Death of E. W. Rowland

Sanford was shocked on Wednesday afternoon to learn of the sudden death of E. W. Rowland, who died at his home on Magnolia avenue about 5:30.

Mr. Rowland had not been feeling well for several days and coming in from his run that morning after being laid out several hours by the wreck near Orange City Junction, he complained of being worn out and laid down. His family did not disturb him during the day and allowed him to sleep as was his custom. Late in the afternoon Mrs. Rowland going in to see him found him awake and upon his request to get him something to eat she left the room and returning later found him dead. His soul had fled without a moment's warning and his spirit winged its flight with no pain or sorrow to mar the ethereal glow that still remained upon his face. Physicians were summoned by the distracted wife, but it was too late, and it is thought that heart trouble superinduced by an attack of acute indigestion caused his death.

Seldom has there a man been taken from our midst that occasioned such grief as the sudden passing of E. W. Rowland. He was universally loved and respected not only by his fellow workers but by the citizenship of Sanford. Ed Rowland, as he was familiarly called by all who knew him came to Sanford from his home at Springfield, Ill., some twenty years ago and brought with him not only the ripe experience in his chosen profession of railroad engineer but also the power of making friends with fellow employees and employers alike. All during his life in this city he was the mediator and father confessor for the railroad boys and by his gentle persuasion and clear, level-headed ideas of right and wrong he kept peace and prosperity in the ranks and his death leaves an aching void that will be difficult to fill.

The best and the best that one can say of E. W. Rowland is that he was a man, every inch of him and he treated his friends as men never failing to give them wise counsel and advice, every ready to help the needy and smooth the wrinkles from life's countenance and the thorns from life's pathway. His was a life of useful living for his family and friends, his home life being the ideal one of a loving husband and father.

Mr. Rowland was in the 56th year of his life when he was called home and was just upon the eve of retiring from active service to enter into an official position with the B. of L. E. the railroad order that he had served so faithfully for many years. He literally grew up with the railroads of this section of the state and ranked among the oldest engineers in point of service on the system. The Atlantic Coast Line loses a valuable employee and one who had their interests at heart. The employees lose a friend and counselor, and the city loses an upright, honest and industrious home builder from their midst and one that had the best interests of the city at heart all the time. He was a Past Exalted Ruler of the Elks, a member of the B. of L. E.

He leaves a wife, a daughter and a son to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father and loss of friends in the southern states and in the middle west, where he occupied the same position of trust and confidence among employers and fellow employees.

The funeral services occur today at 2:30 from the late residence at 607 Magnolia and will be in charge of the Messrs. Elks and Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Dr. Brownlee of the Presbyterian church will officiate and interment will be made in Lakeview cemetery.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the afflicted family of the deceased.

Regular meeting of the Eastern Star on next Tuesday evening. As this is the time for the election of officers a full attendance is requested.

Congregational Church

Next Sunday night at 7 o'clock the subject for consideration will be "The Thief and Paradise." Good music and a kind and cordial welcome is extended to all. Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. and morning service at 11 o'clock. The C. E. Society at 6 o'clock.

Theatre Roof Completed

The roof of the Allen Theatre is now completed and the carpenters are busy working on the stage. The new theatre will soon be completed and will be thoroughly equipped to take care of every movie and road show.

Fort Reed Church

Don't stay away from the preaching service on account of the cold, as the house will be heated. Remember the time next Sunday, 3 p. m. sharp. Come and bring your friends. Rev. Steinmeyer will preach.

Methodist Church

Come to the Methodist church next Sunday. Plans are made for interesting services. The pastor will preach in both services. The Sunday school at 9:45 will be inspiring, the opening number will be by the Boys Band. This will be the first time the band has played in Sunday school. Large numbers are attending this school.

The morning sermon on "Family Religion" will be followed by the Communion.

The Senior Epworth League will hold its devotional meeting in the Brotherhood rooms in the church at 6:15. Miss Edna Plant will be the leader.

The evening service at 7:00 o'clock. Good music. Gospel sermon. Members to be received. All invited.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in the parlors of the Baptist church Thursday, Dec. 3rd, at 3 o'clock with Mrs. W. T. Colbourne, the president in the chair. Interesting plans for work in the near future were discussed and decided upon.

It was voted that the Union should purchase several copies of that authoritative temperance reference book, "The Compendium of Truth" to be placed in the town and school libraries, in order that the public may have exact information at hand on this vital subject.

The announcement that Mrs. Lillian Tolson, a lecturer of prominence will be in Sanford and speak at one of the exercises at the Methodist church, Dec. 19th, will be a general interest. Due notice of details will be given in the Herald later.

Educational Criticism

A deputation waited on the president of the British board of education some time ago to assist upon this point. "That the present system of education tended to fit the child more for the life of a clerk and to unfit him for rural and agricultural life." And it might have been added that not only does it fit him for the life of a clerk but it unfits him for getting beyond that. It has put him through a system that has kept back all tendency to develop any initiative of his own.—Montreal Herald

Husband Had His Good Part

A London misdeed worker tells how shocked she was to encounter this bit of cynicism in the slums. The conversation was between two women whose married life had not been particularly felicitous. "Well," said one of them, "of course we have our troubles with all of 'em. But I'll say this for my second husband—he's better than my first. He's in jail so much that practically all I earn I has for myself."

Opportunity's Gates Open

It may be said that the typical American story of the rise from small beginnings to substantial achievements has not been told for the last time. The conditions which render the telling possible still exist, says the Philadelphia Ledger. For those who leave college as well as for those who lack this preparation for the struggle of life, the path is paved with chances which insight, pluck and perseverance can change to solid success.

Wanted to Be Hospitable

When I went to Paris, writes Gen. Torace Porter, I told my friends that any of them who got within a mile of the embassy must come to see me. The latchstring, I told them, was out; there was always a spare seat in my row at church. The latchstring was often pulled; the seat in church remained vacant. One of my friends who visited me stopped his subscription to the Christian Observer. He said he didn't want any observers while he was in Paris.

SANFORD ELKS A LODGE OF SORROW ON LAST SUNDAY

LARGE CROWD PRESENT AT THE MEMORIAL SERVICES AT THE STAR THEATRE.

The memorial services of the Sanford Lodge of Elks on Sunday at the Star Theatre was said by those present to be the best that the lodge has ever held and certainly the exercises were most impressive and the large audience went from the theatre building with the feeling that Sanford Elks had done all in their power to revere the memory of their dead in a most fitting manner.

The memorial services that occur in every part of the United States on December 5th are looked forward to by not only the Elks and their families but their many friends outside of the order who appreciate their services greatly. Sanford lodge was extremely fortunate this year in not only having an able speaker to deliver the oration but also in the selection of two good local eulogists. The musical program was also replete with good selections and the whole assembly merged into a most beautiful and appropriate service.

The stage of the Star Theatre was packed tighter than it did on Sunday afternoon being draped with garlands and stripes emblematic of the order and the entire front of the footlights banked with ferns, palms and flowers. The speaker's desk was framed in the sparkling arches of the huge elks' head of the lodge and with the light appropriately shaded the stage effect from the house was greatly enhanced. The services were conducted to take place at three o'clock and promptly at that time the members of the lodge met in their club rooms to the number of about 100 strong.

As they entered the building the of doors from their places and Exalted Ruler Neal, Past Exalted Ruler Beck and Barnes, Dr. Andrew A. Murphree, Chaplain Peck and W. F. Shelby and Geo. A. DeCottes occupied the front of the stage. The body members of the lodge were seated in the front of the hall and the members of the Elks' lodge were seated in the rear. The exercises were called to order by the members of the lodge and the musical program was given by the Elks' lodge.

The oration was delivered by Mrs. Bessie M. Holly, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. F. J. G. Morris, Miss Dorothy Frazier, Miss Gretchen, Miss Olga Schultz and Miss Grace Selby each a beautiful number. The Elks' lodge and after a prayer by Chaplain Peck, Cecil Lawton of Orlando rendered two beautiful baritone solos, "The Rose and the Lily" and "The Lord of the Light" that were greatly enjoyed.

Miss Gladys Morris gave Thanksgiving with much expression and this young artist added new laurels to those already won. Accompanied by Miss Frances Aspinwall, Mrs. Lucille Aspinwall sang "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears" and this beautiful rendition of Harker's masterpiece rank with the very best of the genre. The eulogies were given by W. F. Shelby and George DeCottes were worthy of any man more mention. Mr. Shelby paid a glowing tribute to the memory of his departed friend and Mr. DeCottes this lit. on Wednesday and Mr. Shelby "Praise him in his heart."

Finally, the eulogy was given by Geo. A. DeCottes in memory of the late Dr. Andrew A. Murphree. Mr. DeCottes' eulogy was one of the best efforts of former years and both he and Mr. Shelby were the recipients of their friends upon the tablets of love and memory. "At Close of Day" by the ladies' quintette was another beautiful selection.

The oration delivered by Dr. A.

A. Murphree, president of the University of Florida was a treat to all that heard it. Replete with good advice, logic entwined with flowers for the departed and love for the living. Dr. Murphree carried his listeners to sublime heights and in simple language easily understood by the smallest child present carried his truths of life home to all. Dr. Murphree was sick with grippe on Saturday morning but would not disappoint his brother Elks and drove from Gainesville in his car to be present, and his address and his courage to be here won him a large place in the hearts of Sanford Elks and those who heard him. He is one of the greatest men in the state and his work as an educator is bringing him into national notice.

The memorial services closed with the lodge work and the singing of the song "Blest be the Tie that Binds" by the lodge and audience and another lodge of sorrow had slipped into history but will not soon be forgotten by the members of 1241 Sanford.

To the committees on program, speakers, stage and decorations and to Mrs. Roumillat, Mrs. Minnie Jones and Mrs. DeCottes, who assisted in decorating the stage and also those who so kindly donated the flowers the lodge owes a large vote of thanks that will be officially given.

The memorial services contributed to give Sanford another upward lift in many ways and strangers from a distance who attended said they had never witnessed a more beautiful ceremony for seen more interest displayed by a local lodge.

Will Bring Ministers Here Among the visitors to the city on Sunday was Kline Graham, secretary of the University of Florida, Mr. Graham and the editor of The Herald were in Gainesville many years ago when the University of Florida was in its infancy and the athletic association needed money. We organized the University Ministers of which The Herald editor was a participant and the Ministers still exist with some of the old Gainesville men in it. Mr. Graham states that he will bring this organization to Sanford some time during the month of January. They carry their own band and give a performance as good as any professional one in any part of the state. We will give them a good home if they ever come to Sanford.

Sanford Defeated On Mike Athletic Field at Winter Park yesterday the academy eleven of Rollins College defeated the Sanford High School boys in one of the best games of the season. The score was 12 to 6. The last work of the academy was done in the early part of the game. The eleven suffered from over confidence towards the last.

Black started away at times during the game with his running with the ball. He repeatedly dodged the opposing interferences and made considerable gains for the Blue and WW. Lutz's tackling was a feature of the afternoon as was the sunshine game played by Fletcher, who was at his best in the recovery of forward passes.

Sanford played a good game throughout but was outclassed by the academy team both as to weight and experience. The Seminole county boys made their own touchdown toward the last of the fourth quarter, and when the referee's whistle blew at the close of the game the pigskin was in Rollins' possession and had been caught by Fletcher on a forward pass. A large crowd witnessed the game, several from Sanford and Orlando attending. The "Celebrity City" boys took supper at the college commons, leaving shortly afterward for their winter trip. Winter Park News.

Allen Treated the Children A. G. Allen of Allen's Theatre treated all the school children yesterday, giving them a free ticket to the show. The picture was a comedy and especially for the children and they thoroughly enjoyed themselves as Mr. Allen had them laugh and yell to their hearts content.

BRICK ROAD BONDS ARE VALIDATED SOON TO SELL

SEMINOLE COUNTY WILL HAVE BEST SYSTEM OF GOOD ROADS IN THE STATE

The bonds for the new brick roads in the sum of $250,000 have been validated by the circuit court and nothing remains now but the few minor details of publishing the sale of the bonds and the next sixty days should see them sold and the work of paying the roads starting.

This new bond issue will take care of the stretch of road that now exists between the limits of the former special road district in this county and the boundary line of Orange county. This road is not in good condition at present as the work of keeping it in repair has practically stopped, awaiting the brick paving and this piece of road between the counties is very noticeable to the tourists, being the only bad part of the twenty five miles between Sanford and Orlando.

This road will probably receive the attention of the contractors first and will be built of brick with concrete filling which is said to be the best road building in the south. The road from Sanford to Oviedo and from Sanford to Geneva will also be laid, thus giving these two at once a complete system of good roads. It will also give these two cities a brick street through the heart of them.

Another road to be built with the new issue of bonds will be the stretch between the end of the bridge on the Sylvia road and the Wekiwa ferry, which is the last county line. Here our county will be linked by Clarence Woods' sand and gravel and we will have a good opportunity to get the best of the road material and each will have the same travel.

