

MARKETING SANFORD CELERY

EARLY IN 1901 The Sanford Celery Grower's Association was formed and the growers of Sanford signed an agreement to sell their celery at Sanford, or failing to do so to turn it over to a committee of five of their number to market. At the end of two seasons it was found that the crop of celery was being sold at Sanford and there was no further use for the Celery Growers' Association to hold meetings. The sales were effected through buying brokers representing celery dealers and local brokers acting as selling agents for growers; all uniting in a home market at F. O. B. prices By this method

Sanford Celery Has Found Ready Buyers Through a Wide and Annually Increasing Territory at Satisfactory Prices

This business has been done principally by local men, such as Chase & Co., J. E. Pace, Cameron & Whitner, C. C. Woodruff, G. R. Calhoun, and W. C. Post, who live at Sanford, and whose books are always subject to inspection and easy of access. These gentlemen, it is easy to say, have handled and do handle eighty to ninety per cent of the whole output

These conditions are highly satisfactory, and the undersigned see no reason to change them: because, under this plan any grower could sell his crop to or through any buyer or broker, and any individual or firm could become buyers or brokers of Sanford celery at Sanford. Last season an effort was made by Crutchfield & Woolfolk of Pittsburg to destroy This Highly Satisfactory Home Market by organizing the so-called Sanford Celery Union with them as sole selling agents. They at once advertised to the world, in effect: If you want Sanford Celery write or telegraph Pittsburg, Pa. Their next move was to try to change the Standard Celery Crate; the purpose of which seems to be to deceive the buyer into thinking he was getting more celery, while the otherwise innocent grower was well aware that the crates held the same. When this specious claim was exploded this firm, Crutchfield & Woolfolk, by a page advertisement in The Sanford Herald, and circular letter, claim their ability to sell our celery at twenty-five to fifty cents a crate higher than competitors, and go so far as to say they could not fill orders last week at $2.25 per crate; when, in a public meeting, their agent admitted that their only sale at that price was to themselves. The trade, as well as the growers know that no market in America would justify a $2.25 f. o. b. price last week; and any of the above named brokers could and would have filled those orders in EITHER THE EIGHT-INCH OR TEN-INCH CRATE, and left Crutchfield & Woolfolk a handsome profit. This firm had the business of the next to the largest and one of the best growers last season and lost it. Why?

We have no wish for a controversy with either the Sanford Union or Crutchfield & Woolfolk, and are working to preserve what we have—a home market at Sanford—open alike to buyers and sellers, and as far as we know, free from even the suspicion of graft or trickery. We regret the introduction of questionable methods.

TEST CELERY CRATES

Contention at Sanford About The Various Sizes

THE GROWERS MAKE BIG MONEY

Shown That Practically The Same Amount Can Be Put In The 8-Inch Crate As In The 10-Inch Crate

[New York Produce News]

Sanford, Fla., Mar. 19.—There has been much contention here between the growers over the size of crate which is used for celery. At present there are three sizes in use, 8x20x27; 10x20x24; 12x18x24. At a recent meeting of the Sanford Celery Union, which organization ships through Crutchfield & Woolfolk, it adopted the 10x20x24 crate, known in the trade as the 10 inch crate. This crate contains about 400 cubic inches, inside measurement, more than what is known as the 8 inch crate. A large majority of growers, perhaps, 85 per cent, use the 8 inch. In this size 3x8 dozen are packed. It would be far preferable for all growers to use the same size crate, as the tendency at all shipping points is for a uniform standard package. There are 4,800 cubic inches in the 10 inch, and 4,320 in the 8 inch. The 10 inch is shorter and it is claimed by a number of the growers that just as much celery can be packed in the 8 inch crate as in the 10.

One night last week the contentions over the size of the crate came together and in the presence of a large number of those interested, a four dozen 8 inch crate, taken at random from a load, was placed on a counter and beside it an empty 10 inch crate. A disinterested packer was asked to repack the celery from the 8 inch to the 10 inch. When he completed the job there remained three stalks which could not be gotten in the 10 inch crate. The same celery was taken out of the ten inch, repacked into the 8 inch and there was one stalk left out. This proved the contents of the crates to be about equal. It was explained that when an 8 inch crate was regularly packed, the ends rested on two boards, leaving the under slats so that they give and when full and nailed the crate bulges considerably. So far no move has been made for all the growers to use the same crate. It was claimed that buyers would pay 25c more for the 10 inch crate than the 8 inch. Those who favored the 8 inch crate disputed this.

Last fall when the question of the size of crates was under consideration, Chase & Co. of this place wrote 60 receivers of celery in the various markets, asking which of the three sizes was preferable. There were 26 replies, as follows: 14 for the 8 inch; seven for the 12; five for the 10. As rule the New York receiver preferred the 12 inch crate, as that is the crate used in the Manatee section and is just half the size of the crate used in California.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Keep the Fountains

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish to protest most emphatically to the removal of the fountains on First street. These fountains are an attraction. The one at the intersection of Park avenue was put there by the citizens headed by Wm. T. Deane. I only wish there were more fountains. They cannot and should be kept clean. The streets should not obstruct traffic. The streets should be regular for the street railway and the regular use of the street. If only for a sentiment they should remain. I urge all citizens who feel as I do to sign the petition to the City Council that will be sent around this week. Save the fountains!

GEO. H. FERNALD.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS

Matters Relating to Street Paving Were Settled

City Council met last Monday night with Chairman Stevens, and Aldermen Thrasher, Hand, Callum and Puleston present.

Very little real business was transacted as the meeting was a special call to arrange for street paving.

The ordinance establishing a bench mark and fixing the grade lines for First street was placed upon the first reading and referred to the ordinance committee examination. The report of the committee will be made at the next meeting.

The matter of removing the fountains was referred to the street committee.

Bill of B. M. Robinson, clerk of court, for making affidavits on tax list notices was ordered paid.

Several other matters of interest were discussed and council then adjourned to meet the first Monday in April.

IN SANFORD—Life is Worth Living

SANFORD, FLORIDA, FRIDAY, MARCH 26, 1909

First Year

It appears from the article published in The Sanford Herald under date of March 20th, 1909, and signed by a number of growers, that the crate question has resolved itself into a controversy between the growers. This, at least, is the impression one receives upon reading the article.

In behalf of the members of the Sanford Celery Union, we wish to correct this impression so that it will be thoroughly understood by all interested that our members are not dissatisfied with the present practice, but were drawn into the controversy against their wishes. In fact, a number of gentlemen, whose names appear at the foot of the article in question, have informed us that they did not intend, by signing the article to create any feeling among the growers of this section, nor to reflect in any manner upon the integrity of members of the Union or its sales agents, Crutchfield & Woolfolk. We were unable to call personally upon all of those gentlemen, however, but of those number have stated that they signed the article in the belief that it was simply and only a signification of their preference for the eight-inch crate—nothing more, nothing less. We do not intend to convey the impression, by this, that the other gentlemen who signed the article did intend to question the integrity and business methods of the Union and its agents, but rather believe that they, too, misunderstood the article in its entirety.

While discussing the article, we take this month of making other corrections, i. e., that the Sanford Celery Union published the article which appeared in The Sanford Herald's issue of March 13th, that Sanford Crutchfield & Woolfolk, that the Sanford Celery Union adopted the ten-inch crate as its standard, not Crutchfield & Woolfolk, this crate being introduced into this section, as most growers probably know, by G. R. Callum and M. O. Overstreet, of the Overstreet Canteen Company, Lockhart, Florida, as may be recalled by the readers of The Sanford Chronicle, which journal published a debate between Messrs. Callum, Overstreet and H. H. Chappell, on this very question, something over a year ago.

