EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A Chiel is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Prent 'Em— So Says Saunterer.

Sanford seems to have been awakened from its Rip Van Winkle sleep and there is undoubtedly right now a purpose to do something to secure for us that which we should have in the way of trade and industrial life.

There have been flashes such as the present one in the past but they have died and are now almost forgotten. This one I am assured and I believe will be different.

As I understand the situation it is not the intention to start off with a great flourish proclaiming that Sanford is to be made over in a day.

This cannot be done in a day. It cannot be done in a year as we want it done but a start can be made.

It is a sign of the growing national interest in music that there is a prize competition of 10,000 offered by the National Federation of Musical Clubs to facilitate the methods of American composers.

An automobile is something that everybody wants but no one knows why he wants it after he has it. There are some folks who get automobiles and some others who buy Fords.

Automobiles are used for joyrides; but when the machine has thirty horse power and twenty eight of 'em die seven miles from home with a shower coming up the folks say, "Two bad, two bad" but they mean they're all bad.

Pa says that lots of fellows'd rather pay for gasoline in an automobile than to keep up their insurance or pay their grocery bills.

Some folks like a runabout—one of them automobiles what'll runabout three or four miles and make the fellow what owns it runabout a mile to get a horse to haul it home.

enough to own a automobile I'd have two; then when one was being fixed I'd have one to ride in.

My pa told me 'bout a fellow what was knocked down by an automobile. He'd never seen one before.

When I see an automobile having one or more empty seats driven swiftly past a pedestrian in the outlying streets or along a roadway in the country without apparent attention or consideration by its occupants for a fellow traveler I am impressed with the thought that I do not like our present boasted civilization any too well.

A mile of postage stamps produced every five minutes! That's making the stickers in record breaking time. This will be the result of the operation of a new machine for stamp making in the bureau of engraving and printing.

This machine which prints gum dies perforates and either cuts into sheets or winds into coils 12,000 stamps in one minute will save the government several million dollars in the cost of stamps alone in the course of a few years.

J. E. Ralph director of the bureau foreseeing heavy business after the passage of the postal savings and parcel post acts directed an employe to plan a machine method for producing the vast number of stamps.

It is asserted that with the saving in cost of stamp production and some possible economies by further machine development penny postage may follow in time.

In order to promote the object of that competition the Musical Courier offers a prize of $200 for the best libretto in an American subject that conforms to the regulations of the larger prize competition.

The conditions are that the writer must be a citizen of the United States and the opera must be grand opera in out of such length that the entire performance will not exceed three and a quarter hours counting intermission.

The time allowed for the submission of the completed opera words and music expires August 1 1914. The Courier prize then is on condition that the librettos to be submitted are received before October 1 next and the prize will be awarded within a month if possible.

For many years the world has been baffled by the problem of where the pins go that are turned out in millions of millions by the pin factories.

Under the able leadership of Mrs. J. D. Parker president of the association in its three years of activity have accomplished excellent results for the improvement of the West Side.

The pins it buys is it seems exactly the same which makes an iron surface scale off when exposed for a long length of time to the atmosphere without the protection of paint.

ANNUAL REPORT

Of the Secretary of the West Side Improvement Association

We come to the end of the year and disbanding of the association with a feeling of pride in the results accomplished by this organization for the improvement of the West Side during the season of 1912-13.

In November 1912 our president succeeded in securing a restraining order of the Gulf Refining Co.'s oil tanks in the vicinity of the West Side Park.

In the course of the year important communications were received from Mrs. Mary T. Wood, chairman of the Information Bureau of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, and Miss Zona Gale, chairman of civics of the National Federation.

In February Mrs. John W. Diggins president of the Welaka Club was a guest of the association being present to inspire interest in the proposed amalgamation of the Woman's Club of Sanford.

In April a vote to amalgamate with the Woman's Club of Sanford resulted for amalgamation ratified at the May meeting of the association.

On April 2nd a Cleaning-up Day for the West Side was a splendid success and has been far reaching in its effects. Merchants, corporations, city council, The Herald, owners and renters of property enthusiastically cooperated with the association with the result that there has been a decided improvement in private grounds and public streets of the West Side.

A large consignment of seeds for children's gardens was received by Mrs. Robbins through the courtesy of the Burpee Seed house of Philadelphia which were distributed to the members of the association.

Walks have been plowed in the park a merry-go-round for the pleasure of the children placed there and much labor and money have been expended upon its improvement.

A division of the funds in the treasury was made April 7th between the Park and streets and the street division was applied on Cypress curbing for three blocks on Elm avenue.

Through the influence of the association the city council have had parkways vacant lots and ditches cleaned out and recently weeds cut down in the park.

Big Ball Games Occupy Public Eye

Sanford Had Special Wire To Imperial Theatre

Games Are Hotly Contested And New York And Philadelphia Alternate

The World's series of base ball games between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics is attracting the attention of the civilized world and the news from the ball grounds is flashed each day around the world where waiting thousands are expectant for the plays by innings or each play can be flashed upon the board by telegraph and the game can be watched thousands of miles away with almost as much interest as those at the grounds could hope to enjoy.

In Sanford the games were arranged as well as any of the larger cities and the score board arranged at the Imperial Theatre was all that could be desired and the fans aroused as much excitement as they formerly did at Holden Park when Sanford and Orlando were battling for the supremacy of the Sandspur League.

Through the untiring efforts of Messrs. Lane, Hurt and Davis the board was arranged and the electric flashes played the game as each telegraphic tick recorded the plays to the operators.

The games will be given at the Imperial today and tomorrow and in case that New Yorks win today it will probably take Monday to decide the series and in this case the fans will have the last opportunity to get the telegraphic reports at the Imperial on Monday afternoon.

The admission is only thirty-five cents and the arrangement is well worth the price of admission, as the plays can be watched with as much interest as the real game in New York or Philadelphia. Tuesday's game was won by Philadelphia, Wednesday's by New York, Thursday's by Philadelphia. As we go to press the chances are good for New York to win today.

ORANGE WILL BOND

Commissioners Decide to Call an Early Election

With a unanimity as solid as it was unusual, the county commissioners yesterday adopted resolutions declaring the need for a system of hard surfaced highways in Orange county, and further calling an election to be held Tuesday, November 11 for the voters to pass for themselves upon this important question.

