Stanley Charkut Limits Lookouts To Four Bingles

Victors Get 8 Hits From Offerings Of Atwater And Hudson

By JULIAN STENSTROM
CITY ISLAND PARK, DAYTONA BEACH, May 30.—The Daytona Beach Islanders downed the Lookouts yesterday afternoon on City Island Park by a score of 8 to 2 before approximately 500 Banford and Daytona Beach fans.

The Islanders made good use of their eight hits off two Lookout moundmen and had two big innings. Charlie Atwater started on the mound for the Lookouts and was flicked for three runs by the Islanders in the first frame. He retired the Islanders in the second, but in the third a walk and a single drove the ace Sanford hurler from the hill. He was replaced by Sidney Hudson, converted initial sucker who hurled excellent baseball for the remaining five and two-thirds innings.

Hudson calmed the bats of the strong Islander aggregation and he held them scoreless until the eighth inning when they secured four runs off one hit, a walk, a sacrifice and a two base error by Hugh Manning.

Manager Jimmie Sanders of the Islanders started Stanley Charkut on the hill and he allowed Banford only four hits during the encounter. Charkut was in trouble only in the fourth inning when a single by Joe Roggerio and Win Brown produced the Lookout's first run. Charkut fanned six of the Lookouts and walked two batters.

sacrificing Sanders. Wein sacrificed and was out at first but in an attempt to nab Tureckl st. third, Manning threw wild and both Tureckl and Day crossed the plate.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THEN YOU NEVER WILL BRING DISCORD: And into what never house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house.—Luke 10:5

Remember the good old days when "Get Out and Get Under" was as popular as "Memories" today.

We know why Hitler wouldn't allow "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" to be played in Germany. He figured he was "Dopey."

Japanese bombing raids continue; in fact, they seem determined to win this war if they have to kill every noncombatant in China.

Melbourne interests are going in for the production of Sea Island cotton. More than 65 acres have already been planted.

From this distance it is hard to tell whether Czechoslovakia just called Germany's bluff, or if the Führer is just standing back waiting for a delayed pass.

We see by the Titusville Star-Advertiser efforts are being made to restock the oyster beds in Harwood county. We would still like to know, however, what kind of a noise annoys an oyster.

This is National Cotton Week. The idea is to boost the sale of cotton, and to help to consume in this country some of the cotton which was produced for foreign countries which they have refused to buy at our prices. So step up to the stocking counters, girls, and buy yourselves some nice cotton hose.

Death is no respecter of persons. The high fall as well as the low. Recent weeks have seen an unusual number of prominent persons pass to the great beyond in Sanford, Florida, and in the nation as a whole. Many of them die while still comparatively young, or in the prime of life, indicating, that with all our advances in science, medicine and surgery, the modern pace is perhaps too fast.

Pat Harrison, Mississippi Senator and President Roosevelt are set to come to blows over the tax bill which the President had signed but allowed to become a law. Pat Harrison says it will help the little business man; the President insists it will hurt him. Which is right remains to be seen. But so far as we can remember, we never saw any tax bill that helped anybody that bad to pay the bill.

The little body of Peter Levine has been found, indicating that the kidnappers became terrified over what they had done, made matters worse, by killing the boy and throwing his body overboard. More often do people in a lasson make matters worse. There is something wrong with our kidnaping laws when the penalty for leaving the victim alive is as severe as to make for returning the dead.

It does not cost as much to live in the South as in such highly industrialized areas as Cleveland, York, and Pittsburgh. That will be fairly obvious to everyone who has ever tried to live in motion. The Department of Commerce figures which show costs in the South has a cost of '38 as compared with '37 for the nation as a whole, and for the Middle Atlantic states. The cost of coal, oil, other living costs, are lower in the South. No need to go into the reasons, more

Another Kidnapping

The mangled body of little Peter Levine has at last been found, washed ashore on Long Island sound day before yesterday, minus head, hands and feet, bound tightly in wire. Evidently some brutal fiend had killed the boy and thrown his body overboard weeks ago even as his father offered to pay the ransom and negotiated for the return of his son.

Last Friday a child was kidnapped in Florida. At Princeton, south of Miami, a baby was stolen from his crib as he slept, in his nursery. No rich man, his father promptly offered to pay the $10,000 ransom demanded; in fact, may have done so early Saturday morning. But as yet, the child has not been returned, though a note was later received telling how contact might be made.

Kidnapping is a crime that has got to be stopped. It is not a crime which concerns the rich alone, but one which vitally affects every law-abiding man, woman, and child in this country. If the children of the rich can be stolen with impunity, it will not be long before children will be seized and held for $1,000 ransoms, for $100 ransoms.

