Halloween party set in Longwood

LONGWOOD — The annual Halloween party sponsored by the city police will be Saturday, Oct. 30, according to police chief Greg Manning. One of the major points in scheduling the party the night before Halloween was to avoid a conflict with people who attend church services on Sunday evening, Manning said. The city commissioners recommended the event, held as an alternative to door-to-door Trick or Treating, be scheduled on Halloween night. During the 11 years the party has been held, Manning said once or twice it has not been on Halloween night. Manning added he had not received any complaints from the public prompting him to set the party for Saturday rather than Sunday night. Even with the party the night before Halloween, Manning expects little Trick or Treating. Longwood residents are invited to the party at the police station, 235 W. Church Avenue on Oct. 30 from 6 until 10 p.m.

Judges to shift assignments
SANFORD — There will be a shift of assignments for some of the circuit judges serving in Seminole County beginning in January. Assignments are made on an annual basis. Judges C. Vernon Mize, Jr. and Alan A. Dickey will be joined by Judge Newman D. Brock presiding in criminal cases. Judge O.H. Eaton, Jr. will switch from the criminal to the civil division. Judge Eaton is the administrative judge. Judge Leonard V. Wood will continue presiding in juvenile cases and probate. Since former Chief Judge John Antoon II went to Brevard County full-time, the civil division judges have shared probate cases on a rotating schedule. When Judge Robert B. McGregor leaves the bench at the end of February, his replacement will join Judge Wallace H. Hall presiding in family (domestic) court cases. Judge Seymour Benson will go from family court to preside in civil cases. Chief Judge Jere Lober, who splits his time between Seminole and Brevard counties, deals with administration and hears some probate matters.

Let the games begin
SANFORD — A Bowling Tournament, open to all ages, will be held this Sunday to raise funds for the Golden Age Games. "With the games coming up beginning Nov. 7th, we want to be prepared with as much support funding as possible," said Chris Usry, co-chairman of the games. Usry said several events are planned for this month in preparation for the big event. Others include a woman's softball tournament Oct. 22-24, and a benefit at Shoey's on Oct. 26. The bowling tournament will be held beginning at 2 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 17, at Bowl America, 190 E. Airport Blvd. in Sanford. Age divisions will be under 29, 30 to 50, and over 50, with trophies for each division. Cost is $10 for a three game series, including lane fees. Admitted killer returns

Subject of nationwide manhunt in court today

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Admitted killer Eddie James has returned home to Seminole County.

James, 32, who allegedly murdered and raped 8-year-old Toni Neuner of Casselberry and stabbed her grandmother, 58-year-old Elizabeth "Betty" Dick, to death, was booked into the John E. Polk Correctional Facility late last night. He was placed in isolation and continues to undergo psychological testing today, said Director Steve Harriett of the Seminole County sheriff's office.

Harriett said the walls in the isolation cell are bare and James has only a toilet and a cot in the room with him.

As a violent offender, he is potentially a suicide risk, Harriett explained. Guards check on James' condition every 15 minutes to ensure he does not take his own life. "It has not yet been established if he is a suicide risk," he explained, "but we have to take safety procedures while he is undergoing evaluation."

Corrections officials determined, Harriett said, that it would be best to be held under "special management" conditions for his own safety and the safety of other inmates.

Harriett and two other sheriff's office representatives, Sgt. Ron Gilbert and Deputy Mark Hamilton, traveled to Bakersfield, Calif. to accompany James back from where he was arrested after a nationwide manhunt. He was taken into custody in Kern County after a woman in an unemployment office there called authorities after she recognized him from a pair of stories that had been shown on the television show America's Most Wanted.

James, in handcuffs and leg restraints, walked silently from the sheriff's department vehicle to the booking department of the county jail last night. He held his head high, but said nothing to reporters who shouted questions to him.

"We couldn't allow him to say

Stalking complaint: Ethics ruling near

Complaint against city official reviewed

By MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Florida Commission on Ethics will decide Dec. 2 whether there is evidence to support an allegation Sanford city commissioner Herbert "Whitey" Eckstein stalked a local man earlier this year. Ethics commissioners will determine whether a preliminary investigation found evidence of a violation. Details of the investigation are confidential.

Gov. Lawton Chiles may suspend Eckstein if the commission decides there is evidence of a violation.

Ricky Scheafer, a Sanford filling station attendant, filed a complaint with the governor's office in March alleging Eckstein pursued him after a letter he wrote was published in the Sanford Herald. Scheafer's wife, a Sanford police officer, alleged Eckstein sought for Chief Ralph Russell to intervene. Scheafer's employers, Patrick and Michael Leonard, alleged both Eckstein and commissioner A.A. "Mac" McClanahan threatened to take business away from their station if they did not speak with Scheafer about the matter.

A political forum for 6

Longwood commission candidates air views

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

LONGWOOD — Changing the "Wrongwood" tag sometimes attached to the city was on the minds of voters Wednesday night as they posed questions to the six candidates for city commission seats.

The three incumbent commissioners, Harvey Smerlison, Fred Pearl and Rex Anderson and their opponents Iris Benson, Ron Sargent and Annamarie Vacca, appeared together at Chambrel at Island Lake which is a senior living center. The candidate-voter forum was sponsored by the Winter Springs Longwood Chamber of Commerce. Although the candidates must live in their designated districts, voters city-wide will elect officials. Commissioners are paid $4,200 a year.

The session was open to the public, however, residents of the center comprised the major portion of the audience.

The incumbent commissioners, Smerlison, Anderson and Pearl, voiced their strong backing of establishing the police department in the city charter. Vacca, who was suffering a case of

Mayoral candidates come to 'blows'

HIACLEAH — A mayoral candidate in this Miami suburb alleges that the suspended incumbent spat in his face at a radio station debate.

"This guy is crazy," former state Rep. Nilo Juri said of suspended Hialeah Mayor Raul Martinez. "He stood up as though he wanted to punch me, but instead he spat."

Salvatore D'Angelo, another mayoral candidate at the WQBA-AM debate Tuesday, said he saw the incident during a commercial break.

"It was embarrassing," D'Angelo said. Juri alleged Martinez called him obscene names and tried to intimidate him during a break at the beginning of the show.

Martinez declined to comment, but his wife, Angela, denied the charge, saying her husband only "blew" in Juri's face. She said the incident was prompted by Juri when he got up from his chair, pulled off his jacket and stood threateningly in front of Martinez.

"He was trying to provoke him, to set him up," said Angela Martinez, who did not attend the debate. But Martinez "wasn't going to hit him and he didn't spit in his face."

Agustin Acosta, one of the two debate moderators, said he left the studio before the confrontation. "I didn't see anything," he said.

Martinez was convicted in 1991 of extortion and is out on bond awaiting appeal. He announced he was running for re-election in July.

Smokers win a rare victory in Miami

NORTH MIAMI — Smokers won a rare victory when an appellate court ruled this city cannot bar them from the city payroll.

The decision came in a suit filed by Arlene Kurtz, who was denied a clerk-typist job in May 1990. A city policy intended to cut the risk of insurance payouts forbade the hiring of smokers. Kurtz sued, but lost in the lower courts.

On Tuesday, the Third District Court of Appeal took her side, ruling it is illegal for the city to try to regulate Kurtz's lawful private behavior, no matter how good its intent.

"Although the city has an interest in saving taxpayers money by decreasing insurance costs and increasing productivity, such interest is not sufficient to outweigh the intrusion into Kurtz' right of privacy," the court said in an opinion by Justice James R. Jorgenson.

The no-smoker policy, intended to save money on medical bills, was adopted in March 1990.

Tomahawk missile flight successful

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE — An upgraded Tomahawk cruise missile made a successful 600-mile test flight from a submarine launch in the Gulf of Mexico to a parachute landing at this Florida Panhandle base.

