Lake Mary launches DARE

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary Police Department is now involved in the DARE, (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program. Police Sgt. Linda Belfiore is handling the project.

"We got it underway about a week ago," she said. "We have approximately 120 fifth grade children divided into five classes at Lake Mary Elementary School."

The DARE program is a 17 week curriculum, with each class receiving one lesson per week.

"These lessons were written by educators," Belfiore said, "but they are taught by uniformed law enforcement officers."

"Most people think this is just a class on drug abuse," she explained, "but it goes beyond that. We also teach self esteem, the consequences which may result from abuse, resisting pressure to use drugs, ways to say 'no' and many other matters."

Belfiore attended the DARE training course in June. While some cities have a specific vehicle assigned to the DARE program, Belfiore will be using her patrol vehicle, combining her involvement with regular assignments on the police force.

As such, the vehicle will be identified with a DARE insignia.

Belfiore will be teaching the classes on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, as well as making herself available to students for one-on-one conversations.

Civic center, un-cool

SANFORD — Major problems have been uncovered with the air conditioner serving the Sanford Civic Center. The cost of replacement is estimated at $20,830.

According to Public Works Director Jerry Herman, "The unit is very old, circa late 1950s, and the heat exchanger has a broken section in the end cap that allows the cooling water to bypass without circulating."

He added, "The tubes are also clogged and corroded which also limits the cooling capacity."

Herman said parts are not available for repairs, only replacements.

He has requested approval to have the work declared an emergency and have the unit replaced with a more efficient air/gas system.

He projected financing for the project should come from the General Fund Contingency account.

The matter is scheduled for consideration during Monday's Sanford City Commission meeting.

If approved, Herman predicted the work could be concluded by as early Thursday, Sept. 30.

The assistance is for Seminole County residents only. Two ID's will be required.

Final word on taxes

Sanford to OK budget, tax rate

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The amount of property taxes homeowners pay the city next year should be adopted tonight when Sanford commissioners finalize millage rate and city budget for fiscal 1993/94. Both matters are scheduled for second and final reading.

The millage rate passed through its first reading at a proposed 6.8759, the highest in the county, on Sept. 13. If approved at that level tonight, it would establish the amount of income to be received by the city from property within the city limits.

The owner of a home valued at $50,000, with a $25,000 homestead exemption, would be paying $171.90 in city taxes next year. The owner of a home valued at $90,000, with the same exemption, would pay $446.93. The amounts which would actually be levied would be

Longwood: Night of the public hearing

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

LONGWOOD — Monday night could be dubbed "night of the public hearing" for Longwood City Commission members with eight hearings scheduled during the meeting.

The commissioners will conduct final hearings on topics ranging from the city property tax rate and city budget for 1993/94 to recycling and the city's comprehensive plan.

An item not on the formal agenda but one which will be discussed is the status of a fire at AAA Tree Service. Three commissioners Thursday OK'd the purchase of foam to try to put out the smoldering mulch and wood piles at the site on County Road 427 near Milwee Middle School. Fire Chief Charles Chapman asked for $20,000 for the Parents: Sanford schools lose out

By VICKI DeBORMIER

SANFORD — Though they are using statistics that are a couple of years old, parents say that the situation in Sanford schools hasn't changed much.

Low enrollment and a high percentage of students not encouraged to take gifted or advanced placement courses has plunged Seminole High School to a position below the other five high schools in the district, they say.

"Nothing has changed," said a representative for a group of parents who has filed a complaint with the Public path to possible historic site?

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Tuesday, Seminole County commissioners may decide whether to allow a public path to a possible historical site on the south shores of Lake Jesup fade into private ownership.

Commissioners will decide whether to vacate a path through a citrus grove to George Means, who owns the property on either side between Black Hammock Road and the lakeshore. The dirt path passes north from Black Hammock Road through Means' grove to a wooded area bordering Lake Jesup. County Current Planning Manager Herb Hardin said citrus trees have been planted in the right of way.

Means' wife Minnie Means has owned the property since 1943 and is related to the King family that developed much of the Oviedo area. Her father bought the land in 1934, according to

Lake Mary: Nothing to vote about

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — On election day, November 2, the citizens of Lake Mary won't have to be urged to turn out at the polls. They will have nothing local on which to vote.

Two seats on the city commission were to be on the ballot this year. As of the end of qualifying at noon Friday however, only the incumbents had qualified, and will automatically be declared the victors.

The two who will remain on the commission are George Duryea, and A.R. "Doc" Jore. Duryea is just completing his third consecutive two-year term. Jore is now ending his first two-year term.

Others who are not up for election this year are Mayor Lowrey Rockett, and commissioners David Mealor and Gary Brender.

Parts of state as unsafe as Third World nation

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Some parts of Florida are as unsafe as many Third World nations and are sometimes more dangerous — a problem black leaders say won't disappear without big and expensive changes.

"Across the nation in every metropolitan area there is a Third World community," said one, state Sen. James Hargrett, D-Tampa.

The ghettos, Hargrett said, resemble "a little Somalia, with people running around in the street with guns — and people afraid to report the violence for fear of their lives."

The threat of armed, roaming violent youths can't be fenced off. And that threat

The ghettos resemble a little Somalia, with people running around in the street with guns and people afraid to report the violence for fear of their lives.

will continue to spread from inner-city ghettos if not checked by society.

"Florida is going to be the place where we learn to make it work," Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay said last week at Florida A&M University, addressing the first meeting of the Conference of Black Elected Officials.

The slayings of a German tourist in urban Miami and an English tourist near rural Monticello within a week focused attention on the problem, said Rep. Al Lawson, D-Tallahassee. "But what happens every day out on the street?"

More and more youths lack stable homes to teach discipline and values and provide positive role models.

"We have packs of stray animals that are running around growing themselves up, without benefit of families," Hargrett said.

Dade County Commission Chairman Arthur Teele Jr. said leaders must look at the big picture, not focus only on one solution such as education, jobs, or law enforcement.

Men facing murder charges surrender

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two Canadians wanted in the deaths of a motel guest and manager in Toronto surrendered to police over the weekend and won't fight extradition, police said.

Michael Edward Stacey, 28, and Joseph Arthur "Benoit" Smith, 29, telephoned police here from a doughnut shop Saturday and arranged to give themselves up.

"They were in the parking lot waiting for us," police spokeswoman Sonya Friedman said. The men told investigators they picked the doughnut shop to surrender because they figured officers would be there on break.

They were booked into the Broward County Jail on first-degree murder warrants. No bond was set.

Friedman said the men were cooperating with Canadian officials.

The murders occurred Sept. 18 at a motel when a party in a second-floor room got out of hand, Friedman said. A man was beaten, then stabbed to death. He wasn't identified.

When the victim's blood began dripping into a downstairs room, the occupant called the motel manager, Friedman said. The motel manager went to investigate and also was beaten and stabbed to death.

The men fled in a car they stole from the motel parking lot, then ditched it hours later in New York City and hopped a bus for Fort Lauderdale, Friedman said.

Police in Florida were aware the men were in the area. Toronto Police had contacted them and said a bank card owned by Smith's common-law wife had been used twice at area banks.

Former US informer arrested

BRANDON — A convicted drug trafficker and former U.S. informant had eluded federal officials for more than four years since he escaped from custody.

But Gustavo Fernandez, 61, was arrested Sunday by U.S. Marshals outside a Tampa supermarket after years of investigation focused on the Tampa Bay area, where some of his family and business associates live, according to a release from the U.S. Marshals Service.

Fernandez was convicted with five other men in Panama City in 1982 and sentenced to 50 years in prison in one of the biggest marijuana smuggling operations in U.S. history. The ring was accused of importing 300 tons of marijuana from Colombia through a marina that Fernandez owned in Key West.

Fernandez was convicted on charges of operating a continuous criminal enterprise and importing and distributing marijuana.

The Cuban native escaped from custody in June 1989 after being furloughed from a federal prison in Oxford, Wis., to the U.S. Customs Service in southern Florida to assist in a drug investigation. He had been on the lam for more than four years.

8-year-old bottle message found

FORT LAUDERDALE — For six years, Jamie Lehrer's message in a bottle floated across the Atlantic.

The bottle survived storms and tidal waves — as well as hurricane seasons, including the one featuring Hurricane Andrew — then quietly washed ashore in Morocco during the summer.

"It's not completely farfetched," said forecaster Jim Luahine of the National Weather Service in Miami. "It's possible if the bottle was sealed."

Lehrer, a student in the North African nation, found Lehrer's message nearly six years to the day after she wrote it, the Sun-Sentinel in Fort Lauderdale reported Saturday. He mailed it back to her with a note in French.