The commissioners limited themselves in solemn resolution to a stated sum in the cost of the proposed roads after having consulted experienced engineers. This estimate is for roads after three miles wide the cost being placed at $7,512 per mile. While this limit is regarded as liberal by the commissioners they have made an allowance of $8,000 per mile in mopping up roads for the system so that margin will be allowed for possible unforeseen exigencies.

The estimate for clay roads is $1200 per mile. It had been suggested that the commissioners incorporate such estimates and the routes of the roads it is proposed to build in the call for the election. The legal requirements are such however that this can not be done. The statute distinctly provides what shall be contained in the call for a bond election and nothing else can be put in without taking a chance of invalidating the issue authorized under it. The commissioners did the best possible to do so satisfy this demand by adopting resolutions and pledging themselves to be bound by the terms of such resolutions in regard to routes and expense of construction.—Orlando Sentinel.

Co-operation of Farmers F. E. Dutton, the Produce Distributor, has car Blue Stone (for spraying) due to arrive Sanford via Clyde Line Saturday. This car cost around Two Thousand ($2000.00) Dollars, and was sold by Mr. Dutton at such a small margin of profit, that it saved to the interested growers about One Thousand ($1000.00) Dollars, in comparison with price paid in past season in limited quantities.

It speaks well for the Co-operation of growers in getting together and buying in car lots.

PRINTERS' COST CONGRESS

To Be Held at Ocala, October 13 to 17 Inclusive

If every man engaged in the printing business in South Florida will attend the printers' cost congress to be held at Ocala, November 13-17 it is hardly too tall to expect that a printing may be established that will give the printer at least a semblance of profit on his time and investment. It is a well known fact that some printers cut the price of their job printing to such an extent that the profits are nil. But few printers allow anything for deterioration in the value of material, handling of stock, freight, postage, rent, power and other overhead expenses and until such allowances are made the printer cannot know whether he is doing job printing at a profit or a loss. Too many printers are prone to accept a job at most any old price in order to get the job away from the other fellow. Such a practice should be discontinued and no job should be taken that does not show a good profit. It is better to let the machinery stand idle than to keep running simply to be doing something. Machinery and type will wear out and in every job secure a profit or the proprietor has a barrel of money and is in business purely for the fun of the thing, to be doing nothing in the meantime, to replace the type when it does give out. The cost congress at Ocala will prove an educator that will open the eyes of South Florida's printers, and it is to be hoped that every one who can will attend and take an active part in the proceedings of this convention. NEWSPAPERS TOO CHEAP

We Predict an Early Raise in Price On All Papers

That the dollar a year newspaper will soon be obsolete is almost a certainty. During the last ten years the cost of living has advanced 60 per cent. Wages have advanced accordingly. The only thing that has not advanced is the price of the country newspaper and that will have to fall in line or quit business. Print paper is away gone higher than it was ten years ago. The country printer that we could hire had a score years ago for ten dollars a week will not make less than a dollar a week. The cost of a newspaper is not the same as it was ten years ago. The printer is not going to pay up and down for a donation of a dollar to "help the editor." Those times are rapidly passing into obscurity. The editor of a country newspaper is beginning to realize that he is entitled to some remuneration for his capital and labor services for the benefit of the community. He is beginning to realize that being paid for subscriptions in advance and for advertising is not purchase a monument to place on his last resting place when he leaves it a vale of tears for the mansion he expects to occupy in the great hereafter. And in this realization or awakening he will have to raise the price of his subscription and advertisement or join the ranks of those who are making money selling these skunk skins they wish to hand to the editor.

St. Petersburg is Booming

Dr. W. A. Minnick is in the city for a few days greeting his many Sanford friends. The genial doctor is now located in St. Petersburg where he is engaged in the drug business and states that the city of St. Pete is moving some and the ten thousand tourist mark of last year will be raised this season, as the new people are coming down already. Dr. Minnick says that the way property moves in St. Petersburg is marvelous and the city is growing as rapidly as some of the towns of the west in the building of which he had a hand. Sanford hated to lose Dr. Minnick but his friends here are glad that he is prospering in his new location and hope that when he has made a fortune he will again take up the farming game in the celery delta.

Communes Fire Department

Going to some rumors that have come to me which are calculated to do the Fire Department an injustice, I wish to state some facts correcting the absurdities being spread around.

The evening Mrs. Barnes' residence caught fire the members of council were present at the city hall as well as many other citizens many of whom went with me to check and know the facts in the case. The truck left the headquarters forty minutes after the alarm and arrived at the residence in ten minutes. The chemist took away a perfect working order of the apparatus as the contents of a part of the apparatus was out of order and the men did all that was possible.

The time of alarm, time of leaving and arriving at fires is kept automatically by clockwork device to check just such malicious or ignorant statements as have been circulated. Any one desiring to get the truth of the matter can do so by visiting at headquarters where records are kept.

In the past seven months the Department has never been delayed a minute nor has any part of the apparatus failed to work.

Murderer Still at Large

Ocala, Oct. 10. A number of wild stories have been flying around in regard to the assassin of Mrs. Wilson, who was killed at her home near Ocala last Thursday morning. All these stories are baseless and some are unjust to one of two white citizens. There has been no evidence that no white man was connected in the cruel crime. Every white man flying within miles of the place has been fully accounted for and no stranger has been seen in the vicinity. About half a dozen negroes are held as suspects in the county jail, while the officers continue the search for the murderers of Mrs. Wilson. It is not believed that any of them is the murderer, but it is strongly suspected that one or more of them can give evidence that will throw light on the case. All the evidence that has so far been brought about points to Will Green as the murderer. He suddenly and otherwise unaccountably absented himself at the time, and the fugitive who has been seen running several times and has been shot at twice was about Will Green's size and build. Ocala, Fla. The state are looking for him, and unless he stays out in the woods or starves his capture is only a matter of time.

Will Dissolve Trust

Washington, Oct. 10. Attorney-General McReynolds expects to file a civil anti-trust suit for the dissolution of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad as soon as the department of justice's investigation is completed and to defer the question of possible criminal prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law for future developments.

A civil anti-trust suit would be aimed to correct alleged monopolistic conditions and suppression of competition. It is pointed out that the question of possible criminal prosecution for violation of the Sherman law will be determined by a study of the results of the department of justice's investigation and probably by the developments of the civil trial.

