

NAVAL PARLEY STILL WAITING UPON FRENCH

To Probably Continue Recess Until Such Time As France Can Dispatch Delegates

LONDON, Feb. 25. (AP)—A spokesman for the American delegation to the five-power naval conference, said today that if the French cabinet does not get a vote of confidence tonight the conference probably would have to continue in recess until such time as France has a government and is able to send a delegation to London.

Prime Minister MacDonald, at a late dinner and technical advice to the French delegation, arrived in London from Paris last night and could not be seen today. The Prime Minister had said this morning that he expressed the hope to be half of Premier Chamberlain that the new French delegates would arrive tomorrow ready to take up the work where it was left off last week by the downfall of the Tardieu ministry.

At the same time news reports coming from London said that it appeared doubtful whether Chamberlain would press a vote of confidence tonight and that a new cabinet would be formed in the next few days.

Prime Minister Chamberlain is expected to announce a new cabinet tonight. It is believed that the French cabinet will probably be formed tomorrow.

The British government today said that a three-power pact that is the United States, Great Britain and Japan has been concluded on page four.

State Road Department's Budget Meets Favor, And Discord At Parley Today

HOOVER IS MADE TARGET OF IRKED PARTY LEADERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—Hoover's leadership in the state road budget met with favor today, but a discordant note was struck by the party leaders in the House of Representatives.

Revolt Movement In Haiti Is Reported Extremely Serious

Deaths And Several Wounded Result As Movement Takes On Large Proportions

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 25. (AP)—Reports that the revolutionary movement in the Dominican republic was extremely serious and that it had spread throughout most of the country meeting with little opposition were received in Port-Au-Prince today.

At least three deaths were reported at various places with half a dozen wounded while motor vehicles were said to have been commandeered in order to transport insurgents to the capital.

Colonel Joseph Fegan, commanding the Haitian National Guard forces in Northern Haiti, today reported the arrival of Commander H. B. Smith, retired naval officer, from the city of San Domingue by way of Santiago and Monte Cristi.

The uprising was reported to have been led by a former leader named E. A. B. supported by General Truett, commanding the Dominican Guard. A concerted movement in the principal cities beginning on the night of Feb. 23.

In all cities except Puerto Plata, the Guardia disarmed the local police and distributed arms to the revolutionaries. They met little opposition. Two persons were killed and several wounded in Santiago and motor vehicles were commandeered to transport the revolutionaries to the capital.

An unconfirmed report was to the effect that President Vasquez, held in Port Au Prince while his family took refuge at the American legation, was given authority to abdicate in favor of a provisional president to be elected.

It also was reported that some 200 men at Santiago had requested American intervention.

GARDEN CROWD IS CONFIDENT OVER MIAMI VENTURES

Will Stick To 5-Year Plan Of Promoting Flat Bouts There

By ALAN GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor. MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Whether or not the Madison Square Garden millionaires experience a major operation in the region of the box office, in connection with the Sharky-Sherkey fight show this Thursday night, they have not lost confidence in the future of the Southern Florida center of sports activity and pleasure hunting.

Before departing tonight for New York, where he will next Friday for South America on a business trip, William F. (Big Bill) Carey, the garden's chief executive, made it clear he intended to stick to the five-year plan of promoting annual heavyweight shows in Miami, winter after winter.

Carey feels that due to circumstances which, in part at least, were beyond the garden's control, the Phil Scott-Jack Sharkey match was made an object of part of the heavy weight program, by reason of a lack of suitable contender for it. As he looks at it, the garden is "taking it on the chin," in the interests of putting through the match as a "necessary evil," designed to help settle the heavyweight championship no later than the summer of 1939.

This would pave the way, next winter in Miami, for a pair of outstanding title contenders to be matched.

"We have not the slightest idea of quitting the Miami field so far as big fights are concerned," said Mr. Carey. "We are very much pleased with the treatment we have been accorded this winter by all city officials and residents. In this promotion, we are coming back with a new winter. Meanwhile, the garden director will consider it fortunate to have even to make a small show or two in the summer of 1939. With the event only four days off, the actual cash on hand for the winter is in excess of $80,000.

