Luxury Liner Gets New Refinements

AP Newsfeatures

SOUTHAMPTON, England —The Queen Mary- "lovely lady," the sailors call her—is being restored to her prewar elegance as a luxury liner after a distinguished war-time career and will resume her weekly runs across the Atlantic Ocean July 31.

Along a deck where thousands of American and Canadian soldiers stood in blacked-out war-time going grayhiund wouldn't know their Mary now. Nor would down the last of new deck planking. Along the alleyways, highly polished white sycamore paneling is refitted.

War Role Forgotten

Some three-quarters of a million soldiers who were her passengers during seven years as an ocean-going grayhound wouldn't known thousands of soldiers' brides and children the Mary brought to new homes in America.

Thousands of feet of serviceable, unlovely plaster board have been ripped out. In drab quarters which housed 80 GIs a crossing there is a luxurious cocktail bar, gay in red leather upholstery and bright red and soft gray curtains.

The main restaurants have been redecorated; what was the brides' movie theater has been turned into a supper club with fluorescent lighting and tinted mirrors.

Luxury Quarters

The wartime sickbay, with its wooden partitions, has disappeared and in its place is the rich, luxurious first class smoking room.The main lounge again is a massive room with lofty maple wood pillars, paneling and a thick carpet of russet and gold.

When the 81,235-ton Cunard liner went to war, she left behind her in various parts of the world some 10,000 pieces of furniture and fittings. New York held a couple of hundred boxes and cases and in Australia stored quantities of furniture and 2,500 cabin and stattroom doors. All were shipped back to England btfore the reconversion started.

Hundreds of miles of wiring were removed and resewtd, decks scraped, rugs laid, pumps, generators and other equipment were torn down and worn parts replaced. The whole ship underwtnt a gigantic face-lifting.

She's undergoing trial runs now and, at the end of the month, will be off for New Yorn to the cheers of the crowd and the music of the bands.

Atom Bomb Knocked Pride Out Of Japs

By RUSSELL BRINES
AP Newsfeatures

NAGASAKI, Japan —The world's second atomic bomb came to the people of this Kyushu city by an ironic twist of fate. It left no pride among them, no desire to perpetuate that agonizing moment with monuments.

Now they want only to forget, and in forgetting they have let the weeds grow over homesites in gashed Urakami valley.

The valley, about two miles from the center of town, was hit by chance on the morning of August 10, 1945. The primary target for that atom raid, Kokura—about 100 miles northward—was obscured by weather. Nagasaki was second on the day's list.

Japanese figures say 30,000 were killed and 42,000 were wpunded in the blinding single flash and reverberating after-effects of the bomb. It wiped out hundreds of thickly-packed workers' homes in the valley, ripped through factories and spent its fury high on enveloping hills where baldness still remains among the forests.

Parallel ridges channelled the bomb's effects and protected Nagasaki itself from the force of the blast. Fires from the valley raced without check the two miles into town, causing most of its wartime damage.

Only a few have returned to the valley. Flimsy homes have been built in spots. A new church has been erected alongside the ruins of the Catholic church, which once had a congregation of 10,000 Japanese.

The remainder is a desolate vista of ruins and seared earth covered with spring weeds. The epicenter of the blast is marked only by a huge arrow, erected by Americans. A once-busy navy yard, including a giant torpedo plant, slumps in ruins.

Residents of Hiroshima, on Honshu island, have a fierce pride in surviving the first atom bomb. They are contemplating an atomic library and a monument in the center of the city. Hundreds of homes have been rebuilt and business is brisk—even in atomic souvenirs.

But Urakami valley has dropped into the backwash of war.

basic freedoms in themselves but are essential to the fruitful exercise of other basic freedoms," Martin said.

He added that without adequate access to comprehensive and objective information on the world in which we live, the "very existence of democracy could be endangered."

Martin told the delegates that his government believed that facilities for full comprehensive and objective reporting, and the "right of access of all men to such information will contribute to international understanding and friendship."

"We believe, also," he said "that the principles of freedom of information of the press are essential to the other purposes of the United Nations: to the maintenance of international peace, and to the solution of problems of an economic, social, cultural and humanitarian character. We believe that it is essential to the promotion of 'social progress and better standards of living in larger freedom.'"

Martin declared that the delegates had met in the UN to make an effort to build a true community of all the people of the world. He said that his government deplored any effort to limit or destroy that community.

"We are inevitably concerned with any barriers which might remove any peoples, or groups of peoples, in any part of the world, from the process of give-and-take in economic, cultural or political affairs—which full participation in a world community implies," he said.

"We are concerned lest any such existing barriers be extended, we are deeply desirous that any existing barriers be removed. I need hardly stress the relevance of this principle to freedom of information. For censorship of outgoing news is one such barrier; internal censorship is another; prohibition of imported books and periodicals is a third. Denial of visas for foreign correspondents is also a barrier, and a dangerous one."

Germans was part of Bavaria for 700 years. The separation followed the end of the war. Now Bavarians want it back.

Whether the Palatinace wants to return also is conjectural. This is a section of independent thinking that contribute so many early immigrants to the United States.

The French will not tolerate talk of a return to the old status, however. Competent authorities say this is one of the reasons they have banned public speeches by Dr. Karl Schumacher, leader of German socialists, an advocate of centralistic ideas. The French at Tubingen now also require special permission for the German press to make telephone calls from the area to Munich with the result that the flow of news has been cut down from the sector to Bavaria.

rillas in a major engagement west of Lamia, 100 miles northwest of Athens. Unofficial reports said 200 casualties were inflicted on the rebels.

A United Nations Balkan Subcommission still in session in Joannina drafted a report, opposed by the Soviet and Polish delegates, for U. N. headquarters, dispatches said.

Informed sources said this report included the subcommission's conclusions that Greek guerrillas had entered this country from Albania and that Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia had obstructed the work of the subcommission.

The Greek government last week reported the army had stopped a guerrilla drive on Ioannina said to have started in Albania.

Warrants were issued last night for the arrest of Nicholas Zachariades, leader of the Greek Communist Party, and Miltiades Porphyrogennis, former Communist labor minister. The government charged the two with "anti-national activities" and revolutionary plotting.

Speaking to French Communists in Strasbourg recently, Porphyrogennis urged that a "free" government be established in Greece, and Athens government circles subsequently indicated they expected a move in that direction.

Last night, however, Constantine Rodopoulos, governor general of northern Greece, said in an interview that the Communists "don't have the strength" to set up a provisional government.

German Policies

the policy of making the merged American and British zones of Germany a self supporting unit through an important program.

This policy of self sufficiency through an industrial revival in Western Germany has been advocated by Herbert Hoover and numerous American business men studying Germany and has had the strong support of the War Department.

France had opposed this policy at every turn. The French proposed a low level of German industry, coupled with international control of the Ruhr.

The French position was regarded in military government quarters here as directly incompatible with the announced aims of Britain and the United States as far as bizonal Germany was concerned.

These sources pointed out that France steadfastly had refused to join the bizonal merger and accept joint responsibility for Western Germany. They said the Marshall offer for a three-power conference apparently would give France the same sort of veto power over the rehabilitation of the Ruhr that France has exercised in the Allied Control Council in Berlin for the past two years.

The difference between the Army and State Departments aims in Germany became apparent at the foreign ministers Moscow conference last Spring.

The army school of thought, led by General Clay, held that it was all important to rebuild Germany as a prosperous nation both for the economic well being of Europe and to keep Germany from going communistic.

The position of General Clay was subordinated at Moscow to the predominant State Department school, which held that the German problem could wait and that the most important thing was to see that France did not go Communist.

Thus at every opportunity, the Americans supported the French in the six weeks of fruitless negotiations at the expense of Germany.

However, when the foreign ministers' conference ended without agreement, the State Department and the British Foreign Office empowered their representatives in Germany, General Clay and General Sir Brian Robertson, to go ahead with negotiations on an agreed level of German industry to make the combined zones self sufficient.

The day this agreement was negotiated, signed and readied for publication, hurried messages from Washington and London halted the release. It subsequently was disclosed that this resulted from a French protest.

"I think now we are right back where we were at Potsdam and the situation is far more critical," one top official said. "If we are going to have a policy, let's have one and carry it out and not reverse our field every five months. We seem to be trying to ride two horses going in different directions."

In the two years since the war, veteran officials said, this was the first time they could recall that the American military government had not been kept informed of developments and moves in Washington.

The State Department's move in German policy was coupled with the recent State Department insistence that Ruhr coal talks take place in Washington, rather than in Berlin. This was taken as indicating that Secretary Marshall and the State Department were taking direct control of policy making in Germany, which previously rested with the War Department.

The Ruhr talks, for example, would be in direct contrast with the handling by Clay and Robertson of the level of industry talks, in which both were empowered to reach agreements.

Officials here regarded an immediate settlement of the industrial level for Germany as essential.

They pointed out that, while industry was lagging far below the envisioned levels, it was necessary to tell the German people what industries they shall have left and end the uncertainty and confusion from which the Communist party draws its strength in Germany.

Indonesia To Get UN Voice Through India

Armed Aid Will Not Be Offered But Nation's Ports Closed To Dutch

NEW DELHI, July 28 (AP)—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, vice-president of the Indian Interim Government, announced today that India would press Indonesia's case before the United Nations, probably presenting it tomorrow morning, and expected the support of certain other powers.

