'Great Surgeon,...Wonderful Town'

Stop In Sanford Life Saver For Former Kennedy Aide

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

When a former aide to John F. Kennedy, Timothy J. Reardon Jr., 71, found himself at "death's door" with a severe bleeding ulcer while aboard the Auto Train to Sanford this week, the words of his old Air Force song played the peril through his mind, "I'm comin" in on a wing and a prayer."

With an ambulance arranged by the train manager waiting for him, and the emergency staff at Central Florida Regional Hospital standing by, Reardon was to find a new world of friendship.

"I just want to say the good Lord must have had a reason to bring me here. I've never Reardon said from his hospital bed Thursday night. "How thankful I am that the good Lord led me into the hands of these people and the good doctor" - Dr. Kenneth Wing. who had performed emergency surgery and Thursday night was standing by his bed. "He's not only a great surgeon, but a wonderful human being."

And Reardon's wife, Betty, who said she'd been wearing and rinsing out the same clothes all week because of the unexpected stopover, added her sentiments.

'What a wonderful, friendly town Sanford is. I love it," she said. The couple couldn't say enough about the hospital administrator, Jim Tesar, and the nurses and doctors who took care of them.

But with a little encouragement, Reardon was feeling well enough to tell a few stories about life with President John F. Kennedy. with whom he served during the late president's 17 years in office ... up until the very day he was assassinated in Dallas. "My pal Joe Kennedy (JFK's older brother who died in the service) and I were roommates in college - Harvard, class of '38. JFK was two years behind us, class of '40," he began in a

After college, Reardon went to war and was a captain in the Air Force. It was during that period that he met his wife of 45 years, Betty, in Dayton, Ohio. They married and he took her back to Boston to show her the city.

When they passed the Belieview, they had heard that young JFK was running for office and decided to stop in and say hello.

"Come right up, Ted," JFK said to Reardon, but Reardon replied he was aware of "those dark room politics," and besides, Reardon had his bride

"I'll be right down," said Kennedy.

When they chatted, Kennedy said, "You're going to help me (in the election), aren't you?" The fact was, Reardon lived in Kennedy's district and agreed to help with the campaign in the nearly all-Democratic district. That was in May of '46, and Kennedy was nominated - a shoo-in because of the Democratic district — in June. "We had a victory-morning meeting, and I remembered that victory uncovers a lot of people you've never seen before." So, after the meeting. Reardon, who had graduated in advertising and PR. assumed he would be leaving for a job offer in the Midwest.

"I said goodbye and pushed the elevator button ... Just then JFK came running after me and sald, 'Where are you going?' I said I was going to a job in the Midwest and that he was going to Washington.

"He sald, 'We're going to Washington!' - I said I didn't know anything about this business, and he said, 'Neither do I: let's go." At that point they agreed and Reardon ran Kennedy's Boston office until the actual election in November. Then he went to Washington as Kennedy's first

County Considers Limits On Paying For Health Care

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

The county commission, minus one member. Sandra Glenn, voiced no objection to the health department director's plan to limit payment for hospital care for those who cannot pay to 12 days per patient per admission and place some time restrictions on when a patient can apply for indigent-care payment.

Kay Bartholomew, Central Florida Regional Hospital spokesman, said that if the proposal passes, the hospital will have to decide what to do with the patients after 12 days. If there is any money left in the county indigent care budget at the end of the year, she said it may go to extended care of the indigent. Otherwise, she said, the hospital "may have to eat it."

"It is requested that the Board of County Commissioners consider limiting initial requests for payment to 12 days per admission per patient," said Dr. Jorge Deju, director of health and human services, at a commission work session Tuesday.

He continued: "Requests for consideration of payment for additional days over 12 days per admission shall be submitted to the director of the Department of Health and Human Services (Deju) during the fourth quarter of the county fiscal year and prior to the closing date given by the county for fiscal transactions to be completed.

"It is also requested that consideration be given to referred Medicare or Medicaid cases that have exhausted their benefits if funds are available, not to exceed 30 days per patient per fiscal year."

Delu auggested new guidelines for applying for payment so that the county is not liable for years to come on old cases.

"The new guidelines establish time limits for applying for payment (30 days from discharge date): return of verifying documents (150 days from date of application) and closing of case within 180 days from date of discharge," Deju

The board agreed to place these recommendations on their Feb. 10 regular agenda for consideration or adoption, partly because the county's indigent care fund has been dwindling

Storms Cause 2 More Deaths

United Press International A fast-moving storm that tangled traffic at the world's busiest airport in Chicago slapped the East today with its third snowfall in nine days as another storm buffeted the West with rain and snow.

The storm raced east from the Midwest dropping snow, sleet and freezing rain from the Great Lakes to the middle Atlantic Coast, making travel hazardous.

In Michigan, up to a foot of snow fell in Mason County in the western part of the state early today, and schools were closed in four counties. The Automobile Club of Michigan reported numerous accidents on slippery highways, but none of the injuries was serious.

Two weather-related deaths were reported. A 70-year-old Philadelphia woman whose furnace was not working was found frozen to death Thursday in her home, and in Illinois a suburban Des Plaines man was killed Thursday when his car skidded on a snow-covered Chicago street and slammed into a tree.

The storm could bring up to 9 inches of snow in western Pennsylvania, the National Weather Service predicted. Winter storm watches were posted through Saturday for much of New York and New England. Up to 4 inches of snow mixed

Bumper Law Brings 2,661 Tickets In '86

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

In 1986 law enforcement officers in the state issued 2,661 tickets to drivers whose vehicle bumpers exceeded height restrictions.

The law became effective in October 1985 at the urging of Florida Highway Patrol official who said built-up vehicles pose a hazard to other motorists. FHP officials said the built-up vehciles and high bumpers would allow such vehicles in accidents to run onto lower. vehicles and increase the chances of decapitating occupants in the lower vehicles.

Leading the ticketing were local police departments throughout the state with 1,801 tickets issued. Sheriffs departments and the Florida Highway Patrol almost tied at 432 and 428 tickets respectively, according to Judy Moore of the state Bureau of Uniform Taffic Citations in Tallahassee., That's more than 50 a week throughout the state. She said not all of the tickets issued in November and December 1986 have been reported but the bureau is releasing the year's total.

There were no 1986. breakdowns for Seminole County, but the statistics for the county in 1985 were available.

In the two months of 1985 the $25 upon conviction.

law was in effect, police in the county's seven cities issued 105 bumper tickets. The patrol issued two and the sheriff's department none, according to Ms. Moore.

Statewide in those two months 582 such tickets were issued including Seminole's 105.

The law states that every motor vehicle not weighting more than 5,000 pounds shall be equipped with a front and rear bumper no higher than a set distance above the ground.

From $105 Million Bond Issue

Casselberry School Gets First Construction Contract

By Genie Lindberg Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Superintendent of Schools Robert W. Hughes rejoiced Wednesday night after the school board awarded its first construction contract for the first phase of a massive program to upgrade 40 of Seminole County's 42 schools.

The contract, for renovations and additions to Casselberry Elementary School, represents the first money being spent from the $105-million-dollar bond issue approved by voters in October, 1985.

The contract, for $2,095,906, was awarded to Walker and Company of Orlando.

Benny Arnold, assistant superintendent for facilities and transportation, said Walker and Company competed with three other general contractors and "I feel we should stand up and celebrate," Hughes said. "Let's give Casselberry a hand for being the leader."

In his financial update of the county's comprehensive building program, Carey Ferrell, assistant superintendent for business and finance, presented a recap concerning a reserve could look for in the future.

He said the purpose of the we feel we can do it." reserve fund is to cover the 'unanticipated needs' because projects come up.

According to Ferrell, during the next four years, the total estimated reserve will be $22,487,737. He said that cash flow is lagging out of phase I and there is now $17,720,949 of reserve to commit to the remainder of phase I and all of phases II and III.

