RAILROAD SHOPMEN LEADERS ABANDONED THEIR CASE TODAY AGAINST FEDERAL DECREE

and Announcement Caused Advance Action

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, May 1.—Leaders of strike of the railroad shopmen today abandoned their case in defense against the federal injunction obtained by Attorney General Daugherty last September and announced their principal contentions in the case had been upheld. Announcement by counsel for defendants coming twenty-four hours in advance of the hearing on the government's application for permanent injunction caused Assistant United States Solicitor General Esterline to interpret action of defense as amounting to default which he termed "flaseo."

EXTRA JUDGE BILL PASSED BY THE HOUSE

TALLAHASSEE, May 1.—The house yesterday passed with little discussion a senate bill to provide for an additional member of the supreme court. The vote was 40 to 26. The measure now goes to the governor, who is expected to sign it promptly.

The bill was originally introduced in the senate by Senator Stokes. Previously Attorney General Buford had advocated a sixth member of the court, pointing out that with six members that tribunal could work in two sections in a large number of cases, and thus expedite its heavy business.

Constitutional provisions already exist for the additional member, it was pointed out by advocates of the bill, the court having consisted of six members until a few years ago, when Judge C. B. Parkhill of Tampa retired. The legislature in view of Mr. Parkhill's approaching retirement at that time passed a law to constitute the court as of five members. Advocates of the bill asserted that the court now has more than 1,000 cases on its docket, while Senator Stokes in championing it in the senate recited that he once waited one year with a case in which he was interested.

Pending his action on the bill the governor would not discuss his possible appointee for the office this afternoon.

GOVERNMENT OWNED SHIPS WILL BE DRY FOR SOME TIME DESPITE SUPREME COURT DECISION

Lasker Says After Conference with President
Harding Today

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 1.—Definite indications given by Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board, after a conference with President Harding, that the government owned ships would be kept dry for some time at least, although under yesterday's supreme court decision they legally could carry and serve liquor on the high seas.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Intoxicating liquors even under seal, cannot lawfully be brought in American or foreign ships within three miles of the shores of the United States, the supreme court held yesterday in a decision which declared, however, that outside the three mile limit American vessels can legally sell intoxicants to passengers. The right of foreign ships to do so had not been previously decided.

ROTARY CLUB HELD MEETING AT VALDEZ

NEW PRESIDENT AND OFFICERS
FILLED THEIR RESPECTIVE PLACES

Sanford Rotary Club held a very interesting meeting today at the Hotel Valdez and the new officers were all in their places at the head of the table when the gong rang. President D. L. Thrasher before relinquishing the reins of office called the meeting to order and asked Dr. Carpenter for the opening prayer and then gave a fine talk on the support of the officers of the club and what it meant to have the whole-hearted support of all the members in the ensuing year. He then turned the office over to the new president, George W. Knight, who in turn asked the members for their undivided support telling them that people as a whole had a survival value if they had accomplished anything in this life and their survival value existed after they had passed away and he hoped the Rotary Club would have a survival value and could show something for their work after his administration was over.

The visitors were then called upon to stand forth and face the world and they were all heartily cheered. They were as follows:

Alf Bumby, Frank Mebane, Will Curry and George McCullough, of Orlando; Clint Childs and Carl Ferran, of Eustis; Claude Roper, of Jacksonville; Wyman Huston, of Palatka, and Tom Whitted, of Charlotte, N. C.

President Knight had something to say about the attendance record for the past year and also something about what he expected in attendance this year. Several had fine records in the 96, 94 and 92 mark but Gene Roumillat had the best mark for the year totalling 100 per cent in membership and he was heartily cheered and made to stand up.

President Knight announced his committees and his policies for the year and he will endeavor to give each member some big part in the meetings and the entertainment. A piano player will be brought into the club if possible to assist in the singing and there will be a great effort to get out the members at each meeting. It was decided to appoint President Knight the delegate to attend the International meeting at St. Louis with Vice-President R. J. Holly as alternate and several other members signified their intention to attend.

LONDON, May 1.—European labor toasts itself today calling the world's attention to the importance of the worker as economic factor and at the same time setting forth his grievances. Reports on the eve of May Day from capitals of Europe indicated that the holiday was expected to be peaceful. Marked by usual quota of parades, demonstrations and some instances by customary twenty-four strikes. German labor in particular has made plans to celebrate what is regarded as invaluable contribution to "passive resistance" in Ruhr while in England parades and meetings served to give men to workers' protest.