Lehrer was a camper at the Sorel Jewish Community Center in Plantation in 1987. Children stuffed notes with a return address into bottles, which were dropped into the ocean by the Coast Guard and whisked away by the Gulf Stream.

"We've had some returned from Rhode Island and Massachusetts. A couple made their way to England," said Joel Teller, executive director of the JCC. "But from Morocco, and that's long — that's wild."

Attorney sues tabloid

WEST PALM BEACH — An attorney who helped actor Tom Cruise adopt a baby has filed a libel suit against The Star supermarket tabloid, charging his business has been hurt by derogatory references to him.

Bennett Cohn said potential clients have told him they were hesitant to hire him after an article Aug. 10 contained a quote calling him a "baby seller."

"And you never know who doesn't call you as a result of those types of allegations," Cohn said.

He called the story irresponsible because no one at the newspaper contacted him or checked his background.

Star attorney Steve Metcalf said Friday that he was not aware of the suit and could not comment.

Cohn said he has arranged more than 1,000 adoptions in 18 years and is chairman of the Florida Bay's Adoption Law Commission, which recommends legislative changes.

Way Back When

After the Herald ran that "Way Back When" photo of the Robin's Nest Hotel, several telephone calls were received. It was discovered that the hotel was located about where the former First Federal Savings Loan Association of Seminole building is situated on West First Street. Information was also passed on that there was a "pet" bear at the Robin's Nest and some sent the Herald's "Way Back When" editor, Julian Stenstrom, a picture of the "pet" bear. The photo of the bear is actually on a postcard.

Everglades settlement still faced by lack of agreement

By Associated Press

LOXAHATCHEE NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE — Like homebuyers who balk on the results of the roof and termite inspections, the sides who agreed to an Everglades settlement more than two months ago haven't been willing to close the deal.

"It's been extraordinarily difficult getting the specific language down in a mediated settlement that's acceptable," said Nat Reed, a South Florida Water Management District board member.

Reed, a former assistant U.S. Interior secretary, accompanied Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt on an airtour of this Everglades refuge in western Palm Beach County last week.

While Babbitt took a firsthand look at some of the problems in the Everglades ecosystem, his trip to South Florida last Wednesday was mainly for some public jawboning as negotiators prepared for an intensified series of talks this week in Washington and West Palm Beach.

"If we don't get things wrapped up ... we'll go back in court and do this the hard way," Babbitt warned.

But he also appealed to all sides to use an important opportunity to clear a major hurdle to the complex Everglades restoration. The alternative, he said, is a return to litigation that could go on another five or 10 years, costing millions of dollars each year along the way while slowing efforts to clean up and restore the system.

At stake is a complex system that is crucial to South Florida's water supplies, tourism and agriculture and supports dozens of threatened and endangered species. The restoration effort will mean higher taxes for property owners in South Florida and lower profits for sugar and vegetable growers, which could threaten the survival of some.

On July 13, Babbitt led a news conference in Washington announcing what was billed as a major breakthrough in which federal and state officials and executives of the $1.5 billion-a-year sugar industry stood together on an Everglades plan.

Office Depot top executive gets top pay

By The Associated Press

TAMPA — David Fuente exercised stock options at Office Depot Inc. to bring his compensation to $22.6 million last year, topping other Florida chief executive officers but still ranking modestly nationwide.

Florida chief executives tend to make less, but own more of their companies, than heads of bigger and older corporations nationally, giving them stronger incentives for performance, according to a survey of chief executives' pay published Sunday by The Tampa Tribune.

Fifty three of 71 companies reporting the information paid nothing in long-term incentive or stock options, the kind of big-dollar executive pay amounts that draw the ire of labor advocates, according to the newspaper's review of proxy statements public companies make each year to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Owning a big part of the company means a chief executive's pay rises and falls with other shareholders' gains, consultants said.

"The philosophy today is that chief executives should own a piece of the company and should get paid if the company does well," said Don Lund, human resource consultant with Godwins, Brooke & Dickenson of Clearwater.

Fuente raked in the $22.6 million from stock options in addition to cash pay of $810,350 for 1992.

That was six times the compensation of any other chief executive of a public company in Florida, though still low compared to the $127 million made by Thomas Frist Jr. of Health Corp. of America.

The president of the Nashville-based hospital management company topped William M. Mercer Inc.'s national survey of chief executive compensation for the year.

One reason Fuente made so much on his options was that Office Depot brought gains of 916 percent to its shareholders over the last five years.

MIAMI (-) Here are the winning numbers selected Sunday in the Florida Lottery: Cash 5 2-0-9 Play 4 4-2-4-9

TALLAHASSEE The numbers, drawn late Saturday for the $7 million Lotto drawing were 14-18-31-39-45-48.

Having five of those numbers will bring $1,990.50 to owners of 142 tickets, while 8,216 tickets are worth $82.50 each for having four numbers, and 181,988 have three and are worth $5.50 each.

Michael Calzmadia, 26, 103 Eastwind Ct., Sanford, was charged with grand theft auto by Sanford Police on Friday. Police said he was spotted on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Airport Boulevard driving a car that had been reported stolen. He was stopped in a parking lot and it was found that he had four outstanding warrants in Seminole County for failure to appear in court and that he was wanted in Pennsylvania for violating the terms of his probation.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $3,500 bond.

Man charged with stealing auto

James G. Sefried, 33, described by police as a transient, was charged with grand theft auto, possession of a controlled substance and with possession of drug paraphernalia by Longwood Police on Friday.

Police said he was spotted outside a vehicle that was identified as stolen. He said that it belonged to a friend, but a second police check revealed that it had been reported stolen from Sanford.

He was taken into custody and a routine check revealed 14 outstanding warrants.

When he was searched, police found a small glass pipe. Later, at the Longwood Police booking facility, he removed a hand-rolled cigarette, later identified as marijuana, from his mouth.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $1,000 bond.

Deputies asked him to leave, but he became loud and used profanity to the point where a large crowd gathered.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $100 bond.

Eugene Lidy Michaels, 25, 3202 Orlando Dr., Apt. 101, Sanford, was charged with disorderly intoxication by Sanford Police on Saturday.

Multiple burglary arrest

Sanford police arrested Neftali Calderon, 39, 218 W. 12th Street, Sanford, at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Thursday. Through several fingerprint matchings and phone call checks, he has been associated with two separate burglaries. One, between July 4 and 5, was at a business in the 100 block of W. 2nd Street in Sanford, when police reported $1,500 in property was taken. An earlier residential burglary, between May 28 and 31, was reported in the 1200 block of Palmetto Avenue. At that time, an estimated $900 in property was reported missing, and police found that several telephone calls had been made during the burglary, to a person reportedly named Calderon, in Columbia, South America. With the identical last names and fingerprints taken from items at both locations, Calderon was connected with both crimes. He has been charged with burglary and grand theft for each of the two cases.

Multiple warrants

Sheriff's deputies served warrants against Angela Christine Omans, 21, 155 Sir Topas Lane, Lake Mary, Wednesday at the jail where she was being held on unrelated charges. She was found to be wanted on a number of warrants, all for violation of parole following previous convictions. They included burglary to a structure, burglary to a dwelling, grand theft and burglary to a dwelling, uttering a forgery, and dealing in stolen property.

Police conducted a traffic stop after reportedly seeing Timmons' car crossing the median several times on U.S. Highway 17-92. During questioning, he reportedly gave false information, but later revealed his true identity. He was charged with resisting arrest without violence, failing to maintain a single lane, driving with a suspended/revoked license, and driving under the influence of alcohol.

Visitor shot on Miami highway

By JOHN PAGENTI
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — A New York City man visiting family was killed in what police called an apparently random, drive-by shooting. It was the third slaying of a traveler on Florida's highways in a month and another blow for the state's vital tourist industry.

The 40-year-old victim was going to dinner with two relatives when another car pulled up beside theirs Sunday night on a highway just north of downtown Miami, said Metro-Dade Detective Juan Del Castillo.

The driver — who was apparently alone in his car — rolled down the car window and fired one shot, striking the victim in the head.

"It's a typical incident that's giving Miami a bad name," Del Castillo said. "It is a drive-by (shooting) with the vehicle just coming up alongside and shooting for no reason."

There was no indication of any traffic dispute or interaction between the two vehicles before the shooting, he added. The gunman — described as in his early 30s — sped off afterward.

The name of the victim, who lived in the New York City borough of the Bronx, was not immediately released. He was a passenger in a car with his cousin and his cousin's wife, whom he was visiting, Del Castillo said. They drove him to a hospital, where he died.