The new version of the Tomahawk, called a Block III, was launched Wednesday at 10:45 a.m. EDT on a circuitous journey that took it over Florida and Alabama at 3,600 feet, said Susan Boyd, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Navy project.

The cruise missile made a similar successful test in late August, she said.

Drug arrests tied to Jamaica

TUCSON — Authorities arrested 13 people in Tucson, New York and Miami on marijuana trafficking charges, accused of ties to an alleged Jamaican crime organization, officials said.

In all, 110 people were named Wednesday in federal indictments issued in Tucson and Miami, with six suspects named in arrest warrants still being sought, said Lt. Bernard Gazdzik, Tucson narcotics regional commander for the Arizona Department of Public Safety.

Charges range from conspiracy and distribution of marijuana to trafficking, illegal drugs, illegal use of firearms, money laundering and violation of federal immigration and postal laws, Gazdzik said.

Several indicted and arrested are Jamaican nationals. Among them: two men accused by authorities of being leaders in Tucson of an alleged organized crime association called the "Jungle Posee."

Initially, couriers transported about 20-pound quantities from Tucson to cities such as New York and Miami, but over time the deliveries were expanded to 200- or 300-pound loads, sometimes carried by commercial trucks, Gazdzik said.

Lung cancer not worst smoking threat

TALLAHASSEE — Heart and circulatory diseases kill more smokers than lung cancer, and smokers die younger than non-smokers from various ailments, a Florida State University study shows.

"If you ask 100 people the cause of death related to smoking, probably 95 percent would say lung cancer," said sociology professor Charles Nam. "But the causal pattern of smoking-related death is much more complex than we make it out to be."

Defense reinvestment

Lawmakers, Commerce officials propose incentives

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Lawmakers will be asked to authorize incentives of up to $5,000 a job to stop an employment drain due to defense spending cuts, Commerce Secretary Greg Farmer said.

Gov. Lawton Chiles has said the Nov. 1 special legislative session will include action on a bill to offer up to $10 million in incentives to help defense industries land new contracts or convert factories to civilian production.

The defense industry employs nearly 250,000 Floridians and accounts for more than half the state's high-technology, high-paying jobs, Farmer said Wednesday.

The state could lose 35,000 to 50,000 of those jobs due to defense spending cuts

"We moan and groan that we're losing jobs. We're sitting back and watching all this go by and unwilling to offer the incentives."

- Chairwoman Patricia Grogan

through 1997, he told the Senate Committee on International Trade, Economic Development and Tourism.

Committee Chairwoman Patricia Grogan, D-Merritt Island, said she will sponsor a Senate bill containing the recommendations and Rep. Alzo Reddick, D-Orlando, will sponsor a similar measure in the House.

Sen. John Grant, D-Tampa, said Florida should do more to match incentives other states offer new or expanding industries in all areas, not just those hurt by the shrinking national defense budget.

"We moan and groan that we're losing jobs," Grant said. "We're sitting back and watching all this go by and unwilling to offer the incentives."

Farmer said his proposal would give defense companies vouchers for up to $5,000 for each job paying more than 115 percent of average area wages a project would create or save.

The vouchers would be available to contractors bidding for new contracts, consolidating defense-related activities in Florida, or converting from military to civilian production.

AIDS campaign finalized

By Associated Press

LONGBOAT KEY — This Gulf Coast resort city has agreed to settle a four-year legal campaign against a utility department worker who says he became infected with the AIDS virus from intravenous drug use.

Commissioners today were to finalize a plan to pay plumber Gary Kangerster $300,000 cash, $50,000 for his legal bills and up to two years' health insurance. All documents in the long-secret case will become public, Kangerster will not return to work.

Kangerster contended the legal campaign and on-the-job pressure was designed to force him to resign and save the town from possible liability and health insurance claims.

"I went in every day and I was badgered, harassed. They kept at me every single day," Kangerster said. "But I couldn't give up."

Kangerster, 39, has been on leave, with pay and benefits, from his water department job since Aug. 27. That was when he decided to go public with details of his story, from a supervisor putting hog testicles in his lunch box to attempts to reduce his health insurance coverage by 97 percent.

Every file in state and federal trial courts and every appellate court, including the Florida Supreme Court, was sealed at the request of the attorney the town had hired to press the case.

Everyone with knowledge of the case was barred from discussing it until two weeks ago, when the state file was unsealed.

The town used a state law barring discrimination against employees infected with the AIDS virus to sue Kangerster. In complex pleadings, it asked the courts to certify that the town's past and planned actions against Kangerster did not violate the law — because they were designed to protect the town's water supply from contamination, and other workers from infection.

"I do think it would be in everyone's best interests to have this behind us," Town Manager Griff Roberts said after a preliminary decision on the matter Tuesday.

"We've been through hell," said Kangerster, whose wife Patty will continue to work for a Bradenton manufacturer.

Bloody rampage

Grandpa says, 'The devil made me do it'

TAMPA — A mother overcome with grief appealed through sobs to strangers for help to bury her 5-year-old son, bludgeoned to death in a bloody rampage that seriously injured his two brothers and their father.

Police believe the boys' 71-year-old grandfather is to blame.

"This has been a very bad tragedy. I have no explanation at all," said Annette Torres.

The 23-year-old mother spoke through tears at a news conference Wednesday to announce a trust fund to raise money to ship her son's body to Worcester, Mass., for burial.

"I'm here for my 5-year-old Frankie to see if I can get some funds. I need some help," she said.

Little Frankie Ross was killed and his father and his two younger brothers were hurt early Monday in an attack as they slept in their two-bedroom apartment.

Samuel Ross, 3, was in serious condition at Tampa General Hospital; 4-year-old Frederick Ross was in fair condition. Their dad, Francisco Ross, 34, was listed in critical at St. Joseph's Hospital.

The boys' grandfather, Victor Ross, was in fair condition under armed guard at the same hospital with them. He was held for evaluation before being sent to jail on a murder charge.

Detectives believe Ross grabbed a pipe wrench during a vicious rage and bludgeoned his family while the boys' mother was out visiting friends.

Hillborough Sheriff's Col. Ron Poindexter said investigators were stumped.

"Right now, there is no plausible motive. This is a mystery," he said, adding that Ross told investigators the devil forced him to attack his son and three young grandsons as they slept.

"Little Freddie is asking for Frankie. He doesn't know what happened," said Louis Torres, 26, after visiting his nephews Wednesday.

"He walked to Sammy's room and saw him. He asked his grandmother, 'where's Frankie?' We really could not explain to him what happened," said Torres, Annette's older brother.

Since the time he left Augusta, the report said neither he nor the semi have been located.

A blue 4-door 1992 Cadillac was reported stolen Tuesday, parked in the 1800 block of Longwood-Lake Mary Road. Deputies said the vehicle, owned by a Lake Mary man, was parked because it had a transmission problem. The license number of the vehicle was listed as JLW-02T.

A $200 cellular phone was reported stolen Tuesday from a vehicle parked in the parking lot at Lake Mary High School.

Food stamps, currency and other items were reported missing early Wednesday from a residence in the 1900 block of Southwest Road in Goldsboro.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

Several classrooms and offices were reportedly burglarized Monday or Tuesday, in the Adult Education building at Seminole Community College. Items taken include a camcorder, TV, ladies' watch and currency with a total value of $1,152.

A Huffy bike was reported stolen from a garage Tuesday in the 100 block of Wildwood Drive.

A number of items were reported missing and the bedroom ransacked in a residential burglary Tuesday in the 100 block of Country Club Circle.

Tools and other items valued at $1,299 were reported stolen Tuesday from a business in the 2500 block of S. French Avenue.

DUI arrests

Raymond Clark Senart, 28, of 1078 Wynn Street, Sanford, was arrested by Lake Mary police following a traffic stop Sunday on 3rd Street. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, and attached tag not assigned.