"We feel no project on the bond issue list will be impaired fund allocated from bond issue in any way," Ferrell said. "It is money and what the public our intent to provide all bond issue projects to the schools, and

Legal Guidelines Needed For Baby

Solomon had it easy. In order to reach his brilliant child-custody decision, he merely had to determine which litigant was telling the truth. In custody battles involving surrogate mothers, knowing the truth does not assure the right decision.

Yet it's imperative that our courts learn to deal with this emotional issue. Infants available for adoption are scarce and likely to SCIENCE WORLD remain so, making surrogate parenthood more commonplace. Technology has raced ahead of our jurisprudence, offering would-be parents a new option before society could form a consensus of values on how to deal with disputes.

right to enter into a surrogate-mother contract is protected under state and federal constitutions. The judge has postponed until February any further decision on what he termed "a most interesting and challenging case" involving a 20-year-old woman, Ale-Jandra Munoz, who was artificially inseminated with the sperm of Mario Haro.

Mrs. Muzon, who was to be paid $1,500 for cultures or towering skeletons of fulfilling her part of the bargain, later prehistoric animals, visitors to a changed her mind and sought custody. The baby, born June 25, lives with Haro and his wife pending the judge's decision. Meanwhile, Mrs. Munoz has visitation rights.

In New Jersey, a celebrated case rages over the custody of Baby M (the litigants can't agree on the little girl's name). Mary Beth Whitehead, 29, entered into a surrogate contract with William Stern and his wife, but when the infant was born, Mrs. Whitehead refused to accept the $10,000 agreed upon and will not sign the documents formally relinquishing her parental rights.

in both cases the biological mothers attributed the change of heart to an overpowering maternal instinct. There is little in the devices work and exploring their way of legal precedent in such cases, which are lar different from disputes between natural mothers and adoptive parents, important and having an everbecause both sides represent biological widening impact on society, it's parents. Moreover, these are cases in which no child would have existed had it not been for a prior agreement between the two sides in the dispute. Even when there is no dispute, other 1,000 artifacts, 700 photos and 300 questions remain. Should the biological videotapes in four galleries, includments with contact with the child, is it wise that trace the computer's to grant it? And what should the parents tell the child about its origins? At the same time fertility experts facilitate surrogate-parent agreements, they express doubts about the wisdom of what they are doing. The American Fertility Society, in its first comprehensive guidelines on this question, already has expressed "serious ethical reservations" about surrogate motherhood.

Another compelling point has been made by Noel P. Keane, a lawyer from Dearborn, Mich., who has been arranging surrogate births since 1976 and is considered a pioneer in the field. He notes that, even if surrogate motherhood were illegal, it would exist "because you are not going to stop the drive of an infertile couple to have a genetically related child."

Paramount in the custody cases are the rights of the infants. The problem is in determining those rights. Clearly, the disputes must be decided as quickly as possible. For the child to reside in one home or another while the case is in court, and if the argument drags on, it can become unfairly moot.

The law should demand that the contracts be better written, establishing procedural guidelines if either side wishes to opt out of the agreement. Experts say at least 500 children from surrogate-parent arrangements have been born. The overwhelming number of these agreements have worked successfully. It would be heartless to close off this avenue of parenthood for infertile couples. JACK ANDERSON This means we must provide a better framework to solve those disputes which will, inevitably, arise.

The Increasing Cost Of Not Being Safe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A press release from NOT-SAFE, a California-based organization, says Dale Lowdermilk, its "founder and chief interpreter of divine messages," found salvation in a cereal bowl.

I was about to dispute that claim but then I learned it might cost $14,250. So I finished reading the press release, which didn't cost

It says here that Lowdermilk, whose motto is "Anything worth doing right is worth overdo-ing," was having breakfast one morning while reading about a television evangelist's "quick money" plea.

According to Lowdermilk, the tube's soulsaver announced that God might "call him home" if his followers did not "cough up $4.5 million before March.'

"I suddenly noticed that my cereal seemed to crackling out a secret message while simultaneously my feet started to guiver and my ankles began to swell," he reports.

"A dull pain began to move up my shin as I thought of the thousands of people who would never know the meaning of the word 'satire' if NOT-SAFE experienced financial collapse."

At this point, frankly, I was more worried about Lowdermilk's physical condition than his finances. But back to the press release:

"As I pondered our dwindling checking account balance, I grieved for the billions of insects that would be slaughtered on our nation's highways by uncaring, so-called animal rights' advocates.

"... I ached for the counless loggers who unwittingly are destroying themselves for their own endorphin-aholic carnal pleasures.

"... I reflected on the thousands who would never understand the dangers from high level radiation found in camping lanterns and my spirit began organizing this, our most urgent Lowdermilk added, "Only with an immediate infusion of $4.4 million can NOT-SAFE survive and help save others. (Sorry, no charge cards accepted.) Your unselfish donation of $14,250 (per member) would bring us back from the brink of disaster."

All that "gnawing and gnashing-of-teeth anguish" caused him to envision "a world plummeting into damnation because of sub-liminal messages, dominoes and drug paraphernmalia. But fear not. There is more than his rod and staff to draw comfort from. Here we learn "a dedicated lover of safety at any cost can preserve sarcasm for future generations by liquidating all your assets now. I was about to start liquidating my assets when I came to the part about Lowdermilk not accepting "IOUs or foreign currencies." Then I realized I could never be of help even if it meant thinking the unthinkable. Even if - perish the thought - Lowdermilk and other "evangelicals might have to start working for a living."

Buchanan's Deferral

The decision of White House Communications Director Pat Buchanan not to toss his hat into the ring for the 1988 Republican presidential nomination is greatly to his credit.

In announcing it, Buchanan rightly stressed the main point. which was that his candidacy would unnecessarily split conservative Republican ranks and thereby diminish the chances of some likelier conservative prospect such as Rep. Jack Kemp. But that factor, though central, wasn't the only one that played a part in Buchanan's decision not to run.

What made the idea tempting in the first place was the indisputable fact that there are a lot of outraged and frustrated conservatives around the country who have been waiting for somebody to say what they believe: namely, that the whole Iran/contras controversy is a case of much ado about very little, and is being diligently puffed up by the Democrats and their media cronies in a squalld and thus far totally unsuccessful effort to destroy Ronald Reagan and his presidency. That effort deserves to be nalled as the dingy little smear job it is, and Buchanan has made a couple of speeches around the country doing precisely that. His audiences conservative to a man - were ecstatic, and the Buchanan presidential boomlet was under way.

The trouble is that while such hard-shelled conservatives constitute a respectable fraction of the national electorate, and are probably even numerous enough to win or materially influence many Republican presidential primaries. there aren't enough of them to win a general election all by themselves or (probably) even capture the Republican presidential nomination.

When it comes to choosing a man for the presidency, most voters shy away from candidates, whether left or right, who have a passionate gleam in their eye. Even to have a reputation (as Tom Dewey did, for example) for wanting the job badly is enough to scare off many people. To be suspected of being dedicated, heart and soul, to some ideology, or even to a "rigid" set of principles. turns the average voter off almost automatically. It was the fear that Ronald Reagan was of this dangerous breed that kept so many voters undecided until late in the 1980 campaign; and it was his debate with Carter, which showed 60 million viewers a warm, relaxed and totally non-threatening Reagan. that resulted in his landslide victo-

So it is written in the stars that, with rare exceptions, such impassioned pillars of principle as Pat Buchanan - and, for that matter, Jesse Helms - are not destined to occupy the White House. Pat could have cut quite a swath through the primaries and emerged from the experience with greatly increased speaking fees, but his nomination and election as president were a conservative fantasy, nothing more.