The shooting occurred shortly after 8 p.m. on the Palmetto Expressway, also known as State Road 628.

The shooting is the latest in a string of visitor killings that have rocked the Sunshine State and its $31 billion-a-year tourism industry, prompting official efforts to make the highways safer. Ten foreign visitors have been slain in Florida in less than a year.

Road safety received renewed scrutiny in the wake of the Sept. 8 slaying of a German tourist, Uwe-Wilhelm Rakebrand, after his rental car was bumped on a Miami highway in a robbery attempt. At the time of the attack, his wife was reading a pamphlet advising tourists what to do when bumped in traffic.

Three people have been charged in Rakebrand's death.

Days later, Gov. Lawton Chiles ordered an extra 30 state troopers and 20 Florida Department of Law Enforcement agents to help patrol the expressways.

Then on Sept. 14, British tourist Gary Colley was fatally shot at an Interstate 10 rest stop 35 miles east of Tallahassee when two young men opened fire during a robbery attempt.

The governor then added around-the-clock security at highway rest stops, calling on 540 auxiliary officers from agencies ranging from the Highway Patrol to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. Recently, guards from Wakenhut Corp. have been hired full time to guard the state's 48 rest stops.

Ron Sachs, spokesman for the governor, said it's important to note that thousands of people visit Florida each year without incident, and that the frenzy regarding visitor safety in the state needs to be put in perspective.

"The governor takes very seriously every single act of violence, but certainly the media seems to put unprecedented attention on every incident," Sachs said. "... The state seems to be under a microscope right now."

Buckaroo Round-Up

Ranger Bob and Capt. Planet were at the Central Florida Zoo Saturday to kick off the TV-18 Buckaroo Round-Up. Fun-filled activities included face painting, coloring contest, animal encounter, scavenger hunt and the opportunity to join the Buckaroo Club. There were lots of free goodies and TV-18 taped a portion of the round-up to be aired at a later date. In top photo, Pam Buono (left) whistles to Fritz, a colorful bird held by zoo docent Michelle Dyke. In lower photo, David Oleen, Oviedo, would probably like to feed the animals, but can't, for his life, get the machine to dispense food nor money.

An example of good government in action

Last Thursday, members of the Lake Mary City Commission and several citizens were involved in what some termed as a major disagreement. At question were the pros and cons of a proposed referendum to appear on the November ballot.

The question would be whether or not the voters will allow the city to borrow up to $1 million for capital improvement projects. As a result of an overall charter change two years ago, the city is presently not allowed to enter into any obligation for over $100,000, unless it can be paid for during a single fiscal year. Otherwise, it must be approved by the voters in a referendum.

The matter was voted down by the commission four to one. Regardless of whether or not it was a good move, it was truly an example of good government, both by and for the people.

The proposal was initiated by Mayor Lowrey Rockett. He believed it would improve the use of operating funds to save the city money.

In the charter revision two years ago, there were many heated arguments over this particular matter. As a result, while several commissioners admitted last week that it could be a good move, they agreed that it may be too soon to bring the matter back as such a major revision.

During the meeting, citizens who were involved in the original dispute were allowed to address the commission. Even more noteworthy was the fact that they were personally shown by the mayor and told of the meeting items scheduled for the agenda.

Now, with the usual number of citizens were in attendance at Thursday night's meeting. Most of them were opposed to having the item brought back for consideration.

Yet they listened intently as the mayor explained reasons for suggesting the referendum. They also heard other commissioners' objections.

They sat quietly and allowed only a few citizens to speak on their behalf. There were no uppers, no catcalls, no applause or boos when statements were made with which they agreed or disagreed.

Rockett gave a clear explanation of his feelings, and stuck by them even though all others voted against him.

Each of the other commissioners expressed individual concerns over the situation.

From start to finish, this one item on the meeting agenda was proof that the mayor and commissioners are willing to listen to the voices of the people.

While the mayor may have lost his suggestion, he was actually a winner, as were the other commissioners and the citizens. Thursday's meeting showed that even in this world of constant fights between governments and the people, Lake Mary still can boast of good government in action.

Will Justice serve in Crown Heights?

She is the only Cabinet member whose autograph may be more prized than the president's. This aura, however, has been dimmed in New York.

Janet Reno was ready to announce that the Justice Department had closed its civil rights investigation of the still-reounding four days of riots in Crown Heights, Brooklyn, in August 1991 during which Yankel Rosenbaum, a Hasidic scholar, was stabbed to death. Some Jews were beaten and many more were terrified by roving bands of black youngsters, enraged by the death of 7-year-old Gavin Cato when a car driven by a Hasidic Jew went out of control.

Reno had decided there would be no federal charges by the Justice Department against anyone — either in connection with the murder or any of the other acts of violence. Also free of further investigation would be New York City police officials and Mayor David Dinkins with regard to their handling of the rioters. But after protests from Brooklyn District Attorney Charles Hynes and others, the attorney general said she would wait a while to look at any new legal justifications for going in.

Gov. Mario Cuomo had ordered an earlier investigation — with limited powers — by State Criminal Justice Commissioner Richard Girgenti. In his report, Girgenti recognized that he had composed only the overture. Reno's office, he said, should have the last word. Mayor Dinkins, widely believed to have been customarily late in responding to the violence, said it was "essential" for Reno to take charge. But many of his supporters feared he would again — as in the Girgenti report — be pilloried.

Lemrick Nelson, 16, was tried for Rosenbaum's murder and was acquitted. This summer, in a letter to Janet Reno asking her to undertake a full probe of those nights that the Hasidim called a pogrom and others described as a disturbance, the New York Civil Liberties Union noted that the state's Girgenti report had severely criticized the police's investigation of the murder for, among other things, "neglecting to interview possible witnesses, abandoning potential leads and failing to identify and arrest Rosenbaum's other assailants."

There are complaints from blacks. Carmel Cato, father of the boy killed by the runaway car, says he was prevented by the police from helping his injured son and was badly beaten by them. One officer allegedly called him a "nigger." Among some blacks, there is a continuing sense that justice has overlooked the Cato family.

As for other dimensions of the riots, the New York Civil Liberties Union points to Section 1985 of 42 United States Code and says it permits a cause of action against anyone who conspires to deprive others of "equal protection of the laws."

Section 1983 permits individuals to file suits against anyone who, under color of state law, has caused the complainants to be "deprived of any rights ... secured by the Constitution," and the laws of the United States.

School vouchers put to the test in New Jersey

JERSEY CITY, N.J. — This tough city across the Hudson River from New York City has become a national laboratory for an issue that will galvanize educators for years to come: school choice.

It's an unlikely locale to be fighting the education battle of the decade. It pits a young Republican mayor against some of the most entrenched and powerful interests in Democratic politics — teachers and their unions.

And if Bret Schundler get his way, it might be the new face of public education in America.

The public school system here has been in shambles. The state of New Jersey took a close look and declared "total educational failure." Cronyism, corruption and incompetence had hopelessly crippled the system's ability to teach its 30,000 children. Although New Jersey is a state that spends more per public school pupil than any other, only 40 percent of Jersey City public school students make it to graduation. That's one reason why, in 1989, the city became one of the first in the country to have its public schools taken over by the state for failing to run them properly.

The first step by the state was to clean house of unnecessary personnel. Until recently, mayors here had a long history of using their control over the schools to demote educators who had worked for their opponent, and promote those who had donated to their campaigns. The mayor previous to the state takeover added a whopping 600 employees to the payroll while enrollment dropped by 5,500 students. Among those employees was a stepdaughter the mayor promoted three times in as many years — although she only worked 12 days during that time.

Four years have now passed since the takeover, and the state has poured more than $100 million into the Jersey City school system. Yet the money has failed to put the local schools back together again — less than half of local ninth-graders pass the state proficiency exam despite the infusion of new funds. Local private schools, meanwhile, spend less than half the money per pupil — $3,500 compared to $9,200 for public schools — yet graduate 90 percent of their students.

It is with this background that Jersey City, led by its whiz-kid Republican Mayor Schundler, is likely to become the first American city to have a wide-open "school voucher" system. The idea of vouchers — state money given to parents, who use them for private school tuition — is more than a decade old and was endorsed by the last two Republican presidents. But it is Schundler, who might become the first person to actually apply the concept. Vouchers are a referendum on the city's November ballot, and Schundler expects to use it to get a law through the New Jersey legislature allowing him to shift to a voucher system.