STUDENT WAS KILLED IN RUSH AND HIS BODY HIDDEN, JUST CAME TO LIGHT TODAY

Young Man Killed During Class Rush and Body
Was Not Found Since 1921

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, May 1.—Leighton Mount, Northwestern University student, missing since September, in the 1921 class rush, whose skeleton was found on the Evanston lake front last night was killed in the class rush, Chief of Police Leggett, of Evanston, declared today. "Mount's body was carried to the pier after his death and buried beneath heavy stones," the chief said. "There could be no other explanation of the presence there of his skeleton. It is likely that Mount was accidentally killed in the class war and his body hidden by students, who were frightened at the result of their bazing."

Corporal Punishment Still Holds
Boards With Amendment to Get Better Guards

(By The Associated Press)
TALLAHASSEE, May 1.—Investigation of conditions on the convict farm in Baker county formerly owned by Senator Knabb was postponed until 3 o'clock this afternoon, when it was stated the joint legislative committee will go into records dealing with the farm as gathered by the office of Commissioner of Agriculture.

The house passed over the governor's veto by vote of 71 to 1 the measure passed at the last session prohibiting the use except in sharply defined instances of Saccharine as food in this state. The same measure was passed over the governor's veto in the senate several days ago.

After the senate struggled through another round with the measure to prohibit corporal punishment of prisoners it deferred further consideration until 8 tonight. Senator Hodges, author of the bill spoke in its favor more than an hour attacking the proposed amendment by Senator Phillips as a effort to kill the original bill. Phillips' amendment would attempt to improve personnel of convict guards, provide periodical inspections with a view of insuring good treatment of prisoners. Hodges pointed out it would not expressly prohibit corporal punishment and asserted that question he wanted the senate to vote on.

CHARGE GOVERNOR AND COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR CRUELTY TO FLORIDA CONVICTS

Commissioner Prescribed Rules and Regulations and Should Know About Them

(By The Associated Press)
TALLAHASSEE, May 1.—The assertion that Commissioner of Agriculture W. A. McRae was responsible for the investigation of the death of Martin Tabert of North Dakota and the immediate resentment of other senators, who set forth that the governor had as much authority as the agricultural commissioner in the provision for convicts marked the senate debate yesterday afternoon of the measure to abolish corporal punishment. Final consideration of the measure with the uncertainty of its outcome went over until today.

The statement regarding the agriculture commissioner was made by Senator W. A. MacWilliams, a member of the joint legislative committee, looking into the ill treatment of convicts, in pleading that the whip be banned.

Mr. MacWilliams declared he had resented at first the action of the North Dakota legislature in petitioning the Florida legislature to inquire into Tabert's death, but after hearing the gruesome recitals of the past weeks, he asserted, he now wanted to thank that state for bringing the matter to Florida's attention, and giving it a chance to clean house.

The commissioner of agriculture prescribes rules and regulations for the treatment of prisoners, he said, and it was under his supervision that the mistreatment had been practiced.

Instantly Senator W. W. Phillips, jumped to the floor and pointed out that the rules and regulations were made with the full approval of the governor, and the board of commissioners of public institutions, while Senator B. H. Lindsey, speaking with emotion, said he knew Senator MacWilliams would not intentionally give a misleading statement, and in fairness he recited a recent case of where that official tried to have discharged a prison guard, charged with brutality, and the state road department refused to remove him with the apparent consent, according to Mr. Lindsey, of the governor. The guard was later removed, Mr. Lindsey declared and then given a promotion by the state road department.

In the argument that ensued over administration of convicts, with Senator MacWilliams on one side, and Senators Lindsey, Phillips and Wells on the other, Mr. Lindsey shouted that only the governor had the "Appointive authority" and the power of handling the guards.

DUVAL CLAUSE

Tacked on Original Law Making
Duval County $7,500 Was Feature
That Killed It

(By The Associated Press)
TALLAHASSEE, May 1.—The legislature came back from its week end recess yesterday afternoon, learned that the supreme court had Saturday declared unconstitutional the fee act of 1920, and within two hours enacted another law, which limits the fees of all officials of the class to $6,000 yearly. Bills were introduced in both houses of the legislature immediately upon their reconvening at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with provisions virtually identical to those of the act held unconstitutional Saturday by the supreme court, except that the objectionable clause providing for a maximum compensation of officials of counties of 100,000 population or more, of $7,500 annually, is eliminated. The bill passed and signed by the governor follows the lines of the bill originally presented to the 1921 session. It provides that the officials in all counties shall receive all the net fees of their office up to a stipulated amount, thence to receive a graduating percentage to a maximum of $6,000 after which all fees shall be returned to the state.

When the bill of 1921 was passed by the house and went to the senate Senator Butler succeeded in lacking a non amendment providing that the officials of his Duval county, be allowed the maximum of $7,500 under the 100,000 population clause. It was this clause, held to be discriminatory, that caused the supreme court to throw the entire act on the ground that to lift this single clause would take theact from the intents and purposes of the legislature in passing it. The majority opinion rendered by Chief Justice Taylor and Judge Ellis, set forth that the court was satisfied that the legislature would not have passed the act without the $7,500 provision.

