Johnson Plans To Give Roosevelt Entire Support

Ex-NRA Executive To 'Put Everything On Ball' If Necessary

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP) Hugh S. Johnson declared Sunday night he intends to "put every thing I have on the ball for what Franklin D. Roosevelt stands for."

The former NRA executive said all the "talk that he is going to work for "big business" gives him "a pain" adding:

"I'm not going to take any job. I'm going to set aside another year to do just what I have been doing steadily for the last two and one-half years, put everything I have on the ball for what Franklin D. Roosevelt stands for.

"I can do it better out of government than in, because I don't have to walk any official tightrope. I cannot do it if I am in any industrial capacity.

Saying he had been offered some jobs, Johnson said they all where not worth much to anybody and some dirt of a pull in Washington. And it gives me a faint nausea.

In the first place, he added, it isn't right to capitalize a big name in public service.

"In the second place I haven't any pull with anybody. Washington figures my calling what he's worth. Nobody has a pull with this Administration, with all the deference in the people. They look on human frailty as a mere.

"I don't know what the Administration wants to do for myself and this is the policy and this is the policy and it so hard to take like that, I can't take a job and do what I have to do to get results and it gives me a pain.

For 50 years several added run on a proposition that was to prosperity and human conjectures.

Declaring the depression is over and "lying is the easiest way back into power" he said the chance

BORAH SEES U. S. IN EVERY EUROPEAN FUSS

Vernsteed from Pittsburgh, Jan. 22. (AP) Borah shooted down." Borah shooted The verdict was used by these powers to bludgeon Austria and Germany into submission."

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson leaped to his feet repeatedly to challenge Borah's views. The Idaho statesman appeared to welcome interruptions. The 15 minutes he have passed since he started his defiance of President Wilson's League of Nations cost him a toll of his health and did not come as quick as it once did.

Borah trembled. He did not stand and forth as he once did, but taking the floor he resumed a bookroom to conserve his energies in many ways. He was still the Borah of old in words bristled. His phrases were crisp and pointed. He was speaking only a few feet from the rear of the chamber of the House of Congressmen.

Borah argued that he now was proved to be a fool cause. Only a few years ago, he said, he was called a fool because he had opposed the entrance of America into the World war. But now it has been proved that he was right and he had foreseen that the war would not make the world safe for democracy.

Borah argued that the World war had destroyed democracy in Europe. But now it has come home to America, he said, and he was glad of it because it would prevent America from doing the same thing to other countries.

Influenza Cases On Increase Say Health Officials

Fully 50,000 Persons Now Suffering With Ailment, Is Report

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 A sharp rise in reported influenza cases was announced Thursday night by the U. S. public health service.

However, the 10,000 cases reported for the week ending Jan. 12 was negligible compared with the 1929 epidemic year when 170,000 cases were reported throughout the country during the first week in January.

Public health service doctors pointed out that probably the actual cases in the United States numbered closer to 50,000 since the three major population states of California, New York and Massachusetts do not report influenza and other states do not have complete data in all cases. Health service reports also showed an increased prevalence of bronchitis, tonsilitis and other respiratory diseases. These are common with influenza and frequently are forerunners of the more serious illness.

Measles and scarlet fever were higher during the first two weeks of January than any time during the past eight years while health charts showed diphtheria at the lowest ebb for the same period.

Reports indicated that the influenza was prevalent in all parts of the country. The figures were considerably in excess of last year.

Two rules to avoid influenza were announced by the public health service as follows:

(1) Avoid people with influenza or colds and stay out of crowds.

(2) Keep up one's general health.

There is more danger from contact with persons just beginning to feel sick than shortly enough to be confined to bed, it was explained.

Ladder Wood Traced To Bronx Home

Defense Counsel Hits Testimony Given By Government Expert On Woods

FLEMINGTON, Jan. 23.—The wood in the kidnap ladder came from the home of Richard Hauptmann, government expert testified today.

Arthur Koehler of Madison, Wis., expert on the identification of wood for the government, followed a ladder witnesses in Lindbergh trial for the kidnapping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., and added to their the final conclusion that the rungs came from Hauptmann's attic.

Defense Counsel Alexander Pope leaped to his feet and cried "He is excited. We say there is no wood known among men as an expert."

