Quotable Quotes

United Press International
CASLETON, England—June Bailey answering a call for a small cave explorer to help in the rescue of Neil Moss, who later died in a cave 1,000 feet underground:
"I'll do my very best to get him. As far as I know, there is no experienced potholer smaller than I in the entire county."

CONSTANTINE, Algeria—French Premier Michel Debre emphasizing that France would continue to remain in Algeria:
"Why hide things? France needs Algeria."

PIKEVILLE, Ky.—Roland Brice, coal company executive, denying a mine workers union charge that strikebreakers and hired gunmen have been brought into Letcher County:
"Letcher County operators will have no part of hiring strikebreakers. None of our men are carrying concealed weapons."

WASHINGTON—State Department Press Officer Joseph W. Reap Jr., reporting that official reports confirmed a revolt in Tibet:
"By their own admission, Communist control has encountered effective opposition."

CHICAGO—Mrs. Marie Smith, 27, on her flight to keep 11 young brothers and sisters, age one to 13 years, in her custody:
"I love them and they love me. I'll fight to the highest court in the land to get them back."

Americans Change Spending Habits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans currently are spending more to repair their autos and appliances and relatively less on food, clothing, shoes and alcoholic beverages than they have in the past.
These are some findings in a special analysis of incomes and consumption issued by the Commerce Department.
Economists said the drop in the proportion of each consumption dollar spent on essentials and the corresponding increase in other outlays reflects rising standards of living.
Last year for example, repair and maintenance bills for cars, radios, TV sets, appliances and furnishings came to a national total of more than $5,500,000,000, the department said. This was more than double the corresponding total a decade ago. It was also considerably greater than the rise in incomes.

Oviedo Novel Hats Worn At Club Meeting

By Marian R. Jones
Amid much merriment, members of the Oviedo Garden Club displayed novel hats made from materials of the yard at their monthly meeting, Tuesday, March 17.
The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Charles T. Niblack where a large picture frame, covered with pink crepe paper, was erected for models to appear displaying their creations.
Mrs. Tim Tietsema took a prize for the prettiest hat which was a large plastic roll covered with panicles and tied with a large bow under the chin.
The funniest hat, made of a palm-leaf fan covered with flowers, complete with moss veil, was worn by Mrs. James E. Brookshire.
Croton leaves made up the work of Mrs. H. C. Parker.
Color pictures of hats and models were made during the afternoon.
The lovely Niblack home was decorated in the Easter motif with floral arrangements used at vantage points throughout the rooms. The refreshment table had as a centerpiece an arrangement displayed in a large hat. Miniature hats, holding small nut cups, were used as favors. Mrs. Niblack and Mrs. H. C. King, co-hostesses, served coffee, pie and nuts to Misses Charles T. Niblack, Mae E. King, George C. Means, Oleva Tietsema, James E. Brookshire, H. C. Parker, Joe Battle, C. R. Clonis, Lynn Mosier, T. L. Lingo Sr. Sparks Lee Clonis, A. A. Myers, M. L. Gary, James Wilson and Mrs. John Clemens, a guest of Charlotte, Mich.
Charles G. Shaffer, who was recently a patient at the Winter Park Memorial hospital, has returned to his duties at the Citizens Bank.
Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Cameron and children, who have been residing on Lake Charm Circle, have purchased a home in Titusville. They moved there last week to make their home.
Jerry Arndt, operator of Arndt Cash Feed Store, moved to the new location in the Cameron Store Building last week.
Mrs. George H. Lydick and son, Dick, of Hamilton, Ohio, were luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jones, Wednesday, March 18. The Lydicks are former Oviedo residents. Babs, their daughter, attending college at present, will be married, May 30 after which she will reside in California where she and her husband will attend college classes.
Confined to their home because of illness are Miss Virginia Wyre, Mrs. Lawson A. Hardy and Mrs. Roy E. Weisenbarger.
Bob Ragdale has returned from a business trip to Denver, Colo.
Mrs. Clifford Parker, who has been with her son-in-law and

