

MARY OF THE WAR

There are in British observance a serious allied movement against the whole German line in the west will be postponed until after contingents of Lord Kitchener's new army take the field. Losses of the allies in tentative thrusts forward here and there have been heavy in proportion to the gains achieved, and it is understood the various leaders unite in the opinion that the sacrifices entailed by a general advance at this time would be too great.

The turn of events in the east, where Russia appears to be more than holding her own, necessitates, nevertheless, continued hard pressure against the German lines in the west to prevent them from moving any more of their troops to the eastern field.

In the west the town of L. Basse, still held by the Germans is proving to be one of the hardest problems the allied forces have to solve. The invaders have thrown up exceptionally strong earthworks around L. Basse, quartered in the city. To take this stronghold by direct assault would mean a terrible loss of life, but its taking is essential to any concerted move forward in order to afford protection to the allies' communications.

All news reaching London from the east tends to confirm the rout of the Austrian forces which now appear to be trying to make their way laboriously back over the Carpathians. There are indications in London that the entire continental political situation which involves Greece, Italy, Roumania and Portugal a developing day by day.

Even the participation in the army of at least some of those states will soon become a reality. This in view of certain of the British commentators on the situation. Among the factors contributing to this situation is Italy's occupation of Avlona and the reported racial unrest in Austria-Hungary.

Turkish Loss Heavy

Petrograd, Dec. 30 (Delayed in Transmission) The following communication from the general staff of the army of the Caucasus was given out here tonight:

"The battle of Sardanysh in Trans-Caucasia, 30 miles southwest of Karas against large Turkish forces continues. Our artillery fire dispersed a strong column of Turks who endeavored to save themselves by flight after having lost half of their contingent.

Part of the Turkish forces concentrated in the region of Yalinz-Cham Pass are marching upon Ardahan (Ardahan is a fortified town in Trans-Caucasia 45 miles northwest of Karas. The Yalinz-Chame Pass is southwest of Ardahan.)"

Describes Eastern Situation Berlin (via The Hague and London, Dec. 31) Major Morant, the military expert, discussing in the Tageblatt the eastern war situation says:

"All military authorities have agreed that the Polish capital must soon be evacuated. Its value as a fortress, as is well known, is slight, but the strongly fortified positions in front of the forts, it must be expected, will be well defended. Nevertheless it would require strong forces to hold them.

"It appears, moreover, as if the Russian general staff attaches greater importance in bringing its main forces unbroken behind the Vistula rather than develop the full strength of the Russian staff are unknown, and hence, it is not impossible that it still intends holding the region west of the Vistula, with political prestige as the factor, despite the dangers attending such a plan.

"At any rate the defeat of the Russians north of the Plic will settle the fate of the army operating in Galicia."

Among the prominent visitors to the city this week was Louis Entzinger, a former resident of this county but now superintendent of the Sunday schools of Ft. Worth, Texas, the largest Sunday schools in the world. Mr. Entzinger was here to attend the funeral of his father, J. N. Entzinger, which occurred at Longwood in the 25th inst.

The Touchstone of Charity.

Never to despise never to judge rashly, never to interpret other men's actions in an ill sense, but to compassionate their infirmities, bear their burdens, excuse their weaknesses, make up and consolidate the breaches of charity happened by their fault, to hate imperfections, and ever to love men, yea even your enemies therein the touchstone of true charity is known.—N. Cassin.

Victims of Wild Beasts.

China sees every year a thousand of her people fall victims to the ferocity of wolves, bears and tigers. Even little Korea has failed to totally exterminate the long haired tiger, the largest and most ferocious of its kind which infests the mountain regions. These formidable man-eaters slaughter yearly an average of 2,000 peasants and hunters.—Wide World Magazine.

Righteous Indignation

"The idea of not voting for a man because he goes to another church!" exclaimed Mrs. Twickenbury. "I never heard of such bigamy."

BRAVE STORM FOR LIQUOR

Thousands of Russians Stand in Snow to Lay in Stock Before Baskets Close.

Petrograd.—Thousands of men, women and children stood in a driving snowstorm before the doors of the liquor shops on the last day in which it was possible to purchase light wine and beer under the prohibition act of the Russian government, which has now become absolute. Applicants for a final supply of beverages came with baskets, sacks, carts and wheelbarrows, many having pawned their last belongings to procure means to purchase.

This final prohibition act is the last of three distinct liquor reforms, the first curtailing the sale of vodka and the second abolishing it absolutely. The third measure extends the prohibition to every form of alcoholic drink in all portions of the empire under martial law. Cities included under the prohibition are Odessa, Warsaw, Moscow, Kiev and virtually all cities of western Russia.

HELPING THE WOUNDED

USE RUSE 600 YEARS OLD

British Employ With Success, Trick Used by Scots at Bannockburn.

London.—A correspondent of the London Chronicle in northern France states that the ruse employed by the Scots to help bring about the defeat of the English at Bannockburn in 1314 has been repeated successfully by the British in the battle of the Yser. He says:

"About twenty five yards in front of our trenches deep pits were dug. These were covered with branches and loose turf, as at Bannockburn, and into these the Germans fell in heaps, calling out piteously when, too late, they discovered the stratagem."

"Although the Germans more than filled the pits, others came on in great numbers and the pits soon became a scene of appalling horror. The Germans struggled, cried and fought one another in their vain attempts to extricate themselves. Many were accidentally transfixed by the bayonets of those who had first fallen, while others were shot by comrades. A shell fell into one pit and the fuddled mass within was blown out of existence."

SING AS THEIR SHIP SINKS

Russian Transport Men Go to Death Rather Than Surrender to Turks.

London.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegraph company from Petrograd says:

"A graphic account has been received here of the end of the Russian transport Truth, which the Russians sank rather than surrender her to the Turkish cruiser Goeben. When called upon to surrender her captain headed the Truth for the shore, opened the valves and blew a hole in the bottom of the vessel. Lieutenant Ragowsky perished while attempting to fire a second charge of explosives. Part of the crew got off in boats, while the others jumped into the water and were picked up by the Turkish ships.

"The ship's chaplain and a handful of men were left aboard. As the ship went down the chaplain was seen on deck giving his blessing to the men who remained about him cheering and singing the national anthem."

PAPER RUN BY TELEPATHY

French Prisoners in Germany Publish Sheet to Overcome Longing for Home.

Amsterdam.—French prisoners in the concentration camp of Zossen, near Berlin, are publishing a weekly paper in the French language, which they call Le Herault (the Herault). Le Herault boasts of being the only paper which is in connection with the whole world—by telepathy. The aim of the paper is "to overcome the ardent longing for their country by the reaction of a sound, amiable, inoffensive and salutary humor."

Shows German Spirit.

Herlich.—A shopkeeper at Breslau has an advertisement in his window promising to pay 30,000 marks to the German soldier who first lands in England.

Ben Bolt

The popular song called "Ben Bolt" was not written by an Englishman. Its author was Thomas Dunn English, a thoroughly American whose home latterly was in New Jersey. English was born in Philadelphia in 1819, and was by profession a lawyer. He represented the Sixth congressional district of New Jersey in the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses.

Historical Armed Coalitions

Six thousand English troops cooperated in Cromwell's time with the French army under Turotte against Conde. Again, in 1672 6,000 English were sent to help the French against the Dutch. Among these was John Churchill, whose military talents were noticed by Turenne. At Navarino, too, the British, French and Russian fleets were joined against the Turks.

"Dead" Hen Lays Eggs.

"Oh, papa," excitedly shouted little Willie Leonardo, running into Louis Leonardo's place of business, "one of those chickens you killed last night has come to life and laid an egg." Much to Leonardo's surprise, one of the hens which he had stuck the night before and which he had left for dead was really alive and standing by its best cackling. The hen had laid a good-sized egg. Leonardo caught the chicken, examined it, and, sure enough, it was the hen which he had attempted to bleed with a penknife.—Coatsville (Pa.) dispatch to Philadelphia Record.

Monster Aqueduct.

The aqueduct conducting the water of the Owens river to Los Angeles is said to be the largest in the world. It is designed to deliver a minimum of 258,000,000 gallons of water daily into the San Fernando reservoir, 25 miles northwest of the city. No pumping plant is required, as the source of supply is several hundred feet above the city. The water will furnish a great amount of power—70,000 horsepower is anticipated—for electric lighting and other purposes. The total cost of the waterworks will be $25,000,000, and the installation of the power plant will be approximately $5,000,000 more.

Carlyle's Opinion of War.

Food for grapeshot, Messelgneurs, on one condition; that the shooter also were made of metal. But unfortunately he is made of flesh; under his buffa and bandoleers your hired shooter has instincts, feelings, even a kind of thought. It is his kindred, bone of his bone, he has brothers in it, a father and mother—living on meal husks and dried grass.—Carlyle.

JACKSONVILLE HAS A SERIOUS BLAZE

DYAL-UPCHURCH BUILDING SUFFERS HEAVY LOSS BY LARGE FIRE

Early Tuesday morning called the Dyal-upchurch building, a six story structure in the heart of the business district...

On the top floor of the building was the United States Weather Bureau, which was totally wrecked...

A general alarm was sent in which called every piece of apparatus in the fire department and for a time, when the water pressure was poor...

The Dyal-upchurch building was erected in 1901, just after the great conflagration which destroyed practically the entire city...

The firemen did excellent work after the high pressure service became regulated and their quick work saved several buildings adjoining.

Owners of the building state that the structure, which originally cost $125,000, was damaged sixty-five per cent.

NEW INVESTORS OPEN OFFICES

THE PURCHASERS OF HOTEL PROPERTY WILL BECOME SANFORD RESIDENTS

The old days are returning to Sanford. These are just a few of the things to be undertaken by the Women's Department.

Today R. D. Waring and associates open a suite of offices on the second floor of the Bishop block and these offices will be a scene of activity.

As Mr. Waring stated to a representative of The Herald last week he expects to place these vast holdings on the market at once and will sell city property and develop in every way the city and country.

One of the prime objects of coming to Sanford was the building of a new hotel and this great work will also occupy their attention in connection with their real estate operations.

The advent of Mr. Waring and his associates into the business life of this city will be fraught with great importance as it will serve to liven up business along every channel.

It is fitting to mention that Past High Priest O. L. Taylor, during the joint ceremonies of installation of new Masonic officers found opportunity to present each past officer of the Monroe Chapter No. 15 with a very precious remembrance.

ANNUAL REUNION AT LONGWOOD

THE SETTLERS ASSOCIATION HELD A FINE MEETING LAST TUESDAY

December 29th, 1914, was a red letter day to all who attended the annual reunion of the Longwood Settlers Association.

After every one had partaken of the bountiful spread, the president of the Association, Mrs. C. E. Walker gave a pleasant informal talk and the secretary, Mrs. J. S. Dun, read the minutes of the last meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Singleton, St. Augustine; Mrs. J. W. Tyson, Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Fletcher, Winterton, Mass. Mrs. Chas. Deane, Berlin, Wis. and Mrs. H. E. Terrell, Boston, Mass. were present.