In behalf of our sales agents, Crutchfield & Woolfolk, we wish also to state that since the much discussed $2.25 f. o. b. sale was made they have consummated other such sales, which disprove the statements contained in the article in question. In this connection let it be known thoroughly understood that Crutchfield & Woolfolk have contracted with the Sanford Celery Union to market its celery crop exclusively, and do not buy any stock from outsiders with which to fill orders. For this reason they were unable to supply carts to apply on orders from various parts of the country for 25 cars at $2 to $2.25 f. o. b. mentioned in their telegram of March 10th, which was published in The Herald under date of March 13, 1909.

The Sanford Celery Union is growing steadily in favor with the growers and it is generally admitted that our advent here has been a blessing to the industry. We cordially invite all growers to unite with us in our effort to rescue the celery industry (as was the case of the California growers) by placing it in the hands of the producers where it absolutely belongs.

THE GRADE AGITATION

There are similar instances which show that any man with a little money and persistence come to Sanford and get rich in a short time. It costs about $100 per acre to prepare the land for celery. This includes tiling and driving a well for irrigation. No land can be cultivated without irrigating facilities.

SANFORD, FLORIDA, FRIDAY, MARCH 26, 1909

First Year

It appears from the article published in The Sanford Herald under date of March 20th, 1909, and signed by a number of growers, that the crate question has resolved itself into a controversy between the growers. This, at least, is the impression one receives upon reading the article.

In behalf of the members of the Sanford Celery Union, we wish to correct this impression so that it will be thoroughly understood by all interested that our members are not dissatisfied with the present practice, but were drawn into the controversy against their wishes. In fact, a number of gentlemen, whose names appear at the foot of the article in question, have informed us that they did not intend, by signing the article to create any feeling among the growers of this section, nor to reflect in any manner upon the integrity of members of the Union or its sales agents, Crutchfield & Woolfolk. We were unable to call personally upon all of those gentlemen, however, but of those number have stated that they signed the article in the belief that it was simply and only a signification of their preference for the eight-inch crate—nothing more, nothing less. We do not intend to convey the impression, by this, that the other gentlemen who signed the article did intend to question the integrity and business methods of the Union and its agents, but rather believe that they, too, misunderstood the article in its entirety.

While discussing the article, we take this month of making other corrections, i. e., that the Sanford Celery Union published the article which appeared in The Sanford Herald's issue of March 13th, that Sanford Crutchfield & Woolfolk, that the Sanford Celery Union adopted the ten-inch crate as its standard, not Crutchfield & Woolfolk, this crate being introduced into this section, as most growers probably know, by G. R. Callum and M. O. Overstreet, of the Overstreet Canteen Company, Lockhart, Florida, as may be recalled by the readers of The Sanford Chronicle, which journal published a debate between Messrs. Callum, Overstreet and H. H. Chappell, on this very question, something over a year ago.

In behalf of our sales agents, Crutchfield & Woolfolk, we wish also to state that since the much discussed $2.25 f. o. b. sale was made they have consummated other such sales, which disprove the statements contained in the article in question. In this connection let it be known thoroughly understood that Crutchfield & Woolfolk have contracted with the Sanford Celery Union to market its celery crop exclusively, and do not buy any stock from outsiders with which to fill orders. For this reason they were unable to supply carts to apply on orders from various parts of the country for 25 cars at $2 to $2.25 f. o. b. mentioned in their telegram of March 10th, which was published in The Herald under date of March 13, 1909.

The Sanford Celery Union is growing steadily in favor with the growers and it is generally admitted that our advent here has been a blessing to the industry. We cordially invite all growers to unite with us in our effort to rescue the celery industry (as was the case of the California growers) by placing it in the hands of the producers where it absolutely belongs.

SANFORD CELERY UNION,
By K. R. Murrell, Pres't.

THE GRADE AGITATION

There are similar instances which show that any man with a little money and persistence come to Sanford and get rich in a short time. It costs about $100 per acre to prepare the land for celery. This includes tiling and driving a well for irrigation. No land can be cultivated without irrigating facilities.

A newspaper is not altogether published to tell the people what they would like to know, but has to give much of its space to telling them what they ought to know.—Greely.

Special Correspondence to The Herald.

☛ Lent draweth on towards the end and the day of escape, the longed for Easter Sunday is scheduled to arrive in twenty-one days from to-morrow. Sackcloth and ashes will be put upon the top shelf and out from under the penitential cloud the fair ones will emerge, arrayed in fine linen and silken gowns and one of those picturesque nondescripts—an Easter hat.

☛ Lent is about over! Easter will dawn Sabbath April 11th, and may the joys of the glorious day gladden the hearts of all the people!

Let meditation give way to mirth, and let the shackles which have bound the unwilling feet of society people for forty days past be burst asunder!

Let the big fiddle be scraped again and mark the time for the quadrille, and, when the prompter says: "Honors to your partners," do as he bids you.

☛ I have said before in these columns, and it will bear repeating, that Sanford can turn out the sweetest girls and the handsomest women of any city in the whole country, and they were out in all their glory last Saturday. I claim to be a judge and know whereof I speak.

☛ What a beautiful appearance the streets of Sanford present, the grass and trees all putting on their spring suits of vivid green. I hope that more of our public-spirited citizens will plant grass and shade trees around their premises, and thus make "Lucky Sanford" a more "Pretty Sanford." Nature has been so kind to our city that we should assist the good old dame in every way and Sanford will soon be the best kept and cleanest city in the South.

☛ When a woman is in great grief she produces a flood of tears—a man drowns his sorrow in rum if it doesn't swim-out O'Grady and perch itself on an island of desolation in his ocean of sorrow.

Apropos of Eastertide

☛ Oft the varied pronunciation of words in the English language creates a ludicrous state of affairs. I have in mind an incident which occurred at a church Easter service. The choir was singing a new arrangement of the beautiful anthem "Consider the Lilies." The pure, sweet voice of the soprano rose clearly and distinctly on the solo:

They tol-ol-ol not,
They toll not,
They tol-ol-ol not,
Ny-y-ther do they spin.

She paused (for air refreshment a la fan) and the tenor took up the strain:

Nee-ee-ee-ther do they spin,
They tol-ol-ol not,
They toll not,
They tol-ol-ol not,
Nee-ee-ee-ther do they spin.

The tenor closed and shoved a smile at the audience that would have turned a corpse inside out, and thinking he had made a hit, gave way to the basso, a solemn red-headed young Irishman with a somewhat worldly looking eye, who imagined the church's only success due to his propensity. This so-called basso with a voice like a snare drum broke the monotony with:

Nay-ay-ay-ther do they spin,
They tol-ol-ol not,
Faith and they toll not,
They toll not,
Nay-ay-ay-ther do they spin.

Then the voices of the choir were raised by a derrick and distributed to the audience like a dose from a bird-gun, in a semi-chorus of debility:

Ny-y-ther } do they spin
Nee-ee-ee-ther }
Nay-ay-ay-ther }
They tol-ol-ol not,
They toll not,
They tol-ol-ol not,
Ny-y-ther } do they spin.
Nee-ee-ee-ther }
Nay-ay-ay-ther }

At this stage of agony a bootblack fell from the gallery and the choir resumed their seats with the expression written on their faces that it was time to quit when "blessings from above" were showered upon them, and while their reputation was up.

