NASA to discuss launch date

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Vowing "we're ready to fly," the commander of the shuttle Discovery says his crew's launch on the first post-Challenger mission, planned for the last week in September, should be viewed as a test flight to prove modifications and improvements will work as advertised.

NASA managers, meanwhile, planned to submit a launch date recommendation to NASA headquarters in Washington today that could be announced later this week, pending results of debate about a hydrogen leak aboard Discovery and inspections of two sluggish valves in the shuttle's engine compartment.

Richard Colonna, a top shuttle manager at the Johnson Space Center, said late Monday the valves will be removed for a detailed inspection and that "we haven't resolved anything fully."

Little preacher sent home

MARION, N.C. — Boy preacher Duffley Strode promised, "I'll be back," but he'll have to wait 10 days until the end of yet another school suspension for shouting scriptures against the principal's orders.

Duffley, who is wont to call classmates "whoremongers" and "fornicators," drew his latest suspension Monday on the first day of classes to start this school year like he ended the last one.

The 12-year-old was suspended from Eastfield Elementary School five times last year.

Dukakis 'skipped' Korean War

ALBANY, N.Y. — A New York Republican congressman, seeking to shift attention from the military record of Indiana Sen. Dan Quayle, said Monday Michael Dukakis took an educational deferment so he would not be drafted during the Korean War.

Rep. Gerald Solomon, R-N.Y., said the Democratic presidential nominee received deferments Dec. 31, 1952; Aug. 10, 1953; and July 12, 1954.

He was drafted July 19, 1955, and served 21 months in the Army before being discharged April 25, 1957, Solomon said.

Jackson wins No. 18

Cincinnati Manager Pete Rose has a solution for improving his team's standing in the National League West.

Unfortunately for the Reds, the concept won't work — there is only one Dunny Jackson.

Jackson fired a five-hitter Monday night to become the National League's first 18 game winner and lead the Reds to a 2-0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Merchants seek flood help

By WAYNE NIZE Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Tired of their businesses being flooded every time it rains, downtown merchants descended on city hall Monday night to ask city commissioners to provide some immediate help.

City commissioners reaffirmed their commitment to help solve the downtown flooding problem, which has several merchants looking for other locations.

Local business owners said flooding has caused property damage, expensive cleanup bills, health problems and possible structural damage to buildings along First Street.

"We have a problem that is steadily getting worse," said Gerald Gross, who owns several buildings downtown. "I think we have to address this problem immediately."

Linda Sapp, owner of Balloon Magic, 108 E. First St., told commissioners her business was flooded twice last month. The heavy rain of Aug. 14 caused $2,000 worth of damage to the store, she said.

"I'm looking for a new location," said Sapp. At least two downtown businessmen told the commission they had seen raw sewage on First Street after a rain.

"We had raw sewage, even toilet paper on First Street," said Gross.

The ultimate solution to the flooding problem will come with the installation of the city's new sewer system and vacuum lines, but construction will not begin for another two years, according to Bill Simmons, city director of engineering and planning.

According to Simmons, the current storm drainage and sewer pipe system downtown is inadequate, and has been for 10 years.

The commission directed Simmons and City Manager Frank Faison to develop several alternatives which would provide some immediate relief to the problem and agreed to meet with a downtown merchant representative at the commission's Sept. 19 work shop session.

The commission approved Simmons' request to begin the exploration of the current pipe system downtown to identify major problem areas.

Death may be ruled a suicide

By SUSAN LODEN Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The investigation continues into the death of an Allamonte Springs man whose body was found in the trunk of a car in rural Longwood Sunday afternoon.

An autopsy performed in Sanford late Monday showed that Paul L. Sasso, 56, died of asphyxiation. Seminole County sheriff's Lt. George Hagood said today that investigators have not determined how Sasso died, but indications are that he committed suicide.

Sasso, who operated a collection agency, left a note which Hagood said did not specifically state he planned to commit suicide. But, Hagood said, the note indicated he might be suicidal.

Sasso's watch and eyeglasses had been removed and placed neatly beside him in the trunk of his car, which was found in the lot of Springs Plaza. The car was first noticed there at about 8 p.m. Friday and sheriff's deputies were called to the scene at about 3:36 p.m. Sunday to investigate an odor coming from the car and a swarm of flies on the trunk.

Sheriff's investigator Sgt. Paul Jaynes said the time of death is estimated at early Friday. He said there was an open antifreeze bottle in the trunk and Sasso may have drunk an unknown chemical from that bottle. That has not been confirmed, but will be determined by post-autopsy tests which have not yet been performed, Jaynes said.

Sasso's ex-wife reported to Allamonte Springs police that he was missing Friday. She reportedly told police he left home at about 4:30 a.m. Thursday and left a note saying he was going to the airport to pick up a package.

Allamonte Springs police spokesman Jeff Hawkins said police were told that Sasso might be suicidal. Sasso was reportedly in the process of being evicted from his apartment and police were also told he had been threatened over a debt by two men from a New York organized crime family.

Hagood said investigators have found no indication that outside parties were involved in the death.

Plans for center topic of discussion

By WAYNE NIZE Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Residents of the city will be able to make suggestions on the design of the planned senior citizens center at an all-day meeting today at the Sanford Civic Center.

The meeting began at approximately 9 a.m. Tuesday and will continue until 5 p.m.

Senior citizens, city commissioners and several city hall officials will be at the meeting, as well as representatives of Schweizer, Inc., of Orlando, architect for the project. The group will help formulate a priority design list for the construction of the center, which will be located in the present youth wing of the civic center.

The architect recommended to Bill Simmons, city director of engineering and planning, that a forum be created to receive community input for the center.

The purpose of the meeting between seniors, city officials and the architect is to prioritize goals and objectives and provide requirements which will eventually be incorporated into the center's design.

In the past, dances for seniors were held in the civic center and the youth wing location was proposed because of its close proximity to the visitor center and shuffleboard courts.

Financing for the project has been secured

Suggs walking, exercising

By CAROL RUMSEY Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — Chuck Suggs climbed to the fifth step of a hospital stairway Monday morning, before riding an exercise bicycle for five minutes, and walking down a corridor and back without the aid of oxygen, said fund-raiser Debbie Black.

"He's one lucky guy," Black said. "He's feeling so good."

Monday marked the first time Black spoke with Suggs in five months. Suggs and his family left their Lake Mary home for London's Harefield Hospital in October, expecting to be home by January. Black, who has been in constant contact with Chuck's parents, Ed and Pat Suggs, said no one realized how much time would be involved.

Suggs, then 14 years old, needed heart and lung transplant surgery to survive and a unique surgical procedure, not approved in this country, was the only chance he had. A donor was finally found two weeks ago and a weakening Suggs received the surgery.

Meanwhile in Lake Mary, Black and 30 other volunteers have worked hard to raise money for Suggs' surgery and convalescence. Black, who teaches a morning aerobics class and is the mother of three children, says there is still much to be done.

She surmises that Suggs' being so far away from home has hurt fund-raising efforts. She said before the surgery Suggs was not heard about daily, nor is he a baby or young child who may be easier to sympathize with, and he's not been on peoples' minds. Even after Suggs' surgery, which has received a great deal of local attention, only $5,000 in additional donations has been received. Fund-raisers had set a goal of $250,000.

