Choking, Dull Pain Deserves Exam

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm 65 years old and just retired from the insurance business. Recently I've been getting a dull choking pain above the jawline, seemingly across both lungs. Could this be a lack of oxygen getting to the lungs? My heart charts show perfect function. Each day I exercise in my basement, skipping, etc., and never experience any pain or shortness of breath. However, as soon as I go outside and begin a normal walk of say 100 yards, the pain starts and varies according to the speed of walking. Occasionally, I feel some pins and needles which I understand is due to poor circulation.

Heart attacks do not cause tingling such as pins and needles in the fingers and toes. Overbreathing or hyperventilation may, and it also causes chest discomfort. Often hyperventilation is associated with anxiety. I wouldn't be surprised if you were anxious in view of having some chest discomfort and not knowing what's causing it.

I note that you live in Canada. In some people, walking in cold weather and particularly into a cold wind may precipitate chest pain from heart disease. Then people who have asthma may not tolerate exertion and cold combined. That may have something to do with the difference in your tolerance to walking outside as opposed to exercising in your basement. In any case, I would recommend weight control, not smoking cigarettes and, most important, seeing your doctor to discuss what your problem is so you can be diagnosed and treated properly.

Gas Hikes May Drain County Reserve Fund

JEFF ETCHBERGER

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer Skyrocketing gasoline and electricity expenses for the operation of Seminole County government, despite economy measures put into effect, may use up nearly all of the county's contingency fund for the current budget. Jeff Etcheberger, assistant county administrator and director of the county's office of management, analysis and evaluation said today if new estimates hold true, the county may be $250,000 to $300,000 short in budgeted funds for energy—$180,000-$200,000 short for gasoline and fuel, and $70,000-$100,000 short for electricity.

Carter Holds Out Iran Olive Branch

By United Press International President Carter, in a dramatic turnabout, has offered to work with Iran in countering the Soviet threat in Afghanistan, described by Iran's foreign minister as a "real danger" to the Islamic republic.

Carter, in his annual State of the Union message, told Congress Monday the United States has "no basic quarrel with Iran" once the 50 American hostages held in the besieged U.S. Embassy in Tehran are freed.

"We are prepared to work with the government of Iran to develop a new and mutually beneficial relationship" after the hostages are released, Carter said.

It was a reversal of Carter's position, stated soon after the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was taken on Nov. 4 last year, that Iran's "state would not be wiped clean" even by release of the 50 hostages.

