

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN Hollywood, William P. Dudley bought a limited edition of the work of Shakespeare from a temporarily impoverished thespian who assured him, "Parting with this treasure grieves me more than I can say. Each night before retiring I spent at least an hour reading and rereading the immortal bard's plays." When Dudley examined the set in his home, he found that none of the pages had been cut! "An unopened Shakespeare!" he thought to himself. "That's the most uncut kind of all!"

When the newly formed law firm of Heimerdinger, Wimpf... moved into elegant quarters opposite the court house, the sign they ordered was so heavy that workers had a terrible time putting it in place. The third time the sign crashed to the ground, the foreman on the job surveyed his crew with intense disgust, and roared scornfully, "Name droppers!" Copyright, 1953, by Bennett Cerf. ANTS

There's a new and better way to kill ants. It's called Roach Filmz. When applied to any surface with the built-in cap-applier, it leaves a hard, dry, clean, invisible film. The film can't harm or soil any surface; but, when ants touch it, their legs become paralyzed and they die in two hours. A single application remains effective for sure does get rid of ants and roaches! Roach Filmz is available month. You never see it, but it at Touchton Drug.

Strange Things Are Going On Among St. Johns' Fish Life

GAINESVILLE, Aug. 15 (AP)—Strange things are going on among the fish life in the St. Johns River Drainage System.

As far south as Big Lake George of Putnam, Marion, Flagler and Duval Counties, the bass and bream—says William M. McLane—are companions to tarpon, redfish, stringrays, sturgeon, ahad, menhaden, snook and numerous others familiar to the salt water angler.

McLane made an extensive study and reveals his findings in a dissertation as part of the requirements for a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Florida.

The graduate student, a native of Gainesville, reports collecting approximately 115 species of fishes from the fresh waters of the drainage system in giving a long list of salt water fishes, he says "Some of these species have never been recorded in literature from fresh water before."

"The mountain mullet was indeed a rare find, since it has never been recorded for the U. S. before. It normally occurs in tor-rental mountain streams and at high elevations in Central America and Cuba."

Other marine fishes collected in the drainage system include: a lamprey ten pounder, anchovies, marine catfishes, American eel, pipefishes (related to the seahorse), mullet, striped bass, common jack crevill mangrove snapper, mojarras, drum, silver perch, croaker, spot, speckled trout, needle fish, pin fish, sheephead, six species of gobies, and five species of flounders.
McLane reports that most of the marine species do not occur farther south in the river than Big Lake George but says that some forms range nearly to the headquarters. Sting rays are among those venturing farther south.

The researcher reports obtaining but two sturgeons during seven years of study.

Reds' Timetable

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Gen. Benjamin W. Childlaw, commander of the Air Force's Air Defense Command, said yesterday he doesn't believe Russia's timetable "whatever that may be"—would be altered by Red possession of a hydrogen bomb.

But he said in a statement at his headquarters here: "The possession of a substantial number of such bombs might, because of the destructive potential, increase their confidence in the success of an air attack against the United States."

Conservationists Swarm Over Farm

CHOPTANK, Md. (AP)—A small army of conservationists swarmed over the 113-acre farm of Norris W. Coulbourne yesterday.
They dug nearly four miles of ditches, built fences, cleared land, added a million-gallon pond and seeded new pastures.
The farm was chosen by the Caroline County Land Week Committee for a demonstration of conservation practices because of its obvious need for renovation and because its owner is an energetic, ambitious ex-G.I. who wants to do a good job of farming.

Race With Gulls

BOSTON (AP)—Bill Boone, a stunt pilot from Hollywood, Calif., received unscheduled competition in a low-level flight yesterday during an air show at Logan International airport.
Boone was joined at the halfway mark of his one-mile flight at about 65 feet by some 1,000 sea gulls. They swooped down on the plane, apparently eager to make a race.

Photostating Of All Bills Introduced In State Legislature Is Suggested

WINTER PARK (AP)—State Rep. James E. Knezel of Orange County has proposed photostating all bills introduced in the Florida Legislature to preclude any tampering with them.

In a civic club address yesterday, he referred to a bill that at the 1953 session affecting Tampa plumbers. The measure which passed the House wasn't the same as that which reached the senate.

Somewhere along the line another bill had been substituted, requiring plumbers to newly annexed areas of Tampa to take a stiff examination before being allowed to follow their trade in the older areas of the city. A Senate committee is investigating the switch.

The Seminole County Bank is the name of Sanford's latest banking institution. The feature of this bank is the fact that it will be strictly a home institution and every one of the officers and directors are residents here, are engaged in business, and are interested in building up the city of Sanford and the celery delta.

Workmen are busy this week tearing out the walls of the front part of the hotel and two upper rooms of the Welborn Block for the installation of a fine elevator service. This will make the Welborn Block one of the most convenient office buildings in this section.

With the many side streets that have been bricked lately, Sanford now holds the prize for being the best paved city of the South and one is able to travel almost anywhere in the city and never leave the brick.

AUGUST 20, 1943
Sanford motorists will have until Sept. 1 to take their current "B" and "C" gasoline books to the rationing board for issuance of new type ration books, the board announced this morning.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, plans were discussed to improve hospitalization.

"It was the opinion of the board of directors that this organization should definitely get behind a sound proposition to improve hospital conditions in our community," said Mayor H. Higgins.

