No school board meeting today

Don't go to the Seminole County School board meeting this afternoon. It's not 'till tomorrow.

The school board regularly has their first meeting of the month on the second Tuesday but, in an effort to accommodate a variety of post-graduation activities and other scheduling conflicts, this month's meeting was moved to the second Wednesday (June 15).

The board will return to the regular schedule after tomorrow and the next meeting will be on Tuesday, June 28 at 7 p.m.

Tomorrow's meeting will be in the board meeting room at 1211 S. Mellonville Ave., Sanford. It will begin at 3:30 p.m.

GreeneWay ramps open

WINTER SPRINGS — The last two ramps to the Central Florida GreeneWay in Seminole County will be opened tomorrow morning. The ramps, linking southbound traffic to State Road 434 and SR 434 traffic to Sanford, will be opened at 6 a.m. Work will continue along the ramps and the resurfacing of SR 434 near the intersection. The ramps will trim a 25-minute trip to Sanford to 10 minutes or less.

Menendez brothers split

LOS ANGELES — Lyle Menendez threatened his younger brother, Erik, the night they killed their parents, Erik's lawyers say. That's news to the prosecutors, who cite the brothers' harmonious defense at their first murder trial.

The allegation, a sign that there may be a split defense as the brothers face a new trial, came to light Monday as prosecutors replied to a brief Erik's lawyers filed in April that was never made public.

The prosecutors quoted the defense brief as saying Lyle, 26, had threatened Erik, 23, and that it was crucial for the defense to prove the "theory that Erik was fearful of Lyle at the time of the alleged crimes."

Prosecutors countered in their brief that any effort to portray Lyle Menendez as the mastermind who dominated Erik conflicted with Erik's 10 days of testimony in the brothers' first trial.

The brothers admitted to the shotgun slayings of their millionaire parents, Jose Menendez, 45, and Kitty, 47, at their Beverly Hills mansion in 1989. The brothers said they killed their parents in self-defense, fearing their father and mother would kill them after years of physical and psychological abuse.

The prosecution argued the brothers killed to get their hands on the multimillion-dollar family fortune, which has since dwindled.

In January, separate juries that had been convened at a single trial deadlocked between first-degree murder and lesser manslaughter charges.

The brothers' lawyers want either separate juries or separate trials for the second murder trial. Los Angeles County prosecutors want the brothers tried together before one jury.

A Superior Court judge is to decide these issues and set a trial date June 27. The brothers are being held without bail in county jail.

$2.9 million grant eyed for Midway, Goldsboro

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The City Commission in cooperation with Seminole County has agreed to apply for a $2.9 million grant that could provide funds for a massive redevelopment of the Goldsboro and Midway communities.

Although commissioners Lon Howell and A.A. McClanahan were not on hand for the work session discussion or regular meeting, the proposal to submit the strategic plan document received unanimous approval.

"Several community leaders were on hand to discuss the proposals," said Director of Community Development Charles Rowe, "and they wanted more emphasis on residential and less on commercial development, but the plan calls for all aspects of this."

During the regular commission meeting last night, approval was granted to have the city's portion of the application, signed by Mayor Bettye Smith.

Today, Seminole County commissioners are scheduled to take the matter up for consideration. It will require an agreement from both parties in order to submit proper

County to spend more on children

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners gave tentative approval to spend $767,825 for local community service agencies next year.

Commissioners delayed decisions on whether to issue another $71,650 in grants. They questioned $52,650 sought by GoldenRule Housing and Community Development Corp. and $19,000 sought by Spouse Abuse Inc. They'll make final decisions on the spending during budget approvals later this year.

Under a new streamlined review process, commissioners reviewed 34 requests for grants totaling $1.4 million. Last year, the commission spent $747,300 for the grants to groups serving children and seniors and the needs of families and individuals.

In previous years, commissioners spent six to seven hours listening to pitches from each group before deciding grant awards. This year, commissioners spent five hours reviewing the proposals and questioning agency representatives who attended. Commissioner Larry Furlong, who sought the change, said the process wasn't perfect, but it was better.

Commissioners gave a slight spending edge to children's pro-

Building of mall begins

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Physical construction is scheduled to begin today, at the Seminole Towne Center mall site. The general contractor for the project has been named.

Simon Property Group, Inc., developer of the mall, announced late yesterday that Hardin Construction Group, Inc., will be the general contractor.

A Simon spokesman said Hardin, an Atlanta-based construction firm, has extensive experience, with over 18 million square feet of retail space including both new construction and renovation/expansion of enclosed malls, community shopping centers, conventional department stores, discount department stores, retail shops, and merchandise marts.

Tom Schneider, Simon's vice president for development, said construction on the mall's foundation would begin today.

Erection of the steel for the structure is scheduled to begin in mid-August, with all structural work to be completed by March of 1995.

As announced in the original ground-breaking ceremonies on Sept. 9 of last year, the official opening of the mall is still scheduled for Sept. 7, 1995. Ground clearing started last August, and has been underway continuously since that time.

During the construction, Simon officials expect approximately 1,400 construction jobs will be provided.

Murder trial: Inmates testify against inmates

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Inmates testified against inmates Monday in the trial of Anton Daryl Meyers claiming details of a seven-year-old murder were made up by prisoners who answered questions for the state because they want help getting out of prison.

Three prison inmates testified for the defense Monday at the first degree murder trial of Meyers, but not about details of the disappearance of Kathy Engels. None of the inmates claimed direct knowledge of Meyers or his case. However, the inmates claimed two other inmates, who testified for the prosecution earlier, made up their story in order to get help in their own cases.

At one time, the three prison See Murder, Page 5A

Schools request change in reporting progress

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Still trying to find the most effective way of reporting student progress while increasing self esteem and learning potential, the Seminole County school board is being asked to grant a number of waivers at many of the schools around the district.

Thirteen elementary schools, including Goldsboro, Lake Mary, Wilson and Woodlands, are asking for waivers related to the way progress is reported at the kindergarten level.

For example, at Goldsboro Elementary School, the request has been made to move to a "narrative conference style" report card.

Currently, the report card is more of a check list that lets parents know if a student is learning the skills for passage. Little individual attention to detail is permitted using the format.

Principal Geraldine Wright believes the narrative method will open lines of communication between the school and home by allowing teachers to communicate specific information about each student and his or her needs and achievements though the more See Report, Page 5A

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Greenpeace says Chiles could do more

PENSACOLA — A Greenpeace spokesman accuses Gov. Lawton Chiles of failing to put sufficient pressure on the federal government to stop natural gas drilling off the Florida Panhandle.

Chiles has repeatedly urged that drilling be prohibited, but Steve Kretzman of Greenpeace's office in Washington, D.C., said those efforts have been inadequate.

"We have got a Democratic governor with a Democratic administration in Washington," Kretzman said. "You can't tell me he doesn't have influence up there."

Kretzman accompanied the environmental group's flagship, the Rainbow Warrior, on a week-long visit that began Sunday to protest drilling off the Panhandle shore.

He contrasted Chiles' performance to that of his Republican predecessor, Bob Martinez, who persuaded a GOP administration to prohibit drilling off the Florida Keys.

Chiles should be able to do the same for the Panhandle with the Clinton administration, Kretzman insisted.

Obtaining a drilling ban would be a way for Chiles, who is running for re-election this year, to get back in the good graces of environmental voters who are angry over what many claim is an inadequate cleanup settlement for the Florida Everglades, Kretzman suggested.

Activists question Everglades cleanup

MIAMI — An Everglades cleanup plan passed by the Florida Legislature doesn't set tough enough water standards and could kill the damaged ecosystem, says an environmental activist.

The Friends of the Everglades and the Miccosukee Tribe on Monday challenged an Environmental Protection Agency permit for nutrient-rich water that will flow through artificial marshes before reaching the Everglades. They requested a hearing before the EPA.

"The cleanup we were left with by the governor last spring was a phony, and if it is allowed to stand, it will be the death of the Everglades," said Joe Podgor, executive director of Friends of the Everglades. "We're trying to get the EPA to stop the pollution under the law."

They maintain the water allowed by the permit violates the federal Clean Water Act.

The legislation requires sugar growers to spend $322 million over 20 years to clean up the water trickling from their farms into the Everglades.

The groups say the EPA permit has left phosphorous levels too high and needs to restrict levels of other pollutants in the water flowing from sugar-growing areas to the north.