Senator Butler and Representative Stuart were the authors of the bill that received such quick action this afternoon. Mr. Butler recited the several legislature efforts to prescribe the incomes of the county officials. In Duval, he said, the county judge received more than the members of the supreme court of the United States, the tax collector more than the supreme court judges together. Mr. Stuart made similar remarks in introducing the bill on the lower side. Mr. Butler said that at the last session he thought it nothing but right that the officials of the 100,000 class receive more than the others. In view of the fact those officials had used this provision to kill the act, he was now willing to limit them all to $6,000 yearly.

Seldom has a measure of such importance been passed with the facility that characterized passage of the bill yesterday afternoon. While Senator Butler was asking that the rules be waived for consideration of his bill, Mr. Stuart's measure in the house had gotten through and was rushed over to the senate. The senate passed the bill without a dissenting vote. It was next taken to the governor who promptly signed it.

There were reports that there would next be a move to enact a law making the act of yesterday retroactively so as to prevent county officials benefiting under the court's decision.

PRIZE WINNING ESSAY ON FLORIDA TREES

BY LORRAINE PHILLIPS, HIGH SCHOOL JUNIOR CLASS

The trees are God's own handiwork and should be revered as one of His masterpieces. Without these living monuments of an All-wise Being our land would seem a dreary, desolate waste. They are here for our use and enjoyment and there is certainly no need for the swift devastation that has been taking place in the forests of this country.

The question, what are we going to do about the trees, has been asked by your people time and again. The answer is, conserve what we now have and plant more. Yet the people do not respond as readily as they should. In other words Arbor Day is not observed one day in many instances, much less, as it should be throughout the year. At this rate we will soon be confronted with a treeless world.

Through all the ages trees have been connected with history. Their leaves made the first clothes worn by mankind; their fruits brought life, then death through sin. The apple, cherry, and palm trees—besides several others—are historical trees, shaping the destinies of the human race.

Owing to the dearth of these necessary factors of our lives, Florida forests are continually growing in value. The northern and western parts of our country do not now have the enormous forest lands they once had. Florida trees are thus becoming more and more valuable. Yet the people of this state do not fully realize the value of this store of wealth to them. The fact remains, however, that Florida owes to the trees as well as to her climate and sunny skies, the prominent position she now occupies among the other states. The romantic glamour thrown over lucky Florida may be partly traced to the enchantment of the mysterious, nun-like great oaks; the fragrance and beauty of the magnolia, the graceful palms, that give to Florida the tropical air which no other state possesses, thus making this state a veritable fairy-land to the desert-tired eyes of numberless tourists.

These trees—so abundant in this state—are of both economic and spiritual value. They furnish food, shelter, staple products, besides being ornamental and inspirational.

They are living poems to the poet, pictures to the artist and, above all, a never failing source of enjoyment to all of us. Year after year they continue their existence living the life of the useful and in themselves, are living examples of well directed growth.

There are no words to express the debt of gratitude that we owe to our trees. Let us be thankful for these here in Florida by regarding them as steadfast friends whom we must not lose. We should not only observe Arbor Day one day in the year but each day strive to preserve and increase the number of our Florida trees.

FLORIDA TREES

FIRST PRIZE ESSAY IN GRAMMAR SCHOOL BY THEO. VICKERY WRITTEN FOR GARDEN WEEK

This land of ours has many trees, Trees both great and small, But when it comes to praising them, Florida beats them all.

The trees of Florida are numberless, we could not begin to name them all. It is a beautiful sight to see them, many being covered with moss and vines. They shade our sidewalks; our yards and paths in the country. The trees are so useful, how could this state do without them, it could not be done.

In the Everglades are found the lofty pines and palmettos. Pines are found all over the state, among them are long-leaf pine, yellow pine, which grows on sandy hills, the white pine which is the most valuable. From the pines lumber, tar, turpentine and resin are obtained.

Palmettos are also found all over the state, they are most common of the native palms, which are a great value to man, from the leaves, baskets, matting, and cloth sails are woven, from the fibers of the bark, ropes are twisted, the trunk furnishes lumber and the nut shells convenient utensils.

The hammocks of Florida are covered with a heavy growth of red, live and water oaks, magnolia, pine and dogwood. Live oaks are found in abundance, it is a beautiful southern form of oak, its leaves evergreen. This giant oak sometimes rises to the height of 60 feet. It has yellow wood, strong and difficult to work, but takes a fine polish. The wood is valued in ship building as also the southern pine.

White oak, water oak, live oak and hickory supply the hardware factories.

