I'm not interested in your money" and turned around and walked out."

House Bill 590 was the third of four bills to prohibit service of race bet bookmakers by telephone and telegraph companies. Its two predecessors were rejected by the committee on railroads, telegraphs, and telephones. None of the four passed. On cross examination by Defense Attorney Pat Whitaker of Tampa, Camp said he had on May 8 voted with opponents of the bill on three separate tests because "I had promised members of the house I would and it's better to stand hitched when you make a promise."

The Ocala lawmaker said Rep. P. Guy Crews of Jacksonville had come to him some time before May 8 and asked him "as a personal favor" to vote to refer the measure to the hostile committee and he had agreed because he "had no interest in it one way or the other."

He said he had not told Crews he would vote against the bill "all the way through the Legislature" and added he had gone to the Jacksonville legislator within 20 or 25 minutes after his conversation with Papy and told him he intended to vote for the bill when it came before the House for final action on passage or defeat.

Camp's statement was given almost entirely in response to direct questions from state and defense attorneys in contrast to the testimony of Rep. Bradley Odham of Sanford yesterday. Odham frequently was interrupted by the defense and by Judge W. May Walker for expanding his replies beyond the questions that were asked.

She testified that four other union officers may have been Communists and that to her knowledge 10 were not members. She also told the committee that there is a Communist group active at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, headed by Junius Scales, a student. She said she had attended Communist Party meetings at which Scales was present.

Among union officials who testified were members of the Communist Party at the time of her employment, was Edwin McCrea, international representative of the food, tobacco and agricultural workers.

Before the hearing McCrea issued a statement asserting the committee is trying "to break the union."

He declared the House Committee "is trying to do something the richest and most powerful member of the tobacco trust could not do x x x."

Meanwhile, a House Judiciary Subcommittee approved a bill that would open the way to American citizenship for Victor A. Kravchenko, former Soviet official who has publicly renounced Communism.

Kravchenko, who testified to the House Un-American activities committee yesterday that all responsible Soviet officials in the judiciary group he fears for his United States are spies, told the life if he is not given the protection accorded American citizens.

Mrs. Crowell, who was noted in Sanford for her paintings, wrote that she intended to paint some landscapes but would have to wait for the weather to get better as it has rained nearly everyday. They live at Mathews, N. C.

Meanwhile, the Dutch and the Indonesians charged one another with using Japanese in the conflict.

A Dutch military spokesman said the Dutch were bombing republican-held airfields because the Indonesians had at their disposal fairly large numbers of Japanese flying instructors, a good many Japanese fighter planes and Japanastrained Indonesian pilots. He said Dutch objectives all were military ones.

A Batavia dispatch said the Indonesian News Agency Antara reported Japanese were used by the Dutch in western Java and that two of three crewmen who bailed out of a burning Dutch plane over Palembang, were Japanese. The Dutch in Batavia dismissed this charge as "nonsense," saying the Indonesians probably mistook native troops from the island of amboina for Japanese.

London, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said that Britain was determined to seek an end to warfare in Indonesia "at the earliest possible moment" and was working on several possible solutions which he did not disclose.

Well-informed diplomatic sources said that either India or Australia might ask the United Nations to intervene in the dispute between the Netherlands and the Indonesian Republic.

Pathan Problem To Plague Men Of North India

New DELHI, India— With the renewal of Afghanistan's claim for the return of tribal territory in India's turbulent northwest frontier the furture goverment of that rugged border territory probably will find it their biggest promblem to keep the lawless and bloodthirty Pathan in check. Possible Afghan intrigue and the unexplained and sudden replacement of the Russian ambassador in Kabul lend support to the belief in political quarters that a period of great turmoil may be ahead of people living west of the lazy-flowing River Indus.

Whether the Pakistan dominion government is able to control the fronaier province depende on the strengh of the hold which Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan, the "Frontier Gandhi," Congress Pathans' lader, has over the frontier people after Aug. 15, the day of the transfer of British power to Indian hands. The frontier Congress is making capital out of the Pathans' ingrained hatred of Punjabi with their new slogan of "Pathanistan."

It is predicted in some quarters that the "Frontier Gandhi" is likely to pay a visit to Kabul in the next few months although inquiries show that no application for a passport has been made.

Commentators in Afghan newspapers have urged revision of the Angli-Afghan treaty and are pressing the Afghan government to take the matter to the United Nations if satisfaction is not gained.

Britons Are Urged To Stagger Work Hours

LONDON, July 23, (AP) — The Minister of Labor, George Isaacs, announced yesterday that government compulsion would be applied, if necessary to force the introduction of staggered working hours in British industry as a means of averting another fuel crisis this winter.

"The well being of the nation is at stake," Isaacs told the House of Commons, adding that almost daily electricity cuts would cripple industry unless one-third of the daily peak load is consumed outside normal day-shift hours.

Isaacs repeated earlier appeals, thus far unanswered by the great majority of industries and trade unions, for the voluntary introduction of night work, little practiced in British factories during peacetime.

Jerusalem Undergoes 8th General Alarm

JERUSALEM, July 23, (AP)—Grenades were hurled at a British ilitary truck in Jerusalem yesterday, raising fear of a renewal of the wave of violence which in four days has taken five lives and injured 29 persons in the Holy Land.

Approximately 90,000 of Palestine's Jews remained under a British- imposed dawn-to-dusk house arrest, but little hope of peace was in sight. Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization, appealed to members of the other underground groups, ihs military truck in Jerusalem to join in its offensive against British rule.

Today's attack caused no casualties. But general alarm sirens, the eighth such alarm in four days, sent troops to action stations, and security compound gates were quickly closed as armored cars dashed through the streets of Jerusalem. The attack occurred near an army pay station in an area where other attacks were made on military installations in the past three days.

Optimistic, Pessimistic Questions Posed By Jap Treaty Proposal

BY RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, July 23, (AP) — There was a mixture of optimism and pessimism in diplomatic circles here recently as the ability of the 11 allied nations to settle with relative speed what General MacArthur has termed the 'minor" problems of a Japanese treaty.

The complicated territorial questions which have been such a handicap in Europe will be absent when work begins on the Pacific treaty. So will some of the political problems.

Even so, diplomats believe it will take a minimum of one year to write a final treaty after negotiations are begun, probably of the proposed preliminary conference.