At the same time Nehru announced that India "almost immediately" would bar Dutch aircraft from landing on Indian airfields, and flying over India.

India's goal is to bring the fastest possible end to the fighting and assure that justice is done, Nehru said at a news conference.

"We are not at war with the Dutch government," he said, "and we do not intend to be at war with the Dutch government or any other government."

India, Nehru said, will not send arms to Indonesia because such an act would be "tantamout to declaring war" upon the Dutch. However, he said, his country was contemplating closing ports to all Dutch shipping and certainly would bar aircraft of any country which might attempt to carry supplies to the Dutch.

Nehru said his country had not acted previously to bring the Indonesian hostilities before the United Nations because "we thought the best way was in conjunction with other powers."

He added that India turned first to Britian and the United States. In recent days has exchanged formal and informal communications with Australia and "we now propose in a few hours" to carry the case formally to U. N.

National Guard Needs Men For Local Company

More men are needed to increase the National Guard rifle company now being formed here from the 12 men reported as ready to enlist to the 23 or more men required before Company 2 of the 124th Infantry can be activated, it was announced today.

It is planned to bring the Company up to a total strength of 7 officers and 188 men. The members held an organization meeting Thursday night and will continue to meet every Thursday night at 8:00 o'clock at the Sanford Armory. The Company has been inactive since it was absorbed into the Army during the war.

Capt. Roy Green is company commander, and Capt. John Pope and Capt. Robert Baker are on the staff. Lieut. Dick Brown is assistant company commander and Maj. O. Barks is medical officer.

The purpose of forming the company is to provide a force of minute men in case of emergency or large scale tragedy. Men will drill two hours a week for which privates will receive $2.50 a drill and sergeants $3.50. Men from 17 to 37 years of age are eligible to join regardless of military experience.

Following activation Company 2 will be furnished with the latest type of equipment including machine guns and movie films showing atomic bomb tests and other subjects.

Child Killed When Run Over By Auto

Alice Ray Palmer, 23 month old child of Mr. and Mrs. L.R. Palmer of Kentucky Avenue, Cameron City, died this morning shortly after 9:15 o'clock at Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital, as the result of injuries received this morning when run over by a Buick Coupe.

No charges against Homer Slaughter, 406 West Sixteenth Street, driver of the Buick, have been made by the parents as in the opinion of Mr. Palmer, the accident was unavoidable, according to the report of Patrolman W.H. Raulerain who made an investigation.

The accident, said Raulerson, occurred in the yard of the Helpy Selfy Laundry on West Fifteenth Street while Mrs. Palmer was inside looking after her washing. Mr. Staffer had put his laundry into his car, and the child had been unnoticed even by a group of people. He had put his car into gear and gone but about three feet when a spectator called for him to stop. The child had been standing in front of the left front wheel when it was hit.

Mr. Steffer took the child to the hospital at once, but she died within a few minutes, Patrolman Raulerson said.

Importance Of Coal Stressed In European Econmic Crisis

The vital part which coal production is playing in the European economic crisis, and consequently in the turbulent political situation, was well emphasized by two developments during the weekend—one in England and the other in Germany.

British Foreign Miister Bevin in an impassioned appeal to his country's workers in general, and to the coal miners in particular, warned that they must produce more or risk the fall of the Socialist government and a weakening of Britain's position in world affairs. Increased production, he said, would enable the country to give foreign credits which would help diplomacy.

He was addressing thousands of miners whose production is the key to England's economic recovery.

"My God, working men and women," he cried, "this is the first Labor (Socialist) government you have got. Don't let it fail, for the sake of generations to come. Your Labor government is carrying on in foreign affairs without the tools to do the job and I must be helped out."

That's strong and most unusual language to come from a cabinet minister, but it doesn't exaggerate the dangers of the situation in which the government finds itself as it struggles with England's first all-out experiment in Socialism. The government maintains that it has been caught in a rush of war-born circumstances which it hasn't been able to control thus far, while Bevin's predecessor in the foreign office, conservative Anthony Eden, said in an address Saturday that labor has divided

Forrestal Hails Army-Navy Unity As Decisive Step

Secretary Of Defense Says Biggest Job Is To Select Aides

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—James Forrestal, who will be the United States first Secretary of National Defense, declared today that the unification of Army and Navy under a single department is the "most decisive step" in military policy since the formation of the republic.

The Navy Secretary told his first news conference since being named to head the overall U. S. military establishment that "we have a blueprint and a charter but the blueprint and the charter have to be manned by people." He added:

"In my judgment, this constitutes the most decisive and definitive step in the formulation of a national military policy since the formation of the republic."

Forrestal said it has not yet been decided whether he will have his offices in the Pentagon (War Department building) or elsewhere, nor has the date of his taking official oath as America's first Secretary of Defense been decided.

Forrestal said that the new setup of a separate Army, Air Force and Navy under the overall control of the Secretary of Defense will save money in the long run and be beneficial in the sense of "getting the most of out of our money."

Unification will cost more in the beginning he said, adding, "It is my hope the added expense will be nominal."

The biggest job ahead of him today he told newsmen laconically is to "get people".

So far as possible he plans to keep existing services and groups undisturbed, he said.

Forrestal hinted that his tenure of office as Secretary of Defense might not exceed one year.

When asked whether he intended to stay in the job for sometime,

Sugar Rationing For Industrial Users Ends

WASHINGTON, July 28, (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced the end of sugar rationing at 11:00 A. M. today because of a lack of funds to finance the program.

The action ends rationing to industrial and institutional users. Rationing to housewives was ended two months ago.

However, price controls are being kept. And controls on the amount of supplies which industrial users may have on hand were instituted.

In announcing this action, the department said Congress failed to appropriate funds necessary to continue work of the sugar rationing administration.

Trade Pact Failure Said Due To Russia

Reds Insisted On Revision Of Debt Owed To Britain; 1941 Terms Stand

LONDON, July 28 (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps told Parliament today that British-Russian trade treaty negotiations broke down in Moscow last week because of Soviet demands for revision of the 1941 loan agreement.

Russia owes Great Britain 55,000,000 pounds ($220,000,000) under terms of the Civil Credit Agreement.

Cripps, president of the board of trade, said British negotiators offered a number of concessions, but "we could not go the whole way the Soviet government demanded as a condition of an agreement."

The British had hoped for wheat, timber and canned fish. The Russians wanted heavy machinery, rails and pipes. The Moscow radio asserted the talks broke down because Britain would not guarantee some deliveries and because credit terms could not be reconciled.

The British delegation headed by J. Harold Wilson returned Friday from Moscow after five weeks of intensive and detailed negotiations.

Cripps said the British Labor Government wished to expand trade with Russia and said he hoped the disappointing failure was only "temporary." He did not mention the Moscow radio report, which a spokesman for the board of trade called "very Russian-sided."

Cripps indicated success had been almost in sight when the talks collapsed on Soviet credit demands. He explained:

"We had succeeded in reaching Agreement on all matters within the trade field, including quantities, prices and terms and con-

State Farmers Markets Lauded By U. S. Official

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 28, (Special)— "Other states will benefit greatly through the enterprise of Floridians in development of State-operated markets," said J. Stanford Larson, acting chief of the Market Organization and Facilities Branch, United States Department of Agriculture, during a Jacksonville visit this weekend. The Washington official, who spent some time touring the State, after appearing on the July 23-24 program of the annual conference of managers and officials of Florida's State Farmers' Markets, gave unstinted praise to Nathan Mayo, Commissioner of Agriculture, and William L. Wilson, Director of State Markets, for development of the unique system of State-operated sales centers which now comprises 27 active units handling more than $32,000,000 of produce in the last fiscal year.

"Director Wilson, through his acceptance of the presidency of the recently organized National Association of Produce Market Managers," Mr. Larson continued, "has now embarked on an effort to give the rest of the country benefits similar to those which Floridians are deriving from this State's system of markets."

During the ten years or more in which the major portion of the Florida system has been brought to its present stature, other States have copied, or adapted many of its features, and Mr. Larson, as well as other speakers at the Market Managers conference in Jacksonville this last week stressed the value of the experience

1,000 Refugees Are Ill Off French Coast

MARSEILLE, France, July 28, (AP)— French authorities said today that nearly 1,000 of 4,500 Jews, cruising offshore in three British deportation ships after being turned back from Palestine, were ill or needed medical care.

The Jews had approached Palestine without immigration visas in the Exodus of 1947, formerly the S. S. President Warfield. Their landing from the deportation vessels was scheduled for tomorrow.

The refugees departed from a French port for Palestine and the British shipped them back. Two British corvettes and the destroyer Cardigan Bay shepherded the refugee ships.

The Cardigan Bay put into harbor and its chief officer, Capt. G. K. Collett, had a lengthy conversation with naval, army, hospital and other authorities of Marseille. He appeared to be in a rage when he returned to ship. The points of disagreement were not disclosed. Sailors on the destroyer said London had ordered them not to talk.

Volume Of Loans Is Up But Fewer Find Need To Borrow

Reflecting the increased costs of producing crops and the availability of more farm and grove equipment, the volume of bank credit used by Florida farmers is currently higher than it was a year ago, according to J. J. L. Sauls Presides At VFW District Meet

John L. Sauls, presiding for the first time as VFW Commander of the Fifth Florida district at its conference Sunday in DeLand, handled his duties in a workmanlike manner, presided like an "old timer," and clutching his gavel firmly, strictly limited time of debate so that no "filibusters" broke out, F. D. Scott, commander of Post 3282 reported this morning.

