Seminole Crops Frozen; Growers Brace For More Cold

From Local and Wire Reports
"Everything's frozen, there's no question about that," county extension agent Bill Llewellyn said today referring to the Seminole County citrus crop, while growers state-wide brace for another bout with wintry weather.
Last year Seminole's crop was worth $6.5 million. "How much they are able to salvage depends on how fast they can pick it and process it into juice," Llewellyn said.
Llewellyn, in charge of commercial vegetable crops for several counties, said this year's crop was only 25 percent harvested "and 25 percent of the crop consists of Valencias, which are not yet sweet enough to use in the juice."

Still racing to harvest freeze-damaged oranges, growers across the state readied smudge pots today for another onslaught of freezing temperatures.
Forecasters said a hard freeze was likely by Friday morning in the northern tier of the Florida citrus belt, and freezing temperatures also were possible in central orange-growing regions.
Sandwiched between the bursts of cold was a warm spell Tuesday and Wednesday that likely hastened spoilage of freeze-damaged fruit, Wells said.
After surveying crop damage in Seminole Wednesday, Llewellyn estimated there are 900 acres in the Seminole area (including Osteen in Volusia County) planted in cabbage, the crop most tolerant to cold weather, but because of the severe freeze, it has been "totally blanked out." He said the most mature cabbage may be marketable if it doesn't go to seed, but fields with young cabbage plants will probably have to be plowed up and replanted. It takes about $800 an acre to prepare the field and plant cabbage and about $1,400 to raise and harvest an acre of cabbage. Llewellyn said it takes 70-90 days to mature after the young cabbage is replanted. "That throws the season late, before the farmers can get any income from their crop."

"Last year the cabbage farmers suffered from depressed prices, and with the crop hurt bad in Texas this year, they had a chance of making some money," he said. He said damage was pretty general on both sides of Sanford, in Wagner and Oviedo and Osteen. Most of the fall crops such as squash, cucumbers, and eggplants had been harvested, but those that were left were wiped out by the freeze.
Temperatures last weekend dropped below 26 degrees and stayed there for more than five consecutive hours in many parts of the citrus belt, causing statewide damage estimated by industry officials at $190 million.

An emergency harvest is underway to move the freeze-damaged fruit to juice processing plants before it rots, but it is being hampered by a shortage of pickers with everyone harvesting at once.
The Florida Citrus Commission is considering an emergency ban on exports of fresh oranges from the state to ensure no bad oranges get into consumers' hands.
National Weather Service forecaster Andy Stern said the citrus belt would experience temperatures in the 20s by early Friday morning, but he could not predict how long the low temperatures might last.
If the mercury drops to the danger point of 26 degrees, growers would use irrigation or smudge pots — triangular-shaped fireboxes that spread heat up to the trees — in an effort to minimize damage, said Florida Citrus Mutual spokesman Earl Wells.

Meanwhile, industry and government officials disagreed about the potential loss caused by the Christmas freeze, which continued through Monday.
Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner said losses may reach $300 million to $500 million. Conner, who toured agricultural areas in central Florida and Hillsborough County Wednesday, said talks with farmers indicated

New Well Buys Time For City

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

With a newly tapped irrigation well producing 1.5 million gallons a day, Sanford may have gained some time to find a solution to its contaminated water problem.

According to Mimi A. Drew, deputy division director of environmental programs of the state Department of Environmental Regulation, the DER approved the use of a privately-owned irrigation well Wednesday to be used by the city to supplement its sagging water production. The department also eased its permitting procedures to allow the city to tap into the well as soon as possible.

The DER has also agreed to allow the city to blend water from city wells with low levels of EDB with uncontaminated water as long as the concentration does not go above set federal limits — one drop per 110,000 gallons, said Sanford City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles.

The 12-inch well, which produces 1,100 gallons a minute, had no detectable level of EDB (Ethylene dibromide, a pesticide and suspected carcinogen) and will put the city's water pumping capacity back to 3.5 MGD, its average, Ms. Drew said.

The irrigation well, along with a second private 16-inch well also found to be free of a detectable level of EDB Wednesday night, will allow the city to direct its efforts towards drilling new wells, according to Frank Huttner, water supply engineer with the DER.

The 16-inch well will produce 2,500 gallons per minute, or double the amount of the approved 12-inch well, he said.

According to Huttner, the city will have to drill several wells this summer to find new sources of uncontaminated water for the city. He said a filtering system is expensive and not a method of decontamination he thought the city would follow.

Because the Sanford area is a water recharge area, Hunter said the EDB contamination probably is from the ground surface and not from underground water, though he added the definite source of Sanford's EDB problem has not been located.

While the two EDB-free wells will ease the city water problem, an upcoming dry season, in late March and early April, could tax the system.

If the city does face a critical water shortage, the DER is prepared to provide the city with water — though, according to Ms. Drew, it has not supplied emergency water to a city the size of Sanford before and has not supplied water to a community for more than a few weeks.

"The tankers needed to provide Sanford with water have been located," she said, and if the crisis became acute the DER is willing to provide "what ever it would take," to keep the city supplied with necessary water.

However, Ms. Drew said the DER does not anticipate having to supply the city with water since the 12-inch irrigation well was approved Wednesday night and the 16-inch well found to be EDB free.

Along with Huttner, Ms. Drew said Sanford will have to find other sources of water and will probably have to drill new wells.

Knowles said today the city has received approval from St. Johns River Management District to use four irrigation wells and drill two new wells.

Normally, an application takes three months, Knowles said, adding the applications were hand-carried to the district earlier this week and were processed in about 48 hours.

Wednesday, the city contacted well-drilling contractors and asked them for a bid to drill two city wells on Sanford property, Knowles said. Friday, the city may award the contract with drilling starting immediately.

Workmen from the Meridith Co., Orlando, drill a monitor well on the Mayfair Golf Course, Sanford. City manager W.E. Knowles said soil samples from the well will be used by engineers, who hope to determine the source of EDB, the suspected carcinogen, that is contaminating Sanford's water supply. Knowles said the drilling is part of an effort to determine if the city's contaminated wells, which are located beneath the golf course, can be saved.

pipe has been delivered to the city, 6,600 feet of 12-inch pipe and 3,000 feet of 8-inch pipe.

Knowles said "city employees will work through the weekend to hook up the feeder lines to the wells."

Though the wells will provide the city with supplemental water and the city is proceeding to drill new well, the building permit moratorium imposed by the city commission Tuesday night will remain in effect.

Knowles said all applications for permits submitted before the Tuesday commission meeting will be honored, but no new permits will be issued. He said a proclamation directing the citizens of Sanford to use less water is being held in reserve and though was approved Tuesday night has not yet been signed.

The DER, Knowles said, considers the threat of poor sanitary conditions and reduced firefighting capacity a greater threat than the immediate problem caused by the EDB

A letter sent by the commission to Gov. Bob Graham asking for aid had not been received by that office as of today, a spokesman said.

Stano Trial Set In Case Of 'Madam X'

Convicted mass murderer Gerald Stano is scheduled to go on trial for premeditated murder the week of January 3 in Seminole Circuit Court.

Stano, 32, who has been convicted of killing nine women, will go on trial for the death of "Madam X," a woman whose remains were found in Altamonte Springs Near the Interstate Mall in November, 1974.

Despite an extensive investigation, which included facial reconstruction, police have been unable to identify her body.

In October, 1982, Stano, a former Ormond Beach short-order cook who police have linked to 41 killings of women in Florida, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, confessed to stabbing the unidentified woman and then abandoning her near a mall.

Despite an extensive investigation, police have been unable to identify her body.

According to investigators, they believe that in December 1973 or January 1974 Stano, driving a 1973 Plymouth, picked up a woman with brown hair at Interstate 4 and State Road 436. They said she was wearing blue-knit pants and a short-sleeve blouse.

The investigators believe Stano drove around Altamonte Springs then stopped his four-door on what was Cherokee Road. They think he then prodded the woman out of the car with a four-inch yellow-handled hunting knife and asked the woman for sex.

It is believed by investigators that she would not have sex with him and was at that point it is believed Stano threatened the woman with the knife causing her to agree to his demand.

At that point, investigators believe he started stabbing the woman, striking her four to six times in the upper chest.

In the Seminole County grand jury indictment of Oct. 28, the unidentified "Madam X" was described as a white female, between 40 and 55 years old. She was 59 to 63 inches tall, 140 to 160 lbs., had slight childbirth scars, and was missing 16 teeth. She had a 38-inch waist and was wearing blue knit pants and a short sleeve blouse when she was stabbed to death.

In October, a spokesman for the State Attorney Douglas Cheshire said he intends to seek the death penalty.

Sanford Man Innocent Of Burglary And Rape

A 26-year-old Sanford man has been found not guilty in Seminole Circuit Court of burglary and sexual battery.

Rodney Lewis Woods, of 25 Castle Brewer Court, was acquitted Wednesday afternoon by a six-member jury which heard Woods testify that he was with his brother the night the alleged burglary and battery occurred.

Woods' brother Jeff corroborated the story, saying he and his brother had spent the night playing pool and watching television.

The state had charged that Woods entered a Sanford home July 16 at 3:45 a.m. and raped a woman asleep inside.

Woods was arrested two days after the incident. The two-day trial was held before Seminole Circuit Court Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr.

Security In Beirut Still Inadequate, Report Says

By Richard C. Gross

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Pentagon report says security still is inadequate at the Marine compound in Beirut two months after 241 servicemen were killed by a truck bomb and urgently calls for safeguards against further terrorist attacks.

It also recommended "reassessment of alternative means to achieve U.S. objectives in Lebanon" as a means of saving lives, although it did not address the question of whether the Marines should be withdrawn.

Released Wednesday, the long-awaited study faulted the administration for risking Marine lives by ignoring worsening conditions in Lebanon before the Oct. 23 bombing and blamed the local commander for providing "a lucrative target for attack" by housing 350 men in one building.

The report said there was a failure to recognize that terrorism is endemic to Lebanon and would constitute a long-term threat to the security of the U.S. forces. It said the terrorists' capability to destroy the headquarters exceeded "the imagination" of the Marine commanders in Beirut.

The commission said it was concerned the Pentagon is still not ready to deal with terrorism, not just in Lebanon, but around the globe.

The report by a five-member commission headed by retired Adm. Robert Long charged the lack of intelligence information supplied by spies and insufficient security created the conditions for the truck bomb attack.

Holiday Closings

Since New Year's Day falls on Sunday this year, many offices will be closed on Monday, Jan. 2 for the holiday. All city, county, state, and federal offices will be closed as well as the banks and post offices.

The exception will be the School Board office and Seminole County schools, which will be open.

There will be no city refuse collection in Sanford or Altamonte Springs Monday. In Sanford, Monday's pick-up will be made on Tuesday and in Altamonte Springs it will be on the next regularly scheduled collection day.

NATION IN BRIEF

Transsexual Pilot Wins Discrimination Case

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal judge, ruling transsexuals are protected under the Civil Rights Act, ordered Eastern Airlines pilot Karen Ulane reinstated with pay and benefits retroactive to her dismissal after a 1980 sex-change operation.

U.S. District Judge John F. Grady Wednesday found Eastern Airlines guilty of sex discrimination and in violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 when it refused to reassign Miss Ulane to pilot duties after the operation.

Grady said Eastern's claim that she had a continuing psychological problem which posed a safety hazard was "a sham of the first order."

Eastern attorney David Brown said the airline would appeal the ruling.

Miss Ulane, 41, of Darien, Ill., worked as a pilot for Eastern for 12 years under the name Kenneth Ulane after flying combat transport missions in Vietnam. After the operation in 1980, she asked to be reassigned to pilot duties. She was fired in April 1981.

