Prince Feuds With Magnate

By Rosette Hargrove
MONTE CARLO, Monaco—A serpent lurks in this miniature Garden of Eden which was once the playground of Russian grand dukes jet-setters, international tycoons and King Farouk. The Monegasques realize that all was not well when they listened to Prince Rainier's 1965 annual "message to the people." The broadcast proved to be an explosive tirade against the uncrowned king of Monaco, Aristotle Onassis.

While Rainier did not mention the Greek shipping magnate by name, everyone knew who he was talking about when he spoke of "certain Monegasque interests" who were not pulling their weight in the ambitious modernization program which his government had already begun.

Onassis controls the "Societe des Bains de Mer"—the Sea-Bathing Company—which was founded in 1863. This, in effect, is a state within a state, almost as archaic as its name. Holding more than half of the million shares of SBM, as it is always referred to in the principality, Onassis controls what were once the main attractions of the 368-acre realm—the Casino, the old luxury hotels, the Cafe de Paris, the posh Monte Carlo beach, the Sporting Club and five night clubs.

But times have changed and the former vacation habitat of the wealthy is now badly in need of adjustment to changing world conditions. The old Monte Carlo haecceit-able habits are disappearing. And the younger people who are left simply do not have the same kind of money to spend and would rather play the slot machines.

Rainier contends that the Onassis group is hidebound and stuffy, is allowing the luxury hotels to fall into disrepair, cares nothing about the standard of living of the Monegasques and is continuing a disastrous "rule-or-ruin" policy.

Though the Prince has the right of veto on all major appointments to the board of directors, he would prefer not to use it since the SBM employs more than half of the principality's 22,300 people, including the 3,039 native Monegasques.

Lyman Student Wins National DEC Honors

A Lyman High student, Robert G. White Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glenn White Sr., of Altamonte Springs, has brought Florida its first national award in contests of Distributive Education Clubs of America with a first prize in sales demonstration.

One of 48 students who represented 47 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia at the 19th annual leadership conference in Chicago, young White presented his demonstration using a plastic siding compound for homes. A junior at Lyman and member of the school's distributive education class, he is employed at Modern Builders, Inc., Winter Park.

Accompanying him to Chicago were two Lyman DECA students who placed in state contests, Archie Hunnicutt, son of Mrs. Vinnie Hunnicutt, of Longwood, first in public speaking, and Duffy Neufield, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Neufield, of Maitland, third in window display.

Lloyd Barnes, DECA coordinator at Lyman, was sponsor for the students and also served as one of the sponsors for the window display at the national event.

He had high words of commendation for the Lyman group and for the entire Florida delegation, stating that their conduct and participation helped to make this year's convention an outstanding one for the state. Florida has been a member of the national organization for eight years.

Trip for the Lyman delegates was made possible through co-operation of R. T. Millwee, superintendent of schools, and other members of the administrative staff of the Seminole County School System. Assistance in providing funds came from the Young Women's Club of South Seminole and many interested individuals.

Some 1,600 students and advisors were in attendance at the convention.

Celery Growers Win Injunction

ORLANDO (UPI)—The U. S. District Court in Orlando issued a temporary restraining order Thursday preventing Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz from deporting some 500 foreign celery cutters working in Florida.

The court order is valid until Monday, when a hearing is scheduled on making the injunction permanent.

Wirtz has been trying to deport some 500 British West Indian celery cutters as part of the Labor Department policy of making more jobs for domestic workers.

The suit challenging the action was filed by Canal Glades Farms Inc. of Canal Point and Sanford.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An Agriculture Department official said there are fewer potatoes on the market now than at any time since 1958, an dthat prices are about double what they normally would be at country shipping points.

He said bad weather during the 1964 growing season and a substantial decline in the winter potato crop had cut supplies. He blamed poor yields instead of a cut in potato acreage.

Don't call the Navy. Those planes flying 100 to 200 feet off the ground don't belong to them. They are those B-17 bombers dropping fire ant bait over the county.

The B-17s are flying out of Herndon Airport in Orlando.

The Navy says it has been plagued with calls from people complaining about the low-flying planes.

There is a lot of difference between a B-17 and a Vigilante — almost 25 years.

Assistant coaches Jim McCoy and Dick Williams are expected to be top candidates for the head football job at Seminole High School. However, other candidates for Jim Pignotti's job are anticipated.

"The Savage Sons" of RV-411-5 looked like they had stepped from the Viet Nam jungle when they flew into Sanford Thursday. They wore their battle gear, jungle hats and small arms as they climbed down from their Vigilantes.

Circuit Judge Tom Waddell Jr., of Melbourne, is fast earning a reputation here as the "Judge with the fastest quip." In court Thursday, Judge Waddell managed to slip in two. The first came as he took his seat on the bench and noted that the front bank of lights was out in the courtroom.

"I understand the county has paid part of its light bill," the judge commented.

Later in the proceedings, while seating the jury, Judge Waddell noted that Lester L. Tillis had been summoned to sit on a jury for the second time this week. "In my county," Judge Waddell told Tillis, "if you sit in the same seat three times in a row, you may apply to the county commission to take the seat home with you."

'Patience, Determination Unending' - LBJ

U. S. To Press War But Seek Peaceful End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson today signed the special $700 million appropriation to fight the war in Viet Nam and warned that U. S. willingness to talk peace should not be regarded as a symbol of cowardice.

"Until the aggressors have indicated their willingness to talk, we intend to press on," Johnson said as he signed the measure providing funds for new landing fields, planes, helicopters and expanded operations in Viet Nam.

"Our patience and determination are unending." The President signed the measure at a White House ceremony attended by members of Congress. Congress approved the special appropriation as a vote of confidence in his Viet Nam policy within three days after he made the urgent request.

"This money will be spent for arms, for weapons of war, for helicopters and ammunition and planes," the President said. "These we use not because we want war but because the aggressors have made them necessary."

Johnson promised that U. S. weapons would be put aside when peace comes—"and we hope it comes swiftly."

He noted, however, that the American offer of unconditional peace discussions in Southeast Asia had produced no response.

"For months we have waited for a sign, a signal, a whisper that our offer... has fallen on receptive ears," he said.

"But not a sound has been heard. Not a signal has been sighted. Still we wait for a response. Still we are anxious for peace."

The Chief Executive said he regretted that it was not possible apparently to convince forces of communism in Southeast Asia that armed hostility is futile.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today passed a bill to fund the war in Viet Nam, but it also passed a measure to provide for a peaceful end to the conflict.

The House passed a similar measure, but it also passed a measure to provide for a peaceful end to the conflict.

Blonde Mother Not Guilty In Mate's Death

By Barry Lawes
Mrs. Beverly Alewine, 22, attractive blonde mother who was charged with second degree murder in the fatal shooting of her husband, Tony, was acquitted Thursday.

The six-man jury returned the "not guilty" verdict following a dramatic afternoon of testimony, during which the defense proved the death weapon—a German-made .22 caliber revolver—was defective, thus substantiating Mrs. Alewine's claim the shooting was accidental.

The defense contended the gun discharged accidentally when the defendant was replacing it in a dresser drawer after having carried it with her to the front door of her apartment when she heard a noise about 3:30 in the morning of April 15.

Under grueling and exhaustive cross-examination, Thomas Yarbrough, assistant examiner for the Florida Sheriff's Bureau in Tallahassee, admitted the death weapon was defective and could have been accidentally discharged without pulling the trigger.

The state's case against Mrs. Alewine literally fell apart with this point.

RV-411-5 PILOT GETS warm welcome home by wife and four children as the first of the "Savage Sons" contingent arrives at the Naval Air Station from Viet Nam. Six Vigilantes landed at NAS Thursday afternoon. The remainder of the squadron is scheduled to arrive tonight.

More Yanks Land At Saigon

SAIGON (UPI) — An American task force of 6,000 Marines and Seabees landed on a South Vietnamese beach today to build a new air base for launching even more punishing raids against Communist targets on both sides of the 17th parallel.

The landing party encountered no opposition. But three battalions of Viet Cong guerrillas attacked a camp for Roman Catholic refugees in the Mekong Delta Thursday night, killing 48 Vietnamese and wounding 77. Thirty other Vietnamese were listed as missing and possibly captured.

A U. S. spokesman described the guerrilla assault as the biggest this year. The Viet Cong stormed the camp at Hai Yen 180 miles southwest of Saigon where Father Nguyen Loc Hoa, known as South Viet Nam's "fighting priest," has long held off the Communists with a private army called the "Sea Swallows."

In the air war against North Viet Nam, U. S. Navy planes attacked transportation targets Thursday night in two separate missions.

Two Skyhawk jets from the aircraft carrier Coral Sea strafed a convoy on Route 15 about 70 miles south of Hanoi. Pilots reported "probable damage to two trucks."

Another Skyhawk and two F4 Phantom jets, also from the Coral Sea, attacked four barges on the Thong Hieu River 100 miles southwest of Hanoi. A spokesman said one of the barges was left burning.

Pilots reported no enemy aircraft or anti-aircraft fire. All of the planes returned safely.

13 KILLED
SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — Two U. S. Marines captured Thursday by rebels who machine-gunned a medical convoy were released unharmed.

Three Marines were killed and two were wounded in the attack on the convoy, which inflicted heavier losses on U. S. forces here than any other single incident so far. The new casualties increased the military toll of the U. S. rescue operation here to 13 killed and 62 wounded.

Two Miami Herald newsmen, Latin American Editor Al Burt and chief photographer Doug Kennedy, became the first U. S. civilian casualties of the operation when they were accidentally shot and wounded by U. S. Marines Thursday. Marine helicopters carried them to the assault carrier Boxer for treatment.

An act of mercy performed by a civilian touched off an erroneous report Thursday that a U. S. Marine had been murdered by Dominican rebels and his body dumped at the Hotel Ambassador.

The Marine had been fatally wounded in an incident in which a Marine patrol blundered into rebel territory and was attacked.

While the House debated the appropriations bill for four hours, the Senate formally received the Burns $300 million road bond bill with enough votes pledged to it to assure passage as an emergency measure, which would put it on a special ballot to go before the voters this year.

Differences between the House and the Senate's larger bill will be worked out by a joint conference committee which probably will approve something between the figures of the two chambers.

R. C. Carlson Quits Council At Longwood

By Donna Estes
Resignation of Longwood Council Chairman R. C. Carlson was accepted with regret Thursday night at meeting of the Longwood City Council.

Carlson had served on the board 15 consecutive years before illness necessitated the resignation.

Acting Chairman Carl Lommer praised Carlson for his "dedication to the community," pointing out that in his opinion it would be "a long time before the city can find another man with his background in municipal government."

Mayor David R. Wentworth urged council to pass a resolution commending Carlson for his efforts and sacrifices on behalf of the city.

He set June 1 as date for the special election to fill Carlson's unexpired term which runs until December, 1966. Candidates for the office must file their qualifying petitions by May 22.

In other business, Lommer announced that all bids submitted for the chlorination and aeration plant for the city's water system had been turned down as bids, which were in excess of $40,000, exceeded the funds available for the project.

Council voted to instruct the city engineer, A. E. O'Neill and Associates, to prepare plans for a system to suit the present needs. It was explained that the new plans will call for placing the aeration system on top of the present water tower thus saving at least one-third of the cost.

Cigarette Taxes
Seminole County municipalities will receive approximately $27,000 as their share of state cigarette tax collections for the month of March.

Sanford's share of $18,731.40 heads the list of five cities receiving funds, according to Ben Morris, director of the State Beverage Department.

Casselberry's share is $4,408.77; Longwood will get $2,317.82; Altamonte Springs $1,914.00; Oviedo $1,542.23 and North Orlando, $258.31.

Twisters Also Hit Oklahoma; 1 Person Dies
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Workers pried through twisted and crumpled houses today for more victims of tornadoes that tore through suburban communities.

At least 12 persons were known dead and more than 400 were injured in Minneapolis-St. Paul's second disaster in a month. The damage ran into millions of dollars.

In the South, another band of tornadoes slammed through Oklahoma, killing at least one person and injuring three others. Three of them were in a car that was dumped into a ditch. The twisters struck seven towns in a 100-mile stretch in western Oklahoma between Sentine and Hollis.

The tornadoes which roared north of Minneapolis Thursday night came at a down town. They came less than a month after the devastating Palm Sunday twister onslaught of April 11, when Midwest tornadoes curling south of Minnesota killed more than 250 persons.

The final toll of Thursday night's disaster was just being assessed as dawn broke.

A blast of winds in the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul sounded the warning. Within 30 terrible minutes, men and women were sucked from their homes and hurled into the streets. Homes were punched into mathematical.