More than 54,000 pints of juices, fruits, meats, preserves, and vegetables have been put up in the 15 canning classes for adults conducted since March 1, under the program of the Bureau of Rural Production Training. It was announced by Alex R. Johnson, chairman.

AUGUST 20, 1948
Fred Wright and Marcel Fallo were inducted as Lions by Henry Wilby, and were welcomed by the members and by King Lion Hamilton Babbs.

The city of Sanford has $80,000 available to build a swimming pool. A pool is a definite asset to any city but Sanford would get much more value for each dollar expended for such a purpose, if and when women, men and boys are looking for work.

The average Florida farm had a net income of $5,790 last year, said County Agent C. R. Dawson. "This I know will be new to some of the Seminole County celery growers," he added.

Engineers To Decide Primary Road Work

New primary road construction in the state will hinge upon state engineers' reports, J. Sanford Lloyd, district board member of the State Road Department, told a Seminole County delegation yesterday, and upon recommendations from the various counties.

Traffic surveys will determine where the greatest needs lie, he explained, and new primary road construction will be started at these places.

Recommendations for new construction were presented yesterday by County Atty. Lloyd F. Boyle, for the County Board of Commissioners, and by State Rep. Volie Williams Jr., who read the list prepared by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

The recommendations conflicted according to the priority which should be given to projects but not so much according to the projects themselves. The Seminole County Chamber of Commerce urged the state to give priority to Geneva Ave. improvement, while the City asked that French Ave. be widened first.

Lloyd pointed out that he is charged with the responsibility for locating projects and their order, but that he still was interested in receiving recommendations for primary projects from cities and counties in his district or he wouldn't have requested them.

According to Mr. Williams, Mr. Lloyd told the group yesterday afternoon. The trouble with the road program in Florida has been the fact we didn't have a program. He brought out that politicians on both the state and county level had worked for favoritism with voters through the use of three one-room Negro schools in the county in being discontinued and the pupils will be transported by bus to larger schools, the County Board of Public Instruction decided at a special meeting this morning.

The schools being closed are at Kithley, Geneva and Forest City. Kithley children will be taken to Oviedo, Geneva pupils to Sanford, and Forest City children to Henshaw School in Altamonte Springs.

The board, according to R. T. Milner, County superintendent, was of the opinion that greater educational opportunities were available to the children in the larger schools than in the smaller.

New teachers were employed this morning as follows: Mrs. Kenneth H. Echols, West Side Primary School; Mrs. Geneva Cochran, Lako Mary School; Mrs. Dorothy Webster, Lyman High School; Mrs. Revvie White, West Side, and James Hird, Midway School.

Mr. Milner wants to call attention to the facts that school starts Sept. 8 and registration, Sept. 2. All school buses will be running on the registration day.

County Mayors Asked To Attend JCC Celebration

All of the mayors of Seminole County cities have been invited to attend the Jaycee sponsored Seminole County JCC Day celebration. The mayors of Sanford, Oviedo, Casselberry, Longwood and Altamonte Springs are expected to be seen at the annual event.

Mayor Randall Clark of Sanford and Mayor Joseph J. Laird of Casselberry have already advised the Seminole County Jaycees that they will attend the big event.

A special event is being arranged for Seminole County mayors and from all industries and plans, there will be some team competition between the five community leaders.

According to members of the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce, who are staging the giant Labor Day Celebration at Sanford Springs, more than 5000 Central Floridians will attend the big event to hear Sen. George Smathers, Rep. S. H. Boring, Jr. and to see the mayors of Seminole County.

A big portion of the crowd will be interested in the main contest when a large contingent of central Florida beauties will be competing for the annual title of Miss Seminole. The schedule of events is being completed. President C. H. Allen said today, "We expect to be ready by the end of the week."

In the meantime, Sandlot Springs Manager Jack Huggs and his crew are being held in order to take care of the bugs and rodents and to see that they're entertained royally.

JAMES PHILLIPS, a full-time member of the United States Government Printing Office, told the Seminole County delegation yesterday that the office has been closed for a week because of the metal action.

Citrus Outlook Good For 53-54

CAMP MEQUARIE (AP)—Only a squabble among citrus men and a significant national recession can spoil the prospects of a good 1953-54 citrus season, says Robert W. Bulledge, general manager of Florida Citrus Mutual.

Speaking before the annual citrus growers institute here Wednesday, Bulledge rapidly stressed that prospects for the new season about to get under way are good.

Results of a 6-year study of nitrogen applications were given to the annual citrus growers institute by Dr. Walter Reuther, principal horticulturist of the U.S. Department of Agriculture at Orlando.

Mrs. Miller, the former Pat Darden of Raleigh, N. C., and the baby are getting along nicely, Gus stated this morning, but he and the baby's seven-year-old brother, David Patrick, are still up in the clouds.

H-Bomb News Upsets Free World

The Russian Premier's announcement that his country now possesses the secret of the hydrogen bomb was disturbing news to an apprehensive world. It came as no real surprise, however, for it was almost inevitable that they should someday find that secret.

The effects of the announcement may eventually work to the advantage of the United States, however. The first reaction in Europe may be a renewed feeling of insecurity. Perhaps out of this feeling of insecurity will come an awareness that a common European defense organization is more essential than ever. It is hard to predict how Malenkov's hydrogen bomb announcement will affect the coming elections in Germany.