The Sanford post furnished one of the largest delegations present, he said, with 18 members attending including Pat Johnson, senior vice commander; James Huff, quartermaster; Harvey Hale, chaplain and John L. Galloway, trustee.

State Junior Vice Commander C. C. Whittle made a talk on department plans for the coming year. It was decided to hold the next district meeting in November in Orlando. Among the hotly discussed topics was that of a State bonus to World War II veterans similar to that given by South Carolina and Mississippi.

The conference was banged to order by Saul's gavel at 10:00 A. M. and adjourned at 1:00 o'clock so that everyone could go to the ball game between Sanford and DeLand.

Invasion Charges By China - Russia Made At UN Meet

Outer Mongolian Incident Brought Up In Membership Plea

LAKE SUCCESS, July 28 (AP)—China and Soviet Russia clashed today in the United Nations Security Council membership committee over admitting Outer Mongolia, with Russia charging that some circles in Asia would like to see the Greek situation duplicated in the Far East.

China's delegate, Dr. Shuhsi Hsu, told the membership committee which is considering applications of nine countries that his government opposed Outer Mongolia because of the "armed invasion" of China by Outer Mongolian troops, supported by tanks. This amounted to a China veto of the application.

Alexei N. Krasilnikov, Russian delegate who figured in an exchange of frank talk with the other delegates at a committee meeting last week, promptly charged that the Chinese allegations are "absurd," "ill-founded, and that in reality Chinese troops violated Outer Mongolian territory.

Krasilnikov said the the whole border incident made him think there might be parties in China who would like to see a UN commission set up to investigate the affair. He said also they might be trying to detract from the civil war in China.

The committee deferred action on Outer Mongolia pending reply from China. It adjourned after taking up the application of TransJordan briefly. Seven members supported TransJordan but Russia, which vetoed TransJordan last August, reserved her statement until Wednesday.

21 Cases Of Liquor Violations Pending

Twenty-one cases of liquor sales law violation are pending in County Court as the result of investigations the past month by members of the State Beverage Department in Seminole County.

Informations filed by County Prosecuting Attorney George A. Speer show that 17 of the cases for which warrants were issued by the Sheriff's office were against colored persons charged with selling liquor without a license and four charges were against white persons for unlawful selling of intoxicating beverages on Sunday.

All persons against whom the charges were made were released on $250 bond with two exceptions, according to Sheriff Percy Mero.

2 Men Rescued After Swirling Over Dam

YORK HAVEN, Pa., July 28, (AP)— Two men in a motor boat were swept over a Susquehanna River dam and clung to the craft for 11 hours before being rescued little the worse for their experience.

Clarence Hoover, 47, and William Ettinger, 42, were riding along the river when the engine of their boat failed. The current caught the helpless craft and swept it over the dam. They stayed with the boat as it went over the barrier but were thrown into the swirling water below the dam.

The pair swam to their wrecked craft, caught on the rocks, and clung to it until rescued 11 hours later by two other York Haven men.

Tuesday was a busy day at Camp Winona with Cabin II challenging Cabin I to another soft ball game and being beaten 5-6.

Thirty-three of the campers made and painted plaster statuettes They were a Scotty dog bookend, an Indian head (one large and one small) and a frog paper weight.

Bobby Parks and John Fox tied at the rifle range for the daily prize of a rifleman's handbook. Wade Garner shot a higher score of 41 but as he already had a book it was awarded to the next highest.

Eight boys started the series of tests to qualify for advanced swimmer. They were Fred and Bob Posy, Walter Routh, Wes Spencer, George Harden, Mike Whelchel and Harold Cranston.

After many active contests around the council ring the campers had a "jay bird" swim and went to bed.

It was nice to have Ray Fox as an overnight camper.

Wednesday morning there were swimming classes, rifling, archery and handicraft. After lunch the campers sang "Happy Birthday" to Gene savy, one of the counciliors and presented him with a chocolate iced cake topped with 21 candles.

After rest period, Cabin I marched forth and defeated the combined forces of all the counciliors. Following this there was more shooting and handicraft and another swimming period. After supper came some of the campers went on an interesting hike to Skull Lake and back. At the council ring there were games and contests between the cabins and Cabin I won over the entire camp in Hoop Relay.

Before taps the campers were told of the picnic planned for the next day and the minstrel show to be put on by the counciliors.

Roof Of Seminole Motors Building Falls In Storm

No One Injured But Two Automobiles Were Demolished

Weight of water on the roof of the one story garage building occupied by Seminole Motors on Commercial Street is believed to have caused the collapse of the roof and walls of the entire northeast corner of the building during a rainstorm at 2:20 o'clock this afternoon. No one was injured.

Nearby spectators reported that they saw "an avalanche of water pour from the building as it collapsed."

Two automobiles inside of the garage were smashed by the buckling roof. One was a 1940 Plymouth sedan, the property of Robert Baker, the other was a 1941 Chevrolet sedan, belonging to D. L. Boulton, auto mechanic and employee of the garage. He had parked it inside about a half hour before the crash.

B. F. Jones, mechanic, was the nearest to the crash, he said. He was seated about 20 feet away from where the roof fell, looking at some printed auto diagrams when he saw the fire extinguisher fall from a post, heard the crash and then moved away quickly.

The headlights and windshield of a 1947 Plymouth belonging to Donald McDonald were smashed as were also the headlights of a Ford sedan parked next to it outside of the building.

The building is owned by Reynolds and Reynolds. Police Chief Roy G. Williams and Fire Chief M. N. Cleveland arrived quickly to take charge of the situation. The roof of the building is supported by wooden truss beams. Brick was scattered about the alley and street. The crash attracted many spectators.

Musical Program Is Presented At Rotary Luncheon

An entertaining musical program was presented at the Rotary luncheon today under the direction of Charles Morrison, program chairman.

Several vocal solos were rendered by Miss Roberta Evans, a tuba pet solo by Perry Bieber and several piano selections by his son Robert, both of whom are new residents in this community.

Joseph Lee Dies At Tampa Boat Races

TAMPA, Fla., July 28, (AP)—Joseph Lee, an amateur driver from Orlando, suffered a heart attack coming out of a turn during a motorboat race here yesterday and was pronounced dead upon arrival at Tampa Municipal Hospital.

Lee had placed second to Frankie Rodriguez of Tampa in the first heat for Class "C" amateurs. They were neck and neck in the second heat when Rodriguez noticed Lee's boat appeared to be out of control.

Rodriguez maneuvered his own craft alongside Lee's slow-moving boat, leaped into the Lee racer and took over the controls.

Mr. Lee had lived in Sanford for 15 years where he operated a plumbing business with his brothers, A. W. and Harry Lee.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alma Lee; a daughter, Miss Linda Lee and two brothers, A. W. and Harry Lee of Sanford.

Funeral services will be announced later.

Former WPB Official Calls Kaiser Plan For Plane "Completely Fantastic"

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Chairman Brewster (R-Me.) of the Senate War Investigating Committee said today a globe-trotting employee of Howard Hughes, millionaire manufacturer, has agreed to tell what he knows about the award of two $40,000,000 wartime government plane contracts to Hughes.

Brewster told a reporter that the Hughes employee, John Meyer, notified the committee staff this morning he will testify before a subcommittee whenever it wishes to call on him.

He had been scheduled to appear next Wednesday before a public inquiry opening today into Hughes' and Henry J. Kaiser's plane contracts with the government.

Meyer had been reported out of the country, and the subcommittee previously had been making efforts to find him to issue a summons.

At a closed preliminary inquiry June 3, Meyer had before the subcommittee various purported expense accounts of parties at

Airport Bill Is Interpreted For Sanford Citizens

Passage of Senate Bill No. 364 will prove to be of great advantage to the City of Sanford and other small cities in securing airport facilities such as the Sanford Naval Air Station, it was stated today by Edward Higgins, manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce who with H. H. Coleman was in Jacksonville last week conferring with officials of the War Assets Administration and the Civil Aeronautics Administration regarding the application of the bill.

The bill provides that the City, which now only owns the airport properties of the Station, be given grants for buildings and equipment on the entire station, provided the revenue derived from them is used to maintain and perpetuate the airport.

Mr. Higgins and Mr. Coleman reported that they conferred with Lyle Pritchard, regional director of the WAA, also with R. W. Veach, and received instructions as to how to proceed to secure the property as early as possible from the WAA.

Mr. Coleman today termed the trip as very worth while and said that they had learned a lot of things among the bill. "It looks as if it will take a lot of red tape out of getting the acquisition of the airport property, real and personal," he declared.

Mr. Higgins also reported that they conferred with Wiley Gillespie of the firm, Smith and Gillespie, in Jacksonville in regard to engineering on the proposed terminal buildings on the lakefront. Mr. Gillespie, he said, will present the proposition to the City in regard to his services on this project.

Police Station Gets Paint Job By "Guest"

Chief of Police Roy G. Williams recently released a "model" white prisoner who, he said, other chiefs of police would like as a "guest," for the said prisoner, a professional house painter, left the Sanford Police Station in far better shape than when he entered it.

It is doubtful, however, whether other jails will gleam as brightly inside as Sanford's due to the professional services of the recently released prisoner, who was guest of the City for 90 days for having tried to drive his automobile while intoxicated. "Never again," he told Chief Williams.