Fatima Wynett Raah, 47, 110 Balboa Court, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police on Airport Blvd. and 25th Street Sunday. She was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Tracy Lee Young, 23, 786 E. Magnolia Avenue, Longwood, was arrested by sheriff's deputies Sunday, during a traffic stop on highway 17-92 at Florida Ave. The charge was driving under the influence of alcohol, and failure to maintain right of way.

Beer scam

Casselberry police arrested Joseph Vito Mattina, 26, 885 Lake Como Drive, Lake Mary, at a grocery store on U.S. Highway 17-92 Friday. The arrest report said Mattina went into the store and took a 24-pack of beer. He then reportedly went to the manager saying he had purchased the wrong type, and asked if he could exchange the beer. Police said after Mattina exchanged the beer, he attempted to leave the store without paying. They said he was then stopped by the manager and held until police arrived. Officers said they handcuffed Mattina, but when they turned their back, he broke free from one cuff, and fled out onto the highway. Officers stopped him and placed him under arrest. He was charged with retail theft and escape.

Traffic stop arrest

Andrea L. Pyle, 25, of Oviedo, was arrested by Longwood police Saturday following a traffic stop on Industry Road in Longwood. Pyle was charged with possession of a controlled substance.

Lawsuit catches ex-chief by surprise

By NICK PFISPAUF

LAKE MARY — The filing of a lawsuit against the City of Lake Mary by former Public Safety Director Charles Lauderdale has come as somewhat of a surprise to him.

"Oh, is that what's happening," Lauderdale commented last week. "I've J-r't all of that with my attorney in Orlando, and whatever he filed is what is going on, but I wasn't aware that he was going ahead with it at this time."

Lauderdale is presently operating a small horse ranch near Odessa, Texas. He left Lake Mary in August of 1992 following a dispute involving a resignation he had submitted, and later rescinded. The resignation was accepted as originally presented however, and Lauderdale found himself out of a job.

Lauderdale had been hired by the city in June, 1988 as Director of Public Safety and Chief of Police.

Lauderdale's attorney is Harry Stewart, associated with Akerman Senterfitt & Eldson, PA, of Orlando.

"Mr. Lauderdale knew we planned to file the suit," Stewart said, "and I've contacted him to tell him when we filed."

The suit is against the City of Lake Mary, and City Manager John Litton. Litton is being sued in his official as well as individual capacity.

The filing proposes two counts, for wrongful discharge from his job, and for depriving Lauderdale of due process of law.

The first count states, "The plaintiff, (Lauderdale) has suffered damages, including damage to his reputation, lost wages, past, present and future, damages which continue to accrue, loss of vacation and sick leave, loss of future pension benefits and loss of medical and dental insurance benefits, and other job-related benefits."

On the first count, the filing requests Lauderdale's reinstatement as Director of Public Safety and Police Chief for Lake Mary, damages for loss of wages, damages for loss of vacation, sick leave, insurance and pension benefits, and attorney's fees.

The second count proposes that there was no motion made to dismiss him, no approval by the commission of such a motion, no testimony before the commission or any other body, and that Lauderdale did not have the opportunity to refute any charges against him.

The same damages are requested for the second count as for the first.

Litton said he would not comment on the case at the present time.

Is this jail punishment?

On Monday, Oct. 11, the Sanford Herald ran a story from Associated Press regarding the Pensacola Federal Prison Camp. The report must be comforting to criminals.

It tells of a 530-bed minimum security prison on Saufley Field Naval property, which has handball and tennis courts, a gym, weight room, and softball-soccer complex. All of this is available for use by the prisoners.

People confined to a prison certainly should have areas in which to exercise and keep up their strength. This facility appears to go beyond the necessities.

The attitude of Warden John Fanello is not what we consider proper either. He is quoted in the article as saying, "You don't want to come to prison, and the fact that you've been sentenced to a term of incarceration is the punishment you've received."

He added, "There is no need for additional punishment. We want to treat them how you and I would expect to be treated in any job, with dignity and respect."

Perhaps some of the ever-expanding cost for our prison system operation can be centered on what appears to be efforts to pacify convicts. They don't have just a portable radio in the cell. Most have color TVs, hooked to cable.

Are they buying tennis rackets and softball equipment for the people in the Pensacola facility? There is a golf course next to the prison, but it's restricted to Navy use at the present. Will that also change?

With treatment such as this, we must disagree with Warden Fanello that being sentenced to prison is the punishment. We would expect that three meals a day and living quarters will be supplied. But going to extremes in providing for all the pleasures of home is certainly no way to instill in prospective criminals that crime does not pay.

People may purposefully become involved in a criminal act and turn themselves in if they could be assured of ending up at the Pensacola facility.

Criminals sent to federal prisons as well as local prisons, are those who have violated the law. In many cases, they have caused injury and even death to others. Are these the type of people we should coddle and give special treatment once they are incarcerated?

For many prisoners, the life they lead while behind bars is considerably better than their life style while at their homes.

There is already concern over the need for more prison space, and more money with which to build additional facilities. If we stopped paying for luxuries, we would be able to resolve these problems and eliminate early releases.

Property tax sham

The people of this state were told that if they wanted and needed a (property assessment) tax cap they should go through the system. Collect enough signatures to place the issue on the ballot, and vote on it. "That is the way the system works!" Many of us do not understand how, after following the rules, the wishes of the people can just be set aside.

Was it a faceless bureaucracy that chose to just set aside for three years a constitutional amendment? I think not! They have made a mockery of the ballot box, lent credence to those who say their vote is worthless, and further undermined confidence in the system.

As an individual I can be charged with a felony for interfering with due process. The best I can tell, the bureaucracy is guilty of just that!

Perhaps the media can bring forth some names and faces of those responsible so we voters can take to task those who are so confused as to the responsibilities of a constitutional officer.

How about a volunteer U.N. force?

I cannot, offhand, recall a time when American foreign policy was quite as unfocused and incoherent as it is today. President Clinton and his advisors are loudly in favor of democracy, and against aggression and starvation, but apparently haven't the foggiest idea how far to go in pursuing these goals.

They are prepared to commit 25,000 American ground troops to a U.N. "peacekeeping" force in Bosnia, apparently under U.N. command. They quietly transformed our military objective in Somalia from the delivery of food to starving natives into a search-and-destroy mission against an uncooperative local warlord, and now — with American soldiers dying there every week, and at least one pilot a hostage in the warlord's hands — have found it necessary to send 2,000 additional soldiers to protect the rest. Last but not necessarily least, they are sending 600 (for now) American soldiers to Haiti to make sure that a contemptible and avowedly pro-communist ex-priest is installed as president of that wretched little country.

Perhaps worst of all, they can't make up their minds which of these missions (or which other missions, in all the busy years ahead) should be undertaken by the United States alone, and which in tandem with, or under the leadership of, the United Nations.

I have repeatedly suggested that American military intervention abroad should be under taken only when a vital American interest is at stake. That is our traditional national policy, and it would rule out U.S. military intervention in either Bosnia or Somalia, and perhaps in Haiti as well.

Expanding the field of American intervention by putting the U.N. in charge of an operation and assigning U.S. forces to a multinational military force is just a slick way of making an end run around the "vital interest" test. Worse yet, it runs into bitter and understandable Pentagon protests against sending American soldiers abroad to fight and perhaps die under the command of foreign generals of uncertain competence.

I cannot recall a time when American foreign policy was quite as unfocused and incoherent as it is today.

But in the years ahead there are going to be agonizing pictures on TV of brutality, starvation and worse all over the globe. The pressures on this country to intervene will be enormous, even though nothing remotely resembling an American vital interest is involved.

Why not, therefore, authorize the U.N. to create a modest military force of its own, composed entirely of volunteers? The French Foreign Legion is solid evidence that such a force, properly trained and equipped, can be a formidable military entity. It could be sent (with the consent of the Security Council, of course, including all of its permanent members) to remote hot spots where there are clear violations of humanitarian principles or international law, but where only the sheepest sophistry could detect a "vital American interest."

