A MAN'S PRAYER

Lord, I live, O Mighty Master, Such a life as man should know, Lusting, triumph and disaster, And not too much of woe.

—AUTHOR UNKNOWN.

An Appeal To The People

In an unprecedented radio appeal for peace, the Duke of Windsor, former King of England, yesterday spoke from the greatest battlefield of the World War as a common soldier of that war in an effort to prevail upon the peoples of the world to lay aside their selfishness, hatreds, and jealousies in the hope of settling their differences before it is too late.

Calling attention to "the grave anxieties of the time in which we live" and alluding to the increasing tension between the dictatorships and the democracies of Western Europe, the man who laid aside an empire to marry the "woman I love" deplored the use of propaganda and the choice of words which tend to excite animosity and inflame prejudices.

"I speak simply as a soldier of the last war," he said, "whose most earnest prayer is that such cruel and destructive madness shall never again overtake mankind. I break my self-imposed silence now only because of the manifest danger that we may all be drawing nearer a repetition of the grim events which happened a quarter of a century ago."

Pointing out the horrors of war and the inevitable anarchy and chaos which would result from another great conflict in which all would be losers and no one would be the victor, the Duke insisted that the maintenance of peace is "too vital to be treated as a political question", and expressed the conviction that the peoples of all nations, Germans as well as others, sincerely want peace.

The Duke, who is extremely popular among the German people, for an Englishman, was heard over the radio throughout Germany and it seems to us more than likely that although his speech was broadcast in a dozen different countries, it was the German people more than any other to whom he was talking.

For while it is certainly true that the German people do not want war any more than the English people do, the leaders of the German people are pursuing a course which must inevitably lead to war if it is continued. It may be that demands on Danzig and the Polish Corridor will be met and the present crisis resolved after the manner of the Munich Accord, but the course will continue, resulting in some new crisis, ultimately bringing war, unless the present German leaders are removed.

Although they live under a dictatorship, the German people have the power within their hands to change their leadership any time they want to, just as the people of the democratic nations have. It is a little more difficult in Germany. It requires greater determination and greater singleness of purpose on the part of the people. It may even result in some bloodshed. But Hitler can be "liquidated" any time the German people recognize the need for new leadership.

If they were to become convinced that Hitler's policies are inevitably leading them to the most destructive war of all times, they might manifest their desire for peace by the overthrow of the existing government. This may have been the purpose of the Duke's speech.

Supplying Our Motor Industry

The automobile industry during the past quarter of a century has come to be an indispensable part of the economic life of our nation. The production, sale and distribution of some four million cars annually requires the combined efforts of several million workmen.

It may come as somewhat of a surprise to some to learn to what extent the automobile industry uses the products of our farms and fields, and how many hundreds of thousands of people are engaged, not in making cars, but in making the things out of which cars are made and supplied.

C. P. Simpson, general sales manager of the Pontiac Motor Company, recently made a survey to find out just how much of these various materials are used in making and supplying the Pontiac car alone. And this is what he found.

- Based on an annual production and sale of 200,000 cars, Pontiac owners obtain the agricultural products from an estimated 100,000 acres of land; he said. Some of these products include:
- 13,800,000 lbs. of cotton for tires, batting, cloth and brake lining.
- 100,000 bushels of corn for butyl alcohol and starch.
- 500,000 gallons of molasses (from sugar cane) for solvents, anti-freeze, and shock absorber fluids.
- 840,000 lbs. of wool for upholstery, floor coverings, lubricants and anti-rust preparations.
- 70,000 lbs. of goat hair for mohair upholstery.
- 400,000 lbs. of turpentine for solvents, paints and adhesives.
- 13,800,000 lbs. of rubber for several hundred parts of the car.
- 22,400,000 ft. of lumber for packing and other purposes.
- Products of mine and factory run into equally large box-car figures and include 270,000 tons of steel; 3,300 tons of copper and brass; 200 tons of tin; 2,700 tons of lead; 14,400 tons of cast pig iron; 500,000 gallons of spraying lacquer and 3,800,000 square feet of plate glass.
- To these physical items must be added the less tangible but most expensive items: use of millions of dollars worth of precision machinery and several million hours of labor at the highest average rate in American industry.

IN SPRING, when rains and snowmelts are subsiding, the weather is just right for a gold placer prospecting vacation, for "concentrations" of stream-drifted gold in the foothills are then at their heaviest. Get a map showing spots where free placer gold has been found; 25 cents postpaid from the Division of Mines, Ferry Building, San Francisco. It will refer you to northern California beaches, to the Klamath and Fanning regions, and to the lower Sierra foothills. Almost any stream in these sections will show "colors", and occasionally there will be a substantial gold find. The equipment is simple and inexpensive.

