I-4 collision ties up traffic

LAKE MARY — A collision on I-4 yesterday afternoon, involving a car, truck and two other vehicles, tied up traffic for several hours.

According to the Lake Mary police report, a truck, driven by Edward A. Huettmann, 49 of Altamonte Springs, was travelling westbound near the Lake Mary Boulevard overpass. Police Capt. Sam Belfiore explained, "As the driver was changing lanes, he apparently collided with a second vehicle."

The car was occupied by driver, Clint D. Nickerson, and passenger Alisha S. Kerr, both of Toronto, Canada.

After being struck by the truck, Nickerson's vehicle ran off the road into the emergency lane.

Police said a third vehicle attempted to avoid the truck, moved to the left, and struck a fourth vehicle.

Huettmann, the driver of the truck, was charged with failing to maintain a single lane. The truck, owned by Lemke Trucking, Inc., of Orlando, was determined to be totally destroyed.

Nickerson's car received an estimated $500 in damage.

Belfiore said the contents of the truck were strewn across I-4 following the collision. "We found a large number of video games," he said, "and quite a few of what could be considered 'adult movies' had fallen out."

Belfiore said all of the items were returned to Huettmann, due to the fact that he was a licensed wholesaler, and laws did not prevent him from transporting the adult movies.

Merchants rally for puppies

SANFORD — The merchant's association at Flea World will be raising money this weekend to donate to the Humane Society of Seminole County which suffered large losses in a fire on Wednesday.

The merchants will open booth P-100 each day this weekend and have it fully stocked with items from each of the merchants in the market.

According to Larry Goldberg, president of the association, 100 percent of the money made there will be given to the Humane Society.

Flea World will be open today, tomorrow and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Each day at 3 p.m. a large stuffed animal will be given away in a raffle. Money from that raffle will also be given to the Humane Society.

Donations to the Humane Society will also be accepted.

Ethics commission to review stalking complaint

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — City commissioners A.A. "Mac" McClanahan and Herbert "Whitey" Eckstein have been cleared of any criminal wrongdoing by the governor's office.

But the man, Ricky Scheafer, has pursued the complaint against the two commissioners with the state Commission on Ethics. A complaint was mailed to the commission this week.

Ethics investigations may take several weeks to several months to determine whether a violation occurred and what, if any, discipline should be taken. If the commission finds probable cause of a violation, See Ethics, Page 5A

Humane Society eyes rebuilding after fire

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The cause of the fire at the Humane Society of Seminole County on Wednesday remains a mystery, though fire investigators still maintain that arson was not the cause of the blaze.

"We are still investigating the cause of the fire," Seminole County Fire Department investigator Bob Christian said. "We do not believe it was deliberately set."

Five more dogs, all severely burned in the fire, have died in the care of area veterinarians. See Dogs, Page 5A

Lake Mary dumps new speed humps

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A proposal to install speed humps on three Lake Mary city streets ended last night. The humps will not be installed.

A total of five speed humps had been suggested: two each for Main Road and Lake Road, and one on Webster Street. The streets travel through a residential area, but also serve as a route from Country Club Road to Weldon Road near the entrance to Seminole Community College.

The matter started with only Main Road considered. After asking Seminole County engineers to assist in a traffic study of the area however, the county recommended the addition of the humps on the two connecting other roads. See Humps, Page 5A

SANFORD — Twenty six years to the day after the City of Sanford leased land for construction of the Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe, a receiver took over management of the property, upon the order of a circuit court judge.

On April 13, Judge Robert McGregor appointed Henry Fonde as the receiver to oversee the operation of the motel, restaurant and lounge comprising the Holiday Inn property. Fonde is associated with The Landcom Company based in Jacksonville. Landcom operates about 30 hotels including 10 Holiday Inns in Florida, the southeast and Texas.

Fonde said it is the receiver's responsibility to continue to operate the business and protect the value of the property until it can be sold. "We will continue to operate the Holiday

Family income: Seminole is state high; Sanford is county low

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County has the highest median family income of any county in Florida according to the most recent census statistics but if you thought the residents of Lake Mary or Longwood top the income list, you would be wrong.

The median family income for the county is $40,732 which ranks 187th in the nation. Winter Springs has the highest median family income in the county at $44,205.

The incomes are listed two ways, as median family income which are people related by marriage or birth and median household income, which are unmarried people living together who are not related by blood. Winter Springs also had the highest household income at $40,563.

Sanford had the lowest incomes in both categories with family income of $28,384 and household income of $25,029. The median family income in Sanford is $15,841 less than in Winter Springs.

The city statistics from 1989 were provided by Robin Wells, public information specialist from the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

Lake Mary ranked a close second in median family income with $43,882, followed by Oviedo ($42,843), Altamonte Springs ($37,572), Longwood ($37,485), Casselberry ($34,399).

In every local city, median family income was higher than median household incomes.

Florida, the fourth-largest state, ranked 31st with a median family income of $32,212. The state did not have a city in the top or bottom 25 in the country.

Corpse late for wake after detour

MIAMI — American Airlines officials are investigating how a casket carrying the body of a 44-year-old woman was delivered to Aruba instead of New York, forcing the postponement of her wake.

Reinaldo Rodriguez, a Coast Guard petty officer stationed in Miami, said American Airlines wrongly shipped his mother's body to Aruba and he learned about it in a phone call from a funeral home.

The mistake was discovered when an empty casket, intended for Aruba, arrived at Ortiz Funeral Home in the Bronx.

Rodriguez said the body finally arrived in New York about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday; the wake and the funeral were held on the same day Wednesday.

American Airlines spokeswoman Patricia San Pedro said the airline is investigating the incident.

Grant awarded for positive publicity

MIAMI — Miami's tourism bureau has been awarded an $800,000 federal grant to counter negative publicity from Hurricane Andrew and crime against tourists.

The Greater Miami Convention and Visitors Bureau said the money will be used for international advertising and promotion. Among the targeted areas are Canada and Germany, which have warned their citizens about visiting South Florida.

The grant was awarded by the U.S. Travel and Tourism Administration to combat negative information about Miami after the Aug. 24 storm and this winter's widely publicized killings of tourists.

A recent study conducted for the bureau suggests Miami could lose 15 percent to 22 percent of its tourists over the next four to six years, unless the city does additional advertising to deflect the negative images.

About 8.4 million tourists visited Miami in 1991, spent $7.2 billion and contributed $404 million in Dade County taxes. That is 37 percent of all taxes collected in Dade for that year.

Humanitarian aid flotilla delayed

KEY WEST — A flotilla to bring humanitarian aid to Cuba has been delayed one week at the request of the Cuban government.

"Basta," which is coordinating the flotilla, said Thursday it will postpone the trip from this weekend to April 24 and 25.

John J. Young, founder of "Basta," said he received a list of requests from the Cuban government while in Havana this week, including the one-week postponement and limiting the flotilla to 20 vessels.

Young said in a news release that the Cuban government is anxious to abide by U.S. law forbidding any sort of trade with the communist island.

Young said the Cuban government will take the entire entourage from the flotilla for a tour of Old Havana and a children's hospital. The aid will be turned over to the Cuban Red Cross, the Baptist Convention and the Ecumenical Council for distribution and monitoring.

The flotilla has been criticized by an opposition group, "Basta de Basta," which says that the flotilla's organizers have been misled by Cuban dictator Fidel Castro.

Murder suspect gets house arrest

WEST PALM BEACH — Nicholas Hardy, who cannot move or speak, was sentenced to house arrest in the death of a police officer.

Hardy will be placed on house arrest at his mother's home after his discharge from the hospital recovering from a self-inflicted gunshot wound. Palm Beach County Circuit Judge Walter N. Colbath Jr. ruled Thursday.

A Palm Beach County grand jury indicted the 18-year-old Hardy on charges of first-degree murder, grand theft with a firearm and unlawfully taking an officer's weapon.

Hardy placed Sgt. James "Rocky" Hunt's gun in his mouth and fired as police closed in on him shortly after the Feb. 25 shooting, police said.

Hunt had stopped Hardy and three other teens to question them about a bank alarm. Hunt had searched Wilson and started searching another teen when Hardy began firing, according to court records.

Feds address water quality

MIAMI — The federal government announced a 30-day "time-out" period on legal challenges to efforts to improve the water quality of the Florida Everglades.

The time-out period gives a chance for mediation to resolve challenges made by the Florida sugar industry to the state's plan to address serious water quality problems in the Everglades, said acting Assistant Attorney General Myles E. Flint of the Department of Justice's Environment and Natural Resources Division.

At the end of the 30-day period, the government will decide whether to resume trial preparations for an October hearing or continue mediation, he said.

The parties committed themselves to preserve and restore the unique flora and fauna of Everglades National Park and the Lozabatchee National Wildlife Refuge.

Frongello believes in a positive learning environment

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — After slipping their income taxes in the mail to Uncle Sam last evening, people had an opportunity to celebrate the fruits of some of their local tax dollars at work.