Officials of the New Haven road have not so far indicated any purpose to negotiate with the government for a settlement of the issues.

Accused Governor And His Wife Not Called Upon

Other Items Of Interest Of World At Large By Special Telegraph Service

Without calling either Gov. Sulzer or his wife to the witness stand his counsel rested their case in the trial of his impeachment. According to D. Cady Horrick, chief of his attorneys, Gov. Sulzer decided not to defend himself in person because he did not want to be placed in the position of shielding himself behind his wife—for it was for Mrs. Sulzer, according to testimony, that the governor had his Wall street dealings.

Today will be devoted to summing up the case by the opposing counsel. Monday next being a holiday, adjournment probably will be taken until Tuesday, when it is expected the verdict on the governor's innocence or guilt will be reached.

Judge Herrick tonight pointed out that the testimony yesterday of Allen A. Ryan best disclosed the reason why the governor had not taken the stand. This was the conversation which Ryan said he had with the impeached executive early in September in relation to obtaining political influence to stop the trial.

With the decision today of John Bassett Moore, acting secretary of state, that the United States is not under international obligation to furnish asylum at Eagle Pass for Mexican refugees who are non-combatants, the problem of dealing with the thousands, most women and children, who have sought safety in the Texas town, passed to the department of labor for solution through the bureau of immigration. The task of the bureau will not be difficult, officials tonight said, as the Mexican federal commander at Piedras Negras has announced that all non-combatants may return to the lacerated stronghold without danger from the federals.

Attacks on members of the senate banking and currency committee and efforts to force action by the committee on the administration currency bill were severely condemned in an informal executive session of the committee to which senators O'Connell and Hitchcock spoke out as individual objects of Texas attack within the past three days, denouncing that the committee take up the matter and for an hour the criticisms were discussed.

Factory for Orlando

Orlando, Oct. 9. The Board of Trade held a regular meeting Monday evening and transacted much important business looking to the future good of the city and county. The question of furnishing the necessary inducements to get the Buena Vista Fruit Co. to locate its plant in this city for the manufacture of citrate of lime and other products from the waste of the groves and packing houses, was favorably settled by meeting the request of the company for a suitable site. A telegram was sent the company this morning telling them to go ahead with their plans and that the site would be ready. The property to be given is located on the Coast Line R. R. and is worth $1,500.00.

The factory will employ several hundred hands when running full capacity, and will be the only one in Florida. Sugar cane will also be used in manufacturing the products put out by the company and the enterprise promises to be a prominent factor in the future development of the town.

AGRICULTURE BRINGING RESULTS

State Geologist Will Investigate Making of Brick From Florida Clay.

Has the governor of Florida, or his commissioner of agriculture, a contingent fund that could be used to employ a competent person to investigate the clay deposits of the state and make a study as to their fitness for the manufacture of vitrified brick? Could money be used for a better purpose? Millions of dollars are now being spent in millions more will be spent in the construction of vitrified brick streets and roasts in Florida. What a tremendous benefit would result to the people generally if all this money could be kept in the state instead of being sent to Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and Maryland? The suggested investigation should be made at once, and it should be thorough.—DeLand News.

RALLY DAY

Congregational Sunday School Next Sunday Morning

The Rally Day committee are sending out rather unique invitations for Rally Day at the Congregational Sunday School Sunday, Oct. 12, that are both novel and attractive. The Junior boys, acting as telegraph messengers are delivering telegrams which read: "World wide Sunday School Telegraph Co. not incorporated. No monopoly. O.K. 'Wherever man is found.' In this connection the Palatka board of trade has a letter from Prof. Sellards in which the state geologist states that he expects soon to install a furnace to test clays. The value of clay for brick making can only be determined by burning it into brick. Prof. Sellards says he hopes soon to be able to test the clays of Putnam and other counties of the state.—Palatka News.

Coated Tongue Means Lazy Liver

A Lazy Liver Needs a Dose of Dodson's Liver Tonic - Guaranteed to Take Place of Calomel

When your doctor looks to see if your tongue is coated, he is trying to find out if your liver is working properly. A few years ago doctors had to prescribe calomel - there was nothing else to give. Recently in many sections of the country Dodson's Liver Tonic has practically taken the place of calomel as a liver remedy. Dodson's Liver Tonic is mild, pleasant tasting and harmless - which makes it a fine remedy for use when your children become bilious and constipated. But the most remarkable feature of Dodson's Liver Tonic is the fact that L. R. Phillips & Co. who sell it guarantee it absolutely. The druggist will return your money without argument if a bottle fails to give entirely satisfaction.

Price, 50 cent. We suggest that you get a bottle today and have it ready for the next member of your family whose liver goes wrong. (Advertisement)

A prominent naval stores operator residing near Tallahassee was last week fleeced out of $1500 by a sharp stock salesman. The last Legislature enacted a law requiring concerns having stock for sale to apply to the comptroller for authority to sell same. It is the duty of the comptroller to investigate the concern and if he finds it as represented to issue his certificate allowing the sale of its stock. Everybody to whom stock is offered for sale in Florida has a right to demand the exhibition of the comptroller's certificate and had the Leon county man taken this precaution he would not have parted with his good cash for worthless paper.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of the Eastern Star this evening at 7:30. All members are requested to be present. Business of importance.

PAOLA POINTS

The first divine service of the season was held at Paola church last Sunday afternoon. Rev. R. W. Edwards of Jacksonville officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. McGuin are again established in their winter home. Their summer in Daytona Beach was both interesting and busy by the building and furnishing of their new house, "Hillheart." They are, however, ready with unabated zeal to make Paola lively this winter.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. A. Hicks have returned, after a long and enjoyable visit with friends and relatives in their old home in Pennsylvania. Notwithstanding the good time they had while away, they are glad to be at home again, and are better satisfied than ever with Paola.

The Pearson brothers have the contract for building Mr. Cleveland's house, and work will commence at once. Miss Flora Pearson has gone to attend her sister Frances, who is quite sick at Loughman, Florida.

The Bothemly saw-mill has finished its job near Island Lake, and within a few weeks, will be transplanted to a new location.

Mr. Bothemly had the misfortune to lose a valuable mule last week. Messrs. Allison, Smith and Iserman cut the much discovered bee tree at Twih Lakes, the other day. They claim that the fifty pounds of honey they secured, and attendant excitement, repaid them for their trouble. But alas! that tree will never again be found by hunter, wood-chopper or wandering tourist.

