

Mickey's Tigers Tear Yanks Apart To Take Double Win As "Crucial" Series Opens

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A furious rush of the rampant Tigers—baseball's newest team of destiny—carried over from New York yesterday, brought their winning streak to 14 consecutive games and propelled them toward their first American pennant in a quarter of a century.

Coming to extraordinary heights since one of the greatest eras in the history of baseball, Mickey Vernon's spectacular crew routed the great Lefty Gomez to score the triumph in the first game when he pounded the Yankee pitcher, Red Ruffing, to capture the second game.

Success Of Housing Program Depends On Its Use By People

Act is intended to make eligible for rediscout the six months' part of contractors engaged in construction of homes for which mortgage insurance has been approved.

To replenish the coffers of approved lending institutions and to facilitate the ready flow of private capital from one part of the country to another, the bill provides for the approval of "national mortgage associations," capitalized at not less than $5,000,000 each, empowered to discount insured mortgages and issue bonds against them.

The Home Owners Loan Corporation is authorized to issue an additional billion in bonds to refinance distressed mortgages and to set aside another $100,000,000 for loans to modernize properties already mortgaged to the corporation.

Insurance is authorized for accounts no greater than $5,000 each in federal and other savings and loans, building and loan, and home-vested associations and co-operative banks.

The expenses of administration of new-construction loans, including the liquidation of foreclosed properties, if any, are to be met from premiums paid by the borrower and at fairly low premiums from one-half to 1 percent of the face of the loan—4 1/2 percent considered high enough to return a profit.

The borrower becomes a member of a mutual insurance concern—with a chance for profit, but with his own liability to the amount of his premium.

The lender is furnished a guarantee against loss of either principal or interest—a guaranty which has behind it the federal credit, the full force of organized society in this country.

The act was intended to be no more than an instrument to encourage the granting of credit on a colossal scale, and such it surely is.

No detail has been overlooked which might help the flow of funds from lender to borrower; a machine has been constructed in which all the cogs may be expected to mesh with smooth precision.

The framers of the measure have done an excellent, journeyman-like job of legislating—but neither they nor the bill can furnish lenders or borrowers.

That lenders will loosen purse strings is almost a foregone conclusion. Any fear of spathy on the part of conservative bankers seem dissipated by the attitude of men like Charles A. Miller, president of the Savings Banks Trust Company of New York, who endorsed the measure to the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency.

If, however, there should develop any attempt by existing institutions to sabotage the measure, new lending agencies will undoubtedly step into the breach, for an assured return of 5 percent on a security as good as a government bond is too tempting a bait to pass up.

But lenders are not going to ferret out borrowers from their present shoddy; these will have to come forward under their own steam. There are facts to indicate that they are likely to do just that thing.

The first applications are expected to be for modernization, remodeling and repair loans. The inventory of residential conditions in a number of cities now being completed by the Department of Commerce shows that in only sixty-three communities, housing, but a minor fraction of the country's urban population, there are 37,300 dwelling structures at present unfit for use, and $64,000 in dire need of structural repairs.

To these 301,568 must be added a practically equal number needing minor repairs. In letters accompanying replies to questionnaires in a survey conducted by the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association early this year, retail lumber dealers stressed the fact that their handling facilities would be taxed by remodeling and modernization jobs alone if their customers could borrow.

necessary, for these loans are to be based upon the applicant's earning capacity and credit standing. No hypothecation of the real property is permitted.

While the bill provides insurance of such accommodations for only 50 percent of the total amount advanced by any one lending institution, this is considered ample to protect, as losses on such loans have never exceeded 2 or 3 percent.

The housing administration will not be in position to approve loans for new construction until its organization has been completed and a system of appraisal devised—which, it has been stated, will take a minimum of ninety days—but the Administration is prepared to pass on modernization loans as applications are presented.

Much, of course, will depend upon the selling efforts of contractors and purveyors of materials insofar as both modernization and new construction loans are concerned.

The probabilities are that, hungry for business after the long famine, they will leave no stone unturned to induce the new home owners the change possible, some amounting practically to metamorphoses, by the expenditure of but few dollars.

Various trade associations, including the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, have prepared plans for national trade extension campaigns.

The Southern Pine Association recently voted an increase of 66 2/3 percent in its dues for trade promotion purposes.

The Lumber Code Authority has submitted for N. R. A. approval a proposition to tax units in the industry five cents a thousand for trade extension activities. The American Forest Products Industries, Inc., an affiliate of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, has sponsored the effort of the lead industry to acquaint the public with the advantages of good paint.

And, with respect to new construction, the sales efforts of the building and materials industries will unquestionably be aided by operators in the real estate field.

Some light may be thrown on the question of a possible housing shortage by further reference to the Commerce Department's survey.

In the sixty-three cities for which figures are available, there are 2,068,967 dwelling units occupied. Crowded in with the occupants are 153,742 extra families.

It is true that there are 171,314 dwellings units vacant, but against this must be set the fact that there are 801,988 dwelling structures, which may conceivably average two or three dwelling units each, that are either unfit for occupancy or present an imperative need of extensive structural repairs.

These cities, scattered all over the country, are fairly representative.