That would leave the U.S. government and its armed forces free to act where, and only where, vital U.S. interests were involved, yet provide a watching world with assurances that small aggressions, barbarous misconduct, and humanitarian tragedies would be addressed.

Somalia at a glance not enough

In tabulating American public opinion on Somalia, one thing is certain: The eyes have it. It was news videos of tragedy — skeletal Somalis starving to death — that got us in. It will be news videos of tragedy — U.S. military killed, wounded, captured, mistreated — that will get us out.

But in between were the stories that we could not see:

There were major miscalculations by those who make American policy behind closed doors, including the Oval Office and the White House Situation Room — where Somalia wasn't considered a situation requiring much attention by a president preoccupied with domestic reforms.

There were also miscalculations — lapses, really — by the media, especially the television networks that feed us the pictures that, like it or not, mold policy-making in this video age. We've missed pictures of a major reality in the hinterlands — hundreds of thousands of Somalis who are alive and fed today thanks to America's initial effort. Are they greeting U.S. forces in village scenes that look like a miniature liberation of Paris? We can't say. We haven't seen it with our own eyes.

Today, we'll take a closer look at news we couldn't see.

(1) Once again, policy-makers didn't ask the key question: "Then what do we do?"

Blame here is bipartisan and bipresidential. Presidents Bush and Clinton and their top advisers failed to explore steps the U.S. military would have to follow if, once engaged in Somalia, all didn't go according to plan. When the U.S. troops landed, the warlords had stopped warring and started waiting. After all, Bush had declared on Dec. 4 that we were there just "to open the supply routes" and then "we will withdraw our troops...."

But if these outlaws decided to just wait for the United States to leave before resuming warring and famine-as-usual — ask the question, "Then what do we do?" We had no planned answer.

U.S. forces, under the Bush-Clinton policy, were cut from 28,000 to 5,000 (which would have been fine if the warlords didn't resume warring). Defense Secretary Les Aspin rejected pleas of the field commander to send tanks and armor (ditto). Clinton, buried in his domestic reforms, permitted U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali to change the mission into a manhunt for warlord Mohammed Farah Aidid.

(2) American officials drastically underestimated the size and strength of Aidid's army and his popular support. Looking for Aidid, U.S. troops attacked the wrong building and captured U.N. peacekeepers by mistake. In a remarkable one-two punch on CNN, Adm. Jonathan Howe, the U.N. special envoy, insisted U.N. forces had not been really targeting Aidid. But then our most exemplary ex-president, Jimmy Carter, just back from a fact-finding visit to Somalia's neighbors, said: "My interpretation of what has been going on in Mogadishu and what Admiral Howe has said ... are not compatible with each other.... United Nations forces excessively emphasized the capture or killing of Gen. Aidid.... The leaders in the eastern African region ... all think this was a disastrous mistake."

(3) On CNN's "Reliable Sources," CNN executive vice president Ed Turner (my friend and sometimes boss for years) candidly acknowledged why we missed scenes of grateful rural Somalis: "We have devoted much of our resources to working the breaking news story which has been in downtown Mogadishu. I think that was a lapse on our part ... and I'm not proud of it."

But if Americans haven't always gotten the total news picture out of Somalia, apparently the elusive outlaw Aidid has a special diplomatic channel for gathering intelligence on Washington policy-making. "I understand that Gen. Aidid will only stay in houses where he can receive CNN," says Jimmy Carter. "And he has a portable antenna that he focuses on the proper satellite."

Then, using the new diplomatic pouch of the 90s, Carter spoke directly to Aidid via CNN: "Take the initiative and declare a total cease fire." And that's what happened.

The eyes have it.

Secret stuff not worth the bother

Somewhere out in the cold, the high priests of government secrecy must be shaking in their boots, for the deepest and darkest secret they clutch to their bosoms will soon be exposed.

For years, those who possess the secrets have sought to convince us the very existence of the nation depends upon keeping the secrets. They can't tell us what the secrets are, of course, because the secrets are secret.

To disclose them would be treasonous. It may seem repugnant in a democracy that is nourished by a free flow of information, but we will just have to trust them.

There are oh so many secrets to protect, too. An estimate of 804,248,800 pages of documents dated prior to 1980 are still classified. Some 23,500 of these pre-date World War II. During the Reagan years, 15 million new secrets were created in a single year. Even now, the secrets are piling up at the rate of nearly 7 million a year. More than a million bureaucrats are trained and authorized to wield the rubber stamp.

So, what is the deepest, darkest secret the high priests possess, the impending disclosure of which has them quaking in their clodhoppers? Here it is, on deep background, of course:

It's a fraud. This is the secret that will be revealed if and when CIA Director R. James Woolsey follows through on his promise to take the wraps off a mountain of documents that are more than 30 years old. This is the secret that will be disclosed if and when the Clinton administration, as has been proposed, orders the automatic declassification of documents that are more than 40 years old. Judge for yourself when the veil is lifted from these aging papers why they have been lying a-moulding all these years and whether they should have been withheld from public scrutiny in the first place.

I hope we might finally begin to fathom that the whole secrecy thing is a sham. It is a recondite creed around which has sprouted a cult, complete with rituals and sacraments and shamans who mutter incantations — "national security national security national security" — to keep us confused and fearful.

Information is often classified to cover up malfeasance, waste and inanity. Sometimes, it is classified for the pure sake of classifying it, because secrets give those who possess them power and some sort of perverse gratification, like a vain cook who won't share a recipe. Even information that is legitimately classified remains so far too long.

The evidence is abundant: — More than two decades ago, Air Force security expert William Florence told Congress: "I sincerely believe that less than one-half of 1 percent of the different documents which bear currently assigned classification markings actually contain (classified) information. In other words, the disclosure of information in at least 99 1/2 percent of those classified documents could not be (harmful to) the nation."

— In 1989, Erwin Griswold, the solicitor general who argued the Nixon administration's case when it attempted in 1971 to block the publication of the Pentagon Papers, had this to say about that infamous incident: "I have never seen any trace of a threat to the national security from the publication (of the papers) ... It quickly becomes apparent to any person who has considerable experience with classified material that there is massive overclassification and that the principal concern of the classifiers is not with national security, but rather with governmental embarrassment of one sort or another." — It cannot be said any better than that.

The deepest and darkest secret they clutch to their bosoms will soon be exposed.

Clinton 'elated' by release of Durant in Mogadishu

By KIMBERLY A.C. WILSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The White House said today "there was no deal" cut with warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid to secure the release of Army pilot Michael Durant in Somalia.

Durant was released in Mogadishu after being held nearly two weeks by Aidid forces. "We've got him," Pentagon spokesman Lt. Cmdr. Joe Gradisher said.

"The president is elated and very encouraged," senior White House adviser George Stephanopoulos said. "It demonstrates that the course we're following is the right course and we're going to continue to pursue it."

Clinton, starting his morning jog, gave a "thumbs up" when asked about Durant's release and then punched the air with his fist in a victory gesture.

Asked if he gave Aidid a truce in return for Durant's release, Clinton said, "I'll talk about it later, but I'm very happy." Aides said he planned to speak to reporters sometime this morning.

One Pentagon official said Durant was being taken to a hospital for medical tests but "looks pretty good."

A White House official, while stressing the reports were not confirmed, said he understood that Durant had a broken leg and "a bad back."

The White House said the United States did not promise Aidid anything in return for Durant's release. "There was no deal here," said a White House official who spoke on condition of anonymity. "There are no quid pro quo."

Clinton heard about Durant's release between 6 a.m. and 7 a.m. while getting ready for the jog. A military aide, who had just gotten the word from the White House situation room, told the president.