As usual, the progress of the negotiations may well be determined by Russia's attitude, and the diplomats were split on their predictions of probable Russian cooperation. Some regard as an encouraging sign the fact that Moscow has approved the recent Far Eastern commission policy statement.

Here are some of the main questions which diplomats expect to arise during the conference:

Japan's future control—Peace delegates must decide what type of supervision is to be exercised over Japan after the treaty is signed and what if any restrictions are to be placed on her return to the family of nations. On this subject there has long been a basic cleavage between occupation headquarters and some of the allies, notably Russia, Australia and New Zealand.

Reparations—Little progress has been made in solving this complex problem during prolonged discussions by the Far Eastern Commission, and the Western nations still are divided among themselves on the amount of reparations to be taken from Japan as well as on the distribution.

Japan's future economic position — Far Eastern Commission policy permits Japan an industrial potential equivalent to the years 1930-34, but to be effective this needs considerable clarification and the delegates may be called on to fill in the details.

There is also a policy clash possible in this between the United States and some British Commonwealth nations and Russia.

Territorial questions—The Cairo, Yalta and Potsdam agreements stripped Japan of her overseas empire, but the peacemakers must formalize the status of Korea, Formosa, Manchuria, the Kurile Islands and Sakhalin. They also must decide which, if any, of the small islands around Japan will be returned to the Japanese.

In addition to these major problems, the war left a host of time-consuming details to be untangled, ranging from the overhaul or rewriting of prewar treaties to clarification of patent rights.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

YOU WILL NEED ALL YOUR FACULTIES TO RIGHTLY PLAY YOUR PART IN LIFE. HOW HAVE YOU DONE SO FAR? Let us watch and be sober.—I Thess. 5:6.

The amazing thing is not only that we are still shipping oil to Russia, but that they are not even paying for it.

Army sees Possibility of Man-Made Earthquakes—headline. Yeah, Russia might agree to collaborate. That would be a world-shaking event.

A Senate subcommittee has recommended an increase of $100,000 in the House approved appropriation for the 12 foot channel in the St. Johns River. This figure, of course, has to be concurred in by both the House and Senate, but the prospects are exceedingly good at the moment for obtaining all the money that is necessary for bringing deep water to Sanford's front door.

Most of Sanford's present day troubles are due to growing pains. There is a housing shortage because there are more people here wanting houses than ever before. There is a parking problem because there are more cars. There is a financial problem (for the City) because there is more work to do taking care of more people, and because the more people who buy houses the more property is exempt from taxes on account of homestead exemption. As "growing pains" these are all to the good, but some remedy for them will have to be found.

As the Papy trial gets under way in Tallahassee, the best wishes of 24,000 of his constituents go out to Brailey Odham who will try to prove that he was offered a bribe by a fellow representative from Key West who in truth was representing the bookmakers. Odham is seeking to prove his charge not for selfish motives but in the interest of good government for if legislation can be passed, or blocked, in Florida by bribery, good government cannot possibly survive. But it is one thing to be offered a bribe, it is another thing to prove it. Were there any witnesses to the offer? Is there any documentary evidence? These are questions which can be answered only in the trial itself and which may provide the answers to Papy's guilt or innocence.

Advertisers should know that the reason newsprint is scarce is because of booming newspaper circulation all over the United States. People are reading newspapers today as they never have before. In our own case our circulation has almost doubled since before the war. Almost every newspaper in the United States reports some increase in circulation. Though there is some criticism of newspapers today "because they are controlled by big business, by capitalists, by advertisers," or "because they devote too much space to world news, not enough to free publicity," or "because they publish too many comics, or not enough," still on the whole they must be giving the public what it wants. There is no law compelling anyone to buy a newspaper.

Making A Man Of Him

The age over which the juvenile courts have jurisdiction has been raised in many states to 18 or even higher. This fact was brought out in a meeting of the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges in Chicago.

A half century or more ago, a fourteen-or fifteen-year-old was considered a man, and given a man's duties and responsibilities. He had faced life and grappled with its practical problems. He knew that no wood-chopping meant no warmth and that no crops and no well-developed livestock meant no food in the house.

The judges concluded that modern life does not teach a child cause and effect in any such practical way, and thus he is still a child at 18. If true, this is a sad commentary on modern life, and it seems unnecessary. There are many ways of learning about cause and effect beside chopping wood and hoeing corn. Any intelligent parent with the will to do so can see that his child faces the consequences of his acts, and that he learns to stand on his own feet and make his own decisions. The trouble with the children coming before these judges is that they do not have intelligent, conscientious parents. So perhaps the judges are right in raising the age of maturity.

Trying to educate parents is beginning too late in the day to do juvenile delinquents much good. But making it plain to everyone that parenthood needs preparation, and is not to be entered into "lightly and unadvisedly", may have results in the long run.

Young United States

The death recently in Elliston, Va., of 85-year-old Mrs. Pearl Tyler Ellis, breaks a link that was only one generation removed from Washington's day. Mrs. Ellis, daughter of a second wife, was the 14th child and last surviving offspring of one-time President John Tyler, who was nine years old when Washington died. Tyler's Virginia family knew the general and Tyler probably had met him.

Originally a Jeffersonian, Tyler broke with the Democrats to become vice president in 1840 under William Henry Harrison. At the latter's death a month later, Tyler became the tenth president of the United States. In his administration, colorless generally because of party opposition to the chief executive, Texas was annexed and the Maine-Canadian boundary set. Tyler presided at the unsuccessful peace conference in Washington in 1861. Before he died, the next year, when Mrs. Ellis was a few months old, he saw his peace hopes dashed by the Civil War's fury.

Such a life as that of Mrs. Ellis, so close to the beginning days of the republic, brings home once more the fact that this, after all, is a very young nation.

More School Children

As a result of our rocketing birth rate during the war and postwar years, more than 5,000,000 children will be added to the elementary school population of the United States during the next decade, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

When school opens this fall, there will be about 2,500,000 six-year-olds eligible for admittance to elementary school, and the number will increase each year until it reaches nearly 3,300,000 in 1953. The company calculates that the total elementary school age population will increase from its present 18,200,000 to more than 23,400,000 in 1956.

The number of children eligible to enter high school will decrease this year and next, but thereafter the trend will be reversed and their number will jump from 2,200,000 in 1949 to more than 3,200,000 in 1961. The situation is considered sufficently serious to call urgently for "planning along practical lines in order that adequate provision be made for the education of the new crop of children.