Big Guy put to rest

TAMPA — Big Guy, a Florida panther who typified the sad plight of a species whose number has dwindled to fewer than 50, has been laid to rest.

The 13-year-old panther lived the last decade of his life in an outdoor pen near Jacksonville after being struck by a car on the Tamiami Trail, the southern most road through the Everglades.

The animal, suffering from severe neurological problems, was put to sleep June 3.

"The animal was blind, unable to stand, and was having occasional seizures. He simply was dying of old age," said Michael Dunbar, a veterinarian for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

Biologists repeatedly attempted over the years to breed Big Guy with female Texas cougars, a close cousin of the endangered panther. It was an attempt to preserve the cat's bloodlines and help build a captive stock as a hedge against extinction. But the females never conceived.

Scientists say the Florida panther, the last subspecies of American cougar living east of the Mississippi River, is rapidly losing its genetic vitality.

Bodies of woman, two children found

MARY ESTHER — A woman and two children were found dead in a home here and officials were searching for a suspect early today.

The Okaloosa County sheriff's office received a call Monday afternoon from an officer at Eglin Air Force Base who was unable to find one of his men and asked deputies to look for him at home, said spokesman Rick Hord.

"We did not find the airman that we were looking for, but we found a woman and two kids who were dead," he said.

"There was evidence of violence in the house," said Hord, who refused to provide additional details.

Crime scene teams remained at the home late Monday and the bodies still had not been positively identified.

The woman was believed to be in her 20s or 30s. The children were believed to be a boy and girl, about 5 and 6, Hord said.

The airman remained missing late Monday. "We're still not quite ready to release his name yet," the spokesman said.

University goals

Chancellor says Florida universities face double challenge

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The state university system will have to seek big increases in its $3.2 billion budget to let schools improve quality while handling more students, Chancellor Charles Reed has said.

The state Board of Regents has wrung about all it can from efficiency improvements in the 118,000-student system, Reed said Monday. "They're going to have to go to the Legislature. They're going to have to go to the governor."

"We're probably the most efficient system in America in dollars spent per student," he said. "You can have a symphony with only one violin. It will be very efficient. But it probably won't be very good."

Reed said he won't predict how big a budget boost will be sought until the board gets proposals in July from the nine operating universities and the new Florida

Gulf Coast University, preparing to open in 1997 at Fort Myers.

But he said the system is trying to improve quality of education while also rapidly expanding.

"You have to pay for that," Reed said at a workshop for regents new to budget making. Half the 14 members have been on the board less than a year.

The universities want to spend more on enhancements of educational quality such as research, libraries, and faculty salaries.

For example, Reed said their average faculty salary of $43,879 ranks 35th among the states. State university faculties nationally average $48,130. State averages range from $80,395 in New Jersey to $36,236 in South Dakota.

While trying to improve in those areas, the schools also must be ready for an onslaught of Florida high-school graduates, Reed said.

After growing from 90,000 in 1984 to more than 100,000 at present, 12th-grade enrollment is expected to mushroom to 165,000 by 2007, Reed said.

For the universities to meet resulting demand, he said, "The system's got to increase by 50 percent over the next 10 years."

Reed said Florida has room to raise higher education spending. The university system's share of total state general revenue has dropped from nearly 11 percent in 1980 to just over 7 percent at present, he said.

Florida ranks 44th among states in undergraduate resident tuition and fees at its state universities, and is also 44th in state tax funds per $1,000 in personal income spent on higher education, Reed added.

He said the comparison with personal income made an important point: "We're a relatively wealthy state that doesn't put its money into higher education."

Crenshaw challenges Chiles to debates

TALLAHASSEE — A few days after Gov. Lawton Chiles' special session on health care was cut short, Sen. Ander Crenshaw said he wants to continue the debate.

But the Jacksonville Republican isn't talking about legislative action. He wants on-to-on confrontations with the Democratic governor, whom Crenshaw wants to defeat on Election Day.

Crenshaw said his challenge to debate Chiles had nothing to do with gubernatorial politics.

Boat builders work in anticipation of new U.S. policy

By DAVID BEARD
Associated Press Writer

LULY, Haiti — Smith Elmond just finished one 25-foot wooden boat and had three days' more work on another. Down the beach, more boatmakers were hammering together a third big vessel.

Elmond expects much more work now that the United States is relaxing its refugee policy this week. The U.S. Embassy, concerned about an upsurge in boat people, has broadcast public service announcements urging Haitians not to risk their lives at sea.

But boats may become the only way out for Haitian refugees when U.S. commercial airline service ends to Haiti on June 25, part of international economic sanctions on Haiti's military coup leaders.

Three U.S. refugee processing offices in Haiti routinely use commercial airliners to ship out an estimated 80 to 100 people each week who gain U.S. political asylum. Hundreds of other Haitians approved for asylum remain in this Caribbean nation while the embassy finalizes documents or arranges their flights out, an increasingly difficult task because remaining U.S. jetliner service is booked.

Elmond, the 33-year-old boat builder, says he's about ready to hitch a ride north on one of his creations.

"Not yet, but I will (go), because I have a lot of persecution," he told The Associated Press as he stood under a shade tree Monday, a saw in one hand, a claw hammer at his side and a red pencil behind his ear.

He says he and two relatives build the boats for fishing or inter-island cargo ferries, but adds: "If someone comes and buys it, I don't have to ask where he's going."

Many times the boats are Miami-bound. Elmond estimates 10 to 15 of his vessels have attempted the refugee voyage north, carrying hundreds of boat people from the military-dominated land.

The U.S. Coast Guard has intercepted about 45,000 boat people since the September 1991 coup that toppled the elected president, Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

The new U.S. policy guarantees an offshore hearing for every Haitian boat person. Until now, the White House has shipped back the refugees without determining whether they were fleeing political persecution.

Human rights groups have denounced the policy as inhumane and illegal.

In Luly, the village where the Haitian flag of independence was sewn in 1804, much of the economy crashed under the weight of sanctions designed to force out the military and reinstate Aristide.

Lobstermen can no longer sell to Miami because of the recently broadened trade embargo. Others, unemployed, sit under a shaded outdoor meeting area, built so villagers could watch the World Cup soccer competition on television.

They eye Elmond's boat, a yellow vessel floating on the aquamarine sea, about 40 feet offshore.

Beep beep

Lake Mary police were called to a drive-in restaurant on Lake Mary Boulevard Sunday. A woman customer reported honking her horn at the car in front of her's in the drive-through lane, when she believed the car was not moving as it should have. She said when she went to leave, the other vehicle had blocked the exit, and a woman, estimated to be approximately 50 year of age, got out of the other car, approached the woman's vehicle, and threw a cup of coffee at her. The victim said when she got out, the older woman struck her in the face. When the victim attempted to summon a nearby Lake Mary police officer, she said the other woman drove off.

Flag Day: Honoring America

By NICK PFEIPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Today is Flag Day, enacted by presidential proclamation. The only announced activity in Sanford took place at 8 p.m. last night, when the American Legion Campbell-Lossing Post 53 held its annual Flag Burning Ceremony.

With certain restrictions on how to properly dispose of the American flag, which may have become worn through time or weather, the American Legion offers this opportunity to the public free of charge each year.

The initial declaration of Flag Day started on May 30, 1916, but was an occasional event. In 1941, it became an annual day of observance, with the entire week declared National Flag Week starting in 1986.

Traditionally, on this occasion, the President of the United States issues a statement declaring that the time period from Flag Day to Independence Day, (July 4th), be considered as a "time to honor America."

There are several reasons for the selection of June 14th for the event. It was on June 14, 1777 that John Adams introduced a resolution into the Continental Congress in Philadelphia. It said, "Resolved, that the flag of the thirteen United States shall be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, that the union be thirteen stars, white on a blue field, representing a new constellation."

At 7 p.m. (EDT) this evening, tradition, as well as public law, recognizes a time for the Pledge of Allegiance to be repeated as an individual expression of patriotism.

Teen burglary suspects nabbed within minutes

By NICK PFEIPAUF

LAKE MARY — Seminole County deputies arrested three burglary suspects within seven minutes of the 9-1-1 call yesterday afternoon.