Black would like to see Suggs' case receive national media attention. "We called the networks the day of Chuckie's surgery, and they were enthusiastic, but we've seen nothing, and Chuckie's case is unique," she said. But Black is far from giving up on the issue; in fact, she is more motivated than ever. "Some people say I'm obsessed, but I'm not, I'm committed," she said.

Black attends every fundraiser she can — big or small. "I use to be shy," she said, "but not any more." Last Saturday she attended a bodybuilding event, and this weekend it's the Flea World Zoo, which has designated this Friday, Saturday and Sunday as Chuck Suggs weekend, and will give one-half of the $2 adult admission to the Suggs fund. Milt Sanderford, spokesman for Flea World, said normal attendance runs between 2,000 and 3,000 for the three-day weekend.

For now, Black said she just wants people to know the money goes into a foundation and not into the Suggs' pockets. She said the DeSillers' episode has not hurt fund raising, but it has done little to help. According to Black, if there were an abundance of money raised, the Races awash in non-issues

Sometime this week it will be revealed by some investigative reporter for some national newsgathering organization that Michael Dukakis, presidential nominee of the Democratic party, is not eligible for membership in the American Legion. His service as a draftee during peacetime doesn't measure up to the membership criteria set by the nation's largest veterans' organization.

Thus, Gov. Dukakis will join Sen. Dan Quayle, media target due to service in the National Guard, and Vice President George Bush, assailed due to commenting on eating pork rinds, in the media debate on non-issues.

That's the national political battle. Here in Florida we have the spectacle of one candidate for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate, Robert Merkle, traveling the state debating a cardboard cut-out, and his opponent, U.S. Rep. Connie Mack, citing his grandfather's credentials as a baseball great as a reason for supporting his candidacy. More attention seems to be given to who is giving what to whom than using campaign funds to inform the voters.

Even Seminole County is not exempt from the strange campaigning. Charges and countercharges are being zapped about with such frequency that some observers have cited this as the "dirtiest campaigning" they've witnessed in the history of the county.

Nationally, we're less concerned with a man's military service decades ago than we are with his perspective on today's problems with the environment, defense and budget deficits. And answers on the budget must be more definitive than "I'll cut out waste." A major portion of the national budget is in retirement benefits and interest on the national debt. Let someone try to cut that.

Another solution, though heard less frequently since the Rev. Jesse Jackson no longer sings his own tune, is "The Pentagon budget must be reduced." That solution sounds better when using Pentagon in lieu of defense since the American people have made it clear that they support a strong defense. President Ronald Reagan has also proven that strength begets peace.

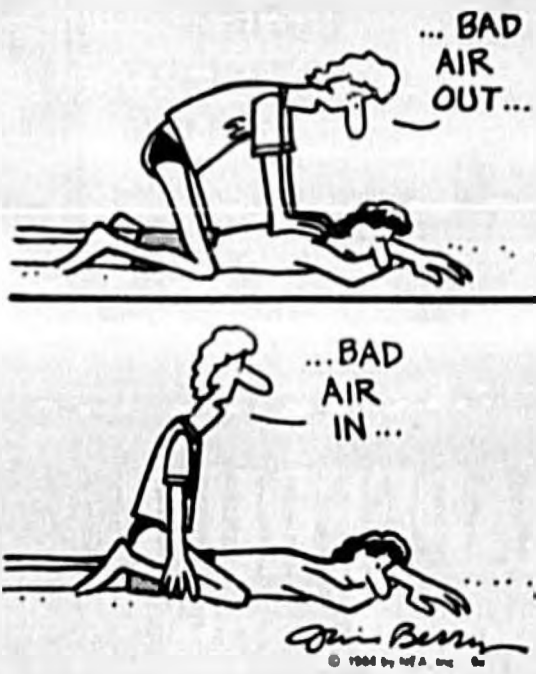

There are many challenges facing Florida now which will burgeon in the immediate future — overcrowded schools, prisons and highways, polluted waterways, and drugs. These are problems that cannot be solved with cardboard dolls or inherited baseball talent. And it takes more than the knowledge of how to hone the firing pin on an M1 to master the intricacies of state budgeting.

Our electorate deserves to hear what candidates will do if elected, not how much they dislike their opponents. Voters must know the campaigner's platforms and positions, not whether they passed or flunked chemistry. American citizens are interested in the electoral process, but disdain the winning, nagging, bragging and pettiness that seems to have taken centerstage right now.

Nationally, there's time since the election isn't until November. But the first primary in Seminole County is just around the corner — September 6. Let's hope the candidates for races to be determined in the primary get down to real issues before that day.

Democrats are the party of envy

It is one of the peculiarities of the Democratic Party that it seems irresistibly drawn to the rhetoric of class warfare. Even as it nominated in Atlanta a man who had gone to Swarthmore and to Harvard Law School, along with a vice-presidential candidate who is a Texas millionaire, it saw fit to savage Vice President Bush because he went to Andover and Yale. Jimmy Carter, that vicious and vindictive Christian, even chose to mock him.

There is a joke that has been going around Washington for weeks and probably isn't all that funny — that George Bush was born with a silver foot in his mouth. Ha, ha. Ann Richards the Democratic keynote speaker saw fit to work this gem into her nationally televised address.

The egregious Geraldine Ferraro tried to pull this type of play on Bush in 1984. Then it turned out that the net worth of the John Zaccaro family exceeded considerably the net worth of George Bush and his wife.

What is going on here? After all is not a George Bush — and, for that matter, Michael Dukakis — exactly what this society is supposed to be producing, at its best? That is, well educated and apparently honest individuals who are willing to hold public office with all of its slings and arrows?

But why is this rhetoric of envy and class hatred so congenial to Democratic orators?

Apparently they think it works, has some appeal out there in the electorate. This is worth thinking about.

The rather vague idea of "equality" has always been a force in American life, and it has been on the whole a good thing. In some ultimate sense, perhaps undergirded by religion, no one is finally "better" than anyone else. More rudely, out on the highways and byways, Americans have always believed in the essential dignity of the average person, a sense of elementary fairness, however often honored in the breach.

But the rough and traditional ideal of equality shows serious and ominous signs of becoming systematized. We have had during the last 20 years or so a staggering number of laws passed, special entitlements given, affirmative action pressed — all with the goal of achieving greater equality. And there is no doubt that we now have a much more equal society than we did in, say, 1960.

Yet the greatest observer of the dynamics of democracy Alexis de Tocqueville, noticed a curious paradox. As we approach greater and greater equality, any deviation from complete equality is felt to be outrageous and intolerable.

But if the Democratic Party represents the Action Wing of systematic egalitarianism, the pure bacillus resides in the colleges and universities. There, "sexual preference" makes homosexuality and lesbianism "equal" with normal sexuality — despite all human experience to the contrary. And a congeries of bogus "courses" — black studies, women's studies, hispanic studies, Amerindian studies and whatnot — go forward under explicitly egalitarian political auspices, whatever their academic content.

This powerful impulse must be rejected and defeated all along the line.

Rhetoric of envy and class hatred congenial to Democratic orators?

GEORGE F. WILL

Task is challenging themes

A lion in winter is still a lion, and Ronald Reagan's roar in New Orleans, near the end of his political calendar, expressed his remarkably high level of irritation with Michael Dukakis. It also expressed conservatives' resentment against what they consider the deceptiveness of the campaign being waged by what Elizabeth Dole calls "the Denton and Hedges ticket." Hedging one's beliefs is not considered cricket by the conservatives who comprise the party that Reagan is bequeathing to George Bush.