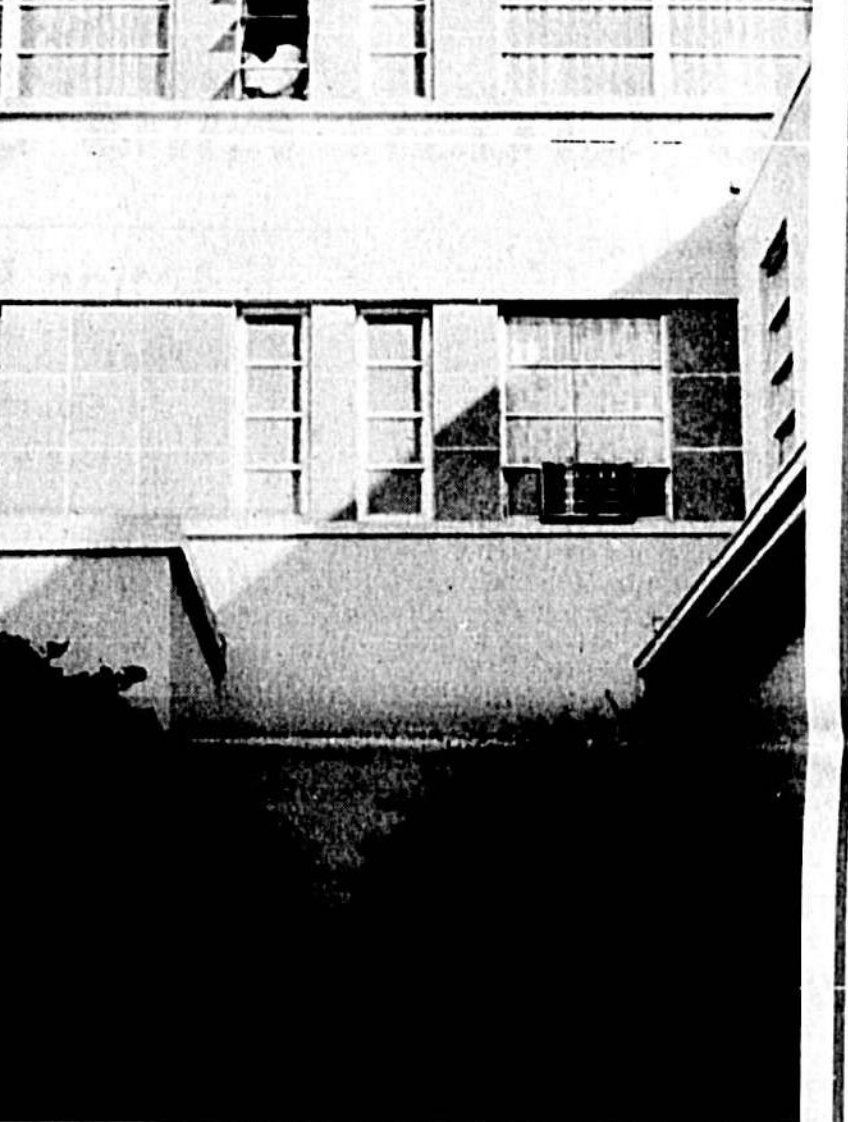

"The destruction of the independence of Afghanistan government and the occupation by the Soviet Union has altered the strategic situation in that part of the world in a very ominous fashion," Carter said.

For once, Iran could not disagree. Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said Russian troops have moved within 19 miles of Iran's southwestern border, posing a "real danger" to the country, especially the provinces of Sistan and Baluchistan.

Speaking out on the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, Carter said: "It has brought the Soviet Union within striking distances of the Indian Ocean and even the Persian Gulf. It has eliminated a buffer between the Soviet Union and Pakistan and presented a new threat to Iran."

Ghotbzadeh, campaigning for this week's presidential elections in Iran, said in a Tehran radio broadcast, quoted by the Kuwait news agency, "The Iranian government cannot remain silent

Prisoner Leaps...

Nurse Fannie Beamon looks out the window a Sanford hospital used for his escape from jailers at Seminole Memorial Hospital Monday night. The youth jumped about 25 feet to the ground from the bathroom window, authorities said.

...To Freedom

By DAVID M. RAZLER Herald Staff Writer A Sanford youth, facing possible life imprisonment on pending charges, is still free following an escape from jailers through a third-floor hospital window Monday night.

Rick Eugene Williams, 17, of 2408 Chase Ave., Sanford, escaped at 7:30 p.m. from a Seminole Memorial Hospital bathroom, deputies say.

Williams had been taken to the hospital earlier in the evening, after telling correction officers he had taken "an overdose of aspirin," deputies reported.

Williams, wearing leg irons, was allowed to use the bathroom alone on the third floor of the hospital, while a guard stood outside.

A short time later, it was discovered the five-foot-inch, 160-pound prisoner apparently had squeezed through the 18-inch wide, high window and dropped three stories to the ground, said deputies. A pair of wire cutters was found on the window ledge.

Hospital spokeswoman Kay Bartholomew said the bathroom window was closed after the escape.

Massive Airlift Supplies Soviets

By United Press International Their overland routes cut by snow, Soviet forces have been using massive airlifts to bring troops and equipment into Afghanistan where food shortages are causing desertions in Afghan army ranks, U.S. officials say.

An American diplomat arriving Monday in New Delhi, India, from Kabul said Soviet transport planes were landing at the Afghan capital's airport at 10-minute intervals.

"I didn't see any tanks or anything, just a lot of men and equipment," the U.S. diplomat said, adding Afghan troops working with the Soviets are now being better supplied.

U.S. State Department spokesman holding Carter's foot said Monday Soviet troops were still meeting civilian resistance and regular Afghan troops were deserting because of food shortages.