With these brick roads built in this county every part of it will practically have an outlet over good roads and the new bridge on the Sylvia road and the Wekiwa ferry will complete a system of good roads and bridges second to none in the state.

SIXTY-FOURTH CONGRESS CONVENED YESTERDAY

Washington, Dec. 7.—Congress assembled and organized yesterday for the session which is expected to be the greatest within the memory of the present generation. Four hours work in the house saw Speaker Clegg returned to the chair. Representative Mann returned to the leadership of the Republican minority and the introduction of 2,000 bills and resolutions, many of them proposing changes of national defence and many more in opposition; the reorganization of constitutional amendments, to enfranchise women and a miniature rules fight which flickered out with the adoption of last year's rules with a few changes.

In the senate practically nothing was done except the election of Senator Clarke of Arkansas as president pro tempore. Vice President Murphree was absent because of the illness of his wife.

House Speaker Clegg, after sending a joint committee to the White House to give the necessities of the opening of the session, adjourned until tomorrow when the real business of the session begins with President Wilson's address to a joint session in the hall of the house at 10:30 o'clock.

ADVERTISE THE STATE IN THE NORTH IS THE PLAN

"FLORIDA FIRST" COMMISSION HAVE MADE PLANS TO DO A GREAT WORK

The "Florida First" Commission that will meet in this city on December tenth to make final arrangements to advertise the state of Florida is making great progress in interesting the people of this state in the idea of placing advertising throughout the north. The following from the Jacksonville Metropolitan shows the results of some of their investigations.

Members of the "Florida First" Commission are veterans in the art of publicity. With the object in view of placing the "Florida First" advertising in cities and states where it will do the most good, they sent out letters of inquiry to newspapers throughout the country asking about the condition of business. Florida has so many good things to offer to those seeking health, recreation, investment or place of future abode, that the commission intends to present her claims to the people of prosperous communities only. Experience has demonstrated that in cities and localities where the people are enjoying a season of prosperity it is easy to interest the leisure and wealthy classes in a winter trip to Florida for a period of outdoor life and recreation. In many cases, these people have during the past twelve months, undergone a period of strenuous endeavor and nerve wracking work. The situation is now very much relieved by the era of prosperity which is prevalent in so many sections of the country.

Responses to letters of inquiry disclose a most remarkable condition in the eastern and northern states. Manufacturing is up to a 100 per cent capacity, the crops of the country have been made and exceed in volume and price the records of previous years for some time back. Money is easy all through the states, and a general feeling of confidence and optimism prevails. Most of the big business and manufacturing enterprises, if the country have resumed the payment of regular dividends. Orders are in hand that in many cases insure good business for many months to come.

Thousands of people have the time and means to enjoy a season of rest and recreation. The "Florida First" Commission intends to lay before these many thousands the advantages of the Sunshine State, where they can live out of doors every day through the winter months, where they can play golf, tennis, fishing, hunting, automobile and enjoy other healthful pleasures.

The investigations of the "Florida First" Commission as to business conditions at present prevailing have disclosed a most encouraging condition in many sections of the country. Take for instance, Pittsburg and vicinity. The dispatch, in a recent issue published a story in which it says that manufacturing plants are working to the utmost limit, that payrolls are bigger than ever, that present orders will take one year to fill, and that prosperity after the war ends is assured by demands already made. It says that Pittsburg manufacturers are riding the crest of the greatest wave of prosperity ever known in the history of the district that the daily payrolls of the manufacturing plants amount to more than one million dollars a day, and that skilled labor is at a premium.

Of business in general this Pittsburg Dispatch article says: "Every business house in the district is getting its particular quota of the wages paid, and every branch of trade is doing a land office business. The crowds on the streets and in the department stores are larger than ever before at this time of year, and the holiday season approaching promises to be the greatest celebration of the Yuletide ever known in the history of the Pittsburg district."

A delegation of Sanford men will leave here tomorrow for Gainesville and Hot Springs Lake. A. P. Conolly, R. J. Holly, L. A. Bramley, Schille, Manges and several others will go on the trip. C. R. Walker and E. T. Wood will leave for the lower east coast to talk up the St. Johns river route for the inland canal. On Monday next a delegation, headed by Messrs. Walker and Woodruff and Conolly will go to Jacksonville at the behest of the engineers of the inland canal.

NEW BRIDGE ACROSS ST. JOHNS RIVER AT MONROE

PILING IS BEING DRIVEN AND THE DRAW IS TO BE MADE SOON

The bridge across the St. Johns at Monroe ferry is a fact. The men are busy at work driving the immense piles for the wooden structure that will form the approach from each side of the bridge and this work will be finished by the first of January. This work is being done by the Beazley Contracting Co. of Savannah and the work is in charge of N. W. Shuman.

As soon as the approaches are finished the steel drawbridge will be placed in position by the Virginia Steel and Construction Co., and the bridge will be opened to traffic by February first if possible. While the ferry service at the Monroe road has always been first class in every respect the bridge will be much better and facilitate the crossing at this point. In the times when there are immense crowds going to Daytona Beach this ferry has been crowded for hours and with the new bridge in position they can be handled much quicker and safely.

The bridge is being built for Michael Sholtz and associates and the people here are anxious for the trolley line to be extended from Daytona to Orlando, via Sanford, and this bridge is thought to be the opening wedge for this great work of construction to be carried out. Mr. Sholtz now owns and operates the trolley line in Daytona and Daytona Beach and also owns the new concrete bridge across the Halifax land canal.

With the new bridge built across the St. Johns river at Monroe it will not be a matter of time before the counties of Volusia and Seminole purchase lands on a new drawbridge across the upper St. Johns river at the Osteen ferry, making a good road all the way to New Smyrna and the beach at Coronado. The summer of 1916 should see many improvements in the roads and bridges leading to the fine beaches along the Atlantic coast and the people of interior Florida need not leave the state to spend a pleasant winter in a few hours they can be at the beach and enjoy old ocean with the added pleasure of a fine trip going and coming.

Arrivals New Sanford House R. H. Bishop, R. M. Coleman, Jacksonville; W. J. Carraway, S. J. Carnes, Tampa; Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Rigby, Lawrence, Rigby, Ormond, Geo. Hamilton, John Westcott, Tampa, M. P. Tibbets and wife, Brockton, Mass.; R. S. Levy, Newark, N. J.; P. Manges, and wife, Seattle, Pa.; D. Latker, New York; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Sartor, Louisville; Anson Hopkins, Daytona; G. W. Kester, Baltimore; J. J. Coppinger, Jacksonville; and R. S. Miles, New York.

Improving Sanford House S. J. Carnes has arrived in the city from Tampa and has a force of men busy papering and painting the interior of the Sanford House. Mr. Carnes expects to install lavatories in every room and place more bath rooms in the hotel and will make the interior as comfortable as possible by the first of January. Meantime he wishes the travelling public to know that he can accommodate them with rooms and everything possible will be done to make them comfortable.

Notice, Royal Arch Masons At the regular meeting of Monroe Chapter No. 15 Thursday evening, December 9th, the election of officers for the year of 1916 will be a part of the business program. Your attendance is earnestly requested. Oliver J. Miller, Acting High Priest. J. F. Karnatz, Secretary.

LAKE WILL BUILD

Hon. Forrest Lake, member of the legislature, president of the Seminole Bank, president of the Commercial Club and with several other titles is counted among the progressive citizens of Sanford. Having made his money in Sanford, Mr. Lake believes in spending it in Sanford and his latest move in this direction is the determination to build a beautiful home here in keeping with the developments of the city. Mr. Lake owns one of the finest pieces of property in the city at the corner of Park and Sixth street and will move his present home from the lot and build a fine residence in the early spring.

Dr. Murphree Here The many friends and graduates here of the University of Florida were glad to have Dr. Murphree, president of the University here on Sunday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Murphree and Kline Graham and they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Holly while here. Dr. Murphree is one of the foremost educators in the south and is very popular among the students. The University this year has about 350 students and is in a most flourishing condition. Much of the success of the school can be traced to the great organization work of Dr. Murphree and his ability to get the most out of the students. To know Dr. Murphree is to love him and the University is fortunate indeed in having such a man at the head of the state institution.

Socials at East Sanford There will be a poverty social at the home of W. W. Dresser Friday evening, Dec. 10, admission 5c. Refreshments of coffee and gingerbread. Proceeds will be used for Christmas tree at Moore's Station church. Everybody welcome.

Cecil Lawton of Orlando was in the city Sunday coming up to assist the Elks in their memorial exercises. Mr. Lawton has a grand voice and is always ready to please the public. He sang two numbers at the exercises on Sunday that were greatly appreciated.

OF INTEREST TO THE FARMERS

MANY GOOD SUGGESTIONS ARE ADVANCED BY THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT FLORIDA UNIVERSITY

Chickens Need Pastures

Green pastures is just as essential to the chicken's life processes as it is to the dairy or beef animal. Of course chickens can live without it but they will not produce economically without some green stuff.

Now that all the wild vegetation is killed or tough, A. K. Spencer, district agent for the University of Florida Extension Division, suggests that dwarf Essex rape or oats can be sown for them. These two crops will make excellent forage for the chicks and will supply pasture until spring crops can be planted. Plant about half an acre for each 100 chickens. The rape should be sown at the rate of 8 pounds to the acre. Chicks can be turned on it as soon as it is three inches high.

Give Farm Animals the Feed they Like

How many farmers respect the appetites of their animals? It is not a matter of sentiment to give them the feeds they like. It means dollars. Let the pigs have the food he selects. His appetite is governed by the needs of his body. If his system gets the proper nourishment he will fatten.

C. K. McQuarrie of the University of Florida is of the opinion that a great deal of effort, feed and money are wasted in the malnutrition of animals. Give them a balanced ration of the things they like best and the trouble will be repaid.

Wild Fruits Should be Domesticated

Is there anything better than huckleberry pie. If there is it must be mighty good. Huckleberries grow wild in Florida, but on most farms no place has been left for them. A small plot near the house should be devoted to this and other wild fruits. C. K. McQuarrie, state agent for the University of Florida Extension Division is urging farmers to preserve such native wild fruits as can be found in their respective localities.

Blackberries and dewberries could also be domesticated and would amply pay for the attention given them. Dewberries should be trained up on trellises or wires and cultivated. They respond wonderfully to a little care.

A few mulberries should be planted on the farm. Mockingbirds, blue jays, woodpeckers and other birds are very fond of them and will not bother other fruits which they can get the mulberry. Mulberries also make good pies. These fruits should be planted during the winter before they have started growth for the following season.

Set Eggs in December for Early Broilers

Early chicks usually take the top of the market. Eggs should be set in December for spring fryers. It is well to place them from 6 to 8 extra eggs in the incubator for each 100 set. These will take the place of those which test infertile.

A. P. Spencer, district agent for the University of Florida Extension Division, cites one poultry man who uses the following method for obtaining fertile eggs. Old cocks are mated with pullets, and the cockerels are mated with two year old hens. This gives from 90 to 95 per cent fertile eggs.

Fire Rids Fields of Stumps

Stumpy fields are expensive to cultivate. One man can do twice as much work with a two horse cultivator as he can with a one horse implement. But where stumps are numerous it is impossible to use improved machinery. Then, too, even when the stumps will admit the two horse cultivator, driving around the stumps will break down enough of the crop in a year or two to pay for taking out the stumps.

The fall and winter give the general farmer opportunity to clear his land of stumps at small cost. The weather is often dry and other work is not pressing. Dynamite and pullers are frequently employed for this work, but C. K. McQuarrie, state agent for the University of Florida Extension Division, suggests that fire is an efficient and cheap method of taking out the stumps. This is especially true of pine.

If the farmer will fire the stumps during a dry spell and get them well heated they will soon burn out. They will need some attention from time to time to keep the fires going, but it will not require more than half an hour or two each day. Stumps burn better during the fall and winter and they are not so hot to work around as in summer. The total expense for each stump taken out in this way need not exceed more than a few cents. Furthermore the expense will be rapidly repaid by the ability to use better tools.

Cattle Tick Ordered to Move on

Some time ago the United States Department of Agriculture sent out a map of the south showing the progress of tick eradication. Tick free areas were in white, and tick infested were red. At that time Florida was the only totally red state on the map. Across the top was the legend, "Make a white spot on this map." A white spot has been made on the map. Concerning the tick free area in Florida, Dr. C. F. Dawson, State Veterinarian has the following to say:

"Broward and Dade counties are and have been free of cow ticks for some time, although they have not yet been declared free by the Secretary of Agriculture. The authorities are waiting for certain facilities to be provided which will be necessary to permit the introduction of tick free animals into the freed territory, and at the same time to admit animals under conditions that will prevent a reinfestation of the territory.

"In addition to the two counties, Broward and Dade, a large area in South Palm Beach county has been inspected by Federal and state inspectors, and they report this territory also free of the cow tick. This territory includes all that part of Palm Beach county south and west of the Hillsboro drainage canal.

