

Teague School Placed On Double Sessions

By MARK WEINTZ Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board voted Wednesday to place the overenrolled Teague Middle School on double sessions and the decision was greeted with applause from parents. "The motion for double sessions will be effective as soon as we can work out the busing problem," School Supt. William P. Layer said.

"The arrangements for busing will cause countywide busing problems because we will have to bring drivers down from the north end of the county and some of the drivers will face 12 hour shifts," Layer said.

Layer said he hopes the busing risis can be resolved within a week but added the county is having trouble finding bus drivers.

The motion for double sessions was not the only alternative to the problem but it was obviously the proposal favored by the standing-room only crowd attending the meeting. Layer's alternative proposal to change the school zones and transfer students to less crowded schools was met with resistance from audience and board members.

Board Member R. G. Feather proposed the board buy modular classrooms to eliminate the crunch at Teague. Feather said modular rooms would always be needed and could be utilized for storage or classrooms.

Assistant Board Chairman Walter Teague questioned the feasibility of

Jury Probing Agnew In New Meet Today

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) - The special grand jury probing alleged political corruption in Maryland resumed work today under conditions of unprecedented secrecy. Federal court house corridors leading to the grand jury room were sealed off by U.S. mar-shals with walkie-talkies who refused to allow newsmen within sight of the grand jury room or a nearby elevator a nearby elevator. "No public trials and no public hearings are in this area and it is closed to the public on the orders of the United States attorney," one assistant marshal told a newsman.

The grand jury is investigating allegations of kickbacks and conspiracy which may involve Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

U.S. Atty. George Beall refused to comment earlier in the day on the grand jury's plans for today, but courthouse sources indicated one or more indictments, probably of other local of-ficials, might be forthcoming.

before undertaken during this investigation, Beall replied:

"By tradition and statute, grand jury proceedings are secret. Certain steps have been taken to preserve that privacy. Even witnesses going before the grand jury are part of the privacy and we intend to have it."

Within the area cordoned off by the marshals was an elevator by which witnesses appearing before the grand jury could come and go out of sight of reporters. _ Beall heads the multipronged investigation centering on kickbacks by consulting engineers and architects for the award of sewer, water. road and building construction contracts.

The grand jury was sworn in last December and generally has met once a week since January.

The Fuse In Middle East Is Short

COPLEY NEWS

The hijacking of a Libyan airliner and its diversion to an Israeli airport is explained as the antic of a drunken and armed Libyan sinessman. It would be a mistake, however, to lismiss it as a minor incident with no bearing on the Middle Eastern crisis. At this point, there can be no minor incidents between the Arabs and Israelis. The tension and uncertainty created for several hours by this hijacking only show that the truce in the Middle East is being stretched so taut that a drunk with a pistol might be all it takes to snap it.

Some international problems respond best to patience and the passage of time, but that prescription clearly does not apply in the Middle East. Twenty-five years has not cooled the ardor of displaced Palestinians to stir up Arab wrath against the existence of the state of Israel. Six years has not changed the demand of Egypt. Syria and Jordan to recover all or part of the territories occupied by Israel in the 1967 war. Indeed, the impression is that time is rapidly running out for the opportunity to settle Arab-Israeli questions on peaceful terms.

Israel now stands formally censured by the United Nations for forcing down a Lebanese airliner in an effort to kidnap Palestinian liberationist leaders. Israel may have been disappointed to see the United States of America. cast its vote for the resolution, but it is probably due to the diplomatic work of U.S. Ambassador John Scali that the U.N. action did not include a call for economic sanctions that would have hurt Israel far more. Israel can read what it chooses into the U.N. action, but it should be clear that the U.S. commitment to the defense of Israel does not extend to condoning acts of piracy. The Israelis face the fact that our "even-handed" policy toward the Middle East dispute, which often has aggravated the Arabs, works both ways.

New Attitudes Essential NATO Principles Are Still Sound

It has been 32 years since

President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill signed the Atlantic Charter aboard the cruiser Augusta off the coast of Newfoundland. That statement of mutual concern for the survival of freedom served as an inspiration for the Allied cause against Nazi tyranny and for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which has been protecting Western Europe from Soviet expansionism for a quarter of a century.

