Arlington Board Ordered To Admit Negro Students

Government Plays 'Waiting Game' In Little Rock Case

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Eisenhower administration played the game of "wait-and-see" in the Little Rock case today, a spokesman said today.

The President and his chief legal officers decided late Tuesday to withhold federal action in Arkansas and Virginia where several schools have been closed to block court-ordered integration and more shutdowns are in prospect.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers conferred with Eisenhower for 40 minutes at Newport, R.I. Afterward Rogers told a news conference reports from Little Rock and Front Royal, Va., indicated the "serious impact" of closed schools was beginning to be felt.

Vote on Sept. 27 Still unanswered was the question of what federal action if any will be taken if state officials try to open the schools later on a segregated basis. That is a possibility in Little Rock if citizens favor segregation in a Sept. 27 referendum.

After the Eisenhower-Rogers meeting, the White House made it clear that the President would not invite Faubus to another face-to-face conference. One meeting at Newport a year ago was fruitless.

Rogers, in a statement following his meeting with the President, said it "seems inconceivable that a state or community would rather close its public schools than comply with the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. The reports received from the communities involved indicate that the serious impact of what it means to have the public schools closed is being keenly felt and its significance more fully appreciated."

Still a deep mystery was why the fireman who is required to ride beside the engineer and double-check him by calling out all signals seen along the track, did not take over if Williams suffered a seizure.

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, told reporters "we are getting close" to agreement.

"It's not too long now, we are getting close," he said. "The most rewarding thing is that free labor and free management can get together for the good of the public for a while."

When the strike deadline came, the talks were in recess and Ford Vice President John S. Bugas announced his company had made a third contract offer.

Stellato told newsmen, "The company has agreed to make the contract retroactive to July 1, to increase pensions from $2.25 per month for each year of service to $2.35 and to continue the annual wage improvement factor (2 1/2 per cent or six cents an hour, whichever is higher)."

Douglas Stenstrom, Sanford lawyer, will serve on the lawyer's committee at the Diamond Jubilee Convocation Nov. 13-16 at Stetson University.

The 75th anniversary will observe Stetson's convocation, former Under Secretary of the Navy and a DeLand attorney, heads the committee.

Students Reveal Race Issue Views

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Nearly 3,500 students from Little Rock's four public high schools after the fall term was supposed to start.

How do students feel about the extended "vacation?" Wendell Ross, senior and president of the Central High School student body, said "I really hate it that school has been closed. Not because of segregation or integration, but because I love Central High."

Ross, the youngest ordained minister in the Southern Baptist Convention, said he had "no objections to going to school with Negroes if that would get the schools open. It looks like neither the Supreme Court nor the governor has considered our feelings at all."

Marilyn Jones, a junior at Central — "I would just as soon go to school with Negroes as to have the school closed. Most of the kids I'm with feel the same way."

Wanda Crouch, a junior at Central — "I think the closing was okay. I don't think these Negroes should go to our school. It should be reopened as a private school even if it means we pay extra tuition."

Gary Robinson, a junior at Central — "I'd rather they'd open the school. I prefer not to go to school with niggers but I'd rather go with those few than not get an education."

Jim Rule, 16, a football player at Hall — "I want to go to school. I want to learn. But I wouldn't say I am willing to go to school with Negroes."

Fred Jolly, a senior at Central — "I didn't mind the school being closed but I think it should be opened as soon as possible as a private school. Integration wouldn't work too well. Public opinion is against it."

James Waddington, a Central senior — "I'm behind Faubus and I don't want to go to school with Negroes. I would rather switch schools than go if Negroes are going to be there."

LOOKING AHEAD—Commander William R. Anderson, skipper of the atomic-powered submarine Nautilus, said that the ice-covered Arctic Ocean could be used for fast commercial shipping when nuclear cargo submarines are built in the future. Here, he addresses the National Press Club in Washington.

Special invitations have been sent to city and county officials. White and Negro citizens alike are invited to attend the program honoring Dr. Starke.

Arrangements are under the direction of W. L. Hamilton, principal of the Midway School.

Unemployed Here Get More Funds

Benefit payments to the unemployed in Sanford rose $7,950 during August, according to a report from the Florida Industrial Commission. Total payments in Sanford amounted to $4,961.

In other parts of the state, unemployment benefit payments declined $1,044. The drop was attributed to better business conditions and the number of unemployed workers who have exhausted their right to collect compensation.

While 17 Florida State Employment offices reported decreases, 14, including Sanford, reported payments were higher than the July figure. Total payments in Sanford were $79,972 above the $2,200,282 for August, 1957.

Judge Says Mixing Must Be Effective In Next Semester

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI)—Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan today directed the Arlington County School Board to admit four Negro pupils to all-white schools at the beginning of the next semester in January.

Bryan upheld the board's rejection of the application of 26 other Negroes for transfer to white schools. But he said refusal of the application of the remaining four "is not justified in the evidence."

Bryan announced his decision in a 15-page "findings of fact." He said his formal decree would be handed down in 10 days or more, "carrying the effective date into October."

"In the judgment of the court it would be unwise to make the transfers as late as that in the term," he said. "The decree, therefore, will be made effective at the commencement of the next semester, January 1959."

Speed Not Essential "This short deferment will not be hurtful," the judge said. "If the basic problem can be solved by time, the price is not too dear."

Thus a showdown on the issue of racial integration in the Washington suburb apparently was postponed for almost four months. It had appeared originally that Arlington County would be the scene of the first test of Virginia's "massive resistance" laws to desegregation.

His ruling contained criticism of the Virginia pupil placement law, which he attacked a year ago when he ordered the Arlington board to admit seven Negroes to white schools. That order was postponed by appeal and the number of Negro applicants grew to 30.