Richard Hauptmann, a sinister figure in gray prowled the witness chair to testify that curl through the Orland Mountains for a year he kidnaped, two more years he swore yesterday.

At the third time that a witness climbed the two steps to the hickory witness chair to identify Hauptmann, like a surprising a surprise attempted to identify the scene of the most notorious crime. Out of the Sourlands yesterday came a face scrubbed shining red a nine white silk scarf about his neck, came "Millard Fillmore" Smith, a farmer and jell in a Jersey drawl.

Saw Hauptmann twice in 1932, on the road to Princeton at midnight hours. The kidnapping occurred Mar. 1, 1932.

Smith is a bad day in court for the wood-man. Before he through Hauptmann's lawyers had poked holes in his testimony at high noon in open court and pick into the hits a crippled by the strong

City Commission Adopts Ordinance Outlawing Saloon

Liquor Cannot Be Sold By Drink Under Act Effective Today

Warning the formality of two readings and exercising their right under the charter, members of the City Commission last night enacted a liquor sales regulation ordinance which is known as the "Sanford Ordinance" and which will become effective today.

The ordinance was "put" through the commission in the form of a "dummy" which will be made a law by the commission next April to avoid setting up state discussion of the ordinance in the form that agitated some at least, the right of the city to enact such an ordinance. The "dummy" reserves the right to amend the ordinance at any time in the future in the light of the decisions of the Florida supreme court of said state, and in the event of the repeal of this ordinance or its amendment so as to prevent business being done under a license issued as herein provided, the City shall have the right to refund the pro-rata part of the license fee paid, upon satisfactory evidence that the party to whom the license was issued has discontinued business in the City of Sanford.

When the ordinance came to a vote after a long discussion, it met with the opposition of Commissioner H. J. Lehman who, although voting to waive the rules and permit passage last night, voted "nay" on the ordinance.

While it was being passed around the table for signatures, the Commissioners voted that it should be published in full in The Herald so that the "general public may be advised as to the decision of the Commission in regard to the sale of liquor in

House Revolt On Relief Act Is Put Down

Victory Won at Price Of Concessions Allowing Amendments To Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Administration leaders last night suppressed a rebellion started by congressmen lured by the political "pork" possibilities in the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill.

Victory was won, however, at the price of concessions permitting amendments, to all but the three sections of the bill. Original plans had been to jam the bill through without permitting amendments and with debate limited to three hours.

The truce, reached at a Democratic caucus ended the party to enlist action, clears the way for consideration of the measure today.

Under the concessions representatives may offer amendments to:

1. A section giving the President power to contribute for one year the life of government agencies such as the NRA.

2. A section permitting him to exercise the right of eminent domain in acquiring property for public construction projects.

3. A section providing stiffer penalties than the bill does for "graft" and "poison" terms up to two years for violation of laws provided by the President.

But amendments will not be permitted embarking the government on new fiscal policies.

Guild President Says Newspaper Publishers 'Cracked Down,' He 'Cracked Up'

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 23. Heywood Broun, president of the Newspaper Guild, yesterday said that the right described President Roosevelt's letter to the labor relations board as a "gesture to the publishers" at the point of a gun.

President Roosevelt stepped in to a scrap between his labor relations board and the NRA yesterday, siding with the latter when he requested the board to "keep hands off agreements worked out and called his code labor boards to jurisdiction of further complaints was seen.

The controversy centered upon the board's right to supersede the newspaper code authority's industrial relations board in a case involving the San Francisco Call-Bulletin.

NRA legal and industrial officials interpreted the request made in a letter to Chairman Francis Biddle to mean that the board could reverse its decision in ordering the paper to reinstate Dean C. Jensing, a rewrite man.

The high NRA official expressed an opinion the board should take steps that would or malign, as out of sympathy with Roosevelt's policy.

Asserting it was with "deep and bitter regret" that the newspaper

7 Florida Cities Get Snow, With Freezing Weather Due Tonight

Storm Reported Moving Up Coast To Maine May Reach Gale Proportions

By The Associated Press

Storm warnings were hoisted today along the Eastern Seaboard from the Virginia capes to Maine as the Weather Bureau reported a storm moving up the coast and predicted it would reach gale proportions.

