Application withdrawn

SANFORD — The application to turn the former Freddie's Steak House in Fern Park into a strip joint was withdrawn Wednesday. The request had filled county commissioners' mailboxes with 1,315 letters in opposition to the proposal.

County zoning coordinator Ginny Markley received the withdrawal letter Wednesday from applicant Lawrence R. Siegel of Longwood. Siegel, who was acting on behalf of the current owners, Joe-Lin Inc., sought permission to convert the vacant restaurant on South U.S. Highway 17-92 into an adult cabaret. He also sought permission to serve alcohol there.

Markley said the proposal would violate two county codes requiring 100 feet between the property lines of an adult entertainment establishment and 1,000 feet from the nearest school, church or playground. Siegel had proposed to eliminate a 100 foot strip between his property and a nearby home and remove the corner of the building that intruded into the 1,000-foot "setback" requirement from a church.

Play ball

LAKE MARY — The new sports complex in Lake Mary is ready for use. Grand opening events are scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 21, at 2 p.m.

According to Recreation Coordinator Terry Diederich, "This will be a big day for the sports complex as well as the city. We would like to have as many people as possible turn out to usher in this facility."

One of the highlights will be a softball game to be played between City Commissioners and the staff, against any citizens who show up and are willing to challenge them.

Food, beverages and prizes will also be offered during the day.

Planning for league play is nearing completion for this year. Men's and Women's C adult softball registration is still being accepted. The city is also seeking scorekeepers for the adult softball league games.

There is no charge for admission at this Sunday's grand opening. The event will begin at 2 p.m., at the Lake Mary Sports Complex, on North Rantoul Lane, in Lake Mary. For further information, call 324-3097.

Zoo cruise date changed

SANFORD — The date for the Central Florida Zoological Park benefit on St. Johns River Cruises has been changed from Saturday, Feb. 20, to Saturday, March 20.

Public Relations Manager Andrea Farmer said although response for the original February date has been overwhelming, the owner of St. Johns River Cruises is waiting on a new 50 passenger capacity boat to hold additional people.

Space is available on a limited basis for each of the two 2-hour cruises planned at 11 a.m. and again at 1:30 p.m.

For reservations and information, 330-1612.

SANFORD — A Sanford man who filed a complaint with police accusing one city commissioner of stalking him, has also implicated a second commissioner.

Ricky Sheaffer, 42, yesterday afternoon filed official documents with the Sanford Police Department against Sanford City Commissioner Whitley Eckstein. In the complaint, Sheaffer alleges Eckstein harassed

Sheriff pledges aid in crime fight

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sheriff Don Eslinger pledged to assist Sanford police deter crime on city streets.

"We'll assist the city of Sanford in any way, shape or fashion they want," said Eslinger this morning. "We'll do anything to help any citizen of the county wherever they are."

Mayor Bettye Smith said she appreciated the assistance and said she was pleased the sheriff and chief were working closely together.

"I applaud that effort," said Smith. "We have always worked closely with the sheriff's office."

Residents of Georgetown and west Sanford have appealed to the city to end drug-related activities and criminal mischief in their neighborhoods. Smith challenged the groups to suggest solutions.

Eslinger said he was approached by Martha

Lake Mary may form task force to study annexation

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary tonight will discuss forming a task force charged with studying properties that should be annexed into the city.

City Manager John Litton is requesting city commission input on forming the task force as well as specifying the direction it might take.

In a presentation for tonight's commission meeting, Litton asks, "Is the task force going to be charged with solely identifying property which they feel should be within the city limits? Is the task force going to be solely concerned with attempting to convince certain properties that they belong in the city for whatever reason? Or both one and two?"

The suggestion to set up a group to look into annexation matters has been discussed previously. Early this month, Litton requested comments on the matter from City Attorney Ned Julian.

Julian has submitted a written response suggesting caution in offering any favors which might be granted to a community in exchange for annexation. "The only thing that is conceivably possible," he wrote, "is a tax increment development district similar to what the City of Sanford utilized in conjunction with the construction of the new mall."

Although the city could establish a task force to include any group of people deemed necessary, Litton has suggested it could be a sub-committee of the Business Advisory Board, to include members who reside within the city. He proposes the mayor and police chief also be included in the task force.

In his response, Julian commented, "The city can have all the committees and task forces it wants. However, those committees and task forces must meet in the sunshine and are not permitted to engage in secret negotiations with property owners."

The task force concept is not new. Former Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris proposed such a group in late 1991. "We needed a committee to look into annexation," Morris said

10 vie for top teacher of the year

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County school district named its top 10 teachers of the year today and will begin, next week, to visit the teachers in their classrooms before choosing the district's best.

The teachers at each Seminole County school votes on their peers and selects one teacher who they feel best represents their ideals and teaching methods.

The teacher who is selected then prepares a package of self-information which is submitted to the district level.

A panel of district level administrators is charged with the difficult task of cutting the list from 47 to only ten.

"It is a monumental task," said John Reichert, director of personnel, who is one of the members of the selection committee. "These are the best we have to offer and it is difficult to cut the list down to only ten."

During the next few weeks the task will become even more difficult.

Each of the top teachers will be visited in his or her own classroom and observed by the panel. The group tries to get a feel for what the teacher is really like on a daily basis.

Most of the teachers will be visited next week, though one of the teachers who is on the modified school calendar, will not return to the classroom from the current intersession until March 8.

The committee will have to make its final decision by March 10 when the top teacher will be visited once again in the classroom. On that date, however, it will be with flowers, balloons and cheering supporters as the educator is officially proclaimed the Seminole County Teacher of the Year.

The top 10 teachers are: Charlotte Schmitt, a fifth grade teacher from Geneva Elementary School in Geneva; Rebecca S. Dean, a second grade teacher from Goldsboro Elementary School in Sanford; Karen L. Dulski, a fifth grade teacher from Heathrow Elementary School in Lake Mary; Helen Reed, a fourth grade teacher from Idyllwilde Elementary School in Sanford and Mary Thurston, a TMH teacher from Keith Elementary School in Winter Springs.

Also: Fannie Eugenia Miller, a computer lab teacher from Midway Elementary School in Sanford; Ira George-Hudgins, a health teacher from Milwee Middle School in Longwood; Paul V. Greer, a social studies teacher from Oviedo High School in Oviedo; Art Woodruff, the Applied Technologies teacher from Seminole High School in Sanford; and Wayne Frongello, a science teacher from South Seminole Middle School in Casselberry.

Yunce soliciting his aide, and he contacted Capt. Ralph Russell, acting Sanford police chief, to see what support he could lend to Sanford police. Yunce is chairman of a special committee of The Women's Club of Sanford working to arrive at solutions.

At Russell's request, Ealinger has ordered deputies to increase their presence in neighborhoods where residents have complained about increasing crime. Those neighborhoods include eastern Georgetown and Goldsboro. Deputies will not be assigned to patrol city streets, said Ealinger, but will drive through the neighborhoods on their way to other assignments.

Maj. Steve Harriett, former Sanford police chief, said "floater" deputies will now include city streets in their rounds. Harriett said floaters are those deputies who roam between patrol zones to aide the deputies assigned to them.

Also, Deputy Wendell Bradford, the school resource officer at Seminole High School, will patrol Georgetown and other SHS "feeder" neighborhoods after classes are over.

"We want to get him out in the community where these children are after school because he knows them and they him," said Ealinger.