President Nixon has made the need for a fresh outline of those principles a theme for this 'Year of Europe" in American diplomacy. It is plain now, with the year half over, there will have to be some changes of attitude on both sides of the Atlantic if the old charter is to receive a new lease on life. Senate Democratic leader

Mike Mansfield, in his efforts to surrender to isolationism. seems determined to make this the year in which the United States of America undermines the security of Europe-and thus our own security-with a unilateral reduction of our forces committed to NATO. MEA THE BRUCE BIOSSAT Stained Agnew may

One significant appraisal being made here is that Vice President Agnew probably will drop all thoughts of running for the presidency in 1976 unless he gets a totally clean bill of health from authorities probing charges against him of bribery, extortion, tax fraud and conspiracy.

Lawyers note that there are occasions when a grand jury may not actually indict a man, but in the process of indicting others, may "involve" him in some indirect yet still damaging way. Naming a man a "co-conspirator" is an example No hint has come from U.S. prosecutors that the vice president is either likely to be indicted or to somehow be cast into this shadowland where he would find himself less than completely absolved of charges.

Nevertheless, the point is important for anyone trying to gauge Agnew's future course. For one thing, he doesn't like "in-between" country, where shadows linger and smudges can't be rubbed out. That's a key reason he came banging out with that head-on press con-ference when serious allegations first surfaced. For another, it has to be remembered that the former Maryland governor isn't all that "hungry" for the Big Job. He said it again in one of several interviews not long before. the newest scandal reports broke.

He could say that when no charges were being aired (even though he then knew of the inquiry), his mind could quickly tilt against running in the event he saw just the smallest stain clinging to him.

As a matter of fact, if there is not fairly speedy action from U.S. prosecutors and grand jury. Agnew might well decide that his position already has slipped beyond salvaging — as it relates to a 1976 presidential bid. At this turbulent moment in our history, a good many Americans are not bothering to distinguish between frail allegation, serious charge, and indictment possibly leading to conviction.

With the staining materials spilled upon him, time is not working for Agnew. Let a couple of months run by without resolution of the issue, and television's finest spot-remover may not be able to help him. Even before this trouble developed, appraisers of his 1976 nomination prospects saw it as a grievous error to say — half a year into his second term — that he wasn't particulary hungry for the presidency.

Agnew has been told, and has read endless times, that the biggest doubts about him in his own Republican party con-cerned the depth of his desire for the job, and his competency to fill it.

An Ambulance Crewman Speaks

Editor, Herald: This past week, at exactly 2:46 p.m. the Herndon dispatcher in

Letters To The Editor

Orlando received a call that an ambulance was needed at French Avenue and 15th Street. He placed a call to the Sanford ambulance crew. At exactly 2:47 p.m., this crew left their residence in Sanford on an emergency run to the location given by the dispatcher. At exactly 2:50 p.m., they arrived on the scene and found Lt. Russell and Ptimn. Slover of the Sanford Police Department working Cardio-pulminary resuscitation on the patient. At the scene and in route to Seminole Memorial Hospital, everything that these men had been taught was used in an effort to save this life.

At the hospital, all doctors and personnel also worked to save this life. The decision was made to transfer the patient to Florida Hospital, an emergency run from Sanford to Orlando, At 4:41 p.m., two hours later, we all left Florida Hospital to return to Sanford. The patient had died. Driving back, we all searched our minds to make sure we had done everything our training and equipment would let us do. Maybe, just, maybe if we had been quipped with cardiac equipment and if someone would get the cardiac course started for our training, we could have done more. No one cerns to have the money - and so the excuses go.

I am a registered Florida emergency medical technician. My family and I live in Sanford. We moved back to Sanford because we love the town and the people and because I love the ambulance business and helping people. You have to love it to stay working seven days a week 24 hours a day.

I returned home that day and many other days, and picked up the paper to relax a few minutes before my next call. What do I read? Greg Drummond says "ambulance service in Seminole County is no good. One service does not have good response time (this is about me). One ambalance service can't get along with the cities and the county." I am sick of reading it! First, I have tried to make an appointment with Sid Vihlen to discuss this matter. He is impossible to reach. I don't know Greg Drummond, and I am sure he does not know me. I am willing to meet with him at anytime. I wender if any of these men know anything at all about the ambulance business except that they have been asked to pay $20,000 that has been paid in the past (some counties in Florida pay $1 million).