That there exists a strong desire on the part of many people to live in better homes is indicated by the National Lumber Manufacturers Association's survey, which developed the fact that throughout the country there were, last January, 800,000 bonafide, non-speculative, home-building prospects possessed either of a building lot, some cash, or both, who awaited only adequate financing to begin construction.

It should be noted that this figure of 300,000 includes only those who are already sold on the idea of building a new home. Robert R. Doane, director of the Federal Survey of Potential Product Capacity and associated with the National Industrial Conference Board, an advisor, declared recently that there exists today a shortage of 6,000,000 dwellings.

And the Housing Act which contemplates loans up to 80 percent of an appraised valuation, offers just the type of loan desired, for the National's survey revealed that 55 percent of the prospects needed 75 percent long-term amortized loans, while 28 percent could get along with an amortized loan for 50 percent of a conservative appraisal.

These figures go a long way toward answering the argument that the average prospective home owner is willing to pay 6 percent on an ordinary first mortgage, hoping to renew the loan on the due date, but balks at the increased outlay incident to an amortized loan.

Incidentally, the Housing Bill provides that loans are to be amortized in a period no greater than twenty years; annual payments of approximately 9 percent will effect this result that there is possibility that some of the last payments may be remitted through insurance earnings.

There undoubtedly will be many evening family conferences in the homes of urbanites who have dreamed for years of migrating to the hinterland. The 9 percent outlay, plus fire insurance, probable cost of maintenance, taxes, fuel, and the railroad commutation necessary to transport the head of the family to and from his job in the city each day will be set against the amount being put out monthly for apartment rent; the accommodations chances of improvement in conditions surrounding family life, and, in fact, possible degrees of human satisfaction in general will be carefully compared.

Wilson Compton, general manager of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, testifying before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee while the bill was under consideration, said that as a result of the measure lumber consumption estimated at 17,500,000,000 feet for 1934 could be increased to 25,000,000,000 in 1935.

This reflects a jump of about 43 percent, which would be a boon indeed to lumbermen. The lumber industry, under the code, was compelled to raise its average hourly wage from 28.14 cents in July, the last month before the code, to 40.14 cents in April, 1934, the latest month for which complete reports are available.

During the same period, the average of lowest wages paid increased from 18.81 cents to 29.09 cents an hour, and, just at a time when the industry assumed a new burden by its undertaking to conserve forest resources, it made the drastic cut of 10 percent in mill prices.

This move, however, was not without immediate reward, for new business booked during the last week in July was greater than in any of the previous nine weeks.

Silk-Hatted Hangman Executes Four Nazis

VIENNA, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A hangman attired in evening clothes and wearing a high silk hat went out into the rain Monday and executed four men who participated in the Nazi uprising July 25 in which Chancellor Dollfuss was assassinated.

Despite the dismal downpour, the hangman observed all the usual formalities as he performed his tasks about the improvised gallows in the yard of the district court building.

The four who paid with their lives for taking part in the raid on the federal chancellery were policemen, Franz Leeb, Josef Hackel, Ludwig Meitzen and Erich Wohl-

GRIM WARNING IS HURLED AT LOUISIANANS

Anti-Long Solon Says State Is Headed For Hitlerism, Death, Under Huey's Reign

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A grim warning that Louisiana is headed for "Hitlerism" and "bloodshed" rang through the state today as Senator Huey Long continued his armed campaign to overthrow Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley's rule in New Orleans.

Twenty eight bills drafted by Long and charged with dynamite for the investigation and crippling of the present city government of New Orleans sped toward final action in the Long-controlled legislature meeting here in special session.

Representative Rupert Peyton, anti-Long leader, sounded the warning last night on the floor of the House.

"We are going to have killings and bloodshed in this state as a result of this legislative session," he said, "so we might as well legalize it. We are headed for Hitlerism."

He spoke of his mock amendment to the Administration election-control bill.

The amendment would empower election officers "to shoot and kill any person known or suspected of having cast his or her ballot against the present state administration or against the desires of Senator Huey P. 'Kingfish' Long."

The amendment was promptly done away with.

KLAN HOLDS BIG CELEBRATION ON STONE MOUNTAIN

19th Birthday Of New Southern Order Is Observed By Scores

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—The fiery cross burned on Stone Mountain again Tuesday night.

The Ku Klux Klan was re-dedicated on the spot where it was founded on Thanksgiving night, 1915, to the principles of "100 percent Americanism" as opposed to "radical alienism."

The ceremonies climaxed the first day of the seventh kloukavation of the Klan, attended by 620 delegates from 28 states in all sections of the nation.

Mobilization of the Klan, which has been comparatively inactive for the last few years, is being undertaken to combat what leaders term "the menace of communism."

Dr. Hiram W. Evans, just re-elected to a four-year term as imperial wizard, presided at the important held on the side of barren Stone Mountain—a huge mountain of solid rock.

A fiery cross measuring 100 feet high and 50 feet wide—made by burning buckets of oil pegged into place on the mountainside—flamed above the 3,000 Klansmen and friends gathered in the amphitheater halfway up the mountain.

First there was a pilgrimage to the site of the birthplace of the Ku Klux Klan. White robes—but unmasked—Klansmen marched in order up the mountain.