Up through the nomination, the fantasy was shared and almost equally enjoyed by many on the left. They longed for Buchanan's nomination by the Republicans the way many conservatives long for Ted Kennedy's or Mario Cuomo's nomination by the Democrats anticipating the rich delights of administering an historic drubbing to a veteran opponent in the general

Buchanan's decision returns the Republican presidential contest to approximately its prior shape, with Bush ahead, Dole second and (apparently) gaining, and Kemp still well behind. It is Kemp, however, who stands to benefit most from Buchanan's decision.

Reagan Maintains Distance

By HELEN THOMAS

UPI White House Reporter WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although President Reagan will have a new chief press spokesman on the podium at the White House, he is expected to continue to keep his distance while the Iran arms scandal unfolds.

Larry Speakes has stepped down from the vaunted position of presidential spokesman at a pivotal time in the Reagan administration. With two years more in the White House. Reagan faces an uphill battle to recover some of the popularity and prestige of his first years in office.

Even without the scandal, the attrition would be natural. Few presidents have survived the scrutiny of two terms and remained unscathed.

Much will ride on how Marlin Fitzwater, a veteran government press officer replacing Speakes, will handle the job. Too many questions are waiting to be answered. Speakes did his best to provide answers. But many of them did not parse and he was not unleashed to find out what happened and why in the worst political crisis of the Reagan presidency.

Reagan's top advisers have apparently decided to keep him under wraps except for his appearance before a joint session of Congress to deliver the State of the Union address. Otherwise, he has been in seclusion. Recuperation from his prostate surgery has contributed to his isolation. But at some point, Reagan himself has to account for the events that took place under his roof and how it was possible that he was not aware of some of the diplomatic maneuvers that were prohibited by Con-

Reagan is described as eager to break out of confinement and to start doing what he does best communicating. It will be up to Fitzwater to convince White House chief of staff Donald Regun that Reagan, who won two landslide elections, is capable of fielding questions from reporters even when there is a dark side to the picture.

The president has been in politics long enough to know that he has to have visibility to reassure the country he is in charge.

Official's Relationship Worries Perot

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON - Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot discussed with Vice President George Bush whether a top Pentagon official should be fired because of his close relationship to a Vietnamese woman who has been linked by law-enforcement officials to organized crime in this country.

Bush, according to our sources, told Perot that he didn't have Jurisdiction in the matter, and said Perot should present any evidence he had of the Pentagon official's possible misconduct to the appropriate authorities - which

The Pentagon big shot is Assistant Defense Secretary Richard Armitage. We first reported last year on Armitage's relationship with Nguyet O'Rourke, a Vietnamese refugee who was identified in court records by law-enforcement officials as being linked to the underworld. As we reported, Armitage wrote a letter on Defense Department stationery urging a Virginia court to "show mercy" after O'Rourke had been arrested for running an illicit. $50,000-a-week gambling operation in the Washington suburbs. O'Rourke is believed to have been working for organized-crime figures in the Washington area. This is what made Perot worry about her connection with Armitage, who is in charge of negotiations with Hanoi over American servicemen still listed as missing in action.

Perot's concern stems from his long interest in the fate of American prisoners - and from a request by President and Mrs. Reagan that he conduct an investigation into the possibility that Americans are still alive in Southeast Asia. Perot read our columns last year and asked to see our files. We put him in touch with several of our confidential sources, and after that he approached Bush.

According to our sources, Perot expressed concern to Bush about Armitage's connection to the Vietnamese woman, and asked: "What does it take for a U.S. government official to lose his security clearance?"

dent teld Perot that Armitage was not in his jurisdiction, and suggested that Perot present whatever evidence he had to the authorities. Perot then went to the FBI and did

One of Perot's concerns about Armitage's relationship with O'Rourke is that it might affect the Pentagon official's dealings with the Vietnamese over the missing Amerleans. Our Vietnamese sources are divided about the relationship's effect on Armitage's ability to do his job. But they agree that it certainly doesn't enhance his prestige with

How close was Armitage's relationship with O'Rourke, the Vietnamese refugee? According to unreleased interview transcripts of the President's Commission on Organized Crime, obtained by our associates Donald Goldberg and Corky Johnson, Armitage visited O'Rourke frequently at her home and at a restaurant she once owned in Virginia.

for socializing and "drinking." Armitage, who has insisted that there was nothing wrong in his relationship with O'Rourke, told us he met her during the Vietnam War at her Salgon restaurant. He said he was unaware that she had any connection with organized crime and that he has not seen her for more than a year.

A police affidavit said O'Rourke handled bets for a major organized-crime gambler and loan shark. While awaiting trial on the charge for which Armitage wrote asking the judge to "show mercy." O'Rourke and a friend were detained by police in Silver Spring. Md., after they left an illegal gambling joint. Police said O'Rourke's companion had shot up the place with a semi-automatic weapon. O'Rourke eventually served a short jail term on the Virginia charges.

Senate Votes Against Pay Raises For Federal Workers

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Large pay raises for members of Congress and thousands of other federal workers are still on track to begin next week - despite an overwhelming Senate vote to reject them.

Responding to fears that it would be foolish and embarrassing for lawmakers to accept pay hikes while also trying to cut the deficit, the Senate voted 87-7 Thursday to block the increases, which were proposed earlier this month by President Reagan and scheduled to begin at midnight next Tuesday

On a voice vote, the Democrat-dominated chamber also approved language to block the increases through an amendment to a $50 million bill to aid the homeless.

Despite the twin actions, the pay raises are still on schedule to start — because the House has shown no desire to vote on the issue.

Altitude Equipment Mandated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government order for all planes — commercial and private — flying near airports in 14 major cities to have altitude-reporting equipment by Dec. 1 is designed to avert deadly collisions in the skies.

Commercial airliners already have such equipment but many smaller planes do not, and the new federal order will give air traffic controllers a complete picture of all aircraft altitude in restricted airspace near 23 cities.

The equipment already is required for entering nine airport areas in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, San Francisco and Washington. Under the order issued Thursday, it will be extended to Cleveland, Denver, Detroit, Honolulu, Kansas City. Houston, Las Vegas, Minneapolis, New Orleans, Philadelphia. Pittsburgh. Seattle, St. Louis and San Diego.

In addition, all radio receiver-transmitters known as transponders that are installed in planes after Jan. 1, 1992, must be compatible with the new radar beacon system for altitude, Dole said.

Nation's First 1987 Execution

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (UPI) - In the nation's first execution this year, Ramon Hernandez, who likely "hastened" his death by opposing appeals on his behalf, died by injection today for killing a night watchman during a failed robbery.

Hernandez, 44, was put to death by injection at 1:13 a.m. CST today on his first execution date - becoming the first Texas inmate to die on the orginally scheduled day since the state resumed capital punishement in 1982.

The execution came less than a half hour after the Supreme Court denied a stay for Hernandez, who opposed all appeal efforts on his behalf.

Hernandez's execution was the first this year and the 21st in the state since 1982. Texas has carried out more executions than any other state in the 10 years since capital punishment was resumed. It was the 69th execution in the United States since 1977.

Nuke Dump Delay Assailed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Angry lawmakers are threaten-ing the Energy Department with a "whale of a fight" over what some contend is its illegal decision to delay the nation's first high-level nuclear waste dump for five years.

They issued their challenge Thursday to Energy

Secretary John Herrington when he went before the Senate Energy Committee to defend the department's lagging disposal program and the five-year delay he had announced 24 hours earlier.

"We desperately need a nuclear waste facility in this country ... and nobody wants it," Herrington told committee members, some of whom are hostile because their states are more likely than others to become dump

Several senators accused the secretary of violating provisions of the 1982 Nuclear Waste Policy Act, which set timetables for constructing two high-level waste dumps.

Iran-Contra Report Released

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators have no firm evidence that President Reagan knew of the scheme to skim money for the Contras from his covert arms sales to Iran, but they are convinced the lives of U.S. hostages kept him from killing the weapons deals.

In releasing its long-awaited report on the Iran-Contra crisis Thursday, the Senate Intelligence Committee drew no conclusions about the scandal that has staggered Reagan's presidency but offered the most detailed assessment to date of how his policy was conceived and executed under the strictest secrecy.