"Thanks to the blessings from above," said the gray-haired, old-fashioned preacher, "that we are able to begin the services this morning by singing—the old familiar hymn, 'Praise God from whom all blessings flow.'"

☛ Many there are who want to see the sewers extended further into the lake, and the city council should take up the matter before the summer is upon us. Now that the lake is low the work of exension could be done much better than in a few months when the rainy season is on and the lake will be higher. This is a vital question that concerns the health of the city, and before any more sewers are constructed on streets where only a few people reside, the question of extending the mains should be taken up and finished.

☛ That suggestion about Sanford's great Fourth of July celebration has met with the approval of the people and in a few days steps will be taken to form committees and start the ball rolling for one of the grandest affairs that has ever been held in honor of this great natal day. I really think that my friend F. P. Foster as the high chief booster of Sanford should take a hand in this celebration. He originated the idea and while he is up to his ears in work and could give but little of his time to the outside work would be a good one to put at the head of the finance committee.

This celebration will do more for Sanford than any one idea that has ever been advanced for the advertisement of our resources, and already the neighboring cities have expressed their willingness to aid in the work. A man should be appointed at once to take entire charge of the affair and give it much of his time and attention. We do not want a half hearted response from the citizens but a long pull and a pull together.

☛ Sanford Lad—Can you make bread, Miss Utilitarian?
Enterprise Lass—Yes, Mr. Cultus; now can you make money?
They will be wed in June.

☛ Several of my friends' are bewailing the fact of the fountains' disappearance from First street and even say they would rather have the fountains than the street railway. Nonsense, gentlemen! Would you let the matter of a fountain stand in the way of improvement when the fountains can be placed in positions that would be much more prominent and give us a broad avenue without a break for street paving and railroads? The fountains can be placed on Commercial street, one at the depot where everyone alighting from the train can see it, and one near the Sanford House. Both of these places would make the fountains more attractive to tourists, and the fountains would never interfere with traffic in any way. Let them be placed on Commercial street by all means.

☛ The lake front still blots the landscape with a bunch of old hulks and broken sewer pipes. How long will the authorities permit this state of affairs to exist?

☛ I hate to be kicking against the small boy, for at their tender age the parents ought to take a hand in his education and use the parental alipper oftener, but in regard to the throwing of trash in the park fountain I am getting very sore. This fountain is a diamond setting in an emerald brooch and assists in making a beautiful gem in the midst of Sanford's palatial residences. Time and again Street Commissioner Cowan has cleaned out this fountain only to have it filled up again by the small boys of this neighborhood. They are too small to be sent to jail and the offense is rather trivial, but it costs the city money every month to make amends for these children's misdemeanors. Better use the alipper!

☛ The Sanford Band certainly deserves praise from every citizen of Sanford for their excellent concerts given every Sunday afternoon in the park. That these concerts are appreciated to the fullest extent is evidenced by the large crowds that are always in attendance, and the many encomiums bestowed upon the band and the able director, Mr. Maxwell. A good band is a great aid to any city, and it is a poor place that cannot support a good band. Sanford is fortunate indeed in having such a body of skilled musicians, and among their many friends and admirers none is more ardent than—THE SAUNTERER.

BUILDING & LOAN ASSOCIATION

Should Receive More Encouragement From Merchants

In looking over the books of the Sanford Building & Loan Association this week a steady increase in cash is noted each month. The monthly income is now rapidly approaching $1000 and should soon reach $1200. The Association now has loans for about $7000 for new buildings and no funds to meet them at present. As every house erected in Sanford means more trade to each business man in the city, it seems rather strange that more of the merchants do not take stock in the Association and subscribe at once for the same so that the receipts of the Association could be swelled and more houses erected.

Not only does the erection of buildings mean more money for the merchants but it means more new dwellings and a Greater Sanford. It is to be hoped that the merchants will see the salient points in the investment—an investment that will net them 8 per cent upon their money at once and will yield far more indirectly. The Sanford Loan & Building Association is a home institution, composed of Sanford people and should certainly receive more consideration than the wild cat mining schemes and inflated stocks of some foreign investments that will never give the subscribers any returns whatever and will only direct Sanford money into foreign channels.

DREAMS OF AVARICE

The Title of an Article Upon Sanford Growers

Connecticut Paper Compiles Statistics Regarding Profits of Sanford Celery Growers

In an article in the Hartford, Conn. Daily Courant, entitled "Dreams of Avarice," a few statements are published from Sanford celery growers. These statements refer to last year's crops principally, which did not bring good prices, on account of the panic that prevailed at the time.

While some of the statements seem overdrawn to the readers, the people of this section can verify every one of them, and the crops this year would show a much better statement. Following is a list of them as they appear in the Daily Courant:

"I have made $30,000 in five years growing celery and lettuce in Sanford. I have made money every year. I do not know of one absolute, cold failure among Sanford celery growers. If some men make less than they should, there is some good reason for it."—A. T. Rosseter.

"In the past three years I have made $30,000 from five acres of celery land. Nine years ago I was a locomotive engineer, earning $1,600 a year. I got a leave of absence for six months and began growing celery on one acre of land. Before my leave of absence was up I had made $1,750 from that one acre. I sent word that they need not keep my place on the railroad open any longer. In my second year I doubled the output of my first year, and in my third year I doubled the second year. Two years ago the road sent me word that they needed men, and said that I had better return and take an engine. Well, they don't pay locomotive engineers $10,000 a year, so I staid on my five-acre farm."—C. F. Williams.

"I began growing celery here nine years ago with $500. I paid $100 down on my land and used the remaining $400 for working expenses. I would not sell my place now for $30,000, nor a single improved acre of it for less than $1,000. I grow mixed crops of vegetables. Some of my neighbors have made larger crops than I, but I never did better than $1,750 an acre on celery."—A. McDonald.

"Last year I shipped 2,860 crates of celery and 300 crates of lettuce from two acres of land. I received $4,112.23 net for the crop. Had the crop been sold here, instead of being shipped on commission to commission men in the North, I could have averaged $2.25 a crate for the entire crop. Some crates of celery and lettuce were sold, in addition, for which no returns were received, and are counted in these figures. This year I have cut from one-quarter of an acre $416 worth of lettuce I expect to sell from the same quarter-acre about $600 worth of celery, making $1,016 for the season."—Richard Muse.

"I received $10,700 for the celery and other vegetables grown on six acres of my land on Celery avenue in 1908."—Mrs. B. E. Takach.

"I cut from one acre of land on Celery avenue in 1908, celery amounting to 1,300 crates, which I sold in Sanford for $2,600."—B. R. Brisson.

"I let out eight acres on shares for a crop of celery. I furnished the land and team work, and advanced the cost of fertilizer and crates. The tenant furnished the labor. After taking out of the proceeds of the crop the cost of fertilizer and crates we had $8,400 between us."—J. E. Pace.

"I cut 588 crates of celery from one-half acre, which sold in Sanford for $1,321.19, net. I have grown 1,000 baskets of lettuce on one acre. Last year I received $3,421.85 for the products of two acres of land."—G. B. Frank.

"I bought six acres of land in February, 1908, for $4,000. One and one-half acres were sub-irrigated; the rest was wild land. By December I had sold $3,500 worth of celery and other vegetables from the acre and a half. The place is now all cleared, irrigated and planted to celery."—L. A. Bromley.