Also, do they recall they were told it would cause trouble if they let another ambulance company come into the county: It did before and it. has again. One ambulance trying to beat another to the scene of an accident is just about the most langerous situation any county commissioners could set up.

I know if any member of my family was dying in the middle of some road in Sanford 1 would want the safest and most qualified men to pick them up. Not the one that could drive the fastest racing to get there. I also would not want them to lay there while an ambulance is called from South Seminole, because it is their "turn," when one is stationed a few blocks away.

Second, before the commissioners are so quick to judge and criticize me, have they checked my record and reputation? I would gladly compare my response time to any other ambulance or ambulance impany in the state. I am no kid. I am 34 years old, have family and friends in Sanford. We attend church here, I have seven years experience in this field of work. Have the commissioners called the hospital emergency room to check my reputation? Have they asked any doctors, nurses or police officers. The people I work with, about my service? Also, the most obvious, the patients I carry?

Third, I would like to see it reported to the public what our issioners plan to do with the $20,000 used in the past for ambulance service. Just what is more important than the lives of the people who pay this tax money? Fourth, if the commissioners are really interested in the ambulance service being provided, one or all of them are invited to come stay at my home for a week or two to accompany me on calls. They have to qualify with the county board of health and have advanced first aid. This could be on a 24 hours basis or they could divide the time up between them. Maybe one would like to stay just nights. First hand experience has to be the best teacher.

Herald for letting me get all this off my chest since I have been unable to talk to the county commissioners in person. I just feel that in the business of saving lives there is no place for politics.

working together save a lot more lives. Also as a man, I don't like to be publicly criticized by someone who doean't even know me.

In closing, I humbly pray that there is someone out there I have helped and that I have always done my best, and with God's help in the future can continue to do my job to the best of my ability.

Police Sex Net Falters

COCOA, Fla. (AP) - Cocoa police paraded the streets dressed as women last week in an attempt to apprehend a sex offender but caught wolf whisties and propositions from all the wrong men.

Dubbed "Winnett's Wornen," the police officers pounded their nocturnal beats in their distaff disguises at the direction of Cocoa Police Chief Willard Winnett.

Although highly convincing t much of the city's male population, the officers' objective was not realized.

They had hoped to nab a man believed to be responsible for the attack of one woman and unsuccessful assaults on two others. Reporting his squad's failure Winnett said, "This only shows one thing - how hard up the guys in this city are." Sgt. Bill Ramsey, a five-year veteran on the force, tugged a his lopsided black wig and outlined his philosophy about being picked up by the wrong guy.

"I'm just going to ignore them and keep walking," he said. "I'm going to be a lady." Winnett estimated that hi men spent 291 off-duty hours in their charade without success. One officer, 23-year-old dispatcher David Fitch, was forced to call in reinforcements one night when he couldn't dis-

Sports Spotlight By J Richards Herald Sports Editor

It fits the pattern, so why not? Just as soon as we tie up the last few corners of the football "pre-season" season, now guess who's jumping into the act. That's right, basketball. Everybody from pro right on down through college and high achoel is either already out right now or "just practicing" to get started on their pre-season in the roundball sport. That's just one more reason why people who like their sports to ow more or less tradition, once well-defined patterns are becoming unglued.

But if pro hockey can start its practice season in the middle of 90-degree weather, we can't see why the cagers have to sit this one out. However, it sure would be nice for us if there was a little more of a "break" between seasons. One consolation at least, we sure won't hear much about outdoor speed ice skating in these parts for at least a few more weeks, right? The second statement

RAIDER CAGERS STARTING

With Seminole Junior College's "worst" ever season (can you imagine losing just seven games and calling it "bad?") Coach Joe Sterling's Raiders hit the hardwood earlier this week to start their season for the first time since the school was eligible for post-season play-offs looking like only a dark-horse at best to make the state play-offs.

The loss of Bennie Shaw, former All-Metro hoopster, who has a few schools like Auburn already asking about him, puts the Raiders behind the eight ball, but it's hoped that he'll be academically ready to play by the winter term and give the SJC five a much-needed hand.

Lack of height again is one of Sterling's problems when he faces a strong slate of division contenders, who are not only bringing back much of their teams, but also found recruiting gold with the skyscrapers the Seminoles missed out on, Sterling seet Valencia, Jacksonville, Ocala and Lake City schools as the power in the always-tough division, but he's not discounting the Raiders yet.