Not only is the jail lobby painted, but the kitchen, the downstairs cells and the upstairs cells are nicely painted as well, Chief Williams reported. In addition, all cots have new mattresses.

All bugs or vermin at the jail are combatted with a portable electric fog spray outfit, a handy little gadget hardly larger than a portable radio. It is plugged into a socket and steam is produced that mixes with the DDT solution and produces the fog spray.

Most of the bugs that get into bedding are brought by white vagrants, said Chief Williams.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GREAT TREASURES HAVE COME FROM UNEXPECTED PLACES. YOUR COMMUNITY HAS POSSIBILITIES BEYOND YOUR DREAMS.—Gov. Reed Cline quoting one of Napoleon's 1946 Jubilee.

Ahoskie, N. C.—was a little late in awarding a 23-year-old negro veteran with a Cadillac in a lottery, a $3,200 check. But better late than never.

Henry Wallace, with his usual optimism, predicts a depression in the 1950s. There is nothing solid about the present "boom" he insists. What! And after 14 years of New Dealing! Well, another thing about a depression, it will give the Communists their great opportunity.

We are not surprised at some of the comments of many of our high placed New Dealers during the lush war years, but what amazes us is that while they were thus feathering their own nests they had the crust to point their fingers at "economic royalists" and "profiteering business men."

The President has signed away about 175 of his wartime emergency powers. With them goes the right of a young man to enlist in order to get a college education at government expense. And many other GI benefits for new recruits. Well, after all, the war has been over for two years.

Fritz Kuhn, who a few years ago wanted to turn the United States into some kind of alien "ism," now finds that good old fashioned Americanism is not so bad after all. Back in his first love Germany, where he is facing trial as a "Nazi offender," he is said to have said, "We in the United States never did such unfair things."

There is over 32 million dollars worth of property in Seminole County, but over 44 percent of this amount is either wholly or partly exempt from taxation, leaving the rest, some 18 million dollars worth, to carry the burden of supporting the county government. Homesteads are valued at nearly 6 million dollars and are, of course, exempt from operating taxes, though they must pay their share of debt service levies. But that leaves over 6 million dollars worth of other property exempt from both operating and debt service taxes. And the more property exempt from taxation, the more taxes other property must pay.

It sounds as if President Soekarno of Indonesia has something when he appeals for American aid in his fight against "Dutch imperialism" on the grounds that America once fought for its own independence against "British imperialism." However, that was 170 years ago and presupposes that no progress has been made since then in settling political differences by peaceful means. His appeals to us to stand by those democratic principles for which we fought so valiantly through two world wars. But weren't those wars fought as much to end wars, as to make the world safe for democracy? Are we eternally going to have to go on fighting wars to rectify obvious wrongs in every part of the world until atomic bombs blow our world to bits? Are we never going to learn that fighting wars is not the way to end wars, that arbitration, conciliation and compromise are

Ruhr Dispute

It was hoped that plans for the reconstruction of Germany could go forward harmoniously after Russian co-operation had been definitely ruled out.

But France's insistance on heavy reparations is causing a division in the ranks with the U. S. and Britain on the other side. No doubt the Russian leaders are glad of this development, but with patience the obstacle can be overcome. Paul Ghali, writing from Paris, says, "There is a level whereby Germany can play its role in Europe's reconstruction without threatening the security of her neighbors. The big headache of the Paris conferees from now on will be to figure this level."

The new American policy in Germany provides for a healthy economy for Germany, leading to her independence of outside aid. Reparations take second place in American plans, but seem vital and important to France. It is up to the United States and Great Britain to convince France of the need to merge her own national requirements with the good of Europe as a whole. While France may wish that the production of the Ruhr valley could be channelled in great part into the French economy, and thus completely revivify that nation, she must be willing to share with the rest, for the good of the whole of Europe.

It's a matter of the long look forward. Peace and reconstruction of Europe as a whole mean peace and reconstruction for every part. If one part were to go much faster than another, the situation would be out of balance again, with ensuing trouble. That is what all nations should be trying to avoid.

Intelligent Offspring

A private foundation, directed by Guy Irving Burch, has found that American intelligence seems to be getting lower at the rate of five points every half century. Grave economic and political problems can come as the result of this trend, Burch says.

Census figures taken in 1949 show that college-educated women have had one and one-half children with four and one-third borne by women who have gone no further than the fourth grade. The investigator admits that there is no exact method of measuring intelligence, owing to differences in opportunity and environment, but speaking generally, he concludes that less-favored individuals have larger families than do those with greater social, economic and intellectual advantages.

According to the results of these investigations, some method should be found to persuade the better-equipped members of society to have larger families. But after all, the over-all intelligence quotient of the country is a vague, impersonal factor, and the size of our families is determined by many very personal conditions. Also, the war may have had an unexpected effect on the birthrates of various strata of society.

The marriage age was going up at an alarming rate for a time, for economic reasons, especially among the professional classes. Now, early marriage without worry as to economic consequence seems the order of the day. America is full of "two-year-olds starting off for nursery school after two years in college." It doesn't always do to take statistics too seriously. Nature has a way of upsetting them.

Native Craft

A district officer in India was transferred to a lonely post in Bihar where many of the tribes are thieves by heredity, caste and tradition. Several days after his arrival a native came to him. "It is the custom," said he, "for the Sahib to hire one of us as watchman. In that way you will be sure of protection and none of your things will be stolen." "I don't need your protection," said the officer shortly. "I have my own servants."

The next morning he awakened to an extraordinary sight. He had been sleeping under a tree in the garden because of the heat. In a circle around his bed stood his piano, dining table, writing desk. In a second circle stood all the chairs. Within reach of his hand lay his money, neatly spread out, none of it missing. As a crowning touch, the leaves of a low hanging branch beside him were pasted thick with his postage stamps!

Later in the day the tribesman reappeared. "Well Sahib?"

He got the job.

Scholarships Are To Be Paid In Cash To Avoid GI Bill Conflict

TALLAHASSEE, July 28 (Special)—Special Scholarships for Florida colleges and universities are to be paid in cash and thus do not conflict with tuition and subsistence available to war veterans under the G. I. Bill of Rights, according to Attorney General J. Tom Watson.

In reply to an inquiry from School Superintendent Colin English, the attorney general declared that the Lewis Scholarships, as well as the house and senatorial scholarships, are to be paid in cash to the holder of one of them when he has complied with the law by satisfactory attendance and work. Thus, he pointed out, they cannot be considered an offset to G. I. funds, such as they would be if the special scholarships were paid by the state to the college or university as fees, tuition or subsistence.

Veterans can receive from federal sources up to $500 per year for fees, books and other expenses in college, in addition to receiving a monthly subsistence. The attorney general stated that when a veteran has qualified for a state scholarship by rating in a competitive examination, the veteran should be paid the scholarship in cash after meeting the useful requirements, and it is not concern of the state for what educational purpose he uses the money.

Dairymen To Hold Meet In Gainesville

Nature has provided the human system with a marvelously intricate and beautifully coordinated set of organs, glands, blood stream, bone and muscle. When Nature's simple laws are heeded, these work together for health, strength and intelligence.

Undue strain, insufficient diet and rest, too strenuous exercise, or too little exercise, may impair this structure. Then, lassitude, loss of energy, often loss of health, result.

Swiss Group Lives In New York City

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newfeatures Writer

UNION CITY, N. J. There are any Alps, but there's a little piece of Switzerland right across the Hudson River, in the long shadow of New York City's skyscrapers.

Almost a century ago, a group of homesick Swiss moved from Manhattan, built their homes and set up their hand-operated embroidery machines on the first floor of their house.

But it wasn't until Pearl Harbor that the American descendants of these original colonists found that what had accounted for them a string of small, independent businesses actually added up to a business.

The United States Government bought all the embroidery machines and dumped 300 million worth of war contracts into the hands of about 225 surprised men. At that moment the "schiffli" industry was born, because the men received that they had been for 85 percent of the nation's embroidery.

During the war years, their unbelievably intricate embroidery machines turned out miles and miles of gaudy shoulder patches, chevrons and stripes for the Army and Navy.

Today the industry has reconverted to peace and to equal mileage in embroidered handkerchiefs, dress and household materials which need an expert eye to detect from handwork.

But in spite of their new-found place in the industrial sun, the embroidery men of northern Hudson County continue to combine modern methods of mass production with a typically European craft approach to their business. Most above remain family enterprises, with mother, father, the kids and the in-laws all working around the marvelous machines—which for the most part are still housing on the first floor of their dwellings.

Edelweiss is a familiar and inoffensive symbol and so is the white cross and red background of the Swiss flag. On holidays, the youngsters and oldsters dress up in native costume. Beer is the popular drink. The three languages of Switzerland are spoken with the same fluency as English.

But the inanimate hero of the company saga is the imported schiffli-type machine. The word "Swiss" ratols and means "little beast," which is what the important shuttle of the machine resembles. It was the use of this little that changed machine embroidery from a crude facsimile of hand-work into a finished, smooth pattern.

To oversimplify the whole thing, a schiffli machine set a series of connected sewing machines, lined on their sides, with the needle connected by a master machine. Thus it is possible to embroider 1,024 similar designs on a single machine carrying that number of needles. The control, in the intricate design, is vested in a "stitcher," a lithe operator who handle a power machine and works out a design stitch by stitch. It looks the way a modern executive would wield a single pen to compose simultaneously a string of carbon paper, all writing his signature on it.