"On a piece of land 66 yards square (about six-sevenths of an acre) I have grown lettuce which I sold for $1,080, net. This piece of land was turned over to the celery planters in ninety days from the time the lettuce seed was sown in the field. From seven-eighths of an acre I have grown 574 crates of lettuce, which I sold for $1,059.15, net. I am now cutting 1,068 crates of celery to the acre, for which I am getting $1.80 per crate, net. This celery was grown on new land, which is considered to be unsuited to celery culture. I had four and a half acres of lettuce. This patch of lettuce paid for its own cultivation, for the cultivation of three acres more of lettuce and for six acres of celery and left a profit of $600 in cash besides. I have been farming eight years. I have made money every year. I began with four acres. I now have 26 acres in cultivation and am taking in more land each year. I would not sell out for $50,000. Where could I put the money? I can make more at this than at anything else. On seven acres of land I made $5,000 clear profit a year over all my living expenses. Tell me where a man can do better."—Joseph Cameron.

"I cut 820 baskets of lettuce from one and one-eighth acres of land, which I sold for $1,860, net. I make about $1,200 an acre on celery. I average 115 barrels of white potatoes to the acre. If I get less than 70 barrels to the acre I call my crop a failure."—James Campbell.

"If my three boys and I cannot make $1,000 an acre every year we ought to give our place away. We came here two years ago from North Carolina, and bought this place on credit. We have paid for it and added some more land to it. I value it at $12,000."—J. W. Miller.

"I was one of the first men to grow celery in Sanford. I have been growing it every year, and I know it to be highly profitable."—A. Robbins.

"Last year we sold for Sanford celery growers the products of approximately 120 acres. After deducting our commissions we returned to the growers $106,028.16, an average of about $884 an acre."—Sidney O. Chase.

From Chase & Company's books the manager of our company corroborated most of the figures and results herein given, and took the following additional returns: J. G. Hall, one-half acre of celery, $1,004.35; J. W. Hunter, one-half acre of celery, $1,039.70; A. McDonald, five acres celery, $0,000; Rosseter & Hand, ten acres celery, $10,750.25, lettuce and cauliflower on same land about $6,000 more; Mr. Hendricks, one acre of celery, $1,800.08; Mr. Melch, two acres of celery, $2,010.70; Miller & Hart, one acre of celery, $1,557.

RONEY'S BOYS

The Famous Boys' Concert Company To Appear in Sanford

The "Roney's Boys" are unique, unrivaled and unapproachable as a popular attraction. No other company appears so equally and so irresistibly to old and young, for they are nothing less than a musical sensation. These talented boys, not only entertain, charm and fascinate, but they educate, stimulate and inspire the children and adults everywhere by their marvelous accomplishments in music, especially vocal. The name "Roney's Boys" has always stood for the highest cultivation of the boy's singing voice, and the most masterful execution upon instruments by little fellows, the world has ever known.

With absolutely nothing in common with the trashy effusions of the vaudeville stage, the company stands for the highest order of music, and the most finished and artistic work possible to attain with talented boys. It has carved out a niche of its own, stands in a class by itself in which there is no second. There is no company like "Roney's Boys," or remotely approaching it in either America or Europe.

Henry B. Roney, the originator, trainer and manager of the company needs no introduction. He won a national reputation during the ten years—1887-1897—when he was the organist and choirmaster of Grace Episcopal church, Chicago. He was the musical director of the National peace jubilee, Chicago, 1898, which enlisted the services of sixty-three Chicago church choirs, and "artists' chorus."

The Christmas concert given by "Roney's Boys" at the White House upon invitation of ex-President and Mrs. Roosevelt, to five hundred of their invited guests, is a matter of history.

This famous company will be in the opera house, Thursday evening, April 1st. Be sure to go and take the family, for "The Boys" delight both old and young.

Tickets will be on sale at Newlan's drug store. Admission, 50 and 75 cents; school pupils, 35 and 50 cents.

Canada's Novel Attraction

Thousands upon thousands of people from the Northern states availed themselves of the opportunity to witness the grandest of spectacles presented at the winter carnival at Montreal—a palace constructed entirely of ice. This was the drawing feature. In the construction of this palace 20,000 blocks of ice were used, each about 48 inches long, 22 inches wide and 28 inches thick, the whole amount weighing about 4,000 tons. The palace walls have a frontage of 100 feet each way. The main tower is 160 feet high and the smaller towers 65 feet high. Its architectural in design, having much the appearance of an English castle, and in the sunlight is said to present a magnificent sight.

Frank Darling of The Herald office has a large-size engraving of the palace, sent him by Miss Rosa B. Harris, a former resident of Eustis, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harris of Eustis, and a sister of Mrs. Darling and Mrs. C. A. Dobbins of Sanford.

The Herald is fully equipped to print fine stationery of all kinds. All the latest type and material and "the men behind the type" who know how.

Quite a number of farmers have begun to paris green their potato vines. Jake Bamberger's oldest girl who was bit on the heel by a potato bug last summer is getting round on crutches and will be able to assist in digging the potatoes.

Cyrenus Hybarger is working the Widow Bascomb's garden on shares.

Elinas Pumphery, who has commenced keeping boarders, now serves his boarders real cow butter every Sunday.

The Bungstarter has announced in its columns that Uncle Bill Todhammer will be willing to accept a nomination for constable if urged by many friends. If Uncle Bill is elected he won't play any favorites.

Since Phil Sweezy run off and got married to Steve Gullion's hired girl, Phil's dad has been much chagrined and thinks of changing the family name. The Sweezys are quite stuck up as Phil's grand dad had noble blood carousing in his veins and was once in the butchering business and had money to burn.

Gil Stokes went to Sanford this morning. He may return tonight.

BRIEF SKETCH OF DAMROSCH

Interesting Facts About the Famous Conductor.—Married an American

(BY MAX MORGENTHAU.)

In beginning my series of articles on the Spring Musical Festival to be given by the Jacksonville Choral Society on April 19th and 20th, I feel it just to commence with Walter Damrosch, who is the conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, and who will take the place of Mendler for the festival.

It is the general belief that in order for a musician to rank high as an artist he must be along in years, but in this case we have a man just in his prime and yet his name is known in all the music circles of the world as one of its best leaders and musicians.

Walter J. Damrosch was born in the small city of Breslau, Prussia, 1862, and at an early age developed his love for music. He is the son of Dr. Leopold Damrosch (a famous conductor in his day), and under the father's guidance began his musical career. Later he studied with Rischbieter and Draesek, at Dresden. Mr. Damrosch came to America with his father in 1871 and when his father opened the season of German grand opera Walter Damrosch was selected as assistant conductor.

After his father's death he still held the same position under Anton Seidl.

A FAMOUS COMPOSER

Mr. Damrosch is also a composer of note having written oratorios, operas and songs. One opera is called "The Scarlet Letter," and is founded on Hawthorne's novel of that name. Another opera is "Cyrano," the text of which is by W. J. Henderson (the music critic of a New York paper) and is founded on the novel "Cyrano de Bergerac," by Rostand.

Special rates of fare to Jacksonville for spring musical have been made by the railroads. Tickets will be good for leaving Sanford on 18th and 19th of April and will be good by any train arriving in Jacksonville by midday of the 19th. Return limit April 21st, thus assuring every citizen the pleasure of attending the festival at lowest possible cost.

As the regular box office prices will prevail after March 31st it would be well if every one who intended visiting the Festival made application for the associate membership $5 to-day, as these tickets will be withdrawn and increased prices of admission put in force April 1st.

The Herald is on sale at T. J. Miller & Son's store, and the City cigar store.