'Weinberger Must Quit'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Barbara Mikulski says Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger must take the blame for the bombing of a Marines barracks that killed 241 Americans and should resign.

"Someone or some group of people should be held accountable for the lax security ...," Ms. Mikulski, D-Md., said Wednesday shortly after the Pentagon released a report critical of security measures taken at the Marine compound.

The congresswoman, speaking at a news conference, said Weinberger failed to order U.S. Marines to "take the necessary precautions against the grim realities of terrorism."

The Maryland Democrat, a member of the House special committee named by Speaker Thomas O'Neill to monitor the situation in Lebanon, said she would introduce a resolution when Congress reconvenes calling for Weinberger's resignation. The resolution would not force Weinberger to resign.

Fire Kills Kids, Babysitter

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A fire that began on the first floor of a brick rowhouse spread upward to kill four children and their babysitter in a third-floor apartment, police said.

Firefighters were called to the three-story building about 9:15 p.m. Wednesday and had the blaze under control within a half-hour, authorities said.

An undetermined number of other occupants got out safely from the burning building, police said.

The fire apparently started on the first floor of the structure before spreading to all three floors, police said. The dead were found in a third-floor apartment.

Fire officials could not immediately say what caused the fire and an investigation was continuing.

For EDB Contamination

10 More Food Products Pulled From Stores

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner has pulled 10 more products from food stores, saying tests show they exceeded the state standard for the pesticide EDB in food.

The order Wednesday was Conner's fourth since Dec. 9. He has now ordered 76 products off store shelves, including products produced by such giant companies as General Mills, Martha White, Pillsbury, Procter & Gamble and Quaker Oats.

EDB has been found to cause cancer in laboratory rats, but state officials say there is no need for people who have consumed the products to see a doctor.

They warn, however, against consuming the products over a long period of time.

The order was Conner's first since U.S. District Judge William Stafford turned down a request by the Grocery Manufacturers Association of America last week to block enforcement.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency has set no standard for EDB in food, but Dr. Stephen King, the state health officer, recommended the 1 part per billion guideline Conner follows.

Producers have said the state's standard is so low any grain-based product tested would show excessive levels, but Conner said last week only about 25 percent of the products test positive.

Agriculture department scientists have tested various food products for EDB since the cancer-causing pesticide was first detected in water at some Florida locations in July.

Conner urged consumers with products on his list to return the items to the place of purchase.

The 10 products identified by Conner Wednesday were:

- Jiffy corn muffin mix, 8 1/2-ounce box, code E3297.
- Jiffy corn bread stuffing mix, 8 1/2-ounce box, code L3325.
- Ballard Old South corn bread mix,

19-ounce box, code J3W11.

— Flako corn muffin mix, 12-ounce box, code 3D7J.

— Gold Medal self-rising enriched flour, 2-pound package, code D319L2.

— Orville Redenbacher gourmet popping corn, 15-ounce jar, code V3Bd3.

— Duncan Hines butter recipe golden cake mix, 18 1/2-ounce box, code 3290A42.

— Aunt Jemima self-rising buttermilk white corn meal mix, 2-pound box, code 3C20J.

— Dixie Lily hush puppy mix, 16-ounce bag, code 9313.

— See All enriched white hominy quick grits, 16-ounce box, code 93402.

the winter crop had suffered an unprecedented amount of damage.

Seminole County has a $9 million vegetable industry, but even bigger is the $16 million plant industry. Although much of the foliage crop is in greenhouses and can be heated to protect it from the cold, there are some 300 acres of field grown plants, which did not fare as well.

Llewellyn also said poultry and egg production will be set back 25-50 percent by the extreme cold.

But Bobby F. McKown, executive vice president of Florida Citrus Mutual, said his industry group's preliminary estimate of damage was $190 million, far less than Conner's prediction.

Meanwhile, if the deaths of two St. Petersburg couples are attributed to space heaters, the weather-related death toll would reach 10 across Florida.

The bodies of an unidentified couple in their 40s or 50s were found early Tuesday on the floor of their apartment. An unvented natural gas heater was the suspected cause of death.

A short while later, the bodies of William Lloyd, 85, and his wife, Verdel, 65, were discovered in their apartment a few miles away. Investigators said the apartment was extremely hot from a vented fuel oil heater.

In addition to citrus, Conner said about 90 percent of the strawberry crop was wiped out and a spokeswoman for the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association in Orlando said tomatoes and other vegetables were also "badly hurt."

Despite the damage caused by the rush of Arctic air into the state, which pushed temperatures into the teens and low 20s, some areas fared better than others, particularly along the East Coast, from Indian River County south, and parts of south Florida.

Roy Champagne, director of the Dade County agricultural extension service center in Homestead, said although crops in south Florida had been damaged, some vegetable growers in south Dade County could even experience a financial boon.

Two Rape Suspects Jailed In Separate Incidents

Two Seminole County men are being held without bond in the Seminole County jail accused of rape in two unrelated incidents.

On Wednesday afternoon, Seminole County sheriff's deputies went to the Rax restaurant on State Road 434, Longwood, and photographed a restaurant employee who was identified as the suspect in a Wednesday morning rape and robbery.

In that case, a 26-year-old Oviedo woman said she was raped by a stranger whom she was taking home after meeting him in a Winter Park bar. The victim said before she was raped, on a dirt road off Lake Emma Road north of Longwood Hills road, the suspect had bought two soft drinks at a Tenneco station on SR 434 in Longwood. The suspect reportedly hit the victim on the head with an empty bottle before he assaulted her and took $15 from her purse, a deputy's report said.

The service station clerk said he recognized the suspect as a regular customer and the victim identified him in a photo line-up, which included the photo deputies had taken at the restaurant Wednesday afternoon.

Mark Edwin Davis, 20, of 1987 Lake Emma Road, Longwood, was arrested at Rax where he was working as a meat slicer. He faces charges of robbery, battery and sexual battery. He is scheduled to appear in court at 1:30 p.m. today.

In the second case, deputies were called to the Spirits Lounge in Altamonte Springs this morning by a woman who had reported she had been raped in a remote area off Red Bug Road five weeks ago.

The woman told deputies that her attacker, who had allegedly raped her after she offered him a ride home from another bar, approached her at the Spirits Lounge about 11 p.m. Wednesday and shoved and threatened her because she had reported the rape to the sheriff's department.

Sheriff's Capt. Jay Leman said the suspect broke his ankle as he was leaving the bar and John Grayson Ricker, 25, of 2193 Linden Road, Winter Park, was arrested at the lounge at 12:30 a.m. today. He is charged with sexual battery and is scheduled to appear in court at 1:30 p.m. today.

The man was allegedly driving under the influence when he hit a truck which belongs to Glenn Duff of Palm City. In the parking lot of Charles Bar on Howell Branch Road, Winter Park. Duff said the man left the scene after hitting his car around 8 p.m. Tuesday.

A second motorist, Daniel Thomas Haupt of Winter Park, reported that his car was sideswiped by the suspect's car at about 8:30 p.m. on Howell Branch Road at Lakemont Drive, Winter Park. Haupt told deputies that he ran off the road to keep from being hit by the suspect's car which was traveling east in the westbound lane on Howell Branch Road.

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy spotted the suspect's car at the Squire One Apartments, Winter Park, at about 9:30 p.m.

James Arthur Stones, 24, of 1940 Howell Branch Road, was arrested on charges of driving under the influence and two counts of hit-and-run.

Deputy M.E. Sirpison reported that as Stones was being transported to the jail, he professed his innocence and became violent, kicking out the rear passenger side window of a patrol car and damaging the door.

Stones faces additional charges of resisting arrest with violence and damage to county property.

A Longwood police report, which did not name the victim of the assault, said the fight occurred at 462 Longwood Circle at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. The victim had reportedly restrained the suspect at one point, but he broke free and bit her on the shoulder, the report said.

The victim said the suspect armed himself with a hammer and a BB gun, taken from the home, and forced her from the house. She said she was able to break free and returned to the house and locked the suspect out.

The suspect fled on foot and was arrested at 6:39 p.m. on Longwood Hills Road.

Ban On Possibly Fatal Arthritis Drugs Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler has been asked to ban two widely used arthritis drugs that a medical researcher said may have caused more than 10,000 deaths and for which aspirin may be an effective substitute.

The prescription drugs — phenylbutazone and oxyphenbutazone — are sold worldwide by a Swiss company, Ciba-Geigy Ltd. under the trade names "Butazolidin" and "Tandearil" and by an American company, U.S.V. Pharmaceuticals, as "Azolid" and "Oxalid."

Dr. Sidney Wolfe, director of the Public Citizen Health Research Group, said in a letter to Mrs. Heckler that the medications are "dangerous, often lethal drugs."

Wolfe said "leaked memos" from Ciba-Geigy, of Basel, Switzerland, indicate the two drugs may have caused more than 10,000 deaths, including more than 3,000 in the United States.

But Joe Boyd, a U.S. spokesman for Ciba-Geigy, said the firm knows of only 1,182 deaths. "Where he (Wolfe) came up with the 10,000, I don't know."

Asked about Wolfe's charge the drugs pose an imminent danger, Boyd said from the company's Summit, N.J. office: "1,100 deaths contrasted to 180 million patients — you figure the ratio there, it's pretty small. More people have died from aspirin and penicillin, far more."

A Ciba-Geigy spokesman in Basel, Switzerland, added the deaths did not "signify any causal relationship."

"Deaths could be related to the taking of other drugs as well or to over-dosing," he said.

In the letter to Mrs. Heckler, Wolfe said a February 1983 internal Ciba-Geigy memo showed the company was aware of 1,182 deaths worldwide among patients using the two drugs. As of mid-1982, he said, the FDA was aware of 311 deaths in Americans using the drugs.

However, Wolfe said, there were "serious, well-documented problems" of underreporting of adverse reactions, including deaths, by doctors.

He said the leaked memo estimated that 50 million to 100 million patients had taken Butazolidin and 40 million to 80 million Tandearil.

Using the company's own estimates of exposure, Wolfe projected that the actual death toll was about 10,400 worldwide.

Wolfe said the Norwegian Ministry of Health already has ordered a ban on all drugs containing the two drugs.

Wolfe urged that a ban be ordered under rarely used provisions of a 1962 law allowing the secretary to bypass slow-moving procedures of the Food and Drug Administration in case of an "imminent hazard to the public health."

The FDA spokesman said further study of the drugs could lead to a recommendation that their use be banned or that further restrictions be put on their use.

David Anthony Cordet, 19, of 1204 Trudy Drive, Orlando, faces charges of armed trespassing, battery and assault.

DRUG ARREST

A Florida Highway Patrolman, who became suspicious when a woman rushed to leave a truck parked at a rest stop on Interstate 4 north of Longwood, searched the vehicle and found a large branch of marijuana in a briefcase and an assortment of pills and capsules in the glove compartment.

Johnnie Leon Boubede, 30, of Wimauma, Fla., was arrested at 6 p.m. Tuesday. Boubede reportedly said his three companions had no connection with the drugs and no charges were filed against them.

Boubede is being held in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. He faces a charge of possession of a controlled substance.

GUNS GONE

A shotgun, two rifles and a handgun valued at $749 were taken in an Oviedo break-in sometime Sunday or Monday.

Donald A. Herndon, 25, of 4414 Sunset Drive, said that the door to his home was locked when he left and locked when he returned to find the guns gone, a sheriff's report said.