HER QUICK CHOICE

As Between Riches and the Man She Loved, She Chose the Latter.

By FRANK FILSON.

When the boarding-house servant announced Dick Mansfield, Maggie put aside the letter over which she had been puzzling and hastily patted her hair, smoothed down her dress, straightened the cover of the sofa bed, and went to the door of her hall bedroom. Next moment she was in Dick's arms.

"Heigho! Same old ball room!" said Dick, taking his seat beside her. "Say, Maggie, how would you like to pay Mrs. Flanagan her last week's rent and come west with me next Friday?"

"West, Dick?" Maggie Durham exclaimed. "West? what I said," Dick answered. "I've got a chance to buy a farm in Texas—five hundred down and the rest on mortgage. Then we can get married and start out to make a home for ourselves. You know, Maggie, dear," he continued, in a whisper of exultation, "I've got twelve hundred dollars saved now."

They had been engaged two years. Maggie earned eighteen dollars a week as stenographer to Mr. Burman, of the great department store, and Dick twenty as a clerk in the Iron-works corporation. And they had been saving ever since they were engaged.

"I mean, Maggie, with your five hundred," Dick volunteered. "And we can start in on that and make our way. Is it all right?"

"But Dick, I—"

"But Maggie, you know now Mr. Burman's dead you won't have such prospects as you thought. He took a fancy to you, but his head man dislikes you, you told me, and I guess you'll find the future won't be so bright as you hoped. Come, throw it up and let's get married."

She would not give him her decision. She would let him know the next Sunday, she said. Of course they could not go on five days' notice. She must give Burman's time to replace her. And Dick would have gone away very downcast, had not her loving good-bye kiss reassured him of her love.

Left alone, Maggie pulled out the letter again and began studying it. It was from Mr. Burman's lawyer and it hinted at something that she had never imagined in her wildest dreams. And she was to be at the Burman mansion, on Madison avenue, at noon the following day.

The next morning, a few minutes before the appointed hour, Maggie Durham was shown into the splendidly furnished drawing room. Mrs. Burman, a severe, stout, elderly woman, in widow's weeds, was seated in an arm chair, her handkerchief to her eyes. Upon the sofa, side by side, looking the severest condemnation upon the visitor, were the Misses Burman. The lawyer, Henry Altemus, rose nervously out of his chair to meet her. When he presented her the women made only the slightest inclination of their heads.

"Ahem! Miss Durham, it is my duty to give you some very painful information," the lawyer began. "Painful to us, not the young woman, Mr. Altemus," the widow corrected.

"I beg your pardon, madam," the lawyer apologized. He turned to Maggie. "Miss Durham," he began, "how long have you worked in Mr. Burman's store?"

"Three years," said Maggie. "You began as a cash girl and had a phenomenally rapid rise, I believe?"

Maggie nodded. "Taught myself stenography and worked up," she answered.

"Nevertheless you are a young woman of very limited education, I think?"

"What I don't know," said Maggie—she glanced round her—"would fill that library there."

"Crude but true," the widow interposed icily.

"And, Miss Durham, you never subscribed your rapid rise in Mr. Burman's store to anything but native ability?" the lawyer asked.

"Well," said Maggie, pondering, "I guess that Mr. Burman took a kind of fancy to me. I don't know. I didn't think much about it; I just went ahead and did my work."

"One question more, madam. I am not talking at random. I am now about to come to the point. How did you happen to obtain your position in Mr. Burman's store?"

"Now you've got me," said Maggie. "I don't know. I was brought up at the Catholic orphanage. I never knew my father or mother. When I was eighteen the mother told me that there was a job waiting for me at the store. I just went ahead and took it. That's all I know."

"Mr. Altemus," sobbed the widow, "come to the point. Tell the young person of her good luck and get it over."

"Miss Durham," said Mr. Altemus, "on going through Mr. Burman's private papers we find that he was—married before."

"We hope so," interposed the widow. "Add, to be brief, that you are Mr. Burman's daughter."

Maggie looked at the lawyer and at the widow and at the grim faces of the two girls.

"Why didn't he recognize me?" she asked.

"Because," said the lawyer, "Mr. Burman had a position in life which had to be maintained. And you were the fruit of a mesalliance, a juvenile indiscretion. Mr. Burman decided, quite rightly, that he should not be held responsible."

"I see," said Maggie. "So he put the responsibility on my mother. Where is she?"

"She died when you were born. And now the point is this: Mr. Burman has left you an annual income of seven thousand dollars, to be held in trust for you, upon two conditions. First, that you agree to go to a school in Paris which has been selected for you, and to remain there two years. Secondly, that, after you have been polished, you will reside with Mrs. Burman as her niece, and that no hint of the secret ever passes your lips, under penalty of forfeiting your income. Ah, by the way, there is a third condition, but it is too unimportant to lay much stress upon it. I believe you have considered yourself engaged to a worthy young man by the name of Mansfield? A mere clerk, I think. Of course that episode is ended now and forever. Well, Miss Durham, you are a lucky young woman and I congratulate you with all my heart. All that is now requisite is that you sign a document which I have here embodying these terms. You will then receive a quarterly installment of $2,333.33 from me. And of course your past life ends here. You will never return to your boarding house. You will go to an apartment which I have already ordered for you, being under the care of your chaperon, Mrs. Griggie, a member of an aristocratic family. Here is the paper." He began shuffling among the sheets upon the table.

Maggie rose up.

"Good-bye, Mr. Altemus," she said. She bowed to the widow and her daughters.

"Eh?" said the lawyer.

"Declined with thanks," said Maggie. She began to grow red. "Do you think I'd sell myself into slavery for the pleasure of mixing with your crowd?" she demanded. "Why, there isn't a drop of real blood in your veins. There isn't a particle of decent feeling in you. No thanks! I've got something none of you will ever have or ever have had, and that's the love of a good man who's going to make me happy and give me a home. Declined!"

"Stop! Stop!" shouted the lawyer. "If you refuse you must sign a release attested by four witnesses and drawn up in the presence of a notary public according to—"

But the front door had slammed.

"Morey," ejaculated the widow, fanning herself briskly. "Thank heaven I haven't got that incubus on my shoulders. A very vulgar young woman, Mr. Altemus, but upon my word, I'm almost inclined to forgive her low insults in view of what has occurred. Do you think you can get the release signed for certain, Mr. Altemus?"