LOST A FEW FROSH

A trio of Kentucky prospects never lasted the Labor Day weekend, he reports, all of them, including one 6-foot-7 candidate, decided to forego a cage career with the Seminole five, putting an initial crimp in the former Apopka Mentor's pre-season plans. Homesickness and a desire to work instead of going to school were the reasons Sterling listed. As of now he'll be counting on local products such as Clifford Manley and Freddy Rhodes to step right up and fill in some vacant

Returning Chip Crawford, Ed Whipper, Gerald Owens and David Tossie to jell quickly and form a nucleus around which to build.

BUILDING A BAD WORD

We were wondering if "building" had reached the status of four-letter wordom around here? We can get our kicks watching how the infamous Convention Facilities Authority is having (not having?) a field day with the Tangerine Bowl, but here we are with a stadium that's not even reached "Bowl" status-and that's no reason to chuckle.

We know this seems like a sure thing, as soon as the footcall season starts, you can count on The Herald to start complaining about the Sanford White Elephant-the (sic) stadium. Well, we're not going to start bad-mouthing the monstrosity this year. We like it. Yes, that's right, we like it. It's perfectly suited to our needs. Three Four-A and one Triple-A school in the county-and only one adequate stadium for football purposes at Lyman--why should Sanford have a decent place to have the gridders show their

But that's not the only reason we want to keep the stadium. Something like that baseball dugout just a few yards beyond the south end zone and the concrete wall almost kissing the uprights at the north end is really why we love to see football games in the stadium. We go every week of the season waiting to see some accidentally be-helmeted. gridder slam into the obstructions and cause a disaster.

SOME WANT STADIUM

There are quite a few people, however, who want to keep using the stadium. Actually, since you'll have to go back quite a few years to get this in the right context, that is, they want to use it for it's real purpose—baseball. Except for the Little League complex at Five Points, the county does not have adequate night time facilities for high school, college and junior college baseball. That is, except for the Sanford stadium. That's right, that's what it was built for, remem-hor? ber?

Every year about this time people start talking about the stadium, and reusing it for baseball while building a real football stadium, but such talk dies down again come cage season—and so the matter lies. We're not even after a pro-franchise and if enough people don't forget this matter, maybe we could all do something this year after the season. Better yet, start right now.

Congress Expected To OK TV Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House is expected to approve today a bill that would lift the ocal television blackouts of home pro football games that are sold out three days in ad-

The Senate passed a similar bill last Thursday by a vote of 76-6. If the House approves the bill, sponsored by Rep. Torber H. Macdonald, D-Mass., there is a strong possibility that some of Sunday's National Football League season openers would be shown locally, a precedentshattering situation.

Pete Rozelle, NFL commis sioner, indicated last week during legislative hearings that the league would not wait for Presdent Nixon's signature befor lifting the TV blackout once the Congress has indicated its preference.

Should the House pass the bill today, proponents hope to send it immediately to the Senate with the hope of having that ody adopt the House version. The bill then would be sent to the President for his signatur'? and enactment into law.

Ludvik Goes To Washington

MIAMI-Carl W. Ludvik, vice president-international corporate banking at The First National Bank of Miami, has accepted a position with the Office of the Assistant Secretary for International Affairs in the Department of the Treasury, Washington.

A part of the Government-Industry Personnel Interchange Program, Ludvik will take approximately a one year leave of absence from First National to accept the assignment with the federal agency. The Office of International Affairs is responsible for advising the Secretary of the Treasury on policy related to international develop-ment lending, U.S. trade, and U.S. international monetary

With The First National Bank of Miami, Ludvik supervises all international corporate accounts and foreign bank relationships. He joined the bank in 1970, following ten years service with the international department of First National City Bank, New York.

The First National Bank of Miami-Florida's largest-is one of 23 Florida banks affiliated with Southeast Banking Corporation.

FIRST FEDERAL Savings and Loan of Seminole recently promoted Ron Leach to the office of Vice President - Loans. Leach holds a B.A.A. Degree from Sul Ross State College, Alpine, Texas. "That's the way it goes. We're always behind," said Ninos after the vote.

"There is presently a considerable number of buildings in the state, containing some 3,200 elevators, wherein elevators equipment has not received a once-a-year inspection," Ninos told the board. "And compounding the situation is the fact that many buildings are becoming small cities unto themselves with vertical transportation becoming more exotic and a variety of fringe equipment added to the inspector's responsibility.