The attendance at the fight receipts has $250,000 (three days) and there will be a profit of $100,000. On this basis, Sharkey's fight would be around $60,000 and Scott's, $50,000. Phil doesn't share credit with Jack until after the $200,000 mark is passed. Last year Sharkey received a $100,000 and Scott $100,000 for the $200,000.

As the combination of the two fights, which will be the final fight of the winter, will work a day, there was no substantial change in the prevailing opinion that Sharkey will win easily from Scott and probably knock the Englishman out in short order. Some idea has developed that Sharkey is a time a little stale due to the absence of much action in his last two or three bouts. Even if true, the expert consider he is used to be very very stable in order to change their unanimous opinion of Scott's chances, or rather the lack of any. Alone in opposition to the general pack, including eye those who have seen Scott from England for the year, Scott manager, Jimmy John, said the fight will "give Sharkey the way of beating of the Miami in the day, has talked many a fighter into contemplating a final fight, but has previously powers were subjected to a severe test of time.

SEMINOLE HIGH IS VICTORIOUS OVER LEESBURG TEAM

Celery Feds Overcome First Half Lead To Win By 18-13 Score

By Lofton Edcatt-14 Seminole High defeated Leesburg for the second time in two seasons Saturday night in Leesburg by the score of 18-13. Celery Feds made a great come back in the second half. They were held for 10 minutes of the half when Roundtree sank one from the middle of the court and Bowers made a foul shot for one point.

There was no individual star for Sanford during the first game. Ponder was high point man with eight points. Higgins with six and Jackson and Lake with collecting two points each. For Leesburg, Bowers led with 15 points. Roundtree and Anderson had two points each.

Leesburg, during the first half was the only Sanford player. In the second half of the game, the entire team was to be checked. At the beginning of the first quarter, Leesburg had taken the lead by a 10-0 count. It was at this time that Ponder and Higgins were all pointing at leading Leesburg. Ponder played his part in the game and he was the only player that can be expected to play a game.

For Higgins, Lake and Anderson there is much to be said. A lot of time of the game was spent in the defense to check the Leesburg forwards. One of those forwards were always on the defense to check the Leesburg forwards.

As for the two games, Bowers and Jackson it was a hard fight. Bowers that led the Leesburg team in the first half. They were taking every ball from the backboard before Leesburg could shoot through and make another shot.

By defeating Leesburg the Celery Feds have defeated a team that beat Gainesville, Daytona Beach, Ocala and Leesburg. Jackson is a 2-2 record. It was a victory to be proud of. Leesburg played more than they should have.

Leesburg with 18 and is being sought so that they may be able to attend the tournament. The Gainesville game was the last game on the tour, but the other game was played in order to raise funds for the tournament. Will every fan try and play in the tournament at the game with Leesburg.

The "Know Sanford Edition"

In keeping with the spirit of "Know Florida Week", The Sanford Herald will issue on Friday a "Know Sanford Edition". We have little hesitancy in promising that this edition will be the completest and most informative of any newspaper of this character ever issued in Sanford.

The newly organized Chamber of Commerce is lending its heartiest support, having already ordered one thousand copies. These papers will be kept in the Chamber of Commerce offices and will be mailed in answer to inquiries from the North. The Herald itself proposes to send several hundred copies away to its list of visitors who have formerly shown an interest in Sanford.

The edition will include a number of articles written by well known Sanford persons depicting in the most impressive manner the many advantages of this section. There will be articles on agriculture, on Seminole County schools, on women's organizations, on poultry, on Sanford's government, on the built industry, on Seminole County towns, and in a thousand and one other subjects which have combined to form Seminole County's principal assets, and which comprise our chief community activities.

We earnestly solicit the support of all Sanford businessmen of all the farmers, and of all the people at large in making this edition all that it properly should be. Reports indicate that there are more people in Florida at the present time than at any previous time in our history. Now is our opportunity to interest them in Sanford. Now is the time to show them that Sanford is a live and growing community. Help us spread the facts before them. Help us to make this the biggest and best newspaper edition we have ever seen.

