Library Volunteer Program To Begin Soon

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Despite her initial reluctance to develop a volunteer program for Seminole County's libraries, County Librarian Jean Rhein says she will begin the program within two weeks.

She said training for the 12 volunteer positions in the six-month pilot program in the Seminole County libraries will begin Tuesday and the volunteers will begin performing actual library duties on July 11.

The volunteer program is being established at the direction of county commissioners who want to cut costs in the library system. Commissioners have said libraries are one area which can be trimmed to help meet a projected $1.2 million budget deficit.

The libraries have been on reduced hours since May to cut costs. The libraries are closed on weekends and open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday and Friday. Hours for the remainder of the week are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Rhein objected to the commission directive but has established the positions which will be filled by volunteers. The program will include five circulation clerks, five pages, one clerk/typist and one processing aide.

The volunteers will work in the Sanford branch library and the main library in Casselberry. Their duties will include filing books, enforcing library rules, typing overdue book notices, miscellaneous clerical duties and reading books to be placed on the shelves. By using volunteers for some of those activities currently handled by library staff, the library will be able to expand its hours of service.

Meanwhile, merchants at the Seminole Plaza, adjacent to the Casselberry library, have protested the closing of the library on Saturday. The 25 merchants who signed the petition say they want the library reopened on Saturdays.

"Saturday has traditionally been the busiest day of the week, both for the retail trade and library patrons. We understand that under current budget cuts, some services have to be curtailed. We think, however, other alternatives could be found to affect the savings needed without the closing on Saturday," the petition says.

The concern with budget-cutting in the library division has led to a delay in issuing $7 million in library construction bonds approved by voters last year. The bonds were scheduled to be issued in March but because of county fears of possible deficits, the bond issue was delayed.

The Seminole County Library Advisory Board has recommended a plan to split the bond issue and proceed with part of the construction program.

That plan calls for $4 million of the bonds to be issued immediately and the funds to be used to finance construction of an expansion at the Sanford branch library and land acquisition and construction of branch libraries in the Forest City and Oviedo areas along with land acquisition for new libraries in the Casselberry and Lake Howell-Tuskawilla areas.

The remaining $3 million worth of bonds would be sold prior to Oct. 5, 1988. That bond issue would finance construction of the Casselberry and Lake Howell-Tuskawilla libraries along with land acquisition and construction of a library in Lake Mary.

County commissioners agreed last week to hold a work session on the library bond issue.

County Cuts Out New Jobs

In what commissioner Robert Sturm called "a hatchet job," Seminole County commissioners have virtually eliminated new personnel from the fiscal 1983-84 budget.

Commissioners Barbara Christensen, Sandra Glenn and Robert G. "Bud" Feather agreed to a budget package which eliminates all but essential new personnel and cuts some existing jobs.

The board eliminated five vacant jobs in the lowest priority rating. The five positions are contracts coordinator in the Purchasing Department; urban horticulturalist in the Extension office; inventory controller and maintenance worker/program leader in the Division of Facilities and Recreation and chief of surveys in the Public Works Department.

But that may not be the end of cuts to existing jobs. Another 44 jobs are in the next highest priority ranking and 16 of those positions are currently vacant.

Mrs. Christensen said she wants to look at those 44 jobs to see if any more can be cut. Mrs. Christensen has said in recent months that several divisions have too many managerial jobs.

In other personnel actions, the board decided to review in five months a title change for their secretaries and secretaries to the county administrator and his assistant. The title change to administrative aide would increase their salaries by a total of $8,820.

The starting salary for the seven positions would jump from the current $11,602 to $13,123.

Also rejected were a job classification change and a $1,170 pay raise for Support Services Manager Richard Strom; the purchase of 31 telephones for the County Services Building at a cost of $18,910; the upgrading of a word processor in the Office of Management and Budget; a reclassification for the secretary in the Fleet Management office; a small engine mechanic and scheduler/service writer for Fleet Management; a coordinator of development review in the Land Management Division and a reorganization in the Public Works Department.

Several items were initially approved but then deleted from the budget when Mrs. Christensen, Feather and Mrs. Glenn voted to drop the whole package of non-essential personnel actions.

Among those which were cut in that action included a reclassification of senior budget aide to management and budget technician in the Office of Management and Budget; a $3,008 raise for Fleet Manager Frank Killgore; reclassification of administrative assistant library assistant and public service coordinator in the Library Division; a librarian and secretary for the Library Division; upgrading the 4-H program assistant's job in the Extension office, account clerk, secretary and permit coordinator in Public Works.

Buckle Up Youngsters Today

Scott Myers, 2-year-old son of Robert and Lucille Myers of Sanford, looks right at home in his car seat. Barbara Pfluke, owner of the Gingerbread House Child Care Center in Sanford, gets Scott ready in his seat every afternoon for his father who comes by to take the youngster home. Scott's mother brings Scott to the day care center each day in the car seat. The Myers already are in the habit of having to develop as Florida's new child restraint law goes into effect today. The law requires that children up to age 3 be in a child's restraint chair while in a motor vehicle and that children aged 3 to 5 be restrained in a seat belt.

Motorcyclist Killed

A 22-year-old Sanford man was killed early today when he lost control of a motorcycle he was riding and was thrown against a cement culvert off U.S. Highway 17-92.

Barton Lee Fouts, 79 Shenandoah Apartments, was pronounced dead at the scene at 2:18 a.m. today by Seminole County assistant medical examiner Dr. Sarah Irgang.

According to Sanford police, Fouts was riding southbound on U.S. 17-92. He lost control of the 1982 motorcycle just north of Lake Mary Boulevard, running off the main portion of the road and traveling approximately 135 feet prior to hitting the culvert in front of Seminole Ford. He was thrown from the vehicle upon impact, police said.

The accident is still under investigation by officer A.J. Colazzo, Sanford police said. No further information was available this morning.

The city recreation department will sponsor games and contests throughout the day such as sack races and a grassed pole competition. A grassed pig contest will be held at 3 p.m. for the more adventurous youths. Sanford Landings will provide its paddle boats in Lake

Carola and proceeds will go to the Fireworks Fund.

The Sanford-Seminole Jaycees will have a dunk tank and other local organizations will sponsor various food concessions from hot dogs to "soul food" and activities such as the Moon Walk and fish pond. The Seminole High School Cheerleaders will have a booth serving ice cream, doughnuts and coffee.

The General Sanford Museum and Library adjacent to the park will be open and the new exhibit, "The Timucuan Trace," featuring an ancient Indian dugout canoe, will be free to the public.

The police urge caution this weekend, especially on highways. See Page 8A.

The Lake Mary CIA (Civic Improvement Association) will sponsor a Fourth of July celebration Monday beginning at noon in Crystal Lake Park. Rear Admiral Tyler Dedman will be the speaker at the patriotic ceremony that will kick-off the afternoon of activities which will include an "unofficial" groundbreaking for the new community building.

Advanced tickets are being sold for the dinner which will include barbecued chicken, corn on the cob and baked beans. Cold drinks will be sold. There will be judging of homemade goodies such as cakes, pies, cookies, jellies and jams, after which they will be sold.

The Paragators precision skydiving team of Euatla is tentatively scheduled to make a parachute jump at 3 p.m., but the time may be changed subject to weather.

Other entertainment and children's games will take place throughout the afternoon. The lake will also be open for swimming.

There will be games such as egg toss, sack race, balloon games, and sponge toss and clown make-up by Clowns of America.

Scheduled to perform at 1 p.m. are the dancers from Betty Vacarro School of Dance; at 2 p.m., the Dixieland Cloggers; at 4:30 p.m., belly dancers; and Michael Evans, singer and guitarist. There will be a watermelon eating contest at 5 p.m.

At 5:15 p.m., the festivities will move to the parking lot in front of Cafe Sorrento for a 60s dance.

The city of Altamonte Springs and radio station WDIZ-100FM will co-host a Fourth of July celebration in the Crane's Roost basin at the west end of the Altamonte

Mall parking lot that will combine music and a $7,000 fireworks display.

The 21-piece Altamonte Springs Jazz Ensemble will present a concert beginning at 7 p.m. with both pop and patriotic music. They will also play for 30 minutes following the fireworks which are scheduled to begin at 9 p.m.

For those with portables or car radios, WDIZ will attempt to choreograph music with the fireworks and broadcast a musical background during the show.

Bill James, city recreation director, said a fireworks replica of Old Glory will be flown in by helicopter as part of the grand finale.

James said that money for the fireworks was raised entirely from voluntary contributions. He said in the past, prior to the Altamonte-South Seminole Jaycees taking over the fireworks show for several years, the city had been involved in putting it on, and has now taken it over again. "We would like to make it an annual event, adding to it each year," James said.

IN BRIEF

The FBI Is Now On The Purlined Papers Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the controversy intensifying over how President Reagan's 1980 campaign got Jimmy Carter's briefing papers, the FBI says it has entered the investigation to find out who obtained the documents.

Reagan, when asked if he would apologize to Carter over the incident, said, "I haven't done anything to apologize for."

The FBI disclosed Thursday it joined the investigation at the request of the Justice Department, which has been reviewing hundreds of pages of papers since the White House turned them over earlier this week.

Reagan's alleged use of Carter papers surfaced in a book by Time magazine correspondent Laurence Barrett, who wrote that a briefing book prepared for Carter's climactic Oct. 28 televised debate with Reagan apparently was slipped to Reagan's campaign by a "mole."