Russell said he requested the increased deputy presence in the city to help deter crime incidents.

"We work very closely with Seminole County anyhow," said Russell. "CCIB (the City-County Investigative Bureau) has been working with us for several weeks now. This is nothing different. We'll be exchanging information and working together to deter crime."

But Russell added that the call for assistance was not a cry for help.

"Crime is not out of hand," said Russell. "This is something we do periodically."

Miami woman claims Lotto share

TALLAHASSEE — A retired Miami woman claimed her third of the Jan. 16 Lotto jackpot of $6.02 million. Josefina Diaz will receive 20 annual payments of $100,333, the Lottery Department announced Wednesday. She purchased the winning ticket at a supermarket in Miami and used the "quick pick" method to choose her numbers. Sholem and Cheyana Grubin of Miami claimed their third of the jackpot Feb. 8. The third winning ticket was sold in Venice and hasn't yet been presented for payment. The winning numbers drawn on Jan. 16 were 2, 12, 17, 21, 36 and 46.

Tourism violence attacked Chiles: Florida taking action against tourism crime

By BILL KAGOR Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Florida is taking action to stop crime against tourists, Gov. Lawton Chiles said Wednesday, a day after Canadians were warned by their government to take precautions in the Sunshine State.

"Obviously, we don't like any bad publicity," Chiles said. "I also do not like the idea that Florida citizens are subjected to crime. We've been trying to do something about that."

Chiles cited his Safe Streets legislation to build more prisons and take other steps to keep violent criminals behind bars longer. He also plans to meet next week with tourism, law enforcement and government leaders to discuss ways to curb crime against tourists.

Canadian External Affairs Minister

Barbara McDougall said Tuesday that Canadians traveling to Florida should take precautions in response to reports of widespread violence against tourists.

She gave no specific advice to Canadians other than to take the same precautions they do at home or traveling elsewhere. She stopped short of advising them against going to Florida.

Chiles said the problem may be one of perception.

"Part of what's happening to us is the stories now are getting much more coverage," the governor said. "It's looking like we don't have a concern."

Officials are trying to determine whether they are dealing with a crime wave or more publicity about crimes against tourists, said Commerce Department Press Secretary April S. Herrie.

"We've had a lot of incidents over the last few years, but we've never had such a cluster of publicity," she said. "But either way, whether it's a real increase or a perceived increase, it's still a problem that we have to address."

Statistically, some of the 40 million tourists who visit Florida every year are bound to become crime victims. Canada is Florida's top foreign market, accounting for 2.4 million visitors, many staying all winter.

Two Canadian tourists have been slain since December and at least two others shot in robbery attempts. A mother and daughter also were beaten and robbed while vacationing on Florida's Atlantic coast.

At least two Canadian tourists were the target of armed robbers in the past week alone.

Commerce already had been working on a tourist brochure that includes crime and other safety tips.

Scattering of the clan

When the big, yellow school bus stopped recently at Pomegranate Avenue and West Third Street in Sanford to unload students, the young passengers wasted no time scattering in all directions. Perhaps they were in a hurry to get home, grab some snacks and finish off the afternoon doing their favorite thing after a hard day at work (school).

Panel OKs lobbyist fees ban

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Lobbyists would be barred from accepting fees based on whether they can persuade lawmakers to pass or defeat specific legislation under a proposal that cleared a House subcommittee Wednesday.

The Ethics subcommittee unanimously sent the contingency fee ban to the full Ethics and Elections Committee, which is expected to hear it Thursday or Friday.

"Someone's shooting for $250,000 whether or not something happens. I mean that puts a lot of pressure on someone as to what they are willing to do," said Rep. Ronald Glickman, the subcommittee's chairman.

Glickman, D-Tampa, said the proposed committee bill would lift that pressure and in effect save lobbyists from themselves.

him after a letter to the Editor he wrote appeared in the Sanford Herald. In the letter, Shearer commented on a statement Eckstein made at a city commission meeting.

In his complaint, Shearer also accuses Commissioner A.A. McClanahan of "targeting" him and putting him under undo pressure at his job. Shearer claims both Eckstein and McClanahan in separate incidences, told his employers at Leonard Shell Station in Sanford that they would not do business with them because of Shearer's letter.

Eckstein has denied the charges. "I'm willing to go to the police station and take a lie detector test," he said. "And I challenge Shearer to do the same. I'm sure it will prove who's telling the truth."

McClanahan admitted making the comment alleged in Shearer's complaint.

"The way I figure," he said, "I can buy my gas anywhere I want, and when someone like Shearer writes a letter like he did, I don't see supporting him with my business." He added, "Actually, I just don't know what his problem is."

Shearer said this morning he felt an obligation to let citizens know about the commissioners' conduct.

"I thought about letting it go, but I felt like a coward. I felt like I'd be letting the whole town down," he said.

Shearer's letter, published in the Feb. 15 edition of the Sanford Herald, commented on a prior Sanford City Commission meeting during which citizens were commenting on drug and crime problems.

"I was greatly surprised at Whitey Eckstein's ignorance of the reasons for the slow response times," he wrote, "seeing as how he's an elected commissioner and should know these things."

Shearer was not at the commission meeting. In his letter, he said he had read about the comments.

The day following the meeting, the Sanford Herald reported only on Eckstein's response to a complaint about slow police response time from citizen Bernard Mitchell. Eckstein said, "Mr. Mitchell, the next time you call the police, write down the time and write down when they responded. Then let us know. If it's a delay, I'll be asking why."

In the official incident report submitted to police, Shearer wrote, "Eckstein allegedly has by verbal contact and driving by and through Ricky Shearer's place of employment, created a situation of causing fear and apprehension in the well-being of Shearer."

"Shearer feels threatened in the loss of his employment and his peace and tranquility both in his home and work place environment."

Shearer listed four separate reasons for his charge.

Eckstein has denied going to Shearer's place of employment. "While I do buy gas there," he said, "the last time I was there was probably two weeks ago. I don't even know what the man looks like."

"What made me angry," Eckstein commented, "was when I talked with Shearer on the phone regarding what he wrote about me, and he called me an S.O.B. and hung up on me."

He continued, "All I'm looking for is an apology."

Although Shearer reported that the Leonard had been contacted by Eckstein, Mike Leonard said late yesterday, "I'm not going to comment on anything. This is being looked into, and that's all I want to say."

Acting Police Chief Ralph Russell commented, "The only connection I had with this was when Commissioner Eckstein called me about the problem, and I told him to take it directly to Rick (Shearer) that this was not a police problem."

Russell refused further comment.

Shearer has obtained the services of Sanford Attorney Thomas Greene to discuss what the next steps might be following yesterday's filing of the stalking complaint.

Leonard's Shell Station at 2500 Park Avenue, trying to coerce and intimidate my employers to retaliate against me because I would not apologize to him. This has jeopardized my employment with Leonard Shell. Mr. Eckstein has made it plain to my employers that he and his family will no longer do their business there, and that he will get others to do likewise. On Tuesday according to Pat & Mike Leonard, A.A. McClanahan came into the station and told Pat that he and his family would no longer be doing business there. According to Pat's statement, he asked why, Commissioner McClanahan stated, "You've got an employee here with diarrhea of the mouth which you need to do something about."