There can be no doubt that Malenkov's statement was made for a particular purpose. Whether or not Russia has the hydrogen bomb, Malenkov's declaration that she does was calculated to frighten some of the European parties which have thus far cast their lot with the United States. It could have quite the opposite result and make those countries increasingly conscious of how closely their welfare is tied to ours.

Building Boom May Continue

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven fat years for home builders have seen about eight million housing units added to the nation's total. Some in the real estate building are now openly talking of slower days to come.

But others refuse to believe that the seven fat years, since the big boom started in 1947 will be followed by seven lean—as in the biblical tale of Joseph in Egypt.

They say that around 700,000 new homes will be needed each year to take care of new family formations. That perhaps another 300,000 will be needed to replace old houses beyond renovation. If the mortgage market holds up, the next few years shouldn't be too lean.

The highly active stock is the home builder's best friend. The National Association of Home Builders notes today that the population of the United States has just rounded out the 150 million figure. Next month it expects the eight millionth new house to be started.

That will give the nation some 50 million housing units, or about one for each three persons. Back in 1940 the nation's 131 million persons were housed in 35 million units, or almost 4 to a unit.

And then more than half were renters. Now more than half are owners—if you wink at the mortgages on some 10 million homes. The mortgage market may hold the key to which wins the race in the next year or the home builders of the stock.

"Banks have become very tight when it comes to credits for builders," complains David Pickett, president of the Gotham Construction Corp. of New York. He fears a building recession the last quarter of this year and into next, if the money market doesn't ease.

The market is tight because mortgages must compete with a big supply of government and private securities in getting money from investors. Total savings are catching up, however. Last year savings were officially placed at $15 billion dollars. This year the mutual savings banks, savers and loan associations, commercial banks, and life insurance companies all report gains.

Personal savings not turned over to such institutions last year amounted to 37 per cent of total savings, according to George W. Warncke, who heads a national mortgage investment firm bearing his name.

"Within this margin between actual personal savings and those given in trust to institutions lies the dormant capital available for real estate, stock and bond investment," Warncke says. He, however, is one of those who looks for a decline in general home-building activity. Although not in the areas, like atomic centers, where expansion is still the order of the day. And he thinks that for a time interest rates on mortgages are likely to go higher. That a slump in home building should come, Warncke points out, that the traditional depression-proof investments in real estate

Right To Know

Editor Norman Gallagher of the Osage County Republican, published in Osage County, Missouri, hit on a novel way to make his readers conscious of the closing of the records of the County equalization board to the public and press. Editor Gallagher left a half-column of blank space in the most prominent spot in his paper as a protest against the gag on information by the county officials.

The clerk of the equalization board explained that it was the desire of the board to hold up release of the information about proceedings until further work had been completed. This is an old story to newspapermen. Lately in some parts of the country there has been a dangerous trend toward excluding reporters from certain meetings. Always the excuse is given that the exclusion is in the public interest and any charges that free access to public information is being denied is firmly denied. But despite the denials the explanations, the newsmen are not permitted to do their job of informing their readers of the actions of their elected and appointed officials.

Editor Gallagher's dramatic illustration of the effects of such efforts at censorship may help to make his readers aware of how information can be kept from the public by pompous or over-zealous officials.

To a large extent the effectiveness of a free press depends upon free access to information about government on all levels. Only an informed and alert public can prevent the raising of barriers to their right to know.

HAL BOYLE

Major Event Is Set For Today

By HELMAN MORIN
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—World, folks, today's the day.

This is Aug. 20, 1953, a date marked for destiny, according to people who believe in the "Prophecy in Stone." They expect an event of vast importance to take place somewhere in the world today. Exactly what, dependent faith only. But we shall see what we shall see, to coin an old phrase.

Briefly, and leaving aside the heavy mathematics, the situation is this:

Some 5,000 years ago, more or less, the Grand Pyramid was built in Egypt, within sight of the slow-flowing Nile. It became the tomb of a king, Cheops, and his queen. It was a mighty mausoleum, a monument to a man's ego, a marvellous feat of engineering—and presumably nothing more.

But was it? For about a century now, scientists have been prowling around the pyramid, inside and out, taking measurements. They noted that the four sides of the base correspond to the cardinal points of the compass. And they found the aperture focused on the North Star.

Other facts emerged, things that seemed to indicate the pyramid was something more than just a pile of massive stone, honey-combed with passageways and the crypts of the king and queen.

In 1864, Charles Piazzi Smith, royal astronomer of Scotland, brought out a book called "Our Inheritance in the Grand Pyramid." The Abbot Moreux of France followed with additional calculations, based on his measurements.

They theorized that the pyramid had been built in conformity with some orthodox astronomical principles—principles well known in modern science, but presumably far beyond the knowledge of the ancient Egyptians.

From this came a still more sensational theory, namely, that the pyramid foretells the whole future of this world, the fate of nations, the wars, Armageddon, and so on to the end.

Hence, "The Prophecy in Stone." I do not recommend Brodrick Smith's book as light summer reading out in the hammock. It is rough going.

But as I gather, the distances of the corridors, the angles of the passages, the intersections of ground lines, and in fact, the relationship between each of the various parts of the pyramid—all these things symbolize some significant event on earth, past and future.

The Crucifixion, the flight of the Israelites from Egypt, and so on, presumably are marked. So, in this theory, are coming events.