Whistle Blower Vindicated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today vindicated a Wall Street analyst who uncovered one of the biggest business frauds in history, ruling 6-3 he did not deserve to be punished for tipping stockholders about the scandal.

The justices ruled the Securities and Exchange Commission was wrong to censure Raymond Dirks for alerting certain investors in time for some to sell their stock before news of the $2 billion fraud toppled the Equity Funding Corp. insurance holding company.

In an important decision for the entire securities industry, the justices found that strict rules against buying or selling stock based on "inside tips" do not prohibit securities analysts from alerting investors to all information they obtain from company insiders.

Boat Ramps Crumbling

Boaters planning to use ramps at either of Seminole County's Lake Monroe boat launching areas on U.S. Highway 17-92 north of Sanford may experience delays in getting their boats into the water.

Dan Peters of the county's Facilities, Parks and Recreation Division said today that ramps at the two areas are in disrepair.

He said concrete has washed out of two ramps at the facilities. Only one boat can be launched at a time, he said, rather than three or four which can be launched under normal circumstances. Peters said boaters may have a long wait to get their craft in the water.

Graham Vetoes $2 Billion School Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham formally vetoed the $2 billion primary state appropriation for public schools late Thursday night, but he accepted most of the rest of an $11.5 billion, 1983-84 budget.

Graham acted only a few minutes before midnight, the beginning of state government's new fiscal year and the effective date for the huge spending plan.

He had announced earlier Thursday he was vetoing a "woefully inadequate" public school budget and calling another special session to try to get tax increases and school improvements.

Graham noted in his formal veto message that money for criminal justice was inadequate as well as the appropriations for the schools, although he did not veto criminal justice funding.

He said he may try to get supplemental appropriations for the state's attorneys and the prison system during the special session, but after an acceptable education budget has been worked out.

Overall, the rest of the budget is fairly reasonable, the governor said.

"The Legislature has done a creditable job of funding practically every area of governmental operations except education and criminal justice," Graham wrote in his veto message.

He vetoed $54 million in what is called "categorical" public school funding. In addition to the $1.99 billion basic appropriation. The bulk of the vetoed categorical money was $43 million to reimburse school districts for losses from the $25,000 homestead exemption. The $43 million isn't nearly enough to cover the losses, he said.

He rejected a couple of dozen appropriations that had nothing to do with the public schools. The vetoed items included $2 million for university quality improvement, including pay raises for faculty at the University of Florida and Florida State University law schools, noting the Legislature ignored the Board of Regents' decision to concentrate quality improvement money on undergraduate programs.

Graham also vetoed projects important to both House Speaker Lee Moffitt and Senate President Curtis Peterson — $150,000 for the Miss Teenage America Pageant in Lakeland, Peterson's hometown; and several special appropriations for the University of South Florida in Tampa, Moffitt's hometown.

He rejected $500,000 to help put on the Miami Grand Prix auto race.

Graham said when announcing his public schools veto Thursday he will put together a special taxes and education enhancement package to offer to legislators as an alternative.

The plan, to be released next week, is partly in response to claims by legislators that one reason he didn't get tax increases during the just-completed regular and special sessions was that he didn't have a specific proposal to offer.

Developer's Plea For Freedom Denied By Judge

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — A federal judge has denied a petition by attorneys asking that Canadian land developer Sidney Jaffe be released from prison on the grounds his return to Florida from Canada by two bounty hunters violated the U.S.-Canadian Extradition Treaty.

U.S. District Court Judge Howell W. Melton thus accepted the findings of U.S. Magistrate Harvey Schlesinger, who found that Jaffe had not yet exhausted all of his state appeals in the matter.

Jaffe's appeal of his conviction is pending in Florida's 5th District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach.

"State judges are as competent as federal judges to insure that federal rights are protected," Schlesinger wrote in his opinion, referring to the treaty question. "State judges are sensitive to federal rights."

Jaffe, 58, failed to appear for his May 1981 trial on charges he violated Florida's Uniform Land Sales Act. Before a request for extradition could be forwarded to the U.S. State Department, bounty hunters hired by an Orlando bonding agency forcibly returned Jaffe from Toronto, Canada.

Jaffe eventually was convicted of 27 counts of violating the land sales law, and sentenced to 35 years in prison. He currently is confined at the Avon Park Correctional Institution near Tampa.

Earlier this week, the Canadian government filed its own motion in Jacksonville federal court, asking for Jaffe's immediate release and return to Canada. The Canadian petition argued that Florida officials colluded with the bonding firm to bring about Jaffe's return.

A hearing on that motion has not been held. In the meantime, the bounty hunters, Timm Johnsen, of Orlando, and Daniel Kear, of Fairfax County, Va. have been extradited to Canada, where they face kidnapping charges.

Two Arrested In Massive Gun Theft

By Diane Patryk
Herald Staff Writer

If you recently bought a gun at a reasonable price from someone in a bar, Seminole County sheriff's investigators say chances are its stolen property.

Persons who bought such guns anytime after May 31 are being asked to have their serial numbers checked by the sheriff's department, said sheriff's spokesman John Spolski.

The reason, a massive gun theft which occurred in Seminole County on May 31 at the Public Storage rental units, 2620 N. Semoran Blvd., Winter Park.

In that heist, 69 guns valued at $29,000 were taken.

A few days ago, information gathered by investigator Jason Pauka indicated the guns were being sold in surrounding counties, Spolski said.

He said after an individual attempted to sell 18 of the guns, Pauka was able to arrange a "sting reverse buy" situation which resulted in the arrest of two men.

"We started to get information about the sales about three days ago," Spolski said. "From that information we were able to go undercover and attempt to buy some of the guns."

According to Orange County reports, detectives went to an unidentified gun dealership and witnessed the sale of 20 of the stolen guns. Information reportedly came from a gun dealer who was approached by a customer who wanted to sell a large quantity of guns.

Spolski said arrested were Kevin Barry MacArthur, 22, of 3095 Crane Strand, Orlando, and Thomas Eugene Campbell, 21, of 305 Balfour Drive, Winter Park. They are being held at the Orange County jail charged with dealing in stolen property. Spolski said they will not get out on bond because Seminole County has put "a hold" on them.

He said Seminole County was today preparing charges against the men. He said they will likely be charged with armed burglary and theft of a firearm. Spolski said each gun involved in a theft is a separate offense so the men could conceivably be charged with 69 separate counts of theft of a firearm.

Spolski said the charge is a felony punishable by up to five years in prison.

Spolski said some of the stolen guns have been discovered as far away as Titusville.

He said it would be prudent for anyone who suspects he or she has a stolen gun to contact the sheriff's office.

"If they do not wish to be identified they may call in the serial number and we will check it out for them anonymously," Spolski said.

IN BRIEF

All Charges Dropped In Racial Flap At Seabreeze

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Volusia County officials have dropped all charges against 66 black students and four ministers jailed for trespassing during a racial disturbance at Seabreeze Senior High School.

Officials have decided not to prosecute the students and ministers involved in the protest, even though 25 to 30 percent of the students had been involved in criminal activity before, said Assistant State Attorney Marvin Clegg.

The students and clergymen picketed the school for three days last month, claiming the administration excluded them from social activities and made it impossible for blacks to be elected to positions of power in student government.

Lifesaving Course To Begin July 13

An advanced lifesaving course for persons 15 years of age or over will be sponsored by the Casselberry Recreation Center July 13 through Aug. 6.

Classes will meet each Wednesday 6-9 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. until noon. The cost is $25.

The course, approved by the American Red Cross, will be held at the Wirz pool on Mark David Boulevard.

Ronald Reagan's Budget Offensive

What a difference a recovery makes. Less than one year ago, Ronald Reagan cast his own fiscal game plan aside and barked out the signals for a record tax hike in August, defense cuts in the fall, and gasoline user fees and a major jobs bill in December. A blitz of tax-and-spend democrats, White House advisers, and wishy-washy GOP leaders in the Senate had the Gipper scrambling for dear life. Now, the president is on the offensive.

In politics, as in football, it's fun to watch a master at work. Ronald Reagan's decision to chuck "the budget process," an institution which enjoys sacred-cow treatment among the Washington establishment, is a bold call — a political bomb, to continue the metaphor. It's a good call, too, precisely because it goes against the conventional political and economic wisdom.

Reagan advisers David Stockman and Martin Feldstein, for example, warned that without a budget resolution, even a bad one, the whole economic recovery might abort. Fiscal stalemate would cause interest rates to rise and the stock market to tumble, they said. Funny how the recovery has actually been picking up this summer just as the budget process had broken down. If the Stockman-Feldstein thesis were right, the economy should have started booming about 1979, when deficits were coasting down. It should have sagged with the president and Congress headed toward budgetary grid-lock, with deficits as far as the eye can see.

Our guess is that while deficits are a bad thing, their role as a cause of today's high interest rates is overrated. A one-point increase in real economic growth for the next two years, for example, chops $46 billion off the 1985 deficit. Yet Feldstein and Stockman have already revised their growth forecast for 1983 alone by two points, and will have to revise still more given fresh evidence of a stronger recovery. Hence, the credit and stock markets place little faith in the deficit projections of Stockman, Feldstein, or the Wizard of Oz deficit beyond more than a year or two.

If the markets are going to trust anything, it will not be yet another congressional spending resolution, the domestic equivalent of a Soviet treaty, but greater resolution from the White House to keep Congress under control. Mr. Reagan's fiscal attack plan is just what the broker ordered, and it fights red ink the right way: with spending restraint and economic growth.