On repetitious, more simple designs, the master control is in the pattern exactly like the roll in an old-fashioned player piano. The machines even have automatically operated knives which cut preliminary holes in material so that eyelet work can be skipped on. Any number of colors can be used, also any design can be worked out. The finished cloth can even produce letter cotton embroidery on pure silk, with the latter turned out by chemicals, leaving only the cotton design.

The new expanding industry has converted from shoulder patches to tablecloths; from chevrons to curtains, from rating strips to yokes and collars. And northern Hudson County is getting to look more like New York.

Aug. 15 Is Deadline For Applications To Fall Term At U of F

GAINESVILLE, July 28, (Special) Student applications for admission to the University of Florida in September are still being accepted University officials announced today, with the deadline for acceptance set for Aug. 15 by the Registrar's office.

While students are being accepted on the same basis as usual with the proviso that women must secure off-campus housing approved and listed by the University housing office.

Completion of additional housing and classroom facilities, and arrival of new equipment, and staffs of all colleges, officials said, makes it possible to guarantee all qualified Florida students enrollment at the University of Florida for the 1947-48 Fall term.

Registration for the fall session is scheduled for Sept. 15-20, withclasses slated to meet Sept. 22.

Meanwhile, the housing picture at the University of Florida for this fall than it has been since the influx of G. I. students.

Some 3,000 single men students will be housed this fall in two campus dormitories, another 1,000 can be accommodated by fraternity houses, with an Arthur Air Base dormitory and off-campus rooms available for several thousand more.

Married students with children will also have a better chance to go to school this fall with 422 family units available in the Ivy Village, Veterans Village, adjoining the campus, and expanding accommodations at the Air Base Lake Wauburg Village, apartments which this summer housed 100 families.

Although the off-campus housing survey for women has not yet been completed, officials said they hope to find residence accommodations for all Florida women who seek admission this fall.

With more than $7,000,000 worth of improvement completed or more than $5,000,000 of which is in permanent construction — under way, the University will be able to handle increasingly large enrollments during the next several years. Completion by September of temporary buildings will enable the University to enroll several times as many students as it registered during pre-war years.

Construction on such permanent buildings as the new gymnasium, an addition to the infirmary, an addition to the chemistry building and the cafeteria, as well as permanent athletic grounds and utilities, is progressing on schedule.

Included in the temporary facilities due for immediate completion are dormitories, classrooms, an auxiliary cafeteria and Florida Union building, laboratories, engineering shops, a mechanical engineering drafting building, military barracks, faculty offices and maintenance buildings.

Overall planning for the fall term calls for inclusion of a number of new courses, additional faculty appointments to make possible the breakdown of large lecture sections into conference classes, and procurement of additional classroom and laboratory equipment in proportion to the enrollment.

Courses In Wild Life Conservation Slated

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 28, (AP)—Florida's 180 wild life officers and about 400 honorary game wardens will attend broadcast courses in conservation either here or in Orlando next month.

Feds Sweep Series With Red Hats; Krider Named Skipper

G-Men Trip Feds In University City; Locals Play Azaleas Tomorrow Night

By ARTHUR BECKWITH, JR.
Herald Sports Editor

Baseball highlights of the weekend in baseball for the Sanford Celery Feds found the local nine headed by their skipper thus far this year, when President George Stine of the Sanford Baseball Association, named John Krider as a non-playing manager.

Secondbaseman Don Murray will remain with the club and hold down his berth at the keystone sack, Krider stated.

Over the weekend the Feds dropped a 10 to 2 tilt to the Gainesville G-Men as Big George Fultz set the Feds down to chalk up another Florida State League triumph.

Saturday night the DeLand Red Hats came to the local ball orchard and dropped a hard fought 2 to 1 tilt as Bill Stanton established effectively the 10 University City aggregation hits. Van Kingsmon went the route for the visitors.

Saturday night's bill was slated to present two contests, but a rain that came late in the afternoon prevented the playing of the twin attraction.

Yesterday the Feds tangled with the Red Hats in Conrad Park in DeLand and copped a barter's deal between Hal Stewart of the Hats and Carl Kettles and Johnny Tomat of the Celerymen.

Yesterday Ted Madjeski, 1946 manager of the pennant winning Orlando Senators, made his debut as acting skipper of the Red Hats. Madjeski is acting manager during Manager Steinecke's suspension that was handed him by President Sid Herlong of the Florida State League for Steinecke's actions in Palatka in a recent contest.

While in Sanford Saturday night, Steinecke stated, that he thought that it is possible to regain the services of Chuck Aleno, big third sacker who was pulling the ball over the .400 mark when bought by the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Association, earlier this year.

DeLand could find the offerings of the two Sanford hillmen for but three scattered blows, while Stewart was limiting the Sanford batteries to four hits.

Tonight the Feds invade the Azalea Bowl in Palatka and will return to the Municipal Yard for a return engagement with the Azaleas tomorrow night.

A.C.L. REPORT

NEW YORK, July 28, (AP)—Atlantic Coast Line Railroad reported for six months ended June 30 net income of $5,038,337, or $6.11 a common share, compared with a loss of $814,946 in the same 1946 period.

Farmers whose wives cooperate in running the farm earn more money than those who farm alone. Men whose wives helped them, reported one university professor, averaged $2,760 more in annual income than did those who ran their farm enterprises on their own.

U. S. Resumes Soil Conservation Project

WASHINGTON, July 28, (AP)—The Agriculture Department gave its far-flung AAA field service the word today to "resume operations" in signing up farmers to carry out its $265,000,000 soil conservation program for 1947.

Under the Agricultural Adjustment Agency program, farmers receive cash and materials, principally lime and fertilizer, for carrying out approved soil and water conservation practices. With its set-up of more than 100,000 farmer committemen, the project was inaugurated in the early days of the New Deal. It was halted two months ago when the House voted to appropriate only $165,000,000 for it this year and to end it altogether next year.

The AAA had worked out a $300,000,000 program and President Truman had recommended that amount in his budget report to Congress.

Congress finally voted $265,000,000 for this year. Although this is lower than the sum asked, the soil program is being resumed on the same basis as originally planned. Officials say most of the country AAA officers will be able to keep present staffs. Under the appropriating bill that passed by the House, they faced sharp curtailment.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Pitching, Dick Fowler, Athletics, held the Tigers to four hits in shutting them out 5-0 to give the A's a split in their double header. It was Fowler's fifth shutout of the season.

Batting, Lou Boudreau, Indians, drove in both Indians' runs with a two-out single in the sixth inning as Cleveland nipped Washington 2-1.

AP Newsfeatures

FORT WORTH, Tex. — Sports leaders have noticed one significant trend in the past few years—the fans love a contest, and are not always concerned with the excellence of performance.

Jack Zeller, former general manager of the Detroit Tigers, made the discovery back in 1944. He had just been through wartime baseball at its worst; he was fresh from a World Series which had produced the odd spectacle of record crowds watching a poor grade of baseball and liking it. He found the people cared not always for perfection in play, so long as the competing teams were of the same general strength and the players maintained a reasonably high level of effort.

Of course, during the war the fans didn't go out to the ball park expecting to see really great playing. Now it appears that this influence has continued, aided, of course, by lots of money.

Jack Doyle, veteran scout for the Chicago Cubs, verifies this fact. Commenting on Texas League attendance records, he observed:

"Present day Texas League players couldn't carry water for the men who made up the teams 15 years ago and earlier. But it is the same all over. The so-called Triple A leagues of today have teams which would have been solid Class A teams of a few years ago. The big leagues are still shorthanded. It used to take years for a minor league experience for even the exceptional players to reach the majors. Now a bright rookie gets his chance in one or two years."

Only a few baseball spectators fully appreciate technical proficiency. That's what makes a myth of the theory that crowds go for close, fast-paced action and excitement and that plus earnestness whips up the dish the ticket buyers love. Too often teams that never make a mistake or seem to motion are as dull as they are perfect.

The Texas League was expected to be weak in 1946 when it was reactivated after three years of idleness. A wave of war-released talent made it stronger than often had any right to expect.

Last winter, it was generally predicted that the league would improve in 1947. But the better players of 1946 went to faster company and relatively few good veterans came down. There was no big crop of brilliant youngsters coming up with the experience needed in class B and class A leagues.

The shortage of players dates from the depression and the war years. From 1931 to 1945 fewer youngsters played baseball seriously.

Of course, this is a temporary gap because the postwar baseball boom got into high gear last year and is continuing. There are plenty of youth playing the game today.

But the present inexperience doesn't keep the fans away. Every league is having a banner year. The majors may even surpass last year's banner totals. Attendance for the first half in Texas' leagues approached 2,000,000. In most of these leagues pitching was just something that was customary and not for effect. Batters hitting .400 were a dime a dozen. runs were scored like drops of water in a rainstorm. It was a bad night when the clubs didn't get eight to 10 in the opening nine and won three more holes to go three up. Bailey was one under par on the first four holes of the match, having a birdie three on the 30th and par for the others.

In all, he had par figures for 25 holes, was over on three more and gave birdies on the remaining three.

Public Links Champ Checks Par Figures And Says It Pays Off

MINNEAPOLIS, July 28, (AP)—Wilfred Crossley of Atlanta, Ga., the new National Public Links Golf Champion, is a careful checker of those signs on the tees that list par figures for the hole, and it appeared today that such respect pays off.