White House spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers said she did not know the status of Aidid forces who have been captured and held by United Nations forces. But she said Durant's release was not a part of an arrangement to release Aidid's men.

Durant had no comment as he was taken by stretcher from a compound in central Mogadishu. He looked in pain and appeared dazed. His legs were covered with a red-and-white sheet.

In the first four months of fundraising effort, Morris took in $10,635 in contributions and loaned his campaign $100, according to campaign finance reports filed with the county elections office. The reports show Morris has spent $2,132 for postage, printing and other expenses.

District 4 GOP candidate Robert Berns loaned his campaign $100, his only income to date. Morris and Berns are the only two candidates currently seeking contributions.

Candidates are required to file quarterly campaign finance reports during the months before the first primary, now scheduled for Sept. 6, 1994.

Morris' contributors include several members of Seminole County's politically powerful. Before his death, county commissioner Bob Sturm contributed $100. So did Tax Collector Ray Valdes and school board member Larry Strickler.

anything," said Harriett. "We don't want to damage the prosecutory process."

On the seven hour trip from Bakersfield to Orlando, however, James was apparently not so silent.

After being issued his Miranda Warning, Harriett said, James "freely recited the sequence of events" which occurred on Sept. 21 at Dick's Casselberry home.

Harriett would not discuss the details as they are "investigative issues" and it would be "inappropriate to discuss the particulars" of what James said.

Harriett said James was "very cooperative" with investigators and has provided them with many details regarding the case.

On the plane, a commercial flight from Bakersfield to Dallas with a connecting flight to Orlando, James was immediately recognized by airline and airport employees as well as other passengers.

"We were proactive in that regard," Harriett said. "We tried to minimize his contact with other passengers, especially children."

Not only were officers concerned for the safety of other passengers, but also for James' safety.

"He is seemingly famous...or, infamous, wherever he goes," Harriett said. "We needed to take precautions to ensure his safety as well, believe it or not."

Harriett said he and the other law enforcement officers answered the questions of passengers and others openly without giving too many details, but James was banned from talking to anyone else on the trip.

laryngitis. Sargent and Benson do not back the amendment. Sargent compared the charter situation to the operations of government on the federal level. When changes are made by Congress, or even department heads, unanimous votes are not required, he said.

Although the three challengers said they support a strong city police department, Vacca called the wording of the amendment ambiguous and Benson said it was dangerous.

The drafting of the police charter amendment went through several wording changes and even an amendment before being passed by a majority of the commission. The amendment was drafted, supporters say, to make the police department apolitical. Smerison said he proposed the amendment after being requested to do so by a group of Longwood citizens.

Last year, voters rejected a proposal to contract with the county for police protection. Opponents of the amendment claim it was raised as a political issue this year, because after the voters spoke last year, no effort would be made to eliminate the city police department.

By creating the police department in the charter, it would

James is scheduled to make his first appearance in court this afternoon. He will probably be assigned a public defender at that time and psychological testing will continue after that.

Today, he is silent and in the future, he will only talk through a representative when one has been assigned.

present tenants, is applying to lease the entire area for the purpose of development and expansion.

City Manager Bill Simmons said Dr. Edwards reportedly has made an arrangement with the bank to obtain the building.

The contract being considered between the city and Edwards through Attorney S. Kirby Moncrief, deals with taking over the leasing of the land. There is also a plan for development of the present vacant area. The city is recommending that such plans must be submitted within five years after the lease arrangement is made, with construction to be completed within 360 days after commencement.

While negotiations continue on the arrangement, questions have developed regarding the businesses which may be located at the facility.

Dr. Edwards has indicated he plans to utilize the area for professional offices.

Members of the City Commission however, are suggesting the area be better utilized for commercial development such as a restaurant or business which may be marine associated.

In the lease, the city is calling for rent of the present property at $4,898 per year, to be increased by three percent for each year of the lease.

The city is also calling for rent for the undeveloped area, called Area 2, to be based on a percentage of all sales as well as professional services.

The proposal was brought up for discussion Monday night at a commission meeting, although any action on the agreement was continued until the Oct. 25th commission meeting.

"The way it has been set up," Simmons said, "is that the lease is connected with gross revenue. But now we are considering different language which could base rent on professional fees, but this is something still to be determined."

Simmons said the goal was to obtain rent based on retail sales, where plans for medical offices would not generate such sales as the lease is presently set up.

Regarding what type of businesses may be located at Harbour Place, Mayor Bettye Smith commented, "I have mixed emotions about this. I have no doubt they, (the new leasees) will do good in their plans, but I believe professional offices may not be the best use for this valuable land."

Commissioner Whitney Eckstein agreed, "The time to look at it is now," he said, "since nothing is presently under construction, and what is there already contains a medical complex."

"But in the overall plan," he continued, "I think it would be better if it could be developed for something associated with the marine industry. I'm looking at the long term and trying to see what will be there 15 years from now, and a doctor's office is not what I have envisioned."

"I also feel the use shouldn't be for a doctor's office," said Commissioner Bob Thomas. "This wouldn't produce the revenue for the city which we should be looking for, and if we don't look into this, we wouldn't be doing a successful job."

"Let's look at the facts," Eckstein said. "A doctor's office will not bring people into downtown Sanford. But a restaurant or some fancy antique store or some other business would."

City Manager Bill Simmons observed, "We have a very active Waterfront Committee and I suggest we send this information to them. I'm certain they would like to have some input, seeing as how they are working very diligently on the proper development of the overall lakefront area."

In the latest communication, Moncrief said there were some objections to part of what the city has proposed pertaining to rent for Area 2 to include a percentage of all sales when developed.

Pending any further postponements, the matter is being scheduled for a continuation of discussion at the Oct. 25 meeting of the Sanford City Commission.

Negotiations over Somalia continue

WASHINGTON — The White House and the Senate are returning to negotiations after failing to agree on a date for ending the U.S. military mission in Somalia.

President Clinton indicated he could be flexible on the March 31 deadline he set last week for withdrawal of U.S. troops, but differences remained over the wording of a compromise with senators seeking a quicker departure.

Clinton limited in an interview that Americans could be out sooner if he was assured "survival rights" of the Somali people wouldn't be imperiled.

Clinton also said in a report to Congress that he is sending 3,000 additional Army combat troops to protect U.S. forces in Somalia, an increase over the 1,700 he announced last week. Critics in Congress say the administration is to blame for failing to provide U.S. troops in Somalia with adequate protection.

Black leaders support Clinton policy

WASHINGTON — Congressional black leaders, though alarmed by the violent turn of events in Somalia, are supporting President Clinton's get-tough policy with Haiti's military authorities.

Black Americans long have complained that successive U.S. administrations have been reluctant to take strong measures against widespread poverty and political instability in Africa and the Caribbean.

Now, black leaders worry that the souring of the humanitarian mission in Somalia will undermine public support for American military involvement in Haiti, another impoverished, violence-prone black nation.

The Clinton administration has taken pains to distinguish Haiti from Somalia, emphasizing that the 600 military advisers and engineers it wants to send to Haiti will have no peacekeeping duties.

Scoutmasters molested boys

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — About 1,800 scoutmasters suspected of molesting boys were removed by the Boy Scouts of America between 1971 and 1991, but some simply went elsewhere and continued to abuse scouts, organization files show.

Michael Rothschild, a Sacramento lawyer who obtained the documents for a lawsuit brought by a victim of a scoutmaster, asserted that the 25,000 pages tell the story of an organization that is a magnet for pedophiles.

The documents, recently reviewed by The Associated Press, consist of case files on the 1,800 scoutmasters who have been removed, letters to scout headquarters from local troops, letters from victims, newspaper clippings, dismissed notices and other material.

In many cases, there is no indication that police or the courts got involved.