LETUCE JUMPS TO GREAT PRICES

ONE HUNDRED MORE CAR LOADS SHIPPED OVER LAST SEASON

Just as a gentle reminder to the world at large that Sanford is the greatest winter vegetable center in the world The Herald announces that since the season for lettuce began in November and up to the 31st of December 500 refrigerator cars of lettuce and 50 cars of lettuce by express were shipped from this section.

Some of the lettuce did not bring good prices on account of the inclement weather. We have had all kinds of weather from a frost to summer heat and fogs and mist and it has worked a hardship on the lettuce growers but lettuce last Saturday brought $4 and $4.50 in the northern markets and yesterday lettuce brought $2.50 to $3.75 in eastern markets and even better prices in some of the western markets.

Letuce is one of the greatest crops of the Sanford section. Celery is supposed to be king and of course comes in for a share of the spotlight of publicity and will follow later.

Just now cauliflower is coming into full bloom and this really fine vegetable is bringing a good price in the local markets and also in the northern markets. Cauliflower is fast becoming one of the big crops here and the growers usually get good prices, providing the weather is clear and cool.

The growers here are expecting a good season and from this time on until the last crops are harvested in the late summer the growers will be busy getting their crops to the markets and placing the money in their broadcloth pocket.

NARROW ESCAPE IN A COLLISION

GEO. RANDALL ON WHEEL IS RUN DOWN BY AN AUTOMOBILE

Automobile accidents are becoming common and every day chronicles some injury received by those who drive cars seemingly with the thought that roads were made for automobiles alone.

One of the most narrow escapes from death that that of George Wandall last Sunday, who, as he was returning from his farm on his wheel on the West Side was run down by an auto and dragged for some distance before the car was stopped.

Mr. Wandall suffered several contusions on the body, was badly bruised all over the body, his leg broken in two places and he was almost dead when rescued from his position under the car and taken to the physician.

Mr. Wandall's version of the affair was that he was riding his wheel and hearing the car took the side of the road when the car dragged WW the road when the car ran into him and dragged him for a distance before it stopped.

It was nothing short of a miracle that he was not killed and had the accident occurred on the brick instead of the sand road there is no doubt but what he would have been killed.

The real facts in the case will probably be brought out as soon as Mr. Wandall and the parties in the car can be brought together, as neither of them are at present in the city.

NEW GAME LAW

A new game law that should be passed by all the states should contain the following:

Both agents may be shot between October 1st and September 1st, spring pooms from March 1st to June 1st, automobile speed demons from January 1st to January 1st, road boys from April 15th to April 15th, bear hunters from September 1st to February 1st, war talkers, no classed season, a man who accepts a paper for two years and then, when the bill is presented says, "I once ordered it" may be killed on sight and shall be buried face downward in quick lime so as to destroy the germs and prevent the spread of the infection.

TRY DYNAMITING

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 5.—An attempt was made Saturday night by unknown persons to blow up the plant of the E. O. Painter Fertilizer Works, on the south side of the river.

The explosion was terrific and was heard all over Jacksonville, causing great excitement. The work was evidently that of amateurs, for the sticks of dynamite were so carelessly placed that they did not wreck the plant, doing only slight damage.

The real facts in the case will probably be brought out as soon as Mr. Wandall and the parties in the car can be brought together, as neither of them are at present in the city.

The Woman's Club Ball

By special request the following account of the ball given at the Sanford Hotel last Tuesday night is given below. On account of the absence of the society editor of The Herald from the city the club was supposed to furnish an account of the affair but in the excitement of the moment failed to do so and this account is taken from the writup in the Tribune of Mrs. Dickins with some additions:

The annual ball of the Social Department of the Woman's Club given Tuesday evening at the Sanford House was one of the most select and brilliant affairs of the season. Mrs. W. D. Holden, as hostess, aided by the several committees spared no pains to make the affair a success. The simple decorations were suggestive of Christmas and crystal vases filled with brilliant gladioli arranged on the mantels were a pleasing addition.

The grand march was begun promptly at 9 o'clock, Miss Charlotte Hand and Mr. William Hill leading the dancers through many attractive figures, ending with the waltz. Delightful music was furnished by a three piece orchestra, composed of Clarence Mahoney, piano; Al Witherington, violin, and Miss June Stinson, clarinet. Many of the newest dances were included in the program and the evening was one of unalloyed pleasure. The evening gowns of the ladies were especially beautiful. Mrs. W. A. Fitts, Jr., chairman of the Social Department was attractively gowned in pink charmeuse, chiffon and lace.

Mrs. C. O. McLaughlin, vice chairman, black embroidered net, with silver garniture. Mrs. G. D. Bishop, secretary-treasurer, pink charmeuse, bodice adorned with handsome lace. Mrs. J. W. Dickins, president of the Woman's Club, yellow crepe with black velvet bodice, jet garniture. Miss Laura Fish, first vice president, pink charmeuse, combined with silver spangled net and lace. Mrs. R. E. Tolar, recording secretary, pink crepe, combined with lace. Mr. Truman W. Wright, corresponding secretary, and some black lace and chiffon. Mrs. W. D. Holden, hostess, white lace over white satin.

Mrs. E. B. Brown of Tampa, handsome black charmeuse; Miss Elizabeth McLaughlin, blue crepe de chine, handsomely trimmed with gold lace, cape of lace, marabou trimming, and Mrs. L. Hurt, black satin, chiffon and white lace. The gentlemen present were Messrs. F. Lake, G. D. Bishop, R. A. Newman, B. W. Herndon, G. F. Smith, Joe, Roy and Ned Chittenden, B. A. Howard, R. M. Galloway, W. A. Fitts, Jr., W. E. Watson, W. P. Carter, W. J. Thigpen, A. C. Betts, Willie Leffler, Raymond Key, R. J. The success of this brilliant ball was due to the untiring efforts of the Social Department chairman, Mrs. W. A. Fitts, the gracious hostess, Mrs. W. D. Holden and the following competent committees:

Place, Mrs. Samuel Paleston, Floor, Miss Belle Smith Refreshments, Mrs. C. O. McLaughlin, chairman, Mrs. W. P. Carter, Mrs. John Meisch, Mrs. Braxton Perkins.

Punch, Mrs. Robert Newman, chairman, Miss Sallie Williams, Miss Charlotte Hand.

The Auction Bridge Club was delightfully entertained at the charming home of Mrs. R. W. Herndon last Monday afternoon. There were four tables, the club tables and two guest tables. Duplicate auction was played, the state prize, a dainty dresser set of china being won by Miss Laura Fish. Mrs. G. D. Bishop won the guest prize, a hand some cut glass vase. At the close of the game a delicious salad course was served.

One of the most successful and novel entertainments given in Sanford was the imitative stag dance on Wednesday evening at the Woman's Club. At the beginning of the evening the club members of Sanford had decided to attend various stag affairs, in nothing daunted a gay crowd of young ladies and charming maids held a stag affair of their own, entering into the spirit of the game with a zest and enthusiasm that proved, while the male contingent always added to the fun, a great deal of pleasure from a strictly feminine party. Impersonating the friends of the masculine persuasion, and wearing the regulation full dress evening suits with a grace and savoir faire not yet acquired by the lords of creation, they had a thoroughly good time and decided that stag dances were altogether delightful affairs. Gentlemen present by proxy were Messrs. Ned Chittenden, Sam Yountz, J. D. Roberts, Joe Chittenden, Billy Hill, Roy Chittenden, Clarence Mahoney, Braxton Perkins, T. S. Lloyd, W. A. Fitts, Jr., L. P. McCuller, Felix Frank, Joe DeMent, W. J. Thigpen, Archie Betts, Dr. Fain and Dr. Cecil Butt. Those who were really and truly there were Mesdames A. W. Fitts, Jr., F. J. Gonzales, F. L. Miller, LaVerne Hurt, Braxton Perkins, Archie Betts, Cecil Butt and Misses Belle Smith, Florence Frank, Gladys and Cornelia Smith of New Smyrna, Gretchen Schultz, Olga Schultz, Sallie Williams, Adelaide Higgins, Peachen Leffler, Lillian Higgins, Anna McLaughlin, Charlotte Hand, Annie Higgins, Helen Rowland, Alice Whitner, Nell Whitner, Zoe and Fannie Reba Munson. Now the men of Sanford have a guess coming as to "who was who," but certain it was a frank admission that Clarence Mahoney danced the "Maxixe" with a grace that was only exceeded by the Spanish beauty of T. S. Lloyd, J. D. Roberts was a peach, but Dr. Fain was bashful and hesitated so long in making engagements that one of the Chittenden boys filled his program and said he would dance the fox trot while the doctor was just thinking about asking the belle to dance. One married man nearly had fits because his wife danced the Maxixe with Billy Hill. This bunch of gay young people are always originating most enjoyable schemes for extracting a full quota of pleasure from life and the stag dance was one of the best.

VITAL STATISTICS

ONE YEAR NEARER THE REGISTRATION AREA

It is fitting that at the close of the year some statement be made of what has been done towards having the births and deaths of the state accurately collected and authoritatively published by the State Bureau of Census.

Although it was in the August 1914 Health Notes that the present plan of collecting reports in cities of 2,000 and over through ordinances was first published, and thereupon actively pushed, it was really not until the early part of 1914 that the system crystallized itself about the model ordinance for registration of births and deaths, the model prototype of the model state law, and the practice of states with that law was started to be put into operation.

In August of this year, one year from the published inception of the work the plan was thrown open to all municipalities of the state and announcement to that effect was made in Health Notes.

Last month's issue of that bulletin carried the word that if all went well, the new legislature would be appealed to for a statewide law, the model law, that at least the more thickly settled communities should have their births and deaths reported under the conditions and supervision found in other states to be necessary for accurate and complete tabulation of the statistics by birth as well as urban residents.

The results have been made in the plans for eventual statewide data sufficiently accurate to be reported to the State Bureau of Census.

The records have been made for error correction and deletion on the part of the municipalities concerned, and the results are being reported to the State Bureau of Census.

The records which have and are coming in have been tabulated and published in part and give promise by improvement that before long they will be complete and correct.

healthfulness of the state. However, as was said in the last annual report of the state health officer for 1913, "as the subject is an educational one, at least a year will be required to perfect a system which will be trustworthy, and probably it will not be before 1915 that any exact statement can be made of the birth and death rate of these municipalities. In the meantime there will also be an effort made to ascertain a definite and final settlement by cooperation with the registration of the births and deaths, so, by degrees, it is hoped that the earnest expectation of the past twenty-five years may become a realized fact, and Florida, progressive in all other respects as regards health management and condition may come into her own as being able to state with facts and figures why she always has been, and will be, one of the healthiest states in the Union of states."

SOME FAMOUS SIEGES

INVESTED TOWNS THAT LONG HELD OUT AGAINST FOE.

That of Greatest Duration Was at Richmond, Which the Confederates Defended for Four Years Gibraltar's Great Exploit.

The defense of Liege by 30,000 Belgians against three German army corps numbering 125,000 will go down to history as one of the most brilliant feats of arms in the annals of war, says London Times.