"Civil unrest is continuing," Carter said. "Many towns and villages are running out of food."

He said intelligence reports reaching Washington indicated severe winter weather was hampering Red Army reinforcement and supply efforts.

Meanwhile, another U.S. diplomat arriving on the flight from Kabul reported that the Soviet Union has altered the strategic situation in that part of the world in a very ominous fashion," Carter said.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance met in closed session Monday for 2½ hours to brief it on the Afghan crisis.

Afterwards, he told reporters military aid to Pakistan to "stabilize" its borders would include anti-tank weapons, helicopters and field artillery.

In Iran, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh charged in a Tehran radio broadcast that Soviet troops in Afghanistan have moved within 19 miles of his country's border.

County Turns Down 'Extras' For New Jail

The Seminole County Commission this morning turned down a request by the County Development Department for sod, tables and desk seats to be added to the new county jail. The additional cost was estimated at $13,000.

The sod, at a cost of $5,000 was intended for 83,000 square feet in three inner courtyards and the outer perimeter of the building.

Commissioner Dick Williams pointed out that had had been deleted from earlier plans to save money on the new standard. "What has changed since then?" Williams asked. "To put it back in now would be like saying the board was just taking back them. I don't think we were."

Commissioner Bob Sturm said if $6 million is being spent on the building he has no objection to finishing it off with a little sod. His motion to approve the sod purchase failed for the lack of a second.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn was absent on county business. Sheriff John Polk said the tables were needed for the day rooms to meet new state and federal regulations. The tables cost approximately $2,500.

Williams complained that state and federal representatives approved the jail plans two years ago and said he desired proof of the new standards. Polk said he would prepare a letter to that effect by next Tuesday's commission meeting.

8 Days To Apply Bram, St. Johns Residents May Get Refunds

Tenants and former tenants of two Seminole County federally subsidized apartment projects may have refunds of from $200 to $600 each coming to them, but they have only eight more days to claim their money. Claim forms must be submitted by Jan. 31.

Appropriate forms are available at the management offices at both projects, HUD said.

The refunds resulted from a $60 million settlement in several law suits against HUD, HUD said. Under terms of the settlement, anyone who lived in a HUD Section 236 apartment building for any period between Feb. 1, 1975 to Sept. 30, 1977 may be entitled to receive a refund payment.