When Mr. Eckstein could not get back at me through my employers, he approached my wife's boss, Capt. Russell (acting Sanford police chief) wanting the acting chief to talk to my wife, trying to bring pressure to bear on me from that direction. Captain Russell refused.

According to Bob Richardson, another employee of Leonard Shell, who I relieve at night, Mr. Eckstein has called the service station inquiring as to when I came to work. Mr. Richardson has also stated that Mr. Eckstein has driven through the station, not stopping but just looking. This has occurred on more than one occasion.

At this point it appears that I am being targeted by these two city commissioners and being put under undo pressure, not only upon myself, but my family as well.

False license application

Gary Thomas Mitchell, 34, 1651 S.R. 419, Longwood, was arrested at the driver's license office by Sanford police on Tuesday. Police said he was attempting to obtain a Florida commercial drivers license, by producing an Oregon license, which proved to be false. Mitchell was charged with obtaining a Florida driver's license by fraud, and making a counterfeit drivers license.

Drug watch brings arrest

Eddie Charles Smith, 36, with no local address, was arrested by Sanford police at 46 Lake Monroe Terrace, Tuesday when officers reported seeing what appeared to be a drug purchase. Smith was charged with possession of a controlled substance, less than 20 grams, and possession with intent to distribute.

Traffic stop brings drug arrest

Victor Ferdenand Blue, 26, 4550 Douglass, Lake Monroe, was arrested by Sanford police Tuesday. The arrest followed a traffic stop at 5th Street and Cypress Avenue. Upon checking his vehicle, officers reported finding a "small amount of marijuana on the floor" of the vehicle. Tests later proved positive for marijuana. He was charged with possession of a controlled substance less than 20 grams, and driving with a suspended license.

Man arrested for trespassing

Sanford police arrested Stephen Lamar Haney, 37, 2472 Palmetto Avenue on Tuesday. Officers were called to a restaurant where Haney was located in the 1500 block of S. Orlando Drive. They said Haney had previously been issued a written warning on Jan. 30, against trespassing in the establishment. Haney was charged with trespassing after a warning.

Plane renter arrested

Ronald Michael Kasluk, 38, 125 Anthony Drive, Sanford, was arrested at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Tuesday, following an investigation into the renting of an aircraft with forged checks. The checks reportedly amounted to $500 on Feb. 4, and $600 on Feb. 5. Kasluk was charged with uttering a forged instrument, and grand theft.

Stolen tag spotted

Sheriff's deputies arrested Lynn Williams, 20, 2841 Celery Avenue, Sanford, at Sipes Avenue near Main Street Tuesday. A traffic stop was conducted when the deputy reported seeing a license tag on the vehicle being driven by Williams, that had previously been reported stolen. Williams was arrested for having an attached tag not assigned, and having no valid driver's license.

Warrants served

David Wallace Vick, 34, 1995 S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood, was arrested at the county jail Tuesday where he was being held on unrelated charges. He was found to be wanted on a warrant for violation of parole on a conviction of burglary.

David Eugene Newell, 27, 1711 Roosevelt Ave., Sanford, was arrested at the county jail Tuesday. He was wanted on a warrant charging him with violation of parole on a conviction of carrying a concealed firearm.

As far as the eye can see

Emil and Joe Pieszala drove to Sanford from Deltona looking for an excellent birdwatching spot. They found it on Lake Monroe. The raw weather didn't dampen the spirits of the men nor of the birds that flew south to enjoy winter vacation.

New battle fought over Rebel flag

By DICK PETTY
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — The Confederate banner is flying over a new battle, between those who say it honors soldiers who fell a century ago and those who say it insults another group of Southerners still seeking freedom 100 years later.

The flag "represents the sacrifices of our forefathers," said John Murlin, who demonstrated with white supporters of the flag last week. "It is a memorial to Confederate veterans."

"It represents white supremacy," countered Megucwell Childs, a black man. "It's a subliminal message."

Gov. Zell Miller touched off the dispute in January with legislation to remove from the state flag the familiar star-studded blue "X" on a red field.

Miller said the flag projects a poor image for Georgia as it prepares to be host of the 1994 Super Bowl and the 1996 Olympics.

The proposal has encountered strong opposition in the Legislature and has become one of the most volatile issues in Georgia politics.

In Alabama, a similar fight is under way. Gov. Guy Hunt is appealing a federal judge's order barring display of the Confederate battle flag over the Capitol dome. The judge agreed with four black legislators that an 1895 law allows only the Alabama and American flags to fly over the Capitol.

Jurors' knowledge delays the start of carjack-murder trial

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — Extensive publicity about the execution-style slaying of two people and wounding of a third delayed the start of a pace-setting federal carjacking trial until today.

Three youths face life terms under a new federal statute on armed carjacking involving a death — the first such case to come to trial in the country, according to U.S. Attorney Robert Genzman.

Prospective jurors were closely questioned over two days by judge, prosecutors and defense attorneys to determine their exposure to news reports about the Nov. 29 slayings in a rural area not far from Central Florida's tourist attractions.

After a full day of individual questioning Wednesday, 39 jury candidates remained for the final selection process.

A 12-member panel was expected to be seated and begin hearing testimony today. Attorneys had earlier expressed confidence a jury could be quickly selected Wednesday.

Most of the jury candidates in a 65-member pool said they had read, heard or seen news reports about the three young people stripped, forced to lie on the ground and shot in the back of the head in an Ocala County field.

The three assailants then stole their vehicle.

One man, Michael Rentas, 20, was wounded and played dead. A female companion, Tammy George, was not harmed.

Killed were Anthony Faiella, 17, and Anthony Clifton, 20.

Some of the potential jurors referred to "racial overtones" in the case, recalling reports that the woman abducted along with the shooting victims was not hurt because she was black as were the assailants.

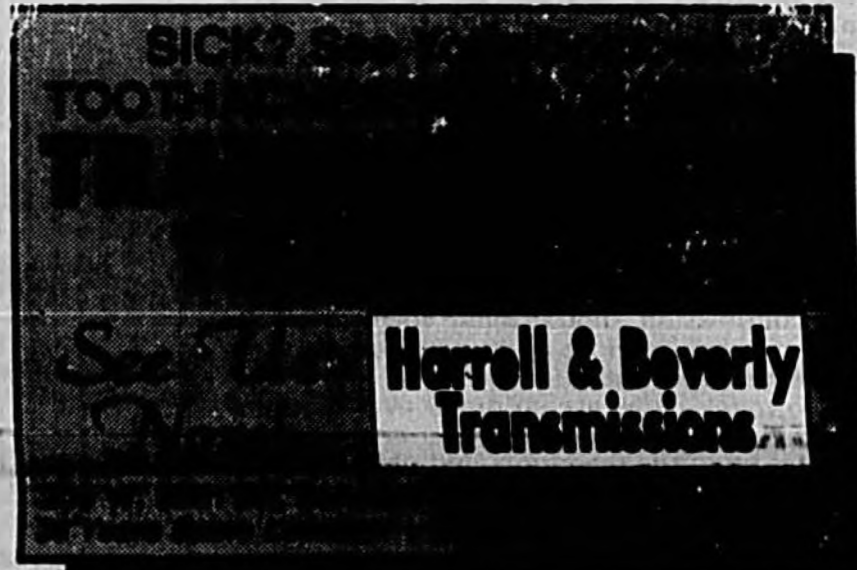

The victims were white.

Several jury candidates said they recalled George, 25, saying she wasn't harmed because the assailants told her she was "a sister."