Then 250 candidates for naturalization—the Klans term for initiation—came down from the top of the mountain to join the group. They had been taken earlier to the mountain top where they took the oath of allegiance to the United States government.

Under the blazing cross and a large American flag they were taken through the remainder of the naturalization ritual. Then they donned their white robes as Klansmen.

JOHNSON SEES NRA OF FUTURE IN MANY HANDS

One-Man Control Will Be Supplanted With Board of Directors As Recovery Guides

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A Blue Eagle board of directors supplanting his one-man control and a special agency for business—these were the ideas advanced by Vice Chancellor Frank von Papen as his successor or had perhaps offered possible solutions for Germany's many problems.

The document remained something of a mystery even after it was published.

At the time it was signed questions involving the church, finances and foreign policy were troubling the Third Reich.

The query arose yesterday as to why the testament was given out just at this time when the Nazis are asking the people for another expression of approval.

While the inspired press seized upon the statement as proof of the claim made by Hitler's campaigning lieutenants—that the Chancellor is von Hindenburg's logical successor—others regarded the closing sentence, which looked to the future as significant.

After praising Hitler and his national, socialist movement for taking a decisive stride "of historical importance toward the goal of leading the German people to inner unity" von Hindenburg expressed hopes for the future.

"I know that much remains to be done," he said.

He saw the new organization as possible of fulfillment "within two or three months," and said the plan then would be recommended to Congress for permanent enactment. The law which created NRA expires next June.

Just now, the subject of NRA's future is being worked out by Johnson and Donald Richberg, emergency council director, for presentation to the President.

Richberg in giving particular attention to reconciling NRA with anti-trust principles has figured prominently in demands of NRA critics, including Senators Borah and Nye.

"There is conflict between the anti-trust acts of the federal trade commission and this organization," Johnson said. "I delegated to Richberg that he straighten it out and he will straighten it out. It is not very difficult."

"We of NRA think control of competition is the answer. The anti-trust acts say there shall be only uncontrolled competition."

"I think I see some sort of institution which will reconcile the differences. It is not clearly worked out. I think two or three people might pass on that point."

Johnson believes an administrative institution could be set up to act as a buffer between NRA and the federal trade commission without a new law. He hinted the NRA advisory council might do the job.

To illustrate the kind of a board he would put over NRA, Johnson cited the board of directors of an industrial corporation in which every member, except possibly the chairman, would give his full time. There would be a single ad-and retirement of bonds; also that the city pledge for payment of refunding bonds all city-owned property, together with all monies purposes. The committee would also require the city to levy annually a tax upon all taxable property, together with all monies from other sources, of not less than $30,000 for the first five years, and that for the first 10 years, the total appropriations for other purposes than debt service shall not exceed one-half of the aggregate appropriations for each year.

The city's debt totals $3,430,232, of which $2,821,000 is principal, $509,232 defaulted interest and $999,999 due federal judgment creditors. Cancellation of the interest and an 80 percent slash in the principal would reduce the debt to $609,181, requiring the payment of $17,040 interest annually under council's plan.

The officials pointed out that from an assessment roll of $19,000,000 in 1926, the present valuation has dropped to $1,900,000 for the 1934-35 annual year; that tax collections dropped from $3,304 in 1928, or 17 percent, in 1933 to last year, or 5 percent.

Hindenburg's Political Will Describes Hitlerism As Step Toward Inner National Unity

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Four days before the publication of Adolf Hitler's assumption of Presidential powers, the German people yesterday were given the political testament of Paul von Hindenburg, which described Hitlerism as "a decisive stride" toward inner national unity.

For months the document, which was signed May 11, 1934, has been a matter of mystery.

There had been speculation as to whether the aged field marshal had definitely named Hitler as his successor or had perhaps offered possible solutions for Germany's many problems.

The document remained something of a mystery even after it was published.

At the time it was signed questions involving the church, finances and foreign policy were troubling the Third Reich.

The query arose yesterday as to why the testament was given out just at this time when the Nazis are asking the people for another expression of approval.

RISE IN PRICE OF FOOD HELD AS INEVITABLE

General Increases In All Lines Certain As Result Of Long Drought In West

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—General increases in prices of food-stuffs are inevitable, the Department of Agriculture declared today in a comprehensive report following the great drought and the state of the nation's food supplies.

Although food stocks are ample, the drought has resulted in sharply higher prices on many farm products, others have been using more and more of later all products will have their prices raised, the Department said.

"Prices of most crops which have been severely affected by the drought have already risen," the report said. "Prices of grain have risen markedly in all sections of the country. Prices of livestock products have shown a tendency to rise. Both butter and eggs rose sharply in July, largely as a result of poor pastures and high price of feed."

The review said later effects of the drought on prices should affect little from first effects. It added that for the country as a whole, farm income will be little affected since rising prices will offset the reduction in sales volume. In the worst drought areas, however, it said, the decline of crop and livestock production will be much greater than the rise of prices and such areas have suffered or will suffer drastic decline in income.

"Livestock prices" the review continued, "have been little affected to date, due to liquidation of herds in drought areas. Only in the cases of hogs has there been significant improvement of prices. When liquidation has been completed, however, prices of cattle, sheep and poultry will advance."