However, the baffling average for the "Prophecy in Stone" has not been very high, so far. Some predictions never came off at all. The calculators fixed a number of dates which already have passed without any notable happenings. And they seem to have missed, entirely, that fateful day, Sept. 2, 1939, when the second World War started.

This, of course, was a considerable oversight, to say the least. So new measurements were made, and new calculations drawn on a different basis. That produced all the decisive points of World War II—but the re-figuring was done after these events took place.

In any case, long years ago, the men who try to read the "Prophecy in Stone" set down today, Aug. 20, 1953, as a day of destiny. It would be nice to know what the pyramid has in store for us. Maybe somebody will announce the invention of 4-D. Maybe Malenkov will disband the Red Army. Maybe Christian Dior will come out for no skirts at all.

Well, by midnight tonight we ought to know. Watch the papers and stick close to your radio.

Gen. Van Fleet Back In Korea

SEOUL (AP)—Retired Gen. James A. Van Fleet came back to Korea on a welfare mission today, six months after giving up command of the U. S. 8th Army. He is a member of an 11-man civilian group representing the American-Korean Foundation, which is prepared to give $500,000 in emergency aid to Korea.

JAMES MARLOW

Ike May Tell Of Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP)—Perhaps President Eisenhower now that the Russians have had two rides with one ticket on the hydrogen bomb—will make a public statement about this country's progress with the same weapon.

Malenkov told the Supreme Soviet Aug. 8 the United States no longer had a monopoly on production of the bomb. Today the Communist newspaper, Pravda said Russia had actually tested an H-bomb.

This country never has officially claimed to have produced the bomb although the carefully worded statements given out after tests at Eniwetok indicated the United States had the H-bomb.

But when Malenkov made his claim two members of the House of Representatives—both on the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee—said this country had the H-bomb.

And after Pravda's announcement, Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, in a still carefully worded statement said that on Aug. 12 Russia had produced atomic explosions similar to the reaction this country got at Eniwetok.

For weeks there have been Washington rumors that Eisenhower was considering making a talk to the nation, and the world, about this country's achievements with the H-bomb and its awful destructiveness.

One report floating around the capital was: That there were two schools of thought among Eisenhower's advisers, one urging him to disclose at least some of America's development with the bomb and its awful nature, and the other urging that he should not say anything about it. Eisenhower had been asked to give a speech on the bomb as a part of a psychological warfare and certainly one of those to be consulted in any decision about a public statement of this kind, was asked within the past few days.

Was there any truth in a report that a speech on the bomb was already written and lying on Eisenhower's desk, awaiting his decision to deliver it or junk it?

Jackson said he knew nothing about it. Yesterday on his New York trip Eisenhower had breakfast with Jackson and Strauss. This was hours before the Pravda announcement, but seven days after this government had learned of the Aug. 12 Russian atomic explosion.

Strauss, in his statement last night said this country learned of the atomic explosion by the Communists on Aug. 12 but subsequently he didn't say precisely when he learned it was of a kind involving "both fission and thermonuclear reactions." Thermonuclear is the scientific term for the hydrogen explosion reaction.

This delay in government announcements was not unprecedented. When President Truman in 1949 disclosed an atomic test in Russia he said it had occurred several weeks before.

Malenkov's Aug. 8 statement that the United States no longer had a monopoly on production of the hydrogen bomb—was carefully worded and, because it was set in Western world questions, it implied rather than claimed that Russia had mastered production of the bomb.

Miss Irene Greene Feted With Party

Miss Irene Greene, August bride-elect, was honored with a party given Tuesday night by Mrs. Mildred Babcock and her daughter, Mrs. Halsey Brain Jr. The rooms were decorated with mixed flowers and many tributes. Bells that were hung between the living room and dining room told the fortune of the bride-to-be. Games were played and enjoyed by the ladies with Mrs. Victor Greene as the prize winner. Mrs. Babcock then presented Miss Greene with a gift of pottery. Those invited to be with the

Blues In The News

By BOB ANTHONY

The men on the softball teams in the Sanford Inter-Department Softball League are beginning to believe you can get your watch each day by the habitual pickup "Florida Sunbaker". All three games around the station scheduled to be played this week have been rained out. Perhaps the team to be hit the hardest by postponements is the one from the V-C-9 Electronics. Department. They have yet to play their first game in Sanford League play. On Monday the V-C-9 Electronics team and the NAAS Administration team were scheduled to make up a game which had been called the previous Monday because of rain but no man rain decided against the re-match. The two teams will try again on Tuesday, Aug. 26. The NAAS Special Services and NAAS Administration teams did manage to play an inning and a half on Tuesday this week before the rains came and forced them to run for shelter. That game has been rescheduled for Aug. 31. There was hope yesterday morning that at least one game would be able to be played this week but, like clock work, it rained again and the game between the FASHION 50 "Optimics" and NAAS Operations teams had to be postponed. At the present time, FASHION 50 Optimics is leading the league, a slim half game ahead of the second place NAAS Security nine. NAAS Special Services is holding down the number three spot with one win and one loss while V-C-9 Electronics, NAAS Administration and NAAS Operations follow in that order. Although V-C-9 Electronics has not played a game as yet, they are in fourth place since NAAS Administration has lost one game while winning none.