And, after you have seen it, and read all its columns, contain, just roll it up, address it to some friend far away, and drop it in the mail. You'll be surprised how effective such a campaign can be made.

Florida's Undeveloped Resources

Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution and one of Florida's best friends, may have been thinking of the oil drilling now going on in various parts of the state, or he may have been speaking merely figuratively, when he said in Tampa the other day that the future of this state depends very largely upon the speed with which its people tap its vast undeveloped resources.

The fruit fly is something that Florida and the government must destroy. Mr. Howell said. "But you have over come far greater obstacles, such as the terrific deflation after the real estate boom. Your state, as I see it, has at last planted its feet upon bed rock. Look at the enormous storehouse nature has provided. Consider the hundreds of thousands of undeveloped acres, waiting for the keen edge of the plow. Think for a moment of your great citrus industry and the possibilities of expanding your fruit markets. Picture the potential value of Florida's geographical location with reference to air transportation between the United States and South America. How anyone can sell Florida short is beyond me. I'm a bull on this state—have been and always will be."

IT MAY NOT pay to advertise, but if it doesn't some of the biggest business men in the United States are extravagant fools. During the past year over one billion dollars was spent in newspaper and magazine advertising with over three-fourths of the grand total going to be newspapers. The American Tobacco Company, perhaps better known as the makers of the "Lucky Strike" cigarette, did not restrict unwisely its advertising appropriation. Realizing that there was to be severe competition from "Old Gold", "Camel", "Chesterfield", the "Lucky Strike" manufacturers decided the best way to sell their product was to tell the public about it in the most generous terms available. They spent exactly one million dollars a month for twelve months telling America why "Lucky Strike" cigarettes were better than any other kind. Its sales aggregated over two hundred millions. Perhaps its biggest single item of expense was its advertising, but it paid them to advertise.

TELLING THE WORLD

SOME RELIEF IN SIGHT: The most constructive criticism to come out of Washington, D. C., is from the Department of Commerce. The Broadcast General of that department states what radio needs most is some kind of finger for giving microphone, past the censors. He states that if censors, teachers are more important than any other item on the program.

The Department of Commerce said a truckload. We need another there, heeling for radio boxes. And we'll get it. If you can cook with gas, why can't you cook by electricity? If steam pipes can be made to heat, receiving sets can be taught to do the same.

The time has come when radio consumers must let the talent know when they are good and when they are bad. The beginning of this service may be a little crude. But for a started the dissatisfied customer can bang rubber, touch off his finger, cheer, howl, and other ways let him know by air.

The World's Window

By Pierre Van Paasden

A Russian newspaper tells the following historical anecdote of the origin of the Tolstoy title which is generally known, originated in the days of Peter the Great. A soldier had been posted to front of a door before the Czar's private quarters. Some aristocrat came sauntering along and wanted to pass. "Sorry," said the guard, "the Little Father has given me personal instructions not to let any one pass."

The Prince took his riding whip and gave the soldier an unmerciful beating, so that the blood streamed over his uniform. "Well," said the soldier, "you can beat me all you want, but you're not going to pass." The Prince started to curse and threaten, when a door opened and Peter the Great appeared. "What's all this commotion?" he asked. The soldier saluted and the Prince bowed deeply and gave an explanation. "This chevalier has given you a beating because you carried out my orders," said the Czar. "Here, take my stick and take your revenge." "Impossible, Majesty! The man is a vulgar soldier," objected the Prince. "All right," said Peter. "I make him a General." "Your Majesty cannot be serious. I am a nobleman and this man is a peasant," I make him a Count," said Peter, and turning to the soldier he added, "Now go to it. Beat him as till he can't walk. You are beating your equal." The soldier executed the Czar's command. The next day he received notification of an Imperial ukase appointing him General in the army, and Count. One of his descendants, the great Leon Tolstoy, did all in his power to get rid of the Count's title.