In an interview with our associate Dale Van Atta, Schundler explained why he believes vouchers can cure Jersey City's ailing schools: "I believe in school vouchers partly because it takes the politician out of the loop. ... With school vouchers, you put power over the system in the hands of the parents. The school is now working to keep the parent happy instead of working to keep the politician happy." It would, in essence, restore "accountability" to public schools by forcing them to compete for students the way private ones do.

The opponents of vouchers are equally as eloquent in defending the public school system.

This aura, however, has been dimmed in New York.

HODDING CARTER

Historic accord points to future

Perhaps there was a hardened soul somewhere who was unmoved by the sight of Israel's leaders shaking hands with PLO Chairman Yasir Arafat at the White House last week. I was not that person. But something else moved me as well, a fact of American public life too often forgotten in the angry partisanship of contemporary political debate. Just beneath the surface controversy, deep currents of agreement of shared goals and common vision have shaped American foreign policy for almost a half century. There is no reason they cannot be refashioned to meet current challenges.

What reminded me of that was the presence at the signing ceremony of all but one of the living former secretaries of state and of two former presidents, George Bush and Jimmy Carter. As it happens, I worked for President Carter under the direct supervision of his secretary of state, Cyrus Vance, before and after the epochal Camp David agreement. It was a historic achievement but like most, it built on the past. Jimmy Carter and Cyrus Vance would be the first to acknowledge that theirs was not a stand-alone success.

Henry Kissinger's presence was a physical reminder of that fact. His shuttle diplomacy in the 1970s produced the stand-down from conflict after the 1973 war that was the necessary precondition for Camp David. But Kissinger's innovative approach was itself successful in part because the contending parties in the Middle East understood that his objectives were much the same as his predecessors'. The means could and did change, but the ends sought by the United States in the region have been essentially the same since the creation of the state of Israel in 1948.

That was why President Clinton made such a point of steering Arafat toward former Secretary of State James Baker, who served President Bush, after the formal business was over. It was the Bush-Baker team that prodded the parties back to the conference table, the necessary precondition for the breakthrough decisions by the PLO and Israel this year.

In an equally nice symbolic touch, Baker and Vance were seated side-by-side. Their wives were also with them at this moment of joyous hope, just as they had been with them on those exhausting diplomatic forays through the Middle East when they were still in office. There could not be two more different people than those two, nor is Henry Kissinger the same as either of them, but history will record that all worked for similar objectives in the Arab-Israeli conflict during their years at the State Department.

As I sat there on that perfect September day, exulting with all the rest at the utterly mind-boggling spectacle of lions sitting down with lions in quest of the lamb's dream, I thought of something else as well. Because fundamental, dramatic changes have transformed the face of the world with numbing rapidity, and because new problems have arisen to seize our attention and focus our concerns, we have almost forgotten how to celebrate accomplishment. Many of us (not least, me) have been better at raising the specter of future dilemmas than at applauding the solution of past quandaries.

Such myopia is a mistake. If we are unable to claim credit and take pleasure in the face of success, we will inevitably view the future more pessimistically than we should.

The new world that has been emerging without discernible order is daunting. Most of our familiar policy charts, like the maps that reflected the height of the Soviet empire, are seriously out of date.

Our domestic problems weigh upon us and the plethora of crises that have flown up from the rubble of the old bipolar world seem baffling in their complexity.

But it is wrong to contrast the current state of affairs with the supposedly simpler world that faced the United States in the wake of World War II. Current myths to the contrary, there was nothing certain about America's response to the leadership that history had thrust upon it. For millions of Americans whose one overriding desire was to return to peacetime pursuits as quickly as possible, there was nothing compelling about the troubles of far-off lands or imperative about our responsibility to help deal with them.

And yet, in less than five years, a bipartisan consensus was forged that abandoned isolationism, created an internationalist policy which could be sustained over time and held to it in the face of repeated waves of criticism and disillusionment from the right and left. Despite Cassandra-like claims from all ideological camps that the totalitarian model was better equipped for long-haul competition than ours, it was theirs that collapsed.

Of course, past success is just that ... past. Next steps are always difficult. New conditions render old certainties obsolete. To repeat a familiar refrain, the Middle East could still blow apart, making a hollow mockery of that hopeful White House morning.

There is no reason they cannot be refashioned to meet current challenges.

The following is the agenda for the Monday night meeting of the Longwood City Commission:

Each of their seats will be up for re-election during November of 1994.

Two items had also been proposed for referendum votes this year by Mayor Rockett. One, calling for a charter change to allow the city to enter into higher level financial borrowing, will not appear on the ballot. It was defeated by a four to one vote of the commission Thursday night.

Another proposed referendum would have changed specific dates on which newly elected commissioners would be sworn into office following an election. That item was tabled when the first proposal was defeated.

As a result, there will be no local items appearing on the ballot for the City of Lake Mary on this November's election day.

higher, due to other local taxation.

The general fund operating budget approved during first reading was $14,052,674.

Included in the operating budget is a re-classification of the city's pay plan for all employees, which is also scheduled for final approval in a separate ordinance listed on tonight's meeting agenda. The new schedule would go into effect on Oct. 1, 1993, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

During the first budget and millage rate formal meeting two weeks ago, Sanford business owner Sylvester Chang was the only person to comment during public participation. He suggested the city should find some way to reduce budget needs in the future. "If large corporations can cut costs," he said, "so can you. I have had to cut my staff by 40 percent in order to meet my budget."

He added, "You have to start thinking about running the city like others manage business."

Mayor Bettye Smith had responded that the city was not raising the millage, that it was at the same level as during the past few years.

Unless additional changes are made by other municipalities during budget hearings in these remaining few days of September, the City of Sanford will have the highest millage rate in Seminole County.

The budget hearing and official setting of the millage rate are scheduled for the beginning of tonight's regular commission meeting beginning at 7 p.m. in the commission chambers of Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

court documents.

A controversy has erupted over whether the roadway, once the Orlando Lake Jesup Road, leads to the site of Solary's Wharf. Solary's Wharf once sported a post office that served the developing Oviedo community, a general store and a road that served as the main link to developments south of the lake, extending into what is now Orange County.

Solary's Wharf is credited by historians as being once of the key sites in the development of Oviedo and places south of there.

The commerce station no longer remains, but historians say there are pilings along the shoreline suggesting a wharf once existed at the site.

Means said the property has been in his wife's family for decades. He said property records dating more than 100 years have not mentioned a road on the property.

"We've had the property 70-odd years and there was nothing about a road down there," said Means.

Mean's neighbor Bill Blackburn said he discovered the potential historical link during a prolonged land battle with Means that began with a 1984 lawsuit which wasn't resolved until 1992. Blackburn bought his property to the west of Means' land in 1967. Means claimed Blackburn was using a portion of his land to access Blackburn's land.

Blackburn responded a portion of the land in question was his own and a portion was public. The case was resolved with an agreement by Blackburn to deed a portion of his land to Means lying east of the road.

In his research, Blackburn said he uncovered the handwritten record of the Sept. 2, 1879 meeting of the Orange County Commission creating "the road opened from Orlando to Lake Jesup," using the old spelling for the lake. Blackburn uncovered an official 1879 Orange County map which traced road and railroad from Orlando to Solary's Wharf.

Blackburn said he also has deeds, dated from 1872 to 1901, that mention the road.

Blackburn said the map is proof of the road, formerly named Orlando to Lake Jesup Road, was the original one created long ago by Orange County commissioners. In March, Seminole County commissioners renamed a 153-foot section of the road "Jeslan Court," but did not address the remainder of the path extending to a wooded area along the shore of the lake.

Blackburn, who admits a public roadway will increase the value of his subdivided property, said the path should remain open to the public.

"It is the only known access to the south side of Lake Jesup," said Blackburn, a member of the Seminole County Historical Commission. "It belongs to the 250,000 people of the county. If the county gives it away, it won't have an access to the south side of the lake."

County staffers are undecided. Earlier this year, county development staff didn't oppose the request. Then in August, they modified their position and sought to keep at least a drainage easement over the property. Last week, Hardin said a final recommendation won't be made until the day of the hearing.

But Blackburn's fellow historical commission members disagree whether the road is indeed the path to the wharf site. A historical commission plaque recognizing Solary's Wharf was placed more than 100 yards away on State Road 434 at the entrance to Black Hammock Fish Camp. Means said he believes Solary's Wharf was closer to the site of the present fish camp instead of his property.

Historical commission members said the plaque was placed at the fish camp because there is more traffic than at the Black Hammock Road corner.

George Scott of Sanford said he isn't sure whether the road leads to the Solary's site, but there is enough question for the commission to delay their decision. But Scott adds the public access issue is the main reason for commissioners to deny the request.

