Georgia Is Hardest Hit Of Four States

North Carolina Rivers
Also Quit Banks To Inundate Lowlands

ATLANTA, Mar. 1.—(INS)—Nine dead, millions of dollars' property damage and hundreds homeless was the toll today of floods through four Southeastern states. In the Carolinas, Georgia, and Alabama countless acres of lowland were inundated, while some villages and towns were threatened by the overflow.

Of the four hardest hit, eight of the nine deaths in the Southeastern area occurred in the lower section of Georgia. The situation was expected to grow even more alarming within the next few days as the floods reached the crests in cutting tortuous paths to the Atlantic.

The Neuse and Cape Fear rivers in eastern North Carolina were leaving their banks, and flooding a large area of lowlands. The flood stage had been passed at Fayetteville and Kinston, N. C.

No great damage was expected in North Carolina due to the fact that in the memories of the residents of the low sections, which claimed a dozen lives, was disastrous September, 1928 flood still fresh, and they evacuated their homes at the first warning of another flood.

In South Carolina many of the streams were overflowing, and more inundated highways were. Georgia traffic was almost at a standstill, and many towns and villages were virtually isolated. Streams in parts of Alabama also were on a rampage, and flooded large areas.

Streams in Tennessee were swollen, but had not caused great damage. The same situation existed in Mississippi, which early in the week was struck by a tornado that claimed more than a score of lives.

In South Georgia, hundreds of persons drowned along the low regions flanking the rapacious Ocmulgee were prepared to flee their homes on a moment's notice.

Eight lives were lost in the south Georgia area. Six persons were drowned when their automobile crashed through a condemned bridge near Madison, Ga., and a new boy was drowned when he fell into a swollen creek. Still another youth was drowned near Savannah. One was killed in a storm near Troy, Ala.

Alabama was facing the worst flood since the 1919 disaster. Railways and highway traffic was disrupted and hundreds of acres of farmland was inundated. Throughout the four states hundreds of tourists were marooned because of the flood waters.

GUY ALLEN AND HELEN LUNDQUIST WRITE
BEST THEMES ON "WHY I LIKE FLORIDA"

Manifesting a keen interest in the observance of "Know Florida Week," pupils in the English Department of the Junior High School have been writing themes on the subject of "Why I Like Florida." From the papers handed into Miss Edna Chittenden, head of the department, those of Guy Allen and Marion Lundquist have been adjudged the best. The Herald has the reproductions.

By Guy Allen
First of all I like Florida because I was born here. Next, I like it for its wonderful lakes, woods, streams, flowers and its delightful climate.

Florida was named "The Land of Flowers" in the year 1812 by Prince De Leon. Do you not like this name?

Florida is often called "The Evergreen of America," but this is not true, because there is nothing else, for she is one of the most important agricultural states of this country.

Look For Surprises In Hoover Cabinet

Personnel Not To Be Officially Named
Until Monday Noon

Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The vanguard of the inaugural hosts began trickling into Washington today to find the capital in the throes of final preparations for Monday's great quadrennial show.

They found Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to beyond the White House, one prolonged grandstand, cluttered up with curculisized seats that command unbeatable prices; avenue windows

selling for fifty dollars each, home filled police and bollards unusually busy; farewell parties and welcoming parties going on everywhere; and all over the town an atmosphere of bustle, commotion and rush.

Perhaps the least perturbed men in Washington today were the principal actors in the March 4 drama, Calvin Coolidge outgoing, and Herbert Hoover, the incoming.

Mr. Coolidge met with his cabinet for the last time. For eight of the men in the cabinet it was the last time they would hitch their chairs up to the White House conference table.

For two of them, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, and Secretary of Labor Davis, it was merely the end of the Coolidge epoch. They are to continue in the Hoover cabinet.

Secluded in his S. Street home, Mr. Hoover took things easy today for the first time in many weeks. His cabinet has been selected by him, his inaugural address finished. The pulling and the hauling incident to those jobs is ended. He spent a part of the morning going over the final proofs of his speech. It is something shorter than the usual inaugural speech, being about 3,000 words in length.