"If the county commissioners of Palm Beach county formally request the State Board of Health to protect this territory, this will be done and the canal will be used as a quarantine line, south and west of which no tick animals will be permitted. There may be nearly four thousand square miles of land in the area that it is proposed to free from the Federal quarantine and that will require protection against reinfestation with the cow tick."

Marguerite Clark Attains Greatest Triumph of her Stage or Screen Career in Famed Dual Role

"The Prince and the Pauper" is one of the most delightful and thoroughly enjoyable of Mark Twain's many works. It is a film that will be appreciated by young folks of all ages, for in its movement and clever humor with its dashes of dramatic thrills that frequently sweep the spectator off his feet, it were only to replace him with a laugh, the story combines all the elements of a great artistic triumph such as can be conceived only by the mind of a master, and adequately interpreted only by a star of the unusual ability of Miss Clark.

The photoplay catches with an entire fidelity the spirit of the great author transferring to the screen the indelible world of rich humor which has made the story a household treasure, beloved by every one to whom it is familiar.

Marguerite Clark, who is featured in the dual role of the "Prince and the Pauper," reaches the artistic climax of her career in her marvelous interpretation of these distinctly different, yet closely associated characters. Her exquisite artistry was never displayed to better advantage than in her spirited enactment of the charming prince and her sympathetic portrayal of the pathetic little beggar.

The film has given unlimited opportunity for the display of directorial skill in the use of the double exposure in those scenes which show both of the youthful characters on the screen at the same time. Marvelous illusions have been created by the art of the camera which far surpasses in realism and interest the limitations of the stage that forced the use in the theatre of a plot which permitted the appearance only of one of the characters on the stage at one time. Photography has rendered possible strict adherence to the original of the charming tale, and in the future it will be to the motion picture that the public will turn for the greatest enjoyment of the story which it has learned so to love and revere.

"The Prince and the Pauper" is the latest Paramount Picture, and will be the attraction at the Star Theatre matinee and night, on Friday, Dec. 10th. This picture was released on Nov. 27th and this will give the patrons of Sanford's popular amusement hall some idea of new the pictures are when they reach here. Manager Herndon is very fortunate when it comes to getting new features as well as good ones for the elite patrons of the Star. Services of this age is very expensive and numberless cities pay as high as $1000.00 per week for same.

CLIMATE AND HEALTH

HOW TO DRESS TO AVOID TAKING COLD AND GRIPPE

BY STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Strange, isn't it, how few of us really know how to dress!

We, particularly our Florida women, who follow the fashions, regardless of dates, prefer styles to comfort. The powers that dictate the cut and material of our garb, have decreed that the present season shall specialize on fur as trimming, and the good ladies of Florida donned their fall costumes in September, which were decorated with fur from the neck to the shoe tops, because their sisters and aunts in New York were gowned that same way. The fact that Florida temperatures still hovered among the high 80's didn't make a bit of difference, and the critical males looked at them, admired them and perspired abundantly for them.

And the men were just as ridiculous. They packed away their Palm Beaches and lost their Panamas for the winter weeks before winter arrived and hated themselves for doing it. Few of us can endure being looked at because our clothes are out of date, no matter how comfortable they may be.

Now, the fact is that Florida has less variation between the extremes and the averages of summer heat and winter coolness than any other state in the U. S. of America. The change in Florida temperature and other weather conditions are less abrupt than in northern sections, particularly in the interior sections removed from the influence of large bodies of water.

These favoring averages foster carelessness in preparing for or adapting our clothing to the changes that do come. The result is a noticeable increase of grip, influenza, colds and similar troubles from middle October on. And this is specially true among the very young and the older members of the community, the two extremes of age in the population.

Here's some advice from the Health Department about dressing to meet all weather and temperature conditions in Florida. Wear all the year round light weight under garments, such as are suitable for summer, and make changes in the weight and texture of the outer garments to meet weather variations as they come.

There is danger in clothing the body too warmly, just as in wearing too little. Heavy clothing induces perspiration and the sudden draft of cold air upon the heated body or upon any part of it that is usually covered, may drive the blood from the skin surface and produce congestion. The same result may follow prolonged chilling of the body from insufficient protection.

There is danger also in the freak of feminine fashion which bares the neck and chest to the extent that makes a modest man blush, but the women defend the practice on the ground that they are "used to it." There is danger, too, in the evening party gown that is hung from the figure by a dainty strap of filmy material over each shoulder. It leaves conspicuous vacancies of dress, back and front. It is dangerous, but—

Florida attracts hundreds and thousands of winter visitors, who come to escape the cold of the north. The contrast between the weather conditions they leave and those they find, makes them careless of the latter and there is danger for them. The bright sun in a cloudless sky and a gentle breeze from the northwest are a deluding combination in Florida. The northern man or woman is keyed up to resist the rigors of the northern winter. An overcoat or other heavy wrap is almost always worn out of doors. Too often these are thrown over the arm or left at home in Florida, because it "seems" so warm in the open air.

While we here welcome our winter visitors, we warn them to bring their heavy clothing when they come to see us, and to use the same with the good judgment in wearing it as they use at home during their changeable summers. A straw hat, white tennis shoes and linen suits are of use to the tourist during a Florida winter mainly for photographic purposes. With a background of palm they make a charming background to be pictures and sent back to the dear ones in the frozen snowy north. Florida's winter climate is the envy of the rest of the nation but it should be treated with due respect and handled with care.

RED CROSS SEALS

Your Opportunity to Bring Christmas to those who Need Cheer

The Red Cross Seals have all the significance of the regular Christmas stickers, but that does not begin to tell their story. In addition to a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year greeting, the Red Cross seals typify as nothing else of their kind does the real Christmas spirit of love and sympathy and service for a brotherhood of suffering humanity. They carry a message of helpful interest to forlorn hearts which cannot be directly touched, however much we may be willing. They give expressions to the best impulse that comes from the heart of man that of helpfulness to the unfortunate victims of poverty, misery and distress. They represent a real and potent effort to translate this spirit of helpfulness into efficient service toward alleviating the sorrow and suffering which follow in the train of the Great White Plague. They give joy alike to the heart of the sender and to the recipient and help to save the life and happiness of some less fortunate brother beyond the personal reach of either who has already or may become the victim of tuberculosis. And tuberculosis is so largely a community sin.

Placed on correspondence, Christmas gifts, pay envelopes, they carry at once a gladsome message, a cherished hope and a sympathy that cannot be misunderstood.

Meet on Inland Waterway

The Board of officers appointed by the War Department to examine and appraise the value of the work and franchises of the East Coast Canal, and to consider the advisability of the purchase and enlargement of this canal by the United States, or the construction by the United States of a suitable waterway over a parallel route, will hold a public hearing in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce, Jacksonville, Fla., at 10:00 a. m. on Monday, December 13, 1915, for the presentation of facts, statistics and arguments bearing upon the questions before the Board.

Accordingly all interested parties are invited to be present at the above named time and place, and to express their views either orally or in writing, to the Board. While oral statements will be given due weight, important facts or statistics should preferably be submitted in writing.

A NEW SPRAY

Rines & Range of the R & R Store have under the local agency for Adheso, the new Bordeaux Adhesive applied to vegetables and fruit trees. Adheso has the advantage of other sprays by not leaving any gritty substance or any coloring matter on your plants. Its strong adhesive powers make it able to get the same results as the home-made mixtures, with only one-half the spraying. Where you use the Bordeaux and lime twice in a certain length of time Adheso will give the same result at only one in the same time.

Since it leaves no visible discoloration on the plants, you may be skeptical of its results at first, but on closer examination you will find that it stays on the leaves longer than any other insecticide and gives the very best of results as shown by the rapid and clean growth of your plants.

S. Range can be seen at the R & R Store for any information and will also keep a stock on hand for immediate needs. The Osceola Fertilizer Co., who are the state agents are too well known for the genuine good qualities of all goods they handle to be a guarantee for the excellent quality of Adheso.

Make Presents to Bride's Family.

With the Celestials the family of the bridegroom makes presents to the family of the bride of various articles a few days before the day fixed for the marriage. The presents generally consist of food, a cock and hen, the leg and foot of a pig, the leg of a goat, eight small cakes of bread, eight torches, three pairs of large red candles, a quantity of vermicelli and several bunches of firecrackers.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S MESSAGE

National Preparedness Main Theme of Head of Nation. Submits Definite Plan to Increase Present Standing Force of Regulars and For Four Hundred Thousand Citizen Soldiers Raised in Increments of One Hundred and Thirty-three Thousand.

Declares That if Full Navy Program Is Carried Out We Will Have a Fleet For Defense That Will Be "Fitted to Our Needs and Worthy of Our Traditions." Greatest Danger to Country Comes From Within Our Borders.

Following is the message of President Wilson delivered at a joint session of the senate and house at the beginning of the sixty-fourth congress:

Session of the Congress—Such I feel the privilege of addressing you on the state of the Union the year which had then only begun to disclose its portentous proportions, has extended its threatening and sinister scope until it has swept within its flame some portion of every quarter of the globe, not excepting our own hemisphere, has altered the whole face of international affairs, and now presents a prospect of reorganization and reconstruction such as statesmen and peoples have never been called upon to attempt before.

The president tells how this country has lost its neutrality and declares that when the time comes for rearmament and recuperation this country will be of infinite service. Referring to Central and South American problems, the president declares that we should retain unshaken the spirit which has inspired us throughout the whole life of our government and which has so frankly put into effect a President Monroe.

We have been put to the test in the case of Mexico, and we have stood the test. Whether we have benefited Mexico or the course we have pursued remains to be seen. Her fortunes are in our own hands. But we have at least proved that we will not take advantage of her in her distress and under no pretext impose upon her an order and government of our own choosing. Liberty is often a fierce and intractable thing, to which no bounds can be set and to which no bounds of a few men's bloodshed ought ever to be set. Every American who has drunk at the true fountains of principle and tradition must subscribe without reservation to the high doctrine of the Virginia bill of rights, which in the great days in which our government was set up was everywhere among us accepted as the creed of free men.

That government is or ought to be instituted for the common benefit, protection and security of the people, nation or community, that of all the various modes and forms of government that is the best which is capable of producing the greatest degree of happiness and safety and is most effectually secured against the danger of abuse, administration and that when in government shall be found independent or contrary to these principles a majority of the community hath an indubitable, inalienable and indefeasible right to reform, alter or abolish it in such manner as shall be judged most conducive to the public good.

PAN-AMERICANISM HAS NONE OF EMPIRE'S SPIRIT.

Economic Adjustments Inevitable With in the Next Generation. The general idea that the states of America are not hostile rivals, but cooperating friends, and that their growing sense of community of interest, like in matters political and in matters economic, is likely to give them a new significance as factors in international affairs and in the political history of the world. It presents them as in a very deep and true sense a unit in world affairs, spiritual partners, standing together because thinking together, quick with common sympathies and common ideals. Separated, they are subject to all the cross currents of the confused politics of a world of hostile rivalries; united in spirit and purpose, they cannot be disappointed of their peaceful destiny.

This is pan-Americanism. It has none of the spirit of empire in it. It is the embodiment, the effectual embodiment, of the spirit of law and independence and liberty and mutual service. The president calls attention to the message in Washington recently of representatives of the pan-American republics and says that economic adjustments is inevitable in the next generation. No one who really comprehends the spirit of the great people for whom we are appointed to speak can fail to perceive that their passion is for peace, their genius best displayed in the practice of the arts of peace. Great democracies are not belligerent. They do not seek or desire war. Their thought is of individual liberty and of the free labor that supports life and the unimpaired thought that quickens it. Conquest and dominion are not in our reckoning or agreeable to our principles. But just because we demand unimpaired development and the undisturbed government of our own lives upon our own principles of right and liberty, we resent that whatever quarter it may come, the aggression of ourselves will not practice. We insist upon security in preserving our sacred chosen lines of national development. We do more than that. We demand it also for others. We do not confine our enthusiasm for individual liberty and free national development to the incidents and movements of affairs which affect only ourselves. We feel that wherever there is a people that tries to walk in these difficult paths of independence and right. From the first we have made common cause with all purposes of liberty on this side the sea and have deemed it as important that our neighbors should be free from all outside domination as that we ourselves should be free from all outside domination as well. We have set America aside as a whole for the uses of independent nations and political freedom.

SUGGESTS BROAD PLAN FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Increase Standing Regular Force—Four Hundred Thousand Citizen Soldiers.

But war has never been a mere matter of men and guns. It is a thing of discipline and order. If our citizens are ever to fight effectively upon a sudden summons, they must know how modern fighting is done and what to do when the summons comes to render themselves immediately available and immediately effective. And the government must be their servant in this matter, must supply them with the training they need to take care of themselves and of it. The military arm of their government, which they will not allow to direct them, they may properly use to serve them and make their independence secure, and not their own independence merely, but the rights also of those with whom they have made common cause, should they also be put in jeopardy. They must be fitted to play the great role in the world, and particularly in this hemisphere, for which they are qualified by principle and by chastened ambition to play.

