5 Of 200 Exposed To Cyclotron Rays Get Eye Cataracts

By RENNIE TAYLOR Associated Press Science Reporter BERKELEY, Calif. —Probably 200 atomic scientists have been exposed to cyclotron rays such as those which apparently caused five cases of eye cataract, say University of California researchers.

The cataract cases, says Dr. Hamilton, illustrate why scientists have been trying strenuously to learn more about what atomic radiation does to living things. The answer involves the health of perhaps 10,000 people working in one way or another with atomic radiation. It also concerns the Army and Navy and other groups who some day may have to deal with atomic power or atom bombs.

The film indicates a person has received more than one-tenth of a roentgen of radiation daily he is kept away from rays for a while until the passing of time lowers his average daily absorption.

Neutrons along with protons make up the cores of atoms. A neutron ray is simply a stream of these particles whipped up to speeds of thousands of miles a second.

Another destructive sequence occurs when the neutron strikes a hydrogen atom in the cell's protein, the atom becomes radioactive, it turns into an atom of boron and a highly ionizing fragment called an alpha particle, which also can attack the structure of the cell.

Next Move In China War Is Left To Reds

Kuomintang Party Approves Cabinet Resolution Seeking Cease Fire Order

NANKING, Jan. 20 (AP)—The government tonight offered to halt hostilities and talk peace in China's civil war but left to the Communists the next move.

In North China a separate peace agreement suitable to both sides reportedly has been reached but not put into effect. This agreement would cover only that part of North China still in government hands.

The Kuomintang (government) party's powerful central party council today approved the cabinet's resolution calling for a cease-fire order and the beginning of peace negotiations.

President Chiang Kai-shek has not yet taken a final peace initiative, spokesmen here charge. He has only been speaking with Chinese knowledge and approval, making the government consider its responsibility for peace only in the time being and that it is up to the Communists to take the next step.

There will be no more peace overtures and the Communists have expressed their desire for a similar halt in hostilities. They then said will the National government consider ending the civil war and taking responsibility for peace only in the time being and that it is up to the Communists to take the next step.

Chiang may approve both the Executive Yuan and the Legislative Yuan's efforts to bring peace to the country.

The Communists have remained silent since their tough leader Mao Tse-tung last week told the National government if it wanted peace to put down its guns.

A member of the government party's political council and its membership approved at a meeting today the Executive Yuan's previous efforts to bring peace to the country.

McVeigh Says He Is Innocent Of Slaying Of Girl

OKLAHOMA, Jan. 20 (AP)—Ed James McVeigh declared today he was innocent of the slaying of Patricia Ann Walker, the 19-year-old girl who he said was murdered because she "knew too much."

The case was expected to go to a federal superior court jury trial after the concluding argument by the defense attorney Vance Mitchell.

In a 30-minute unsworn statement, permissible under Georgia law, McVeigh charged that Muscogee County (Columbus) officials had "made a clamp" out of him to conduct a so-called gang in Phenix City.

U. S. Troops Chase Enemy In Maneuvers

DARMSTADT, Germany, Jan. 20 (AP)—An imaginary "enemy" retreating east was the objective of U. S. First Division troops in Germany today.

These forces, some 18,000 strong, moved into position during the night to enter phase two of "Exercise Snowdrift," winter maneuvers now being carried on in drizzling weather.

Phase one of the operation was completed yesterday when troops "surrounded and destroyed" mock enemy forces which bridged the Rhine from the west.

The First Division troops, many of them inexperienced, were successful in the initial phase when combat teams wiped out the "enemy" along a fifty-mile front in the U. S. zone.

Truman Pledges Global Crusade For Peace In Inaugural Speech; Thousands Gather For Big Parade

Weather Is Bright And Crisp For History's Greatest Inauguration In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Harry Truman's legendary luck stayed with him today as clear, crisp weather drew early thousands toward the scene of his inauguration.

They were cheerful, chattering, shivering crowds waiting patiently for a glimpse of their president and the colorful inaugural parade.

The temperature, in the middle 30s, began to rise slowly under a bright sun that the Weather Bureau hadn't expected to come so quickly.

The patient crowds began lining the parade route more than five hours before they would get a look at Mr. Truman and the new vice president, Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

They sat huddled under blankets, overcoats, cloaks and heavy, slightly soiled and heavy, some sipped hot coffee from thermos jugs for warmth.

At the Capitol Plaza, early arrivals lined up on concrete sidewalks behind steel ropes waiting for the president to mount the platform for his oath taking.

Even the reserved section in front of the inaugural platform began filling before mid morning.

The early comers wanted to assure themselves a front row spot at this great show. They wanted to see the 48-year-old man from Missouri bring to life once again the old American legend that any farm boy can become President.

This was the program lineup: The parade was scheduled to leave the Capitol Plaza area at 11:30 A. M. (EST), a two and a half hour show of color, music, marching military and civilian units and machines of war.

First, a police motorcycle patrol from the parade's grand route.

MIAMI, Jan. 20 (AP)—Searching air and surface vessels concentrated on a spot some 300 miles southwest of Bermuda today in a renewed effort to locate survivors of a lost British South American Airways plane with 20 persons aboard.

The Coast Guard received reports of two lights which might have come from survivors of the plane, missing since Monday on a flight from Bermuda to Kingston, Jamaica.

A B-17 pilot sighted what appeared to be a light at latitude 23.37 north, longitude 69.03 west about 3:00 A. M. today, the Coast Guard said.

President Denounces False Philosophy Of Communism In Bristling Address

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—President Truman today pledged a global crusade for "peace, plenty and freedom" in a blistering inaugural speech denouncing the "false philosophy" of Communism and war.

The Chief Executive keyed his address to the quickening struggle between the democratic West and the Communist East.

While he cautioned that America's material resources are limited, Mr. Truman promised to draw deeply on the country's technical know-how to help free peoples everywhere.