Reagan came here cast, by himself, in a role that many of his critics, condescending to him to the end, still find incongruous, even incredible. He came to insist on the primacy of ideas in politics.

Bush, in his most memorable phrase since "voodoo economics," calls Michael Dukakis—a.k.a. Hedges—the "stealth candidate." But Bush is not naturally suited to the task most crucial to his campaign. That task is to challenge head-on the crucial theme in Dukakis' acceptance speech in Atlanta: the notion that political labels are "meaningless" and that this election is about "competence," not "ideology."

Bush, to be blunt, shows scant signs of ever having had much of a life of the mind. When asked by essayist Gail Sheehy to name a book that has been important to him, he replied that he vaguely remembers reading "The Robe," a forgettable Biblical epic. Yet, Bush, whose instinct is to run on his resume—to run on Dukakis' track, offering his "experience," as his counter to Dukakis' claim of competence—must insist on the importance of ideology.

Now, "ideology" is, more often than not, the label people attach to ideas they reject. It is a term of disparagement intended to suggest dogmatism. Dukakis' celebration of competence over ideology may be, in part, a faint echo, bouncing off the banks of the Charles River near Harvard and MIT, of the 19th-century faith in a science of politics that would replace the messy governance of men with the tidy administration of things. But most of all, Dukakis' celebration of competence must be understood in the light of his flight from political labels.

Such flight is what one expects from people who find that the labels that fit them are politically inconvenient. Bush has about 90 days to cast his election as an ideological choice between liberalism and conservatism.

He has early and energetic help of Reagan's roar because the amiable king of the political jungle has been energized by Dukakis. It is not just that Dukakis called the Reagan administration of rotting fish. By disparaging ideology—the politics of basic beliefs—Dukakis is disparaging what always made Reagan run. It is only August and already Dukakis has done to Reagan what John Kennedy in 1960 tried not to do to Eisenhower. He has goaded him to the edge of anger.

The 1960 campaign is, for Dukakis, a young man's obsession carried into middle age. But Dukakis would do well to remember that Kennedy's theme of more "vigor" so that "we can do better" fell far short of a campaign to repeal Eisenhower's legacy.

Reagan recently told a friend that he looks forward to 1989 and beyond when he can be back on what he calls the "mashed potato circuit" campaigning for such ideas as the line-item veto. In the last 30 years Reagan has had put in front of him at speaking engagements enough mashed potatoes to cover Montana. But he was summing up his life, as well as the party now cast in his mold, on Monday evening when he told the delegates: "You walk not just precincts, but for a cause. You stand for something."

In the 20 years that Reagan has been the incarnation of conservatism, the GOP has become a thoroughly conservative party. It is brimming over with contempt for the Democrats' current quest for perfect vacuity, as symbolized by the thin gruel of their platform.

Furthermore, many Republicans believe that Dukakis peaked a little early, the night he accepted his nomination, and that there is nothing he can do about the fact that he does not wear well in people's living rooms on the evening news. He is too testy, abrupt, impatient. Republicans also believe that the close scrutiny he will receive in the next 80 days will confirm the judgment of Horace Bushy, a Washington analyst: that Dukakis, who is something of an outsider even in Massachusetts politics, is the most parochial presidential candidate since Calvin Coolidge, another Massachusetts governor.

As the baton is passed to Bush, he has 80 days to make ideas, not Dukakis' competence or his own resume, the issue. The battle of the personalities, such as they are, Bush can win by proving that he, unlike Dukakis, is a flower without thorns and that some agreeable flowers are scentless.

An ideological choice between liberalism and conservatism?

Longwood defended on camera action

I am compelled to respond to your editorial in Thursday's issue of the Sanford Herald, which derides the City Commission of Longwood for requiring a surveillance device in a newly approved Amoco filling station/convenience store.

At the outset, let someone with some direct knowledge and experience speak about the surveillance camera controversy in Miami a few years ago. The circumstances were quite different, and any thinking person would understand and appreciate that difference. The camera issue in Miami involved public street monitoring with cameras placed on the outside of buildings and on street poles to watch the activities of everyone and anything along long stretches of city streets. This truly smacked of the "Big Brother" syndrome, and although the motivation behind it was praiseworthy, it went beyond acceptable standards for preventative security measures.

In the case of Longwood's Amoco station, there is no intent to invade anyone's privacy, as you contend. The protection of the employees and the public is the issue, and I question your reasoning that it is an invasion of privacy when it is clearly a deterrent to crime, as well as an aid to solving a crime if one is ever stupidly committed.

To say this is a "social experiment" is outrageous. Such cameras exist in every bank building in the area, and I challenge you to find a major department store that doesn't have similar or identical security devices. Why not criticize the two-way mirror in every Zayre or K-Mart? Why is there a double standard for a city government when it tries to enhance security measures for its citizens? How does that differ from a private business which tries to protect its employees, patrons, and merchandise?

Lastly, I am appalled that you would editorialize on an issue while leaving out very significant comments by the applicant's attorney who — on two separate trips to the podium — admitted that Amoco regularly installs such cameras in many of its locations, but other than complaining about the cost, never really explained why one should not be installed in the Longwood location. Could it be that he suspected Longwood would not have the foresight to think of such a requirement and was taken aback by the suggestion? Probably so, but everyone is now on notice that Longwood — through its elected officials and professional staff — is a community to be taken seriously.

Don't displace youth

As a semi-retired person, member of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), and fledgling senior citizen, I am deeply disturbed over the recent decision by the city council to replace the downtown youth center with a senior citizen's center.

Have the senior citizens of this community been given the opportunity to evaluate and vote this issue, or is it being dropped in their lap and the parks and recreation department for future repercussions? I am sure that most senior citizens believe the adage, as I do, that "our children are our future." What example are we setting for our children when we show that government actions can and will trample on their rights without benefit of democratic expression?

If there is a definite need for senior citizen amenities, in addition to those already available at the civic center and elsewhere, then I would suggest the city commission look into the use of buildings already empty and available such as the school board buildings on Palmco at 6th and 9th streets.

Any social worker can confirm that it is much easier to schedule events for adults than it is to schedule activities around the leisure time of youth. If transportation for senior citizens is a factor, there are many citizens who have always been willing and glad to provide transportation.

Come on, city government, lets step forward — not backwards!

FBI director may testify in suit

United Press International

EL PASO, Texas — The Justice Department may call FBI Director William Sessions to testify in defense of the agency in a discrimination suit filed by Hispanic agents' sources say.

Justice Department lawyers, opening their defense today in the class action suit, would neither confirm nor deny the reports by court house sources that Sessions would testify.

But a lawyer for the plaintiffs, Jose Silva, said he expected that the top official of the FBI will come to El Paso to testify in the trial.

Former FBI director William Webster, who now heads the Central Intelligence Agency, has given the Justice Department a deposition that will be introduced into evidence, Silva said.

Bernardo Matias "Marti" Perez, now serving as assistant special agent in charge of the El Paso office of the FBI, initiated the class action suit after his demotion and transfer from San Juan, Puerto Rico to Los Angeles.

Perez alleges his white Mormon supervisor in Los Angeles showed favoritism to fellow Mormon FBI agents and tried to get him fired.

Perez said a "few bigots" within the FBI were guilty of mistreatment. He said the FBI believes every Hispanic agent should be able to speak Spanish, an ability Perez said "doesn't come in the genes."