"If she doesn't change her mind," murmured the lawyer. "I'm afraid—I'm afraid—"

But he had nothing to be afraid of, for Maggie was at that moment telephoning to Dick Mansfield in a public booth.

"Dick! Hello, Dick!" she called. "It's all right, Dick, dear. I'll make it Friday."

Penrose and the Steam Roller.

A charming young Frenchwoman was a guest at a dinner attended by Senator Penrose recently. The conversation turned to horseback riding and the fair visitor inquired if the senator had had any adventures.

"Yes," he replied reminiscently, "I had an exciting experience not long ago. When out riding one afternoon my horse shied at a steam roller and threw me, shaking me up pretty badly."

"And the steam roller—did it roll over you?"

"Not that time," said the senator, laughing. "It did later."

Wool Production.

The great wool producing countries in the world are Australia, the United States, Great Britain, Russia and the Argentine Republic. The figures are as follows, in pounds, for the year 1911: Australia, 759,590,000; Russia (in Europe and Asia), 330,000,000; Argentina, 328,600,000; the United States, 328,000,000; Great Britain, 128,000,000. The total output of the world is 2,695,722,000 pounds. The wool industry is steadily growing, and by the improvement of the breed the yield per sheep is increasing right along.

NERO, THE AVENGER

How Circus Lion Inflicted Just Retribution on a Cruel Trainer.

By SIGISMUND B. TAILER.

Nero had been in the circus for several weeks. Signor Bianco, his trainer, had perceived nothing amiss, because his eyes had lost their keenness and his brain had grown sudden and bewildered. Nero obeyed as quickly as ever, but when he sprang, at the word of command, upon his pedestal, there was a slight quivering of his sides, a flashing of his tail, which would have told Bianco a story—once. But Bianco was mad with drink and jealousy of his young wife, Minetta.

Every trainer knows that the old story of Daniel and the Lions is true. The lion fears a good man more than anything in the world. But let the trainer drink or give way to any base impulse and his power is gone.

As for Minetta and Betty, they were mere kittens of creatures, hardly larger than well-grown Newfoundland dogs. And Parilla, the tiger, was old and toothless. Nero carried off the honors in Bianco's manager, and Nero was so magnificent, a Cuban specimen that he would have made any show respectable.

Minetta had noticed it. So had Giuseppe. The girl had told Giuseppe, and the apprentice had warned Bianco. Bianco had laughed and sneered and cut Nero across the face with his heavy training whip. Nero retreated, growling and licking his paws; he longed to sink their needle-like points into Bianco's white flesh.

The truth was that Bianco had been beating his wife. Minetta was only sixteen and they had been married two years. Bianco was forty-five. He had found Minetta starving on her arrival from Italy to marry Giuseppe, who came from her village, and to whom she had been pledged ever since they were children.

Minetta had missed Giuseppe, for Bianco, having seen her photograph, had cunningly contrived to send Giuseppe astray. He trailed her for three days until her money was exhausted. Then he made himself known to her at her boarding house, just as she was in the act of being turned into the street.

"Giuseppe has another girl," he told her. "I am Signor Bianco. No, I do dignantly he struck her in the face. Giuseppe saw the bruise. "You have hurt yourself, Minetta," he exclaimed. "What have you done? Did you fall?"

"Yes, I fell downstairs," sobbed Minetta, shamefacedly. If she had been a little older she might not have been so frightened. But Bianco was all in the world to her, and as the man was who loved him because she had given herself to him.

Bianco watched her all the time. Giuseppe began to notice it. First he was indignant and thought of taxing Bianco with it. Then he waited, as is the Italian custom. No doubt he knew even came out of evil. Bianco drank constantly. Nero knew it. Nero was watching him as quietly as he watched Giuseppe. The climax was very near when Giuseppe saw Bianco strike Minetta through the open door of their tent.

He had been counting the receipts, but now he dropped these and drawing his knife rushed forward. But Bianco had gone into the lion house before he arrived. Bianco was training a new lion. Giuseppe must wait. Then he turned back to see Minetta, scarlet, with a white veal across her face, waiting for him.

"I saw him!" stammered Giuseppe. "Yes, I saw you, too," she answered. "When he struck me this time, Giuseppe, I knew that I loved him no longer. He is a—"

"He is a devil!" shouted the young man, fingering his blade. "Minetta!" They looked at one another and fell into each other's arms. They knew now that their two years had been fruitless; they would always love one another.

"Giuseppe, you must go," Minetta sobbed at length. "Go now, before sin come upon us."

Giuseppe fought the hardest battle of his life that moment. At last he conquered, raising Minetta's hand to his lips he walked slowly back to the collection box. He would leave that afternoon; he would never see Minetta again.

Minetta went into the lion house presently. Bianco, who seemed particularly amiable, called her into the cage. She was not loath to go, she was a better trainer than he.

Bianco caught his wife by the arm. "Minetta, dear Minetta," he said, smiling like a devil. "I saw what happened five minutes ago. Kneel down, Minetta, and pray."

Minetta knelt down and prayed, because she was death and it seemed the only thing that she could do.

Bianco stepped toward Nero and cut him savagely across the loins. The cat leaped from his pedestal and crouched, snarling, in a corner. Bianco stepped back toward the half-open door. He took his eyes from Nero. He knew that he could reach the door and close it on his wife before Nero could spring.

He leaped for the door, tripped, and stumbled. He had fallen upon Minetta's whip, which she had cast aside. He strove wildly to rise. He saw a great shape darken the daylight over him.

It was Minetta's scream that called Giuseppe from the collection box. When he arrived he saw her beating with her little fists on Nero's face while the lion blinked and snarled over the body of Bianco.

George W. Under Arrest

The name of George Washington is so common that it is almost impossible to find a man in the world whose name is George Washington. The name of George Washington is so common that it is almost impossible to find a man in the world whose name is George Washington.

It has been estimated by many who have made a special study of genealogy and descent, as well as the spread and change of names, that there are in the world now persons whose baptismal name is George Washington.

And of those whose sole name is George Washington, it is again estimated that at least 5,000 carry along the inspired cognomen wherever they go.