Minks, released when the twister tore up their cages at Glencoe, Minn., ran loose in the town. Cars had been tossed like tennis balls. Hospitals and emergency centers were flooded with the injured. Bodies were being picked up from the streets.

The twisters struck at the towns of Chanawana, Mount, Cottagewood, Deephaven, Excelsior, Spring Lake Park, Mounds View, Fridley, Norwood, Glencoe, Navarre and Coon Rapids. Some of the towns, in the Lake Minnesota area, are among the most expensive suburbs in the Minneapolis area.

The dead ranged in age from an 84-year-old woman to a three-month-old baby whose body was found in a street.

Gov. Karl F. Holmberg paid a midnight visit to Mercy Hospital at Coon Rapids, where more than 300 persons were treated and 25 were admitted with severe injuries. Holmberg ordered out the National Guard to maintain order and air in rescue work.

The twisters hit in almost the same area where the worst floods on record on the upper Mississippi River began a destructive rampage a month ago.

The Mississippi flood caused extensive damage as it rushed through the Twin Cities. Twelve Minnesotans died in the flood waters.

Until daybreak today rescue workers had no way to know how many more victims of the tornadoes might be dead or awaiting rescue.

Coronation Day

Throughout many nations of our world next Sunday will be Coronation Day. Millions of crowns will be placed on the heads of individuals who are more important than rulers, more loved than best friends, and are too numerous to count. Only mothers could answer this description.

The history of Mother's Day takes us back on a rather long "sentimental journey." It was in 1876 that the idea was planted which sprang forth to be the day of memory we find celebrated on the second Sunday of May. Mrs. Anna Reeves Jarvis was teaching a Sunday School class in a Methodist Sunday School. The church was in Grafton, West Virginia and the year was not far removed from the bloody battles of the Civil War. The lesson for the day was a Memorial Day lesson and Mrs. Jarvis spoke with deep feeling concerning the men who had lost their lives in the tragedy of the bloody struggle. Mrs. Jarvis went on to say that there was no Memorial Day for the mothers who lost these sons. She closed with a prayer that the time would come when there would be a Mother's Day Memorial which would recognize the mothers of the world.

Mrs. Jarvis had a twelve-year-old daughter who heard the words of her mother. This little girl was so deeply impressed that she vowed she would be the one who would found such a day.

A long story followed but through love, work, and paience she started the memorial which eventually spread across her state, then her country until today we find the celebration circling the earth.

Certainly mothers are objects of love, but they are not merely receivers of good. They have been proven to be much happier and destiny-filled when giving of themselves because of their deep concern for their loved ones.

Along with honor inevitably goes responsibility. This great honor of motherhood carries a frightening responsibility. God intrusts a body, mind, and soul to a man and woman when a child is born to them. This entrusted one is a creation of God who is very special. He is more than a beast and less than divine. He is a human who must be fed, clothed, sheltered, educated, and above all reared for God.

It is a sad thing to see any of the needed aspects of a child's life neglected, but what a terribly tragic thing to find a little one who is not reared for God. Sometimes I observe precious little children whose parents (fathers as well as mothers) would not deny them any physical blessing yet deprive them of the thing they need far most of all, which is their spiritual nature.

A story of a young girl illustrates this point. This girl was an only child of parents who had tried to satisfy her every whim. All of the good care seemed to fail when the girl was stricken with a fatal illness. The child learned that she could not live and the terror of it motivated her to remind her mother that she had taught her many, many things, but that she had failed to teach her how to die.

What a tremendous task is set before parents these days. Certainly we need to teach them how to live and die which can be done adequately only when we rear them for the Lord!

Coronation Day is almost here. If we want to place the crown of finest jewels on the heads of our mothers we will worship God in spirit and in truth on this Memorial Day.

Episcopalians' Meet Slated At Orlando

The 43rd annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of South Florida is scheduled Monday through Wednesday at the Robert Meyer Motor Inn in Orlando. At the same time, the annual meeting of Episcopal Churchwomen will take place at the Cherry Plaza Hotel.

On Tuesday, those in attendance for both meetings will attend a 7:30 p.m. banquet in Exposition Hall honoring the Rt. Rev. Henry I. Louttit, D.D., on the 20th anniversary of his consecration as a bishop.

Spiritual leader of more than 68,000 Episcopalians in the state, Bishop Louttit was elected Suffragan Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of South Florida in 1945 when he was serving as a chaplain in the United States Army. He became Bishop of the Diocese in 1948 and has continued his concern for the armed forces by acting as Chairman of the Armed Forces Division of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

He is considered to be one of the outstanding leaders of the Episcopal Church in America and has a reputation of being one of the nation's top preachers. Some 1,200 delegates to the Convention are expected to attend the testimonial banquet. Three Bishops, close associates of Bishop Louttit, will be guest speakers, Bishop Stuart of the Diocese of Georgia, Bishop Claiborne of the Diocese of Atlanta, and Bishop Warnecke of the Diocese of Bethlehem, Pa.

Rev. Paul Reeves, president of the Standing Committee of the Diocese is in charge of arrangements.

A Mother of the Year also will be chosen and announced at the 11 a.m. morning service. Qualities to be taken into consideration are the mother's Christian example in everyday life and her dedication to family and church. She will be presented with a cash gift.

The Sunshine Choir will sing during the 10 a.m. Sunday School services and the regular choir will present music for the morning and evening services.

The school is planned for two weeks beginning June 21 with classes to be for five year olds and up through junior high school. Theme will be "God's Children Pray."

Registration blanks are included in this week's "Envoy," the church's weekly newsletter, and may be filled out and returned in person, by mail, or by placing in the plate during Sunday services.

Demo Women's State Meeting Highlights Told

By Dottie Austin

Highlights of the quarterly meeting of the Democratic Women's Clubs of Florida in Tallahassee were outlined for members of the Seminole County Democratic Women's Club by Mrs. Robert Petree, local program chairman and member of the state political education committee.

Mrs. Petree told the local group that plans are being made to step up political education courses for Democratic Women's groups throughout the state, with emphasis on how women can become more effective in politics at the policy level as well as more informed on controversial legislation in the national Congress. Mrs. Kathleen Reynolds is also a member of the committee.

One of the highlights of the two-day meeting, Mrs. Petree reported, was the luncheon at the Governor's Mansion by Mrs. Haydon Burns, wife of the governor. Other activities of the session included attendance at both House and Senate meetings, workshops, breakfasts and banquets.

The program at the final banquet included a "spoof" of a business meeting, pointing up common errors in parliamentary procedure in an exaggerated manner.

Mrs. Petree, who also served as a lobbyist during her visit to Tallahassee, pointed out that many election laws under which municipalities now operate are antiquated and she has been working with groups interested in urging changes in election laws. She noted that legislators were generous with the time they took to listen to the views and information imparted by the lobbyists on this subject.

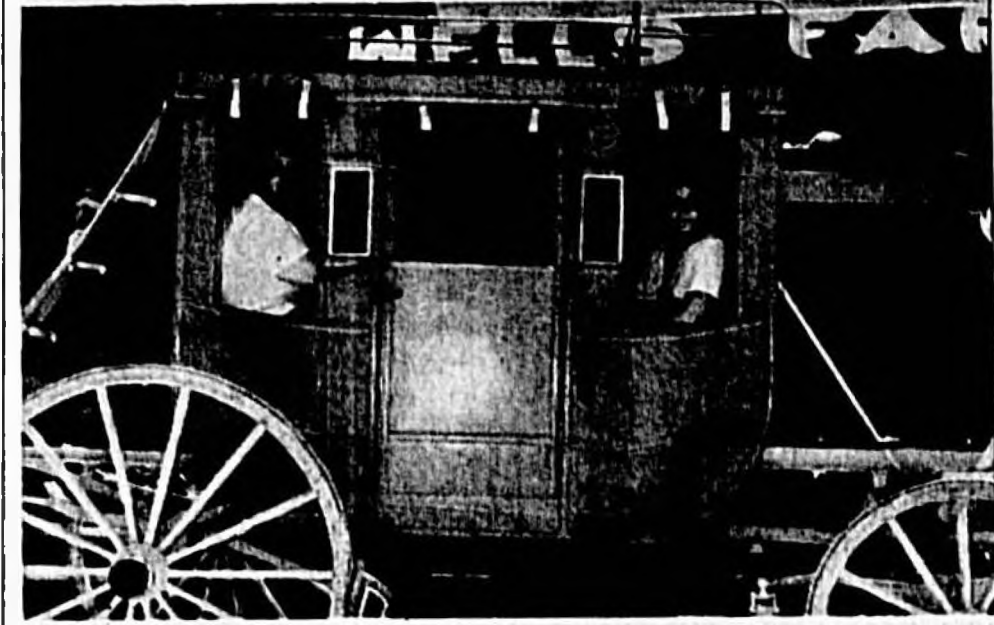

Mrs. W. Vincent Roberts, president of the Seminole County Democratic Women's Club, announced two meetings later this month to which members of the local group are urged to attend.

One is a meeting of the fifth Congressional district at the Coronado Civic Center at New Smyrna Beach on May 22 at 11 a.m. with a covered dish luncheon. Mrs. Reynolds, vice president of the fifth district, will preside.

On May 29 a seminar for precinct workers will be sponsored by the Orange County Democratic executive committee. This will be held at the Cherry Plaza Hotel. Mrs. Betty Carter, vice president of the organization, is in charge of the workshop sessions.

'Walk Softly . . . But Carry A Big Stick'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Nine turbulent days ago President Johnson ordered Marines ashore in the Dominican Republic to protect U. S. lives threatened by revolution and rioting. Their assignment quickly turned into an effort to neutralize spreading Communist control of the uprising and enable the Organization of American States to establish peacekeeping machinery. The following article on the background of the revolt and this country's response is based on material gathered by a six-man UPI reporting team. On the scene in the Dominican Republic: Jack Fox, Matt Kenney and Martin McReynolds. From Washington: Merril Smith at the White House, Charles Cordery at the Pentagon and Donald H. May at the State Department.

By Norman Neuman
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's overzealous alarm wristwatch showed 5:14 p.m. EDT on Wednesday, April 28, when he was handed a telegram marked "critical"—the highest priority for a diplomatic message.

The communication was from Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett in Santo Domingo. It urged that U. S. Marines be landed in the Dominican Republic immediately to protect American lives threatened by rioting and revolution. Johnson, as he said later, did not vacillate. He told Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who had been conferring with him throughout the chill, overcast afternoon, that the Marines must go ashore.

McNamara—tough, decisive and hardened to crises after four years in the Pentagon—relayed the President's decision to Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It was the signal to put into effect long-prepared contingency plans.

MARINES READY
At 6 p.m. EDT the Joint Chiefs sent a message to Adm. H. P. Smith, U. S. Atlantic commander, instructing him to land the Marines from the aircraft carrier Boxer, which because of the crisis had been standing ready just offshore.

The message was phoned to Smith and then confirmed by a teletype message preceded by the word "flash" in large capital letters, the highest military priority.

Aboard the Boxer, Major Joe Gambardella of New Rochelle, N. Y., was having a cup of coffee in the wardroom when the call to action was sounded throughout the carrier.

An hour later, Gambardella and his outfit, the 3rd Battalion, 8th Regiment, 2nd Division of the U. S. Marines Corps were whirling in helicopters through rain and the inky blackness of a tropical night towards a polo grounds in the ancient Caribbean city of Santo Domingo.

"It was like getting into a subway train in pitch darkness," said the major. "We went thundering along and then stopped and got off, and sure enough it was the right station."

QUICK ACTION
A bare two hours had passed since Ambassador Bennett's telegram had crackled into the State Department's communication rooms to be decoded and relayed to the White House. It was 28 years since the Marines had seen action in Latin America.

The presidential decision taken on the telegram from Bennett, 48, a red-haired, youthful looking diplomat who had been in Santo Domingo for 18 months, touched off a multi-act drama played on the volatile stage of international politics.

GHASTLY ERROR

Juan Bosch, the lonely and disillusioned non-Communist figure in whose name the revolt supposedly was started, saw the U. S. intervention as a ghastly error of judgment. He said the end result might be to turn 100,000 young Latin Americans into Communists in reaction.

The President's quick and strong action was generally applauded at home as a step in time that probably prevented another Castro-type regime. Supporters said it served notice to the Communist world that the United States will move swiftly and use force when its strategic interests are at stake.

To some abroad, it revived the shadow of the "gringo" American bully, which haunted inter-American politics for years. To others it invited comparisons with the grisly business of Soviet intervention in Hungary in 1956 when a revolution was crushed because Russian strategic interests were at stake.

NOT UNEXPECTED
The crisis was not unexpected. On the morning of Saturday, April 24—a sultry day in Santo Domingo, Gen. Marcos Rivera Guesta, chief of staff of the Dominican army, summoned three military men to his office to discuss them. They were Air Force Col. Pedro Bartolomeo Benoit, Navy Capt. Sun-tana Carreazo and Army Col. Casabo Saladin.