The Franco-Prussian war of 1870-71 was remarkable for its sieges. Bazein held out at Metz against the Germans for nearly two months, and finally surrendered with 6,000 officers and 173,000 men. For this he had to submit to court-martial, and was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. Afterward came the siege of Paris, which lasted six months. Thousands of shells were rained on the city every day by the Germans, and no fewer than 40,000 of the inhabitants succumbed to disease and hunger.

That lengthy sieges are quite possible even in these days of huge guns is illustrated by Chukri Pasha's gallant defense of Adrianople last year for 155 days. Then there was the comparatively recent great siege of Port Arthur in the Russo-Japanese war in 1904-05, which finally capitulated after being blockaded by Admiral Togo for 210 days. The name of General Stoessel will rank with those of the great soldiers of modern times.

In Ottoman and Russian military history there has never been a siege like that of Plevna in 1877, when Osman Pasha defied the Russians for 144 days, and finally surrendered on December 10, with 30,000 men and 100 guns, owing to provisions and ammunition running short. In the same year Kara, long the bulwark of the Ottoman empire in Asia, was stormed by the Russians after a siege of five months.

Twenty-two years earlier the fortress had been brilliantly defended for eight months against the Russians by the Turks under General Williams, who had but 15,000 men against 50,000.

Even these sieges, however, are somewhat insignificant when compared with some others. The longest siege occurred in the American Civil war, when the Confederates defended the town of Richmond for 185 days, or just over four years. Sebastopol in the Crimean war held out for 11 months. General Gordon defended Khartoum against the Sudanese for 99 days. The sieges of Ladysmith, Kimberley, and Mafeking in the South African war lasted 121, 122 and 204 days respectively.

There is probably no siege in which Britishers like to read about so much as that carried out by England and Spain in 1600, endeavoring to carry the block of Gibraltar. For 39 months the siege lasted, nearly four years and as the old saying is, "suited in a complete triumph of British arms in spite of the fact that the enemy numbered 20,000 to 15,000 men, with the advantage of the better position."

There will be a lot of talk about the war continuing into the year next year, but this year will be a year from a European point of view. It is possible that the war will end in 1915, but it is more likely that it will continue for some time longer.

Over 200,000 pieces of baggage had to be abandoned in flight. If the war continues, the touring season next year should have at least $120,000,000 in home consumption. Americans will have a chance to see their own country. If there were small hotels with fare as good and prices as reasonable as are provided in Europe, there would be many more tourists in this country at all seasons.

Promises to the Recruits

A glance at the crowds at the recruiting office shows that there is no need for the imaginative drawing up of advertisements of enticement to the colors, says the London Chronicle. By way of contrast one is reminded of earlier methods. Look at this appeal for young men for the light dragoons, which appeared in the Times of September, 1801:

"Your pay and privileges equal two guineas a week; you are everywhere respected; your society is courted; you are admired by the fair, which, together with the chance of getting switched to a buxom widow, or brushing with a rich heiress, renders the situation truly enviable and delightful."

What young man could resist this?

Trinidad's Oil Industry.

The oil industry of Trinidad has reached such a degree of importance, that the admiralty has decided to investigate the possibilities of obtaining supplies there. It is reported that Professor Cadman has arrived at Port of Spain with instructions from the admiralty to make a full report on the condition of the industry.

LESSONS IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE

MILK AS A TISSUE-FORMING FOOD.

Few people realize how much nourishment there is in milk, particularly how much tissue-forming material there is in it. They realize that it is rich in fat because they see cream rise upon it and know that it is made into butter, but of the fact that it is an important tissue former they often lose sight. It happens that by far the greater part of the tissue-forming materials remain in the milk after it is skimmed or after the butter is removed from it, so for the purpose of building up the body skim milk counts for as much as an equal volume of whole milk and buttermilk is not far behind.

Milk does not appear to be very nourishing, probably because it is a liquid, while most other foods are solids. As a matter of fact, it is not a concentrated food, and if a person should try to substitute it for meat and to take only as much by weight as he does of the meat he would get very little nourishment. But think! It takes only two glasses of milk to weigh a pound, and many a person takes as much as this at a meal, while he would never eat a pound of meat. So, while milk has a small percentage of protein, as the tissue-builders of the food are sometimes called, it counts up in the long run because of the large quantities of it which a person naturally takes.

If you want to get an idea of how much protein there is in milk as compared with some other common foods, set aside by side a glass of milk (one-fourth of a quart), a medium sized egg (two ounces), a small ball of chopped meat (one and a quarter ounces of boneless, medium fat beef, mutton, pork or other meat), Make 13 balls of equal size out of a pound of meat and you will get about the right amount; a piece of cheese half the size of an egg and a pint quarter of a cupful of uncooked, or a half cupful of cooked navy beans or cowpeas. (The amounts of beans and peas make allowances for the part which remains undigested. See Farmers' Bulletin 279, page 9.) These samples of food will of course not represent exactly equal amounts of protein for all foods vary in composition and besides round numbers have been selected for convenience. They will however serve to give an idea of what a glass of milk is equivalent to as a tissue former.

There is also a valuable source of nourishment, people naturally desire to know a large number of ways to use it. The good way to use milk and skim milk in particular, is to make milk soup. This is good for the weak and for those who are recovering from illness.

A Ballad of Vegetables.
(Philadelphia Record)
A potato went out on a mass,
And sought an onion bed,
'That's pit for me,' observed the squash,
And all the beets turned red.
'Go way,' the onion weepfully cried,
'Your love I cannot be.'
The pumpkin be your lawful bride—
You cantaloupe with me!

But onward still the tuber came,
And lay down at her feet.
'You cauliflower a flower by any name
And it would smell as wheat,
And I, too, am an early rose,
And you I've come to see,
So don't turnip your lovely nose,
But spinachat with me.'

'I do not carrot at all to wed;
So go, sir, if you please.'
The modest onion meekly said,
'And lettuce, pray, have peas!
Go, think that you have never seen
Myself or smelled my sigh;
Too long a maiden I have been
For favors in your rye.'

'Ah, spare a cuss,' the tuber prayed;
'My cherrished bride you'll be;
You are the only weeping maid
That currant now for me.'
And as the wily tuber spoke,
He caught her by surprise,
And giving her an artichoke,
Devoured her with his eyes.

Exchange.
'Does your son take after you?'
'No, I'm afraid we're a little at odds in our ideas. He wants to wear a high hat and evening clothes, while I have a fancy for going hunting and looking like a boy scout.'

stirring occasionally during the first hour.

This pudding has approximately as much tissue-forming material in it as the soup for which the recipe is given above. Scalloped potatoes can be made in which the same way except that a little butter would be used in place of the sugar and a larger amount of potato can be used than of rice.

In this article milk has been referred to chiefly in connection with its value as a tissue former. Nothing has been said of the fat and mineral matter it contains. When these are taken into consideration it makes an even better showing. See Farmers' Bulletin 413, page 14. There you will find that all the food in a cup of milk is equal to that in three ounces of beef or in two eggs.

SEASONING FOR COTTAGE CHEESE, SOUPS AND SALADS.

The savories of the diet, the highly flavored substances, like herbs and spices, which we use in small amounts only, seldom have much food value, but they are often the means of making the lower-priced food materials attractive and thus they may serve to keep down the cost of living. Americans are not much given to the use of these substances, and might well take a lesson from some of the European nations. There is a notable one of European origin, belonging, like the onion, to the lily family and known as the chive, which has so good a flavor and is so easy to raise and to use, and besides so ornamental as it grows, that it seems strange that American housekeepers do not make more use of it. The chive is a perennial which puts forth long, slender, hollow leaves and has small delicate purplish flowers. It can not easily be grown from the seed, but a bunch of chives can be separated and the parts replanted. They make an ornamental border for a flower or vegetable bed and can be grown in a pot or window box in the house. Some people put them into their fern dishes and consider them very decorative.

The advantage of using the chive, which resembles but is not exactly like the onion in taste and odor, besides the fact that it gives variety to the diet is that it can be obtained in suitable form for use in cooking without the danger of getting any of it on the hands. The leaves can be cut off and snipped into small pieces by means of a pair of scissors and unless the hands touch the cut surfaces (and this is avoidable), no trace of the odor remains upon them. If one is sure the leaves of the plant are clean a paper or dish can be held under them and the leaves snipped directly on to it in pieces small enough for use. The snipping of the leaves does not injure the plant in any way. It is better rather to stimulate its growth and to make it more vigorous and healthy.

The uses of the chive as a flavoring material are as numerous as those of the more familiar members of the same family, the onion, wherever chopped onion is used, chopped chives may be substituted. A tea special uses may, however, be mentioned. In very finely chopped condition it is an attractive addition to cottage cheese. See Farmers' Bulletin 387, Cheese and Its Economical Use in the Diet, and Farmers' Bulletin 413, Puddings.

The Woman's Club Ball

By special request the following account of the ball given at the Sanford House last Tuesday night is given below. On account of the absence of the society editor of The Herald from the city the club was supposed to furnish an account of the affair but in the excitement of the moment failed to do so and this account is taken from the writup in the Tribune of Mrs. Dickins with some additions:

The annual ball of the Social Department of the Woman's Club given Tuesday evening at the Sanford House was one of the most select and brilliant affairs of the season. Mrs. W. D. Holden, as hostess, aided by the several committees spared no pains to make the affair a success. The simple decorations were suggestive of Christmas and crystal vases filled with brilliant gaidolus arranged on the mantels were a pleasing addition.