Small craft warnings were displayed south of the Virginia capes to Key West and north to Tampa. New York City was nearing a battle to dig itself out in the face of another snowfall as the storm blanketed the country from the Ohio valley to New England and south as far as Tampa, where a light fall was reported.

Snow, with all its force, crowded the Southwest reaches of Florida and Tuesday spreading death, suffering and untold damage to crops, livestock, transportation systems and utilities.

Lovely sunny Alabama and Northwestern Florida were cloyed upon in the chill blanket as it drew its icy breath into the deep South, including scattered records of peace standing.

Hard Freeze Damages Rio Grande Crops

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Jan. 23 (AP) A mild freeze in the Rio Grande Valley early yesterday caused no serious damage to crops, it was reported today.

Temperatures in the Valley were in the 30's when the sun rose, but warmed up to a maximum of 70 degrees in the afternoon.

Vegetable and citrus growers were warned that signs pointed to even colder temperatures than first were anticipated over much of the peninsula.

At least seven Florida cities reported snow during the 24 hours ending at eight this morning.

At Apalachicola, about one inch was recorded and children made merry with snowballs.

Port St. Joe, Pensacola, Tallahassee, Madison, Jacksonville and St. Augustine also reported flurries, that at Madison remaining on the ground today.

Jacksonville had driving snow for nearly an hour this morning which melted upon contact, no sticking the ground, and the temperature dropped from 37 at 10:00 o'clock despite the fact that a bright sun was trying to keep forcing through scudding clouds.

Keen apprehension was felt for fruit and vegetable crops over most of the state.

It will be much colder tonight and continuing freezing, the forecasters said. Even as far as Thursday night.

What it doesn't get tonight the Weather Bureau replied in an answer to a query as to the possible damage to tender crops, "it probably will get tomorrow night."

The Hospital For The Insane

While the federal government is being criticized for practically all of the more unfortunate classes of society, it comes as a rather shocking revelation that Florida is not even doing its part toward the most "forgotten men" in this state, the inmates of the Hospital for the Insane at Chattahoochee. As a matter of fact, according to the report recently submitted by Dr. Ralph N. Greene, chairman of a special committee of the Florida Medical Association for investigating the asylum, conditions there are nothing less than deplorable.

Dr. Greene says that the hospital has suitable accommodations for about 2,000, but actually there are more than 4,000 patients while many who should be sent there are being refused admittance. "Patients must climb over two or three beds," Dr. Greene said, in order to get to their own bed, as there is no space between the beds for walking." Anyone who appreciates the necessity for sound sleep in overcoming mental and nervous disorders can understand the difficulties involved in curing patients in Chattahoochee where they must find such rest as they can jammed into rooms full of other maniacs.

Further, none of the patients receives the medical or nursing attention which they need. There is one doctor for each 426 patients, and one graduate nurse for each 383 patients. Dr. Greene said that patients have actually died of gas gangrene behind locked doors without attention of any kind. Facilities for segregating patients with contagious diseases are wholly inadequate and tuberculosis particularly among the negroes is rampant.

When one considers that these are human beings who are being treated this way, that they are human beings who have not the unfortunate intellectual capacity to be the victims of a mental disease, which is just as much an illness as consumption or appendicitis, and which is some thing which might happen to anyone, it is simply incomprehensible that Florida could allow such abject neglect to exist without doing anything about it.

A hospital for the insane should be a hospital. Dr. Greene says, "not merely a custodial institution." Many cases of insanity can be cured, and many others improved, if it is apparent that very little attention is being given to cures at Chattahoochee. What worse plight could any mortal suffer than, when afflicted with some disease, to be sent to a place which only aggravates instead of alleviates his illness?

"We have been remaining in a state of stagnation and no organization has been formed to see that the insane receive the care to which they are justly entitled," Dr. Greene insists, adding that industrial rehabilitational pursuits to effect recovery from mental illness require trained educational experts, and that there should be changes of occupation for the inmates to avoid monotony which destroys instead of rebuilds the brain cells.

The idea seems to be that if you want to lead a bonus army, be its leader and get a job at $1500 per.

Delaware has revived the whipping posts as a means of punishing offenders against law and order. The other day three young men in Wilmington were stripped to the waist in below freezing temperatures, after conviction of beating and robbing a farmer and were given ten lashes each with a cherry whip, then sent to hospitals. This sentence prevailed to a great extent through the country in the very early days of colonial development, and though once very popular, was never proved an satisfactory means of preventing crime. There is something about such cases to place the state in a bad light.