According to sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough, "Shortly after noon, 21 year old Robert Gerbalde came home for lunch at 556 Tall Oaks Terrace in the Crystal Creek subdivision near Lake Mary. Inside the house, Gerbalde heard a noise in a rear bedroom and went to investigate. He saw a teenage boy crouched down behind a file cabinet."

McDonough continued, "The boy got up and ran out the door, getting into a black Chevrolet Blazer, already occupied by two other teenage boys. The Blazer drove away, but Gerbalde was able to get the license tag number."

When Gerbalde called 9-1-1, the sheriff's office communications center broadcast the vehicle description and tag number at 12:17 p.m. "At 12:24,"

McDonough said, "Deputy Sheriff Brian Marcum spotted the Blazer at Lake Mary Boulevard and CR-15."

Gerbalde was reportedly brought to the scene and identified the driver as the boy he had seen in his house.

All three occupants were arrested, and each was charged with burglary to a structure. The driver was also charged with possession of burglary tools.

McDonough said the three youngsters, two age 16 and one age 17, were all residents of Longwood, and all were students at Lake Mary High School.

McDonough explained that burglary to a structure is a second degree felony and possession of burglary tools is a third degree felony.

All three teens were taken to the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center.

Taking the plunge

Kevin and Brigitte Stubbs made quite a splash at a recent pool party at the Bridgewater Apartments in Sanford. The couple were a part of a pre-summer heat relief celebration sponsored by the complex and attended by residents.

Teacher accused of trying to molest boy is found dead

By NICK PFEIPAUF

SANFORD — A Deland middle school teacher accused of trying to molest a teen-age boy in Sanford, apparently committed suicide, authorities said.

William Ralph Bird's body was found in his car Saturday, according to the Volusia County Sheriff's Office. A preliminary autopsy report indicated he died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head from a .22-caliber weapon.

Bird, 42, was arrested May 7 at a motel in Sanford, and was originally identified on arrest reports as being a high school teacher.

The incident reportedly occurred at a Sanford motel on West S.R. 46 near Interstate 4, when Bird allegedly accosted a 14-year-old boy visiting from Newark, New Jersey with his parents.

The teen-ager told investigators Bird asked if he wanted to engage in a sex act, and the youth refused.

The boy said Bird followed him into the motel pool, pulled down his swim trunks and tried to grab his legs. The teacher was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies and charged with lewd and lascivious acts in the presence of child.

The following day, Bird was released from the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, after posting a $10,000 bond.

Bird had taught at Deland Middle School since 1980. A school board spokesman said Bird applied May 16 for a medical leave of absence which was being considered for approval.

Grouping students

It's little wonder there is conflict over grouping of students according to ability at Greenwood Lakes Middle School. Grouping of students is as controversial as we could have in today's society.

Should students in a specific grade, be grouped together according to their level of ability or their age? The answer may not be as clear-cut as it appears.

Parents of children who either are or show tendencies of being smarter beyond their age, will support the ability grouping. Parents of children with average ability or less will probably want the age groupings.

There is little doubt youngsters with extreme potential can accomplish amazing educational feats. This has been proven recently with a young student who graduated from high school at age six, high school at age nine, and is now going to medical school at age ten.

The question is however, what skills in dealing with other persons is this youngster going to possess? Have we forgotten that reading, writing and arithmetic are not the only things we learn in school?

We learn how to get along with others, those our own age as well as younger and older. We find some of those friends may need more help than others, and we may even reach the stage where we can offer that help.

We learn how to conduct ourselves in society, at parties, in social groups, or in sports activities. We not only get an education in schools, but an introduction to and hands-on experience in the reality of life.

The conflict over the Greenwood Lakes grouping is to be expected. It will happen whenever there is a question of grouping students by ability versus age groups.

For parents of those who may become Albert Einsteins or Marie Curies of tomorrow, there are private and special schools which could be considered.

And it should be noted, Greenwood Lakes is not doing away with its gifted program which has proven so successful.

If grouping students according to ability is such a good choice, why don't all of our schools do the same? This isn't a case of everyone else being wrong and only one being right.

D-Day speeches inspire cynicism

They are septuagenarians now, the brave lads who rendezvoused with destiny on that fateful day, June 6, 1944. As they landed on the beaches of Normandy with German machine gun and artillery fire raining death down upon them, they knew that many among them would not make it back to loved ones in America.

Most of the men who perished during the D-Day invasion are buried in the American Cemetery at Colleville-sur-Mer, France. These young heroes -- who were only twenty- or thirtysomething at the time -- willingly paid the forfeit not only to liberate Europe from Nazi tyranny, but also to safeguard America from the expansionist designs of the Third Reich.

That is why the 50th anniversary observance of D-Day is so momentous. It is a final homage to the men who courageously fought at Normandy and lived to tell about it. Those who remain, who are now in the twilight of their lives, probably will not be around for the 75th anniversary.

President Clinton struck a properly reverential tone for D-Day observances when he visited a World War II memorial last week in the nation's capital.

"The men and women of America saved democracy in Europe and changed the course of history for the world," he pronounced.

Such platitudes are nice. But one wonders if the president really feels worthy of delivering a D-Day commemorative speech from Pointe du Hoc, where more than half the American soldiers who tried to scale the 120-foot-high cliff on D-Day were slaughtered by the Germans.

Or does the president really feel comfortable treading on the hallowed ground of the Colleville-sur-Mer Cemetery? The young men who lie there answered the call when their country required their service. When the call came for young Bill Clinton, during the time of the Vietnam War, he failed to answer.

Many Americans, especially veterans, cannot forgive the president for this. They wonder how he can ever have the clear conscience to commit American troops to combat when he knows in his heart of hearts that he was unwilling to fight and, if necessary, die for his country. Those of us who are 35 and younger, who have never even had to register for the draft, much less face the prospect of fighting and dying on some distant shore, might be far more willing to chalk up the president's draft avoidance to youthful irresponsibility (rather than cowardice) if he did not seem now to be so antipathetic to the military.

But Clinton's low regard for the nation's military has been obvious almost from the moment he set foot in the Oval Office.

Remember, for instance, the president saying that he wanted an administration that looked like America? Well, 43 percent of American men aged 39 to 59 have military experience. Only 18 percent of Clinton administration appointees are vets and a scant 8 percent of the White House staff.

Then there was the flap over homosexuals in the military. Before the president even memorized the names of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, he ordered them to rescind the military's longstanding ban. The president showed little interest in hearing from his generals and admirals why such an order was injudicious. He just wanted to keep a campaign pledge to the homosexual community.

WILLIAM RASPBERRY

What you see is what you get

WASHINGTON — "What you see," Flip Wilson's "Geraldine" character used to remind us, "is what you get."

The phrase was intended as a declaration of simple straightforwardness. No complications, no hidden agendas, no false airs: What you see is what you get.

But there is another meaning: You cannot accomplish anything that is beyond your ability to imagine. A limited vision limits achievement because it limits hope. If you can't see it — at least with your mind's eye — you can't get it. What you can see is what you get.

It's this second meaning I've been thinking about — ever since I read Ron Suskind's page one story in the May 26 Wall Street Journal.

The stars of Suskind's extraordinary piece are Cedric Jennings, a 16-year-old student at Washington's Ballou High School, with visions of a career as a scientist; Phillip Atkins, 17, the class clown who has learned to not be too smart; and Delante Coleman, a 17-year-old gang leader whose "crew" likes to harass the "goodies" like Cedric.

There's drama in the Journal account (Will Cedric win acceptance into a special MIT program? Will Phillip follow his academically determined sister or his street-wise and school-dumb peers? Will Delante come to grips with the self-doubts and frustrations that are behind his harassment of Cedric?).

But there is also the pervasive sense of limited vision. Phillip, as bright as Cedric, has learned the lessons taught by his father. (Don't aim too high.) and by his survival instinct ("the best way to avoid trouble is to never get all the answers right on a test.")

Delante is bright, too. As a sophomore, he scored above 12th grade level nationally on the math portion of a standardized test, making the same score as Cedric. But in school, his last report included two F's. In a statement that might have been crafted by a scriptwriter, Delante explains his contempt for Cedric and the other "goodies" who study and strive for grades:

"Everyone knows they're trying to be white, get ahead in the white man's world. In a way, there's a little bit of disrespect to the rest of us."