Committee Vice Chairman William Cohen, R-Maine, said the report provides a strong "foundation" for the select panels formed in both the Senate and House to continue the investigation at the same time as independent prosecutor.

"I think they'll be able to build on this rather substantially," said Cohen, who is also a member of the 11-member select Senate panel.

The report, based on weeks of private hearings last month and eagerly awaited after draft versions were leaked this month. was released by the intelligence panel on a 14-1 vote with only Sen. Arlen Specter.

R-Pa., dissenting. The 65-page document concluded with two pages of questions the select panels will try to resolve in getting to the bottom of the controversy. The major issues, it said, are the precise roles of officials at the White House, the CIA, other government agencies, and private individuals - both U.S. and foreign - in planning and implementing the sale of American arms to Iran and the scheme to divert sale profits to the Nicaraguan Contra

The investigation to date has been hampered by the refusal of key figures to testify. Vice Adm. John Poindexter, the president's former national security adviser, and Lt. Col. Oliver North, his fired National Security Council aide, have led four others citing constitutional rights against selfincrimination.

It remains unclear if the select committees will grant limited immunity to Poindexter and North in return for their testimony. The committees will work through much of this year before delivering their own final reports. The Intelligence Committee assessment based on aworn testimony from top administration officials and thousands of pages of documents — followed the money trail of the weapons deals from Iranian coffers through secret Swiss bank accounts to accounts in the Cayman Islands, but it could not determine finally where some $10 million to $30 million in payments ended

Reagan has said he did not know of any diversion of money to the U.S.-backed Contras, and committee Chairman David Boren, D-Okla., said flatly Thursday there is "no direct evidence" to indicate Reagan was aware of that scheme.

Boren also said the panel found no evidence the Contras or their backers were involved in smuggling drugs to the United States to help finance their war against Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government.

The panel made greater progress on questions of how the 1985-1986 arms deals related to the fate of U.S. hostages held by pro-Iranian captors in Lebanon.

Reagan has strongly denied any arms-for-hostages deal, but Cohen said the panel's review found that while the policy sprang from "an initial, conceptual need" to explore better relations with Iran, it 'evolved rather quickly at the operational level" into a bid to buy freedom for the hostages with weapons.

Testimony from several senior U.S. officials indicated that during 1985, the administration was "occupied on a regular basis with matters relating to terrorism and the state of U.S. hostages," the report said.

"In particular, documents and testimony reflect a deep personal concern on the part of the president for the welfare of U.S. hostages both in the early stages of the Sonato report provides strong 'foundation' for continued probe initiative and throughout the program," it

Reagan has not provided any detailed public account of his recollection of the policy development — although he has said he wants all facts to become public and has vowed to take appropriate action.

David Abshire, the White House special counselor for the crisis, said in a written statement Thursday Reagan was "pleased" the report was released. The White House had complained when the panel refused Jan. 5 to release a draft version, saying it was incomplete. It soon was leaked to news

Abshire, a career diplomat called to coordinate the White House response to the scandal, said Reagan would continue to cooperate with investigators.

The independent federal prosecutor, Lawrence Walsh, is looking into possible criminal actions in the Iran-Contra affair. both by government officials and private citizens. Walsh indicated his scope Thursday by telling the Justice Department he will take over at least three current probes and look at others. Among the laws that may have been broken, according to the Senate report, are ones covering arms exports, sale of arms to terrorist states, the ban on U.S. aid to the Contras in effect from late 1984 to late 1986. requirements that Congress be notified of covert CIA actions, and the Neutrality Act, which bars private citizens from trying to subvert a foreign nation.

A key part of the Senate report pertains to an "undated memorandum" found in North's files at his NSC office in the White House basement Nov. 22, 1986.

The memo was found by Justice Department investigators working under Attorney General Edwin Mcese, who told senators he confronted North with the memo Nov. 23 and saw the Marine officer 'surprised and visibly shaken.'

The report said the memo "provided that $12 million of the residual funds from an arms transaction would be used to purchase critically needed supplies" for the Contras and would help "bridge" the period Congress had banned aid.

Meese said North told him the diversion of funds was the idea of Amiram Nir, then the terrorism expert to letsell Prime Minister Shimon Peres. North said that in January 1986, he discussed the Contra cause with Nir, who immediately suggested "using funds from arms sales to Iran for that Peres has denied his government was involved in the diversion scheme, and the Senate report said, "According to some notes, North believed Nir made the suggestion on his own.' Nir was involved in arranging the arms sales, with Iranian middlemen, and in discussions with U.S. officials including Vice President George Bush about efforts to free the captives in Lebanon. The Contra funding scheme was revealed publicly Nov. 25 by Meese, who said some $10 million to $30 million had been sent to Swiss bank accounts under the control of Contra leaders. The rebels deny receiving

"Meese testified that North was very definite that the money got to the Nicaraguan resistance forces," the Senate report said, "but could not remember or did not know the amount apart from an estimate of $3 million to $4 million on one It noted that Meens said North, during their Nov. 23 interview, "stated that he had not discussed the matter with the presi-

Poindexter's predecessor as national secu-rity adviser, Robert McFarlane, told the senators that North informed him of the diversion scheme during their flight to Tehran in May 1986 with a planeload of McFarlane said he asked who approved of the action, and North replied he would not have acted without the approval of a superior — but could not account for anyone's involvement beyond Poindexter.

'Meese testified that he got the impression that there was very little real communication about it between North and Poindexter and that North was not acting on orders from anyone," the report said.

Another key question - when Reagan authorized the first arms deal - was left unresolved by the report, but the conflict in accounts by top administration officials was given sharper focus. The date of the president's approval likely would affect whether the deal violated any laws.

The first shipment, in September 1985, consisted of U.S.-made weapons from Israeli stockpiles on the understanding that the United States would replenish the Israeli McFarlane told senators he met with Reagan in mid-July 1985 in Bethesda Naval Hospital, where the president had just undergone major surgery for colon cancer. to discuss opening relations with Iran and got an "oral" go-ahead.

McFarlane said he told Reagan he "would not be surprised if arms entered into the relationship later," the report said, and Reagan was "enthusiastic ... hoped it would lead to the release of the hostages, and authorized McFarlane to explore the plan."

White House chief of staff Donald Regan has a very different recollection. In public comments, Regan has said the president approved the first arms deal only after fact and he told the panel McFarlane was "vague" about the plan in discussing it with the president.

BASKETBALL Agent: Raines Says LA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The agent for free agent Tim Raines has sent a letter to the Dodgers serving notice that the six-time All-Star would prefer to play in Los Angeles.

"I did write such a letter," agent Tom Reich told the Los Angeles Herald Examiner in its Thursday editions. "It was done to make it clear there is no lack of communication.

"It simply said, just in case his (team president Peter O'Malley's) attitude has changed, it was to let him know that Tim and his wife like Southern California, and that it is clearly one of the places he would prefer to play, and if they do have interest, we'd certainly be interested in talking." United Press International learned that Reich sent the Dodgers a two-part proposal. One asked for a 4-year, $5.6 million contract; the other sought a 3-year, $4.5 million

Raines, a former Seminole High standout who now lives in Heathrow, has already rejected a 3-year, $4.8 million contract from the Montreal Expos, the team with which he has spent his entire major-league career. The outfielder led the National League in hitting last year with a .334 average. Reich told the Herald Exam-

Greg Brick ran his countyleading scoring total to 25 goals as he scored twice to lift Oviedo's Lions, ranked ninth in the state in Class 3A, to a 3-1 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Lake Brantley's Patriots at Lake Brantley High.