Communism "holds that war is inevitable," Mr. Truman told massed thousands in the Capitol plaza immediately after taking his oath of office for a four-year term. And even now, he said, it is endangering attempts to keep world peace.

But he declared that as a result of American efforts "hundreds of millions of people all over the world now agree with us that we are the only way."

The president's address included a giant "bold new program" of foreign economic development, aimed at wiping out misery, hunger and despair in backward areas all over the world.

Mr. Truman listed that as one of "four major courses of action" to be stressed in coming years.

He also called for a security pact with Western Europe, which he hopes would lead to the "Senate soon," and he promised to strengthen non-Communist countries' security along with American security plans by making them U. S. military allies and partners.

His proposed new program for improving conditions in the areas which might offer a breeding place for Communism amounted to a call for a new front in the cold war.

In this endeavor the cooperation of allied nations would be "warmly welcomed," the President said.

"More than half the people of the world are living in conditions approaching misery," Mr. Truman declared.

"Their food is inadequate. They are victims of disease. Their economic life is primitive and stagnant. Their poverty is a handicap and a threat both to them and to more prosperous areas."

To combat those conditions he said.

FBI Report Brings Halt To Baker Case

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 20 (AP)—A narrative report by the FBI laboratory at Washington brought a halt today to the investigation of millionaire Greenville Baker's mysterious death.

"It still leaves us with nothing to hold anybody on," said Sheriff Frank Stoutamire in discussing the FBI tests of evidence in the pre-dawn roadside death Monday of the 27-year-old sportsman.

The veteran officer added that he still believed Baker was killed accidentally when his jeep wrecked on a dirt road leading from his mother's luxurious plantation home near here.

"There is no evidence of any criminal liability," Stoutamire said. And State Attorney William D. Honkins added: "We've done all we can do at this time."

Need For Good Roads In City

Need of good roads into cities to bring people to stores and markets, was stressed by Clifford E. McKibbin, new City manager of Sanford who will take office on Feb. 1, in a talk to members of the Sanford Business and Professional Women's Club at the Mayfair Inn last evening.

Speaking here for the first time since his appointment as City manager, Mr. McKibbin, speaking on "What Modern Cities of Florida Need," pointed out that in addition to good roads there is need of good common carrier services to cities, particularly of those having schedules permitting convenient travel. He was introduced by Mrs. (Continued on Page Eight)

Forest Service Sets Fire Prevention Mark

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 20.—(Special)—Only 1 1/2 acres of every 1,000 under organized forest fire protection in Florida burned in the last six months of 1948, a new low loss record according to the Florida Forest Service.

Reporting on the fire record for the first half of the 1948-49 fiscal year, Owen R. Douglass, state forest service fire control chief, said today that only 0.154 per cent, or 11,703 acres, of the 7,556,494 acres under organized protection were burned during the period.

Forest fire information was not available on another 15,000,000 acres in the state which are not protected from wild fires.

There were more woods fires during the June through December period than in the previous year, 765 against 474, but 601,210 more acres were under protection. Damages were estimated at $8,645.

Rockies' Winter Expert Says It's Cinch To Die In Snowslide

By ELLIOTT CHAZE
DENVER, Colo.—If you should happen to get caught in a snowslide, just remember that the easiest thing to do is to die.

This comes from Wilfred Davis, winter sports administrator for the Rocky Mountain Region, where the big white avalanches sometimes travel 100 miles an hour and pack a 3,000-ton punch.

Davis, hired by the U. S. Forest Service, says the most important thing to do when you find yourself in nature's quick-freeze locker, is to decide the not-so-simple business of up and down. If you begin digging downward you're probably a goner.

There's a certain amount of light shining through powdered snow if you aren't buried more than three or four feet," he says. That of course, helps. But if you're buried too deep to see the light and you have any elbow room, try something.

"If you drop a mitten and it hits you in the face, you know you're looking toward the surface."

And when—and if—the rescuers arrive, and you hear them stomping around and talking upstairs, don't try to call for help. They won't hear you and you'll burn up what little oxygen you have handy.

Davis puts it this way: "I've talked to scores of folks who were entombed by snowslides. A lot of them said they could hear every word of the rescuers up above; but that they hollered their heads off and the rescuers never received a peep of it. This has never been satisfactorily explained.

Another big DON'T in the business of surviving an avalanche is don't panic because of the pressure against your body. Providing you aren't chewed up badly by the initial impact, and have any sort of air-space to keep you going, the pressure will seem unbearable at first, but in a few minutes it will lessen. The heat from your body will take care of that, melting some of the snow.

If you see the thing coming, and Davis says it comes in "an incredible hurry," get your hands cupped against your face. This gives you an air-pocket (if you are able to hold onto your face during a very rough burial). And you're more or less in digging position.

If you aren't down more than 12 or 14 feet, you have a fair chance of living. Below 14 feet the odds get increasingly tricky. Rescue units, composed of Forest Service men and members of the Southern Rocky Mountain Ski association, have made a pretty fine art of recovering entombed persons.

They carry probing poles, hollow metal tubes about 14 feet in length.

They form two solid lines across the width of the avalanche, one rank moving along behind the other, both ranks probing as they go. In a short time they can cover every square foot of a slide.

When they locate the buried person they honeycomb the snow with their metal tubes, punching air channels to him. This must be done delicately to avoid honeycombing the citizen below. Davis says that at this point, however, the buried person is so incaged in his new air supply, he doesn't resent a poke or so in the eye.

In cases where a person is buried too deeply to find by vertical probing, the rescuers start at the foot of the slide and dig parallel trenches about a dozen feet apart. Then the probes are pushed through the walls of the trenches laterally. If necessary the trenches are dug the length of the slide and a diagram of the search pattern has a step-ladder effect.

In these instances, Davis says, "the rescuers are simply trying to satisfy to coroner and recover the body."