I spent hours being angry with Delante — both for his assaults on the "goodies" and for wasting his own intelligence. But then I wanted to shake him awake, plead with him, explain to him in words capable of cutting through his resistance, that neither he nor the rest of us can afford for him to waste his intellectual gifts.

The mindrama Suskind captured at Ballou is being played in high school and playground and streets across America. Thousands of young black men (and growing numbers of young black women as well) are coming of age without the vision of a satisfying place for themselves in the world. The athletically gifted may dream of riches earned from professional sports; the musically talented may picture themselves as top-tier entertainers. But the academically gifted — unless they are discovered by the likes of A Better Chance or the Black Student Fund and sent off to prep school — have trouble seeing themselves as successful in a world where intellect counts.

A few, like Cedric, survive the anti-intellectualism of their neighborhoods, though at a social cost that must be stupendous. A handful of nerds, weirdos or gays draw strength and freedom from their ostracism and allow themselves to see bigger things for themselves.

Political response

In a recent letter by Robert Goff to the Sanford Herald in support of Carlton Henley, Democratic Gov. Lawton Chiles' political appointee to the Seminole County commission, it was stated County Commissioner Daryl McLain is Republican Randy Morris' campaign manager. If this was the only inaccuracy contained in the letter I would not take the time to respond. The letter was a clever, but misleading attempt to confuse the voters on an important issue. It also was an attempt to smear the good names of Commissioner McLain and former Mayor Morris.

As Randy Morris' campaign manager and as a classroom instructor of 21 years, it is important that the Herald's readers realize that Goff, a Henley supporter, has engaged in mudslinging by stating that Mr. Morris and Mr. McLain had referred "...to teaching our children as being on the public dole..." They never made that statement to Goff or anyone. Nor did Mr. Morris ever make any statements regarding teachers. Mr. Morris spoke directly to one and only one issue. The issue is that a high school administrator (not a teacher) was holding two taxpayers' funded jobs at the same time with combined salary and benefit packages that exceed $140,000.

Mr. Henley actively sought the appointment of Governor Chiles to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of Bob Sturm. He should have realized that since the combined salary and benefit packages of two Seminole County taxpayer funded positions exceeded $140,000, the issue of serving two masters would be raised. This was the issue Mr. Morris raised at the May meeting of the Republican Executive Committee.

The issue relates to job performance, cost and accountability to the county taxpayers. It is not as Mr. Goff charged an attack on "...the honorable profession of teaching..." From my perspective as a teacher, it is difficult to imagine a classroom teacher having the flexibility to routinely attend the numerous county commission workshops and constituent meetings held during school hours and still fulfill their responsibilities to their students. In Mr. Henley's case, someone is being shortchanged and overcharged with a potential taxpayer cost of over $140,000.

Mr. Morris holds Seminole County Schools and its teachers in high regard. Mr. Goff, you make a mistake when you infer Mr. Morris is anti-teacher or education. He has a son in elementary school and a daughter on the way (to school). He proposed the highly regarded multi-jurisdictional School Safety Committee. He was active in the debate over the 500 million dollar school bond issue. He served on the Lake Mary High School ALSAC. He was active in children issues, fund raising and after school programs before he even had children.

This issue will not go away because those associated with Mr. Henley's campaign respond with innuendo, false statements and character assassination. The Sanford Herald has a copy of Mr. Morris' speech to the Republican Executive Committee. Let the newspaper review its accuracy and let voters decide for themselves the importance of the issue.

Prison reform

Dad-gum-it! That dizzy D.C. dipstick dun dunnit again! What with crime busting out all over worse'n the seven year itch, with our penal (prison) system afflicted with a horrendous case of diarrhea and expelling thousands upon thousands of future criminals — allegedly for lack of space — "He did it again..."

We, the hardworking, tax paying grunts, according to the "D.C. elite" including the chief DCE himself, simply do not warrant adequate "domestic expenditures" to build, staff and populate sufficient prisons to halt the machine-gun-rapid-rate-of-turnover of long term residents. Hell no! Had no trouble at all giving away six hundred million of "your" tax dollars to some foreign country. None-what-so-cotton-pickin'-ever!

Math test time! At a cost of one hundred million dollars each, how many "basic prisons" did the DDCD toss down the sewer? "Four?" Aw come on now, you can do better than that. "Five!" Oh my aching back, you're getting closer but no cigar. "Six?" Bingo — right on the nose. Stand up and take a bow. You just won the brass ring.

Six new prisons. Six new "basic — no frills" prisons, that might have held, to full term, multi thousands of the revolving door "easy outs" now roaming the streets "casing your homes" — six new prisons that will not be built, staffed or populated. No m'am! No sir! they-will-not-be-built. Mr. Generous himself saw to that. It's so damn easy to give away other people's money — especially when you simply don't care.

And to compound the lunacy, Congress, in a supreme display of idiocy, passed the so-called "assault weapons" bill outlawing future sale, purchase, etc. of certain limited weapons. Current ownership is exempted — for now. Don't bet more than two and one half cents that the list won't be expanded — heavily — even before the ink is dry on the original bill. And with no effect on criminal misdeeds here and now.

I cannot help but wonder, with ever increasing trepidation, just why a legally elected leadership in a supposedly Democratic country is so paranoid about an armed citizenry. Just what do they — the alleged executive and legislative branches of government have planned for the USA and its citizens that they are incessantly trying to disarm us? What indeed!

And just why are some of them trying to bastardize part(s) of our country's constitution by executive order, congressional whim or judicial edict? I refer to "illegal search and seizure" for starters. All centered about "guns and the location of guns." I guess I was wrong. I thought that the presidential oath of office contained something about "honoring and defending" the Constitution of the United States. Guess not!

I've got a growing suspicion on just why our "alleged" leadership is postulating all over the place with "do nothing" talks, studies, proposals, legislative committees and creating ineffectual laws that address everything except the stated problem(s) at hand (i.e. Brady Bill and Assault Weapons bill) but that's another letter to the editor. Probably a four to six pager that might have to be printed on asbestos.

Chew on that one for a while.

documents to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Rowe said the two communities were selected locally, to be specifically designated in grant application. "If we can get this," he commented, "it will help revitalize two important areas in our community, and help in the overall economy of the city and county."

According to the Midway-Goldboro Revitalization Strategy documents, the two communities meet the requirements for Enterprise Community Designations. In that they are, "areas of pervasive poverty, high unemployment, and general distress."

In the overall plan, the Private Industry Council of Seminole County and Florida Job Services have joined forces to create a job training - job placement partnership. Barnett Bank has joined forces with Consumer Credit Counseling Service and created a housing education and debt management partnership. Rowe said the overall plan would possibly reach the $30 million mark before it is completed. "This isn't immediate," he said, "but over a ten year period, which would involve sewers, paving, drainage, and many additional projects which the city and/or county would help finance."

According to the plans for the development of the two communities, projects would include housing, streets, sanitary sewers, drainage, potable water, street lighting, sidewalks, public safety, emergency medical services, health care, education, elderly programs, and education.

In addition programs specifically for Midway include child care. "HRS will be awarding 65 grants this year," Rowe said. "With the plans we have developed and the need which is very apparent, we hope to be given serious consideration."

If everything goes as planned in the submission of applications, Rowe said he can't be sure when he may be informed of HRS acceptance. "It is my hope," he said, "although just an educated belief, that we may know something at least tentative by the end of this fiscal year, but nothing is certain at this time."

On another matter at last night's city commission meeting, Rowe explained that the city will be receiving $81,696 more than originally planned this year for its Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LHEAP).

With a total expected now of $188,765 coming from the state Department of Community Affairs, the city will be able to help pay overdue residential electric bills, on a limited basis, to help prevent any shut-offs for families which may not be able to afford the costs.

No sex please, we're Southern Baptist teens

By DAVID BRIGGS
AP Religion Writer

ORLANDO — Southern Baptist youth say they want a sexual revolution, and tens of thousands are firing the first volley today with public pledges to remain chaste until marriage.

The idea took root a little more than a year ago when 59 teens made chastity vows in a Nashville, Tenn., church.

Since then, the "True Love Waits" campaign has inspired more than 100,000 youths in the nation's largest Protestant denomination to pledge before their parents and churches to abstain from premarital sex.

The youngsters planned to make their abstinence pledges before the nation today from a stadium-sized display in front of the Orange County Convention Center, where the 137th annual meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention began this morning.