Whatever the economic realities, the president's decision to fight still met with some stiff resistance from his political staff. Jim Baker and Richard Darman both warned that a confrontation strategy could backfire by removing even the fig leaf of fiscal modesty that the budget resolution imposes on congressional spending plans. Joining them was a host of GOP Senators afraid of either losing their seats (Pete Domenici, Charles Percy) or their presidential ambitions (Robert Dole, Howard Baker). Jim Baker, if press reports can be believed, even went behind the president's back in April to encourage Domenici's efforts to pass a "compromise" resolution that cut the Reagan defense increase in half.

Baker reasoned that rejecting the Domenici compromise might lead to a confrontation between the president and the Senate leadership. In a huddle with the president, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger delivered the correct response: So what? The president, it's true, will face some political defections from his own party.

The bottom line is, Ronald Reagan grows stronger with every day of good news about the economy, which is just about every day. He has behind him a solid majority of the people, who know that at $850 billion for 1984, federal spending has not yet been tamed, and that the modest tax relief of 1981 was just that: Modest. In poll after poll, Americans support the idea of still further tax and spending cuts. The drive is on and anyone who tries to stop it is likely to wake up with the Gipper's cleat marks running straight down his back.

Jackson Should Be Candidate

The Rev. Jesse Jackson should launch a presidential candidacy, as there is every sign he is preparing to do. I say this not really knowing Jackson's own political agenda, and certain that I would oppose it if it is the official agenda of the major black spokesmen.

Nor do I have any Machiavellian reasons for hoping for a Jackson candidacy. He might, or might not, hurt Walter Mondale to the benefit of John Glenn. So what? The six Democratic dwarfs so far are going nowhere, and if Teddy Kennedy joins the race again we will have a complete Seven Dwarfs. Whatever his faults might turn out to be the Rev. Jesse Jackson is a compelling speaker, and on policy questions he has a certain unpredictability. The very least that can now be said for his candidacy is that it would add some interest to the Democratic side of the 1984 presidential race.

In 1976, in Kansas City, as the Republican convention was assembling, I tried to interest President Ford's handlers in a striking idea.

Ford was then trailing Jimmy Carter by about 30 points in most polls. He was widely thought to be a bumbler, or, at best, a boring plunger.

I had a political inspiration. Ford's vice presidential candidate should be our ambassador to the Court of St. James's, the former national committeewoman from Texas who had given a great speech at the 1972 Miami convention, the beautiful Anne Armstrong. At one stroke, Jerry Ford would have been transformed from a plunger and a bore into an imaginative trail-blazer. This whole notion went over with the Ford stalwarts like a lead Frisbee. In their collective genius, they electrified the country by nominating Bob Dole, who made history by losing a televised debate to, can you imagine, Walter Mondale.

Would Ford have won with Armstrong? My guess is that he would.

Now Jesse Jackson is not going to gain the Democratic presidential nomination, but how about the second shot on the ticket?

Suppose, running in the Democratic primaries, he comes in third behind Mondale-Glenn, and suppose — out of sheer public boredom with the front-runners and a sense of Jackson's own powers — he breaks out of his black constituency and begins to make inroads elsewhere? Suppose he arrives at the San Francisco convention with a very respectable number of delegates?

Why not Jackson for vice president?

Blacks have held office at the local and state levels for a decade or more. They represent a sizable constituency within the Democratic Party. At some point, a good black candidate is going to run for national office, and why not now?

So far, the Democratic dwarfs are going nowhere. Their collective personalities are bland and predictable, and they have nothing very striking to offer in terms of policy.

If I were a Democratic strategist, I would welcome a Jackson candidacy.

Confiscated Vehicles Losing Value

WASHINGTON — President Reagan made the multi-billion dollar dope traffic his No. 1 law-enforcement priority, so I've been keeping an eye on the results. Sad to report, the administration's great drug crackdown has been found wanting in many respects.

In fact, even when the drug prosecution succeeds, it manages to fail.

That's the ironic story of the millions of dollars' worth of airplanes, boats and automobiles seized from dope smugglers caught in the act. The vehicles are given such aliphoid care in storage that by the time they are auctioned off they bring only a fraction of their original value.

This isn't peanuts we're talking about. From 1979 through 1982, seven law enforcement agencies seized more than 4,500 vehicles having a total appraised value of more than $82 million.

What do you say when you're face to face with an astronaut?

You don't ask if the moon is made of green cheese, which is the only mistake I didn't make.

It was 4 a.m. on the morning 4,000 reporters, newscasters and cameramen streamed into Kennedy Space Center to see the shuttle not land.

At that early hour we all still believed clouds would part and the Challenger would be able to land at 8:29 a.m. We parked our cars near the Vehicle Assembly Building and boarded buses were provided to take us to the landing strip viewing area.

A colleague-friend and I took seats on one bus by windows on opposite sides of the aisle. As the bus filled up a man and a woman took the aisle seats next to us. The man, impeccably dressed, sat next to my friend. I noticed they both had notebooks labeled "ABC". I assumed the man was an anchorman or newscaster of some sort.

Having been up all night, I tuned out the conversation my friend was having and slumped down in the seat, resigned to four more hours of waiting.

Then my friend said, excitedly, "Diane, this is Eugene Cernan. You've heard of him, haven't you?"

I ran through my mind all the newsmen I'd ever heard of.

"No," I said in a tone meant to imply all of the following: So what? Who cares? Don't bother me with trivia, and How can you be impressed by someone who just stands in front of a camera and looks good?

But as the conversation continued and I heard questions about space suits and lift offs, I realized my mistake. I sat up.

"Did you go to the moon?" I asked him, changing from unimpressed to awestruck.

"Yes," he said, expressionless. "How was it up there?" I asked. "Interesting," he said.

It was a conversation sure to go down in history for sheer wit and intelligence.

To enhance the good impression I was making, I asked what must have sounded like an antagonizing question: "Why didn't you all take any women up there to the moon?"

"None were qualified," he said tersely.

I wanted to mention female jet pilot Jerrie Cobb, who was tested for the astronaut program in 1960. She had logged 10,000 hours in the air in all types of aircraft at a time when candidates John Glenn had only 5,000, Scott Carpenter 2,900. Physically and psychologically, Ms. Cobb scored consistently higher than male competitors.

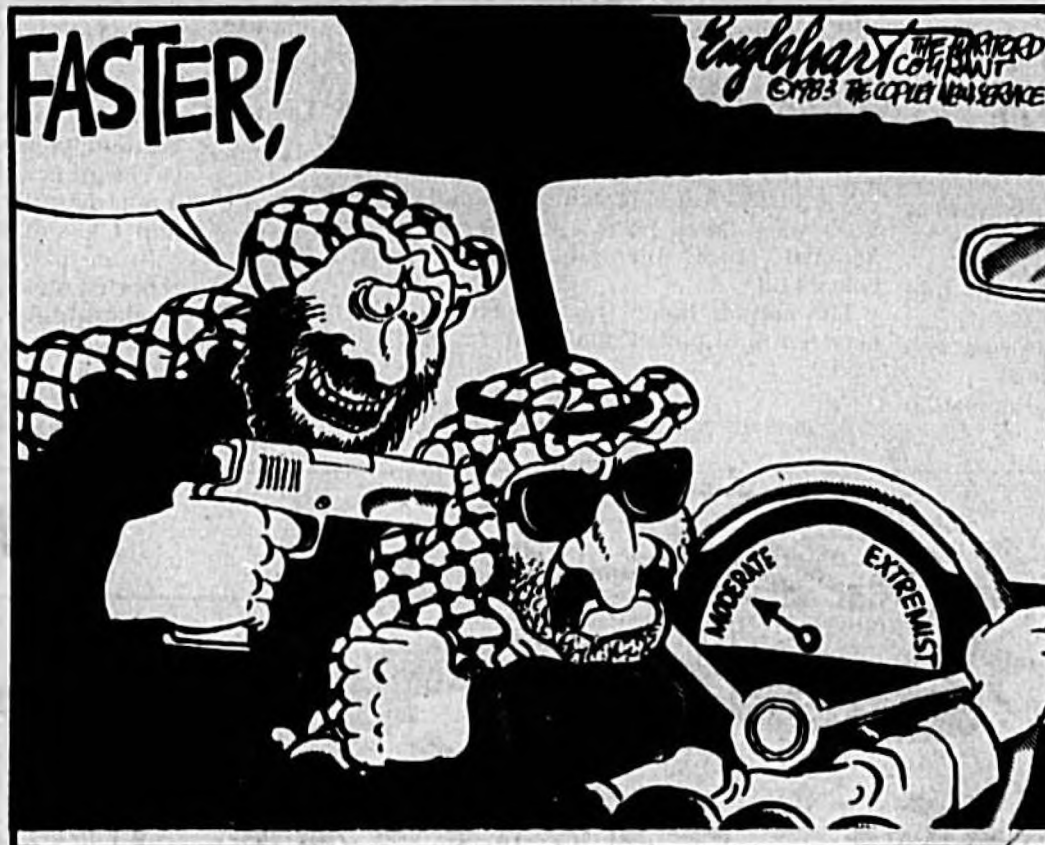

But those facts escaped me. I merely replied: "I don't believe that."

At least Cernan's female companion from ABC told him she thought it was only because NASA couldn't figure out how to provide separate facilities.

Cernan, who took a walk in space as part of the Gemini 9 mission, piloted the lunar module on Apollo 10 and commanded Apollo 17, remained unimpressed with us.

For the record, while newscasters don't impress me, astronauts do. I'm glad he'll never remember me anyway.