Of direct descendants, of course, the Father of His Country had none. Negroes by hundreds were named for him by slave masters before the Civil war. Since then the name has been a favorite with those blacks who had to choose a family appellation because of not being certain about their pedigree.

"All in the Game." It is erroneous to think that the great leaders of the financial world persist in their labors merely for the sake of acquiring money. Rather, they have got themselves into the game of active life, and they do not know how to exist outside of it.

Once there was a man who thought Russell Sage ought to stop work. He spoke to him about it. "Why get together any more money, Mr. Sage? You can't eat; you can't drink it. What good will it do you?"

"Ever play marbles?" Uncle Russell asked. "Yes, when I was a boy." "Couldn't eat 'em, could you? Couldn't drink 'em, could you? No use of 'em, were they? What did you play marbles for?"

Enviol Omnipotence. Freddy was 5 years of age. He had attended Sunday school for but a short time, and with childish curiosity asked questions. One day his father took him to the ball game, and little Freddy, his eyes shining brightly, asked: "Can God do anything, pop?" "Yes, my son," replied his father.

Freddy was quiet for a while. Then said: "If God was playing ball he would never get out, would he?"

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Thedford's Black-Draught, and out-taking other medicines. I decided to try this one, although I did not have any confidence in it.

"I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.

I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest.

not know where Giuseppe is now. "Marry me and I will hang diamonds round your neck."

Poor little Minetta, helpless and hopeless, fell an easy victim to Bianco. It must be admitted, though, that he was deeply infatuated with her girlish beauty. So they were married and lived happily three months. And then—Giuseppe came back.

Bianco had taken advantage of the raw youth's ignorance to have him shanghaied aboard a Chesapeake oysterman. He had thought the life would kill him; instead of which he had grown strong. "He came back to find Bianco married to Minetta."

"Pooh, that is nothing!" Bianco said airily. "I thought you had run away. It was for your sake I married her. Listen, Giuseppe, I want an assistant again. Stay with me and I will give you ten dollars weekly."

This seemed a fortune to Giuseppe. And he would have worked for nothing to be within sight of his beloved Minetta. He felt dimly that the day might arrive when he could help her.

Bianco had laughed quietly at his triumph. He felt sure that his cunning act, showing Minetta how he despised her former sweetheart, would make her despise Giuseppe. But Minetta did not despise Giuseppe.

Bianco, watching them, saw that the old love was only dormant. He knew that, though she would not have dared let herself acknowledge it, Minetta still loved Giuseppe. He dared not send him away, for he wanted to have him in his sight constantly.

He had tried in various ways to kill him. Once he teased Nero and sent Giuseppe into his cage. But Nero only crouched down at his feet. Another time he rubbed Giuseppe's clothes with catnip. Giuseppe smelled nothing and wondered why the big cats fawned around him and rubbed against him. But here, too, he escaped disaster.

Then Bianco began to beat Minetta and accused her openly of loving Giuseppe. When she denied this in-

Truck Growers Are Organizing

Florida Growers Realize That In Union There Is Strength

For the purpose of organizing a Truck Growers' Association and installing a canning factory at Greenville, A. P. Fant, Florida industrial agent of the Seaboard Air Line, left this afternoon for that city.

Before leaving Mr. Fant was asked to state just what had been accomplished by these truckers' associations in the state, and the following interesting and valuable record of successes obtained was given by him:

"We are indeed gratified at results obtained by the first organization that we assisted in organizing, the Baker County Growers' Association, of which you have no doubt heard. At Macclenny and Glen St. Mary, two points where practically no truck had been raised until this season, 300 acres were planted in Irish potatoes the past season, which resulted in a production of an average of 35 barrels per acre and sold at $4 per barrel, f. o. b. car. These people were so much encouraged that they ran the association membership up to ninety and subscribed an acreage of 1,000 for next season.

"Not only did these little experiments wake the people up to their possibilities from an Irish potato standpoint but served to stimulate them to greater action along agricultural lines and the result has been that large acreages of strawberries, sweet potatoes, beans and other truck have been put in in season; and conditions studied and practiced as to the best local method of crop rotation.

"The great benefit of the association rendered in this instance was the saving of 50 cents per barrel on thirty cars. All business was transacted through the offices of the association, such as the buying of barrels, etc., and when the crop was harvested and the buyers were on the ground the committee of officers left out for $4 because they controlled the output at the two points, and got what they demanded, although an offer of only $3.50 was made by the buyers. On the other hand, if the buyers had been dealing with individuals they would doubtless have bought the crop at their own price.

"I cite this instance merely to show what is being done along this line and the policy our department is following into detail with the farmer in his business so that we may render him the most material aid possible.

"Following up this line of work, we have encouraged and aided in every way consistent several associations along our line of road, some of which are just being organized.

"Results so far have been very gratifying indeed, and we intend to follow up this line of work together with the industries of other kinds, but to my mind the most unlimited possibilities in this state are to be found in the trucking industry."

The following are some of the Truck Growers' Associations established along the lines of the Seaboard Air Line in Florida, with the names of the associations:

Baker County Truck Growers' Association; C. J. Krautter, president, Glen St. Mary, Fla.

Maxville Truck Growers' Association; H. D. Carter, president, Maxville, Fla.

Fawcette Truck Growers' Association; W. S. Moore, president, Hawthorne, Fla.

Greenville Truck Growers' Association; H. W. James, temporary secretary, Greenville, Fla.

Clunbia County Trucking and Marketing Association; W. M. Cone, president.

Swansee County Truck Growers' Association; Thomas Z. Atkinson, agricultural advisor, Live Oak, Fla.

Madison Truckers' Association; O. Sanders, temporary president, Madison; Monticello Trucking Association; B. W. Partridge, temporary president, Monticello, Fla.

Gadsden County Truckers Association; Y. L. Watson, temporary president, Quincy, Fla.

Lake County Truckers' Association; Jack Peters, agricultural advisor, Tavares, Fla.

Callahan Truckers' Association; E. O. Erwin, president; D. H. Petrie, secretary, Callahan, Fla.—Jacksonville Metropolis.

A big sawmill industry is to be established in St. Johns county near Liego where large tracts of timber will be cut over and converted into lumber. Five large sawmills will be located on the lands. The mills will be equipped with modern machinery and big gangs of men will be placed at work. Most of the timber will be consumed by next spring. After the timber has been cut off the land will be developed for agricultural purposes.