Hundreds of youths worked late Monday night gathering the abstinence pledges into display holders.

Now, campaign organizers are looking ahead to a national youth rally next month in the nation's capital expected to feature 500,000 pledge cards.

An international rally is scheduled for August 1995 in Buenos Aires.

What has captured the imagination of the nation's teens is the opportunity to "get in the face" of a "free-love" generation that expects them to be promiscuous, said the man who started it all, the Rev. Richard Ross of the Baptist Sunday School Board.

"Teen-agers like going against the flow," he said. "Teen-agers ... like surprising adults and not fitting in with adult expectations."

The first group of 59 chastity pledges were made in Ross' Tulip Grove Baptist Church in Nashville. When some of the teens repeated their pledges at a meeting of youth ministers later this month, they brought the idea back to their churches and the campaign started rolling.

Three hundred teens signed on at a rally in inner-city churches in Houston. At a summer camp in Oklahoma, more than 13,500 teens embraced the program. At some state youth rallies, more than 10,000 youths at a time pledged "to God, myself, my family, those I date, my future mate and my future children to be sexually pure until the day I enter a covenant marriage relationship."

member of the Senate to say "If you're going to call us into special session, then we need to know ahead of time what your plan is," he said Monday.

Chiles said thanks, but no thanks.

"I would look forward to debating Ander Crenshaw — as soon as he is the nominee of the Republican party," the governor said, chuckling. "I don't know that I need to spend all my time giving the Republican aspirants a forum."

Crenshaw is one of several Republican candidates vying for the GOP nomination.

His debate challenge came on the heels of last week's special session, when the 20-20 Senate blocked Chiles' plan.

The governor has already pledged to call the lawmakers back to the capital later this fall, although he said he would wait until he had enough support to win.

grams, recommending $195,820 be spent in four grants. Two requests totaling $113,820 for the Boys and Girls Club branches in Midway and Altamonte Springs were granted in full.

Commissioners rejected a $75,000 request from Community Coordinated Child Care to boost the Head Start program, but did recommend a $75,000 for the 4C children at risk program.

Commissioners recommended slightly less for seniors, $180,415. Among the grants, commissioners recommended fully funding the $32,100 grant sought by Better Living for Seniors for their meals at home program and the $60,000 sought by Retired Seniors Volunteer Program.

Commissioners, without discussion, fully granted a $25,000 request by the Seminole Volunteer Enterprises to operate their food distribution program at Zayre Plaza in Sanford.

Commissioners delayed their decision on GoldenRule Housing. They were unclear whether the GoldenRule money was intended for existing programs or to hire a person to seek more grants. Commissioners also delayed a decision on Spouse Abuse because they were unclear whether the emergency housing program would duplicate similar services to be provided by Safe House.

Individually, Republican Dick Van Der Weide was the commissioner to recommend the highest grant awards. Van Der Weide recommended spending $821,470 for the agencies. Republicans Pat Warren and Daryl McLain followed, proposing $771,325 and $768,415, respectively. Democrat Larry Furlong was fourth, at $751,066. Carlton Henley, a Democrat, proved most frugal. Henley recommended spending $554,991.

future and designing models of what could be.

As they see Seminole County and the rest of central Florida more crowded each day, the students wondered how the existing roadways would be able to accommodate the traffic as they get old enough to drive cars of their own.

They thought that perhaps a mass transit rail system might be the answer to some of the area's woes.

"We wanted to build something that showed how we could use the rail system with the Interstate and other roads," Brian Roof, the student who coordinated the project for the class, said. "We think this would be a good way to deal with the problem of transportation in the future."

The students have an eight by 10-foot model of Seminole and Orange counties spread across the center of their classroom.

In one corner, Mickey Mouse presides over his World. In another section, a tree towers over Big Tree Park in Longwood. Downtown Orlando is alive with activity.

Beside the car-strangled spanner of Interstate 4 and the clogged arteries of Highway 50 in Orlando, a speedy rail system takes commuters from their homes in Sanford and Lake Mary to work in downtown Orlando, the attractions area and near the University of Central Florida.

The students, working with representatives of the Central Florida Planning Council devised a system they said could solve the problem of transportation.

They believe such a system could be constructed for between $1.82 billion and $2.73 billion.

"We've done a lot of research on this," Roof said.

Indeed, the class has information they have calculated that shows the system could move as many as 5,000 people per hour on the ten transport vehicles, they know the system would need to include 182 miles of track, and much more.

Roof and 36 other students completed their model in two weeks before, during and after school and one weekend. Parents, teachers, community experts, and school administrators also contributed to the project.

"It was a lot of work, but it was fun," said John Waldrop, another student who worked on the project. "I enjoyed the challenge."

inmates testifying for the defense and two inmates, who testified for the state, were all housed in the same prison. After the two men testified before the grand jury in the Engels' disappearance and their names were reported in the news, they were moved to other institutions for their protection.

All of the inmates called by defense attorney Ed Leininger described the various types of "snitches" in prison from those who inform on fellow inmates to surly favor with the guards to inmates who will say anything, even making up lies, in hopes of getting their prison term shortened or other favors.

Under cross-examination, one inmate said a person is labeled a snitch whether he is telling the truth or not. Snitches often face physical harm, not so much in the prison dormitory but in other areas of the prison compound, the inmates testified.

The area between the dorm and church was referred to by one prisoner as the "Valley of Death" because of the opportunity for attack. He also added a snitch could catch "a 35-pound weight on the head" in the gym.

The inmates for the defense said the two state prison inmates, who testified, Meyers described slitting a girl's throat during an attempted rape, lied to get help in their own cases.

One of the state's chief witnesses against Meyers is sentenced to over 200 years in prison. An inmate testifying for the defense claimed he worked on post conviction relief papers in the prison library on the man's case. The inmate claimed he did not. Inmates who work with fellow prisoners on their cases in the prison libraries are sometimes referred to as "jailhouse lawyers."

In other testimony, a former Lake Mary Police investigator said a wooden spool was found in Big Lake Mary shortly after Engels disappeared. The spool had Meyers' name and the date, either May 24 or May 25, 1987 carved in it. Meyers claims he stopped at a nearby convenience store to let Engels use the telephone while taking her home and she disappeared. Her body was never found. Meyers said he then went swimming with two girls he met at the store. The two girls have not come forward or been identified. The spool was destroyed when the police station was moved to its new location on Kinchart Road.

open format. And, she noted in her written request to the board for the waiver, by eliminating the "S" and "N" ("Satisfactory" and "Needs Improvement") parents "may have a clearer understanding of student progress."

According to the implementation plan prepared by Goldsboro, teachers will have conferences with all parents following the first and third grading periods and reports will be sent home during the second and fourth grading period. Additional conferences, Wright said, would be scheduled as needed.

In addition four middle schools (Crooms, Indian Trails, Lakeview and Sanford) are asking the school board to approve a waiver that would allow students to receive credit for any work completed and turned in during out-of-school suspensions.

Bill Moore, principal at Sanford Middle School, defended the request by saying that "discipline should not include a reduction in academic grades." Calling discipline "double jeopardy," he asked the board to make it possible for students to receive their punishment without being penalized academically.

The school board is being asked to approve the waivers so the schools will be able to implement the programs in order to improve the quality of education in the district is able to provide for its students.

The board will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 at the board headquarters, 1211 S. Mellonville Ave., Sanford.

construction as well as operation, and urged consideration be given to hiring as many local workers as possible to help the economy of the area at an early stage in the development.

Efforts have been made toward obtaining a pool of workers which would be available through several operations including Job Services of Central Florida.

In addition to the construction jobs, when fully operational, the mall is expected to provide 2,700 jobs in the various stores.

The 1.2 million square foot mall features Dillard's, J.C. Penney, Parisian, Burdines and Sears as its anchor tenants.

Last month, Simon and Associates, based in Indianapolis, announced its intent to develop another mall in Central Florida, along Interstate 4, approximately five miles southwest of downtown Orlando, on a site located at the future Conroy interchange.

The Orlando Simon mall will also feature 1.2 million square feet, and include up to five upscale department stores. It could open as early as the fall of 1997.

Cubs win second straight

ORLANDO — Mike Hubbard was 3-for-4 with a three-run homer to lead the Orlando Cubs to a 7-2 win over the Jacksonville Suns on Monday.