Carter, Bush Score Iowa Wins

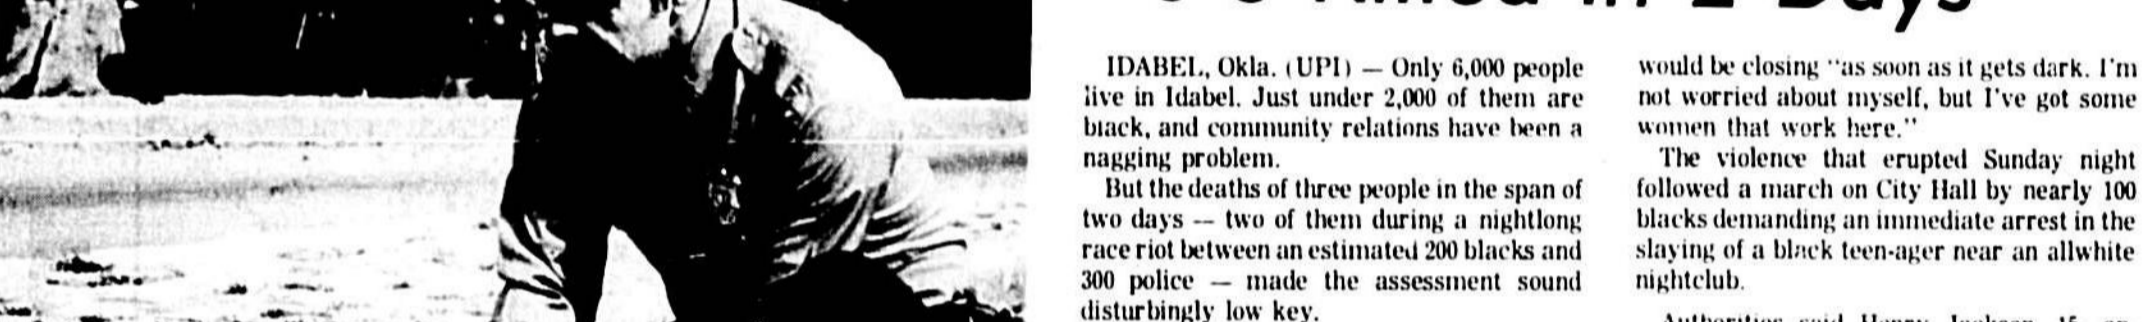

In 1960, John F. Kennedy won only 43 percent of Iowa's popular vote during his presidential race. Sixteen years later, Jimmy Carter received 49 percent. Monday, the names of Carter and Kennedy again emerged before Iowa Democrats as Carter whipped Sen. Edward Kennedy by a percentage margin of 59 to 31 in the Iowa caucus.

This year, the outcome probably did not mean the end of the 68-year-old former film star's presidential hopes, but it certainly made clear he was in another tough race.

But Bush's win was close, but it was an authentic upset nonetheless. Bush, a Massachusetts-born transplanted Texan, grew increasingly optimistic in the last days of the campaign, but Reagan went into the caucuses as a favorite on the basis of a mid-January poll that showed him first among Iowa Republicans, with Bush third.

Reagan, the former California governor who almost won the 1976 GOP nomination, was regarded as the frontrunner for the prize

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — A chapter in the political careers of several presidential hopefuls will likely come to a close today as the secretary of state makes the March 11 presidential primary ballot final.

Sen. Howard Baker was third with 1,558 votes. Trailing were former Texas Gov. John Connally with 4,228, Illinois Reps. Philip Crane with 1,445 and John Anderson with 869, and Kansas Sen. Robert Dole with 381. There were 400 uncommitted.

Carter, who dropped out of a scheduled debate with his Iowa opponents on grounds that he could not campaign during a national crisis, said he "deeply appreciated" the Iowa vote and expressed his regret that he had not been able to campaign in person in Iowa.

Kennedy conceded in good humor, saying, "We could have done a little better in Iowa," and congratulated Carter. But he made clear to cheering supporters that he was not giving up his quest for the Democratic nomination, saying, "We need 1,687 (delegates) and we're going to get 'em."

The Democratic "uncommitted" category, where Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California asked his supporters to rally, was a distant third.

Four other men were injured, one of them hospitalized in stable condition. Oklahoma Human Rights Commissioner Director William Hays headed a five-man team sent to Idabel to attempt to mediate the situation.

Soviet Vetoes Crude, Typical

The veto by the Soviet Union of a United Nations Security Council proposal to initiate economic sanctions against Iran marked the 14th time the Russians have scorned world opinion since the organization was chartered in 1946. But the predictability of the Soviet action does not relieve the frustrations of American diplomats seeking release of the hostages held in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4. The veto power enjoyed by the five permanent members of the council, the United States, Britain, France, China and the Soviet Union, has been exploited consistently by the Russians to thwart the peaceful resolution of explosive global issues.

The Soviets' 13th veto was cast in obvious self-interest against a resolution protesting Moscow's blatant military interference in Afghanistan. The later veto, on sanctions against Iran, was motivated by more convoluted, but equally sinister reasoning.

Iran, like other of the Persian Gulf oil-producing nations, is vulnerable to Soviet capriciousness. The mischief potential of Moscow's domination of the coveted oil fields certainly is as apparent to Iran's fanatical leader, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, as it is to others concerned over the threat to peace.

Donald McHenry, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, called the latest veto "transparent... an act of political expediency designed to buy Iranian silence on Afghanistan and Soviet advantage in the area."

The purchase price, however, involves American lives. The cynical Soviet veto counters the near-universal condemnation of Iranian actions by the international community.

The effort by Moscow to put the onus for the Tehran agony on the United States was ludicrous, calling the requested sanctions "a threat to peace" and a bid to exert "crude political and economic pressure on Iran."