Robbers Slug Jewelry Salesman, Swipe Loot

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Jan. 23. (AP)—Three robbers early Tuesday slugged Ed Bessman, New York jewelry salesman, as he was unloading a taxi to enter a hotel here, seized Bessman's brief case containing, he said, $175,000 worth of insured diamonds, and escaped after a running gun battle with the police.

Bessman, who had just arrived from Cedar Rapids, said that a car containing several men followed him from the station. Arriving there, he said, two men jumped out of the car and attacked him when he resisted, a third, remaining in the car. He was struck over the head with a gun and the robbers snatched the valuable brief case and fled.

SANFORD MAN IN HOLLYWOOD

By MOLLIE MERRICK

Editor's Note: The following article which appeared in the Hollywood Reporter, a Hollywood publication, on the work of J. Stanley Shetzer in employing arms for Hollywood movie directors, will be of interest to residents of Sanford where Mr. Stoneridge spent several years as a boy.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 23.—Hollywood has long been noted as a town where all types of people hold all sorts of odd positions, sometimes at a salary well worth while. There's one charming Irish woman, for instance, who so always called in when studios are making a picture dealing with royalty. Once a lady-in-waiting to the present Queen of England, she knows exactly what formalities are observed by the servants in a royal household have formal parties are conducted or what the usual procedure is when royalty makes a public appearance.

There are technical directors and advisers galore who guarantee to be authorities on everything from life in Siam down in the college dance of 1924. And you'd be surprised how many of these people make their living in Hollywood.

One of the most interesting jobs I've run across in long while is held by a Stoneridge, Minnesota native, who guarantees to furnish correct weapons for movies dealing with the large period of the United States. Stanley Shetzer has been in the business for many years, and is the only firm of its kind in Hollywood. He has a large assortment of guns, ranging from the Revolutionary period to the Civil War period. Shetzer's firm has supplied guns for movies such as Frontier Marshal, Jesse James, Kansas Raiders, Dakota, Ghost Town, Rio Grande, Ft. Apache, Fighting Kentuckian, Red River, Tulsa, Wagon Master, Sands of Iwo Jima, Sitting Bull, Massacre River, Rio Grande, Sea Chase, Dakota Lil, Fighting Coast Guard, Rocky Mountain, Silver Lode, Dead Man's Gulch, Sky Dragon, Sea Tiger, Sea Devils, Tycoon, Ft. Seminole Defeats Daytona 33 To 29 In Exciting Game

Locals Turn In 4th Straight Win Over Conference Foe

Seminole High School basketball squad scored a fourth straight Northeastern Conference victory in an exciting game on the local court last night by taking a 33 to 29 victory from the strong Daytona Beach team which had scored five consecutive victories before being halted here.

Coaching Coach Leonard McLeod, "It was the sweetest victory of the season so far," and it was by far the hardest existing the two teams had played a thrilling game at Daytona two weeks ago, with the East Coast team winning, 23 to 21 in the last few seconds of play.

Last night, the visitors had the upper-hand until the last quarter when Seminole came from behind to tie and to go ahead with only five minutes to play.

While the crowd on edge as the minutes slowly ticked away, Daytona had gave Seminole a single point, and Whitlock field goal made the score 33 to 29 with only three minutes of play remaining.

That three minute period was the most exciting of the season, with the ball passing from one Seminole player to another, never able to penetrate the Daytona fence, yet none being forced to release the ball to Daytona. The final whistle came as a release that had gripped players and fans alike.

Starting during the second forward Horne of the visitors who turned in a fine game, scored points. He ran into the game three quarters of the game, playing only flight assistant although a rangy center, he did a good job in some good work.

Seminole's star was Earl Whitten, forward who led the game near the end of second quarter when Coach McLeod turned his aides loose on the Pet Whitten nevertheless piled up a great game and accounting for 10 points and a good game. Herndon, stellar guard second high scorer in Altonah's service, was valued after a fleshy performance.

Seminole was further handicapped by the loss of Jack Hughes ill in the game suffered so he intermittently played on the court. Hughes was one of the stars of the game.