Paul Torres hit a two-run homer to give the Cubs a 2-0 lead in the second inning. Hubbard's three-run homer highlighted a five-run eighth.

Tommy Adams had hit a homer off Cubs starter Ben Burlingame (3-4) in the third inning to make it 2-1. Adams, who was 2-for-4, added an RBI single in the fourth to tie the game.

Suns starter Derek Lowe (4-4) took the loss.

AROUND THE NATION

Cardinals trim Marlins

ST. LOUIS — Tom Pagnozzi singled in Ray Lankford with one out in the ninth inning Monday night, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 victory over the slumping Florida Marlins.

Lankford doubled with one out off Robb Nen (2-4) and Mark Whiten drew an intentional walk. Pagnozzi hit a liner to right that Gary Sheffield was unable to make a shoestring catch on.

Mike Perez (2-1) got the victory despite allowing an inside-the-park home run — the first in Marlins history — to Bret Barberie in the ninth. Barberie hit a 2-2 pitch off the center field wall as Lankford and Whiten converged as the ball rebounded back toward the infield. Barberie scored well ahead of the relay throw home.

The Marlins have lost five in a row and six of their last seven. It's their longest losing streak since dropping the last six games of 1993.

Simpson questioned

LOS ANGELES — O.J. Simpson was questioned by police after the Hall of Fame running back's second ex-wife and a man were found dead outside the woman's condominium.

Simpson, 46, spent about three hours at police headquarters before leaving with attorney Howard Weitzman, who said Simpson wasn't arrested and was cooperating with investigators.

The bloodied bodies of Nicole Brown Simpson, 35, and Ronald Lyle Goldman, 25, were found after midnight, said coroner's spokesman Scott Carrier. Autopsies were planned for today.

'Ryno' retires

CHICAGO — Ryne Sandberg, a 10-time All-Star and nine-time Gold Glove winner for the Chicago Cubs, announced his retirement.

Sandberg, 34, was in the second year of a four-year, $28 million contract. He has received about $10.55 million from the deal, which calls for $2 million to be paid for post-career services.

Sandberg, the NL most valuable player in 1984, had only one hit in his last 28 at-bats to drop his average to .238. He hit .289 with 243 homers and 905 RBIs in 14 seasons and leads all second basemen with a .990 fielding percentage.

Monster night for Canseco

ARLINGTON, Texas — Jose Canseco hit three homers and drove in eight runs, offsetting Ken Griffey Jr.'s grand slam and six RBI as Texas beat Seattle 17-9. Canseco was 5-for-6 with a team-record 14 total bases.

Braves retire No. 3

ATLANTA — The Atlanta Braves retired Dale Murphy's No. 3 before the team's 7-2 loss to Colorado. Murphy, 38, hit .265 with 398 homers, 2,111 hits and 1,268 RBIs in 18 seasons with Atlanta, Philadelphia and Colorado. He was the NL MVP in 1982 and 1983.

AROUND THE WORLD

Fassero just misses no-no

MONTREAL — Jeff Fassero lost his no-hitter with two outs in the ninth inning when he failed to catch Carlos Garcia's line drive in Montreal's 10-2 victory over Pittsburgh. Fassero made a strong throw to first baseman Randy Milligan, but Garcia slid head-first to barely beat the play.

Sampras, Graf top draw

WIMBLEDON, England — Defending champions Pete Sampras and Steffi Graf received the top seeds for Wimbledon, which starts next Monday. Andre Agassi, the '92 champ, was seeded 12th, five spots above his world ranking.

Stich, Courier win

HALLE, Germany — Top-seeded Michael Stich of Germany beat Nicolas Pietrangola of Venezuela 6-3, 6-4 and third-seeded Jim Courier defeated Rodolphe Gilbert of France 6-4, 6-4 in the first round of the Halle Grand Prix.

Post 53 gains split in long doubleheader

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

ORMOND BEACH — A trip to the beach is a lot of fun. Except when your pitching is tired.

Sanford Post 53 and the Daytona Beach Waves combined to use 14 pitchers in splitting a marathon American Legion B Division doubleheader that lasted until almost 11:30 p.m. on Kiwanis Field at the Ormond Beach Sports Complex Monday night.

The Sanford squad actually got some good pitching considering it was the team's fourth and fifth games in four days and fourth within the past 36 hours (the team had played a doubleheader with Lyman on Sunday).

"Both teams were running out of pitchers," said Post 53 coach Mike Powers. "We went through a bunch of arms on Sunday. We could really use a day off."

Post 53 took an early 2-0 lead in the first game, then came from behind with an eight-run sixth inning to best the Waves (made up of players from Father Lopez High School) 11-7.

The Sanford squad got very good pitching from the trio that threw in the opener as starter Jimmy Rabun allowed one run on three hits over four innings, then tired in the fifth, giving up two unearned runs.

Alan Gehr came on to relieve Rabun with runners on second and third with no one out and got out of the jam unscathed, getting a pop up for the first out, walking a batter to load the bases, then getting a double play grounder to end the inning with Sanford trailing just 3-2.

The Post 53 took advantage of every opportunity the Waves offered it in the sixth inning as the local team scored the eight runs with just one hit, a two-run single by Ryan Hall. The offense was keyed by seven walks (three of which scored runs) and three errors.

Sanford got another unearned run in the top of the seventh inning and led 11-3 going into the bottom of the seventh inning.

Two singles, an error and two walks later, the score was 11-7 and the bases were loaded and Mike Wagner was called on to pitch. Wagner ended the game with a pop up to first base to save the victory for Gehr.

Providing the offense for Post 53 in the opener was Dacks Kemp (double, two runs, RBI), Ryan Hall (single, run, two RBI), Jeremiah Mitchell (single, run, RBI), Brad Jenkins (single, two RBI), Phillip Eubanks (single, RBI), Chris Youmans (single, run) and Gehr and Chris Youmans (two runs each).

Eubanks, Youmans and Wagner pitched well in relief in the second game, but the locals fell behind 6-0 after the top of the fourth inning and could get no closer than 7-5 before falling 10-5.

Leading the way for Post 53 in the second game were Sam Williams (two singles, RBI), Andy Hall (two singles, run), Bill Johnson (single, run, two RBI), Wagner (single, run, RBI), Mitchell (single, run) and Brian Vinson (run).

Sanford is now 1-4 overall and 1-1 in B Division American Legion play. After taking today off the team will travel to DeLand for a 6 p.m. doubleheader Wednesday at Conrad Park, then travel to Trinity Prep for a 4:30 p.m. doubleheader Thursday.

Summer fun on Crooms hardwood

Locals on Puma Cup winning team

Special to the Herald

ST. LOUIS — Hard work and talent have paid big dividends for a pair of Seminole County soccer players who are coming home today as national champions.

Luke Mary striker Jody de Bruin and Lyman goalkeeper Chris Lewis were members of the Puma Cup South Team that won the national championship with a 6-1 victory over the Midwest Team in the title game of the nation's only all-star boys soccer tournament.

The country's top 64 high school seniors competed for the national Puma Cup title in the 3-day round-robin tournament that took place at the St. Louis Soccer Park. In consolation match, the East Team, defending champions of the '93 Puma Cup, beat the West 4-2.

The tournament's Most Valuable Player award went to Johnny Torres of Dickinson, Texas, while Clint Mathis of Conyers, Georgia, was the winner of the Puma Cup Top Scorer award. Mathis earned the award with a pair of hat tricks, including one in the title game.

The Puma Cup, a benefit tournament for the National Soccer Hall of Fame, was created two years ago by Puma USA to advance the sport of high school soccer in the United States and to recognize these athletes for attaining all-star status.

The championship match can be seen locally on ESPN, Saturday, June 22 at 1 p.m., before the USA vs. Columbia World Cup Match.

Nail biters dominate Lake Mary softball

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — It was a very interesting and competitive week in the City of Lake Mary Department of Parks & Recreation Spring Adult Slowpitch Softball League at the Lake Mary Sports Complex.

None of the six games played in the Thursday and Friday night leagues were decided by more than three runs.

The Thursday Night League featured a staircase difference with the first game being decided by one run (12 after 5-14, Thirsty Whale Too 13), the middle game being decided by two runs (All State 8, Thirsty Whale Pub 6) and the final game being decided by three runs (Suncrest Title 17, Cheers 14).