Gold, like water, goes downstream, and the finer the particles the farther they go before settling. Start panning in and along any stream bed, and if you strike color, pan upstream till the color "concentrates" (gold values). Then dig down to bed rock for the heavier deposits. Such a veinlet never costs much, and might pay for itself.

SPRINGTIME IN THE WOODS

NATURE'S WAYS

Edited By C. R. Mason, President Audubon Society

Trumpeter Swan Survives: In this column three weeks ago it was mentioned that nine North American birds are still in danger of extermination and four were given particular emphasis because three of them are still found in Florida, while the fourth, the Condor, existed here in ages long past.

While the Trumpeter Swan has never been recorded in this part of the country, this majestic bird may still be observed by Floridaans who travel in the Far West. While there are less than 600 of the species now in existence, it is fortunate that the bird breeds in the United States under the protection of the National Park Service and the U. S. Biological Survey, and under conditions that are not likely to be changed by drainage or other such factors affecting their favorable environment.

Yellowstone Park, Red Rock Lake Refuge in Montana, and Henry Lake, Idaho are the homes of many of the Trumpeters and probably nothing can be done that is not already being carried out to preserve these swans. The Canadians are also making every effort to protect this species on their side of the International Boundary.

It is an event receiving much newspaper publicity when these large birds land in some new locality, as occurred recently when four Trumpeter Swans visited a dam at Anaconda, Montana.

The Whooping Crane, a smaller species, is still found in considerable numbers in the East, and at present is given the full protection of the law that it deserves. The Mute Swan, the common variety introduced to many of our parks, has established itself in wild state in parts of the North-eastern states.

Whooping Crane Rare: Although the grey Florida Crane is known in many localities as the "whooping crane" because of its blaring, trumpet-like call, the true Whooping Crane is a large white crane, with a red face and black primary wing feathers, that has never been recorded in Florida.

Because the Whooping Crane is so large and conspicuous, and migrates over an immense area, even the protection of the law has been insufficient to keep these birds from being wholly shot on sight. There are now less than 300 Whooping Cranes known. They breed mostly in southern Michigan and northern Saskatchewan, moving southward in migration through the middle west to Texas and Mexico. Some of their rest for the winter on the Gulf of Mexico.

Perhaps action has not been swift enough to save one of our interesting shore birds, the Eskimo Curlew. A few reports from observers sighting it during the past ten years being faint hope that the species has not joined the Passenger Pigeon and the Carolina Parakeet as extinct birds. The Eskimo Curlew breeds in the far North, and migrates through the United States to winter in Argentina. Protected by law in the United States with other birds of its group, the few possibly remaining might still be shot during their migrations over Central and South America. The co-operation of Latin America, in opening the slightest foundation. In fact, anyone who thinks about it for even a moment must see that it can not be true on any large scale, for the total number of refugees admitted thus far is not great enough to make the conditions attributed to a single situation. But that does not stop the irresponsible people who thoughtlessly repeat the stories.

Now if you, we think, could be of some help, there is a small amount of money that has been set aside for the purpose of helping to pay the expenses of the people who are being persecuted in striving to feeling against refugees.

Whether this is true or not, it is certainly the fact that a large number of people are being persecuted in striving to feeling against refugees.

Hunting For Big Game Is Ranger's Daily Job

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, May 9.—(AP)—Seldom does the name of Scott Bowman get into print, but he's one of the greatest big game killers of the century.

Since the days of Buffalo Bill Cody they have been few, if any, men besides Bowman who have killed 400 buffalo.

Probably no other modern big game hunter ever has killed 375 elk in the United States.

Bowman doesn't boast about his prowess. He is a hunter from necessity, not choice, and all his hunting is inside Yellowstone National Park, where he has been a ranger for 20 years. It is part of his duty to aid in thinning the park's big game herds.

By the time the first race was on, and, according to Burton, all he saw of it was the tops of the jockeys' caps as they flashed by. Noting that some folks around him were standing on boxes to get a better view, he made inquiries and managed to rent a box for a kid for $1.00. Climbing up on this for the next race, he did better, for while he still couldn't see the horses, he distinguished the jockeys' hats on boxes as well as caps.

During the excitement of the race, he had the box knocked out from under him, and before he had time to get his feet again, he was on the ground.