"It is a historical site, but nobody has absolutely said this is a historical site," said Scott. "But it should remain public. We have very little access to the lake. I can see a little park there with room to unload boats in the water."

Paul Mickler, another historical commission member, said he is uncertain whether the road leads to the wharf site. But Mickler added it really doesn't matter whether the roadway remains open or not. He said the site is too out of the way for a historical marker and the Means family has long ties to the property.

"What good would it do?" Mickler said. "I don't think it's that important. Let good enough alone."

The courts ordered the enrollment minimum as part of the 1970 desegregation order.

"Things have not improved at all," said Billy Higgins, who spoke for another group of parents who have filed a complaint against the school district with the U.S. Department of Justice.

Higgins believes the school district has not treated the Sanford schools fairly. Because the Sanford schools have "outstanding facilities" he said he has chosen to keep his children in the schools here.

But the money spent on the schools in Sanford is not enough to make the schools competitive.

According to numbers the Department of Education complaintants have filed, the school district spent only $79 per student for educational programs at Seminole High School in 1991-92.

"That year they spent $260 per student (443 percent more) at Lake Mary High, the complainants said.

"They're still doing the same thing to our children," a spokesman for the group said. "The students in Sanford have not gotten a fair shake and it is time that the school district is forced to make changes. It's just not fair."

Both the Department of Education and the Department of Justice have said they will look into the complaints and make formal reports by early next year.

Mayor Paul Lovstrand and commissioner Steve Miller and Fred Pearl agreed during the emergency session to allocate the necessary funds. Pearl said he wanted the situation discussed at Monday's meeting to see if the city could legally collect the extraordinary expenses of fighting the fire from the company owners, Henry and Mary Hardy.

Commissioners Rex Anderson and Harvey Smerlison could not attend the emergency meeting.

The commissioners will review a plan from police chief Greg Manning to purchase two Ford Mustangs for use by two road patrol sergeants. The commissioners approved the purchase of six Crown Victorias in next year's budget. However, the price of the larger vehicles jumped $1,000 a car over the amount budgeted due to state required safety and cooling equipment requirements.

The commissioners will consider setting the property tax rate at $5.06 per $1,000 which is six cents less than the current rate.

The commission will meet in city hall at 7 p.m.

New York mayor faces tough re-election

President Clinton said some whites reluctant to vote for blacks

By KILEY ARMSTRONG
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Mayor David Dinkins is facing a tough re-election battle partly because some whites are still reluctant to vote for a black candidate, President Clinton said.

"Too many of us are still too unwilling to vote for people who are different than we are," Clinton said Sunday at a $1 million fund-raiser for Dinkins, New York's first black mayor.

Although registered Democrats outnumber Republicans by more than 5 to 1 in New York City, polls show the Democratic incumbent in a dead heat with his GOP opponent, former U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani, who is white. Clinton said he asked himself on the way to New York. "Why does this guy have a hard race?" He said one reason is that the gentlemanly Dinkins may not always be flashy enough "in an age that values self-promotion."

The second reason "is not as simple as overt racism," he said. "Racism is not anything I would charge anybody who doesn't vote for David Dinkins or Bill Clinton or anybody else. It is this deep-seated reluctance we have against all our best judgments to reach out across these lines."

At that point, somebody in the audience shouted, "Tell 'em Bubba!" Clinton continued to loud cheers: "It's not that simple. It's not as simple as overt racism. It's this inability to take that sort of leap of faith and believe that people who look different than we are really are more like us. Some people look just like, but don't share our values or are interests." He prefaced his remarks by saying, "I'm going to get in a lot of trouble for saying this." Dinkins "really does believe that we have to find strength and peace and harmony in our diversity," Clinton said. "Under very difficult circumstances, he has made you a good mayor." Dinkins, fairly bursting with pride, said, "For me, it does not get better than this."

Earlier, the president's remarks were interrupted by two men holding up signs that said, "What about AIDS?" They shouted, "AIDS won't wait!" As the men were forced from the room, Clinton said, "Actually, I had something to say about that. It's too bad they're missing it." He did not refer to AIDS in his later remarks.

Clinton's trip to help salvage a mayor's campaign was an unusual move for a sitting president. But Democrats fear a Dinkins loss — coming less than four months after a Republican was elected mayor of Los Angeles for the first time in decades — would set the tone for the 1994 mid-term elections and make the president's re-election efforts difficult in this urban center.

Oklahoma flooding declared emergency; 2 rivers overflow

By The Associated Press

The National Guard helped evacuate dozens of residents in northeastern Oklahoma early today as two rain-swollen rivers rushed over their banks, prompting the governor to declare a state of emergency.

"The Spring River is like the ocean roaring. It's just churning," said Mayor Tom Derwin of Wyandotte, near the Missouri state line. "One of the engineers from the Grand River Dam Authority told me if I had any pull with God to start praying, I've been doing that already."

At least a foot of water covered highways and rural roads into Wyandotte and two other Oklahoma communities — Miami and Quapaw — virtually cutting them off from the rest of the state. Schools in the three towns were closed today.

"At this point, we're seeking to minimize flood damage and prevent injury and loss of life," said Gov. David Walters, who declared a state of emergency on Sunday. The Red Cross helped set up shelters at churches.

On the positive side, the heavy downpours that soaked parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri last week dissipated Sunday. Meteorologists said no more rain was expected for the next few days.

Most of the flooding came from the Spring River, which was at a record 46 feet Sunday and threatening to go 2 feet higher. The highest level previously was 43 feet in 1986. The nearby Neosho River was about 8 feet above flood stage and expected to rise 2 more feet before cresting.

Miami Civil Defense Director Terry Durburow said authorities were evacuating affected residents "around the clock," with up to 400 evacuees expected.

About 50 people were evacuated Sunday from a trailer park and 40 others from a nursing home, Durburow said. Already about 150 had been evacuated when heavy rains began falling Friday.

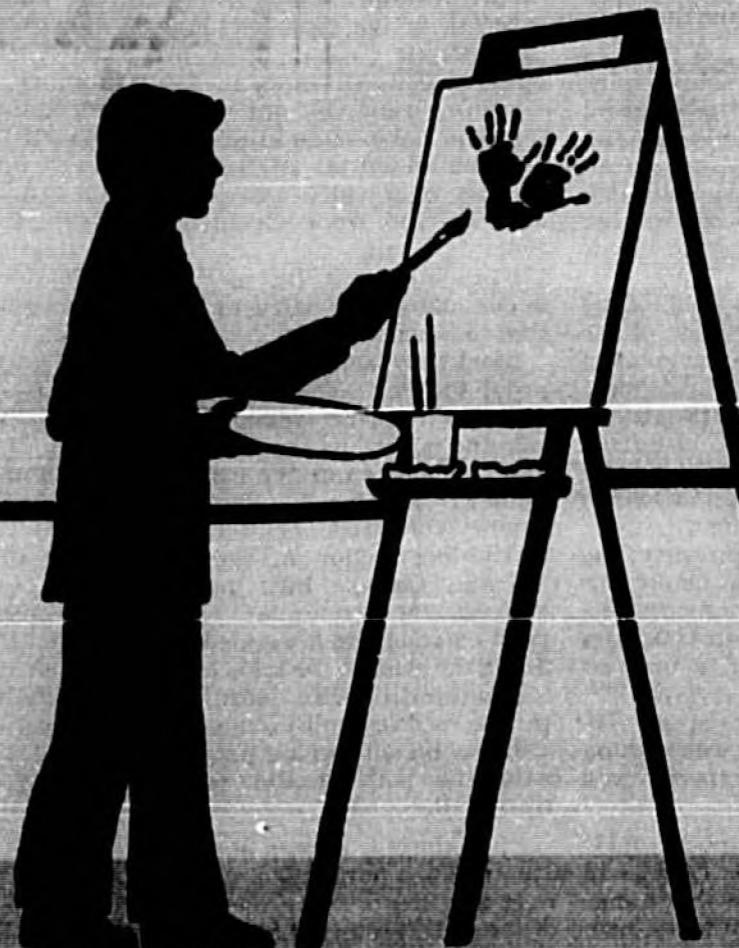

"These people have never seen this kind of water before," Durburow said. "They see the water come up and they panic.

They don't know what to do, who to call or where to go." Since Wednesday, three deaths in Missouri were blamed on the latest flooding, which followed the historic summer flooding across the Midwest.

Near Boonville, in central Missouri, police on Sunday found a pickup truck that was washed off a highway but could not reach it because of high water. The fate of the truck's driver was not known.

Elsewhere in the state, the Missouri River continued to threaten towns where levees damaged by the summer floods are not yet repaired.