All had been briding at the attempt by Dominican President Donald Reid Cabral to subordinate military influences as one way of bringing some stability to the poverty-stricken Caribbean nation. Since the assassination of dictator Rafael Trujillo on May 30, 1961, the Dominicans have seen eight governments, none able to cope with the problem they faced.

Rivera Guesta had informed his aide that he was about to dismiss the three military men. What he did not know was that his aide was a member of a conspiracy that had been plotting a coup. Forewarned, the three about-to-be-dismissed officers overpowered the chief of staff.

TORNADO RADIO STATION
At 2 p.m., a rebel force stormed into the government-operated Santo Domingo radio and television station and went on the air. The police got it back 35 minutes later, but by then the plot had gained momentum.

During those 35 minutes the rebels proclaimed Cabral's overthrow. They announced that the government of the Dominican Republic would be returned "to the people."

Hearing this, "the people" ran from their homes into the streets, cheering and shouting. It appeared they were to have another exciting bloodless revolution, so familiar to the Latin temperament.

On Sunday afternoon, April 25, rebel army forces began handing out rifles and machine-guns to civilians in Santo Domingo for a "people's uprising."

The civilians in turn handed together and opened attacks on police stations. A bazooka knocked huge holes in the sides of the main station, the Fortaleza, and the police were shot down or they surrendered.

BROKE OPEN ARSENAL
The rebel-civilians broke open the police arms arsenal and passed out hundreds of additional rifles and burg guns. One boy of 10 ran down the street carrying a rifle in either hand. When a friend asked if he could have one, the boy replied, "No. One is for my father and the other is for my brother."

Cabral had been aware of the danger. Saturday night he was a guest at a seder—a religious ritual meal—at the home of Israeli Ambassador Benjamin Varon. The ambassador remarked that the biblical last supper actually was a seder. "This may be my last supper," Cabral replied.

Twenty-four hours later he had vanished. Not even the loyal army man, Gen. Elias Wessan y Wessan, with all his planes and tanks, had attempted to support him. Instead Wessan y Wessan at one point leaned toward the rebel demand of restoring to power back to the base at San Isidro. The rebels seized the Duarte Bridge leading to it. The city was without lights or water. Casualties among the children were in the dozens—most of them hit by bullets which had gone astray or ricocheted.

Three young boys were killed when they picked up a grenade in the street and the rebels quickly spread the word that the deaths were the work of U. S. Marines.

In Washington, there was a series of urgent meetings. Usually they included Johnson, Rusk, McNamara, Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus R. Vance, and Gen. Wheeler. Of them present were Thomas C. Mann, undersecretary of state for Latin American affairs, and McGeorge Bundy, the President's adviser for national security affairs.

NO SURPRISE
The fast moving situation came as no real surprise to the U. S. Joint Chiefs as they met the following Monday morning. McNamara had told Congress last Feb. 18 that the Dominican Republic "continues to be unstable." And it was because of State Department fears that events were moving towards a crisis that Ambassador Bennett had been summoned to Washington for consultations the Friday before. By Monday he was back at his post.

One of the first actions of the chiefs was to order the Navy's amphibious Squadron 10, composed of five ships including the Boxer and a Marine landing team, to steam toward the Dominican Republic. They had been participating in an exercise off Vieques Island, Puerto Rico, in the Dominican Republic, Monday and Tuesday were days of terror. Tanks blasted away at rebel strongpoints. Ply-blown bodies lay in the streets under a blazing sun. The Dominican Red Cross estimated the dead during that period at 400, among them scores of women and children. The wounded were estimated at 1,400.

Foreign nationals in Santo Domingo were terrified. They huddled in their homes.

DIVING PLANES
Robert Myers, a Baptist missionary for eight years and originally from Omaha, Neb., lived a block from the U. S. Embassy in a fairly wealthy area with his wife, Lena, and their two children. His 11-year-old son kept running out on the porch to watch the fighter planes diving on the city.

Myers had hoped to stay with his tiny Protestant flock in the 98 per cent Catholic country but wanted desperately to get his family out. The forces of Wessan y Wessan might have acquiesced the revolt if it had been confined to the military rebels. But they could not cope with the thousands of civilians who were sniping from rooftops and ambushing the loyal forces with machine-guns.

Ambassador Bennett warned Americans on the island on Monday to be prepared to evacuate and on Tuesday 1,172 of them were taken off by the Navy and sent to Puerto Rico in three ships—the Ruchamkin, Raleigh and Wood County.

Eventually more than 5,000 persons representing 30 nationalities were to be removed. The ward room of the Boxer became a nursery and the carrier's crew members shared their quarters with male evacuees.

REBELS RAN WILD
By Wednesday the rebels were running wild. Wessan y Wessan decided to withdraw his forces back to the base at San Isidro. The rebels seized the Duarte Bridge leading to it. The city was without lights or water. Casualties among the children were in the dozens—most of them hit by bullets which had gone astray or ricocheted.

UNDER HANDICAP
The Marines and paratroopers were under a tremendous handicap. Their orders were not to fire unless fired upon. And they were restricted to using only light caliber weapons. At his mid-day briefing on Thursday, State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey was asked if the Communists were running the revolt. He replied "I am only prepared to say they are participating. I could not say that they are leading, and I could not speculate on the eventualities."

That night additional U. S. forces were sent in—including 1,300 more Marines. The 82nd Airborne, at Fort Bragg, N. C., was alerted for action. At 7:23 p.m. (EDT) the first troop transports left Pope Air Force Base at Fort Bragg with the paratroopers. They took off intending to land in Puerto Rico. En route they were told to change course and go directly to Santo Domingo. The first plane landed at 2:08 a.m. (EDT) Friday followed by others at seven minute intervals.

SENIOR OFFICERS
The first senior Army officer to reach Santo Domingo was a combat-hardened veteran of African, Sicilian and Normandy landings in the World War II. He was 53-year-old Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, the 82nd's commander, and a much-decorated man—Distinguished Service Cross, four Bronze Stars, three Silver Stars, and two Purple Hearts.

Friday and Saturday the buildup continued as fighting continued in Santo Domingo, and Marines began to die. It was now necessary to establish a U. S. Forces Dominican Command, and Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer was named commander.

Coincidentally, Palmer was the Army's deputy chief of staff for military operations and was about to become 18th Airborne Corps commander at Fort Bragg. On Friday morning, Wheeler summoned him, gave him the Dominican job, and sent him on his way. The general was unable to locate Mrs. Palmer immediately. By the time he got to BRAGG, she had been found in a Washington drug store. He gave her the word of his destination by telephone.

WENT ON TV
Friday night Johnson went on television again. It was in these remarks, at 7:07 EDT, that he first indicated the U. S. intervention had a purpose other than evacuation of nationals and protecting their safety. He said:

"There are signs that people trained outside the Dominican Republic are seeking to gain control. Thus, the legitimate aspirations of the Dominican people and most of leaders for progress, democracy and social justice are threatened."

The U. S. buildup continued on Saturday without much fanfare, but Sunday was the day of big decision for Washington.

Early that day the 82nd paratroopers moved across the Avenida Mexico (Mexico Avenue) and linked up with the Marines near the American Embassy to form a "corridor" through Santo Domingo.

The Marines, meantime, had cleared out an international zone and set up roadblocks leading to the waterfront.

The effect was to bottle up some 300 remaining hard-core rebel-troops and about 12,000 rebel civilians, many of them armed, in an area of about four square miles.

APPROVED CORRIDOR
The establishment of the corridor had been undertaken with the approval of the five-man commission of the Organization of American States which had flown in to try to establish conditions permitting formation of a government.

In Washington, the President got up late, but immediately began going over notes and press dispatches on the situation. Other officials in the State Department and Pentagon did the same.

Adm. David L. McDonald, chief of naval operations, was an example. At 7 a.m. EDT at his home, Admiral's House on Massachusetts Avenue, he was given a 1 1/2 hour briefing on overnight developments. He then attended church and headed for a golf course in suburban Fairfax, Va. Aides caught him by telephone just as he arrived at the course at 10:45 a.m. and informed him the Joint Chiefs would meet 30 minutes later.

In case he didn't get there in time, the vice chief, Adm. Horacio Rivero, was on hand. McDonald made it, as did all the chiefs. They reviewed Gen. Palmer's recommendations from Santo Domingo, and made proposals. These were given to Johnson by Wheeler at a 9 p.m. White House meeting.

DECISION MADE
The decision to intervene with huge U. S. forces—all most half as many as the United States has in Viet Nam—had been made earlier. At 6:30 p.m. EDT, the President summoned congressional leaders to the White House. He also decided once more to go on radio and television—his third such appearance in five nights—to explain his actions to the nation.

Curiously, there was almost a "soft sell" White House approach to this major speech. Instead of asking for television time, a request that is always granted, Press Secretary George E. Reedy merely said that it would be made "available" to the networks. This means they can show it "live," or tape it for presentation later.

In addition, the White House said the speech would only be a "review of the week."

When the networks decided to video tape the remarks for later showing, the White House, according to broadcast sources, expressed displeasure. The networks then shifted signals, but it was too late. In the end, only one network—CBS—carried the President's remarks at the time he made them.

What the President had to say was far more than "a review of the week." It was the announcement of a full-scale U. S. military intervention that now amounts to more than 19,000 troops.

That Sunday night, Johnson explained the reason he felt they were necessary: "The American nations cannot, most not, and will not permit the establishment of another Communist government in the Western Hemisphere."

Area Jaycees Elect Officers
By Julia Barlow
Election of officers for the South Seminole Jaycees was conducted during the May meeting held at Bryan's Restaurant on Highway 17-92 with Robert Hattaway named as new president for the organization.

Other officers are Dale Riggbach, first vice president; Ralph Davis, second vice president; Frank Stroupe, secretary, and Ed Bishop, treasurer.

Directors are Tom Pratt, Tom Waters, and Don Stevens.

Formal installation will be the June meeting with date and location to be announced.

TV Time Previews

8:30-10 p.m. ABC. FDR. "Germany First." This exciting episode concerns the reasons behind FDR's decision to concentrate on the defeat of Germany while undertaking a holding action in the Pacific. Film footage includes coverage of the then state of the war in the various battle arenas.

7:30-8:30 p.m. CBS. Rawhide. "The Spanish Camp." It's drovers vs. gold prospectors in a show that really has no villains. A party searching for Spanish gold dams a creek desperately needed by Favor's cattle for drinking water. The gold hunters are led by a doctor with a sad secret and a young Negro whose remarkable strong character doesn't show until he accidentally injures Wishbone. John Ireland and Brock Peters star in an interesting hour.

7:30-8:30 p.m. NBC. International Showtime. "The Bouncing Baltic Circus." And still another visit to the Circus Schumann, with still another demonstration of the Schumann family's horsemanship. There are also the acrobatics and various types of clownmanship. If you still find the repeated visits to the Copenhagen Circus exhilarating, the show is about par for the course.

8:30-9:30 p.m. ABC. The Farmer's Daughter. "Ja, Ja A Thousand Times Ja." Even when it finally comes, it doesn't come easy. Glen decides tonight's the night to pop the big question. But since Katy isn't in on his secret, she's so involved with a gang of boys, she's in no condition to be proposed to. When the couple finally does get together, much triumph.

8:30-9:30 p.m. NBC. Bob Hope Comedy Special. "Have Girls—Will Travel." (Color) (Rerun) With rare exception, the plot doesn't matter much when Bob Hope—the star of any show. He's in a marriage broker on the Western Frontier, with Rhonda Fleming, Jill St. John and Marilyn Maxwell as some of his merchandise. Aldo Ray, Rod Cameron and Sonny Tufts play a trio of marriage-minded brothers and Bruce Cabot is the exasperated sheriff. The laughs are plentiful.

9:30-10 p.m. CBS. Gomer Pyle (Rerun) considering how much of television really smells, it's unlikely you'll even notice that Gomer's best pal on this show is a skunk—a far-real one. Not much substance to the story, but you should enjoy Gomer's relationship with the affectionate beast.

9:30-10 p.m. NBC. Jack Benny Program. "Robinson Crusoe." (Rerun) Fairly funny episode, though it does get pretty silly at times. Benny dream sequences himself onto a desert island as Robinson

Crusoe with nutty Dennis Day as Friday.

10-11 p.m. CBS. Slattery's People. "Question: What Are You Doing Out There, Waldor?" (Rerun) Slattery is suckered by femme lobbyist Sally Kellerman into taking action against a bill that would forbid state employees from active participation in politics. How does she take advantage of our intrepid legislator? She uses every feminine trick in the book to make Slattery fall hard and make soft. Fair for the series.

