Passengers Put End To Hijacking

BURGAS, Bulgaria (UPI) — Bulgarian security forces today captured four Turkish terrorists who hijacked a jetliner and threatened to kill about 90 hostages unless their demands were met.

The Bulgarian news agency said the two-day siege ended when passengers attacked two of the leftist gunmen after security forces convinced the two others to leave the plane to make a statement to the press.

Several people were wounded when one of the gunmen still aboard the Turkish Airlines DC-9 plane opened fire after hostages seized his cohort's pistol. The terrorist whose gun was taken from him jumped from the plane and was captured.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Brian Carlson in Sofia said five American bankers among the hostages were not harmed.

BTA said none of the wounded passengers was in danger. It said one of the hijackers was seriously injured.

The end of the hijacking came after Turkey refused for a third time to meet the hijackers' demands for the release of 47 jailed leftists and a $500,000 ransom and virtually challenged the terrorists to blow up the plane.

BTA reported the hijackers delivered "farewell letters" from the hostages, including five American bankers, after Turkey's last refusal. Many of the letters asked the Turkish government to review its position.

About 90 hostages had remained aboard the jet, isolated at the eastern end of the runway at Burgas, for more than 24 hours.

Twenty-seven passengers who escaped or were released during negotiations, were flown back to Turkey earlier in the day.

BTA said one of the hijackers, a man of about 22 wearing jeans and a corduroy jacket, left the plane at least once to negotiate with Turkish and Bulgarian authorities assembled in the airport terminal.

But chief Turkish negotiator Kamran Gurun, after conferring with Turkey's president and prime minister, said Turkey would "treat the eventual blowup of the plane together with the passengers and crew as an air accident," the news agency said.

The left-wing prisoners, whose release was demanded by the terrorists, were arrested and sentenced to death in a Turkish crackdown on terrorism after last September's military coup.

Early today, BTA reported the hijackers asked for 200 envelopes and paper so that farewell letters could be written by those on board the plane. BTA did not say whether the stationery was supplied. BTA said "no progress" had been made toward settling the incident.

There were conflicting reports from Ankara and Burgas about the number of persons aboard the plane originally. But it was believed there were as many as 90 hostages remaining today.

The jet originally was reported carrying 117 people — five crew members and 112 passengers, including the hijackers. Later, an infant and airlines employee not listed on the passenger manifest were reported aboard as well.

After landing at the Black Sea port city, more than two dozen people left the plane — at least 22 and possibly 25 who were sick and two who escaped through an emergency exit.

Five Seminole County Veterans of Foreign Wars posts and auxiliaries participated in a Memorial Day Tribute in Casselberry Sunday. ## Veterans Gather For Memorial Day Tribute

The silence of All Faiths Memorial Park in Casselberry was temporarily broken Sunday afternoon as the mournful wail of bagpipes and the sounds of a rifle salute and buglers playing Taps echoed over the peaceful graves.

Members of five Seminole County Veterans of Foreign Wars posts and auxiliaries gathered to pay a Memorial Day tribute to comrades who are buried there. White wooden crosses decorated with bouquets of "Buddy" poppies and small American flags marked the graves of veterans.

Posts and auxiliaries taking part were Winter Springs 5405, Casselberry 10060, Longwood 2207, Sanford 10108 and Oviedo 10139.

Following the Pledge of Allegiance the flag was lowered to half staff in memory of fallen comrades in arms.

A Memorial Day proclamation from Governor Bob Graham was read by State Rep. Bobby Brantley and the Memorial Day address was given by Casselberry Mayor Owen Sheppard.

The invocation and Memorial prayer were given by past State Chaplain Robert D. Dysert, chaplain of the Winter Springs post.

Program chairmand was Maurice J. Lemieux, chaplain of the Casselberry post who gave the opening remarks, introduction and prayer for peace in the world.

Kay Bassett, of Winter Springs, State of Florida Auxiliary soloist, sang "Sleep Soldier Boy" and led the audience in singing "God Bless America."

Post 10060 was host at a barbecue following the service.

The traditional date for Memorial Day, May 30, will be observed in Sanford Saturday with ceremonies at the Veterans Memorial Park on the lakefront sponsored by Unit 147 of the Fleet Reserve. The Navy Band from the Orlando Naval Training Center will play for the occasion, beginning at 11 a.m.

Seminole County Commissioner Sandra Glenn will give the Memorial Day message. A Two Bell ceremony honoring the more than 30 veterans who died this past year will be held.

A buffet lunch will be served at the Fleet Reserve on West First Street following the program.

The VFW Post 10108 will place flags on the graves of veterans in Sanford cemeteries on Friday afternoon.—JANE CASSELBERRY

OIL PRICES Saudis Promise Hike If Others Try Lowering

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Saudi Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani today said his country would raise the price of its oil if other OPEC countries agreed to lower theirs.

But other delegates at the opening today of OPEC's crucial price-setting conference said there was little hope the deeply divided cartel would reach an agreement on oil prices.

Mansour Otaiba, oil minister of the United Arab Emirates, said he personally doubted whether a price agreement could be reached at all.

"It's a bit difficult to achieve in so short a time," he said.

The oil cartel is facing a glut of up to 3 million barrels a day in the world market as a result of more effective conservation measures in the West and high production by Saudi Arabia.

Saudi Arabia, which sells its oil at $32 per barrel, is pressuring other OPEC nations to lower their prices from a high of $41 dollars for African oil by maintaining its production at 10.3 million barrels a day — 2 million barrels a day above its normal production level.

Saudi oil minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani told reporters that his country would raise its $33-per-barrel price "if they (the others) reduce their prices."

Yamani would not say by how much Saudi Arabia would be willing to go up.

Asked if he believed an agreement can be reached, he said, "We'll have to wait and see. But I'm always an optimist by nature."

"I'm crossing my fingers," he said.

Otaiba, supporting the Saudi proposal, said the United Arab Emirates told reporters the current official OPEC "benchmark" price for crude oil was too high. He said "perhaps something less than $34" should be the base price.

Indonesia oil minister Subroto, current president of the ministerial council, opened the meeting with a plea for unity.

"It is my hope and fervent wish that this 60th meeting of the conference may achieve the positive result that it is looking for, thereby disappointing those parties who would like to see OPEC disunited and in disarray," Subroto said.

Seamen Return To Home Area

Sold On The Navy, They'll Recruit

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Two Navy seamen from Seminole County are here for two weeks on HARP duty. No, they aren't musicians in the Navy Band, HARP in this case stands for HomeTown Area Recruiting Program. Navy personnel are eligible for a two-week recruiting leave at their own expense without loss of their regular leave time. Personnelman E-3 Robin Solitto and Hospital Corpsman Robert Whitaker volunteered to spend two weeks at home talking to young people about the Navy and, they hope, interesting some of them in joining. They have been visiting Seminole Community College, Seminole High School and other area schools. And working with local Navy Recruiter Chief George Tingle, whose office is on French Avenue in Sanford.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voltoline of Longwood, Robin graduated from Seminole Community College Central Adult High School. She joined the Navy in June 1979 when she was 17. She began active duty Nov. 1, 1979, with eight weeks of Boot Camp at the Orlando Recruit Training Center.

She then went to Meridian, Miss. for technical training school. As a personnelman she works in administrative records and helps recruits with their problems. She was stationed on Whidbey Island, Wash. before transferring to her present duty station at the Naval Air Station in Milton, Fla. in June, 1980.

Robin plans to take the test for petty officer in September and when she gets to be a petty officer wants to put in for duty at sea or overseas.

Robert graduated from Seminole High School and joined the Navy two years ago. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitaker I, of 207 Ridge Drive, Sanford, he is stationed at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

"I wasn't ready for college when I graduated from high school, so I joined the Navy, he said. "As a corpsman they sent me to college for EMT (Emergency Medical Technician) training and I work in an emergency room. I am saving money toward college when I get out and my EMT training will help me work my way through college."

Robert said he wants to study to be a marine biologist.

Why did Robin join the Navy?

"I had no job experience except at Burger King and couldn't afford to move out to a place of my own," she said. "I wanted to see different areas and do something unique — there had never been any women in my family in the military."

"Everyone tried to talk me out of it. My mom said she would sign, but it would be my decision and I would be stuck with it."

"Boot camp was a breeze, she added. "I researched it thoroughly before I went in," said Robin.

"When I get out I'll only be 21, still young enough to do what ever I want — I may even re-enlist," she added. "I live off the base now in my own apartment. When I'm off duty I let my hair down (literally), I go sailing and take weekend trips to New Orleans and Tallahassee."

Birth Control Pills Promote Fertility

BOUTTE, La. (UPI) — Two southeast Louisiana beauticians have defied federal and state law for more than a year by using outdated birth control pills. And their house plants are thriving as a result.

Sue Holder and her sister, Margie Watson, dissolve three or four pills in a gallon of water every week and pour the resulting hormone-laden solution on the dozen or so plants in the front of their shop. Miss Holder says the results have been incredible — the vegetation is thriving.

Physiologists just recently began studying the effects of steroid hormones on plant growth. Preliminary tests indicated a steroid compound called Brassin caused a "reasonable increase in growth" on potato and tomato plants, said Dr. Judy Bradlow, a plant biochemist.

"These steroids will remain in the plants," she said. "That's OK for ornamental house plants, but I don't think I'd put them on my tomatoes."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Begin Says Russian Troops With Syrians In Lebanon

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin says Soviet advisers are accompanying Syrian troops into Lebanon, putting Moscow in the center of the Lebanese crisis for the first time.

The Israeli prime minister's charges of a direct Soviet presence in Lebanon were made almost offhand in a speech before an audience of building contractors in Tel Aviv during a heated description of Soviet-supplied military muscle to the Syrians.

"They have the T-72, which swallows any American tank made today . . . with unpenetrable frontal armor," Begin said. In all, "the Syrians have a concentration of 3,600 tanks, with Soviet advisers who go together with Syrian units into Lebanon."