CONSTRUCTION THEFT

Roger Rankston, 28, of 8031 Via Ronita, Sanford, reported that $921 worth of building materials were taken from the garage of a house under construction on Ross Lake Boulevard sometime Wednesday or Thursday.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Elbert Wayne Bryan, 20, of 106 Tedworth Court, Longwood, was arrested in the parking lot of Tiffany Square Apartments, Fern Park, at 1:56 a.m. Wednesday after a police officer reportedly saw him driving his motorcycle erratically in the apartment complex parking lot.

—George Alphonse Cantrell Jr., 34, of Lake Mary, was arrested Tuesday after his car failed to maintain a single lane on Lake Mary Boulevard.

FIRE CALLS

The Sanford Fire responded to the following calls: Wednesday

—1:41 p.m., 1211 S. Mellonville Ave., fire. There was a smoke scare but no fire. The alarm panel was activated by sensors in the air conditioning duct.

—1:59 p.m., 719 Cypress Ave., rescue. Medical technicians responded to a call and found James Williams, 70, dead in his home. He had been dead for two to four hours. An autopsy was scheduled today to determine the exact cause of death.

—3:50 p.m., 1100 W. 13th St., rescue. A 58-year-old male was suffering from a possible perforated ulcer. His vital signs could not be detected. An ambulance transported him to Central Florida Regional Hospital.

—8:08 p.m., 11th Street and French Avenue. The same man in the previous call, had a dislocated knee. His vital signs were taken. An ambulance transported him to the hospital.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Civilian Witness To Aquino Assassination Under Guard

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — A civilian witness who disputed government accounts of opposition political leader Benigno Aquino's murder was placed under guard today after expressing fears for his life.

A security detail was placed outside the home of airline ground technician Ramon Balang on the outskirts of Manila late Wednesday shortly after he testified that Aquino's alleged killer was not in a position to shoot the opposition leader.

The government alleges President Ferdinand Marcos' main political rival was killed by hired communist hitman Rolando Galman as he stepped off a plane at Manila airport Aug. 21 on his return from three years of self-exile in the United States.

Military witnesses have testified Galman "suddenly appeared" on the tarmac and shot Aquino from behind at point-blank range as the opposition leader walked toward a military van.

But Balang, 28, told the official commission that Galman, surrounded by four or five soldiers, was standing several feet in front and to the left of Aquino when the shot rang out.

Where Is Yuri Andropov?

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet legislature began the final day of its winter session today without an appearance by President Yuri Andropov, said by a high-level Communist Party source to be recuperating in a hospital from an unspecified illness.

The Communist Party Central Committee source, while not revealing the nature of Andropov's illness, said Wednesday it did not involve kidney failure as widely rumored and that in a younger man it would not normally require hospitalization. Andropov is 69.

The source did not say where the president was hospitalized. Left unclear was whether Andropov, absent from public for 133 days, was released earlier from a medical facility and suffered a relapse.

Although Andropov has been prevented from keeping public engagements, his power appears undiminished. Experts pointed to the elevation of three of his supporters to more powerful positions at the Central Committee meeting.

Police Brace For Riots

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Police went on alert today to counter possible riots in several Arab villages over death sentences given two Israeli Arabs convicted of murdering a soldier three years ago.

Karim Yuneis and Mahr Yuneis, both 25, of the village of Ara, were the first Israeli citizens sentenced to death since capital punishment was abolished in 1954.

The death-by-hanging sentences were handed down by a three-member military tribunal Tuesday after a 10-month secret trial.

The two men were convicted of shooting Avraham Bromberg on Nov. 11, 1980, on orders of the Al Fatah guerrilla organization.

They gave the soldier a ride in their car along the Hadera-Haifa highway. One of them shot Bromberg in the back of the neck and tossed him out on the roadside. He later died.

More Bombings Moslem Extremists Suspected

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Police blamed Moslem extremists opposed to Western influences for a wave of bombings that ripped through stores, a snack bar and a hairdressers' salon, leaving one person dead and three injured.

The bombs, which exploded Wednesday night after a curfew began, sent residents fleeing into the streets in panic as ambulances and fire engines screeched through the city.

The bombs struck two supermarkets, a snack bar near the Soviet Embassy, a clothes shop and a women's hairdressing shop. Another bomb exploded under a parked car.

The latest blasts in the Lebanese capital came as President Amin Gemayel lamented that 1983 was a "bitter year" for his nation.

A police spokesman said authorities believed the bombs were part of an anti-Western campaign by puritanical Islamic fundamentalists. The supermarkets and the snack bar sold alcohol, he said, and the other shops catered to Western-style women.

"We all say it's those Iranian Khmeini followers in the Bekaa (eastern Lebanon's Bekaa valley)," a police spokesman said, referring to the Iranian leader.

"Nearly all of them (the shops) were owned by Christians," he said. One person was killed and three were injured in the blasts.

In a related development, the Christian militia radio reported pro-Iranian militiamen warned all restaurants in the Bekaa Valley city of Baalbek not to serve drinks for New Year's celebrations. Reflecting the grim mood of the country as the year drew to a close, Gemayel told a Cabinet meeting that "1983 was a bitter, difficult year," the national news agency said.

Gemayel said efforts were still under way to gain the withdrawal of Israeli and Syrian troops from Lebanon and to find agreement among the country's private militia on turning security over to the army.

Gemayel's comments came as Lebanon's warring factions met for the first time in more than a week in an attempt to solidify a cease-fire before violations again erupted into open war.

In southern Lebanon, an Israeli soldier was killed and two others wounded near the village of Jazzin by guerrillas firing automatic rifles and rocket-propelled grenades.

Israeli forces in southern Lebanon have been attacked repeatedly in recent days, prompting the military to reassess its position in the region in an attempt to reduce mounting casualties.

Man Holding 12 Hostages Wanted TV Interview

THOMPSON, Conn. (UPI) — A Vietnam veteran seized by police after hijacking a bus, holding 12 hostages in a bank and demanding a television interview is a "confused young man" with a history of psychiatric problems, an acquaintance says.

Anthony Dyous, 28, of Thompson, claimed he had a bomb and nerve gas and would use them unless he was permitted to appear on a national television news program, police said. When Dyous was arrested, police found his only weapon was a butcher knife.

No one was injured in the incident Wednesday, police said.

State police spokesman Adam Berluti said Dyous had demanded to be interviewed by ABC Nightline anchorman Ted Koppel so he could express his views on "nuclear war and Jesus Christ."

Reputed Omega 7 Leader Indicted In Bombings

MIAMI (UPI) — A Cuban-born former longshoreman who allegedly masterminded the anti-Castro group Omega 7 faces dozens of charges involving bombings, attempted bombings and firearms violations in Miami and New York.

Eduardo Arocena, 40, was charged in indictments announced simultaneously Wednesday in Miami and New York.

The New York indictment accuses him of planning the attempted murder of the Cuban ambassador to the United Nations and planting two other bombs in New York.

Arocena, a former New Jersey longshoreman, was indicted for 11 of 15 bombings in Miami attributed to Omega 7 since 1979.

Acid-Carrying Cars Derail

PLANT CITY (UPI) — A three-block area of downtown Plant City was evacuated for about an hour when 10 railroad cars carrying 200 to 300 gallons of hydrochloric acid derailed. No injuries were reported.

Fire officials said the problem early Wednesday would have been much worse if the 10-car derailment had continued and affected more of the 182-car freight train.

A tanker containing anhydrous ammonia was the last car to remain on the track in front of the derailment. A tanker filled with liquified petroleum gas was the last car standing on the south end of the derailment.

Derailed cars included empty boxcars and cars carrying cattle-food and non-hazardous chemicals.

The tracks were reopened late Wednesday.

Accountant On Rampage

COCCA (UPI) — A 46-year-old accountant got rid of her frustration by ramming her car into plate glass windows, buildings, gas pumps, a fence, sign and an ice machine, police said.

Police said Nancy Appling Proctor caused about $50,000 in damage.

Sgt. Gerald L. Van Landingham said Ms. Proctor appeared to be calm and lucid. "She said, 'I went out and got rid of my frustration.' She made good sense when she talked. She thought it was funny."

County Judge Daniel Citak ordered Ms. Proctor sent to Melbourne for a five-day psychiatric evaluation.

Middle Class Is Shrinking

Two studies by independent researchers indicate that the American middle class is shrinking, largely because a growing number of people have sunk to or below the poverty line.

One of the studies, by Stephen J. Rose, a Baltimore research economist and college teacher, shows that by Bureau of Labor Statistics figures and definitions, the percentage of the population falling between the "high-income" and "low-income" categories has declined from 55 percent in 1978 to 42 percent in 1983. The other, conducted by a pair of economists at the Urban Institute, shows that while average disposable income (in real dollars) has declined more than 9 percent for the lowest fifth.

"Of the people who left the middle part of the middle class," said Rose, "three-fourths suffered a decline in their standard of living and one-fourth improved their standard."

The conclusions of the two studies were described as plausible by Census Bureau officials; data collected by the government also shows that, in the words of a New York Times report, "distribution of family income (is) growing slowly but steadily more unequal."

The changes can be ascribed to a number of factors — shifts in an economy that is creating many more lower-paying service jobs than high- or middle-income jobs to replace those lost in heavy manufacturing; a shift in the tax burden from upper- to lower-income taxpayers, and a decline in government benefits for lower-middle income and poor families; and a rapid increase, at least until recently, in the number of divorces (from 479,000 in 1965 to 1.2 million last year).

As a consequence, the Census Bureau reported that the nation's poverty rate hit a 17-year high in 1982.

From 1978 to 1982, the number of Americans officially classified as poor increased from 24.5 million to 34.4 million.

There are no easy solutions here and — with certain exceptions, particularly in reforming the glaring inequities in the nation's tax system — perhaps no across-the-board solutions at all. It's nonetheless a highly disturbing phenomenon that has enormous implications for every sector of American life. One way or another it will be felt in the economy, in national politics, in the schools, in welfare offices, in health care and in scores of other areas. The impact on those areas will have to be dealt with; the sooner it's examined, and the sooner there is some general appreciation of what has been going on, the better.

Greyhound Moving

After a bitter seven-week strike, Greyhound buses are back on the nation's highways to the relief of thousands of holiday travelers.

For the present, the costs of this unfortunate labor dispute appear to have been borne by the company's union workers. Including 7,500 drivers, who grudgingly accepted a 7.8 percent pay cut in addition to the lost work time. To their credit, Greyhound workers and management resolved the dispute among themselves. The violence that so often accompanies a union dispute of this sort was generally absent while buses were off the road.

One certainly hopes the workers' sacrifice will pay off in the long haul. The nation's largest bus company claimed that pay concessions over the next three years were necessary for the line to stay competitive with cut-rate airlines and smaller bus companies, which pay their workers less. A bankrupt Greyhound would benefit neither workers nor the millions of Americans living both in and outside of major airline corridors who depend upon the company's 2,000 daily runs.

Now that Greyhound anticipates $160 million in savings from the wage give-backs, it is also hoped that a greater effort can be made to save some of the less-traveled rural routes it has wanted to drop.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Hold your fire. We want to redeline our mission."

By Deane Jordan

With an imaginary drum rolling in the background, the first of four volunteers drew a winner Friday in the first Seminole County Courthouse Christmas cheer drawing.

The drawing, bestowing upon the lucky winners a bottle of champagne, cold duck or a tin of cookies, was part of a thank you by the operators of the courthouse Division of the Blind snack bar, Tom and Sadie Blumberg of Orlando.

"It was a way to say thanks to our regular customers," said Blumberg, who also arranged on the last half-day of work before the holiday to have free beverage and snacks for the concession visitors.