The best and brightest of Seminole County's teachers were honored at a reception and recognition program at Lake Brantley High School in Altamonte Springs.

The reception, sponsored by SunBank, was open to the public and offered students and parents the opportunity to meet and talk with the 1993 teachers of the year from each of the district's 46 schools.

Following the reception, there was a program honoring the teachers.

Wayne Frongello, a science teacher from South Seminole Middle School in Casselberry, was selected as the district's top teacher. He is currently competing to be named the top teacher in the state.

Frongello, in his entry packet for the local contest, said that he believed that a positive learning environment was the key to academic success.

"I believe teachers cannot teach and students cannot learn in classrooms burdened with stress, conflict and aggression," he wrote. "I believe in empowering students to create a positive learning environment where they have ownership of their behavior and learning."

Frongello not only teaches the students about science, those who evaluated his work said, but he teaches them valuable life skills as well.

Rebecca Dean, a fourth grade teacher at Goldboro Elementary School was a runner-up in the county contest.

She believes in helping all her students be successful.

"It is my belief," she wrote, "that teaching is a great responsibility. I feel an outstanding teacher must make every child in their class successful, regardless of ability."

Art Woodruff, a physics and journalism teacher from Seminole High School, was the other semi-finalist. He believes teachers must be involved with his students both in class and in other aspects of their lives.

"Involvement with students outside the classroom helps in the classroom," he wrote. "Students know I care about them. They also know that I will not accept excuses for poor performance in the classroom and will readily work with their coaches, sponsors and parents to get them turned on in the classroom."

The top teachers will be given cash awards and other kudos for their hard work.

Each of the school district's six high schools will send a total of 25 students to five teams to compete.

Each team will compete in one of five categories based on their particular area of expertise.

There will be teams of Algebra I, Algebra II, Geometry, Trigonometry and Analytic Geometry and Calculus.

The contest is sponsored by the Florida Future Teachers Association, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization.

The contest will be held during the fall semester at Seminole Community College.

Students will compete in three areas: individual, team and group.

Each student will receive a grant for living expenses for the duration of the contest.

Lin Tugue, a graduate of Seminole High School, won the contest last year. He will be assisting with this year's contest.

Tugue is attending SCC on a full two-year scholarship as a result of winning last year's scholarship.

Headquarters job cuts worry HRS employees

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The state's mammoth social services agency wants to move 500 employees out of Tallahassee posts and into jobs where they're more directly delivering services, Gov. Lawton Chiles said.

"We want our assets to be out in the field," Chiles said Thursday.

Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services workers have been told in a series of "town meetings" this week to expect layoffs of up to 25 percent of the more than 2,000 HRS employees in Tallahassee within two weeks.

Chiles pointed out that the agency will add four new districts by July 1, and the state budget for the new fiscal year includes money for 800 more caseworkers.

Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay, acting HRS secretary, recruited Transportation Secretary Ben Watta to oversee the layoffs. MacKay said he wanted someone from outside the agency "saying these are good decisions that are being made and nobody's playing any games."

The department will set up an ombudsman phone line with a statewide toll-free number Friday to combat rumors during the reorganization.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees will work with management on a "job changer" system to match laid-off employees with vacancies elsewhere in the agency, political director Mark Neimeiser said.

Watta overrode a decentralization of the Department of Transportation a few years ago. He said he will spend two or three half-days a week at HRS for the next three months.

Chiles promised in his 1990 campaign to move decision-making power in the 40,000-employee agency to regional HRS districts.

"Our plan is to start at the top, review the role of the headquarters in a decentralized agency, and begin to shift those jobs that aren't needed to the district level — out of administration and into service delivery," said MacKay, who was named acting secretary after former secretary Bob Williams resigned last month.

Chiles signs 4th death warrant for Vietnam veteran

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles signed a death warrant Thursday for Larry Joe Johnson, who won a reprieve in January after a state Supreme Court justice said the Vietnam veteran might have been "maimed psychologically" while serving his country.

The warrant is Johnson's fourth. His execution is set for May 5 at 7 a.m. Johnson, 49, was condemned for fatally shooting 67-year-old service station attendant James Hadden with a sawed-off shotgun in the North Florida town of Lee in 1979. At the time, Johnson was a parolee from LaGrange, Ky.

Steven Seliger, Johnson's attorney, was in court Thursday and did not immediately return a message. But Terry Farley Walsh, an investigator for Johnson's defense team, said she and other lawyers were shocked.

"We're devastated," she said, adding that her phone was ringing off the hook with calls from angry veterans across the country.

After Johnson's third warrant was signed in January, veteran advocates and Johnson's attorneys argued that he should be spared execution because he suffers from post traumatic stress disorder.

Chiles said he could not support clemency but delayed the execution after Justice Gerald Kogan wrote that the legal system had failed Johnson and would put to death a man whose suffering has stemmed from his military service.

"When this death warrant is executed, Florida will electrocute a man injured and most probably maimed psychologically while serving in his nation's military in Vietnam and elsewhere," Kogan wrote.

Florida's high court, nevertheless, denied Johnson's appeal, although Kogan and two other justices made it clear they were agreeing only because their hands were tied procedurally.

Mark Schlakman, an attorney for Chiles, said the governor had directed staff to further investigate the issue of post traumatic stress disorder, which had been raised in a clemency hearing last year.

"He recently reviewed the file and determined that, based upon this period of continued review, that he believed that clemency in this particular case was not warranted," Schlakman said.

"What he wanted to make very clear, though, was that this decision should not be construed as any general statement regarding the merits of post traumatic stress disorder as any form of mitigation," Schlakman said. "His decision was solely based upon the particular facts of the case."

Johnson served 12 years in the military, including two tours in Vietnam. After being honorably discharged from the Navy, Johnson joined the Kentucky National Guard. His military career ended when he was hit by a smoke grenade in 1974 during a training exercise. The grenade supposedly triggered the post-traumatic stress disorder.

Humane Society needs help now

The Seminole County Humane Society lost a major structure to fire Wednesday night. It must be replaced as soon as possible.

The loss is more than that of a single building. It is the loss of a large portion of the society's continuing service to the community. Missing is the temporary home for stray dogs, a residency required before a dog can be put out for adoption.

There is a question of whether or not there is insurance coverage on that particular building. Even if some of the loss can be recompensed, more money will be needed.

The financial losses must be measured in two separate categories; the actual value of the burned building, and the cost that would be needed to construct and outfit a new one. At today's prices, insurance money, even if it can be obtained, will not be sufficient.

One estimate of the loss has been determined to be $157,000. To build a structure for better service to the community and more suited for the work of the Society, could cost double that amount.

The Seminole County Humane Society is a non-profit organization. It does not receive financial assistance from the county. Most of the workers are volunteers.

The work of the organization has been excellent. Many local residents have obtained pets through the adoption process.

Building a new structure is now in the hands of persons willing to donate. With more money, a better structure can be built. As a result, more service can be provided by the overall operation.

Time is important. Donations must start flowing now. The longer it takes to rebuild, the fewer animals can be protected.

In addition to money, the humane society is also in need of food and janitorial equipment.

The Seminole County Humane Society is located at 2800 County Home Road, east of Highway 17-92.

Help the society. Help the animals. Show you care.

Opposing borrow pit

The earth borrowed from a borrow pit is never paid back except with dust from denuding and digging, noise from monster earth-moving equipment, traffic problems from an endless parade of dirty dump trucks, water problems from the havoc-wreaking encroachment of our delicate underground supply of precious fresh water, and pockmarked pollution in general of our beautiful Seminole County.

How could our county commission, elected to protect our rights and better our community, have allowed so many borrow pits to gouge the good earth of our residential neighborhoods? How could they have ignored the wishes of so many who are avidly against the borrow pits, yet accede to the wishes of the few who will wallow in the profits of the pits?

Although very short notice was given to the opposition that the pit matter would be acted upon at the March county commission meeting, scores of interested anti-pit people showed up to protest. But alas, the pro-pit proponents, who had many months to prepare, had somehow obtained their various pit-permits and, flanked by their contingency of geologists, water-specialists, attorneys, etc. just seemed to sail through their one-sided presentation. And, voila, permission was granted for the latest (and sixth) pit to be excavated 35 feet deep and 15 acres wide in the residential neighborhood of Ohio and Marquette avenues, Silver Lake, Golden Lake and Lake Onora.

Except for Commissioner Furlong — and thank God for him — it seemed as though the Commission turned deaf ears on the large turnout of tax-paying, anti-pit property owners in this highly assessed area.

As for the way we were treated — it was the pits!

Sportsmania's best time of year

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — "Nothing could be finer than to be in Carolina in the morning," especially when the University of North Carolina has won the NCAA basketball tournament the night before.

With affectionate memories of the Great One, Jackie Gleason, how sweet it is!

Professors who have a speech to write on the night of a university's national championship game don't get it finished until 4 o'clock in the morning — not because of a eudaemonic sharing of the students' massive Dionysia, but because professorial powers of cognition have been corrupted by the celebration.