In another disclosure, Begin admitted Israel secretly committed itself in 1978 to protect Lebanese Christian militia forces from Syrian air attack but denied a written guarantee was ever handed to militia leader Bechar Gemayel.

The Israeli promise was made good April 28, when Israeli warplanes shot down to Syrian helicopters over the Bekaa Valley. Syria began deploying SAM-4 anti-aircraft missiles in Lebanon the next day.

Israel has threatened to destroy the missiles if diplomatic efforts to remove them fail. In Beirut, Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat's top deputy, Abu Iyad, warned that an Israeli strike against the SAM-4 missiles in Lebanon "would lead to war on all fronts, including the (island front (with Syria) and would force the Soviet Union to throw its weight behind Syria."

Hunger Striker May Quit

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Another day of rioting swept Catholic areas of Belfast Saturday and the IRA said one of its hunger strikers may break his fast with its permission.

The hunger striker, Brendan McLaughlin, was reported suffering from a bleeding ulcer after 11 days without food and an IRA spokesman said he may give up his fast because of the physical pain.

In Belfast, Catholic rioters pelted police and British army vehicles with firebombs and bottles of acid as Ulster's strife claimed another life.

In one incident, a police Land Rover hit by firebombs careened out of control and hit and killed a man identified as Brendan Lynch, 33. He was the 15th victim of the violence rocking the province on an almost daily basis since the death of hunger striker Bobby Sands May 5.

In another incident, a rioter set himself on fire during the night in an accident with a molotov cocktail. His condition was not immediately known. Police reported numerous fire and acid bombings in six different areas of Belfast during the day.

McLaughlin, a 29-year-old IRA convict serving a 13-year sentence for firearms offenses, was transferred from the Maze prison hospital to the military wing of Musgrave Park hospital in Belfast last Thursday.

Ecuadorean President Killed

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — President Jaime Roldos of Ecuador was killed in a fiery plane crash in a mountainous border region near where Ecuadoran troops clashed with Peruvian forces in a brief border war earlier this year, the government said.

All nine people aboard the Beechcraft SK-200 were killed in the crash Sunday afternoon, including the president's wife Naria and Defense Minister Gen. Marco Subia, a government statement said. The cause of the crash was not immediately known.

Vice President Osvaldo Hurtado immediately assumed the presidency for the remaining three years of Roldos' five-year term. Roldos, 40, had been the youngest chief executive in the Western Hemisphere.

Harlan Blackburn's Name Surfaces In Drug Bust

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

On the surface, it was a fairly routine drug arrest, but it took on greater significance when the name of Harlan Blackburn, major central Florida gambling and drug boss, turned up in the investigation.

The Blackburn connection was made Saturday night when Altamonte Springs police purchased 107 pounds of marijuana worth an estimated $29,000 from Lawrence J. Sanford, 30, 235 Debra Court, Altamonte Springs, and Michael A. Bryant, 29, of Orlando.

During a search of the two men's car, police found legal documents and a prescription with Blackburn's name on it. The relationship between Blackburn, who was indicted on drug charges in Orange County earlier this month, and the two men was not immediately known.

Following their arrest, Sanford and Bryant, charged with trafficking in marijuana, were placed in the Seminole County Jail under $100,000 bond each. However, bond was later lowered to $20,000 and Bryant was released. Sanford was still in jail this morning.

HITCHHIKER SHOT

A 16-year-old Winter Park boy was discharged from Winter Park Memorial Hospital Sunday after being hit with a shotgun blast as he hitchhiked with a friend along Howell Branch Road.

According to Seminole County sheriff's deputies, Mike Shope and Richard Jarrett, 18, of Casselberry, were walking along the road about 1:30 a.m. Saturday when a single shot was fired from a passing pickup truck.

Shope was hit in the back with about 40 pellets of birdshot. Jarrett was uninjured and ran to call an ambulance.

Deputies said the identity of the gunman remains unknown.

MAN BEATEN BY THIEVES

A 26-year-old Longwood man who was investigating suspicious noises at a business near his home Sunday was assaulted by thieves when he interrupted their work.

Jack Stanton, who lives in a house behind R&D Auto Sales, U.S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood, told sheriff's deputies he heard noises in the sales office around midnight and went to check. Stanton said the front door had been kicked in and when he entered the dark office two men grabbed him and beat him. He was not seriously hurt.

The only thing that was found missing was a .22-caliber pistol.

MUCK FIRE BURNS ON

Seminole County firefighters, aided by units from the state Division of Forestry, continued to fight a smoldering muck fire near Paola which has been burning since Friday.

The fire has charred nearly 30 acres near Wayside Drive and Orange Avenue, but has threatened no homes. Muck fires burn underground "and all we're doing is pulling out hot spots when the fire burns to the surface," according to a county fire dispatcher.

The cause of the fire is unknown.

Officer Finds Ship's Challenge A Matter Of Supply

Undoubtedly many people can remember the 1960 movie "Operation Petticoat" in which a submarine supply officer, played by Tony Curtis, led an exciting life stocking the needs, authorized and otherwise, of the ship's crew — by any means possible. Those means included beg, borrow and outright thievery — often exasperating the ship's captain, played by Cary Grant. Remember the scene where they try to steal a live and very slippery pig for their lunch? Eventually the sub got painted pink (through a paint supply snafu) and just happened to pick up several stranded nurses to make life interesting on board.

The experience of a real-life ship's supply officer can't be quite that romantic, of course, but surprisingly it can be a lot more fascinating than you might think at first.

Captain Charles W. R. von Radesky probably would attest to that.

The son of Captain (Ret.) and Mrs. H. von Radesky of Altamonte Springs, the younger von Radesky was recently promoted to Captain in the Navy's Supply Corps. He has served as head of the supply department of the aircraft carrier USS Constellation for the past year. The department is comprised of nine divisions and has a staff of more than 300 men.

Known as "Connie," the carrier is 1,072 feet long—more than three football fields—and some 90 yards wide. With air wing personnel aboard Connie has a population of 3,000 men. That's a lot of mouths to feed.

But beyond food supplies, von Radesky is responsible for keeping the men equipped with all other necessary items as well as stocking items for up to 100 aircraft and the ship itself.

During operations at sea Connie is self-sustaining, according to the Navy's public affairs office. The ship is equipped with a dental clinic, hospital, laundry, post office, three radio stations, soda fountains, tailor shop, closed circuit TV station and weather bureau. The crew also has a library and a chapel. Shipboard evaporators make fresh water for all the ship's needs.

After a recent 110 continuous days underway in the Indian Ocean, von Radesky commented:

"The dedication and stamina of the crew far exceeded anything I had ever seen first-hand or had been part of," he said.

"The Supply Department really had to pull off a few hat tricks to keep the Connie—Air Wing 9 team supplied by any means possible. Knowing that we would be returning to that environment and those arduous working conditions, I proposed a Food Service modernization plan which the Skipper heartily encouraged and supported . . . Ice Cubes will NOT be a problem next cruise!"

When asked, "Why he joined the Navy?" von Radesky replied, "One, I like to travel. Two, I grew up with it and saw so many occupations that I didn't like as well, and three, being in the military service is a family tradition that goes back several hundred years. Although, except for my father, all of my ancestors were Army Officers.

Connie was commissioned at the New York Naval Shipyard, October 27, 1961, and will celebrate her 20th birthday while on her 13th deployment to the Western Pacific later this year. The multi-purpose carrier is named after the United States frigate Constellation, which is now a national monument afloat in Baltimore, Md.

Connie's S-9 Supply Division mans and operates the Chief Petty Officer's Mess. Historically feeding "the Chief's Steak and-or Lobster at least once a week.

Other Connie supply divisions are involved in loading and unloading, keeping inventories of aircraft and other parts, manning the stores and service departments, controlling payroll, data processing and running the mess.

Providing for 18,000 meals per day when the ship is at sea is one of supply's major functions.

Daily food preparation requires 1,000 loaves of bread, 3,000 pounds of meat, 3,000 pounds of potatoes and 10,000 pounds of vegetables.

Connie stores up to 80,000 pounds of dairy products; 2,003,756 pounds of dry provisions; 370,705 pounds of meat and 405,000 pounds of vegetables. The ship's ice plant makes 8,500 pounds of ice daily.

Upon graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1961, von Radesky was commissioned an Ensign and assigned to sea duty aboard the destroyer USS Bradford as its Main Propulsion Assistant.

Enroute to duty aboard another destroyer von Radesky attended an engineering officer school.

He departed the USS Theodore E. Chandler as Damage Control Assistant assigned to Officer's Submarine School in New London, Conn. Upon graduation he was ordered to the USS Sea Lion.

It was during this assignment that von

Radesky earned the Golden Dolphins of a submarine officer. While aboard that "boat" he rotated through the following billets: Electronics Maintenance Officer, Communicator, Operations Officer, Gunnery Officer, Assistant Navigator, Engineering Officer and Supply Officer.

After nearly three years of submarining he decided to become a career Supply Corps Officer.

His recommendation to any person interested in a career in the Navy's Supply Corps:

"They have to decide first that the good times and the personal satisfactions are greater than the aggravations and the 'Hurry Up and Wait Syndrome'."

Crew members of the USS Constellation stand in formation on the flight deck signaling "Connie 110+"—meaning completion of 110 days on continuous patrol in the Indian Ocean. Keeping the crew of nearly 5,000 men supplied was a matter of logistics for Captain von Radesky.

Right-Wingers Financed Takeover

Commandos Rescue Spanish Hostages

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI) — Anti-terrorist commandos stormed a bank and smashed a 37-hour siege by rightist gunmen, freeing scores of hostages who bolted through doors and crawled to freedom under a hail of gunfire. One hostage suffered a minor leg wound.

The crack troops killed a gunman and captured 10 others during a 90-minute firefight Sunday inside an office of Spain's Central Bank, ending a bid by pro-Franco rightists to free four military officers held in an attempted coup.