Ninos said the state's nine inspectors each make about 900 deficit in the number checked for safety on a yearly basis. Business Investment Thinking Is Mixed COPLEY NEWS SERIVICE

Will soaring money costs soon reach their critical limit, the point at which significant numbers of businesses decide the high cost of financing makes many planned moves look unwise? Responding to the question, Research Institute of America states one school of economists sees a 10 per cent prime rate as the signal. But short-term interest rates are in unchartered areas these days. RIA comments: "There's a big psychological element involved. What seems an acceptable burden one day, no real threat to the firm, may suddenly be viewed as an unbearably costly risk the next. What happens then? A pessimistic view is it will mean the start of the next recession, as orders are canceled, backlogs melt away and payrolls are pared. Others find this scenario oversimplified.

"The widespread recession talk itself, in their view, is resulting in a healthy cautiousness on spending among business executives." RIA predicts money costs will become critical by yearend and that gradually spreading resistance to money costs will lead business loan demand to taper off. The idea it is cheaper to borrow now than it will be later is no longer a sure thing, the service says Technician Hal Marlow of Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes would expect to see resistance to Polaroid's rally in the 124-125 area. Mileage Statement Required For Autos

By L. EDGAR PRINA Copley News Service

WASHINGTON-The U.S. government wants you to know that the seller of a new or used car now must give you, as a purchaser, a signed statement as to the correct mileage it has been driven.

In an advisory to consumers, the Department of Transportation explained that the Motor Vehicle Information and Cost Savings Act of 1973 is designed, among other things, to discourage unscrupulous auto salesmen from turning back the reading on the odometer, the little gadget that counts the

"Anyone who sells a motor vehicle must give to the buyer a written, signed statement containing all that the seller knows to be true-or untrue-about the vehicle's odometer reading and its actual mileage," DOT said.

The consumer also is prohibited from doing anything to his own automobile which could derstroy or interrupt a true odemeter reading. As DOT cautioned: "Remember: the new odometer law applies to you as a seller just as it provides protection for you, as a buyer. Whatever mileage information you now have a right to demand when you are buying a car, you are required to provide when you sell a car."

Under the anti-tampering law, the disclosure statement from seller to buyer must contain the vehicle's actual odometer reading, a statement that this reading is a correct record or, if the seller knows the odometer reading differs from the vehicle's actual mileage, a statement that the true mileage is unknown to him; and a sentence in which the seller refers to the new law and his civil liability should the on given be incorrect. The purpose of the disclosure is to provide the buyer with a statement of true mileage or an admission that it is unknown to the seller. If, having bought a car, you can establish any violation of these requirements-with the intent to cheat you-you may go to court to seek recovery of damages. The law provides a penalty of three times the damages suffered or $1,500, whichever is greater, plus attorney's fees and court fees. In order to recover these amounts, you do not have to prove damages, but only to establish that your odometer was in error and that the seller (or person being sued) knew of the error and failed to disclose it, or made a false disclosure with intent to defraud.

Copley News Service Q. From classroom to business, have more women become executives? -- P.D. A. A growing number of women today are prepared to refute the adage that business is a man's game. They are the newest crop of this country's graduates of schools of business. According to the Institute of life Insurance, within the past seven years the number of degrees granted to women in universities offering commerce and business administration courses is estimated to have almost doubled on the undergraduate level, and nearly tripled in graduate schools across the country. The estimate is based on surveys of registration and graduation statistics published by Delta Sigma Pi, a professional education fraternity.

Where will these young business students and graduates - slated to become this country's future executives. business owners, economist and entrepreneurs - be heading careerwise?

On the hiring end, reports the Institute, there is a rapidly increasing number of corporations, business firms, life and health insurance companies, banks, brokerage houses and government agencies.

Q. How can I find out how much value I have in my life insurance policy? - N.S.

These courts have power to deter-mine the facts and pass judgment in criminal cases involving violations of fed-eral law and in civil cases where the amount of the where the amount of the suit is greater than $10,000 and the contending parties reside in different states, The World Almanac says. Also handled are suits in bankruptcy, patents, trade-marks and copyrights.

A. Every permanent policy has a table showing the amount of cash value that has accumulated since you have had the insurance. Cash values generally begin after the first or second year, the size depending on the kind of policy you have and the amount of the insurance.