Two weeks before the Dec. 23 drawings, the Blumbergs, who began to run the snack bar in March, placed a clear cookie jar near the cash register. Customers were urged to put their name on a slip of paper and enter the drawing.

By drawing day, 200 names stuffed the jar. The prize was kept a secret.

When 9 a.m. sounded at the entry Friday, the first name was selected by a volunteer from the bowl. Picking up a bottle of pink champagne was county bailiff Dean Ramey. The second winner, chosen at a 10 a.m. drawing, was Wanda Darrow, of the county's office of management and budget. Estes Brockman, of the county's Summary Reporting System, was selected at 11 a.m. for a tin of cookies and at 11:30 a.m., a half-hour before the facility closed for the holiday, Jean McClonis, also from the office of management and budget, picked up a bottle of cold duck.

The drawings, according to the Blumbergs, was to pay back their customers for their patronage throughout the year.

"They're just like family to us," said Mrs. Blumberg.

"We know when they've had a good day, or a bad day. We've never heard a cross word in nine months. The people are wonderful in this building," Blumberg said.

Blumberg, who is legally blind, has worked with the Division of the Blind since 1977. He said that five years ago he substituted for the operator of the courthouse snack bar for a week and at that time decided if it was ever possible to get the concession he would because of the agreeable people and the scenic fourth floor location overlooking Lake Monroe.

Nine months ago, Blumberg and his wife, who are originally from New York, bid on the concession and were granted the contract. He manages the concession and Mrs. Blumberg is the cook. She also does the driving for the couple.

On an average day, the couple serve 300 people, opening at 7:45 a.m. and closing at 4:30 p.m.

And while the concession is a business, Mrs. Blumberg noted that not only did they give out gifts to their customers for the holidays, many of their regular customers presented them with tidings for the season.

VIEWPOINT

Looking Behind Terrorism

By Baker Smith

The recent bombing of the United States Capitol was so foreign to our notion of an open society that to many observers it seemed almost absurd. As such, it was no more than an eddy in the otherwise smooth flowing river of events. It seemingly deserved little media attention, and those press accounts which gave it more than a few days' attention seemed almost embarrassed, as though they had descended to the level of the sensationalist weeklies.

So also, absurdly characterized the Soviet destruction of a civilian jetliner with a conservative United States congressman and hundreds of other innocents bound for South Korea, an anti-totalitarian nation.

Yet in each of these instances, beneath the furor, was the spine-tling sensation that there was a step-up in the level of attacks on America. There was the nagging impression that forces in opposition were treading on the sacred.

The resemblance between recent events and the plot of Monty Python, by Robert Moss and Arnaud de Borchgrave is almost eerie. It's almost as if the authors knew the Senate cloak room would be bombed. In their novel, a United States senator is kidnapped and murdered. The Brooklyn Bridge and the World Trade Center are bombed. Looting, then race riots follow.

The truth, as anyone who has spent time in Washington or New York knows, is that our institutions and our leadership are remarkably susceptible to acts of sabotage and terrorism. These techniques have been a vital adjunct to leftist guerrillas south of our border as they blow up power lines, bridges, and dams and engage in political kidnapping and murder.

As in their best-seller novel The Spike, detailing Soviet KGB manipulation of the media, Moss and de Borchgrave are on solid ground detailing the role of Cuban intelligence, the DGI, and their Soviet backup in exporting terrorism to Central and South America. Is there any reason Castro should spare the United States? No, and he hasn't. The book provides a revealing glimpse of how the liberal media turn a blind eye to Castro's anti-U.S. exploits.

Monty Python is fascinating reading, with a style both gripping and informative. The authors write an interesting travelogue and the reader is gratified by learning additional details about locations only vaguely familiar. So also are mysteries cleared up over the methodology of the Cuban-backed drug running into the United States. The book's one drawback is occasional scenes of sex and violence. These scenes may be unavoidable, given the sex specialization of Soviet-backed intelligence.

Colorado Dam Project Top Boner

WASHINGTON — Congress is in the midst of its favorite holiday task: stuffing the turkey with extravagant, unnecessary construction projects that will cost the taxpayers billions.

My associates Corky Johnson and Donald Goldberg have compiled a list of the more outrageous suspects in this annual raid on the Treasury. They're enough to give any taxpayer a pre-New Year's headache:

— The Narrows Unit, a dam and irrigation project on the South Platte River, is my nominee for the boondoggle of the year. At a cost of just under $400 million, it is supposed to supply water to a few farmers in northeastern Colorado. Critics both in and out of government say the Narrows is bad news economically and environmentally.

The Interior Department's Bureau of Reclamation claims the project's cost-benefit ratio beats the break-even mark. But the Office of Management and Budget disagrees. Some critics say the Narrows would return less than 50 cents in benefits for every dollar it costs.

Environmentalists predict that construction will be a disaster for several rare species of birds that use the area's wetlands on their migratory flights each year. "It is our biological opinion that the Narrows Unit is likely to jeopardize the continued existence of the whooping crane," a Fish and Wildlife Service memo warns. The whooping crane is already an endangered species.

In addition, the Environmental Protection Agency has warned that waste runoff caused by the Narrows project will cause serious water problems. EPA sources say the Reclamation Bureau refuses to cooperate in any attempt to solve this problem.

Finally, engineers found flaws in the original design that will cost a bundle to correct. Congressional investigators are checking the blueprints to make sure the dam will be safe if it's built.

— Another Reclamation Bureau boondoggle has drawn fire from the EPA. The Animas-La Plata irrigation project is intended to provide water to farmers in Colorado and New Mexico, at a cost of about $550 million. But the EPA points out that one-fourth of the farmland is out of production under the government's PIR subsidy program. The plan also calls for pumping irrigation water from a site near uranium wastes.

— Rep. Gene Snyder, R-Ky., a veteran member of the Public Works Committee, is trying desperately to snare a $200 million dam for his constituents. Kentucky doesn't want the Falmouth Dam, south of Cincinnati, and refuses to pay its share of the cost. So Snyder is trying to have the federal government pay it all.

The dam is justified as a flood-control measure, but critics say a floodwall would do a better job at one-tenth the price. Army engineers' figures show the Falmouth Dam would destroy up to 9,000 acres of prime farmland, part of a state park and two wildlife refuges, and would displace as many as 500 families.

— Reps. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., and Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., powerhouses on the Appropriations Committee, tacked $9.4 million for the Appalachian Regional Commission's highway program onto the supplemental funding bill. The money will be spent on roads in — where else? — Alabama and Mississippi.

Cow Teeth Used In Research

By Rebecca Kolberg

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Miniscule fragments of cow teeth implanted in human mouths may help to determine the microbiological causes of cavities, dental researchers say.

A team at the University of Maryland is implanting tiny cubes of cows' teeth into crown restorations and bonding others to the sides of volunteers' teeth. Each cube measures 1 1/4 millimeters, or less than one-seventeenth of an inch.

"The caries-causing plaque that grows on these pieces of cows' teeth is almost identical to that which grows on human teeth, so we can easily retrieve the plaque-covered implants from the teeth, then go to work in the laboratory," said Dr. Glenn Minah, an associate dental professor.

Plaque is an invisible film of bacteria which coats teeth every day. It is blamed for dental caries, or tooth decay, and periodontal disease, the gum disorder which is the No. 1 cause of tooth loss among U.S. adults.

About 15 children and 10 dental students have received cow teeth implants as part of the university's ongoing study, and about 80 more people are expected to be included. The implants remain in the subjects' mouths from one to three months before they are removed and analyzed. "There is no harm at all [to the volunteers' teeth]. Crowns don't have a pulp, so they can't be hurt," Minah said. "And when the cow teeth cubes are bonded to the side of a tooth we make sure they are out of the way of chewing... it feels like a wad of gum on the tooth."

Minah said that cow, rather than human, teeth are used for the implants because enough material for an entire study can be obtained from one cow. In addition, he said that the mineral content of teeth tends to be more consistent among cows than among humans.

After the implants are removed, University of Maryland microbiologists study the type of bacteria found on them and measure the types of dental caries that have formed. Additional tests using electron microscopes and radioactive isotopes are being planned.

"This model (cow teeth implants) gives us an opportunity to study caries and do many experiments that we can't do without this type of system," said Minah, whose research is funded by a grant from the National Institutes of Health.

The dentist said that by placing the cow teeth fragments in fissures where cavities most often occur, researchers can determine which foods and beverages are most likely to cause decay without damaging healthy teeth of human volunteers.

soup kitchens 'because the food is free' and that's easier than paying for it."

"The media seems to have the romantic idea (you included) that all the poor are noble but neglected victims of society. Some of them are, but some of them are not.

"I can tell you from years of observation that the lower class is populated with people of all kinds. Some are long-suffering souls who deserve a better break. Some have psychological problems; they are the chronic misfits you find on the streets. But some are simply unwilling to improve themselves, unwilling to work for a living.

"They go around with their hands out, because it's easier than paying their own way. Yes, I have seen people line up for a free meal because it beats paying for it. The same people have turned down offers to go to work or to learn skills.

"But in the spirit of the Christmas season, I still think we should give to the poor and allow them the benefit of the doubt."

ROBERT WAGMAN

Jackson Heads North

CONCORD, N.H. (NEA) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson's presidential campaign seems geared to the wooden churches of the South, to the inner cities and perhaps to the campuses. Therefore, it was interesting to view Jackson's first campaign swing through New Hampshire: How would traditionally reserved New Englanders respond to Jackson's style of campaigning?

The answer: surprisingly well. In several appearances around the state, Jackson drew small but appreciative crowds. Most onlookers seemed to be there out of curiosity, but their response to Jackson ranged from polite to downright enthusiastic — especially at Jackson's first stop of the day.

Some 2,000 students at Stevens High School in Claremont, a small town on the New Hampshire-Vermont border, waited more than two hours for Jackson, whose flight north was delayed by rain and fog. But despite the delay, the students were clearly delighted to have Jackson there.

Jackson called himself "a prophet on a political mission" and told the students — with a candor that's unusual for a politician — that his campaign is indeed very short of funds, as a Boston newspaper reported. But, he said, "While we are short of dollars we are not short of people, and people are more important than money."

Appearing with Jackson was Mel King, the Boston activist who recently lost in his attempt to become mayor. Jackson noted that King had won the Boston mayoral primary by assembling a "rainbow coalition" of blacks, Hispanics, women, youth and "other minorities who 'ave been locked out of the Democratic Party." He said that he would try to establish a similar coalition on a national basis — and that while he might not win the nomination, he would at least try to open the party to these minorities.

The central theme of Jackson's appearance was that young people like those in the audience can make the difference in 1984, not only in New Hampshire, but nationally. Jackson noted that nearly 50,000 students will graduate from New Hampshire high schools this year — and that in 1976, long-shot Jimmy Carter won the crowded New Hampshire primary with about 23,000 votes, launching his successful presidential bid.

"You have the power," said Jackson, "we all have the power, to be more than we are. You have the torch in your hand. You can raise that torch in the darkness and dispel fear. The sky must be the limit. Our time has come."

Following his speech, Jackson did what he does at all his campaign appearances: in his revival-meeting style, he asked all of the students who would be old enough to vote in 1984, but who had not yet registered, to come forward. About 100 did and Jackson aides took down their names, saying they'd see to it that the students registered.

Among the most impressive things about Jackson's Claremont appearance was the fact that the school has a black population of one. Most observers have dismissed Jackson's chances in New Hampshire, where the electorate is 99 percent white. However, this virtually all-white audience gave him as rousing a welcome as he has been given in the Baptist churches of the South, where he has concentrated his campaign.