10-11 p.m. NBC. Jack Paar Program (Color) The best spot on the program belongs to New York Police Lt. Nell Behan, an articulate gentleman who gives tips on how to cope with pickpockets and con artists and illustrates with some staged pickpocket techniques. Nancy Wilson sings "Morn" and "My Shining Hour." Comedienne Sue Carson does some celebrity take-offs and several members of the Cambridge Circus Company do their bombardier briefing sketch.

10-11 p.m. ABC. 12 O'Clock High. "The Hero." Savage's old flying teacher turns up and confides that he's restless to get back into the pilot's seat. Savage decides to give him a chance, not realizing how irresponsible a man with a hero complex can be. James Whitmore does his customary effective job as the teacher-pilot.

V-E Day Party On Tap

PARIS (UPI)—Frenchmen will begin dancing in the streets tonight to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the surrender of Nazi Germany.

Flags, brass bands, torchlight parades and firecrackers have been scheduled in 48 hours of colorful splendor outdoing anything France has set up for V-E Day anniversaries since the end of World War II.

Saturday, the 20th anniversary of the end of the war in Europe, has been declared a public holiday for the first time in this country.

For the first time, also, a high-ranking delegation of three Russian generals are scheduled to participate in the ceremonies.

There was some speculation, though without official backing, that President Charles de Gaulle ordered this year's unprecedented festivities of the 1945 German defeat to show his displeasure with the West German government. Relations between de Gaulle and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany have become increasingly chilly in recent months.

It was at exactly 2:41 a.m. on May 7, 1945, that the crumbling remnants of Hitler's once-powerful Wehrmacht surrendered at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters in a schoolhouse at Rheims in eastern France.

The surrender was signed by Col Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of staff of the Wehrmacht. With Jodl were his aide, Maj. Wilhelm Ozenius, and Adm. Hans-Georg von Friedeburg, commander of the German navy.

Von Friedeburg committed suicide a few weeks later, and Jodl eventually was hanged at Nuremberg for war crimes.

That day in 1945, Eisenhower waited in an adjoining room in the schoolhouse.

The Germans found themselves facing Eisenhower's chief of staff, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick Morgan of the British army, Gen. Francois Sevez of the French army, Gen. Ivan Susloparov, head of the Soviet military mission to Eisenhower's headquarters, and a number of other Allied officers.

Smith handed the Germans the text of the unconditional surrender.

"Do you understand this document?" he asked in English.

Manpower Act Extended To '69

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson signed into law his bill to extend the 1962 Manpower Development and Training Act to mid-1969.

Calling the bill "a wise and necessary companion" to the administration's education programs, Johnson said he hoped that employers would make every effort to create the jobs needed to keep pace with the expanding labor market.

The development act was originally scheduled to expire next year. In addition to extending its training programs, the new law also provides for extended federal financing of training programs, instead of calling on the states to supply a large part of the cost after June 30, 1965.

Recruiting Drive Set For VISTA

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Johnson administration's "domestic Peace Corps" is launching nationwide campaign to recruit college students to serve in its ranks this summer.

The campaign by the Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) will seek volunteers to fill 800 immediate openings in urban areas, 600 to work with migrant farm families, 200 to assist Indian families and 200 to work in rural Appalachia.

The volunteers will begin assignments after completing a six-week training course in June and July. The recruiting team will start campus visits this week at the City College of New York and visit other institutions throughout the country in the next five weeks.

"Ja," replied Jodl. He became the first to sign. Then Smith signed for Eisenhower's headquarters, and Sevez and Susloparov added their signatures at witnesses.

Jodl rose. In German, he made a brief appeal to the victors, asking them to show generosity to the German people and their armed forces.

Then the Germans were led into the adjoining room, where Eisenhower, himself, asked again whether they understood what they had signed.

Once again, Jodl replied "Ja." The Germans were led out.

The cease-fire which resulted from the surrender went into effect at midnight May 8-9. The extra time was granted to enable the German commanders to pass the word to their defeated, disorganized armies.

A second, belated capitulation was signed at Russian army headquarters in East Berlin just after midnight May 8-9 to satisfy the Soviet dictator, Josef Stalin.

Senior Citizen Protests Center For Children

By Donna Estes

Mrs. Walter Cope, one of Altamonte Springs' senior citizens, appeared before regular session of the Town Council this week to protest the board's plan to build a recreation center in the community for young people.

Mrs. Cope stated that she objected to the remaining monies in the recreation budget ($8,000) being spent for a "play" area for the children instead of being used to improve the Community House.

Councilman Bob Newell, chairman of the recreation committee, explained that the proposed center would benefit the "whole community and not just the children."

Mayor W. Lawrence Swofford, in answering Mrs. Cope's question as to how maintenance would be provided for the center, said that the town would take care of it just as it does the Community House.

He further stated that he knew of "no better way to use our recreation funds than for this project."

Councilman Colin Crews announced that he would "back the center 100 per cent" and that "the Community House is adequate for the adults in town but is not suitable for children."

The board's remaining councilmen, Keith Nixon and Berl Chapman, also have gone on record in favor of the project, having pledged their support at a previous meeting.

Scorecard Needed For Big Dodger Sluggers

By George C. Langford
UPI Sports Writer

You need a scorecard to identify the Los Angeles Dodgers' hitters and it's worth the price.

The familiar Dodger slug-gers—Saidor, Furillo, Hodges, and Campanella—are gone and such unpublished names as Tracawski, Parker, Lafevbre and Griffith are winning games in their place.

In fact, the Dodger hitters are enjoying their loftiest position in recent years, ranking just behind Cincinnati and San Francisco with a club batting mark of .265.

The Dodgers boosted their National League lead to two games Thursday night by completing a three-game sweep of the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3. LA's lightly regarded batting corps raked the proud Cincinnati pitching staff for 9 runs in the three game set. And they did it without Tommy Davis, their most prolific hitter.

Ron Fairley hit his second home run in two nights and Derrell Griffith, a replacement for the injured Davis in left field, also homered for the Dodgers Thursday night in support of Johnny Podres.

Dick Tracawski, who is hitting .359 and has driven in the winning run in two games in the last 10 days, plated another run with a sacrifice fly, and Wes Parker, a .293 hitter tripled and scored the other run on a wild pitch.

Bookie second baseman Jim Lafevbre (.270) belted two hits and scored one of the Dodgers runs.

Podres was forced to leave the game with two out in the seventh inning when his arm stiffened, and Bob Miller relieved him to preserve the veteran righthander's second victory.

Frank Robinson's fifth homer of the season accounted for one of the two runs yielded by Podres, who wild-pitched the other tally home. A triple by Tony Perez off Miller and an error accounted for the final Red run. Starter John Taitouris was the loser.

The Chicago Cubs edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3 in the only other National League game scheduled.

The Baltimore Orioles whipped the Minnesota Twins 5-1, the Los Angeles Angels beat Kansas City 5-4 and the New York Yankees-Indians at Cleveland was postponed by rain.

Larry Jackson hit his first home run in 11 years in the major leagues, added two singles and accounted for three runs for the Cubs while earning his second victory in four decisions.

Jackson was reached for two home runs by Willie Stargell (his fifth and sixth of the season) and Jim Papparoni's third round-tripper. Ernie Banks increased his major league-leading runs latted in total to 25 with a single in the eighth to tie the score at 3-3 and Don Landrum and Jackson followed with run-scoring singles.

Don Schwall, in relief of Don Cardwell, was the loser. Bobby Knopf tripled and homered to drive in four runs for the Angels and help rookie Rudy May to his second victory. The Angels have won four straight and are within two games of the American League-leading Chicago White Sox.

Orlando Cepeda suffered his fourth straight defeat for the A's.

May hurled the first five innings, allowing three runs and four hits. He was followed by Aubrey Gatewood and Bob Lee, who gave up a home run to Ed Charles in the eighth.

Robin Roberts won his fourth straight game and the 275th of his career, allowing the Minnesota Twins just four hits. The 38-year-old veteran also singled in the go-ahead run in Baltimore in the fifth inning. The only run off Roberts was Harmon Killebrew's second homer.

Brooks Robinson hit his third home run off starter and loser Jim Kaat, who also yielded run-scoring hits to Paul Blair, Russ Snyder and Luis Aparicio.

BOB BARBOUR, former Seminole High School football and track star, has earned a berth in National Junior College Track Meet to be held May 20-21 at Garden City, Kansas. Barbour, a student at Connors State Junior College, Warner, Okla., placed third in the 330 intermediate hurdles at Oklahoma Junior College Regionals to earn the spot. He also plays football for the school.

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Jim Krebs, a former Los Angeles Laker basketball star, was killed Thursday night when a tree fell on him.

Krebs, 29, was helping a neighbor chop down the tree in his yard, when it fell on to the house. Krebs was attempting to pull the 20-foot-long tree trunk from the house when it fell, hitting him in the head. Witnesses said the neighbor also was hit but was not hurt seriously.

Krebs was pronounced dead on arrival at Valley Presbyterian Hospital.

The 6-foot-9 Krebs, who retired from professional basketball after seven seasons at the end of the 1963-64 season, was an executive with the United California Bank.

He was the father of a 6-year-old daughter, Casey and his widow, Jane, is expecting their second child in July, police said.

He began his professional basketball career with the old Minneapolis Lakers in 1957 after graduating from Southern Methodist University. He remained with the team when it moved to Los Angeles in 1960, and alternated at center until he retired.

His best professional season was in 1961-62, when he averaged 10 points a game. He had 4,140 points in his seven years of regular season play in the National Basketball association. His lifetime average in NBA competition was eight points.

Barbara Bolt To Swim In State Meeting

Seminole High School's only entry in the Class AA State Meet, Barbara Bolt, will travel to Gainesville Saturday to compete in the 50 yard free style and the Back stroke.

Bolt set a new Seminole record in the Class AA Group 5 District Meet last week in the back stroke with a time of 1:14.9 to become the top qualifier in the Metro Conference in that event.

She also set a new Seminole record for the 50 yard free style, with a time of 2:1.1. She is a member of Coach John Culberts highly successful team.

According to Colbert, "Barbara is a real fine swimmer who has put forth a great effort this year to help out the team."

The Seminole High track team will send eight members to the State AA Meet

Saturday after placing second in the Class AA Group 5 District Meet last week. The top three athletes in each event in every district in the state will compete, placing much pressure on the normal running times and the athletes. Each boy will be going after his best time of the year. David Noell will be competing for the Seminoles in both the shot put and the discus. Noell holds the Seminoles record in the discus. Starl Weber will run in the 880 after setting a new school record in that event in the Group 5 meet. George Markos, holder of the Seminole record in the high hurdles, will be running in that event. Rick Walstrom who holds the 100 yard dash and the low hurdles record will compete in the hurdles.

Mike Gray, Richard Hittell, Eddie Griffith, Jeff Whitting, along with Walstrom and Weber, will be competing in the relay events. These athletes already hold the Seminole records in the 440 relay, 880 relay, sprint medley, and the mile relay.

Coach Dick Williams will accompany his charges to the State meet.

Kingswood Stops Chick N' Treat, 6-2

The leader of the pack, Kingswood, beat Chick N' Treat, 6-2, Thursday night behind the effective pitching of Bud Moncrief and fine defensive play. The victory was highlighted by a home run over the left-centerfield fence, off the bat of Butch Cook.

Frank Stafford was top hitter with two base hits. The first two batters, in the first inning, for Chick N' Treat scored but that ended their scoring for the night. The Builders scored once in the first inning, added a pair of runs in the third and fourth and another run in the fifth stanza to come home the winner. Gerald Bolling was cited for his fine play at shortstop for Kingswood. Moncrief, the winning pitcher, scattered six hits.

Rick Sires again was the sparking for Leroy Robb Construction as they moved into second place by upending the Kilowatts, 10-3. Sires came up with seven RBI's and scored three himself to account for all 10 Robb runs. Sires had a home run, double and single to capture hitting honors. Don Griffin also chipped in three base hits and Jim Westlund hit safely twice. Otto Thomas took credit for the victory on the mound. In a losing cause, Jimmy Butler had a perfect night at the plate with four hits, including a home run.

Church League Leaders, Knights of Columbus, ran their winning string to seven by trouncing Congregational Christian, 16-6. Nick Constantine was the winning pitcher. John Corso with three hits and Bill Coleman with two, lead the K of C triumph. John Angel and Ray Middleton, each with two hits paced Congregational.

Church of God event out its season record at three wins and three losses by winning over Pinecrest Assembly, 17-8. Buddy Knaord homered for the winners. Randy Scott had three hits to lead the way. Bob Welch was winning pitcher. Bob Clifton homered for Pinecrest and Les Robinson, Ernie Whitaker and Curtis Johnson each had two hits in a losing effort.