Joe Reves Given Farewell Party

The choir of the First Christian Church gave a farewell party Tuesday night in the church parlour for Joe Reves, who has been directing the choir for several months. Joe is leaving this week for Washington, D. C. and possible sea duty. Several active games were played by the choir members and their families, directed by Miss Barbara Harriet. The group then sang popular songs and choruses, directed by Joe and accompanied by Mrs. N. V. Farmer, and Joe sang "Ave Maria" and "The Lord Chord". A gift of a silver coffee pot and tray were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Reves as gifts from the Lammlighters Class and the Friendship class, and Mr. Reves was presented with a leather wallet engraved with his name by the choir.

A treat for pie lovers is a juicy fresh peach pie. The golden fruit, piled generously into a flaky crust and partly covered with a pastry lattice, makes a queen of pies. Because peaches are juicy, a little flour is mixed with the sweetening sugar. As the pie bakes, the flour traps most of the juice and makes it jelly. Even the best peaches usually need something to "point up" their flavor. Lemon juice does a fine job. It doesn't take much lemon juice, but what is used should reach all parts of the fruit. Another way to make sure that it does is to mix the lemon juice with melted margarine. Then drizzle the combination evenly over the fruit.

FRESH PEACH PIE
(makes 1 9-inch pie)

1 recipe plain	2 tablespoons
pastry	margarine
1 cup sugar	1 tablespoon
1/2 teaspoon salt	lemon juice
2 tablepoons	flour
flour	1 teaspoon
1 cup sliced	grated lemon
peaches (to	and
8 peaches)

Line 9-inch pie plate with pastry, leaving a 1-inch overhang. Put trimmings aside to make lattice strips. Mix sugar, salt and flour. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons of this mixture over bottom of pastry. Arrange half the peaches in pastry shell. Sprinkle with half the remaining sugar-flour mixture. Arrange remaining peaches, then sprinkle with rest of sugar-flour mixture. Combine melted margarine, lemon juice and rind. Drizzle evenly over peaches in shell. Cut remaining pastry in strips 1/2 inch wide and arrange crosswise on top of fruit. Moisten edge of lower pastry and press down ends of strips to seal them to edge of crust. Turn edges of pastry under and crimp or flute as desired. Bake in moderately hot oven (425° F.) 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 375° F. and continue baking 30 minutes.

The little track of flavoring peach pie with lemon juice and melted margarine works equally well with other fruit and berry pies.

Blue Mediterranean Enters New Historic Period

By PRESTON GROVER
ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 15

The blue Mediterranean, soft and billowy cradle of 5,000 years of civilization and scene of many major battles for world power, is coming into a new historic period.

United States mastery in the Mediterranean is shared with Britain, which has a fleet there and controls three important island points—Gibraltar and Cyprus on either end, and Malta near the middle. But security of the sea and especially the unity of the important states bordering it depends largely on the presence of American sea and air power.

On the bottom of this busy sea, in successive layers of historic mud, lie the fleets of previous powers which have risen, dominated it, and fallen—Carthage, Rome, Venice, Turkey. There lie also many a British ship, especially from the last world war.

So far, no American ship of importance has joined the phony navy. But another war, with America and Russia as the major antagonists, might bring another ship. For this great sea is farther into the heartland of the great Eurasian continent than any other body of water. It opens an irregular island-hatted route 2,500 miles eastward and northward, far south of but parallel to the line along which Eastern and Western armies would march toward battle in Europe.

For the first 2,000 miles of the great reach, the sea is open to Western navies, with friendly Allied powers all along the northern shores except for one tiny satellite, Albania, and with friendly or ineffective peoples along most of the African shoreline.

It provides a protected supply line right through the Dardanelles to the shores of the Black Sea, a sea dominated now by Russia, but which in event of a drought might be the scene of a water-borne invasion of the great Soviet dictatorship.

For generations Russia has been trying to push southward to the Mediterranean, and successive Mediterranean powers have fought her back. Now the task rests largely on American ships and planes.

Apart from its defense, the Mediterranean offers the one major avenue—except from battle in Europe—to approach the Russian vital.

usually seal the Bosphorus and Dardanelles against passage of Russian submarines from the Black Sea. But it is deep, swift water, hard to mine, and some might get through.

The narrow straits carry all the goods poured into the Black Sea from such big Russian rivers as the Don and the Dnieper and East Europe's great Danube.

So far as is known, no Russian submarines are there now. The Turks say none have passed through the Dardanelles from the Black Sea. Legally they can come through on the surface, but such a movement would create a lot of international excitement.

Success in peace time has an American fleet been based so far from home in a wholly foreign port?