Sub Missile On Target; Silence, Death Combined

POINT MAGE, Calif. (UPI)—Stealth and atomic destruction were combined today in a Navy weapons system capable of flinging devastation 1,000 miles inland from a submarine.

The newest weapon in the Navy's atomic age arsenal was tested Tuesday when the submarine USS Grayback surfaced off the California coast and fired a Regulus II controlled missile 200 miles.

It was the first time the stubby-winged Regulus II, a 37-foot, turbojet powered weapon capable of flying more than 1,000 miles at twice the speed of sound, had been fired from a submarine.

The sleek Grayback surfaced near the Point Mages naval air missile test center, disgorged the missile from one of two forward carrying pods, and swung it into position on a silencing launcher.

The Regulus II, essentially a remote-controlled jet aircraft, roared aloft assisted by a jet booster and, trailing a wake of smoke, flew seaward.

It was turned inland and under "positive control" on the ground and by accompanying chase planes winged toward Edwards Air Force Base, 100 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

The missile made a "controlled wheels-up landing" at Edwards, caught fire and burned. Spokesmen blamed destruction of the craft on failure of "peacetime recovery gear."

In war, there would be no need of landing the Regulus on its tri-cycle gear. It could slam into its target from 60,000 feet above or bedge-hop to the target.

CONFESSION CLEARS MYSTERY — The confession of Jack Leroy Fite (left), a Charlotte, N. C., short-order cook, cleared up a 14-year-old mystery about the 1944 auto-crash death of 14-year-old Jimmy Johnson, of Bristol, Va. The driver of the vehicle in which Johnson was killed left the scene of the accident and was never found. Fite, who said his conscience bothered him, confessed to Charlotte detectives L. W. Ballentine and E. T. Honey (right) that he was the driver of the death car. (UPI Telephoto)

Skeleton Found In Forest Preserve

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (UPI)—A 16-year-old boy had trouble convincing his parents, his sister and two police departments that he found a woman's skeleton hidden in a forest preserve.

But Ted Goldberg persisted because he couldn't sleep while the skeleton remained in the forest. "I kept seeing those bones," the blond, husky youth explained. "I still see them."

River Forest police finally gave in to Ted's insistence Tuesday.

They accompanied Ted and his friend, Thomas Lane, 17, to a dense thicket in the Grand Army of the Republic forest preserve and found the remains of a woman clad in an overcoat, sweater and skirt, lying with her head pillowed on her purse.

Police identified the woman from papers in the purse as Margaret Gatzke, 26, a German immigrant who had been working as a maid in this Chicago suburb.

A niece of Mrs. Gatzke told authorities her aunt understood little English and had been "in great fear" because someone told her federal agents might be seeking her for failure to pay income tax.

Police Chief Bernard S. Gerard said the cause of death could not be determined immediately. He said Mrs. Gatzke might have run away last July 15 and wandered until death in the forest. Gerard indicated murder had not been ruled out as a possibility.

Ted said he found the skeleton Monday while looking for a camp site for himself and his buddy.

"I came right home and told my mother, 'Ma, I saw a body,'" Ted said. "She told me 'Ass, you're fibbing, Ted'."

He said he then told his father and "he warned me not to get implicated." He called his married sister, Ted said, and she told him to call the police.

Ted went to bed that night perplexed by the cool reception given his story.

"I just lay there in the sack and I couldn't sleep," he said. "I kept seeing those bones."

Tuesday, Ted and his friend went to the forest preserve police station, but officers there "looked at us strangely" and told them to go to the city police.

River Forest authorities finally agreed to look into the report. They found Ted was right

Jim Blanton Says State Employes Work For Carter

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Jim Blanton of St. Augustine, who appeared into a runoff with incumbent Jerry Carter for the state Utilities Commission, charged today that state employes are campaigning for Carter.

Blanton asked Atty. Gen. Richard W. Ervin to investigate whether there has been violation under Florida's "Little Hatch" Act which bars state workers from active polling.

Carter immediately denied the charge.

"It's not true," he declared, accusing Blanton of adopting the same tactics used by another opponent, Jim East of Tampa, who was eliminated in the first primary.

In a wire to Ervin, Blanton said employes of the Utilities Commission are spending their time campaigning for Carter "at state expense."

Race Issue Not On Governors' Agenda

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—The topic of race relations is not on the official agenda for the Sept. 21-24 Southern Governors' Conference in Lexington, Ky., but Chairman LeRoy Collins concedes it is bound to come up.

If nothing else, Collins said, the individual governors undoubtedly will be questioned about it in news conferences. "And it could become involved in the executive business session or otherwise," he added.

Collins refused to be drawn out on any possibility of a Southern denunciation of the Supreme Court's refusal to heed local pleas for a delay of integration in Little Rock.

This will be the first meeting of Dixie governors since 1943 in Virginia and Arkansas were closed to prevent court-ordered desegregation.

"The governors have felt that each individual governor was responsible in his own state only and that conditions varied from state to state and comment, to community," said Collins, who is considered a moderate on the race issue.

Aside from segregation problems, he forecast next week's conference will be one of the most productive ever, tackling such problems as nuclear development, a proposed regional educational television network, narcotic drug addiction and the interstate highway program.

Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia will report on action taken by a special committee of the conference dealing with planned cuts in the national guard. Collins will report on progress of a committee which has been studying ways of improving federal-state relations.

Police Pondering Ways Of Nabbing Hemline Pirates

LONDON (UPI)—The International Police Organization is trying to find ways of nabbing "hemline" pirates who steal the Paris secrets of women's waists and hemlines.