In the Little League, Georges had to go into extra innings to defeat Brickland-Morrison, 9-8. The winning run was scored on a wild pitch.

With two out, Gordon Bradley singled and then moved to second when Tommy Whigham received a base on balls. A double steal put runners on second and third and then the wild pitch came, sending across the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. Ricky Carter received credit for the victory in a relief role. Gordon Bradley knocked out four hits and Whigham added two to pace Georges to the win. The victory gave Georges a one-game lead over the Mustangs in the Little American League race.

Doug Malizowski hurled the Locomotive Engineers to a 9-4 win over First Federal in a Little National League contest. The two teams are now tied for second place, one game behind Chase.

The Junior League teams were idle yesterday but resume play today with two games at Pinehurst Park.

Knudson Carries 1-Stroke Lead In Colonial National Golf Meet

PORT WORTH (UPI) — Canadian PGA king George Knudson carried the lead into the second round of the $100,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament today, but the man to watch was a punchy pro quarterback of a century Knudson's senior.

Knudson pulled his game together on the back nine Thursday for a two-under-par 36-32-68 over the 7,100 yard Colonial layout, but the field was hunched close on his heels. The most feared competitor on the course was, just one stroke away at 69, along with four other veterans.

That would be a balding, heavier, but tenacious Ben Hogan — no longer a "bantam," but still wielding a mighty stick over his home course despite his 52 years. Hogan three-putted the 18th green Thursday or he would have had a share of Knudson's first-round lead.

Joining Hogan at one-under-par 69 were Johnny Pott, Gene Littler, Mike Souchak and Tommy Bolt. Both Souchak and Bolt started like wildfire with birdies on the first three holes, but they cooled off rapidly.

Five other players managed to catch up. Defending champion Billy Casper, Texas Open champ Frank Beard, two-time winner Doug Sanders, Butch Baird and colorful Juan Chi Chl Rodriguez all made the round in regulation.

Pre-tournament favorite Arnold Palmer, who won last week's tournament of champions at Las Vegas, skidded to a three-over-par 73 Thursday and a tie for 34th place.

Entertainment for Everyone in the Sanford Area

John Wayne In 'Circus World'

"Circus World," the new Samuel Bronston production which opens Sunday at the Ritz Theatre, is an example of how hands across the seas joined in the making of a colorful motion picture. The film was shot, for the most part, on location in Spain. Among its roster of stars are John Wayne, an American, and Claudia Cardinale who is Italian. Cinematographers are Jack Hilliard who hails from England and Claude Renoir from France.

Performing in the film is the Franz Althoff Circus, famous European circus, featuring stars coming from all parts of the globe. Henri Dantes, the fearless young lion tamer playing precisely that role in the picture, comes from Germany. Technical adviser, Alfredo Marquerite is Spanish; though once he was featured in an American circus as a human target for a knife throwing act. Besides the human performers there are a variety of animals in "Circus World," such as elephants, camels, Watousi oxen, zebras, llamas, lions, polar bears, sea lions, and Malayan bears, all of whom were brought from their natural habitat.

TWO GENERATIONS TAKE A BOW — Lovely Claudia Cardinale plays the daughter of equally glamorous Rita Hayworth in Samuel Bronston's exciting Wild West adventure "Circus World," a Paramount release which opens Sunday at the Ritz Theatre.

Graduation Tea Honors Helen Mann

The Mayfair home of Dr. and Mrs. Harry S. Woodruff, 110 Elliott Avenue, was the site of a graduation tea recently complimenting Miss Helen Mann, Seminole High School senior.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. W. A. Adams and Mrs. G. A. Speer.

Arrangements of roses adorned the reception area with the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Roy Mann, and the hostesses forming the receiving line with Miss Mann wearing the beautiful corsage presented her by the hostesses.

Centering the refreshment table, which was covered in an exquisite cutwork cloth, was a brilliant arrangement of roses in a silver footed container accented by silver candles.

MEATS FOR GROUND BEEF

During 1964, 2.7 billion pounds of ground beef were consumed in this country alone. This comes to almost 15 pounds per person.

What cuts of meat does the retailer use in making ground beef? He has several available to him, usually less-indear cuts like chuck, brisket, short plate, shank, flank and round are used for grinding. Grinding cuts the fibers and thus makes ground beef tender enough for broiling, pan-broiling, frying or roasting (baking) as meat loaf.

Miss Myrna Williams, C.D. Woods United In Impressive Church Rites

Miss Myrna Ellen Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ralph Williams, of Lake Mary, and Ensign Clifford Donald Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert James Woods, of South Charleston, W. Va., were united in holy matrimony on April 26, at the Lake Mary Presbyterian Church.

Rev. A. F. Stevens officiated at the impressive candlelight and double ring ceremony before the altar adorned with rosettes of palms accented by standard baskets of mums and glads and standing candelabra.

Mrs. Frances Wester, organist, played the traditional nuptial hymns with Miss Joy Wester, soloist, singing "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a formal sheath of white peau de soie with an attached floor length train. The bodice and front of skirt were adorned with motifs of Alecon lace enhanced with a Dior bow at the waistline.

Her imported French silk illusion veil fell from a crown of orange blossoms and seed pearls combined with lace and French crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations centered with a white orchid and showered with narrow white satin streamers.

Miss Melanie Williams attended her sister as maid of honor and was attired in a formal gown of Copenhagen blue taffeta with a matching headpiece featuring sequins and tulle. She carried a full cluster of French blue mums.

Attending the bride as bridesmaids were Mrs. Dolores Dyer, Winter Park, and Miss Beth Woods, sister of the groom, from South Charleston, W. Va. Their gowns and bouquets were identical to those of the maid of honor.

Lt. Joseph P. LaRocca served the groom as best man and ushers were Lt. (Jg.) Joseph B. Obusek and Lt. William Sherrill.

Petite Betsy Barley, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl and Christopher Williams, the bride's brother, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Williams chose for her daughter's wedding a delphinium blue chiffon frock with matching accessories and she wore a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Woods, mother of the groom, was attired in a beige silk dress with matching accessories and her corsage was a lavender orchid.

Immediately following the wedding the reception was held in the Educational Building of the church. The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and mums flanked by silver candelabra. The traditional tiered wedding cake and dainty wedding refreshments were served from the beautifully appointed table.

Mrs. F. W. Sherrill kept the

Beware 'False Budgeting'

... with Allice
The single woman who has worked hard during the year owes herself a good vacation. One way to siphon off day-to-day pleasure on a trip, especially when in another country, is to tie plans in knots with false budgeting.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What happened to all that wonderful entertainment we used to see on TV? All we get lately is stuff about crime, murder, divorce and young girls going wrong. But worse yet are all those horror things that make your blood run cold. Is this the way to entertain children? Where are all those funny comedians and all that lovely singing and dancing I used to see? We try to raise our children to think clean and lofty, but with all this junk and violence on TV we don't have a chance. Isn't there something we can do about it?
DISGUSTED MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: I have a very dear friend who has been the best friend I've ever had for many, many years, and I wouldn't chance hurting her feelings for the world. But here is my problem. She has a dog. And this dog doesn't look too clean or healthy to me. He is old and very devoted to my friend and he doesn't leave her heels for one minute. When I am at this woman's home while she is preparing supper for the two of us, she will reach down and pat the dog's head, and scratch his neck and ears. Then he rolls over and she scratches his stomach. Then she goes right on peeling vegetables and setting the table. Finally she sits down to eat without ever having washed her hands. I have a rather weak stomach and this 'doesn't set too well with me. I could never tell her, for I do love her a lot, but if you put this in the paper, she might get the hint, as she never misses your column. Thank you.
WEAK STOMACH

DEAR ABBY: I am 26, have a good job and I am still a good girl. Three years ago I fell in love with a married man. I didn't know he was married at the time. He said he didn't tell me because he was afraid he would lose me. When I found out about his wife I quit seeing him, but I never really completely got over loving him. He saw a friend of mine one day last week and told her to tell me that he was now divorced and he wanted to see me again. How can I find out if he is really divorced this time? Can you help me?

Cure Shocking Carpets

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR POLLY—We waited eight years to get wool wall-to-wall carpeting for our home. It looks lovely, but presents a real problem. We get shocks constantly from my doornob, light switch, metal or human we touch when we walk across the carpet. We helped it some by not wearing shoes. It is beginning to get on our nerves and is no longer the kidding matter that it was at first. Will this wear off in time and when? What can we do to lessen this static?—EMILY
GIRLS—A "rug" man advised me that this often happens with new carpet, but things will be better when the rug packs down. The sales of your shoes help cause the friction that produces the shock. The more one drags the feet the more it happens. There is a spray on the market that supplies static-proofing and a hoild last from one cleaning to another. It is recommended that a professional apply the spray. It is most important that the room be ventilated while the spray is being applied.—POLLY
DEAR POLLY—Children often get chalk dust all over their hands and clothes when they write on their blackboards and slates. I found that inserting a piece of chalk into a small plastic cigar holder is just the thing for keeping little fingers clean.—NORMA
DEAR POLLY—Nothing makes a guest feel more welcome than to have a few empty dresser drawers she can call her own. To get such drawers in readiness, I empty the contents into my traveling bags in a jiffy. The bags serve as an extra dresser for me until the guest departs. It is simple to put things back in the drawers and hospitably has been well-served.—FRIDA
DEAR POLLY—At least part of a closet, with empty coat hangers, is another welcome addition for the guest's comfort.—POLLY
DEAR POLLY—While on vacation or any trip, we have stayed in motels that do not have a hook in the bathroom. This is a nuisance as there is no place to hang robes, clothing and so on while showering. Now I always carry a shower curtain hook to use for this purpose. It can be hooked over a towel rack, glass shower door, etc., and the coat hanger slipped through the ring.—MRS. H. W.
DEAR POLLY—I do a lot of sewing and often buy many yards of one cotton print. After finishing the first batch of sewing, I wind a strip of the fabric around the hook of thread that was bought for that particular fabric. When doing future sewing with the same material, I am saved the trouble of reaching through to fabric.—FAY

Do It Yourself:

Outdoor Furniture Durable

By Mr. Fix
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Outdoor furniture has become amazingly durable and inexpensive at the same time. But it does wear out eventually, and no matter how little these chairs and lounges cost, they still are cheaper to repair than replace.

If you can't find exactly what you need, buy the fabric itself—either the large piece or webbing. These will have to be stitched or punched and fastened with screws.
Remove the old fabric in one piece if possible. This will serve as a pattern for the new covering.
Replace Old Webbing
Webbing is generally screwed to the frame of the furniture. Double over the end—a couple of diagonal folds to make it a triangular end—and punch a hole with an ice pick or similar instrument.
Use a sheet metal screw and washer to keep the screw head from tearing through. Available is a special screw for this purpose with an extra wide flange around the head. Use aluminum screws on aluminum furniture.
Pull webbing as tight as you can before fastening. When measuring old fabric against new, remember that the old has probably stretched. Allow for this.
Even rivets will loosen in time. Brace one hammer against the back of the rivet while hitting the rivet head with another.
Aluminum and aluminum alloy furniture can be left outdoors in all sorts of weather without fear of rusting. A good cleaning will make it look better.

Scrub with detergent and water and rinse with the garden hose. Aluminum can be coated with wax or aluminum polish. This will prevent oxidation, which can cause some pitting.
Redwood Needs Care
Redwood is another material that needs no finish but if you use one. Coat with a pigmented sealer designed for redwood. It will brighten its appearance, prevent the wood from absorbing stains. The furniture will be easier to clean. Without it, your furniture won't rot, but eventually it will warp and swell.
Ends of legs need special protection to prevent the end grain from soaking up moisture. A good penetrating wood sealer will make the furniture last longer.
Painted metal surfaces will become dull, chipped or worn in time. If you can get by with one coat of paint, smooth the metal with medium sandpaper, wipe with turpentine and paint with outdoor enamel. Heavily chipped surfaces should be cleaned down to the bare metal. Use paint remover. Prime with an undercoat designed to prevent rusting. Use enamel for the second coat. Sand lightly between coats.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

One of the fascinations of duplicate bridge is that even a two-diamond contract is likely to prove of great interest and be just as important as a grand slam when the match points are awarded.
West's jump to two diamonds was one of those popular weakish jump overcalls. This time it managed to silence the opposition and North opened his king of hearts. South looked over those four hearts to the ten in dummy and decided that he could not afford to overtake with the ace.