Trying to see anything over the vast sea of hats and heads was out of the question, so he pushed his way to a lunch stand where, with a help of a girl in the other, he enjoyed the rest of the race, even though he couldn't see 'em.

Just because it seemed to be the thing to do, he got a $5 ticket to "show" on the next Kentucky Derby, to be informed after the race that his choice finished a poor last, about an eighth of a mile behind "Johnstown," the winner.

"It was a great race," he says, "and the greatest crowd I've ever been jostled about in, and while I can't say that I SAW the Derby, I can at least say that I attended it. And while there is considerable doubt in my mind as to whether or not the experience was worth what it cost, it nevertheless convinced me that I like Florida better than anywhere else on earth; that, compared to other sections, we give our visitors a mighty good heady and that if I ever see another Kentucky Derby I'll have to be held at Hialeah!"

Burton's experience reminds me that a fellow complained bitterly to me because he was charged $5 a day for a room in Tampa during the Florida Fair and Grapefruit Carnival, and howled about a steak dinner that cost him two bucks, and we had over 100,000 visitors in the city that day. So

It is certainly the fact that a large number of people are being persecuted in striving to feeling against refugees.

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"

By RUSSELL KAY

For years I have been listening to tales of tourists and winter visitors about how Florida attacks them for hotel accommodations, for meals and in other ways, and while in a few instances such complaints may be justified I've found from personal experience, as have many other Floridians, that our state is no worse than a lot of other places. I got a big kick out of listening to Burton Schoepf, president of Tamiami Tours, tell me of his experiences in Louisville last week during the Kentucky Derby.

Being called porth on business, he found his schedule would permit him to stop off and take in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs. He arrived in Louisville to find every hotel filled with the best kind of a time getting a "cubby hole" of a room at the nominal rate of $25—in fact the clerk assured him he was lucky to get even that. Food was as hard to get as were rooms, but he managed to satisfy his hunger with a platter of plain old fashioned ham and eggs which set him back one buck, and the coffee he got for 15 cents a cup, take it or leave it.

"What?" I asked—"No for orange juice?"

"If there was anything in Louisville being offered at 5c," he says, "I didn't run into it." Then he launched into a description of his experience at the race track. The taxi from his hotel to Churchill Downs was $5. All grandstand seats were sold, so for $2.35 he got an admission ticket for standing room on the main floor.

With some $3,000 people milling about the grounds, the problem of finding a vantage point to view the race was something to worry about. After being pushed and shoved by the milling mob, he finally managed to work his way to within about 75 or 80 feet of the track, where he was jammed in so tight it was all he could do to breathe.

By the time the first race was on, and, according to Burton, all he saw of it was the tops of the jockeys' caps as they flashed by. Noting that some folks around him were standing on boxes to get a better view, he made inquiries and managed to rent a box for a kid for $1.00. Climbing up on this for the next race, he did better, for while he still couldn't see the horses, he distinguished the jockeys' hats on boxes as well as caps.

Mrs. Irwin Delivers Report On Auxiliaries

Mrs. C. L. Irwin, president of Campbell-Lossing Unit No. 53, American Legion Auxiliary, gave her yearly report last Friday night at the monthly meeting, which was the last before installation of new officers.
Before reading her report on activities of the past year, Mrs. Irwin stated, "I read this report, but you have furnished the material. Without the cooperation of my efficient officers, chairman, and unit members, this report of which I am proud, could not have been written."
"For the privilege and honor of serving my unit as president, I am very grateful. The pleasure and satisfaction I have received in Auxiliary service more than repays whatever time or effort I have devoted to this unit. While I am stepping back from the president's chair, it is only to fall in line again as a member, still eager to serve in whatever capacity I am able."
Reports on the recent department convention held in Ft. Lauderdale were made by Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. Sid Richard, delegates from the local unit. Each spoke of the great inspiration derived from attending the various sessions, and stated they left the convention "more eager to be of service in their own unit of this great organization." Both delegates expressed appreciation for the honor of being chosen to represent the unit.
Mrs. T. L. Sullivan was appointed general chairman of arrangements for the installation of officers, which the date and plans will be announced later.

than it actually pays to a teacher. The legislature has made definite commitments. "We'll do the best we can," said Westbrook.
Come said the State would benefit materially by higher untaxable taxes which he proposed to produce by making payments on a 100 percent basis instead of 50 percent basis now used.
He estimated the true track could provide $1,000,000 if the State took the so-called "old cents" break from part-time teachers and added one percent to the taxes now collected and distributed equally among counties.
He estimated the State could reduce its public school contributions by about $2,000,000 a year if it tightened up its distribution and gave a county no more than it actually pays to a teacher. His estimate would mean, some teachers are paid small amounts, and others are paid $1,200 to $1,300 by using the difference.

