Variety Club has Interesting Programs

The Variety Club is having some delightful and educational meetings. During the past weeks, the members have shown their ability in drawing cartoons, solving puzzles, giving oral book reports, discussing Lindbergh and aviation, and discussion of the making of movies. Next week the club will have a social lesson in courtesy. The president of this club is Oscar Bryan; secretary, Rethel Christian; sponsor, Miss Ford.

Last Friday, the group went to Oak Island for a picnic.

Several reported it as the best picnic of the year. Hot dogs, marshmallows, bacon, and cheese were roasted.

Herbert Hoover: How was that missionary I sent to preach to you?

Cannibal King: He tasted just fine.

John Tubbs: Are you staying in for misbehavior?

Robert Bogg: No, I am staying in for Miss Graham.

Son: Mother, was your name pullman before you married?

His mother: No, son, why do you ask that?

Son: Oh! just because I see pullman on most of your towels.

Charles Brown and Clinton Minter had the good fortune of visiting the country Thanksgiving. While roaming around Clinton found an old pile of condensed milk cans. "Oh, Charles he called, 'come here quick, I've found a cow's nest."

The Know Orlando Club

The "Know Orlando Club" has been very active at club meetings. The club was organized for the purpose of making a detailed and scientific study of our city.

The club has already investigated much of the past history of Orlando. The members have also visited several of the leading industries in the city.

Officers of this club are: sponsor, Miss Graham; president, Jimmy King; vice-president, Merle McElroy; secretary, Eva Belle DuBose.

Elementary Students Pay Visit

On November 22, the third grade from Mark Street School, under the supervision of Miss Fairey, visited us and was shown what went on at Cherokee.

We wish to extend to any of the elementary schools the invitation to visit us whenever they can.

Rollins Student is Entertainer

Cherokee has been having some unusually good auditorium programs during the past month. One of the recent ones which delighted the entire student body was the group of readings given by Joe Browning Jones of Rollins College, on November 28. Mr. Jones' first selection was a sermonized rendition of "Old Mother Hubbard." Later, he successfully impersonated the bowery type of the lower East Side and an irate Italian. "A Bit of Feminine Philosophy" quite cleverly emphasized one of the principal excesses (of nose powdering!) indulged in by the modern maid. Mr. Jones and his skilled presentations were enthusiastically welcomed by the student body, who showed their appreciation by repeated encores.

Senior High Presents Comedy Romance

The students of Cherokee were enthusiastic in their reception of the comedy romance, "Not Quite Such A Goose", presented by the Seminole players of Senior High School in our auditorium on November twenty-first. Miss Murphy, formerly expression teacher at Memorial, directed the play. The production was rich in amusing situations.

The principal role was taken by one of Cherokee's students of last year, W. A. McCree, who was warmly welcomed back by his former associates.

7-1 Again Wins Picture

Section 7-1 has for the third consecutive month received the P. T. A. attendance picture, given for having the largest percentage of parents present at the monthly meeting of the association. We are wondering if 7-1 will be the undisputed claimant of this picture during the entire year?

The picture, "The Shepherd Boy", which was awarded by the P. T. A. last year has been permanently hung in the library. This year the association is offering as a prize in the attendance contest a new picture, "Sir Galahad." If any section wishes to get inspiration to do a little campaigning among parents, just visit the music room and inspect this new painting.

Its beauty would enhance the appearance of any classroom.

Elementary Students Visit Cherokee

Two weeks ago the first grade from West Central School, under the supervision of Mrs. Varner their teacher, visited Cherokee and according to their own statement had a pleasant time. Mr. Hammond entertained these boys and girls in the shop by cutting out on the band saw the parts of a wheelbarrow. They took the parts with them to their own school and assembled them.

Mrs. Meyer showed these pupils the many interesting things in the library and told them stories that they seemed to enjoy.

Self Government

We have recently witnessed the election of a president who is to preside over our government for the ensuing four years. We watched the election with interest and enthusiasm, for all of us had our political preferences, even though we were not privileged to vote. How many of us stopped to think at this time of the contribution we can make?

The fervor of election days has reached a somewhat calm stage. And yet the fervor of our citizenry must of necessity carry on. Into what channels shall we direct our interests? We, as students of Cherokee, are only a small percentage of the millions which Uncle Sam claims as his own. Yet we, individually and collectively, have our duty toward making our government an ideal one.

How can we serve, do you ask? The most conspicuous and constructive way in which we can help our national government is to first of all govern ourselves. We have in Cherokee a well organized system of school government, but the mechanical organization as such will fail to function unless every student in school pledges his loyal support. All of us cannot be on committees, all of cannot sit on the Wednesday, Dec. 12: Sec. 9-2 will present auditorium program.

Wednesday, Dec. 19: Christmas program, sponsored by Miss Ludwick.

News from Student Council

The students are glad to welcome Sammie Bethea back on the job again.

Mr. Thompson was chairman of the committee of messengers and ushers for the Florida Education Association. He appointed some sergeants and other boys of the school to help him at the auditorium. The boys report that they felt honored to be messengers and ushers for such a large association as the F. E. A.

The sergeants have new pins. And such impressive looking badges as they are! The sergeants are fashing them around, it will be noticed, in a most conspicuous way. There is no wonder, however, that they should be proud of owning them, for the new pins are considerably larger than the old ones. They are also different in the respect that they say Cherokee S. C. Sergeant, instead of the old O. J. H. S.

austere bench of Student Council, and yet there is not one of us but who can so direct and control his actions and thinking as to make the functioning of our court of penalties comparatively negligible. Then let "self government" ever be our motto, so that we may all say with the poet

"I am the master of my fate,
I am the captain of my soul."

CLUB NEWS

Section 7-6 recently held a meeting at which several students made contributions. Barney Dunlap displayed a sword used in the civil war and told the story connected with it. Ralph Ponder gave an account of some of his experiences with rattle snakes. O. J. Sweat brought in some curios from China for the class to examine.

Some very interesting programs have been held during the home room and club periods this fall. A few of the outstanding ones are related here.

7-1 presented a play, "The Country Wedding," in home-room on Nov. 20. Students taking part in this were, Lora Murray, Burnice Maddox, Catherine Parker, Myer Sigal.

Section 8-1 held a program of games on Nov. 20. Officers of this section are: president, Mary Parrish; secretary, Bob Bunch; chairman of social committee, Bob Chapman.

Seventh Grade Party

Seventh graders! Don't forget that your party is tonight - time, 7:30; place, gym. This party will represent the combined efforts of all the seventh grade home rooms and their teachers, so it will be seven times as good as your sectional parties and picnics, because there are seven times as many people working on it. Let's all come out one hundred per cent and have a mammoth crowd.

Those who have been working out the details of the party were selected from Student Council. The chairmen of the various committees are: Helen McCready and Helen Pratt; re-

8-3 Has Steak Roast

A delightful social affair which ushered in the Thanksgiving season was the steak roast given by section 8-3 on Wednesday afternoon, November 28, at Warren Park. Baseball and bat ball were enjoyed until a late hour. Then a campfire was built for the purpose of roasting steak, marshmallows, and popping popcorn. Pickles, apples, and tangerines were also greatly in evidence. The teachers who shared this pleasure with the section were Mr. Hammond, the home-room teacher, Miss Henderson and Miss Ford. Special guests of the occasion were Mr. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. Tyler, Mrs. Trimble, Mr. Smith and Miss Meadows, of Memorial.