Richard Bretzing, the former special agent in the Los Angeles office and the object of Perez's discrimination charges, will testify next week, attorneys said.

Olympic Team routs NBA stars

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Georgetown's Charles Smith scored 15 of his game-high 17 points in the first half Monday night, leading the U.S. Olympic team to a 91-79 rout of a team of NBA All-Stars in a game U.S. Coach John Thompson left with food poisoning.

Thompson, the Georgetown coach, missed the second half of the game and was replaced on the bench by Olympic assistant George Raveling, the Southern California head coach.

"I don't know if Coach Thompson was sick before the game or if this started after tip-off," Raveling said. "I just did what had to be done."

Danny Manning of Kansas added 14 points while Charles D. Smith of Pittsburgh had 12 and Bradley's Hersey Hawkins 10 to pace the Olympic team.

The Dallas Mavericks' Rolando Blackman led the NBA team with 11 points. Teammates Derrick Harper, Roy Tarpley and Jim Farmer scored 10 points apiece.

Hanika, Sanchez triumph

MAHWAH, N.J. — Sixth-seeded Sylvia Hanika of West Germany and 16-year-old Arantxa Sanchez of Spain scored first-round victories Monday in the $200,000 United Jersey Bank Classic.

Hanika defeated Italy's Raffaella Reggi 6-2, 6-3 and Sanchez eliminated Britain's Jo Durie 6-2, 6-2.

In the featured evening match at Ramapo College, No. 8 Stephanie Rehe of Highland, Calif., downed South African Dinky Van Renensburg 6-2, 6-7 (5-7), 6-3.

Hanika employed seven service breaks en route to victory over Reggi.

"I was able to attack against her second serve," Hanika said. "I kept her on her defense."

Sanchez, who next meets top seed Steffi Graf of West Germany Tuesday night, jumped to a 4-1 lead in the first set and 4-0 in the second.

"She's going to be a top 10 player soon," Durie said. "She's lethal against short balls."

Sanchez is ranked 21st and Durie, once No. 5, is 50th.

FSU's Sanders eligible for '88

TALLAHASSEE — All-America defensive back Deion Sanders has satisfactorily completed coursework and is eligible to play for the No. 1 ranked Seminoles this season, Florida State University announced Monday.

Sanders was excused from preseason practice by Coach Bobby Bowden until he had received official notification he completed the necessary credits to retain his eligibility under NCAA rules.

Sanders, a senior, is expected to begin practice with the Seminoles Monday in preparation for the opening game against defending national champion Miami.

Hrbek years to be wrestler

Twins first baseman Kent Hrbek heard his name being taken in vain Sunday morning, though not by a sportswriter or an angry fan.

Hrbek, who fancies a second career in pro wrestling and has even given himself a moniker of "Tyrannosaurus Rex," was defamed on national television by a tag team named the Russians.

"They said I must really be weak or something if I went out golfing with the Baron (Von Raschke, a pro wrestler)," he said. "They liked (Minnesota outfielder Dan) Gladden though for some reason."

Hrbek did not seem overly distressed by the insult, but added: "If they want some of me they can come get me."

Hendrix steals show for Cowboys

United Press International

IRVING, Texas — Manny Hendrix intercepted a Jim Harbaugh pass and returned it 34 yards for a touchdown with 39 seconds remaining Monday night to seal the Dallas Cowboys' 17-9 exhibition victory over the Chicago Bears.

Harbaugh, the Bears' third quarterback of the night, scrambled to the left under pressure and threw a short pass intended for Eric Starr. Hendrix, a cornerback, picked it off and sprinted into the end zone to seal the triumph for Dallas, which improved to 2-1 in preseason play.

Chicago, 1-2, rolled up 412 yards to 234 for the Cowboys but turned the ball over six times with two interceptions and four lost fumbles. Dallas had no turnovers.

Dallas, which trailed 9-6 at the half despite a 54-yard scoring run by Herschel Walker, took the lead after capitalizing on an interception by Victor Scott.

Scott picked off a Mike Tomczak pass midway through the third quarter and returned it 25 yards to midfield. Backup quarterback Danny White threw for 21 yards to Ray Alexander to set up a 47-yard field goal by Luis Zendejas that gave Dallas a 10-9 lead.

Chicago threatened in the third as Greg Clark blocked a Mike Saxon punt to give the Bears the ball at the Dallas 31. Tomczak moved the Bears to the 5, but Calvin Thomas fumbled on a hit by linebacker Ron Burton and the Cowboys' Garth Jax recovered.

The Cowboys took a 7-0 lead when Walker, who had only 16 yards in the first period, slipped through the line on a draw and rambled 54 yards for a touchdown with 10:11 left in the first half.

Walker finished the night with 75 yards on seven carries.

The Bears' Lou Barns returned the ensuing kickoff 97 yards for a touchdown, but the score was called back on a penalty. Two plays later, starting quarterback Jim McMahon hit Thomas Sanders on an 86-yard touchdown pass with 8:58 remaining. Chicago trailed 7-6 after the snap on the extra point was low and Tomczak was tackled short of the goal line.

The Bears took the lead after a 56-yard Saxon punt to the Bears 10. McMahon engineered a 12-play drive that ended with Kevin Butler's 29-yard field goal with 13 seconds remaining in the half for a 9-7 lead.

Cowboys starting quarterback Steve Fellaer left the game with a concussion midway through the second quarter following a hit by Dante Jones. He hit only 2 of 9 passes for 20 yards. He was replaced by White, who hit 12 of 21 for 106 yards.

McMahon, who played the first half, completed 12 of 21 passes for 208 yards. Tomczak was 4 of 8 for 31 yards while Harbaugh completed 5 of 9 for 63 yards.

Taylor, Mich. — They put together a string of 16 consecutive victories, lost to no one in the Continental United States and only two 13-year-old teams on the entire planet were better. Indeed, it was a summer to remember for the Altamonte Junior League All-Star team, which finished with a phenomenal 18-2 record and third in the Junior League World Series this past week.

The team recovers from its only two losses, the players should realize they accomplished quite a feat. Altamonte was not seriously tested until the World Series and had it not run into a little bad luck the Altamonte team could have brought home another championship. Altamonte lost power hitter Mike Elliot in the second game of the tournament and he could not return to action.

Pitcher Mike Lyons came down with the flu upon arriving in Taylor and was only in one game. "I think we proved ourselves to the other teams in this tournament and if we had a few breaks go our direction things might be different," Altamonte Manager Baird Lyons said. "We had a nice season and to finish third in the world is a heck of an accomplishment. We have nothing to be ashamed of."

Altamonte showed its character the best in clutch situations, after blowing nearly every team away while reaching the World Series it entered pressure packed games where a team had to fight for every run. Altamonte responded well and came up with the big hits at the right time to advance into the semifinals of the tournament.

On the opening day of the tournament Altamonte faced Philadelphia and showed its power in a 9-2 victory. Altamonte's trademark of scoring a lot of runs early showed through in the game Philly as Frank Harmer shut down the opponents offense. Harmer finished the tourney with a 2-0 record and a nice 1.50 ERA.

Altamonte then faced Latin America-Mexico, who went on to win the tournament, and lost 3-0 in a hard fought battle. Mexico scored all three of its runs in the top of the fourth inning with two doubles and a two run homer. The potent Altamonte offense could never get untracked forcing the team into the losers bracket for the first time in the post season.