U.S. District Judge Patricia Fawcett ruled Wednesday that a major portion of a videotaped confession by one of the defendants, Alf Catholic, 21, could not be used at trial because he had indicated he needed legal assistance during interrogation and was ignored by investigators.

But prosecutors were allowed to present a damning confession by Jermaine Foster, 19, who admitted to being the sole triggerman.

A dare for help; A chance to lead

At last Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting, citizens voiced their concern over the growing drug problem. Mayor Bettye Smith responded by daring citizens to come up with a solution.

The citizens are now taking it upon themselves to rally together and discuss the problems. The implementation of solutions however, is in the hands of the commission. This is going to be an opportunity for the elected officials to demonstrate their leadership abilities.

The people of Sanford are willing to help. Johnell Jackson is forming a group comprised of blacks, whites and Hispanics, with the sole purpose of fighting the drug problem. So far, he has reported 144 persons responding to his call for involvement.

On a smaller scale, a resident of the historic downtown residential district, Michelle Otero, called together her neighbors, and they too started action on searching for solutions.

Other organizations have attempted to set up meetings to discuss the problems and obtain public input.

When these groups determine ways to help resolve the problem, the plans will be voiced to the city for consideration, and possible action. All eyes will then focus on the commission to see what results are forthcoming.

Some of the suggestions from the citizen groups will be worthwhile. Some perhaps, may be impossible to bring about. Regardless, the commission should make itself available to the public, and be willing to listen to the voices calling for help.

Too many cities are stumped over how the matter can be resolved. More law enforcement is often the recommended response, but a crackdown in one area merely moves the drug dealing to another, and the problem continues.

We commend the citizen groups for banding together to seek solutions. We also urge them to keep a close watch on the commission.

The city may have dared the people to react, but the next move is for the city to show it can lead.

LETTERS

Write letter, fight drugs

The Woman's Club of Sanford in their project to help crime and drugs in our community ask the residents to please join them in a letter writing campaign to our legislators. Please ask them to stop the early release of violent criminals. Stop giving gain time for good behavior. Let them serve their full time.

Send letters to your county judges asking them to up the bond on prostitution and drug dealers. The law states if a prison is 98 percent full they have got to start releasing prisoners. This law should be changed. Prisoners should be utilized in a work program in the city and county. This would help cut government expense.

Thank you for your efforts in this campaign. Please send your letters to the following legislators.

What to do with today's dunces?

For the better part of 200 years it was the genial assumption, and also by and large the fact, that immigrants, arriving in America, would embrace our national values, be absorbed into our national culture, and in due course contribute substantially to the betterment of the country.

To help this process along, and also ensure that our values and culture were transmitted to native-born children as well, every youngster was guaranteed a free public education. The "little red schoolhouse" became, and remains, one of the central institutions in the mind's eye of the average American.

But of course the reality today, in many cases, is vastly different. The country is far more populous, and the population far more heterogeneous, than it was when those 13 British colonies declared their independence and formed the Union. In early America almost every classroom had a "class dunce" — a problem, no doubt, but a manageable one. If anyone ever dared bring a weapon to school, he was promptly disarmed and warned never to do that again. If a girl became pregnant, she was whisked away by her family and not discussed thereafter.

Today, in this nation of 250 million, there are literally millions of class dunces. There are also whole subcultures dedicated to armed violence in many urban schools. And every year hundreds of thousands of teen-age girls become pregnant, yet have no "home" worthy of the name to take them in.

And yet we are still betting the nation's future on the good old-fashioned proposition that every youngster, given that traditional American education, can grow up to take care of himself or herself, contribute to the betterment of the country, and maybe even become president.

As a matter of fact, we have driven that (now false) assumption even deeper into the ground. It isn't enough to guarantee everyone a high school diploma; we insist that our children are all capable of absorbing a college education, and entitled to taxpayer help in obtaining one. In fact, we as a nation are so stuck on our capabilities that we have to import Mexicans to do the stoop labor in our fields, and Peruvian nannies to care for our toddlers.

There isn't another major nation in the Western world that doesn't have what amounts to a "two-track" educational system: One for those only skilled enough for vocational training, and one for the much smaller number, identified by examinations, that can truly benefit from a higher education. Yet we insist on treating every American minor as a potential Einstein.

My friends, it won't work. But the question I want to address today is the even harder one: What shall we do with the dunces? Don't tell me they don't exist. They are out there, in their millions: People who do not have, and simply cannot acquire, any skills that are saleable in our highly technologized economy. It isn't their fault, any more than it's ours. But, this being a civilized nation, they are our responsibility.

I suggest that the first and most important thing we can do is stop kidding ourselves — and them.

Today, in this nation of 250 million, there are literally millions of class dunces.

When journalists break rules

The perfect parallel to NBC News' latest newsmaking achievement occurred not in journalism, but politics. In Cleveland, in 1972, the amiable Mayor Ralph J. Perk converted a mundane ceremony into a visually memorable moment. He used a blowtorch to cut a ribbon — and set his own hair on fire.

Comes now NBC News, with its inventive investigative news mosaic. The newsmakers of "Dateline NBC" were caught using a secret remote-controlled sparking device in an effort to visually demonstrate that in a crash a '77 Chevy pickup truck can become a Blazer. Result: peacock flambe.

Disaster was averted in Cleveland, two decades ago, because quick-thinking compadres saved their flaming mayor by beating his honor's head until his sparks were snuffed. And in New York, NBC's braintrust averted legal disaster by performing a similar maneuver on themselves.

But while NBC's legal flames have been snuffed, irreparable damage has been inflicted upon all of us who make the world's news our business. Yet that fact may have been lost in the rush to deplore.

At CBS, the first response to NBC's flasco was an unseemly spectacle of one eye winking. The guiding force behind CBS' "60 Minutes," Don Hewitt, and the show's venerable ace, Mike Wallace, were among the first to condemn the journalistic standards of the competition. Hewitt was quoted as saying what was on the minds of all thinking people. He didn't understand why NBC's news feature, which aired last Nov. 17, failed to indicate that the sparking device had been used. Hewitt added: "If that had happened at '60 Minutes,' I'd be looking for a job tomorrow."

Comments by people at all networks, newspapers, news magazines and news services alternated between glowering and gloating.

But wait. NBC's deplorable news judgment also managed to further blacken the eyes of CBS, ABC, CNN — in fact, every news organization that considers investigative journalism an indispensable obligation.

That is because NBC has provided the public with yet another visual demonstration of what too many people already think. Polls tell us that the public rates its news providers right down there with used-car salesmen, and real-estate agents who specialize in swampland bargains.

Indeed, NBC, which has just put our worst foot forward, has no monopoly on misjudgments in journalism. We remember the time CBS wound up red-faced after its controversial news special, reported by Mike Wallace, alleging that Gen. William Westmoreland inflated estimates of enemy losses in Vietnam. The controversy came not because we didn't believe it, but because of later revelations — including CBS' own in-house investigation — of journalistic irregularities. They included CBS' use of a paid consultant, about which viewers had not been informed.

And we remember the ABC News report about investigations of spy allegations — concerning a mid-level State Department official — which used a deplorable visual aid: a staged performance by actors depicting how information may have been transferred. Never mind that viewers thought they were watching the actual act of espionage; and never mind that the official they named has never been charged with any crime.