"This is particularly necessary in areas where schools are already overcrowded," the Metropolitan points out, "and where, even now, there is a shortage of teachers."

SANFORD FORUM

The Sanford Herald
City
Gentlemen:

Mrs. Newby, daughter and I have just returned from touring the Pacific Northwest by auto, covering 9737 miles, passing through 21 states. During this mileage, we had one detour less than one-half mile over paved highway, and another, where a culvert was being put in, around which the detour was less than one quarter of mile, which had been paved before work began on the culvert. In two or three towns we detoured around two or three blocks on paved streets, where streets were being paved. In many cases and miles roads were being repaired, one half of road being repaired, so as not to inconvenience the public or detour them.

On three occasion, in conversation, I was advised that these states always gave first consideration to the public, before beginning work on the highways. And on one occasion, was advised by a road building contractor that it was specified in his contracts, that the public must be taken care of, and not inconvenienced, before any work was begun. All along I thought of the many detours, miles and miles out of the way, and over lime rock and asphalt, and rough dirt roads, we would have had to make had we made this mileage in our own state of Florida.

Where it is costing the Florida Motorists and Tourists coming into the state, thousands of dollars, in making detours, and having the lime white wash and asphalt cleaned from their autos. Our State Road Department seems to have the public be damned; attitude. It seems the Road Department is years behind the times in repairing and rebuilding roads, and could learn a great deal from other states.

Yours truly,
J. T. Newby.

WE'VE BEEN WITH YOU TWELVE YEARS

We are twelve years old this July.

Yes—way back yonder in the year 1935, a capitalist moved to Florida from another State. He purchased property in Sanford and in other cities in Florida, and one day he mentioned to the that fire insurance rates in Florida were considerable higher than in his Home State, and he thought perhaps the reason for this was that the mutual fire insurance companies were not active in Florida.

He had carried most of his insurance in Mutual Companies and induced us to take on the representation of mutual fire insurance companies, giving us the names of the mutual companies he had had satisfactory dealings with in his Home State.

This is why we started a Mutual Insurance Agency in Sanford—way back yonder in July, 1935.

Our ambition has been to build up an agency devoted to the task of providing good insurance protection for the people in Seminole County at a saving.

That we have to some extent at least succeeded in doing this is indicated by the fact that today we have the pleasure of serving over five hundred customers, most of whom bought insurance from us because our agency was recommended by a loyal customer.

To our customers belongs the credit for the growth of this Agency—for without their Loyalty and support throughout these twelve years—it just wouldn't have happened.

To them, we are duly appreciative and we want them to know that we fully recognize the fact that this is truly their insurance agency—for they have made it so—they have saved more money on their insurance than we made writing the insurance—we have been MUTUALLY benefitted knowing each other.

We take this means of thanking our customers publicly for their loyalty and support during these twelve years.

Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 23, (AP)—Attention Larry Tierney! Rudy Vallee is muscling in.

Armed with megaphone, Vallee was an idol of the bathtub gin era. Now he wants to sport a gat, but, unlike a present-day crooner, only on the screen. He would like to play the law-breaking side of film murder stories.

"Yes," he emphasized in well-modulated tones, "I would like very much to play tough roles. And I know I can look tough." He went into a detailed explanation of how his features are adaptable to such roles.

"Why," he exclaimed, "I often scared my band with this puss."

Rudy was dead serious about his intentions, and he is a guy who has succeeded in many fields of show business. Approaching his 46th birthday next Monday, he is in fine physical shape, having a healthy, ruddy complexion and all his hair (now tinted an attractive rust color.)

"I was on my way to good roles," he continued, "when I made "Palm Beach Story." But then I went into the Coast Guard." Since leaving the service, he has been restricted almost entirely to playing fuddy-duddies.

"I missed having the Dillinger role by two weeks," he lamented.

Rudy is currently getting a departure by playing a straight non-comedy role of a goatee doctor in "I Remember Mama." If movie producers, don't come through with a tough characterization, he'll limber up his tonsils and head for singing engagements in Mexico City, South America and London.

John Garfield got around $150,000 for his role in "Gentleman's Agreement," but nothing for being an extra in "Daisy Kenyon." He seemed to be enjoying himself more on the latter. . . . The Angela Lansburg-Peter Shaw twosome is getting steadier. . . . Enshrined in the little red schoolhouse at 20th-Fox is a picture of Republic star Roy Rogers. . . .

Edgar Bergen has an answer to the autograph nuisance. He hands out phoney money. It's "Charlie McCarthy mazuma—illegal and very tender." . . . Dan Duryea, going from one color epic to another, has a method for keeping the two characters straight. In "River Lady" he wears a moustache. . . . Donald O'Connor was sweating out his first preview in four years, "Something In The Wind." He has no ground for worry—he's the bright spot in the film. . . .

The much kicked-around "Sainted Sisters", is back on the Paramount schedule. Its story problem was solved by the simple trick of changing the time from the present to the 1890's. . . . Can you swallow this Van Johnson and June Cronyn are collaborating on a murder yarn, "The Man Who Died At Capistrano."

"The Bachelor And The Bobby-Soxer" is surprisingly good fun, despite its rather forbidding title. It starts slowly, but once you get used to the idea of Cary Grant courting Shirley Temple (if only in jest), you will be amused. Of course, Myrna Loy gets him at the end, but only after some hilarious episodes.

Youth Week To Be Held By Methodists

Plans are underway for a youth week at the First Methodist Church which will be held from Aug. 3 to 5. The program will be centered around youth and will be made up of study, worship, fellowship and fun.

The leaders of the group will be made up of four young people who have recently received intensive training at Lake Junaluska, N. C. which will enable them in assisting in the program. Miss Clio Metcalf, Bartow, will serve as counselor and other members of the team are the Misses Nell Rose Beck, Myrtlewood, Ala.; Naomi Rupert, Iola, Kas.; Mary Beth Joyner, Siler City, N. C.; and Mr. Porter Anderson, Jr. of Donelson, Tenn.

The young people will be divided into small groups in the afternoon to work on projects from 2:00 P. M. until 4:00 after which a supper will be held at 6:00 o'clock. The supper will be followed with class periods for different age groups, will be held.

All young people from 12 to 23, their parents, teacher, counselors and anyone interested in youth are invited to participate in all the activities.