nerved, and got a job at the Fayetteville, Ark., station of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad. That was in March, 1883.
"There was a station agent, a telegraph operator and a helper at that Fayetteville station," Gray said. "Then there was me. I helped the helper. I cleaned the shoes and spittoons. My wages were nothing a month and I paid the telegraph operator five dollars a month to teach me what he knew."
Gray became successively telegraph operator, telegraph station agent, chief clerk, commercial agent, district and division freight agent, and finally, through the successful culmination of an original idea to gain more freight revenue, division superintendent, his first operating job. That was when he was 30.
After Gray served successfully as Fresno superintendent of transportation, general manager, vice president and senior vice president of the Illinois, Missouri and North Pacific, in 1911, made his headquarters in the Spokane, Portland and Seattle line and the Oregon Electric railway.
Under war-time government operation of the railroads, Gray was directed for a year to the division of transportation and operations for the United States railroad administration.
Honorary Doctor of Laws degrees were conferred on him by the University of Maryland and Washington and Jefferson colleges.
Though hale and hearty at 70, Gray insisted Union Pacific's retirement rule apply to himself. But he maintained an interest in the railroad industry, and developed as steamboiler train and 60-mile an hour freight movements.

Dean Hurls One-Hit Shutout; Allows 2 Walks, Whiffs Nine

Campbell, Marion Lead Five-Hit Attack On Kenney And Each Drives In Two Tallies For Topnotch Locals

The rollicking Sanford Lookouts chalked up another error-free win last night as they blanked the Orlando Senators, 4-0 behind the lanky right hander, "Dad" Dean, who pitched a one-hit shutout at the Municipal Athletic Field and did not allow a single Orlando man to reach second.

Sanford's long standing early-inning lead habit bobbed out again last night when in the last of the second the locals came through with three runs to move into the lead.

A pass by Kenney to Langston started off the party. Langston advancing to second when Lane was safe at first on an error. Marion poked a single into left to score Langston, before Campbell came to the plate to ram a single into right, scoring Lane and Marion.

The Lookouts picked up another run in the last of the eighth to give them the lead of the four runs they collected to win.

Kenney on the mound for Orlando, played the route, pitching a five-hit game. Campbell, shortstop, and Marion, third baseman, each batted two singles while Bouler connected for a double. Smith connected for the fluke single which spoiled Dean's perfect game.

Each pitcher walked two men, while in the strike-out department Dean whiffed nine of the little legislators, against five strikes out for Kenney.

Hold hitless last night, it was the first game in which Alexander had failed to connect in the last 17 games.

In the runs batted in division Marion and Campbell were equally effective, driving in two runs each.

Barnett turned top fielding performance, handling three difficult chances without an error.

Saints Get 5-4 Edge Over G-Men In 10 Inning Loop Battle

Scoring four runs in the last half of the ninth inning, the Anglers come from behind to nose out the Palatka Azaleas 8-7 in a regularly scheduled Florida State League Contest in Leesburg last night while at St. Augustine the Saints rallied in the 10th inning to break a 4-4 deadlock and win from the Gainesville G-Men by a score of 5-4.

What was expected to be the loop's hardest-fought battle at Daytona Beach between the Islanders and the DeLand Reds was postponed because of wet grounds. However, unless the Weather Man again forbids, the two teams will mix it up in DeLand tonight.

The fighting Red Hats are making a strong bid for the No. 2 spot held by the Islanders consistently for some time.

Although out 12 to 11 by the visiting Palatka nine, Danny Vickers double with the bases loaded in the fatal ninth inning climaxed a rally of the Anglers who began the frame at a 7-4 disadvantage. Vickers also collected two singles to take hitting honors.

Although out 13 to 6, the Saints were able to combine their efforts for one tally each in the first and second frames and scored twice in the eighth to tie the score with the G-Men at 4-4.

Lake went the entire route for the Saints and while giving up 13 blows, kept them well scattered. The G-Men used three pitchers to stop the hitting attack of the Saints.

Tillis' triple into center in the first half of the 10th inning, followed by Kenis' single to right gave Team No. 3 a 6-4 win over Team No. 2 in an extra-inning Kivans Junior circuit contest at the lake shore diamondball park yesterday evening.

Later in the same inning, Jackson poked a line drive over short, to advance Kenis who scored when Gatchel slapped out another single, to break the tie when Team No. 2 failed to score in the last half of the tenth.