And just before our bus got to the landing strip area, it was someone else brilliantly representing the media who said: "Say, is the moon really made of green cheese?"

WILLIAM RUSHER

Great Budget Debate

NEW YORK (NEA) — The broad outlines of a debate over budgetary policy that may well dominate the 1984 presidential campaign are now becoming visible, and thoughtful Democrats are growing less certain every day that they will have the better of the argument.

Starting from the legislative defeats they suffered at President Reagan's hands during the first two years of his administration, the Democrats strengthened their grip on the House of Representatives in last November's off-year elections, and vowed that from now on things would be different. There would be no more reductions in spending, save on the allegedly "bloated" defense budget. Instead, Mr. Reagan would be forced to consent to an increase in taxes — a proposal supported even by certain Republican senators, who were appalled at the deficit projected the next few years.

Well, here we are halfway through 1983, and where are those tax increases? It is evident that Mr. Reagan can hardly wait for Congress to pass them so he can veto them — a knowledge that notably diminishes congressional enthusiasm for the whole idea. Moreover, the Republican senators whose consciences compelled them to break with the president over the size of the deficit are beginning to realize that their Democratic allies don't intend to apply one thin dime of any increased tax revenues to the reduction of that deficit. The money would all be spent on the usual worthy projects, notably higher welfare "benefits" of various sorts.

Mr. Reagan, therefore, seems clearly to be positioning himself as the advocate of low taxes and further cuts in domestic expenditures in the campaign of 1984. That leaves the Democrats to argue in favor of higher taxes and increased domestic spending — and just how popular is that platform likely to be?

The question is not purely rhetorical. There is a school of thought that big spending by government on worthy domestic projects is more popular than you might suppose. Writing in The New York Times the other day, correspondent Steven Weisman referred to "the deeply ambivalent feeling in the electorate that opinion poll after opinion poll has uncovered: the sense that Americans are 'ideologically conservative' and view government spending as wasteful, while remaining 'operationally liberal' and want maintained an array of programs for education, housing, nutrition and the environment."

Actually, Weisman was borrowing terms invented a few years back by that old liberal minneapinger Arthur Schlesinger Jr. to explain why his crowd's pet spending projects weren't actually threatened by the undeniable upsurge of conservative sentiment all over the country. But a close inspection of the relevant opinion polls doesn't really support the theory. A substantial affirmative response can always be obtained by a pollster for a question that describes a noble goal ("Do you believe government should assure comprehensive medical care for everyone?"), provided the pollster prudently stays away from the tender subject of how to pay for it.

What sets up the dilemma for politicians isn't some deep "ambivalence" on the part of the electorate as a whole but a fact pointed out most recently by Congressman Phil Gramm of Texas: The proposed beneficiaries of a federal handout, who personally stand to gain hundreds or even thousands of dollars if the bill passes, will lobby their congressmen a lot harder for it than most taxpayers, who stand to get nicked maybe 50 additional cents apiece, will lobby them against it.

That explains fully 80 percent of what must, on any balanced view, be regarded as downright irrational behavior on the part of the Congress. But a presidential election involves pressures quite different from those that beat down on a congressman when he is summoned to the floor to vote on a particular appropriation bill. In the voting booth on Election Day 1984, most people will think fondly of the candidate who is known to favor, broadly speaking, less spending and lower taxes. Through the haze of battle, that candidate is slowly emerging — and his name is Ronald Reagan.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Mideast Policy Changing?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — State Department sources report that several moderate Arab states are vigorously protesting what they regard as a fundamental change in U.S. Mideast policy. The State Department, however, says that no such change has occurred.

The protests center on one of the thorniest issues in the Mideast: the continued expansion of Israeli settlements on the West Bank. Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government is still approving new settlements — and the moderate Arab states, including Egypt and Saudi Arabia, claim this is a violation of a promise made at the time of the Camp David accords.

A cornerstone of President Reagan's Mideast policy has been that the continued establishment of West Bank settlements is an "obstacle" to the peace process, but this now appears to have changed. In late May, Reagan held a telephone press conference with a national meeting of the editors of Jewish publications. When asked if he still viewed the settlements as an obstacle to peace, Reagan responded, "No, I don't — I really don't."

Insiders say the same message has been sent directly to Begin, who will make an official visit to Washington next month. It's said that Begin sought this assurance before scheduling the trip.

The settlements question has become one of the most emotional in the region. According to former President Jimmy Carter and his secretary of state, Cyrus Vance, Begin agreed that no new settlements would be built after the signing of the Camp David accords. Begin denies this: All he agreed to, he says, was a three-month moratorium on the building of new settlements.

Recently, Sol Linowitz, the Carter administration's special ambassador to the Mideast, reviewed the situation in a long op-ed piece in The Washington Post. Carter and Vance, he said, really believe that Begin has gone back on his agreement to stop building new settlements and to make the establishment of new settlements subject to future negotiations. At the same time, says Linowitz, Begin believes that he gave only a three-month promise, which he kept.

Linowitz then cites statements made at the time by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, which seem to confirm Begin's position that it was only a three month promise. As a result, concludes Linowitz, "It is not unreasonable to suggest that there was truly a misunderstanding on this issue."

But whether or not there was a misunderstanding, Egypt and other moderate Arab states have taken the firm position that the expansion of settlements violates at least the spirit of the Camp David accords. No real progress towards a wider peace can begin, they say, until these settlements are dismantled. In fact, this issue has caused Egypt to withdraw its ambassador from Israel.

When Reagan announced his peace plan in September 1982, he sided with the Arab states on the settlement issue.

Gardening

Geraniums Like Full Sun

More than half of the flower growers and retail nurseries in the United States grow or sell geraniums. This indicates their wide appeal and range of climatic adaptability. Geraniums are popular for their continuous flowering throughout the summer and early fall in most of continental United States and Canada.

Traditionally geraniums are propagated exclusively by vegetative means. Commercial operators root cuttings from disease free stock plants and sell them to local growers. Local growers use these cuttings as stock plants from which they vegetatively propagate plants for sale. Recently, there is a trend toward growing geraniums from seeds. Seed propagated geraniums perform equally as well as vegetatively propagated material and produce smaller plants at less cost. Seed propagated geraniums branch freely, are less leggy and seem to grow faster. Geraniums are at their peak of performance late winter through early summer in central Florida. To ensure maximum performance start with healthy, disease-free plants and follow proper cultural practices.

Geraniums grow best in full sun. They will tolerate partial shade but will usually grow tall, producing fewer lateral branches and consequently, fewer flowers. They should be spaced 18 inches apart in flower beds. To avoid disease problems and give a well-groomed appearance, cut off the old flower heads.

Geraniums grow best in soils that provide good drainage and aeration, and have good moisture and nutrient retention capacities. Florida's sandy soils should be amended with organic matter. Incorporation of two to three inches of

Frank J. Jasa
County Extension Director
322-2500

organic matter into planting beds will increase both water and nutrient holding capacities. Organic materials such as leaf mold or peat moss should be thoroughly mixed in the soil.

Water geraniums during dry periods to prevent wilting and eventual yellowing and dropping of leaves. To determine the moisture content of the soil, pick up a handful of soil and press it in your palm. If it crumbles it needs watering. Soil should be kept moist but not too wet. Keeping the soil wet encourages snail and slug populations that chew on foliage and invites root rotting organisms. Avoid overhead irrigation where possible, since wet flowers deteriorate very rapidly.

Garden soils, especially in new flower beds are frequently low in fertility. Flower beds should be fertilized prior to planting or at planting time with completely soluble or partially soluble fertilizers.

The rate of application should be based primarily on nitrogen content of the fertilizer. Use a complete fertilizer such as 6-6-6 or similar analysis fertilizer at the rate of 2 pounds per 100 square feet. The fertilizer can be incorporated when preparing the beds or it can be broadcast on top of the soil and watered. Fertilizers can be applied early in the growing season and repeated on a monthly basis.

Mulching is a good practice to prevent weed growth and conserve moisture in the soil. In addition, mulching prevents rain and overhead irrigation water injury. Splashing water combined with loose particles of sand rasp leaves and cause injury. Grass clippings, straw, wood chips, sawdust and compost can be used as mulches.

Occasionally cutworms or caterpillars will feed on geraniums. They can be readily detected by the cut edges of the leaves where they feed. If only a few are responsible for damage, they should be destroyed individually rather than spraying the entire bed.

The most common diseases that attacks geraniums are non-specific in that they attack other plants as well. Black rot or Pythium blackleg caused by the fungus Pythium has been observed to attack geraniums for many years and while losses to the disease mainly occur in the propagation stages it can also be found on young plants. Plants infected with blackleg disease have a shiny, coalblack, slimy, wet appearance. The rot progresses rapidly often killing plants within a week. A commercial fungicide specific for Pythium can be used if the disease is in the initial stages.

Botrytis caused by the common gray mold Botrytis cinerea produces spores which are airborne and germinate when they come in contact with wet foliage and flowers. To control Botrytis blight avoid watering foliage and flowers, especially in the late evening and when the humidity is high. Also since Botrytis starts most frequently on old decayed leaves and flowers, remove and destroy them.

In And Around Geneva Race Kicks Off Fourth Of July

The 1983 Fourth of July festivities in Geneva will depart from the traditional early morning parade this year when the day is kicked off by a "run for fun" race around Lake Geneva at 10 a.m.

Registration event will begin at 9:30 at the elementary school, and the races, all guaranteed to be under four miles in endurance, will be open to each age group.