Message for meat-eaters

WASHINGTON — The print may strain the eyes, and the entire message could fit on a credit card, but the Agriculture Department hopes a new label on packages of ground meat will save lives.

Starting Friday, at supermarkets and specialty stores alike, packages of ground meat must carry a set of brief instructions on safe handling.

The extra labels are a response to fatal outbreaks of illness linked to E. coli, salmonella and other pathogens that can dwell in raw meat.

The labels can be just about anywhere on the package, including the outside bottom of the styrofoam trays, as long as they are "likely to be read and understood," the department says.

Teachers paid highest ever salary

WASHINGTON — Public school teachers were paid an average $35,104 last year — their highest annual salary ever — but their earnings still were eclipsed by lawyers, accountants and most other professionals.

"For all of the talk about teachers' salaries and education reform and change, you haven't seen anyone say you have to pay teachers more," said Jewell Gould, director of research for the American Federation of Teachers.

The union's annual salary survey found that teachers received an average pay raise of 3.2 percent during the 1992-93 school year, the same as the previous year. The AFT said those represented the smallest increases in 35 years.

Accounting for inflation, the union said the average teacher had only $56 more to spend last year.

Archaeologists discover curses

GIZA PLATEAU, Egypt — Archaeologists have discovered a pair of his and her curses, the oldest ever found in Egypt.

"When anything bad happens, we just blame it on the curse," said Mansour Bauriak, the antiquities inspector who headed more than three years of excavations in the pharaonic cemetery where the curses were found.

The graveyard, in distant view of the Giza pyramids, contains tombs and artifacts belonging to ancient overseers, artisans and workers. Only one among 23 large tombs and 600 smaller burials contained a curse.

It in fact contains several, including the husband-and-wife pair.

U.N. Security Council pressures Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — Now pressure may be used to achieve what persuasion has not.

The U.N. Security Council voted Wednesday to impose an oil and arms embargo and freeze the assets of Haiti's military leaders if they do not adhere to an accord to return exile President Jean-Bertrand Aristide on Oct. 30.

The deadline is Monday.

There was no immediate response from Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras, the chief of Haiti's military.

Beavis and Butt-head

Bad boys, maybe, but should they be punished?

By FRAZIER MOORE
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK — Consider this news brief from 1982: "A 12-year-old boy was electrocuted Tuesday when the television set he was watching while taking a bath fell into the tub."

Eleven years later, can anyone say who is to blame for this mishap? Baths? Electricity? The show the boy was tuned to?

This question arises as the collective wrath is brought down on its latest cultural scapegoats: Beavis and Butt-head, two doltish teen-agers who exist only on celluloid for a devoted audience at 7 and 11 p.m. EDT weeknights on MTV.

Last week, as the cartoon 14-year-olds shared Newsweek's cover with David Letterman ("Stupid TV Tricks — the Billion-Dollar Battle to Insult Your Intelligence"), an Ohio mother of a 5-year-old who started a fire that killed his younger sister accused the show of turning her son into a firebug.

Does the convergence of a TV show with real-life misfortune make one the cause of the other? MTV thinks not. In a statement Wednesday, the network denied responsibility for the tragedy.

Still, spokeswoman Carole Robinson said MTV "decided to bend over backwards as responsible programmers" and ban all references to fire by Beavis and Butt-head.

The last word in male bonding the show began on a regular basis in May. Crudely realized in almost every way possible, the cartoons troll the life of Beavis (the yellow-haired one with the wicked jaw) and Butt-head (the brown-haired one with the prominent gummy).

The two spend much of the half-hour (much of their existence, actually) planted on a stabby couch, channel-surfing music videos to the backdrop of their own off-color commentary.

When they manage to tear themselves away from the tube, they torment animals, terrorize teachers and delight in burning up things.

All of this delinquency is punctuated by their shared, hacking laugh, which has proved as obnoxious as it is irresistible to millions of adolescent mimics. "Huh-huh, huh-huh, heh-heh, heh-heh. Huh-huh, huh-huh, heh-heh, heh-heh."

Not likely candidates for a MacArthur grant, perhaps. But even though Beavis and Butt-head may hide their dim light under an enormous bushel (knowing them, there's no telling what it's a bushel of), don't overlook their virtues.

First of all, they know what they like. And you like some of it, too.

Now you might not agree that gasoline is cool, a man spinning on a stool is cool, bears defecating in the woods is cool. But isn't money cool? Seattle, cool? As Beavis noted on Monday's episode, life is cool. Nest-er-pas?

"Huh-huh, huh-huh, heh-heh, heh-heh. Huh-huh, huh-huh, heh-heh, heh-heh."

Yes, the boys are prone to bipolar thinking. For Beavis and Butt-head, the world is separated into "things that are cool" and "things that suck." Nothing in between exists.

But they aren't alone in their immunity to nuance. Employing only slightly more sophisticated terms, Siskel and Ebert have made a fortune dividing their landscape into things that get thumbs up and things that get thumbs down. Watch out, Beavis and Butt-head might end up reviewing movies.

Until then, they serve as useful video critics and, by default, the MTV viewer's reality check. That is, compared with the typical rock video they watch, Beavis and Butt-head are models of propriety and smarts.

Not to mention connoisseurs. They may go crazy on Cycle Sluts from Hell pounding out "I Wish You Were a Berr" ("Sluts are cool," offers Beavis).

But they come crashing down on Alien Sex Fiend for that group's "Now I'm Feeling Zombified."

"It looks pretty good," Butt-head allows, "but like, the sound SUCKS."

And who can argue with him?

Far from being a social scourge, Beavis and Butt-head is an MTV public service

Music may boost your brainpower

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — You've heard about the genius of Mozart. Now a study suggests that listening to a little Mozart can boost your brainpower — at least temporarily.

College students in a study did better on a test of reasoning after hearing just 10 minutes of a Mozart piano sonata than they did after 10 minutes of a relaxation tape or of silence.

Apparently the sonata triggered patterns of brain cell activity that are also used during higher brain functions like reasoning, said researcher Frances Rauscher of the University of California, Irvine.

And that brain exercise helped when students took the abstract reasoning test, she said.

Thirty-six students listened to 10 minutes of Mozart's "Sonata for Two Pianos in D Major," the relaxation tape and the silence and took a test of abstract reasoning after each listening.

Results showed that the sonata's effect disappeared after about 25 minutes, when students were tested after hearing something else. It may have worn off, or perhaps was erased by whatever the students heard next, said Rauscher, who described the study in a letter to the editor in Thursday's issue of the journal Nature.

She and her colleagues speculated that music that is repetitive or too simple might hinder later reasoning ability.

Rauscher said the work was partially funded by a music industry group.

OVIEDO — Eddie Norton's bases-loaded triple highlighted a six-run second-inning rally that lifted Toucan Willie's to an 8-4 win over Froggers in an Oviedo Recreation Men's Class C Softball game Wednesday at the Oviedo Sports Complex.

Toucan Willie's is now 6-1 and tied for first place with the Strike Force.

Norton and Ryan Alkire led Toucan Willie's 15-hit attack with three hits each. Ronnie Gardner and Lance Abney both had two hits.

Next Wednesday, Toucan Willie's will play the BX Pirates at 9 p.m.

Dolphins sign ex-Patriot

DAVIE — The Miami Dolphins signed veteran Tom Hodson as a backup quarterback Wednesday and placed Dan Marino on injured reserve, making him ineligible for the rest of the season, including the playoffs.

The 26-year-old Hodson spent three seasons with the New England Patriots before being waived Aug. 24.

FSU swim coach resigns

TALLAHASSEE — A veteran swim coach at Florida State University resigned Wednesday four months after being suspended by school administrators for possession of drugs.

Terry Maul's resignation was announced by athletic director Bob Goin, who named former Florida assistant Don Gibb as interim coach.

Maul, 46, was suspended with pay June 5 after being charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia. A nylon pouch that contained small amounts of cocaine powder and marijuana and Maul's identification was turned in to police after being found on a street near the Florida State campus.