McCall, on the mound for the losers, was nipped for 14 hits, while Kenis, the winning pitcher, gave up only six hits.

Ordinarily scheduled for seven innings, the contest went into three overtimes, stanzas after Team No. Two had collected one run each in the last of the third and the fifth to tie things up with the two-run first inning lead Team No. 3 had grabbed.

In the ninth Team No. 3 shoved across two runs to take a temporary lead which the No. 2 outfit nullified by shoving across two tallies of their own.

McCall, on the mound for the losers, was the outstanding hitter of the season connecting for three for four, for a .750 average for the afternoon.

Next game is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon Recreation director R. M. Hardaker announced.

Revamp Plan Gets Senate Group's Okey

Plan Will Become Effective In 60 Days Unless Rejected On Floor Of Senate

Funds Allotted For New Projects

$255,000,000 In Appropriated For Non-Military Activities

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—The Senate reorganization committee approved today President Roosevelt's government reorganization plan number two.

It would regroup a score of government agencies and would abolish the bituminous coal commission, lodging its functions in the Interior Department.

The Senate committee's action today came on a resolution by Chalmers Brynes, D., S. C., to disapprove the plan. The committee reported adversely.

Brynes expects to obtain Senate rejection of the resolution this week. If it is rejected the reorganization plan will go into effect automatically at the end of sixty days.

After a bitter fight behind closed doors, a House appropriation of $255,000,000 was made today for non-military activities of the War Department, chiefly for river and harbor improvements and flood control.

It refused, however, to take fifty million dollars for that purpose from next year's relief funds.

President Roosevelt yesterday criticized the free spending policy of Congress and charged that its leaders have their hands on the money. He said that the $255,000,000 in farm parity payments voted last session. His ire was stirred by Senate action in adding $375,000,000 to the pending, record-breaking $1,211,877,000 in farm parity payments. The budget called for $842,182,051 and the House clipped $7,000,000 from this figure after first rejecting a farm parity grant of $255,000,000.

The Senate not only rushed the parity appropriation through but approved an additional $113,000,000 to finance disposal of surplus agricultural commodities. This fund would be tapped for cash to operate the proposed two cents a pound cotton export subsidy sponsored by Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, if approved by the Senate.

District Governor To Address Lions At Meet Tonight

Joe Tarantino, Florida district governor for Lions International, and Millard Conklin of Daytona Beach International director, will be guests at the regular meeting of the Lions Club in the Valdez Hotel tonight at 7:00 o'clock.

Secretary J. L. Galloway said today he urged a full attendance of members.

Last night a delegation of approximately 30 from Sanford attended the chapter night ceremonies for the recently organized Deland club which was presented its charter with due ritual by Gov. Tarantino. Mr. Conklin presided at the meeting held at Deland Springs and both of the club members made addresses to the newly formed club.

House Passes Bill To Pension Firemen

TALLAHASSEE, May 10.—(AP)—The House passed a firemen's pension bill today 40 to 24, and will send it back to the Senate for consideration of minor amendments.

The bill sets up retirement provisions for firemen in a class which has not always been provided in some part of the state. Insurance premium taxes collected at $100 a year, to supplement funds paid by firemen out of their own pockets, and relating to the pension plan, had been authorized by the state.

BRITISH ENVOY

Once labeled "pro-German" for his views on giving Germany "elementary justice," Lord Lothian, newly appointed British ambassador to the U. S., is pictured reading "Hitler's Mein Kampf." Since the seizure of Czechoslovakia, he has been an outstanding proponent of a grand anti-fascist alliance of peace-loving nations.

Ketch "Caprice" With Two Aboard Is Adrift At Sea

Sea Captain Who Was Visitor Here Is In Command Of Boat

Capt. Robert Murdoch, owner of the ketch "Caprice" which was moored for some time at the Municipal Pier last Fall, and his companion, Jack Thompson, both of Matland, have been adrift in the Atlantic Ocean in the 58-foot vessel for nine days, according to information received today.

They are adrift in the Gulf Stream without a radio, Mr. Thompson said, "and unless picked up soon will be carried far out to sea by the current."

The two men, who sailed as captain and crew from Fort Lauderdale Apr. 12 to take the ketch in New York where they were delivering it to a charter customer for summer use, were last sighted about 120 miles off Block Island, N. Y. last Wednesday.

Previous to that they were reported drifting 200 miles east of Cape Henry, Va., on May 1.