The government today said right-wing extremists planned and bankrolled the takeover in the first official confirmation that pro-Franco forces were involved, raising fresh fears for the survival of the nation's young democracy.

Government spokesman Ignacio Aguirre said the terrorists were given order and paid $55,555 in Perpignan, France last week to stage the bank seizure.

But the government said only 11 gunmen were involved, disputing reports by hostages that 24 armed men seized the building Saturday and that some of them escaped when commandos stormed the building the following day.

The discrepancy raised speculation in Spanish newspapers that the government may be covering up the possible participation of members of the paramilitary Civil Guard, which stormed parliament in February at the start of an abortive coup attempt.

The bank siege crumpled Sunday afternoon as commandos rushed the gunmen in a blaze of gunfire that sent 70 screaming hostages scrambling out of windows and through the main entrance on their hands and knees.

IN BRIEF

Death Toll Hits 28

In Atlanta Black Murders

ATLANTA (UPI) — A black man in his late 20s whose nude body was pulled from the Chattahoochee River, was added late Sunday as the 28th name on Atlanta's list of young blacks slain in the last 22 months.

A tentative identification of the man — apparently the oldest victim yet — was withheld at the request of police, who interviewed relatives today while medical examiners compared medical records. The preliminary identification was made through fingerprints.

The body, said to be 5-foot-10 and 150 pounds, was found Sunday by two youths fishing in the waterway all too familiar as a human dumping site, just a few hundred yards from where another victim — Jimmy Ray Payne, 21 — was pulled from the river April 27.

Payne was the fifth victim to be found in the Chattahoochee, with three others discovered in the South River on the opposite side of Atlanta.

Prison Security Tightened

United Press International
Rebellious inmates in six U.S. prisons were locked in their cells today under tightened security measures instituted after a weekend of rioting in Michigan and Nevada facilities and stabbing deaths at San Quentin and Attica.

Convicts at Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson, the world's largest walled prison, torched a vocational workroom with gasoline late Sunday — two days after rioting that spread to the Michigan Reformatory in Ionia. More than 30 were injured in both facilities.

Nevada State Prison officials, who used a SWAT team firing automatic weapons to quell a weekend riot in the facility's maximum-security section, revealed Sunday that a pistol used by the ringleader was smuggled past radar devices in an envelope.

Inmate stabbings were reported during the weekend at Attica in New York and San Quentin in California, and prison officials ordered immediate lockdowns. New York state police had two suspects in custody in the Attica slaying, but West Coast authorities said they had no suspects.

Vets Stage Sit-In

United Press International
America paid tribute to its war dead today, but a group of Vietnam veterans on a sit-in and hunger strike bitterly cried out for remembrance of battle survivors they claim are forgotten.

Thirteen resolute Vietnam era veterans demonstrating in Los Angeles called upon all Americans, including President Reagan, to join them in a Memorial Day fast to show support for the nation's fighting men.

They said there was no response from Reagan, who was spending the holiday at his ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif. The White House said the issue is in the hands of the Veteran's Administration in Washington.

George Jessel Dead At 83

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — George Jessel, the vaudeville and silent film star who became the nation's premier toastmaster, died Sunday night of an apparent heart attack at UCLA Medical Center. He was 83.

Jessel, who was admitted to the facility last week for tests, lapsed into a coma Sunday, was transferred to the intensive care unit and died within an hour.

Preliminary reports said the cause of death was a massive heart attack.

Jessel began his career at 9 as a nickelodeon singer, but became so popular as a toastmaster that five U.S. presidents called him "Toastmaster General." He kept up his popular personal appearances until shortly before he was hospitalized last week.

Florida Holiday Deaths Now At 26

United Press International
The Memorial Day weekend traffic death toll on Florida's highways exceeded early today the 26 total that the state Highway Patrol had predicted for the 78-hour period.

At least nine persons lost their lives in road accidents Sunday, swelling the weekend total to 28.

Two Lakeland men, Daniel R. Powell, 30, and Robert B. Phillips, 21, died when their car struck a large concrete water pipe in Bunell Sunday night.

Other traffic deaths Sunday included Robert Ray Turner, 28, of Cocoa, killed when his car was forced off a road near Melbourne, overturned and threw him out; another unidentified motorist in Brevard County, and pedestrian Mary S. Thomas, 78, of Memphis, Tenn., who was struck by a car as she walked across U.S. 90 at Panama City Beach.

Sylvia Leach, 33, was hit and killed by a van while riding her lightless bicycle Sunday night near her Boca Grande home. Investigating officers said the married woman was hurled 113 feet.

Hotrodder Shoots Five

MIAMI (UPI) A young "hotrodder" who kept circling close to a family of beachgoers at Crandon Beach shot and wounded five persons, including himself, after fighting with two male family members late Sunday, police reported.

Identities of the wounded were not immediately released, but authorities said one woman was listed in serious condition at Mercy Hospital and the four, including the suspect, were listed as fair.

"He was hotrodding in a parking area, making real fast circles around a family," said a Duval County police spokesman. "Two sons approached him and they had a fistfight."

The driver went back to the car, a white Corvette, and started leaving, but then he pulled a gun and started shooting, the spokesman said. Another officer said, "The subject apparently shot himself in the arm."

CAR VS TRUCK

It was no contest Saturday when this mid-size Ford sedan tangled with a tractor-trailer rig on Interstate 4 in Deltona. The car was totaled, the truck sustained about $2,000 in damage. The three persons in the automobile were taken to Seminole Memorial Hospital. The truck driver, Jerry A. Johnson, 23, of Wallace, N.C. was unhurt. According to the Florida Highway Patrol, the car driven by Marilou Fosco, 18, of Orlando, was eastbound on I-4 in the left lane about 10:25 a.m. when she made an improper turn into the right lane in front of the truck. The semi dragged the car across the median into the westbound lane of the freeway. Fosco was treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital and released. Two passengers in the car — Kevin Weller, 16, of Orlando, and David Beauchesna, 18, address unknown — were in serious and satisfactory condition respectively this morning. Criminal charges are pending, police said.

During Budget Talks

Childers, Barron Flare-Up Due

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Senate leadership battle between President W. D. Childers and ousted Rules Chairman Dempsey Barron is due to flare up again this week, when senators tackle for the second time a $9 billion spending plan.

The revised version of the budget is the work of Barron's coalition of 24 Republicans and conservative Democrats and largely ignores the criminal justice programs sought both by Childers and Gov. Bob Graham. An earlier version was passed and sent to the House but then recalled when the high-level squabbling surfaced between Childers and Barron.

The Appropriations Committee should finish working on the new plan Tuesday and it is expected to reach the Senate floor Wednesday.

The governor cautioned Friday that he would veto any spending plan that shortchanges anti-crime programs. Childers said the warning should pressure the "Democyrats" to cease "voting blindly" to further Barron's cause.

Even within the Senate, however, Childers' group is adding pressure. New Rules Chairman, Sen. Ed Dunn, has scheduled a package of "must pass" anti-crime legislation for debate Thursday. A similar package of education bills is slated to follow later.

House Speaker Ralph Haben said he hopes a conference committee can get together as early as Wednesday or Thursday to begin ironing out differences between the House spending plan — which has already been sent to the Senate — and the new Senate version.

Haben said the conference committee should be able to finish its work in seven to 10 days. The session is set to end June 5.

Meanwhile, House members are slated to continue debate on a bill that would allow optometrists to use drugs only in diagnosing eye problems and not in treatment.

Under the measure, a three-member panel controlled by non-optometrists would decide what drugs could be used.

Ophthalmologists, physicians specializing in eye disease, argue that optometrists are not adequately trained to use prescription drugs in their practice.

People More Concerned With Seals Than With Children, Says Schweiker

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker says he can't understand why people are more concerned about saving baby seals, whales and the small darter than they are about saving unborn children.

Schweiker was questioned Sunday on NBC's "Meet The Press" about Congress' latest move that would ban Medicaid funds from being used for abortion except when the mother's life is in danger. At present federal funds also may be used for abortions involving incest and rape.

Asked whether the administration's promise to "get government off the backs of the people" contradicts its belief that abortion, even in cases of rape or incest, should be banned, Schweiker responded:

"I think where I see the contradiction ... is that we have a proposal that in essence says we are going to save the baby seals, we are going to save the baby whales, we are even going to save the small darters and stop a dam, but we won't save the unborn child."

"I have trouble understanding why we can get all wrought up about tadpoles and not unborn kids and that's where I differ."

Columist Carl Rowan of the Chicago Sun-Times interjected, "I'm talking about women, not tadpoles."

"So am I," Schweiker retorted, "and I'm talking about unborn babies and the right to kill them."

The secretary said the administration believes "the fetus has the same right as the mother, once the fetus is on its way."

Rowan asked, "Do you believe that a girl who has been raped and becomes pregnant should be forced to give birth to that baby in the name of protecting innocent life?"

"Well, of course, even under the administration's proposal on abortion, that girl would be free to get a D and C, as we call it, and to take a morning after pill," Schweiker said.

The secretary also was asked to explain why "so much money has to be cut from human services by the administration, but so much money seems to be asked for and seems to be made available for the Pentagon."

Schweiker, maintaining he could "easily explain that," said the Reagan administration plans to spend "16 percentage points more on social welfare than John Kennedy did and 12 percentage points less on defense."

Four Reported Dead In Floods

United Press International
At least four people drowned and up to 11 others were reported missing today in the worst flash flooding in recent memory to inundate Austin, Texas, where more than a half-foot of wind-swept rain pounded parts of the city.

Fierce thunderstorms spewing golfball-size hail and tornadoes battered the Southern Plains of Texas and floodwaters ebbed in Montana, where hundreds of residents began returning to their homes.

"We've had four apparent drownings so far that we know of," said Austin police Sgt. Larry Walker, "and there's probably going to be others out in the county."

He said all of the victims were motorists caught in flash flooding that struck the city late Sunday. City street and bridge crews estimated as many as 5,000 vehicles were stranded by up to 8 feet of water that also forced an estimated 40 residents to flee their homes.