The Friday Night League had a unique evening where all three games were decided by two runs. Griffin Construction outscored the Braves 13-11, Sanford Paint & Body edged Cumberland Farms 6-4 and Florida Manor trimmed PRISM by the same 6-4 score.

Last Thursday's games were the start of the second half of the 10-week season, with undefeated Suncrest Title (6-0) and once-beaten All State (5-1) holding a two-game lead over the rest of the field. Completing the standings are: Cheers (3-3), Thirsty Whale Too (2-4) and 12 after 5 and Thirsty Whale Pub (both 1-5).

This Thursday night, June 16, Thirsty Whale Pub plays Thirsty Whale Too at 8:30 p.m.; Cheers faces 12 after 5 at 7:30 p.m.; and All State challenges Suncrest Title in a crucial game at 8:30 p.m.

The Friday Night League is just at the halfway point of its season after having the games on June 3rd washed out. Undefeated Florida Manor (5-0) has a comfortable two-game lead over both Griffin Construction and PRISM (both 3-2). Following the lead trio are, Sanford Paint & Body (2-3) and Cumberland Farms and the Braves (both 1-4).

This Friday night, June 17th, Sanford Paint & Body plays the Braves at 8:30 p.m.; Florida Manor welcomes Griffin Construction at 7:30 p.m.; and Cumberland Farms battles PRISM at 8:30 p.m.

Cancer victim wants to help others

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — A spirit of peace and care flowed from the lips of Cindy Hanson as she told of her experience with cancer and the loss of her mother to this same disease. Soon after the death of her mother, her father was unable to cope with the problems and then committed suicide. Her volunteer work with Hospice came after having the services available to her. "I felt I wanted to give more back because they helped me so much," she said. "I got involved in going to different bereavement groups around town so I had done my grieving. I then wrote a book called 'Mom's On the Roof and I Can't Get Her Off,' to help others in Hospice and other people also going through the grieving process."

Hanson and her husband, Michael, have been married for 15 years. They have lived in the Lake Mary area for eight of those years. Their children, Julie and Jenny, have been an active part of their life. They added Stacey to their family after the death of Hanson's parents. "When my parents died I first became Stacey's foster mother," she said. "Now I have legal custody. My sister was unable to take care of Stacey and that's when my parents obtained custody. Then after my parents died it was hard for her. I'm glad I could be there for her."

Involvement seemed to be Hanson's middle name. She works as a Dividend for the Lake Mary Elementary School. "I have about 100 hours this year," she said. "I mainly work with math and computer every week with the kids. I got a pretty roebush from the Dividend office about a month ago and was invited to a coffee." She is a member of the PTA at Lake Mary Elementary School and at Greenwood Lakes Middle School. Her husband works with the computer department at Cindy Hanson wanted to give back more because of the help she received.

Greenwood Lakes Middle School, assisting the children with their work. "Being in the PTA at Lake Mary Elementary I was on the day care committee," she said. "I was concerned about the impact of year round school and when children are on intercession. I found at age 10 or 12 a child is normally not accepted in day care. They are then considered a latchkey kid."

The Hanson family are members of the Nativity Catholic Church in Lake Mary. Hanson is part of their bereavement department. She helps prepare food for the families after a funeral. "I frequently bring in Hospice because of my involvement with them." Her work with Hospice has been in many different capacities. She works with the computer department twice a week. "I have found that their computers aren't up to par," she said. "I've informed them of the most logical ways to bring their systems up to date so they don't waste a lot of money."

Hanson also works as a volunteer with the families that come into the Hospice program. "I inform new patient families that there are support groups coming up," she said. "I come to know the people besides just the information. I assist the counselors to find families that are in need of help. Hospice can be of service for up to 13 months after a death. They provide free counseling support. I have some families that I was assigned and I followed at the beginning and I have worked with the whole 13 months."

Hanson spoke more of her experience with Hospice and dealing with cancer. "After Mother's death, I've had two cancer scares," she said. "Hospice was someone that understood. They had an empathetic ear and not just a sympathetic one. All the workers have experienced cancer in some way either themselves or through another person close to them." Hanson recently received a certificate from Hospice for her volunteer service this year.

She spoke of the experiences she had with the organization. "There is a lot more suicide with cancer patients and family members than people talk about. I think that's also where the services Hospice provides can be of such a big help. There was a girl in one of my classes when I was grieving. Her father died of colon cancer. He was two weeks in severe pain before he died. She was very mad at him for dying. It's important to get out of denial when you find out someone has a terminal illness and get the person ready to leave peacefully. The hardest thing is that people with the terminal illness and others stay in denial too long. I wanted my mother to know I was going to be okay. Help get their affairs in order. To want to keep someone here who's in major pain...you then have to ask yourself, are you really loving them to make them committed to stay emotionally. I think when I began to help others through Hospice it in turn helped me deal with my own problems by helping them."

Hanson has even gone a step further in her work with Hospice. She has written another book on dealing with mental illness. Although awaiting a publisher, Hanson is hopeful that this book can also help through grieving. "Through this book I wanted to help people see a mental patient as a human being. It is from a religious perspective."

It was plain to see that through her own experiences and grief, Hanson has touched the lives of many in pain and given them new hope. She truly has shown that every cloud has a silver lining.

Theatrical review: new musical "Tabloid"

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

A new musical comedy made its debut in Central Florida last Thursday. "Tabloid" is being presented four times a week at the Fred Stone Theatre, on the campus of Rollins College in Winter Park.

Scheduled to run through July 31, the production is well-worth seeing, and enjoying.

Only two problems may cause an early conclusion to this excellent production. The lack of extensive publicity and promotion in the Central Florida area, and the relatively small theater, which seats approximately 80 persons.

The structure of "Tabloid" however, is outstanding. The new music, script, comedy and singing can easily be compared to productions seen at some of the nation's finest theaters.

"Tabloid" is based on tabloid publications which are found mostly at check-out counters of various stores. The stories in the tabloids often reveal unusual news, such as invaders from outer space, three-headed babies, and other stories.

Segments include a woman who bore an alien's child, a woman who dated Bigfoot, and a professor who claimed to have been reincarnated enough times to reach an age of over 400 years.

There are many other characters in the musical, but to reveal them would spoil the plot line, which is full of surprises from start to finish.

Although there are more than a dozen characters in the performance, only four persons are in the on-stage cast.

Rick Stanley, a Florida native and graduate of Winter Park High School and Rollins College is the lead character, Sam, the tabloid writer. Stanley has 20 years experience in New York theater as an actor, writer and composer.

He began writing "Tabloid" more than eight years ago as a series of stand-alone satirical musical numbers and sketches. The series has now evolved into one full-length musical.

With Stanley, each playing three to seven separate roles, are Peter Vogt, Miriam P. Saunders and Becky Fisher. Their past theater credits are vast and varied.

In 1984, Saunders co-founded Orlando's Tropical Theatre. Each of the four has held numerous entertainment jobs in the Central Florida area.

Act 1 of "Tabloid" contains eight new musical numbers. Act 2 contains four, each a major production in itself.

With the backing of the pit-band, led by Musical Director Bob Glendon, the numbers are well executed in both singing and choreography. Each of the four has an excellent voice, and a relatively wide range.

In audience comments during the intermission, one point stood out. No one found any of the comic lines to be insulting. There was no ethnic humor, no foul language, no sexist slurs.

A three-year old girl in the audience, although not familiar with tabloids or some of the characters, found excitement in the songs, costumes, and antics of the four members of the cast.

A senior citizen from Altamonte Springs said it was one of the first truly funny shows he had seen in years, that was strictly based on "good old-fashioned humor, with no one putting anybody down or slamming government."

"Tabloid" is being shown each Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m., with a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. Performances are at the Fred Stone Theatre, on the Rollins College Campus. Tickets are $12, with some of the proceeds going to help the Rollins College Scholarship fund.

For reservations or additional information, phone 646-2145.

Ex's unpaid debt is mostly matter of principal

DEAR ABBY: "Mike" and I were very much in love and even planned to buy a house together. Our relationship had spanned several years, so we felt comfortable opening a joint charge account. Mike used the card frequently and offered to pay for anything that I charged.

We ended that relationship a few months ago, and, Abby, he reneged — I have not received any payments for the balance on the account. My letters and phone calls continue to be ignored. I believe that it is fair that I pay my bills, but what can I do to get the money Mike owes me for his balance?