The grand march was begun promptly at 9 o'clock. Miss Charlotte Hand and Mr. William Hill leading the dancers through many attractive figures, ending with the waltz. Delightful music was furnished by a three piece orchestra, composed of Clarence Mahoney, piano; Al Witherington, violin, and Miss Junie Stumon, clarinet. Many of the newest dances were included in the program and the evening was one of unalloyed pleasure. The evening gowns of the ladies were specially beautiful. Mrs. W. A. Fitts, Jr., chairman of the Social Department was attractively gowned in pink charmeuse, chiffon and lace. Mrs. C. O. McLaughlin, vice chairman, black embroidered net with silver garniture. Mrs. G. D. Bishop, secretary-treasurer, pink charmeuse, hothee adorned with handsome lace. Miss J. W. Dickins, president of the Woman's Club, yellow crepe with black velvet bodice, jet garniture, black Laura Fish, first vice president, pink charmeuse combined with silver spangled net and lace. Mrs. R. E. Tolar, recording secretary, pink crepe, combined with lace, fur trimming. Mrs. Hattie Wight, corresponding secretary, had some black lace and chiffon. Mrs. W. D. Holden, hostess, white lace over white satin trimmed with black velvet. Mrs. G. A. Smith, music director, blue and silver shades. Miss Margaret Gill of DeLand, blue charmeuse. Miss Elder, lavender crepe de chine and lace. Mrs. B. W. Herndon, black panne velvet and satin, handsomely trimmed with jet. Miss Anna McLaughlin, pink charmeuse and hand painted chiffon. Mrs. R. A. Howard, blue crepe net with handsome gold garniture. Mrs. R. M. Wallace, broadcloth net, chiffon and lace. Mrs. R. J. Holly, yellow charmeuse, with white silk net trimmed with fur; Miss Adelaide Higgins, white accordion pleated chiffon; Mrs. W. E. Watson, cerise chiffon over embroidered net, combined with charmeuse and gold ornaments. Miss Hertense Weidman, pink charmeuse with white shadow lace. Mrs. A. B. Wallace, light blue crepe meteor, shadow lace, gold garniture; Mrs. Forrest Lake, embroidered silk net with cloth of gold; Mrs. R. A. Newman, yellow charmeuse veiled with spangled net, fur and pearl trimming; Mrs. Fred Walsman, black velvet overdress, yellow charmeuse, jet and gold garniture; Miss Margaret Worsham, of Augusta, Ga., light blue crepe de chine, chiffon and lace; Miss Corneha Smith, of New Smyrna, heavy oriental lace combined with green charmeuse; Miss Gladys Smith of New Smyrna, blue chiffon over white lace, black velvet bodice; Miss Sadie Williams, burnt orange satin combined with lace; Miss Florence Frank, yellow crepe meteor, white lace and black velvet; Miss Lillian Higgins, white taffeta with lace; Mrs. G. A. DeCottes, black satin veiled with gold embroidered chiffon; Mrs. Roumillat, pink charmeuse, veiled with spangled net, crystal trimmings; Mrs. John Meisch embroidered crepe over pink satin; Mrs. Leffer, black satin and lace; Mrs. Bouchelle, Charleston, Va., white crepe de chine; Mrs. A. F. Homrighous, of Chicago, handsome black charmeuse; Miss Schilling, pink charmeuse, velvet and chiffon; Miss Leffer, white lace, combined with green charmeuse; Miss Belle Smith, white crepe, white satin bodice; Mrs. A. C. Betts, white charmeuse, silk lace and pearl garniture; Mrs. W. P. Carter, white crepe trimmed with lace, rose trimming; Mrs. S. Puleston, white chiffon combined with crepe meteor and lace; Mrs. B. Perkins, light blue crepe; Miss Annie Higgins, black beaded net over black charmeuse; Miss Charlott Hand, white charmeuse, white silk shadow lace; Mrs. C. E. Henry, pink charmeuse, veiled with handsomely beaded chiffon; Mrs. E. B. Brown of Tampa, handsome black charmeuse; Miss Elizabeth McLaughlin, blue crepe de chine, handsomely trimmed with gold lace, cape of lace, marabou trimming, and Mrs. L. Hurt, black satin, chiffon and white lace. The gentlemen present were Messrs. F. Lake, G. D. Bishop, R. A. Newman, B. W. Herndon, G. F. Smith, Joe, Roy and Ned Chittenden, B. A. Howard, R. M. Galloway, W. A. Fitts, Jr., W. E. Watson, W. P. Carter, W. J. Thigpen, A. C. Betts, Willie Leffer, Raymond Key, R. J. Holly, Woodruff, McClintock, Hume Rumph, Fred Walsman, Starkweather, William Hill, Pope Wicker, Lloyd, Yountz, Whittner, Jr., Randall Chase, Griffin Herring, B. Perkins, Norton, A. F. Brown of Paola, L. Hurt and Dr. Yain.

The success of this brilliant ball was due to the untiring efforts of the Social Department chairman, Mrs. W. A. Fitts, the gracious hostess, Mrs. W. D. Holden and the following competent committees:

Place, Mrs. Samuel Puleston. Floor, Miss Belle Smith. Refreshments, Mrs. C. O. McLaughlin, chairman, Mrs. W. P. Carter, Mrs. John Meisch, Mrs. Braxton Perkins.

Pinch, Mrs. Robert Newman, chairman, Miss Sadie Williams, Miss Charlotte Hand.

Auction Bridge

The Auction Bridge Club was delightfully entertained at the charming home of Mrs. B. W. Herndon last Monday afternoon. There were four tables. Duplicate auction was played, the cash prize, a dainty dresser set of china being won by Miss Laura Fish. Mrs. G. D. Bishop won the grand prize, a hand some cut glass vase. At the close of the game a delicious salad course was served.

Stag Dinner

One of the most enjoyable and novel entertainments given at Sanford was the imitative stag dinner on Wednesday evening at the Woman's Club. The evening was a most successful one, varied various stag dinners, so nothing daunted a gay crowd of young ladies and charming maids held a stag affair of their own, entering into the spirit of the game with a zest and enthusiasm that proved, while the male contingent always adds to the fun, that the sport of lady folk can, even in that pleasure from a strictly feminine party. Impersonating the friends of the masculine persuasion, and wearing the regulation full dress evening suits with a grace and savoir faire not yet acquired by the lords of creation, they had a thoroughly good time and decided that stag dinners were altogether delightful affairs. Gentlemen present by proxy were Messrs. Ned Chittenden, Sam Yountz, J. D. Roberts, Joe Chittenden, Billy Hill, Roy Chittenden, Clarence Mahoney, Braxton Perkins, T. S. Lloyd, W. A. Fitts, Jr., L. P. McCuller, Felix Frank, Joe DeMent, W. J. Thigpen, Archie Betts, Dr. Fain and Dr. Cecil Butt. Those who were really and truly there were Messdames A. W. Fitts, Jr., F. J. Gonzales, F. L. Miller, LaVerne Hurt, Braxton Perkins, Archie Betts, Cecil Butt and Misses Belle Smith, Florence Frank, Gladys and Cornelia Smith of New Smyrna, Gretchen Schultz, Olga Schultz, Sadie Williams, Adelaide Higgins, Peacha Leffer, Lillian Higgins, Anna McLaughlin, Charlotte Hand, Annie Higgins, Helen Rowland, Miss Whittner, Mell Whittner, Zoe and Fannie Reba Murnon. Now the men of Sanford had a guests coming as to "who was who," but certain it was a frank admission that Clarence Mahoney danced the "Maxine" with a grace that was only excelled by the Spanish beauty of T. S. Lloyd, J. D. Roberts was a peer, but Dr. Fain was bashful and hesitated so long in making engagement that one of the Chittenden girls filled his program and said he could dance the fox trot while the doctor was just thinking about asking the belle to dance. One married man nearly had fits because his wife danced the love waltz with Billy Hill. This bunch of "gay" young people are always originating most enjoyable schemes for extracting a full quota of pleasure from life and the stag dinner was one of the last.

Every Week Bridge

Mrs. Forrest Lake was the gracious hostess to the members of the Every Week Bridge Club Thursday afternoon at her attractive home on Park avenue. Two tables were played, Mrs. B. W. Herndon substituting for Mrs. T. A. Neal, winning the lovely prize of a Japan basket of fine tea. Mrs. Lake served a delicious course consisting of mescalados with whipped cream and cake. Present were Messdames C. M. Vorce, B. W. Herndon, G. D. Bishop, W. D. Holden, Mrs. M. G. Farnes, C. O. McLaughlin and Miss Anne.

Party at Vero

Mrs. C. Boryce Bell entertained with a charming informal party for her home guest, Miss Anne Wallace of Keatonville on Monday evening last. Miss Wallace is teacher of expression at Wesleyan Female College at Milton, Ga. Invited to the party were Mrs. W. A. Fitts, Jr., Mrs. W. D. Holden, Mrs. W. P. Carter, Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, Mrs. W. E. Watson, Mrs. R. A. Newman, Mrs. Sam Yountz, Mrs. J. D. Roberts, Mrs. F. L. Miller and Mrs. B. W. Herndon.

Winter Party

A most enjoyable and successful party of friends at Sanford Wednesday night let the Sanford House guests of Mr. Lloyd von Dr. and Mrs. Puleston, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Herndon, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fitts, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Yountz, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Herndon.

Camping Party

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Woodruff chaperoned a jolly crowd of young people on a camping frolic Monday and Tuesday in honor of their son, Frank, Jr., who has been pending the holidays at home. The party left Sanford early Monday morning in Capt. Egbert's launch, the Maime and pitched their tents on the banks of Tuzee lake, above

Lake Harney. All the delights of camping were enjoyed, shooting and fishing especially and the party returned to the city late Tuesday night, having had the time of their lives. Enjoying camp life were Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Woodruff, Miss Helen Galloway, Miss Mamie Devlin, Frank Woodruff, J. D. Woodruff, Ralph and Harry Woodruff, Allen Jones and G. W. Spencer. ONE YEAR NARER THE REGISTRATION AREA

It is fitting that at the close of the year some statement be made of what has been done towards having the births and deaths of the state accurately collected and authoritatively published by the State Bureau of Census.

Although it was in the August 1913 Health Notes that the present plan of collecting reports in cities of 2,000 and over through ordinances was first published, and thereupon actively pushed, it was really not until the early part of 1914 that the system crystallized itself about the model ordinance for registration of births and deaths as the needful prototype of the model state law, and the practice of states with that law was started to be put into operation.

In August of this year, one year from the published inception of the work the plan was thrown open to all municipalities of the state and announcement to that effect was made in Health Notes.

Each month the name of that section carried the word that if all went well, the new legislature would be appended to for a statewide law, the model law, that at least the more thickly settled communities should have their births and deaths recorded under the provisions and supervision found in other states to be necessary for accurate and complete statistics to be tabulated and published as well as urban registration.

So step by step advance has been made in the plans for exacting statewide data sufficiently accurate to be reported to a part of the Census Bureau.

The results have kept pace with the plans, due allowance being made for errors, omissions and delay in action on the part of the municipalities. The first of the year, 1914, showed the birth and death statistics for the year 1913, and the second of the year, 1914, showed the statistics for the year 1914, and the third of the year, 1914, showed the statistics for the year 1914.

The records which have and are coming in have been tabulated and published in part and give promise of improvement that before long they will be as good as any other published in the country. The census is possible without the complete statistics on each state, but it will be as accurate as any state statistics. The plan is to have the assertion, often made, of the healthfulness of the state. However, as was said in the last annual report of the state health officer for 1913, the subject is an educational one, at least a year will be required to perfect a system which will be trustworthy, and probably it will not be before 1915 that any exact statement can be made of the birth and death rate of these municipalities. In the meantime there will also be an effort made to establish a system of the rural settlement, to come into the registration of the statistics, and so, by degrees, it is hoped that the earnest expectation of the past twenty-five years may become a realized fact, and Florida, progressive in all other respects as regards health management and conditions, may come into her own as being able to rate with the best and best of the Union of states.

Installation Ceremonies On Dec. 31st the following were installed in the order of the Grand Lodge No. 15, R. A. M.: H. E. Tolar, High Priest; Dr. O. J. Miller, King; C. L. Rumph, Scribe; F. L. SOME FAMOUS SIEGES

INVESTED TOWNS THAT LONG HELD OUT AGAINST FOE.

That of Greatest Duration Was at Richmond, Which the Confederates Defended for Four Years Gibraltar's Great Exploit.

The defense of Lige by 10,000 Belgians against three German army corps numbering 150,000 will go down to history as one of the most brilliant feats of arms in the annals of war says London Times.

