Measure Is Shelved Despite Roosevelt's Telegram Declaring Such Lines Needed

ATLANTA, Mar. 20-6P-Beaten despite an endorsement by President Roosevelt, legislation to permit the construction of gasoline pipelines in Georgia was shelved in the Georgia Legistature today. Yesterday the Senate voted 27-21 against the measure that would have permitted the con-atruction of pipelines as national defense neasures, although four hours carlier it had heard read a telegram from Roosevelt hold-ing such lines "essential" to mational defense.

Shortly before this action the Senate voted 28 to 16 for a re-solution expressing willingness to reconvene in special session, after adjournment Saturday night, to enact legislation permitting the federal government to con-struct pipelines in this state. This would deny the right to pri-

A Vital Link

Yesterday's announcement of the approval of a har-bor project at Canaveral by the district Argy engineer provides one additional reason for the construction of the St. Johns-Indian River Canal. As such it should encourage ocal interests to put forth every effort during the next few months in promoting the canal project.

Canaveral has long been advocated as a port for Central Florida shipping. It will be 27 feet deep with a turning basin 1,000 feet wide and 2,900 feet long. It would symscalprion Rates

The construction of a canal from the upper St. Johns River to the Indian River at a point near Titusville would open up the whole central part of the state to sea horne communication.

The proposed St. Johns-Indian River Canal project has reached its present stage on the basis of its use by pleasure craft almost entirely. It has been recognized for some time that a link connecting the beautiful St. Johns with the Indian River would provide the hundreds of yacht owners who annually winter on the lower East Coast with an alternative route for their trip up or down the coast.

To this very excellent reason for its construction is now added the fact that it would be a very important adjunct to the Canaveral harbor project. It has also recently become apparent that it would have tremendous arivan-THEN OBEY GOD'S WILL: tages for national defense. The proximity of the Banana The righteous cry, and the Lord River Naval Base and the necessity of supplying large heareth, and delivereth them out numbers of men stationed there with food and other necessity. numbers of men stationed there with food and other necessitles as well as their ships and planes with fuel and other equipment makes water transportation from inland Fforids of vital importance.

Near one end of the St. Johns River is the vast Jacksonville Naval Base which President Roosevelt is inspecting today. At the other end is the Banana River Naval Base with which for tactical reasons it is connected. Only a narrow strip of land, mostly marsh, which could be cut through at nominal expense, prevents direct water communication between these two important defense bases.

In the event of war, storage tanks for oil could be concealed along the banks of the St. Johns at frequent intervals far from the coast where they might be subjected to bombing attacks or shellfire from ships at sea, and from these moved quickly by barges up the St. Johns and through the canal to the Banana River Base where planes and ships can refuel.

We believe any Navy man would admit the importance of this canal project. It only remains to convince the Army

Decentralizing Is Being Considered By Capital City

By JACK STINNEIT
WASHINGTON, Mar. 20—(P)
—Like a growing kid, the government is 'susting out of its limited budget that didn't permit buying Junior a new suit every

Planning and Space Control, and Even though government building is going on around here at such a dizry pace you can almost go up in an elevator tday over the same ground where you played one-eyed cat with the kida yesterday, office space can't keep up with government expansion.

It's national defense, of course, but merely to say that that has resulted in the employment of $30,000 or 40,000 employes in the District of Columbia doesn't give any picture of the office space problem.

is too slow )Federal Office Building No. 2. (Federal Office Building No. 1 hasn't been started.)