The poor soil is thickly overgrown with pine and cypress, the cypress furnishes lumber. In many parts of Florida, there are large areas of light sandy land not well suited to general farming. This land can be secured at a low price, and camphor growing can be made a commercial success. The camphor tree was brought into this state between 1870 and 1875 and used as a shade tree, later camphor was extracted from the branches and leaves which when having gone through different processes can be used for celluloid, as a protection against moths, and as a medicine if mixed with other substances.

Orange, lemon, limes, olive, tangerine, Guava, persimmon and fig trees supply delicious fruits, 90 per cent of the grapefruit is raised in Florida. The cultivation and export of oranges and other fruits have grown to be a considerable source of wealth to the state. In addition to fruit bearing species, the pimento, coffee, clove and other spice trees and shrubs may be successfully cultivated. Cocoa nuts flourish in the southern part of the state. Satin-wood, box-wood, and mastic grow abundantly on the islands and keys.

The castor oil bean becomes a large tree. Bamboos are numerous and can be made useful in several ways.

The Eucalyptus tree, a specie of Australia, thrives well in this state.

The red cedar is not a native of this state, but is grown to a great extent and furnishes lumber and lead pencils.

The magnolia, bay and laurel are beautiful shade trees.

Dense forests cover the greater part of this state, we must realize the value of trees and not waste even one of them. Who could help but think of God, when they behold a tree in

"Florida, My Florida."

The Chamber of Commerce, both city and county, are directing their energies in the right direction when they devote their best efforts to bringing industries into the city and county. In the city we need to find employment for men. A good weekly payroll in industries makes a good weekly business for merchants, and neat savings accounts for banks.

At present too much raw material is shipped out of Florida and then shipped back in the finished product. This should be changed. We need to save that freight and the extra cost of handling. We need the employment here in the state. This is particularly true of wood products. It looks as though it is true of paper products. If the manufacture of paper proves successful here then it follows that many paper products can be made here that are now shipped in.

In the rural districts a splendid development is going on. Fine dairy and poultry farms are being brought up to the highest standard known to these industries. One of these days we will get rid of the ticks, then we will have creameries making butter, cold storage houses preserving Florida meats and poultry products.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

With the next two months thousands will graduate from the various higher institutions of learning, with their diplomas and degrees in their hands they will emerge from the school gates to face the stern realities of life. It will be heart-breaking for many of them—most of them—to be forced to realize that they must needs do one of two things, either learn much that they have learned, or address themselves to a task in the doing of which little they have toiled for will be of any practical benefit.

Such is the stern reality of our educational system. Such is its waste, its cruelty, its positive dissipation of precious time! When these young men and young women step outside the gates of educational guardianship they will be on their own for the first time in their lives. Then will come the moment of great decision. What shall they do? How shall they capitalize the knowledge gained by years of effort so as to make it return a livable dividend.

Under the caption, "Trade or Profession," the Christian Science Monitor offers some food for thought along this line:

"It is a mistake to believe that employment in the manual trades is undignified. It is dignified if it is honest, and it is profitable if it leads to the rewards which integrity and honest service merit. The office buildings of the larger cities of the United States are filled to overflowing with well-equipped, yet struggling lawyers who are without clients, doctors who are without patients, and efficiency experts without experience. Their numbers will be increased, this year and next year, and in their years to come, only to make the struggle a harder one. The young men and young women who are now at the crossroads should consider well, from their own standpoint, the problem which they alone can solve."

It is the old, old question—to be a failure in some profession or a success in some vocation? There is nothing more pitiful in this life than an educated man or woman a complete failure in one of the professions yet vainly trying to keep up appearances and live up to the standard of his or her education! And all the while there is constructive work to do around about, all the while the sands of Time are running through the hour glass!

Have the courage to fit yourself to the conditions of your time, young man and young woman! Your life will be what you make it. Education merely prepares your mind to function wisely and thoroughly. If it falls short of this it falls short of everything.—Tampa Tribune.

HERALD COLLECTIONS

The Herald carries message and control their routes, pay in advance for all papers drawn, and absolutely depend upon their collections for their running capital and profits. When subscribers neglect to pay them it is the CARRIER and not THE Herald that stands the "brunt."

Subscribers who do not care to pay the carrier each week may pay the Herald two or more months in advance and they will pay the carrier each week from this fund.

This system of delivery is known as the INDEPENDENT CARRIER PLAN and is used by most of the larger newspapers of the country and has proven beyond doubt to be the very best plan of delivery. When a boy manages his own route, buys and sells at a profit he is in business for himself in exactly the same sense as any merchant. He knows he must give service to be successful and build up his business. He knows that every new customer he secures means more profit. In short, he knows he must conduct his business in a capable and efficient manner to be successful.

The Herald earnestly requests its subscribers not to discourage these boys in this, their first business venture, by refusing to pay promptly each week for their newspaper.