Where a slide halts in a gully or a baby canyon the depth of the compressed snow can reach 50 or 60 feet. Ordinarily, where a slide flows out onto flat country, its depth doesn't exceed 10 or 12 feet. The slides are classed as (1) powder snow (2) wet snow and (3) snow slabs.

The snow slab is the biggest killer, because of its tight-packed nature and the fact that it moves pretty much as a unit. It is caused by wind packing snow on the leeward side of a ridge, building a slab on a softer surface beneath.

Up at Homestead Lake a few years past, a snow slab came roaring down a mountain and hit the lake. It drove downward through three solid feet of ice scoured the bottom of the lake all the way across—some 200 yards—then pushed up through the ice on the other side.

An Davis says, there are a number of things you can do if you get caught in a slide. But the easiest thing, really, is to die.

Russia's Politburo Outlined As 'Club' Of Key Communists

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The politburo, the key group of the Communist Party, is the real boss of Russia. It's made up of Joseph Stalin and 13 other top Russian Communists. Its full name is the political bureau.

The Supreme Soviet, but this can be done only with approval of the Communist Party. And the party members are in the big majority of those elected to the Supreme Soviet. So they run the Supreme Soviet.

This Supreme Soviet's term is four years. It's supposed to meet twice a year. To do its work while it's not in session, it elects a smaller body, called the presidium. Communists run this, too.

The Supreme Soviet names the "key" members and the members of the supreme court. And it appoints the council of ministers, which is like our own cabinet of department heads, but larger.

These ministers (they used to be called commissars) head the various Russian government departments, like oil, railroads, heavy industry, foreign affairs, chemistry and so on.

But the key ministers are Communists. So they run the Government—under the Politburo because—

The Politburo, with its 14 top Communists, tells the other Communists what to do and, since it's the Communists who run the Government, the Politburo is supreme.

Hal Boyle Says Abe Lincoln Was 'Champ' President

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP)—Harry S. Truman may have the biggest presidential inauguration festival in American history. But he'll have to go some to beat one record set by a homely Republican predecessor.

That's in the matter of kissing. The champ? Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln kissed no fewer than 34 girls at his first inauguration—on a kiss each state.

Past inaugurations have tended to reflect the mood—stern, sad or gay—through which the nation was passing. A number of the incidents and oddities are recalled by Jewell Casey in the current issue of "The Holy Name Journal."

George Washington was the only President inaugurated in two cities—New York and Philadelphia. At the first ceremony the "father of his country" sturdily asserted the economic independence of the newborn republic with a "made in America" brown suit. It was woven from the wool of American sheep.

John Adams was so galloped over the larger popularity of his successor, Thomas Jefferson, that he left Washington early in the morning to avoid seeing Jefferson sworn into office. This habit seemed to run in the Adams family, for 28 years later John's son, President John Quincy Adams, got out of town fast, too, so he wouldn't have to watch Andy Jackson, his bitter rival, succeed him.

William Henry Harrison drew a huge crowd to his inaugural. A month later there came an even larger crowd—to his funeral. The old hero, most elderly man elected to the White House, caught a cold at the first ceremony, and wore himself out directing at each of three inaugural balls that night.

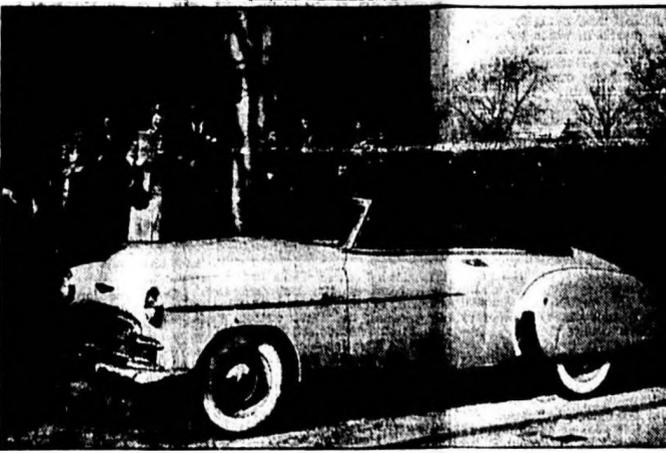

Both Jefferson and Harrison rode to their inaugurations on horseback. Martin Van Buren rode in a wooden carriage made from the timbers of the frigate Constitution. Warren Harding was the first President to dispense with hobbling. He arrived in a motor car—and he kissed the same Bible that had known the lips of George Washington. The first armored motor car appeared in the tense 1917 inauguration of Woodrow Wilson.

On a number of occasions it appears someone forgot to invite the weather forecaster. Bad weather hampered the ceremonies at Lincoln's inauguration. At the fourth time up, wisecracks were saying Roosevelt knew the odds backwards.

Two of the biggest inaugural eggs were laid by a chunky man who fought the South, with a cigar in his mouth—General U. S. Grant. Both ceremonies were mismanaged. The general was so mad at retiring President Andrew Johnson that he let Johnson know he couldn't even come along for the ride.

These simple rules, if followed, will mean more effective and safer use of such materials.

Do some advance thinking about your pest problems. Select a reliable manufacturer as your source of supply and discuss your particular problems with an accredited representative. Be sure you get federal and state agricultural experts in your locality.

Read up on your problem and learn to distinguish recommendations by competent authorities as against mere reports of isolated research results or unaided conjecture. Find out about the possibilities of secondary problems, such as residues and all flavors. Consider timing of application, dosage, method of residue removal and so on as means of overcoming secondary problems.

Remember that there are many long-established as well as new chemicals for controlling pests. Compare their relative merits and weaknesses. All economic poisons in interstate commerce must be registered under federal law. Be sure the products you buy comply with all regulations.