"This is the worst flooding I can recall," Fire Chief Doug Palmer, a 28-year department veteran, said.

He said rescuers used boats to reach some of the flooded homes.

Sections of northwest Austin received as much as 6 1/2-inches of rain shortly after 7:30 p.m. Sunday, the National Weather Service said.

Sixty mph winds swept across Bergstrom, Texas, and golfball-size hail pounded the town of Leander.

A new fire raged in drought-stricken southern Florida and weather forecasters said there was no rain relief in sight today for firefighters and the millions of residents suffering through the state's worst drought in 10 years.

But flash flood watches were posted today for the hill country of south-central Texas and heavy thunderstorms developed over western Tennessee into southern Indiana.

Intense thunderstorms in Missouri that unleashed a tornado Sunday lingered over the state again today.

Skies began clearing in Montana where the heaviest rains in two decades spanned widespread flooding and hundreds of people in Cascade County prepared to return to their homes as civil authorities geared up for clean-up efforts.

"A few people are starting to go back in but it's not officially recommended," sheriff's dispatcher Del Mahoney said.

"Their sewer and water system are still out."

Census Older Americans: Median Age...30

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are getting older. The nation's median age was 30 on Census Day, April 1, 1980, compared to 28 a decade early, the Census Bureau reports.

And the bureau said, the median age is expected to rise sharply during the next three decades, a development that could bring profound changes in national policy — particularly in such aspects as allocation of funds for schools, programs for the elderly and a changing tax base.

Florida had the oldest median age at 34.7, and Utah the youngest, 24.2.

The bureau cited three reasons for the increase — a decline in fertility, the aging of those born in the post-World War II baby boom, and growing longevity.

The median age is the midpoint at which there are an equal number of Americans above and below it.

The census report showed a large increase in the number of people of more than 65 while the number of children under 15 dropped.

The census report on age characteristics of America's 226.5 million residents also showed a continuing gap between sexes, since women live longer. The median age for women now is 31.3 years, and 28.8 years for men.

It showed different median ages by race, with whites having the highest median age at 31.3, to 24.9 for blacks and 23.2 for Hispanics.

In 1980, 63.2 percent of the U.S. population reported their race as white. Of that figure, the bureau listed 6.4 percent as being of Spanish origin. Blacks made up 11.7 percent of the population. Other races accounted for the rest.

Although Florida had the highest median age in the nation, increasing to 34.7 from 32.3 in 1970, other states with high median ages were in the Northeast: New Jersey, 32.2; Pennsylvania, 32.1; Connecticut, 32; New York, 31.9; Rhode Island, 31.8; and Massachusetts, 31.2.

Utah had the lowest median age, 24.2 years, followed by Alaska, 26.1; Wyoming, 27.1; New Mexico and Louisiana, 27.4; Idaho, 27.6, and Mississippi, 27.7.

By divisions within regions and by states, the median ages were:

New England, 31.2; Maine, 30.4; New Hampshire, 30.1; Vermont, 29.4; Massachusetts, 31.2; Rhode Island, 31.8; Connecticut, 32.0.

Middle Atlantic, 32.0; New York, 31.9; New Jersey, 32.2; Pennsylvania, 32.1.

East North Central, 29.5; Ohio, 29.9; Indiana, 29.2; Illinois, 29.9; Michigan, 28.9, Wisconsin, 29.4.

West North Central, 29.9; Minnesota, 29.2; Iowa, 30.0; Missouri, 30.9; North Dakota, 28.3; South Dakota, 28.9; Nebraska, 29.7; Kansas, 30.1.

South Atlantic, 30.7; Delaware, 29.7; Maryland, 30.3; District of Columbia, 31.1; Virginia, 29.8; West Virginia, 30.4; North Carolina, 29.6; South Carolina, 28.2; Georgia, 28.7; Florida, 34.7.

East South Central, 29.3; Kentucky, 29.1; Tennessee, 30.1; Alabama, 29.3; Mississippi, 27.7.

West South Central, 28.5; Arkansas, 30.6; Louisiana, 27.4; Oklahoma, 30.1; Texas, 28.2.

Mountain, 28.0; Montana, 29.0; Idaho, 27.6; Wyoming, 27.1; Colorado, 28.6; New Mexico, 27.4; Arizona, 29.2; Utah, 24.2; Nevada, 30.3.

Pacific, 29.8; Washington, 29.8; Oregon, 30.2; California, 28.9; Alaska, 26.1; Hawaii, 28.4.

Blacks Population Now At 26.5 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of blacks in the United States has increased 4.1 million during the past decade and 12 states now have black populations of at least 1 million, reports the Census Bureau.

The nation's overall black population, as recorded by the 1980 census, stands at 26.5 million or 11.7 percent of the total.

Ten years ago, only nine states had a black population numbering 1 million or more, and the total black population was 22.5 million.

Preliminary 1980 census figures put New York at the top of the list with 2,401,842 blacks. Vermont, the bureau said, had the fewest with 1,135.

The other states with black populations of 1 million or more are California, 1,819,282; Texas, 1,710,250; Illinois, 1,675,229; Georgia, 1,465,457; Florida, 1,342,478; North Carolina, 1,318,050; Louisiana, 1,237,263; Michigan, 1,198,710; Ohio, 1,078,734; Pennsylvania, 1,047,609; and Virginia, 1,008,311.

The bureau reported blacks constitute more than 20 percent of the population of seven states — Mississippi (35.3 percent); South Carolina (30.4); Louisiana (29.4); Georgia (28.8); Alabama (25.8); Maryland (22.7); and North Carolina (22.4). Of those seven, only Georgia, North Carolina and Louisiana have more than 1 million blacks.

In the District of Columbia, 70.3 percent of the population in 1980 was black, the bureau reported.

The bureau said its estimated undercount for blacks in 1980 was between 4.5 percent and 5.3 percent, while the undercount in its 1970 estimate was 7.7 percent.

Remembering Memorial Day

There are still Americans to whom the name "Memorial Day" may ring strange. To them, the holiday was long familiar as "Decoration Day." It had been originally observed as such every May 30 as a result of an order of Gen. John J. Logan, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The origins were, however, actually earlier. The occasion had begun to be observed in several Southern states even before the end of hostilities. But three years after the conclusion of the War Between the States, it became an occasion of national togetherness for a people still nursing the long-to-heal wounds of civil war.

Decoration Day was just that — a day to decorate the graves of loved ones lost in battle — and of others, friend and foe alike, who perhaps had no one to mourn them.

The new designation of Memorial Day was first heard in the 1880s, but old habits die hard and it was not until well into the 20th century that it was universally accepted.

Today, Memorial Day marks the tribute of Americans not only to the dead of their great civil struggle but of all wars — tribute by immediate family, friends, military, patriotic and civic organizations.

But there is a very special tribute paid by every person, even those who give no heed to the significance of the day.

It is the existence of a vital, growing, busy people, taking the first of their three great summer holidays. It is the picnicking, the working in the yard, the relaxing, long weekend of a people greeting a new summer with all the diverse energies and preferences that characterize their approach to the hard-working days of the year. It is for these things, this life, this very existence, that we are indebted to those who have gone.

Somewhere along the way of this holiday, find a quiet place — a church, a corner of a field where fence and woodland join, a place in your heart — and spend a moment in remembering. They would be pleased.

Politics, Security

Helmut Schmidt, as chancellor of West Germany, is charged with the security of his country and its people. He has made clear that he places that obligation above party politics.

He has reaffirmed his support for deployment by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization of 572 American missiles in Europe. Deployment was ordered in 1979 to counter installation by the Soviet Union of multiple-warhead missiles in Eastern Europe.

But Schmidt's Social Democratic Party is influenced by a leftist element that sometimes sees the Russians as West Germany's friends and Americans as enemies. Schmidt does not see it that way.

If the party withdraws its endorsement of the missile deployment, Schmidt said recently, he will resign.

Schmidt's words should also be noted by skeptics in the United States.

For years we have been targets for these (Soviet) missiles," he said, "and therefore we need the counterweight of the Americans."

State Sen. Clark Maxwell, who is serving on a special Senate committee to study problems in the state university and community college systems, says the committee has heard a lot of testimony about admissions standards and policies.

Noting that he has sponsored some "language" in the Senate appropriations bill on the transition of community college students to the state university level, Maxwell said his goal is to make sure sophomore competency in the two systems is the same.

The Melbourne Republican whose district includes Seminole County said the standards would apply "across the board" to both "native" sophomores who began their higher education in the university system and those who wish to transfer to the university system for their junior year in college.

"If automatic transfers are continued from the community college system to the university system whether the students are prepared or not, this will impact the university system," Maxwell said.

He added that by the same token, sophomores in the university system, if they are not achieving at a high level, should not be guaranteed they will have a place in the system their junior year.

"We must have the same standards across the board," he said.

What happens to former police chiefs, you might ask. Well if they are like ex-Oviedo Police Chief Ken Triplett, they might be dispensing ice cream instead of traffic citations. Triplett, who was active in law enforcement for years before his retirement from the Oviedo force, is operating an ice cream and sandwich shop on North Central Avenue in Oviedo.

It was only a few years ago that when one used the term "city manager" was used in Seminole County, everyone knew one must be talking about veteran Sanford manager, W.E. "Pete" Knowles.

Now there are five city managers: and a full-time mayor. The full time mayor is Owen Sheppard of Casselberry. The city managers, in addition to Knowles, are: Jeff Etchberger of Altamonte Springs; Richard Rozansky of Winter Springs; Phil Kuibes of Lake Mary and David Chacey of Longwood.

Brown Moving Politically

WASHINGTON (NEA) — At the time of the inauguration, we reported that California Gov. Jerry Brown was in Washington telling insiders that he had no plans to run for president again in 1984, setting his sights on the Senate seat of Republican S.I. Hayakawa.

California political insiders now confirm that Brown is starting to assemble a campaign organization and to raise funds for a 1982 Senate bid.