The prices of grains, the review said, "may be expected to remain high through early summer, 1935." It continued, saying, "Some normal supplies of grain and other feeds are available but numbers can be increased rapidly so that the increased price of hogs resulting from the drought will not last as long as the increase in the price of cattle."

The Department said dairy and poultry products should show rapid increases.

The review described general drought conditions saying damage to crops and pastures as of today had been greater than anticipated and would affect all crops. "Yet," it said, "food supplies for the nation as a whole are ample. Stocks of bread grains and several other food products are large. Production of most common crops will be about normal. Fruits and vegetables are fairly abundant outside the drought areas and the supply of meat, dairy and poultry products adequate for the rest of the year."

Local supplies of certain food crops will be short in many regions, the review concluded, requiring heavier shipment from other localities.

on their needs. It was presented as an amendment to the agreement by W. Lyons, Tampa grower, calling for an assessment of three cents a box on oranges and grapefruit and five cents a box on tangerines. It was estimated that the fund would amount to about $300,000 next season.

The agreement brought a hearty response from the audience with the single objection that the amount was not high enough. Some suggested an assessment of 10 cents a box. But Lyons said as a starter, "three cents will do a good job."

"We have gone half way up by approving this agreement," he said, "but we must go the other half. I am satisfied that within one season a three cents a box assessment will bring a return of from 40 to 50 cents in increased prices."

The retirement board, Chaffetz explained, has no funds except the $500 to be contributed by the railroad and their employees, and unless it is able to secure money activities would have to be suspended until a decision is reached. He noted that aside from an assessment for administrative purposes, the railroad would have nothing to pay until Nov. 1 when the first installment of assessments against the carriers and their employees would become due.

C., on Monday to be present at a City Commission meeting, expects to leave here tomorrow to remain in Asheville until Tuesday with his family. Floridians Growers Give Approval To U.S. Plan Of Citrus Marketing Agreement

ORLANDO, Aug. 16.—Florida growers gave their approval yesterday to the federal government's proposed citrus marketing agreement and asked for an advance provision for an advertising fund to create consumer demand for their product.

During the second day of a public hearing on the agreement growers in all stations of life in overalls and in silk shirts, stepped before the microphones in the city auditorium and asked the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to put it into effect for the benefit of the industry.

They asked also for an assessment to pay for fruit that might be destroyed and a minimum price for canned grade citrus.

The hearing ended last night but representatives of the AAA will remain here for several days to receive written briefs and other data to go into their record.

The request for an advertising fund was a high light of the day-long expression of growers' views

BIG RAILROADS TOLD TO START PENSION FUND

All Class One Lines In Nation Ordered To Pay U. S. Treasurer Part Of July Wages

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(A.P.)—The Railroad Retirement Board today ordered all Class One railroads to immediately pay to the United States treasurer one-tenth of one percent of their payrolls for July to start the fund for the Railroad Pension Law.

The assessment amounts to $125,000 dollars. Payments are to be made by Aug. 25.

This order was forecast yesterday when attorneys for the Board, in combatting an effort of the railroads to obtain an injunction against the operation of the Act until its constitutionality could be determined, stated that the Board had prepared the order and another calling for the names of all employees who would reach the age of 70 by Feb. 1, 1935.

Justice Proctor of the District of Columbia Supreme Court denied the railroads the temporary injunction.

The ruling was handed down after Hammond Chaffetz of the department of justice contended the railroads had failed to show irreparable injury.

Chaffetz contended the court should consider the statute valid until it is provided otherwise and charged that the railroads were trying to suspend the law. "The plaintiffs," Chaffetz said, "must show irreparable injury before a restraining order can be issued."

The retirement board, Chaffetz explained, has no funds except the $500 to be contributed by the railroad and their employees, and unless it is able to secure money activities would have to be suspended until a decision is reached. He noted that aside from an assessment for administrative purposes, the railroad would have nothing to pay until Nov. 1 when the first installment of assessments against the carriers and their employees would become due.

Knocking the combination off the front of a large safe at the Wright Bros. Co. office at San Jose Avenue and Leith Street sometime after midnight last night an unknown person or persons perpetrated a successful robbery in which over $300 in cash was removed from the safe.

The robbery was discovered this morning when officials of the company opened the place, local agency for Plymouth automobiles, for business.

Police arrived shortly after to make an investigation, but clues were meagre, and the mystery deepened when K. B. Holloway, fingerprint expert of the Orlando Police Department, announced after a survey, that the job was done by a person or persons using gloves.

R. B. Wight, head of the firm, disclosed that he lost over $300 in cash, and that every drawer in the safe had been looted with one exception. That drawer contained nearly $300 in cash.

Entrance to the building was gained through a rear window which apparently was unlocked. The robber or robbers stepped at a table near the rear of the building to pick up a crow bar and other tools which were used to knock away the combination and trip the levers which opened the safe.

DINNER VERSE FOR TODAY

THEY KEPT: The Lord is thy keeper: The Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand. Psalm 121.

Haven't seen H. G. Smith in some time. We've been wondering what he thinks of the new citrus marketing agreement.

We wonder if that preacher up there in Sylva, N. C. didn't slip a little potassium permanganate in to that snake bite when nobody was looking?