THE SANFORD DAILY HERALD.

FROM OTHER SANCTUMS

First honors go to Richard H. Edmonds, publisher of the Manufacturers' Record for the high place he takes among the optimists of the day. A recent issue of his great publication contains a message of industrial hope that is so forceful, so inspirational and so truthful that every newspaper in the country ought to be glad to give it emphasis and space. This is what Mr. Edmonds says:

The most cheering news that this country has received for many a long day, even for some long and weary years of inadequate transportation, is the announcement that the railroad budget for expenditures, for enlarged facilities in the way of cars, locomotives, terminals, and other betterments, amounts to $1,500,000,000. This is the amount which President Storey, of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, in a recent letter to the Manufacturers' Record indicated as in his opinion necessary for the adequate development of the railroads to keep pace with the growth of the country.

We look for a further increase in the amount. Activity begets activity, will necessitate enlarged demand for the building of cars and locomotives iron and steel. The building of new terminal facilities and sidetracks and the relaying of old tracks with new rails will mean the stimulation of every line of manufacturing which touches on railroad work, and that includes almost every line of activity. And so the railroads will go on and on, gradually getting back to a condition where they annually bought from 1,000 to 6,000 locomotives a year and more than 200,000 cars and where they were annually building thousands of miles of new roads and sidetracks. It will probably take $15,000,000,000 to fully develop the railroad facilities of the country to keep up with the growth of the next eight to ten years. During all of the period of low prices and deflation and the advance of railroad rates, the Manufacturers' Record repeatedly said editorially and in letters to financial and railroad authorities that either rates would inevitably have to come down, forced by economic laws beyond their power to control, or else the price of products would have to advance to justify existing rates. We expressed the earnest hope that the railroad and financial authorities would use their utmost influence to bring about advance in prices, for only in that way could railroad prosperity be developed.

accept without question the higher prices now prevailing for all manufactured products and ultimately for agricultural products, which we have so persistently urged upon them. Their action indicates that in this respect they are not disturbed by any fear of the pessimistic thoughts of those who think that the way to prosperity is the road of down-hill prices. The road to prosperity leads to a higher range of prices than we have had for all the products of the farm and many products of the factory and then a steady, long continued pull on a higher plateau over which sweep uninterruptedly the breezes that bring health and strength and vitality to every business interest.

The valley of low prices always create the slough of despond.

The elevated land of profitable prices is forever radiant with the sunshine of human employment and happiness.

The future is aglow with opportunities. It is packed with potentialities greater than the mind of man has ever conceived of. The financial losses of a world war would be wiped out by the creative work of inventions and methods brought into existence by the war. The thought and the energies of the world have been quickened. Modern inventions are calling humanity to a higher civilization. Transportation by rail, by water, by land, by all—transportation of thoughts and things—fills the whole earth with new life and with a glory of an advancement which the mind of man in its wildest flights of imagination has never dared to paint.

This country could be busy for a century in doing the things which need to be done, which must be done and which will be done. A mighty network of highways, highways which will advance civilization, which will enlarge the horizon of men and women everywhere, which will broaden education and hasten the day when the Kingdom of Heaven shall spread over the whole land, must and will be constructed. We have only begun this work. It is a work where every dollar wisely invested brings annually a profit equal to the total investment, for man is lifted to broader heights to larger opportunities and to larger achievements in material, in mental and in educational activities.

Our rivers will be deepened and the petty sums which we spend today in utilizing one of heaven's greatest gifts to the nation will be regarded as beggarly pittance a few years hence, when men shall come into a broader conception of how to utilize our natural advantages. Our railroad people are beginning a campaign which means that their view will be widened and their vision will stretch into the future so that they will see the limitless potentialities ahead of transportation.

Men are going to live in better homes, they are going to spend more money on building homes for the poor and the rich alike. The little hut which has disgraced many a farm will give away to a better living house. Electricity will be introduced into millions of homes which now know it not. Running water will ease the burden of millions of women by its introduction into dwellings in which it has never been seen. More and better school buildings will be erected, waterworks and sewerage systems will be extended and new ones constructed. City planning will be on a larger and wiser scale than ever before. The motor trucks and the automobiles and the flying machines will all continue to expand in influence for the nation's advancement.

Year after year this country has broadened in its activities. Men of vision, sometimes harassed by petty bureaucratic methods, will grow superior to the bureaucrats and sweep them away and go forward, doing the things which make for national advancement. The time to do this again has come. The very pettiness of some of the plans that have been proposed for putting all business interests practically under government control will bring about a revolution in thought, and men will seek and succeed in unthrottling from governmental domination and damnation many interests now controlled by bureaucrats, and the nation will go forward for the fullest utilization of our natural resources, which are so great that a study of them staggers the human mind.