It is with these ideas in mind that the plans of the department of war for more adequate national defense were conceived which will be laid before you, and which I urge you to sanction and put into effect as soon as they can be properly scrutinized and discussed. They seem to me the essential first steps, and they seem to me for the present sufficient. They contemplate an increase of the standing force of the regular army from its present strength of 6,023 officers and 102,983 enlisted men of all services to a strength of 7,130 officers and 134,707 enlisted men, or 141,837 all told, all services, rank and file, by the addition of fifty-two companies of coast artillery; fifteen companies of engineers; ten regiments of infantry, four regiments of field artillery and four aero squadrons; besides 750 officers required for a great variety of extra service, especially the all important duty of training the citizen force of which I shall presently speak, 792 non-commissioned officers for service in drill, recruit and the like and the necessary quota of enlisted men for the quartermaster corps, the hospital corps, the ordnance department and other similar auxiliary services. These are the additions necessary to render the army adequate for its present duties, duties which it has to perform not only upon our own continental coasts and borders and at our interior army posts, but also in the Philippines in the Hawaiian Islands, at the 15th and in Porto Rico.

The way of making the country ready to assert some part of its real power promptly and upon a larger scale should occasion arise the plan also contemplates supplementing the army by a force of 400,000 disciplined citizens, raised in increments of 133,000 a year throughout a period of three years. This it is proposed to do by a process of enlistment under which the serviceable men of the country would be asked to bind themselves to serve with the colors for purposes of training for short periods throughout three years and to come to the colors at call at any time throughout an additional although partial of three years. This time of service would be provided with personal accommodations as fast as enlisted and their equipment for the field made ready to be supplied at any time. They would be assembled for training at stated intervals at convenient places in association with suitable units of the regular army. Their period of annual training would not necessarily exceed two months in the year.

The president says it is up to the patriotic young men of the country to respond to this call.

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN FOR GREATER NAVY.

Always Looked to It as Our First and Chief Line of Defense.

The program which will be laid before you by the secretary of the navy is similarly conceived. It involves only a shortening of the time within which plans long matured shall be carried out, but it does make definite and explicit a program which has heretofore been only implicit, held in the minds of the committees on naval affairs and disclosed in the debates of the two houses, but nowhere formulated or formally adopted. It seems to me very clear that it will be to the advantage of the country for the congress to adopt a comprehensive plan for putting the navy upon a final footing of strength and efficiency and to press that plan to completion within the next five years. We have always looked to the navy of the country as our first and chief line of defense, we have always seen it to be our manifest course of prudence to be strong on the seas. You by vote you have been creating a navy which now ranks very high indeed among the navies of the maritime nations. We should now definitely determine how we shall complete what we have begun and how soon.

The program to be laid before you contemplates the construction within two years of ten battleships, six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, five destroyers, fifteen fleet submarines, eight coast submarines, four gunboats, one hospital ship, two auxiliary ships, two fuel oil ships and one repair ship. It is proposed that of this number we shall the first year provide for the construction of two battleships, two battle cruisers, three scout cruisers, five destroyers, five fleet submarines, twenty-five coast submarines, two gunboats and one hospital ship; the second year two battleships, one scout cruiser, ten destroyers, four fleet submarines, fifteen coast submarines, one gunboat and one fuel oil ship; the third year two battleships, one battle cruiser, two scout cruisers, five destroyers, two fleet submarines and fifteen coast submarines; the fourth year two battleships, two battle cruisers, two scout cruisers, ten destroyers, two fleet submarines, fifteen coast submarines, one ammunition ship and one fuel oil ship, and the fifth year two battleships, one battle cruiser, two scout cruisers, ten destroyers, two fleet submarines, fifteen coast submarines, one gunboat, one ammunition ship and one repair ship.

The Florida Grower is out in a new dress of green that fits the lady perfectly.

All roads lead to Gainesville tomorrow. We hope that Sanford can have a large delegation at the good roads meeting.

Willis Powell has installed another typesetting machine on the Clearwater Sun. Probably needs a night shift to reply to Clarence Woods.

Everyone is going to the Central Florida Highway Association at Gainesville Wednesday of this week. It will be a great meeting.

There were 78 cars of lettuce shipped from Sanford last week and the price netted the growers at least a dollar a crate. That is some encouragement to grow lettuce in Sanford.

The Leuchburg Commercial is slow in the mailing department. We only receive a copy now and then. There are some exchanges that we never miss but Gilllett's paper is not one of that kind.

The habit of throwing broken bottles and glass upon the public highway is a dangerous one in many ways and should be put under the ban of decent people. Deliberately parking the auto in a crime.

Sanford will take care of more tourists this season than ever before. They like Sanford and now that we can accommodate them Sanford should be filled with new people after January first. See that they are treated right when they get here.

If the East Coast Canal is such a good thing why in the world does the East Coast Canal Co. want to sell it to the government. No private corporation has wanted to sell out to the government yet when they had a good thing. Something fishy in the canal, eh, what?

Now that the rooms at the Sanford House are really being put in first class condition and will soon be ready for the wipster rush of tourists it is time to quit knocking and go to boosting the place. There is a time for all things and this is the time to boost your own home town.

Congressman Sears is on the job at Washington and will be sworn in today. Although Joe virtually has been congressman for over a year he has never had the opportunity to get into action. The Fourth District has confidence in Congressman Sears and he will be heard from in Washington.

We ask the good people of the lower east coast to wait until our representatives talk to them about the Inland Canal through Florida before committing themselves to the East Coast Canal project. The St. Johns river offers the only solution to the affair and there is no other way out. Pin your faith to the honest project and bide by the report of the government engineers who have already recommended the St. Johns river route.

Sometimes you walk into a store and a clerk jumps to be the first to wait on you. He is there to sell goods and work never bothers him. He is willing to take down half the goods in the store in his efforts to please you. He makes sales and will rise in life. But there is another class of clerks. They let you hunt them up when the boss is not around, show you a few goods as possible, and are not at all bothered if you walk away without finding what you want. They get their salaries just the same. It is only the boss who loves. They will always be clerks—just clerks.—Palm Beach News.

"This is fine hunting weather," declares the Sanford Herald, and certainly few people would be disposed to contradict the statement. The first few days of the open season for game in Florida have brought out the hunters in droves and the bags have been full and varied: "The rivers are full of fish, the lakes full of ducks, the fields full of game and Sanford is the place for the sportsman to come," adds the Herald with enthusiasm. Sanford is one of the places that will attract sportsmen and from the accounts given of the luck of those who go out with gun and dog, or fishing tackle, it would seem that the claims made by the newspapers in that section are not greatly exaggerated.—Times-Union.

OUR CHRISTMAS EDITION
 The Christmas edition of The Herald to be issued on December 14 or 17th as the case may be will be one of the best illustrated editions that have been issued this season. Sanford has received the full benefits of advertising this year and this edition will do much toward turning the tide this way. Every business man in Sanford should help along the good cause by taking space in this edition. It will be distributed in every part of this section of the state and prove one of the best advertising mediums that has ever been printed here.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE
 The message of the President to congress is given in this issue of The Herald and there is food for thought in every line of it. The President takes up the questions of friendly relations with the Pan American countries, a broad plan for national defense, a comprehensive plan for a greater navy, gives his views on the Philippine situation, feels that we should crush the secret foes of America who are hiding within the borders of this free country and wants regulations to meet the railroad problems of America.

The message breathes the spirit of President Wilson in his dealings toward the countries of the earth in which he wants peace but not peace at any price. His policies that have been pursued in the past have proved good and will be adhered to in the future and all through the message one can see the true note of intense Americanism and patriotism.

NEWSPAPER A MIRROR
 The best way to form an impression of a neighboring city is to look at its newspapers. If these journals are poorly printed and sloppily written, and if there is little advertising, the community is almost invariably run down. If the newspapers have a clean typographical appearance, and show the expenditure of money for good reporting and writing, if the advertising columns are well filled that community is going right ahead.
 People who may consider this town as a place of residence send for copies of its newspapers, first to see what is going on here, second, to learn how much public spirit the town has. Our residents are continually sending away the home paper, and, in so far as it is a good appearing journal it makes friends for the town and spreads its good reputation.
 Newspaper publishers are generous with any growth of business they may gain. Nine tenths of such growth is almost always put back into the paper, in enlarging plant and increasing the force of workers. The moral is that if you want a good impression of your town spread abroad, help the home paper to enlarge and improve its facilities.—Arcadia Enterprise.

BIRD AN ECONOMIC FACTOR
 One quail will destroy 75,000 bugs and 6,000,000,000 weed seeds annually, according to Mrs. Margaret M. Nicc of the Massachusetts State University.
 Cotton growers lose $100,000,000 a year because hunters slaughter by the thousands the quail, prairie chickens, meadow larks and other birds which destroy the boll weevil.
 If the destruction of bug eating birds could be prevented, $1,000,000,000 a year would be saved to this country, says Col. G. O. Shields, president of the League of American Sportsmen.

The farmers and truckers of this state emphatically aver that birds are the greatest friends that they have in the destruction of worms and bugs and that their value to the agricultural interests are inestimable.

Bird appreciation, the study of bird songs and "hunting with an opera glass" are popular sports with college girls and women. There is a good deal of time given to bird study in the public schools.

But the average boy and the thoughtless hunter who carries a loaded gun into the woods seldom respond with any enthusiasm to the esthetic appeal of birdology. They might, however, learn to respect birds as a considerable economic value to agriculture if they received frequent lessons in figures such as those quoted above.—Tampa Tribune.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWSPAPERS
 One thing that we would like to see is more weekly papers in the high schools of the state. The amount of good which would result from the establishing of something of this nature can scarcely be over estimated. We do not mean to advocate the institution of an elaborate plant or system, but we do think that great good would accrue to the student and to the school from a moderate sized paper.
 This is one of the best methods of teaching the pupils the use of English both from a grammatical and from a rhetorical standpoint. It takes away the dryness and sameness of the subject. The students become interested in their work, and do not look upon it as something that they are required to learn. It is more like play to them. They are always working on new stuff. More copy has to come in every week and the students must write it up. They must turn in the copy correctly written or it will result in a mistake in the paper when it comes out from the press. The art of spelling accurately, of forming correct sentences, and of expressing themselves in the best of language will be the inevitable outcome to every one who takes a real interest in building up such a paper.
 It will also be a method of showing to the people of the state what that school is doing in the educational lines. It will advertise the town that contains such a live school, for people are attracted to a city more by the educational advantages that are open to their boys and girls than for any other reason. In short we can think of nothing which will help to build a school more with the exception possibly of athletics.

We do not think that all the schools of the state should put out papers, for some of them would be too small to pay for themselves, and that is one thing that a paper must do in order to be a success. But certainly there is no reason why a school of four or five hundred pupils should not put out a good live weekly. Florida Alligator.

BANK WRECKERS ARRESTED
 Herbert B. Race, former president of the defunct Commercial Bank, and S. C. Harrison, former cashier of the same institution have been indicted by the circuit court grand jury. The indictment charges Race with the embezzlement and willful misapplication of moneys, funds and credits of the Commercial Bank.
 Harrison was indicted on three separate counts. In the true bill found it is alleged that the defendant was cashier and agent of the Commercial Bank. One case is based on the alleged irregularity of a $200 note of Frank Richardson and the other is based on the alleged irregularity of a $900 note of H. C. Raze.
 The two appearance bonds of $1,000 each were furnished with Gustav Mueller and Frank I. Wheeler as the sureties.
 A third indictment charges a falsification of the Commercial Bank report to the State Comptroller. Harrison was arrested and liberated on a bond of $4,000 with Gus Muller and F. I. Wheeler as sureties.
 Race, shortly after the bank failure several months ago went to Cuba and has within the last month so we have been informed—gone to Honduras, Central America, to live. Harrison at present holds the important political position of bond trustee of this city.

This seems to be the beginning of a real investigation into the failure of the three big Jacksonville institutions that have gone to the wall within the last year under suspicious circumstances, causing the people of the state to wonder at Jacksonville's apparent indifference to her business integrity.
 State Attorney William A. Hallows has worked unceasingly for months on the evidence that brought forth the grand jury indictments, and he is due much credit for the accomplishment.
 The State, who has pursued agitation for an investigation, does not reveal in any man's misfortunes, and will rejoice as much as the principals in this their present misfortune if they should prove themselves guiltless of the charges. The conditions call for a thorough investigation of the bank and insurance companies, and the investigation for the city's good, was our insistence.
 We have every reason to believe that the end is not yet, and that before the grand jury finishes this term indictments of others will follow for similar offenses. Jacksonville State.