Other promotions for the day, sponsored by Boy Scout Troop 837 of Geneva, will include softball games (bring your glove) played under "Geneva rules," volleyball, and various additional games for children that will be held until 4 p.m.

While most people in the community will be participants in or spectators of the races and ball games, the United Methodist Men from the Geneva church will be busy cooking chicken for the dinners to be available until 3 p.m. The menu will include chicken, slaw, corn on the cob and a drink priced at $3 for a one-half chicken dinner, $2 for a one-quarter portion.

Lou Childers

Side orders of corn on the cob will be sold for a nominal fee, and the Webelos leader for BSA Troop 837, Rocky Harrelson, says they will be featuring "watermelon by reservation." All proceeds from the meal will go to the Geneva Scouts.

Be sure to bring chairs for your own comfort for observing and sitting in the shade.

As an added attraction for the day's races, a limited number of Cross pen and pencil sets valued at $50 each will be awarded as prizes. The gifts were donated by Westinghouse in Orlando.

For more information, please contact Rocky Harrelson after 6 p.m. at 349-5112.

Its Cheaper To Take Gold With You

DEAR ABBY: I have a fortune in gold in my mouth. I'm pushing 80 and I've spent at least $4,000 for gold fillings, crowns, jackets and bridgework, and I can't see any sense in burying it with me.

Abby, after I die, why can't the mortician be instructed to remove all the gold from my mouth so my heirs can claim it?

I've asked this question of at least a dozen people, and not one person could give me a straight answer. Can you? I don't want to take it with me.

PRACTICAL IN CHICAGO

DEAR PRACTICAL: A mortician is not licensed to practice dentistry, so if the family wishes to have gold removed from the mouth of a loved one, a dentist must be engaged to do the job.

On inquiring, I learned that engaging a dentist for this purpose would be impractical because the dentist would probably charge far more than the reclaimed gold is worth. Even though you've spent thousands of dollars on dental work in which much gold was used, dental gold is not "pure" gold, and its reclaimed value is only a fraction of what it's assumed to be. Your dental bills represent the skill and time of your dentist, not the dental gold.

In conclusion, you can take it with you. And I suggest you do.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: With all the really serious problems you get, this is surely a minor one, but here goes: Have you ever heard of panties with foam rubber padding to give a more shapely figure to women who have flat bottoms? I think they are called "Buns." I saw them advertised years ago, but I can't remember where.

I am a female senior citizen and have sciatica, and my "sit-down" bones" ache constantly because I don't have any natural padding. Those foam-rubber-padded panties would be the answer to my prayers. Perhaps one of your readers will know. Thank you.

DEAR IN: Try Frederick's of Hollywood. (Men wear them, too) Meanwhile, if someone writes to tell me where "Buns" can be purchased, I'll pass it on and you'll soon be sitting pretty.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a straight woman. My boyfriend is bisexual, a fact I have known for 11 months of the 12 we've been together. His being bisexual doesn't bother me, but it bothers him. He wants to be one way or the other.

I love him very much and want him to be happy. He says he loves me, but every time he gets sexually attracted to a guy he can't help himself. He says he feels like there's a war going on inside of him and he's not sure he knows which side he wants to win.

He was married for a year three years ago, then his wife found out he liked guys, so she divorced him. He can't talk to anyone about his problem but me. He's a very talented actor.

works constantly, makes big money, but he says he feels like a loser because he's living a lie.

I really want to help him. But how? I'll do anything.

Million Dollars A Year Buys A Pretty Good Tutor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Have you been noticing all the helpful advice you've been getting lately about what to do with your money? I have. You don't have to be rich, either. Rich or poor, they still want to make sure you have plenty of that expert counseling.

Put it here, put it there. Try this Fund, try that one. You have nothing to worry about. It's FDIC insured.

Only one thing bothers me. If all these people know so much about how to make millions and they're so eager to do it for you and me, why do they have to use our money? How come they're not using theirs? Why are they being so good to us?

Today's economy invites a lot of questions regarding which way to go. Among those asking the questions are many top drawer college athletes, and even some in high school, who don't know whether they should grab the lucrative offers available in professional sports or finish their education first.

Should they take the money and run or pass it up at least until they get their diploma? With the kind of salaries being paid professional athletes today, that would be a tough decision for anybody to make and it becomes tougher yet for a kid playing ball in school because he's always risking an incapacitating injury if he stays on. Which wise old adage does he follow — look before you leap or he who hesitates is lost?

Ralph Sampson, the College Basketball Player of the Year for the past three seasons, had to decide and he stayed in school. He began getting those head-swimming offers near the end of his freshman year at the University of Virginia, but he didn't let the sweet smell of big money make him dizzy.

The 7-foot-4 All America center turned down all previous opportunities to become an instant millionaire at the expense of his education and it all worked out fine for him Tuesday when the Houston Rockets selected him as the No. 1 pick in the country.

Ronald Reagan was so impressed, he called Sampson to praise him for the splendid example he set for others. See, even the President of the United States is an investment counselor at heart.

On the surface, it would appear that Sampson made the right decision, that he's now in the ideal position of being able to command as much money as he would have two or three years ago and he no longer need be concerned about interrupting his education.

If you go by that yardstick, then Herschel Walker made the wrong decision last

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN

February by leaving the University of Georgia and signing a $1.5 million contract with the New Jersey Generals of the USFL. Personally, I felt at the time he had not made the right decision even though he said he planned to finish his education at Georgia. One of the reasons I thought the way I did, I suppose, was because I always regretted not getting a college education myself. But every time I ever passed up an opportunity to make money for something I considered more "important," I wound up feeling like a damn fool.

That was why I was enormously interested in hearing what three men like O.J. Simpson, Joe Paterno and Lou Carnesecca, with such diverse experiences, would have to say on the subject.

All three addressed some of the finest young athletes in the nation at a midtown hotel Tuesday as part of a seminar honoring the winners of the Hertz No. 1 award. The award recognizes excellence in high school athletics and some of the past winners include Marcus Allen, now with the Los Angeles Raiders, Isiah Thomas of the Detroit Pistons, Georgetown basketball star Pat Ewing, and Walker.

"I don't blame Herschel Walker," said Simpson, one of the NFL's premier running backs during his 11 years with the Buffalo Bills and San Francisco 49ers. "You can't force anyone to get an education. Besides, this has been an education in itself for him. He was under an incredible amount of pressure. I've met him and was very impressed with him. He's a high type individual. He said he's going to go back to get his degree and I believe he will."

Paterno, one of the college football's most successful coaches during his 17 years at Penn State, spoke openly and candidly as usual.

"I can't get angry at Herschel Walker for signing a professional contract," he said. "If it were one of my own kids and he had a chance to make two million or whatever Walker is making, I'd say go ahead. My only problem with Walker doing what he did was that we have no procedure to make sure the other Herschel Walkers who come along after him have the same opportunity he had. If he didn't have the exposure, the program and the coaching that he got at Georgia, he might not have been worth the money he got."

Carnesecca is something of an institution at St. John's. He earned his degree there, replaced Joe Lapchick as head basketball coach of the school in 1965, left to coach the New York Nets five years later and resumed his old job as St. John's coach in 1973.

"Look," he said, with regard to Walker, "I turned down Julius Erving when he wanted to leave the University of Massachusetts and play with the Nets. I was wrong. I stopped the young man from making a living. This was in 1971 or 1972. He came to me and said, 'Coach, I wanna play pro ball. I wanna play with the Nets.' I told him I couldn't take him unless they changed the rules. The next day he signed with the Virginia Squires of the ABA. Can you imagine him and Rick Barry on the same team?"

"I tell my players if the opportunity comes, if it's guaranteed and if your parents or advisor tells you it's okay, then you go. After all, why does anyone go to college? To get an education and make a living, right? A million dollars a year is a pretty good living. You can get a pretty good tutor for that."

Nationals Too Tough

Graham, Blake Lead Rout Over Americans

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

LEESBURG — The biggest game of the year in the Sanford Little Major League never materialized into the battle it was built up to be. The Sanford Nationals were just too strong for the Sanford Americans here Thursday night as Tim Graham and Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud combined for a three-hitter and Jeff Blake collected three hits to lead the Nationals to a 10-2 victory in the District 4, Sub-District 2 Tournament.

It was the first loss for the Americans who will play next Tuesday night at 6 against the winner of the Leesburg National-Clermont game. On the other hand, the Sanford Nationals are the only remaining unbeaten team with a 3-0 record. The Nationals will await the outcome of the two losers' bracket games and will play on Wednesday at 6 with a chance to take the Sub-District title without a loss.

Thursday night, the only question on the minds of the Nationals was Graham. "I didn't know how long he would last," Nationals manager Sylvester "Slick" Franklin, Jr. said. "We just wanted him to get through five innings."

Graham got through the five innings all right. And he looked almost unstoppable in doing it. The lean southpaw retired the first nine Sanford American hitters in order, striking out seven of the nine. Had it not been for a few fielding mistakes, Graham may have had a no-hitter as the Americans had just three fluke hits. In the five innings he worked, Graham struck out 11 and walked three. McCloud came in to pitch the sixth inning and, after hitting Ronald Cox with a pitch, struck out the side.

The Nationals took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first as Denny Clayton looped a single to right to lead off. Blake then drilled the first of his three consecutive hits and, while the center fielder fumbled around with the ball, Clayton raced to third and Blake took second. One out later, Clayton scored on an RBI groundout by McCloud.