"They sailed the ship Spar without a rudder," Mr. Thompson said, "and in need of assistance." Mr. Thompson said.

"They asked the Spar's master to report their plight to the Coast Guard," Mr. Murdoch said. "The Spar's crew had 200 gallons of water aboard and an ample supply of food."

"That's how we heard of their plight," she said. "But my husband and Captain Murdoch told the Spar's crew they had 200 gallons of water aboard and an ample supply of food."

"The Coast Guard has been searching for the Caprice ever since but the hunt has been fruitless thus far," she said.

"Mrs. Thompson and Mr. Murdoch said they were not worried. 'If the Coast Guard doesn't find them, they'll be picked up by a transatlantic liner because the Gulf stream, in which they must be drifting for its the strongest current along the coast, will carry or later carry them into the path of ships going or coming from Europe,' they pointed out.

"The ketch is equipped with an auxiliary motor, which could keep the craft moving."

"When last sighted the Caprice had all sails set, indicating that both our husbands were in good luck," she said.

Eight Local Measures Get Okey Of House

City, County, Oviedo Bills Passed After Being Introduced By Representatives

Eight local bills which have been introduced by Representatives John G. Leonard and H. J. Lehman were given the approval of the House during a "local bill night" at the Florida capital last evening.

The measures passed included those which had been sought by the City of Sanford. One of the bills provides for the continuance of the powers of the City Commission as a delinquent tax adjustment board until May 1, 1940.

It provides for no change in the plan for adjustment of delinquent City taxes but also gives the City to extend the advantages of the adjustment program to those who were unable to make application before the adjustment process, granted by the 1937 Legislature, expired earlier in the year.

House Bill No. 1,000 amending the charter to allow further tax discounts as an additional incentive for early payment of City taxes was also given House approval. The bill provides that the City shall allow a 4 percent discount for payment in November, three percent in December, two percent in January, and one percent in February. This bill also imposes a penalty of 12 percent interest for non-payment of personal property taxes.

The third City bill providing that a check charge shall be sufficient to notify a defendant in Municipal Court of the offense for which he is to be tried. This measure was sought by Chief of Police Roy G. Williams to eliminate certain red tape in connection with the procedure of the court.

A bill was also passed which would establish a wildlife sanctuary in the Bear Lake district.

The bill provides for the removal of game birds and animals to the area and prohibits the discharge of firearms.

Two measures which were sought by the Town of Oviedo would waive all interest accrued and to accrue on $3,000 Oviedo bonds held by the County Commission; the other would authorize the Oviedo Town Council to act as a delinquent tax adjustment board.

The other two measures change the time for the opening of the County and Circuit Courts so as not to conflict with the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners which is held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in the month. The Court term will be unchanged but the opening day will be the second Tuesday after the first Monday instead of the first Tuesday as heretofore.

Revels Go On Trial For Murder Of Clerk

TAVARES, May 10.—The Revels boys will go on trial for their lives today.

Indicted for first degree murder, J. W. and Gordon Revels face death in the electric chair if they are convicted.

J. W. Revels is 24, and his brother, Gordon, is 22. They were arrested in Polk County two days after the slaying of a 21-year-old store clerk in the store of the late Charles R. Bingham, 17-year-old, who was held up and robbed, and two of the store's employees were seriously wounded Jan. 16.

Two weeks after the robbery Charles Bingham, 17-year-old store clerk in the store, died of his wounds. Last week, when the Lake County grand jury met, they indicted the Revels boys, whose father is a preacher.

Truman G. Pugh of Leesburg, former State Senator from Lake County, was appointed by the court to defend the Revels. What his defense will be, he would not say, but it was presumed one of his main pleas will be based on the fact that actually the Revels boys did no shooting.

First Aid Course To Be Held For Men

A 20-hour first aid class for men over 18 will be started next week at an announcement made today by American Red Cross officials, who stated that Fireman Gerry Denney, for several years holder of a Red Cross first aid instructor's certificate, will have charge of the class to be held in the county health center adjoining the fire station.

De Wolski Expects No War Despite European Tension

C Of C Continues Efforts For Road No. 44 Repairs Course To Be Charted At Joint Meet With Brevard Group

Plans for continuation of Joint Seminole-Brevard county efforts to secure the improvement of State Road No. 44 from Sanford to the east coast were discussed by officials of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce at the monthly meeting of the Board of Directors in the chamber building last night.

It was reported that arrangements are being made with the Brevard county Chamber of Commerce to hold another joint dinner at which a course of future action will be discussed and outlined.