Determine the type of application equipment you will need and investigate the possibilities of damage to neighboring crops from drift. Agency of dosage is essential with modern chemicals. If your food crop is intended for processing, discuss your control program with the food processing company.

Read label and accompanying literature carefully. Read the warnings and directions—and obey them. Do not overdose. All pesticides should be handled with care. Some materials may require the use of masks or gloves during application.

Keep a record of your operations. Material used, dosage, time of application and method, crops, weather conditions, result and any other information that may be helpful in planning your future operations.

Hints To Housewives

For those who have cooked and those who have eaten it, orange meringue pie is really something to talk about. It's not much trouble to make, and it's almost sure that your family will call for "seconds" after they have had a taste. Here's the recipe: You'll need 2 1/2 cups of sugar, 1 1/2 cups of egg whites, 1/2 cup of orange juice, 1/2 teaspoon of grated orange rind, 1/8 teaspoon of salt, and 6 tablespoons of sugar.

Make your pastry shell, prick it lightly with a fork, and then bake it in a hot oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) from eight to 10 minutes to brown it.

Mix the 2 1/2 cups of sugar and 1/2 cup of egg whites in a large bowl, add the orange juice, rind, and salt, and stir until smooth. Beat egg whites lightly and add with butter to egg-sugar mixture. Cook in double boiler until thick and creamy, stirring constantly. Cool. Pour in to baked pastry shell. Then top with meringue made from 3 egg whites and 1/2 cup of sugar.

Bake in hot oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for about 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Then wait for the family to go for it.

Orange Cream Pie And here's another pie that's fun on any table. Easy to make, too. For the filling, crush 1 cup of corn flakes into fine crumbs. To corn flakes, add 1/4 of a cup of melted butter, 1/2 cup of a cup of melted butter, 1/2 cup of a cup of melted butter, and 1/2 cup of a cup of melted butter.

Blend condensed milk, orange rind and juice, stirring until mixture thickens. Pour into crumbs. Add 1/2 cup of a cup of melted butter, 1/2 cup of a cup of melted butter, and 1/2 cup of a cup of melted butter.

Spread on top of pie and sprinkle remaining crumbs over it. Chill thoroughly. Then it's ready.

Buried Treasure

Another expedition is out for the buried treasure of Cocos Island. This island, in the Pacific about 400 miles west of Costa Rica, is the most famous of all the reputed burying places of treasure. Several distinct hoards are reported to have been left there, the earliest dating back to a pirate named Edward Davis at the beginning of the eighteenth century. A century later, when Peru was winning its independence from Spain, the gold and silver in the cathedral and the state exchequer were hidden in Cocos Island. So far as is known, none of it has ever been found. Attempts to get it have been many. Maps purporting to show the location of the buried riches are fairly common, but no hunt has produced any results. A prolonged search made in 1929 by an expedition headed by the racing automobilist who has just died. Now an expedition has left Los Angeles under the leadership of James A. Forbes of Riverside, Cal., a wealthy citrus ranch owner. Hunting for buried treasure is risky business. The sight of gold and jewels in masses does strange things to the beholders. Forbes and other treasure hunters may recall that those who buried gold found it wise to pick their crews with great care, and then watch them night and day.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Indonesian crisis has resolved itself into a highly unprofitable quarrel in which the Dutch are the focus of action not only by the United Nations but by a great conference of Asiatic countries in New Delhi. As things stand the Security Council of the United Nations faces possible loss of prestige because of a rebuff by the Netherlands. On top of that the imbroglio threatens to widen the gap which already existed between the Western world and the East.

It is an altogether nasty situation and one which could have far-reaching consequences. The core of this trouble of course is the strife between the Dutch and the revolutionary Republic of Indonesia. The Republicans demand immediate independence, whereas the "mother country" has a plan which they don't trust—for the gradual establishment of sovereignty not only for the republic but for all the Indonesian archipelago.

What brought the situation to a head was the recent Dutch military police action in the republic for the avowed purpose of repressing subversive activities. When the U. S. Security Council tried to halt this show, the Dutch gave it the cold shoulder. The Netherlands government takes the position that this is an internal problem over which the U. N. has no jurisdiction. That was a rebuff which the U. N. couldn't take lying down without losing face the world over. It created a situation which virtually forces the peace organization to take further action to maintain its authority.

The fact has been emphasized by the action of India in calling a conference of Asiatic states which is opening in New Delhi today. Prime Minister Nehru, who fathered this party, aims at getting a solution of the Indonesian strife. The Security Council likely will be called on to consider an American plan for settlement of the Indonesian problem. This calls for the establishment of a sovereign United States of Indonesia by April 1, 1950. It envisages creation of an interim government to be in effect until March 15, 1949, and withdrawal of Dutch troops prior to establishment of the new federation.

The Dutch have rejected this, although they already have announced a somewhat similar project. The difference between this and the American plan lies chiefly in the fact that the Dutch program is provisional on developments whereas the Washington proposal puts the thing down specifically as that independence would be achieved within three months of the settlement of Dutch troops prior to establishment of the new federation.

Why do the Dutch reject this U. S. plan as "unparalleled interference?" Informed circles tell me that the Dutch feel that American project implies distrust of Holland's intentions. The Dutch are sure that the implication is not in fact, but in the terms of the proposal. Well, that seems like splitting hairs rather fine, but one can see the Dutch argument. Indeed, we can go further and point out that more than a few critics of Holland are ready to take the present situation as a challenge to their own policy of non-interference in Indonesia, one of the richest parts of her empire. This is denied by the Netherlands.