Coats And Suits To Have Fewer Changes

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

As soon as you recover from the shock of the new fall dresses, which are designed to make everything in your clothes closet obsolete, you might cast an eye on the coming suits and coats.

These are going to be considerably easier to take, since few go to the extremes in styling that identify the dresses for fall. If you're the conservative type, you're going to be able to find plenty of discreet, wearable coats and suits this fall. If you like radical fashions, they'll be available, too.

There are two distinct silhouettes in the fall coat lineup—both new, both practical and both becoming. One is the fitted coat, which has been missing from the fashion scene for several seasons. The other is the greatcoat with full, flaring back almost universally becoming.

For sports and evening wear, many hooded coats are being shown, the hoods usually lined in contrasting color and designed so that they may be thrown back to form a cowl collar.

Fabrics are handsomer than they have been in many years. For dressy coats, you'll be seeing much satiny black broadcloth, with a sheen almost like silk. For sturdier coats, there are soft imported tweeds, wonderful deep-pile velours and fleeces, velvety suede cloth, silky camel's hair.

If you're a cape fan, you'll be happy next season, for capes are all over the place, long, short and medium. There are dramatic floor-length hooded capes for evening guaranteed to make any woman look like a prima donna. A case in point is Anthony Blotta's black broadcloth hooded theater cape, lined in garnet red satin and gold lame. Another similarly striking formal cape is Kiviette's, in scarlet wool.

As for suits, you pay your money and you take your choice. Jackets generally are longer, skirts are flared instead of straight, waists are nipped in more and there's a round look to the hips. But for conservative souls there are still boxy jacket suits and perennial classics which depend on good lines, fabric and tailoring for their effect.

Nancy Luella McCollum Becomes The Bride Of Andrew Lewis Myers, Jr. On Sunday

Of interest to many friends in Sanford and Central Florida is the announcement of the marriage of Nancy Luella McCollum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clifford McCollum, Sr. of Auburndale, to Andrew Lewis Myers, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lewis Myers of this city. The wedding took place on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church in Auburndale. Rev. J. I. Wherry, pastor, performed the ceremony.

Pedestal baskets of white gladioluses with potted palms formed a setting for the wedding and white tapers in seven-branched candelabra illuminated the scene.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by George Akin, organist, a close friend of the young couple. Mrs. Jere Stambaugh, Jr., soloist, accompanied by Miss Barbara Herring sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "At Dawning". The traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white eyelet batiste fashioned with a fitted bodice, high neckline, peplum and bustle. The skirt terminated in a short train. A tiara of seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion and her bouquet was a colonial arrangement of gardenias and lilies of the valley with puffs of French maline. She carried a Battenberg lace handkerchief which had belonged to her maternal grandmother and wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Joan Miller of Orlando, attendant, who was a college roommate of the bride for four years, wore a floor length gown of pink dotted Swiss fashioned along lines similar to those of the bride. She wore matching mitts and carried a nosegay of assorted pink and white flowers tied with blue ribbons. Her headdress was of the assorted flowers.

Mrs. McCollum, Sr., mother of the bride, wore pink nylon crepe with a softly draped skirt and neckline. She wore long white gloves and her corsage was of lilies of the valley. Mrs. Myers, Sr., mother of the bridegroom, chose an aqua embroidered eyelet gown with which she wore long pink gloves and a shoulder corsage of pink carnations and valley lilies.

Acting as best man was Elton J. Moughton, Jr. of Sanford and ushers were Harry C. McCollum, Jr. and Harry Joe Minarik also of Sanford.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the St. Albans Episcopal Parish House with Mrs. Stambaugh greeting the guests at the door and presenting them to the receiving line. Composing the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. McCollum, Sr., Mrs. Myers, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Myers, Jr., and Miss Miller. Flowers and greenery served as a background for the line and tall baskets of gladioluses and palms were arranged throughout the reception rooms.

A three-tiered wedding cake topped with white carnations and gladioluses centered the lace covered table. Lighted tapers in three-branched silver candelabra flanked the wedding cake which was cut by the bridal couple with an heirloom cake knife.

The bride attended Wesleyan college in Macon, Ga. and was graduated from Stetson University at DeLand, magna cum laude. She is a member of the Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

Mr. Myers attended the University of Florida before entering the Army Air Forces and upon his return attended Stetson and Emory University in Atlanta. In the Fall he plans to enter Temple University school of medicine in Philadelphia.

For traveling Mrs. Myers wore a tailored off-white gown with brown and white accessories and a corsage of gardenias and valley lilies. The couple left for a brief honeymoon at Daytona Beach.

Feds Split Twin Bill With Sens On "Buddy Lake Night"

Major Turns In 2 To 1-11 Inning Tilt; Lake Scores Tally To Cop Nightcap

By ARTHUR BECKWITH, JR.
Herald Sports Editor

1677 rabid baseball fans jammed the Municipal Park here last night to take part in the "Buddy Lake Night" festivities and witness the twin bill between the Sanford Celery Feds and the Orlando Senators in which the Senators trimmed the locals in the opener by a 2 to 1 margin in 11 innings and the Feds edged the Solons, 1 to 0 in the nightcap.

Buddy was given rounds of applause by those present as he stepped up to the microphone to receive over 20 gifts from merchants and fans between the clashes. A cash gift of $358.88 was made by Buddy Lake "rooters".

Lake completed his night by scoring the only run of the second contest to enable the Feds to score a 1 to 0 victory over the Senators.

Lake scored the run in the second frame of the nightcap. He singled into center field and was advanced to third on a one base knock by Manager Don Murray. Tim Tyler for Murray at second base, but Lake went scampering across the platter with the winning margin.

In the twilight affair the teams battled on even basis throughout the contest with the Senators getting the benefit of a few more close decisions and breaks of the game.

The Senators tallied their first score in the sixth frame. Batts doubled to right centerfield. Gene Major, pitcher for the Orlandoans, singled into center, and on the play Batts went tearing for home. Dave Bride picked up the ball and rifled the sphere to Don Ford at the plate and caught Batts as he went sliding toward the plate. Major moved to second on the throw to Ford. Craig Lyhrand's single to left field was momentarily bobbled by Tim Tyler, allowing Major to cross the plate.

The Feds tied the contest in the bottom of the seventh frame. Jerry Silverman drew a free ticket while batting for Don Ford and was sacrificed to second on a perfect bunt by Bill Lewis, new Fed backstop who was hitting for Carl Kettles. Walter Harrington pasted a sizzling single into center and Johnny Tomat, who went in to run for Silverman, crossed the plate.