What this country is doing and will do is necessarily leading the world into a larger and more world-wide activity. Our example is quickening all the regions of earth. The backward nations are no longer willing to live as they have lived. They have caught the vision of better things, they have seen how human drudgery can be lightened, they have seen how modern machinery and modern equipment can double, quadruple, quintuple the productive power of man, and with increasing productive power necessarily comes increasing wealth for the individual man and for the good of the world. Far back in the fastness of Asia the voice of America calling the world to a new and broader life, has been heard and a thou-

Most effective of DRY AGENTS WILL BE ASSIGNED TO CAPITAL. NEW YORK, May 1.—New York's most effective dry enforcement agents will be transferred to Washington this week to conduct a vigorous drive against bootleggers in social and official circles, New York Herald says today. This territory's agents are said to have been in the capital for weeks working under cover. Prohibition agents, the Herald says, are trying to determine if local prohibition agents have been extorting money from New Jersey and Long Island bootleggers for immunity from arrest.

BOOST YOUR COMMUNITY.

"Be a booster for your community and patronize home industry," is the message C. H. Plattenberg has given his audience from Chautauqua platforms in 16 Florida cities during the past few weeks. "There is not a farmer or merchant who does not owe his community the obligation to support the local civic organization. It seems to be a peculiar trait of human nature that people prefer to buy from itinerant peddlers or distant mail order houses, rather than from home merchants who pay taxes and contribute to the welfare of the community. I asked the banker and the postmaster in one Florida city to give me the total amount of money sent by residents through those two agencies to mail order houses in year, and the total they gave me was $300,000," he said.

CHARGE GOVERNOR AND COMMISSION OF AGRICULTURE ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR CRUELTY TO CONVICTS

(Continued from page 1) vating the personnel of convict guards. It would provide that any "Agent, guard, captain, or physician having any relation with convicts, who shall be guilty of inhuman treatment to any convict by neglect, excessive punishment, or who shall willfully or negligently permit one to escape, shall be punished by a fine of not to exceed $10,000 or a sentence not to exceed 10 years in the penitentiary. It further provides that the captain of every camp shall make a detailed report to the governor once every month regarding the condition of prisoners in his charge.

The board of commissioners of state institutions would be charged with employing inspectors to visit the camps twice a month, and make report. It requires the salaries of captains at not less than $1,800 annually, not more than $2,400; those of the guards not less than $900 and not more than $1,200, while Physicians would receive not less than $2,000 a year and not more than $3,000. It would provide that all these officials give bond.

Leaders of the fight to ban the whip asserted that they would gladly accept this amendment, if it expressly prohibited the use of the whip in section five, which reads:

"It shall be unlawful for any captain, agent, guard or physician employed by the state to work, supervise, and control the various convicts to use any cruel or inhuman punishment while said convicts are under their care, provided, however, that in case of riots, mutiny, insubordination, or refusal to work, punishment may be inflicted under the personal supervision of the captain of each camp and in accordance with the rules and regulations as prescribed by the Board of Commissioners of State Institutions."

LOCAL BOYS ENROLL FOR POPULAR SUMMER CAMP

Included in the party of boys going to Chimney Rock Camp this summer from Sanford are the names of two well known lads who enrolled for the eight weeks session yesterday afternoon during a brief visit to this city by Chas. A. Hamilton one of the directors. Mr. Hamilton who is the head of the athletic work at this popular boys' camp stopped over in the city during his return from the state championship swimming meet held at Rollins College Saturday last. While in Sanford Mr. Hamilton was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Robinson.

Signing up yesterday for the biggest vacation in their young lives were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Hinnell and Mr. and Mrs. James Moughton. Both Dan Hinnell and Leslie Moughton are looking forward to the time of their lives and Mr. Hamilton who will take the Sanford boys to camp in person will remain with them during the entire season, the Sanford boys joining the rest of the Florida delegation at Jacksonville, special Pullmans being engaged at this point to take the entire party to Hendersonville, North Carolina. Buses will take the party from this point to the camp which lies in the heart of the Hickory Nut Gap section of this world famous summer playground.

It is expected that the boys leaving for camp from this section will number a jolly crowd, Briggs Arrington, another well known lad having signed up for this camp some-time ago. Jack Geler, the wonderful boy swimmer from Orlando high school has already signed up for "Chimney Rock" according to Mr. Hamilton. Young Geler was the lad who sprung such a sensation at the recent water meet by capturing four gold medals and five silver cups for Memorial High School.