Crossley combined par golf with an occasional birdie to balance his few over-par holes and his own strategy of getting a quick lead to defeat Avery Beck, Raleigh, N. C., Saturday in a 21-hole final match.

He was forced to a two-over-par 74 on the first 18 holes of the match, going to lunch with a one-up lead. That could be ascribed to his difficulty on the seventh, when his drive landed in a divot hole. He was one under par on the third second shot landed 60 feet over the green and he needed two chip shots, and two putts to hole out.

He was two over par on the first nine but finished the second nine in par 36 for his 74. On the afternoon round he matched par 36 for the opening nine and won

Jack McCammon Signs To Pitch For Feds

Jack McCammon, righthanded hurler from Leesburg, has been signed by the Sanford Celery Feds, it was announced by John Krider, Fed skipper.

McCammon, recently discharged from the Army, has been playing for the Ft. Knox, Ky. nine and has an impressive record, according to reports.

Farm Survey

nance operations out of income and when credit is used, it is retired when crops are sold."

Reporting on the results of a third national survey of bank lending made by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, Mr. Ingley said that Florida farmers used only a fraction of the bank credit available to them during 1946.

However, the 133 insured commercial banks which serve agriculture in this state made 15,103 loans to 8,573 farmers and fruit growers. These loans aggregated $20,688,00, and $13,321,000 of all agricultural loans remained outstanding on January 1, 1947. Banks had at least twice the amount used available for additional loans to farmers if the demand existed.

During 1946, loans on farm real estate in Florida increased slightly. There were 1,880 farm mortaggges made for a total amount of $7,883,000 although the total volume outstanding on January 1, 1947, was $5,587,000. The farm mortgage debt is higher than it was a year ago, although it still remains only about one-half of the volume that existed in the comparable period following World War I.

Farm production loans classed as "other loans to farmers" were made to 6,096 farmers by Florida banks during 1946, in an aggregate amount of $14,785,000. Of this amount, only $7,112,000 was outstanding on January 1, of this year. The production loans averaged only $1,827 each. Apparently the farmers' short term debt position is favorable; and although they borrowed more money last year, their outstandings at the year end were low. Another favorable factor in the present situation is that the farmers' own substantial savings in cash, bank deposits, and United States Bonds.

"A possible source of danger lies in the trend towards the higher cost of equipment and improvements which may reach a point where these purchases can not be financed out of current income, Mr. Ingley said.

"Another factor in the Florida Agricultural picture, which bankers are watching carefully is the price of farm lands," he continued. "Based on 1912-14 averages at 100, the average farm land price of the state on March 1, 1947, reached 226, compared with 172 at the peak of the land boom in 1920. During the past year, the increase has been 11 percent."

Murder Charge Filed Against War Bride

CHESTVIEW, Fla., July 28. (AP)—Sheriff H. L. Enzor today filed formal murder charges against 21-year-old Margaret Irene Poland, English war bride, who is being held in Okaloosa county jail in connection with the fatal shooting of her soldier husband at Fort Walton last week.

Sheriff Enzor said he filed the charges on the recommendation of State Attorney Edwin Holsberry of Pensacola. Bond was fixed at $5,000 pending action of the county grand jury which meets Aug. 26.

Several Fort Walton businessmen indicated today they would start a campaign to raise funds to pay the young women's bond. With money already contributed by Fort Walton and local citizens, Philip D. Beall, Jr., state senator from Pensacola and an attorney, has been retained as defense counsel for the bride.

gained this state. The United States Department of Agriculture's leadership has evidenced increasing recognition of Florida's pioneering work along marketing lines, and has also shown a decided unofficial interest in formation of the National Association of Produce Market Managers, which recently completed organization by election of Director Wilson as president, and Mr. Larson, as acting secretary-treasurer. Approximately 1,000 markets are now represented in this National organization and its "Produce Market Manager" bulletin goes to officials of these sales centers, to colleges, State marketing officials and others interested in its work and plans.

"A profitable price for the producer, a fair price to the consumer, and a stable economy for the Nation," the goal set for the organization by Director Wilson, has been adopted as its slogan and will be widely publicized, Secretary Larson said this week-end.

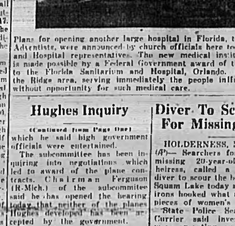
MARY E. ROBERTS DIES

Funeral services for Mary Elizabeth Roberts, retired resident of East Sanford since 1917, who died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Edna Burton, will be held Aug. 4 at New Bethel A.M.E. Church where she was a member for 80 years.

She is survived by two sons, Charlie Cross of Virginia, and Archie Cross of Orlando; one daughter, Edna Burton, of Sanford; a step daughter, Francia Giffers of New Jersey; two sisters, a brother; and 10 grandchildren.

WATT AWARDED

WILMINGTON, N. C. July 28 (Special) R. Watt, Atlantic coastline comptroller, was today awarded the company's 25 year emblem for outstanding service. He was originally employed by the railroad on July 1, 1922. The presentation was made by M. Caroll, general foreman of Sanford, Fla.



Plans for opening another large hospital in Florida, to be staffed and managed by the Seventh day Adventists, were announced by church officials here today, following a meeting with Florida Sanitarium and Hospital representatives. The new medical institution, located near Avon Park, Highlands County, is made possible by a Federal Government award of the luxurious Highland Lakes Hotel property there to the Florida Sanitarium and Hospital, Orlando. It is to be used to provide hospital facilities for the Ridge area, serving immediately the people in Highlands and Hardee counties now almost entirely without opportunity for such medical care.

Hughes Inquiry

which he said high government officials were entertained.

The subcommittee has been inquiring into negotiations which led to award of the plane contracts. Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) of the subcommittee said he has opened the hearing this week with the statement that neither of the planes Hughes developed has been accepted by the government.

Hughes, in a signed article appearing in the Los Angeles Examiner and copyrighted by the newspaper, made his first public statement regarding the investigation of government plane contracts awarded him and Kaiser.

The Hughes article was in the form of an open letter addressed to Senator Brewster.

"You know, Senator, if you had not gone too far overboard, I might have been willing to take a certain shellacking in this property sphere of yours," said Hughes in one part of his letter.

"I am sorry if certain men are embarrassed, because they have been entertained by me. But if they are embarrassed, that's because they are in politics. But politics is a strange game.

"However, I am not a politician; I am just an ordinary citizen. I entertain whomever I please. There is no law against it.

I worked pretty hard for what money I have, and I didn't make it from the government . . . and I didn't make it from airplanes.

"And, incidentally, since you think it so horrible for anyone to accept my hospitality, why don't you tell about the $1,000 worth of airplane trips which you received and accepted from me?"

A former war production board official testified as the hearing opened that Kaiser contributed in 1942 that he could develop a completely new cargo plane in two months, but that was regarded by the Army and Navy as "complete fantasia."

The witness, Merrill C. Meigs of Chicago, a Hearst newspaper executive and former chief of WPB's aircraft division, told the subcommittee that Kaiser, the man to manufacture and Liberty Ship builder, came to Washington in July, 1942, and gave to the newspapers statement that he could start production of a new cargo plane in 10 months.

"That was completely fantastic, but inasmuch as Mr. Kaiser had a very fine background we were designated to examine his plans as to how he was going to do this," Meigs said.

Ferguson was asked whether it was customary to air proposals for any new war equipment in the newspapers before they had been approved by some government agency.

"No, it" was very unusual," Meigs declared. "We tried to keep every plan we had as secret as possible. There was criticism of him (Kaiser) at the time."

Before he conferred with Kaiser, Meigs said, the Army and Navy had examined his plans and decided it completely impossible of accomplishment and impractical."

He said he explained to Kaiser that statistics which the WPB compiled proved that it normally required 52 months, or more than four years, to complete a new plane about 48 months to develop a new aircraft engine.

Meigs said he himself came to Washington before Pearl Harbor as a 1-A year man at the urging of William S. Knudsen, who wanted "someone who knew something about the aircraft industry" but was not actually in it so he would be unbiased.

As the hearing opened Ferguson said it is his intention "to thoroughly examine" the original Kaiser-Hughes plane contracts which involved about $40,000,000 in government funds. Once called for the world's largest cargo flying boat now nearing tests, he said the subcommittee expects to dig for two weeks of hearings.

The session opened in a crowded Senate committee room which normally seats several hundred persons.

Forrestal Hails

he said, "I would hope it wouldn't be long."

When pressed for his interpretation of "long", he smiled and said, "when you are looking forward to a year look long. Look backward seven years (Forrestal's service with the Navy Department has run seven years) it seems short."

Diver To Scour Lake For Missing Heiress

HOLDERNESS, N. H., July 28. (AP)—Searchers for Anne Straw, missing 20-year-old Manchester heiress, called a former Navy diver to scour the bottoms of Little Squam Lake today after grappling irons hooked what appeared to be pieces of women's clothing.

State Police Sergeant Stuart Currier said investigators still were operating on a theory the attractive Smith College senior may have drowned.

They planned to contact one of her boy friends who is working on a forestry survey in Wyoming, however, in an attempt to find out whether he knew of her intentions when she left the luxurious Straw summer home last Monday night.

State police said they sighted what appeared to be a clothed object on the bottom of the lake about 300 yards off shore from where the Straw girls canoe was found.

Using grappling irons, they picked up what looked like a thread from a dark piece of cloth. The only clothing of the girl known to be missing is a pair of pink pajamas.