For Oviedo, 10-4-3 overall and 3-3-2 in the SAC, it was their first win over a conference team, other than Seminole, in four years. Brantley now stands at 6-10-4 overall and 2-5-1 in the Brick's first goal came on an assist by Jim Guggenheim off an Indirect kick and Scott Walsenen then scored on an assist from Rob Seltzer for a 2-0 Oviedo lead. Brantley drew within 2-1 before the first half ended on a goal by Cory Sheffield off Mark Weisgerber's assist.

Oviedo added an insurance goal in the second half when Brick scored off Duncan Jones' assist and the Lions then rode the solid goalkeeping play of Gordon King the rest of the way.

Lake Brantley outshot the Llons, 22-9, in the game but King made 14 saves including one on a penalty kick with eight

Jerry Philips scored two goals and Alejandro Baliaudo added one as Lake Howell's Silver Hawks, ranked eighth in the state in Class 4A, clinched the Seminole Athletic Conference title with a 3-0 victory over Lake Mary's Rams Thursday night at Lake Howell High.

Lake Howell, 15-2-2 overall, ran its SAC record to 8-0 while second place Lake Mary, 14-3-3 overall, fell to 5-2-1 in the league. Lake Mary now must regroup for a big nonconference game Saturday at sixth-ranked

(3A) Orlando Bishop Moore. "It was a great way to clinch the conference," Lake Howell coach Glen Griffin said. "It was one of the better games the team has played all year. Our kids won most of the 50-50 balls, had lots of supporting runs and did some good, hard tackling."

The Hawks took a 1-0 lead 10:22 Into the game when Ballaudo broke into the open and converted the one on one opportunity. Lake Howell scored again with nine minutes left in the first half when Philips scored on an assist from Chris Me-

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Some early mistakes came back to haunt Lake Brantley's Patriots Thursday night as they dropped a 39-33 decision to Orlando Evans in prep wrestling action at Lake Brantley High.

Brantley's dual meet record now stands at 5-6-1. The Patriots return to the mat next Friday at home against Orlando Oak Ridge.

"Evans is a strong, physical team so a lot of our guys in the lower weights were getting tired in the third period and giving up some silly points." Lake Brantley coach Kevin Carpenger said. "Then it came down to unlimited and Evans' kid Just went out and

IN BRIEF

Whalers Knock Off Bruins. Take Turn In First Place

United Press International

The Hartford Whalers Thursday night became the latest owners of first place in the Adams Division. Tomorrow, it could all change - as it has throughout the

"A game like this, when it's for first place, really pumps you up," said Sylvain Turgeon, who along with Stewart Gavin scored two goals to lead the Whalers to a 6-3 victory over the Boston Bruins. "It's important to get the lead in the second half of the season if you want to finish first, and that's our goal."

Hartford improved to 26-19-6 for 58 points - one more than idle Montreal, which is 25-22-7 and has often switched positions with the Whalers atop the division. The Whalers also have played three fewer games than the Canadiens. Boston, which has played 50 games, has 55

The Whalers squandered a 3-0 advantage but were saved by the goaltending of Mike Liut until they could regain control.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 5-3, St. Louis topped Toronto 4-2 and Calgary tied Minnesota 3-3.

Caldwell's 67 Leads Pro-Am

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) - Rex Caldwell, once a top professional golfer, encountered a pleasant surprise as he left the 18th green on the opening day of the Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

His name was on top of the leader board.

Caldwell fired a five-under-par 67 Thursday to lead a group consisting of Sandy Lyle, Lanny Wadkins, Tom Byrum and John Adams by one stroke after the first day of the event played annually on three Monterey Peninsula golf courses.

"I hit it solid right out of the box today," said Caldwell, who was invited to play at Pebble Beach by the tourney's sponsor, AT&T. "It stayed that way all day. It's what you'd like to do every time you go out."

The 36-year-old has plummeted in the professional golf rankings since rising as high as sixth on the money list in 1983. Last year, Caldwell's game fell so far, he lost his Tour exemption card.

Tip Top Drops McCoy's, 43-40

Tip Top Supermarket offset 33 points by Travis Perkins with some balanced scoring to nip McCoy's Cleaners, 43-40, in Sanford Recreation Department Junior League Basketball Thursday night at the Salvation Army Gym.

In Thursday's other game, First Union slipped past Salvation Army, 32-31, as Kit Brown dropped in five consecutive free throws in the final quarter.

Tip Top was led in scoring by Demetrius Beamon with 18 points. Corey Bennett added eight while Leo Butts and Dontalle Byrd each chipped in six. Kris Chambers and Don Hunt each had a bucket. Willie Davis tossed in four and Raymond Perkins added three for McCoy's.

In First Union's victory, Brown led the way with 13 points while Deandee Ware totaled eight. Cliffton Robinson Andreaus Key tossed in two.

Determined Alcott Leads Mazda

BOCA RATON (UPI) - Amy Alcott doesn't have to try very hard to be colorful but, once in a while, she makes an extra effort.

Thursday was one of those days. Alcott wore a pair of black, yellow and red shorts as she surged into the lead of the $200,000 Mazda Classic, the first stop on the LPGA tour. She sank two 20-foot putts on her last two holes for a

5-under-par 67 and a one-shot lead over Becky Pearson. Three shots back at 70 were Lauri Peterson, Sherri Turner and Betsy King. Nancy Lopez, returning to full-time play after taking most of last year off to have a baby, shot a 5-over-par 77: 1986 Player of the Year Pat Bradley was in contention at even-par 72; and defending champion Val

Top Seed Mecir Advances

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) - Top seed Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia whipped eighth seed Bill Scanlon, 6-2, 6-2 Friday to advance to the semifinals of the $105,000 New South Wales Men's Open tennis tournament at White City.

Mecir, 22, defeated Scanlon, of Dallas, in 62 minutes and will face Wally Masur in Saturday's scheduled semifinals. The Czech has only dropped 15 games in his three matches in the tournament, and has yet to lose a set.

Gambles Pay Off For Bucks

United Press International

The Milwaukee Bucks finally rolled a winning combination on their two biggest gambles for this season.

Jack Sikma, acquired from the Seattle SuperSonics during the offseason, and John Lucas, reclaimed from the drugrehabilitation scrap heap, played key roles Thursday night in the Bucks' 99-93 victory over the Rockets in Houston. Sikma scored 12 of his season-high 22 points in the fourth quarter, and Lucas added 17 points and 7 assists. Each scored 4 points in the final 2:10. "I finally got something going in the second half," said Sikma, 31, a 10-year veteran coming off a knee injury who is supposed to provide the impetus that will lift the Bucks further than the Central Division title they have won the last five seasons. 'My drive to the basket was there once and a while. We ran a lot of plays through me, so I had my hands on the ball in the second half." Part of the reason was Lucas, who consistently delivered inside passes. Lucas had been with the Rockets last year when he came forward with a drug problem for the second time. This year, in a surprising move.

Milwaukee signed him Jan. 17. "I didn't get a lot of rest today." Lucas said of his return to Houston. "I saw a lot of friends. I've got to have tough skin. I can't hide from this disease."

Cavaliers 102, Hawks 91 At Richfield, Ohio, Craig Ehlo scored a career-high 26 points to match teammate Ron !!......... and the Cavaliers held Atlanta to 11 third-quarter points. Harper also tied a team record with 8. steals, helping send Atlanta to its sixth straight road loss. Dominique Wilkins led the Hawks with 22 points.

Pistons 112, Bullets 101 At Pontiac, Mich., Adrian Dantley scored 25 points and Bill Pistons snap a three-game losing streak. Dennis Rodman finished with 16 points, and Islah Thomas and Vinnie Johnson had 14 each for Detroit. Jeff Malone scored 20 points and Moses Malone 18 for Washington.

Mavericks 132. Nuggets 102
At Denver, Mark Aguirre scored 36 points, and Detlef Schrempf and Rolando Blackman added 18 apiece to lead the Mavericks. Lafayette Lever finished with 24 points, 14 rebounds and 10 assists to pace the Nuggets, his third straight triple-double and his leagueleading ninth of the season.