Now, West went into a huddle and decided he could not afford a trump finesse because if it lost North could kill dummy with a second trump lead. So West rose with the ace, cashed his king of spades; ruffed his last spade and discarded his last heart one on one of dummy's good clubs. He lost two trumps at the end but made his contract on the nose for a score of 90.
If West had won the first spade in his own hand he could have afforded the trump finesse when South led the suit and would have made that overtrick and the extra 20 points. The difference would have been nothing in rubber bridge, but it was almost all the match points here since at most tables North-South went down one trick at two spades and their East-West opponents scored 100.

School Day Too Long?

By Susan Light
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Dear Mrs. Light: In reply to "The Menace Mother," I have taught primary children for 30 years, and I heartily agree with her that the present 6 1/2-hour working day is too long for small children.
First, let me speak as a mother. I have raised four children, and I know that, with the present length of the school day, youngsters have no time for family experiences which are just as important as school.
Now as a teacher. At one time, because of overcrowded conditions, we had two sessions each day. Each group stayed three hours. We waited no time in school, believe me, but DID have time for extras beyond the "three R's," such as music and science. Some terms later the achievement of the half-day session children was checked, and they had not fallen below their achievement level. I am NOT advocating half-day sessions, but surely there is a happy medium between three hours and five and one-half hours.
I have a great deal of respect for educators on the college level, even those who advocate a longer day. But any teacher will tell you it's impossible to carry out the ideal situations, methods, etc., studied in education courses. It is easy to say, "We need a six-hour day," but a great deal harder to make it work.
In view of the short attention span of small children, if a shorter day did little more than relieve some of the nervous tensions which are the cause of many discipline problems and much low achievement, it would be well worth serious consideration.
What do parents do? Exactly what you suggested, Mrs. Light. Take their suggestions to the TOP administrators and the school board.

The hands of teachers are tied. We cannot put ourselves in the position of seeming to ask for a shorter working day for ourselves. But I know we would see pressure if there were less a result on our students. May I recommend an excellent article in the February issue of the National Education Journal—"Don't Rob Them of Their Childhood."
Existing procedures are difficult to change in any school system. But constructive ideas of parents working toward better schools and less frustrated children most certainly deserve thoughtful consideration.—Akron, Ohio, Primary Teacher

The Doctor Says: 'Worm' Drug Works

Wayne G. Brandstad, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q—In a recent column you mentioned thiabendazole as a drug that would kill hookworm and other parasites. Our druggist says he never heard of it. Where can I get it?
A—Although this drug has been used for several years by veterinarians to rid animals of various worms and has been used successfully in human beings, it is still considered experimental. It must await Food and Drug Administration approval.
Q—How is infection with Step 80 acquired? Is it dangerous? How is it treated?
A—The typing of different strains of staphylococci (including type 80) is an expensive laboratory procedure which is done for research purposes only. The type of staphylococcus found in an infected wound or boil has no relationship to the severity of the infection it can cause. The serious strains of staphylococcus are widely disseminated in our environment. They are commonly found on the skin and in the nose.
They cause trouble only when they gain access to a cut or bruise or become imbedded in one of the pores of the skin. Any strain of staphylococcus is dangerous in that it is likely to cause an infection. Treatment with penicillin and other antibiotics has been highly successful but a boil or abscess must be opened so that drainage of the pus can be established.

Q—I have been taking anthelmintics since August for hives. I am allergic to several things. Most of the drugs I have used make me sleepy and depressed. Will they cause any permanent damage if I take them for a long time?
A—All anthelmintics cause the side effects you mentioned, especially in the first three days. If the drowsiness and depression persist longer than this, an anthelmintic compound that contains amphetamine should be substituted for the plain anthelmintic. Most persons who need this type of medication must take it over a long period. For this reason periodic examination by your physician is essential.
Q—My doctor is giving me Ritalin. What is it for? Is it harmful?
A—Methylphenidate (Ritalin) is an antidepressant. It is one of the safest drugs for this purpose but it should not be taken by anyone who has high blood pressure or epilepsy.

What housewife wouldn't rather go over the whole house with a vacuum cleaner, no matter how often, than tackle the job less frequently with nothing but mop, broom, scrub brush and elbow grease?

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

A home economist who is an expert in home management claims the so-called labor saving devices that are supposed to cut the housewife's work actually make work for her.
With a washing machine, she washes more often; with a dishwasher she washes more dishes, and so on.
Well, it's true that these devices have encouraged us to raise our homemaking standards. Clean clothes for every member of the family once or twice a day. Weekly, instead of twice-a-year housecleaning. More frequent entertaining and larger parties. And so on.

Let's not kid ourselves. We may keep busy, but we aren't busy by housework.

Just consider how young we women look for our ages today, compared with women of the same age in the good old days of the washboard and the old oaken bucket.

ace and cashed his ace of spades and won the trick in duplicate.
When I tell you to be your age, please understand me. I do not mean for you to be dull and stodgy, but I do mean this. For instance, if you are forty with a size fourteen figure, no one is going to think you are fourteen or sixteen years old. Would you want them to? I think not. If you are a woman with a background of living, loving and creating. But you want to be thought attractive and you want and must look your very best. And you want to have your place in the scheme of things.
If you are a wife and mother and find that you are no longer really needed by your children, do not try to get control of them. It won't work. Loosen the bonds and begin to live your own life, your wonderful after-forty life. Don't give your opinion about the married lives of sons and daughters—give of your knowledge only if and when they come to you.
Don't go "on" parties with your sons and daughters. This often proves embarrassing and never, never say, "My daughter forty."

Guitarists In New Pastime

By Joan Crosby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — (NEA) — A fresh look at the factory called "statistics" shows the average American family of five has two cars, two television sets AND three guitars.
Nearly two million Americans began plucking, picking and plinking on guitars last year. The dollar volume of guitar sales was $95 million. In popularity, the instrument is now second only to the piano and making rapid strides. In the past decade, the number of guitar-playing Americans has more than tripled.
The business is such a good investment that even CBS, that monarch of broadcasters and owner of the New York Yankees, has a guitar manufacturing company in its pike. CBS paid $13 million for the Fender Electric Instruments Co. as opposed to a bit over $11 million for 80 per cent of the Yankees.
Which obviously means a Little League Chet Atkins could be worth more than a Little League Mickey Mantle.
Not all guitarists are primitives, strumming out a few chords to accompany the wails of a folk ballad. Many are ardent students of the classical guitar. According to Dr. Thomas H. Mahony, president of the Guitar Society of Colorado, "the world's greatest musicians have created a repertoire of guitar music second in size only to that of the violin." The Colorado group, based in Denver, is one of the nearly 50 classical guitar societies across the United States which gives members a chance for a monthly strum-along.
A legend from the days of the guitar's first boom, in the early 18th century, concerns its downfall at the hands of an irate piano manufacturer, upset because the fashionable guitar was ruining his business. The enterprising manufacturer bought up large quantities of cheap guitars and handed them out to disreputable citizens, to whom he also taught songs of unsavory origin. The guitar became an instrument of ill repute, sales dropped and pianos rejoined polite society.

If something like that happened today, the instrument probably would be even more popular!
THE BEST RECORD ALBUMS
POP VOCAL — "Sarah Vaughan Sings the Mancini Songbook" (Mercury); "Dear Heart" (Andy Williams, Columbia); "Connie Francis Sings for Mama" (MGM); "One Night of Love" (Anna Moffo, RCA Victor); "That Travelin' Two-Beat" (Bing Crosby and Rosemary Clooney, Capitol); "The VI Velasco Album" (VeeJay); "A Swingin' Singin' Affair" (Mark Murphy, Fontana); "Makela Sings" (RCA Victor); "Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte" (Patricia Page, Columbia); "Frank Sinatra Sings the Select Cole Porter" (Capitol); "Latin For Lovers" (Doris Day, Columbia); "Rare, Hot and Cole Porter" (Sheila M. Sanders, Philips).
FOR TEENS — "Elvis in Girl Happy" (RCA Victor); "Little Things" (Bobby Goldboro, United Artists); "The Early Beatles" (Capitol); "Freddie and the Dreamers" (Mercury); "The Boatella" (Buddy Morrow, Epic).
POP INSTRUMENTAL — "Career Girls" (Peter Nero, RCA Victor); "Sounds for a Secret Agent" (David Lloyd and his London Orchestra, Epic); "Juan Serrano at the World's Fair" (RCA Victor); "The Last Dances—For Lovers Only" (Jackie Gleason, Capitol); "Bossa Antigua" (Paul Desmond, RCA Victor); "Raggin' the Hits" (Johnny Maddox, Dot).
ORIGINAL TRACK — "Do I Hear a Waltz?" (RCA Victor) with Elizabeth Allen and Sergio Franchi; "The Train" (United Artists); "In Harm's Way" (DCA Victor); "Les Luminous Dangereuses" (Art Hakeley and Jazz Messengers, Fontana).
OPERA — "La Forza del Destino" (Price, Tucker, Merrill, Verrett, Tozzi, RCA Victor) and Tchaikovsky's "The Oprichnik" (Moscow Radio Chorus and Orchestra, Ultra-Phon).
CLASSICAL — "The Beloved Boerling" (3 volumes, Angel); Gerald Souxy Sings 17 Strauss Songs (Philips); Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau sings baroque songs (Angel); Leonard Rose plays Dvorak's Cello Concerto and Tchaikovsky's Variations on a Rococo Theme (Columbia); Igor Kipchenko Plays English Harpsichord Music (Epic); Manuel Da Falla's "Three-Cornered Hat" with Victoria de los Angeles (Angel); Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops play "The Grand Canyon Suite" (RCA Victor); "Gala Performance" with Isaac Stern, Leonard Rose and Eugene Istomin in works by Beethoven and Brahms (Columbia).

When I tell you to be your age, please understand me. I do not mean for you to be dull and stodgy, but I do mean this. For instance, if you are forty with a size fourteen figure, no one is going to think you are fourteen or sixteen years old. Would you want them to? I think not. If you are a woman with a background of living, loving and creating. But you want to be thought attractive and you want and must look your very best. And you want to have your place in the scheme of things.
If you are a wife and mother and find that you are no longer really needed by your children, do not try to get control of them. It won't work. Loosen the bonds and begin to live your own life, your wonderful after-forty life. Don't give your opinion about the married lives of sons and daughters—give of your knowledge only if and when they come to you.
Don't go "on" parties with your sons and daughters. This often proves embarrassing and never, never say, "My daughter forty."

Chase Firm Honored By Garden Clubs

CERTIFICATE of appreciation was presented to Randall Chase, president of Chase and Company, for his firm's sponsorship of Landscape Architecture Schools, held by Florida Federation of Garden Clubs. Presentation was made by Mrs. Carl Schilke and Mrs. Volle A. Williams Jr. (left).

Randall Chase, president of Chase and Company, has been presented with a certificate of appreciation for "outstanding co-operation" by his firm with the Garden Club Landscape Design School series conducted by the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs.

The award was accepted on behalf of the local firm by members of the Ixora Garden Club, who attended the annual meeting of the Florida Landscape Critics Council held in conjunction with the recent Garden Club convention in Tampa.

"The series of four courses was begun in 1960 with outstanding landscape architects as instructors," Mrs. Volle A. Williams Jr., president of the Ixora Garden Club, explained.

"The object of the organization is to further the education of members and the general public in the field of landscape architecture and to encourage members to serve on roadside development, civic committees, park and zoning boards.

"The last series, held at six-month intervals at the University of Miami, was made possible through the sponsorship of firms like Chase and Company, which have recognized the need for preservation and restoration of outdoor beauty," she concluded.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Carl Schilke were delegates of the local club to the Tampa convention. They brought back the award and presented it to Chase in his offices here, Thursday.

Business Briefs

The Blake Paint Corporation of Sanford announced today the publication of a government specification price list. More than 2,000 of the price lists will go to industries from California to Maine.

Dudley B. Blake, president, said the list took one and a half years to prepare.

He said the price list is designed to reduce time in handling requests for government specification paints, lacquers, enamels, thinners, adhesives, varnishes and other coatings. Each item is listed in numerical order for easy identification and contains the complete nomenclature.

Blake said an additional 200 on the lists were sent to trade publications.

The Blake Paint Corporation offers a "one stop" source for government specification coatings.

"It is possible for us to manufacture as little as one quart of certain specification items," Blake said.

The paint firm makes its headquarters at Grapeville Avenue at the ACL Railroad.

Minstrel Proves 'Magnificent'

By Mrs. John Leone

The minstrel presented by the "Ladies and Ladies" of the DeBary Volunteer Fire Department was proclaimed "magnificent" by capacity audiences attending.

The show, directed by Vola Lamberton, was dedicated to the late Charles Schneider, former past president and one of the organizers of the volunteer firemen.

The chorus presented an attractive picture with the ladies in long black silk skirts and white blouses and the men in black trousers, white shirts and large bow ties. End men and the interloper were in costume.