Financial news: Government bonds which have been a bit wobbly of late recovered yesterday following Secretary Morgenthau's announcement that the Administration's recent inflationary moves would have no inflationary effects.

If President Roosevelt had been induced into this Blackfoot Indian tribe after his trip through North Dakota instead of before it, we'll bet they would have named him "Big Chief Rain Maker."

The caption of the Tampa Tribune's leading editorial Wednesday was "A One-House Legislature," not "A One-Horse Legislature," as we at first thought. It appears that there's a movement on foot in Nebraska to eliminate the Senate in the Legislature. Now if they would just eliminate the House too, we'd favor such a coup d'etat in this state.

That California inventor who says that the "pushbottom era" is just ahead of us, that new inventions will some day bring about a "workless world," is behind the times. Looking over recent figures on federal relief, it appears that the "workless world" has already dawned upon us.

Balaban the bankers are pulling him because one of them has been operating his shop without paying taxes. One of them claims he's being scolded because the other doesn't pay taxes. The tax-dodger claims that the splitting hairs. It seems that the whole town had a case taken from being put under martial law.

We had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Allison, editor of the Eustis Lake Region, this week. He said he was getting out a sixteen page paper this week, so we can't call him our competitor, he's away just that, but we can wish him luck. Lake County Citizen. Prosperity must not be around the corner in Eustis.

Karl Lehmann, just returned from Chicago, reports on a speech by Dudley Cates, called, "After NRA, What?" Well, it strikes us that the consumers are the main ones that are after it, but they're followed pretty closely by both labor and business men, neither of whom think they're getting a square deal under it. About the only ones who are not "After it" are the code authorities.

Bankers, according to the news reports, are enthusiastically endorsing new Housing Administration plan. They should, getting five percent interest on their money, with no risks involved. But the question is, whether home owners, just now getting out of debt for the first time in years, or may be still in debt, will want to further obligate themselves no matter how badly the old roof needs repair, or the walls need painting. Our advice would be to do it. You will probably never be able to have it done again as cheaply as you can now. Nor will you always be able to borrow money at five percent interest. Or pay it back when wages and prices are still rising.

Sanford, A Hospitable Town

With plans progressing rapidly for the construction here of the new wholesale farmers' market which is to be used by farmers residing not only in Seminole County but also in the adjoining counties of Orange, Volusia and Lake, it becomes more and more important for the residents of Sanford to develop a reputation for extending the hand of welcome to visitors in this city.

We can build all the markets in the world, we can provide the best facilities there are for selling crops, we can guarantee a profit to everyone who makes use of them, our stores can stock their shelves with the most attractive merchandise at the best prices, but if we do not make strangers in this city feel at home, if we do not receive them cordially and treat them well, we will be neglecting our best opportunity.

County fairs, marketing centers, and special inducements of these kinds, may bring people to town once, but it is that little feeling of satisfaction they get from having made new friends, from having been treated fairly, from having received a friendly greeting wherever they go, that makes them come back again. We should try to get people into the habit of coming to Sanford, because they LIKE to come here.

This is particularly true with regard to tourists. We wonder if Sanford has made any special efforts to be nice to tourists in years gone by. Thousands of them pass through this city every winter on their way to Orlando, St. Petersburg, and other Florida resorts. Many of them stop here for gasoline, lunch, or packages of cigarettes. How many of us take the trouble to go up to strangers in their parked cars, when we notice their foreign licenses, and welcome them to Sanford?

Efforts are being made by our city officials, our Chamber of Commerce, and other civic leaders, to get the Mayfair Hotel reopened. Everyone hopes that these efforts will meet with success before another tourist season dawns upon us. It means much to Sanford to have this hotel open. It means new business for local merchants, prospects for real estate and insurance men, customers for every business man in the city.

But more than that, it means an opportunity for Sanford to obtain new residents, not just winter visitors, but permanent residents. It has been the experience of other Florida resorts, that the tourist who spends two weeks in your city one winter, will, if he is treated fairly, spend a little more time there the next winter. He gradually increases the length of his stay, if he is made to enjoy himself, until he becomes one of the home folks.

But you have got to make him feel at home in order to get him to do this. He must be made to feel that he is wanted. He must be made to have a good time. He must enjoy himself and those with whom he comes in contact. It is up to each one of us who has so much at stake in the future progress and prosperity of Sanford to go out of our way to welcome visitors to this city.

A Recovery Program

Re-emphasizing the importance of the Administration's program for the repair and renovation of homes and other buildings is the statement that 85 percent of all present unemployment is in the durable goods industries, and that fully half of that is in the construction industry, the present inactivity of which vitally affects all other industries and services.

This information comes from the report to the President of the United States by the Durable Goods Industries Committee, which was appointed at the request of General Hugh Johnson by the Code Authorities representing the various durable goods industries, for the purpose of analyzing existing unemployment and determining upon a concrete program for reviving business and eliminating so far as possible the necessity for relief rolls.