Grooming Hudson

Jacksonville, Oct. 9.—The Evening Metropolis says political rumor has it that shrewd politicians have been endeavoring to draw Fred M. Hudson, of Miami, into the race against Senator Fletcher, John Stockton and Albert W. Gilchrist, hoping thereby to defeat a Jacksonville man and then make sailing easier for the Fourth District Congressman to come from Jacksonville.

Several conferences are reported to have recently been held on this subject. Last Saturday Senator Hudson went to Washington, and the belief has been expressed in some circles that he would attempt to get support against both Fletcher and Stockton.

Recently Senator Hudson has written letters to progressive Democrats with reference to his possible candidacy, and it is understood that many of the replies have been to the effect that it is now John N. C. Stockton's turn to go to the United States Senate for past services as the original progressive in Florida. Mr. Hudson would make a good Senator, though progressives admit, as he has made an excellent record in the State Senate and as attorney for the Railroad Commission.

Look Out For Bad Checks

Beware of the bogus check passer. This is the word that comes from nearby counties where a smooth young man is said to be operating with a great deal of gain to himself and grief for the unthinking merchant he robs. He is headed this way.

The smooth talk of the check pusher and the smallness of his checks make the scheme a success. The young man is said to be well dressed with a good line of conversation.

The game is an old one. The checks are made payable to George Wood or Robert Woods, mostly, although at times other names are used. The smallness of them, however, throws the merchant off his guard and before he knows it he has parted with a small package of merchandise and thrown in a handful of change in the bargain.

Seffner Has Newspaper

Seffner, one of the enterprising little towns of South Florida, and only a few miles from Tampa, is enjoying a great big boom. It is blessed with a class of the most progressive citizens to be found in the state, and they are "doing" things in great shape. It has a live Board of Trade and its personnel are live wires from the word go.

This organization is accomplishing great results in its laudable efforts to keep Seffner in the lime light. The song of Seffner's approaching prosperity is a sweet melody and sounds good to those seeking investments in a genial climate where the oranges grow in great profusion and the home of the industrious and well to do farmers.

Not being satisfied with only a Board of Trade to sing its praises, it is to have a newspaper which will make its appearance about November 1st and will be known as the "Seffner Weekly Hustler," and it will be published by M. D. Moseley, a well known journalist of South Florida.—Tampa Tribune.

St. Petersburg Bonds

St. Petersburg voted overwhelmingly on Tuesday for a $227,000 bond issue for internal improvements, the greater part of the amount to be used in completing contracts now under way.

Passage of the issue means that the first step toward securing a deep-water commercial harbor at Bayboro has been made. Of the total issue, $41,000 is for the purpose of commencing work on the project. Plans for the harbor, which appeared in the Manufacturers' Record several weeks ago, were prepared by Engineer Henry W. Long of Boston, and the scheme is considered one of the most modern as well as convenient of the present day.

Clermont Clean-up Club

The good ladies of Clermont, that beautiful little city that nestles on the shore of Lake Minnehaha in Lake county recently organized a Clean-up Club at the suggestion of Mrs. R. L. Milholland and while the name of the club is not euphonious it is very suggestive and to the point. The ladies went to work with a will and they have made a difference in the landscape of that part of Lake county. All honor to the good ladies of Clermont. They will have a thriving community before they are aware of the fact and the strangers will be impressed with the fact that they have a live community.

Special Road District For Volusia County

Will Give Sanford Shorter Road To Ocean

New Smyrna People At Last Are Aroused To The Importance Of Tourist Travel

That the people of the south end of Volusia county are determined to have good roads and that they are determined to have no effort undone to give the development of this section all impetus good roads will bring is shown by the enthusiasm with which the proposition to form a special road tax district is being met in all parts of the proposed district.

Property owners, tax payers and citizens generally express themselves in favor of the move and indications at this time are that a special election for this purpose will carry by a big majority.

Efforts will be made within the next few days to learn the sentiment of all the people living within the confines of the proposed special road tax district and for this purpose meetings will be held in practically every voting precinct in the district. The committee having the matter in charge, composed of John T. Hammond, W. H. Newell and George M. Marshall will soon issue the call for a mass meeting of the citizens of New Smyrna, when the matter will be explained and thoroughly discussed.

The proposition to form a special road tax district for the purpose of bonding for the building of good roads and opening up the country to its better development is too big a question to be distributed by factional feelings, personal prejudices or narrow mindedness and the subject is one in which every citizen who wants to see this section of the country grow and prosper should be vitally interested.

It is evident the people of the south end of the county can not expect much from the board of county commissioners, judging by what they have received since the new plan of lumping the county road moneys and expending the sum under the supervision of the county road superintendent went into effect. For years the people of New Smyrna and Coronado and the people in the new county of Seminole across the St. Johns river have been trying to get a good road through from the coast to the Ocala ferry, and the special road tax district seems to be the only means of obtaining this road.

New Smyrna and Coronado and the people living in all parts of the proposed district are losing heavily because of the absence of good roads in this part of the country. New Smyrna News.

UNDERGROUND WATERS

An Instructive Bulletin that can be Had Without Cost

Owing to the sparsely settled state of Florida farming sections we are not vitally interested in this matter, although it is worth while to secure the information contained in the circular, and we might find a condition confronting us at some time where it would be of excellent use. The United States Geological Survey office has the following to say:

"Underground Waters for Farm Use," a popular report of the United States Geological Survey has again been reprinted to meet the wide demand from all farming and suburban sections of the country. A copy can be now obtained free on application to the director, United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

This Water Supply Paper (No 255) explains in simple language the habits of flow of underground waters through different kinds of rocks and soils, and calls attention to the dangerous character of many wells whose waters are supposed to be pure and wholesome. Water from limestone rock, especially, it is stated, is apt to contain germs of typhoid or other disease, due to the fact that surface waters may find their way directly into the underground channels which have been cut out through the dissolution of the lime.

Methods of protection from such germs are explained in the report, well drilled methods and cost, types of curbs and well casings with which wells should be fitted, etc. The report embraces only about 50 pages, but it is well illustrated with photographs and diagrams.

C. H. Dinges has returned from a business trip to Ocala, Clearwater and other points in Pinellas County.

Attorney General So States—Other News and Views Of State At Large

Tallahassee, Oct. 14.—Florida Congressmen will be elected from four districts at the next election, without a change in state laws. The following section of the General Statutes of Florida of 1906, quoted by Attorney General West, apparently settles all discussion over the matter:

"174. A representative to the Congress of the United States shall be elected in and for each Congressional district of this state at every general election."