Jackson then traveled to Concord, where he turned over his check for $1,000 to officially register for the primary. When Jackson first announced, it was believed that he would campaign only in the South and the industrial North. However, he insists that he'll run in all of the primaries, and his registration on the first day possible in New Hampshire served as proof.

No one here believes that Jackson can win the primary. Most observers don't believe he'll even finish among the top three — but Jackson's first day in New Hampshire showed that he'll certainly make the contest much more interesting.

Democrats Expected To 'Make Hay' With Bombing Report

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The White House expects Democrats in Congress to use debate over the Oct. 23 bombing of the U.S. Marine barracks in Beirut as a campaign issue that can be used against President Reagan.

Reagan tried to finesse the emerging controversy Tuesday by delaying the start of a week-long vacation long enough to accept ultimate responsibility for the lack of security at the Marine compound and rule out disciplinary action against others in the military chain of command.

His appearance in the White House press room minutes before leaving for California was a calculated move to soften the impact of the findings of a Pentagon commission that investigated the bombing.

As Reagan discussed responsibility and culpability, details of the report remained a mystery — its release withheld for at least another 24 hours while the president presented his own view of its contents.

Analysis

His own statements followed a weekend of deliberations at the highest levels of the administration on how best to handle release of the report, even in censored form, after issuance of a more critical report by a House subcommittee last week.

Administration officials said Reagan endorses a principal commission finding that security in Beirut was lax and that the bombing reflects a heightened danger from "state-supported terrorism" — in this instance backed by Syria and Iran.

At the same time, they acknowledged Reagan is concerned that Democrats will use the discussion of how 241 American servicemen died in Beirut to fault the president who sent them there.

One White House official said Reagan saw "political overtones" in "certain aspects" of the House subcommittee report and in "other actions that may take place in the House" once Congress reconvenes next month.

The official said there is "no doubt about it that Democrats in the House will use whatever means they can" to capitalize on public anxiety over the future of the Marines in Lebanon and to "use that as a political element in an election year."

The official charged political motives were evident in a call by 70 House members for an immediate congressional review of U.S. policy in Lebanon and predicted the future of the Marines will become even more political as Reagan enters an election year.

"There's no doubt that some are quite sincere in their beliefs," the official remarked. "But on the other hand, there's no doubt that they will try to make political hay out of it."

The Beirut bombing jolted public and congressional support for Reagan's policy in Lebanon and helped bring foreign policy to the forefront of the political debate at the close of what has been depicted as a year of crisis and confrontation and the onset of a year of announced

Reagan re-election campaign.

White House strategists are uncertain how the two post-mortems on the bombing will be received, hopeful that Reagan's pre-emptive strike Tuesday will help avert a tide of criticism and politically damaging finger-pointing.

Reagan and his advisers must wait to see whether a serious public buys his argument that the casualties in Lebanon were victims of a new, virulent strain of terrorism with no present antidote or the tragic byproduct of his own policy in the Middle East.

And while the administration sought to blame Syria, Iran and Islamic extremists for the bombing and former President Jimmy Carter for the failure of U.S. intelligence agencies to foretell the threat, Congress may be less willing to keep the blame focused elsewhere.

In addition to facing criticism from Democrats, Reagan must contend with the uneasiness among Republican congressional leaders who are aware as he of the importance foreign policy issues will have during the 1984 political season.

Food Prices

Cost Of Fruits, Vegetables To Rise Slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fresh fruit prices may rise moderately in coming weeks and vegetable prices may be pushed even higher by the Christmas freeze in the South, but government experts doubt the increases will have a major impact on 1984 food prices.

The freeze "would have some effect" on fruit prices, Ralph Parlett Jr., an Agriculture Department food price analyst, said.

But much of Florida's fruit crop can be saved because very little is consumed as fresh fruit and 90 to 95 percent of it is processed into frozen concentrated orange juice. Processing plants were working around-the-clock to process the frozen oranges before warm weather returns and hastens decay.

"For vegetables, that would cause a little more trouble," Parlett said, "particularly this time of year because we're starting to get some of our fresh winter vegetables."

"Hopefully, it's early enough so that maybe it wouldn't be too bad," he said.

Nancy Whipple, a spokeswoman for the Florida Fruit and Vegetable

Association, said the tomato crop appeared to be hardest hit by the freeze, but peppers, eggplant, squash, corn, radishes, carrots, celery, cabbage and other leafy vegetables also were badly hurt.

She said, however, most Florida farmers will be able to replant as soon as the freeze danger is past.

Government officials said the price impact could be moderated by imports of winter vegetables from Mexico.

Parlett said he is predicting food inflation of 4 percent to 7 percent in 1984, compared to a 1983 rate of little more than 2 percent, the smallest increase in 16 years. He said does not expect the freeze to make much of a difference in food price projections.

He said he was much more concerned about the impact of livestock prices on food inflation in 1984.

Retail prices for red meat, which make up 9 percent of the food index, could be volatile because of high feed prices as a result of the summer drought and sale of dairy cows by farmers being paid by the Association, said the tomato crop appeared to be hardest hit by the freeze, but peppers, eggplant, squash, corn, radishes, carrots, celery, cabbage and other leafy vegetables also were badly hurt.

Officials said it was too early to project the price impact of the freeze, but to get a rough estimate, analysts checked the impact of freezes in past years.

After a freeze in January 1981, an index measuring fresh fruit prices rose 4.6 percent during the next month, when the major price impact occurred. After a freeze a year later, the fresh fruit index rose 5.2 percent.

But after winter vegetables were severely hit by the freeze in early 1982, fresh vegetable prices rose 20.6 percent in the following month. But even without adverse weather, fresh vegetable prices rise in winter months, analysts said.

Fresh fruit accounts for 2.4 percent of the government's monthly food price index and fresh vegetables make up 2.6 percent of the total. Food makes up a little less than 18 percent of the total consumer price index, the government's major measurement of changes in the cost of living.

EEOC Seeks Overturn Of Mandatory Police Retirement At Age 50

BOSTON (UPI) — The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has filed suit to overturn a Massachusetts law requiring state police officers to retire at age 50 regardless of their ability to perform their duties.

The commission filed the age discrimination suit in U.S. District Court based on complaints received by regional EEOC officials from unnamed Massachusetts residents.

The suit is one of a number filed by the EEOC nationwide since the Supreme Court upheld congressional action extending the federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 to the states.

Massachusetts law sets retirement at age 65 for public employees and age 50 for state troopers.

"The Age Discrimination in Employment Act states that employers shall not retire anyone before the age of 70 unless they can demonstrate that the employee is not capable," said Thomas L. Saltonstall, area EEOC director.

The suit focused on state police officers, but it could affect thousands of other law enforcement officers and a number of state, county and local employees covered by the state retirement law.

Massachusetts Public Safety Commissioner Frank Trabucco said the Legislature set the retirement age for state police officers at 50 because physical demands put on troopers are tougher than demands on other police or public employees and "because they wanted a young force."

All state police officers under 40 are required to take a physical every two years and troopers over 40 must take a physical every year, said Trabucco.

"The physicals have shown that once an officer reaches 40, he starts to deteriorate," he said.

There are 1,046 officers in the force and 56 of them have signed waivers stating they wish to remain on the job despite the fact their physicals have turned up significant disabilities, such as high blood pressure, he said.

The suit, slated for trial March 5, said at least seven state troopers have been forced to retire at age 50 since Sept. 10, 1981, regardless of their ability to perform their duties. The suit asks that any officer forced to retire early be reinstated if capable and given back pay.

Saltonstall said the EEOC had "attempted conciliation" with Massachusetts officials "but we were informed that the attorney general would defend the (mandatory retirement) statute."

Architectural Conservation Program To Begin At UF

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — The University of Florida soon will offer a new specialization in the field of architecture: architectural conservation, the nation's first such program at a state university.

Elliott Carroll, assistant to the architect of the U.S. Capitol, noted that historic preservation has had a slow start in this country because America is still young compared with other countries.

"For a long time, people just didn't believe that we had anything worth saving," Carroll said. "But they are becoming increasingly aware of our national heritage."

Currently, there are only "about seven or eight people in the U.S. qualified to practice architectural conservation," he said.

Blair Reeves, director of UF's Research and Education Center for Architectural Preservation, said the United States has many programs in historic preservation, but none in architectural conservation — the technical "nuts and bolts" of preservation.

Architectural conservators preserve architecture and its historic fabric, Reeves said, so they must be part historian, part architect and part scientist — a type of building pathologist.

At a recent UF seminar on architectural conservation, speakers stressed the importance of working together with scientists, historians, artists and professionals from all fields.

Without an interdisciplinary approach, building conservationists are asking for trouble, said Lee Nelson, chief of the Preservation Assistance Division of the National Park Service.

"You have to think of a building as a separate ecological system, instead of a brick here and concrete there," he said. "If you don't you're heading for a disaster."

UF's diversity makes it the ideal location for such a program, said Dr. Robert Bryan, UF vice president for academic affairs.

"We can take advantage of the variety of programs at UF, and the fact that all of our facilities are within walking distance," Bryan said. "UF is one of three universities which have all possible disciplines taught on one campus."

"We have 60 interdisciplinary centers," he said. "That's the rich kind of sea we swim in."

UF materials engineering professor David Clark said his department already is doing research on soil and on metal corrosion, and there's no reason why conservators should not have access to that information.

"I'd be interested in setting up a course in metal corrosion that would be sensitive to architectural conservation's problems," he said. "We have the latest scientific equipment."

Westmoreland Releases CBS Documents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. William Westmoreland has released a batch of "shocking" internal network documents that he hopes will bolster his $120 million libel case against CBS Inc.

These documents include a memorandum from George Crile (of CBS) to (CBS correspondent) Mike Wallace in which, in the course of preparing Wallace to interview me, Crile instructs him: 'Now all you have to do is break General Westmoreland and we have the whole thing a c e d Westmoreland said.

The statement quoted by Westmoreland is among three letters said to be from Crile to Wallace, although none bears a signature.

Westmoreland called the evidence in the documents "shocking" and charged CBS still is trying to destroy his military record.

The documents are part of Westmoreland's $120 million libel suit against CBS for its documentary, The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception, which suggested Westmoreland withheld information on communist troop strength.

Both sides expect the trial to begin next fall and to last 10 to 14 weeks with "a large number of witnesses."

John Scanlon, a New York public relations man representing CBS, questioned Westmoreland's propriety in releasing the documents.

"We believe the appropriate venue ought to be in the court," Scanlon said, adding that the network "endorses fully the substance and conclusion of the documentary."

It was Maxine Campbell night at Lake Howell High School Wednesday. Campbell, a senior guard for Sanford Seminole, poured in a game-high 26 points, many of them coming in the decisive moments of the game, to lift the Lady Seminoles to a 68-55 victory over Five Star Conference rival Lake Howell in semi-final action in the Lady Hawk Invitational Tournament.

Seminole advances to the championship tonight at 8 against Orlando Edgewater's Lady Eagles, a 46-32 winner over Orlando Evans Wednesday. In the third place game tonight at 6 Lake Howell faces Evans while Lake Mary takes on Winter Park in the fourth place game at 4.

"Maxine (Campbell) really had her night tonight," Seminole coach Ron Merthle said. "I hope she has a lot more like that as the season goes on."

Campbell pumped in 14 of her 26 points in the first half as Seminole built a 11-point halftime lead, 35-24. She came back in the second half to hit some key buckets down the stretch when Lake Howell was threatening to make a comeback.

"We really wanted this one bad," Campbell said. "We wanted to get another shot at Edgewater."