The Security Council vote itself was effective in ridiculing the Soviet charge. Only Soviet satellite East Germany supported the Moscow view.

The Soviet veto can delay a positive response to those who hold the embassy in Tehran. It cannot stifle the massive international response. McHenry stated the U.S. case and the primary U.S. hope.

"The world is determined to see the hostages freed," he said.

The Job Program

The poor and unemployable youth of this nation have been described as a social dynamite ready to explode in the coming years — certainly a problem that deserves the deepest concern.

And the Carter administration, as if to demonstrate it is aware and is seeking answers, has proposed a $2 billion program to provide jobs and education to these young people who now face the future without hope of providing a living for themselves or their families.

If approved by Congress, the program would spend half the $2 billion by 1982 on education programs in junior and senior high schools and the other half on Department of Labor job programs for youth. It is aimed at preparing those from 14 to 24 for job markets.

The problem of employing young people from poor areas has been called "absolutely staggering and depressing." And unless dealt with now, according to administration officials, it will get worse in the late 1980s.

Employers are making it known they want only those who have at least the basic skills, and jobs available in the traditional blue collar and manufacturing industries are diminishing.

If the program is approved, it will bring to $6 billion the amount to be spent on basic education and work experience for young people in 1982 — a staggering sum. Let's all hope that it works.

Whatever changes are made in the bicycle laws in Florida, one thing is clear — unless a radical change is made on the part of other cyclists or law officers, people riding two-wheelers are still going to die.

Many local cyclists ride as if they are alone on the streets, without any regard for the two-ton objects flashing past them.

They ride at night, in dark clothing, without lights, they swerve across streets daring cars to hit them, they simply do as they please.

Common sense and the law says no rider should be out at night without a front and rear light at the minimum. Safety experts recommend cyclists also wear bright, reflective clothing and cover their bikes with reflectors.

The reflectors which fit on spokes and pedals are particularly valuable. Motorists' eyes are caught not only by the light bounced back from their headlights but also by the movement.

The safety experts also recommend all cyclists wear the protective gear generally worn by the more serious riders.

While helmets and gloves sometimes attract stares from non-riders, if someone is thrown from a bike the helmet will absorb the shock, and gloves get torn, not skin.

While kids may not like the idea of wearing headgear while they ride or the $30 cost of the most popular Bell bicyclist's helmet, safety experts say it will prevent some injuries, but also can prevent accidents, since it is made of white plastic, stained with red reflectorized material.

Bicycles also need attention to make sure they remain safe. A young rider once suffered a cut leg, and the car his bike hit about $400 worth of damage when he tried to ride a bike without brakes.

He hit the car, flew across the hood, destroying his bike and the car's windshield. About 10 minutes worth of work could have prevented the accident.

That accident could have also been prevented if the rider had followed the rules of the road. Instead, he ran a stop sign and into the car's front fender.

In Sanford, as in most other places in the country, cyclists just don't always obey the law. Several riders have just missed dying on U.S. Highway 17-82 in front of Sanford Middle School as they deliberately ride their bikes in front of passing cars, trying to get as close as possible to the front bumper without ending up under the wheels.

Only a few blocks from the Sanford Police Department, the action continues on almost a daily basis.

But Sanford officers have been directed not to enforce the law which could keep some of those kids alive because the community is not behind them.

The saving of lives is one of the most important police duties. Instead of telling officers who enforce traffic laws against riders they should be doing other things, we should demand they do their biggest job: stopping youngsters from killing themselves, if necessary by handing out tickets and asking the court to impose fines.

LAKELAND — When area unbeaten basketball teams look back at the events of the past four days, it will probably be called the LOST weekend.

Friday evening Mainland dropped Sanford from the high school's unbeaten ranks ending a 16-game winning streak. The Seminoles were ranked fifth at the time.

And 24 hours later the Bucs were humbled by LA power Warner Christian curtailing a 17-game winning streak. Mainland was ranked third.

On the major college level second-ranked and unbeaten Syracuse was also beaten. Just a step below the big boys in Division II, Torrey Clark's UCF squad suffered its first blemish after 15 wins and with it probably lost their number ONE poll position.