THE SANFORD HERALD

Published Every Friday Morning at Sanford, Fla.
R. J. HOLLY, Managing Editor

Subscription Price, $1.00 a Year in Advance

Entered as second-class mail matter August 22nd, 1906, at the Postoffice at Sanford, Florida, under Act of March 3rd, 1879.

Burbans Advertising Company, Jacksonville, Representative.

Office First Floor in the Bishop Block, First Street Telephone No. 148.

What a relief! Roosevelt is off for a visit with his beloved Africans.

The Press Association meet this year promises to be a most enjoyable occasion.

Those ancient landmarks, the fountains will be removed from First street.

Lands near Sanford are bringing $1,000 per acre. Celery pays.—Tampa Tribune.

THE HERALD has added fifty-six new subscribers in six days. That's going some for a new paper.

It is now Col. Stovall of the Horse Marines. Bro. Stovall has been appointed to the Governor's staff for great bravery shown during the recent state fair and the valorous work done with his trenchant pen.

Bro. Howard of the Reporter-Star alleges that the Herald editor formerly "nested in an Orlando store box." Quite right, brother, but Holly didn't stay in the box long enough to become a nest egg.

Sanford's hotels are filled to overflowing with tourists who are stopping here a few weeks on their homeward journey. The prospects for a large tourist crop next season are bright, each and every one coming to Sanford being well pleased with the accommodations.

Editor Howard, of the Orlando Reporter-Star, kicks on the name of the "Automobile City." Says Orlando may just as well be called the "Wheelbarrow City," or the "Muleback City." Better to make it "Muleback" than "Dieback." Automobiles are "back" numbers anyhow. The latest thing in Orange County at present is street railways and if Bro. Howard is sore on the automobiles we will invite him to Sanford for a trolley ride. Too long a residence in Orlando is apt to make you a "Mooseback." Come to Sanford where "Life is Worth Living."

$$$ LUCKY SANFORD $$$
Lucky Sanford! From all over the state, from every one who comes to Sanford, from every part of the Union is coming inquiries regarding the slogan "Lucky Sanford" and its origin. Lucky Sanford received the cognomen several months ago when this section passed through the cold snap without having even the tender vegetation damaged. Since that time the growers have received such marvelous returns from their crops that the eyes of the world have been turned toward Sanford and if the cool weather continues for a few more weeks one of the greatest crops of celery in history, besides cabbage, potatoes, tomatoes and other vegetables will be harvested.

Aside from the wealth of the growers pouring into the city, Sanford is paving the streets with vitrified brick, building a street railway, a mammoth electric light and power plant, new business houses and residences, new factories of all kinds and hundreds of people are coming here each week purchasing city property and vegetable lands. Next fall will witness the greatest influx of new people into this section that has ever come into Florida.

Our city will extend for several miles each way along the lake shore and south toward Lake Jesup. Before five years have rolled around Sanford will be a thriving city of 15000 inhabitants and only the future can foretell the Sanford of later years.

Thus it is that the people of Sanford consider themselves blessed in every way and that "In Sanford Life is Worth Living."

Lucky Sanford.

NEW MOVE OF UNCLE SAMUEL
The U. S. Government has raised the price of box rents for the Sanford postoffice and there are some loud noises heard this week in regard to the same. There is no obvious reason for this as the building that now serves for a postoffice is about as unfit for serving the public as a cow stable would be for a banquet to the President. The citizens of Sanford would not object to paying a higher rent if they could be assured of a decent building for the postoffice and this latest move of the postoffice department is in keeping with the policy that has long been a thorn in the sides of the people.

About the only obvious reason for a higher box rent is that the Republican party needs the money for campaign expenses.

LINGERING IN FLORIDA'S LAP
This winter has been a mild one in every section of the country although several blizzards throughout the North have made the thousands seek the balmy climate of Florida. March and April are the months to be dreaded by the inhabitants of northern climes for during these months the disagreeable effects of thaws and freezes are more apparent in the numerous cases of lagrippe and pneumonia.

Knowing this, 'tis strange that the winter visitors to Florida lulled to the dangers of cold weather and extreme changes of the North, by the exceptionally fine weather of Florida, are apt to rush back home only to find themselves in the icy tentacles of old Boreas. Several who left Sanford last May suffered from the sudden transition of plunging from balmy climate to sudden freezes. They have learned a lesson by experience and have signified their intention of remaining in Sanford this year until the first of June. At this season of the year Florida is at her best and her citizens are putting forth renewed efforts to amuse the visitors. It is made a gala occasion by many cities and in our own county Orlando has spent thousands of dollars to hold the races, Chautauqua, automobile parade and water carnival. Here in Sanford the visitors are enjoying themselves to the fullest extent and taking advantage of the numerous fine drives, the boating and fishing and other amusements. Next year our city will have a fine driving park, ball diamond, golf links, tennis courts and other forms of entertainment at the park or on the new street railway. A nice club house built by the Sanford Commercial Club will entertain the visitors and prove a blessing to the stranger within our gates. A new fleet of launches will be upon the lake and in every way the visitors will be made to feel that Sanford is their home and they will not be inclined to leave until the Frost King has ceased to hold the North in his icy fetters. Linger in the lap of Florida! Where upon this terrestrial footstool can you find so much to make life worth living?

Not only is Florida a Paradise in the winter but in the summer months the people are more comfortable than they are in other states where they are unable to get the breezes that sweep this peninsula from the Gulf to the Atlantic Ocean. Along this trend of thought the Times-Union has the following:

Others come who would like to remain throughout the year if they could see for themselves the advantages that life in Florida gives. School and church facilities are the same as elsewhere. Social surroundings are as pleasant here as anywhere. This much is known. If any one would take the trouble to consult the census reports on mortality, he would find only two states east of the Mississippi river with as low a death rate as that of Florida. If he will visit the gardens and orchards of Florida he will see that the land in this state yields a larger return than the land of any other state. If he will look at the energy and progress and the up-to-datedness of the cities and towns he will realize that they offer abundant employment for labor and capital. If he will stay through one summer he will know that Florida is as exempt from the extremes of heat as well as the extremes of cold, and that it is the ideal state for homes.

GOVERNMENT ENVELOPES
The post office department has begun an aggressive campaign to build up its stamped envelope business, and the thousands of printers of the country, seeing disaster to their business in this enterprise of the government, are being aroused. The entering of the government into the printing field does not mean competition, but absolute monopoly of the envelope printing business, for no printer can meet the prices which the government is quoting. It buys in such enormous quantities, and handles its business without the addition of a single dollar of expense, the local postmaster in each town acting as the business agent of the government, so that it is able to sell the envelopes at a price which is little more than the printer has to pay for them. The advertising of the government is being sent broadcast over the country, and it is easy to see where it is going to land the printers if the postoffice continues to push the enterprise.

Walden's Stationer in a recent issue urges printers to get after their congressmen as the surest method of dealing with the matter, but it adds that in this plan is effective it must "be backed up at this time by the trade at large." That is, printers everywhere must act unitedly. "Get after your congressman and get after him as though you meant business," the Stationer goes on to urge. "Tell him the government is interfering with your bread and butter by giving away that which you have always been ready to do at a fair margin of profit. Tell him it's not a square deal. The various associations in the country will present resolutions, and with concerted action of individuals it is certain that the desired result will be accomplished."