For this Connecticut-raised, former Philadelphian turned born-again Tar Heeler, it was the best of all possible eclectic worlds. The description magnificently fits the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's championship team.

We all get caught up in the divisive tensions surrounding the demography of our lives. And yet, every day, hundreds of sports teams put these tensions aside.

If ever a graceful display of unity in diversity was displayed, it was the Michigan team's closing of ranks behind their brilliant star, Chris Webber. In a painful one-tenth of a second, "one moment in time," Webber suffered a momentary lapse and called a timeout when Michigan's supply closet of timeouts was as bare as old Mother Hubbard's cupboard. The fat lady, who had been warming up like saxophonist Bubba Clinton at a jam session, burst into song.

Over the next weeks, she'll be warbling every few days. This is sportsmania's time of the year.

Young lovers recognize it by harmonic activity. The forsythia lift their yellow blossoms skyward. Azaleas hide play peek-a-boo. Robins select a nesting place. And a voice bellows, "Play ball!"

President Bubba obeyed the season's voices by throwing out the first ball in Baltimore. Baseball season began, and America's favorite pastime took charge of our recreational impulses.

For sports fans — any kind of sports fan — it just don't get no better than this. (Yes, I know, grammatical errancy grates the senses. But grammatically correct aphorisms can lose their joyful mood in much the same way that Rhett Butler's climatic line to Scarlett O'Hara would have fallen flat if he had said, "Frankly, my dear, I don't care.")

Sportsmania makes everybody care this time of the year. No part of any non-Olympic year even comes close to crowning so many champions in so short a time frame.

A golfer can win the U.S. Open, the PGA championship and the British Open. But if he didn't win the Master's with its green jacket mystique, on April 11, he still won't enter the kingdom of golf heaven.

I must confess an elaborate unconcern for such a failure. For a large part of the golf-playing and golf-therapy public, the Master's is a magic moment. For me, watching golf is about as exciting as watching a group of octogenarians with bandaged hands playing tiddlywinks.

But we're all eager to see new champions anointed, even the one who conquered the Master's.

Every day, hundreds of sports teams put those tensions aside.

Clinton marital discord denied

WASHINGTON — The White House has vehemently denied that President Clinton and his wife are getting along less than swimmingly these days. Press Secretary Dee Dee Meyers has attempted to squelch rumors that the Clintons have not exactly enjoyed marital bliss since moving into the White House.

According to stories making the rounds, the Clintons have engaged in regular shouting matches. On one occasion, it's been said, the first lady threw a lamp (in some stories a vase; it is not clear if she simply threw it or if she threw it at the president). Other rumors assert that the two have moved into separate bedrooms.

Meyers calls these stories "garbage" and said she should not even have to comment on "this kind of trash journalism. It is simply untrue." But she did admit that, sometimes, the Clintons do discuss things energetically, and with voices slightly raised.

The interesting thing is that insiders are attributing the source of these rumors to the White House Secret Service detail, usually the most close-mouthed group imaginable.

Another story making the rounds is that there has been a significant turnover in the Secret Service detail. Reportedly, more than half the detail has asked for reassignment, an odd occurrence when you consider that the presidential detail is the highest honor for a Secret Service agent.

According to several sources, many in the presidential detail are very unhappy about the dismissive way they are being treated by the young White House staff and by members of the first family. Said one agent, who admits he has asked for a transfer, "It's not that they don't care about security — or care about photo ops more, which is the case — but they treat us as if we are some kind of rent-a-cops, none of whom has an IQ in three figures."

The ongoing fight between the White House and Democratic Sen. Richard Shelby of Alabama is turning ugly even by Washington standards. President Clinton and his top aides have been angered by Shelby's anti-Clinton stance on a number of issues, including Clinton's budget reform package.

The White House got off to a bad start by seeming to be intimidated by Armed Services Committee chairman Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., on the issue of gays in the military. Now it's using the Shelby dispute to show that it will play hardball if pushed by individual members of Congress.

At first, when Shelby wouldn't fall into line, he was not given tickets for a White House reception for the national championship University of Alabama football team. Then, when Shelby sought to step up the pressure against Clinton's spending plan, the White House response was to move a $380 million project, and hundreds of potential jobs, from Huntsville to Houston. As others in the Democratic Senate leadership are trying to make peace, neither side seems ready to back down.

An interesting dust-up is occurring at the Justice Department, where the Federal Bureau of Prisons has gone behind the back of new Attorney General Janet Reno in an attempt to change a controversial piece of legislation.

The Senate is ready to take up the House-passed Religious Freedom Restoration Act — a proposed law to reverse the effect of a 1990 Supreme Court ruling. In that case, Oregon v. Smith, a sharply divided court ruled, 5-4, that any criminal statute could limit the exercise of religion unless it could be shown that the sole purpose of the law was to limit religion.

The proposed law would return to the pre-Smith situation where a state can limit the free exercise of religion only after showing a compelling need to do so.

It appeared that the bill would have smooth sailing in the Senate after the Roman Catholic Church removed an objection it had. Using convoluted logic, the church feared that if Roe v. Wade was overturned, and abortion rights are left to the states, a woman might claim a religious necessity to have an abortion under the proposed law.

Now, however, the Senate Judiciary Committee has put the matter on hold after receiving a long, unsigned memo from the Federal Bureau of Prisons complaining that passage of the law could lead to its losing control of the prison system. Prisoners, the letter explained, could use the new law to demand special diets, dress, hairstyles and days off to worship based on "claimed religious beliefs whether sincerely held or not." The memo asked that the language of the final bill include a specific exemption for "correctional settings."

The problem with all this: At her confirmation hearing, Attorney General Reno (to say nothing of the White House) had given her unqualified support for the bill as written.

It is believed that this is why the memo — on Bureau of Prisons stationery — is unsigned. The author, though, is believed to be Bureau of Prisons Director Kathleen Hawk.

Insiders are attributing the source of these rumors to the White House Secret Service detail.

Carville's role puts him in ethical limbo

WASHINGTON — In politics, sometimes appearance is everything.

Nobody understands that better than James Carville, the "Ragin' Cajun," whose political prowess helped transform the governor of Arkansas into the president of the United States. Today, Carville's celebrity has crowned him with two most desirable hats: presidential confidant and a top draw on the speaking circuit.

Although no official numbers were available, each speaking appearance nets him in excess of $15,000, according to several sources, including one whose group recently hired Carville to speak. His recent speaking engagements were before organizations that the White House might label "special interests": the American Hospital Association, the American Trucking Association, the National Association of Homebuilders and the New Mexico Oil and Gas Association.

Since Carville is not a government employee, he is in an ethical no man's land, allowed to float from the private to the public sector without being subjected to stringent new ethics rules of the Clinton administration — or those already in place proscribing acceptance of speaking income.

The arrangement suits both Clinton, who can capitalize on Carville's troubleshooting skills, and Carville, who can pursue a private-sector career while maintaining White House ties. Along with partner Paul Begala, pollster Stan Greenberg, and friend-of-Hillary, Mandy Grunwald, he is an integral member of the president's kitchen cabinet.

While Carville's road show breaks no laws or regulations, some believe it's an artful dodge, particularly considering the cleaner-than-Caesar's-wife standard set by the Clinton administration.

"Carville can say that he's not in government. But if you're at the White House every day, you're in government," says Charles Lewis, executive director of the non-partisan Center for Public Integrity. "Perception and reality are not the same thing, though they become the same thing here."

Carville makes no apologies for his role. "Let me make this perfectly clear. We (Carville and Begala, Carville's consulting firm) have never taken corporate clients — ever." Carville told our associate Jan Moller. Carville confines his consulting to electing Democrats to office.

"Every candidate I've worked for has asked me to stay on in some way or another," Carville said, adding that he has turned down "millions" in the past to lobby on behalf of corporate interests.

In last year's campaign, corporate lobbying became a major issue after Pat Buchanan scolded President Bush for taking advice from Charles Black and James Lake, both of whom had extensive corporate and foreign clients on their firms' payrolls.

Though Carville is clearly in a different category, he is certainly not the first White House adviser to confront the unique ethical questions posed by public speaking. Two disparate public figures — former Drug Czar William Bennett and Clinton health-care adviser Paul Starr — have wrestled with similar questions, but arrived at different conclusions than has Carville.

Bennett, who was the first appointed "Drug Czar," turned down an offer to head the Republican National Committee in 1990, fearing in part that his extensive speaking schedule could be seen as conflicting with his role as White House adviser. His speech-making would have technically fit within the rules.

Since Carville is not a government employee, he is in an ethical no man's land.

Eleven storms predicted

By TONY WINTON
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — Eleven major storms, including six hurricanes, may be in store for the hurricane season beginning in June, says analyst William Gray.

Gray, professor of Atmospheric Science at Colorado State University, predicts the coming season will be "a little bit above average."

He makes annual predictions on the numbers of storms based on statistical studies that include the effects of water temperatures, atmospheric winds and other factors.