Not for Mr. Peck.
 "Wouldn't you try to get a divorce from a woman who abused you; and neglected your home and thought more of her club than she did of you?" thundered the big man. "I don't think I would," replied Henry Peck; "I am afraid Henrietta would not let me."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

WATERWAYS INFORMATION
 In its issue of Tuesday, the 23rd, the Sanford Herald says:
 "The East Coast Canal Company should read the article on the first page of this issue about the government wanting the inland waterways for protection in case of war and realize just what the government would have for protection in case they should want the east coast canal."
 But there wasn't a thing on the front page of any other paper in that issue about the government wanting any inland water ways. In fact, there was not much of anything on that front page outside of Bob Holly's Thanksgiving proclamation and a big turkey which was all very fine but we fail to see the relation between a Thanksgiving proclamation and a preparation for war.
 The question that bothers the most of us down this way on the east coast is why does Sanford and other points along the St. Johns river want the canal routed around that way when they are already provided with all of the navigation needed in their business. Do they want us of the lower east canal to haul our freight 86 miles further to the ocean, just for the pleasure of seeing our ships go by? And how could any sort of war craft protect our coast from a point forty miles inland?

We understand, however, that the advocates of the St. Johns canal route are about to start a campaign of education down this way to teach us the Sanford and Palatka way that the canal should go. Perhaps they think that the extra cost of $2,000,000 for the all east coast, salt water, free from obstructions due to floating vegetation, route will have a mighty influence in converting us to their way of thinking. Well, we are willing to be shown Melbourne Times.

Glad you spoke about this matter, Stanley, because it gives us a chance to set you straight. You talk as though taking the St. Johns river would deprive you at Melbourne of something when in truth it will give you a much better waterway than you can ever hope to have in the East Coast Canal. The company that owns the canal and has been paid for it by the state once in public lands cannot keep it open for navigation and want to stick the government with it. The people of Florida do not want this extra expenditure of money for something that looks on the face of it as too much pork. You people of the lower east coast south of Titusville will realize the benefits of a real ship canal if the St. Johns river is designated by the government and receives the appropriation as the engineers have already suggested. It is the only practical route for the upper end of the ship canal through Florida. We want the canal cut through into India river at Salt Creek and a glance at the map will convince you people of the lower east coast of the justice of our contention. As far as protection to the shipping is concerned the only protection would be by getting the canal as far inland as possible and the present east coast canal from Titusville north does not afford that protection. It is merely a ditch that has been kept open long enough to foist it upon a benign government if such a thing is possible and all the people of Florida ask is that that the government will not buy a white elephant. If the east coast canal is such a wonderful project why does a private corporation wish to sell it to the government at all? Why not put it in shape and continue to send ships through by slipping them over the sand and mud?

True, the St. Johns river is already open for navigation. It has ten feet of water all the time and a channel 100 feet wide. It is a real river and one of the best assets that the government has in Florida and because it offers so much to the people of the lower peninsula we want the government to adopt it as the official route. We do not ask for pork. We only ask that something real and tangible be recognized in place of a mythical canal. Our people will be down to see you, Stanley, and they will convince you of the justice of their cause. Just keep your ear to the ground and you will hear something fall.

Don't Make Curiosity Telephone Calls

IT is beyond the bounds of possibility to answer promptly the mass of curiosity telephone calls that threaten to swamp our exchanges every time there is a large fire.

Calls for physicians, the ambulance or the police, held up at such times might result in the loss of human life.

For your protection, as well as for the protection of your neighbors, we ask you not to call the telephone operator merely out of curiosity. After all, she has no more information than you have.

Anita Stewart and Earle Williams in the 'Sins of the Mothers'.

The New York Evening Sun held a semi-annual competition. One thousand dollars was offered for the original and dramatic plot. Manuscripts poured in four thousand of them. They came from all parts of the world.

Competent judges were selected to choose the best. From the four thousand manuscripts they selected one. This was 'The Sins of the Mothers'.

'The Sins of the Mothers' is a story of gambling. The heroine is a beautiful girl. She loves cards, races, roulette and in fact every game of chance. She loves them with a mania of the passionate, irresistible kind.

Her mother was of this nature and the girl naturally inherited it and craves for it as all its pleasures.

The Vitagraph Company adds laurels to their crown in the production of this feature that many of the largest companies aspire to, and the patrons of the Star will have an opportunity to see this story unraveled on Thursday, December 9th, at the unusually low admission prices of 5 and 10c.

Notice. Cowan Monroe

A marriage that has created a very cordial interest among the many friends of the popular young couple is that of Miss Mabel B. Cowan and Mr. R. B. Monroe, which took place at the Methodist parsonage in Orlando Saturday evening at seven o'clock, in the presence of Miss Gertrude Brown, Miss Lee and Messrs. Sam Prekens and Chas. Morrow, who accompanied them to Orlando. The bride was very sweet and attractive in a travelling suit of dark blue, tailor made with chic little hat in blue velvet and braid.

Mrs. Morrow is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cowan. Her sunny nature and gracious friendliness has endeared her to a large circle of friends. Mr. Monroe is identified with the large farming interests of the celery delta. After a honeymoon trip of two weeks, touring the state in their automobile Mr. and Mrs. Monroe will make Sanford their future home and will reside on Celery avenue in the cozy home nest that Mr. Monroe has prepared for his winsome young bride.

Magn-Nice

Surrounded with much interest is the wedding of Miss Anna Malm and Mr. Barney E. Neece of Fort Ogden, which was solemnized at the home of Mrs. M. C. Tolar Thursday at one o'clock. Rev. Geo. Hyman of the Baptist church performing the ceremony.

The marriage was a quiet, home affair, the immediate family being present.

The bride wore a handsome coat suit of navy blue chiffon-broadcloth trimmed with fur and a modish hat of black velvet.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Neece left for Fort Ogden where they will make their future home.

The bride has for many years resided with her sister, Mrs. Hamlet Tolar in this city and been the valued employee of the telephone company. The groom is a prominent young business man of Fort Ogden. Their many friends wish them a safe and happy journey on the sea of matrimony.

Chicken Supper

The Boy Scouts of Troup One, Sanford, are anticipating a jolly good time and plenty of appetizing eats at their chicken supper on Dec. 14th at the Baptist Temple. The Scouts are live wires and an organization of much credit, not only to the Baptist circle within which they move but to the town at large, and incidentally they know too how to enjoy the pleasures that come their way, with the true spirit of boyhood.

Lycium Program a Big Success

The audience that had been anticipating the appearance of the Morrow Bros. Quartette for a week or more, with eager interest, felt themselves fully repaid last Friday evening with the splendid program presented by these clever entertainers, under the auspices of the Lycium committee at the Baptist Temple. The auditorium was filled to its capacity with an appreciative gathering who know what good things are being brought to Sanford for their enjoyment. The four Morrows are an interesting quartette of young men who fill every moment of the evening with mirth-provoking songs and readings that appealed to the fun loving element of the audience.

The Plate Glass Band that sounded quite funny in the introduction proved to be a real musical instrument, the original and ingenious invention of the clever artists that brought forth a medley of sweet airs and perfect harmony. In combination with the trombone and cornet it was especially pleasing. A marvelous feat of music and manipulation was performed by Clifford and Francis Morrow, when playing upon the trombone and cornet, each did the fingering for the other, a difficult task, with splendid results. Another unique feature was the playing of these two upon one violin at the same time, each violinist playing upon two strings only. The result was highly amusing and for the first time in Sanford perhaps that sweet old melody, 'Silver Threads Among the Gold' lost its pathos, but the rendition was undoubtedly clever. The numbers on the brass instruments were excellent and the songs were especially enjoyed. Glee club selections, ballads and comic songs made up a program that was received with warm applause. Perhaps the best solo selection was the beautiful 'Break! Break!' from Tennyson, 'Break! Break! Break!' This was one of only two or three of the more serious touches given throughout the evening. Character readings given by Ernest Morrow brought down the house while again the serious was reached by Clifford Morrow in several very fine readings. An imitation of an old church organ played on three strings of the violin, with a loosened bow, by Clifford Morrow was a number that was good while the chop solo in which the four men sang a different song all at the same time was a novel combination of blended harmony. The program was delightful all the way through and well rendered; the selections chosen were varied and diversified, and in the hands of these versatile young men could not fail to please any critical audience.

The next of the series will be Emma Dee Randle's reader, who will be presented by the committee on Monday, Feb. 11, 1916.

Cooked Food Sale

There will be a combination of the bazaar and cooked food sale next Saturday at Roberts' Grocery store, under the auspices of the Baptist Ladies Aid Society.

Christmas Music

Among the many attractive Christmas programs being prepared by the various churches for the Christmas service there will be at the Baptist Temple a beautiful service Sunday, Dec. 26, entitled 'The Light of the Christmas Candle.' The Christmas spirit will ring throughout the service, the glad Christmas music that tarts the inmost soul to burst into song will be a feature of the day.

Mite Hot Social

One of the most delightful and altogether enjoyable church affairs of the season was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Abernathy on Friday evening last when the 'mite boxes' were opened and subsequent fun and frolic quickly followed. The heels of the more serious business of the evening. A pleasing program of music and readings was rendered by Mrs. J. T. Brady, Mrs. Edward Lane and Miss Marjorie Harrell and then the fun waxed furious. Old and young joined in the style of children's games, such as 'The old fashioned fort,' 'Clap in and clap out' and the kind that get into your feet and you just can't keep still. Staid and dignified lawyers vied with school girls in their best efforts to 'guess who' while grandfathers and grandmothers enjoyed the sport with the enthusiasm of frolicsome laddies. Partners were found by matching detached parts of Mother Goose rhymes, while the most fun of all was the guessing and partaking of the menu. The dining room where refreshments were served was a gay scene with its attractive decorations and the prettily appointed table. The menu was novel and unique consisting of: 'What the patient had and what the patient got—Cof-fee.' 'Dirt and Goblins—Sand-witches.' Green tarts—Pickles. Gamblers' tools—Potato-chips. A Chip of the old Block—Tooth-picks.

Nature's Contribution—Water.

The guessing of this funny little menu created lots of merriment and the various guesses were greeted with gales of laughter. Everybody had such a good time that it was a very late hour before the guests dispersed. It is whispered that another similar affair, minus the mite boxes, will be given in the near future at this hospitable home.

Silver Tea

Mrs. Fred Williams entertained on Friday afternoon with a charming silver tea for the benefit of the Presbyterian building fund. Many guests called during the hours of the reception, from three to five. The rooms were beautifully decorated with quantities of southern moss,

The secretary of the navy is asking also for the immediate addition to the personnel of the navy of 7,500 sailors, 2,500 apprentice seamen and 1,500 marines. This increase would be sufficient to care for the ships which are to be completed within the fiscal year 1917 and also for the number of men which must be put in training to man the ships which will be completed early in 1918. It is also necessary that the number of midshipmen at the Naval academy at Annapolis should be increased by at least 300 in order that the force of officers should be more rapidly added and authority is asked to appropriate engineering duties only, appoint graduates of engineering colleges, and for service in the aviation corps a certain number of men taken from civil life.

If this full program should be carried out we should have built or building in 1921, according to the estimates of our vital and standards of classification followed by the general board of the department, an effective fleet consisting of 27 battleships of the first line, 10 battle cruisers, 23 cruisers of the second class, 48 destroyers, 108 destroyers, 157 coast submarines, 30 minisubmariners, 20 gunboats, 1 supply ship, 15 fuel ships, 4 transports, 3 tenders to torpedo vessels, 8 vessels of special types and two ammunition ships. This would be a navy fitted to our needs and worthy of our traditions.

But armies and instruments of war are only part of what has to be considered if we are to consider the supreme matter of national safety and security in all its aspects. There are other great matters which will be thrust upon our attention whether we will or not. There is, for example, a very pressing question of trade and shipping involved in this great problem of national adequacy. It is necessary for many wealthy nations of national efficiency and development that we should have a great merchant fleet which we need to make us able to carry our flag into every sea and who were the pride and often the backbone of the nation, we have almost driven out of existence by inexcusable neglect and indifference and by a hopelessly blind and provincial policy of so-called economic protection. It is high time we repaired our mistake and resumed our commercial independence on the seas.

With a view to meeting these pressing necessities of our commerce and availing ourselves at the earliest possible moment of the present unparalleled opportunity of linking the two Americas together in bonds of mutual interest and service, an opportunity which may never return again if we delay it now, proposals will be made to the present congress for the purchase or construction of ships to be owned and directed by the government similar to those made to the last congress, but modified in some essential particulars. I recommend these proposals to you for your prompt acceptance with the utmost confidence because every month that has elapsed since the former proposals were made has made the necessity for such action more and more manifestly imperative. That need was then foreseen. It is now acutely felt and everywhere realized by those for whom trade is waiting, but who can find no conveyance for their goods. I am not so much interested in the particular details of the program as I am in taking immediate advantage of the great opportunity which awaits us if we will but act in this emergency. In this matter, as in all others, a spirit of common counsel should prevail, and out of it should come an early solution of this pressing problem.

SHOULD AGREE ON POLICY IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Recommends Early Adoption of Measures Giving Them Fuller Justice.

The president recommends the early adoption of bills for the alteration and reform of the government of the Philippines and for rendering fuller political justice to the people of Porto Rico, which were submitted to the Sixty-third congress. The president refers to the increased cost of carrying out the plans for the armed forces of the nation and tells of the fiscal problems confronting the government.