Detectives from 46 countries represented in the worldwide organization were asked by France to move against mounting forgery in high fashion. The French wanted a pirating made a criminal offense.

Interpol Secretary General Marcel Nicola, one of France's top detectives, told reporters at the annual Interpol conference here "there has been forgery of the creations of the French fashion houses, their models and perfumes."

He said that in some cases copies of dresses produced by such houses as Dior had appeared in foreign stores before the originals were completed in Paris.

"The French delegation wants the assembly to discuss it," Nicola said. "Clients of our very famous fashion houses who are known all over the world are in danger."

SPACE MAN — Carlin B. Carpenter, 29, HMB, Norfolk, Va., is shown as he prepared to enter a pressure chamber for a simulated space flight. Carpenter was trying to remain in the chamber for about one-third the time it would require to go to the moon and back.

Boy Scouts Camp, Find Rattlesnake

Boy Scout Troop 343 from All Souls Catholic Church had an adventure last weekend.

Under the leadership of Carl Van Brunt, Scoutmaster, the boys camped out Friday and Saturday nights on property the church owns in Weymouth. Saturday afternoon the boys encountered a rattlesnake. The snake, quickly killed, proved to be five and a half feet long, 4 1/2 inches around, and to be 24 rattlers.

The first newspaper in Vermont was established at Westminster in 1821 and was called the Green Mountain Post Boy.

Phil Crosby Plans To Wed Showgirl

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Philip Crosby, 23-year-old son of crooner Bing Crosby, plans to follow his twin Dennis, into matrimony soon with a Las Vegas showgirl.
 Bob Crosby, Philip's uncle, disclosed that the couple would be married after Sanda Drummond, 21, has taken instruction in the Roman Catholic faith.
 Young Crosby met the attractive dancer at the Tropica where Dennis Crosby claimed another showgirl, Pat Sheehan, as his wife in a surprise ceremony last May.
 Philip said he planned to give up school at Washington State College, where he had enrolled for the fall semester, to get a job to support his wife.
 The decision to put off marriage until Miss Drummond becomes a member of the Roman Catholic Church would avoid the troubles of Dennis and his wife.
 They were married between the acts of the Green wedding chapel. Next day she found they had been married by a Protestant minister and not by a justice of the peace.
 After issuing a statement saying he was "sorry" for the "mistake," Dennis said he hoped he and Miss Sheehan, M. mother of a 4-year-old boy, could be married in the church later. They now are expecting the birth of a child.

No Santa To Provide Revenue For Sanford

The Sanford City Commission, reluctantly, has increased taxes by two mills so that the city might meet operation costs in the next fiscal year.

Seeking other methods of balancing the budget, commissioners spent four long, weary hours attempting to cut down on requests. The very best the commission could do was to get the deficit lowered to $40,000. At this point, many of the city's services had been curtailed to a point beyond safety.

With no other alternative, the commission unanimously voted to increase the present nine-mill tax.

Commissioners know, as do all public officials, that tax increases are unpopular. But, they know too, that it takes money to build streets, collect garbage, provide police and fire protection and the other things that taxpayers demand of their city.

There will be criticism. This always is the case when any branch of government taps the taxpayers' pocketbooks. But, as City Manager Warren Knowles pointed out, $11.40 tax on a $10,000 home in Sanford is very little for the city to provide street lights, recreation and the above-mentioned services.

Based on the figures presented at the meeting, The Herald believes the City Commission was justified in increasing taxes. Revenue for this fiscal year was lower than last; funds for next year will be lower than for this year. This, coupled with rising costs of labor, materials and equipment, makes it mandatory that the city secure more money.

A tax raise is the only means the city has of obtaining this needed revenue. Of course, commissioners could have voted to float a loan. This type of financing always costs taxpayers much more in the long run.

Even with the two-mill tax increase, Sanford will have a difficult time in meeting demands for services for the next 12 months. Every department's budget was reduced drastically. The city has no money to pay for emergencies. Streets in need of repair will fail to get it. In short, the next 12 months will be a "shoestring" operation for the city.

Improvements cost money. Customers of the City of Sanford, like customers in a retail store, get the type of service they desire. Good service costs more money than poor service.

In this case, Virginia, there is no Santa Claus.

Age Slows Reflexes

One of the hardest things to say to a beloved friend or relative of advanced years is, "You're too old." Yet this hard thing must be said to many an older person who insists on driving though every consideration of safety is against it.

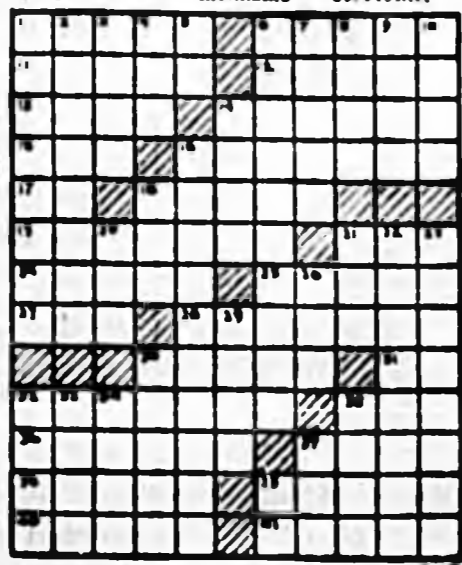

As streets and highways become more and more crowded with big, fast-moving cars, these safety considerations loom bigger than ever. Anyone whose reflexes are slow, whose vision is poor, who is not constantly alert while driving, is a potential danger both to himself and to others on the road. Perhaps it should not be so; perhaps the pace of traffic should be adjusted to make room for such drivers. But the fact is that traffic has not adjusted in that way, and it is not likely to.