"Pacific waters will be on the gold side and stratospheric winds will be favorable, and we expect West Africa to still be in drought," Gray told reporters at a national hurricane conference in Orlando on Thursday.

While there has been a downturn in the last 25 years in the number of intense storms, Gray said that could be changing. But he doesn't know exactly when the period of more active storms will begin.

Gray said he would update his forecast June 4.

Gray added that his seasonal prediction shouldn't be confused with the "real-time important prediction ... the day-to-day one which Bob Sheets and the National Hurricane Center people do."

Earlier, Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center, said he and his forecasters "think we're starting back into a heavy trend, but this doesn't mean this year or next."

What's important to remember, he said, is that the past two decades were an abnormally slow period of activity.

"Last year was a mild season, despite Andrew," Sheets told the conference.

An average year has nine to 10 named storms, with an average of six hurricanes, said Sheets.

Last year, "We were well below with six named storms, one unnamed. Four were hurricanes. One was Andrew," he said.

Hurricane Andrew, which devastated South Dade County August 24, has been called the most destructive natural disaster in U.S. history.

There are still several others "on the borderline."

While damage estimates were placed at $187,000 by the fire department, Humane Society officials said that it would take more than twice that amount to rebuild the facility and to make it safer for the animals in the future.

The kennel where the fire took place had a gas-powered washer and dryer at one end of the facility. Inv. inspectors believe that a gas leak at the dryer may have contributed to the speed and intensity with which the fire spread through the wooden kennel.

An electric washer and dryer have already been donated to replace the set.

Though the Humane Society did have some insurance on the kennel that was destroyed, they do not believe it was nearly enough to even rebuild the way it was.

Many area businesses are offering their assistance. The merchants at Plex World, which is located directly behind the shelter, have offered to donate 100 percent of the money made at one booth this weekend to the Humane Society.

Individuals have been coming to the shelter since Thursday morning with donations of food, blankets, supplies and money.

The shelter still needs cash more than anything so they can begin the process of building a new kennel. Donations can be brought to or sent to the Humane Society at 2500 County Home Road, Sanford, 32779. Their phone number is 323-8653.

Chief

He will assume duties on April 26.

A recommendation for his appointment was approved unanimously last night by the Lake Mary City Commission.

Mehl's salary has been disclosed at $40,000.

"Of the 14 applications we received," City Manager John Litton said, "he was head and shoulders above the others in qualifications."

Mehl has served as Fire Chief of Winter Park from Feb. 1987 to Nov. 1991. Prior to that time, he served in various positions including chief, at Traverse City, Michigan from 1984 until 1984, and as director in Grand Traverse County, Michigan in 1985 and 86.

In his letter of application,

Mehl wrote, "I use the team concept of management. To work with the input and feedback from the total organization both up and down, gives all levels a sense of ownership and fosters the building of trust."

"I credit the success I have had to my ability to work with people," he said. "Early in my career I learned a valuable skill: how to listen. I delegate responsibility, with accountability, and give people the opportunity to do their job."

Mehl will be replacing Bob Stoddard, who submitted his resignation during a commission meeting on March 4. Stoddard said he had been misinformed regarding qualifications required when he was hired to the position in April, 1992.

Prior to that time, Stoddard had served for 14 years as chief of Lake Mary's volunteer fire department.

The process to replace him began immediately. After applications were received, Litton said they were narrowed down with the assistance of Chief Seigfried from Altamonte Springs.

Three names selected by Seigfried were then reviewed by Litton, Finance Director Randy Knight, and Police Chief Richard Beary.

Litton told the commission his reasons for selecting Mehl. "He has maturity, he has run a similar operation meshing volunteer and regular firefighters together, and he knows the fire service."

Mehl has obtained his Florida Certification of Competency rating.

Income

Seminole in median family income were Palm Beach ($38,539), Collier ($38,428), Clay ($37,779) and Martin ($37,732). Palm Beach County is in southern Florida on the Atlantic Coast. Martin County abuts Palm Beach County. The city of Naples is in Collier County on the Gulf Coast. Clay County is southwest of Jacksonville.

The Florida counties with the lowest median income were Dixie ($19,492) in the Big Bend area, followed by Franklin ($20,536), Holmes ($20,923), Hamilton ($21,889) and Calhoun ($21,999).

Nationally, the census figures showed a definite connection between what you make and where you live. The counties where families earn top dollar are mainly clustered in two big bustling urban centers: Washington and New York City.

That's where you'll find such places as Fairfax County, Va., where the typical family makes $65,201, tops in the nation.

People that want to live far from the city lights typically must settle for less.

At the other end of the income scale is rural Starr County, Texas where family income is the lowest in the nation at $10,803 a year.

Other counties with family incomes below $12,000 a year are Owsley County, Ky.; East Carroll Parish, La.; and Shannon County, S.D.

But there are ways for families to combine country living and high income.

For example, there's Los Alamos County in the New Mexico mountains, where families typically earn $60,798. That's the eighth highest in the nation. Los Alamos is home to the Los Alamos National Laboratory, a federal nuclear research installation.

And sometimes you don't have to travel far to go from fat paychecks to slim. Morris County, N.J., has the second-highest family income in the nation, $62,749. About 20 miles away is the New York borough of the Bronx, with the nation's 2,026th highest income, $25,479.

Information from the Associated Press is contained in this report.

Gov. Lawton Chiles has the authority to suspend the commission.

Scheafer said he feels successful, despite the apparent setback.

"Nothing may come of this, but I guarantee you they'll think twice about doing it again to someone else," said Scheafer this morning.

"I never had any concerns about it," said McClanahan. "I don't even know Mr. Scheafer. I've never met him. It's just one of those vulnerable things when you're an elected official."

Eckstein could not be reached. Attorney Thomas Greene filed a complaint on Scheafer's behalf with the governor's legal office March 4, alleging Eckstein and McClanahan had contacted his employer and his wife's employer in an effort to secure an apology from Scheafer for cursing at Eckstein.

Scheafer admits calling Eckstein a "son of a bitch" during a heated telephone conversation over comments he made in a letter published in the Sanford Herald.

In signed statements, Scheafer's employers, Michael and Patrick Leonard, stated both McClanahan and Eckstein contacted them separately, and stated if they didn't intervene and seek the apology, their gasoline station would lose business.

In another affidavit, Scheafer's wife Sharon Scheafer, a Sanford police officer, stated Acting Police Chief Ralph Russell told her Eckstein had sought his intervention in securing the apology. Russell has admitted to telling Eckstein the matter did not involve the Police Department and he would not get involved.

things that are necessary to make our guests happy."

A Landcom employee will be named to manage the local motel. Although Fonde will be based in Jacksonville, he said he "will be back and forth on a frequent basis" to fulfill his receivership duties.

According to the court order, Fonde will oversee the finances, all records and do a complete inventory of the property.

Sanford City Attorney William Colbert said the appointment of a receiver may benefit the city.

The city still owns the land occupied by the motel. "The property has been in arrears in its rent for years. They paid some things and other things they didn't pay," Colbert commented. "I couldn't tell you by how much. The finance department probably would have those figures."

Under the land lease agreement with the city, the motel owners paid rent plus a percentage of the gross income from the property.

He said it is one of the responsibilities of the receiver to see that bills are paid.

"Hopefully, this will enhance the payments to the city," he added.

Sanford finance director Carolyn Small said the Holiday Inn by the end of April will owe the city $112,008 with an additional payment of $60,907 due shortly thereafter. She explained when the property entered bankruptcy, the city worked out a payment schedule for the arrearage. However, no payments were made in 1992 and a 1993 payment is due at the end of April.

On April 14, 1987, Sanford and a company called Monroe Hotels, which later became Seminole Isle Properties, entered into a 55-year lease for the property on Palmetto Avenue. The lease continues until April 13, 2022. John Wallace Schoettekotte, Edward F. Welch and the late Alfredo Saigato were partners in Monroe Hotels, later known as Seminole Isle Properties.

The Holiday Inn property, which has experienced financial difficulties for several years, became involved in the savings and loan bailout when Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) took over the operation of the Great Southern Federal Savings and Loan Association the successor to Great Southern Federal Savings Bank which initially financed the construction of the Holiday Inn. Initially, the savings and loan had sued Seminole Isle Properties, Schoettekotte, Welch, the City of Sanford and General Innkeeping Acceptance Corporation in 1989 when payments were not made in accordance to the loan agreement. The original loan was $1,630,000 in February 1983 and modified later by agreement to increase the principal indebtedness to $2,584,637.40.

An attempt by Schoettekotte to file for reorganization under chapter 11 in United States Bankruptcy Court failed.

Humps

as well.

At last night's city commission meeting, City Manager John Litton explained a survey of residents in the area under consideration to determine their preferences. He reported 99.74 percent did not favor the humps, while 44.16 percent wanted them.

Police Chief Richard Beary commented on the speed study. "We have estimated that the streets did meet the requirements for speed humps of over 1,000 cars per day." The actual number was 1,026.