CARDS OF THANKS

The following from the Lakeland News regarding cards of thanks is so much to the point that it deserves the thanks of all newspapers:

"We have often thought we have the most thankful people on earth. Life seems to be one long Thanksgiving Day to some of them. We are forced to this conclusion by the facility with which, on the slightest provocation, they can erupt into a card-of-thanks—the newspaper, of course, paying the freight.

If a man gets run over by a milk wagon, or gets licked by his mother-in-law, or if a lady loses her husband through elopement with the hired girl, or gets her "rat" singed while kindling the fire with the kerosene can—a card of thanks is at once forthcoming, directed to all and sundry who might have been in the remotest way connected with the event. This practice sometimes creates an embarrassing situation for the newspaper man. He wants to encourage thankfulness, and especially if people are, or have been in trouble, he feels glad to help them express their thanks, if it affords them any pleasure; but sometimes they come so thick and fast—and so unnecessarily—that they make him feel quite low in his spirits.

As a matter of fact, cards of thanks are seldom in good taste. If you are sick or if death invades your home, your neighbors would be worse than flatterers if they didn't do what they could to comfort and relieve you. To publicly thank them for the performance of such simple offices of humanity would indicate that you are surprised to find them real human beings, and is a reflection upon their emotional and sympathetic character.

We will be thankful if someone will dedicate a card of thanks to us for calling attention to this phase of the card of thanks proposition."

The Sanford Loan and Building Association is doing a great work in making a Greater Sanford and should receive the subscription of every merchant and citizen of this city who has money to invest. There are many who could well afford to invest thousands of dollars in the Building Association and instead of doing so they fall over themselves investing in every wild cat scheme that is presented to them.

The Building Association is a home institution and every cent invested beside earning a good dividend will ramify through all the channels of trade, as every house built in Sanford means money to be spent in this city. Just a question of patronizing home industry and aiding your city to become an abiding place for the home seeker instead of a city of transient guests and a floating population.

The good times in Orlando have not ceased and on April First the Orlando Polo Club will hold a series of Pony Races at the Driving Park that promise to be very exciting. Orlando has certainly had a series of good entertainments this season and the tourists ought to appreciate these efforts. Sanford and Orlando have spent more money on advertising this season than any two cities of similar size in the south and the results next season will be apparent.

Sanford is filled to overflowing with new people and they are coming in every day by train and boat. There is no city in the United States today that is making so many improvements or that has a better future than Sanford. The advertising is bringing the people and after they reach Sanford they find conditions just as they were set forth in the pamphlets. It pays to advertise when you have the goods.

Tallahassee and St. Augustine want the bones of Osceola and are making strenuous efforts to become burying grounds for same. Sanford has no use for "dead ones." Let the dead cities bury the dead.

Down in Orlando they have cut out the "bear beer." Probably want the real article and no imitations.

ROUSING MEETING OF EAGLES

Several Unwilling Candidates Trod the Burning Sands Celery City Aerie No. 1853, Fraternal Order of Eagles, bids fair to be one of the strongest organizations in the South in a few months. The remainder of the charter members were taken in last Tuesday night and this swells the roll to 165 members. Twenty-seven joined at the meeting on Tuesday night and out of this number four were chosen to receive the initiation and not one of these gentlemen are dissatisfied with the result. They were taken over the burning sands at a Roosevelt gait and life was very strenuous for about one hour. After the initiation the business meeting was continued and a most flattering report read by the secretary. Celery City lodge will build a fine home at an early date and as soon as a suitable location can be secured work will begin upon a fine temple. The prospects for a strong organization are very bright and the roll of members is expected to reach the 200 mark in a few weeks. Great Boon to Womankind T. A. Teate, inventor of the "Emancipator," an attachment for a sewing machine, is in the city this week demonstrating the machine at the shoes store of F. L. Woodruff. This attachment saves the ladies the injurious effects of the constant effort of running a machine by the feet. The Emancipator is a handle arrangement, and by a gentle pressure of one hand the sewing machine can be kept at a fast rate of speed, and the feet are not used at all. Mr. Teate is a well-known Florida inventor, and is now engaged in selling the county rights for this great invention. He states that he will dispose of half the Canadian rights for $2500. R. A. Mills of Arcadia is assisting Mr. Teate in demonstrating the Emancipator. Band Concert The band boys will give a concert in the park tonight (Friday) to which everyone is cordially invited. The program follows: 1 "Yankee Boy," Characteristic March and Two-Step. H. L. Alford 2 "Life's Dream Waltzes." J. F. Buhals 3 Ben Hur Chariot Race March. E. T. Rogers May Wrestle Siegfried.
In all probability the next big wrestling match to be held in this country will be between Joe Rogers of New York and Ernest Siegfried, the "German Oak." Tom O'Rourke has issued a challenge on behalf of Rogers that the latter would meet the German expert at the latter's favorite style, all the money to go on the winner. O'Rourke says that he is so confident of a victory for Rogers that he asks no loser's end.

Rogers has met and defeated many of the country's best wrestlers and early last year stood off Champion

ERNEST SIEGFRIED.

Frank Gotch for an hour. Siegfried came to this country a short time ago with a big reputation and has been meeting all comers in New York since his arrival.

As the "German Oak" has declared his willingness to wrestle Rogers, it is likely that the pair will meet in New York about the middle of March, where a suitable purse has been offered.

National Bowling Tournament March 24

The annual bowling championships, with a first prize of $1,000 guaranteed for the champions in the five man team, will take place in Madison Square Garden, New York, beginning May 24, at the annual convention and tournament of the National Bowling association. The bowling championships, which will be the great feature of the bowlers' gathering this season, will be conducted on a more elaborate plan than any that the organization has ever held.

Crack Scullers to Meet.

The title for the world's championship scullers will be decided at Toronto bay, in the Canadian city, some time during July next. The present holder of the title is August Arndt of New Zealand, and his opponent will be Eddie Durnan, champion of America.

The race will be for £200, or about $1,000 of American money. The distance will be three miles to a turn.

Star Marathon Race March 17.

The Marathon boom that has had the country in its grasp in the last few months will reach its zenith on St. Patrick's night, March 17, when the big four of professional athletics—Al Shrubbs, Johnny Hayes, Tom Longboat and Dorando Pietri—will measure strides in a race at the Marathon distance, 26 miles 385 yards, in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Vall to Coach Georgetown.

The devotees of aquatics at the Georgetown college were made glad when it was definitely announced that Harry Vall, coach of last year's varsity and the man mostly responsible for the great record made by the preps, has been engaged to coach the embryo collegians from March 1 until after the American Henley race.

Tom Longboat His Own Boss.

At Deseronto, Canada, when pressed for a point blank answer to the question, "Have you broken with Powers?" Tom Longboat, the Indian Marathon runner, said, "No one has claim on me, for a contract with an Indian is no good."

American Turfmen Abroad.

These Americans will race horses in England or France: W. K. Vanderbilt, August Belmont, James R. Keene, H. P. Whitney, John E. Madden, H. B. Duryea, J. E. Widener, George Saporas and others.

Cutler to Lead Harvard Varsity.
Elliott C. Cutler, '09, of Brookline, Mass., has been elected captain of the Harvard varsity crew to take the place of W. B. Severance, '09, who has resigned on account of illness.

Murphy to Coach Stanford Crew.
Dan Murphy, the veteran New England oarsman, will again coach the crew of the Stanford university, which is one of the foremost rowing colleges on the Pacific coast.

A Bashful Wooing

(Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.)

Mrs. Sarah Winchell, owner of the Winchell farm, was a widow and in the matrimonial market.