The pride of the government; in fact, the necessities of government itself, is involved in this matter of kidnapping.

Mexico's Predicament

A picture not so cheerful for the future of Mexico is painted by General Hugh Johnson, one time NRA chief, who as an old time cavalry officer, has spent much time on the Mexican border and is thoroughly conversant with the conditions existing in our neighboring country.

Mexico is a country rich in natural resources, poor in man power and capital. There are silver and oil aplenty there and rich cattle lands, also gold, copper, zinc, iron, and tin, rich farm lands and vast lumber tracts. Wheat, coffee, tobacco, cotton, rice, sugar cane, bananas, oranges, alfalfa, and potatoes grow there in abundance, while there is a certain amount of manufacturing in furniture, steel products, and cigars and cigarettes.

But in spite of all this wealth, which is greater in proportion to population than that of almost any other country in the western hemisphere, Mexicans have always been poor. Long lacking was the capital with which to develop these resources, and the brain power to manage such development. Most Mexicans are Indians or half-breeds, with little, if any, education, and not much industriousness.

"Porfirio Diaz, half a century ago", writes General Johnson, "saw how the United States had been developed by European capital. All its independent life, Mexico had been a merry-go-round of riot and revolution. Even in peace, it was a hotbed of banditry. Before the capital necessary to create a semi-civilization would come in, Mexico had to be governed."

And so, as General Johnson says, Porfirio Diaz set about the task of governing Mexicans with a sternness and a discipline that gave assurance that foreign capital would be protected if he risked investment in Mexico. Diaz ruled for 30 or 40 years with a sort of military dictatorship no unlike some of those dictatorships in Europe. He policed the country. He kept order. And millions of dollars were invested there.

"The moment the aging grip of Diaz weakened", continues General Johnson, "the Madero revolution came. Marxian Communism in industry, inbred Indian Communism, and a flair for banditry in the country, plus signs of economic and social abuse, combined to restore the accusations of state of revolution, but, under Marxian leadership, in a new and more vicious form. It destroyed or confiscated old capital and frightened new capital away. Mexico is busted."

And then General Johnson tells how one revolutionary leader after another has come into power. Each one promising to take the land and property away from those who owned it and divide it equally among all the people. And each time one has come into power, he has found his promises difficult to keep, has come to the realization that thus to confiscate foreign capital would only make matters worse for Mexicans.

"Mexico can't possibly pay for these properties", General Johnson says, "Her defaulted external debt of nearly a billion dollars and her internal debt combine to leave her bankrupt. No government can suffer any one country to take its citizens' property free. If it did, then any country could do it and international economic relations would cease. Furthermore, Mexico must have foreign capital or collapse."

President Cardenas has done a foolish thing by seizing the oil properties of such countries as England and the United States. With the friendship and financial support of these two powerful nations, Mexico could develop industrially and commercially. Without such aid, she can only disintegrate into complete chaos. Mexicans will find that oil, silver, and iron are only good for what you can do with them. And if you haven't the capital to develop them, or the customers to sell them to, they aren't much good to you.

Mexicans will find that you can't eat oil, or wear iron.

COAST GUARD STATION ST. or a difference for the Republic AUGUSTINE—During the Specieans of over 500,000 and the Republican Session of the 75th Congress publicans cast many more votes than the Democrats of around 600,000. You will have to do your own figuring but studying figures of the same year the Republicans polled 1,690,300 and the Democrats 2,353,788 votes or a majority for the Democrats of around 600,000. You will have to do your own figuring but studying figures from the beginning of 1932 you can not avoid the conclusion that the Democrats are safer for the 1938 General Election than they ever were before. The Republicans don't have a chance.

TID BITS—General Jerry Carter is in the Capitol working for the Townsend Plan and making people laugh. Judging from reports that come to me through my colleagues, Jerry makes a good impression—I dressed up in my best suit (and about my only one) and met Lex Green on the floor. Joe, he said, that suits too big for you, wonder if you could have it delivered at my hotel by seven in the morning—pressed—remember I am "Little Joe" and Lex weighs about two hundred.