The Franco-Prussian war of 1870-71 was remarkable for its sieges. Buzinelle held out at Metz against the Germans for nearly two months, and finally surrendered with 6,000 officers and 173,000 men. For this he had to submit to court martial, and was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment. Afterward came the siege of Paris, which lasted six months. Thousands of shells were rained on the city every day by the Germans, and no fewer than 10,000 of the inhabitants succumbed to disease and hunger.

That lengthy sieges are quite possible even in these days of huge guns is illustrated by Chukri Pasha's gallant defense of Adrianople last year for 155 days. The Japanese recently won a very recent great siege of Port Arthur in the Russo-Japanese war in 1904-05, which finally capitulated after being blockaded by Admiral Togo for 210 days. The name of General Stoessel will rank with those of the great soldiers of modern times.

In Ottoman and Russian military history there has never been a siege like that of Plevna in 1877, when Osman Pasha defied the Russians for 141 days, and finally surrendered on December 10, with 30,000 men and 100 guns, owing to provisions and ammunition running short. In the same year Kars, long the bulwark of the Ottoman empire in Asia, was stormed by the Russians after a siege of five months.

Twenty-two years earlier the fortress had been brilliantly defended for eight months against the Russians by the Turks under General Williams, who had but 15,000 men against 50,000.

Even these sieges, however, are somewhat insignificant when compared with some others. The longest siege occurred in the American Civil war, when the Confederates defended the town of Richmond for 187 days, or just over four years. Sebastopol, in the Crimean war, held out for 11 months while General Gordon defended Khartoum against the Sudanese for 100 days. The sieges of Ladysmith, Kimberley and Mafeking, in the South African war, lasted 117, 102 and 94 days, respectively.

There is probably no siege in which British troops took part so much as that carried out by England and Spain in the Philippines in 1898. The blockading of Manila, which began in the month of August, was followed by the capture of the city on September 13, 1898. The siege of Manila lasted nearly four years, and was one of the longest in the history of the world.

There is also a siege which is almost no vegetable which cannot be used for this purpose. Tomatoes, asparagus, peas, corn, potatoes, squash, turnips, carrots, all are good, and if the weather is cold, add a little onion, leek, and celery, and a dash of pepper, salt, and vinegar.

MILK AS A TISSUE FORMING FOOD

Few people realize how much nourishment there is in milk, particularly how much tissue-forming material there is in it. They realize that it is rich in fat because they see cream rise upon it and know that it is made into butter, but of the fact that it is an important tissue former they often lose sight. It happens that by far the greater part of the tissue-forming materials remain in the milk after it is skimmed or after the butter is removed from it, so for the purpose of building up the body skim milk counts for as much as an equal volume of whole milk and buttermilk is not far behind.

Milk does not appear to be very nourishing, probably because it is a liquid, while most other foods are solids. As a matter of fact, it is not a concentrated food, and if a person should try to substitute it for meat and to take only as much by weight as he does of the meat he would get very little nourishment. But think! It takes only two glasses of milk to weigh a pound, and many a person takes as much as this at a meal, while he would never eat a pound of meat. So, while milk has a small percentage of protein, as the tissue-builders of the food are sometimes called, it counts up in the long run because of the large quantities of it which a person naturally takes.

If you want to get an idea of how much protein there is in milk as compared with some other common foods, set aside by side a glass of milk (one-fourth of a quart), a medium sized egg (two ounces), a small ball of chopped meat (one and a quarter ounces of boneless, medium fat beef, mutton, pork or other meat), 13 balls of equal size out of a pound of meat and you will get about the right amount, a piece of cheese half the size of an egg and a scant quarter of a cupful of cooked navy beans or cowpeas. (The amounts of beans and peas make allowance for the part which remains undigested. See Farmers Bulletin 179, page 9.) These samples of food will, of course, not represent exactly equal amounts of protein for all foods vary in composition and besides round numbers have been selected for convenience. They will, however, serve to give an idea of what a glass of milk is equivalent to as a tissue former.

Milk is a valuable source of nourishment, people naturally desire to know a large number of ways in which it can be used. One good way to use milk and skim milk is particularly in soups and milk soups. This is good for the weak and for those who are recovering from illness.

This pudding has approximately as much tissue-forming material in it as the soup for which the recipe is given above. Scalloped potatoes can be made in which the same way except that a little butter would be used in place of the sugar and a larger amount of potato can be used than of rice.

In this article milk has been referred to chiefly in connection with its value as a tissue former. Nothing has been said of the fat and mineral matter it contains. When these are taken into consideration it makes an even better showing. See Farmers Bulletin 413, page 14. There you will find that all the food in a cup of milk is equal to that in three ounces of beef or in two eggs.

SEASONING FOR COTTAGE CHEESE, SOUPS AND SALADS.

The favorites of the diet, the highly flavored substances, like herbs and spices, which we use in small amounts only, seldom have much food value, but they are often the means of making the lower-priced food materials attractive and thus they may serve to keep down the cost of living. Americans are not much given to the use of these substances and might well take a lesson from some of the European nations. There is a vegetable of European origin, belonging to the onion, to the lily family and known as the chive, which has so good a flavor and is so easy to raise and to use, and is besides so ornamental as it grows that it seems strange that American housekeepers do not make more use of it. The chive is a perennial which puts forth long, slender, hollow leaves and has small delicate purplish flowers. It can not easily be grown from the seed, but a bunch of chives can be separated and the parts replanted. They make an ornamental border for a flower or vegetable bed and can be grown in a pot or window box in the house. Some people put them into their fern dishes and consider them very decorative.

The advantage of using the chive, which resembles but is not exactly like the onion in taste and odor, besides the fact that it gives variety to the diet is that it can be obtained in suitable form for use in cooking without the danger of getting any of it on the hands. The leaves can be cut off and snipped into small pieces by means of a pair of scissors, and unless the hands touch the cut surfaces (and this is avoidable), no trace of the odor remains upon them. If one is sure the leaves of the plant are clean a paper or dish can be held under them and the leaves snipped directly on to it in pieces small enough for use. The cutting of the leaves does not injure the plant in any way. It is better, rather, to stimulate its growth and to make it more vigorous and thrifty.

The use of the chive as a flavoring material is as numerous as those of the onion, and a number of the same family, the onion, wherever chopped can be used chopped chives may be substituted. A few special uses may, however, be mentioned. In very finely chopped condition it is an attractive addition to cottage cheese. See Farmers Bulletin 179, chives and its European use in the Diet and Farming Bulletin 413, page 14.

the executive committee of the Florida Press Associations will meet here next, Friday. The State Federation of Labor will meet here next week. The Red Men of the state will meet here next month. Let us see that they have the keys of the city and are shown the real southern hospitality that has made Sanford famous.

There will be at least two hotels started here in February or March and if both are not started this season at least one of them will be completed before another winter season.

The bulkhead, one of the first pieces of work in the state will be completed in a few months, giving us the greatest boost for a clean city that could possibly be had.

Several new business blocks and numerous dwellings will be erected. The brick roads will be finished. The concrete bridge over the St. Johns river will be built and later the electric line from Daytona to Sanford will be constructed.

A new steamship line from Sanford to Jacksonville is contemplated. The St. Johns river will be made the upper end of the ship canal giving Sanford the title of the Queen City of Middle and South Florida.

Sanford will be the center of the great wholesale and jobbing trade of this part of Florida and plans now on foot to harness the Wekiwa river for cheap power will make this city the best manufacturing city in the state.

This is looking ahead and is the work that The Herald has laid out for the people to accomplish during the year 1915. We are not living in the past but in the future lies our salvation. We cannot grind with the water that has passed and the day of dreaming is over.

This is the new year. Let us meet our obligations squarely and resolve to make the new year the greatest in the history of Sanford. We have dreamed long enough. Do something.

Today

To be alive in such an Age? With every year a lightning page turned in the World's great wonder book.

When the leaning Nations look. When men speak strong for brotherhood.

Egypt Peace and Universal Good. When miracles are everywhere. And every inch of common air throbs a tremendous prophecy. Of greater marvels yet to be.

Oh, thrilling Age! Oh, thrilling Age! When steel and fire and cad and cad.

Become the avenger of God! A trump to sound His thunder through.

To be alive in such an Age? When man, impatient of his cage. Thrills to the soul's momentary rage.

For conquest reaches goal on goal. Travels the earth from pole to pole. A challenge to the very sky. Where earth on tipping strays to hear the message of a conqueror's cry.

Young to meet the world's wars. That flash Infinity's desires.

To be alive in such an Age? Which thunders forth its discontent. With futile creed and sacrament. Yet craves to utter God's intent.

Seeing beneath the world's unrest. Creation's huge untiring quest. And through Tradition's broken crust. The flame of Truth's triumphant thrust.

Below the seething thought of man. The push of a stupendous plan. Oh, Age of Strife! Oh, Age of Life! When Progress rides her chariot high. And on the borders of the sky. The signals of the century. Proclaim the things that are to be.

The rise of woman to her place. The coming of a nobler race.

To be alive—in such an Age! To live in it! To give to it! Rise, Soul, from thy despairing knees. What if thy lips have drunk the lees? The passion of a larger claim. Will put thy puny grief to shame! Fling forth thy sorrow to the wind. And link thy hope with human kind. Breathe the world thought—do the world deed.

Think hugely of thy brother's need; And what thy woe—and what thy weal? Look to the work the times reveal; Give thanks with all thy flaming heart. Crave, but to have in it a part; Give thanks, and clasp thy heritage. To be alive—in such an Age.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Delightful Outing
A congenial party that enjoyed New Year's Day in a delightfully informal way, the guests of Mr. W. J. Thrippen were Misses Sadie Williams, Florence Frank, Gretchen Schultz, Mr. Ernest Housholder and Dr. Fain. Going up on the steamer DeLand, the party enjoyed dinner aboard, walked a distance of two miles and returned on 85 in the evening.

In the Younger Set
One of the delightful affairs of Christmas week was the card party and dance given by Miss Frances Gonzales to a number of her young friends on New Year's evening. The game of Rook was played and dancing enjoyed until a late hour. Christmas decorations were used in the adornment of the rooms and delicious refreshments served by the young hostess. The guests were Misses Alice Caldwell, May Thrasher, Virginia Brady, Ruth McDaniel, Helen Hood, Frances Chappell, Agnes Bothamly, Dorothy Rumph, Elizabeth Stafford, Fannie Rehn Munson; Messrs. Sidney Chase, G. W. Spenger, Reginald Holly, Fred Wight, Harold Washburn, J. D. Woodruff, Hume Rumph, Allan Jones, Dixie G. Browne, Edward Betts and James Higgins.

Fire Hundred Party
Mrs. LaVerne Hurt entertained very delightfully for Miss Schilling of Paola, with a 500 party New Year's morning. The prize, a box of correspondence cards was won by Miss Lillian Higgins. Enjoying the gracious hospitality of their hostess besides Miss Schilling were Mrs. Claude Howard, Mrs. Braxton Perkins, Misses Peacha Leffler, Bell Smith, Lillian Higgins, Adelaide Higgins and Anne Higgins. Straw berries with whipped cream, delicious cake and coffee were served.