Orlando tallied the winning run in the 11th canto on a single by Batts, a sacrifice by Major and a single by Lyhrand.

Between the contests Manager Murray and Manager Lou Bevil agreed to limit the second tilt to seven innings, since the first fracas had been extended to 11 innings.

Gene Major went the route in the opening tilt, while Kettles started for the Feds and gave way to Bill Stanton, who received credit for the defeat. Ed Davis, former Sanford chunker worked on the mound for the Senators in the second game. Johnny Tomat and Bill Stanton handled bullock chores for the locals.

Tonight the Celerymen invade Tinker Field in Orlando for a return engagement with the Senators. Buddy Lake will be the probable pitcher for the Feds, and it is likely that Stan Zedalis or Tommy Hyde will receive the call from Manager Bevil.

Kearie L. Berry, All-Time Sports Great Says "T" Nothing New

AP Newsfeatures

AUSTIN, Tex.—Kearie L. Berry, one of the all-time greats of Southwestern sports, was anxious to get back home after spending 40 months in Japanese prison camps.

He had been away a long time and next to wanting to see the home folks he was looking forward to viewing the widely-heralded T formation in football. Must be really great, he mused.

But to his surprise he discovered that the T was the same formation he had used at Denton High School and at the University of Texas.

Thus he found that football formations run in cycles. He thinks the teams will switch from the T to other tried systems in three or four years.

Berry now is Texas adjutant general. His appointment came 30 years after he enlisted in the Texas National Guard in May of 1916 to begin an illustrious army career.

Gen. Berry was a most unusual college athlete. He twice was all-conference in football ten years apart. In 1914 while at the University of Texas he was all-Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association tackle. The Southwest Conference was organized the next year and a decade later Berry returned to the university and won all-Southwest Conference guard honors. He came back as a war department student.

The 10-year period of military service hadn't handicapped him athletically because he always kept in condition playing on service teams.

Berry also was a wrestling champion in 1915 and '16 and was a track star in the same years.

He played on the famed Second Texas Infantry football team of 1916 which old-timers insist was the greatest eleven of all time. It mopped up all opposition and Berry thinks the team could stand up against any college team in the nation today.

Gen. Berry was awarded the distinguished service cross and the distinguished service medal for outstanding action against the Japanese in defense of Bataan. Then a colonel in the infantry, he was in command of remnants of a division cut off from the main force and entirely surrounded by Japanese. After five days of fierce jungle fighting he successfully withdrew his command by wading down the beaches and climbing over rocky headlands. He then trapped and annihilated 1,500 Japanese in the "Little Tuol pocket."

Berry was captured with his men on April 9, 1942, and walked in the torturous nine-day Bataan death march.

He received the purple heart because of injuries received when four Japanese clubbed and beat him after the surrender. They wanted his fountain pen and he wouldn't give it up.

During his long army career, Berry, while not busy soldiering on the Mexico Border and in Siberia, China or the Philippines, kept busy in athletics, playing and coaching basketball and football and competing in several national matches with the Fort Benning infantry rifle team.

Public Links Tourney Enters First Round

MINNEAPOLIS, July 23, (AP)—The National Public Links Golf Tournament turned from stroke to match play today with 48 of the 64 championship flight qualifiers slated for elimination in the first and second rounds over the Meadowbrook Municipal Course.

Thirty-two first 18-hole round matches occupied the morning with 16 18-hole round tilts on the afternoon slate.

Wilfred Crossley, Atlanta, Ga., insurance underwriter and former New England Amateur Champion, paced the field of 179 entrants in the final 18 holes of qualifying yesterday. He shot a three-under-par 69, lowest score of the meet so far, to add to his 70 of Monday for 139.

His total was four strokes better than his nearest competition, five players who carded 143's and, until late in the day, appeared destined to share medal honors.

A 36-hole total of 151 or better insured spots in the first-round pairings for 57 of the players. Fourteen others, tied at 152 apiece, started a "sudden death" playoff and Arthur Jenneman of St. Louis won the 58th spot by taking a deuce on the par four second hole. Three players were eliminated on the first hole and three more on the second before darkness halted play.

Cleveland Indian pitcher Allan Gettel raises saddle horses on his Virginia ranch in the off-season and intends to make that his profession at the end of the major league hurling career.

Odham Is Accused Of Being Newspaper Tool

Papy's Attorneys Insist Bookie Bill WouldHaveCreated $1,000,000 Monopoly

TALLAHASSEE, July 24 (AP)—The legislative bribery trial of Bernie C. Papy headed for the jury this afternoon as Papy's accusers were termed "tolls" and men of "moral courage" by opposing counsel in closing arguments.

Pat Whitaker of Tampa charged that the state had made a "deliberate appeal to prejudice and passion" in its effort to convict Papy on charges that he offered bribes for votes against the anti-bookmaking bill in the 1947 legislature.

To prosecution queries about what motives could have inspired Reps. Brailey Odham of of Sanford and Clarence Camp III, of Ocala to make their accusations against Papy if they were not true, Whitaker charged that newspaper interests would have benefited by a monopoly from the bill.

Kneeling on one knee, Whitaker shouted, "Where's the interest to force this bill through? There it is. It would have created a newspaper monopoly.

"They're ruthless and if you stand in their way, I mean in the way of their pocketbooks, and don't do their bidding, they'll eliminate you."

Weldon G. Starry of Tallahassee, opening the defense arguments, said Odham and Camp probably were "tolls of some powerful syndicate" in making their accusations against Papy.

Weldon G. Starry of Tallahassee, presenting the opening defense argument, told the jury conviction of Papy would mean "ruin for him and his family politically, financially and socially," and would bring to an "inglorious end a political career lasting 14 years in the halls of the Legislature where he was, if you please, the recognized champion of the little counties."

As to Reps. Brailey Odham of Sanford and Clarence M. Camp II

Congress Okays Bill To Transfer Airports To Cities

Senate Bill No. 364 which transfers entire airports such as the Sanford Naval Air Station to municipalities, together with buildings and facilities, has now been approved by both the House and Senate and only awaits the President's signature before becoming law, according to word received this morning by H. N. Sayer, city manager from Edward Higgins, manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Higgins and H. H. Coleman left this morning for Jacksonville to confer with CAA and WAA officials in regard to details of the new law.