Altamonte could have easily fallen apart but came back with two strong efforts after being eliminated from the World Series. Harmer was called upon to go against Indiana and aside from giving up two runs in the top of the first pitched dominantly. Harmer was a little wild, throwing a total of 146 pitches in the game but was able to keep Indiana off balance.

Marcus Bullock's two run homer in the bottom of the third inning gave Altamonte the lead for good. Harmer and Scott Johnston added two run doubles in the game as the Altamonte offense managed to get rolling again.

Altamonte showed its competitiveness in the game against Canada. After taking a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning Altamonte cruised until Canada came up with two runs off Pam Davis in the bottom of the fourth.

Altamonte, as down to its final out when Kirk Quirovers reached on a single and stole second. Bullock then delivered a run scoring single to even things up a 2-2 in the bottom of the seventh.

Andrew Thompson, who had not hit a home run in his junior league career, then blasted a line drive over the left field fence to bring Altamonte to an emotional high.

The high, though, was short lived as Altamonte was asked to take the field five minutes after Steve Tolbert (above) pitched his heart out in two games in the Junior League World Series, but, as luck would have it, Altamonte lost both games. Below, Marcus Bullock gets ready to step into the batter's box. Bullock had some clutch in Altamonte's three World Series victories.

McEnroe looks for old form

United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — The ability to maintain his concentration, even through his stormiest fits of anger, has deserted John McEnroe just enough to prevent him from regaining his championship form.

McEnroe, ranked No. 1 in the world from 1981 to 1984, is attempting to regain his form after a couple of long sabbaticals. He won the Suntory Open in Japan and was a finalist in the National Hardcourts earlier this season, but has yet to find the groove that in the past made him such a dominant force in tennis.

Now, just one week before the U.S. Open, a tournament he has won four times, McEnroe says he's honing up the mental aspects of his game.

"It's the mental part of the game that separates me right now from playing like I used to," McEnroe said in a telephone press conference from his home in Malibu, Calif.

"Unfortunately, I have gone out there and my mind wanders more

Azinger-Tway lead Challenge

United Press International

PORTLAND, Ore. — The team of Paul Azinger and Bob Tway combined for a 10-under-par 62 Monday to take a one-shot lead halfway through the $650,000 Fred Meyer Challenge.

The duo of Andy Bean and Ray Floyd was one stroke back following a very hot afternoon on the 6,584-yard course at the Portland Golf Club. Temperatures approached 100 degrees on the first day of the 36-hole, two-day tournament. The tournament uses a best-ball format, counting the better of teammates' players' shots.

"These greens are the fastest I've seen since the Masters," said Payne Stewart, who with partner Ben Crenshaw was four shots off the lead.

Crenshaw and Stewart were the favorites since Stewart paired with Isao Aoki to win last year's edition of the event, now in its third year.

"Early on, it was all Bob Tway," said Azinger, the PGA Championship runner-up.

Reds' Jackson blanks Pirates

United Press International

Cincinnati Manager Pete Rose has a solution for improving his team's standing in the National League West.

Unfortunately for the Reds, the concept won't work — there is only one Danny Jackson.

Jackson fired a five-hitter Monday night to become the National League's first 18-game winner and lead the Reds to a 2-0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"It's just a shame we can't send him out there three times a week instead of twice," said Reds Manager Pete Rose of Jackson.

In improving to 18-5 with an NL-high 12 complete games and five shutouts, Jackson improved his status as the Cy Young Award front-runner.

"I'm not thinking about the Cy Young right now," insisted the left-hander, obtained in an off-season trade with Kansas City. "I don't think thinking about personal goals at this time of year does anybody any good. I'm team-oriented. I'm thinking about trying to help the team get back in contention with Los Angeles. We'd like to be no more than six back when we play them again."

Cincinnati, which trails first-place Los Angeles by 8 1-2 games, has six games left against the Dodgers, starting with a three-game set in Los Angeles starting Sept. 9.

Jackson also contributed two assists and scored the Reds' second run. He singled with two out in the seventh and scored on an error by third baseman Bobby Bonilla, who committed half of Pittsburgh's four errors.

Pittsburgh has scored just six runs over its last five games. Against Jackson, the Pirates moved runners into scoring position three times.

Pirate fans, who have been turning out at a near-record pace, booed loudly in the late innings.

"I'm sure they're getting frustrated just like we are," Van Slyke said. "But Jackson is the best pitcher in the National League. He's tough. He's always coming after you. No fooling around. He's not trying to be tricky. He's just trying to break your thumbs."

The Pirates' lack of offense and poor defense helped Jackson snap the seven-game winning streak of starter Doug Drabek. 12-6. Drabek gave up two runs — one unearned — on seven hits, walked two and struck out two over eight innings.

Mets 7, Dodgers 1

At Los Angeles, Dwight Gooden fired an eight-hitter and Keith Hernandez and Kevin McReynolds homered to help New York halt a four-game losing streak. Tim Teufel added a three-run double and Mookie Wilson had three hits and three runs scored. Gooden, 15-6, has allowed just two earned runs over 53 innings at Dodger Stadium. John Tudor fell to 7-6.

Giants 3, Expos 2

At San Francisco, pinch hitter Ernest Riles slammed a three-run homer in the seventh and Rick Reuschel threw a five-hitter to give San Francisco its sixth straight win. Bryn Smith slipped to 8-8 as Montreal lost its ninth consecutive game. Reuschel, 17-6, struck out a season-high eight.

Astros 9, Cubs 7

At Chicago, Houston rookie Craig Biggio ignited a three-run 10th inning with his first major-league homer. Biggio homered off Goose Gossage, 2-2, who also gave up an R (single) to Glenn Davis. Mitch Webster misplayed a fly ball for a run-scoring, three-base error in the 10th. Juan Agosto, 10-0, won in relief.

Braves 5, Cardinals 3

At St. Louis, Ron Gant collected three hits and scored three runs and Atlanta capitalized on two St. Louis errors to score four unearned runs. Loser Joe Magrane, 2-8, yielded just one earned run and seven hits in seven innings. Tom Glavine improved to 5-14 and Jose Alvarez picked up his second save.

Phillies 6, Padres 5

At San Diego, Steve Jeltz singled home the tying run and Philadelphia took advantage of two San Diego errors during a five-run seventh inning, ending the Phillies' eight-game losing streak and the Padres' five-game winning streak. Greg Harris, 4-4, was the winner. Jimmy Jones dropped to 8-11.

Turmoil continues for slumping Yanks

United Press International

The Yankees lost Sunday and a frustrated Don Mattingly lashed out at George Steinbrenner. Steinbrenner responded Monday and the Yankees lost again.

The star player and owner, each with an intense desire to win, fuel as New York slides in the standings.

But it has been the pitchers, specifically the starters, who have created the most tension for New York, crumbling amid in August heat.

Charles Hudson faltered Monday night, lasting 2 2-3 innings and giving up five runs in the Yankees' 9-2 loss to the Oakland Athletics.

New York starters have lost 11 of their last 12 decisions. The staff has a 7.18 ERA — 71 earned runs over 89 innings — in the past 10 games, during which time the Yankees are 3-7.

"You feel like you have to score right away, and score often," Mattingly said. "It puts a lot of pressure on your offense. It's not just the five or six (runs) we have to get, but how many more after that."

That pressure is showing. The All-Star first baseman is 5 for his last 27 — 185, which the team is hitting (.22-119) over the past four games.

