The seventh grade games to date have resulted thus: 7-3 defeat 7-2 and are now advanced to semi-finals; 7-1 defeated 7-4 and are also advanced.

The eighth grade soccer tournament has not been as interesting as the seventh and ninth grades, due to the fact that so many are not eligible to play. The seventh grades have made a much better start than the eighth grades, according to Coach Wright. The contest between 8-1 and 8-2 showed that the teams were very evenly matched. Several games were tied before 8-3 finally defeated 8-1 by a close score.

The ninth grade has been the most interesting of all. 9-1 defeated 9-2 in a close game. 9-3-a defeated 9-3-b by forfeit. The same is true of 9-6-a who defeated 9-6-b.

Humor

Mr. Hammond: I am in love with a poor girl and I know a rich one I could marry, but I love the poor girl best. Which one would you marry?

Mr. Smith: I would marry the poor girl.

Mr. Hammond. All right, I'll take your advice.

Mr. Smith. Say, could you tell me where the rich girl lives?

AN INDIAN LEGEND

(Written in the meter of Hiawatha by Lawson Cox, section 7-5.)

Once three fair Indian maidens,
Daughters of Chief Watosa,
Wandered from their tribal village,
Wandered far into the forest.

So they wandered, gathering flowers,
Laughing gaily as they wandered,
Miles away from their dominion,
All unheeding of the distance.

Suddenly from behind a boulder
Rushed three bears, huge, ferocious,
While with screams loud and piercing
Fled the maidens with their flowers.

Then the maidens swiftly fleeing
Saw a rock before them towering,
Quickly climbed they to its summit;
But the bears climbed, never pausing.

In despair the maidens halted,
Watched the bears come ever closer,
Fell upon their knees in terror,
And the spirits heard them pleading.

When the bears neared the summit,
Then the spirits showed their power—
Made the rocks swell, grow higher
Till they towered o'er the tree tops.

Then the three bears in their climbing
Weaker grew, still ever weaker,
Till exhausted by their struggle
Fell they on the rocks beneath them.

So the maids with great rejoicing
Made long ropes from their flowers.
Holding to them, reached earth safely,
Hastened to their tribal village.

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR OFFICE

The carpenters from the maintenance shop have been at work building a new book shelf and storage cabinet on the west wall of the office. The book shelf will be used to hold all the books used in the office and also the new ones that publishers send us from time to time. In the cabinet will be placed the material used in the office, such as enrollment cards, assignment cards and other record. This promises to be a good addition to our office equipment and a great labor saver.

SECTION 7-7 MAKES
PRESENTATION

Last week during our assembly period, Edna Jacobian, in behalf of section 7-7 presented to Mr. Thompson two potted palms to grace the new cabinet that has recently been built in the office on the west wall. Last year nearly every section in school made a useful presentation to the school. We hope that 7-7 has set a precedent this year which the other classes will see fit to follow.

ATTENTION, EVERYBODY

The annual meeting of the Florida Educational Association will be held in Orlando on the Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving. While the meetings will not be held in Cherokee, the building will be open for inspection, since this is one of the most modern and up-to-date junior high schools in the state of Florida. We wish to make a plea to the students and teachers to leave their rooms as clean and attractive as possible on leaving next Wednesday, so that we will make a favorable impression on the visiting teachers from all parts of the state.

Jack Kline; "Say, didn't Hoover get a lot of electrical volts, though?"

A DIALOGUE

"Goodness, I, have to take all of my books home this afternoon."

"So do I, that horrid Bobby Jones who sits right behind me insisted on tapping lightly on his desk all during study period, and it worried me so that I could not get my mind on my work."

"I did succeed in getting my math during study period today but as I was going through the corridors someone bumped against me so hard, that I dropped my paper. Before I could pick it up, it had been trampled on by a dozen people."

"Such people who always interfere with the right of others are not generally liked, are they?"

No, nobody admires them or even thinks them smart. they only get themselves in bad with the entire school. were these students talking about you?

JACK KLINE HAS A BIRTHDAY PARTY

Jack Kline has had a birthday—and a party! And such a party as you have never seen! You see, it was given to him by Student Council, and that organization has a way of doing things to perfection. So, of course, Jack Kline's birthday could not be passed by lightly. He was successfully transported to Olivia Park under the camouflage of a weiner roast. Imagine Jack's surprise when he found out 'twas all for him. Imagine his eyes growing round with wonder when a big brown frosted birthday cake was brought forth. But the wonder grew when he tried to cut the cake, for somehow it proved too much of a struggle for Jack's delicate physique. After tugging determinedly for a while, Jack grew suspicious. He scraped off the luscious looking icing and found—a wooden cake! Then, 'tis said, that Howard Davis made a grab for some of the icing, and discovered it was soap suds flavored with chocolate. After a good laugh at the joke, the Council brought forth a real birthday cake, and Jack's birthday was celebrated in an honest-to-goodness way.

MEMORIAL PRESENTS PLAY

The music department of Memorial presented a one-act musical comedy, "The Family Physician," in our auditorium on November 17. The play was well directed and well acted, and Cherokee thoroughly enjoyed the performance. The program was sponsored by section 7-7.