GOVERNOE JIM MEAD OR IT MAY BE SENATOR MEAD—Since so many of my constituents are acquainted with General Jim Mead, Chairman of the Post Office and Post Roads Committee in the House of Representatives, I thought they may be interested in the fact that at the present time it is highly probable that the State Democratic organization of New York may run Jim for Governor or for the U. S. Senate. This information is authentic, although the outcome will depend on whether Governor Lehman will run to succeed himself, run for the Senate or retire. If he retires Mr. Mead's chances are very good. We would be glad to have our friend Jim Mead who owns property in Clermont, Florida, come to visit our State as Governor Mead or Senator Mead. In fact we are delighted to have him as Jim Mead.

ORLANDO SENTINEL, MISSISSIPPI SOMETHING — In the Orlando Sentinel of May 21 appeared an editorial commenting on the primaries in Pennsylvania a portion of which is as follows. "One thing is certain, the Republicans have been busy in the great territory, especially shaped communally; they had a 1938 registration of 2,140,496 with a high vote of 1,413,000; the Democrats had a registration of 2,016,736 with a vote of 1,277,130. In both cases the Republicans are ahead of the Democrats. It remains to be seen if the Republicans can get together and stick together. If they do they will win; if they do not the Democrats will win in the fall elections as they did in 1936." I will admit that at first thought I was afraid that the Republicans had a chance of carrying the State in the General Election, however, upon a personal investigation I find there rather startling figures. In 1936 the Republicans had a registration of 2,661,736 and the Democrats 2,065,741 first or second class Post Office.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS—I have received announcements of the following Civil Service examinations: senior veterinarian (poultry pathology) $4,600 a year, veterinarian (poultry pathology) $3,800, associate veterinarian (poultry pathology) $3,200, assistant veterinarian (poultry pathology) $2,600, principal poultry husbandman $5,600, senior geneticist (poultry) $4,600, geneticist (poultry) $3,800, associate geneticist (poultry) $3,200, assistant geneticist (poultry) $2,600, shipfitter (unassembled) $6,91, $7,39, $7,87 per diem, loftman (unassembled) $7,39, $7,87, $8,35 per diem. Lead Over Islets
For Four Innings

The defensive play of the Lookouts cracked wide open last night as the Daytona Beach Islanders gained a 15 to 2 victory over the locals in a regular Florida State League contest played at the Municipal Athletic Field.

Seven costly errors paved the way for the Islets to capture the eight straight contest from the local aggregation this season while they gathered 11 hits which with the runs accounted for the 15 tallies.

The Lookouts sent Jack Lovell on the mound and he went the entire route even though it was hot, breezy and poor playing by his mates spouted all chances of gaining a victory.

Manager Jimmie Sanders sent Pete Kump to the hill for his outfit and he set the leads down with only four hits, the same number allowed them Sunday afternoon by Bob Chacko.

The Lookouts took a one run lead in the first inning and held it until the fifth. In the first, Bugino lined out to deep right field but Wm. Brown tripled to the center field wall and scored when Pete Mikula beat out to base. Wm. Brown in center field.

Lovell worked smoothly on the hill and he set the Islets down easily until the fifth inning when two errors with two hits pushed five batters across the platter, however, in the fourth, Lovell did some neat pitching as Wm.

Welterweights Sched-

Bout In New York

NEW YORK, May 31 If the weather permits, Barney Ross will defend his welter weight title against the aspiring Henry Armstrong in the Madison Square Garden in a 15 round bout tonight. The fight has been postponed twice before due to rain.

Both fighters finished their tapering up drills yesterday and both are in excellent condition for the scrap which is the feature match this week in pugilistic circles. Despite the appearance of additional Armstrong money in the midtown district odds continued along the line with Ross a 5 to 7 favorite. The Associated Press reported this morning that it is possible that they may go a few as 5 to 6 before the two welterweights enter the ring, however.

Mike Jacobs, promoter, had hoped for a gate between $200,000 and $250,000 but now will be satisfied with a $175,000 due to the two postponements. However, with good weather in New York yesterday and today, a gate of $200,000 may be reached.

Ross is expected to weigh in at 142 pounds for the title match while Armstrong will hit the scales at 136, as agreed by the two fighters.

IN THE FIELD OF SPORTS

By JULIAN STENSTROM

The slugs of Robert Benson are back to back for the Leon High School Leon football team during the past 1937 season or the Northeast Florida Conference on one of the hardest drives in Florida football circles in many years.

Benson was a bright youth but fast and his own full summer was a feature of every little time played last season and many had brandish him as the one man club of the conference. Benson was chosen as one of the outstanding careers and field generals in the state last season and made the Florida all-state high school eleven for his wonderful work.

"I am in the position of a man who is just waiting for someone to come along and push him to the wall," Mr. Watson said.