On the 30th of June last there was an available balance in the general fund of the treasury of $104,170,105.78. The total estimated receipts for the year 1916, on the assumption that the emergency revenue measure passed by the last congress will not be extended beyond its present limit, the 31st of December, 1915, and that the present duty of 1 cent per pound on sugar will be discontinued after the 1st of May, 1916, will be $773,265,500. The balance of June last and these estimated revenues come therefore to a grand total of $773,265,500.78. The total estimated disbursements for the present fiscal year, including twenty-five millions for the Panama canal, twelve millions for probable deficiency appropriations and $50,000 for miscellaneous debt redemptions, will be $753,501,000; and the balance in the general fund of the treasury will be reduced to $20,764,500.78.

The emergency revenue act if continued beyond its present time limitation would produce during the half year free remaining about forty-one millions. The duty of 1 cent per pound on sugar if continued would produce during the two months of the fiscal year remaining after the 1st of May about fifteen millions. These two sums, amounting together to fifty-six millions, if added to the revenues of the second half of the fiscal year would yield the treasury at the end of the year an available balance of $70,641,005.78.

The additional revenues required to carry out the program of military and naval preparation of which I have spoken would at present estimated be for the fiscal year 1917 $43,800,000. Those figures, taken with the figures for the present fiscal year which I have already given, disclose our financial problem for the year 1917. As assuming that the taxes imposed by the emergency revenue act and the present duty on sugar are to be discontinued and that the balance at the close of the present fiscal year will be only $20,764,500.78, that the disbursements for the Panama canal will again be about $25,000,000 and that the additional expenditures for the army and navy are authorized by the congress, the deficit in the general fund of the treasury on the 30th of June, 1917, will be nearly $50,000,000. To this sum at least $50,000,000 should be added to represent a safe working balance for the treasury and $12,000,000 to include the usual deficiency estimates in 1917, and these additions would make a total deficit of some $77,000,000. If the present taxes should be continued throughout this year and the next, however, the deficit in a balance in the treasury of some $70,641,005.78 at the end of the present fiscal year and a deficit at the end of the next year of only some $20,000,000, or, reckoning in $62,000,000 for deficiency appropriations and a safe treasury balance at the end of the year, a total deficit of some $112,000,000. The obvious moral of the figures is that it is a plain case of present and future calamity.

How can the deficit be met? The emergency revenue act is a temporary expedient. We are frequently reminded that the emergency revenue act is a temporary expedient which the treasury is authorized under existing law to sell to reimburse the sums paid out of the treasury. But the emergency revenue act is a temporary expedient and it is plain that funds for the amount of $222,000,000 are now available for that purpose. Prior to 1912 $125,000,000 of these funds had actually been sold to repay the expenditures of the government and now constitute a considerable item of the public debt. But I for one do not believe that the people of this country approve of postponing the payment of their bills. Borrowing money is shortsighted finance. It is a expedient only when permanent things are to be accomplished which may generations will certainly benefit by and which it seems hardly fair that a single generation should pay for. The objects we are now proposing to spend money for cannot be so classified except in the sense that everything wisely done may be said to be done in the interest of posterity as well as in our own. It seems to me that the debt of the president statesmanship and frank finance that in what we are now, I hope about to undertake we should pay as we go. The people of the country are entitled to know just what burdens of taxation they are to carry and to know from the outset now. The new bills should be paid by internal taxation.

NATION'S SECRET FOES SHOULD BE CRUSHED.

Greatest Danger to Country Comes From Within Our Own Borders.

The president says that the precise reckonings of the problem to be met are set forth in the report of the secretary of the treasury.

I have spoken to you today, gentlemen, upon a single theme, the thorough preparation of the nation to care for its own security and to make sure of entire freedom to play the impartial role in this hemisphere and in the world which we all believe to have been providentially assigned to it. I have had in my mind no thought of any immediate or particular danger arising out of our relations with other nations. We are at peace with all the nations of the world, and there is reason to hope that no question in controversy between this and other governments will lead to any serious breach of amicable relations, grave as some differences of attitude and policy have been and may yet turn out to be. I am sorry to say that the gravest threats against our national peace and safety have been uttered within our own borders. There are citizens of the United States, I blush to admit, born under other flags, but welcomed under our generous naturalization laws to the full freedom and opportunity of America, who have poured the poison of disloyalty into the very arteries of our national life, who have sought to bring the authority and good name of our government into contempt, to destroy our industries wherever they thought it effective for their vindictive purposes to strike at them and to depress our politics to the uses of foreign intrigue. Their number is not great as compared with the whole number of those sturdy hosts by which our nation has been enriched in recent generations out of virile foreign stocks, but it is great enough to have brought deep disgrace upon us and to have made it necessary that we should promptly make use of processes of law by which we may be purged of these corrupt dissemblers.

America never witnessed anything like this before. It never dreamed it possible that men sworn into its own citizenship, men drawn out of great free stocks such as supplied some of the best and strongest elements of that little, but lowly heroic, nation that in a high day of old staked its very life to free itself from every entanglement that had darkened the fortunes of the older nations and set up a new standard here—that men of such origins and such free choice of allegiance would ever turn to malign reaction against the government and people who had welcomed and nurtured them and seek to make this proud country once more a hotbed of European passion. A little while ago such a thing would have seemed incredible. Because it was incredible we made no preparation for it. We would have been almost ashamed to prepare for it, as if we were suspicious of ourselves, our own comrades and neighbors. But the ugly and incredible thing has actually come about, and we are without adequate federal laws to deal with it. I urge you to enact such laws at the earliest possible moment and feel that in doing so I am urging you to do nothing less than save the honor and self respect of the nation. Such creatures of passion, disloyalty and anarchy must be crushed out. They are not many, but they are infinitely malignant, and the hand of our power should close over them at once. They have formed plots to destroy property, they have entered into conspiracies against the neutrality of the government, they have sought to pry into every confidential transaction of the government in order to serve interests alien to our own. It is possible to deal with these things very effectively. I need not suggest the terms in which they may be dealt with.

I wish that it could be said that only a few were misled by mistaken sentiments of allegiance to the governments under which they were born, had been guilty of disturbing the temper and principles of the country during these days of terrible war, when it would seem that every man who was truly an American would instinctively make it his duty and his pride to keep a discreet judgment eye and prove himself a partisan of his nation and his fellow-citizens. But it is not so. There are some men among us and many resident abroad who though born and bred in the United States and calling themselves Americans, have so forgotten themselves and their honor as citizens as to put their passionate sympathy with one or the other side in the great European conflict above their regard for the peace and dignity of the United States. They also preach and practice disloyalty. No laws, I suppose, can reach such creatures of the mind and heart, but I should not speak of others without also speaking of these and expressing the even deeper humiliation and scorn which every self-respecting and thoughtfully patriotic American must feel when he thinks of them and of the discredit they are daily bringing upon us.

What is more important is that the industries and resources of the country should be available and ready for mobilization. It is the more imperative necessary, therefore, that we should promptly devise means for doing what we have not yet done, that we should give intelligent federal aid and stimulation to industrial and vocational education, as we have long done in the large field of our agricultural industry; that at the same time that we safeguard and conserve the natural resources of the country we should put them at the disposal of those who will use them promptly and intelligently as was sought to be done in the admirable bills submitted to the last congress from its committees on the public lands, bills which I earnestly recommend in principle to your consideration, that we should put into early operation some provision for rural credits which will add to the extensive borrowing facilities already afforded the farmer by the reserve bank act adequate instrumentalities by which long credits may be obtained on land mortgages and that we should study more carefully than they have hitherto been studied the right adaptation of our economic arrangements to changing conditions.

Many conditions about which we have repeatedly legislated are being altered from decade to decade. It is evident, under our very eyes and are likely to change even more rapidly and more radically in the days immediately ahead of us when peace has returned to the world and the nations of Europe once more take up their tasks of commerce and industry with the energy of those who must bestir themselves to build anew.

REGULATIONS TO MEET RAILROAD PROBLEM.

Needed to Make Lines More Useful Servants of Country.

In the meantime, may I make this suggestion: The transportation problem is an exceedingly serious and pressing one in this country. There has from time to time been reason to fear that our railroads would not much longer be able to cope with it successfully, as at present equipped and coordinated. I suggest that it would be wise to provide for a commission of inquiry to ascertain by a thorough canvass of the whole question whether our laws as at present framed and administered are as adaptable as they might be in the solution of the problem. It is obviously a problem that lies at the very foundation of our efficiency as a people. Such an inquiry ought to draw out every circumstance and condition worth considering, and we need to know an exact case matter if we mean to do anything in the field of federal legislation.

No one, I am sure, would wish to take any backward step. The regulation of the railways of the country by federal commission has had admirable results and has fully justified the hopes and expectations of those by whom the policy of regulation was originally proposed. The question is not: What should we undo? It is whether there is anything else we can do that would supply us with effective means in the very process of rectifying the conditions under which the railroads are operated and for making them more useful servants of the country as a whole. It seems to me that it might be the part of wisdom therefore before further legislation in this field is attempted, to look at the whole problem of coloration and efficiency in the full light of a fresh assessment of circumstance and opinion, as a guide to dealing with the several parts of it.

For what we are seeking now, what in my mind is the single thought of this message, is national safety and security. We serve a great nation. We should serve it in the spirit of its peculiar genius. It is the genius of common men for self government, industry, justice, liberty and peace. We should see to it that it lacks no instrument, no facility or vigor of law to make it sufficient to play its part with energy, safety and assured success. In this we are no partisans for benefits and prospects of a new age.

JAPS KNOW NO PROFANITY

Their Language Contains No "Swear-words." Unfortunately So Common in the West

The Jap is always polite, but once in a while he slips from grace—and when he does he is up against it, for there are no swearwords in the Japanese language, says a writer in Leslie's Weekly. When a Japanese meets you he bows three times and takes off his hat but does not shake hands. When he greets you his first concern is about your stomach. It would be almost an open insult for one Japanese to meet another without asking him how his stomach fared. On the third bow he asks: "This morning, how is it with your honorable inside?" As you come up on your third bow you answer to the effect that the place mentioned is doing as well as could be expected and in turn ask him what news he has from the front. Then he lifts his hat again and says: "Your delightful head this morning, I hope it have no commotion." When you tell him that you are pleased to report that it feels well this morning he asks about a few generations of honorable ancestors and then you are free to take up the weather.

Even though they are elaborately polite, once in a while one Japanese will get mad at another. Their anger kindles slowly at first, finally flaring to a blaze that knows no staying. But even though there is a torrent of emotion seething in his soul there are no words to give it vent. It keeps surging harder and harder until it throws aside all restraint and gives up all idea of decency by putting into one phrase all his bitterness and snapping squarely into the other man's astonished face the worst thing that can be said in the whole language: "Your stomach is not on straight!" This is the final insult, nothing more can be added—he has cast the glove. There is nothing left for him to do but to give his enemy a cutting look, turn on his heel and laughily clap-clap away on his wooden shoes.

If Civilians Learn to Shoot

Civilian rifle clubs are lately receiving much attention. They have developed a number of men who are excellent shots with 22-caliber rifles, 100 yards, at a distance of 50 to 75 feet.

Comparatively few, however, are able to handle the modern high-powered 30-caliber United States magazine rifle and hit a target 1,000 yards away. Moreover, even were all our men good shots, it might be remembered that shooting is barely one of the important parts of a soldier's training, and that it is a very small part.

The soldier who can do nothing but shoot has about the same relative value as a polo player who can sit on a fence and wield a mallet skillfully, but who can't ride a horse.—Capt. Richard Stockton, Jr., in Collier's Weekly.

Creating Doubt

If the archeologists don't stop digging around in the ruins in Asia we shall soon be as uncertain about what really happened six or seven thousand years ago as we are about the situation on the fighting line in France.

Think Brightness

Brightness and happiness in the mind bring brightness and happiness in our lives. The future is but the reflection of our present thoughts. We can bring either sunshine or darkness in the future by thinking brightness or gloom now. So, let the model of our future be full of light and joy if we are to insure these qualities for ourselves.

The Spray That Sticks

"ADHESO"

Calery is injured by gritty spray materials that wash off down into the heart of the calery.

ADHESO is absolutely free from grit, as smooth as glass. It sticks to the leaves, protecting the calery against rain during and after rain, the time when the rust spreads.

It destroys the Calery Caterpillar, stimulates the crop.

Big calery growers in Florida with as high as 400 acres of grower, are using it on their entire acreage in preference to any other.

ADHESO has often increased profits 50 per cent, and increased POTATOES, TOMATOES, EGGPLANTS, PEPPERS, BEANS, CUCUMBERS, MELONS, ETC.

It is NOT THE COST PER POUND, BUT THE COST PER SPRAY TANK and INCREASE IN YIELD that counts.