The table shows the value for each year for the earlier years of the policy, and at selected intervals for later years. The company will furnish you with a value figure for any other year you require.

Q. Under the Railroad Retirement Legislation what are the changes in their annuities? - E.L.

A. The 15, 10 and 20 per cent temporary annuity increases will be continued until December 31, 1974. These increases were scheduled to expire June 30, 1973. Railroad management and labor are to make mutual recommendations to Congress, aimed at making these increases permanent and the railroad retirement system financially becure on a long range basis.

Additional increases will be provided railroad retirement annuitants as a result of the estimated 5.6 per cent increase in Social Security benefits which becomes effective June 1, 1974. Such railroad retirement increases for most employee annuitants will be equal to the dollar amount payable to Social Security beneficiaries with equivalent earnings. There will be no reduction in their increases if they are also enti-

A. No. Your 17 guarters of coverage can only be earned by working in employment covered by Social Security. It would take a little over four years of work to qualify you for monthly benefits.

Q. Can a wife who is receiving a full Social Security pension, on her own earnings, also collect her retired husband's Social Security pension, when he dies before she does? - A.L.

A. In a situation like that, she would only be entitled to receive the higher of the two benefits. In this case if her widow's benefit was higher, the difference between her own benefit and her widow's benefit would be added to her benefit. By L. EDGAR PRINA Copley News Service

WASHINGTON-In his requent speeches on highway safety, Secretary of Transportation Claude S. Brinegar raises eyebrows with this statement: "During 1972 our highway vehicles traveled 1.2 trillion miles, consumed 106 billion gallons of gasoline and killed 57,000 people."

What is distressing to the secretary is that the number of traffic deaths has climbed even though the fatality rate has declined perceptibly over the last several years. This is because more people are riving more vehicles more 26 per cent in the decade from miles year by year.

a 'painless' dentist By Abigail Van Buren # 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am absolutely terrified of going to a dentist. I know I need some work done, but I can't get up the nerve to go. The only times I've ever gone to a dentist were when the pain got so bad I couldn't stand it any more, I have made and broken so many appointments I am ashamed to make another one, but Abby, I've got to get my teeth taken care of. I heard that it's possible to put a patient to sleep before doing any work on him. Could you please find out if there is a dentist near me who does this? I live in Beaver Dam, Wis., but I'd drive 100 miles if I could find a dentist who wouldn't hurt me.

Please, don't tell me to "grow up." I am a married woman with two small children who I'd have to take to the dentist with me, and I'm so afraid my fear will show, and rub off on them, too. Help me. TERRIFIED IN WISCONSIN

DEAR TERRIFIED: I consulted an excellent Minneapolis dentist, Dr. William B. Nienaber, who suggests that you contact your State Dental Society in Madison. Ask them to recommend one or more dentists who use the "relative analgesia" method of sedating fearful patients with nitrous oxide and oxygen to reduce their fears. You are to be commended for your concern about passing on your fears to your children. Not all parents are so wise and thoughtful.

DEAR ABBY: Being a quiet, shy person, I am in somewhat of a quandary about a situation that has arisen where I work. A divorced man, with whom I have hardly spoken, keeps sending me flowers [at the office] without signing the I know he is the sender because I've checked with the florist. How can I get it across to this man that his attentions are neither wanted nor welcome? I have even told the florist that I do not want any more flowers from that party, and to please send them to one of the hospitals. But still the flowers come!

The situation has gotten entirely out of hand, and I'm tired of it. I would appreciate your advice. UNAVAILABLE

DEAR UNAVAILABLE: If you want to mp the situation in the bud, tell the sender exactly how you teel. Don't blame the florist. He can't send flowers "to a hospital" when he's been instructed by the buyer to deliver them in you. What you do with them after they're delivered is your business. [P.S. The sender must be an idiot. Send him a bachelor button! 1