In Valley Park, Mo., flooding from the Meramec River has forced nearly 300 people from their homes since flooding began last week, while the rest of the St. Louis suburb's 4,000 residents waited to see if they would have to leave as well. The city's police and fire departments have been forced to run their operations since Friday from a church.

Players, coaches needed

SANFORD — Players (ages 7-12) and coaches are still needed for the Sanford Recreation Department Flag Football League that plays its games on Saturday mornings at McKibben Park. For more information, call Jim Schaefer at (407) 330-5697.

AROUND THE STATE

Cardinals outscore Marlins

MIAMI — Bernard Gilkey hit a home run and drove in three runs as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Florida Marlins 10-7. Omar Olivares (5-2) allowed two runs on four hits in five-plus innings before being relieved by Les Lancaster with none out in the sixth. Gilkey and Stan Royer drove in three runs apiece and Erik Pappas added two RBIs to pace a 15-hit attack. St. Louis closed rookie starter David Weathers (2-2) by the third inning.

AROUND THE NATION

Dolphins drill Bills

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — The Miami Dolphins took a 19-0 lead midway through the second period by scoring on their first four possessions, quieting 80,000 Rich Stadium fans, and went on to best the Buffalo Bills, 22-13. Dan Marino was 20-of-32 for 282 yards. He threw a 36-yard touchdown pass to Irving Fryer and ran 4 yards for a TD as Miami (2-1) won at Buffalo (2-1) for the second straight year. Fryer had seven catches for 103 yards, Terry Kirby had six catches for 91 yards and Mark Higgs gained 77 of the 137 yards on the ground. The Dolphins sacked Jim Kelly three times and intercepted him twice. They also limited Thurman Thomas to 46 yards rushing.

Bears maul Buccaneers

CHICAGO — Jim Harbaugh passed for two touchdowns and ran for another as the Chicago Bears crushed Tampa Bay, 47-17, to give Dave Wannstedt his first victory as Bears head coach. The Bears (1-2) scored four touchdowns in the second quarter as the Bucs dropped to 0-3.

Irvan, Wallace win

MARTINSVILLE, Va. — Eighty-two points and counting. That's the difference between leader Dale Earnhardt and pursuer Rusty Wallace in the Winston Cup point chase after the Goody's 500. Ernie Irvan gave Robert Yates Racing its first win since the late Davey Allison went to Victory Lane at Richmond, Va., on March 7. A broken rear end gear 60 laps from the end sent Earnhardt reeling to 29th place and his second straight early finish. Despite leading twice for 61 laps, Wallace's Pontiac was never really a match for Irvan's Ford, which crossed the finish line 2.77 seconds in front and led five times for 402 laps, including the final 74.

AROUND THE WORLD

USA holds onto Ryder Cup

SUTTON COLDFIELD, England — Let Europe have the best golfer in the world. The United States has the best team — and the Ryder Cup. Even Nick Faldo's hole-in-one wasn't enough to stop a stirring comeback that allowed the Americans to keep the cup with a 15-13 victory. Fred Couples, Chip Beck and Davis Love III rallied on the back nine at the cold, wind-swept Belfry course and the U.S. team won five of the last six matches to hang on to the cup.

Church softball battles good to the last out

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The play was almost as hot as the weather in the Sanford Church Softball League Fall Season Saturday morning.

Four of the five games played on the second week of the season were hard fought from the beginning, with the winner being in doubt until the very end.

The only exception was in the Fun Division at Pinehurst Park, where Sanford All Souls Catholic improved to 2-0 with a 20-5 swatting of Sanford Christian No. 2.

In the other Fun Division contest, the Lake Mary Church of the Nativity Catholic Disciples scored three runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to break a 7-7 tie and went on to even their record at 1-1 with an 11-7 victory over Antioch Missionary Baptist from Oviedo.

In the Fellowship Division at Chase Park, Sanford First Nazarene scored all 13 of its runs in two innings, six in the second and seven in the third, then had to hold off a spirited comeback to edge Sanford Christian No. 1, 13-12.

In the other two games, Sanford First United Methodist broke out its new jerseys and nickname, the Flames, and went out and swept a doubleheader, 5-4 over Sanford Central Baptist and 14-8 over the Lake Mary Church of the Nativity Catholic-Crusaders.

In the Central Baptist game, First United Methodist took a 5-1 lead over the first five innings, then had to withstand a three-run bottom of the seventh inning and ended the game with Central having the tying and winning runs on second and first base.

The second game was even tougher, with the Nativity-Crusaders building an 8-2 lead heading into the sixth inning before the Flames rallied with five runs in the sixth and seven in the seventh for the win.

Trailing All Souls in the Fun Division standings are the Nativity-Disciples (1-1), and Sanford Christian No. 2 and Antioch Baptist (both 0-1).

In the Fellowship Division, First United Methodist is 3-0, Deltona Trinity Assembly of God-Majesty, which was playing in a tournament to raise money for a coma victim in Deltona Saturday, (1-0), First Nazarene and the Nativity-Crusaders (both 1-1) and Central Baptist and Sanford Christian No. 1 (both 0-2).

There will be a slight change in the scheduling of the games starting next Saturday, October 2nd, with all games being played at Chase Park for the remainder of the season.

Next week's schedule will have Trinity-Majesty playing Sanford Christian No. 1 at 8:30 a.m.; First Nazarene challenging First Methodist-Flames at 9:30 a.m.; All Souls taking on Antioch at 10:30 a.m.; Central Baptist battling Nativity-Crusaders at 11:30 a.m.; and Sanford Christian No. 2 facing Nativity-Disciples at 12:30 p.m.

DOUBLE TAKES

What do we do now?

Lake Mary and Oviedo played another girls-volleyball match that defied description last Thursday night. The Lake Mary Rams won the first game 15-1 and led 9-1 in the second game before Oviedo came back to win the second game 15-13 and go up 13-5 in the third game. Seemingly out of the match, Sara Moore (No. 7), Jennifer Greissing (No. 8), and the Rams rallied to win the third game (and the match) 15-13.

Win boosts OCS to No. 2 in poll

From Staff Reports

MAITLAND — There's nothing like a win over the defending state champions to give you a boost up the rankings.

The Orangewood Christian School Rams, fresh off a 4-1 win over defending state champion St. Petersburg-Keswick Christian on Saturday, jumped to No. 2 in the Florida Athletic Coaches Association's boys fall soccer state poll announced Sunday.

Undefeated Lakeland Christian (9-0) sits atop the poll followed by Orangewood (7-2-1), St. Petersburg-Keswick (6-3-1), Tallahassee-Maclay (5-4), and Lake Worth Christian (6-0).

Rounding out the top 10 are Pompano Beach-Highlands (6-1); Miramar-Florida Bible (7-1-2); Bradenton Christian (6-2); The Master's Academy

(8-0-1) from Winter Park, and Orange Park-St. John's Country Day (3-1).

Also receiving votes were Deltona Christian, Tampa-Seminole Presbyterian, and Sarasota Christian.

Last week, Orangewood Christian was No. 4 in the state poll.

Playing at home Saturday morning, the Orangewood Rams received two goals from both Scott Armstrong and Hunter Tolbert to knock off St. Petersburg-Keswick. Jakob Hardrick had two assists while Chris Miller and Ben Mitchell each had one assist.

Orangewood outshot St. Petersburg-Keswick 15-3 and had a 2-1 edge in corner kicks. Ram goalie Ben Maynard had to make just one save while the Keswick keeper came up with four saves.

The Rams will play again this Tuesday at Gainesville-Oak Hall.

Inappropriate reference deserves an apology

Minnesota Viking defensive lineman Jim Marshall picked up a fumble and headed for his own end zone.

Boston Red Sox manager John McNamara chose to stay with Bill Buckner at first base in Game 6 of the 1986 World Series.

The Cincinnati Reds traded an "aging" Frank Robinson to the Baltimore Orioles for Milt Pappas.

The reason I mention these memorable errors of judgement is that sometimes it doesn't matter how good your intentions or how pure your motives are, the execution and/or end result leaves something to be desired.

Another good example would be my column last week, when I discussed that what are sometimes perceived by cross country coaches and athletes as mind games of an opposing coach actually may be strokes of strategy or have other legitimate reasons.

SPORTS

To recap, there are coaches who have more than seven runners (the maximum number a school can enter in a given varsity race) trying out for the team. Since the regular season means little in terms of the postseason, coaches will use a rotation of sorts, trying to get all the runners some race experience.

Where the strategy (or mind games, depending upon your point of view) come in is when and where which runners will compete. There are occasions when a runner will have a real reason that he or she is unable to run and there are other times when the decision to run or not is up to the whim of the coach.