Jazz 120, Trail Blazers 114 At Salt Lake City, Karl Malone scored 21 points and Thurl Bailey added 13 of his 19 points in the fourth quarter, leading the Jazz to Coach Frank Layden's 200th career victory. Utah had seven players scoring in double figures, including John Stockton with 16. Kiki Vandeweghe led Portland with 33 points.

Spurs 113, Kings 107 At Sacramento, Mychal Thompson and Anthony Jones each hit 2 foul shots in the final seconds to end a Kings rally and lift the Spurs. San Antonio's Walter Berry had a game-high 24 points. Sacramento's Reggle Theus scored 16 points in the final quarter and wound up with 20. The Spurs have won five of their last six.

Make Room For At Least 1 Tomato Plant

The vegetable that everyone should have in their spring garden is the tomato. Whether or not you live in an apartment. condo, or a ranch in the country. you have room for at least one tomato plant. You can grow them in hanging baskets, tubs on your patlo, among the ornamentals in your foundation planting, or in that big vegetable garden out back. There's nothing that can compare with the fresh taste of a vine-ripened And, as soon as possible after a tomato. And, judging by the rain. popularity of this vegetable. See most gardeners feel that raising than them is definitely worth the Tomatoes were once thought of as poisonous. They do belong to the poisonous nightshade family. But, so do potatoes, peppers, and eggplants. Maybe it was because tomatoes were not native to Europe. They originated in south and central America, and were introduced to Europe by the Spanish in the sixteenth century. The English grew them on trellises as ornamentals. The French considered them "peasant food." People began to eat them here about the middle of the nineteenth century. Since then, the tomato top in popularity.

The large red fruits we enjoy today have little in common with their ancestors, grown by the Incas in Peru. Those early tomatoes were small and yellow. Today's sweet, julcy tomatoes were developed by the Italians, plants too. Mulches help conand eventually found their way serve moisture, inhibit weed to America.

To raise any vegetable successfully, you need to begin with adequate soil preparation. And, tomatoes are no different. They prefer a slightly acid soil, with a pH between 6.0 and 6.8. If the pH of your soll is less than 6.0, it is too acid and must be amended. To be sure, it's a good idea to have your solld tested for pH. Garden soil testers are available at some garden supply stores, or you can have it tested at the Agricultural Center in

Sanford for a small fee. Another important part of soil preparation is fertilization. Some folks believe in fertilizing the soil before planting. If you prefer this method, apply about two-and-a-half pounds of a complete fertilizer, such as 6-8-8 with minor elements, for every 100 square feet of garden area. Do this a week before planting them. Check with your favorite and, mix the fertilizer thoroughly into the soil. Three tomatoes, add another two pounds of fertilizer per 100 square feet as a side dressing. Then water thoroughly. Regardless of your fertilization method. make a side dressing of fertilizer every two or three weeks, adding a total of about ten pounds per 100 square feet during the

Before you plant, be sure all danger of frost has passed. Choose the healthlest plant from recommended varieties you can find and handle them gently. It's best to transplant on a cloudy day, or late in the afternoon.

Set your plants slightly deeper than they are growing in the container. You might want to add a cutworm control at the same time. If you wait even a day before controlling cutworms. you may have to buy new plants. If the variety you choose needs staking, you can drive stakes into the soil at the time of planting. Place the stakes three or four inches from the plants. As the plants grow, simply tie them to the stakes with string or strips of cloth.

To help your plants get off to a good start, make a starter solution of one or two tablespoons of an all-purpose granular garden fertilizer, such as a 6-6-6 or has enjoyed a rapid climb to the 8-8-8, in a gallon of water. Pour about a pint of this liquid into the planting hole as you set each plant. Be sure to shade your plants for a few days after planting.

> It's a good idea to mulch your growth, and minimize fertilizer leaching. Good materials for mulching include: straw, dried lawn clippings, pine straw, and black plastic. If you'd like to try plastic, prepare the soil for planting, making sure its moist. Lay the black plastic over the entire bed, and anchor the edges with soil. Then, cut holes in the plastic and set the plants through it into the bed.

Tomatoes need about an inch of water once every week - it's better than many light sprinklings. If your soil is very sandy, you may need to water more frequently - especially the first week after planting. Never let the soil dry out completely.

Many insects bother tomatoes, causing leaf and fruit damage. A general purpose garden insecticide will control most of garden supply center.

The most serious diseases of weeks after you plant the tomatoes are blights, leaf spots, wilts, and viruses. Leaf spots can usually be controlled with fungicide sprays. However, viruses and wilts must be controlled by using resistant plant varietles.

Remember, plenty of sunshine is a must for healthy, sweet tomatoes. IFAS vegetable experts suggest a minimum of six hours a day, but sunshine all day is even better. Happy Gardening.

Pants-Wearing Women Don't Skirt Issue

DEAR ABBY: I haven't quite decided whether I am more amused or outraged by the Infantile attitude of "Al From Santa Barbara." He's the jerk who said if a woman wore pants (slacks) on their first date, there wouldn't be a second one. He thinks women should wear dresses so he can tell the difference between men and women. If this is the only way Al can tell the difference, he has a serious problem. VICKI FROM SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: Al is right. If a man picked me up for a date dressed like a slob, I wouldn't say anything either. If that's his style, who am I to try to change him? Most women wear slacks because it's too much trouble to put on a foundation garment, hostery and heels, which is the proper way for a lady to dress. They'd rather throw on a pair of pants, never mind if their abdomen sticks out six inches ahead of their busts - not to mention what their rear looks

ANTI-PANTS WOMAN

DEAR ABBY: I am over 40, plump, female and married, and wear pants ALL the time. My legs are too heavy from the hips down to wear anything else. I would gross people out if I wore a skirt or dress. And I'm not the only woman with that problem.

wear them only during bad weather and for sports events requiring pants. Then I wear an overblouse to cover my behind and stomach. I hate pants on older women. The only females who should wear pants in public are cute little girls with wellrounded behinds.

PANTLESS IN POMPANO

DEAR ABBY: May I answer Al who thinks women don't look good in pants? A lot of men don't look good in pants either. If you think women should wear dresses so you can distinguish them from men, maybe you should join a nudist colony.

JANELLE FROM LINCOLN, NEB.

DEAR ABBY: After a woman has worn slacks for a while she is never warm in a dress. That's why I haven't allowed myself to become addicted to slacks. Also, after seeing myself in a rearview mirror, I realized I looked better in a dress. Another reason for wearing pants: After a certain age many people have chosen "Deep Purple" as their theme song — to match the varicose DEAR ABBY: I'm a 63-year-veins in their legs. Pants hide

Mother Of Dead U.S. Student Denounces Killer's Sentence

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) - The mother of a U.S. resident burned to death during an anti-government protest denounced a ruling that reduced a homicide charge against an officer accused in the death of her son and allowed him to go free on $25 bond.

Army Lt. Pedro Fernandez had been charged by a military tribunal with using unnecessary violence resulting in the death of Rodrigo Rojas, a 19-year-old Chilean who lived with his exiled mother in Washington, and grievous bodily harm to his female

The military judge in charge of the case Thursday reduced the charge to manslaughter due to criminal negligence.

The officer was accused of dumping the youths in a ditch outside Santiago after they sustained third-degree burns instead of taking them to hospital.

In Washington, Rojas's mother, Veronica Negre, denounced the ruling.

"To me it is another time my son is being killed," Negre said. "This is proof that in Chile there is no justice, that we need a new government. I will do everything possible to get justice in the case of

The expulsion, the second of a foreign reporter in seven months, coincides with a flerce conservative backlash against Western influences sparked by last month's student demonstrations for freedom and democracy.

Authorities have criticized foreign reports on the unrest and some diplomats believe that MacDonald's expulsion might be aimed at warning Chinese against contacts with foreign journalists.