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Emotionalism which is widespread today could cause a long adverse events, so make sure you are truly cooperative. Don't allow yourself to think about the faults, ings or mistakes of your companions, or you will have a bad effect on them and yourself ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) An associate and a family tie could be at sword's point, so keep neutral for now. Later all is calm and pleasant. Not a good day for entertaining at home, inviting in strangers. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Schedule time and activities well, otherwise if you try to do everything at once you wind up doing nothing. Don't try any tricks, either. Put your own inimitable stamp on everything you do. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put your energy into monetary matters of importance and put off the recreational to a more opportune time. Bringing an adviser and an attachment together is inviting trouble now. Dine sumptuously in p.m. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Not the right day to discuss difficult matters at home, for there could be serious arguments resulting. Even the changing around of a piece of furniture could make tempers fly. Atmosphere is tense even in the outside world LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy and accomplish much in the world of activity instead of fretting and fuming foolishly. Plan some time to help a good friend who is having difficulties. Consider own affairs first.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do errands and shopping important now that you have promised others you would attend to. Listen to what a business expert has to suggest. Follow the best advice given you. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take care you do not sever relations with another under stress, or you could regret it later. Cool off and see whether you are in the wrong. Avoid another who annoys you and save yourself trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take care you do not go out on some tangent or other and leave important work behind you that needs your immediate attention. Take the exercise that will add to present energy. Evening is fine for study SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study those interests at hand carefully so you know which to center your attention upon first and don't become confused. Show more thought for the one you love. Reach a far better understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Delve into the responsibilities that are yours both at home and in the business world end steer clear of the recreational where you could get into arguments. Accomplish a good deal. Work with vin and AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Not a good day to make portant decisions, but fine for getting into all those odds and ends that need doing and require imagination. Have fun with mate

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Being interested in whatever has to do with finances and property can make this a banner WEST day for you. Fine day to plan repairs to property needed to $9753 make the winter months ahead comfortable and safe. Work. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those young people who has to be taught early to do any work started in an efficient way, for if shoddiness is not curbed early, the fine promise here can be lessened and the life can become an unhappy one. Teach to cooperate more with others, also, especially family and partners. The mentality here s very good otherwise and there can be considerable success. especially in the field of business, selling, etc.

DEAR POLLY - Our family likes to go camping in the nountains where nights in a tent can be really cold. Before starting on such a trip, we get out the sleeping bags, open them out flat and spread two or even three blankets out fla on them. Place a sheet on top of the blankets Sheet and blankets are pinned all around to the bag with large safely pins or diaper pins with safety heads. Fold bag in half, zip it up and roll and be all set for a cold night outside and warm. lean and comfortable sleep in the sleeping bag. - HELEP

=Polly's Problem= DEAR POLLY - I have saved a lot of empty, two-inch high insulin bottles and would like to know if anyone has any ideas about using them or making some-thing with them. Some are round and some are square. - MRS. J. G.

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with those companie who mail or leave coupons on your door with the expiration dates printed in code. A layman cannot read them. We take time to locate the merchandise and, when checking out, the clerk says the coupon has expired. Had we known this, we could have purchased the item sooner. My other gripe is with bottles of liquids with large labels. One cannot see how much is left when a small hole or open space would so easily remedy this. I do not like to run completely out of an item.—

DEAR POLLY - Being the mother of nine children I have to use every shortcut possible or I would go nuts. When giving baths and after wiping the kids dry. I powder a bath towel and then go over the kids with it. One towel will ES. powder six of them and there is none wasted on the floor. When folding clean clothes, fold an undershirt, pair of shorts and pair of socks together. Pajamas could be added, too, if you like. This is a complete set for one and makes it easier for the little ones to dress themselves and folded clothes take less space in a dresser drawer. - LUCILLE M. INEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN

DEAR DICK: We can get CBS and ABC programs from stations in Mobile, Ala., and ABC programs from Pensacola, Fla. Why is it that we cannot ever get Mike Douglas and Merv Griffin? We would so much like to get them. -BLANCHE N. PAGE, Flomaton, Ala.

Obviously, neither of the cities you can receive buy those programs. Douglas and Griffin are not on any of the networks. Their programs are produced and sold by syndicates and stations must buy the programs separately. My only estions: either convince your stations to buy those programy, or move somewhere else.

DEAR DICK: I read or heard something recently about Burl Ives' new record alkum, "Payls' My Dues." I heard that it is activily Burl's own story, that it is autobiogra-phical. Is that true? - WILMER DAVIS, Phoenix, Ariz.

+ + + +

It's pretty much true, although Burl took some dramatic license with the truth. The autobiographical element is con-tained in the title song of the album. It tells the story of a man who became a big success, then had to start all over again. About five years ago. Burl, who had become a big success, was at a pretty low yoint — his divorce hurt him and he was unsure of his future. Then he remarried, and years happily, and he started a new line. New these very happily, and he started a new life. Now things are lock-ing up for him, with some TV prospects and a big contract for recordings. He tells it in the song.