Outstanding performances were given by Mrs. Lamberton and Elsie Thompson in their "Hello Dolly" number and The Whistlers, two young men from DeLand, brought the house to its feet in applause for their rollicking comedy routines.

Planiat for the show was Marie Dungan assisted by Mrs. Lamberton who were presented orchids from the entire cast.

Dr. Sam Fights Return To Jail

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard planned to meet with his attorney, F. Lee Bailey, of Boston, to discuss a federal court order sending him back to the Ohio Penitentiary to continue serving a life term for wife-slaying.

The U. S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati set aside an order of the U. S. District Court at Dayton that granted Sheppard freedom last year on grounds his constitutional rights had been violated by pre-trial newspaper publicity.

accorded," said Harris. "Every single man sold his quota of tickets and everyone responded heartily to what they were asked to do. This is the finest group of men anywhere."

The funds derived from the special event, several hundred dollars more than had ever been raised before, go into the scholarship fund of the club, which sponsors several local students at state universities.

In return for his work as chairman of the committee, Fraasa presented Harris with a "Distinguished Service" award for his leadership in making the fund-raising event "an outstanding success."

Also receiving a "distinguished Service" award was Ralph A. Smith, former president of the club and past lieutenant governor, who has been secretary of the organization for the past 12 years.

A special plaque was presented to Dr. John Darby, immediate past president, for his leadership of the club during one of its "finest years." Fraasa made the presentation. Present for the ceremonies was Lt. Gov. Ernest Baldwin, of Winter Park.

Yearly perfect attendance awards were made to many Kiwanians present, with the oldest, Sanford Doudney, chalking up his 32nd year. E. D. Kirchoff, international relations chairman, announced that the club had decided to sponsor the education of an Indian boy of the Navajo tribe, with a scholarship of $150 per year. Kirchoff said the 13-year-old boy was recommended to the club as being an outstanding student in academics and athletics.

Freer Exchange Of Influence

We don't hear quite so much these days about the world becoming Americanized—except when President De Gaulle gets up to speak.

But if certain things associated with America—automobiles, refrigerators, a faster tempo of life—are spreading in other countries, they are not, in the opinion of one businessman, so much American as they are expressions of a new prosperity in these lands.

Said Marion Harper Jr., president of Interpublic, a group of advertising companies, to a recent meeting of American and European government officials:

"We should not be surprised to find that people everywhere would rather be mobile (behind a wheel) than tied down; that they would rather be in touch with sources of information and entertainment than be isolated, and that they would rather have choices in food, shelter, clothing and cultural interests than be limited, generation after generation, to basic staples of subsistence living."

Moreover, if there has been an Americanization of living patterns and business practices in Europe, there has also been a Europeanization at work in America, at least in the past.

Europe gave this country the basic disciplines of trade, banking, insurance, as well as the applied sciences and much of the technology of manufacturing and agriculture. In the 19th century, Europeans invested heavily in American railroads and factories—a form of "colonialism" from which we benefited greatly.

In the days when sailing ships were the only means of contact between the two continents, America and Europe evolved along different lines. Today, with burgeoning consumer markets and a shrinking globe, these two worlds of business are being brought into daily touch with each other.

What is taking place, then, is an interchange of influence, rather than one nation conforming to the ways of another.

The key consideration, in Harper's view, is for each country to develop a flourishing economy that will afford opportunities both to its own businessmen and those of other countries to compete in serving and expanding its markets.

Thought For Today

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

A cheery smile is one of the assets of every waitress, but there are several other basic characteristics, too. For waitresses are supposed to be star sales girls. But many of them are poker faced and thoughtless about proper hygiene. So study the tips for waitresses listed below.

CASE V-483: Tony P., aged 36, operates a restaurant. As I was dining with him recently in our Chicago Loop, a tray of dishes crashed with a bang.

"There goes the profits," one of the customers sang out, as he recited that old adage. Tony winced, doubly. "Dr. Crane," he said, "many diners dislike the fact that the state makes us levy a retail sales tax on their luncheon checks.

"But restaurants which use chinaware, must deduct 2 1/2 cents out of every dollar of gross income, just to make up for such breakage!"

"For our waitresses, plus the dishwashers, are often awkward or careless."

"Some restaurants are forced to replace 85 per cent of our coffee cups each year and almost 50 per cent of the saucers!"

"Shifting to automatic dishwashers has helped cut down the breakage that used to occur in the dishpan."

"But we still suffer almost as much breakage by those who carry the dishes or clear off the tables."

"And that isn't all. We have trouble finding really competent waitresses."

"Many of the younger girls are lazy or violators of the Golden Rule.

"They fail to realize that their own pay check depends on the success of the restaurant."

"So they ignore our warning about how to handle dishes."

"Dr. Crane, please repeat some of your advice that you gave at our restaurant convention."

Waitresses, you are supposed to be sales experts, not poker faced order-takers!

So smile, for that is the first task of every sales person or worker who "fronts" before the public for his company.

If you are carrying food to a table whose patrons have already ordered, at least nod to the newcomers who have just sat down nearby and say:

"Hello, I'll be with you in a minute!"

For nothing alienates customers faster than to be ignored!

Then, use efficiency when you carry the "tools" to the new table.

Bring the cream with the coffee and save yourself extra steps.

And don't use your greasy fingers to reach inside a clean drinking glass!

Please avoid touching the bowl end of teaspoons with your fingers. The same goes for the prongs of a fork.

Spoons and forks have handles. Those are to be touched—not the end that go in the diners' mouths.

If you pick up butter patties or doughnuts and sweet rolls, use tongs instead of your fingers.

This is doubly true if you also act as cashier and thus handle dirty money, which literally contains millions of germs!

And when you have served the dessert, lay the check on the table at once, for many busy patrons, especially at the noon hour, resent waiting five minutes to catch your eye and get their check.

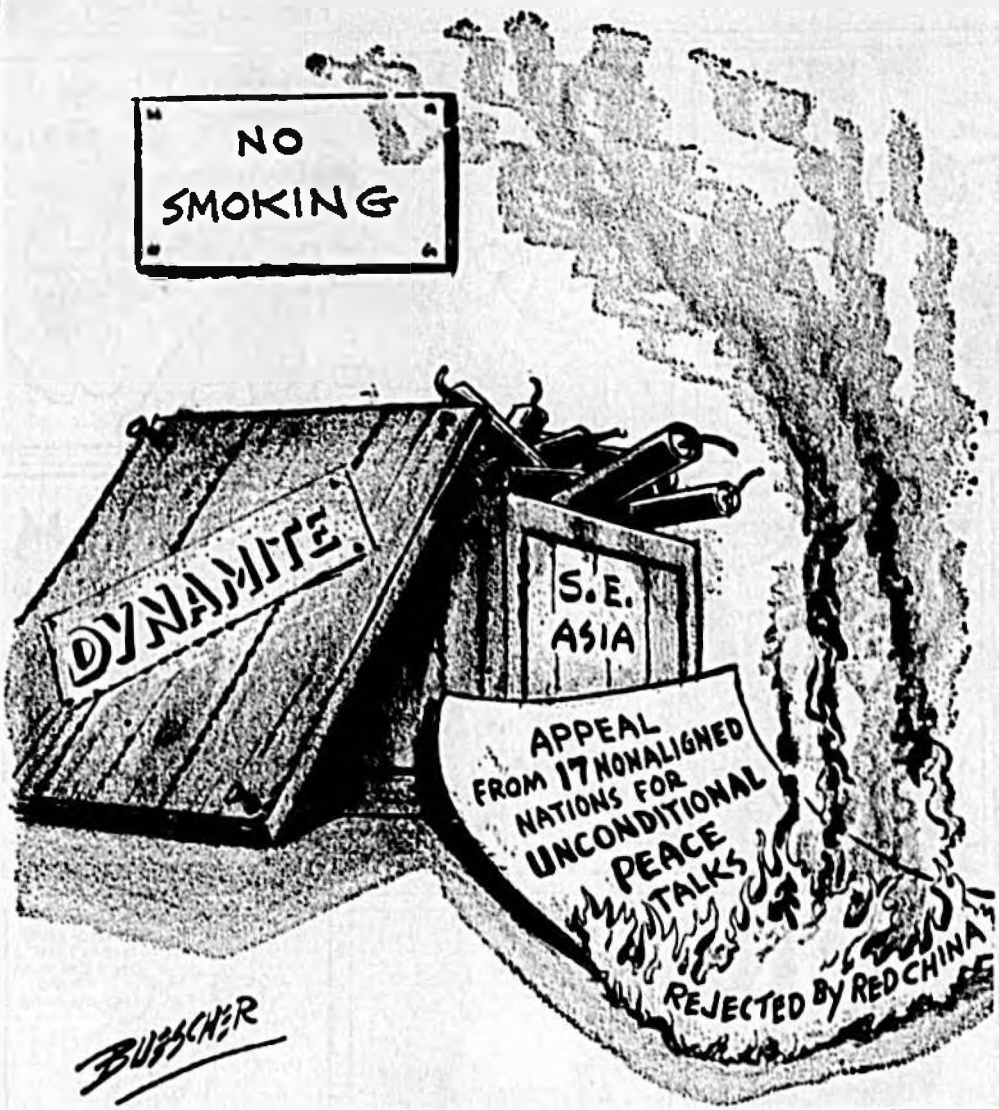

Send for my booklet, "The New Advertising and Sales Psychology," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. Waitresses are supposed to be star sales people, so get help!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The Lighter Side

United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — Purely in the interest of science, you understand, I dropped in at a cocktail party being given by the Women's League of Traffic Safety.

Actually, it wasn't really a party in the conventional sense of the word. The ladies were assembled to witness a demonstration of one of those machines commonly known as a "drunkometer."

They invited me to serve as one of the guinea pigs.

They could not, of course, use real guinea pigs in a demonstration of this sort. Experience has shown that real guinea pigs tend to get rather belligerent after a couple of drinks.

Although forewarned that the party wasn't going to be exactly a swinging affair, I accepted the invitation anyway. Having once taken a blood oath to uphold the code of the freeloader, I could hardly have done otherwise.

Section 8 of the Freeloader's Code reads: "Never look a gift bartender in the martini pitcher."

Lawrence A. Pavlinski of the Bureau of Public Roads, who was in charge of the demonstration, told us guinea pigs to consume our "normal" amount. This presented technical difficulties.

The league had enlisted a police sergeant to operate the "drunkometer." Having a policeman in the room can cause a person's drinking norm to fluctuate drastically.

We did the best we could under the circumstances, and then we all went over and breathed into the machine, which registered the amount of alcohol on our breath.

In most states using the breath test, a motorist must have a reading of at least .15 per cent before he is presumed to have been driving while intoxicated. None of us got above .07 per cent.

My own reading was only .04, and I sort of felt that I had let Pavlinski down. I also began to have some misgivings about whether such demonstrations were in the public interest.

Although intended to show that even the "social drinker" is a menace on the highway, it also showed that a person would need a number of pretty stiff belts to reach the .15 level.

I figured that if word of that got around, someone at a non-scientific cocktail party might use the information in the wrong way. It could produce a situation something like this:

She: "You better watch it, Buster. You've got to drive home, you know."

He: "Shucks, I haven't even hit .09 yet."

Pavlinski assured the ladies, however, that even though my breath was below the legal limit, my driving skill had nevertheless been impaired. That made me feel a lot better.

Medicare . . . By July 4

WASHINGTON — The outlook now is for a "medicare" program of hospital aid for the elderly to become law by Independence Day.

The House of Representatives, previously the obstacle to this controversial plan, finally approved the President's proposed bill. Virginia Senator Harry Byrd's powerful finance committee began hearings on the House-passed measure in a spirit of peace and goodwill unmatched in the years of struggle over medicare.

After various witnesses have spoken their pieces for the record, Senators expect the medicare bill to receive a favorable vote, once the debate on the pending voting rights bill is out of the way.

In the first day of Senate hearings on medicare, Senator Byrd had no questions to put to Welfare Secretary Anthony Celebrezze at the conclusion of his lengthy testimony. Byrd appeared rec-onced to passage of this measure he has fought for so long.

Only Republican Senator Carl Curtis of Nebraska was still in there fighting. Would not rich old people who can well afford to pay their medical bills receive help they don't need under medicare, Curtis wanted to know? Yes, Secretary Celebrezze admitted. But by popular agreement the social security system was set up that way 30 years ago, to apply to poor and rich alike.

The percentage of rich people among the 10 million elderly Americans who will immediately benefit when medicare becomes law, Celebrezze argued, is too small to matter.

As now written the medicare bill would qualify perhaps 10 million Americans over 65 for immediate hospital benefits.