Card Party
Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Gonzales were agreeable hosts at a very delightful auction bridge party New Year's Eve. Three tables of auction bridge were played, Mrs. Robinson winning the first prize, a pretty little clock. Mr. R. W. Herndon won the gentlemen's prize of a beautiful tie. The consolation prize was won by Mr. Geo. D. Boston. The decorations were really charming, tables of red and green, neatly arranged with quantities of fern, holly and mistletoe in all the rooms except the dining room. Here the table was a masterpiece. The table was a fine thing, a combination of artistic beauty. In the center a large vase was surrounded by asparagus fern reflected the graceful forms of pretty daisies. Poling up its surface were lovely bits of pretty cement representing a miniature lake. Great quantities of ferns, holly and mistletoe were scattered about the room. The place cards were hand printed figures of girls. An elaborate supper course was served. Enjoying the gracious hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Gonzales were Misses F. J. Miller, Mrs. and Mr. W. H. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Newell, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Baker.

PAPER FROM FLORIDA PINE Longleaf pine as a possible material for paper making has been a subject for consideration and experiment for some time, but so long as our paper makers could obtain pulp cheaply from abroad they were not disposed to entertain this possibility seriously. Now that the European war has cut off the Mermin supply, however, they should be in a mood to consider this proposition with an abundant native wood may furnish a cheap and ample supply. The northern spruce forests are approaching extinction under the heavy drain upon them. The south is ready to furnish a crude material workable into a pulp that will produce an excellent quality of wrapping paper at least.

The forest service of the United States department of agriculture announces the results of tests made in its laboratory. These show that under proper treatment the longleaf pine will give excellent grades of pulps and papers, and especial emphasis is laid upon its suitability for the manufacture of very strong and tough light weight brown wrapping paper. In a bulletin on the subject it is said that "the high specific gravity of the wood and the resultant high yield of pulp per cord give longleaf pine a high capacity for producing low cost, high quality commercial grades of pulp suitable for paper making."

Tests conducted in the laboratory show that longleaf pine logs all are suitable for paper making. There is a prospect of an additional product so the longleaf pine is a great addition to the wealth and resources of the south. It has been determined that this experiment that from a cord of longleaf pine pulp can be made from a given quantity of wood.

What is a Woman's Club

What is a woman's club? A meeting ground for those of purpose, great and broad and strong. Whose aim is in the stars, who ever long to make the patient, suffering world resound with sweeter music, deeper tones, whose hands are busy, whose hearts are full, and another deeds are done, whose hearts are full, whose wealth of brain for poverty atones, whose good groups deal and deal, whose hands touch with good, whose victors in the race for fame and power, look backward, even in their triumph hour, to beckon others to the shining goal. This is a woman's club, a haven fair where toilers drop an hour their load of care.

Better Sanitation in Schools

From an authoritative source it is learned that one half of the rural schools of Florida are not provided with toilet accommodations for the teachers or pupils.

It is proposed to submit to discuss this in the proper sanitation and the results to thousands of helpless children but the blame should be put where it belongs, the remedy brought about, if possible, and the serious results of neglect removed before the people and the responsible authorities.

The necessity for proper sanitation in schools is a subject which should be discussed by the proper authorities. It is up to man to meet it, and the authorities who fail to perform their duty should be recognized for their failure.

The members are trained in every branch of church work, the Sunday school especially is being benefited by having a source of supply from which to draw trained teachers.

Miss Clara Millen and Miss Minnie Stewart, the retiring president and secretary, with the other officers have done most excellent work during the past six months, and with regret that we give them up, but the plan of the B. Y. P. U. is to change officers each six months in order to train in office each member. Mr. Sidney G. Kennedy is the incoming president and Mrs. Foretha Brotherson the incoming secretary, and with the other new officers we expect great things of them the coming six months.

After the installation of the new officers a splendid banquet was enjoyed by the members, friends and all ... M. J. ... who is affectionately called "The Mother of the B. Y. P. U." and which follows:

MEANT FOR THE FALL

JAUNTY BOLERO SUIT THAT IS SURE TO BE POPULAR.

Makes Splendid Street Costume or in Suitable Materials Will Be Most Serviceable for Wear in the Afternoon.

Even the tailor-made costumes are more or less elaborate, for the simplest of them is cut in some complicated fashion. The long jackets, with basques having a movement "en forme" and cut on the bias, are very new. They are worn with waistcoats of white satin or fancy brocade, which fasten with odd little buttons.

Fashion, however, is becoming more and more eclectic every day, so it is also possible to see the quite short jacket on the bolero order, whose general effect is completed by a tunic skirt, making it look like a long jacket. This gives a very youthful effect.

The idea is interestingly exploited in the model here shown, which is developed in Saxe blue Beauville cloth and black taffeta. The jacket, in the form of a little bolero, has a soutache trimming in self-color appearing in a narrow border around the neck and sleeve ends, but spreading out over the front edge in a larger motif. The peplumlike pieces that are hung over either hip are also trimmed with soutache. There is a deep girde of black taffeta tied in a bow at the front, and above this a shallow bib running off to nothing at either side. Then the sleeves are oddly lengthened on the outside, covering the elbow, with a frad of taffeta. The groups may be of white net or chiffon, is crossed over the bust between the jacket edges, and given an upstanding collar of batiste.

Both tunic blouses are laid in folds and are quite straight and plain. The upper one shows two smart little triangular "patch" pockets, both of which are braided with the soutache trimming. The lower skirt is of taffeta.

This will make a splendid street costume for the fall, or in crepe de chine will be found most serviceable for the afternoon.

FRIEND OF THE TRAVELER

Rucksack Has Many Advantages Over the Always Popular Knapsack.

What is a rucksack? According to Outing it is a bag made of denim, or heavy cloth. It has one or two pockets on the back, in which books or articles, frequently required by the tourist are readily accessible. The top is fastened by a cord, so the rucksack, filled with a couple of suits of underwear, toilet articles and the like, resembles a meal sack, except in color. Most of those sold in Europe are green, harmonizing with the landscape. But khaki is suitable in color and material. The rucksack has a number of advantages over its cousin, the knapsack. It is easier to get at, for one thing. It is not necessary to unfasten any straps to open the rucksack. Untying the string around the top by pulling one free end of a bow-knot enables the tourist to select anything contained therein in a jiffy.

Tulle Popular.

Tulle is the prevailing fabric for dancing frocks, and nothing is more appropriate or prettier for young people. Sometimes it is garlanded with an embroidery of naturally colored tiny roses and leaves. A useful addition to the wardrobe is the new shaped jacket, which is far more like a sack, following the lines of the figure without confining it in any way, and is mostly made to slip on with almost any dress, and not part and parcel of one. It requires to be carefully worn, and, like most of the modes of the day, is suited to slender figures.

Millinery Needs of Little Girlhood

FOR little ladies, from the baby girl to the miss entering upon her teens, and for the miss in her teens, fascinating lines of headwear have been turned out. Those specialists who look after the needs of children, up to the time when they enter the ranks of young womanhood, have developed this branch of millinery until America may be conceded to lead in point of variety and to match in point of excellence the products of all other countries.

In the group of headwear for little girls shown here a bonnet and two hats are pictured. The bonnet, for a little girl from three to five or six years old, is a quaint model, suggesting the fashions of bygone days for grownups. It is of velvet, with a silk facing in the projecting brim at the front. The bonnets of this type, with soft, puffed crowns, are made of silk plush, velvet, corduroy, and sometimes of coatings. The facings are in white or light colored silks, and the ties of ribbon.

Ribbons are depended upon to form the small bows or rosettes which constitute the main trimming feature of millinery for the baby girl. A ruche is formed of it and sets next the hair at the back of the brim. Little chiffon roses are set in the ruche at each side. Small millinery flowers used in this way, or placed in little nosegays on many little caps and bonnets, testify to the perennial blossoming of tiny flowers in the headwear of babydom. At the right of the picture a hat of plain velours, for the half-grown miss, depends upon a plain band of narrow grosgrain ribbon and an odd gay feather cockade for its decoration. Special feather ornaments for the hats of such youthful wearers are contrived to suit them remarkably well. A hat of this kind is worn by girls of all ages from six to seventeen.

One of the beautiful kinnard hats, which is of purely American origin, has its place in the center of the picture. It is made by crocheting chenille or other material over fine wire supports, and is a difficult piece of work, which is done by hand. But the exquisite result warrants the labor and has fastened upon this achievement an expressive title as the aristocrat in millinery. It is trimmed in many novel ways, made possible by the method of constructing the hat. But in the model shown a band of bordered ribbon and a half wreath of tiny silk-covered apples complete a perfect piece of millinery for the small lady of five. Hats of this kind are made to measure, shaped and trimmed according to the age of the wearer.

Rub your kid shoes with linseed oil, drying it in and then rub with a dry cloth. They will wear longer and be waterproof.

Two Pretty and Popular Neckpieces

THE liking for the flaring collar has resulted in many modifications of the original design patterned after the medic collar. Combinations of the flaring collar and small vestee made of organdie, lace, or net are endless in variety. Then there are the combinations of the flaring collar and revers to be worn with blouses or coats. In many of these only the back of the collar has been left the flare at the sides being dispensed with. With the advance of the season this particular development of the medic collar has increased its popularity.

In the picture a neckpiece with the back flare and revers is shown made of organdie, trimmed with valenciennes edging. It is decorated, with two rows of hem-stitching, one of them fastening the lace to the organdie. The collar is supported by four very fine wires at the back, and the revers show a decoration of tiny covered buttons at one side. This is a dainty and easily laundered neckpiece which will give an up-to-date touch to the blouse or little coat with which it is worn.

A vestee of net, finished with plaited ruffles, one of which forms the standing collar, is shown in the second design. It is held in place about the waist with an elastic band, and fastens down the front with clasps concealed under small covered buttons. The short ruffle designed to stand up about the neck is supported by collar stays of wire.

This vestee is to be worn under blouses of silk or other material in one-piece dresses, and is very useful for the summer tourist for freshening her traveling gown and supplying a touch of white at the throat.

COOL AND HANDY GARMENT

Envelope Chemise Has Much to Recommend, It Especially During the Hot Weather.

Never was a handier little garment designed than the envelope chemise, and certainly there was never a bit of underwear more comfortable. They are so easily made, too. If you never made a garment before, you can make an envelope chemise. Get a simple paper pattern and you will need no other guide or advice. You may either tuck the yoke of the chemise or embroider it. If the chemise is of white crepe, it is well to embroider it, for the tucks would need ironing, whereas, with the crepe embroidered, it is possible to wear the garment without ironing. If you wish an elaborate undergarment, a strip of hand embroidery can be worked all the way down the front, but for the simpler garment a spray of some small flower is sufficient across the upper part of the front.

In very hot weather the envelope chemise will act as drawers, petticoat and corset cover, serving as three garments in one. Besides, the combination drawer and petticoat idea is delightfully cool. In cooler weather the envelope chemise can be worn over a knitted union suit.

NOTE—This gown can be worn while travelling any evening. At times a person must be careful as the train may be held up.