It is not necessarily true that all persons beyond a certain arbitrary age limit should be prohibited from driving. Chronological age and physiological age do not always jibe. Some drivers of 70 are keener, swifter to react, more sure in their handling of a car than are some drivers of 50. It would be senseless to ban from the road the good drivers of 70 and leave the poor drivers of 50 unrestrained.

The answer may lie in periodic tests, not only of basic driving skills and attitudes, but of physical reactions. Perhaps it would then come to be accepted that certain standards of performance must be met in this as in many other pursuits. Such tests might make it easier for proud, independent-spirited older persons to withdraw gracefully from the field.

Ike To Be Singing Prosperity Song

By ILE C. WILSON
Special Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The word is that President Eisenhower will be singing that old-time Democratic prosperity song when he goes campaigning coast to coast this fall.

The song was "Happy Days Are Here Again," and none ever will forget it who attended the 1952 Democratic national convention at which Eisenhower accepted his second-term nomination.

If labor leaders and Democratic strategists are quick to challenge so optimistic a campaign theme, the President might counter that it is at least as appropriate now as nearly 25 years ago when the New Deal chorus was singing Roosevelt on his way. More appropriate, perhaps in terms of unemployment which is the basic political measure of prosperity, recession and depression.

There are fewer than five million persons unemployed in this campaign year where the unemployed numbered slightly more than nine million in 1936. John Needed War

Unemployment was a nut which F. D. R. was unable to crack. It took a world war to crack it for him, despite pump priming, job making and federal spending which seemed extravagantly large at the time but which was not much compared to current government outlays.

Eisenhower resisted, in the last session of Congress, Democratic efforts to spend the nation out of recession and unemployment F.D.R.'s record was pretty good evidence that it cannot be done. Year-long, Eisenhower has been telling the public the current slump would be temporary.

His economic advisers are telling him now that the worst is well over, that since June most economic indicators have shown a substantial slowing of the decline and the beginning of the rise. These advisers are confident that the late October "snowing" signs will have multiplied in number and in degree, thus enabling the President, if he desires, to tell the voters that the United States is on the way back to record prosperity.

Economic Problems
There will remain the tough and dangerous problems of currency inflation, rising prices, shrinking dollar purchasing power. All that is a long way from well on the domestic front. But Republican tacticians are hopefully confident that recession will not be so damaging to them in November as they had feared in May.

Eisenhower, of course, will depend wholly upon his economic advisers in his 1958 campaign speeches. He is no economist, himself.
Confronted on taking office in 1953 with the economic controls enacted after outbreak of the Korean War, Eisenhower abolished them after discussion at the first business meeting of his new cabinet. The big decision having been taken, the meeting broke up. As Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey came by, Eisenhower caused him to pause.

"George," said the President, "I hope in heaven you know what you are doing."
The Canadian Army now uses quick-frozen milk, which is handled in solid blocks and cut up with a saw.

Humor At Its Best: Dixies Lighter Side

By LEON BURNETT
United Press International
Herewith is coined a new expression: "Old as a football player's knee."
A gentleman who has made a study of knees (small) reveals that some professional footballers are no more than 30 years of age when they have knees 60 to 70 years their senior.

The man had nothing to say, but performed a series of cartwheels and continued on his way. Then, reaching the bank of Cado Lake, he whipped off several more cartwheels and disappeared in the water. At last report, authorities had recovered no body, and no one else had reported seeing a man in the alighting.

Dr. J. Vernon Luck, associate clinical professor of orthopedic surgery at the University of Southern California Medical College, said the wear and tear of being banged about by big business causes cartilage and ligaments to age prematurely.

Luck made his report to a group with an impressive title—the First Progress Assembly of the Birmingham Academy of Medicine on Reactions of Joints to Injuries. Plainly a joint effort.

Now we move from the knees to the teeth, and to a characteristic women are reported to have in common with horses. Criminal Court Judge L. A. Grayson of Tampa, Fla., hearing evidence that truck driver Vernon Alfred had been contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old girl, asked the defendant, "Didn't you look at her teeth? You can tell her age from her teeth, like a horse."
For failing to look his girl in the mouth, Alfred drew 90 days behind bars.

Burglars who invaded Mrs. Sadie Marie Steelman's home at Birmingham made a clean getaway. While there they washed their clothes in her machine.
Patrick Henry, John Hancock, Tommy Dorsey and Jennifer Jones all are enrolled in Mrs. Mary H. Oliver's first-grade class in Atlanta this year.

Possibly the strangest case of the week came to light in Shreveport, La., and there was a question whether it was funny or tragic.
Mrs. Ray Anderson said she was in her yard when she saw a naked man approaching along the road. She inquired why he didn't clothe himself.

Conning The News

By Virginia Conn,
Herald Staff Writer

It's September. School has begun. Football season is upon us. The teams work out every afternoon. Cheerleaders practice yells. Mothers frantically comb the mouths of sweaters, raise horns, and make mountains of sandwiches for hungry athletes.

Marching strains are heard from the open windows of the high school, as the band perfects the presentation for the pep rally. The entire school revolves around football. Teachers attempt to distract their pupils, unsuccessfully.

All over America this is happening. How many cities like Sanford had football rallies last night? Possibly hundreds. In some the cheerleaders shivered as the cold hit their bare legs. In more than a few, the players wore heavy jackets over their uniforms to prevent the sniffles at the opening game.

In Sanford, members of the band felt the perspiration trickle down their backs and muttered, "Gee, but it's hot." But all experienced thrill and the happiness of normality in the fall. This is the time when one could truly say, "If only I were young again."