DESPERATELY SEEKING PAYMENT
DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married for the third time; however, this will be my bride's first marriage.

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Write off the loss. Call it a "learning experience," and thank the good Lord that you didn't invest any more of your love, time and money in this chiseler.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married for the third time; however, this will be my bride's first marriage. What is the proper etiquette for sending out invitations? If it were up to me, my lady and I could just go to Las Vegas or the local courthouse and tie the knot. But since this is her first marriage — and, I hope, my last

— she wants a big church wedding, which I fully understand. (We are both Catholic.)

I am in the process of having my previous marriages annulled. Please advise me concerning the wording of the invitations, as I am sincere about wanting no gifts.

OHIO READER
DEAR ABBY: I understand your feelings concerning wedding gifts, but since this is your bride's first marriage, she should not be deprived of wedding gifts.

A suggestion: Insert a small note in the wedding invitations to be sent to your friends and relatives bearing the message, "Your presence would be greatly appreciated — but no presents, please."

DEAR ABBY: A reader wrote to say that he was fed up with having to crawl under his truck or fight with the neighbor's dog for his daily paper. We are familiar with this problem — our

Strange trips down the wedding aisle

It's half-past June, and you've had it with throwing bridal showers, catching bouquets and eating white cake if you hear one more band play "Celebration" one more time, you will stay single for life.

You, my wedding-out friend, have been going to the wrong weddings.

You probably missed the ceremony where two Humane Society supporters walked down the aisle in Oregon with dogs as their flower girl and ring bearer. Or when an Alaskan member of the National Rifle Association exchanged semiautomatic pistols with his bride instead of rings.

attire — to pledge their love as TV cameras rolled and sweaty competitors raced past.

(According to etiquette, of course, that bride did not sweat. She blushed.)

Computer-philes have held on-line weddings, where the bride and groom type in their vows as friends and family across the country join the ceremony via home computers.

Romantic? Ridiculous? It depends on your point of view.

Utilities eye information highway

SEATTLE — Traditionally content to light up America, electric utilities now want to serve their customers in other ways, and may one day offer cable television, link home computers to the outside world and even provide telephone service.

The electric utility industry wants a part of the new information highway that Vice President Al Gore is touting heavily and which Congress is trying to promote in the review of federal communication laws.

"I think, it's a natural," says John E. Hayes Jr., chairman of Western Resources, parent of three electric utilities in Kansas and Oklahoma. "We have the right of way, the expertise and there are a lot of similarities."

Inclement weather has produced an offbeat wedding subcategory: T h e w e - c o u l d - n o t - g e t - t h e r e - a f f a i r , courtesy of snowstorms, avalanches, hurricanes, you name it.

Last year, an avalanche blocked a Colorado bride and groom from reaching their wedding site. While they went back to town to be married, their friends at the mountain inn drank champagne and ate wedding cake without them.

A sub-subcategory — the soggy wedding — was swollen last year by the Midwest's flood of the century.

telecommunications system and an electric grid.

The nation's private and public electric utilities have one advantage: They already have, or are developing, hundreds of miles of fiber optic, two-way communication lines to link their customers as part of new energy management programs.

With the new information highway expected to be worth by some estimates tens of billions of dollars in business, these utility voice and data lines could serve as major revenue producers, according to utility executives and industry analysts.

The role of electric utilities in telecommunications brought intense interest Monday at the annual convention of the country's 261 private utility companies.

The utility executives were told at a panel discussion that the Electric Power Research Institute, the industry's primary research arm, was expected shortly to complete a five-month, $125,000 study on the economic and technical issues surrounding expansion by utilities into telecommunications.

One reason for the great interest is that many of the fiber optic systems being developed for energy management could go 95 percent unused, leaving plenty of excess capacity, said Martin Mann, who is heading the industry research program at EPRI.

Some consumer groups have questioned the expansion of utilities into businesses that have nothing to do with generating electricity because of concern about the possible effect it might have on electricity rates if the new businesses are not profitable.

Rheumatoid arthritis is not contagious

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife and I, ages 65 and 69 respectively, were recently diagnosed as having severe rheumatoid arthritis. Strangely, without warning, we were hit with the disease within about two months of each other. Isn't this rather unusual? Should this have come on like gangbusters overnight, hitting our knees, hips, shoulders and hands? Further, are we stuck with this crippling pain for the rest of our lives?

DEAR READER: Rheumatoid arthritis is not contagious. No one knows what causes it, but it appears to be an autoimmune disease (in which people become allergic to their own normal body tissues). The fact that you and your wife developed an identical disease within two months of each other is not only unusual, it suggests the intriguing possibility that some common factor in your environment may be to blame.

If I were your doctor, I'd smell a medical report, ready to be written, that would make my name a household word. He should meticulously analyze your diets, habits, living quarters -- in short, he should learn everything about you, the purpose being to discover any possible cause for your rheumatoid arthritis.

Also, he should perform blood tests to check you for rheumatoid arthritis look-alike diseases, including Lyme disease, lupus, polyarteritis, and sarcoidosis.

Rheumatoid arthritis usually causes joint swelling and pains that are more or less permanent. These symptoms are often relieved by anti-inflammatory drugs, such as Naprosyn, Voltaren, Motrin and others. Sometimes patients must take injections of gold, use steroids or be given prescriptions for anti-metabolic compounds, such as methotrexate.

Because of the strange pattern of your disease, you may choose to obtain a second opinion, from a rheumatologist, a specialist in various arthritic afflictions. Given the fact that you and your wife are suffering such crippling pain, I believe that a second opinion is appropriate.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Suppose over the last 30 years the auto industry in this country had progressed along lines similar to those of the computer industry. What would be the speed, gas consumption and cost of a present-day luxury car?

In bridge, it rarely pays to drive -- play -- too quickly, especially at trick one. You shouldn't proceed until you have mapped out your journey -- made a plan of campaign -- and tried to anticipate possible dangers down the road.

One of the best American women players of all time found the solution to today's deal, using trick one to look beyond the bend.

Cover the South and West hands. West leads the heart king; jack, five, two. West continues with the heart ace. What do you discard?

South might have made a game-try of three clubs over two spades. If so, North, with the worst possible club holding, should have signed off in three spades.

This deal occurred during a North American Mixed Pairs Championship. Sitting East was Helen Sobel, playing with her husband, Al. At trick two, Helen "discarded" the spade two. Then she switched to a club, allowing her partner to cash two club tricks to defeat the contract.

Ruffing your partner's ace is usually considered a heinous crime, but Al wasn't upset. He said, "You ruffed my ace -- thank you, partner."

If the auto industry had matched the computer industry, today you could buy a car capable of one million miles per hour, that would do half a million miles on a gallon of gas and would cost $2.40.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 15, 1994

Contacts that you establish in the year ahead with persons who are either from a foreign land or live at a place distant from you could prove lucky. Strive to develop associations that fill these requirements.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's the possibility the finger of guilt might be pointed at you today if there are rumbles in your household. Unwittingly, you might have a knack for stirring up still waters. Gemini, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Associates will admire you more today if you do not attempt to blame others for your mistakes. Unfortunately, it might be hard to convince your ego of this.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be helpful to your friends today, but be careful about lending money or possessions you prize. It is also wise for you not to borrow anything from them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you might turn a deaf ear to persons whose advice you should be heeding, while, conversely, trusting counselors you shouldn't. This could be a formula for problems.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Beware of tendencies today to strew your path with obstacles of your own creation. The obstructions you manufacture could be the ones that do you in.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You can't be all things to all people today, so your best course of action is "to thine own self be true." After all, you're the only real critic who has to be gratified.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You could be quite good at getting out of the starting blocks today, but you may not be too nifty as a stretch runner. There's a chance you might not complete something important you start.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) Be extremely careful today about passing on hearsay information or gossip. Don't relate anything to another unless the facts have been fully verified.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Financial or commercial matters could be far more complicated than you anticipated today. Be extremely careful in your dealings, especially if you're representing someone else.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's wise to weigh and balance your alternatives today, but not to the point to where it makes you indecisive. Excessive introspection may be self-defeating.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Guard against inclinations today to get involved in things you might not be able to finish. See things through to conclusions.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You must be able to distinguish today between calculated risks and outlandish gambles. Losses are probable if you're disrespectful of your resources. Copyright 1994 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