Sources close to the governor confirm this activity. They add that Brown will pledge in his formal announcement of candidacy — tentatively scheduled for late summer or early fall — that if elected, he will serve out his full six-year term and will not run for any other office (specifically president) in 1984.

We also reported some months ago that the Republican senatorial primary was likely to be very crowded even if Hayakawa ran for re-election, a decision that he apparently has not yet made. It then appeared that among the incumbent's several challengers would be Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr.

Goldwater recently announced that he would indeed be a candidate for the Republican nomination regardless of whether Hayakawa seeks re-election. And it still appears that the primary will be no two-man race.

Recent private polls showed that Hayakawa's statewide popularity was about as low as had ever been recorded for a California senator. This has led political experts to predict that Hayakawa would be vulnerable not only to a strong challenge but to any challenge at all.

Knowledgeable Californians say that the Republican field could contain as many as eight candidates, including San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson, who is being urged not to run in the gubernatorial primary against Lt. Gov. Mike Curb, and first daughter Maureen Reagan, who seems to think that a political career should start in the Senate.

It is unlikely that Brown will be alone in the Democratic primary. Former Sen. John Tunney, who was defeated by Hayakawa in 1978, would reportedly like his old Senate seat back. The same polls that showed Hayakawa to be so unpopular found Tunney to be slightly ahead of Brown, who is not exactly his state's most popular politician.

In a final bit of data, George Gilder is author of the recently published "Wealth and Poverty," a best-seller which defends capitalism, described by national budget director David Stockman as "Promethean in its intellectual power and insight."

Although the book is the subject of much controversy, it absolutely glitters with original thoughts and concepts. Recently, Gilder delivered the main address at commencement ceremonies of American-University's College of Arts and Sciences in Washington, D.C.

And according to a news report in the Washington Post: "More than a third of the graduating seniors ... staged a silent protest yesterday at their commencement, angered by the choice of George Gilder, the economist darling of the Reagan administration, to deliver the main address."

The students, joined by a dozen faculty in the audience and two of the 17 campus officials on the platform, wore white arm bands to protest their displeasure with Gilder ...

(The protesters — including 50 who stood and turned their backs during his 13 minute speech — didn't hear any of Gilder's views on race or on sex. They heard only a bland discourse on the virtue of small business ...)

A Race Toward 'Star Wars' Weaponry

WASHINGTON — The United States and Soviet Union are engaged in a deadly race to develop "Star Wars" weapons resembling laser beams and man-made lightning bolts. Top-secret plans call for mounting them aboard future spaceships.

Indeed, the space shuttle Columbia may be the forerunner of future Galactica-like battleships that may cruise in space. But if the United States is ahead in developing a reusable spaceship, the Kremlin's scientists may have the edge in other crucial areas of research.

Now that Russia is apparently caught up in sophisticated its strategic missiles, the Reagan administration is likely to decide that the United States should concentrate on keeping ahead in the field of laser technology. One intelligence expert, who attended a secret laser briefing called it "the hottest briefing in town."

What makes these "directed energy" weapons so hot? They will make strategic missiles obsolete within the next 20 years. Laser beams can be thwarted by clouds and other atmospheric disturbances, but a similar ray gun called a "particle beam weapon" is virtually unstoppable. Both super-powers are trying to perfect them.

JEFFREY HART

Weird Passions On Reagan

Shortly after the attempted assassination of the president, a student at the University of Pennsylvania achieved a flurry of notoriety by writing in the student newspaper that he wished Reagan had been killed.

Pondered as an isolated remark, this might be taken as a mere aberration, the blatherings of some dippy character at Penn. However, it is not a thought to be considered in isolation.

On the afternoon of the Reagan shooting, a Dartmouth junior visited the student center on the campus, where the TV set was providing assassination coverage for a sizable crowd.

He later reported a number of students cheering and dancing over the fact that Reagan had been shot. Perhaps they were being deliberately outrageous, but there's more to it than that, I would submit.

In a final bit of data, George Gilder is author of the recently published "Wealth and Poverty," a best-seller which defends capitalism, described by national budget director David Stockman as "Promethean in its intellectual power and insight."

Although the book is the subject of much controversy, it absolutely glitters with original thoughts and concepts.

Recently, Gilder delivered the main address at commencement ceremonies of American-University's College of Arts and Sciences in Washington, D.C.

And according to a news report in the Washington Post: "More than a third of the graduating seniors ... staged a silent protest yesterday at their commencement, angered by the choice of George Gilder, the economist darling of the Reagan administration, to deliver the main address."

The students, joined by a dozen faculty in the audience and two of the 17 campus officials on the platform, wore white arm bands to protest their displeasure with Gilder ...

(The protesters — including 50 who stood and turned their backs during his 13 minute speech — didn't hear any of Gilder's views on race or on sex. They heard only a bland discourse on the virtue of small business ...)

Now Gilder's views on race and on sex are not at all exotic. He thinks marriage is a good idea, both for men and women; he thinks affirmative action and welfare ultimately injure blacks and other minorities. And he is an innovative free-market thinker.

What we see here, in the American University protest against these debatable but certainly plausible ideas, is the weird extremity of passions that prevail in some academic circles.

These people do not merely disagree with Reagan. Surely, they actively hate and despise him. And their range of permissible ideas does not extend to George Gilder, either.

I submit that these three items are closely related: the student at Penn who publicly wished for Reagan's death; the singing and dancing by the group of Dartmouth students as the assassination news came over the tube; and the protest at American University.

The academic setting is in many ways a peculiar one. Especially at the more elite schools, the students are often frantically upwardly mobile — in the usual phrase, social climbers.

They are actively seeking to put distance between themselves and their parents. Their passions are not modified or complicated by property ownership or family responsibilities.

And many of their mentors are simply "older students" now on the faculty.

Last summer a perfectly intelligent student described Reagan in the campus newspaper as a fascist. And he was not laughed out of town either.

What many students receive from their environment, it seems to me, is not so much the opinion that Reagan is "wrong" — they could not distinguish supply-side economics from mercantilism — but the view that he is "vulgar" or "contemptible."

They view him as representing something like another social class, as being a sort of redneck. They do not advocate specific ideas. Only attitudes and nervous social passions are exhibited.

SCIENCE WORLD

Testing Under Fire

ATLANTA (UPI) — The "Wasserman dragnet," first used in 1935 to detect cases of syphilis, is under fire in the public health community as experts question its cost and effectiveness. "Wasserman dragnet" is another name for mandated premarital syphilis tests (PMST), presently effective in 43 states. Without this blood check a marriage license will not be issued.

Many state health departments are pondering on whether to retain, repeal or modify requirements for mandatory premarital syphilis screening. Maine was the first state to repeal its premarital screening in 1972.

Dr. Yehuda M. Felman, director of New York City's bureau of venereal diseases, says these tests find a very small percentage of infectious syphilis cases and cost far more than they should.

He advocates the elimination of legally-ordered syphilis testing. Turning the problem over to local requirements based on local conditions, would be best, he says.

The national Centers for Disease Control, however, has a different view. Dr. Paul J. Wiesner, director of the CDC's venereal disease control division, says the "overall value of the routine use of serologic tests in the control of syphilis and reducing its complications has been clearly documented during the past four decades."

Wiesner says premarital screening, along with treatment (penicillin), education and searching out persons exposed to syphilis have been responsible for the significant progress made in the battle against the disease.

The screening, in addition to catching early syphilis cases, also detects latent disease and prevents complications.

"Late syphilis is almost a medical curiosity," he said. "Only 10 percent of the counties in the United States report 10 or more cases of primary and secondary syphilis each year."

In 1950, he said, one in 4,000 liveborn babies died of syphilis; in 1980, that number was one in one million. In 1978 the nation recorded the lowest ever number of congenital syphilis cases in children under 1 — 107.

Wiesner cites past progress and concern for the future in supporting continued mandated syphilis screening by state health departments. He said total infectious syphilis in both sexes in 1980 was at the same level it was in 1952 — 47,000.

Also last year, there were 26,017 cases of primary and secondary syphilis cases reported. The last time it was at that level was in 1949.

"I can't tell you what would happen if all the states did away with the program," Wiesner said. "But I can tell you what has happened with the program in place."

Felman based his opposition on the program on a New York City study conducted in 1976, where 118,000 tests revealed only 39 cases of syphilis in the early stages at an estimated cost of almost $80,000 per case.

Writing in the American Journal of Public Health, Felman said "there is no question that, if possible, every single case of syphilis should be found and treated; but when the cost becomes prohibitive, as we believe to be the case with PMSTs, other means must be found to accomplish this task."

Weapons, the report says the Soviet Union is believed to have had a research and development effort under way for possibly 20 years. Charged particle beam devices, or CPBs, represent "a new phase in the historical development of technology," the study reports. When perfected, these controlled "lightning bolts" can solve a wide range of scientific and industrial problems, the report states.

But it adds ominously: "Soviet work (on CPBs) is strong in exactly those areas needed for weapons application — whereas U.S. work to date has not been directed toward military applications."

The report continues: "It is believed that the Soviets are ahead of the U.S. in many other critical PBW technologies ... and that the present Soviet level of effort should permit them to continue to advance in these technology areas at a rapid rate."

Similar U.S. programs suggest that the kinds of tests most likely ... performed at these sites are those most suitable for ground or air-based defense, including air-to-air combat, although the results would also be useful for programs concerning anti-ballistic missiles, anti-satellite or laser-guided munitions."

Who's ahead? An assessment of the U.S.-Soviet balance in laser and other directed-energy weapons is contained in a highly classified study conducted last year by the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. It states that:

"Overall, the U.S. and U.S.S.R. high energy laser (HEL) programs are roughly equal at the present time," the secret report says, "although the U.S. is believed to have an advantage in the pointing, tracking, optics and control technologies ..."

The Russians "appear to be ahead in short pulse lasers and electrical discharge lasers, which could be useful ... for military applications in the atmosphere."