Editorials in newspapers have a purpose. Though often they may not be read, or if read, disputed, always thought has been put into them to better some condition, or right a wrong.

No matter how rubbish a newspaper may be considered, when he sits down to his typewriter, he THINKS. And when he thinks he considers the ways in which he might better the world. Many times the ways may not be correct or the subject worthy, but at least he is giving his time to something he thinks is important.

The newspaper editor is a man with a conscience. There are few other positions that can sway the public as powerfully. The editor without a conscience cannot last. He will die on the vine as naturally as a withered grape that gives no one the pleasure of a drop of rich wine.

Conscience is the inner voice that laments us when we have done something fine, depresses us when we have committed evil. We are equipped with internal signals that make us glow when we sacrifice ourselves, make us shiver when we witness beauty, make us smile when we see the happiness of children.

The same signals make us depressed when we see ugliness—disorder in the home, filth in the alley, weeds in the garden, hunger in the faces of the poor. Inharmonious music, a clash of colors, a burning house—these are the tools of unhappiness.

We are measured by perfection of character. This is why we know when we are unkind, selfish or wicked. All things that are good, right, true and beautiful lift us upward. The opposite causes a sinking feeling in our hearts.

Perfection somewhere is hinting to us to improve ourselves and eliminate evil from our lives. The small machine within our souls is constantly warning us to stay clear of temptation and sin. If we could but stop and listen to the message of perfection that measures our deeds, we would become acutely aware of the signals that say, "Beware, danger ahead." And we would become more appreciative of the glories of perfect character that could fill our lives forever with happiness.

Citrus Commission Approves Changes

LAKELAND (UPI) — The Florida Citrus Commission approved "in principle" a 1958 legislative program Tuesday which would extend the present advertising tax on oranges and grapefruit and reorganize its powerful concentrate advisory committee.

The commission, meeting for the first time to deal with the new citrus crop, also approved a recommendation by the legislative committee for a revision of the commission's membership formula.

The report recommended that the additional two cents per box tax which the 1957 Legislature placed on oranges and grapefruit to finance an advertising program be extended with no cut-off date. As the law now reads, the taxes will automatically expire July 31, 1958.

The legislative committee also recommended that the concentrate advisory committee be appointed by the commission, and that the commission be allowed to initiate regulations dealing with the manufacture of frozen concentrate.

The concentrate advisory committee was established by the 1957 Legislature and its members were named in the legislative bill. The law also said that the commission can only approve measures controlling the manufacture of concentrate which the committee had drafted. Thus, the committee, has virtual veto power over all state regulations affecting concentrate manufacture.

The legislative committee's reports also suggested that the commission seek legislative approval to establish other advisory committees for other segments of the industry — fresh fruit shippers, express fruit shippers and chilled juice packers.

The commission also recommended that the laws be changed to specify that all canned juices not meeting minimum requirements be labeled sub-standard.

School Bonds Fail To Get Bids Again

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Cabinet Board of Education Tuesday was only able to sell $200,000 worth of a proposed $12,455,000 issue of county school bonds.

Of 18 counties offering the bonds for sale, bids were received on only one issue.

The Tallahassee Bank and Trust Co. bought the Bay County issue at an average interest rate of 3.9 per cent, just under the constitutional maximum of 4 per cent.

However, the other bonds were withheld from the market, and School Supt. Thomas Bailey was authorized to offer them again when the bond market gets better. Secretary of State R. A. Gray said he thought one of the reasons the market was an bad was because of recent huge sales of corporate bonds. Gray said it was his opinion that sale of the other bonds should be withheld until the market got better.

The state had similar trouble about this time last year selling school bonds.

Other counties which will have to wait for sale of their bonds were Clay, Lake, Marion, Alachua, Columbia, Escambia, Leon, Manatee, Osceola, St. Louis, Santa Rosa, Sevier, Duval, Orange, Palm Beach, Pinellas and Hillsborough.

Stengel Watching Burdette, Braves

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International
Some time today, Casey Stengel is going to sit down, turn to the sports section and get a sinking feeling when his eyes light on that painful but familiar phrase—"Burdette wins again!"

Stengel, an avid reader, will quickly reason over the fact that Tuesday night's 4-1 victory over San Francisco was Lew Burdette's 10th of the season and that the triumph reduced the Milwaukee Braves' pennant-clinching "magic number" to three.

Hurricanes Have Fullback Problem

CORAL GABLES (UPI)—The fullback situation remained the big question for Miami Coach Andy Gustafson today as the Hurricanes stepped up practice in preparation for their opener with Wisconsin Sept. 26.

The strongest candidate at present for the starting fullback assignment is hard-running Neil Fleming, 190-pound sophomore from Marshfield, Wis., who captained the freshman team.

However, coaches said three other candidates are pushing for the job, including two sophomores.

Another sophomore fullback, Jim Stevens of Greenwood, S.C., quit the squad Monday for "personal reasons."

He also had been regarded as a possible first stringer, although he has been working with the fourth team lately.

Working behind Fleming is Harry Deidrich, 190-pound junior letterman from Toronto, Ohio. Miami's Frank Buffard, a rugged 200-pound sophomore, has been slowed down with a hip injury but is a strong contender for the starting job. Sophomore Stan Markowski, Dillonville, Ohio, also is being closely watched by coaches.

Yankee manager is that Burdette did not walk a single man, never was in any real trouble and would have wound up with a shutout had it not been for Bill White's fifth-inning homer.

Stengel will have some more food for thought when he multiplies over the 4-2 victory Frank Lary of Detroit registered against the Yankees Tuesday.

Pitches Like Law
Lary is practically a carbon copy of Basile pitching to sets and appealing in breaking stuff.