Movie Starlet Begins Drab New Life

BENNINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—Movie starlet Diane Varsi, who left Hollywood to find peace in this small college town, began her new life in a drab five-room apartment today.
The 21-year-old actress said she had no plans at all.
Ten newsmen and photographers formed her only welcoming committee when she arrived Monday with her two-year-old son, Shawn. She had announced last week that she was leaving Hollywood forever because it was "destroying" her.
The twice-divorced actress and her son, a blond, handsome child, stood under a giant oak for 15 minutes while her new landlord rummaged for the key to her apartment. Gusty cold winds whipped at her heavy black coat and a blue scarf, tied peasant-style around her close-cropped pixie haircut.
While they waited, she stood on an outstretched roof of the tree, staring down at her black ballerina slippers. Newsmen tried to ask questions but she only shook her head and stared at the ground. When one of the newsmen asked "Why did you come here?" she seemed on the point of tears.
Moments later, Mrs. Mary Marshall, owner of the apartment house, arrived and escorted her into the rear door which forms the private entrance to her first-floor apartment.
Newsmen carried her luggage. Shawn clutched a toy dog, smiling and scrambling through his new home of two bedrooms, a living room, kitchen and bath. But his mother slumped listlessly on a sofa, taking no notice of the old fashioned furniture and the dark rooms.
Miss Varsi answered "no" and "I don't know" to most questions. No, she did not plan to act in TV. No, she had no definite plans. She doubted that she would get a job.
Her first visitor was a resourceful young newsboy from the Bennington Banner who tried to sell her a subscription.
"I don't read newspapers," she said.

Abortionist Sought In Death Of Bride

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A pretty 15-year-old Beverly Hills bride who apparently mistakenly thought she was pregnant, died from an anesthetic believed administered by an abortionist, police reported today.
A 36-year-old Hollywood salesman, Edgar Schratler, was sought by police in connection with the death of Mrs. Brenda Emerson, whose body was found sprawled on the lawn of a hospital in near-by Burbank Saturday night.
Police said Schratler and convicted abortionist Mrs. Ruth Davidson, 42, had been operating a "floating" illegal surgery ring together. Mrs. Davidson was arrested Monday and booked on suspicion of murder.
She admitted making arrangements with Schratler for an illegal operation for Mrs. Emerson, police said. However, she denied being present when the anesthetic was administered.
County Coroner Theodore J. Curphey said the teen-age bride of nine months died from a too rapid injection of sodium pentothal, a local anesthetic said to be dangerous in the hands of someone unfamiliar with its use.
The coroner said Mrs. Emerson—who eloped over the objections of her wealthy parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Blonder—apparently thought she was pregnant and went to an abortionist.

But, Curphey, said a thorough examination of her body showed she was not going to have a child.
Police revealed that the young victim's parents and husband Steve, 20, played a painful role the first two days of the investigation by pretending they had refused to talk with officers in an effort to lure the abortionists into thinking police were making little headway.

Earthquake Rocks Frisco Bay Area; Just 'Gentle Roll'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A light earthquake rattled windows and dishes in parts of the San Francisco Bay area Monday night but there were no reports of damage.
The tremor was felt as far away as San Jose, 60 miles south of here. The San Jose sheriff's office said it had one call describing the quake as a "light rumble with a gentle rolling motion."
University of California seismologist Don Tocher said the quake registered 4.25 on the Richter scale and was centered 65 miles from Berkeley. He described the quake as "purely local" and not an aftershock of the strong quake that hit the bay area earlier this month.

Vending machines that will issue accident policies to passing motorists are being made for an insurance company which plans to place them along major highways.

Graham Is Winner In Toastmasters Speak-Off Contest

LT. Ed Graham of Sanford won the area speak-off contest for Toastmaster Clubs Saturday night.
The contest was held in Rockledge, in competition with clubs from Cocoa, Cocoa Beach, Patrick Air Force Base and Melbourne.
Graham, stationed at Ramey Field, chose the effect of man-made satellites as his subject. He will represent the Sanford Toastmasters Club in the district speech contest, which includes the whole state of Florida.
Table topics for the area meet were conducted by Bill Fleming. The local club was designated to name an assistant area governor from Seminole County or Sanford.
Attending the speak-off contest were Lt. and Mrs. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. George Daniels, Capt. and Mrs. Robert Suttaman, Fleming, Joe Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shelden and Stan Tugwell.
President Shelden said, "We are very proud of Ed, and are sure he will come out well in the state contest."