After a scoreless second inning, the Nationals rallied for four runs in the top of the third to take a 5-0 lead. Harry Chibberton reached on an error to lead off and Clayton drew a walk and both runners moved up a base on a wild pitch. Blake then lashed a single up the middle to drive in both runs. Blake took second and third as the ball got by the left fielder. Blake scored the third run of the inning on a wild pitch. Still with no outs, Dwight Brinson was issued a free pass and McCloud followed with a single up the middle and Brinson came around to score on the third Sanford American error in the inning.

Sanford American broke up Graham's bid for a perfect game in the bottom of the fourth. "Steady Eddie" Charles led off by lifting a fly ball to center field. The center fielder, Clayton, was in fine shape to catch the ball, but he misjudged it at the last moment and it fell in for a double. Graham struck the next two hitters out, walked Cox, and caught Bernard Mitchell looking at a third strike to end the inning.

The Nationals forged ahead, 7-0, with a pair of runs in the top of the fifth. McCloud reached on an error to lead off and George Gordon followed with a single. On Gordon's hit, McCloud went to third on another Sanford American error. Graham then slapped a grounder to first baseman Pat Dougherty who gunned down McCloud at the plate for the first out. On the same play, catcher Anthony Harris tried to get Gordon who was going to second. Harris' throw went into center field though, allowing Gordon to score and Graham came all the way around, knocked the ball out of Harris' glove, and scored.

Sanford American came up with two runs in the bottom of the fifth, but the Nationals could have been out of the inning untouched if the infield made the plays. With one out, Gerald Morris drew a walk and went to second on a passed ball. Pinch-hitter Scooter Leonard then drilled a liner toward the middle. The shortstop, Brinson, had an easy double play starting him in the face, but, the ball tipped off Brinson's glove and Morris went to third while Leonard took second. Anton Reid followed by bouncing a grounder that just got under the glove of second baseman Steve Johnson as both Morris and Leonard scored to cut the Nationals' lead to 7-2.

The Nationals added some insurance in the top of the sixth, scoring three runs to take a 10-2 lead. Brinson led off by blasting a homer to center. The Nationals' third hitter had gone 0 for 2 with two strikeouts prior to his solo homer. An RBI infield single by Kerry Wiggins brought home Johnson, who had walked and moved around on wild pitches, with the second run and Hubert Williams got an RBI when he walked with the bases loaded.

Before the bottom of the sixth began, Graham said he was tired and Franklin went with McCloud in relief. With a 2-0 count on Cox, McCloud nailed him on the left elbow with a fastball. McCloud then struck out the next hitter, walked pinch-hitter Douglas Spann, and struck out the last two American hitters to end the game. Sanford pitching had a total of 14 strikeouts Thursday and only four walks.

Franklin said he will go with McCloud on Wednesday with Mike Merthie as a backup. A win on Wednesday would send the Nationals to the District 4 Tournament which will also be played in Leesburg.

The Americans will come back on Tuesday with Charles, according to coach Ron Sippl, who felt his team "may have been trying too hard" Thursday. Charles, a tricky southpaw, hurled a one-hitter against Tavares this past Tuesday night. If the Americans win Tuesday, it would set up a rematch between the two Sanford clubs for the Sub-District title. Whichever team survives in the loser's bracket would have to beat the Nationals twice to win the tourney so Franklin is sitting in the driver's seat at the moment.

Willie Goes To The Wing For 24 Points

Willie Mitchell's inside game is known county-wide.

Seminole High's 6-2 center posts low, legs extending wide, grabs a pass, turns and swish — two points. The deadliest turnaround in the county. Almost unstoppable.

With the graduation of Calvin "Kiki" Bryant, however, coach Chris Marlette was left without a pure shooter from the wing. Not very long, though, Marlette moved the versatile Mitchell to that spot and Thursday night the Seminole senior poured in 24 points as Seminole Cook's Corner thrashed Oviedo, 79-42, in AAU Basketball action at Oviedo.

"Willie didn't miss in the first quarter," said Marlette about the 14-point production. "He was burning it."

Mitchell finished the half with 20 points as Seminole stormed to a 47-14 bulge over the Lions who were without three starters. The victory improves Cook's Corner's record to 4-0. It plays at Lake Howell Tuesday night, then takes on tough Osceola Wednesday at home and travels to Lake Brantley on Thursday. Junior varsity tip off is 6:15 p.m.

Mitchell wasn't the only Seminole contributing Thursday. Kenny Gordon added 14 points, Bruce Franklin tallied eight, Rod Alexander chipped in seven while Tracy Holloman and James Rouse had six each. Franklin handed out 10 assists and Holloman grabbed 12 rebounds.

In junior varsity action, Daryl Williams tossed in 22 points and Mike Wright added 16 as coach John McNamara's squad ran its record to 3-0 with a 65-52 victory. — BAM COOK

Fire And Ice — McEnroe Battles Lendl In Semifinal

Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Fiery-tempered John McEnroe and icy-cool Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia meet today in a men's singles semifinal at the $1.4 million Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

The other semifinal will provide either the first unseeded finalist in 16 years — New Zealand's Chris Lewis — or advance strong-serving Kevin Curren of South Africa, the conqueror of top-seeded defending champion Jimmy Connors.

In women's play, defending champion Martina Navratilova and third-seeded Andrea Jaeger scored the most one-sided semifinal victories in Wimbledon history Thursday to set up an all-American matchup and leave veteran Billie Jean King on the sidelines for Saturday's $90,000 final.

Second-seeded McEnroe and third-seeded Lendl share an intense mutual dislike.

The 23-year-old Czech holds a 7-4 head-to-head advantage against the stormy American, but McEnroe has triumphed in the last two, winning at Philadelphia and Dallas this year.

McEnroe, the 1981 Wimbledon champion, has made the last three finals at Wimbledon and has been brought to a fourth set only once this year in a meeting with compatriot Brad Gilbert.

Lendl is looking to prove that he can be a winner on his least-favorite surface, grass. He is anxious also to end a run of five tournaments without a title. The Czech has also lost only one set in the current event but McEnroe is the first seed he has had to play.

Lendl, the reigning Masters titleholder and 1981 Grand Prix champion, has regained the grass court confidence that made him the 1978 junior champion at Wimbledon when he was an unknown 18-year-old.

McEnroe has five grass court titles, including his Wimbledon crown.

Lewis, 26, was hoping to become the first non-seed to reach the Wimbledon final since 1967.

Jaeger's victory was a triumph of young talent over experience, the 18-year-old winning a surprisingly easy match against her 39-year-old opponent, who had made the first of her Wimbledon appearances before Jaeger was born.

Though Navratilova is expected to retain her title, she did not believe she was invincible.

"I'm not unbeatable, but I'm pretty difficult to beat," Navratilova said. "You need not only good strategy, but also good execution to beat me. It has always been my goal to beat anybody at my best even when they are at their best, too. The key is to win when you are not playing well."

Navratilova holds a 10-4 career advantage over Jaeger.

Watson Takes Western Lead

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tom Watson, despite having earned more than $3 million in his career, is the first to admit he hasn't been playing very well the past year.

But Watson says there are signs he is coming out of a year-long slump and pointed to his sizzling play in the opening round of the $400,000 Western Open Thursday as proof.

Watson, who has won 28 PGA tour events but none since last summer, carded a 5-under-par 67 to take a 1-stroke lead into today's second round of the oldest stop on the PGA tour.

The tone of Watson's round was set on his very first hole, the 10th. He made a 50-foot birdie putt for the first of six birdies on his round.

Watson, who has won more than $150,000 this year, has a special incentive to win the 80th annual Western. If he can win the title Sunday, it would not only mark his first win of the year but guarantee him a spot on the Ryder Cup team.

"I want to make it. I think the only way I can make it is by winning the title," Watson said.

A first prize of $72,000 also awaits the winner.

Most of the leaders played in the morning when the course was wet from overnight rains. Warmer and windier conditions prevailed in the afternoon and more of the same is forecast for today, with temperatures expected to reach the mid 90s.

"Gardner's 68 marked the first time he has ever shot under par at Butler.

Norman also said he benefited from the damp greens in his first attempt at Butler.

Atlanta won again and the Dodgers lost again to move the Braves within one game of the N.L. West Division lead. See Page 7A.

Rookie's Hit Trips Expos; Blue Jays Blast Minnesota

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl.

Friday, July 1, 1983-7A

United Press International

Though Kevin Gross looks like a living argument against the designated hitter, he would rather knock 'em dead as a pitcher.

Gross, a pitcher who had never batted as a professional until reaching the majors, singled home the go-ahead run Thursday to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 3-1 triumph over the Montreal Expos.

The 22-year-old right-hander put his team ahead 2-1 with a line single to center in the fifth inning off loser Ray Burris, 3-3.

Gross is 2-0 since joining the Phillies last week from the Pacific Coast League in Portland.

"I felt confident I could pitch up here if I controlled my pitches," said Gross. Gross also impressed the opposition.

Tim Lincecum contributed a pinch-hit single in his only time at bat for Montreal. Raines was pulled from Wednesday's second game of after he singled and scored because of a stiff hamstring muscle. The injury was not termed serious, said an Expo official.

A.L./N.L. Baseball

At St. Louis, Neil Allen, 4-8, scattered eight hits over seven innings and doubled in a run to lead the Cardinals and notch his second straight triumph over his former mates.

Blue Jays 11, Twins 3

Part of the reason the Toronto Blue Jays may be in first place at the All-Star break is the performance of All-Star caliber players like Willie Upshaw.

Upshaw, who was left off the AL All-Star reserve squad named Thursday, cracked a three-run homer and an RBI single later in the day to help the Blue Jays assume a two-game lead in the Eastern Division with an 11-3 triumph over the Minnesota Twins at Minneapolis.