The following recommendations are of interest chiefly because they represent the studied convictions of America's foremost industrial leaders as to the needs of the hour:

- (a) A free flow of private capital into private business.
(b) A sound real estate mortgage market.
(c) Industrial relations on a basis which will assure co-operation instead of strife.
(d) A balanced price parity between agricultural commodities and manufactured goods.
(e) The further re-establishment of confidence.
(f) Assurance to private enterprise that the profit incentive will continue to receive public approval as an energizing motive for economic activity.
(g) Public recognition that the only legitimate purpose of taxation is to provide the necessary revenue for government and not to effect a punitive redistribution of wealth which paralyzes business initiative or for any other purpose.
(h) Removal through a permanent balancing of the budget of the threat of uncontrolled inflation.
(i) Removal of any remaining threat of a sudden and arbitrary change in our monetary policies.
(j) Assurance that companies which have adjusted their business methods and policies to the temporary emergency program of the NRA will be free from the uncertainties of unreasonable or arbitrary administration.
(k) Clarification of the Government's policies toward measures and trends which are inconsistent with our economic system.

gram of the Klan at the opening session of the "Klonvokation." He said the objective was to hold up a body of thought throughout the nation that would make it impossible for communism and communism to remain healthy. M. D. Dunning, appointed chief of staff a few weeks ago to lead the "revival" of the Klan, said it would be "easy to mobilize."
"The Klan has not been disbanded," Dunning said. "We have been inactive because there was no need for action. Now there is a call for action going into action with our thought—to eliminate radical alienism."
"No conscious or radical prejudice will be connected with our program. In fact, we welcome the cooperation of all Americans including Jews and Catholics in the fight."

CANADIAN RELEASED UNHARMED

Kidnap Gang Got Cold Feet Says Freeing Brewer Without Collecting

LONDON, Ontario, Aug. 11.—(AP)—After two and a half days as a hostage of kidnapers, John S. LaBatt, wealthy brewer, was returned to his wife and children today. No ransom had been paid for his release.

An official announcement denied previous reports that the LaBatt family had paid the $150,000 demanded for release.

Authorities stated that the kidnap gang got "cold feet" and released their victim on the outskirts of Toronto shortly before dawn today.

A reliable source said that after his release on the edge of the city, LaBatt hailed a taxicab and was driven to the hotel where his brother Hugh had been on duty two days and nights in an effort to make contact with the kidnapers.

The same authority said the London brewer was blindfolded all the time he was held by the gang.

It was learned that Hugh knew nothing of his brother's release until he appeared at the hotel suite.

Lions Club Meets in Tacoma, Prevaricating

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Exalted Prevaricators of the International Boudgeous reunion met yesterday in extraordinary session—and that's no lie.

Right off the bat, Jack Roberts Los Angeles, told the annual convention that somebody was a liar when they said Alaskan miners fed by to invincible leeches so they could be fed.

"We placed 40 red whisks on the ice in the banquet; the worms would drink it and fall over with a thud. Every time we heard a thud, we would grope in that direction and catch an leechworm."

"The only trouble was that when those worms were placed on the book while full of whisky, they would just as soon catch anything that came along instead of sticking to fish. I had an leechworm once that caught a polar bear."

There was a roar from the "clan" men who took the long hike up the Chilkoot trail and fought the elements in Alaska and the Yukon for gold.

Lake Wales Found To Have 3702 Residents

LAKE WALES, Aug. 11.—Lake Wales had 3702 inhabitants in July, 1934, against 3709 in April, 1934, a gain of 8550 percent. The 1930 count is the federal census and the 1934 count was made by FERA workers who, while making a survey of replacement costs of the power system, also gathered those and other figures for the chamber of commerce. They were made public by Jay Burns, Jr., at a joint meeting of the chamber of commerce, Kiwanis, and Rotary clubs.

Of the total population 2490 are whites and 1212 colored. The whites are 1802 adults and 688 children. Ninety-three percent of the 679 houses were occupied and fully half of the 87 percent unemployed were not taxable.

Roosevelt Held As Only One Who Can Halt Nation-Wide Strike In Textile Industry

Re-Elected Leader Of Workers Says Hugh Johnson 'Isn't High Up Enough' To Help

By The Associated Press
Thomas F. McMahon, re-elected today as President of the United Textile Workers of America declared that only President Roosevelt could avert a general strike in the cotton textile industry.

McMahon said "President Roosevelt is the only person in God's green world who can stop the general strike."

McMahon said that under a mandate of the convention, issued yesterday, there was no doubt of the strike being called unless the President "forces leaders of the textile industry to sit down at the table."

BOB LAFOLLETTE STATES POLICIES OF NEW PARTY

Genuine Political Realignment Asked By Young Progressive

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The leader of the new born progressive party in Wisconsin, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, yesterday declared for a "genuine political realignment" in a platform on which he will seek re-election.

His platform aims at increased governmental assistance for farmer and laborer, and includes among its 20 planks:

Control of credit through a government-owned central bank; federal and state development of electric power and municipal operation of public utilities; abolition of the sales tax; larger veterans' payments and immediate payment of the bonus; and a referendum before declaration of war.

Other platform highlights were statements that labor should have the right to organize and should benefit by increased earnings and shorter hours; that the farmer is entitled to a profit as well as cost of production, and that the relief work program should be expanded, if private employment fails.

Japs Consider New Warning To Moscow Recounting Plots

TOKYO, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Japanese government is "considering the possibility of sending a general warning" to Moscow as the next step in their gravely strained relationship, Foreign Office spokesman said today.

This procedure has not yet been decided upon, he added.