B-Girls Must Go, Alaskans Declare

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI)—Alaska's B-girls, the "drink up" kids of the 49th state, apparently have reached the end of the trail.
B-girls and their forerunners, the dance hall girls, have been a part of Alaska ever since the first sourdough hit it rich in the gold fields.
In Alaska's gold rush days, dance hall girls flocked to the territory by boat to carve their own pages in Alaska's gaudy history. Miners found in the dance halls an oasis of gaiety and, in the process, often departed poorer but happier.
Many of the dance hall girls found romance in the territory and later became among the most respected citizens in the northland.

In later years, B-girls took over the practice of enticing custom to "drink up" in various Alaska night spots. Many doubled as entertainers.
"It's my turn to entertain the boys, honey, why don't you buy another round?" was a standard bit.
Monday, this bit of Alaskan died forever when the Senate passed an anti B-girl measure by a vote of 19-1. The bill now goes before Acting Gov. Hugh W. Lusk for his signature.
The lone dissenter in the Senate was Senate President William Beltz. He joined with Rep. Robert Sheldon in declaring the lone "nay" in each house.
In debate in the House a week ago, Sheldon made the declaration that a bit of Alaskan would die with the passing of the B-girls. He added that many people respected in the state took pride in customers to drink in the famous saloons of Alaska's roaring past.

Lover Confesses; Can't Right Wrong

BRIGHTON, England (UPI)—Reginald W. Durrante, 35, confessed to Magistrate Kenneth Lincoln Monday that he dropped into a pub while walking his girl's dog, drank too much, and sold the dog for $9.80.
Durrante asked for the opportunity to get the dog back. Lincoln said Durrante could start the search in three months—after he gets out of jail.

Rebel Trials Set In Baghdad Today

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI)—The first of the Mosul rebels go on trial today for treason. It was considered almost certain the trial would bring new charges that U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser aided the abortive revolt.
The rebellion against the regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem broke out in the northern city of Mosul early this month. It was crushed and many of its leaders killed but others were brought here for trials before a peoples court.

Life Arrived Here Via Space Meteor?

LONDON (UPI)—A scientist suggested today the launching of a meteor-catching satellite to test a theory that life arrived on earth from another star or planet by means of meteors.
Dr. M. H. Briggs of the Thomas More Institute in Montreal wrote in "spaceflight," organ of the British Interplanetary Society, that it seemed probable some forms of life, bacteria spores for example, could survive the journey through space.
If such spores were found on meteors trapped by the recoverable satellite it would be "strong support" for the theory that life began on earth through the arrival of a meteorite although, he added, it would not absolutely prove it.
Briggs said it was possible man may turn out to be the offspring of another planet.
"Every time we look into a mirror we may be seeing a Martian," he theorized.

Rides Four Winners

BOWIE, Md. (UPI)—Jockey Howard Grant rode four winners in consecutive races at Bowie Monday to boost his total to 39 wins in the last 14 racing days. His "longest" period winner Monday was Lil Mae at $3.90 in the featured Barclay purse.

Tough-built Chevy truck bulls its way deep into the woods for mammoth loads

This big Series 60 Chevy bulls its way as far as 8 miles into the Louisiana woods, fights over roots and jagged stumps... then grinds back out with towering loads of logs! The Sabine Lumber Company attests to the truck's ability to take it: "Chevrolet makes the best truck for our type of operation."

Out where a truck is known for the beating it can take, Chevy's making friends fast. Truckers like the way these toughies hold up: the way they wade right in, take their lumps, yet stay in shape.

Today, it's grit that Chevy's showing the trucking industry. Real toughness that pays off in job-after-job dependability... in ability to get work done at least expense. You can match Chevy mules against any tough light-, medium- or heavy-duty job and know you've got it beat!