Resolutions of Respect

Whereas, It has pleased the Great Exalted Ruler of the universe to call our brother, Edward W. Rowland from his labors on earth to rest and immortality in the Grand Lodge above where the weary can have rest, therefore be it Resolved, That we acknowledge the wisdom and goodness of our Great Exalted Ruler and how in submission to the inevitable edict, yet we mourn the death of our brother as one of whom we shall nevermore meet in the lodge room on earth, but we shall so live as to be able to again greet him in the Grand Lodge on high where he has preceded us. We deplore his loss to the fraternity, to his family and friends and to the community in which he lived so long. He was a just and upright and true Elk, a kind husband and father, an honorable and useful citizen, a sincere friend, a courteous and obliging neighbor, a man who endeavored to always perform his duty to God, his country, his family, his friends and himself honestly, faithfully and well.

Resolved, That in token of our sincere friendship and sympathy in this dark hour of affliction and as a pledge of our Fidelity and Brotherly Love we extend to the bereaved family the fraternal clasp of Elks in death and insures those loved ones that an Elk is never forgotten never forsaken.

The faults of our brother, we write upon the sands. Their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory. Sanford Lodge No. 1241 Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Jobless Man Buys Seals. An old man with his coat collar turned up stopped at one of the Red Cross Christmas Seal booths yesterday and asked where the money was to be spent. When told the money would be spent to fight tuberculosis, he remarked, "Then I'll take 5 cents' worth. I would like to buy more seals, but I have only 5 cents left for my five home. I've been out of work since the war began and because of it money is not for relief of war, white has put so many out of work, I'm glad to help all I can. My boy lost his job and had to go to the hospital on account of tuberculosis, so that I know this Christmas seal work is mighty important."

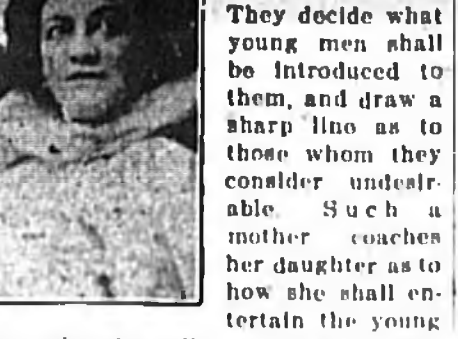

As the old man faded away into the crowd, a well dressed man bought 200 seals, remarking that he would put one on the back of each letter till Christmas Day. Then a lady asked for 50 seals and her little boy dug down into his pocket, proudly displayed a dime and took 10 seals in exchange for the precious coin.

Laura Jean Libben's Talks on Heart Topics

ARE DAUGHTERS WISER IN LOVE MATTERS THAN THEIR MOTHERS?

Men whom men denounce as ill I see so much of goodness still; In men whom men pronounce divine I see so much of sin and blot; I hesitate to draw the line Between the two—where God has not.

The class of girls who are willing to abide by their mother's choice of a lover for them is equally divided. There are energetic mothers of backward, bashful daughters, who take their love affairs in hand from start to finish. They decide what young men shall be introduced to them, and draw a sharp line as to those whom they consider undesirable. Such a mother coaches her daughter as to how she shall entertain the young man when he calls. If after repeated visits, he should take it upon himself to make too ardent love to her mother, she should tell her how she must behave to subdue his impetuosity; what she must do if he insists upon holding her hand when he bids her good-by at the door.

When your pity is aroused by the lonely bachelor who lingers that in a dreary life of it and is muttering about a boarding house, sign up his situation in this wise. A man is set down or never a bachelor save by his own free will. He has dodged Cupid whenever he has seen him approaching with his arrow pointed toward him. If he showed an inclination to be pleasant toward women, there would be plenty of doors thrown open to him to dine or pass the evening.

The experienced mother instinctively divines a man's intentions as to whether he is on marriage intent or only looking time away. The inexperienced daughter can simply guess. She learns too late, if she has been entertaining a fickle lover, when he gives her up without ado and goes to a new sweetheart. Spinning up the situation, it would seem that if a girl is old enough and sensible enough to have a head, that she should be put on her hands for guiding him. It is she who will have to live with him if they wed. A word of motherly counsel now and then if she is in doubt, should be sought, appreciated and accepted. Love-making is not always the same. Each case is a law unto itself. Much depends upon the lover. Most men are honest and true in love-making. They uphold innocence and purity in women the role which jewels existence. Scales in winning hearts are few and far between, mothers find.

Who shall say which is best for any one mother to do, coach her daughter or depend upon her to rely upon her own experience to guide her. She knows how she won her heart mate. She has heard her husband discourse on this subject from a man's point of view while he laughed and told her of the stories he had swapped with other men. This gives a woman insight into a man's character which she could not otherwise possess.

place. He wishes from the his heart that the hands of the clock would not go round so fast those cozy winter evenings. If he does overstay by half an hour or so the proper hour for leaving, who can blame him? It is hard for a man to tear himself away from warmth and genial companionship that is slowly but surely resolving itself into the one great love of a man's life to go forth and face the cold and the storm. It is no wonder that winter evenings draw beaux to women's sides; that constantly being together each heart should feel the irresistible charm of the other.

The coziness of home life is so appealing and woman's influence so compelling, a man cannot resist love words springing to his lips, asking her to leave her happy home for one of his making. Ere the winter evenings have passed they have named the joyful day. The lover who wends his way to your bedside on winter evenings is worth cultivating. He may not take his girl to many balls, theaters, or dances, but he should not be censured for this. He is learning the stay-at-home habit, which a woman may thank heaven for when she is his wife. Her cheerful bedside has saved him from roaming about with careless male companions or staying at clubs far into the wee sma' hours.

Winter betrothals are said to be lucky. Philosophers of old planned their faith to it. So why should we doubt it? Unfortunate is he who has no sweetheart to while away the winter evenings with. A man does not need advice when he has got that far along.

MEN IN HALL BEDROOMS. Impaled with tips increasing to purple. Some floating good, that mucks me with the view; That like the circle bounding earth and sky, Allures from far, yet as I follow this.

When your pity is aroused by the lonely bachelor who lingers that in a dreary life of it and is muttering about a boarding house, sign up his situation in this wise. A man is set down or never a bachelor save by his own free will. He has dodged Cupid whenever he has seen him approaching with his arrow pointed toward him. If he showed an inclination to be pleasant toward women, there would be plenty of doors thrown open to him to dine or pass the evening.

The experienced mother instinctively divines a man's intentions as to whether he is on marriage intent or only looking time away. The inexperienced daughter can simply guess. She learns too late, if she has been entertaining a fickle lover, when he gives her up without ado and goes to a new sweetheart. Spinning up the situation, it would seem that if a girl is old enough and sensible enough to have a head, that she should be put on her hands for guiding him. It is she who will have to live with him if they wed. A word of motherly counsel now and then if she is in doubt, should be sought, appreciated and accepted. Love-making is not always the same. Each case is a law unto itself. Much depends upon the lover. Most men are honest and true in love-making. They uphold innocence and purity in women the role which jewels existence. Scales in winning hearts are few and far between, mothers find.

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"---SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

A Prayer for Peace
 God of the warring nations,
 God of the ways of peace,
 Hark to the pleas of women
 And bid the warfare cease!
 Hark to the prayers of children,
 Their small hands lifted up,
 And from the world forever
 Remove the bitter cup.

A wife stands all forsaken
 And peers into the storm,
 Above the smoke of battle,
 She marks the vultures swarm,
 No loved one hears her pleading
 And to her succor flies—
 Besides where she stands weeping
 A baby starves and dies.

God lift the burden from them
 Who bear the burden most!
 God touch the hearts of rulers!
 God, turn each warring host
 From ways that lead to slaughter
 Back to the paths of peace!
 God, hear the plaints of women
 And bid this warring cease!
 —Judd Mortimer Lewis

Passing along the roads of this section I often note broken bottles and pieces of glass scattered over the brick in many places. It seems that this glass is deliberately broken on the roads with the intent to cut the tires of the automobiles else why should they be broken on the road instead of on the side of the roads. This glass is more numerous now than before the roads were built, showing that whoever is responsible for the glass had placed it on the brick to puncture tires. This is nothing short of criminal and if the parties guilty should be caught at this outrage they should receive the full limit of the law. Most of it seems to be accomplished at night and this makes it difficult to apprehend the culprits but they will slip up some time and when they do the law should stand them up for a term of years. There is no reason for breaking glass on the city streets or country roads and if a bottle is accidentally dropped and broken it should be picked up and thrown off the road before it does any damage.

If you work for a man in heaven's name work for him. If he pays wages that supply your coat and butter work for him, speak well of him, think well of him, stand by him, and stand by the institution that he represents. I think if I worked for a man, I would work for him I would not work for him a part of his time, but all of his time. I would give an undivided service of mine. If put to the pinch an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you must vilify, condemn and eternally disparage, why resign your position and when you are outside, dump to your heart's content. But I pray you, so long as you are a part of an institution, do not condemn it. Not that you will injure the institution—not that but, when you disparage the concern of which you are a part, you disparage yourself.

This school of Elbert Hubbard's "done into a motto by The Roycrofters at their Shop which, in East Aurora, Erie County, New York," is never popular with men who know not loyalty, but it is certain to give the conscience of the fellow who has played the ingrate in spite of a natural desire to be faithful and trustworthy.

"An ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness," said Fr. Elbertus, for cleverness unsupported by loyalty is certain to be tricky and dishonest. The fellow who keeps a knife up his sleeve for the man who feeds him, the fellow who lives on the principle of getting all he can for as little as he can give in return, the fellow who watches the clock for quitting time and the fellow who plays the traitor to the highest bidder—he is the same individual found in so many business concerns, disguised to fit the role he is called to play.

And when such a fellow is discovered, it is far safer to get rid of him than to trust to his reformations. Loyalty cannot be taught, any more than honesty can be taught. It is a quality that must be inborn. And the disloyal man is a dangerous, crafty creature, sneaking and hypocritical, a menace to any institution with which he is connected, and certain to be an unworthy recipient of the share he gets of the payroll.—Miami Metropolis.

The death of my old friend, Ed Rowland the past week brings to my mind the fact that the world is not so large after all. About thirty years ago in Obelin, Ohio, a young man sat on the steps of a business college. He was from a northwestern state and was there to learn telegraphy. Being of a retiring nature he had not made many friends and was homesick and lonesome. Another lad was there from his far away home in Connecticut and noting the lonely youth made friends with him, and from that time until the day of their graduation they were inseparable. The day of parting found them equipped with the rudiments of the telegrapher's art and they went as far as Toledo together, both of them travelling to positions with the railroads they intended to serve. Strange to relate neither one liked the business of telegraphing and both of them drifted into the mechanical department of the road they served, becoming first class engineers. The Connecticut boy drifted to Florida and found a position with the J. T. & K. W. with headquarters in Sanford. He continued to write his friend Rowland in Illinois, who had meantime fallen out with the road there on account of labor troubles and he soon obtained a position here with the old South Florida road and the two friends were united in Sanford after many years separation. They continued to live here and from one shift to another became employees of the old Plant System and afterward of the A. C. L. The Connecticut boy was Chas. F. Williams of this city who has quit railroading and is still a resident here and his old time friend Ed Rowland who he met on the school steps many years ago in Ohio was taken from him on Wednesday last. There was none among the many friends who mourned his decease as deeply as his old friend, Charlie Williams. Both of them had braved dangers on the road together. Both of them had narrow escapes from death many times. They had many killings in common and were united by the great bond of friendship that only death, can sever and the memory of his boyhood friend will ever be kept green in the bosom of Charlie Williams.

Educational Meeting
 A great many inducements are offered to teachers and school officers to attend the Florida Educational Association to be held in Tallahassee December 28-30. This convention has a maximum attendance of eight hundred, and in this occasion efforts are being made to interest the entire body to be present.

Since the meeting is held during the holidays it gives every teacher the time to come, and surely a two days' session devoted to intellectual and professional matters will give inspiration to every teacher.

The railroad have granted reduced rates to all parts of the state to the capital city, and very reasonable rates of from one to two and a half dollars a day for board have been arranged for by the local committee. The Leon Hotel has been selected for headquarters and the State College of Women has arranged to take care of three hundred persons a day and a half dollars per day.

The business school is a part of the Florida State College of Education, Professor Charles M. Jones of Lakeland, it gives a number of questions of vital interest to the schools of the state, and the names of many of the leading educators of Florida who will give addresses. The special lecturer for the occasion is Dr. Harry Clark of the University of Tennessee. He is a graduate of Yale, and has had liberal experience in the public school systems of the southern country.

The fact that Tallahassee is the capital with its many departments of state government will induce many people to visit this place at this time. The State College for Women, the Leon County High School, and the county are all contributing their efforts to make the Association a profitable and happy occasion. During the regular routine program several delightful forms of entertainment are planned. It will pay anyone to attend this association for it means much in one's professional and social work.

Young People's Social
 The Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church entertained the Epworth League, the B. Y. P. U. and the Congregational Christian Endeavor last Thursday evening. First, the four societies held a business meeting at which the "Young People's Christian Federation of Seminole County" was organized. The object of this federation is the increased advancement of the young people, spiritually and socially. Their meetings will be held quarterly.

After the business meeting the guests were invited to the second floor of the church, where a royal good time awaited them. All cares and weighty business matters were left below and here jollity reigned supreme.