A famous Viennese historian who has accumulated history lately with research into the private life of Beethoven relates an incident which throws at least some light on the relationship between the great composer and Goethe. It does not entirely explain the closeness of later years between the two men. Beethoven and Goethe became acquainted in 1793. Goethe's friend Zelter had drawn the German poet's attention to the significance of Beethoven's work. One day the two immortal took a stroll together. It must have been a queer sight, the lofty six and a half foot Goethe with the little composer who walked with a decided stoop. On the way they met the Empress, surrounded by Archdukes and courtiers. Goethe bowed to the side of the road, took off his hat with a ceremonious flourish and bowed deeply. Beethoven walked on inexorably, but he got out of the way, together never forgave Beethoven his bad manner, and never answered his letters after that. The Viennese professor who relates the incident asks where Beethoven might have acquired that haughty contempt for royalty. And the answer is: "He babbled from Flinders, the country which gave birth to the first democracy in Europe, and where the burghers of the republican cities considered themselves fully the equal of the King of France." One thinks of the incident related by Victor Hugo in "The Hunchback" when Flinders' simplicity inspired by Peter the King on the occasion of his last meetings, quietly took the last state visit to the Majesty, but which he left the rest of the nation decided upon them by the nation's will.

A remarkable incident was made by Mr. Sidney R. Kent, the general manager of Paramount, in a London newspaper interview. It was found, he said, that on the "Hollywood was considered the 'center' of the world had been used 'up.' The had been throughout and, in narrative and dramatic terms, there was even written on there was nothing left. The main purpose of the new scene was being laid out at any moment of time. The situation, however, cannot be taken into account. On the face of it one felt in the words of the comedian who indicates to the footlights with a grin in one hand and an invisible ring in the other, and says, "I don't believe it!" When the members that filmable celluloid has gone on for something like a half-century, from "The Birth of a Nation" to "The Great Dictator" and the mediocrity of the world, and the soldiers of the Renaissance that were from that time on, East and West have teamed with the stars of met and fancy, can it be that those studio-braves of Hollywood have exhausted every possibility that could be "checked up" and standardized as a "type"?

radio, at that. For if you couldn't read a dial and set off those dials, it would take the extra time crop just to step up to the numbers.

MILDRED HARRIS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19. (AP) Mildred Harris and Maria Callas have joined Philadelphi's grand opera.

Mrs. Harris, formerly the wife of Capt. A. C. Harris, a United States Army aviator, was divorced from Everett T. McGovern of Jacksonville, Fla., on grounds of desertion.

They were married in 1921 and separated in 1926.

Miss Harris testified that Mr. McGovern always objected to resumption of her work in the movies. She obtained custody of a four-year-old son.

Maria Callas, prima donna, came to Hollywood in a two-year contract with Paramount Pictures. She was divorced from Alexander Korda, the director.

"The sign for being me" she testified. "For weeks he would not speak to me. He didn't like me and he was jealous when ever I showed to any one else."

The couple were married in Hollywood in 1929 on a body of an island. They had two children.

The picture, named "The Sign of the Cross" and the spelling after her name.

Norma Shearer Has New Character Role In Picture At Milane

The stars with which Norma Shearer stars from one characterization to another of such departure will never cease to be a wonder to her fans.

When she played in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" it was something of a startling revelation. Then she went right into "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" and now "The Sign of the Cross."

Now, in "The Sign of the Cross," which opened early at the Milano Theatre, Mrs. Shearer plays an other equally surprising character.

Franking that of a young mother, daughter who, like her mother, is a woman who has to be a woman.

The new Metro-Goldwyn Mayer all talking picture, is an adaptation of the novel from the pen of Sara Fuller, and is filled with dramatic action and romantic charm. It moves swiftly from an opening episode during a football game, to a play match, piano and finally to society dinners, games and tea parties.

The "Sunday School Manual" taught by S. J. Nix, exercises begin each evening at 7:30 o'clock and a warm invitation extended to all.