That leaves the argument to be settled by developments. Health Board (Continued From Page One) occasionally polluted to some extent. Only a few communities now are on a strictly boiled water recommendation basis said Dr. Wilson T. Sowler, state health officer, and David B. Lee, chief sanitary engineer. Two of these are Hudson in Pasco County and Copeland in Collier County. The board does not list specifically private supplies serving fewer than 25 persons. Lee said that during a recent survey of the state, it was found that Orange County artesian wells are "seriously damaged" by polluted surface waters from drainage wells. He said similar conditions existed in other parts of the state where artesian wells do not flow under their own pressure but that in Orange hundreds of drainage wells existed, having been drilled in the mid-1920s. Drilling of such wells is controlled by law, now, and permits are issued only when the board feels drinking waters will not be harmed.

American's Greatest Peril

"American's Greatest Peril" will be the subject of Mr. Hayward H. Johnson, guest speaker, next Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock at the First Methodist Church of Sanford. Mr. Johnson is an anti-Communist playwright and nationally known lecturer. Mr. Johnson comes to Sanford from the headquarters of the Methodist Church in Washington, D.C. He received national-wide recognition when he led the clean-up fight against racketeers, gangsters and bootleggers in bloody Williamson county—Herrin, Ill. His present lecture tour for the Methodist Church has brought him from the Pacific Coast where he addressed large audiences and was received with enthusiasm in leading pulpits throughout the West.

Winter Weather

(Continued From Page One) Rain drove the freeze and the drought away from Southern California's rich crop areas today as the winter season's coldest weather, numbered the Northern Plains and most of the Midwest. A sub-zero belt extended from Montana into Illinois. The mercury plunged to 33 below in Pembina, N. D., and across the cold front eastward into Illinois, Rockford reported a reading of 21 below. Temperatures didn't get above zero in some parts of the actic area all day yesterday and federal forecasters didn't expect much relief until Friday. The highest temperatures predicted for North Dakota today were 10 to 20 below zero. Some snow fell in the Dakotas and occasional blizzard conditions were forecast.

Rockford's 21 below compared to a low of 4 above at Chicago, in some 80 miles away. Moline, in Northwestern Illinois, reported a low of -15. There were sub-zero marks in Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, Montana and sections of Michigan.

The cold air moved into the North Atlantic Coast and Gulf states, but temperatures were reported around normal. Fair weather was reported over the East, South and Northwestern states. Temperatures continued mild in Florida. The country's top mark yesterday was 80 at Jacksonville.

There was more snow in California but the weather bureau said it was all in the mountains. Rain in the valleys gave some solace to citrus and vegetable growers who had suffered through two exceptionally dry winters and then were stricken with nearly three weeks of damaging, freezing weather. More light showers are expected today.

The California Fruit Growers Exchange reported that the big freeze ruined 34,000 carloads of navel and valencia oranges, lemons and grapefruit in Central and Southern California and Arizona. This was an estimated 26 per cent of the fruit on the trees Jan. 1. There will be some salvage from use of damaged fruit in by-products, like juices.

Boat Collision

(Continued From Page One) cutter in fog and darkness off the New Jersey coast early yesterday, limped into New York harbor last night. The fastwind, a hole in its starboard side and its superstructure twisted and charred from a seven-hour fire, is being towed here by another Coast Guard cutter, the Sassafras. Rear Admiral Ed H. Smith, commander of the Third Naval District, heads the special five-man Coast Guard board of inquiry set up to investigate the sea tragedy. Exhausted and smoke-blackened survivors from the Eastwind told on their arrival here last night how the ships collided while most of the 187 men aboard slept. Then the big tanker backed off, its bow plates caved in. Flames burst from the crippled 8,000-ton cutter as it drifted away into the pre-lawn muck.

Fire in the forward part of the tanker was quickly brought under control. None of the 187 crew members of the tanker, owned by the Gulf Oil Corporation, was reported hurt.

Citrus Prices

A spokesman for the California Fruit Growers Exchange in New York said exchange officials were preparing an estimate of the situation with regard to California fruit, based on damage reports completed Thursday. He declined to comment further pending this estimate. Meat and dairy prices remained generally stable following last week's cuts in several items. The American Home Institute reported that housewives now are getting an average of 26 per cent less for pork chops than in mid-September. Round steak has declined 25 per cent, chuck roasts 22 per cent, leg of lamb 17 per cent, and lamb chops and hamburger 13 per cent.

But it was lamb that dropped the most during the past year, the institute said. It's down about 29 per cent. Trade sources said the decline reflected reduced exports plus the fact that hogs reaching livestock markets are fatter because feed corn is more plentiful. Lard stocks at Chicago were reported about one-third larger than a year ago.

The Agriculture Department announced the average retail cost of the family "market basket" of farm products declined slightly over 5 per cent during the last half of 1948. The market basket basis is the average amount of farm foods bought annually by a typical family of three in the 1935-39 period.

The report added that the farmers' share of the shopper's dollar spent for farm food products averaged about 51 cents in the year, an amount 54 cents at mid-year and about 40 cents before the war.

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food index continued its decline this week and hit a new 20-month low at $6.02, compared with $6.08 last week and $7.25 a year ago. The index represents the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 general use foods.

Advances in the price of poultry, hams, butter, potatoes, rice and lamb were offset by wholesale declines for flour, wheat, corn, rye, oats, lard, cottonseed oil, cocoa, peanuts, eggs, raisins, steers and hogs.

Parliament Set In Berlin By Soviets

BERLIN, Jan. 20—(AP)—The Communist Rump government in the eastern sector of Berlin announced today the establishment of a separate city parliament named by appointment rather than by elections which had been promised. The new "parliament" is designed to give an appearance of popular support for the hand-picked separate government which the Communists set up Nov. 29. It would rival the elected city assembly chosen in the western Berlin elections Dec. 5. The elections were boycotted by the Communists after the Russians refused to let their sector take part.

Why No Bust?