Demonstrations Rock Grad Talks

United Press International
Protesters at college commencement speeches by top Reagan administration officials decried U.S. involvement in El Salvador, with 21 Fairfield University professors walking out during an honorary degree presentation to Secretary of State Alexander Haig.

About 25 demonstrators shouted during Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's address at the University of San Diego Sunday and police arrested one man who carried a sign saying "U.S. let El Salvador Be" and dragged him from the stadium.

Earlier Sunday at the San Diego School of Law, White House counselor Ed Meese was greeted by a boisterous demonstration against military spending abroad and a silent protest by graduates unhappy with his critical comments of the American Civil Liberties Union.

In the largest of the protests Sunday, 350 chanting, placard-carrying demonstrators gathered outside university grounds in Fairfield, Conn., two hours before Haig's 20-minute speech, in which he warned graduates that Soviet intervention in the Third World poses a threat to Western security that the United States "cannot ignore."

Haig said the U.S. was obliged to help Third World countries ward off Soviet intervention, calling it "a task of humanitarian concern."

"Moscow displays a keen interest in nations where there are strategic resources or routes vital to the economic well-being and political independence of the Western world.

A young man in the audience shouted repeatedly, "Mr. Haig is a murderer!" as the secretary of state approached the podium — to the jeers of about 1,000 graduates and their families. Security police also removed a woman who began screaming "Murderer!" "Murderer!"

The audience later gave Haig two standing ovations.

Earlier, 21 professors walked out as Haig was introduced to receive an honorary doctor of laws degree, protesting U.S. military aid to El Salvador.

"We're opposed to giving the honor of a degree to a man whose policies are so at odds with truth and justice," said Fairfield philosophy professor Lisa Newton, one of 58 faculty members who signed statements opposing Haig's visit.

In San Diego, Calif., Weinberger told graduating seniors one of the greatest threats to the nation is complacency in the face of a Soviet military buildup.

"The threats mounted by the Soviets, their surrogates, and the international network of terror they so ardently cultivate have neither ceased nor diminished," Weinberger said. "They are, to the contrary, flourishing and multiplying."

Claims Senator Bradley

Hidden Agenda Guides Social Security Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Bill Bradley accused the Reagan administration Sunday of having a "hidden agenda" in its controversial plan to cut Social Security benefits.

"My suspicion is the administration proposes to cut older Americans' benefits and use those funds to finance the deficit that's going to be created from this ridiculous tax program and dramatic increases in defense expenditures," Bradley, a member of the Senate Finance Committee, said in a UPI Roundtable broadcast.

"The amount of revenue that you're going to save from this is much more than you need to secure the viability of the Social Security," he said.

Bradley, D-N.J., attacked the administration proposal to trim benefits for early retirees and lighten disability standards as "inequitable."

"I think that it's excessive and I think that it's overly abrupt and I think there could be even a hidden agenda here," he said.

Bradley said he favors keeping the Social Security system solvent by financing the disability and medical components from general tax revenues rather than the Social Security tax.

"Of course, that would mean $27 billion, $28 billion dollars more on the deficit ... but at least it's an honest way to handle it," he said.

Under the administration plan, he said, "the big chunk of this cut is going to fall on those older Americans who are 62 and who have health problems and have to retire."

"The larger question" about Reagan's plan to cut Social Security, Bradley said, "is that he said he wouldn't do it and he has done it."

"That means either that he didn't understand what was awaiting him, he didn't understand the budget and what it took to cut the budget, or he's gone back on his word."

Criticizing the administration's proposed three-year 30 percent tax cut, Bradley said its effect would be to fuel inflation, raise interest rates beyond 20 percent "and push the economy as a whole into a recession."

But he said Reagan was under increasing pressure to modify the economic program and predicted the president would be forced to let Congress play a greater role in shaping it.

"There is not a great deal of confidence in this economic program," Bradley said, noting interest rates were once again very high.

"I think that there are a lot of people in the president's own party who are beginning to caution him in stronger tones about the economic course that he's following," Bradley said.

Bradley called for "a tax cut that is 50-50 between individuals and business," including elimination of the so-called marriage penalty that taxes married couples at a higher rate than single taxpayers and channels benefits to low and middle income taxpayers.

On the business side, he backed accelerated depreciation allowances, a lower tax on unearned income a possible cut in the capital gains tax and a tax credit for research and development.

Burger: Inmates Need Education

WASHINGTON (UPI) — To prepare criminals for jobs once they are released from prison, Chief Justice Warren Burger proposes providing inmates with some basic education and mandatory vocational training.

In a commencement address at George Washington University Law School Sunday, Burger also urged that the caliber of prison guards and attendants be upgraded with special training.

Burger's remarks were a follow-up to the program he called for in a February address to the American Bar Association in which he said increased crime had resulted in a "reign of terror in American cities."

In his commencement speech, Burger advocated mandatory educational programs for prisoners with incentives such as shortened sentences to induce participation.

"The first would be to make certain that every inmate who cannot read, write, spell and do simple arithmetic would be given that training — not as an optional matter but as a mandatory requirement," Burger said.

For the longer term prisoners, Burger recommended mandatory vocational training in the skilled and semi-skilled crafts.

"The objective would be that a prisoner would not leave the institution without some qualifications for employment in the construction, manufacturing or service industries."

Burger, who has been chief justice since 1969, also recommended the creation of a national academy of corrections to train prison guards and provide technical assistance to state and local prisons.

"In all too many state penal institutions the personnel — the attendants and guards — are poorly trained and some are not trained at all for the sensitive role they should perform."

Sears Tower Climber Reaches 'Peak'

CHICAGO (UPI) — A professional stuntman, dressed in a Spider-Man costume and using suction cups today scaled to the top of the 110-story Sears Tower, the first climber ever to reach the top of world's tallest building.

The man, tentatively identified as Dan Goodwin, 25, a professional stunt man from Las Vegas, was taken into police custody after reaching the top.

The climber, who eluded firefighters and ignored their pleas to climb on a scaffold to safety, was first spotted shortly after dawn. He reached the top of the skyscraper shortly before 10:30 a.m. EDT.

The climber used power suction cups and special equipment which allowed him to hook onto the window-washing machine channels that run up the face of the charcoal glass-and-steel building, police said.

He first eluded a firefighter at about the 43rd floor, police said.

He was allowed to climb to the top "in the interest of public — and personal — safety," said Sears spokesman Ernest Arma.

REVERSAL

Andretti Declared Indy Winner

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The United States Auto Club today reversed its decision and made Mario Andretti winner of the 1981 Indianapolis 500-Mile Race.

The official posting on the USAC office today dropped Bobby Unser to second place, with a one-lap penalty for passing under a yellow caution light.

The reversal came after a number of drivers complained they saw Unser commit the infraction on the 149th lap of Sunday's race.

The decision now gives Andretti two victories in the prestigious auto classic. He previously won Indy in 1969.

Andretti, Gordon Johncock, Johnny Rutherford and A.J. Foyt filed the protest at the USAC office.

The four veteran drivers claim Unser illegally passed several cars while a yellow caution light was on, a move contrary to USAC rules. Traditionally, Indy results do not become official until the following morning and, if the USAC upholds the protest, Unser could be prevented from gaining the crown.

Unser had plenty of luck Sunday.

First he saw a device to provide drinking water malfunction on the first lap of the race; then the radio went out in his car forcing him to rely on board signs from his pit crew. Three times the 47-year-old Allouquerque, N.M., managed to gain the lead only to lose it.

On the 182nd lap, Unser sped past Johncock to take the lead for good and the pole sitter went on to join brother Al Unser and four others who have won the Indy 500 at least three times.

"For the first time in winning a 500-mile race, I never had a close call," said Unser, who defeated former winner Andretti, the only driver on the same lap as the winner, by a dozen seconds and third place finisher Vern Schuppan by one lap. "I might have been on the other side of the track whenever a crash happened. Nothing was ever moving when I went past."

Unser, who won in 1968 and 1975, took the checkered flag on a hazy, warm day with an average speed of 139.06 miles per hour, the slowest since 1961. Eleven yellow flags totaling one hour, 42 minutes — an Indy record — made it the longest race in 20 years.

Many of the yellow lights came during accidents, including a serious one involving Danny Ongais and another involving Unser's teammate Rick Mears.

It was a decision by team owner Roger Penske to split his three-driver contingent that made Dame Fortune smile on Unser, who became the third straight and 11th overall driver to win the Indy from the pole position.

"Luck had a lot to do with it," said Penske, who now has two victories in the last three years. "It's a good thing we did, otherwise the fire in Mears' pit would have been in ours. We were just lucky I guess."

Penske would have had Unser next to Mears in the pits had he not fielded a third car driven by rookie Bill Alsup.

While luck was on Unser's side, so was the experience he gained in 19 straight Indy 500s. He waged a battle with 1969 champ Andretti and 1973 winner Gordon Johncock for most of the final 100 miles. Johncock dropped out six laps from the finish with a fuel pump problem.

"I really enjoyed this," Unser added. "I raced Mario, I raced Johncock, I raced (A.J.) Foyt. That was fun."

In all, nine different drivers enjoyed the lead at one point, including Ongais, who rammed into the wall on turn No. 3 and had to be cut from his Interscope-Cosworth and helicoptered to a local hospital for surgery on a broken leg and hip.

Rutherford, the defending champion, led for three laps but also went out with a fuel pump problem. Mark Mosely, who had qualified with the second best time in one of four stock block Chevy, was the first out of the race with a busted radiator.

The Penske victory may also signal the end of Chaparral's domination in the field. Rutherford powered the Jim Hall-built car to the national championship last year, but immediately fell way behind in 1981 since an Indy victory is worth 1,000 points to Unser in the standings. Mears led for one lap before his ill-fated pit stop in which he suffered first and second degree burns when flames hit him during a fuel tank fill. Four members of his crew also suffered some kind of burns. Andretti, Johncock, Tom Sneva, Gordon Smiley and rookie Josele Garza of Mexico led the race at some stage. Johncock wound up eighth, Smiley 22nd, Sneva 25th and Garza 23rd.