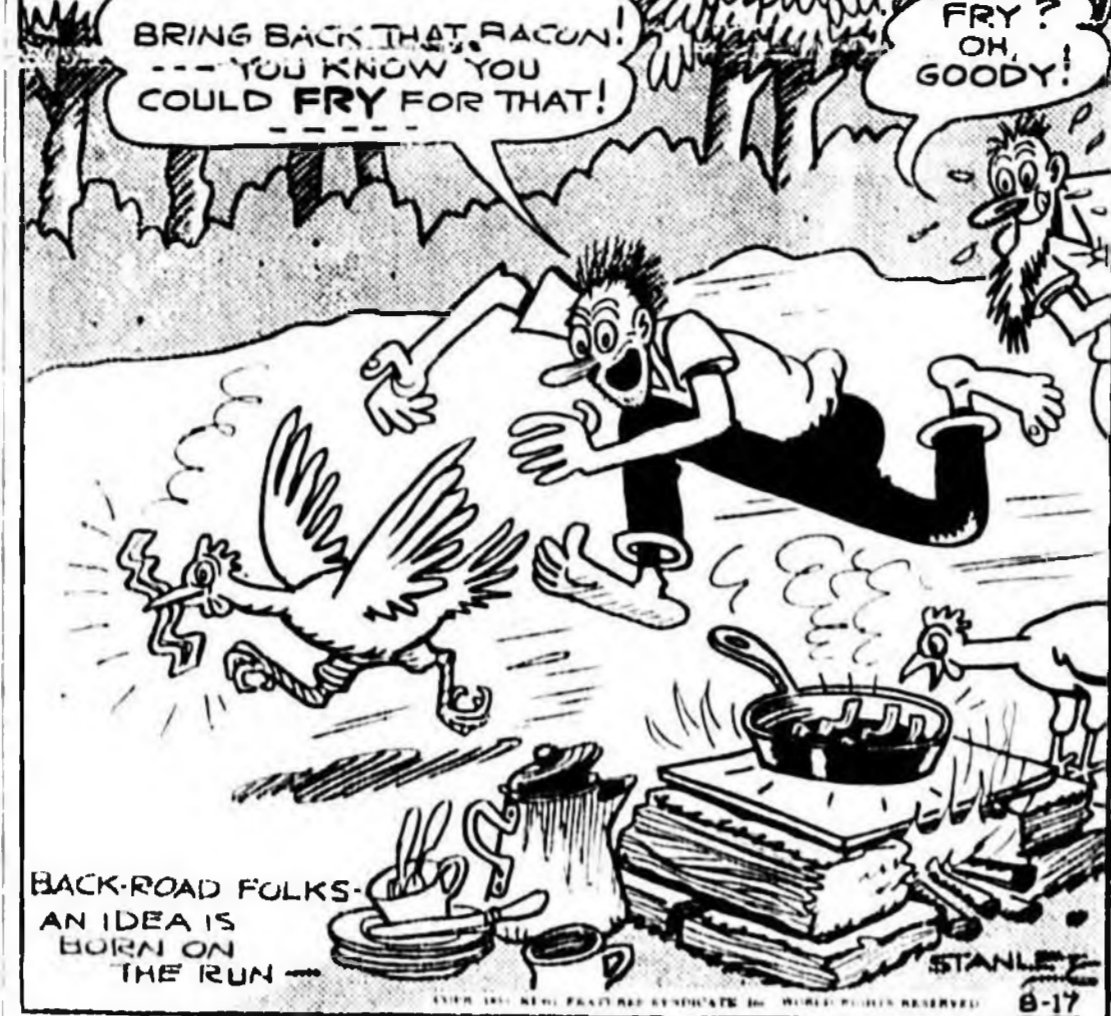

But navy power is only part of the picture in the security of the Mediterranean. There are five huge bomber bases in Northwest Africa. The planes have stumpy landing gear, but they are in the east end of the Mediterranean, in Turkey and in Britain on the Persian Gulf.

of miles farther and committed the United States and her NATO allies to a defense of the Middle East.

THE over-zealous drinker who neglects his diet for a prolonged period of time may become the victim of delirium tremens, or as it is more popularly known, d.t. "Victim" is a good word to use in the case of these people, for it is difficult to fight off an attack once it has begun.

It is possible for Russia to invade the Middle East by coming through Iran, thus outflanking Turkey to the east. But top military experts at the NATO Southern Command headquarters in Naples think it would be a costly job, not likely to be undertaken if Russia was heavily engaged in Europe.

When Alexander the Great marched his armies across that great stretch to invade India three centuries before Christ, Mesopotamia was one of the garden spots of the world. His armies lived off the land. Today much of it is desert, and the Russian army would find scant pickings.

More danger to the Mediterranean line lies in other places, such as the Bosphorus and Dardanelles Straits connecting the Black Sea through Turkey with the Mediterranean, and the land passage from Austria and Hungary into Northern Italy—narrow but feasible.

Of the straits, Maj. Gen. Clovis Dyer, chief of staff in the Southern Command, said the forces now available there—the Turks, the Sixth Fleet and the big African bombers—"can deny this area to the Russians."

Two Kingpins Emerge In Newly Purged Korean Red Government

Editors note: Bill Shinn, the Korean-born AP correspondent who has reported some notable news recently, is back in the States.

By BILL SHINN
SEOUL, S. Korea, Aug. 15

Only today Red China's Peiping radio disclosed that Kim, one-time Russian army major, has been awarded the title of "Hero of the People's Republic of Korea" by the standing committee of the North Korean Supreme People's Assembly in recognition of his war-time leadership.

Information that Kim and Nam II are impostures with borrowed names came from a highly placed South Korean intelligence officer with excellent connections in North Korea and access to top secret reports on the muddled situation behind the Red's Bamboo Curtain.

Kim's role as an impostor who borrowed the name of a North Korean hero who fought the Japanese during the occupation of Korea has been known for some time.

Kim's real name was then about 34 years old, while the poster was about 11.

Kim was eight years old when he was forced to flee to Manchuria to escape the Japanese police. Kim stayed with an uncle in Korea until he was 13, then joined his father.

Kim was a member of the Chinese Youth Association of the Communist Party when he was 17.