The first baseman, who is pushing .300 with 15 home runs and 46 RBI, gives much of the credit to his development to the other members of the Toronto lineup.

At Chicago, Jody Davis slammed reliever Kent Tekulve's first pitch into center for a single to score Ron Cey with one out in the ninth and help the Cubs complete a sweep of their three-game series. Davis' hit, which made a loser of Manny Sarmiento, 1-2, gave him three RBI for the game and gave him 25 for June.

Reds 15, Giants 5

At Cincinnati, Paul Householder hit a three-run, inside-the-park homer and Gary Redus slammed another three-run homer to power the Reds to a three-game series sweep. Charlie Puleo, 3-4, was the winner with Ted Power notching his second save. Fred Breining, 6-5, lasted only two-thirds of an inning.

Padres 7, Dodgers 6

At San Diego, Luis Salazar doubled in Juan Bonilla with two out in the bottom of the ninth to lift the Padres. John Montefusco, 7-1, pitched the final 3-2-3 innings. Steve Howe, who entered the game in the eighth, fell to 2-2. Los Angeles made three errors to up its season total to 90 in 74 games.

Braves 6, Astros 4

At Atlanta, pinch hitter Chris Chambliss tripled in two runs in the eighth inning to lift the Braves within a game of first-place Los Angeles in the NL West. Steve Bedrosian, 5-2, worked the last two innings for the victory. Frank DiPino, 3-3 took the loss. All-Star Bill Dawley allowed Chambliss' hit.

Cardinals 6, Mets 1

Royals 7, A's 4

At Oakland, Calif., U.L. Washington's bases-clearing triple highlighted a four-run seventh inning that carried Kansas City. Don Hood, with three shutout relief innings, gained credit for his first victory and Dan Guisenberry, who added one-hit relief, posted his 19th save.

Brewers 4, Tigers 1

At Milwaukee, Paul Molitor drove in two runs and Rick Manning scored twice and stole two bases to lead the Brewers to their fifth triumph in the last six games. Bob McClure, 4-7, limited the Tigers to six hits but also walked six over seven innings. Tom Tellemann pitched the final two innings for his sixth save.

Yankees 4, Orioles 3

At New York, Butch Wynegar cracked his fourth home run of the season with two out in the 12th inning, giving the Yankees the decision. Wynegar hit a 2-and-0 pitch from Tim Stoddard, 0-3, over the right-field wall. The winner was Rich Gossage, 5-2, who worked the last four innings.

Rangers 4, Angels 2

At Anaheim, Calif., George Wright singled in two runs with two out in the 10th inning to give Texas the victory. The Rangers took a one-game lead in the AL West over California. Angels shortstop Rick Burleson returned to action for the first time since tearing a rotator cuff, and had two hits.

Jody Davis (left) contributed a ninth-inning single to score Ron Cey as the Chicago Cubs swept three games from the Pittsburgh Pirates. Willie Upshaw powered a three-run homer as the Toronto Blue Jays hammered the Minnesota Twins, 11-3.

27 Deaths In Florida Expected This Holiday

Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The Florida Highway Patrol has predicted 27 people will die on state highways this year during the 78-hour Independence Day holiday period, which will begin at 6 p.m. today and end at midnight on Monday, July 4th.

The FHP bases its grim prediction on statistics gathered during the past three July Fourth holiday weekends.

There were 23 fatalities during the same period last year and records show the leading causes of these fatal accidents were careless driving, driving while under the influence of alcohol/drugs and speeding.

The highway patrol will focus on these violations during the holiday period with the drinking driver being the number one target.

Traditionally, traffic to and from the beaches is heavier during this holiday weekend, a mixture of drinking and careless drivers produces an explosive circumstance, according to the FHP.

Troopers will keep a close watch in these areas for such violators and special teams will be concentrating on enforcing the DUI law and regular work hours will be altered to have maximum coverage during the hours of high frequency DUI violations.

Col. Bobby R. Burkett, director of the FHP, said, "We will use all available resources to reduce the number of fatalities and injuries over the long holiday weekend."

"Every available trooper, auxiliary trooper, aircraft, and radar unit will be used to spot and apprehend violators," he said. Accidents are preventable and drivers and pedestrians have the option to obey or not obey the rules of safe motoring.

The patrol is asking the public to help it by obeying all traffic laws and by calling the nearest Highway Patrol Station or local law enforcement agency if a person witnesses any dangerous actions by a driver or pedestrian.

Regan Forecasts Interest, Jobless Rates Will Fall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary Donald Regan predicted today interest rates will drop by the end of the year.

Regan also predicted unemployment will go down to the 9 percent level during 1983 and fall into the 8 percent range next year.

Regan was asked during an appearance on CBS' "Morning News" program if interest rates were going to rise since there is no evidence the budget deficits are decreasing.

"No, they don't have to go up," Regan said. "Interest rates could and should be down lower than they are now by the end of the year. The reason we say that is that if we maintain a sensible fiscal policy ... I think a lot of the fear of inflation will disappear. As fear of inflation disappears, interest rates will come down."

Regan said it is "possible but not probable" there could be a short-term rise in interest rates.

The treasury secretary also said the administration would be happier if Congress would cut $15 billion to $20 billion out of its budget plan.

"Unfortunately rehiring is the last part of the business cycle, what we call a lagging indicator," Regan said.

Smelly Feet? Keep Your Toenails Clean

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have read your column and when you have mentioned smelly feet you have never said a thing about people cleaning out from under their toenails.

I wish you would please tell people to clean under their toenails at least once a week if not more often. When they don't, this causes a terrible, terrible odor. Thanks for listening.

DEAR READER — Well, you have told millions of people. Now let's hope there are more clean toenails in your household and perhaps millions of others.

Of course you are right. It is just part of cleaning or washing your feet. But I must add that there are many people who have problems with smelly feet who do in fact clean their toenails and wash their feet once or twice a day.

The first step in controlling odors is to wash the feet regularly and dry them thoroughly. Twice a day is not too often if a person has a problem. The second step is to change socks twice a day if possible and, when the temperature and situation permits, go barefoot. Dry feet are less likely to be smelly feet.

Anything that helps prevent sweating of your feet is also important. There are many preparations, as well as a number of home remedies, that do just that. But the thing most people miss is that often the odor is caused by bacteria that live under the surface of the skin and are unaffected by ordinary soap and water. That is why I recommend asking your doctor for a prescription for some phisohex preparation to use as a soap. As this penetrates the skin it will kill the bacteria and soon there is no odor. Without help from such a product, all the washing in the world will not solve this problem for people who have it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it true or just a myth that a drink of whiskey or brandy warms the body? In the winter the older members of our family take brandy or whiskey with them when they go ice fishing "for warmth." It has been a subject of much controversy in our house. What about an alcoholic drink to cool you in the summer?

DEAR READER — A person who is drinking often has a flushed skin. That is because there is an increased flow of blood to the skin. That warm blood warms the skin. If you feel cold (which is different from actually being cold), that alcohol flush makes you feel warm. However, you lose body heat through the skin. Your skin is your radiator and bringing blood to the surface cools the body.

In cold environments, and especially in cold survival, alcohol is dangerous because it may cause the body's internal temperature to drop too much because you lose that heat through the skin when you use alcohol to feel warm.

In the summer you feel hot from the same effect but the cooling of the internal body does occur, provided the external environment is cool enough for you to lose heat from your skin. Thus alcohol is a great deceiver about body temperature.

I suspect it is taken along for ice fishing for the same reason it goes on fishing trips in summer — because the fishermen like it.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

JULY 2, 1983

Contacts with persons who live at a considerable distance could prove to be very lucky for you this coming year. Stay in close touch with these friends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If there is something big you wish to accomplish today, try to do it on your own. Associates might not comprehend your aims and cause you to fail. Order now: The NEW Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Over-all conditions look promising today, but there's a possibility you might do easy things the hard way. Don't get in your own way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could be rather lucky in commercial matters today, but try to be conservative. Avoid gambles, even if you feel the odds are tilted your way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Ups-and-downs are likely in partnership arrangements today. You're apt to accomplish what you set out to do, but there could be some tense moments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You may be the recipient of another's generosity today. When it's your turn to help someone else, you might not be as liberal as was your benefactor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be amicable and easy-going today unless something material is at stake. If this occurs you might get a little testy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You and your mate may not see eye-to-eye on most issues today, but at least strive to be in harmony about important matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Things will go smoothly today if you focus on the positive aspects of situations rather than on their critical factors.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Pleasurable pursuits which bite into your bankroll could turn out to be bums today. Seek fun diversions where you don't pay as you go.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you have formulated specific plans to achieve your objectives today, stick to them. Last-minute changes will lessen your chances for success.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In ventures where you play a role but lack authority, don't tax to impose your ideas on others. Be supportive, not vocal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) (16) Just because your friends may be a little loose with their money today does not mean you have to follow suit. Make each penny count.

highly invitational limit raises that are in expert use. Hermine had no problem about carrying on to game with her 5-4-3-1 distribution.

The play started simply enough. She took the ace of hearts at trick one, led a trump to dummy's king and another back to her ace to discover the 3-1 spade break. Now she was looking at one trump and two heart losers. There was also a slight chance of losing a club, but Hermine promptly reduced this chance to zero.

She led a diamond to the ace, ruffed dummy's low diamond, cashed her king of clubs and led her 10 of hearts.