Sanford Paint Store is the busiest place in the city. The reason for this is that this store always has a complete line of all kinds of paints, stains, and varnishes in stock. They are able to give you better prices as they buy in very large quantities. Last week this store bought a carload of paint of all kinds. Today it looks more like a wholesale house than a retail store. It would do your heart good to see a first class paint store. It is an inspiration in itself. They have paint for every purpose and Mr. Halverson, the proprietor, is a man of many years experience in the paint line. One of Sanford's business men remarked last week this city ought to be proud of a store like this. You can find this store next to the American Fruit Growers in the Welaka Block. 27-28d; 11w.

RECOMMENDS THAT JUDGE WILLIS BE PUT FROM OFFICE

TALLAHASSEE, May 1—Governor Hardee today recommended to the senate that County Judge B. F. Willis be removed from office on charges of malfeasance, growing out of the death of Martin Tabert in the private camp of the Putnam Lumber Company.

The senate took its usual course in handling the governor's recommendations. It went into executive session and then a committee of two consisting of Senators Stokes and MacWilliams was appointed to make a report on the recommendation.

The two senators are members of the joint investigating committee which received testimony on which the governor's recommendation was based.

Judge Willis was charged in the testimony before the committee with having conspired with Sheriff J. R. Jones to railroad men to the camp of the Putnam Lumber Company at Clara, for which the sheriff admitted he received $20 a head. Intemperate use of whiskey was also charged against the judge.

Sheriff Jones was removed from office earlier in the week.

METHODIST ORPHANAGE SHOWS GOOD PROGRESS

LAKELAND, May 1.—On a recent visit to the city Rev. J. E. Cason, superintendent of the Methodist Orphanage, located at Enterprise, on the shores of Lake Monroe, talked interestingly of the institution over which he has the oversight. The inmates of the home have increased remarkably in the past year. In fact they have more than doubled within the past two years.

Dr. Cason was at one time pastor of the First Methodist Church, in Lakeland, and is very enthusiastic in his support of the orphanage. He puts his whole soul to the task, and does not spare himself in making the home a success.

At the present time there are 95 children in the home, fifty-one boys and forty-four girls. The proposition is financed by an assessment placed on the Florida Conference amounting to $15,000, and this is raised by free-will offerings from the Sunday schools and congregations of the conference on each fifth Sunday.

Several acres of land is included in holdings of the church at Enterprise, a portion of which is in grove. The boys are being taught farming and gardening, under a competent leader, and as fast as funds are available other departments of industrial training will be added.

Public high school not being available for the advanced children of the home, it was decided to establish a school in the home. This work was placed in charge of Miss Frances Bouchelle. The high school is being taught in the gymnasium, and up to this time almost without equipment except the necessary text books.

Tables and chairs were requisitioned from other parts of the home and a blackboard was improvised by the larger boys for temporary use. Among the needs just now are good blackboards, lockers for books, a library, magazine subscription and other periodicals for reference and collateral reading.

A laboratory, typewriter, manual training equipment, and scores of things are on the list of crying needs in order that we do the clever part by that large family under the care of the Methodist church of Florida.

I am told that the only typewriter in the home was second hand twelve years ago. Sewing machines are needed for the domestic art department.

One of the dreams of the orphanage board and superintendent has been the establishment of a small printing plant that a regular orphanage paper may be printed. While teaching the children a good trade it would give them an insight into something of the art of journalism.

It is said that with a very limited amount of type and a small press this work could be begun. The high-school pupils are eager for the opportunity to start this venture if the equipment was available.

There is a demand for other buildings at the orphanage. There should be a school or administration building for it is said that the gymnasium will be inadequate for the needs of the school another year. There will be three grades for the high school next term; and another teacher will be needed.

Mr. C. Binkley, of Jacksonville, has been devoting much time and attention to the orphanage at Enterprise, and has started an endowment fund with a donation of $10,000. He is treasurer of the orphanage board. Mr. C. E. Howard, another prominent layman of Orlando, is secretary of the board.

Dr. Cason says he is expecting some big-hearted persons to come forward at any time and build a dormitory for younger children as a memorial to some loved one who has passed away, a little child, perhaps. —D. B. Sweet, in Tampa Tribune.

SUGAR HEARING COMES UP MAY 7

NEW YORK, May 1.—Hearing of the government's application for a temporary injunction to restrain raw sugar futures trading on the New York coffee and sugar exchange, was adjourned until May 7 today, after the government had presented arguments to sustain its petition and filed a mass of documents and affidavits.

...MAGIC NAMES...

The influence of advertising is apparent in every turn of my daily life. I find I cannot disregard it. It is always with me, guiding me in my pleasures and in my duties, telling me what I should eat, wear, and use and what I should buy for my family.

I find that there is on the tip of my tongue a multitude of names the mention of which will bring from some shelf nearly everything that I can use in my daily life and in the daily life of my family.

In every instance that name means a very definite promise and assurance of something substantial and which will make me feel completely satisfied about having exchanged my money for it.