It marked the Detroit right hander's seventh victory of the season over the American League champs and it was the first time any pitcher beat the Yanks more than six times in one year since Ed Walsh posted a 9-1 record against New York in 1942.

Lary limited the Yankees to three hits in getting his 16th win of the season and boosting his lifetime record over the Bronx Bombers to 245. Gus Zernia's two-run double off Zack Monroe in the seventh, gave the Tigers the two runs that brought them from behind and earned them their 11th victory over the Yankees this season. That assures them at least a tie in the season's series, something that doesn't sit too well with Casey.

Hurts His Pride
Stengel says he likes to win the season series from every club in the league.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland climbed into a fourth-place tie by beating Washington, 5-1, behind Gary Bell's two-hitter, while Chicago took a 4-3 decision from Baltimore. Rain washed out a doubleheader between Boston and Kansas City.

Seminole Coaches Optimistic

By JERRY COVINGTON
The Sanford Seminoles continue to show improvement in offense and defense as the lid-lifter of the 1958 gridiron season draws near.

Coach Jim Pigott is optimistic about his squad's chances this season after watching the first and second units prepare for the opener against Lyman of Longwood on Friday night.

Pigott said the defensive unit is somewhat weaker than last year's, but the offensive unit is more versatile.

Branch strength looks much better than it has in several seasons. Just about every lad wearing a varsity uniform will be able to help the squad. The second unit backfield has made a very fine show and the quarterbacking of Johnny Allred has been exceptional.

Cecil Dandridge and Allred have the play-making chops well at hand. Both boys look much improved in the passing department and should strengthen this phase of the game considerably.

Fullback Harold Stone continues to be very impressive on both offense and defense and should be ready for a great season. He has some good backing from Ray Lundquist, a mighty-mite in the backfield who adds strength to this position. Both show much talent in the ball-running department.

Vernon Kirk and Lin Rinker continue to improve and should be in top form Friday night. Kirk is a speedster and very deceptive. Rinker is a power runner and should be outstanding on much needed short gains.

The offensive lines will be centered around ends Gerald Jones and Allan Swalm and left guard Dave Stanley. All three will be beginning their last season for the Seminoles.

While these three are slated to be standouts this season others can't be counted out. Don Carter promises to be a big help in the line, as well as Kelly Lake, Charlie Hogan, Glenn Hodges, Walt Middleton and Duke Schiratz. The latter two have been impressive in pre-season drills and should bolster the attack considerably.

While Pigott and Dave Laude have been planning their strategy, coaches Bill Proctor and Buck Metts have been planning the defense. They plan to concentrate on pass defense the rest of the week.

Crimson Tide Prospects: Bear Bryant Is Building

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Alabama is building for the future and new football coach Bear Bryant hopes the alumni keep looking that way while he pursues some starchy in the limp Crimson Tide.

The former Texas A&M mentor writes to inform a squad that returned to his alma mater last year only four games over the past three seasons after years as a kingly of the tough Southeastern Conference.

All 64 prospects reporting for fall practice were recruited under the regime of former Coach J. B. (Paup) Whitworth and it will be another couple of years before the magic of the Bryant name shows up in the form of red-clad youths on the gridiron.

softer, with Furman spotted before the annual bloodletting with Tennessee and Memphis State before the Auburn game—and hope dies hard in alumni.

The most vocal old grads like to point out that Bryant successively raised Maryland, Kentucky and Texas A&M off the floor before moving his talents here.

turning the trick at Maryland and Kentucky in his first year.

Changes Ordered
It took the personable native of Fordyce, Ark., two years to make a winning appropriation of the Aggies, but he produced the Southwest Conference champ in his third season.

Bryant's first look at the squad came in spring practice where he made 12 position shifts in an effort to bolster weak spots and declutter every position wide open.

His businesslike practice sessions exacted their toll in the first week of fall drills with about 20 dropping from the squad, including veteran quarterback Bobby Skelton. That left Bobby Jackson, Bobby Smith and converted halfback Gary O'Steen, all holdovers for quarterback. But at that key post, the skill and take-charge ability needed is still missing.

Helpful Halfbacks
Duff Morrison, a 1957 redshirt, has taken over one halfback post and may be a corner. Mark Wise, another redshirt with good speed, heads the group at the other half. Red Stickney, a hard-running 160-pound youth from Key West, Fla., appeared to be the front-runner for fullback until ousted by another of Bryant's shifts in sophomore guard Bill Frank.

Up front, Bryant has moved end Buddy Wood to center to bolster the linebacking. Another weak point, four capable veterans hold down the ends.

One of the real line stars may be tackle Dave Singleton, son of former Tide All-American Fred Singleton. His brother, Fred Singleton Jr., is also battling for a tackle berth.

The scheduled:
Sept. 27—Louisiana State at Mobile; Oct. 4—Vanderbilt at Birmingham; Oct. 11—Furman here; Oct. 18—Tennessee at Knoxville; Oct. 25—Mississippi State at Starkville; Nov. 1—Georgia here; Nov. 7—Tulane at New Orleans; Nov. 13—Georgia Tech at Atlanta; Nov. 20—Memphis State here; Nov. 27—Auburn at Birmingham

Bayou Bengals To Shoot Cannon At '58 Grid Foes

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Replacing All-Star fullback Jimmy Taylor and getting the most out of an inexperienced right side loom as the big headaches this season for Louisiana State University Coach Paul Dietzel.

Taylor, before graduating, was the nation's leading scorer with 86 points and also the SEC yardage king (762). Also departed are linemen Billy Smith, Al Aucoin and Ed Cassidy, all three of them from the right side of the Tiger line.