The bill is designed to dispose of government surplus airports, airport facilities and to assure

Deported Refugees May Stage Strike

PARIS, July 24 (AP)—A Jewish Agency spokesman said today the 4,500 more Jewish immigrants being returned to France from Palestine by three British deportation ships might stage a sitdown strike upon arrival and refuse to leave the vessels.

The Jews left Sete, France, two weeks ago aboard the Exodus of 1947, the former S. S. President Warfield, in an attempt to reach Palestine, but were taken in custody at sea by British navy men. The Jews lacked immigration certificates.

Premier Paul Ramadier said Britain had asked France to take over the group, but added, "We cannot force them to leave the ships."

"We will accept them as Jewish immigrants in transit and see that they are cared for, even if it means giving them jobs to which they are suited," Ramadier said.

The British vessels were expected to arrive at a French Mediterranean port today or tomorrow.

Dick Aiken Is Guest Speaker At Jaycee Meet

Tourist Information Booth To Be Dedicated On Sept. 1

"I was a sick man when went on the stage to sing my song on Arthur Godfrey's talent show, but the Lord was with me and won the contest for those who had sponsored me," Dick Aiken told the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce at their noon meeting at the Mayfair Inn today.

"Under the supervision of the directors of the show, I sang several pieces in an audition, and it was their conclusion that "Gianina Mia" would give me the best chance of winning the contest. That is how I chose the song," Aiken stated.

"I am still a southern boy, and I love the South. I want to continue to make my living in Sanford and remain here," he asserted.

Mrs. H. V. Aiken and Miss Joyce Hetzel, accompanied by Roger Harris rendered several vocal selections.

Charles Luke, in the absence of J. Brailey Odham, president of the Jaycees, outlined the Jaycee tourist program that has been in progress since last Fall. Mr. Luke told the members that the Jaycees had sponsored the tourist information booth located on the Lakeshore Drive. It was also stated that the booth would be dedicated on Sept. 1 in a special program, and would open for service to tourists after the dedication.

The Jaycees are sponsoring a relandscaping program for the area around the tourist booth and are asking for donations for this purpose. Mr. Luke told those present. We need $5,000 to put this project over and we are now in the process of working the problem out, he said.

"We are going to have a real program here next week and we are going to "kick off" the project and start the ball rolling toward getting $5,000 worth of donations for the booth and surrounding area." H. G. McIntosh, II, project chairman, stated.

Ernest Campbell, second vice president and officer in charge of internal affairs of the organization, stated that he needed help on the governmental affairs committee and requested that anyone interested in working on the committee contact him. Mr. Campbell stated that Edward Kircher had been appointed chairman of the Jaycee newspaper committee, and that help is needed in getting the arrangements complete for publication of the Jaycee paper.

Ernest Southward and J. G. Campbell were introduced as guests. Several old members who had not attended meetings recently were welcomed home by Mr. Luke.

Captain Of Liberty Ship Shot In Gunfight

BALTIMORE, July 24, (AP)—Harry A. Anderson, 33-year-old ship's captain, died of a gunshot wound in a hospital today and police said they had the descriptions of a man and a woman involved in a fight with him outside a bar shortly after midnight.

Police said they learned Anderson skippered a Liberty Ship on at least four voyages through "Bomb Alley" to Murmansk, Russia, during the war and that he came here eight years ago from Boston.

Police Lieut. Thomas J. Mooney said Charles Chambliss, another merchant ship captain from Tampa, Fla., told him he was sitting at a table with Anderson when the latter went to another table where a man and woman were sitting.

Chambliss said Anderson spoke to the woman. She got up and started to leave the place. Her companion and Anderson followed. Chambliss said he heard a shot a few moments later and ran from the bar to find Anderson lying in the street with a bullet wound just below his heart.

Mooney said two Coast Guardsmen who witnessed the shooting had given him descriptions of the man and woman.

1 Killed, 7 Hurt In Collision On Orlando Highway

Negro Released Under $500 Bond; Hearing Slated

John Stills, Orlando negro, was killed and four other negroes and three white people were severely injured in an automobile collision Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock on the Orlando Highway 12 miles south of Sanford, and 200 feet south of Road 436 which leads to Altamonte, it was reported today by State Highway Patrolman L. C. Bender.

The matter has been referred by Bender to Assistant State Attorney George A. DeCottes, who announced this morning that he will hold a hearing next week to inquire into the circumstances of the wreck.

Following the accident, James Arthur Tribue, Orlando negro driver of a 1940 LaSalle sedan which was involved in the accident, was released under a $500 bond pending further investigation of the accident, said Patrolman Bender, who completed his investigation of the smash up yesterday afternoon.

The injured were Clifford Kinard of Longwood, who at the time of the collision was driving his 1939 Studebaker Sedan north on the highway, and whose injuries

Violence Flares Up In Jerusalem With Gun Battle

JERUSALEM, July 24 (AP)—Gurmen and British troops exchanged fire today at the gate of a security zone in Jerusalem, touching off alarm sirens and halting traffic for 45 minutes.

An unofficial report said the attackers arrived in a taxi, fired four times with a Bren gun and escaped towards the Jewish quarters as troops returned the fire. No casualties were reported.

The attack was the latest in a long series since the British turned back toward France the 4,500 Jews intercepted on the SS President Warfield, also called the Exodus of 1947. It occurred within a few yards of the Jewish agency and the Goldsmith Officers' Club, which previously had been wrecked by a bomb.

Six men were reported by a reliable informant to have robbed a Tel Aviv diamond merchant's office of $40,000 in cut and uncut stones at noon. A similar robbery and another $40,000 haul occurred yesterday. The informant said members of the underground Stern Gang, seeking funds for further operations against the British, were known to be operating diamond polishing shops in private homes and selling the products in Europe.

Jewish quarters of Jerusalem were under a dusk to dawn curfew.

British naval authorities announced that the former Liberty Ship Empire Lifeguard, which they yesterday reported sunk at her pier in Haifa by saboteurs, had been "raised and refloated after two hours."

News photographers had been forbidden to take pictures of the vessel, which the British said had been sabotaged after unloading more than 200 legal Jewish immigrants brought from detention camps in Cyprus.