Foyt was 13th, Al Unser 18th and Mears 30th among the other former champions in the field.

Allison Wins World 600

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Bobby Allison had more than winning on his mind en route to his 63rd career victory in the World 600 NASCAR Grand National stock car race.

Less than halfway through the race at the Charlotte Motor Speedway on Sunday, Allison's younger brother Donnie was taken unconscious to a local hospital after a grinding, broadside collision with Dick Brooks entering the treacherous fourth turn.

The younger Allison was reported in guarded condition at Charlotte Memorial Hospital with a broken shoulder and ribs, a bruised lung and a concussion.

"I don't ever want to have to go through it again," Bobby Allison said of finishing a race knowing his brother had been seriously injured. "I saw the car all tore up and him slumped over the seat. I saw it took quite a while to get him out of the car. At that point, it was all just guessing (about Donnie's condition)."

Allison said he learned the details of his brother's condition in a radio conversation with his crew chief Waddell Wilson, but it was difficult to keep the injury out of his mind.

"I felt obligated to do my best," said Allison, who took home $60,000 after posting a relatively easy 8.2-second win over Harry Gant. "I think we have had the best brother relationship in sports. Obviously, I was relieved to hear he was okay."

Juantorena, Cubans Come To California June 13

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Alberto Juantorena, middle-distance hero of the 1976 Olympic Games, will head a team of Cuban track stars that will make a rare appearance in the United States at the Brooks Invitational Track and Field meet at the University of California on June 13.

He will be joined by dash specialist Silvio Leonard, hurdler Alejandro Casana, Tula Dells, Moscow Olympic bronze medalist in the discus, and other outstanding Cuban track stars.

The Cubans are appearing at the Brooks meet at the invitation of The Athletic Congress. They are also scheduled to participate in the TAC National Championship meet at Sacramento's Hughes Stadium on June 19-21.

Gallagher Sets 1600 Mark

SHIPPENSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Kim Gallagher of Upper Dublin set a new national girls' high school record in the class AAA 1,600-meter run with a time of 4:41.08 at the PIAA state track and field championships at Shippensburg State College Saturday.

She broke the old meet record of 4:53.27 set last year by Lynne Strauss of State College, who finished third this year.

Gallagher also won the 800-meter run in 2:06.62 to set Upper Dublin's second-place finish behind Chester, 30-28. A total of 15 new meet records, including Gallagher's national record, were set at the meet.

Freshman Blasts Two Home Runs

Parsons Propels Miami Past Gators

MIAMI (UPI) — Scott Parsons, a 19-year-old freshman who looks even younger than his years, has been trying to make up his mind about his future for most of this spring.

But now he apparently has decided to let the College World Series at Omaha make the decision for him.

Parsons hit two home runs Sunday to lead Miami to an 8-6 defeat of Florida in the finals of the NCAA South Regional Baseball Tournament and gave the Hurricanes their fourth straight trip to Omaha.

"It was a once in a lifetime thing to get two home runs in a game of this magnitude," he said.

Parsons, a .409 hitter, has been considering transferring to a junior college so he could be available for the major league draft next year instead of waiting for the end of his junior season.

The strong-armed outfielder from Livingston, N.J., said if the Hurricanes don't win the College World Series there is a good chance he would return to Miami. But he said if the Hurricanes do win, there is a strong possibility he would transfer.

Fireballing Neal Heaton will wind up his junior season at Omaha, and there are no questions. He's up for grabs in the June 8 draft and he'll go high.

Heaton won his 15th game of the season against no losses and second outing of the tournament Sunday despite giving up a three-run homer to Florida shortstop Steve Lombardozzi in the third and needing help from reliever Mike Browning in the eighth inning.

"I threw the one bad pitch in the third inning, and then I ran into trouble in the eighth," Heaton said. "I got a little upset over the error (by second baseman Mitch Seoane) and I shouldn't have let that happen. Other than that I pitched pretty well."

One of the most dramatic moments of the tournament came after Heaton gave up two runs on the error and back-to-back doubles by Dennis Foster and Craig McGraw in the eighth.

With McGraw on second, Browning came on and forced Steve Lombardozzi to pop up and got Mike Henley on a grounder. But next was burly first baseman David Falcone, the hitting hero of the Gators' come from behind victory over Middle Tennessee Saturday and Florida's most dangerous long ball hitter.

Pitts Smiling As Terrapins Grab Second Straight Championship

VILLANOVA, Pa. (UPI) — There were a couple of good reasons for Stan Pitts to smile when the 108th annual ICAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships ended on a beautiful day at Villanova Stadium.

As expected Sunday, Maryland used its superior strength in the field events for its second straight team title with 102 points in the two-day competition.

But Pitts, the Terrapins' first-year head coach, also was pleased that he managed to escape from a few of his speediest athletes to avoid the traditional post-meet dunking in the steeplechase water pit.

"I was a sprinter at Maryland, and that sure came in handy today," he chuckled.

In posting the ICAA's indoor-outdoor track and field double for the first time since 1966, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion Terps outdistanced runnerup Fairleigh Dickinson (81 points) and third-place Seton Hall (74).

Junior Vince Relly sparked Maryland's effort as the meet's only double winner. He captured the decathlon Friday with 7,494 points and came back Sunday to lead a 1-3-3 sweep in the pole vault with a winning attempt of 17 feet.

John Warner and Chip McCarthy, the ICAA indoor champion,

Browning — sping the behind-the-round antics of major league reliever Al Hrabosky by meditating, spitting, glaring and pounding the ball into his glove — worked Falcone to a 3-2 count and then struck him out swinging.

Browning appeared to be in trouble of his own making in the ninth when Steve Foster homered and Ron Cardieri singled with two outs, but then he fanned Foster to end the game and send the Hurricanes back to Omaha.

Miami Coach Ron Fraser called himself a "very happy man" and said he was optimistic about the College World Series.

"They put up a good fight. Going into the College World Series we seem to be peaking at just the right time," Fraser said.

Florida Coach Jay Bergman was philosophical. "It's tough to finish your year like this, one game away from the World Series, but we had a great season—we can't hang our heads," he said.

"These guys battled right down to the end. They had a chance there in the ninth and that was a hard thing to do with 7,000 people yelling at them," he said.

were second and third, respectively, as Maryland registered 25 points in the pole vault to pull away.

Sophomore Al Baginski was Maryland's only other individual champion, taking the discus with a toss of 186 feet, 10 inches.

The Terps showed their depth by scoring in 13 of the 21 events. On Sunday, they placed Darren Walker second in the 100-meter dash, finished second in the 1,600-meter relay and posted a third in the high jump.

Fairleigh Dickinson and Seton Hall each finished the weekend with three individual winners and a relay championship.

For FDU, Ephraim Serrette won the 100 in 10.41, ICAA indoor champion Richard Duma took the 800 in 1:48.38 and Solomon Chebor won the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 8:34.2.

Fergus Finally Captures Tourney

DUBLIN, Ohio (UPI) — After more than four years of paying his dues, Keith Fergus now knows the feeling.

Fergus, often called the best player on the PGA tour without a tournament win, shook off that label Sunday with a one shot triumph over Jack Renner in the $400,000 Memorial Tournament.

The 27-year-old Fergus, who picked up $63,000 for the victory, shot a 1-under-par 71 and had a 73-hole score of 4-under 284 on the extremely difficult 7,114-yard, par-72 Muirfield Village Golf Club course, while all but Renner among his challengers fell to the tricky breezes and lightning fast greens.

Renner matched Fergus' 1-under 69, but came up just short of his second tour victory.

"I often wondered what it felt like and if it was all worth it," said Fergus. "It was. Others have told me what it was like, but you have to feel it yourself."

Fergus, playing with Renner and Mike Sullivan, took the lead for good when Renner bogeyed the 14th hole to fall one shot off the pace and both players parred in.

Fergus, however, had to pull off a difficult shot on the final hole to maintain his lead after his drive caught a trap on the right side of the fairway.

"I was very satisfied with that shot," said Fergus, who used a 6-iron and hit the ball some 30 feet from the pin. He 2-putted for his par, sinking a 2-footer to lock up the win.

George Archer, Tom Kite and Craig Stadler, the third-round tri-leaders, all succumbed to the torturous playing conditions.

Archer and Stadler each had final round 75s and finished in a four-way tie for third at 287 with Tom Purtzer, who had a 73 Sunday, and Tom Watson, who shot a final round 74.

Kite, with a chance to win or tie, double bogeyed the 17th and bogeyed the 18th for a 78 and fell into a tie for seventh with Mark Hayes, Lanny Wadkins, Fuzzy Zoeller and Dan Halldorson at even-par 228.

Watson led briefly after a birdie on the fifth hole, but he bogeyed the sixth and followed with another bogey on the ninth and never was able to get anything going.

Fergus plans to celebrate his win with two weeks at home in Sugarland, Tex. "I'm going to take two weeks of R-and-R," he said. "I've been out five weeks now without a break and I feel I deserve it."

Our Heritage Of Freedom

This symbol of American independence, her Liberty Bell, was cast in London and was rung for the first time upon the occasion of the first reading of the Declaration of Independence. Inscribed prophetically on the huge iron bell are these words:

"Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

Mom Doesn't Need Kids' Approval

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a healthy, vibrant widow of 50. Dad has been dead for 12 years, and during that time my mother devoted her life to raising my brother, my sister and me. She is an R.N. with special training in intensive-care nursing.

So what's the problem? Mom wants to join a convent. I am overjoyed and feel that she has the right to follow the dictates of her conscience.

Mom has no encumbrances, as we kids are all raised and have families of our own. The order she has chosen has accepted her. The hang-up is my brother and sister. They are adamant in their opposition to Mom's decision. They act as though she is joining some kind of kooky cult!

It's tearing Mom apart. She wants so much to pursue her calling, but she wants the approval of all her children. How can I convince my brother and sister that Mom has the right to become a nun?