Tommy Greene outpitched Greg Maddux and the refuse-to-lose Phillies again outplayed baseball's best team to beat the Braves 6-3 in Game 6 of the NL playoffs Wednesday night and win their first pennant since 1983.

The Phillies will play the defending champion Toronto Blue Jays in the World Series beginning Saturday night.

CHICAGO — Tom Trebelhorn became the Chicago Cubs' 11th manager in 11 years when he was named to the position Wednesday night.

Before Lefebvre, the previous nine Cubs managers since 1983 were Jim Essian, Joe Altobelli, Don Zimmer, Frank Lucchesi, Gene Michael, John Vukovich, Jim Frey, Charlie Fox and Lee Elia.

300 wins for Lake Mary's Henry

Cindy Henry

From Staff Reports

PORT ORANGE — One night after honoring their graduating seniors, the Lake Mary High School girls volleyball team came back Wednesday night and treated their coach to a special night.

By defeating the host Spruce Creek Hawks 15-4, 15-11, the Rams presented Coach Cindy Henry with her 300th career victory.

"Anyone who coaches long enough, it'll happen," said Henry. "We've had some outstanding athletes the last couple of years and I'm fortunate to have an excellent assistant coach (Dr. Karen Newman).

"If anything, I'd say that Cindy Henry was in the right place at the right time with the right people around her."

While Henry is in her 16th year of coaching (13 at Lake Mary after a three-year stint at Lyman), over half of her win total has come in the last six seasons. Combined with the 17-4 mark compiled this year, the Rams are 163-31 over the last six seasons. More than 250 of the wins have come at Lake Mary.

"I never really thought about it before," said Henry. "Last spring, we (coaches) had to do a survey for the Florida High School Activities Association and one of the questions had to do with our career won-loss records.

"I'm glad we got it out of the way tonight. The kids wanted to do it, but that's not an added thing that they should be worrying about."

As it turned out, the milestone win was the only thing remarkable about the match as the Rams labored their way to the sweep.

Lake Mary's uneven performance was understandable. Not only were the Rams coming off a match Tuesday that saw them celebrate Seniors Night and win the Seminole Athletic Conference championship, they got stuck in traffic behind an accident on Interstate 4 on their way to the match.

When they got there, the junior varsity match was over so quickly (Lake Mary winning 15-1, 15-4) that the varsity never really had a chance to get loose.

"We were in slow motion a little bit," said Henry. "No-one really stood out for us. It was a real team thing."

"Spruce Creek blocked us really well. The girls were trying to bang it through their arms. We tried to explain to them that it doesn't work, but they had to see for themselves. We just weren't in sync. We were a little sluggish."

Tonight, the Rams travel to Lyman for a Seminole Athletic Conference match. The junior varsity match is scheduled for 6 p.m. with the varsity to follow at 7 p.m.

Young Guns claim lead

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Wednesday night's showdown for first place in the Sanford Recreation Co-ed Power Volleyball League at the Sanford Middle School Gymnasium never materialized as the Young Guns picked up a forfeit win over Carter and Sons.

The Young Guns also beat Crazy Wings (15-3, 15-7) and the Wanna-Bees (15-6, 15-9) to improve to 8-1 after three weeks of play.

After forfeiting the match with the Young Guns, Carter and Sons came back and won its two other matches, beating the Wanna-Bees (6-15, 15-8, 15-13) and Crazy Wings (15-6, 15-5), to run its record to 7-2 and hang on to second place.

For the third week in a row, the Wanna-Bees' only win of the evening came at the expense of witless Crazy Wings (13-15, 15-9, 15-9). The Wanna-Bees are now 3-6 while Crazy Wings drops to 0-9.

It took some scrambling, but Erik Larsen (No. 15) and the Lake Mary Rams defeated the Lyman Greyhounds Wednesday for their 14th win in their last 15 starts.

Rams make short work of Greyhounds

By TONY DeBORNIER Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — Sure, Wednesday night's boys volleyball match between Lake Mary and Lyman high schools counted in the Seminole Athletic Conference standings, but you have to keep your priorities in order.

No sooner had the Lake Mary Rams had completed their 15-5, 15-10 win over the visiting Greyhounds than the Lake Mary gymnasium was deserted. The net was down, the balls were put away, and everybody was gone.

Even the junior varsity match got over in a hurry. Lake Mary winning 15-3, 15-9.

It's amazing how quickly people can move when something as important as Game 6 of the National League Championship Series between the Atlanta Braves and Philadelphia Phillies demands their attention.

"We weren't trying to rush through the match," said Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen with a shrug and a grin. "It just worked out that way."

Actually, Lake Mary and Lyman gave another one of their now classic boys volleyball exhibitions, the more experienced Rams being frustrated by but eventually overpowering the very athletic Greyhounds.

"Lyman really scrambles on defense," said Whalen. "They made us work for some points."

Even so, Whalen was able to do a little experimenting in the second game, playing several players in different positions and giving them experience in new situations. For example, he had Ian Saunders, one of Lake Mary's top front row hitters, concentrating on playing back row defense.

"In the first game, we went with our main lineup," explained Whalen. "In the second game, we played everyone and we worked on a few things that we'll need for Volleyfest. Some of it worked, and some of it didn't."

The first game saw three lead changes in the first seven points. Dustin Dittmer finally broke things open for Lake Mary, putting together an eight-point service run that staked the Rams to a 14-5 lead.

In the second game, the Rams led 11-4, 12-5, and 14-7 before Brian Young served three consecutive points for Lyman (the Greyhounds' longest service run of the match) to cut the lead to 14-10. After an exchange of serves, Dittmer closed out the match with a service ace.

For the Rams, it was their third win in a row and □ See Volleyball, Page 2B

Three teams tied for second behind Heilig Meyers

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Who says it's lonely at the top? While Heilig Meyers reclaimed sole possession of first place in the Wednesday Sanford Recreation Men's Slowpitch Softball League last night at Chase Park, there's a three-way logjam for second place just one game behind them.

Illusions opened the evening with a forfeit win over the Briar Corp. Sportsmart then pulled out a 10-4 win over Neth and Son/Crazy Wings. Heilig Meyers followed with a 16-2 blitz of Continental Express in 4½ innings.

Daughters to award media

Local DAR chapter to observe 75th anniversary

SANFORD — Daughters of the American Revolution announce that the emphasis for the month of October is motion pictures, radio and television. Members and the public should be aware of the powerful influence of the various media, according to Sara Patterson of the Sallie Harrison Chapter of the DAR.

Patterson said, "They (members) need to show they care by being informed and active, in particular, to praise what is good." She said awards will be given during 1994 by state and chapter chairman to local theater, radio and/or television recognizing good programming. This can include commercials and sponsors.

The local DAR chapter met Friday, Oct. 8, at the Page School in Sanford. Following a social hour, Regent Virginia Mikler and Chaplain Ester Anderson led the opening ritual. Patricia Fox brought the President General's message.

Elizabeth Boyd, National Defense Chairman, discussed the implications of United States servicemen serving under the command of the United Nations. She also discussed "Rights of Children" legislation pending in the United Nations.

Plans were formulated to participate in the Veterans' Day parade Nov. 11.

Catherine Wiley (center) welcomes two DAR members: Alynne Faughn (l) and Ethelda Ables.

Ina Ratliff and Emogene Heisman gave the secretary's and treasurer's reports. Virginia Powell led a brief discussion of the Eleventh Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Registrar Cathy Wiley introduced prospective member, Ethelda Ables and new members

Patricia Elliott and Alynne Faughn. The November 1993 meeting will be held Nov. 12 at the Chamber of Commerce building, First Street, Sanford. The 75th anniversary of the Sallie Harrison Chapter will be observed. Speakers will be A. Bart Peterson III and the Rev. William Stemper. The subject will be "God, Home and Country, Reflections and Projections." Members are asked to wear costumes from 1918 up through the 1920s or '30s. Following the business meeting a silent auction was conducted by Elizabeth Boyd and Dorothy Erisman.