Player Of The Day

United Press International —FRANK LARY—

Frank Lary's seventh victory of the season over the Yankees bodes no good for the American League champions in the World Series.

The Detroit right-hander falls into the same pitching pattern as Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, according to many baseball men. He doesn't overpower the hitters with his fast ball, but he has an excellent slider and sinker—the two big pitches Burdette also relies on.

Lary became the first pitcher in the modern era to beat the Yanks seven times in one season Tuesday when he limited them to three hits in a 4-2 victory. The victory was Lary's 16th of the season and brought his lifetime record against the Yanks to 16-3.

Only known pitcher to have beaten Lary's mark was Ed Walsh, who posted a 9-1 record against the Yankees in 1928.

Left Side Good

The other side of the line is in good shape with letterman manning every position.

Billy Herdrix, a roughhouse senior, is back on the left side and so is guard Larry Kahlden. The lone tackle letterman is junior Lynn LeBlanc who won't be a sophomore. Max Fuller, described by Dietzel as the "best center in the SEC," is back for his junior year.

The questionable side of the Tiger forward will find letterman Don Norwood, who saw limited service last year, at end. The tackle duties go to Dallas Ward, an untested sophomore, Tommy Lott, another letterman from last season's second unit will open at guard.

Only the boss of Taylor dampens the old grad's enthusiasm when the chatter gets around to the Tiger backfield.

"Golden Boy" Billy Cannon (135) who averaged 55 on the ground last season, is back. Cannon led the SEC in kickoff returns with 343 yards. He also led the Tiger pass receivers with 29 yards.

Halfback Duties
Cannon will share the halfback duties with junior letterman Johnny Robinson (130) who will be on the right side. Junior Don Pavis (161) and senior Ronnie Johnston (190) are the probable halfback replacements.

Warren Rabb (158), junior letterman who directed the second unit last season, is the number one Tiger quarterback this year. He is a strong runner and a talented passer.

Replacing Taylor will be the responsibility of senior J. W. Brodnax (197), a converted right halfback, and Tommy Davis (209), a varsity letterman in '57 and '54 who is back from a military hitch.

The Tiger backs are all fast. In an effort to exploit their speed, Dietzel is installing the winged T offense.

Nugent Welcomes Return Of Three

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Three injured Florida State University players are back in action and will be able to assist Furman Saturday.

Left halfback Carl Meyer, guard Lou Baggett and fullback Jim Calhoun donned pads Monday, leaving only starting end Pete Fleming on the ailing list.

Fleming, who is hobbled by a knee injury, is expected to be in shape for Saturday's game.

Coach Tom Nugent said he planned to concentrate on pass defense the rest of the week.

Machines Aiding In Heart Surgery

UPI Science Editor
By DELOS SMITH
NEW YORK (UPI)—Two rival machines were pitted against one another in substituting for the hearts and lungs of 71 men and women undergoing "open heart" surgery, and it is a mark of a high degree of mechanical perfection that both machines came through beautifully.
The surgical team which conducted the extended comparison of machines capable of taking over the most vital functions of the human body reported the critical question no longer was the capability of the machine, but the skills of the surgical team using it.
The trial was conducted in Stanford University Hospital, San Francisco. The designers of the rival machines — Dr. John J. Osborn of San Francisco and Dr. Denis G. Melrose of London — were members of the surgical team.
One Death Each
In 39 operations performed with the aid of the Osborn machine, there was only one death attributable to the patient's blood not having been properly perfused with oxygen while it was out of his machine. In 31 operations performed with the Melrose machine, there also was only one such death.
It must be kept in mind that patients who undergo "open heart" surgery have a very serious, life-threatening defect inside their hearts. The surgeon goes inside and corrects the defect. If he can see what he is doing, his chances for success are practically 100 per cent — provided the defect is correctable.
The lung-heart machine makes it possible for him to see what he is doing. The heart is "open" because the circulating blood is diverted by a pump into the machine where it receives oxygen, (as it would have received from the lungs normally) and then pumped back into the body. Thus, both heart and lungs are cut out of the blood circuit and the surgeon's sharp eyes and dextrous hands are unimpeded by a flow of blood through the heart.
Melrose Machine Better
After the trial, the surgical team, which was headed by Dr. Frank Garbode, decided the Melrose machine was the better, but not on grounds of a greater efficiency in substituting for hearts and lungs. In that, the machines were equal, but the Melrose machine was easier to maintain in applicable order for use on a routine basis "five times a week."
However, the machine has been rebuilt so all parts which come into contact with blood can be replaced with new ones after each operation. This modified Melrose machine will be the standard machine at Stanford from now on.
Garbode reported for his team to the international technical journal, The Lancet, Heart-lung machines of a number of designs are in use in medical centers throughout the United States.

Personal Income Increases Again Sets New Record

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The annual rate of personal income rose again in August for the second straight month. The Commerce Department reported Monday night.
Including the retroactive salary pay raises for federal employees disbursed in lump sums in July, the seasonal adjusted annual rate of personal income for August was $33,300,000,000, a new all-time high.
The increase from July to August, however, consisted in large part of government transfer payments—pensions and unemployment benefits—and rental income. Other income components showed little change.
The department noted that higher manufacturing payrolls in August reflected advances in employment, particularly in primary metals and machine industries.
In the non-manufacturing industries, payroll gains were recorded mainly in retail trade and services. On a seasonally adjusted annual rate, August farm income was down slightly from July but remained well ahead of last year.

Steelworkers Trying To Crush Revolt

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—A drive to crush a revolt within the United Steelworkers of America was in full swing today.

Resentment against the insurgents burst into the open Monday during the first session of the union's convention. It was highlighted by a bolsterous show of support for president David J. McDonald by sign-carrying, cheering delegates parading in Convention Hall.