Florida Southern College 12-3, who has climbed into the number 11 spot and will climb higher next week, clipped a four-placed Knight team 96-50 before a sellout 3,021 at George W. Jenkins Field House last night.

"I've never seen nothing like it," a steaming, shirt-tail dislodged Torrey Clark said at halftime. "We're playing a 2-3 zone. I don't know how we're going to commit 99 fouls."

Foul Trouble Spells U.C.F. Doom

Moc's Put Bite On No. 1 Knights 96-90

Monday evening proved no exception as Jones meshed his first three shots into a 12-7 UCF advantage. At the 14:50 mark however, Jones was slapped with a reach foul and Clark pulled him. He wouldn't return.

Clark hit 11 of 12 first half free throws, including a rare four point play when Southern's Hal Wissel was nailed with a technical, to keep the Knights in the game.

Clark blamed his lack of shooting on his cast of characters. "If we'd had our regular team in there, it'd have been a different first half."

Clark finished out the last five minutes. Three subs finished out the last five minutes. When the second half opened Jones showed just how much he was missing by putting on an incredible shooting show.

He was phenomenal. "An ecstatic Wissel exclaimed, "He hit pressure shot after pressure shot down the stretch."

It's not easy finding something cheery in the news these days, but it's there if you look hard enough — or far enough.

Say as far as Brazil, from where a recent Wall Street Journal had a late report on the killer bees that should help take minds off multiple world crises for a few minutes.

You remember the killer bees. They are the African imports intended to revitalize the South American bee stock that turned out to be too temperamental as they are industrious.

The bees caused a stir a few years back. Escaping from experimental stations in Brazil, they became something of a contemporary legend, good for at least one shock movie, as they advanced north toward the Central American isthmus and the United States, where they are expected to arrive in great numbers sometime in the '80s.

Well, the good news is that intermingling of Africans with local bees has resulted in interbreeding. And the result of that is much tamer offspring. The hybrid bees have lost a lot of the hostility but retained the industry. They can still be provoked more easily than ordinary bees, but beekeepers have several methods of dealing with that, including wearing heavy protective clothing.

By money is on Pulk. Raker has the competition with subpoena shortly before they step up to the charity strips for the best-of-ten shot competition. Nothing like breaking a guy's concentration.

Las Vegas oddsmakers put a financial bath Sunday when the Rams missed on an extra point following their first touchdown. Bookies had installed Pittsburgh as an 11 point favorite. The Steelers, as they usually do, beat the point spread. Pay close attention Jimmy G, 31 minus 19 equals 12. Pay up guys.

Nothing to worry about? What about Afghanistan, and Iran, and...

Second Annual 'Shoot Out' On Tap At Tribe-Patriot Game

Word has it that David Thomas, Keith Whitley, Reggie Butler, Bruce McCray and Glen Stambaugh aren't exactly sweating their starting jobs tonight in view of the planned friendly activities of the Seminole-Lake Brantley Five Star match up.

Halftime of the game will be spruced up with the Second Annual Great Seminole County Shoot Out, featuring some of the local names in politics and community leadership.

Defending Champy John Fulk will be on hand to defend his foul shooting title. Back to challenge for the hoop honors once again this year will be Seminole County Superintendent But Laver, Donnie White from the Seminole Chamber of Commerce, Lakewood Middle School principal Ted Barker, County Commissioner Bob French and City Administrator Roger Neisewander.

Seminoles Fall To 93 Foot Shot At Buzzer

By United Press International
With 31 seconds to go, Florida State led the ball with a tie score and began to set up for what they thought would be the game's final shot. The ball moved into Ferrell Toles and with five seconds to go he put it up and missed.

While everyone was thinking about the baseline, overtime period, Virginia Tech's Les Henson had different ideas. He grabbed the loose ball on the baseline, wheeled and fired.

After traveling 83 feet the ball hit the glass, iron or anything but net and the visiting Gobblers had a 79-77 Metro Conference victory over Florida State.

The loss dropped Florida State's overall record to 10-4 and its conference mark to 3-2. Virginia Tech is 11-3 and 4-1.