Market Begins Fall

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 3.38 to 2180.01 Thursday, was down 2.39 to 2157.62 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 533 407 among the 1,407 issues crossing the New York Stock

Early turnover amounted to about 12,788,800 shares.

The stock market posted modest losses in heavy trading Thursday as investors, holding stocks at record high prices, took profits.

"There are bulls and bears and then there are pigs," said James Andrews, who heads the institutional trading desk at Philadelphia-based Janney Montgomery Securities. "It's absolutely incredible. People have been buying and buying and buying and we are close enough to the top that they should consider some serious profit

Andrews said Thursday's trading indicated that "the party is over for a few days." He said profit taking might last only three or four days but could develop into the "beginning of the end of the market for a while."

"The market is acting tired," said William LeFevre, senior vice president in market strategy at Hartford-based Advest, Inc. He downplayed the signscance of the market's gains since Friday's decline in record volatility and volume.

After the surgery, Alyssia had a severe convulsion and experienced seizures throughout the night. But it was about the same reaction she had after the earlier brain surgery, from which she recovered nicely.

in the Seminole County jail. According to his Sanford police arrest report, DeSaussure was born in Sanford.

The second suspect, Harriett said, was taken into custody by Seminole County sheriff's deputies. Seminole County sheriff's Capt. Roy Hughey today said, that according to Seminole County jail administrator Capt. Jay Leman that suspect's name is Roosevelt Walker.

However, there is no record of Walker having been arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies and he was not booked into the Seminole County jail. Walker, Hughey said, was apparently taken from the Seminole County jail by Apopka police and is believed to have been taken back to Apopka by police.

Apopka police early today told Hughey that they expect to use Walker as a witness in the case and they don't expect to charge him in connection with the killing.

The Apopka police chief was unavailable to discuss the case early today, according to spokesmen for that department. Harriett said DeSaussure was taken into custody by Sanford police based on the probable cause Apopka police said they had in accusing him of being a party to the shooting, which reportedly occurred just before the chase began. Harriett said he does not know details of the alleged murder, which unconfirmed reports said incolved the shooting death of an Apopka man outside a bar in Apopka at about 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies joined the chase at the Seminole/Lake County line and Harriett said his officers joined the pursuit when the suspects' car entered Sanford.

The Chase I assistance was a critical element in the capture, Harriett said, because the locations of the suspects' were pinpointed from the air.

Reardon's title was administrative assistant while JFK was in Congress and the Senate; and while working with the late president in the White House. Reardon held two commissions. He was administrative assistant to the president, and special assistant to the president for Cabinet affairs.

He and his wife talked about being friends with "Jack and Jackie," and having dinner with them while Caroline was still in her crib. The Reardons lived in Georgetown near the Kennedys and Kennedy and Reardon often drove home together, well after dark.

One day, they were driving down Pennsylvania Avenue with the top down, and JFK asked, "T.J., what do you think is the best way to die?" Reardon said he guessed of old age.

"No, the best way is to die in war as a soldier," JFK answered. "He was a fantastic fellow with

Art Born Of The Sea

A Legacy From Whalers Of Yore Combines Beauty And Value

Story And Photos By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

Old salts, American whalers of a past era, filled some of their days at sea transforming the ivory bones of their catches into works of art.

Scrimshaw, the carving of designs into ivory, became a tradition among seafarers. Whaling is no longer part of the American scene, but the craft of scrimshaw and some of the old pieces of this early folk art live on. Sanford policeman David Semones, who is

Sanford policeman David Semones, who is also an artist specializing in drawings of wildlife and landscapes, sometimes chooses scrimshaw as a creative outlet.

Seascapes and nautical subjects were favored by the oldtime artislans. Semones follows those subject lines, but sometimes he takes a different turn with his scrimshaw. He often does traditional seafarer scenes, but he also adapts the artform to include forest animals and even a little log cabin in a woodsy setting.

Semones said he also breaks with tradition with the technique he uses to etch his designs into the bone and horn he uses in the craft.

"The way it's normally done I don't do it," he said. "I think the original way and the way a lot of people do it, they take India ink and smear it over the surface and let it dry. Then they use different kinds of needles. Some people use tattoo needles. I use a real fine point needle that comes on a compass. I put it in a holder like a pencil.

"Initally they put black ink over the Ivory and as they scratched through It, it would make a white line. They would draw the Image and then when they finished they'd put ink back over it into the scratches.

"Then they'd clean the surface leaving the ink in the scratches.

"I take a pencil and do a pencil drawing on the ivory and come back with my needle and go over it. If you look in the light that reflects off the surface you can see the scratches and that's what I'll do. I'll just scratch the design in and after I've got it in there, I'll rub the ink in and then wash off the surface," Semones said.

Semones' cabin scene is worked in elk horn and he has a eik he has drawn into elephant ivory. "But you can't get elephant ivory. Mostly now I work with elk or stag horn. I'd like to get a moose antier. Then I could do some nice larger pieces and mount them in wood and display them," he said.

But typically scrimshaw work is small, with many items incorporated into jewelry. Originally scrimshaw pieces had a romantic function.

According to a Bradenton antiques dealer, who said he's an authority on scrimshaw, but declined to give his name because of the criticism he offers of other dealers, many pieces of scrimshaw were intended as tokens of love for sweethearts and wives of sailors.

In addition to jewelry these early artslans crafted and carved whale bone into pie cutters, thimbles and even corset stays, "in order to hold everything up," the dealer

"They were decorated, very, very nicely decorated, and sometimes they were lovely with love poems and love birds and things like that."

However, he said, most early scrimshaw was so crude and the drawings so primitive and amateurish that an uninformed collector wouldn't give these very rare and very valuable collectibles a second look.

"The old pieces are very hard to get. They are almost non-existent. They are mostly in private collections or museums and if you should run across one by accident it would be very expensive, probably in the thousands of dollars.

"They were very premitive and if you would see one displayed in a flea market or in a store you would not want to buy it, because they are not very attractive.

"But a real collector would know immediately the value and the primitivity and the charms of this folk lore."

But, he cautions the would be collector (and this is where he said he might draw criticism from some dealers of scrimshaw), fakes abound with new pieces being sold as antiques. Some are even done in plastic and there is no way for the novice to recognize a fake, he said. They simply must trust the dealer. Dealers, he said, rarely if ever have authentic antique scrimshaw pieces.

In his collection he has a "not so old" piece on elephant ivory done by a Canadian artist. The work is about four inche high and features that artist's adaption of a picture called "All is Vanity," which first appeared in Vogue magazine, he said.

Washington Week Celebrates Birthday

Twenty years ago, when WASHINGTON WEEK IN RE-VIEW was coming to the end of its very first program, the stage manager gave the signal to "wrap it up," but nobody noticed. He gave a second sign. but still everyone kept on talking. Finally, someone walked right over to the table and yelled "cut," which was indeed heard by the enthusiastic panelists — and the TV audience.

At that time, no one thought that this modest current events program would become public television's longest-running series, winner of the most prestigious awards in broadcast journalism and watched by up to seven million people every week. Yet on February 27. 1987, more than 1000 broadcasts later, WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW will celebrate 20 years on-air, a milestone never before reached by a PBS series.

The series, produced by WETA in Washington, D.C. and broadcast by 286 public television stations, will celebrate its anniversary with a special broadcast reviewing highlights of its 20-year history. Earlier in the month, on February 2, the Museum of Broadcasting in New York will honor WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW at a special reception and receive five repre- WEEK IN REVIEW's practice of sentative programs into its using print journalists, but, permanent archives.

On the following day, the Museum will present a special seminar on the series conducted by moderator Paul Duke and regular panelists Charles Corddry, Georgie Anne Geyer, Haynes Johnson, Charles McDowell, Jack Nelson and Hedrick Smith. On February 24, at a gala dinner in Washington, D.C., representatives from the press, Congress, the White House and public television will hail the pioneering series.