Chiang Could Involve U. S. In Revolution

Chinese Nationalists reported yesterday that the anti-Communist revolt in Tibet had spread to the Communist China mainland.

A Nationalist Chinese official urged the free world to assist in the revolution, lest it become another Hungary. Nationalist Chinese leaders called a secret meeting to determine how they might help the revolution spread.

President Chiang Kai-shek has predicted that the Communist China regime would collapse from internal revolt. Officials close to Chiang have hinted that the Nationalists would send troops to the mainland when a revolt does break out.

At first glance, a revolt in Communist China would appear to be great news for the free world. However, Americans shouldn't get jubilant until the matter is given careful study.

It was only a year ago that a group of Sanford-based men and planes stood by in the Formosa Strait, awaiting a decision on whether Chinese Communists would attempt to invade islands held by the Nationalists.

Should the Nationalists attempt to send troops to the China mainland, war most certainly would erupt. There is little doubt that the Soviet Union would send aid to Mao and his Communist comrades. The U. S. would have difficulty in steering clear of this conflict.

The U. S. has close ties with Chiang and the Nationalists. We are certain that this does not include backing Chiang in an attempt to re-take the mainland. But, our future in Asia, and particularly in the Pacific, depends on little on the final outcome of the Nationalist-Communist Chinese struggle.

Any interference by Chiang likely would result in Formosa attacks by the Chinese Reds. The U. S. is pledged to the defense of Formosa. It is as simple as that.

Pride Loses Battle

Pride can be a powerful force. Occasionally, pride must be swallowed, no matter the hurt involved.

Such was the story of Miami's Frank Vernie, who lost his fish, his boat and his flame-red swimming trunks.

A big wave washed Vernie overboard while he was battling to land a fish. Vernie's companion was unaware of the accident. The boat kept going. In an attempt to attract his buddy, Frank Johnstone, Vernie peeled off his flame-red trunks and started waving them.

He didn't attract Johnstone, but a charter boat spotted him. As luck would have it, the boat was loaded with men and women. Vernie, too tired to wiggle into his shorts, faced a decision: his pride or his life.

Pride lost the battle. To the tune of women's twitters, he was hauled aboard, minus all of his clothing. All in all, it was a bad day.

Elvis To Appear On Closed Circuit

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Elvis Presley's manager says the rock and roll singer will perform before a nation-wide closed circuit TV audience after his discharge from the Army early next year.

Tom Parker, the singer's manager, said Presley's first public appearance here after discharge will be telecast to about 300 cities.

He said it would take place in March or April of 1959.

"A closed circuit telecast, like those used for championship prize fights, has never been done by an artist before," Parker said. "But it's the only way to satisfy all the requests Elvis has received for personal appearances."

Robin Hood Guilty?

OILY BIRD WHO HOPES TO GET THE WORM

Assignment Washington

By Ed Kester
WASHINGTON — The music in the life of Carl Burkhardt of Cincinnati often turned into sour — sometimes soggy — notes.

Burkhardt is a record producer. Once, he told the McClellan racket committee, he pressed bogus discs for Chicago racketeers. This he did unwittingly, he said.

The man blinked and squinted under the bright chandeliers of the caucus room. He told how a Chicago man named George Miller asked him to make some recordings for him. Then the man sent Burkhardt batches of labels daily by Greyhound bus.

The labels Burkhardt stuck on the discs — a total of 121,000 of them. These records, according to the committee, were then forced upon juke-box operators around Chicago by racketeers — at a premium price.

How, counsel Robert F. Kennedy asked politely, did Burkhardt manage to get the matters for the records?

The witness scuffed his rubber-bottomed black shoes along the red carpet and shook his head sadly, as though what he was about to say was disgusting. And then he said it: To answer, he said, would surely incriminate him.

So Kennedy reached into his files and dug up an old record. A police record, Burkhardt's. It had to do with a conviction in 1950 for transporting naughty phonograph records.

Burkhardt's attorney, Alfred Meitus of Cincinnati, polite and sweet up to now, cried, "Sneer." Thereafter, Burkhardt tried stu-

Too Late To Classify

By Russell Kay
One of the most intelligent and constructive plans for combating integration that has come to my attention is advanced by State Representative W. H. (Bill) Reedy of Euclid.