LOVING DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: Instead of trying to convince your brother and sister that your mother has the right to become a nun, convince your mother that she doesn't need the approval of her children to follow the dictates of her heart and conscience.

DEAR ABBY: I think it's disgusting the way those big-league baseball players chew tobacco. My husband and I used to enjoy sitting down with a snack to watch the games on TV, but it's so unappetizing to see those baseball players spitting a stream of tobacco juice all over the place, we hardly watch now.

Abby, why do baseball players chew tobacco?

UPSET STOMACHS IN ALLENTOWN PA.
DEAR ABBY: I don't know, but I'll ask. And if I get any juicy answers I'll let you know. (Steve Garvey, George Brett, Rod Carew, where are you when I need you?)

DEAR ABBY: I sympathize with Elsie, the 68-year-old widow who had a crush on her 61-year-old lawyer. She had never gone out with him, but she brought him brownies once and sent him a valentine.

My lawyer is also a bachelor, but I've never tried brownies or valentines. I just keep making out new wills. Soon he will have all my money for drawing new wills.

Poor Elsie asked if there was any harm in dreaming. She said it took her 25 years to get over George Brett. Have you any suggestions for me? It took me 30 years to get over Robert Taylor.

Thin gravy can be thickened with instant potato flakes instead of flour.

HAPLESS WIDOW IN NEW HAMPSHIRE
DEAR HAPLESS: Hang in there, honey! (I'm still not over Tyrone Power.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old straight-A student. I, along with everyone else in the class, recently had to write 100 times, "I will be quiet during class time," because the majority of the class was talking. (I wasn't.) I don't think that was fair, and I politely told the teacher so. She said that was the only way she could get everybody to be quiet.

Abby, don't you think teachers can find a more just and effective way to keep the kids from talking?
INNOCENT YET ARMSORE
DEAR INNOCENT: A more "just" way, perhaps, but possibly not one that's more effective.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in reply to the 21-year-old girl who said her boyfriend doesn't kiss her because she wears braces on her teeth.

Well, I have no idea why her boyfriend doesn't kiss her, but I'm sure the braces have nothing to do with it. You said that maybe the lips get cut from too much pressure. Wrong. I have a boyfriend with braces and he is better than anyone I've kissed! I had my lip cut once during a kiss and the guy didn't even wear braces!

You're never too young or too old to learn how to make people like you. Get Abby's new booklet of practical advice. Send $1 and a stamped (35 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Search Is On For Outstanding Dad

June 21 is Father's Day. The Herald is searching for the annual "Outstanding Dad," but we need the help of readers.

Tell us in your own words why you think a certain father is outstanding. First, write your name, full address and telephone number at the top of a page. Then add the name of your candidate, giving his full name, address and telephone number. About a page and one-half of information on standard size paper is sufficient.

Submit entries to OURSELVES Editor Doris Dietrich, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771, no later than noon on June 11.

School Artists Awarded

National recognition in art has come to middle and senior high school students in Brevard, Orange, Osceola and Seminole counties through the Scholastic Art Awards program.

The announcement of national awards by Scholastic Inc. climaxes a program which started with regional Scholastic Art Awards exhibitions sponsored by Robinson's of Florida in February.

The prestigious Hallmark Honor Prize of $100 for the Central Florida Region was awarded to Michelle Roseland, 16, of Satellite High School for a pencil drawing, "Sleeping Child."

Miss Roseland also received the Sentinel Star's $300 Best of Show Scholarship Award in the Central Florida Exhibition for "Sleeping Child."

Gold Medals were awarded to Herbert Hoover Junior High School students Lynn Norrie and Emily Rhodes, both for ink drawings, and James Ervin, Lyman High School, for a water color. The pieces will be among the 473 entries winning gold medals and Hallmark prizes that will make up the 54th National High School Art Exhibition to be held in New York City June 10-30.

Honorable Mention Certificates were awarded to Lisa Bender, Lake Brantley High School—Printmaking; Donna Reynolds, Lakeview Middle School—Mixed Media, and Lynn Funk and Elizabeth Lamb, DeLaura Junior High School in Satellite Beach—both pencil drawings.

Couple To Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Gebhardt of Paola will celebrate their 55th wedding anniversary Wednesday with a family get-together.

They were married on May 26, 1926 in St. Louis, Mo. They had two children, William F. Gebhardt Jr. and Franklin I. Gebhardt.

They also have five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Prior to retiring, Mr. Gebhardt had his own construction business.

Publicity Workshop Offered

The Council of Arts and Sciences will present the Fifth Annual Publicity Workshop on June 12 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Rollins College, Bush Auditorium, in Winter Park.

The workshop is designed especially for nonprofit organizations and provides necessary "how to" information on developing an effective publicity campaign. Public service organizations are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to meet and discuss publicity problems with the professionals.

Representatives from the media and public relations will be on hand to conduct sessions on "Writing the News Release," "Preparing Radio and TV Spots," "Mapping Out the Publicity Campaign," and "Working with the Media." This year's featured speaker is Carole Nelson, News Anchorwoman, WFTV Channel 9.

Registration for the workshop is $12 for members of the Council of Arts & Sciences and $15 for non-members. The fee includes a publicity handbook with "how to" information and a directory of local media contacts. A better boxed lunch is available for $5.

For registration information call the Arts Council at THE-ARTS (843-2787).

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 26, 1981

Lady Luck tends to favor you this coming year, but you may have difficulty recognizing opportunities when they occur. Toward your next birthday your judgment improves considerably.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Looking to do things the easy way, instead of the right way, could deprive you of success today. Sometimes shortcuts work, but they could lead to dead ends now. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A failure to get the point today could cause others to lose interest in what you have to sell or tell them. Don't drag out your story.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Avoid doing business today with persons or firms who have stung you previously. If they fool you again, you'll have only yourself to blame.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your judgment is reasonably good today, but there's a possibility you could be easily swayed from it by others. Stick to your guns if you think you're right.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): This is one of those days where you could focus more effort on excuses than on action. Responsibilities won't melt away by pretending they're not important.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23): Be careful today not to hurt the feelings of someone who truly cares for you, by being more attentive than you should to his or her competition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Do not promise to do things within specified time limits today if you feel in advance the schedule can't be met. Make your projections realistic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Give those who work for you today the benefit of the doubt. If they feel you have no faith in their abilities, their performance will suffer.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19): Unfortunately, you may not have enough discipline today to maintain the budget you've established for yourself. Try to live within your means.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20): You won't have any trouble getting projects started today, but there's a chance you'll lose interest in them before they are completed. Do less, but do it well.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): To avoid misunderstandings today, any important instructions whether issued by you or given to you should be in writing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If at all possible today, try to make it a point not to borrow or lend anything. A friendship could be jeopardized if either party handles matters poorly.

Even At Rest Body Uses Energy

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I tried to get a basal metabolism test like you once suggested to find out how many calories I need. I'm a small woman with a weight problem — you might say short and fat. I can't lose weight on the diets most people give me and I am sure it is because I don't need as many calories as other people. I'm told that the BMR test that used to be done is not done anymore. Do you have any other suggestions?

DEAR READER — You are referring to my observation that if your doctor knows how much oxygen your body uses at rest he can calculate a minimal daily calorie requirement for you. It is based on knowing that people in a fasting resting basal state will use 4,825 calories for each liter of oxygen the body consumes. There is a specific amount of oxygen needed per calorie liberated from a person's food. This is not new information, but solid physiological knowledge of metabolism.

We use energy just to support our body functions at rest. This is your basal metabolism (not basal metabolic rate which is an expression related to your body surface or skin area). An average adult male at rest will use about 1,500 calories at rest during the 24-hour day. The rest of the energy your body needs is for activity, whether it is work or play or even such things as brushing your teeth.

The oxygen consumption under basal conditions can be measured by a pulmonary function laboratory or any number of cardiovascular laboratories that do exercise testing. By calculating the oxygen consumption for 24 hours from such a test and then multiplying by 24, you will know how many calories your body should use at rest for 24 hours. Clearly, if your diet is restricted to that level, any physical effort at all should result in using stored calories such as body fat. An oxygen consumption measurement helps to provide facts about what the individual needs for calories. You shouldn't restrict your calories too much too long as that can be unhealthy. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, to provide you the basics of a plan you can follow. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1351, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It is a good idea to exercise while you are dieting, particularly if you are small and need to restrict your calories a great deal to lose weight.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you told where people can get zinc in larger tablets. The largest I can get is 50 mg.

DEAR READER — That is large enough. I don't approve of popping large doses of zinc on your own. That may be a good way to increase your chances of developing fatty-cholesterol deposits in your arteries and increase your risk of heart attacks and strokes. A good study from the University of New Mexico, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, October 24-31, 1980, showed that men taking large doses of zinc had a significant decrease in the high density "good cholesterol" level in the blood. This is thought to increase vascular disease.

Everyone does need zinc. Most people get it unless there is a problem in absorption or increased use as in tumors. The best dietary sources of zinc are meat, liver, eggs and seafood, oysters in particular. The Recommended Daily Dietary Allowance for zinc is only 15 mg.

WIN AT BRIDGE
By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Soslag

Oswald: "Jeremy Flint and David Greenwood, two of Great Britain's best players have produced a book called, 'Instructions for the Defense.' There is considerable meat there for the student."

Alan: "The last chapter of the book shows hands from actual play where the defenders went wrong and explains why they shouldn't have."

Oswald: "West opened his singleton club. East took his ace and returned the right (an obvious suit preference signal). West ruffed and led the four of hearts. East took his ace and after thought led back a club. South ruffed with the jack and night had fallen."

Alan: "West blamed East for not returning a heart. East blamed West for not leading his king of hearts to start with."

Oswald: "The authors give West 90 percent of the blame. They point out that West had nothing to lose by leading the heart king. If East held just three clubs he could overtake that king of hearts with his ace and give West the club ruff."

We agree that West was somewhat at fault, but that East should have led back the heart anyway."