Since that early broadcast, WASHINGTON WEEK panelists have become more savvy about television, but the format for the program has remained very much the same - a live roundtable discussion of the week's political developments by leading newspaper and magazine journalists. In advance of the Friday evening broadcast, producer Sue Ducat and moderator Paul Duke make a list of topics for discussion — but this can change #g'st up to airtime. "Friday always the day that cabinet secretaries resign or a Presi- journalism is all about - trying dent vetoes major legislation." Ms. Ducat laments.

In the years since the series premiered, other news pro-says executive producer Ricki Green, "our series will always be the original — a place for no-nonsense. 'tell it like it is' - straight talk." Unlike other programs which are more confrontational in nature, Ms. Green says that WASHINGTON WEEK has sought to keep opinions to a minimum and to use reporters rather than columnists on its panel. "Our viewers have come to trust the information they hear." Ms. Green says, "because it is coming from reporters who are actually out covering the stories."

Looking back over his 20 years as a reporter for the series. Haynes Johnson of The Washington Post recalls former President Richard Nixon's resignation. "The whole situation was so wild. It had been building for a year and a half, and this city was the center. As we went on that Friday night, we all knew we were participating in a great moment of history. I felt privileged to be able to report it, and I had the sense that this is what to report on the great events of our times - and trying to make some sense out of it all."

The program, Ms. Green grams adopted WASHINGTON says, consistently draws its highest ratings during these periods of national crisis. "Throughout the Watergate hearings, Carter's hostage negotiations and now, in sorting out the Iranian arms sale, a lot of people don't follow all the particulars," she says, "but they can turn to us on Friday evening for an informed analysis of the latest developments."

For 20 years, says WASHINGTON WEEK moderator Paul Duke, who has guided the program since 1974, the series has been very careful to preserve this credibility link to the public. "We have a track record. We don't try to fool anybody. We don't try to be actors or to pontificate and we don't shout across the table. We seek honestly to tell people what's happening, without slanting the news or reflecting a personal viewpoint."

In return, adds Richmond Times Dispatch reporter Charles McDowell, who has appeared on the program for the past nine years, viewers have involved themselves with a series in ways that are unusual for television. "It's a phenomenon I've never encountered before. Our viewers feel that they are part of WASHINGTON WEEK IN RE-VIEW. We get tremendous amounts of mail and the letters are part of a dialogue. It's the most thoughtful, literate correspondence I've ever seen."

Usually the series generates from 25.50 letters after each broadcast. But the night that WASHINGTON WEEK IN RE-VIEW discussed the official opening of the Vietnam War Memorial, more than 1000 letters followed. "We tried to say that this memorial represents all of us putting our differences behind us — this plain and simple list of 57,000 war dead," McDowell recalls. "And in these letters people rallied to the notion that this monument in ambiguity was the right memorial, and all of us could be reconciled by it."

Reflecting on WASHINGTON WEEK's long-term success, Mr. McDowell concludes, "Viewers will forgive anything if you'll just be straight with them. And the program makes it easy to be straight with them. Maybe it has something to do with being there with colleagues you respect: you're not inclined to be pretentious of fancy. It's being comfortable with who you are and what you know - and not a lick more.'

Magic From The Muppetmaster

By Mark Schwed UPI TV Editor

magic from the Muppetmaster, Jim Henson, is coming your way in the form of a wise old tale from a man with a Jimmy critters. Durante nose.

"The Storyteller," a proposed series for NBC, debuts Satur- that she doesn't care "if it were day (Jan. 31, 8:30 p.m. EST). and it possesses the best of Disney and Dickens, along with a splashy twist from one of the fathers of the music video generation.

The story about "Hans My Hedgehog" thrives on imagination and will tweek at the child hopes to find peace. in all of us.

It begins like this:

"Long, long ago, when people listened and words had magic in them, a story was the greatest gift of all. The most welcome guest at every fireside was the storyteller."

Henson, whose Creature Shop stable includes the fabulous Muppets, now moves on to grander things than Kermit the Frog. He wants to revive the tradition and art of storytelling and he does so beautifully in "The Storyteller."

He enlisted the aid of a brilliant director, Steve Barron, who has created such visual wonders as the "a-ha" video. Michael Jackson's "Billie Jean" and scores of other groundbreaking music videos.

Using computer-generated 'paint-box" illustrations and backgrounds, unusual camera angles, and other high-tech techniques, Henson creates the feeling one gets from "hearing" a story from a master storytell-

Without giving away the ending, it is good to remember that love breaks all spells.

Birthday For "Today"

Want to see Barbara Walters in a Playboy bunny suit? Or newsman John Chancellor in a go-cart race at NBC's studios? How about Tom Brokaw with long sideburns getting pelted with snowballs? These things and many more are featured Saturday, (Jan. 31, 10-11 p.m. EST), as NBC's "Today" show celebrates its 35th anniversary with a prime-time special. 'Today at 35.''

From Dave Garroway on the first broadcast, Jan. 14, 1952, to the current cast of Bryant Gumbel and Jane Pauley, the show covers all the "Today" turf. In the early days, things were pretty strange. There were dancing girls, marching bands, and a chimpanzee named J. Fred Muggs, who received a five-year contract from NBC for appearances on the program. There's also Garroway, with a huge microphone jutting out of his gut, and his "Today Girls" — Florence Henderson. Lee Meriwether and Betsy Palmer to name a few.

We see how television in general, and early morning TV in particular, has progressed over the years.

It's an interesting show for fans of "Today."

A Man Without A Real First Name

Dear Dick: I have been watching "MacGyver" faithfully since the beginning of this season. When people ask him his name, he simply answers, "MacGyver." He never uses a first name. I would like to know if he has a first Dear P.A.: Not yet. Like Quincy, he has never been given a first name and probably never will.

He's underprivileged in that respect.

Dear Dick: Is it possible to obtain Phil Harris' address? I would like to find some of his old recordings, such as "The Preacher and the Bear," "Downtown Poker Club" and "That's What I Like About the South." Can you help? — R.S.F., Hobe Sound, Pla.

Dear R.S.F.: No addresses, but send me a letter, in care of this paper, and I will hand carry it to him. because Phil and I are working on a book project together and I see him frequently. Those old hits of his are unavailable, unless you can find them in a rare record shop. Hindsight Records put out a Phil Harris album a year or so ago, but it contains none of his better numbers.

Dear Dick: Please tell me about "Song of the South." Reports say it was released in 1946. It seems I saw a show like that in the late 'SOs when I was in high school. It seems the little boy's name was Bobby Breen. Otherwise everything clos was about the same. - R.J.M., Maryville, Tenn.

Dear Dick: Can you tell me what part Ruth Warrick (Phoebe on "All My Children") played in Walt Disney's classic film, "Song of the South"? Also, are Lindsay Wagner and Robert Wagner related? — T.D., Tomball, Texas.

Dear R.J.M. & T.D.: There was only one Disney "Song of the South" (and some people think that was one too many). Breen was in a 1939 release called "Way Down South," but it was nothing like the Disney film, in which Ruth Warrick played the mother. No, the Wagners are not related in any way.

Dear Dick: I've been a leagtime viewer of the nighttime drama, "Dynasty." Could you please tell me the name of the music that was played when Prince Michael and Amanda were married? — D.O., Houston, Toxas.

Dear D.O.: That was an original melody, composed for the show by Peter Myers. It is unavailable in either sheet music or record. Myers just called it. in his script, "Rough Wedding Music."

Dear Dick: I watch "Falcon Crest" every Friday night. Can you tell me semething about John Callahan, as he may be my half-brother. What is his age and birthdate and, if possible, what was his father's name? — N.C., Sulphur Springe, Texas.

Dear N.C.: John Callahan was born in New York City on Dec. 23, 1953, and he is the son of a man whose name was also John Callahan. If that helps you establish a relationship, we are all happy for you.