Print journalism cannot forget the all-time sad spectacle of The Washington Post having to return a Pulitzer Prize after its story turned out to be a hoax perpetrated by reporter Janet Cooke. And so it goes.

In the latest spectacle of General Motors' Chevy pickups vs. General Electric's NBC news magazine, the network's desire to show a truck bursting into flames was no doubt fueled by the trend in which television news mags must compete for ratings with entertainment shows. Result: TV tabloid news.

The basic facts, unsparked, were amply compelling. No motorist can possibly prefer to drive a vehicle with gas tanks located outside the protective steel frame, as were the tanks on the '77 trucks. But you don't have to be a rocket scientist to know that using rocket devices to try to spark a fire — and then withholding that detail from viewers — is worse than bad journalism. It is a violation of that special trust that must exist between journalists and the public.

NBC's rocket sparkers burned badly that special bond. We can only hope it has left no permanent scars.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters must be signed, include the address of the writer and a daytime telephone number. Letters should be on a single subject and be as brief as possible. The letters are subject to editing.

Nanny Commission ready for action

President Bill Clinton today launched a "War on Nannies" and pledged to put an end to the epidemic of illegal nursemaids his administration uncovered in its search for a woman attorney general.

"It is time to stem the scourge of illegal nannies," he said in a press conference called to announce the new endeavor. He said he will ask Congress today for a $5 billion program that would establish a new Office of National Nanny Control Policy, headed by a Nanny Czar and supported by a force of Nanny Police who would be responsible for tracking down husbands and wives who have hired illegal immigrants as baby sitters and failed to pay Social Security taxes and other fees for them.

The president also said he would appoint a National Commission on Illegal Nannies to explore policy options and to suggest additional courses of action. The commission would also direct an inter-agency project to develop a urine test that would assist the Nanny Police in the detection of offenders.

The $5 billion program would be financed by deficit spending, the president said, prompting an immediate reaction from Senate Minority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan. "We absolutely are not going to borrow billions to pay for the War on Nannies," he said. "Some other Democratic program will have to be terminated to finance what is essentially a Democratic problem."

The Nannygate scandal erupted in mid-January, when Clinton's first nominee for attorney general, corporate attorney Zoe Baird, admitted that she and her husband, a law-school professor, had hired two undocumented Peruvians to baby-sit her young son. An avalanche of faxes and calls to Congress and talk shows doomed the nomination and Baird withdrew.

New York federal district Judge Kimba Wood was the next likely selection, but when the White House "vetters" learned she had employed an undocumented immigrant as a baby sitter — even though it was perfectly legal to do so at the time — the Clinton White House refused to place her name in nomination.

According to White House sources, the subsequent search turned up scores of female attorneys who were qualified in every way but one: They failed the Nanny test. One unmarried woman without children was all but announced, said one source, when it was discovered that her pizza delivery boy was an undocumented Sri Lankan.

In Dallas, former presidential candidate Ross Perot called a press conference to blast the Clinton proposal. "The War on Nannies will be just another expensive bureaucracy," he said. "We don't need a Nanny Czar running around in thousand-dollar suit and alligator shoes. Give me a dozen private eyes and I'll have the nanny problem solved in a week. It's that simple."

Joseph Spear, president of the Spear Foundation, a small but resourceful Washington think tank which has been researching the nanny problem for weeks, said, "Nannygate is the stupidest Washington crime-du-jour ever to come down the pike. There are more undocumented household workers here than anywhere in the country, and not a single employer of one here has ever been arrested. How many members of Congress do you suppose have hired illegal domestics? How many reporters who are now covering the story? Zoe Baird and Kimba Wood were savaged by hypocrites."

Meanwhile, on the "Larry King Live" show, House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., claimed "the Democratic nanny problem" was worse than had been reported.

President Bill Clinton today launched a 'War on Nannies.'

per year for a family with a $30,000 income. For those earning $115,000, the proposal would cost taxpayers $750 more. For couples on Social Security earning $32,000 from their benefits and other investments, it would add $450 to their tax burden. Although persons earning less than $30,000 would not face added income tax, they would be hit with tax on gasoline prittities.

The proposed additional tax on utilities, to be phased in over three years would add about 75-cents to the monthly electric bill going up to $2.25 by the third year. That is based on a $70 a month bill.

The new gasoline tax would add 2.5 cents per gallon during 1994. By 1996, the tax would be 7.5 cents per gallon. Drivers who bought 1,000 gallons of gasoline during the year would pay about $25 more the first year and $75 more a year by the third year due to the tax.

Self-employed salesman Chuck Lavigne of Lake Mary just shook his head when asked about Clinton's speech. Although he is not worried about any increased income tax, he said, working out of his home and covering a Central Florida sales territory, the gasoline tax will have an impact on his business. He also said the government should concentrate on cutting its money give away programs to help reduce the deficit before adding more taxes.

"They should look at how much money is given away each year to places like Israel and Turkey," Lavigne said. "When we see cuts in those and other giveaways and they show they are really cutting spending, then he could propose new taxes."

Paul Witzenburg, a retired insurance executive, thinks the Clinton plan will cost him about $400 in new income taxes. He agreed the government should make real inroads in cutting spending before adding to the tax burden.

"The government recently gave a $42 million research grant to a small college with 6,500 students," Witzenburg said, "and the college didn't even have a research department! That's ridiculous!"

Eighty-year-old retiree Stanley Szymaki, a Polish immigrant put his view of Clinton's plan this way. "I no watch. He no help me. If he just leave me alone, I'll be fine."

Ralph Larson, owner of the Sanford NAPA parts store is a Republican but he thought Clinton came across well in his first speech before Congress.

"He is a well educated man who presented himself well," Larson said. "But everyone is going to be paying for that one (tax plan)!" Larson said one of his sons is in the Air Force and was watching with interest plans for the military.

Becky Adair, executive assistant at NAPA, didn't watch the speech. "I had to fold clothes," she said, but added, "I wouldn't mind the $17 a month (in an extra tax) but it is not going to do any good if they don't cut spending."

Larson's son, Eric, sales manager at NAPA watched only the last of the speech but had no comment on it.

Several Sanford residents said they had not watched opting to go to a ballgame or read a book.

today. "Much of the problem lies in the often confusing boarder area of the city, but a big problem is that many communities are creating a burden on city services, without responding through any input in city taxes."

The proposal is to be presented during the city manager's report, part of tonight's regular scheduled meeting of the Lake Mary City Commission, 7 p.m., in the commission chambers of the Lake Mary City Hall, 100 W. Lake Mary Blvd.

Orr wins four races to defend World Series Late Model title

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
Special to the Herald

SAMSULA — Defending Late Model World Series champion Pete Orr went green to checkers last Saturday night to win the 25-lap Canton Racing Products Late Model feature event at New Smyrna Speedway.

Orr, competing in the 27th annual edition of the World Series of Asphalt Stock Car Racing, led Bruce Lawrence, Freddie Query, John Sawatsky, and Rick Shepperd to victory lane.

On Friday night at New Smyrna Speedway, Orr dominated the 100-lap X1R feature event.

After setting Friday's seventh-fastest qualifying time, Orr started the race from the 12th position by virtue of an inverted start. By the 14th lap, Orr had worked his way through the field to move into third place.

On lap 18, race leader Guy Thomas tangled with Query, allowing Orr to assume the lead. Once in command, Orr never relinquished the point, charging to victory lane eight car lengths ahead of Shepperd.