"With a speed limit of 25 miles per hour, we found 61 percent (624 vehicles) traveling over 26 mph," he said, "and 30 percent (406 vehicles) going under that speed."

Beary added, "We stopped about 50 vehicles for speeding during the test period, and 75 percent of the tickets we handed out were to residents of that neighborhood, not people using the streets for access to the college."

Prior to the commission decision, the citizens had their opportunity to speak both for and against the speed humps.

Five spoke in favor of the suggestion. Four lived on the actual streets, one lived in an adjoining area. Most of them said they believed the speed humps would provide additional safety for children in the area. Broadmoor Avenue resident Rick Schultz added, "The money you would spend on this shouldn't be important when it comes to the safety of the area."

Those speed humps will help keep speeding down."

Five residents spoke in opposition. "I'm in favor of safety," said Randy Pittman, a Webster Street resident, "but speed humps are not the way to accomplish it. We need better control by the police."

Charles Webster, a descendant of the family for whom Webster Street was named said, "I'm 71 years old, and I don't want to be jumping over speed humps for the rest of my life. Let the police do their jobs."

He added, "Anyway, people slowing down for humps then speeding up cause a lot more noise and problems."

Three other speakers were residents of the surrounding area. One man said he was concerned over problems the humps might cause in quick-response runs by ambulances or fire trucks. "If they are coming to help me," he said, "I don't want them slowed down by those speed humps."

Chief Beary admitted there had been some concern with quick response units, especially for heavy fire department water trucks.

Commissioner George Duryea said, "I am not in favor of the humps at this time, especially when we already have stop signs on those streets. We have to choose one or the other, and I would just as soon leave the stop signs and maybe take another look at speed humps a year from now."

Commissioner Gary Brender suggested motorists, "would probably speed up anyway while they are driving between the speed humps, so we are not really resolving any speed problems. The way I look at the cost involved and the number of cars," he continued, "we would be spending about $8,000 to control problems caused by just 200 vehicles."

Brender agreed that the matter should be revisited in the future.

Mayor Lowry Rockett explained that he resides on Broadmoor, where speed humps were installed several years ago. "They are not as comfortable as driving down a straight road," he said, "but I have no problems with them as long as I'm traveling at 25 miles per hour, and there hasn't been any wear and tear on my car in the past 2 1/2 years."

No official vote was required in the matter. "If you aren't going to approve the speed humps, Litton said, "then there won't be any money involved, and you won't have to make a formal vote."

Litton added, "But I suggest this be brought up for reconsideration after we do another traffic study in about six months."

Mayor Rockett also requested Chief Beary to supply the commission with a report on speeding and tickets issued on those three streets, on a monthly basis.

With Commissioner David Meador not in attendance, the consensus vote against installing the speed humps was unanimous.

Buttafuoco pleads innocent to sex with an underage Amy Fisher

By PAT MILTON
Associated Press Writer

MINEOLA, N.Y. — The TV movies were made a little too soon — the Amy Fisher saga isn't over yet.

Joey Buttafuoco, 37, was charged with rape and sodomy Thursday for allegedly having sex with Fisher in July 1991, a month before the high school student's 17th birthday. Seventeen is the age of consent in New York.

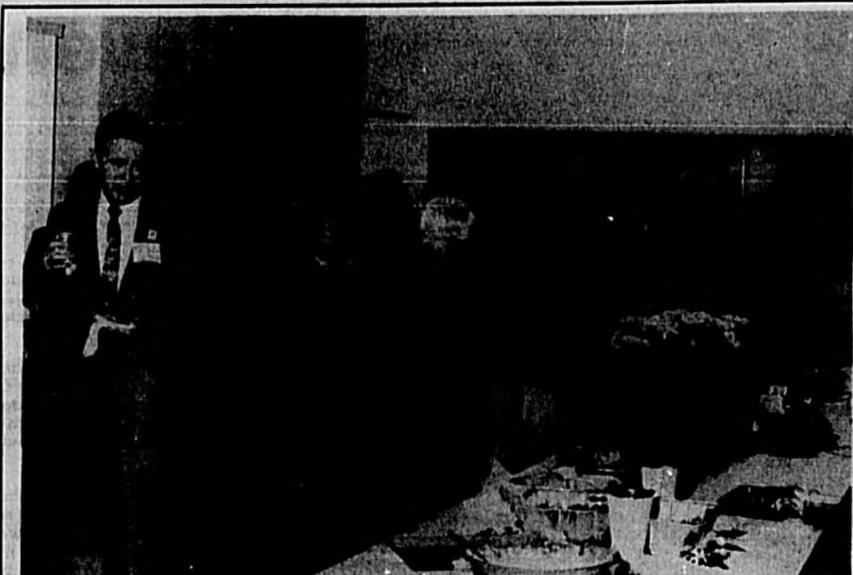

Buttafuoco, owner of a Long Island auto body shop, winked at his wife, Mary Jo, as he entered the courtroom, and she mouthed the words "I love you." He pleaded innocent, was freed without bail and left arm-in-arm with his wife.

He could get up 73 years in prison if convicted on all 19 counts.

Fisher, now 18, is serving a five to 15 years in prison after pleading guilty to assault for shooting Mrs. Buttafuoco in the head in 1992 in a case that was dramatized in three network movies. The so-called Long Island Lolita had claimed she and Buttafuoco were having an affair. He denied having sex with her.

Mrs. Buttafuoco, whose face is partially paralyzed from the shooting, said Thursday that her husband "is not guilty of anything. Amy Fisher is a liar and a psychopath."

Ohio inmates vow to die before surrender

By SONJA BARISIC
Associated Press Writer

LUCASVILLE, Ohio — Inmates in control of a maximum-security cellblock freed one of seven hostages in return for radio air time, during which a prisoner warned: "We're not going to give up. ... If we die, we die."

During the dramatic broadcast Thursday night, the prisoner, identified only as George, said another hostage would be freed if the inmates got live TV time this morning, as promised.

The breakthrough came hours after one hostage was found dead in the yard outside the cellblock where 450 inmates were barricaded. He was first prison employee to die in the uprising at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility.

Sharon Kornegay, a spokeswoman for the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction, said the inmates would be given air time today on WBNS-TV in Columbus. Other stations were expected to carry the broadcast.

The inmates took eight guards hostage when the uprising began Sunday.

Kornegay refused to say how 40-year-old guard Robert R. Vallandigham died, but the inmates appeared to take responsibility.

"We hope there is no more violence," said the inmate who gave the radio address. "We hope there are no more unnecessary murders. We as the convict body send our condolences to Bobby's family. ... But that is something that had to happen. A lot of us didn't want it, but that's I'm sorry. That's all I can say."

In the rambling, 15-minute broadcast, the inmate also complained of prison conditions, denied the siege was racially motivated and listed several demands, including replacing Warden Arthur Tate — whom he referred to as "King Arthur" — and restoring water and electricity, which have been shut off since Sunday.

"We are very oppressed, and we are very sick of it. We're not going to take this any more," the inmate said.

He added: "We're not going to give up. ... If we die, we die."

The scene was described by an announcer for Portsmouth radio station WPAY.

The inmate walked from the cellblock into the prison yard with the hostage, whose head was covered with a sheet. The inmate carried a bullhorn.

The inmate said in his broadcast: "They try to make this a racial issue. It is not a racial issue. Black and white alike have joined hands at SOCF and have become one strong unit."

Activity at the prison increased after the dead guard was found. Six military trucks, five of them carrying troops; 29 military personnel vehicles; and 20 armed officers entered the grounds.

hospital in Portsmouth, about 10 miles south of Lucasville, where he was reported in stable condition.

The broadcast apparently had been set up during negotiations between the inmates and prison officials, who have been in sporadic contact since the standoff began.

Seven inmates have died, six of them beaten to death on the first day of rioting. The cause of death of the seventh hasn't been released.

The six inmates beaten to death were white; the seventh inmate victim was black. Prison officials have said there was conflicting information on whether the riot was racially motivated.

Clark walked out of the prison without assistance after the broadcast, leaving six hostages behind. He was taken to a

Clinton wants compromise on smaller jobs bill

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Senate leaders of both parties are searching for a compromise on President Clinton's stalled $16.3 billion jobs bill, now that the president says he will shrink the measure to get it through Congress.

Clinton asked the two sides Thursday to begin talks aimed at fashioning a deal. Based on his remarks and earlier offers from Republicans, money for unemployment benefits, transportation projects, childhood immunization and summer jobs seemed likeliest to survive, along with a new proposal the president made for hiring extra police officers.

Although Clinton offered compromise, he couldn't resist putting pressure on Republicans who have blocked the bill from coming to a Senate vote.

"I have done my part now to end the gridlock," he said in Rose Garden remarks aimed at the GOP. "I ask you to do yours."

"I don't call it gridlock," Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said earlier in the day. "I just think we have a good debate."

Even as Clinton spoke, the measure's prospects became more bleak. Democratic Sens. Russell Feingold and Herbert Kohl of Wisconsin said they would oppose the package unless it was accompanied by budget cuts.