The victory pulled Vandy to 3-6 in the league and 9-7 overall while Florida fell deeper into the cellar with its eighth loss in nine SEC starts.

Wilbur Montgomery led Stetson over South Florida with 20 points. Tony Grier had 22 for South Florida. It was Stetson's 10th victory in 16 games. South Florida suffered its ninth loss in 14 games.

Jon Green scored 19 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead Tennessee State over Bethune-Cookman. The Tigers, now 11-2, were never threatened as they posted their eighth straight victory.

Bethune-Cookman's Norris Crenson scored 22 to lead all scorers. The Wildcats, now 6-7, lost Florida Memorial Wednesday in Daytona Beach.

Who'll Help The Poor?

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

One of the pet hates of the left-liberal community is the multinational company. Multinationals are so prevalent, however, that they are the aspirations of poor people in the Third World.

Perhaps the ablest defense of companies doing business around the world is a recent paper, "The Moral Basis of Multinational Capitalism" written by R.D. Pagan Jr., a senior official of Castle & Cooke Inc., a worldwide agribusiness founded in Hawaii 128 years ago by two Protestant missionaries.

The son of a clergyman who worked in a poor, tropical region, Mr. Pagan said: "I could not believe that our company had been singled out as a target for so-called political action by some church groups." He added: "My anger and surprise stemmed from the language of political ideology that permeated the attack — and for the prejudice, injustice, lack of charity and lack of intellectual honesty that we experienced in dealing with it."

Mr. Pagan said that his company has worked with the churches for a long time and that it has asked them "to identify specific projects or areas where we can work in a cooperative and collective effort, utilizing the churches' human and financial resources with those resources we may have available, to expand and accelerate the task of improving the living conditions of the communities in which we live."

But Mr. Pagan rightly added that "we in Castle & Cooke believe that a corporation should not be used as a medium for social, political and economic experimentation. We have statutory and legal obligations to meet with our stockholders, our host countries, our clients, the consumers, and our employees. We intend to meet our corporate responsibilities as the law requires."

As Mr. Pagan noted, the job of business is to create wealth and jobs. Business should operate in an ethical manner. But, as he said, business is not "a hit-man for insurrectionary change."

He also observed that it is possible to believe simultaneously in religion, profit, fair dealing, social responsibility, and political liberty. Unfortunately, many advocates of corporate "social responsibility" are really interested in eliminating the profit motive and displaying political liberty.

Didn't Like His Attitude

On Thursday, Jan. 17, 1980, I attended an open meeting of the Resources for Human Needs Committee because I had learned that County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff had been invited to speak at the proposed sale of Seminole Memorial Hospital. The Resources for Human Needs Committee is composed of concerned professionals from social service agencies in Seminole County. Never in my experience have I been so directly insulted by an elected public official.

After appearing some twenty minutes late for the scheduled meeting, Mr. Kirchhoff interrogated all present. He demanded to know — with his finger pointing at each person attending the meeting — each person's name, where he or she was from and their place of birth. His attitude was arrogant and suggested to me he believed one must have been born and reared in Sanford to have anything of consequence to say about events in Seminole County.

His interrogation of the group, some of whom were obviously first-time attendees like myself, was irrelevant to the purpose of the meeting, not to mention an invasion of everyone's privacy. Not without irony, he described himself as a redneck, although I must say most rednecks I have met have better manners.

Although Mr. Kirchhoff said he was interested in what people in the community thought, his manner indicated differently. He avoided answering questions concerning the allocation of money for indigent care. He admitted only contacting doctors and two members of the board of trustees of the county hospital in St. Lucie County during his recent tour of the facility in Ft. Pierce. His simplistic lecture on the economics of profit corporations was a clear example of his attitude "if you can't do them with knowledge, do them with bribery."

I sincerely hope that the members of the Resources for Human Needs Committee and the citizens of Seminole County are not duped and lulled into complacency by Mr. Kirchhoff's soothing double-talk. I hope voters of Seminole County remember this: Bill Kirchhoff comes up for re-election.