"We had a game plan and a plan B for tonight's race," said Orr after Friday's win. "We wanted to conserve the car and run only as fast as we had to to win the race."

"Eddie (Norman, Orr's crew chief) was on the radio, giving me my times. He told me how fast I was running and how many seconds behind me the other cars were running. I knew when to pick up the pace and when to take it easy."

Thomas, who had set Friday's fastest qualifying time, started the race from the outside pole position. He led until his crash with Query on the 18th lap sent him to the pits.

"I can't believe it," said Thomas, who has two FASCAR feature wins at New Smyrna Speedway. "We're running a 100-lap race and he (Query) is trying to win it in the first few laps. He kept banging on me until I went out."

Query was unavailable for comment.

With Thomas and Query out of contention, Orr took command of the race with Shepperd, Wayne Anderson, and Lawrence close behind.

At the midway point, Lawrence went to the inside of Anderson to take over third place. Two laps later, Jack Cook and Robbie Reiser moved into the top five.

Trailing Orr and Shepperd to victory lane were Lawrence, Hal Goodson, Reiser, Anderson, Richard Decker, Cook, Dave Isen, and Bruce Gowland.

The victories, Orr's third and fourth of the Series, earned him the 1993 Late Model World Series crown.

On Saturday night, Steve Park won the Richie Evans Memorial 100-lap Modified feature event as well as the World Series' NASCAR Tour-Type Modified Championship.

Park took the lead of the Kendall Oil-sponsored event on the 14th lap when frontrunner Rick Fuller lost his engine. Despite early challenges from Mike Ewanitako and Tom Baldwin, Park raced to his third Series' feature win.

"The car was great all week," said Park, the defending Series' champion. "The crew did a super job. I want to thank Joe (Brady, the car owner) for giving me the opportunity to drive for him again this year."

It was follow-the-leader racing until lap 84, when Richie Gallup spun between turns one and two. Baldwin and Ewanitako, attempting to dodge Gallup, ended up tangling.

Race director Bill Slater put Ewanitako at the rear of the pack for the restart despite the protests of car owner Mario Fiore. When the green flag came out again, Fiore ordered his car to the pits.

From then on, it was Steve Park followed by Bob Park and Ed Kennedy to the checkers. Tom Baldwin came from the back of the pack after a fresh tire change to finish fourth. Gallup also came from the rear for a fifth place finish.

In Friday night's NASCAR Tour-Type Modified event, Gallup scored his first ever Florida feature win. However, it wasn't an easy win as Kennedy and Fuller pressured Gallup from start to finish.

Trailing Gallup across the finish line were Fuller, Kennedy, Steve Park, and Richard Savary.

George Greco was the winner of Friday night's SK/Type Modified main event. The Limited Late Model winner was Timmy Todd while top honors in the Florida Modified feature went to Jimmy Spears for the second consecutive night.

In addition to Orr and Steve Park winning their respective titles, Ed St. Angelo wrapped up the SK/Type Modified championship, Jacob Warren copped the Limited Late Model crown, and Spears claimed the Florida Modifieds title.

Beggarly grabs Late Model crown in fourth trip to Winternationals

Special to the Herald

BARBERVILLE — Barry Beggarly has been in all four of the Winston Invitational Showdowns to cap off Speedweeks festivities at Volusia County Speedway. But for Speedweeks '93 Winternationals, Beggarly finally found his way to the winner's circle.

"We've run well here in the past," said Beggarly, who ran his Woodall Chevrolet Camarc from Pelham, N.C., to the front on lap 39 last Saturday, Feb. 13. "I've always said that the competition here is tough."

Beggarly finished third in the first Winston Showdown for Late Model Stocks on the VCS half-mile asphalt oval on 1990, trailing champion Curtis Markham Jr. and David Blankenship across the start/finish line.

But when Markham came back with a second championship in 1991, Beggarly slipped back to 26th after starting from the fourth spot, the same as he had in 1990. In 1992, Beggarly started sixth but once again fell back to 26th.

Though he was starting in the sixth position this year, Beggarly had the hot lap in the qualifying rounds Friday to show he had the car to beat. With the top six qualifiers inverted for the Saturday start, Beggarly got his familiar outside start from the third row.

Pole sitter Robert Elliott gave up the lead on the first lap to a Volusia County Speedway favorite, David Showers of St. Augustine, on the first lap, but took it back on the 14th lap. DeLand's Tony Ponder drafted behind Elliott to take second, then went inside Elliott on lap 20 to take control of the pace.

Richard Landreth spun on turn four to put the race on yellow in the 33rd lap. When the race went green on lap 39, Beggarly powered by Ponder to take a lead he would not relinquish.

Kansas City's Larry Phillips, the two-time defending Winston Racing Series national points champion, tried to make a run at Beggarly, especially when the race went under yellow on lap 149, but Beggarly's Camaro was too strong.

Following Beggarly and Phillips were Jay Fogleman, Frankie Pennington, and Charlie Powell.

Dave Shullick, an early leader for the Super Modifieds Friday night, did it again on Saturday, this time keeping the No. 1 spot from pole to checkered flag, topping runnerup Doug Saunier. They were trailed by Dave McKnight, Gary Morton, and Pat Abold.

Joe Shear continued his domination of the Late Models on the asphalt for Speedweeks '93 with a late charge from behind to take the 30-lap feature away from Scott Hansen.

Hansen, who finished third behind Shear and Steve Holzhausen, passed pole sitter Steve Carlson on the third lap and ran strong until Shear (winner of five Late Model features in eight tries) flew by on lap 26.

Mike Eddy finished fourth while Carlson came in fifth.

IN THE DIRT

Jack Boggs waited until the final night of Speedweeks '93 Winternationals to dial in to the new 378-mile clay track at Volusia County Speedway. But when he did Saturday night, Boggs was unstoppable.

Boggs made an early move on Billy Moyer (who eventually dropped out and settled for 16th in the 60-lap feature), then raced away from the rest of the Late Model pack to set up a more dramatic race for second place, a payoff picked up by Charlie Swartz.

Hot on the heels of Swartz were Dave Johnson, Bob Pierce, and Steve Francis.

Sean Michael claimed the victory in the Mini Sprint feature while the father-and-son team of John and Kevin Cain finished first and second in the Dwarf Car feature.

Kenny Tremont powered his way around the track for 26 laps to claim the final feature event for the D.I.R.T. Modifieds, leading runnerup Brett Horn, Bobby McCreadie, Doug Hoffman, and Frank Cooney to the finish line.

Billy Decker, John Bankston, Dave Lape, and Jack Johnson finished out the field for the Modifieds.

Grand Prix racing too expensive?

Associated Press

MIAMI — Spiraling costs and the loss of independent racing teams mean only lighter, less expensive cars like those in Sunday's Camel GT event can save the sport, the promoter of the Miami Grand Prix said Wednesday.

"If we continue to run the big $1 million prototypes, the Formula Ones, the Indy cars, without reducing the costs, we'll be out of business," said Ralph Sanchez. "I approved and backed this new category. It's a great step in the right direction."

The Grand Prix takes place here Saturday and Sunday.

The primary difference in the lighter, more cost-efficient World Sports Cars, other than less horsepower and slower speeds on the curves, is the open cockpit.

"We need to showcase the drivers more and put on a better show," said Mark Raffauf, IMSA vice president of competition.