Dole and Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, both out of town during Congress' two-week Easter recess, hoped to talk quickly by telephone.

But in New Hampshire earlier Thursday, Dole repeated GOP complaints that most of the package is not urgent and should be paid for by equal slashes in other programs. Democrats want to finance it by borrowing, which drives up the budget deficit.

"If it isn't an emergency, then we ought to pay for it or we shouldn't spend it in the first place," Dole told business leaders in Manchester, N.H.

The Senate will vote Tuesday on whether to cut off the Republican filibuster that has halted work on the bill. Three earlier attempts failed when the Senate's 43 Republicans held their ranks. Sixty votes are needed in the 100-member Senate to end the delays.

Although Clinton mentioned no figures, a senior administration official speaking on condition of anonymity said the president was talking about "a substantial amount" of cuts — in the billions of dollars.

The bill contains $16.3 billion in new spending for everything from sewer projects to upgrading veterans' cemeteries, plus an additional $3.2 billion for road-building to be taken from the Highway Trust Fund financed by gasoline taxes and other revenues.

The administration claims the measure would create more than 200,000 jobs, while helping prevent a reworked recession.

Clinton said he was intent on preserving the extra money the legislation would provide for highways, AIDS treatment, summer jobs and more meat inspectors.

Yet while offering to trim the program, he added a new piece Republicans might find hard to resist: $200 million for communities to train and hire up to 10,000 more police officers.

"So I ask the people in the Senate who have blocked the jobs bill, let's work together," the president said. "I can accept a reduced package if you will increase your commitment to safe streets."

Republicans and Democrats agree that under any circumstances, the $4 billion in the bill for jobless benefits should be approved and paid for with borrowed money.

Dole has talked about also accepting money for road and mass transit projects, immunizations and summer jobs. But he has said he wants those items paid for — a concession Democrats have yet to make.

County celebrates feasts of feasts

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The third week in April will become something of a feast of feasts as the county celebrates four observances.

During the week of the 17th through the 24th, Seminole County commissioners will observe "National County Government Week" with a series of programs, tours and mock county commission for Hamilton Elementary students.

During the week of the 18th through the 24th, commissioners will also thank their hundreds of volunteers who serve on appointed committees and panels and work in such unsung capacities as Guardian Ad Litem. A reception will be held for volunteers on April 20, which commissioners have designated "Volunteer Appreciation Day."

April 22 is national "Earth Day" where the environmentally conscious strive to make everyone more aware of their environment. The county will do its part with tours of the new $10 million garbage transfer station near Five Points and a "Garbage IQ Quiz" for school children.

And though that wasn't enough, the whole week culminates on Saturday, April 25, the county's 80th year of creation. It was on that date in 1913 that Gov. Park Trammell signed the county into existence by carving off a chunk of the the northeast corner of Orange County. The county will actually celebrate the county's birthday at the volunteer reception by carving a cake.

The public can learn more about their county through a series of tours through county facilities from Monday, April 19 to Friday, the 23rd. Tours of the Sanford Health Clinic, Red Bug Park, Sheriff's Office, Central Transfer Station, Five Points Operations Complex, Greenwood Lakes wastewater plant and Casselberry Health Clinic will be offered at various times throughout the week.

Call 328-5838 for times and information.

The county will also have a booth at Altamonte Mall from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. April 22 and 23. Residents may register to vote and learn more about recycling and other county services.

Greyhounds move out to half-game advantage

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD — Now it's Lyman's turn.

Following the Greyhounds' 5-3 win over the Lake Brantley Patriots and Lake Howell's 4-0 upset of Oviedo Thursday afternoon, Lyman moved into first place in the Seminole Athletic Conference girls' softball standings.

The Greyhounds (10-5 overall, 6-2 in the conference) have a half-game lead over Oviedo and Lake Mary (both 5-2 in the SAC). Rounding out the standings are Lake Brantley (4-4), Lake Howell (3-5), and Seminole (0-8).

Either Oviedo or Lake Mary will join Lyman in first place after the two schools play a make-up game this afternoon at 3:45 p.m. at the Lake Mary Sports Complex.

Lyman will host DeLand in a 4 p.m. non-conference game this afternoon. Lake Brantley will play again at home next Monday night against Spruce Creek.

On Thursday, the Greyhounds came out swinging, scoring two runs in the first inning and three more in the second. While Lyman went on to collect 15 hits, the Greyhounds couldn't push across any more runs.

"They came out hitting," said Lyman coach Christy Tibbitts of her squad. "That's the first time this season we've had over 11 hits. We came out hitting and kept hitting. We couldn't get a runner past second base after the second inning, but the girls kept hitting.

"Actually, I think it our defense is what kept us in control of the game."

The Greyhounds played an errorless game to shut out the Patriots through five innings before Lake Brantley finally broke through with three runs in the sixth inning.

In the Lyman half of the first inning, Jodite Beland, Jennifer Forston, and Jamie Beland hit consecutive singles to load the bases. Maggie Majewski then singled to score Jodi Beland. After Stacey Ritter hit into fielder's choice, forcing Forston at home, Carolyn Crager drew a walk to bring in Jamie Beland.

Lyman's second inning was much like its first as Jill Mendelsohn, Wendy Acey, and Michelle Bishop strung together three consecutive singles. The only difference was that Bishop's hit was misplayed by Maggie Majewski (No. 2, hitting) was 3-for-3 with a run batted in Thursday afternoon to lead a 15-hit Lyman attack that carried the Greyhounds to a 5-3 win over Lake Brantley in a key Seminole Athletic Conference contest.

Leman keys Hawk upset of Oviedo

From Staff Reports

WINTER PARK — Tina Leman drove in three runs to support the four-hit pitching of Keri Shahinian as the Lake Howell Silver Hawks shut out the Oviedo Lions 4-0 Thursday afternoon in a Seminole Athletic Conference softball game.

Lake Howell's win knocks Oviedo (10-8 overall, 5-2 in the SAC) out of first place in the conference. Going into their game with Lake Mary this afternoon at the Lake Mary Sports Complex, the Lions trail Lyman by a half-game.

Despite the outcome, Oviedo coach Greg Register was upbeat concerning his team's performance.

"It was a fun game," said Register. "We had runners on base in almost every inning. We had runners on first and third base three different times. We were just a base hit or two from tying it up."

"Lake Howell is a good team. They're young, but Coach (Jo) Luciano does a good job with them. You have to play well against Lake Howell. They'll never give you a game."

Michelle Allen (crossing plate) and Tiffany Deeb (rounding third) both scored on Diane Duber's inside-the-park home run during Lake Mary's 20-0 romp over Seminole Thursday afternoon at the Lake Mary Sports Complex. For Duber, it was her third home run of the week and her 10th of the season.

Orioles come on late, beat Cardinals, weather

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The Security National Bank Orioles overcame itself, the weather and the American Legion Cardinals to win its third straight game in Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League action at a Roy Holler Field Thursday night.

The Cardinals took a 7-0 lead into the bottom of the fourth inning and still led 7-6 going into the bottom of the fifth inning.

But with time running out and the weather moving in, the Orioles took advantage of wildness on the part of the Cardinals pitchers to score nine runs and then held off a sixth inning rally by the Cardinals to post a 15-10 triumph.

The scheduled late game between the First Union Bank A's and the Monroe Harbour Pirates was rained out and will be made up later in the season if the game has a bearing on the standings.

The victory moved the Orioles solidly into fourth place in the

The Sunniland Corporation Red Sox and D.A.V. (Disabled American Veterans) Royals are tied for the lead in the American Division. Completing the standings are The Fisher, Laurence & Deen Blue Jays (4-4), the Orioles (3-5) and the A's (0-7).

Rahal, team out to gain respect in Grand Prix of Long Beach

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Motorsports Writer

LONG BEACH, Calif. — For Bobby Rahal, the continuing development of the new Rahal-Hogan team is simply a matter of logical steps.

"It's like last year when we formed our own team," said Rahal, who formed a partnership a year ago with St. Louis businessman Carl Hogan. "We're doing this to control our own destiny."

The gamble in 1992 was a successful one, with the new Rahal-Hogan team coming up champions — Rahal's third Indy car PPG Cup title and first since 1987.

But that was just openers for Rahal and Hogan, who dove into truly murky water at the end of the 1992 season by buying out the Truesports Racing team from Barbara Trueman, widow of Jim Trueman, the man who first put Rahal in an Indy car.

The most significant factor in the buyout was that Rahal and Hogan also took over the development of the "Made in America" Truesports car, a project that began in 1991.

Though the car, renamed the RH1, has shown promise, it has run in 35 races and never won. So far this season, Rahal has finished sixth at Surfers Paradise in Australia and a discouraging 22nd — because of severe handling problems — in Phoenix.

"We have a lot to prove," Rahal said. "A lot of people are looking for us to fall on our collective faces. This was always considered a long-term project.

"But we have seen enough of the potential of this car that we're not ready to toss away the season," Rahal added. "Patience is a virtue that we're going to try to keep. This car will win races sooner or later. I only hope it's sooner."