The personnel of the cabinet will not be publicly announced until Monday noon. Most of it, however, is already known. With the decision to retain James J. Davis as secretary of labor, at least temporarily, sight of the 10 men who will constitute Mr. Hoover's official family have been definitely identified.

There remain two "mysteries." Friends of the President-elect reiterated today that when the selections for secretary of Agriculture and secretary of Commerce are made known, there will be real "surprise." The selections for these two posts, they said,

QUAKES RECORDED

NEW YORK, Mar. 1—(INS)—Two "severe" earthquake shocks believed to be close in proximity of the United States if not actually on the North American Continent were registered on the Ferdinand University seismograph to day. The instruments at Fordham indicated that the shocks, one at 2:48 and 4:17 A. M., were less than a thousand miles from New York although Boston dispatched messages that the distance was at 2,700 miles. Neither station could determine the location of the shocks.

Tidal Waves Cause Great Destruction On Japanese Coast

LONDON, Mar. 1—(INS)—Tidal waves have caused terrific damage along the Japanese coast in the vicinity of Choshi, according to Tokyo dispatches received by the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The dispatches state that many villages have been destroyed. The tidal waves caused the coastline to retreat many miles in some places. Several villages are said to be under water more than 20 feet of water. The number of casualties is not known, but it is feared the bill will be high.

Choshi is on the Pacific Coast side of the island of Nippon, about 50 miles east of Tokyo. The Nippon Archipelago has long been the tragic football of Japan's nature. When not swept by typhoons or tidal waves portions of its islands have been rocked by earthquakes.

It is impossible to estimate the number of lives that have been lost in the past 10 years through natural disasters. The long series of tragedies by land and sea have inspired a feeling in the people which finds a certain extent, with their religious belief.

Anne Morrow, Undaunted By Plane Mishap, Plans To Continue With Her Flying

Lindbergh Fiancée Has Faith In Her Lover's
Skill; Plans To Spend Part Of Honeymoon In Air, She Tells Friends

MEXICO CITY, Mar. 1—(INS)—Lindbergh and his future wife firmly in the belief that the courage and flying skill of her beloved "Augustus" can keep her from harm, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, the fiancee of Col. Charles Augustus Lindbergh, intends to keep flying both before and after her marriage, it was reported to day in circles in which the Morrow family move here.

After the accident of Wednesday, it had been supposed by some persons that obvious danger of constant flight might induce her lover to give up flying. Lindbergh, however, was not the type of man to give up easily.

Parts of Miss Morrow's trouse seat consists of flying clothes, such as trim sports suits, lined leather coats and chiselled metal.

Lindbergh does not pay much attention to his attire. He came to Mexico City in a gray business suit and has continued to wear it whether he was on the ground or or in the air.

Miss Morrow's parents are not concerned about the safety of their daughter.

A new loaf of bread comes to town

OBOY BREAD

... and with each loaf you purchase, your grocer will give you an OBOY balloon, free, for the child!

This is a new loaf of bread, sold in single loaves in paper packages. Each loaf is made of the best materials and contains the highest baking skill and methods.

HERE'S a new loaf of bread. A new kind of bread. Made differently from any loaf this city has ever had.

Delicious. Full of nutrition. Firm and elastic in texture, so that every slice is an extra helping of health-building food.

Oboy bread is especially dedicated to children. It contains the vitamins and nourishment they need. It has the flavor they enjoy, so that eating bread is not a duty, but a pleasure for them.

That's why we celebrate this introduction by giving a brightly colored Oboy balloon to each purchase of Oboy bread.

Your grocer will have Oboy bread tomorrow. Look for its novel two-blue wrapper. And be sure to take home the balloon your grocer will give you. If you have no children of your own, you know some child who would love to have it. Take home the balloon—and a loaf of Oboy bread.