Gay brother could be best man

DEAR ABBY: "Confirmed Bachelor" wrote to tell you that his sister wanted him to give her away at her wedding, but the family of her groom-to-be didn't want him there because he was gay. You advised him to wish her well, but stay away.

I have a different suggestion. "Confirmed Bachelor" may be saddled with this brother-in-law for the rest of his life, and avoiding his sister's wedding is no way to build familial relationships. What if he went to the wedding and was gracious and loving to all concerned, proving that any fears and prejudices are unfounded?

By and large, prejudice is based on ignorance, and I believe that most people can be won over by a loving presence. Very few people who believe homosexuality is incompatible with the worship of God have worshiped side by side with lesbians or gays.

I think "Bachelor" has a golden opportunity here. Change doesn't happen overnight; it might take a long time, but he can show his mettle and attempt to open communication with his new family — or confirm their idea of his inappropriateness by not participating in the wedding worship service. Either way, it's going to be tough for him. I wish him well and promise him that not everyone in the church is against him.

PRESBYTERIAN MINISTER IN TEXAS
P.S. Abby, I wrote to you in

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

1974, asking what to do about my weight problem. You suggested Overeaters Anonymous, and told me about its reliance on a higher power. Well, I was 14, and not ready to hear that. But it stayed with me. I finally attended my first meeting in 1987, and I just had my sixth birthday of abstinence from binge eating. The program was a large reason for my entry into the ministry, as I got in touch with my own higher power. Thanks for planting that seed. It has truly flowered.

DEAR MINISTER: Your insight and answer concerning the gay brother were right on. Your P.S. was an A-1 bonus for me. Thank you for writing. Your letter made my day.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you out of concern and confusion. I have been dating a very special young lady for 11 months. She is 23, twice married, and has a 2 1/2-year-old daughter.

I am 29, have never been married and have no children. Four months ago, I purchased a home, and she and her daughter have been living with me. I am supporting her (financially), as well as her daughter, while she completes her college education.

Now the problem: She is pressuring me almost daily to marry her soon. She says she needs a commitment from me — although neither she nor I am dating anyone else.

She tells me that other men want to date her, and are willing to give her a commitment of marriage immediately. I think she is telling me this to make me jealous, and I must admit, it hurts me.

I do love her, and plan to marry her eventually, but not right now. I don't want to lose her, but I don't like the pressure she is putting on me.

I tell her I need more time, but she thinks it's just an excuse. It's not an excuse; it is how I feel.

CONFUSED AND CONCERNED
DEAR CONFUSED: It's much easier to get into a marriage than to get out of one. (And cheaper, too.) More important, if she really loved you, she wouldn't even consider marrying anyone else — much less dating him. Call her bluff. I doubt very much if she will leave you — but if she does, you could be lucky.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90066. All correspondence is confidential.)

How to understand blood platelet count

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please help me understand the ramifications of a high blood platelet count. My first count was in the 700,000 range. It dropped to 500,000 but elevated again. The specialist I was referred to, an oncologist, indicates if my count goes any higher, he will place me on hydroxyurea. Why?

DEAR READER: Platelets are the tiny blood cells necessary for normal blood clotting. The normal platelet count is 150,000-350,000 per microliter. As the number of platelets increases, certain consequences appear: Weakness, headache, dizziness, tingling of the extremities and hemorrhage are common.

An elevated platelet count can be caused by several disorders, including acute and chronic infections, iron deficiency, cancer, and excessive loss of blood. Primary thrombocythemia, a disease of the bone marrow, is a serious disorder (causing an overabundance of platelets) that requires treatment with anti-cancer drugs, such as hydroxyurea, even though this affliction is not itself cancerous.

Judging from your question, the oncologist believes you have primary thrombocythemia, and he quite properly is considering lowering your platelet count with appropriate therapy. The purpose of treatment is to avoid the consequences I mentioned, especially hemorrhage.

If your platelet count remains below 500,000, you probably can forego treatment. Therefore, you should follow the doctor's advice about how often to monitor your condition and whether therapy is necessary.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there any correlation between prostate cancer and the frequency or infrequency of orgasm?

DEAR READER: No. There does not appear to be a consistent correlation between prostate cancer or benign overgrowth and sexual release. There was a common misconception years ago that prostate cancer is caused by congestion in the prostate gland; this is untrue.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "The Prostate Gland." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
 We are all too well aware of the constancy of increases — in prices, taxes, population, homelessness, extinct species. The list increases increasingly. But sometimes, at the bridge table, a rise is necessary for success — as in today's deal.

West leads the spade king against six hearts. South wins with the ace and cashes the heart ace, getting the bad news. Do you wish to play or defend?
 South opened with a strong, artificial and forcing two clubs. After hearts were agreed, two cue-bids followed. Then South, not knowing how to find out about the three key queens, shut his eyes and bid six hearts.

After the first two tricks, South was tempted to concede defeat. But then he saw he had a faint chance. At trick three, he led a low club and finessed dummy's 10 — it held! He ruffed a spade in hand. South led another low club and finessed dummy's jack successfully. He ruffed a second spade in hand. Now South led the club king to dummy's ace, and ruffed the last spade in hand.

Finally, South played the ace, king and another diamond. East had to ruff the last of these and play away from the Q-10 of hearts into South's A-J.

So did you opt to declare? Wrong! On the second round of clubs, West should rise with the queen. This kills the vital third dummy entry for the trump reduction and endplay.

However, if you switch the jack and queen of clubs, the contract is makable via a first-round finesse of dummy's club 10.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
OCT. 15, 1993

Your chart indicates a good growth pattern where your material security is concerned. You must be patient, however, because you might not get rich overnight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today if you're seeking greater participation in something in which you're presently involved, make your move now. Don't wait to be asked, go after it. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your greatest personal benefits are likely to come today from situations where you are looking out for the welfare of others. You're not apt to do as good where all the focus is on yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It looks like you're going to get your wish. Two persons you met recently you've been hoping would start accepting you as a friend appear to have now made that decision in your favor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Important developments could transpire today which may have a direct effect on your career. One will pertain to your earnings and the other to your rank or position.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You might have a chance today to disengage yourself from something that has been an unproductive situation. If possible, let it go with no regrets.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have a big plus going for you today, it's your intuition. If you get a strong hunch about something, especially if it pertains to business, play it as your impulses direct.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Events could start developing at this time in a manner that will awaken new hopes for you. This is a significant cycle and these are significant indicators.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you haven't pushed yourself recently, you might not be achieving up to your potential. Starting today begin to set loftier objectives for yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take advantage of any opportunities you get today to acquire new, practical knowledge. The data you uncover could be exactly what you'll need to resolve an old problem.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone with whom you have strong emotional ties is presently involved in something that could be quite profitable. He/she is considering ways to bring you into the picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is a good day for negotiating or revising an old agreement. Something can be worked out that could please both parties and prove to be mutually advantageous.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your probabilities for personal gain look good today, but you will have to work rather hard for what you hope to acquire. If you're strongly motivated, this won't be an obstacle.

ANNIE by Leonard Starr

UM... YOUR FATHER IS HERE TO SEE YOU, ANNIE.
 — SIGH... I'VE BEEN EXPECTING HIM, ANNIE.
 YOU DON'T SOUND TOO HAPPY ABOUT IT.
 OH, IT'S BOUND TO BE A HIGHLY ENTERTAINING SCENE. I HOPE HE ISN'T TOO UPSET.
 WELL... HE WAS KIND OF SNEAKED WHEN HE CAME IN, BUT I THINK HE'S CALMED DOWN QUITE A BIT.