New York trails front-running Detroit by six games, its biggest deficit this season.

"We have to win some ballgames, that'll change things around," Yankees Manager Lou Piniella said. "I'm not happy with the situation, but we just have to win some games. Other teams have been in this situation, but here in New York, it's just so magnified."

The A's opened the scoring and chased Hudson with a six-run third, with Glenn Hubbard delivering the big hit, a two-run double off reliever Steve Shields.

"I know (Shields) throws a lot of off-speed stuff. I was just trying to hit the ball hard," Hubbard said. "Any time you can deliver a couple of runs in that situation, it puts the game that much more in our hands, and we didn't stop there."

Curt Young, 8-7, won for the second time in three starts since being recalled from Tacoma. The left-hander allowed three hits — all in the third — in seven innings, his longest stint this season.

New York scored two in its half of the third. Rickey Henderson and Mattingly singled and scored on Dave Winfield's double. That's where the comeback ended.

"I've never played on a team that's given up and I don't intend to be on one now," Mattingly said. "It's an old cliché: We've got to see what we're made of, what kind of players we are."

He's a young man who is upset and frustrated because he

At Minneapolis, Allan Anderson, 12-7, allowed six hits in eight innings, leading Minnesota to its ninth straight victory over Detroit. Kirby Puckett went 4 for 5 with two RBI, both off Doyle Alexander, 11-9.

Red Sox 6, Angels 2

At Boston, Bruce Hurst, 15-4, won his sixth straight decision, but left after seven innings with shoulder discomfort. Boston took a 3-0 lead in the third, with Ellis Burks hitting a two-run double.

Mariners 7, Orioles 3

At Baltimore, Mickey Brantley collected three hits, two RBI and two runs scored to pace Seattle to its season-high fourth straight triumph. Bill Wilkinson, 1-2, allowed one hit over 4 2-3 innings.

Blue Jays 6, White Sox 3

At Toronto, Dave Stieb, 12-8, threw a five-hitter and struck out a career-best 12 in his fifth complete game. Fred McGriff, Jesse Barfield and Sal Buteera homered off Jerry Reusa, 9-8.

Brewers 7, Indians 3

At Milwaukee, Dale Sveum drove in three runs with a double and single off John Farrell, 13-8, who permitted a career-high seven runs. Mike Birkbeck, 9-6, won seven of eight decisions since being recalled from the minors.

Rangers 9, Royals 5

At Arlington, Texas, Jeff Kunkel drove in two runs, and Scott Fletcher and Mickey Stanley one apiece in the fifth off Floyd Bannister, 9-11, to give Texas a 5-2 lead. George Brett and Bo Jackson homered for Kansas City.

Gaetti may return by end of year

United Press International

MINNEAPOLIS — Minnesota third baseman Gary Gaetti underwent arthroscopic surgery on torn knee cartilage Monday and could return before the end of the season, the club announced.

"The operation was very encouraging according to the doctor," said Minnesota media director Tom Mee. "He said there's a chance he could be available before the end of the season."

Gaetti, a gold glove winner the past two seasons, was injured Wednesday while stealing second base.

Gaetti, hitting .298 with 76 RBI and a Twins-high 26 homers, was placed on the 15-day supplemental disabled list. His roster spot was filled by outfielder Eric Bullock, who was recalled from Triple-A Portland.

Besides helping Minnesota beat Texas 12-2 Sunday, Bert Blyleven reached a number of milestones. His five strikeouts made him only the seventh pitcher to top 3,400 and he tied Carl Hubbell for 35th place on the all-time victory list with 253.

"Yeah, I think I played against him (Hubbell)," joked Blyleven, whose career began with Minnesota in 1970.

Twins first baseman Kent Hrbek heard his name being taken in vain Sunday morning, though not by a sportswriter or an angry fan.

Hrbek, who fancies a second career in pro wrestling and has even given himself a moniker of "Tyrannosaurus Rex," was defamed on national television by a tag team named the Russians.

"They said I must really be weak or something if I went out golling with the Baron (Von Raacke, a pro wrestler)," he said. "They liked (Minnesota outfielder Dan) Gladden (though for some reason)."

Hrbek did not seem overly distressed by the insult, but added: "If they want some of me they can come get me."

Carlton Fisk capped a memorable week by receiving the American League Player of the Week Award for the April 15-21 period.

The Chicago White Sox catcher caught his 1,807th game Wednesday, setting the league record and moving into fourth place on the all-time list. And on Friday, he registered the first five-hit game of his career.

For the week, Fisk hit .563 with three homers and eight RBI.

Cincinnati's Eric Davis captured the National Player of the Week Award. The Reds center fielder hit .318 with three homers, 10 RBI and five stolen bases.

A gimpy left knee and stiff right elbow may have taken a bit of the edge off the play of Toronto's Tony Fernandez in the early part of the season, but the two-time defending American League Gold Glove shortstop now looks like a good bet to gain the honor again.

"There's no doubt the injuries slowed him down early in the season," Blue Jays Manager Jimmy Williams said. "But he still gets stronger every time he goes out there and he still does things that most shortstops in the league wouldn't even attempt."

Fernandez hadn't made an error in his last 61 games entering Monday and he had made only two in 101 contests, giving him seven on the season.

The Cubs and Houston Astros, who began a three-game series Monday, have been talking trade for two months. The player most often discussed has been Chicago's Jody Davis, now the backup to catcher Damon Berryhill.

Houston Manager Hal Lanier said Monday he would welcome the addition of Davis.

"When you're not scoring runs, and we are not scoring runs, and you can strengthen the ball club by adding another bat that can help, you have to do it," he said. "But the general managers have talked more than once and can't get together."

Chicago Manager Don Zimmer says he does not know whether Davis will ever be traded. The trade deadline is midnight Aug 31.

"There are clubs he could play for regularly," Zimmer said of Davis, who was batting .237 with six homers and 29 RBI entering Monday.

Zimmer started the season planning to give Davis a couple of days off a week but Berryhill "outplayed him."

Another Cub being discussed in trade talks is pitcher Rick Sutcliffe, who says he doesn't want to be dealt.

Zimmer steamed at Gossage

United Press International

CHICAGO — Rich "Goose" Gossage, who ranks second all-time in career saves, lost his job as the Chicago Cubs' closer Monday after blowing a game to the Houston Astros.

Gossage, 37, gave up two runs in the ninth inning Monday, allowing Houston to tie the score 6-6, then gave up a leadoff homer to rookie Craig Biggio in the 10th inning and the Astros beat the Cubs 9-7.

After the game, Cubs Manager Don Zimmer said Gossage would no longer be his first choice to save games.

"Gossage now will go to the bullpen when the game starts just like the rest of them," Zimmer said. "I will use (Jeff) Pico as my closer as it stands right now."

Gossage, 2-2, has 12 saves in 34 appearances. He has blown save opportunities 10 times.

Gossage also blew a save opportunity against the New York Mets at Wrigley Field two weeks ago when he gave up a grand slam to Kevin McReynolds with two out in the ninth inning. McReynolds was the first batter Gossage faced in that game.

Tech's Ross: No studying on game day

United Press International

ATLANTA — Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Ross says he does not want his players studying on game days during the football season.

"I want football to be damn important," he said. "I'm a football coach. I agree with academics, but I want to win some football games."

"I believe in a good education, but we've also got to make football important at Georgia Tech. I want us to be both, to blend the two together. I believe it can be done or I wouldn't be here."