The spokesman said the possible warning would recount many frontier incidents, including alleged Soviet plots and provocations.

Settlement of past cases would be urged with assurances requested against repetitions. "But such a warning will not necessarily carry threats," the official asserted.

Mack Roberts, Pilot Of Tampa Special, Has Experience All Engineers Dread

TAMPA, Aug. 11.—Engineer Mack Roberts of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad leaped out of his car Tuesday afternoon, trying to see the rails ahead through driving rain that bit into his face.

Roberts looked at his watch; it was 3:35 o'clock. He was coming into Tampa down-grade and he checked speed to roll through Dorr. He had the Tampa Special on time and everything was ship-shape, except the rain.

Suddenly dead ahead and almost on the rails he saw through the driving sheets of water a school bus lumbering toward the gleaming tracks.

That vision is the nightmare of an engine driver's dream. Mack Roberts slammed on all the brakes. He put them on so hard that they stayed on, and the train was stopped before it came to the crossing.

As it happened, the train probably would have struck the bus had Engineer Roberts been less watchful, less alert. But Chairman Keefe of the county school board said yesterday while D. V. Walden, driver of the bus, stood before him, that it was good to be misled by a railroad train.

Anyway, the bus was empty, except for Walden. It was going to the school along the Dorr-Sidney road to load up with kids and take them home.

Walden, who has a clean record as a careful bus driver, said he had seen the train, which after all was something Engineer Roberts did not know. He said he had just stopped to investigate some wires that had been torn down by a crossing.

BIG STICK READY FOR PROFITEERS

Government Warning Against Food Chislers Reiterated By Secretary Wallace

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Administration concern over the profiteering problem was reiterated again yesterday by Secretary Wallace's reiteration that the government had a big stick ready for profiteers.

Statistics available bear out the contention that—despite drought damage—there will be enough food available. Most of the uneasiness in official circles revolves about the prospect of a price ascension which would pinch consumers until they howled.

The farm chieftains have known all along that their reduction programs would cause food prices to go up. They wanted a gradual rise and figured that increasing employment resulting from more farm purchasing power would pacify the average urban dweller.

The dry spell upset calculations and the consumer may have to meet sharply hoisted food costs without the benefits contemplated. That might make the AAA very unpopular and have an effect upon the entire Administration program.

Consequently, the emphasis on keeping food prices from unwarranted ascensions. The Farm Administration hopes, too, that relief and higher prices in the areas where crops are good will offset in large measure the drought devastation.

Wallace disclosed yesterday that purchases of cattle and sheep in the drought area might reach the huge total of 10,000,000 head, instead of the 2,000,000 figured on when the dry spell was first seriously felt.

The President's warning against "profiteering" and destructive "speculation" in food and grain was echoed by the secretary of agriculture.

Wallace outlined at his weekly press conference steps which might be taken to back up the admonition. They were:

1. Study of price increases by commodities to determine to what extent they are justified.
2. Publication of the facts, if increases are unjustified, in similar fashion to the Administration's attack on rising bread prices a year ago.
3. Use of "moral suasion" on code authorities of industries operating under codes and agreements. Wallace expressed his preference for this procedure as an excessive price curb.
4. Enforcement of provisions of the grain exchange code by the code authority and of the grain futures act by the government to check excessive speculation in grain.

Second Warning Is Received By Wife Of Kidnaped Cleric

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. E. H. Atlew was reported today to have received a second communication from the presumed kidnaper of her husband, a "Four-square Gospel" evangelist who has been missing since Tuesday.

Federal agents assigned to the case by the department of justice, and Sheriff Paul Garrison's office, were investigating, and upon their instructions Mrs. Atlew declined to answer any questions about the hunt for her missing 25-year-old husband.

Reports from reliable sources, however, said that she received a telegram sent from Washington which said "Have the money ready Saturday."

Last Wednesday she received through the mails a note which told her "Get $25,000 at once or you will never see your husband alive again. Instructions will follow." The Atlews are said to be of moderate means.

FARLEY URGES ELECTION OF NEW DEALERS

Cabinet Member Stresses Importance Of Administration Dominance Next Year

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Exhorting Tennessee to return to the New Deal, Postmaster General James A. Farley last night stressed importance of Administration dominance over the next national legislative session.

Farley, who is making a goodwill tour in the interest of the Democratic party of which he is chairman of the national committee, addressed a large crowd of Tennesseans gathered here from all sections of the state.

"This is not an ordinary election," Farley said. "Our country is in the midst of the boldest, bravest experiment any of us has ever witnessed."

Election of an anti-administration minority to Congress, large enough to block legislation, he continued, "would mean that the Recovery program would be hampered, however the minority thought it saw an opportunity to play politics with 1936 in view."

"It is morally certain that we will increase our Senate majority by half a dozen seats. Nor do I believe there will be much change—if any—in the House of Representatives."

"If we are to have a balanced budget, and if the time ever comes when government is the least of problems of industry, there must be no interference with the planned procedure that has already shown its capacity to lift us out of trouble."

"You will see to it that Tennessee does its part in holding up the President's hands by sending to Congress this year, as you did two years ago, men who will work with him and not against him."