One of Russia's current worries is the failure of the United States to carry out the Marxist theory of a quick post-war depression. A recent meeting of the Soviet Academy of Sciences has been devoted to getting at the root of this matter, it is reported. Dr. A. I. Shnererson prepared a study of the problem for presentation at the institute preceding the meeting. This expert attempted to rationalize the fact that the hoped-for slump has not occurred by stating that the time is ripe for it, but that "war hysteria" has fended it off with huge armament orders. Russia should profit by the lesson supplied by the result of the recent presidential election. The United States is a country where anything can happen overnight. Predictions are unsafe, those of Karl Marx providing no exception.

What's Behind A Kiss?

"A kiss," said Oliver Herford, "is a course of procedure, cunningly devised for the mutual stoppage of conversation at a point where words are superfluous." We have become so accustomed to the practice of kissing that we are inclined to think of it as an instinctive act, a form of expression which is as natural and innate as eating and sleeping. Actually, nothing could be further from fact. The kiss—as we know it today—is a relatively new "invention." Even today, better than a third of the world's fair maidens have never known the thrill of a kiss—and have no desire to make its acquaintance. Of the 2,000,000,000 old people on earth, more than 700,000,000 of them take violent issue with Shakespeare, who said that a lady's lips "were made for kissing."

As members of the world society of non-kissers, the Eskimos, as is well known, contrive to kindle the flame of love by the process of pressing proboscises. With other peoples, the kiss equivalent involves quaint and piquant processes, including sniffing, blowing through tightly pursed lips, and putting the head, inhabitants of at least two non-kissing countries express their undying affection by blowing in each other's ears! —John E. Gibson in Your Life.

SIBLE VERSE TODAY

Humanity has longed for an heroic saviour and king who would rule kindly for all time. Yet humanity has stoned and crucified its saviours. Our actions may pierce the heart of the infinite. Ps. 72:17: All nations shall call him blessed.

Wouldn't it be funny if those New York Communists who are being tried in New York for plotting against the government of the United States should be convicted of being "red herrings."

Government payrolls reached an all time peak, not excluding war time, last month with over six million persons holding government jobs and with some $1,331,000,000 paid out by local, state and federal governments in remuneration to employees. This is more than twice as much as it was just before the war. No wonder there is a labor shortage.

Aly Khan, who has been traveling all over Europe with Rita Hayworth, divorced wife of Orson Welles, with Aly's two children, but without benefit of his wife, announces that he intends to marry Miss Hayworth. One would venture the opinion that it is about time, were it not for the fact that he already has one wife.

Governor Warred who used to say during his campaign that the leeching would be always out while he was at the Executive Mansion is beginning to learn why that very democratic practice is somewhat impractical in actual performance. His secretary, Frank Wright, reveals that it has become necessary to set up a special office and staff to handle the visitors. "We are just being swamped by job hunters," Mr. Wright declares.

The quick and easy profits of the "Cuba" racket are revealed by the Tampa Tribune which discloses that Jimmy Velasco, murder Tampa gambler, made a profit of $15,097 on $87,669 worth of tickets in 24 days. That's about 15 percent in 24 days, or at the rate of about 180 percent a year. Figures recently released by the National City Bank of New York reveal that they made about 2 percent on their investments last year.

We have no intention of turning this column into a daily appeal for funds in order to satisfy all the requests we receive for some kind of a boost for this or that most worthy charity, but to our appeal this week for aid to the March of Dimes campaign for the Infantile Paralysis Fund, we would like to add a plea for the St. James A. M. E. Church for Negroes which currently is faced with distressing obligations totalling some $15,500. As taxpayers we spend thousands of dollars trying to educate the negroes, and helping to improve their health, but unless we also see to their souls, and their character we have wasted our money. "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it."

The death of Charles Ponzi this week recalls the truth of Mr. Phinias T. Barnum's famous statement that "There's one born every minute and they don't all die young." At least this was true 23 years ago when his promise to double your money within three months lured 40,000 presumably sane Americans over $13,000,000. And the funding of his racket was that it paid off, at least for a while. Ponzi sold to new suckers was used by the old suckers, who used those out of ten reinvested profits, until the whole colossal bubble exploded in their faces. Ponzi went to jail for using the same old scheme. He still has something to say about it. He is directing their attention to the federal treasury.

United States Congress Comes From Democracy's Melting Pot

By SHERRY BOWEN The 81st Congress of the United States is starting its work. But the headlines out of Washington do not show how old or how tangled is the story of the work that made Congress possible. The ancient Greeks had the first democracy of which we have a clear picture. But Greek democracy wasn't what we call by that name. It could be used only in a small state because all citizens met together and voted in a mass meeting. A few officials were elected, most were chosen by lot. Many of the people were slaves or "foreigners" who couldn't vote. The "foreigner" might have been in the state for five generations, but that made no difference. Even with slaves, most Greek citizens had to work, but they took much time off to fight, vote, serve on juries, etc. (Juries were big, running to hundreds and thousands of men in a small city.) "Class Rule" in Rome Citizens of Rome voted for officials and for proposed laws. They also were divided into plebeians and patricians—a class line that still dominates many countries. Between 150 and 107 B. C. Rome developed the secret ballot. When Rome took over an empire, all the people could not get together and vote. No other system was known. Rome's voters controlled the empire, but that didn't work well. The emperors took over. At first they pretended to be servants of the people. Later emperors who ruled from Tiber to the Tigris and from England to the upper extremities of the Nile dropped even the pretense. Barbarians Routed Traditions When the barbarians took charge, even the tradition of democracy was gone. It was only with the revival of learning that ideas of self rule began to come back. Men got them from such thinkers as Cicero, Aristotle, Plato and Thucydides. Perhaps the Italian city-states—Florence, Genoa, Pisa, Venice and others—were the first to try them again. But they had the same troubles that bothered the Greeks and were groups of citizens from which officials often were chosen by lot. When the kings began to found modern nations, they went over the heads of their big nobles to ask support of local leaders. Thus in 1215 King Henry 1st of England asked the lords of each shire to name two knights to meet with the king. Other kings in England and other countries called similar meetings. They all wanted help and many people thought such meetings were a good idea. Parliaments in Germany Only gradually did the system