The "Olympian Games" were very exciting and interesting and brought to light many things that heretofore had been hidden.
 In the Forty Yard Dash Miss Annie Lea Caldwell received a blue ribbon for being swiftest with her scissors.

In the Hammer Throw Miss Edith Stewart succeeded in driving three large nails into a board before her three competitors, thereby proving herself most eligible for matrimony. Her prize was an "elegant" stop watch.

The young men, in order to prove themselves worthy of matrimony were given baskets of clothes and clothes pins and told to pin the clothes on a line with their left hands behind their backs. This was a difficult task but the boys rose to the occasion and soon had the wash out on the line. Mr. Paul Lzell won the prize, which was a golden clothes pin.

In the "Aeroplane Flight" the contestants were given one minute to think and three minutes to talk about the war. This was truly exciting and the judges could hardly decide who deserved the prize, but they finally awarded to Miss Smith a handsome purse, containing one cent.

In the "Hurdle Race" Mr. Harry Kent won the gilded onion and in the Marathon race Mrs. Robert Rowe was awarded the gold medal for carrying an orange on a knife across the room.

The games ended, delicious refreshments were served, consisting of chocolate cake and salted peanuts.

Then it was announced that Supreme Court would convene for a while, as some persons present had been accused of misdemeanors. Two gentlemen were found guilty of stealing mar-bumblers, one lady of saying that she was cold, another of being angry with her husband and the last and most difficult case was that of a young man who was angry with his sweetheart because she would not accompany him to the social. This trial led to a court report because of the interest of the hour.

The social was thoroughly enjoyed and all visitors will testify to the fact that the Presbyterian young people can certainly entertain.

Nick Johns is back in Sanford and will probably engage in business again. Nick has been in New York for the past year but thinks that Sanford is the best place in the world to live in and will again become a citizen here. Nick has the smile that won't come off and has many friends who are glad to welcome him back to Sanford.

Nature Warns Against Using Calomel

The sickening, nauseating feeling that follows the use of calomel is the natural result of disarranging your entire system. Doctors everywhere are agreeing that the action of calomel is much too strong, and leaves the body sick and weakened.

LIV-VER-LAX is a wonderful substitute for calomel, that has all of its good effects and none of its bad ones. It acts soothingly but thoroughly on the liver, cleansing it of bile and ridding the entire system of stagnating poison.

LIV-VER-LAX is strictly a harmless vegetable compound, and is guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money will be returned. Insist on the original, bearing the likeness and signature of L. K. Grigsby. For sale here at 50c and $1.00. W. G. Aldridge.

HIGHWAYMEN THIS WEEK IN GAINESVILLE

THE ASSOCIATION NOW HAS MORE THAN ONE THOUSAND MEMBERS

Gainesville, Fla., Dec. 10.—The Central Florida Highway association met here yesterday morning. The number in attendance is surprisingly small, but this is made up somewhat by the earnestness and enthusiasm of those who are here. Perhaps not more than 125, and certainly 150 would cover all the visitors.

The president and the secretary of the association did not reach here until 10 o'clock last night and the directors and members of the executive committee being scattered and the hour so late it was announced by President T. Ed. Bryan that the meetings of these two bodies would not take place until this morning. Later toward the middle of the night, however, members of both were rounded up and the meetings held.

Although the only thing of any general importance coming up before the association was the controversy between Charles Wagoner of the Kuntis Lake Road and Eugene Lee Reese of the Orange Highway, over the relative merits of sand asphalt and bituminous which had reached that stage of bitterness that Reese has suggested the removal of Wagoner from the association for willful mismanagement of the Orange county road. The matter was deferred until the meeting of the executive committee and the adjournment of the association today. In the meantime the matter would be amicably settled between the two parties. Reese does not seem to be particularly anxious.

Minutes of reports were received from the committees this morning. In reviewing actual details as to what has been done, the reports show there is every reason to believe that the quarantines will be maintained on the Dixie highway within the next few days.

The report of representatives from the various counties in the state, especially those from the Florida Highway Association, was proposed.

A large map with scale of five miles to the inch, showing the highway and quarantines was authorized at the association's session.

City Council Meets

City Council met in regular session Dec. 6, 1915, at 7:30 p. m. Present, R. W. Hendon, chairman; W. W. Abernathy, J. Adams, C. H. Dinger, J. D. Davison and R. C. Maxwell. Absent, H. E. Tolar. The minutes of last meeting read and approved.

Moved and seconded that the ditch on the Ninth street park be filled. Carried.

Moved and seconded that the matter of improving Seventh street near grammar school be referred to the city engineer. Carried.

It was moved and seconded that a voucher be ordered drawn in favor of the Seminole Dredging Co. for $2,500. Carried. Mr. R. C. Maxwell voting no.

Council adjourned.

C. L. Sewell of Orlando was in the city yesterday looking over the various locations here that might make hotel sites. Mr. Sewell is proprietor of the Empire Hotel at Orlando and thinks Sanford offers many opportunities for a new hotel. Yes, ho.

LATE SUMMARY OF THE WAR

London, England, Dec. 10. With the Serbian armies in retreat behind the Albanian and Montenegrin frontiers it is reported that the bulk of the German and Bulgarian armies is being concentrated against the allied armies holding the southern corner of Serbia. Heavy fighting has been in progress there for the last few days.

There is no confirmation of reports from various sources that the French troops have been forced to retreat to abandon the position held by them since the beginning of the campaign. The fall of Montevideo and the southward progress of German and Bulgarian forces, however, have placed the northern wing of the French expedition in a precarious situation, and withdrawal from the angle formed by the Vardar and Cerna rivers apparently has become a constant arrival of fresh forces and war materials at Salonika give evidence that the allies have no intention of abandoning their efforts.

Although the Germans have announced the capture of Ipek, Montenegro, the pursuing Austrian and Bulgarian armies evidently are confronted with a harder task of the more concerned. The Montenegrins are offering a fiercer resistance than can be checked by sharp counter attacks.

In Albania the Serbians appear incapable of organized resistance. Even an orderly retreat is made difficult as the Serbians are equipped with large numbers of excellent machine guns, and accordingly to some reports have been able to hold their own.

The latest dispatches from the French are bringing heavy guns into action in the Stranitzka section, causing the Bulgarians to retire with heavy losses. A battle of large proportions between the Bulgarian and Franco-British troops appears to be pending.

Interest has shifted to the war operations in ancient Mesopotamia, where the British forces after winning victories over the Turkish army, was last week forced to give ground and retreat to the Tigris. The Turkish army in Mesopotamia is now under command of Field Marshal von der Goltz of the German army. Reinforced, it is reported that the British army entrenched at Kut-el-Amara.

There is little to report from the French or Russian battle fronts.

The Saloniki correspondent of Reuters' Telegram company sends the following dispatch under date of Tuesday:

"Weather conditions having improved the Bulgarians on Monday bombarded the entire British line at Stranitzka for the whole day. They then launched an infantry attack which was repulsed, although the fighting on this front still continues. Whether the Bulgarians intend to immediately press the attack and what their strength is it is difficult to establish at present. The British casualties thus far are reported as slight.

"At Krivolak there was an unimpaired local engagement between French and Bulgarian artillery on Monday.

"It is reported there that complications are threatened between Bulgaria and Turkey and that the district is increasing on both sides."

Germans Will Leave U. S. San Francisco, Dec. 10.—Franz Bopp, German consul general in San Francisco, arraigned the American public in a statement last night in what he termed their unfair treatment of his countrymen and predicted a wholesale exodus of German Americans at the close of the war.

"I do not like this country any more," said the consul, "and will be happy to return to Germany. I am disgusted with the ill feeling displayed. And I am not the only one. After the war there will take place a regular exodus of German Americans, who are not waiting for the end of the war but now are renouncing their American citizenship and returning to Germany."

Bopp characterized the Federal investigations of alleged bomb plots as "a storm in a teacup."

"FLORIDA FIRST" COMMISSION HERE

The "Florida First" Commission is meeting here today on the subject of advertising Florida throughout the north. The meeting will be held at either the Sanford House or the Robins Nest, the early visitors not knowing just where they will meet. H. Hamner of Tampa is the first man on the ground.

The meeting, Franklin of Ft. Myers, M. O. H. of Jacksonville and H. M. M. of Miami are expected at 10 o'clock. The meeting here will be a very important one and it is hoped that the full resources of the state will come into play with their share of the money for the great advertising campaign.

Florida Appropriations. Washington, Dec. 9. Florida has been liberally provided for in the estimates of rivers and harbors improvement and maintenance work for the coming year, according to the recommendations submitted to Congress today by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. More than one million dollars will be spent on the waterways of Florida if congress approves the recommendations. That this will be done is not seriously questioned for the rivers and harbors committee of which Hon. Charles M. McNary of Florida is chairman, has gained out of the secret of post-harvest appropriations. All projects are needy and worthy.

$300,000 for St. Johns River. Should the appropriations called for be made, the sum of $300,000 will be spent in improving and maintaining the St. Johns river from Leesville to the ocean.

Estimates for the improvement of Florida waterways projects follow: Apalachicola Bay, $20,000; Improving Hillsborough Bay, $50,000; Improving Pensacola harbor, $30,000; Improving St. Lucie Inlet, $200,000; Improving St. Johns river, $300,000, including following items: Compelling improvements and for maintenance from Jacksonville to the ocean, $300,000; compelling improvements and for maintenance between Jacksonville and Palatka, $16,000; compelling improvements and for maintenance between Palatka and Lake Harris, $16,000.

All other Florida river and harbor estimates are under $20,000 each.

Among the estimates for work on public buildings are the following: Lee onville. For lookouts at postoffice, $1,500; Bartow, $24,000 for continuation. For construction, DeLand, $10,000; Lake land, $500; Live Oak, $10,000.

New Sanford Home. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. R. Stewart are now comfortably located in their beautiful new bungalow home at 814 Myrtle avenue.

This new home, which has just been turned over to the owner by Contractor Venable is one of the prettiest homes in the section of the city. It is of the bungalow type built of the very best materials and finished with greatest care by expert workmen, and is equipped with every modern convenience.

Mr. Stewart is of the firm of John Russell, produce merchants, and will make Sanford his "year round" home in the future.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION IN ST. LOUIS

WOODROW WILSON WILL BE THE PARTY'S CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—The national democratic convention of 1916 will be held at St. Louis. The national committee after an all-day session, Wednesday night named the Missouri city as the place of meeting, and where, if the resolution adopted by the committee last night is carried out, Woodrow Wilson will be renominated for the presidency.

St. Louis led on the first ballot with twenty-five votes, to fourteen for Dallas and thirteen for Chicago. On the second ballot St. Louis received twenty-eight, Chicago fifteen and Dallas nine. The selection of St. Louis was finally declared to be unanimous.

The committee named June 14 as the opening day of the convention. Each of the three cities contesting offered $100,000 to the committee to be spent in defraying the expense of holding the convention.

It is believed that the national republican committee, which meets here Tuesday to select a convention site, will choose Chicago.

Members of the committee were the luncheon guests of President Wilson at the White House today.

President Wilson was seated in seven Chairman McCombs and Vice Chairman Homer Cummings of Georgetown, Secretary Thomas J. Pater and Joseph P. Thornbury, the President's secretary occupied seats next to Mr. Wilson. The luncheon was served in the state dining room.

The committee has finished its work here but Chairman McCombs expected to remain probably until tomorrow, to arrange further details for the convention, with James E. Smith, chairman of the St. Louis delegation. When Mr. McCombs returns to New York he will take with him for deposit in a New York bank five drafts handed yesterday by Mr. Smith, totalling $100,000, the sum pledged by St. Louis for the convention.

At the luncheon President Wilson, speaking briefly, told the committee men the democratic party should be in good order for the 1916 campaign because it had carried out its presidential promises. Speaking as the son "in the family" the president reviewed the acts of the administration since it came into power.

The committee members applauded him enthusiastically. No other addresses were made.

The President so big he did not think it necessary to address the committee in a preliminary language, said that "any man" who thinks he can be beaten is talking through his hat.

Frank Dole of Minnesota, who has been suggested as a possible successor to Chairman McCombs, had assured the committee that no differences exist between him and the chairman. The story of their being at odds he termed "a fairy story."

No attempt will be made, it is now understood, to displace Mr. McCombs before the end of his term.

As national chairman he is expected to open the convention at St. Louis in June.

Orlando Will Be There. Orlando, Dec. 10.—The Orlando Board of Trade will be represented in Jacksonville Monday, December 13, at a hearing to be conducted by Major W. B. Ladue on the purchase of the East Coast canal for the extension of the proposed inter-oceanic canal at waterways.

Effort is to be represented, and it is believed that Kleanimo and probably several points on the canal route will be mentioned, and it is believed that Orlando will have part in the delegation appearing before the engineers. The personnel of the delegation has not been definitely settled, but it is probable that W. R. O'Neal, M. O. Overstreet and J. H. Reams will represent the Orlando Board of Trade on that occasion.
