

Have you ever seen Orlando?
Ever walked her well-paved streets?
Have you tasted of the water?
Have you seen the crowds she greets?
Always coming; always welcome,
Summer, winter, autumn, spring.
Here you find both health and comfort

And the joys they're sure to bring.

Have you ever seen Orlando?
'Tis the place for young and old;
Plenteous ozone without asking,
And no storms or winter's cold.
Fruits and flowers and balmy breezes,

Winter gardens everywhere,
Lovely homes and groves and pine trees,

Every day the best of fare.

Have you ever seen Orlando?
Or Chief Osceola's trail?
Land first lived on by the white man;
Reached by water or by rail.
Have you ever seen Orlando?
This the land that first was trod
In America, the glorious.
Lovely clime! Best gift of God.