He added nothing constructive had come out of the conference with State League Secretary Peter Schell of Orlando, but he had been unable to contact Henry Gray, president of the league. Gray was reported to be on the Gulf of Mexico on a fishing trip.

Watson did not release figures relative to what degree his club had been "red," but he declared nothing you would print would be true."

bombers roared over the heart of Canton for the third time in three days, dumping tons of explosives on the burning city and bringing the toll of the week-end raids to an estimated 1500 dead and 5000 wounded.

Terrified Chinese were fleeing from the burning city, crowding the waterfront across from Shamian island, where foreigners live, and bringing acute danger of an exodus of refugees to the international zone.

British sailors stood guard on the island, while foreigners ducked into air raid shelters to escape fragments of shrapnel from anti-aircraft guns which sprayed the foreign quarters.

The destruction in the thickly populated waterfront areas, only a short distance from Shamian, was appalling. Scores were trapped in burning buildings or crushed under tons of debris.

Twenty planes soared over the city, concentrating their attack on government buildings and the Wongshan railroad station areas, where the Kowloon railroad to the coast intersects with the Canton-Hankow railway leading to the north. Approximately 60 bombs were dropped.

Military aviation experts said the changed tactics of the fliers indicated the planes may have been piloted by foreigners, probably Italians.

Chinese reported one of the Japanese planes was shot down in flames by anti-aircraft guns, and another report said a Japanese plane, apparently disabled, had been forced to land.

The concentrated fury of the bombings, centered in the most congested districts, led observers to believe Japanese were launching a long-awaited aerial drive designed to destroy the chief port of entry for war equipment on the China coast, and to shatter the morale of the south China popule.

U.S. Demands Japs Return American Property In China

Concern Expressed In Note To Ugaki For Refusal To Permit Return Of Citizens

Jap Air Fleets Attack Lanfeng

Franco's Forces Take Strategic Points In Offensive In Spain

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—The United States sharply expressed its increasing concern over Japan's refusal to permit American citizens in China to return to property from which they were forced to flee.

The American government, after a conference with the Japanese ambassador, issued a note to the Japanese Foreign Minister demanding instruction from his country.

The United States, privately demanded return of University of Shanghai, to the Nationalist and Southern Baptist conventions.

For some hundred years, American naval occupation and Spanish insurgents maintained their influence in Valencia and the Spanish troops stubbornly tried to break through to messes of China, occupying the advance through central China.

In China, Japanese brought tremendous air force into action, blasting Chinese troops from positions near Lanfeng, along the railway.

Their hope was to dispossess Generalsissimo Chiang Kai Shek's legions and push on to Hankow, China's provisional capital.

An immediate problem was the relief of Gen. Kien Kun Tsui-han whose division the Chinese claim to have encircled.

The Spanish Insurgent offensive was picking up speed in the mountains southeast of Tengchou.

Generalissimo Franco's army was surging toward the coastal plains, while his bombing planes rained death on Barcelona, Girona, Valencia, Sagunto, and other strategic government coastal points.

Ships transporting supplies to the Spanish government were bombed and sunk at docks and casualties mounted into hundreds.

Sgt. Off. Hand told a Herald reporter this afternoon that while he knew there were a number of marble machines in use in this vicinity that he did not know whether they were in violation of the law.

County Judge R. W. Ware said he had also received a similar letter from the governor.

FLORIDA BOY, 5, KIDNAPED

GAINESVILLE, June 1.—(UPI)—Three federal judges upheld the right of the Florida Citrus Commission to require growers and shippers to market their fruit in a standard box containing not more than one and three-fifths bushels.

The judges dismissed an injunction proceedings by which a group of citrus men sought to overturn the commission's regulation as they might continue using the two-bushel container commonly called the "juice box."

The court held the regulation was not a violation of freedom's constitutional rights and did not interfere unlawfully with interstate commerce.

The order under attack was issued by the Commission May 15 under the Florida Fruit Laws giving the board the right to fix the standard maximum capacity for boxes.

Two Building Permits Are Granted By City

E. H. McAlexander was granted a permit yesterday to erect a four-room frame dwelling house in Palm Terrace at an estimated cost of $1,000.

A permit was also granted the Atlantic National Bank to renovate the offices in the bank building facing Park Avenue where the offices of the Walter L. Cooper Agency were formerly located. The work was estimated to cost about $700.

While his mother went next door to help close the family grocery store for the night, James Balloch Cash, Jr., five and a half years old, was kidnapped from his bed at Princeton, Fla. Shortly afterwards the child's father, a wealthy merchant, received a demand for $10,000 ransom.