No sane, sensible person can go along with those who advocate and practice violence and intimidation. Bitterness, hate and open defiance of law and order solve no problem, serving only to widen the breach and bring discredit on the state and union.

Bill Reedy proposes that Southern States as a group underwrite a gigantic public relations effort through the nation's press, radio and television that will present the true facts and reflect without bias the position of the South with relation to the integration problem.

It is a matter of record that position of the Negro in the South has steadily advanced through the years. It is unfortunately true that the North has remained ignorant of the friendly relations that exist in the South between the races, which prior to the Supreme Court decisions were steadily improving.

Never in the history of our nation has there been a greater need for mutual understanding and good will between the states and all races and it is imperative that we recognize this fact and take steps to cement relations to a point where no issue or problem can separate us in the face of the graver international dangers we face.

The wise admonition of Benjamin Franklin that "We must hang together or we will hang separately" is as true today as when it was spoken.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower and others are fearful that the Russians are not convinced that the United States and its allies really mean to stand firmly on the question of Berlin—even though it may mean war.

Perhaps the Kremlin would be more willing to believe if the armed forces of the United States in Western Europe were not pitifully baby-sitters as well as soldiers, airmen and the like. Not actually baby-sitters, of course.

But, what about the 253,000 or so dependents of American troops who are on the Western front? They are the wives and children of the enlisted and commissioned personnel who compose a first line of defense in a dangerous springtime. Unquestionably it is good for morale — good for morale, too—for the families of the overseas forces to be stationed nearby.

The Pentagon is cagey about how many dependents are in Western Europe; says about how the problem of dependents will be handled if war comes. A pretty good estimate today is that there are 185,000 Army dependents there and 80,000 Air Force. The Navy has few ashore and, of course, the Navy itself remains the last main bastion of modern times.

Plans to get the dependents out of the way of a shooting war have been made. The plans involve an instant concentration of the dependents at various military stations preliminary to a great parade of women and children to seaports and shipment home.

It is quite obvious that this majestic assembly of wives and children, nursemaids, pets and such impediments would work only if there is what the generals call a strategic warning, that is, a warning several days in advance of actual fighting.

A tactical warning of a few hours or a surprise attack leaves much to the imagination, most of it bad. There would be again the panic of flight such as made road transportation collapse in France in 1940. Instead of orderly concentration and movement to the seaports, there might, probably would, be a disorderly rout.

The logistics problem is appalling. Food for 253,000 frightened refugees cannot be carried in a hand basket. Fuel for multi-thousands of military and commandeered private automobiles cannot be carried in a five-gallon can.

There is the further question of the efficiency of a fighting force in which the enlisted and commissioned ranks were aware that their loved ones were in panicky progress toward evacuation ports with the Lord only would know how many Russian MIGs straining the civilian columns.

A man might desert his post of duty with such thoughts in his mind. There has been no move nor the indication of any intention to get the women and children out of Western Europe before the storm breaks — if it breaks.

Tiddlers Seek Title

LONDON (UPI) — The deadly accurate men of the Royal Air Force bomber command last Tuesday took steady aim at the tiddly-winks championship of Britain.

The command sought membership in the Tiddly-Winks Assn., to enable it to compete against teams in the houses of Parliament.