Attorney General West states that under this section Congressmen will be elected from the four districts by vote of the electors at the next general election. He states that the secretary of State should call for a meeting of the electors to elect the members of the Congress at the next general election.

How Railroads Heave the Public Heaves an extra load of taxes for Metropolitan readers.

A man recently moved from a town in Mississippi to Miami. He was taking his household goods along and wanted to prepay the freight charges. He was told at the Mississippi terminal that the freight would be $100 for the haul to Miami. He thought this amount excessive and he sought the charges after he got to Miami.

Upon the arrival of the goods in Miami he put the claim for "excess charges" into the hands of the "Merchant's Railways Traffic Association" of New Orleans, a firm that makes a specialty of collecting overcharges from the transportation companies, and, a day or so ago, he received a voucher for $160.00, which represented the overcharge. In other words the freight bill for the goods shipped to Miami should have been $84.00 and not $100.00.

The transportation company has been collecting the excess charges in Miami for some time. Now and then the shipper in his indignation carries his protest to the courts and gets a partial redress, but it is usual that the case of robbery is accepted as a part of the settlement of the greedy railroad companies, and rather than bother with the red tape and the tedious expense of a demand for a refund of the overcharge, the shipper usually pays the overcharge.

It is probable, too, that many people, especially the farmer who is relying for the first time from one part of the country to another, is not cognizant of ways to get redress from the transportation companies. In the instance we referred to, it just happened that the sufferer was a man who understands the methods of meeting a situation like this, and the recounting of his experience may be of benefit to others. Miami Metropolis.

Silos and Corn

Our farmers are rapidly learning to stop the leaks in farming operations. The farms of Florida are becoming less wasteful because crops are better raised. To save the waste is to save the soil.

With six silos constructed, each holding 100 tons, our farmers are getting the most out of their corn. Last in the field with the fodder, corn silks are worth about $2 per acre, cut and put into silos while green, these same stalks with the fodder are worth only $15.00 per acre.

If the West could utilize its corn stalks the present shortage of corn would be offset by millions of tons of high grade feed in silos. Disaster teaches us to husband the surplus we waste every day of our life.—Business Journal.

Panic Reigned On Ill Fated Steamer

Revised List Of Victims Enlarged To 143

Other News Of The World In General By Special Herald Wire Service

London, Oct. 13. The latest accounts of the accidents to the steamship Volturno, burned and abandoned in mid-ocean Friday morning, confirm that the loss of life will be limited to about 136. The Carmania, first of the rescuing ships to reach the burning steamer, arrived off Queenstown this morning, but on account of the gale, proceeded direct to Fishguard, where she is due to arrive at 11 a. m.

The graphic story of the solitary survivor aboard the Carmania was received by wireless and presents a terrible picture of the horror, the panic and confusion aboard the burning liner. Walter F. Fitzgibbon, a German, tells the story, which is clearly suffering from the loss of illness, and his awful experiences and his story is too infernal to be accepted in every detail.

Most important, if true, is his denial that two boats got away from the Volturno. According to his account, the Carmania was the last to leave his vessel, and he will be leaving late Friday morning for Queenstown.

New Primary Law Is Strict

The new primary law is of such vital interest to every elector in the state that the legislature should have made provision for mailing a copy of the law to every registered voter. But as this was not done, we feel that it is the duty of the newspapers to make the people fully acquainted with its provisions, says the Jacksonville Metropolis. This will perhaps be even a better way of informing them, because they will read a brief summarizing of the law, whereas only a few would care to wade through the technical wording of the law itself.

The law makes it a misdemeanor for any other persons, as well as a candidate, to give or promise to give anything of value to anyone as a reward for electioneering. A person is also prohibited from soliciting or accepting any consideration for electioneering or making speeches in behalf of a candidate, and if convicted will be punished by a fine or imprisonment or both.

A corporation is prohibited from contributing, directly or indirectly, to promote the interests of any candidate and a person is allowed to contribute only his personal services and personal traveling expenses, and directly to a candidate's campaign fund.

It is prohibited for a candidate from slanders and malicious attacks made anonymously, all political advertisements and campaign literature must be signed by the author and must also bear the name of the printer and publisher. It is further provided that every political advertisement appearing in a newspaper must be marked "paid advertisement." The publication of charges within eight days prior to the primary is prohibited except when a copy of the charges has been previously personally served on the candidate against whom the charges are made. This provision will give a candidate ample time to refute any charges made against him during the campaign and will prevent slanders from appearing which have an insidious influence, but which are very difficult to reply to satisfactorily. This breathing space of eighteen days will give a candidate an opportunity to defend his course in life without the fear that some new charge will be sprung at the last minute.

No candidate or other person will be allowed to pay for newspaper influence other than for paid newspaper advertising. Any editor or person connected with a newspaper who solicits or accepts payment for advocating the election of any candidate will be subject to severe penalties. The act further provides that if a newspaper assails the personal character of a candidate, or accuses him of misconduct in office, or otherwise attacks his official record or gives to anyone else free space to make such an attack, that the candidate may immediately make a reply free of cost and in as conspicuous a place, provided he do not take up more space than the matter replied to.

Herndon for Alderman

B. W. Herndon announces that he will stand for re-election to the position of Alderman of Sanford. Mr. Herndon needs no introduction to the people of Sanford, having been reared in this city and identified with the business interests since growing to manhood's estate. Mr. Herndon has served the city faithfully and well as alderman and is entitled to another term as a recognition of his services. He is young and progressive and stands for improvements when tempered with economy. His experience already gained in this position and his knowledge of city affairs are now a valuable asset for his second term and he will ask the suffrage of the voters upon his past record.

Athletic Associations Join

The two Athletic Associations of the Sanford High School have joined and are to devote their energies to basket ball and tennis. The first part of the winter will be taken up mostly with basket ball, as both the gymnasium and the grounds have a good team in the field this winter, practice has already begun and a new court is under construction.

There should be considerable interest taken this year in the school athletics, as the teams last year made a remarkable record and expect to do much better this year.

Several games have been secured with outside teams, so the basket ball fans of Sanford may be assured of some fast games.