At the age of 30, Kim became commander of the guerrilla corps in Manchuria. At about the same time Japan sent its powerful Kwantung army into Manchuria. Kim fared badly against the Japanese and gave up his command to visit

Smokey Says: FIRE!

During World War II Kim commanded a Korean army corps that fought alongside the Russians. In the battle of Leningrad he won special recognition from Premier Stalin. He was ordered to Manchuria to fight the Japanese in the final days of the war.

He adopted the name of Kim Il Sung, a widely known Korean patriot who had been fighting the Japanese as a guerrilla in Manchuria.

The real Kim Il Sung was then about 34 years old, while the poster was about 11.

Treatment of Delirium Tremens
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
The giving of large amounts of glucose or sugar into a vein is often very helpful in case of d.t. There is a depletion of salt within the system and the giving of concentrated solutions of salt is very helpful. Since many persons who consume an excessive amount of alcohol do not eat food, large dosages of vitamins are also given.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q: I have had pain in my right heel for the past five months. It feels like I am stepping on a nail. What could be causing this?
A: Your difficulty could be caused by a spur, or extra portion of bone protruding from the heel bone. Sometimes an inflammation of the ligaments around the heel or arthritis can also be at fault. An X-ray will help reveal the cause.

Gls In Korea Building New Earthen Ramparts

By OFERRE EDWARDS
WESTERN FRONT, Korea — The young Marines straightened up from the newly dug trench, massaged the small of his back and mopped sweat off his face.

"We've been digging, digging ever since the armistice," said Pfc. Talmage W. Blackwell of Raleigh, Miss.

"But don't get me wrong. I'm not kicking. I'd rather do something like this than have men getting killed before the armistice."

All across the 150-mile front, Allied soldiers were swinging pickaxe and shovels into Korea's red clay hills. They were building new earthen fortifications south of the demilitarized zone.

Others engaged in dangerous mine removal work around small parties went over ground using the most modern of detectors but even so risked accident and death.

Some men in the forward areas were in salvage operations, bringing back equipment for cleaning, repair and further use.

Engineers were repairing roads and bridges.

North of Musan, 1,000 Army engineers were hard at work on a huge tent city for North Korean and Chinese prisoners of war who have said they do not want to be sent back behind the "Harmon Curtain." The tent city will house them while their fate is decided.

It has been mostly work and little play for U. N. troops since the armistice was signed July 27 but an easier life lies ahead. The U. S. 8th Army is planning a big move in its recreation and study programs.

Already there has been a marked increase in the number of men flown out daily from Seoul for five days' rest and recreation in Japan. Sunday, more than 1,000 "R" and "U" troops flew to Japan.

From the air, the new Allied front looks quite different from the old one with its connected trenches. The new line is more a series of "islands" of dug-in positions on key hills.

The old line looks like a jagged scar across the ridges. Tanks have been dismantled. Sandbag barricades are gone.

The halt in the shooting did not mean the end of soldiering. Day and night, security patrols move just ahead of the new Allied lines, always on the alert.

Indians To Have Wow Of Pow-Wow

ANADARKO, Okla., (AP)—Some 30,000 Indians have set up teepee keepings on the outskirts of this self-styled "Indian Capital of the World," hoping to garner a trunkload of the white man's tourist wampum during the 22nd annual American Indian Exposition.

And the peace pipe smoking red men apparently are willing to forget that their white brothers shy looked their ancestors out of Manhattan Island for a pudding $24 in trinkets.

The braves, squaws and papooses have neatly folded their overalls, business suits and footgear and do-mothailed the Hollywood-type costumes and multi-colored feathers for the tourist trade.

Medicine men are hoping the war-whooping will attract some 80,000 visitors from all 48 states during the six-day celebration which began this morning.

Backdrop for the annual pageant, which will run nightly during the exposition, will be flags from each of the United Nations, sent from UN headquarters in New York.

Allie Reynolds, New York Yankee pitcher, was chosen Indian of the Year by the exposition and was scheduled to be honored in a ceremony at noon today.

With all the visiting Indians streaming into town, the outskirts are a solid mass of tents and teepees.

Robert Gloomi, exhibition president, said all the Indians bring their own tents and cooking utensils for the week out in the open.

There are Pueblos from Jamez, N. M.; Hopis from northern California (their first visit to Indian Territory); Navajos from Arizona; Cherokees from North Carolina; Northern Cheyennes from Montana; Winnabagos from Wisconsin; and the Five Civilized Tribes of Oklahoma.

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—Further investigation of a B-13 plane found in the Gulf of Mexico will await re-location of a Laramie, Silvery wrecked in the same area.

The Hederman, operator of Troop and Flying Service here, found the B-13 while looking for the Luscomb, which had been spotted by a fisherman and then lost when a marker buoy broke loose.

Citrus Men Are Reminded

CAMP McQUARRIE, Fla. — Florida citrus men got another reminder today of what most of them know from experience—citrus crops need to be fertilized abundantly and often for high production and quality.

The reminder came from Dr. H. F. Reitz, horticulturist at the Lake Alfred Citrus Experiment Station. Dr. Reitz speaking at the annual citrus growers institute here presented information on citrus fertilizers compiled by the staff of the experiment station.

General Bradley is Fearful Lest Military Fund Slash Becomes Habit

WASHINGTON (AP) - Gen. Omar Bradley says he is fearful lest this year's slash in the military budget grow into "a habit as tempting and more dangerous than the habit of dollar extravagance."