Seminole upped its record to 10-1 for the season, with its ninth straight victory. Its only loss came at the hands of Edgewater in the UCF Sun Roast Tournament in late November. Lake Howell fell to 9-3 for the season with two of its losses to Seminole.

Behind Campbell's exceptional night for the Lady Tribe, senior center Deldre Hillery added 15 points and controlled the boards with 17 rebounds. Hillery kept her streak of reaching double figures in scoring and rebounding alive as she did it for the 11th straight time this season. Mona Benton tossed in 11 points for the Lady Seminoles and Catherine Anderson added eight.

Tammy Johnson led Lake Howell with 16 points. Janene Brown added 11 and Christy Scott connected for 10 points and pulled down 11 rebounds.

Lady Hawk Invitational

Seminole went up by as much as nine points in the first quarter and took a five-point lead, 19-14, into the second. Lake Howell came back strong in the second quarter and pulled to within two points, 24-22. Then, one of the turning points in the game occurred.

With the score still at 24-22 two players tied each other up on a rebound and a jump ball was called. Lake Howell coach Dennis Codrey, was still steaming about an earlier call, was slapped with a technical foul giving the Seminoles two free throws and possession of the ball.

Seminole went on outscore the Lady Hawks, 11-2, the remainder of the second quarter to take a 35-24 halftime lead as Campbell hit four points in the last 40 seconds of the first half.

The Lady Tribe went up by as much as 15 points early in the fourth quarter, but Lake Howell cut the lead under 10, 39-30, on a layup by Brown. Campbell came right back to bank in a jumper and she and Benton scored four points each in the remainder of the third quarter to give Seminole a 15-point cushion, 49-34, going into the fourth.

Lake Howell didn't fold after three quarters, though, and, with Seminole holding a 57-42 lead, the Lady Hawks scored five unanswered points to cut the Tribe's lead to 10, 57-47, with three minutes remaining in the game.

Lake Howell had a chance to cut the lead under 10, but missed out on the opportunity and Campbell responded by swishing a jumper to put the Lady Seminoles back up by 12. Campbell's two free throws and a three-point play by Hillery put the game on ice for Seminole.

"I'm pleased with our effort tonight, but we want to play better tomorrow against Edgewater," Merthle said. "Maxine and the bench made a big difference for us tonight. When our big guns have an off night, we always have some good performances off the bench."

"Tonight Sherry Carpenter, Andell Smith, Sharon Jenkins and Tammy Pringle all did a good job for us off the bench."

In the other semifinal game Wednesday night, Edgewater outscored Evans, 20-7, in the fourth quarter to claim a 46-32 victory in a game that saw both teams have a frigid shooting night.

ORLANDO — The Lake Howell soccer team is using the Pizza Hut Invitational High School Soccer Tournament to present its case that it should be ranked among the state's top teams.

The Silver Hawks, 5-1, made their latest statement Wednesday with a 1-0 win over fifth-ranked 4A Orlando Boone.

In other tournament action, second-ranked 3A Bishop Moore mauled Lake Mary, 6-1, top-ranked 4A Miami Killian blitzed Evans, 5-0, and top-ranked 3A Clearwater Central Catholic blanked Edgewater, 3-0.

After a scoreless first half, Lake Howell's Serino, a junior, took a pass from Paul Pulido at midfield and dribbled toward the Boone goal. Moving like a man possessed, Serino got inside the penalty area, hurdled one Boone defender, and blasted the score past goalie Jay Vaughn.

"I usually look for someone to pass off to but I saw a place to go, and I went," said Serino.

"It was a planned play," said Silver Hawk coach Norman Wight. "We saw a weakness at halftime and worked it."

Pizza Hut Soccer

Even though this was the Hawk's fourth shutout in a row, Wight wasn't lavish in his praise for his team. "I was a little disappointed in our play. We're a little sore from yesterday's game (against Winter Park), and we're hurting."

"We've got two of our starters injured. We could be in better shape," said the veteran coach.

Unfortunately for the Hawks, both those players man positions on the front line. Jeff Schieker, right wing, was injured in Lake Howell's win over Lake Mary earlier in the season. And Serino played on a tender ankle he hurt in the game against Winter Park.

The Lake Howell defense came to the rescue late in the game as Boone put the pressure on to score. The Braves had 18 shots on goal and 9 corner kicks for the game, but got most of those in the last 20 minutes of the second half. Silver Hawk goalie Jeff Spraker had 9 saves for the game and made some pressure packed saves during the waning moments of the game.

"They (Boone) put on the pressure during the latter part of the game but the players kept their cool and withstood it," said Wight.

Lake Mary's Rams, meanwhile, could not withstand the Bishop Moore offensive onslaught. Hornet Steve Eichner opened the scoring with a penalty kick over a wall of Rams to give Bishop Moore a lead it would never relinquish.

Eichner scored again in the half as did his partner up front, Norm Boudreau to give the Hornets of coach David Fall a 3-0 halftime lead.

"The game just got out of hand," said Ram coach Larry McCorkle, who won several state championship when he coached at Bishop Moore. "If it was a little closer, we could have been a little more competitive. We had some mental lapses and a good team like Bishop Moore takes advantage of those lapses."

The Hornets, 7-2, came back to score three more goals in the second half before Lake Mary's Eric Zimmerman looped a long shot over Bishop Moore goalie Charles Nassar to avert the shutout. Lake Mary is 5-3 for the year.

In today's action, Evans takes on Edgewater at 12 noon in the first of the losers' bracket games, followed by Lake Mary against Boone at 2 p.m.

In the winners' bracket, Miami Killian takes on Clearwater Central Catholic at 4 p.m. while Lake Howell will play Bishop Moore at 6 p.m. All games will be played at Bishop Moore High School.

Gordon, Franklin FTs Lift Seminole To Win

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

OCALA — Seminole High took its first trip into overtime Wednesday and emerged with a 58-57 victory over Tampa Catholic as senior Bruce Franklin and junior Kenny Gordon converted free throws to keep the Seminoles alive in the Kingdom of the Sun Holiday Classic at Vanguard High School.

Seminole, 7-3, moves to the semifinals of the losers' bracket tonight at 6:30 where it will play powerful Decatur, Ga., last year's defending champions. Decatur, upset by Edgewater in the first round, blew away tiny Lake Weir, 82-45, Wednesday.

"We shot 67 percent from the field," said Seminole coach Chris Marlette. "That was the difference."

The Tribe, which had been shooting dreadfully for a week, tore the lead off against Tampa Catholic by hitting 24 of 36 shots. The Seminoles also converted 12 of 16 free throws and played excellent fourth-quarter defense to turn back the 2A powerhouse.

Seminole fell behind, 50-45, with four minutes to play, but then rallied as Gordon hit a 12-footer and Franklin swished two free throws to pull within 53-51.

The Crusaders, 6-5, spurred again with three free tosses by Rodney Thomas only to see Seminole close the gap as James Rouse dropped two free throws to pull Sanford within 53-51 with 2:11 to play. Tampa then tried to freeze the ball, and did so, until a traveling call with 1:15 to go gave the 'Noles another chance. Senior Willie Mitchell then hit his specialty — a turnaround jumper — to tie the score with 53 seconds to go.

Tampa again tried to hold the ball for a last shot, but a traveling call gave the Tribe a chance to win in regulation with eight seconds to play. After two passes, though, Mitchell had to force a jumper from the deep corner and he missed everything.

The Crusaders took an early lead in the overtime when 6-7 soph Mike Coy scored on a baseline move for a 55-53 edge. Rouse came back to hit one free throw with 1:19 to play and then Mitchell rebounded a missed shot and fed to Gordon on the fastbreak.

Gordon was fouled with 34 seconds to play and he coolly hit both tosses for a 56-55 Sanford lead. Curt Fiser then missed a jumper for TC and Mitchell cleared the board for Franklin.

Franklin, too, was fouled and he stuck both free throws in the hole for a 58-55 edge with just 24 seconds to play.

Tampa bounced back when reserve forward Nelson Russo dropped in a bucket from the baseline. The Crusaders then fouled Rouse with five seconds to go. Rouse missed the free throw and Tampa hurried the ball to Thomas at halfcourt. His shot, though, was partially blocked by Mitchell to secure the victory.

Gordon

Franklin

Mitchell and Rouse, who hit five straight jumpers in the second quarter, each had 15 points. Gordon finished with 12. Mitchell had nine rebounds while Franklin handed out seven assists.

In winners' bracket action Wednesday, Ocala Vanguard posted a 64-58 victory over previously unbeaten Hawthorne to move into the semifinals opposite Washington D.C. Mackin, which whipped Palm Beach Gardens, 63-49. Coach Jim Haley's Knights received 20 points from Tony Woods and 17 from Chris Gabbard.

In the other semifinal matchup, St. Anthony's (N.J.) will play Clearwater. St. Anthony's walloped Edgewater, 58-41, while Clearwater took care of Stuart Martin County, 52-46. Clearwater knocked off Seminole in Monday's first round.

Vanguard and Mackin play at 8 p.m. while Clearwater and St. Anthony's battle at 9:30 p.m.

Wake Forest Holds Off Jax, Murphy — Tisdale Hits 61, Beats Wilt's Mark

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Wake Forest coach Carl Tacy says the 11th-ranked Demon Deacons so far have managed to find the "hot hand" whenever they need him.

Wednesday night, it was senior guard Danny Young who connected for 18 points, all but 2 on long-range jump shots, to lead Wake Forest (8-0) to a 57-54 Gator Bowl Basketball Tournament championship win over Jacksonville.

"We've had good balance in our scoring in the past and someone always seems to rise to the occasion," Tacy said.

"We were lucky that Danny Young had a hot hand at the top of the key tonight," he said. "They had our big men blanketed."

Tacy noted that in Wake Forest's 76-67 first-round victory over Auburn, forward Kenny Green was the high scorer with 15, followed by center Anthony Teachey with 14.

Jacksonville (4-4) imposed its kind of game on the Deacons — a low-scoring affair, Tacy said.

"We picked up some early fouls and were forced into a zone. That changed the game to their advantage," he said.

The Wake Forest coach was pleased with the Deacons' foul shooting. They made 13 of 15 from the foul line including 4 of 5 in the last 1 1/2 minutes of play to put the game out of reach.

"With a season like we're having, there are going to be a lot of close game situations where foul shots are going to make the difference," he said. "A year ago, we were last in the league in foul shooting. But I've noticed a marked improvement."

Aside from Young, the only Deacon in double figures was guard Delaney Rudd.

The Dolphins' attack was led by Otis Smith with 18 points, Ovidio's Ronnie Murphy with 16 and Eric Lewis with 10.

Murphy rallied the Dolphins with several big baskets and rebounds down the stretch, but Jacksonville couldn't come up with the clutch basket in the closing minutes and had to foul.

College Basketball

It was simply Wayman Tisdale's way of saying goodbye.

"I was just trying to score as many points as I could because I knew I was going to be taken out," he said.

By the time he was finished, Oklahoma's 6-foot-9 sophomore ran up 61 points Wednesday night in carrying the Sooners to a 112-72 rout of Texas-San Antonio in the opening game of the 48th annual All-College Tournament.

It was the most points ever scored by a Big Eight player, surpassing a 52-point performance by none other than Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas in 1957.

"When they said I had 39 with about eight minutes left I knew I had a chance at the record," Tisdale said.

One of the nation's best frontline players, Tisdale was 24-of-34 from the floor and 13-of-18 from the line. He pulled down 22 rebounds and for good measure broke the All-College Tournament record of 53 set in 1968 by LSU's Pete Maravich.