The national patronage chief commended the previous support given the Administration by Senators Nathan L. Backman and E. D. McKellar and the Democratic congressmen, including Majority Leader of the House Joseph W. Byrum, Memphis political boss. Farley also applauded the Democratic nomination of Governor Hill McAlister.

The postmaster general's plea for New Deal support came on the heels of the formation of a "fusion" ticket of Tennessee Republicans and "Independent Democrats" seeking to elect former Governor Ben Hooper, Republican, and outspoken Administration critic, over Senator McKellar.

A supporter of Lewis S. Pope, who was defeated in the primary by McAlister, will be chosen later to pair with Hooper and run against McAlister in the November election.

Indications are that differing attitudes toward the New Deal policies will constitute main issues in the campaign.

Turning to accomplishments of the Administration, Farley frequently cited statistics showing increased employment, larger individual and corporate earnings and expanded bank deposits.

To New Deal critics advocating a return of "rugged individualism," Farley retorted that such proposals involved a reversal to "the old cut-throat system of business."

"Our adversaries," Farley declared, "are doing a lot of talking about government in business. Let me solemnly assure you that the government is not in business because it wants to be. It is in business to the extent that the occasion requires through absolute necessity; because under the old system, men abused their opportunities and exploited those less fortunate."

"The Tennessee Valley Project, which means so much to your section of the country, and similar projects elsewhere are going to make Hamilton in that particular field sure."

Mark Wilcox Believes City Is Near Bond Settlement, River Canal Due Ultimately

"I believe we'll ultimately secure the construction of the St. Johns-Indian River canal."

"I believe that you folks will soon work out a reasonable settlement of your bonded difficulties here."

"After a four weeks tour of my district, I'm happy to report a tremendous improvement in business conditions and in the morale of the people."

These remarks, made at the Valley Hotel at noon today by Congressman Mark Wilcox of West Palm Beach, were the close of an informal talk on the highlights of his recent efforts in behalf of the district, aimed at bringing applause from a gathering of 45 men and women who had met at the call of Seminole County Chamber of Commerce officials to pay tribute to the guest of honor.

Presented to the group after having been welcomed by City Commissioner T. L. Dumas and County Commission Chairman John Meisch, Sr., Mr. Wilcox acceded to Postmaster S. O. Shillinger's request that he "tell us of the highlights of your recent experiences in Washington."

At the outset, Congressman Wilcox, reminding the group that "this is my first public appearance in Seminole County since the primary," expressed "deep and sincere appreciation for the great work you gave me in that primary."

"If good, hard work and conscientious representation are of any value," he said, "you'll have no cause to regret having chosen me to represent you in Washington. Permit me again to pledge you every ounce of my energy and every fibre of my being in the interests of the people of my district."

After urging the group that he would consider it "an immense pleasure to assist you with your problems at any time," Congressman Wilcox said that he was in Sanford "to get information about a tremendously important project not only to Sanford but all Central Florida."

He was speaking of the St. Johns-Indian River canal, and five minutes he gave a detailed history of the project which he said "has been one of my under objectives for the past 18 months."

He told of having been advised by Army engineers that the commercial tonnage angle of the project would not warrant its construction; but after a further study, and a fight over the entire St. Johns River valley, the construction of the canal appeared to be a necessity as a matter of flood control.

Congressman Wilcox stated that he is now gathering data upon which he will have a new appeal for the canal, data which will deal almost entirely with the flood control possibility of the project.

In this connection, he pointed out that thousands of acres of the most fertile land in this state now are under water because of inequitable flood control measures, and he paid particular reference to the fact that farmers of Orange this past season lost heavily because of flood conditions which caused them to lose their crops.

Foreigners Of Wheat Part Foreign Nation To Give Up Part In But Not Share Of

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The United States will quit its share of the world wheat market in 1935, according to a report issued today by the State Department.

Under the terms of the wheat agreement with the United States, which was signed in London in 1930, the United States was to supply 35 per cent of the world's wheat needs. This share was to be reduced to 25 per cent by 1935.

The State Department said that the United States will continue to supply 25 per cent of the world's wheat needs in 1935, but will not share the market with the other nations.

Wilbur Glen Veltz Tells His Flock That This World Will End On Sept. 10

ZION, Ill., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Wilbur Glen Veltz, a fundamentalist, told his flock that the world will come to an end about Sept. 10.

On the day of the sermon, the localists of the religious colony here will gather in Shiloh tabernacle to await the coming of the Lord.

As for the unfaithful, Veltz, assigned them to destruction, some of them specifically to hell.

"Things are winding up in Zion," he proclaimed in a three address to a thousand followers at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting.

"I believe the Lord will come on the front of tomorrow," the religious orator asserted. "And I believe he will come this year." The break of trumpet occurs Sept. 10.

"At the close of every age, God has called a messenger. In Zion there will be a little church, and God will destroy the rest. We are in the end."

"The whole world system will go to smash," Veltz proclaimed.

WEEK-END COMMITTEE Prices On Increase

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The House department reported yesterday that wholesale commodity prices last week were higher than at any time since March 1933.

The 44 percent increase from the previous week brought the price level to 73.4 percent of the 1926 average.

The advance in prices was not widespread, however, the department said, being confined chiefly to farm products, food, fuel and lighting materials.