Brent O'Neill of Miami will drive one of the two World Sports Car entries under his own Goldenast Racing label. O'Neill, a former driver of Camel Light cars, finished third in Miami in 1989.

He longs for the return of competition based on driver's skill rather than on how much money is put into the engine.

"I feel like a pioneer," O'Neill said. "I'm making a statement that it doesn't take a $100,000 a weekend to show up with a car that looks good and goes by the rules."

Recently, Jaguar, Nissan, and Mazda, citing rising costs with minimal return, have withdrawn factory efforts after running full-fledged programs in 1992. It's believed the cost of building and operating a GT prototype is $4 to $5 million a year versus the anticipated $250,000 to $500,000 for the World Sports Cars.

"It's absolutely the end of the sport if IMSA doesn't cut the cost of racing," O'Neill said.

Drug therapy best for treating gout

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a retired nurse with gouty arthritis. My treatment is warm water soaks and foot massages with Witch Hazel. I'm confined to a wheelchair. Can you provide information on this condition?

Ask your doctor about this. Gout, an ancient disease, is now completely treatable with modern drugs.

DEAR READER: Gout is caused by excessive amounts of uric acid, a normal product of metabolism. Under certain circumstances, uric acid crystals form (much as frost on a windowpane) within joints, causing pain, redness, swelling and heat, the cardinal signs of inflammation. The condition is diagnosed by examination of fluid from the affected joint.

Although warm soaks and massage may temporarily relieve the symptoms of a minor gout attack, gouty arthritis is customarily so painful that prescription drugs are necessary.

Colchicine is the tried-and-true remedy and will reduce the pain of gout within hours. The second most common treatment is a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug, such as Butazolidin or Indocin.

As in most diseases, the most successful therapy for acute gouty arthritis is prevention. At present, there are two extremely effective preventives: Colbenemid and Zylorim. The former, a combination of colchicine and probenecid, increases the urinary excretion of uric acid, thereby lowering levels in the body's organs. Zylorim (allopurinol) is a compound that actually blocks the formation of uric acid. Both these prescription drugs are relatively free of side effects.

From the sound of your question, you are severely handicapped by gout. Such a degree of disability is probably unnecessary. By using Colbenemid or Zylorim, you could likely give up your wheelchair and live a much more independent life.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

By Phillip Alder

The Duke of Wellington was discussing war, but with a small change we can make it look as if he were talking about bridge: "All the business of bridge is to endeavor to find out what you don't know by what you do."

In other words, as you play out the deal, you learn more about the opponents' hands and should use this information.

Against four hearts, West led the club 10. East won the first trick with the ace, cashed the club king (the accepted way of showing a doubleton) and exited with a diamond.

With a guaranteed spade loser, declarer had to find the trump queen to make his contract. Assuming West had five clubs to East's two, there were 11 empty spaces in East's hand for the heart queen, but only eight in West's hand. However, those odds of 11-to-8 weren't good enough for South. He wanted to find out more about the distribution before committing himself.

Judging that West would have led a singleton diamond if he had one, declarer overtook his diamond king with dummy's ace and discarded his club queen on dummy's diamond queen. Now came the spade queen from the dummy. East won with the ace and returned a diamond.

Immediately South ruffed with the heart ace. Then he led the heart eight and ran it. When it won, he repeated the heart finesse, drew the last trump and claimed.

Why was South so confident about the hearts? Because East had passed as dealer and had already shown up with 11 points: the A-K of clubs and the spade ace. He couldn't hold a queen as well.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Feb. 10, 1993

In the year ahead, you could have a stronger attraction than usual to new interests and new things. Your refurbished outlook will liberate you from old, negative attitudes and add excitement to your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you have the ability to expand and improve upon the ideas of your comrades. Fortunately, you should have ample raw materials to draw upon. Get a jump on your life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for Aquarius' Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

FISCS (Feb. 20-March 20) Joint ventures look promising for you today. You could be lucky in helping to advance an idea that another person has originated.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Friends who are involved with you socially today will find you refreshing because of your sincere demeanor. Your words will have impact because you will only compliment pals who truly deserve praise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not waste time on insignificant objectives today. You're in a very good achievement cycle, so go after targets that are big and meaningful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The wheel of fortune seems to be spinning in your direction today, and you could benefit from it in two instances. It will be up to you to recognize your opportunities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Some interesting developments might occur today that won't be orchestrated by you, but they could still produce advantages as if you designed them yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you have an important matter to work out today, avoid any committee involvement. Try to get to the top decision maker on a one-to-one basis. The results should be gratifying.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Instead of delegating assignments today regarding matters that affect your material security, take care of things yourself. You'll do better in this matter than your appointee.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Friends who are associated with you today in bold, imaginative endeavors should consider themselves fortunate. Your luck will carry both them and you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The welfare of others is apt to be your prime concern today. Even though your motives will be noble, you could also derive fringe benefits from your selflessness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are now in a good cycle for realizing your hopes and expectations. However, they can only be achieved if you proceed in a practical fashion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your two strongest areas for probable gains today pertain to finance and status. Try to focus on one or both without getting sidetracked.

Art events highlight AIDS Awareness Week

Several unique arts events will highlight the 8th Annual AIDS Awareness Week, entitled, "AIDS: A Tapestry of Emotions," to be held Mar. 1-5, 1993 at Seminole Community College.

In addition to speakers and panel discussions, a musical theatre tribute to the victims of AIDS will be featured on Monday, Mar. 1, at 11 a.m. in the Fine Arts Concert Hall. Selections from two different theatrical works will be presented by professional entertainers from central Florida. Excerpts from "Voices: A Time to Listen," directed by Disney's Gary Faben with music direction by David Patrick, and excerpts from "Quilt: A Musical Celebration," directed by Anne Herring and Reed Jones with music direction by David Patrick, will be featured.

"Voices" can be seen in its entirety at a gala AIDS fundraiser at the Tupperware Center on Mar. 26, which benefits CENTAUR, Hope and Health Center of Central Florida, Serenity House, Genesis AIDS Project, UCF HIV/AIDS Institute, and the Actors Fund of America. The complete production of "Quilt" can be seen at the Orlando International Fringe Festival '93 from April 23 through May 2, with benefits going to Broadway Cares/EquityFights Back. Entertainers from both shows are appearing at Seminole Community College courtesy of the Theatre Authority, Inc.

Other arts highlights of the 8th Annual SCC AIDS Awareness

Week will include an exhibit of the central Florida AIDS Memorial Quilt, featuring representative samples of panels made in memory of AIDS victims from Orange, Seminole, and Osceola counties. The exhibit will be open in the Fine Arts Gallery from 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

And finally, on Wednesday, Mar. 3, both at 9 a.m. and 10 a.m., a video entitled "Time Out: The Truth About HIV, AIDS, and You," will be presented in the Fine Arts Concert Hall. Featuring Magic Johnson and Arsenio Hall, "Time Out" is an entertaining and informative video with straight talk, vignettes, and music.

In addition to the arts events of AIDS Awareness Week, several panel discussions and presentations will be available. On Monday, Mar. 1, at 9 a.m. and 10 a.m., Linda Medeiros of the Children's Home Society will discuss "The Facts About AIDS/HIV Infection." On Tuesday, Mar. 2, at 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m., Gail Garvin of the Center for Professional Development at Valencia Community College will discuss "Relationships in the 90s." And on Thursday, Mar. 4, at 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m., a panel discussion of people personally affected by HIV infection, entitled "The Faces Behind the Numbers," will be presented.