One day a calamity came. Two hives of bees started to swarm at once. The widow rushed but and began hammering on a pan and got the bees to alight for the nonce, but that was as far as she could go. She stood yelling for help when help came. A traveler on the highway stopped and hitched his horse and walked up the path. He saw what should be done, and he went ahead and did it. In a quarter of an hour he had the swarms in the new hives, and after a look at the others informed the widow that it would be several days yet before they would come out. She had time to look at him while he was at work, and she rather liked his looks. So far as she could make out he hardly glanced at her, and he certainly had but a few words to say. When he had finished his work he looked over her head, said he was glad to have been of use and took his departure. The widow had saved the bees, but she was plighted. Any widow would have been.

Three or four days later the other hives swarmed and were taken care of by the hired men. Then the stranger appeared again to ask how the insects were getting along. He seemed embarrassed and in a hurry and refused the invitation to enter the house. He also appeared to look everywhere else but at the widow. Her hair was nicely combed, her apron snow white and her cheeks like roses, but he paid more attention to the pear tree and the soap kettle and the summer squashes than to her. He just wanted to know, you know, and was glad to find out and then was gone.

Of course a widow that had turned down a dozen offers of matrimony could not do otherwise than look after the retreating stranger and toss her head and say that he was a man that did not appreciate a good thing. Nevertheless she made some cautious inquiries of the hired men and in that way found out that he was a new resident of Ellenton, but no more.

Then another week passed and the stranger called to say that he was looking around to purchase a good farm, and he wished to inquire if the widow's was for sale. On this occasion he entered the house, but evidently with reluctance. He was certainly a bashful man. In that he was a novelty. When Deacon Graham, widower, came to buy the farm a year before he had stood in the kitchen door and boldly announced:

"Widder Winchell, I'm a-looking to buy a farm. If you go with this, I'll pay $40 an acre."

That meant $30 an acre for the farm and $10 an acre for her, and, though a blunt way of putting it, she was not so very indignant. The stranger, who had at last introduced himself as Mr. Bingham, throw out no hint of wanting anything but the farm. Most any widow would have felt the slight. And then, too, when she had replied that the farm was not for sale he at once rose up to depart without speaking of how wheat and corn were looking up or casting a second glance at the barrel of soft soap she had made the day before and left at the kitchen door to cool. It hurt and it aggravated. Mr. Bingham might be a bashful man, but there are times when even a bashful man should force himself to talk.

Two weeks passed away, and then as the widow sat on the piazza one afternoon looking so nice that Farmer Johnson's mouth watered as he drove past Mr. Bingham called again. This time it was to see if the widow had a cow to sell. He was invited to sit down, and cows were discussed. He was looking away into the garden instead of at the woman, as he sought to do his share of the discussing. The widow had no cows to sell, but she didn't say so. She left the impression on the caller's mind that if he came again he might possibly buy one. She jumped from cows to calves and from calves to sheep and lambs in hopes to detain him, but he got away as soon as possible. Others had sat around until fairly driven out of the house with the broomstick. Others had boldly flattered, but he had said nothing in praise. The widow tossed her head and said she didn't care, but we know she did, just the same.

At the end of another ten days the bashful Mr. Bingham was back to ask if the widow would sell him a hog or two with the cow. She was sitting on the veranda again, and, as before, he was invited to take a seat. When he had done so she moved so as to hem him in and said:

"Now, sir, look me square in the face. Are you a widower? Do you want to buy a farm? Do you want to buy a cow and some hogs? Do you want to buy hens or ducks? Are you after lambs or ganders?"

Mr. Bingham blushed and cast down his eyes and sidged around, and the widow continued:

"If you are a widower and after a wife, why don't you say so and give us both a show? Lord, man, haven't you any spunk?"

"Will you marry me?" he bluntly demanded.

"Good! That's the way to talk! Marry you? Well, I've liked you ever since the day I saw you handle those bees, and I'll take the proposal under consideration. Cows for sale? No! Hogs for sale? No. All live stock goes with the farm, including me, and it's a bargain for some one, even if I do say it."

The bashful wooer has thought so, too, ever since the wedding day.

TO THE CELERY GROWERS OF ORANGE COUNTY:

WHILE deprecating the unfortunate misunderstanding on the part of certain factors in the celery industry of this district, regarding our purposes and methods, we feel it incumbent upon us to correct the regrettably mistaken statements and reports which have been circulated, and take this occasion to reply to certain of these statements, published in an advertisement in the issue of this paper of March 20th. We reproduce these statements in quotation marks and our replies immediately follow:

"Last season, an effort was made by Crutchfield & Woolfolk of Pittsburg to destroy this highly satisfactory home market by organizing the Sanford Celery Union, etc."

A good deal depends on who profits by the maintenance of the so-called "home market"; the brokers and manipulators, or the growers themselves. Ask yourself the question. Our sole purpose in organizing was to place the real control of the industry in the hands of the growers themselves, where it properly belongs, rather than allow it to be exploited by others for their individual profit. The Sanford Celery Union is an independent body of the growers, governed and controlled by themselves and with full power to contract with whom they please for the marketing of their product. In the selection of its selling agents, it was governed solely by the quality of the service offered, and the desire to market its products under the modern, progressive methods employed in California. There has been no effort made either by us or our selling agents to destroy any feature of the home market which is to the interest of the GROWERS; the feature of F. O. B. selling has been encouraged and developed and a persistent effort made to increase the revenue of the producer. That we have been successful is attested by our sales, which speak for themselves. We would welcome a comparison of general average results with any who desire to make such a comparison.

".....their agent admitted that their only sale at that price ($2.25 f. o. b.) was to themselves"—Their agent made no such admission. It was not known at the time to whom the sale had been made. A discussion did arise at the meeting of the legitimacy of sales by the selling agent to his own branch houses or departments. Everyone familiar with modern business usage knows that this practice is perfectly legitimate, and is followed by the largest commercial corporations in existence. The whole point is unimportant, as the fact of the sale is what concerns the grower and not the person of the buyer.

"The trade as well as the growers know that no market in America would justify a $2.25 f. o. b. price last week." Note this statement well; it is the keynote of the whole matter. And note well our reply: The car in question was sold at $2.25 f. o. b., not to the branch of Crutchfield & Woolfolk, but to one of the most prominent celery dealers in Philadelphia, whose name we will gladly furnish on application. The car was accepted and paid for at the full price named. Mind you, it is stated that "No market in America would justify a $2.25 f. o. b. price last week." Furthermore, several cars were sold for the Manatee County growers at the same price, $2.25 f. o. b. and all of these sales were perfectly bonafide as we are in position to prove. And yet, mind you, it is stated that "No market in America would justify a $2.25 price last week." Think of it! Does this not prove clearly and beyond argument that our selling agents did sell at what is claimed by those subscribing to that statement to be an impossible price? What does it profit a man to idly deny an established fact?

We employed Crutchfield & Woolfolk to market our produce because we believed their service the best obtainable and that they were in position to know the markets and to take advantage of them. In the light of the above, was not our selection justified?

Isn't This Final And Conclusive?

Are You Growing Celery for YOUR PROFIT?

As stated in the first paragraph of this open letter, we deplore this controversy—it was not of our seeking—it was forced on us, who ask only to be unmolested in our effort to stand together for self-protection and market our crops to the best advantage. Only, let those who make charges stand ready to prove them as we stand ready to prove our sales and our statements. We invite all who may be interested to call at our office if they desire further proof.