Rahal will get another chance to move to the front this weekend in the Toyota Grand Prix of Long Beach. The Indy cars got onto the downtown street circuit today for practice and the opening round of qualifying, with more of the same on Saturday and the race on Sunday.

Rahal and Hogan, who won the title last year with a Lola chassis and Chevrolet Indy V8-A power, could have put the new Chevy-C power plant into a new Lola and been right on the cutting edge of mass-produced Indy technology.

Instead, they are trying something different — considered a real expensive gamble by many in the sport, although Rahal doesn't see it that way.

"The cost of a Lola today is skyrocketing, and the amount of money that you have to devote to it to make it different from everybody else's Lola is also going up and up," Rahal said. "At this point, the economic reasons for not building your own cars really don't hold true any more."

"For us, it was a question over the long term what looks like the best thing to do," he added. "Is it to go out and buy a new Lola every year and be subject to price increases and God knows what else, really not get anything substantially different? Or do you begin to make the investment for the future?"

Division. Trailing the lead duet are the Sanford Rotary Breakfast Club Expos (3-5), the Cardinals (2-6) and the Pirates (0-7).

Saturday at Ft. Mellon Park's Roy Holler Field, the Cardinals play the Red Sox at 8 a.m.; the A's take on the Blue Jays at 10 a.m.; the Pirates face the Cubs at noon; the Orioles battle the Expos at 2 p.m.; and the Dodgers welcome the Royals at 4 p.m.

The Cardinals took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning on a leadoff double by Adam Dryden and two stolen bases.

The advantage moved to 2-0 in the second as Jermaine Burke was hit by a pitch and courtesy runner Leonard Britt came around to score on a stolen base and a two-base error.

The visitors continued to build the lead in the third inning as Jeremy Rothwell walked, stole second and scored on a single by Terrell Hunt. Hunt then stole second and scored on a single by Mike Arrington, who later scored on an error, making the score 5-0.

Dryden singled and Joe Sondhiem walked and both later scored on wild pitches as the Cardinals pushed the lead to 7-0 in the top of the fourth inning.

But after being held to two hits, two walks and a hit batter over the first three innings, the Orioles finally got the offense going in the bottom of the fourth inning, sending 10 men to the plate and scoring six runs.

Eric Sperry led off with a double and scored on a ground out by Chad Getchell. R.J. Hogien walked and moved over to third on a pair of passed balls, but then was retired trying to score on a wild pitch and it looked like the Orioles threat was over.

However, James Slaughter walked and scored on a throwing error. Thomas Fodrie singled, Josh Skipper walked, Danny Brock lined an RBI single, D.J. Bohannon singled to load the bases, Bradley Locke doubled in two runs, but D.J. Bohannon was retired at the plate to end the inning.

For the first time all night the Cardinals went down in order in the fifth.

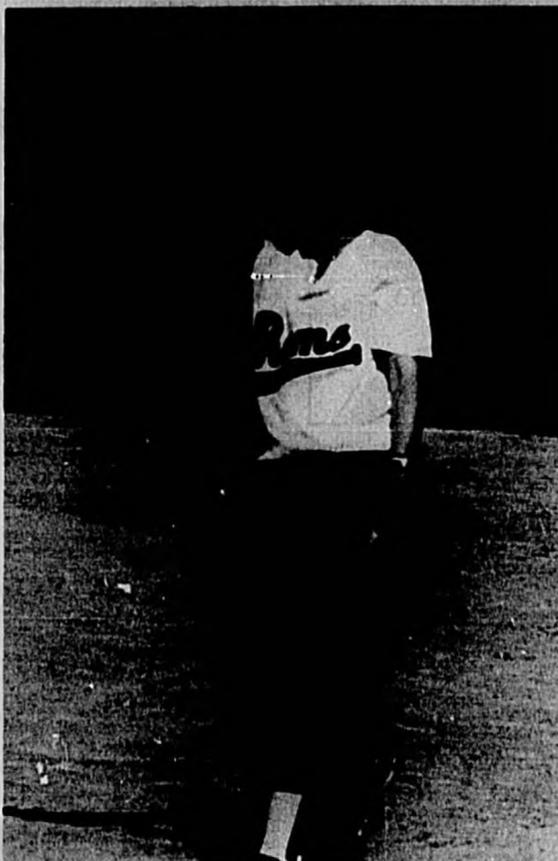

The Orioles then sent 13 batters to the plate in the bottom of the fifth inning and scored nine runs.

Eight walks, a two run double by Sperry and RBI singles by James Bohannon and Danny Brock did the damage.

The Cardinals came up with three runs in the top of the sixth inning, on two walks, a single by Dryden and three errors. Singles by Jeremy Donaldson and Brian Diequez put runners on second and third, but a pop up to the catcher ended the game.

Contributing to the Orioles' 10 hit attack were Danny Brock (double, two singles, two runs, two RBI), Sperry (two doubles, three runs, two RBI), D.J. Bohannon (triple, single, run, RBI), Locke (double, three RBI), Fodrie (single, two runs, RBI), James Bohannon (single, run, RBI), Skipper (two runs, RBI), Getchell (run, RBI), Hogien (two runs) and Slaughter (run).

Doing the damage for the Cardinals were Dryden (double, three singles, three runs), Hunt (single, two runs, RBI), Arrington (single, run, RBI), Donaldson and Diequez (one single each), Britt (two runs) and Sondhiem and Rothwell (one run each).

Jodi Beland then drove in Bishop with a sacrifice fly.

Lake Brantley scored all of its runs with two out in the sixth.

The Silver Hawks exploited a pair of Oviedo fielding errors for their final run in the fifth inning. With one out, Jaimie Iwansyk and Green both reached base on errors. Leman then hit a single to score Iwansyk.

Leman was 3-for-3 with three RBI to lead Lake Howell. Green went 2-for-3 with two doubles and two runs. Bowman was 1-for-3 with a run scored. Britany Scott and Shannon McDowell both were 1-for-3. Iwansyk had a run scored.

Hooters to continue as Allen Jr. sponsor

Associated Press

RALEIGH — Allen Motorsports owner Loy Allen, whose son is a competitor on the ARCA circuit, said the Hooters restaurant chain will continue as the primary sponsor of the team.

Allen also said that Hooters chairman Robert Brooks acted in his company's best interest when it withdrew its sponsorship of the Kulwicki Racing Winston Cup team.

Allen described as absurd charges by car owner Felix Sabates that Hooters executives tried to "bamboozle" Sabates into naming Allen's son, Loy Jr., to drive the Kulwicki cars on the NASCAR tour.

Sabates, who according to a Kulwicki spokesman was named as administrator of Kulwicki Racing, has chosen veteran sportsman driver Jimmy Hensley to drive the Kulwicki cars this month at North Wilkesboro and Martinsville.

Kulwicki and three other men, including Brooks' son, died in a plane crash near Bristol, Tenn., on April 1.

Allen said Wednesday that Brooks told Sabates during a meeting last week that Hooters would remain as the sponsor if Allen Jr., who has no Winston Cup experience, was named to drive the Ford. Allen said Sabates said Allen Jr. was unacceptable because the Kulwicki operation was of championship caliber and Allen Jr. lacked experience in Winston Cup type cars.

Brooks offered to buy Kulwicki Racing, if Allen Jr. drove the car, Allen said.

Sabates owns the cars driven by Kyle Petty and Kenny

Wallace, a Winston Cup rookie who previously competed on the Grand National circuit.

Allen said he and Brooks and other Hooters officials have discussed a Winston Cup sponsorship for Allen Motorsports in the future.

Food safety tips for summer

Remember to keep cold foods cold and hot foods hot

As warmer months are upon us, that means more barbecues, probably more family get togethers and, a greater potential for food poisoning!

Food-borne illnesses such as Salmonella, Shigella and Campylobacter as well as other food poisoning can occur if appropriate food safety measures are not taken. This is especially a problem during the warmer months of the year.

Most of these illnesses are transmitted by a method called cross-contamination. This means that a hazardous item such as raw poultry, meat or eggs are handled with bare hands, then the organisms are transmitted to clean items such as a sandwich or a baby bottle. Handwashing may have been utilized after handling the hazardous food, but may not have been adequate to remove the harmful organisms.

There are several safety precautions to follow in food preparation.

1. Food handwashing prior to food preparation, and after handling raw meats and eggs. Use liquid soap and lots of warm water. Use a nail brush if you have long fingernails.

2. Thaw meats in the bottom of the refrigerator to prevent liquids from draining

CONSUMER FOCUS

on other food items.

3. Keep all food preparation areas clean. Use plastic cutting boards and wash with hot water after use. Prepare vegetables prior to handling raw meats.

4. Prepare your child's bottles or finger foods prior to handling raw meats.

5. Internal temperatures of cold foods should be maintained at 40 degrees or below.

6. High food temperatures 160-212 degrees reached in boiling, baking, frying and roasting kill most bacteria that causes foodborne illness. Reheating to 165 degrees will kill bacteria that may have grown during storage.