Pay of a small stretch of the highway is now under way on the eastern end near Mims and Chamber of Commerce officials announced that an effort will be made to secure additional funds for repaving the roadway to the St. Johns River bridge while the Brevard county Chamber of Commerce is in the midst of holding another joint dinner at which a course of future action will be discussed and outlined.

While admitting the strength of the Nazi air fleet, the speaker discounted the power of the mechanized land forces, pointing out that in the bloodless occupation of Austria's four-tank regiments comprised of 30 tanks each which gave reports of no resistance and that of this number only eight reached Vienna without breakdowns.

While Nazi propaganda would attempt to make one believe that Germany is without troubles at home, Capt. de Wolski declared that Hitler's expanding empire is torn by international strife.

He told of recent news broadcast from Belgium and France which gave reports of no resistance in the Nazi, rich mining center and the Nazi leader's first conquest. The miners in this area demanded their work week reduced from 41 to 40 hours and that they be given better and cheaper food, he said.

Not only were the demands of these striking miners refused but 100 of them were mowed down by a strong squad, the speaker related.

Capt. de Wolski declared the present troubles in Europe could be traced directly to the Versailles peace treaty which destroyed France's ability to destroy Germany to come the German nation. Declaring that the treaty which ended the World War also paved the way for Hitler's meteoric rise, he said that the German people in rebuilding their nation in defiance of the treaty provisions.

After Hitler's power, he pointed out that the Fuehrer enlarged the boundaries of the German nation by annexing through blood the Czechoslovakia, the Sudetenland and then the whole of Czechoslovakia.

Hitler continually declares more lands, he said, adding that it is his belief that Poland will finally resist current demands. From outside on it for a right of way across Poland's only outlet to the sea, Poland realized this would give Germany control of its exports and imports.

Declaring that to call a Pole a German is the lowest of insults, Capt. de Wolski said that this bitterness had its beginnings in the Polish and 12th centuries when the Order of Knights of the Cross membership in which 90 percent was German, came into Poland to defend it from the attacking tribesmen from the North. This they did successfully but after about 50 years they attempted to subjugate the Polish people which action resulted in a war that was not ended until the knights were overthrown and crushed by the armies of a Lithuanian king.

Later Germany again gained control of Poland, Capt. de Wolski said, and an attempt was made to destroy the Polish language and culture as well as to enslave the Poles. These efforts have been a thorn in the side of Poland ever since, he said.

Poland has a strong army, he disclosed, and the topography of the nation is such as to minimize the effectiveness of the Nazi's mechanized forces. Poland also has an air force which was strengthened considerably by Hitler's conquest of Czechoslovakia.

Before Hitler marched into Czechoslovakia, pilots flew 1,500 of the Czech's most modern planes across the border into Poland, the speaker said, and along with them all specifications for the latest type armaments in the possession of the Czechs.

Declaring that Poland "will not be taken over by Hitler," Capt. de Wolski said that the entire population of Poland is solidly behind the government's refusal to accept the demands of their neighbor dictator.

Declaring that the British is Poland's greatest hinderance, the speaker said that Chamberlain did not get enough at Munich but is ready to continue his appeasement policy. Poland also knows that Chamberlain is not a friend of the Polish cause.

France, finally related to Poland, on the other hand realizes the mistake of Munich and is determined to stand with Poland.

Chandler Hits Europe's Status Quo Depends On Soviet Decision

Lewis' Aim In Coal Dispute Kentucky Governor To Call Out Militia Unless Mines Are Re-Opened Monday

LEUKFORD, Ky., May 10.—Gov. A. B. Chandler said today that unless the eastern Kentucky coal mines were operating by Monday he would send the National Guard troops into the area to give protection to men willing to work.

The Governor said there was no dispute between mine owners and mine representatives on wages, hours or working conditions and that the whole controversy was a fight on the AFL by John L. Lewis who is insisting on a demand for closed shops and the elimination of penalty clauses to prohibit illegal strikes.

"As Governor of this commonwealth," said Chandler, "I have taken the position that any unemployed citizen of America has the right to work and that the government has a duty to see that the right to work is not taken away from any citizen."

In language which sounded much like a ultimatum, President Roosevelt announced yesterday that he had asked coal operators and union officials for a quick settlement of the bituminous coal deadlock.

The request was made at a conference in his office, attended by five leaders of the United Mine Workers, five mine operators and Secretary of Labor Perkins. Roosevelt advised newsmen later that he had told the disputants that the public good demands an immediate resumption of mining, and that by tomorrow night they should work out a method for respecting the mines.