(Continued From Page One) government, however, comes every thing. "The communists get the cream and the little individual gets the skin." "They say that they have democracy and that the people go to the polls and vote. However, there is only one party to vote for and that is the communists," he pointed out. "It is safe to assume that many Russians are against communism but can't say anything about it." Although we have many government regulations that approach socialism, we approach true democracy as much as any nation, said Mr. Haushalter, and stated that the wealth of this country is owned by individuals. England is headed by the King, run by Parliament and controlled by the socialist labor party, he asserted. France, although republican with many democratic principles, is torn with political strife. China, he stated, is probably an democratic today as it will ever be. He defined the American way of life as a 148 million people living together in domestic tranquility with their own democratic form of government, established by themselves to promote the general welfare and to preserve freedom and liberty. J. Marlon Harmon, director of Station WTRB, was introduced as a Kiwanian by J. W. Hall.

The flicker's diet is almost 50 percent ants. of parliaments show itself. The meetings began to ask the king for things in return for their help. Finally their members came to be elected—by a small part of the people. British colonies in America took up the ideas of voting and of legislatures. They kept vote lists limited mostly to property owners. One of the revolutionary ideas of the French revolution of 1848 was that all male adults could vote. That idea spread, too. Many other sources have added to U. S. democratic traditions. The "Australian" ballot, for instance, came to America between 1880 and 1900.

MeVeigh Case

(Continued From Page One) Cl. Ala. The state has maintained that the girl and a man, John Frank Stringfellow, were killed to keep them quiet about the operations of a dope and liquor ring in the Columbus, Ga.—Phenix City, Ala., area. MeVeigh is serving a life sentence in the Stringfellow case. The 35-year-old defendant charged that officers investigating the case last year denied him a lawyer, moved him about from jail to jail, and told him he would be electrocuted if he did not confess killing the girl. McVeigh and Dave Walden, who married the girl less than two weeks before she was slain, have been indicted for her death. Walden, also serving life in the Stringfellow killing, will be tried after McVeigh for the girl's slaying.

Truman Speech

proposed enlisting American capital investments and industrial skills—plus any assistance which might come from other sources.

"Our aim," he said, "should be to help the free peoples of the world, through their own efforts, to produce more food, more clothing, more materials for housing, and more mechanical goods."

"That regime adheres to a false philosophy which purports to offer freedom, security and greater prosperity to mankind," he asserted. "Misled by this philosophy, many people have sacrificed their liberty only to learn to their sorrow that deceit and mockery, poverty and tyranny, are their reward."

"That false philosophy is Communism."
Then he went on to compare that "false" philosophy with democracy.

"Communism," he said, "is based on the belief that man is so weak and inadequate that he is unable to govern himself, and therefore requires the rule of strong masters."

"Democracy is based on the conviction that man has the moral and intellectual capacity, as well as the inalienable right, to govern himself with reason and justice.

"Communism subjects the individual to arrest without lawful cause, punishment without trial, and forced labor as the chattel of the state. It decrees what information he shall receive, what art he shall produce, what thoughts he shall think."

"Democracy maintains that government is established for the benefit of the individual, and is charged with the responsibility of protecting the rights of the individual and his freedom in the exercise of his abilities.

"I have been deputized by Velasco, a gambler-politician, was slain Dec. 12 before his wife and daughter. His three brothers said Mrs. Velasco had identified the killer to police who had made no arrest.

Police denied this, saying Mrs.
Velasco had made no such identification and in a police lineup failed to point to the man whom she first believed was the murderer.

was stressed and he mentioned

Mr. McKibbin declared that cit-

However, if the investigation points to a gambling motive I do not see how the aspect can be kept out of the over-all picture."

Velasco's brothers have said that Jimmy had handled as much

Bolita and bond numbers gambling.

The brothers also related in a

Barr Umpire School Opens With 80 Men

Sanford And Seminole County Officials, Supporters Attend Airport Exercises

George Barr and his 1949 class of students unanimously elected Arthur Godfrey to be an honorary member of the faculty of the school, and the jovial Godfrey accepted the honor on Ma Columbia Broadcasting System program this morning. Godfrey was designated as Dr. of Ball and Stripes in a telegram from Umpire Barr, Sanford and Seminole County received nationwide publicity on the program.

By ARTHUR BECKWITH, Jr., Herald Sports Editor
George Barr, National League Umpire, opened his umpire school at the Municipal Airport yesterday and welcomed over 80 students before a large gathering of Sanford and Seminole County officials and supporters.

The opening marked the start of the 13th year for the operation of the school. "We have had many good times in our school in the past years, and we will have more of them this year," Mr. Barr asserted as he opened his address.

Forest "Foxy" Peters former University of Illinois football star and American Association umpire, who is now chief instructor at the school, introduced Dr. E. D. Brownlee, who gave the invocation. Mr. Peters also introduced Rev. J. E. McKinley of the First Methodist Church, Father William Natchat of All Souls Catholic Church and Lee Samuel of local Jewish congregation, who welcomed the students to the city and invited them to attend the church of their faith.

Local Boatmen Hail Installation Of Bridge Motor

Installation of electric motor power to replace hand operated equipment to swing open and shut the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad bridge over the St. Johns River at Monroe was completed on Jan. 18, and is being hailed with joy by commercial and pleasure boatmen as a means of saving up to three quarters of an hour waiting before boats get through.

The ACL had promised to do the job before the war, but later was delayed by war time shortages of men and materials, said Al Lee, Coast Guard unit officer, who in an effort to get some action on the matter, presented a petition to the War Department, signed by Coast Guard members.

The petition, through the agency of Edward Higgins and the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, and with the support of the County Commission was presented in October to War Department engineers to try to get action by the railroad on the project. Col. Willis Teale of the U. S. Engineers received the petition.