"You really don't realize he's scoring that many points," said Oklahoma coach Billy Tubbs. "He makes it look so simple and easy. If we hadn't been keeping track I'd have said he had at least 30."

The victory put Oklahoma, 9-1, in tonight's title game against Arkansas-Little Rock.

As for putting his night's work in perspective, Tisdale, 19, realized 1957 was a ways back.

"I wasn't even thought of then," he said.

Elsewhere in the Top 20, it was No. 1 Kentucky 86, No. 19 Purdue 67, No. 5 Georgetown 82, Marshall 71, No. 8 UCLA 82, Brigham Young 73, No. 10 Texas-El Paso 51, Arizona 49 (ot); No. 11 Wake Forest 57, Jacksonville 54, Texas Tech 59, Co.-No. 14 Michigan 58, Co.-No. 14 Louisville 69, Hawaii Pacific 71, No. 16 Illinois 66, Missouri 60, No. 17 North Carolina State 88, Towson State 49, and No. 20 Arkansas 82, St. Peter's 49.

Bengals Select Wyche To Replace Gregg

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Indiana University coach Sam Wyche, who once played quarterback for the Cincinnati Bengals, has been named as the new coach of his former team.

Wyche, 38, Wednesday replaced Forrest Gregg, who resigned Dec. 24 to become coach of the Green Bay Packers.

"Sam was the first and only man interviewed for the job," said Bengals president and owner Paul E. Brown in a prepared statement. "He was the man we wanted from the beginning and we are very happy he has elected to be with us."

Wyche returned to the NFL less than one year after succeeding Lee Corso at Indiana. Wyche's first Hoosier team finished 3-8.

"I thought long and hard about leaving Indiana because they were good to me and I will always be grateful for the chance they gave me," said Wyche in the same statement. "It's a career ambition to be an NFL head coach and coming back to Cincinnati is like going home."

The announcement was made with all the principles unavailable for comment. Brown and Wyche both reportedly were in California and Indiana University athletic director Ralph Floyd was vacationing in South Carolina.

Wyche's departure could do further damage to Indiana's floundering football program. Because Wyche was named IU coach last Jan. 7, he got a late start recruiting for the past season. Now his replacement will face the same problem.

"I'm not really looking forward to a new coaching change," said junior tight end Chris Cook Wednesday night.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Family members planned a private funeral for golfing great Jimmy Demaret, called "the hat" by Bing Crosby and eulogized by a close associate as a "friend of caddies and also of kings."

Demaret, a three-time Masters champion whose colorful attire brought him almost as much acclaim as his golfing talents, died Wednesday of an apparent heart attack. He was 73.

"He was a friend of everybody in the world," said Demaret's close friend and business associate Pat Morgan. "He never had an enemy. He was friend of caddies and also of kings. That is literally true."

"When the ex-king of England, the Duke of Windsor, was here about 10 or 12 years ago for medical treatment he requested that Jimmy and he be together and play a few holes of golf. And they did."

Demaret is survived by his widow and one daughter and Morgan said Demaret's family had requested there be only a private funeral.

HALLANDALE (UPI) — Former Montreal Expo Warren Cromartie says he decided to give the Japanese version of baseball a try because he is a little fed up with American baseball.

Cromartie, a left-handed hitter who hit .280, with 60 home runs and 371 RBI in seven years with the Expos, signed a three-year contract Tuesday with the Tokyo Yomiuri Giants of Japan.

"I am sure that this will start some controversy," Cromartie said. "This is going to make some heads shake, but I feel this is best for me. The bottom line was money and happiness."

The 30-year-old left-handed hitter became a free agent last fall, after the Expos showed little interest in him. But only Houston, Boston and San Francisco drafted him and Cromartie told agent Cookie Lazarus to check out Japan.

The next day, a representative of the Tokyo Giants called Lazarus and 22 days later Cromartie, a Miami area resident, signed the contract in a Hallandale motel room. Present were Cromartie's wife Carole, Lazarus and Hiroaki Hirano, the Giants' international liaison.

"Baseball will have to make some drastic changes," he said. "Today, the owners gang up on the players, the FBI monitors your every move (because of drugs). How can you concentrate on what you do?"

Tari Phillips added 12 and Tris Bell added seven points and eight rebounds. Cynthia Williams paced Evans with 12 points and nine rebounds before fouling out in the fourth quarter.

Neither team could find the shooting touch in the opening half as Edgewater took a slim one-point lead, 14-13, at the end of the first half. Both teams stepped up the pace a little in the third quarter, but Edgewater could not build on its lead and clung to a one-point margin, 26-25, going into the fourth.

Edgewater came out firing in the fourth quarter and, leading 33-29, blew the game open by reeling off 13 straight points to put the game away with a 46-29 lead.

In the consolation bracket Wednesday, Laura Glass scored nine of her game-high 16 points in the third quarter to help Lake Mary break open a close game en route to a 59-40 victory over Winter Garden West Orange.

Lake Mary managed only a four-point lead, 28-24, over the underdog Warriors after the first half but Glass' nine third-quarter points enabled the Lady Rams to take a 44-34 lead into the fourth quarter.

Behind Laura Glass for Lake Mary, Andrea Fenning tossed in 13 points. Lisa Gregory added 12 and Peggy Glass netted eight. Shonda Marlin led West Orange with 12 points and Traci Jones added 10.

In the other consolation bracket game, Nina Tobin poured in 23 points to lead Winter Park's Lady Wildcats to a 64-43 rout of hapless Merritt Island. Jerri Pierre added 11 points for Winter Park and Leticia Ferre and Kerri Ferreira added eight points each. Karen Briesacher led Merritt Island with 10 points and Ruth Holmes added eight.

Talk Best Cure For Depression

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago I felt very depressed and decided I'd had enough of this world, so I took 20 aspirin and washed them down with three regular-size glasses of wine — straight. My question is: How should this have affected a 5-foot-3, 104-pound, 15-year-old girl on an empty stomach?

I got up the next morning and went to church with an awful headache. I told a few of my friends what I had done and they said I was lucky I didn't wind up in the hospital. Things look a lot better now and I am glad I didn't really kill myself. Am I lucky, or just average?

MY SIGN IS LEO

DEAR LEO: You are lucky you are still alive since you didn't really want to end your life. And you're average to feel depressed occasionally. Everybody does, to some extent.

The best way to handle a depression so severe that one questions whether life is worth living is to talk to someone about your feelings. If you can't talk openly to your parents, talk to a teacher, your school counselor, your clergyman or call a suicide prevention hotline. There are trained people there who will listen to you and advise you. And if these self-destructive thoughts creep into your mind often, get into a regular counseling program.

Life is worth living; witness the number of people with severe physical disabilities who fight a daily battle just to stay alive.

DEAR ABBY: I learned something I want to share with as many people as possible because it was such a terrific eyeopener for us. My husband (age 44) recently had surgery that saved his life but left him impotent. Thank God we already had a lovely family, but the news that he would be rendered impotent following the surgery depressed him terribly. We both assumed that his impotence would mean the end of our sex lives. We were wrong!

His doctor suggested that we enroll in the human sexuality program offered by the medical college of our local university. We did, and a whole new world we didn't even know existed opened up to us!

Some very competent therapists introduced us to an amazing variety of options to achieve sexual satisfaction.

We were both inhibited at first, but we overcame all that in a few sessions, and now we are enjoying a sex life that is even more fulfilling than we had before his surgery.

I hope you can use this in your column, Abby. There must be a lot of people out there who can be helped by this knowledge. Thanks.

Bombing Aftermath Marines Turn Position Into A Fortress

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Massive concrete barriers, rolls of barbed wire and around-the-clock sandbag filling attests to the U.S. Marines' obsession with security since the suicide attack that killed 241 Americans.

"One of the lessons we learned from October is that we have to be prepared for the unexpected," said Marine Maj. Dennis Brooks. "We will continue to fortify our positions."

There is no trace left of the lax security that drew scathing comments in Wednesday's Pentagon report on the Oct. 23 attack. Never again will the Marines present what the report termed a "lucrative target."

The Marines no longer are concentrated in one spot, such as the headquarters building where 350 servicemen were sleeping when a truck barreled through the perimeter fence to detonate with the force of 6 tons of explosives.

Marines are spread around their base encircling Beirut airport and all the living quarters have been hardened. Mounds of sandbags rise above them. Six-hour stints on watch are followed by a few hours of filling more bags.

No truck now could ram through a fence into the Marine base as in the dawn suicide attack. Impregnable "dragon's teeth" — 4-foot-square blocks of concrete — line the road to Beirut airport from where the fatal blow came.

Almost no vehicles are allowed onto the grounds and every person is searched. One photographer had his hair checked by the guards at the gate.

Twice journalists who tried to enter the grounds through the wrong entrance were fired on. The first time in November cost only the tires of the taxi, but a Washington, N.C. television crew arriving for Christmas filming was not so lucky. The driver was wounded by bullets and the station anchorman, Joseph Corcoran, was cut by flying glass.

Mounds of earth protect the Marines against both vehicles and the snipers that slip into the decaying buildings of the Shiite Moslem neighborhoods adjoining their positions.

"Concertina" wire — coils of wire with razor-like projections that make barbed-wire appear tame — are strung around the base. "Tank traps" — steel I-beams welded into vicious tripods — block any possible gaps in the other barricades.

The move to heavier defenses started slowly, with a few extra pieces added with each deterioration in the atmosphere. A sniper would fire, and extra sandbags would appear. A grenade was thrown, and extra barriers would appear at the entrance.

But the first taste of what was coming was the suicide attack on the U.S. Embassy on April 18. Although at least 63 people died in the blast, and the Shiites had been suspected of earlier attacks, there was little effort to drastically improve security at the Marine base adjoining the Shiite area.

Because Of Economic Crisis Fewer Mexicans Seek U.S. Visas

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Domestic economic woes and a devalued currency have cut sharply into the number of Mexicans seeking visas to travel to the United States, a U.S. Embassy official said.

"Travel to the United States has fallen since the second half of 1982," a specialist in the visa department at the American Embassy in Mexico City said Wednesday.

Mexico, burdened with an $85 billion foreign debt, is struggling with its worst recession in 50 years. Dollars cost six times as much today as they did in January 1982, when the exchange rate was 25 pesos to $1.

The number of applicants has risen in the holiday season, however. Throughout December, Mexicans have been lining up outside the embassy, some at the crack of dawn, for visas to travel to the United States.

The embassy issued 453,000 visas in 1981 — the height of Mexico's economic boom — when an overvalued peso made travel and shopping in the United States a bargain for Mexicans.

Only 237,000 visas were issued during 1982, when the country's debt crisis hit, the embassy official said.

Although strict currency controls were eased this year, the embassy expected to issue only 150,000 visas in 1983, one-third the number issued just two years ago and the fewest in the past five years, embassy officials said.

Not all the visa-seekers intend just to visit.

"I want to get a job," said one elderly woman waiting in line, while a younger woman standing next to her said she wanted to raise her children in the United States.

The two women illustrate the other side of Mexico's economic crisis.

While fewer Mexican nationals are traveling to the United States for pleasure, more Mexicans are traveling to find employment north of the border.

"There has been a turnaround in thinking about illegals coming through the embassy," the official said. She said embassy officials believe the number of Mexicans seeking visas in the hope of working in the United States had risen.

"I would roughly estimate that 2 to 3 percent pass through in that manner," she said.

Quadriplegic Described As 'Diabolical' In Her Wish To Die

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — The doctor treating quadriplegic Elizabeth Bouvia described her as "devilish" and "diabolical" and said she is relishing the publicity generated by her fight to die.