Mortgage Is Personal Obligation

By E. J. DEMSON, J.D. Copley News Service

Signing a purchase-money note and mortgage becomes a personal obligation. Only the mortgagee or his lawful assignee can release the signers from the obligation.

Q. My company moved me from Oklahoma to Ohio. We sold our home. A real estate broker working with a title ompany handled the sale. The buyer of our Oklahoma nome assumed the payment of our note and mortgage to the bank. Three months after the sale, we get a letter from the bank saying that the buyer is in default on his payments. The bank says we are still liable on the note secured by the mortgage. How can that

A. Only the mortgagee at the time of the transfer or by any other writing can release he mortgagor of his personal ability for the debt, even, as in your case, the buyer assumes the payment of the note secured by the mortgage (103 U.S. 105). In Oklahoma the mortgagee must expressly gree to release the mortagor and accept the buyer as debtor. (173 P.2d 293 Okla.) The banks are not unopy to have two parties liable, although they do not ncourage the situation.

Q. I gave my neighbor the ight to dock his boat on my property. Without my knowldee - ours is a summer nome - he built a dock there while we were away. If he continues to use the dock, how ong would it be before he could claim the property as being his, even though I own it according to my deed?

A. To acquire ownership o land by adverse possession, the occupancy must be open and notorious against the whole world. It also embodies the idea that the owners or persons interested on the property have knowledge of the occupants assertion. In your state of North Carolina the occupancy must be con-tinuous for 20 years (Gen Stat. N.C. 1-40).

Q. Does a deficiency judg-ment mean that after the oreclosure on a defaulted note and mortgage, and the sale of the property doesn't bring enough to pay the debt, the mortgagee can even garnishee my wages for the balance? What does the law in the State of Washington say?

A. Revised Code of Washngton 61-12.070 says that in the absence of a written express agreement to the contrary in the mortgage or otherwise, the court will direct that the amount remaining unsatisfied after the sale of the mortgaged property will be satisfied from other property of the debtor.

Earnings or wages may be garnisheed if a judgment is btained for the unsatisfied amount. (Rev. Stat. of Wash. 7.33,280.)

Q. Recently married, my wife and I want to buy a home in Orange County, Calif. I ani gathering as much information as I can about home ownership, especially its responsibilities and liabilities. For instance, what is a deed of bust in the purchase of a

A. In California it's a mortgage agreement that gives ownership, legal title to the house you would buy, to a trustee. He holds the ownership of the house as security in trust for the lender who generally furnishes the bulk of the purchase money. On default of the payments, taxes and insurance the trustee can sell the property to satisfy

In California (C.C.P. 692) sale to the debtor, post it on the property and publish the notice once a week for 20 days giving exact time and place of the sale.

Evictions Threatened new duplexes were constructed on low lying land where the water had been contained. Unless Deposits Paid

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Tenants occupying 150 of Sanford's 480 low rent public housing units have been threatened with eviction Saturday unless they make arrangements to pay security deposit deficits totalling $5,296. Administrator Thomas Wilson III told housing authority board members Thursday he sent the notices to tenants after

"nice letters" failed to result in security deposit balances being paid.

Wilson said the authority rent roll is $13,528 a month, based on occupancy of 455 units. Lease agreements signed by tenants call for security deposits equal to one month's rentpaid $5 initially and $5 a month until the full deposit is made. Security deposits are required under federal regulations to help pay for damages that must be repaired when tenants move out. Wilson said average rent per month on apartments in the local housing projects is $29.73. Costs of rehabilitating units for new occupants cost from $222 to $408, according to

Wilson told board members now that he has "the tenants" attention" on the deficits he will work out payments for them if they come to the housing authority office, The authority board authorized Wilson's attendance over the next 30 days at two national conventions in Chicago and Atlantic City.

Wilson reported architects are ready to release the first 15 apartments refurbished in William Clark Court under an $820,000 modernization program for the 480 housing units. "New gas cookstoves will be installed next week and HUD officials will make a final inspection before the apartments can be re-occupied," Wilson said. William Clark Court's 85 units are 22 years old. Wilson said modernization of all the units should be completed by June.