It wasn't the subject matter that was the problem, but a young lady I used to illustrate the point.

In passing, I mentioned that Ktanal Bresnick, the top runner for the Lyman Greyhounds and ranked seventh in last week's Class 5A state poll, did not run in the Edgewater Invitational on Sept. 16.

The error I made was one of omission rather than commission. I failed to mention — because I didn't know — that there was a profoundly important reason why Bresnick did not run in that meet: she was observing Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year.

But like the police are fond of saying, ignorance is no excuse.

I was horrified when it was pointed out to me by people who know Bresnick what they felt I had implied by using her nonparticipation in the Edgewater race as an example. Certainly, it was not my intention to suggest that Bresnick should have run that day and still do not believe that I did.

However, in light of the circumstances surrounding her nonparticipation that day, it was totally inappropriate for me to use her situation even in passing reference. I apologize to Bresnick and wish her well.

WINTER SPRINGS — Lake Howell High School's girls and Oviedo's boys cross country teams took advantage of familiar surroundings Saturday morning as they posted wins in the Oviedo Invitational at Central Winds Park.

Led Cally Howell and Beth Whitehead, who finished second and third, respectively, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks outscored Oviedo 25-73 for the girls team title.

Trailing Lake Howell and Oviedo in the girls standings were Bishop Moore (79) and Trinity Preparatory (91). Seminole and The Master's Academy did not have team scores.

In the boys three-mile race, Oviedo's Scott Thelen, Dee Purdy, and Brad Stebbins finished first, second, and third to help the Lions best Bishop Moore 17-62 for the boys' crown.

Completing the boys field were Lake Howell (72), Trinity Prep (108), The Master's Academy (123), and First Academy (135).

Bishop Moore's Christy Miller won the girls race, covering the two-mile distance in 13 minutes, 14 seconds to finish ahead of Howell (13:35) and Whitehead (13:52).

Also finishing in the top 10 for Lake Howell were Kenya Johnson (fifth, 14:25), Tamara Solomon (sixth, 14:27), and Amy Fitch (ninth, 14:36).

Tim Raines is a Sanford native and Seminole High School graduate now playing for the Chicago White Sox. His stats are for the 1993 season in the first column, personal-best season totals in the second column and current career totals (including 1993 games) in the third column.

In the first game of Sunday's doubleheader with the Texas Rangers, Raines pinch-hit and drew a walk as the White Sox won 5-3 and clinched a tie for the American League's Western Division title. Raines started the nightcap and went 3-for-5 with a double, one run, and a stolen base in a 3-2 loss to Texas.

Insurance World bests Hirsch to open season

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Beginning with a bang...two in fact. Everything was going smoothly on the opening night of the Sanford Recreation Department Senior Girl's Fall Slowpitch Softball League at the Fort Mellon Softball Field last Thursday night until the lights were needed.

With the lights being warmed up for the second game, a circuit breaker popped and the lights went out. In attempt to find out if the problem would correct itself, the lights were turned off and allowed to cool down. But when they were turned on again, they were just about to full power when the breaker blew again, forcing the late game to be postponed until a later date.

In the game that was played, Yolanda Cox had a triple and a double to lead Insurance World to an 11-3 victory over Hirsch Chiropractic Clinic. The league, for girls ages 13-15, will play every Thursday evening at the Fort Mellon Softball Field through December 2nd.

Next week, John's Small Engine's will play Insurance World at 6 p.m. and Hirsch Chiropractic Clinic will take on Conklin, Porter and Holmes at 7 p.m.

Hirsch Chiropractic Clinic 081 9 - 3 4 Insurance World 416 x - 11 6

Cox tripled in two runs in the bottom of the first inning as Insurance World took the early 4-0 lead.

Hirsch Chiropractic Clinic came back with a pair of runs in the top of the second on an RBI walk by Allison Smith and an RBI single by Sherril Eiland.

Cox' double led to Insurance World's fifth run in the bottom of the second and Katie Heath tripled in a run for Hirsch Chiropractic Clinic in the top of the third to make the score 5-3.

But a double, two singles and six walks contributed to a six run bottom of the third inning for Insurance World to put the game out of reach.

Pacing the Insurance World attack were Cox (triple, double, two runs, two RBIs), Lakima Bass (double, single, two runs, RBI), Carmen Ramos (double, two runs, three RBIs), Denise Akina (single, run, RBI), A.A. White, Sherry Greenwade and Batina Robinson (one run and one RBI each), Ann Miller (run) and Hancock Miller (RBI).

Defeating the damage for Hirsch Chiropractic Clinic were Heath (triple, RBI), Eiland (single, RBI), Corret Mitchell and Trinity Russell (one single and one run each), Melissa Hogan (run) and Smith (RBI).

Cross country

were Matt Miller (seventh, 18:51) and Cory Frank (10th, 19:05).

RAMS HIT THE BEACH

DAYTONA BEACH — Angie Olson and Shawn Brakley came in first and second, respectively, to lead the Lake Mary High School girls cross country team to a second-place finish at the Daytona Beach-Seabreeze Beach Run Saturday morning.

Olson covered the two-mile course in 12 minutes, 6 seconds while Brakley finished in 12:20. In the team standings, Dr. Phillips outscored Lake Mary 46-67 for the top spot. They were followed by Spruce Creek (77), St. Cloud (101), and New Smyrna Beach (153).

Completing the scoring for the Rams were Megan Paget-Wilkes (17th, 14:17), Allison Neri (21st, 14:21), and Ursula Yadav (26th, 14:34). Renee Frank, who came in 43rd with a time of 15:37, also represented Lake Mary.

The Lake Mary boys also came in second, but not in quite as impressive a fashion, finishing in a tie with Brooksville Central with 123 points each behind team champion Oak Ridge (55). Lake Mary was awarded second place on the basis of a superior finish by the Rams' No. 6 runner, Jeremy Baxter.

Doing the primary scoring for the Rams were Aren Cook (12th, 16:59), Rich Heinzman (15th, 17:22), Alex Bohne (23rd, 17:48), Kami Burnett (31st, 18:16), and Scott Heath (42nd, 18:48). But when teams finish with the same number of points, the tiebreaker is the finish of each team's sixth runner.

Because Baxter, who finished 56th in 19:33, came in ahead of Brooksville Central's sixth runner, second place went to the Rams.

John Martin (69th, 19:36) also competed for Lake Mary.

In the junior varsity race, Lake Mary's Chas Milanovich and Simon Williams claimed first and second, respectively, Milanovich finishing in 18:26, 14:34). Renee Frank, who came in 43rd with a time of 15:37, also represented Lake Mary.

The Lake Mary junior varsity girls settled for second behind Spruce Creek, 25-70. Pacing the Rams was April Preston, who came in ninth with a time of 15:28.

Landscape pests love Florida

Try a new safe approach to pest management

GARDENING
TRICIA THOMAS

Most everyone these days is looking for a safer way to combat the many pests in our landscapes. If you think that Florida has more pest problems than other places that you have lived, you're correct. We flock to Florida for the mild climate. This mild climate is also the perfect environment for pests, such as, insects, diseases, weeds and nematodes.

Our warm temperatures provide year-round growing conditions for plants and pests, which often makes it necessary for year-round input of pesticides. Because our environment is so fragile in Florida the University of Florida/IFAS has developed a more integrated approach to pest control: one that utilizes chemical control as a last resort. The new approach is called Integrated Pest Management or IPM.

The first step in IPM is to be aware that minor damage to our plants is acceptable. When chemical pesticides are used they can destroy beneficial insects as well as the ones we consider pests and can even cause pests to become a bigger problem in the long run. Often pesticides are used in haste, for pests that would usually not become a major problem, if left untreated. Complete control is not practical in the landscape, and pests should be chemically controlled "only" when excessive damage is likely.

Over watering, over fertilization and improper mowing are all examples of landscape practices that can contribute in making lawns and landscapes more susceptible to pests. The informed homeowner can reduce pesticide usage by avoiding these practices and using a combination of pest control strategies (IPM).

The best and easiest control methods are usually preventative measures that mostly involve changes in the way that we care for our landscapes. For instance, over watering promotes a shallow root system and can lead to root rot. In addition to higher maintenance costs more frequent pruning and mowing will be required. Over watering also causes pesticides and fertilizers to leach into lakes, rivers and retention ponds. Over fertilizing creates excessive new growth that is inviting to chinch bugs, sod webworms, nematodes and brown patch fungus disease. Too much nitrogen fertilizer also promotes excessive growth and causes thatch buildup. Fertilizing just enough to keep grass healthy, two to three times per year, and using a slow release fertilizer are the keys to a successful program. Mowing at the proper height is also crucial to lawn care.