Two brothers had just finished building an airship that would fly, if it sailed in the air. The ship was a great big one, and was built in the cellar of their home. They at once started to tear down the four story building, so they could get the ship out for her maiden trip. When about half of the building was down, they set down to rest. The oldest one asked, "Of our airship sailed up nine thousand miles would the skyscraper!"

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

MARRYING THE OTHER GIRL.
 We fling ourselves to the wind. Most scattered things are blown. All is whisked which promised once so fair. We grab ourselves with sorrow a two-edged knife. And yet—a little patience strengthens life.

There is generally a reason when a man calls off and on upon a lady. She gives her every reason to believe he is in love with her, yet fights shy of the topic—matrimony. Naturally a woman believes that she must not take the initiative in so delicate a matter. Despite the advanced ideas of the new women of 1914, there's many a timid maid who waits for a man to propose.

Constant companionship has endeared him to her. She waits gladly and modestly for him to declare himself. If her nature has changed a little from the ardent of the earlier days of their courtship, if he comes less frequently and very often disappoints her altogether, she ascribes it to his close attention to business.

Where women love deeply they are trustful, even in the face of circumstances which should put them on their guard that something is amiss. She may see him with another girl on divers occasions, or the friends who are invited to her wedding may give a hint to her that he has another string to his bow. Yet if she takes him with it and he keeps up the assertion of pure evidence, she as Holy Writ, she will blindly believe him. The girl with a lover no matter how sweet and tender daydreams. Her hopes breathe around the object of her affections. Her whole life merges into the expectation of wedding him. A little reality and a little practicality in the part of the girl who is to be married is a good thing. She should have a little business worries she knows not of. Though he is stretched for time to the limit, he is coming to the conclusion that he is not good enough for her. That she deserves some one who could give her better times and brighter expectations, she still clings to him. At such a critical moment, it is well to be off with the old love.

It is well to be merry and wise. It is best to be honest and true. It is well to be off with the old love. Before you are on with the new.

THE WOMAN TO FEAR.

Judge, not! Thou canst not tell how soon the look of bitter scorn May rest on thee, though pure thy heart as dewdrops in the morn. Thou dost not know what freak of fate may place upon thy brow A cloud of shame to kill the joy that rests upon it now. Judge not!

It is not the acknowledged flirt, the pretty coquette, that the woman who has a fickle husband should fear. She who smiles openly and aboveboard has no more harm in her heart than a playful kitten. She has gained her aim and ambition in being merely smiled upon and admired. She could not be constant to any one person if she would. Like the queen bee, her life is spent flitting from one flower to another, always looking forward, anticipating the taste of new sweetness, never looking backward. It's the woman cool, calm, far-seeing, that glides into one's life almost unnoticed, who is capable of working the most mischief. She is rarely beautiful; she is not conspicuous in attire. She is not domineering in manner or overtalkative. It is her personality which counts. She holds the key which opens all hearts to her; that key is composed of sympathy, tact, making herself congenial to people no matter what their mood is gay, careless or grave—with all the pretty feminine characteristics which never fail to appeal to mankind.

More often than not, she is brought into the home by the wife herself. She confides all her domestic sorrows to her, which is the most fatal thing a wife could do. It is placing a dagger in another's hands with which to pierce her own heart later on.

There are true bosom friends among women, yet there are also false friends. With the weapon of knowledge in her hands, she finds that in the solitude of their chamber the husband and wife have many a spat, eye downright quarrels, not speaking for days. She knows how to insert the wedge to widen the breach between them.

She constitutes herself the go-between, sympathizing with each. In her own time she worms herself into the affections that the wife vacated. There is no woman on earth so near and dear to a wife that she should confide to her her innermost secrets in complaint against her husband. Nor should she give him the opportunity to confide to another woman his disappointment and lack of joy in his home life.

SHOULD PHYSICIANS WED?

When a man gives admission to our hearts, he opens all the gates to our hearts. It is a matter of life and death.

Who is it, who would be unkind enough to deem the physician, the noblest handiwork of God, his image, a little of stings and gloom?

In boyhood he stands at a road where many paths cross. Which shall he take? It is not the law of chance, but his own heart that decides. It is the call of his heart which decides that momentous question—the call to his pain to be an unappreciated hero to thousands whose lives he holds in his hands. He is never out of the presence of life and death. He is a man of many sorrows.

His profession demands that he shall be a domestic man, kind and sympathetic, a man of heart, with a fondness for little children. He is brought in contact with the most pathetic of human beings. He is a man of many sorrows.

Who would shut him out from the tender sweetness of home life because he has chosen to administer to the afflicted? The wife of his bosom need feel no qualms of jealousy. Of all the world of women he has chosen her to walk by his side and to be the mother of his children. A greater honor no man could pay her. His wife should do everything in her power to make his life at home a holiday from care. True, his time is not always his own, but she should bow her head to duty's call. The wedded doctor with wife and children of his own can feel for other men's wives and children with added tenderness. By all means it is best for doctors to wed.

Wolf is Inquisitive.

Like all highly intelligent animals, the wolf is extremely inquisitive—hence its habit of sneaking after man. In the Adirondack country I have many times heard wolves in the underbrush quite near at hand, following the dog team. On one occasion they became so bold and growled so threateningly that we were glad to reach more open going, though in all probability there was no real danger. The forest rangers and others in this locality heeded them little, though the Indians prefer to give the brutes a wide berth.—Wide World Magazine.

Uncle Sam Offers All Americans a Chance to Feed Starving Belgium

Arrangements Made For Sending Parcel Post Packages From Rural Districts. How to Aid the Stricken Little Sister of the World

By WILL IRWIN

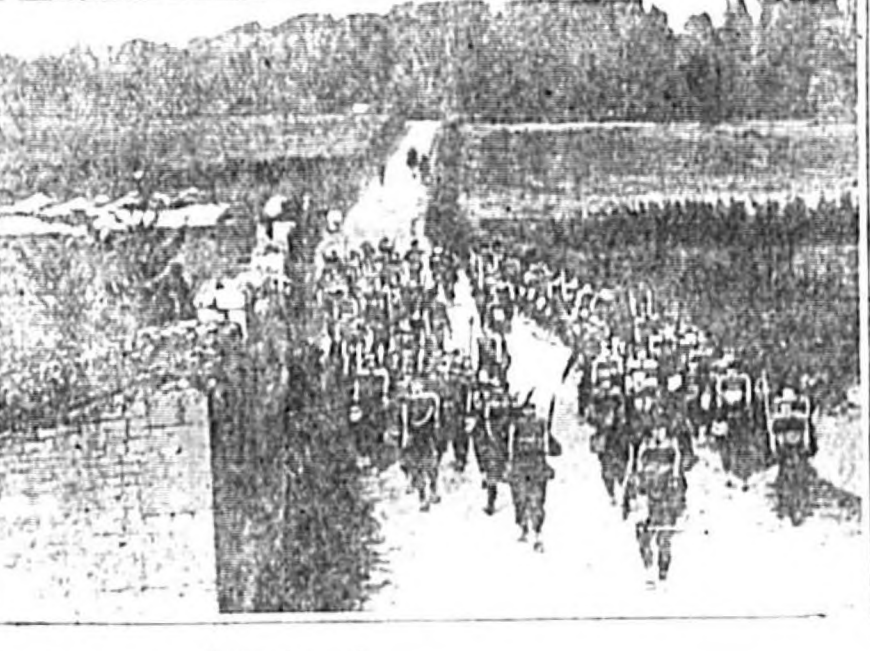

HOMELESS BELGIAN WOMEN ON THE WAY TO THE BREAD LINE.

For the first time in its history, the post-office department has been engaged in a charitable undertaking. From this time forth any American who wishes to give food to the starving people of Belgium has only to stamp his parcel in the regular way and send it through the post office. It will go as straight and fast as rail and water will carry it to Belgium. The parcels will be sent to the American Commission for Relief in Belgium, 21 Broadway, New York city.

Seven million people, mostly women, children and old men, are still shut up in Belgium. Industry stopped when the Germans came; the money gave out through the payment of fines and indemnities; the crops were mainly ruined. With the coasts cut off, Belgium, which imports three-quarters of her food supply in normal times, could import no more. Work is gone; money is gone. The German conquerors, who have no regard for the proposed, have taken the food stuffs and will not let them go. The allies, fearing that the food stuffs will be used for a hostile purpose, either will not let them go or they will starve. There is no other way to get the food stuffs to the most indigent, hungry people in the world.

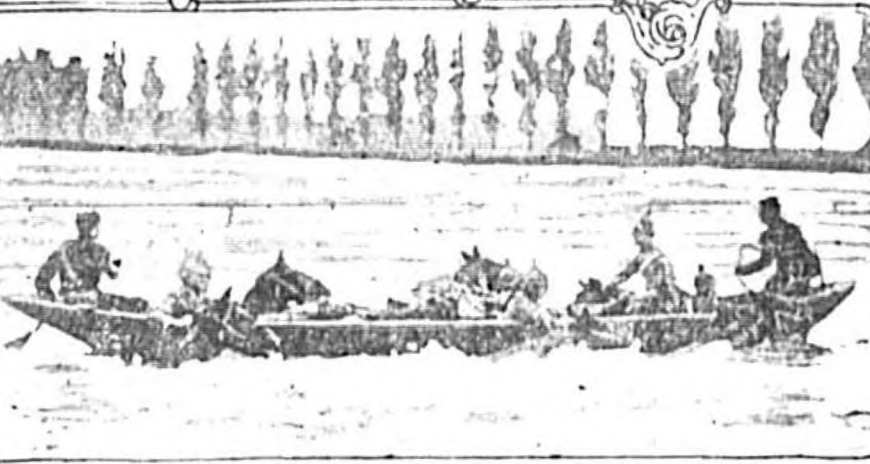

Who needs most of all that food? The women and children. They are the ones who are most in need of it. The men are able to do some work, but the women and children are helpless. They are the ones who are most in need of it.

To keep the home together;
Nobody knows of the steps it takes,
Nobody knows but mother;
Nobody listens to childish woes
Which kisses only smother,
Nobody pined by the nightly blow,
Nobody only mother!

Nobody knows of the sleepless care
Bestowed on baby brother,
Nobody knows of the dreamless

The grief she'd gladly smother,
Nobody knows of the breaking heart
Nobody only mother!

Nobody clings to the wayward child
Though scorned by every other,
Lead it so gently from pathways wild

Nobody only mother!

Ellen Pappé

The day after New Year's a San ford boy is said to have addressed
his stomach as follows:
What's the matter with you and I always been your friend?

Ain't I been a purdner to you, all
my pennies don't I spend
In gettin' nice things for you? Don't
I give you lots of cake?

What's the matter

Why, I loaded you with good things
yesterday, I gave you more Potatoes, squash, an' turkey than you'd ever had before.

I gave you nuts an' candy, pumpkin pie and chocolate cake.
An' last night when I got to bed
you had to go an' ache.

Say, what's the matter with you,
ain't you satisfied at all?
I gave you all you wanted, you
was hard on me, a' right.

An' you couldn't find nothin' to puddin', yet I's night
--you ached mos' awful, stummkick,
that ain't treatin' me jes' right.