Let me say a few things which these names—these old friends of the newspaper and magazine pages—mean to me.

They mean good taste. For certainly I desire to do the thing that I believe discriminating people have judged best.

They mean convenience. It is not necessary to describe the thing I want. Even the most intimate articles may be purchased without embarrassment since the advertisers have given us handy names.

They mean assurance in shopping. There is no indecision. Even before I enter the shop I know what I want to buy.

And certainly they mean satisfaction. For the advertiser whose product is not good cannot continue to advertise. The fact that I have seen a name repeated over and over again assures me that it stands for a product of quality. In speaking that name to the clerk I know I am asking for the best.

I am a more judicious shopper because I buy advertised goods. I patronize the shop that sells them.

Lumber Market Review Shows Strong Tendency to Keep Up Prices

The last week has witnessed no marked change in the lumber market, says the American Lumberman, Chicago. The cool weather has prevailed over much of the country, building is undergoing seasonal stimulation and will undoubtedly reach enormous volume during the next few months. Retail yards in the larger communities are selling a great deal of lumber, but continue to hesitate about entering the market for future requirements on any large scale. Building material dealers generally are beginning to take a decidedly conservative attitude toward the future, expecting an eventual slump in building as a result of higher labor and material costs, which undeniably are beginning to meet public opposition. Country yards are showing a lively interest in the market, and indications are that their trade will be fair to good this spring, and better still in the fall, if the farmer harvests good crops and secures reasonable prices for his products this year. Industrial trade in softwoods holds up well, heavy construction material having an especially strong market. Export trade with South America, the West Indies and Mexico is also of satisfying volume. Business in hardwoods remains a little dull. Furniture and interior trim manufacturers are slow buyers for the present, and automobile interests appear to be less actively on the market. However, the great activity of these industries and their sizable order files lead to the expectation that they will soon re-enter the market strongly. Other large hardwood consuming industries meanwhile sustain the market with their large and often pressing requirements. While hardwood production and shipments are considerable, and manufacturers are making some progress in catching up with old orders, stocks are not being materially added to, and any normal supply of dry hardwoods this year is most unlikely. Production and bookings of both southern pine and Douglas fir are close together, and shipments exceed them by a good margin. Buyers report much trouble in finding needed lumber in the low and broken stocks at the mills. Prices are firmly held by large and small mills, and the few good transit cars that are being offered command higher prices.

BEGIN KNABB CONVICT CAMP PROBE TODAY

TALLAHASSEE, May 1.—Prison conditions at the county convict lease camp formerly owned by State Senator T. J. Knabb and located in the northern section of Florida, will be investigated by the joint legislative committee tomorrow. This committee last week concluded its inquiry into the death of Martin Tabert of North Dakota, which has resulted in sweeping legislative reforms. While members of the senate today fought pro and con over the adoption of a bill to prohibit corporal punishment, in convict camps, clerks in the prison division of the Department of Agriculture were compiling records pertaining to what is known as the "Knabb investigation." The records will be available when the committee assembles tomorrow morning. Work since Christmas has been under way on the Dixie Highway in the neighborhood of Sebastian was completed recently, and the road opened to traffic. Five and a half miles of highway were rocked and asphalted. Today the road camps are being moved to Wabasso, where a mile and a quarter stretch of highway west of Wabasso is to be built. Upon completion of this the forces will be moved here and put to work on the Fort Pierce-White City back road.

"It Pays to Swim With the Current"
This is about two spark plugs. At the moment they are lying on the sales manager's desk in the establishment of a large middle-western hardware jobber.
One spark plug bears a name known wherever automobiles are used, the other a name seldom heard.
Both, says the sales manager, are good plugs. On the score of quality they run neck and neck.
"Both," he adds, "we are discontinuing this line"—and he holds up the plug of unfamiliar name. "Yes, and our discount on it is larger, too."
"What's wrong with it? Not a thing. It's a good plug—mighty good plug, but—no one knows about it. It isn't advertised—the other one is. The demand is for the advertised make. And we've learned it pays to swim with the current, not against it."
More and more jobbers in every line of business are learning every day that it pays to swim with the current of popular demand.
"Our job," said one jobber, "is to supply markets, not create them. Let the manufacturer make a market for his goods, and we will handle it."
Said another—"Our salesmen carry a catalog with thousands of items in it. They haven't the time to push unadvertised goods. Their work is principally taking orders."
If you go among these wholesalers today to introduce a new product in competition with merchandise nationally advertised, unless the article is exceptional, you will be met everywhere by the injunction: "First go out and get a reputation for your goods through advertising."
The wholesaler knows by actual contact with dealers how they value speed of turnover, goods which move with a minimum of effort, goods people know about and ask for.