Kangaroo Court Tries 2 Kidnaped Britons

TEL AVIV, Palestine, July 28. (AP)—Jewish underground sources said today an Irgun Zvai Leumi kangaroo court had begun a "military trial" of two British army sergeants kidnaped July 12 as hostages for three condemned Irgun members.

These sources said the trial was being conducted on the lines of the British military court which sentenced the three Irgunists to be hanged for their part in the May 4 Acre Prison raid. They added it was being held in an underground hiding place where Irgun was holding the two sergeants, Clifford Martin and Mervyn Paice.

The charges were said to include: "Being a member of an armed force illegally occupying Palestine; illegally carrying weapons in the uniform of the enemy; being members of a force conspiring to suppress the rightful citizens of Palestine."

The source said that "even if the two men are found guilty, it is unlikely that they will be executed until the final disposition of the case of our three soldiers, Meir Nakar, Jacob Weiss, and Avshalom Habib, now being held in Acre fortress by the British."

The British army began today a close search of the area between Tel Aviv and Natanya, which was the scene of the midnight kidnaping of the two sergeants.

Pact Failure

ditions of shipment. Contracts for building timber and pilings were signed and that for several time no and practically ready for signature.

"Agreement was also reached on the quantities of equipment to be bought by the Soviet importing organization from British firms. He said the Russians specifically "asked for a reduction in the rate of interest to a half of 1 percent, a waiving of the obligation to pay 40 percent cash payment in respect to all contracts not yet signed and for an adjustment in the terms of the repayment of the credit so as to spread the payments over 12 annual installments instead of five."

While we were prepared to meet the whole of their requests for reducing the rate of interest to a half of 1 percent, to waive the 40 percent cash payment in respect to all contracts not yet signed and to go some way, at heavy cost, toward meeting the the Soviet request for lengthening the period of repayment of all advances, we could not go the whole way the Soviet government demanded as a condition of an agreement, he said.

"In view of the failure to agree, the positions is that the trade agreement, which was practically complete in draft, was not signed and, for our part, the financial conveyances we were prepared to offer were withdrawn, leaving the terms of the 1941 agreement in full force."

Discussions On Rubr To Begin This Week

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP)—The State Department said today British-American discussions on ways to increase Ruhr coal production probably will begin late this week.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, told a news conference he understands the agenda for the talks will be limited to questions directly related to the problem of how to boost the output of the German coal mines.

An Anglo-American disagreement on this point had delayed the beginning of the conversations. The British had suggested including discussion of finance, level of industry and other topics but the State Department had declined to talk about these.

White said he knew nothing about a report that Britian Foreign Minister Bevin would visit Washington in September.

The British-American discussions aimed at boosting Ruhr coal production comprise the first U. S. effort to contribute, with Britain's help, to European recovery under the Marshall Plan.

South Florida Ports Rates Hit At Hearing

MIAMI, Fla., July 28. (AP)—Testimony to "show the unreasonable nature of rates applying to South Florida ports" was presented before an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing today by L. F. Purvis, rate expert for the Greater Miami Traffic Association.

In completing his technical testimony in support of South Florida's claim for parity rates with Gulf and Atlantic ports as applied to export-import traffic, Purvis submitted exhibits showing rail charges of 84 cents per hundred pounds from Roanoke Rapids, N. C., to Miami, a distance of 904 miles, and a charge of 62 cents for similar shipments from Roanoke Rapids to New Orleans, La., a distance of 988 miles.

Importance Of Coal

the nation when a united effort is needed.

Be that as may, British conservatives are saying that unless production is increased the people will suffer hardships such will impel them to turn out the Socialist government and elect new leaders. Bevin noted in his speech that such talk was going the rounds.

The German incident related to the Ruhr hard-coal production upon which the economic recovery of the continent depends so heavily. The output is so far below requirements that the situation is critical. In an effort to remedy this, the British and American occupation authorities have devised a plan which is calculated to give the miners an incentive for digging more coal.

This is a bonus in food — a matter of moment among people who have been going on short rations. Folk who are hungry think with their bellies.

The authorities have set a target for production in each mine, and if the workers reach the goal in the eleven weeks, beginning today, each will receive a "ten-in-one" ration package from U. S. Army stocks — the equivalent of 40,000 calories. In addition, the men in the mine showing the highest production will get an additional 40,000 calories.

Germany and Britain, in the order named, are by far the most important coal producing countries of Europe. Both England and the continent of course are in dire need of an increase in many kinds of industrial production, but virtually all manufacturing depends on the power produced by coal which must be been from the black caverns of the earth by human hands.

Because the human element enters in so heavily one would think that perhaps the incentive bonus being offered in Germany would have its attractions. After all men go down into the dark and often dangerous mines for a reward. Maybe Mr. Bevin will get a further idea from the prisoners in the Ruhr.

General Situation In Indonesia Said Favorable By Dutch

Hundreds Of Fires Reported In Java As Result Of Scorched Earth Policy

BATAVIA, Java, July 29.(AP)—The Indonesian Republican radio said a transport plane bearing Red Cross medical supplies was shot down tonight by two Dutch fighter planes and that nine persons, including at least three British citizens were killed.

The broadcast said Dutch fighters opened fire as the transport was circling Tjiljatji airfield for a landing, and that the transport crashed in flames.

BATAVIA, July 29 (AP)—Dutch military authorities, busily extending their hold on the rich resources of Java and Sumatra, today reported scattered instances of Republican sabotage in oil field and rubber areas but said that the general situation was "developing favorably."

The Republican air force, reported at their outbreak of hostilities to consist of about 40 Japanese planes, was declared in a broadcast Indonesian communique to have bombed Dutch positions in Semarang and Salatiga and returned unharmed.

Semi-official Dutch dispatches said seven persons were killed and seven wounded by the bombing and strafing of Semarang. Hundreds of fires, set as part of the Indonesian scorched earth policy, crackled across the rice lands and rubber plantations of southwest Java.

The Netherlands army meanwhile said fifa casualties had reached 50 killed, 50 wounded and one missing, a total of 145, since hostilities began July 20. (General Spoorman, Dutch commander, Saturday estimated Dutch losses at 9,000. His army reported 763 soldiers in Dutch service surrendered yesterday.)

The Dutch military, issuing two communiques, said that in the conference at Linggadjati on Sept. 15, 1946, the Dutch and Sjarifuddin, a bank, a power station and a [illegible] were agreed to be left out of the conference.

In the Arab revolt of 1936-39, the military and police blasted houses from which gunfire or other attacks came.

Last week the military commander of the Haifa district ordered such houses, near the scene of attacks, forfeited. Thirty-three families put out of the houses were allowed temporarily in schools. They have asked the Palestine Supreme Court to return their homes.

Among Palestine operations of recent years, today's hanging was exceeded only by that of last June 16, in which Dov Beila Dinur or and three other Jews were put to death in the same prison.

Less than three hours before the executions, an empty pillbox near the prison was blasted, apparently. Officials said, by a mine. No casualties were reported.

Before the three Jews went to the gallows, a heavy guard was set up around Zion and soldiers and police blocked off Tel Aviv, forcing nine south of Acre.

The executed men were taken to Safad north of the Sea of Tiberias (Galilee), where relatives buried them near the four Jews hanged in April.

"Voice" Broadcasts Cut By 40 Percent

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) A 20 percent cut in the State Department's "Voice of America" overseas broadcasts was announced by Assistant Secretary William Benton today along with other major changes to make the enterprise fit the smaller budget fixed by Congress.

Broadcasts will be reduced from 55 to 33 hours a day, and Danish and Swedish will be dropped from the list of 26 languages in which the programs are now beamed abroad.

Effective at 11:00 A.M. today a new system of "block programming" goes into effect to concentrate listeners and giving security to old and young by means of the Townsend old age plan, was the subject of a quotation from Senator Claude Pepper's talk for Townsendites at the recent Washington, D. C. convention. Mrs. Gertrude Wayne, state organizer for the clubs at a 25th District meeting of Democrats and clubs held at the Tourist Center from 10:30 A. M. until 2:00 P. M. Sunday. A $998 lunch was enjoyed.

Mrs. Wayne reported that 200 delegates from Florida attended are all five congressmen from the the convention and that not only State pledged to support the movement, but that 46 members of the whole Congress is on the Townsend side. Congressman Senator Brewster of Maine was reported to have talked on the plan to the Ways and Means Committee.

Hunt For English Hostages Widens As 3 Jews Hang

Wild Rumors Spread As To Safety Of 2 Kidnapped Men

TEL AVIV, Palestine, July 29 (AP)—Use all Jewish hospitals was a city of apprehension today, agitated by rumor after wild rumor concerning the fate of two British sergeants held as hostages by Irgun Zvai Leumi, the Jewish underground organization.

One rumor was that the two sergeants, Mervyn Paice and Clifford Martin, held by Irgun as hostages for the three Jews who were hanged in Jerusalem this morning, already had been found dead in Gaza.

Another, spreading just as swiftly, has the sergeants found safe in Jerusalem.

A third said the two had been found in a cave on the North Coast. Each succeeding rumor was accepted by the public, but the police believed nothing.

There are no British on Tel Aviv's streets today save those who are armored cars. Even the Americans were staying in their hotels, rather than risk an underground's ambush.

The hunt for the hostages continued throughout Palestine today, but, many gentlemen of the press expressed fear they would not be found alive.