I've been a friend to you, I have,
why ain't you a friend o' mine?
They gave me castor oil last night
because you made me whine.

I'm awful sick this mornin' an' I'm foolin' mighty blue.
Beac' you don't appreciate the things I do for you

A bunch of newspaper men will be here next Friday the 8th and the Federation of Labor will be here next Wednesday and it is up to the people of Sanford to entertain these distinguished guests and make them feel glad that they have come to this city for a few hours. We have much to show them and we can make their stay most pleasant. Therefore let every citizen be up and doing and join the Commercial Club in caring for the guests. Sanford is known as one of the most hospitable cities in the state and we should sustain this reputation.

The county fair is growing in favor and the merchants should get together and boost this great proposition along. The fair is the biggest thing that has ever come to the city
as far as the business men are concerned for the fair will be confined to the city streets and the merchants will realize more from this affair than any other attraction that has ever been known here. Not only is this a fact but the business men have not been asked to contribute a cent and it is a moral certainty that some lines of business
here will clear a little fortune during
the four days of the fair.

An inventor in Rome fell from an aeroplane yesterday. Every year or so it is getting harder to do as the Romans do when you're there.

The very first business day of the new year the situation seems to call for some sensible analytic, which we understand is analysis raised to the nth power. We admit that the industrial unrest looks badly and bil-lows and a person can very easily get as wrinkled as a nutmeg bothering about the future. That's just it ---"bothering about the future." A solemn agreement among Sanford people to refrain from looking any further ahead than 8 o'clock in the evening would ease the situation

surprisingly.

The opening of a new year has been a time selected for making definite resolutions of better things in conduct than has been the personal rule. It is better to resolve and lose than never to resolve at all
when the resolution is directed to the ending of a bad habit whether solely individual or involving others as well.

To get into the habit of resolving
and trying for a time to make good is often to succeed at last. One good habit thus overcomes an evil one,
just as antidotes destroy germs that have a harmful power over the physical body. We laugh at him who tries to reform and fails. That is,
some of us laugh but hardly the thoughtful ones. It is a fellow feeling and not an unkindly one that sees humor in the sight of another falling off the water wagon, for example.

Few and fortunate are they who never need make a resolution to do better and be better, than in the years past. They never will be popular if others are aware of their surpassing excellence, for mankind, as a rule, resents the upright, decent person and are of even better fellow citizens called just. We all want the square deal and yet too often fail to appreciate those who make a square deal of the whole conduct of life.

Speaking from the masculine viewpoint there are two occasions
when pride simply bursts a name control. When he makes his usual appearance in long pants and when he goes to the Sanford House in his best dress suit and new shoes.

Leo Frank has another chance.
That is not the only one to make
business for the courts.

"Poets settle in Arkansas" says
a headline. You bet they do. They settle in East Aurora, too, and Pinefort, Pa. and Paducah, and even Marion, Mo. The poet who settles
when poets don't have to settle disappeared from the scene of long-
long ago.

A regular newspaper man does not like slobber and gush and when the layman breaks into print with the soft stuff he usually calls down the wrath of some of the boys. A gentleman who recently dipped his brush in the mushy mush and wrote
of Florida receives the following notice from Editor Russel of the Palatka News:

Dr. W. A. McKenzie of Fruitland Park, Fla., is a man who would "by indirections and directions out." Under cover of an oratorical appeal column panegyric on Florida in the last issue of the Eustis Lake Region
that is a "peach." Florida colonization companies should secure a copy before the Almighty places it in the dry kiln. Addressed as it is to Omnipotence, there is little danger of the government finding an indictment against the sender for using the mails to defraud.

Of course we have the goods, but the language in which the goods are wrapped make them so much the more effective, yea attractive, and it is barely possible that courts
might hold that it was taking undue advantage of the susceptibilities of normal prospective settlers. However, it is altogether new way of getting at those who dwell in northern darkness and of showing them
the light; one that few would have the temerity to use; and yet now that the system has been used and there appears to be no copyright,
there is nothing in the way of its adoption by those who want others
to come and see "the soft December moonlight that like jagged splinters of Jovan golden flame lightens
the petals of yonder roses."

Here is the first verse of Dr. Mc-Kenzie's wonderful Florida advertising prayer:

"Oh, Delified Omnipotence! As we stand beneath the sheltering live
oak trees, bedecked with waving Spanish moss, which, like Nature-woven festoons for some universal

Christmas bower, filters the soft December moonlight that like jagged
splinters of Jovan golden flame
lightens the petals of yonder roses,
as the winter night wind, soft, warm,
fragrant as a sweetheart's touch,
croons evensong a Nature's Xmas-
carol, to which from the branches
the mocking birds return their sil-
very sweet replies, as the perfume
of orange blossoms and the fragrance
of many flowers flavor the wine-like crystal waters of the lake comes from out the night like fairy flutes
atune; as yonder star, like Bethlehem of old, shoots shafts of silver from the dark blue bowl of sky, as ripples forth the laugh of barefoot
children plucking golden grapefruit globes from fragrant groves; as this wonderful December Florida night
reveals opulence, peace, happiness,
joy, contentment and plenty, we pray Thy boon, Lead Thou us on unto the key that unlocks the mystery of this wonderland. Tell us the truth of why one spot in this fair land is graced above the rest.
Hast Thou forgiven Eve and erro-less mate, her Adam, and having driven their seed from Eden, art
here in Florida repairing a Paradise Lost with Paradise Regained? If this be true, give us the grace, the wit, the wisdom; both of word and deed to tell our brothers. Let our message go forth "this Xmas tide,"
out into the bitterness of northern climes and lead men's steps aright.
Let us strike the shackles from the slaves in the miasma of cities."

There is a whole lot more of this in the same general meter, but this must suffice for the time. The News feels deeply for Dr. Mc-Kenzie, he has evidently been bearing a great burden, and while we must doubt the propriety of casting such a heavy one on the Lord at this season of the year, and more especially this year, when our normally magnificent moon as seen through the fog-mist atmosphere,
has more the appearance of a green
cheese fresh from the foundry, yet
we must, therefore, congratulate him
now and be his abode.

Rush Hour Luck.

"That's what I call hard luck,"
laughed a man at the Brooklyn bridge
the other night, as he rose from a stopping position and the hurrying feet that passed him. "I saw a dollar fall all right last night, I was there, but the crowd wouldn't wait
for me to pick it up." New York Evening Post.

Announcements

The regular business meeting of the Woman's Club will be held at the club rooms Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Seminole County Fair and Chautauqua will be under discussion as well as other matters of importance. A full attendance is requested.

Tomorrow night Wednesday the Music Department will put on, at the Imperial a delightful program.
All club members are specially urged to patronize the affair. A rare treat is in store for all who attend. The department will apply the proceeds
on paying for a piano for the club house.

January 28 the Welfare Department will give one of its rare and entertaining musical comedies at the Imperial under the direction of Mrs. J. Pearle Rogers, who made such a success of the Peter Pan Minstrels
last year.

Book Lovers Club

Last Wednesday afternoon the members of the Book Lovers Club
and a few other friends enjoyed the charming hospitality of Mrs. W. W.
Abernathy. The pretty home was beautifully decorated in the Christmas colors. The red and green of holly and ferns and mistletoe was enhanced by the soft glow of the red shaded lights, completing the charm
and beauty of the attractive room.

Refreshments were served in the dining room at the table, which was lovely in its handsome silver and drawn works over red satin. Web-satin ribbons crossed in the center of the table, to the four corners and to the large bows, the effective decorations being completed with red shaded candlelight. A three course luncheon was served consisting of fruit salad, chicken salad, oysters,
olives, fruit and pound cake, ice cream and coffee. Mrs. Abernathy's guests were Mesdames J. E. Bradford, Mrs. E. C. Bennett, Mrs. E. E. Jones, Henry McLaughlin, William E. Hall, W.
James, Louise Bennett, Mrs. Bennett
and W. F. Henderson. A most enjoyable and profitable afternoon
was spent.

Progressive Travelling Party
The end of the progress of the Progressive travelling party given on New Year's by Mr. and Mrs. F. J.
Woodruff in honor of their guests,
Miss Galloway and Mrs. Dwyer of The Woodruff Hotel.

The guests played bridge and
at various games and refreshments
their destination, Spartanburg, S. C., was reached. The game afforded much merriment and pleasure while enroute. The score cards were cuming little suit cases. Upon arriving at Spartanburg it was found that Miss Alice Whitner had won the ladies prize, a pretty little manicure set and Mr. Ernest Galloway brought the happy possession of a handsome leather travelling case.
The guests of honor were each presented with a travelling bag. At Spartanburg came the call for supper
so all was bustle and hurry and a delicious salad course was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. DuBose.
Partners were chosen in rather a unique manner. Suspended from the chandelier and hidden beneath the table was a ring on a ribbon at one end of which was tied a sprig of mistletoe for the girls, and on the other end holly for the men. The ring was cut for and to each gentleman fell a charming partner for the game. Enjoying the gracious hospi-

THE PASSING YEAR
IN MASONIC CIRCLES

with the rapid strides of the Blue Lodge and he has conferred sixty degrees upon fifteen new members.
The year 1914 saw the making in the United States, of 92,000 new Masons. Sanford can boast of having shared in the general progress
of which this is an indication.

To close the Masonic year with a pleasant remembrance of associates Worshipful Master Miller entertained the officers of No. 62 at supper Dec 29th. The dining room was decorated in blue, but while the color of blue prevailed, yet the soft,
soothing and fervent color of scarlet was ever gushing from heart to brain to give impulse to generous thoughts which warmed the affection
into a gracious manner of speech.
And should no foul dishonor lie
Upon my head when I am gray,
Love yet shall watch my fading eye,
And smooth the path of my decay.

will soon work up into a fine powder,
which can be brushed off.

SEEK AID FOR JOBLESS GIRLS

Woman's Department of National Civic Federation Ask Employers
to Co-Operate.

New York An employment bureau
has been established by the vacation
committee of the women's department of the National Civic Federation to aid
those of its 16,000 depositors who have lost their employment because of the European war. One thousand letters were sent out from the bureau to manufacturers and merchants, asking them to file applications with the committee when in need of young woman
employees.

The vacation committee, which numbers among its members many well known women accepts deposits from working girls, which are used as vacation funds. Of the 16,000 girls that make their club headquarters at the committee rooms, many hundreds are out of work, it was announced, and hundreds more are on half pay or are working only a part of the time.

DOG'S COFFIN IS GOLD LINED

Body Lies in State in Master's Home
—Died of Overeating—Hundreds
Attend the Funeral

Bellevue, Ky. Nick is buried and the gold clouds that cover his silver and gold lined coffin are much less cloud by banks of flowers and by loving hands. The funeral took place at the body had lain in state in his master's home. Nick was an English bulldog, a member of the family of Mrs. M. A. Winn. No dog hereabouts ever received a more elaborate burial
than Nick. He was the favorite dog of Bellevue and hundreds of people went to the Winn house as the dog was buried. The funeral was a grand affair and many hundreds of people attended the funeral.