Parent-Teacher Associations, Newest Debate Issue

By Virginia Coan
Herald Staff Writer

Associations of parents and teachers were born as a cooperative agency between the parents and the public school. The parent becomes acquainted with the difficulties of the teacher by seeing the school activities, and the educational process as applied to his child. The teacher, by obtaining a sympathetic understanding of the child's home life, gets a clearer picture of his mental habits and capacities. Together, the parents and teacher can shed light on problems of school discipline and are able to remove obstacles in the child's relations to school authorities. As with the Girl Scouts, Chambers of Commerce, government, and thousands of similar agencies, the PTA has a state and national organization. The objects of the Florida Congress, as set forth in the by-laws, are to promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church and community; to raise the standards of home life, to secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth; to bring closer the relationship between home and school; and to develop between educators and the public efforts to secure the highest advantage for every child. The Congress is nonsectarian, non-commercial and nonpartisan. The state and national organizations have been successful in gaining legislation to improve facilities offered by the health departments, school lunch program, federal aid for education, child labor, and many other measures designed to improve the welfare of youth. The first policy is that of local control; urging minimum federal and maximum local control on every one of the legislation action items. During the annual convention of last November, 14 areas were presented for study and possible legislative action. One of these included the conscientious support of the United Nations, "believing it to be an outstanding instrument for world peace." This, of course, meant the support, (IN PRINCIPLE) of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). Many of the delegates did not approve of the "one worldism" theories of UNESCO. At the convention, they were unable to vote as they pleased. Shortly after the convention, new information of "one-worldism" was released, and has brought about the present situation in Seminole County. Already several local parent-teacher associations have withdrawn. Many parents do not know what UNESCO policy is. Association members took it for granted that the "one-worldism" theory meant communism, and the PTAs would not support it. In a letter to the Seminole County PTA Council, the state president, Mrs. C. W. Johnson, answered a resolution sent from this county to both state and national PTA Congresses. The resolution asked the Congress to safeguard its program "that we are organized to foster unity and that certain areas in the Action Platform have brought about confusion, misunderstanding and resentment in many sections of the state, and that we must be protected from domination or exploitation by persons or groups with ulterior motives." Mrs. Johnson replied: "Lately, an item supporting our own government's endorsement of the United Nations has received considerable comment, oddly enough—and I say oddly enough because the item has appeared as part of the Action Program for ten years, since the organization of this method of preserving world peace. Mrs. Johnson said that during the past two years, it has received attention and "exploitation" from persons and groups with "unexplainable motives." Local groups are protesting the desires of UNESCO to rewrite textbooks, promoting "one-worldism" throughout the schools. However, PTA officials say this is only one very small portion of the action platform, and there is no need to support this idea. The resolution from the Seminole County Council also requested that delegates to the convention be instructed how to vote before going to the meeting. Mrs. Johnson said that in the rewording of many bills, the "aye" or "nay" might turn out opposed to the very program approved by local groups. The Seminole High PTA will meet tonight to vote on withdrawal. Mrs. John Schirard, president, said that speakers for both sides would be present. Against will be Mary Edwards, district president and Mrs. Barbara Rankin, study group chairman of Florida Congress, D. W. Ladd, Geneva, will speak for withdrawal. "It is only fair to hear both sides of the question," Mrs. Schirard said. "I would hate to see us lose this valuable contact with our government. We have had much assistance from the Congress in setting up our traffic safety campaigns, fund raising ideas, and juvenile delinquency assistance. We cannot afford to lose an item supporting our own government's endorsement of the United Nations has received considerable comment, oddly enough—and I say oddly enough because the item has appeared as part of the Action Program for ten years, since the organization of

Gen. Grant Seeks Less War In War

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commemorating the Civil War is one thing. Refighting it is something else again. The Civil War Centennial Commission, set up to plan a four-year observance starting in 1961, wishes we all would go to the movies instead. Plans to re-enact big Civil War battles are taking shape on a scale that has commission officials beginning to worry. Lee and Grant weren't able to mobilize much faster, and they were out to make history. A dozen or more engagements are contemplated by state and local interests, and rumors of more in the works. From what commission members hear, some of these re-runs may cost almost as much as the originals. The battle strategists are hoping, however, to draw tourists enough to refill local tills. It is hopefully assumed also that all the shots this time will be blanks. But Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III, grandson of the Union war leader and chairman of the centennial, would rest easier if there were more ceremony and less shooting. "I am much disturbed by the knowledge that people think of the centennial as only a giant re-fighting of the war," Grant said the other day in a statement.

"This isn't the case at all." Grant insisted today it wasn't the prospect of reopening old wounds that prompted his statement. He said all he meant was that the job of restaging the battles is too big and too costly. For whatever reason, the general is trying hard to discourage any wholesale mock letting of blood.