All reforms have small beginnings and are always bitterly opposed by those whose interest it is to preserve the old order of things. We represent a very fair proportion of the whole, in volume of our acreage; the actual amount is much larger than stated by our critics, as any who care to take the trouble can easily learn for themselves. This fact, however, is unimportant; the important point is that we are growing because we are right; our own ranks are solid; our membership well pleased (they have tried both methods of marketing—they ought to know!) and we will always be ready to welcome to membership with us any grower who seeks to improve his condition—who believes in the principle of association, and who wants to see the growers themselves in control of the industry.

There are no membership or initiation fees or dues of any kind; this is purely a protective and co-operative body; the officers are unpaid, serving voluntarily; each member has an equal voice in the government of the UNION.

CHULUOTA CHRONICLES

Special Correspondence to The Herald.

Springtime is here and farmers are hustling along their crops.

Rev. T. J. Bell of Kissimmee filled his regular appointment in the Baptist church here, Sunday, preaching both morning and evening. There were three additions to the church. The candidates will be baptized on the morning of the third Sunday in April, at 9 o'clock, at the usual place in Lake Mills, in front of J. Tilden Jacobs' home.

The cattlemen are busy herding their cattle.

A party consisting of Misses Bertha Jacobs, Pearl and Margie Kilbee, Messrs. G. W. Jacobs and Wm. Tanner and Master Ernest Jacobs, left Thursday for Cocoa, where they will spend a few days visiting friends. J. T. Hodges conveyed the party over in his launch.

Our community was greatly saddened by the death of one of our most highly respected and influential citizens. John W. Jacobs, which occurred at his home in South Chuluota on the 16th inst., at 11 o'clock, p. m., of tuberculosis. He had been confined to his bed for several weeks, while his illness covered many months. During his suffering, which was very great, he was very patient and bore his afflictions with great Christian fortitude. The deceased was the son of the late P. J. Jacobs, who preceded his son to the great beyond only seven months and twelve days. Mr. Jacobs was born July 1, 1874, in Chuluota, at which place he has always resided. He was married in 1899 to Mrs. Elizabeth Culley of Weymouth, Mass., who survives him; also he leaves a mother, Mrs. M. E. Jacobs of this place, two brothers, six sisters and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn his loss. #### LAKE MARY MELANGE

Special Cor. to The Herald.

E. O. Hankins spent the day here last Sunday, again.

Miss Florence Lovell, who is teaching school at Upsala, was here Sunday shaking hands with her numerous friends.

Mr. J. B. Stryker returned last Monday from Philadelphia.

Rev. J. F. Sundell is on the sick list; he is having a tussel with a gripple.

B. Ingersol has had his orange grove photographed by Mr. Cline, the efficient photographer, who is spending the winter here.

The services at the Episcopal church had to be suspended last Sunday morning, on account of the Rev. Mr. Brown suddenly becoming very ill.

Last Saturday, while in Sanford, Fred Sjoberg's horse became frightened, ran away, broke the wagon and tore things up in general. We were glad to see Fred get back without any bones broken.

We are glad to hear that Sanford is going to have a "big time" on the Fourth of July. Lake Mary will likely be well represented, as it was rather lonely here last fourth.

We were sorry to hear of the misfortune to Editor Holly and family, from eating mutton, but as the old saying goes "It's an ill wind that blows no good." We haven't heard so many complaints lately about there being no fresh meat on the table.

GENEVA GLEANINGS.

Special Correspondence to The Herald:

Quarterly meeting will be held at the Methodist church next Saturday and Sunday at this place. On Saturday afternoon regular conference will be held and the pastor, Rev. McCall is specially desirous that every member of the church be present.

Mrs. Emma McCordel of Havana, has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Mattie to Mr. Lonnie Worthy of Geneva, the wedding to take place at the Baptist church in Havana on the evening of April 7th at 8 o'clock. After April 10th they will be "at home" to their friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Worthy in Geneva. Many are reserving sincere congratulations for this popular young couple.

The ladies of Geneva have again organized the Benevolent Aid Society. They propose to give a series of entertainments during the summer. The first of these, an ice cream festival will be held in the city hall on March 26. The money thus obtained will be used for benevolent purposes and the ladies solicit the patronage of the community and neighboring cities.

There are visitors here who are investigating as to the advisability of putting in an up-to-date saw mill. This would surely be a welcome addition to our community.

Dr. J. J. Burns, who spends his winters in Geneva returned to his home in Defiance, Ohio, last Monday, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Claude Raulerson.

Mr. Sanford Long returned to Georgia last week, after spending some weeks in our town at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keiff.

Mrs. Alic Jones, after a short visit to her sister, Mrs. Pattishall, has returned to her home in Atlanta.

The many friends of Mr. J. T. McLain will be sorry to know that he is still sick at his home.

Quite a good many of our citizens attended quarterly meeting at Oviedo on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Flint is having an artesian well bored on his farm near Lake Hartley and as soon as this is completed will put one at his home in Geneva. Our citizens are gradually preparing for celery growing as well as other vegetables. This is already one of the best fruit raising sections in the county. What we need now is that railroad and then many others would raise truck of all kinds for the market.

Mr. and Mrs. Welker of Brian, O., with Mrs. Stevens and Miss Welker of Sanford spent last Thursday in Geneva, guests of Mrs. Fultz and Mrs. Robinson.

Mr. and Miss Worthy and Mr. and Mrs. David Speer spent last Saturday very pleasantly in Sanford.

OVIEDO OCCURRENCES

Special correspondent to The Herald.

The Quarterly meeting services which have been conducted in the Methodist church during the past week were brought to a close Sunday evening. Presiding Elder Lee, assisted by the local pastor, Rev. McCall, and another visiting clergyman, met with much success in this work, and their efforts toward the religious and moral betterment of the town, awakened a sympathetic response among the people. The Presiding Elder is a pleasing and forceful speaker and his sermons were much enjoyed by the large congregations, who evinced a deep interest in these meetings.

The work of laying the sidewalks is being pushed forward with remarkable activity, the walk from town being paved as far as the Seaboard depot. This work is under the supervision of T. H. Dean, who says he will not rest until the walks are completed all over town. The shade trees, paved streets, and sidewalks will prove quite an addition to the town, creating a cosmopolitan appearance and enhancing the natural beauty of the surroundings. It is due to the untiring efforts of the Ladies' Club that this work is being accomplished.

Louis Leinhart, who is employed in Sanford, came over Saturday evening on a brief visit to his parents.

Mrs. Eric Anderson, a former resident of Oviedo, but now residing in Sanford, spent last week here in attendance at the Quarterly Meeting.

Mrs. A. J. McCulley returned Saturday from Lakeland where she has been on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Kelay.

has named the L. & N. as the official route for Florida delegates to the Southern Baptist Convention early in May. Those going from the south and east will use the L. & N.'s new line out of Jacksonville via Atlanta. Those going from West Florida will use the Pensacola-Montgomery route. The two delegations will meet at the junction point and from thence will travel together. Secretary Gelger thinks the attendance from Florida this year will be much larger than usual. There will be a reduced round-trip rate and this will be open to everybody.

The Railroad Commission has ordered the Florida East Coast road to restore connections with the Atlantic Coast Line at both Sanford and Orange City Junction. What is the matter with having the north-bound morning Seaboard making-up in Orlando held there for connection with the north-bound A. C. L. If the Seaboard were held in Orlando five or ten minutes, connection would be made and passengers off the Coast Line for points on the Seaboard would not stay in Orlando eight hours to catch another train.