Meanwhile, a reliable source said the Palestine government is widening its war on violence, planned to submit a law to permit destruction of houses connected with suspected underground attacks.

Last week the military commander of the Haifa district ordered such houses, within a radius of five house, near the scenes of attacks forfeited. Thirty-three

Local Experiment Station Is Hit By 42 Percent Cut

Ruprecht Says Slash Will Affect Services To Farmers

A 42 percent cut in the appropriation for the Central Florida Experiment Station here will prevent any increase in services to the farmers of this area, Dr. R. W. Ruprecht, vice director in charge, reported today. In a letter to the editor of The Herald, Dr. Ruprecht explained the reduction and current expenses as follows:

"Shortly after the close of the legislative session our representatives stated that they had succeeded in getting a considerable increase appropriation for the Central Florida Experiment Station, and this report is correct as far as it goes. The Governor and the Budget Commission, however, do not believe that the state income would be sufficient to pay the appropriations as passed by the Legislature and have reduced the appropriations to meet it.

"In our case the regular appropriation was cut 42%, while the budget recommendation of $5,000 for equipping the addition to the laboratory was completely eliminated, at least for the present. Fortunately for us, we will get our

Occupation Tax Increase Planned By City Board

Increased Rates Requested By Cabs; Chicken Law Pends

An ordinance revising occupational tax rates and intended to go into effect on Oct. 1, was given its first reading by the City Commission at its meeting last evening, it was announced this morning by H. N. Sayer, city manager.

Small general tax increases on all types of businesses and occupations are planned and have been equalized within groups. All professions such as doctors and dentists rates have been set at $25 whereas under the old law professions rates may have varied from $15 to $20. Already high fees charged by professional men in different shows have not been changed, Mr. Sayer pointed out.

An ordinance limiting the distance of chicken coops at a minimum of 50 feet from dwellings or houses and 25 feet from owners homes was submitted. Action was deferred until later.

Mr. Sayer said that R. Wilson was instructed to prepare an ordinance amending the City tax law requiring taxi owners to carry liability insurance, due to withdrawing from business of an insurance company with which the majority of taxi owners did their business.

The tentative City budget for 1948-49 was submitted for consideration, Mr. Sayer reported.

4 More Die As Result Of Explosion On Ship In French Seaport

BREST, France, July 29.(AP)—Officials reported 18 dead and at least 422 injured in this port today from the explosion and fire that wrecked the ammunition ship Grandcamp, a Liberty type Norwegian freighter bound for Texas City.

Four of the injured died this morning, the French Ministry of Marine said. Badly injured and hospitalized at nearby Landerneau were 40 others, five of them doctors termed critical. In addition, Ploneleut Hospital reported it had treated 376 for cuts and bruises inflicted by flying debris.

Ammonium nitrate is a synthetic product relatively recently developed. It made by the introduction of ammonium gas into nitric acid, and now is used principally as a fertilizer.

Most of the dead were described as dock workers or seamen. The fatalities, however, included one unidentified woman about 30 years old.

The crew of the Ocean Liberty had been laid off because the vessel's cargo exploded, but her captain was reported fatally injured when struck by a flying piece of metal while standing on the bridge.

Fires started by the blast still were burning today. Much of Brest, had been detroyed by aerial bombardments during the war and many of the buildings in the business district consisted of pre-fabricated one-story wooden structures that went up like matchboxes.

Boys Reluctantly Leave Camp Winona After Two Weeks Of Joyous Activity

By Bobby Parks
Camp Scribe

A group of 65 happy boy campers from Seminole County finished busy two weeks' period at Camp Winona Saturday noon, and said reluctant goodbyes to this beautiful spot in Volusia County and left for their respective homes.

Thursday and Friday were the busiest days in camp with the boys finishing the many projects they started. The quietness of camp was repaired by broken of the tattoo of the bullets at the rifle range as the campers finished the necessary number of targets to qualify for such ranks as pre-marksman, marksman, marksman first class and sharpshooter.

Directed by John Fox many of the campers were busy at the archery range. Horseshoe, table tennis, handball and tester ball tournaments were held among the campers.

At the council ring awards were made to the boys who qualified for various swimming ranks under the direction of "Doc" Hassler. Those who qualified for advanced swimmer were Walter Graham, Walter Smith, Fred and Robert Fory, Wm Spencer, Mike Wheldon, Buddy Dunn, Sammy Jackson, George Harden, Bobby Park. Young Speer qualified for swimmer and Billy Park and

France Hit By Red Bloc At UN Meet

Objection Raised To Mentioning Marshall Aid Plan; Balkan Talks End

LAKE SUCCESS, July 29 (AP)—Soviet Russia vetoed today a United States resolution setting up a Balkans commission.

The vote on a long resolution proposed by the United States was 7 to 2, with Russia and Poland voting "no."

This was Russia's eleventh veto in United Nations history.

LAKE SUCCESS, July 29 (AP)—The Russian bloc today charged France for bringing the Marshall plan into a United Nations debate and delivered a vigorous attack against the European Commission for Europe for allegedly interfering in the economic affairs of Germany.

The Soviet attack was launched by Soviet Delegate Alexander P. Manuilsky and White Russian Representative L. I. Kaminsky shortly after France made a new bid before the Economic and Social Council for Russian cooperation in the Marshall plan.

Moscow made no direct reference to France's bid, but declared Russia's position already had been made clear by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the three-power conference in Paris. At that time, Molotov refused to go along with Britain and France on the Marshall plan.

Kaminsky declared "The Economic and Social Council has no right to discuss the Marshall plan" and said the council should not become a forum for diffusion of propaganda on the Marshall plan. He said the American proposal was "clearly linked with the Truman doctrine, which also has no place on the agenda."

Meanwhile, the United Nations Security Council agreed to begin voting late today on a United States proposal to set up a watchdog committee over the Balkans.

The Council concluded discussion on the Balkan problem shortly before lunch, thus paving the way toward a vote on a month-old peace flight between the United States and Russia.

With Russia maintaining a 24-hour silence, a majority of the council members expressed approval of a U. S. proposal that the proposed commission be composed of eleven members.

Whether the Soviet Union would participate with other parts of the American resolution was still a matter of conjecture throughout the morning session. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko worked busily on a speech.

Gromyko let the Yugoslav, Polish and Albanian representatives carry the brunt of the discussion today. They again set up a cry that the commission would not be constitutional and that under the charter they would not be bound to cooperate with it if established. This was the line which they have consistently emphasized since last Thursday.

LIONS CONVENTION

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (AP)—The International Lions convention turned its attention from parading and revelry today to studying means of promoting world peace.

The organization, which has announced a world expansion program and has sent consultants to the major international conferences since before the end of the war, devoted one forum to a discussion of the United Nations.

Kaiser Claims F.D.R. Okayed Ship Program Over Navy Rejection

Open Secret Lincoln Papers

IN THE DOCUMENT ROOM of the Library of Congress in Washington, Luther Evans, congressional librarian, is shown after opening a safe containing 20,000 secret papers that belonged to Abraham Lincoln. Shipbuilder Denies Knowledge Of Influence Used In Airplane Contract

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser testified today that he sent a friend into the office of late President Roosevelt and got a warning against accepting Navy aircraft carriers after top Navy officials previously had rejected his offer.

The once wartime industrialist told the Senate War Investigating Committee of this incident after saying he could not recall when asked whether he went to the White House in connection with contracts he sought to build cargo carrying airplanes.

The committee is seeking facts regarding some $40,000,000 worth of airplane contracts awarded to Kaiser and Howard Hughes, aircraft designer and film producer.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) questioned Kaiser in the case of the "Sales Ratings" small aircraft carriers. Kaiser told the committee

Britain Considers Emergency Plans To Combat Crisis

Armed Forces May Be Reduced, Money Reserves Tapped

By ED CREAGH

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Austerity measures and today Great Britain might reduce her armed forces and dip into her $40,000,000,000 ($2,560,000,000) gold and dollar reserves in emergency measures to meet the prospective winter economic crisis.

Left Wing Labor Party members in the House of Commons urged that the government level down the army, navy and air force, which had 1,272,000 men at the start of the month.

Field Marshall Viscount Montgomery, was to cut short his Far Eastern tour and fly home within a few days to advise the government isn't responsible and which is hasn't been able to overcome a yet, the doesn't venture to predict what further he will say, but it will have to be plenty to satisfy all quarters of his party, because the question of leadership is heavily involved.

The crux of the situation actually is the lagging industrial

Group To Enforce Rules On Fishing In St. Johns River

PALATKA, Fla., July 29. (AP)—A group formed by two court decisions to enforce state game and Water Fish Commission served notice yesterday it will resume enforcement of the game and fish regulations and sale of fish from Lake Dexter and the St. Johns River.

Commission officials said they will quickly resume to be enforced the game and fish regulations of the state game law, when Attlee is scheduled to appear before a committee of the Parliament on charges relating to that critical gathering.

Bevin, who is Attlee's foreign secretary, is reported to be shaken with Britain's economic situation and the threat of a Communist putsch will be the main topic of discussion.

That means wholesalers, retailers and commercial fishermen may be illegally detained. The seeming and sale of fresh water game fish in Florida must be stopped.

Two circuit judges have ruled that the game law is illegal and that we have the right to prevent the sale of game fish, which we proceed to do. Thinks a higher court today will rule.

Sale of nets on Lake Okeechobee and the St. Johns has been outlawed by rulings of the Game Commission since last October, but