Ross switched last year from Maryland to Georgia Tech and went 2-9 in his first season with the Yellow Jackets.

"The emphasis on academics at Georgia Tech is unique, different," he said. "I don't mind our players taking books on football trips. But you don't study on Saturdays, not on game day.

"I don't like to lose. I don't take it to very well. Unlike Maryland, we had kids out studying until 2-2:30 in the morning. There were times in '87 when I was mad, really mad. I had to adjust to it."

Last season the Yellow Jackets' only victories came against Division I-AA opponents Citadel and Indiana State.

"Maybe you can say we hit bottom last year," Ross said. "But I feel we're on the way back up. It's important for me to see some results, to see some wins. That's the type person I am. I think Georgia Tech can come back in football. It's done it in other sports, so why not football?"

Georgia Tech cut Southeastern Conference powers Auburn and Tennessee from its schedule and again plays two I-AA teams.

Thompson's shot. Altamonte then played Hilo-Hawaii for the right to face Mexico in the finals. Hawaii came up with the game of their lives against Altamonte in posting a 6-1 victory.

Hawaii played errorless ball until the final inning and pitcher Mel Jordan whirled a four hitter against a team that was not mentally prepared to play.

"I think if we'd had some more time between the Canada and Hawaii game it would have made a big difference," Lyons said. "But that comes with losing the first game and we were just tired and quit playing the way we're capable of."

After Mexico defeated Hawaii, 11-6, in the final game of the tournament, in a game that saw 13 errors, it was evident that Altamonte was every bit as talented as either team. Altamonte, thought, didn't get the breaks it had in the past and never got the big inning it had been receiving throughout the post season.

Urologist can reverse swollen veins problem

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm male, age 21, and have been suffering physically and emotionally for eight years with varicose veins of the testicles. I feel deformed and mutilated. I also can't grow any facial hair. Should I see an endocrinologist, a urologist or a psychologist?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'd vote for the urologist because you clearly have a problem with the veins in the testicular area. You may have an ailment called a varicocele, swelling of the testicular veins. This can affect both your hormone levels and your fertility. These veins can be easily removed to return you to normal.

If you do have an endocrine deficiency that is unrelated to your varicocele, the urologist can subsequently refer you to the appropriate medical specialist.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband committed suicide. He was 61 and shortly due to retire. To my knowledge, he had no reason to do this, and from conversations we'd had during our married life, I got the distinct impression he never believed in suicide. Could the Desyrel he was taking have contributed to his depression?

DEAR DR. GOTT: Desyrel is a drug used for the treatment of depression. It is unlikely to have been the cause of your husband's suicide.

I think it's more probable that he took his own life while in the depths of a depression for which he was receiving therapy. Ask his doctor to discuss the causes of this tragic consequence.

I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL ILLNESS. Other readers who want a copy of this Health Report should send $5 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband had a massive heart attack two months after being diagnosed with Meig's syndrome. What's the connection? I haven't been able to find any information on this syndrome.

DEAR READER: I, too, am confused by the doctor's diagnosis. The term "Meig's syndrome" refers to an exclusively female disorder characterized by fluid in the chest cavity and in the abdomen caused by an ovarian fibroma, a benign tumor of the ovary

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Today's deal is from Eddie Kantar's "Lesson on Responding to a Takenout Double." Kantar has an unusual idea in bridge publishing -- 20 lessons on various topics for $2 a lesson plus 50 cents postage. Each lesson is about 15 pages, and you can select the topics you want to cover to become a better player. For further information, write Eddie Kantar, P.O. Box 427, Venice, CA 90291-0427.

After the takeout double of one spade, though South had only six highcard points, the six-card heart suit was worth extra, so he was justified in jumping to three hearts as a game invitation. North was happy to go to game, but the contract floundered when East-West employed a traditional defensive understanding. When the king of spades was led, East played the queen. That announced possession of the jack and commanded West to underlead the ace. So East won the second trick with the spade jack so that he could switch to a club. When that happened, West took the A-Q of clubs to set the contract.

What if East had Q-10-5 of spades or Q-5 doubleton? In an honest game, there is no way to communicate such a holding. With the Q-10-5, East might try playing the 10 in the hope that West would know to underlead the ace to his queen, but he should not be surprised if West continues with ace and another or she dare not talk about to others.

HOROSCOPE

What the day will bring...

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're likely to be more comfortable today participating in activities that stress the mental rather than the physical. Associate with pals who have a similar mindset.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your progress might be measured in small steps today rather than leaps and bounds. Be satisfied with what occurs, as long as you are moving forward.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) News you have been hoping for could be forthcoming today. It should ease your anxieties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Use both logic and intuition in your commercial dealings today. Together, they should supply you with the edge you'll need.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your greatest asset today is your ability to get along well with others. This attribute may produce some special benefits before the day is over.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Act in harmony with your thoughts today regarding ways to fulfill your aspirations. Concepts you conceive will have favorable applications.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you'll have an opportunity to purvey knowledge about something interesting that you have recently learned. The recipient will find it extremely useful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today, you have the ability to capitalize on small opportunities your associates may overlook. You will appreciate the fact that size is not more important than substance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Companions will find you a pleasant person to be around today. Your thoughts will be focused upon what you can do to please those you are involved with.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be alert for little ways to economize today. If something is broken, see if you can mend it yourself or have it repaired instead of buying a new one.

Telltale postmarks speak of mail behind the times

DEAR ABBY: My family calls me "Pack Rat" because I save everything, to which I reply, "You never know when it might come in handy."
Well, after reading your column in the Wenatchee World, in which you asked if anyone can top the story about the valentine that took 45 years to get from Idaho to Connecticut, I went straight to a newspaper clipping I had saved since 1961 while I was living in Peru. Here it is:
"AKEQUIPA, Peru (UPI) — Postal authorities said they had found a 164-year-old letter in a stack of mail marked 'undelivered due to insufficient postage.' The letter was dated July 8, 1860. It was addressed to the president of the Tribunal of Justice in Arequipa—the second largest city in Peru."
Abby, you be the judge. Have a sunshine day!

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
BY THE CITY OF LONGWOOD, FLORIDA, THAT THE BOARD OF ADJUSTMENT will hold a Public Hearing on Monday, September 7, 1988 at 7:30 P.M. in the Longwood City Commission Chamber, 175 W. Warren Avenue, Longwood, Florida, or as soon thereafter as possible, to consider a Variance requested by Accurate Sign and Design, Inc. (for Taco Bell) to allow 14.53 square feet of advertising signage in lieu of the maximum of 76 square feet of allowable signage in a C-3 zoning district, on the following legally described property:
Part of Tract 1 and 2, Replat of Tract 1, 2, 7, 10, 15 and South half of 14, LESS Block "H", SANLANDO SPRINGS, according to the plat thereof, as recorded in Plat Book 7, Page 1, Public Records, Seminole County, Florida, together with the 25.00 foot rear adjacent on 1/4 North, on in Section 1, Township 11 South, Range 29 East, Seminole County, Florida, and being more particularly described as:
Commence at the North 1/4 corner of said Section 1; thence S 89°58'14" E along the North line thereof 906.90 feet to the Point of Beginning; thence continue S 89°58'14" E, 441.10 feet to the point on the east line of the West 141.40 feet of Tract 1; thence S 00°00'34" W, 200.00 feet; thence N 89°58'14" W, 440.70 feet; thence N 00°01'46" E, 200.00 feet to the Point of Beginning.