Randall Goff Tours U. S. With Babe Ruth

Randall Goff, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Goff of 914 Park Avenue, is due to leave today on a trip that should excite the envy of every American youth, a tour of many cities with none other than George Herman "Babe Ruth."

It all came about due to the fact that Babe Ruth, who is sponsoring American Legion Junior Baseball leagues in the United States, asked James P. Chapman, director of Ford Motor Company public relations which is backing the tour to go along. Mr. Chapman suggested that his nephew Randall Goff go along, and Randall was notified.

He left today by train for Montgomery, Ala. to join the Babe Ruth party. They will visit New York, Detroit and other cities by air.

Neutral Body Urged For UN Balkan Watch

France Moves To Bar Big 5 From Commission Assigned To Greek Border

LAKE SUCCESS, July 24 (AP)—France proposed today that the five big powers and all other "interested" nations be excluded from the proposed UN Commission which would set up a semi-permanent watch along Greece's disturbed northern frontier.

French Delegate Alexandre Parodi offered his suggestion informally in the United Nations Security Council which is considering an American plan for a commission of 11 nations, including the big five.

Parodi suggested that the commission should be composed of a smaller "neutral" group, possibly the six non-permanent members of the Security Council, with Sweden as the seventh member.

The non-permanent members of the council are Australia, Brazil, Colombia, Syria, Poland and Belgium.

The French proposal was offered as the council moved slowly through a long series of amendments to the original American resolution on the Balkan problem.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, who has his own plan before the council, sat silently throughout the morning session as the other delegates tried to whip the American resolution into a form acceptable to a majority.

Tests Clear Boy Of Slaying 2 Infants

MASSILLON, O., July 24 (AP)—Tests in the pediatrics nursery of City Hospital apparently cleared six-year-old Roger Gue of Navarre today of the killings of two baby girls last June 6.

Dr. Lemoyne Snyder of Lansing, Mich., medico-legal director of the Michigan State Police said it was "most unlikely" the Navarre, O., boy, who admitted the killings last Monday then changed his story on Tuesday, "actually ever did remove a baby from a crib."

The Michigan criminologist ran a series of tests with the Gue boy re-enacting his purported "accident," his right arm in a cast as it was at the time of the babies' deaths.

The tests, he said, showed "it would have been physically possible for Roger to have removed either of the babies from their cribs" but "it is unlikely that he actually ever did remove a baby from the crib."

Italians Urged To Accept Peace Treaty

ROME, July 24 (AP)—Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza told the Italian constituent assembly today he recieved telegrams which "confirmed the desire of Soviet Russia" to ratify the Italian peace treaty.

All three of the other Major powers have ratified the treaty. British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin yesterday urged Italy to speed her ratification, adding that the Italians apparently were holding back in the belief that the Russians would not ratify.

Sforza, opened an assembly debate on ratification, strongly urged the constituent assembly to accept the treaty before Aug. 10, by which date he said Italy's chance for entry into the United Nations would be ended for this year.

Way Open For GOP To Call Extra Session

Senate Okays Armed Forces Merger; Group Cuts Loyalty Check Funds

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Republican leaders, making plans for Congress to adjourn Saturday, decided today to keep in their own hands as well as President Truman's the power to call the legislators back into session.

The House and Senate GOP commands agreed at a conference that the adjournment resolution should specify that Congress can be recalled by the Speaker and Republican leader of the House and the President pro-tem (Senator Vandenberg of Michigan) and the majority leader of the Senate.

Without such a clause, only President Truman could call the Congress members back to Washington before Jan. 6 when the second session of the 80th Congress will begin. He has authority under the constitution to call a special session at any time.

The Senate approved by unanimous consent compromise legislation to place the armed services under a single cabinet officer.

The measure now goes back to the House for action on an agreement worked out last night by a Senate-House conference committee. This incorporated "safeguards" designed to preserve the identity the Marine Corps and Naval aviation.

In the Senate and House, drives were on to get rid of major matters by the adjournment date.

These were principal developments:

1. The House Appropriations Committee recommended sharp cuts in the funds President Truman asked for an investigation of the loyalty of government workers.

He asked $16,000,000 for the Civil Service Commission and $8,740,000 for the FBI. It recommended $3,500,000 for the com-

France To Accept Bid To Meet On German Industry

PARIS, July 24 (AP)—A French spokesman said today France would accept the United States proposal for a British-French-American conference on the future level of industry in Germany.

The spokesman said France was awaiting more precise details of the American proposal before making an official reply.

He said the projected discussions also would cover control of the Ruhr industrial basin, and management and ownership of Ruhr coal, but would not deal with administrative measures to increase Ruhr coal production.

Such administrative steps, he said concerned only British and American authorities as zonal administrators. Thus, he said, France would not participate in the British-American talks expected to be held in Washington.

U.S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall, in his letter Monday to French Foreign Minister Georges Bedalt, said he would indicate soon how such a tripartite conference could be held. The spokesman said it was this added information for which the French government was waiting.

Council Fire Ring At Camp Winona Is Scene Of High Spirited Contests

By BOBBY PARKS
CAMP SCRIBE

Monday was an active day for the campers at Winona. There was a vigorous water polo game in the morning swimming period between Cabin I and II and III. Cabin I won with a score of 17 to 1.

All through the morning and afternoon activity period the campers were busy in the handicraft shop making trays, bookends and lanyards. Sonny Garner left in the afternoon unexpectedly. Cabin IV won the cabin inspection by a narrow margin since all of the cabins were in excellent order.

The members in each cabin are hard at work earning points for their cabin. Points are earned by winning games, contests, and table and cabin inspections and by picking dangerous objects like pieces of glass from paths and trails. At the end of the week the cabin with the most points is treated to a pajama party with refreshments. Last week Cabin II won with 526 points and they had a big time at the party.

Three big fish have been caught from the lake this year, one 5½ pound, a 6¼ pound one, and a slightly smaller one.

The council ring was the scene of an active contest between cabins. Cabins V and VI waged a vicious battle of wits and hearing in "Paper-pick-up" and Cabin VI won by one point.

Cabins I, II, III had a fire building contest. Each of the three cabins chopped up an 18 inch block of 2x4 and built a fire with it. They had two matches and the first cabin to burn a string stretched 13 inches above contest with Cabin II coming in the ground won. Cabin I won the second. In the next part of the contest, the one to boil his pot of water over first won. Cabin II won and Cabin I came in second.