All performances, exhibits, and presentations are free and open to the public.

Renaissance collectibles

A Collectibles Show was held recently at the Renaissance Retirement Community, formerly Howell Place, Sanford. A variety of exhibits was shown by residents and other interested exhibitors. Joy Moore, right photo, showed her collection of handmade Christmas ornaments, decorations and needlepoint.

Margie Thompson displayed a lovely exhibit of China, glassware, figurines and linens.

Betty McClelland exhibited her collection of bone China cups and saucers and figurines.

Lender's day in court yielded $$

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you about the letter signed "Practically Broke in Iowa." I also loaned some money to a friend, and after that I couldn't find him. He never answered my letters, and I couldn't get him on the telephone.

After three years, I took my family's advice. Even though this man had been a very good friend of mine, I took him to small claims court. I didn't think I had a chance of getting my money back because, like the man who wrote to you, I didn't have anything in writing. I was foolish, I know, but I really was naive and trusting, because we were such good friends.

Well, I got all my money back, plus court costs, plus interest on my money!

So, sometimes a verbal agreement is just as binding as a written one. I didn't have a lawyer to represent me. I represented myself Abby. I don't know what the laws are in Iowa, but I would advise that Iowan who got taken for a ride to look into it.

If you use my letter, please don't use my name. Sign me... LUCKED OUT IN ILLINOIS
DEAR LUCKED OUT: Congratulations. You lucked out with a sympathetic judge.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is actually more of a complaint - not one of major importance, but it has bothered me for years.

I have been "Mrs. Dow" ever since my marriage 44 years ago, and in all that time, I have been called "Mrs. Doe," "Mrs. Dowd," "Mrs. Dowdy" and even "Mrs. Downey."

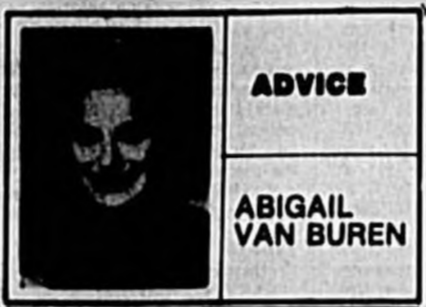

When I meet someone, I make it a point to say, "My name is Mrs. Dow." Then I spell it, "D-O-W," and they still can't get it right.

I would think almost everyone has heard of the Dow Jones averages - statistics that show the trends of stocks and bonds traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Also, there's the Dow Chemical Co., founded more than a century ago.

I was recently hospitalized, and two nurses insisted on calling me "Mrs. Doe."

All my in-laws seem to have the same trouble. Everyone can say "cow," "now" and "how," but they have trouble with Dow. Can a word with only three letters, pronounced just the way it is spelled, be that difficult?

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest, I feel better now.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

MRS. DOW IN FLORIDA
DEAR MRS. DOW: After this hits print, you may have less trouble. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Big Problem, Vancouver, B.C." the large woman who had been constantly mistaken for a man, hit home with me. I, too, am a large woman - 5 foot 11 1/2 and 170 pounds. I am well-proportioned and not fat by any means.

I did all the things you suggested in your letter; wore makeup, more feminine-looking clothes, large earrings, and let my hair grow longer. It didn't help; I still got, "May I help you, sir?" The only time I wasn't mistaken for a man was when I was pregnant.

STANDING TALL IN TUCSON

DEAR ABBY: Recently a dear friend of mine passed away. Her obituary indicated that in lieu of flowers, the deceased requested that donations be made to her church.

Wanting to make a donation in memory of my friend, but not wanting to give money to a church of which I am not a member, I made a donation to a charity that has long been a favorite of mine. I asked that no acknowledgment be sent to my friend's family.

I have no idea if my friend had any interest in this particular charity or not. Did I act in error? Should I have contributed to my friend's church as was suggested in the obituary?

SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND THOUGHTS: Obviously, your conscience has been gnawing at you. Since the deceased requested that in lieu of flowers, donations should be made to her church, I think you should have honored her request instead of contributing to a charity of your choice.

Drug combination stops AIDS virus reproduction in test tube

By MALCOLM RITTER AP Science Writer

NEW YORK — Scientists said today that a novel, three-drug combination devised by a graduate student stopped the AIDS virus from reproducing in the test tube. Now the question is whether it can work in the human body.

"It would be foolish to underestimate the opposition," commented Dr. Douglas Richman of the University of California at San Diego. "But it's certainly an exciting and reasonable hypothesis and it merits testing."

The strategy was devised by Yung-Kang Chow, a 31-year-old at Harvard Medical School who is doing his thesis under the direction of Dr. Martin Hirsch.

They used the standard AIDS drugs AZT and didoxyninosine, also called ddI, and a third compound called pyridinone. The three drugs were chosen to counter the AIDS virus' ability to evolve and become resistant to individual drugs.

"We can prevent infection of new cells by this technique better than we have been able to do with any other strategy we've studied over the past six or seven years," Hirsch said.

If the technique works in people, a patient's immune system might be able to "at least keep the virus in control for long periods of time, and perhaps forever," he said in a telephone interview.

The work is presented in today's issue of the journal Nature by Hirsch, Chow and others at Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard.

All three drugs attack a single enzyme, called reverse transcriptase, which the virus needs to reproduce. The idea behind the "convergent combination therapy" was that the virus would be unable to resist such a focused triple attack. Chow said in a telephone interview.

And if the enzyme can be prevented from working, it might also keep the virus from evolving into drug-resistant strains, he said.

In one of the new experiments, scientists infected blood cells with HIV, the AIDS virus, and then waited a week until HIV reproduction was at its peak. Then they added the three-drug combination.

List of week's TV ratings

ABC's Jackson interview 1, CBS ahead

By LYNN ELBER AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — The Alex Haley miniseries "Queen" helped lift CBS to No. 1 in the latest ratings despite the blockbuster numbers garnered by ABC's Michael Jackson interview.

CBS received a 14.4 rating last week, the A.C. Nielsen Co. said Tuesday. ABC had a 13.5, and NBC a 10.8. Each ratings point represents 931,000 homes.

Oprah Winfrey's live, 90-minute interview with Jackson was the top-rated show of the week. It also ranks as the fourth most-watched entertainment program in TV history, with 36.5 million viewers.

The first installment of CBS' three-part "Queen," an offshoot of Haley's "Roots," came in third. An installment of "Roots" back in 1977 ranks as the fifth most popular entertainment program in history, with 36.3 million viewers.

The special programming is part of the February "sweeps," one of four periods each year used by local stations to help set advertising rates.

In the network news ratings, ABC won with an 11.6. CBS had a 10.2 and NBC a 9.7.

Here are the top 10 shows, their network and rating: "Michael Jackson Talks ... to Oprah," ABC, 39.3; "Home Improvement," ABC, 26.4; "Queen" (CBS Sunday Movie), CBS, 24.7; "60 Minutes," CBS, 22.5; "Rosanne," ABC, 20.9; "Cheers," NBC, 18.9; "Murder, She Wrote," CBS, 18.9; "Seinfeld," NBC, 18.8; "Murphy Brown," CBS, 16.9; "Danielle Steel's Heartbeat" (NBC Monday Night Movies), NBC, 16.8.