West took two heart tricks, but had to lead a third red card to let Hermine ruff in one hand and discard a club from the other.

Suppose East had won. He would have had a chance to lead a club but that would let Hermine pick up the club suit without loss.

Suppose clubs had broken 3-2. Then the hand would have been a cinch for any declarer.

There's A Lot For Kids To Do This Summer

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Now that school is out and the kids are bored with nothing to do but sit around and watch television, why not sign them up for your nearest summer recreation program, most of which are already underway.

The city of Sanford Recreation Department offers a seven-week summer youth recreation program at the Sanford Civic Center Youth Wing at Sanford Avenue and Seminole Boulevard and also at the Westside Recreation Center, 919 Persimmon Ave. It is for children ages 6-12 and is held Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until noon, through July 29.

In addition to the usual fun and games, there are special events each week such as "Hat Day," "Sock Day," talent show, bubble gum blowing contest, "Hobo Day," scavenger hunt, Police Department, Sheriff's Department and Fire Department appreciation days, and movies.

There will be a tour of the General Sanford Museum and Library, nature hikes, a Hot Shot basketball championship, contests and tournaments from chess to table tennis. The highlights of the summer will be the Tournament of Champions and the Summer Olympics with award ceremonies on July 29.

Attendance averages 75 to 100 youngsters each day at each center. Children must be picked up at noon by the parents or guardian.

There is a $10 fee for non-residents or a $15 per fiscal year family rate.

Special classes are also available throughout the summer. Every Wednesday, through July 27, 1-2 p.m., at the Cultural Arts Building, 5th Street and Oak Avenue, ceramics classes are available for youth 10-14 years old. There is a $5 fee for materials. Every Monday, through July 25, tennis lessons are available for 13- and 14-year-olds at the Ft. Mellon Park tennis courts 11 a.m. to noon; ages 10-12, 9-10 a.m. and 10-11 a.m. The cost is $5 and each child should bring three tennis balls.

Arts and crafts classes are held every Tuesday, through July 26, 1:30-2:30 p.m. at the Youth Wing for youngsters 10-12 years old. There is a $2 material fee.

If you live in the Casselberry area, there is a day camp program for 6-12-year-olds at Secret Lake Park that runs Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The cost is $45 per two-week session and $50 for non-residents. The next session begins next week. Each session is limited to 50 youngsters, according to Jim Booker, city parks and recreation director, and there are a limited number of openings left in the second and fourth sessions.

Among the day camp activities included are swimming lessons and free swim time at the Wirz pool, archery, skating, bowling, canoeing, fishing, arts and crafts, soccer, tennis, racquetball, handball, flag football, and kickball.

Swimming lessons for kids two months and up are being offered at the city's Wirz pool in five two-week sessions. There are still some openings in July and August and the fee is $10 per session for residents and $15 for non-residents.

In Longwood, the summer recreation program for children 6-14 continues through July 29 under the direction of Reg Sigmon. Playground activities are from 9 to 11:30 a.m. followed by lunch (bring your own) and in the afternoon swimming on Tuesday and Thursday at the Sharidan Swim Club and

Study Clears TV Violence Of Long-Range Effects

By Julianne Hastings
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC released a report this week on its study of children and adolescent TV viewers which concludes that there is no "causal" link between television violence and the development of aggressive behavior patterns.

The report — 14 years in the making from 1969-83 at a cost of "at least $1.5 million and possibly $2 million" NBC said — was based on a survey of 2,400 elementary school children and 800 teenage boys in two Midwestern cities over a three-year period from 1970-73.

The network said it chose Minneapolis, Minn., and Fort Worth, Texas, for the study because both are located in the Central Time Zone, where prime-time television programs — which the network feels contain more violence — start one hour earlier than in either coastal time zone.

The research was led by William Rubens, NBC vice president of Research, Dr. J. Ronald Milavsky, NBC vice president for News and Social Research, Horst Stipp, NBC director of social research, and Ronald Kessler, associate professor of Sociology, University of Michigan.

In contrast to a recent National Institute of Mental Health report stating that there is "overwhelming" evidence that television violence causes aggression, NBC found that if such a connection existed, it would be too small to be detectable even by the most sophisticated testing methods.

"The investigation found no evidence of a causal connection between television violence and the development of aggressive behavior patterns among children and adolescents," NBC said.

Kessler said he believed the NIMH reached its conclusions because "that was the position they had going in."

He emphasized that the NBC project focused the effects of violent television on the long-term development of behavior patterns.

"Television has short-term arousal effects," Kessler said — pre-schoolers might do more hitting on the playground if their play period follows viewing of a violent show rather than "Lassie." "But these are quickly extinguished in the real world."

Among some of the programs involved in the study were "Mod Squad," "Gunsmoke," "Mission Impossible," "Bewitched," "Dragnet," "FBI," "Kung Fu," wrestling, and a variety of Saturday morning "kiddie" shows, Rubens said.

The network said each of the study's participants, their parents, peers and teachers were queried by interview or questionnaires administered in their classrooms each week during the in-field portion of the study.

Kessler agreed that the study was not up-to-the-minute in that it did not involve today's programs but he said he felt television was more violent in 1970-73 than it is now.

"The Untouchables" was on five days a week in the two markets," Kessler said referring to the series about organized crime fighter Elliot Ness in the heyday of Chicago mobdom. "There is nothing on TV like that today."

What You Won't See On TV Next Season

By Peter Meade

The three major networks recently announced their 1983-1984 prime time schedules. CBS will present five new shows, ABC eight and NBC nine.

While the chosen 22 represent the best the Big Three have to offer, here are a few series proposals that didn't quite make it to the schedule.

CHIPS: A New Beginning — Michael Landon will be directing this series as Erik Estrada, he of TV's most macho teeth, will be back in the motorcyclesaddle again. There are 24 new episodes planned, all with ridiculous plots and featuring plenty of senseless auto crashes. Even Tom Reilly will be returning. He will be riding the back end of a Kawasaki-built-for-two with Bruce Penhall.

MishM*As*H — Originally called "The McLean Stevenson/Gary Burghoff Show" after its two principals. The plot will deal with how Walter ("Don't call me Radar") O'Reilly came to work for Harry Blake, the brother of the departed but not recently lamented Col. Henry Blake. Jamie Farr was going to join the cast, but he got a better offer. Stevenson says the series will combine the best elements of "Hello, Larry," "The McLean Stevenson Show" and "In the Beginning," with possibly a little bit of "M*As*H." In network phrasing this is called a limited-run series. It will air once and then be unceremoniously canceled.

Little Mansion on the Prairie — About a wealthy family that lives on a cul-de-sac the length of the Long Island Expressway.

The plot features the young, extremely beautiful daughter, who is a doctor in a rundown hospital, plus her three brothers: one is gay, but lives with two beautiful women; one is a mustachioed private detective who drives a computerized car; and the third runs a bar that only six people frequent once a week. The family has a wise guy black butler, named Mr. B, who has a normal Afro and wears no jewelry. Later in the season the plot lines are hogged by a greasy tenant who lives in a 14-room apartment upstairs.

The New Mod Squad — ABC has decided to resurrect an old series every year until one finally works. Forget "The New Odd Couple" — we'd all like to — and "The Renegades," here comes the adventures of Linc, Julie and Pete again. This time Jimmie Walker, Genie Francis and Robert Urich play the delinquent-turned-cop trio. Don Rickles is Capt. Adam Greer and the old familiar station wagon (now turbocharged) returns also. Stay tuned.

Entertainment and Restaurant Guide

You Don't Have To Be Italian To Enjoy Laurie's Veal Rosselini, Seafood

The New England seacoast and Central Florida have more in common than it may seem. One of these common interests is seafood prepared in special ways and Laurie's Italian Fisherman, a restaurant new to the local scene, is adept at preparing this cuisine.

As the restaurant's name implies, Italian dishes complement the interesting menu.

Rainbow trout is baked in garlic sauce, frog legs, shrimp and scallops are fried, or served in scampi or marinara sauces for entrees. Baked clams, escargot, mussels marinara or shrimp cocktail may be ordered as appetizers.

The universal favorites, lasagna, cannelloni, manicotti, fettuccini Alfredo, ravioli, linguini and spaghetti are always available, but, probably, the piece de resistance, is one of Laurie's own creations, veal Rossini. This veal dish is prepared with prosciutto ham, fresh tomatoes, basil, garlic and oregano baked and served with dutchess potatoes and a choice of spaghetti, linguini or French fries. The tab? $12.95. It is served with soup or salad.

Dinners range from $4.50 to $13.50 for duck a l'orange, chicken cacciatore, seafood Oscar, steak or steak Oscar or veal Oscar.

Soups are made by Laurie, chef-owner, and might be minestrone, onion or clam soup, a lighter, broth-like delicacy than chowder.

Spinach salad, anti pasta and fried mozzarella may be ordered as appetizers.

Dessert lovers can indulge in cannolis, cheesecake, rum cake or blueberry crunch, all made on the premises.

Laurie's Italian Fisherman serves breakfast from 7 until 11, lunch from 11:30 until 2:30 and dinner from 5 until 9. Beverages are available through the adjacent lounge. Party and banquet rooms can be reserved.

Laurie Robinson, the diminutive young owner, has brushed pestles with the finest chefs in the area. Cooking since she was 10 in her parents' restaurants both here and in Cape Cod, Mass., Laurie's ambitions have brought her to the Cavalier Motor Inn, where her dining place occupies what was formerly The Buccaneer Restaurant.

Laurie, with her mother owns Carol's seafood in Longwood.