After the contest, the campers hurried to their bunks and a quiet hush fell over the camp as the last notes of taps from the bugle rang out over the lake.

Historic Papers Of Lincoln To Be Opened

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 24 (AP)—The custodian of Abraham Lincoln's tomb said today that the lincoln papers to be opened Saturday in Washington "may contain letters from people who were were "angry at the martyred Civil War President.

The custodian, 87 year old Herbert Wells Fay, along with Jay Monaghan, state historian, both thought, however, that the papers would not reveal anything sensational.

Meanwhile a group of Lincoln scholars and Civil War authorities gathered in Chicago preparatory to attending the opening of the historic ducuments. The papers, at the wish of the martyred President's son, Robert Todd Lincoln, have been sealed for 21 years in the library of Congress.

Kaiser Hit As Turning On Heat To Get Contracts

Krug Testifies About Wooden Plane Deal Before Committee

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Krug told a Senate War Investigating Committee members today that Henry Kaiser "put the heat of hell" on everybody in Washington" to obtain wartime contracts to build a huge plywood airplane.

Krug told reporters he had informed Senators Brewster (R-Me.) and Ferguson (R-Mich.) at an informal conference that a contract made by the War Production Board with Kaiser and Howard Hughes, movie producer, for the plane's construction was let "before my time on the War Production Board."

The committee, headed by Brewster, is inquiring into the letting of the contracts and any possible connection of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President Roosevelt, with the transaction.

Ferguson, who heads a subcommittee opening hearings on the matter Monday, told a reporter that the Army and Navy had opposed letting the contracts but that orders had come from the White House to go through with them.

Krug said he told the two sen-

Promise To Scrap Credit Controls Denied By Truman

WASHINGTON, July 24, (AP)—President Truman said today he has not promised to remove controls over installment buying in event Congress does not approve their extension.

He has only promised to take action, he said at a news conference when asked about his plans.

These controls were imposed originally during the war by a president order. They require at least a one-third down payment when an automobile, a refrigerator and some other articles are purchased on the installment plan.

Mr. Truman recently sent Congress a message saying he thought the controls should be continued, but felt that was a matter for Congress. At that time, he said he would take action if Congress did not vote to continue them.

His phrase was generally interpreted at the time as meaning he would remove the controls if Congress did not vote to extend them. The Senate has voted for a modified continuation, but the House has opposed.

Truman also said that a world trade organization to buy grain for distribution under the Marshall European recovery plan is under consideration.

The President made this statement at a news conference when questioned about Secretary of Agriculture Anderson's proposal for such an organization.

Mr. Truman also said that he has no plans for domestic controls over wheat and corn.

The so-called "Marshall Plan," first announced by Secretary of States' Marshall, is the United States' offer to help European nations get on their feet economically if they work out plans to do what they can on their own.

On the matter of domestic controls over grain, Mr. Truman said those mentioned in his recent economic message to Congress had to do with export and transportation

Mercy Flight Success Despite Bad Weather

BOSTON, July 24 (AP)— An intrepid Coast Guard pilot brought a flying boat down in heavy seas last night within 15 feet of the Weather Ship Bibb, 500 miles off Newfoundland, to remove an 18-year-old sailor stricken with appendicitis.

Joseph J. Johns, 18, S 1-c of Helena, Ga. was flown to a hospital at Fort Pepperell in Greenland, where plans were made to operate immediately.

Braving hazardous flying conditions, Lieut. William Morrill of Lakehurst, N. J., was forced to use instruments in making the landing because of fog and resorted to "Jato," a form of jet propulsion, in taking off from rough seas.

Cheribon, Birthplace Of Independence Movement Falls To Assault By Tanks

JOGJAKARTA, Java, July 24 (AP)—President Soekarno of the Indonesian republic broadcast an appeal today to President Truman and the American people "to exert every effort to halt this war in Indonesia."

SYDNEY, Australia, July 24 (AP)—The Waterside Workers Federation imposed a ban tonight on loading of Dutch ships as a protest against the armed action in Indonesia of what it called "Dutch imperialists."

BATAVIA, Java, July 24 (AP)—Cheribon, important northwest Java port, has fallen to a Dutch tank attack, but Indonesian Republicans declared today they had turned back a strong Dutch drive on their port of Semarang.

A Dutch army communique announced the capture of Cheribon. The Indonesian radio said the Dutch used a striking force of 50 tanks in assault yesterday afternoon against the port, birthplace of the Indonesian independence agreement. These forces, the broadcast said, bypassed Soemedang and Kadipaten.

An Indonesian army communique said Republican forces in the east-central sector had seized Modjokerto, on the outer rim of the Dutch perimeter around the once-powerful naval base of Soerabaja. This was one of the areas held by the Dutch before the outbreak of hostilities Sunday. Modjokerto is 28 miles southwest of Soerabaia.

The Modjokerto action apparently was an attempt by the Republicans to harass Dutch forces driving on the stronghold of Malang. The Indonesian communique said the drive had been halted 35 miles southeast of the city.

Marshall Advised Of Dutch Situation

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall discussed the Dutch-Indonesian fighting today with the Netherlands ambassador-designate, Dr. Eelco Van Kleffens.

In a 40-minute conference at the State Department, Van Kleffens said he gave Marshall "a few points" on the breakdown of negotiations which resulted in what he termed the Dutch "police" campaign.

The Indonesian crisis was taken up "in very general terms," Van Kleffens told reporters, along with current efforts to put the Marshall plan for European economic recovery into effect.

Marshall, he said, "knows very well what's going on" in the East Indies.

Van Kleffens, who has been Netherlands delegate to the United Nations, returned Tuesday from The Hague. He said his call was primarily a courtesy visit, such as normally precedes a new envoy's presentation of his credentials at the White House.

Envoy In China Will Visit Businessmen

NANKING, July 24 (AP)—Lieut. General Albert C. Wedemeyer, President Truman's fact-finder in China, will make a preliminary visit to Shanghai Saturday to talk with American businessmen who have been sharply critical of Chinese commercial restrictions.

A formal statement said the Shanghai trip "will afford opportunity for discussions in closed meetings with members of the American and Chinese business communities and will assist General Wedemeyer in mapping out his program of intensive study."

It appeared here that former Premier T. V. Soong was taking an important part in Wedemeyer's investigation, on which likely will depend American policy toward China. Informed sources said Soong was believed acting as unofficial liaison between the American and certain Chinese government officials.