Bradley, five-star general who stepped out four days ago after two year terms as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said of the Eisenhower administration's decision to cut more than five billion dollars from the Defense Department budget.

"At first glance this looked to me like coasting before you reach the top of the hill. Personally, I could be inclined to keep the pressure on - from a security standpoint - until we reach a higher level of readiness and security."

These statements, in an article written for the Saturday Evening Post and made public last night, were Bradley's first direct criticism of the new defense budget during hearings while Congress was considering the matter, he said.

President Eisenhower, who shook up the entire Joint Chiefs of Staff, has defended his and Wilson's defense budget as one which will give the nation greater armed power in January by former President Truman.

Bradley said the old Joint Chiefs worked out in 1951 a set of goals which they felt would bring the nation to a position of relative safety by the end of 1954, and that Truman later decided to stretch the time to 1955.

Then, speaking of the Eisenhower budget cuts, he said: "It would appear that this will further delay the date at which we can reach the goals recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff or result in a reduction of these goals."

Bradley conceded he made a mistake in assuming, some months before the Korean War broke out, that the nation could not afford to spend more for defense than the Truman budget of 13 billion dollars. The Joint Chiefs first estimated they would need 20 billion, but later cut the figure to 17 billion. Truman and his defense secretary, Louis A. Johnson, pared the figure to 13 billion.

Variety Of State's Citrus Rootstocks Now Unsatisfactory

CAMP MEQUARIE (AP) - Changing conditions have led much to be desired in Florida's once satisfactory variety of citrus rootstocks, a government plant expert said today.

One of the changing conditions is disease, said Francis Gardner, principal horticulturist at the Orlando office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Gardner spoke at the 20th annual citrus growers institute here. Because tristeza disease has become widespread in Florida in recent years, sour orange stock, one of the most useful in past years, cannot be recommended for any citrus, he said. Sour orange is very susceptible to tristeza, he added.

Another change is that the growth of citrus has brought greater demand for oranges with a high solid (sugar) content so desirable for concentrate.

Gardner said the USDA has tests in progress throughout the citrus belt on potentially valuable new rootstocks, but the tests are not old enough for definite conclusions.

Consequently, growers selecting rootstocks now should pick from the old ones according to the variety of citrus to be grown and the soil type.

In general, he said, rough lemon rootstock has proved most satisfactory for Valencia oranges on well drained soils; Cleopatra is preferred for nearly all the Mandarin varieties such as Temple, Tangerines and Tangerines; and sweet orange rootstocks have proven desirable where footrot disease is not a serious problem.

Dr. Paul Smith, USDA plant physiologist from Orlando, cautioned growers against use of large quantities of copper on their trees. Where applications of copper over the years has caused large soil accumulations of copper, tree roots have been damaged considerably, Dr. Smith said. Yield of fruit has been reduced markedly in certain cases and the trees are dying.

He advised that fertilizers containing copper be used only in the first few years for newly-planted groves, and that copper sprays be used only as needed for disease control.

Applications of chelated iron are usually beneficial to trees suffering from too much copper, but are not a complete antidote, Dr. Smith said.

New Streamlined Training Command

SEOUL (AP) - A new streamlined training command for the South Korean Army was announced today by U. S. 8th Army headquarters.

"Army groups" were organized in past wars to exercise control over various Allied armies but this is the first such "corps group."

Striking French Workers Return To Jobs

PERSPECTIVE DRAWING OF the proposed Seminole Memorial Hospital, above, shows attractive appearance the building will present upon completion. Facing E. First St., the 75-bed institution will be finished in stone, except for the center portion, which will be finished in masonry. E. J. Moughtin Sr., architect, and today, the entire "L" shaped building will be three stories high except for a portion of the kitchen wing to the rear of the building which will be one story. The north-south wing will contain elevator and air conditioning machinery. Administrative offices will be in the center portion of the building and out of the right wing while the emergency room, X-ray room and the pharmacy will be included in the left wing. The surgical suite will be on the second floor of the wing to the rear of the building, which is not shown. All rooms on the second and third floors facing Central and Lake Monroe will be for patients, while the third floor to the rear of the building also will be for patients. The rooms are so planned in sizes, Mr. Moughtin estimated that the capacity of the hospital may be boosted to 93 beds in the event of an emergency. Suburbs will be on the corners of the second and third floors, while all the windows will be at the second and third floors. The hospital is so designed that extensions may be added easily to the ends of the wings. Mr. Moughtin and James Gable Rogers, 111 Winter Park Ave., the associate architects, prepared the plans, while Rogers and Clark Work City, Ore., are the consulting architects assisting in the preparation.

Non Communist Unions Reach Agreement

PARIS (AP)—Thousands of striking French postal, telegraph and telephone workers started back to work today. It was the first break in the wave of walkouts that drastically slowed the nation's economic life for 16 days.
The break to work began after the two big non-Communist unions, the Socialist Workers' Force (F.O.) and the Christian (Catholic) Labor Federation (C.F.T.) reached an agreement early today with Premier Joseph Laniel's government.
Though other government work centers expected to join the return movement, observers warned that plenty of trouble may still lie ahead on the nationalized railroads.
The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (C.G.T.) left out of the negotiations had not yet indicated any end to its walkout. The C.G.T. controls the bulk of the railroad workers and transportation officials said the lines could operate only on a reduced scale without its members.