The President spoke with unusual vigor and emphasis as he informed the reporters of the conversation, his voice rising to an indignant pitch when he ordered the two parties to agree on every point at issue except one, and were agreed in principle on that. They had, he said, only to settle the details of that one point to reopen the mines.

On that point, he added, they agreed that there should be a vertical, or industrial, union in the mines and that for purposes of control, organizing the United Mine Workers should be organized as that union. They had not, he said, been able to work out the details for carrying that into effect, which he thought a very interesting fact.

Morrison Holds "Musical Quiz" At Kiwanis Lunch

Lawton Invites Club To Inspect Hospital During "Open House"

A "Musical Quiz" program, with C. S. Morrison acting as the interrogator, was held at the Kiwanis luncheon at the Valdez Hotel today. Mr. Morrison was assisted in the memory work by Mrs. Arthur Berman who accompanied the instructor.

T. W. Lawton, chairman of the board of directors of the Federal Teaching Memorial Hospital, gave a short talk on the background of National Hospital Week, and extended from the hospital staff, a cordial invitation to attend the "open house" planned by the staff. He emphasized the fact that the staff has planned this celebration Friday as a "get acquainted" day and not as a part of a donation drive, although any preferred donations would be accepted.

In the "Musical Quiz" program which followed, Mr. Morrison devoted the first part of the class period to oral questions and answers concerning the lives and works of famous American and European composers.

The one "stumper" asked by the examiner, proved to be "Who was the composer of 'Dixie' and what was the name of the first first introduced?" No member of the club identified Dan Emmet as the composer, or remembered the song was first sung in a musical comedy in New York.

The last half of the examination was given in the form of musical memory work. Mrs. Berman played old songs which the members were asked to identify.

The luncheon group joined in singing "God Bless America."

Orange Figures Are Corrected By Mayo

TALLAHASSEE, May 10.—(AP)—Commissioner of Agriculture Mayo said yesterday he had been informed by the United States department of agriculture that 2,750,000 boxes of Florida oranges of all varieties remained to be shipped May 3.

Mayo said this figure should be used in the place of one erroneously announced by the state citrus inspection bureau at Winter Haven recently.

"It was most unfortunate," Mayo said, "that such figures as the department compiled for departmental purposes receive publicity as all informed parties agree that they were vastly in excess of actual facts."

Britain Watches Russia Hopefully As Negotiations For Alliance Continue

Italian Premier Mussolini Attempts To Draw His Neighbor Closer To Axis

BRITAIN looked hopefully to Soviet Russia today for aid in maintaining the European status quo while Premier Mussolini bent his efforts toward drawing Yugoslavia closer to the Rome-Berlin axis.

London diplomats expressed a confidence that Soviet dissatisfaction over British security proposals could be overcome even though the official Soviet news agency, Tass, yesterday termed the proposals one-sided.

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons in a cabinet approved statement that Britain sought Soviet Russia's promise of military aid in eastern Europe only after Britain and France themselves had taken the field.

Banking a silence on the governments security alliance proposals, Chamberlain said the proposals "include a plan it was not a part of their (the British) intention that the Soviet government should commit themselves to intervene irrespective of whether the Great Britain and France had already, in discharge of their obligation, done so."

Since negotiations are still in progress, Chamberlain said, he could not give the full details of the plan. He said that the British government had already, in discharge of their obligation, done so.

City News Briefs

C. R. Mason of this city, arrived in Havana Cuba yesterday via a Pan-American clipper, according to information received today from the Pan American Airways in Miami.

There will be no mid-week services at the Presbyterian Church tonight since the regular meeting will be held in conjunction with the revival now being held at the United Church, it was announced by Dr. E. D. Browner, pastor of the church, this morning.

Solomon Jerry was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs or serve nine months in the county jail when he pleaded guilty to two charges of assault and battery before County Judge R. W. Ware.

Suppression Of Slots As Evidence Sought

DELAND, May 10.—(AP)—Council for the defendants in the now-famous slot machine case scheduled for trial in county Judge's court here this week sought the suppression of approximately 720 confiscated machines and repair equipment as evidence yesterday.

But County Judge J. E. Peacock ruled that the trial of A. H. Reicht, Jack Mather, J. S. Christian, and C. R. Hodley, all of Daytona Beach, will have to proceed as scheduled the first thing this morning.

County Prosecutor Howard Hodley had indicated that he would be forced to file a motion for the charge of harboring illegal gaming devices which stand against the Daytona Beach quarters of their request for suppression of the machines as evidence were granted.