Described as vacant land lying on the S side of SR 434, opposite Harbour Isle Subdivision.
At this meeting all interested parties may appear to be heard with respect to the Variance requested. This hearing may be continued from time to time until final action is taken by the Board of Adjustment. A copy of this report is on file with the City Clerk and may be inspected by the public.
All persons are advised that if they decide to appeal any decision made at these hearings, they will need a verbatim record of the proceedings and for such purposes, they will need to insure that a verbatim record is made, which record to include the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is made. The City of Longwood does not provide this verbatim record.
Dated this August 12, 1988.

More violence erupts in Gaza Strip in wake of strike

United Press International

JERUSALEM — Soldiers shot and wounded a Palestinian youth in the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip today as violence continued following a general strike Monday and the underground leadership of the 8-month-old uprising called for two more strikes this week.

Palestinian sources said an 18-year-old youth from the U.N.-run Beach refugee camp in the northern Gaza Strip was wounded in the abdomen with live ammunition during clashes today between soldiers and Palestinian protesters.

The violence followed widespread clashes and demonstrations Monday across the Gaza Strip during a general strike called by the underground committee coordinating the uprising to protest Israeli taxation policies in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

A leaflet circulated today by the PLO-backed underground leadership of the uprising called for two general strike days Wednesday and Thursday to express Palestinian solidarity with those imprisoned by Israeli authorities.

Commerce already has been shut down by strikes for two days this week in many parts of the West Bank and Gaza. The leadership called Monday's general strike, and the Gaza-based Islamic Resistance Movement succeeded for the first time Sunday in enforcing a general strike not only in Gaza, but in many parts of the West Bank.

The leaflet urges the Palestine National Council, the PLO's Palestinian parliament-in-exile, to "adopt a comprehensive and clear political program which will gain widespread international support for the national rights of our people."

Palestinian officials have said the Palestine Liberation Organization is considering creating a government-in-exile or declaring a provisional government based in the occupied territories in response to Jordanian King Hussein's decision to sever administrative ties with the territories.

In the West Bank and Gaza Strip Monday, at least 20 Palestinians were wounded by army gunfire during clashes, Palestinian sources and hospital officials said. A Palestinian died Monday from bullet wounds received Sunday night during an army raid in the West Bank.

Clashes continued throughout the Gaza Strip Monday night, with hundreds of people swarming into the streets, chanting slogans, erecting barricades of burning tires and hurling stones at the Israeli troops, Palestinian sources said. The army fired tear gas and bullets to disperse the rioters.

Earlier in the day, Palestinians using mosque loudspeakers urged residents into the streets to fight Israeli soldiers. "Death to America, Death to Israel," the Palestinians shouted in Arabic. "Victory to PLO, no to occupation."

In an effort to prevent violence from flaring during Monday's commercial strike, the military clamped a pre-dawn curfew on Nablus, the largest city in the West Bank, and surrounding refugee camps. Nablus, with an estimated 100,000 residents, and the refugee camps have been the scene of numerous violent clashes between soldiers and Palestinians during the uprising.

Israeli troops also raided several refugee camps near Nablus late Sunday to make arrests to prevent disturbances expected during the commercial strike. Soldiers met resistance in the Askar refugee camp, where they opened fire and wounded five Palestinians, Palestinian and military sources said.

Ahmed Mohammed Hussein, 22, who was shot in the stomach and chest, died early Monday in the operating room of Al Ithhad Hospital, hospital officials said.

Some legislators boycott apartheid debate session

United Press International

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Legislators of mixed and Indian race said they would boycott debate today on tightening residential apartheid laws, leaving only white lawmakers in South Africa's showcase of reform to consider a contentious legislative package.

Leaders of the two chambers of the tricameral Parliament announced the boycott Monday, branding the bills a step backwards in improving race relations and conceding approval by the minority white government is a foregone conclusion no matter what they do.

"It is a protest against injustice," said Allan Hendrickes, leader of the Labor Party, which controls the House of Representatives — the chamber for South Africans of mixed, or "colored," race under South Africa's racial classification laws.

"The government has completely ignored our representations and feelings," he said.

Hendrickes said his party will decide at a convention next month whether to pull out entirely from the legislature.

The leadership of the House of Delegates — the body for people of Asian descent — also announced plans to boycott debate for the next two weeks on the package of ruling National Party-sponsored housing and squatter bills that have drawn widespread criticism.

Officials of the two houses said they will attend only a rare joint sitting scheduled for Wednesday to debate U.S.-brokered negotiations on independence for South Africa-administered Namibia and a Cuban troop withdrawal from neighboring Angola.

Combined with the white House of Assembly, the three bodies make up the tricameral Parliament created in 1984 under constitutional changes that the government said ushered in a period of reform in South Africa, where the black majority has no voice in national government affairs.

The boycott, as a veto by the two chambers would have done, effectively forces the government to have the legislation approved in the President's Council, an appointed body dominated ed by the ruling National Party with powers to override parliamentary votes.

Parliament, which resumed its session Monday, is considering five bills dealing with racial segregation — a squatters bill, a slums bill and three bills dealing with the Group Areas Act, a pillar of apartheid that determines where people must live on the basis of race.

Debate today was scheduled to focus on the Illegal Squatting Amendment Bill, which strengthens prosecution of landlords who allow illegal occupation, while debate on the Group Areas Amendment Bill — the most contentious in the package — is scheduled next week.

The Group Areas Amendment Bill increases fines and jail terms for violators and, if enforced rigorously, could lead to eviction of as many as 200,000 blacks living illegally in white areas at a time when the country faces a shortfall of more than 720,000 houses in black residential areas.

Constitutional Development Minister Chris Heunis Monday withdrew the amendment bill for revisions, including the scrapping of a provision that would have compelled judges to evict blacks found guilty of living in white areas illegally without considering whether they had alternative housing.

The controversial elements of the legislation have overshadowed one bill that allows for the government for the first time in the 40-year history of apartheid laws to designate some residential areas "open" to all races.

A separate piece of legislation sets up the framework for the election of a management advisory council in "open areas" that would be elected by blacks and whites, placing them on the same voters roll for the first time. The council, however, would only have powers assigned to them by the provincial government.

Geneva peace talks to begin

United Press International

GENEVA — U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar began mediation today to achieve peace settlements between the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus and laid groundwork to end the Iran-Iraq conflict.

Perez de Cuellar first tackled the Cyprus issue and scheduled the start of the Iran-Iraq talks for late Thursday.

Arriving in Geneva Monday, the U.N. leader said he expected to meet Iranian foreign minister Ali Akbar Velayati and Iraqi foreign minister Tariq Aziz.

The two men were unlikely to meet directly, at least initially, Perez de Cuellar said, and negotiations as such would probably last "many months."

U.N. officials predicted the first high-level stage in Geneva would last up to two weeks or perhaps a little longer.

Perez de Cuellar concentrated first, however, on initiating "direct talks between Greek and Turkish Cypriots to end the 14-year division of the 673,000-population island in the eastern Mediterranean."

The two communities have been fighting since shortly after Cyprus won independence from Britain in 1960 and Turkey sent in troops in 1974 to occupy the Turkish area, or about 40 percent of the island on the northeast.

A "Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus" was proclaimed in 1983 but is recognized only by Ankara and is considered illegal by the United Nations, which demands the withdrawal of Turkey's current 29,000 troops.