A lawn that is mowed too low results in the removal of too much leaf surface and prevents the leaf from absorbing sufficient sunlight for food production. When the lawn is mowed higher, a denser turf with a deeper root system develops and helps to shade out weeds and thus reduces the need for chemical herbicides. Be sure that you have marked your calendars for Oct. 2 so that you do not miss the Master Gardener Fall Plant Fair. The fair will take place at the Cooperative Extension Services Ag. Center from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Pioneers Days and Ways will also take place on this date. Due to limited parking a shuttle service will be available from the SCC parking area. Come join the fun and learn more about vines, perennials, herbs, native plants, composting and much more! Unusual plants and specialty garden items will be for sale.

(Tricia Thomas is Seminole County Urban Horticulturist. Inquiries may be directed to her at the Cooperative Extension Service, 250 W. County Home Road, Sanford, FL 32773 or phone 323-2500, Ext. 5558.)

Garden of Month

Mary Washburn loves working in her yard at 812 Escambia Ave. And it has paid off. The unique grounds was the Garden of the Month award for September from the Sanford Garden Club Inc. The colorful yard features a variety of ornamental shrubs and plants as well as exotic plants including a Bird of Paradise with 27 brilliant bird blooms. Bird baths in the yard attract a variety of feathered friends. The selection was made by Evelyn Hoolehan and Isabel Wilson of Mimosa Circle.

Wrong number turns out to be right

DEAR ABBY: Here's how one telephone call changed my life: I was a 19-year-old fellow working late on a Saturday night at a service station. The telephone rang, and when I answered it, a young lady said, "Oops, sorry, I must have a wrong number — I was calling my aunt."

"I don't know what got into me, but I said, 'PLEASE don't hang up — what's your name?'"

"I introduced myself, saying, 'Well, Betty, my name is Frank.' Then I asked her to give me her telephone number in case we got disconnected. I guess I fell in love with her voice, so I convinced her to meet me. When we met, it was love at first sight. She was only 16, but her parents approved of me, and three months later we were married. Last July, we celebrated our 43rd wedding anniversary. We have three fine sons, ages 34, 37 and 42. The oldest is married and gave us two beautiful granddaughters — ages 11 and 8.

Betty is now an operating room technician at Crawford Long Hospital in Doraville, Ga., and I'm with General Motors with nearly enough years to retire. I guess you could say that our meeting is the story of how one wrong number turned out to be the right number for Betty and me. You may use our name.

THE FRANK WILLIAMSONS, AUSTELL, GA.

DEAR WILLIAMSONS: Congratulations on your anniversary, and thank you for a charming story. Alas, 43 years ago it may have been safe enough to give one's first name and telephone number to a stranger, but today, the risks are too great.

DEAR ABBY: Your column on fateful phone calls prompted this letter: My husband died several years ago, after which a longtime female friend and I decided to share an apartment. One evening, on a lark, she tracked down an old boyfriend to whom I had been engaged 30 years ago, when I was 18.

She introduced herself, then handed me the phone. We talked for a while, and he asked where I worked, so I told him. A couple of days later, he showed up at my office with 30 roses — one for every year we had been apart. We hit it off immediately and have been together ever since. We are being married in November.

OREGONIANS

DEAR ABBY: Here's how one telephone call changed my life: I got a call at home from an anonymous person who thought I should know that my husband was having an affair with a young woman who worked for him. She told me that they went to a motel on the edge of town every Friday for a three-hour lunch.

Because my husband had several unexplained absences from work, I hired a private detective to follow him. Sure enough, he was meeting his secretary at the motel. After I told him that I knew what had been going on, he didn't deny it. We saw our lawyers and ended our marriage.

Now, I suspect that she was the anonymous caller who tipped me off about my husband's affair. No names or towns, please. Sign me...

BETTER OFF NOW

DEAR ABBY: I don't agree with your answer to "Irritated," whose mother-in-law constantly found fault with her. You told her that her choices were limited: either develop a tougher hide or look into family counseling.

Another solution would be for her husband to develop a backbone and tell Mommy in no uncertain terms that she had better lay off, or he and his wife would tune her out of their lives. When I got married, I told my parents that my wife would always come first. They knew that I meant it, and there was never a problem such as the one irritated has.

HAYDEN LAKE, IDAHO

DEAR HAYDEN LAKE: Your solution sounds ideal, but what if a husband has no backbone — only a wishbone?

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Does nail clipping hurt the elderly?

DEAR DR. GOTT: My mother is in a nursing home, and I've made an unusual observation while visiting. Whenever patients have their fingernails clipped, they grimace as though in great pain. Does something change with age to cause nail cutting to be a difficult experience?

DEAR READER: I don't believe so. I, too, have noticed this phenomenon, and I've concluded that it is not related to discomfort. Nursing home residents, who are often confused and disoriented, will frequently grimace during any activity, such as bathing or shaving, that is performed by another person.

I think this is identical to the response of small children, who will often cry or make faces when having their hair cut or washed. They just don't want to be a part of this activity -- and they let us know it. To a large degree, elderly, demented patients adopt the same posture.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please devote a column to menopause. I'm 82 years old and suffer terribly during the day. Nights are tolerable. I hate to wear sweaters, take them off, and go through the inconvenience of this situation.

DEAR READER: At the end of their reproductive years, when the ovaries stop making the female hormone estrogen, many women experience an array of signs and symptoms. These include hot flashes, moodiness, sweats, emotional swings, difficult intercourse and osteoporosis, to mention just a few.

Such menopausal symptoms can be quite disabling to a woman in her 40s and 50s. But they can be helped by using supplemental estrogen to compensate for the natural deficiency.

Notice that I said "40s and 50s." This is the time when virtually 100 percent of women experience menopause, to one degree or another. Thus, menopausal symptoms in someone 82 years of age would be extraordinarily unusual. Therefore, I urge you to be examined by your family doctor.

Your symptoms may not reflect menopause at all. You could be anemic, for example, or have a glandular disorder, such as hyperthyroidism. Your doctor can diagnose your condition with an examination and blood tests. If necessary, he will refer you to a gynecologist for another opinion.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

If you are forced to fight someone, it is usually advantageous to strike the first blow. But it may be even more important to know where to strike the first blow. And the icing on the cake is to know why you are striking there.

spades and three diamonds — for one down. But if West is feeling particularly avaricious and potentially suicidal, he returns a low diamond at trick four. When partner wins with the eight and has another spade to play, the contract goes three down.

One cool customer — or cucumber, according to choice — made an incredible opening lead: he selected the spade jack. Now, of course, declarer could have put up dummy's queen, run the whole club suit and finished with nine or 10 tricks. But not unnaturally he played low from the dummy. To make matters worse, after West had cashed five spade tricks and led a low diamond to East's ace, South didn't cover the diamond 10 return. So a third diamond play allowed the defenders to cash five tricks in that suit too. Six down: 600 points to East-West!

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 28, 1993

Your inborn ingenuity might be the key to your success in the year ahead. It could help to discover ways to improve both your lifestyle and your business.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Instead of idling your hours away today, occupy yourself with things that are truly significant and productive. This can be a day of achievement if you'll try. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4485, New York, N.Y. 10163.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try to break away from your mundane routines today and seek activities which are fun and different. A change of pace will do you a world of good.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your material aspects look promising today. Be alert for unusual developments, because you may be able to add to your holdings from a least expect source.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others perceive you as being very personable and charismatic today. You'll add zest to any group and make a favorable lasting impressions on new acquaintances.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Follow your intuitive perceptions today pertaining to ways you can best gratify your material desires. Hunches provide a vision your logic lacks.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try to involve yourself socially with several groups today, because there is a possibility you might meet someone interesting to whom you'll be strongly attracted.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Events could suddenly take an unexpected turn for the better today pertaining to an ambitious desire you've been nurturing. Respond immediately when you get the first signals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A close friend might talk with you today regarding an idea or project that is extremely unique. Listen attentively, because what he/she has to say could have possibilities.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today if you derive any special benefits, they are likely to come from a joint endeavor rather than from an independent pursuit. Don't waste time on situations you can't handle alone.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In a partnership arrangement today your counterpart might be more on track than you are. Yield if his/her way of doing things is superior to yours.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be surprised today if more than one person comes to you with his/her problems. Associates will innately sense that you are the person who has the solutions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep in mind that it is people, not things that makes the world work. Your best asset today is your ability to get along with others. Use it constructively.