Doctors, both for and against the plan, quake at the uncertainties this will create in the hospital world. Only time will tell the net effect.

One difference to the 10 million affected will be that in addition to hospital care, roughly 80 per cent of physicians and surgeons' fees can also be covered by subscribing to a voluntary program provided in the bill as passed by the House. This would cost the individual subscriber $3 per month, the government sharing in the expense.

The hospital insurance will be financed by compulsory increases in social security payments by both employer and employee.

The total $6 billion addition to social security benefits, if and when passed, will mark the largest extension of the system to date, raising legitimate questions as to whether so large a step is possible without weakening the fiscal integrity of the Social Security structure. The strongest assurance that it is comes from the conservative Congressman from Arkansas, Wilbur Mills, who heads the House ways and means committee and who steadfastly opposed medicare for years until he reshaped the bill along what he considers sound financial lines.

Today Mills says that the hospital insurance plan for the elderly has been set up with such caution it may be "over-financed" and so possible of downward revision of the rates later.

A mother's thoughts

Atomic bombs darken our skies... radioactive fallout threatens unborn generations... there is strife, unrest, even war in many parts of the world! How can we face the future with confidence when humanity stands at the very brink of destruction?
There is only one way: to be courageous and steadfast, and trust in the wisdom and mercy of God!
This little girl, my own daughter, does not know what troubles my heart. She is not afraid of tomorrow... not yet! Through the Church she will learn the ways of the Lord and how to live a truly Christian life. Through prayer may God help me set an example for my daughter... teaching me to put my trust, yes, my very life into His hands, no matter what the future might have in store for us!

Billion Dollar Spending Bill Near Complete

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—A House-Senate conference committee completed work today on a $1.1 billion general appropriations bill. This is $7 million more than even the general Senate-approved measure included and the drafters said it can easily be financed without new taxes.

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—House and Senate conferees went back to work today in the marathon tug-of-war to iron out the differences in the billion-dollar general appropriations bill.

The sessions are being held behind closed and locked doors, and none of the legislators is talking except in general terms.

Two husky pages are guarding each side of the hearing room door, with the keys hanging from the keyhole and anyone who approaches is told "you can't go in" and a warning hand reaches for the key. House chairman J. J. Griffin, Sr., of Osceola, said before work resumed at 8:30 a.m. he is optimistic of finishing today.

"Things are going smoothly," he said. "This is a very cooperative group, but there are a few rough spots."

OPTIMISTIC
Sen. Ed Price, Bradenton, was even more optimistic. He said there was a chance of finishing the negotiating job early today.

The group met from 10 a.m. Sunday until midnight with two hours off for meals. Sen. Wilson Carraway, Tallahassee cut short a weekend junket to Key West, flying back to attend the conference.

The bills the two houses passed independently are only a few million dollars apart in money—but the differences in what the money goes for is much greater.

Both houses must pass the identical bill for it to become law.

FINAL BILL
The final bill recommended by the 10-member conference committee probably will be taken up by the full Legislature.

It always has been done this way, although it is not mandatory. If one or both houses don't like the compromise, the committee can be ordered to go back and try again, or the presiding officers could name a new committee.

The final measure, if tradition is followed, will be in the vicinity of the Senate bill—$1,093 billion rather than the less general House version of $1.09 billion. It could go even higher if the conferees recommend it.

One big difference in the two bills is in school textbook funds.

The Senate put in $12.7 million and the House only $10 million.

"TRAFFIC HAZARD" is the term applied to this DAR marker on the site of old Fort Mellen (sic) at Mellonville Avenue and Second Street. City Commission will be asked to decide tonight.

DAR To Protest Marker Change

A request to remove the granite monument at the corner of Mellonville Avenue and Second Street which marks the site of old Fort Mellen (original spelling) will be considered by Sanford City Commissioners at City Hall at 8 p.m. tonight.

Dr. A. W. Epps Jr. has termed the marker a traffic hazard that obscures the line of vision and requested that it be removed. The marker was erected by the Sallie Harrison Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The inscription on the face of the monument reads:

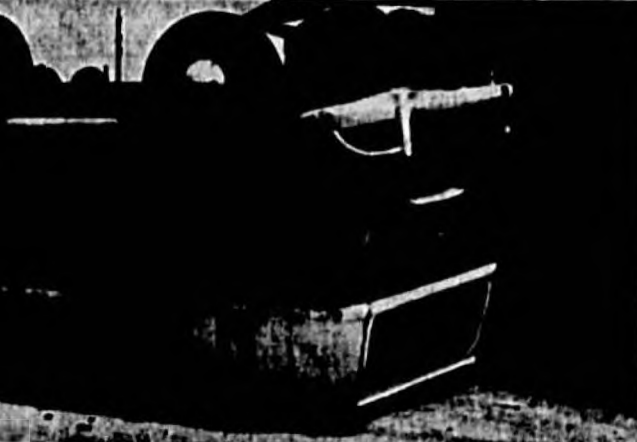

"Site of Fort Mellen, formerly Camp Fanning, where on February 8, 1836, during one of the fiercest battles of the Seminole Wars, Captain (Charles) Mellen, commandant, was killed in an attack of 400 braves led by King Philip and Coacoochee. Erected by the Sallie Harrison Chapter, DAR."

In memory of the heroic commandant, the fort was renamed "Fort Mellen" and Sanford originally was called "Mellenville." Somewhere, through the years, the spelling was changed to "Mellonville" and the name of the city later changed and named after Gen. Henry Shelden Sanford, who was responsible primarily for settling and colonizing the area.

"We certainly will protest any such move to do away with this historic marker. We do not agree that it is a hazard," Mrs. R. E. True, president of the DAR, said today. She said that a delegation from her organization will be present at the City Commission meeting tonight.

Allies Step Up War Against N. Viet Nam

SAIGON (UPI)—Waves of American and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers stepped up the air war against North Viet Nam today with a series of round-the-clock raids against transportation targets in Communist territory.

On the ground, Communist guerrillas killed one U. S. adviser and wounded two others Sunday in what was described as an "intense engagement" 25 miles northwest of Saigon.

Two other American soldiers were wounded in a nearby related action and another was slightly hurt in a separate action about 65 miles northwest of here.

A U. S. military spokesman also reported that Viet Cong troops "continued harassing activities" Sunday night in the Hai Yen region of An Xuyen Province, about 100 miles south of Saigon.

Hai Yen is the headquarters of the famed "Sea Swallows," a guerilla unit commanded by the "fighting father," Roman Catholic Rev. Nguyen Lac Hoa.

Early today, guerrillas over-ran an outpost at Ai Sonan, about 45 miles southwest of Saigon.

Thirteen government soldiers were killed, seven wounded and four were missing.

An American military spokesman said 72 South Vietnamese planes rained 50 tons of bombs on five Communist bridges, knocking out spans on four of them.

The strikes followed a night-long string of aerial assaults by 28 jets and prop-driven planes from the carriers Coral Sea and Midway.

Road Bill Okay
TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The Governor's $300 million road board program hit the House at last today, with enough co-sponsors to guarantee its adoption and submission to the people in the fall.

The bill is identical to one already in the Senate. The Senate measure, also with enough signers and vote commitments to pass it, comes up for public hearing in the Senate constitutional amendments committee early Tuesday morning.

Peacekeeping Force Aim Of OAS Members

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI)—Rebel forces today were under an ultimatum to surrender and face no punishment or be annihilated by troops loyal to the new U. S.-supported military-civilian junta.

The five-man junta, headed by Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, "retired" eight top-ranking officers from the Dominican Republic's armed forces in a move to win public support of the new regime.

Imbert urged the rebels, believed led by "provisional president" Col. Francisco Caamaño Dreno, to lay down their arms peacefully. He said they would be well-treated and given safe conduct out of the country.

If they refuse, Imbert declared, his forces would launch an offensive to capture the rebel-held section of Santo Domingo.

"We are delaying all we can," he said. "We want to do the best we can without shedding more blood."

13 YANKS DEAD
Thirteen Americans have been killed and 76 wounded since forces loyal to exiled President Juan Bosch began the revolt April 24.

Late Sunday, three American Navy men were released unharmed by the rebels. They had been captured Friday afternoon but were turned over to U. S. officials after negotiations with local Peace Corps director Robert Satin.

A U. S. Marine was wounded Sunday by sniper fire. He was the only American casualty during the day. Some 21,000 U. S. Marines, Army paratroopers and Navy men are on duty here.

PEACEKEEPERS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Organization of American States (OAS) met today to work out the details of its inter-American peacekeeping force for the revolt-torn Dominican Republic.

Thus far no Latin American nation has officially made available any troops for the hemisphere force although a few countries have promised to do so.

Diplomats expected that troops for the force might come from Brazil, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Argentina, Colombia and Paraguay.

Central American nations have been talking about the possibility of sending a joint contingent to represent all five of them.

21 Teenagers Learn Hard Way
FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI)—Twenty-one teenagers were released from jail in time for school today after they served 24 hours to learn to leave the drinking up to grownups.

The 21 spent Mother's Day in jail on order of City Judge Arnold Grevol, who told the teenagers in court Saturday they should not have been drinking in the first place, much less in public.

Club Burglarized
Checkmate supper club in Casseberry was broken into sometime over the weekend, according to Sheriff J. L. Hobbs' office today. Investigation is still incomplete and indications are only two or three bottles of liquor were taken.

Asst. Fire Chief Reynolds T. Thomas, 37, very likely will be named by the City Commission tonight to succeed Fire Chief Mack Cleveland Sr., who has announced his retirement.

Thomas was expected to be named as acting chief, effective May 16, pending Cleveland's full retirement on Oct. 1.

The Florida-born Thomas moved to Sanford in 1928 and joined the Sanford Fire Department on Jan. 1, 1929, immediately after reaching the eligibility age of 21. He was named assistant chief in 1937.

"I was always interested in fire department work," Thomas explains. "I once tried to join the Jacksonville fire department, but I was too young. I just had to wait until I became 21."

The biggest piece of equipment in service for the fire department when Thomas joined in 1929 was the Brockway ladder truck now displayed in the Elks' playground downtown. The only other two fire trucks at that time, however, are still in service although they are used only in extreme emergencies.

Thomas recalls the "largest fire since I've been with the department" was in 1937 when the old Farmer's State Market burned. That was on the same site as the present market.

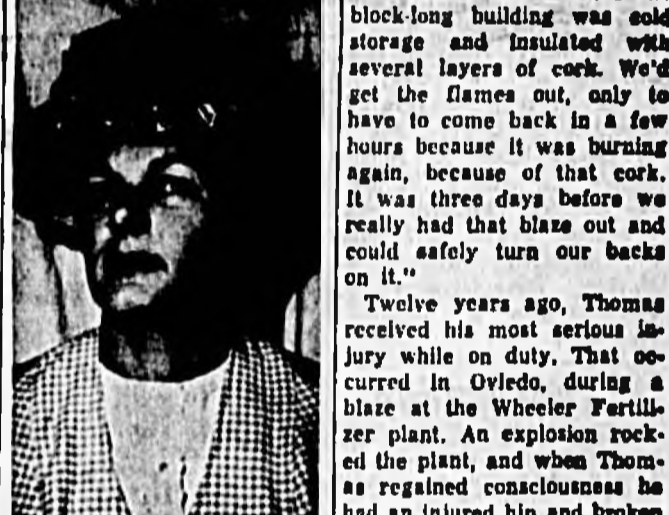

However, one of the most stubborn blazes the department has fought, Thomas says, was several years before when the old Wins-Lovett (now Winn-Dixie) grocery warehouse on French Avenue was engulfed in flames.

"It was fully involved when discovered," Thomas remembers, "and it was one stubborn blaze. One end of the block-long building was sold storage and insulated with several layers of cork. We'd get the flames out, only to have to come back in a few hours because it was burning again, because of that cork. It was three days before we really had that blaze out and could safely turn our backs on it."

Twelve years ago, Thomas received his most serious injury while on duty. That occurred in Oviedo, during a blaze at the Wheeler Fertilizer plant. An explosion rocked the plant, and when Thomas regained consciousness he had an injured hip and broken left foot.

"But I was back on duty within six weeks," he said. "I've worked under a mighty good man," Thomas says, in speaking of the retiring Cleveland. "I can assure the commission and the people of Sanford that I will do everything in my power to maintain the proper record of the department. I only hope we can continue the low fire losses the department has today. We have one of the lowest records in the state, you know."

Thomas and his wife, Maude, live at 203 Maple Avenue. Their son, Ray, is employed by J. C. Penney Company.

Mrs. BETTY Stokes, Sanford Navy wife, will be master of ceremonies for the fifth annual "Merry-Go-Round" benefit for the Little Red Schoolhouse at 8 p.m. Tuesday at SHS auditorium.