Declaring the motor operation of the bridge as a great improvement, Mr. Lee today pointed out that during windy days in the past, the slow opening of the bridge presented a dangerous hazard in navigation due to the (Continued on Page Two)

Funeral Services Are Held For Baker

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—Funeral services were held today for Greenville Kane Baker, 27-year-old banking heir who was found mysteriously shot to death last Monday near Tallahassee.

His widow, Mrs. Alicia Grayles Baker, her brother, Joaquin Grayles Baker, and other members of the immediate family occupied front seats at the Unitarian Church of All Souls, where the services were held.

The church, which seats 600, was filled to capacity, mostly with socially prominent New Yorkers.

WHAT IS TAG?
TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 21—(AP)—You'd better have that 1949 tag on your automobile by Monday.

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Arsh Livingston today announced he will start a "crack down" Jan. 24.

In my opinion, there's been plenty of time to buy the tags," he said.

Court Test Looms On Fruit Inspection

LAKELAND, Jan. 21—(AP)—Court action to test the legality of shortened hours of citrus fruit inspection appeared nearer today.

C. V. McClung, attorney representing the Peoples Packing Company, said he had discussed the enforcement of the citrus commission directive for an inspection curfew with Nathan Mayo, Commissioner of Agriculture, and George Copeland, head of the State Inspection Service.

He said "apparently they have no intention of relenting but will enforce the directive. Under the circumstances in view of the adverse effect it is having on my clients' operations, I see nothing for us to do except to take to court."

McClung said he wasn't sure whether the test would be made in a state or federal court.

Chiang Kai-Shek handed over the reins of government today to Vice President Li Tsung-len and flew south ostensibly to rest.

His final intentions were not clear amid a welter of rumors and statements—some official and some unofficial—that he was returning to president.

Chiang himself was to issue a statement later, probably tonight. An official announcement said he would visit his native place at Fenghsia in Chekiang province. The $500,000 four-engine plane in which he had been expected to fly Nanking remained at the field.

The official announcement gave no reason for Chiang's departure but said in "accordance with the constitution Li Tsung-len will act for the president during his absence."

Chiang and Madame Chiang, who is now in the United States, usually pay a visit to his native home just before the Chinese New Year (Jan. 23). This gives Chiang an opportunity to leave Nanking without making a clear break, which many factions are seeking as a prelude to peace with the Reds.

Official sources said they expected his departure was intended as a move to permit the peace group to seek a negotiated settlement of the civil war under the leadership of Li.

No word came immediately from Li himself. It was learned today he agreed to take over the presidential duties only after receiving assurances that the official seal and other implements of authority would be given to him.

Chiang left behind a statement which, one official source said, contained no direct reference to his retirement but said he was leaving Nanking because he needed a rest after many strenuous months of work.

Whatever the purpose of Chiang's departure, it is an important step toward peace for China.

Many officials, including some high military leaders, have been invited to campaign actively for support of hostilities and a negotiated settlement of the civil war because they feared Chiang's anger.

With the president out of the way, even temporarily, it is believed here those who are camped will find little opposition from paying for a settlement of the "hotter enders" who have advanced a fight to the end.

Attorneys For Reds Begin To Call Witnesses

Lawyers For Commies Try To Convict Jury Of Picking System Of New York State

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—Attorneys for 11 U. S. Communist leaders began calling witnesses today in the trial within a trial by which they are trying to convict New York's jury-picking system.

However, one of their witnesses will not be appearing Judge Harold R. Medina.

They had announced yesterday they would try to call him but he said at the opening of court today he would not testify, explaining he considered this another maneuver.

The Communist officials, all in jail here, are charged with seeking the forcible overthrow of the U. S. government.

However, the defense attorneys are striving to effect a prosecution on presenting evidence to try to prove that the information exists in selection of prospective jurors here.

The first witness called was Herbert Allen, an investment banker and a member of the jury panel.

The defense counsel sought in their question to show Allen's financial interest in the U. S. Steel company, which is one of the many of them.

Harry Fisher, a defense lawyer, then asserted that if questions could not be asked about the witness' economic holdings, then he would present proof that this system is just what we say it is.

The defense lawyers said yesterday they might call Medina among others in their assault on the jury system.

Members of his family said he could have been caught by buckets which lift ore and limestone from the large cars and dump them into the top of the furnace.

Flowers Grow On Sidewalk
One of the oddities of nature and plant life are these sturdy periwinkle bushes, with their lavender blossoms growing right out of the cracks in the sidewalk adjacent to the apartment building at Second Street and Palmetta Avenue. Gardeners who have carefully prepared and planted seed and then failed to see flowers grow may have a baffling problem in seeing these plants, deriving all the love of gardening, thriving the year around under the Florida sunshine in their concrete bed.

President Keeps Going At Lively Clip In Capital

Papers In Europe Hard Address As Rap At Communism

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—President Truman kept going at a lively clip today even though the inaugural holiday was quieting down.

We went to the Capitol shortly before 9:00 A. M. (EST) to have breakfast with the congressional delegation from his home state of Missouri. That was held in the House speaker's dining room.

The breakfast was arranged by Missouri senators and representatives to honor the President, Governor Forrest Smith and United States Senator James T. Ryun. It was one of the longer members who attended.

The President spent about an hour chatting informally with the group during and after breakfast, then returned to the White House.

Mr. Truman had only 2 hours and 40 minutes in total this morning. He was up at his usual hour of 6:30 A. M. although he did not get to bed until 2 P. M. He left the inaugural ball at home earlier.

Mr. Truman said he was just getting up there today after a long night of work.

The only official business on his agenda today was the signing of the new atomic energy act.

Mr. Truman signed the act at 11:00 A. M. in the presence of a large group of his friends and family members.

The act, which is the first since the war, will provide for the development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes.