7. Prompt refrigeration after meals in shallow containers will retard most bacteria growth, but not all types.

Remember the Four Rules for Safe Food

1. Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold.
  2. Keep food covered.
  3. Leave food at room temperature a maximum of two hours.
  4. When in doubt, throw it out.
- Remember! Food safety is everyone's concern.

Search is on for outstanding mom

It's that time of year again when we at the Sanford Herald are searching for our annual outstanding mom. We are asking the assistance of readers to help us find this special woman.

Who is your outstanding mom? She doesn't have to be your mother, but any mother in north Seminole County is eligible in the competition.

Three winners will be selected and stories and photos about them and their families will be published in the Herald on Mother's Day.

Please follow the instructions carefully. Write us a letter, telling us why your candidate for mom is so outstanding. At the top of the page, write the mom's name, her address and her day and evening telephone numbers. At the bottom of the letter, write your name, and age if under 18, your address and day and evening telephone numbers. Also, let us know the relation of this person to you (sister, neighbor etc.) Letters must be postmarked no later than April 27 or be in the Herald office by April 29.

State laws rule contact lens prescriptions

DEAR ABBY: Before your readers rack up attorney's fees trying to get their contact lens prescriptions (your March 5, 1993 column), they need to find out if their state requires optometrists to release the prescription.

Just 13 states do so, and then only at the patient's request. Twelve of those 13 states say expired prescriptions cannot be released. Expiration dates vary from six months to two years. Also, eight of the 13 states say the contact lens prescription cannot be released until after a fitting period with follow-up visits. The number of visits varies by state from one to three.

There is a federal regulation requiring eye doctors to give patients a copy of their eyeglass prescriptions at the time they are written. But contact lens prescriptions are different.

Because contact lenses touch the eye, the optometrist must be certain the lens fits perfectly. Otherwise, serious eye health problems can develop. Equally important, the optometrist must be sure the patient is caring for his or her lenses properly. Studies show that the majority of eye health-care problems such as infections of the cornea, are due to improper lens care or failure to follow wearing schedules. This is why the follow-up visits are so important.

Your readers can find out their state's law on releasing the contact lens prescription from their state board of optometry, located in the state capital. They can get the state board's address and phone number from the local office of their state representative or state senator.

Before making an appointment for an examination for contact lenses, consumers should ask about the cost of replacement and spare lenses. They should be a fraction of the initial cost, which includes examination fees and follow-up visits.

JAMES C. LEADINGHAM, O.D., PRESIDENT, AMERICAN OPTOMETRIC ASSOCIATION
DEAR DR. LEADINGHAM: My apologies for rushing to judgment without having researched the subject. It may please you to know that I heard from optometrists from every state in the union...and several from Canada.

DEAR ABBY: Three weeks

ADVICE

ago, my boyfriend surprised me with a diamond ring and asked me to marry him. We have been going together for more than a year. We are not teen-agers. I am 35 and he is 39. I have been telling all my friends and relatives and showing off my beautiful ring.

Last week, I had reason to believe the diamond he gave me wasn't real. When I confronted him, he insisted that it was a real diamond, and he even told me the name of the jewelry store where he had bought it. I have since found out that no such jewelry store exists. To make a long story short, he finally told me that the diamond isn't real.

but the sentiment behind it was. I feel betrayed and humiliated. I would have been happy to wait until he could have bought me a real diamond. He is not broke. He could have bought me a ring on the layaway plan.

I truly believe that if I hadn't found out the ring was a fake, he never would have told me. This has put a strain on our relationship. Am I wrong to have lost faith in him? Or should I forget about it and try to pick up where we left off? What would you do, Abby?

NO CITY, PLEASE
DEAR NO CITY: I would return the ring and say goodbye. There is no misery like being married to a man (or woman) you can't trust.

DEAR ABBY: I have been told there is an organization where people can send old, soiled and torn American flags, and they will be disposed of properly.

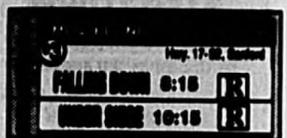

I wasn't sure of the name of the organization, so I wrote a letter to the Veterans of Foreign Wars — the chapter nearest me — and I never received a reply.

Do you know if there is such an organization?

PATRIOTIC IN CAMDEN, M A I N E

DEAR PATRIOTIC: Yes, there is such an organization. Contact your local chapter of The American Legion. It will accept soiled and damaged American flags and dispose of them in a dignified, respectful ceremony. And thank you for caring enough about "Old Glory" to make sure she is disposed of properly.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69408, Los Angeles, Calif. 90068. All correspondence is confidential.)

Risks of weed, a couple of beers are 'big deals'

DEAR MARY: What's the big deal about smoking a little weed to relax or having a couple beers at a party on Friday night? I really get sick of all the adults getting crazy when they find out there was beer at a party where teenagers were, but what in the heck were they drinking at the lounge or club at the same time? Yeah, I know it's illegal for teenagers to drink, but it's also illegal to drive over 55 mph on I-4 in a lot of places around here. Nobody pays attention to either law. I'm telling you right now — everybody tries beer, wine coolers, and some drugs. I don't see what's so terrible as long as you don't get too involved.

HONEST TEEN
DEAR HONEST: One thing I will absolutely agree with you on is that if we adults think that our kids will listen to our advice and ignore our example we are crazy.

However, I very much disagree with the "everybody's doing it" theme. If everyone you know is using recreationally, you are in the wrong group and heading for trouble. Let's look at a few ways "recreational use" can hurt you.

The death rate has dropped for every age group during every decade during this century with one glaring exception, the death rate for people between the ages of 15 to 24 has "risen" over the past 20 years. More than half of all the traffic crashes which kill about 50,000 people a year are related to alcohol or other drugs. About half of these fatal accidents involve drivers aged 16 to 24. Alcohol and other drug use is also linked to another tragedy: the number of teens who attempt suicide in this country exceeds 500,000 per year. A third danger involved with "recreational" use is sexual promiscuity. The risk here has been soaring due to the HIV virus, as well as STDs, abortion and unwanted pregnancies.

DRUG COUNSELOR

Only you can decide what you will do, but in my opinion these risks are "big deals" to say the least.

(Mary Balk holds a master's degree in counseling and is a certified Addiction Prevention professional and counselor with the Drug Prevention Office of the Seminole County School District. Write to her in care of the Herald at 200 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771.)

"...Hope For A Tree"

A tree is reassuring. A tree is a survivor ... withstanding tempestuous winds ... towering over time, branches spiraling in space.

Though assaulted by the elements, the tree will survive, providing the roots remain strong, forging through fertile soil, bringing life to the entire length of its structure. God made provisions for the tree.

Likewise, God made provisions for our survival. If our roots are founded in His Word, we too shall tower over life's tempests. Romans 11:16 assures us, "... if the root is holy, so are the branches."

Root your life in God as you worship each Sabbath. There is hope for a tree. There is hope for you.

Scriptures selected by the American Bible Society Copyright 1983, Koster-Williams Newspaper Services, P.O. Box 8002, Charlottesville, VA 22906

"For there is hope for a tree, if it be cut down, that it will sprout again, though its roots grow old in the earth, at the sound of water it will bud and bring forth fruit."

An Easter sunrise

The observance of the resurrection of Jesus Christ was celebrated throughout the area as Holy Week came to an end on Easter Sunday. Sanford residents gathered at Centennial Park, top left, to hear musical performances and scripture readings by a number of local churches. Linda, age 3, and Caryn Schultz, right, Robin Hill and Amanda Michalowski, age 4, stood in the early morning dew as the sun beamed through the fog during the service. Early risers, bottom right, also gathered at the Lake Mary Amphitheater. The service was hosted by the Christian Fellowship Church, U.C.C.

Wilson named Stetson Chaplain of the Year

Stetson University honored three Florida Baptist ministers and a chaplain during its 23rd annual Baptist Appreciation Luncheon this month.

Selected as 1993 Ministers and Chaplain of the Year were: the Rev. Dr. Marshall Wilson, senior chaplain of the Orange County Jail Ministry, Altamonte Springs; the Rev. Dr. Robert Hetherington, Fifth Street Baptist Church, Key West; the Rev. James W. McCall, First Baptist Church, Sebring; and the Rev. Dr. Jack A. Snell, Hendricks Avenue Baptist Church, Jacksonville.

Wilson has been a chaplain since 1978, and joined the Orange County Jail Ministry in Orlando in 1981. He was named senior chaplain in 1985 and serves as secretary of the OCJM Administrative Board. He is the former chair of the Department of Education and former director of the graduate program in education at Rollins College in Winter park.

A graduate of Carson-Newman College in Tennessee, he attended Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary and received his master's degree and doctorate in education from Duke University.

He is a member of the advisory board for the Christian Ex-offender Employment Development Service in Orlando, is a former coordinator of lay renewal weekends for the Florida Baptist Convention, and is active in First Baptist Church, Orlando.