Lawyers for Riverside County General Hospital also said Wednesday the 26-year-old cerebral palsy victim may remain hospitalized for weeks before she is released — out of sight of the media.

Mrs. Bouvia began a death fast last week in defiance of a judge's order. Hospital officials went back to court and obtained an order allowing the staff to force-feed her.

"Her behavior is not only unusual, it's diabolical," said Dr. Habeeb Baehus, acting chief of medicine at the hospital.

"It's devilish. The lady is enjoying the notoriety and it's unfortunate for her that she's not going to win. This is going to end."

Deputy County Counsel Barbara Milliken said the hospital might not discharge Mrs. Bouvia for "days or weeks."

"We will not put her out on Magnolia Street," she said. "This is a very inhumane thing to do. We have some plans that we are discussing and you will know about it after she is discharged. We are concerned about Elizabeth's safety."

American Civil Liberties Union spokeswoman Carol Sobel said the organization would not go along with a secret discharge, adding, "I think they need to give Elizabeth some notice."

Later Wednesday, Mrs. Bouvia's attorneys lost another round in court in the woman's attempt to receive painkillers and hygienic care while she starves to death.

The District Court of Appeal in San Bernardino refused to hear an emergency bid from the ACLU lawyers, who were trying to block Mrs. Bouvia's discharge and stop the force-feeding that is keeping her alive.

Mrs. Sobel said the ACLU would appeal the decision to the state Supreme Court as soon as Friday.

A short while earlier, former feminist comedian Robin Tyler announced she would offer her home to Mrs. Bouvia so she could be "a person who simply is supporting her right to choose."

Mrs. Tyler said she would not actively help Mrs. Bouvia die and hoped she would "change her mind and choose to live."

Hospital social worker Joan Munson said she mentioned the offer to Mrs. Bouvia and it was "the only offer she's shown any interest in."

On Dec. 16, Superior Court Judge John Hews denied Mrs. Bouvia's request for an injunction requiring the hospital to provide painkillers and hygienic care while she starved.

When Mrs. Bouvia ignored the decision and began starving herself, the county went to court and obtained an order allowing her to be force-fed until she was deemed "medically dischargeable."

The hospital has said it has contacted about 100 facilities who have refused to accept Mrs. Bouvia on her terms.

No More Taping Phone Conversations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan does not want Charles Wick, director of the U.S. Information Agency, to resign because of the revelation that he secretly tape-recorded telephone conversations.

Wick admitted Wednesday to recording phone conversations for several months, but said he stopped when he became concerned about whether he was breaking the law.

In Los Angeles, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said President Reagan "does not wish Mr. Wick to resign."

Speakes said he does not know whether Reagan "really approves or disapproves" of the practice, but added that he believes the president "generally would not approve of it."

"He doesn't do it himself," Speakes said. "It's not done at the White House." Speakes then added with a smile, "Since 1974," in a reference to Richard Nixon's secret taping of telephone and Oval Office conversations.

"For a limited time, I recorded a small percentage of my own incoming and outgoing telephone conversations with others, utilizing commercially available equipment," Wick said in a statement issued by his office.

"This was done solely to ensure accuracy and facilitate appropriate follow-through on the topics discussed and for no other purpose," he said. "As soon as these few tapes were transcribed, the tapes were erased for further use."

Wick, a close friend of the Reagans who spent Christmas with them, said he "often advised the caller that I was recording the conversation or a portion of it, but in haste I did not do this consistently."

"When concerns about this practice of taping were raised by my staff, I recognized that ... I may have been insufficiently sensitive to concerns some may have about the practice of recording telephone conversations," Wick said. "Accordingly, I discontinued the practice."

Wick first revealed the taping, which is not illegal, during an interview published in The New York Times, which reported it has obtained transcripts of conversations.

Defense Official Under Investigation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has begun a criminal investigation of whether Deputy Defense Secretary Paul Thayer passed inside stock information about companies he directed, it was reported today.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that the Securities and Exchange Commission recently referred the case to Justice after the commission conducted a civil investigation of the 1982 stock transactions, which Thayer has said did not involve any stock trading by him.

Thayer, 63, was chairman and chief executive officer of LTV Corp., a Dallas-based aerospace conglomerate and defense contractor with subsidiaries in steel, oil and meat processing, from 1970 until last December, a month before he became No. 2 official at the Pentagon.

The SEC has been trying to determine whether Thayer passed on inside information about any of the publicly traded companies of which he was a director, and whether recipients of this information traded stock on the basis of data not available to the public.

Beach Boy Dennis Wilson Drowns In Ocean Marina

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Beach Boys drummer Dennis Wilson, whose band rode a wave of "Good Vibrations" in songs of Southern California's surf and sand, spent an afternoon drinking with friends before he drowned, investigators said today.

Wilson had been partying on a 52-foot sailboat. The Emerald, with two women and the boat's owner in a slip at Marina del Rey before he drowned Wednesday afternoon, said Sheriff's Sgt. Leroy Chastain.

The officer said the death was "being handled as an accidental drowning." Coroner's surgeons planned an autopsy today to determine the exact cause of death and whether alcohol might have been a contributing factor.

Wilson, 39, wearing only cutoff jeans, reportedly dove from the cockpit alongside the boat about 4:25 p.m. PST into 12 feet of water and never surfaced, Chastain said. The water was a chilly 58 degrees.

The officer said the musician had been looking for objects on the marina bottom and was still wearing a face mask when his body was recovered about 5:48 p.m. by four divers.

"The water is very dark, very murky," Chastain said. "They searched with their hands until they found him."

Investigators said the boat's owner, Winton "Bill" Oster, his fiancée, Brenda Clugston and Colleen McGovern were partying aboard the boat with Wilson for several hours before he died. They said Wilson had been drinking, but there was no evidence he was drunk.

"There were no visible injuries on the body," Chastain said. "He had been drinking — they were having sociable drinks, but we don't know what the alcoholic beverages were or how much."

Deputy Jim Plattis said, "There were no drugs."

Early today, the remaining Beach Boys released a statement through spokesman Sandy Friedman.

"We are saddened by the sudden death of Dennis Wilson," the band said. "He was one of the most sensitive and gifted musicians in pop music. Dennis was our brother and our friend. We love him and we will miss him."

Wilson was divorced and had three children, Friedman said.

Wilson was known as the wittiest, the most open and nearest to the beach of any of the Beach Boys. Not interested in the gloss of Hollywood's high-rent hideaways, he preferred life among the canals of Venice near the Marina.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY DECEMBER 30, 1983
Conditions look very hopeful for you between now and your next birthday. This appears to be a cycle in which many of your dreams can be fulfilled.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your popularity with friends will be assured today if you show a sincere interest in their present involvements. Be a booster, not a boomer. Major changes are in store for Capricorns in the coming year. Send for your Capricorn Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1 and your zodiac sign to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have a style and flair about you today that will make you a standout. Your actions will win you both admirers and imitators.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your words carry more weight than usual today, so be selective in what you say. Your encouragement can cause the spirits of others to soar.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could be rather fortunate today by being able to tap into a beneficial situation in which another has done most of the spadework.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Bonds can be strengthened with a loved one if you place his or her needs above your own today. Be unselfish.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Endeavors requiring artistic touches will be the ones you perform the best today. They'll also provide you with the greatest sense of satisfaction.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Flirtations today will be taken seriously by the object of your intentions. Before casting glances, consider the consequences.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Success is likely today in situations where you are unselfishly motivated to provide more good for those you love than for yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Persons fond of you are anxious to know what you think of them. Try to use terms of endearment today to put their minds at ease.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Material conditions could take a dramatic shift today. The ways and means may be available to acquire something you've been wanting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your assertiveness continues to be tuned to a high pitch again today. However, you'll know how to match your motives with charm and wit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Normally you are not bashful about expressing your feelings, yet today you may be reticent to let someone you secretly admire know you care.

Rapid Weight Loss Can Weaken System

DEAR DR. LAMB — A month ago my 54-year-old sister died suddenly. The doctor said she had meningitis and her resistance was so low that the germ took over and spread through her blood. It caused myocarditis and endocarditis inflammation of her heart muscles. Her heart enlarged and could not pump the blood. She had been on the Cambridge Diet for a couple of months and had lost 20 pounds. The doctor said she probably wasn't getting enough protein and losing that much weight in such a short time was not healthy.

Dr. Lamb

She also was on medication for high blood pressure and was not under his care while dieting. She was tired one day, and three days later she died. Please warn your readers about diets.

DEAR READER — I can understand why you are upset and appreciate your effort to help others with your experience. However, I can't really say that the Cambridge Diet caused your sister's death. A severe bacterial disease caused her death.

DEAR READER — Yes, it is possible for the blood test to be positive, which can create emotional trauma for patients. A number of transitory false positive tests occur with a variety of illnesses, including pneumonia. It also may occur after a smallpox vaccination.

A persistent false positive test may occur for a variety of autoimmune diseases, particularly lupus erythematosus. For this reason it is important that individuals with false positive tests have regular medical evaluations.

More than 1 percent of individuals older than 70, and 10 percent of people older than 80, have false positive tests for syphilis.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

North bid too much, as North players often do, and South found himself in a four-spade contract that required good breaks plus friendly defense.

East made the first mistake. He took his ace of trumps at trick one in order to lead a second trump. Had he ducked, he would have been able to play a third round of trumps later.

South won the second spade in his hand and led a club. West made the second mistake when he rushed to take his ace. Then he led the jack of diamonds to South's king and South was in control. He led a club to the king, ruffed a club and led a heart toward dummy.

If East held the ace of that suit, the hand was doomed to defeat since he (East) would get to lead his last trump, but the good fortune made possible by the defenders' early errors in grabbing the black aces too quickly was continuing. West ducked this time, but it made no difference.

South was in dummy with the heart king. He ruffed another club with his last trump, discarded one of dummy's hearts on the diamond ace, ruffed a diamond with dummy's next-to-last trump, used dummy's last trump to pick up East's last one and made his tenth trick with dummy's fifth club.

Then he conceded the last trick to West's heart ace.

They were physically active and their calories and nutritional requirements were in excess of the diet available to them. As a result, they lost a lot of weight. Some of them lost their hair. Their personalities changed. They were intolerant to cold, wounds healed poorly and their sexual capacity diminished.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there a medical condition that causes venereal blood tests to be positive without the person having venereal disease? My youngest daughter has this condition. Her doctor does not suggest treatment. Neither does the local health department. This is a source of embarrassment to her and us.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A month ago my 54-year-old sister died suddenly. The doctor said she had meningitis and her resistance was so low that the germ took over and spread through her blood. It caused myocarditis and endocarditis inflammation of her heart muscles. Her heart enlarged and could not pump the blood. She had been on the Cambridge Diet for a couple of months and had lost 20 pounds. The doctor said she probably wasn't getting enough protein and losing that much weight in such a short time was not healthy.

She also was on medication for high blood pressure and was not under his care while dieting. She was tired one day, and three days later she died. Please warn your readers about diets.

DEAR READER — I can understand why you are upset and appreciate your effort to help others with your experience. However, I can't really say that the Cambridge Diet caused your sister's death. A severe bacterial disease caused her death.

DEAR READER — Yes, it is possible for the blood test to be positive, which can create emotional trauma for patients. A number of transitory false positive tests occur with a variety of illnesses, including pneumonia. It also may occur after a smallpox vaccination.

A persistent false positive test may occur for a variety of autoimmune diseases, particularly lupus erythematosus. For this reason it is important that individuals with false positive tests have regular medical evaluations.

More than 1 percent of individuals older than 70, and 10 percent of people older than 80, have false positive tests for syphilis.