The session also heard scathing denunciation of a "dues protest committee" headed by Donald C. Rarick, which is challenging McDonald's leadership.

Called "Scabs" Spurred on by loud support from most of the 3,500 delegates, convention speakers dubbed the committee members "finks" and "scabs" and urged they be thrown out of the union.

The rallying point for the demonstration of allegiance to McDonald came when the convention was asked to approve a resolution commending his administration.

It touched off the attack against the committee and the vibrant display of allegiance which gave the convention a circus atmosphere for about 30 minutes.

Rarick, a burly, soft-spoken steel worker from McKeesport Pa., later charged the convention was "rigged" and claimed McDonald had advocated "violence" against the dissident group.

His Big Business Albert Whitehouse, Cincinnati director of District 25, led the demonstration for the McDonald resolution, praising the union president and terming the opposition bloc "a noisy, worrisome, nagging few."

"Let's throw the stinking stoges in our ranks out on their ears," Whitehouse said, "and let's stand united behind our own president David J. McDonald."

Earlier, McDonald warned the union must be on its guard against a two-pronged attack from the big business interests and the "enemies from within" the 1,250,000-member steel union.

Tourist Tells Tale Of Crash In Jungle

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Brazilian authorities today were investigating an American tourist's tale of surviving a jungle air crash with two other men who still are missing.

Walter Youngblood, who said he has a wife and child living in Reno, Nev., told the story in Rio de Janeiro in the presence of U.S. consular official Robert Gehagan.

Youngblood said he, Keith Courtney and John McDonald crashed 12 days ago somewhere in the Amazon jungle near the town of Sao Paulo de Olivenca while en route from Lima, Peru, to Rio de Janeiro aboard a Catalina flying boat.

According to his story, he split with the other two after an argument over the best way to reach civilization. They broke up, he said, even though all three were injured in the crash.

Courtney and McDonald, whose addresses are not known, have not turned up. The plane has not been sighted by searching authorities who flew over the crash area with Youngblood.

Youngblood said that while attempting to locate the Amazon River in hopes of following its course to the nearest town, he ran into some Indians who took him to a missionary station.

From the station, he said, he was transferred to Sao Paulo de Olivenca and later to Belem.

Youngblood said he met Courtney and McDonald in Lima and decided to join them when he found they were flying to Rio. He said that was his only connection with the other two. Courtney said he was flying to Rio to meet friends connected with the now-defunct Cornucopia Mining Co.

The only persons in Rio known to be connected with the former American firm are Carl Belle and Mitchell Ostwald, who were indicted recently by the U.S. government for the sale of uranium. Belle claimed he did not know Youngblood.

Gehagan said the only accusation lodged against Youngblood so far was a charge of having entered Brazil without proper documents.

Self-Injection To Doctor Discloses Test Cancer Drug

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, inventor of the controversial "cancer drug" xelobion, disclosed he has injected himself with the drug in an experiment to see if it might prevent cancer.

"I have a precancerous lesion on my tongue, the result of smoking a pack of pipe tobacco every week for a total 30 years," Ivy said.

He said he would undergo an operation today, known as "electrocoagulation," to burn away the lesion. However, during the surgery there is a possibility that cancer cells might be released into the blood stream and spread through the body.

The 63-year-old University of Illinois scientist will not learn until later if the lesion was malignant or if he has cancer.

"I'm taking the drug to prevent cancer cells from growing if there happens to be any there," Ivy said. "I always believe in taking my own medicine."

Ivy named himself "Exhibit A" in an effort to determine if the drug has any cancer preventive properties.

The white-haired pathologist has been battling for nine years to gain recognition of xelobion as a treatment for cancer. An American Medical Assn. committee has said the drug is worthless. Ivy said he discovered the secret on his tongue last Monday.

At first, he said, "I thought I had bitten my tongue and didn't know it" on Friday, he said. "I looked at my tongue and saw there was a white spot on it."

"This is a precancerous sign," he said. "It came from smoking. I gave up tobacco in 1944, when I found it was hurting my blood vessels, but these effects are cumulative. Sometimes they take a long time to show up."

State Vote Canvass Figures Released

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Sen. Spessard L. Holland defeated Claude D. Pepper by an overwhelming 88,707 vote in the Sept. 9 primary, an official state canvass reported Tuesday.

The canvass, which turned up no surprises, made official the results which were known in most cases the night of the election. Holland had exactly 498,964 votes, carrying all but 11 counties for the Democratic nomination. Pepper collected 321,377 votes of the 729,041 ballots cast, a total far below pre-primary predictions.

Holland still must face Republican Roland Hyzer in the November general election, but is considered a virtual cinch to win in this predominantly Democratic state.

The canvass confirmed that Wilbur C. King won re-election to the Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, but that incumbent Jerry Carter must face James Rianton of St. Augustine in a run-off.

The official canvass also showed these other run-offs left for Sept. 30:

For state senator: Incumbent W. T. Davis, Madison, and L. P. Gibson, Perry, in the 19th District; incumbent W. E. Bishop, and G. T. Mellon Jr., both Lake City, in the 14th; and Lacy Mahon Jr. and Wayne E. Ripley, both Jacksonville, for the 18th District seat from which Sen. Fletcher Morgan was ousted at the polls.

House of Representatives: Incumbent James H. Pruitt, Eau Gallie, and William H. Roundtree, Cocoa.

Dade: Group 2: incumbent John B. Orr Jr., and David C. Eldredge, both Miami.

Duval: Group 2: incumbent Harry Westberry and Robert R. Roberts, both Jacksonville; Group 3: George L. Proctor and George B. Stallings Jr., both Jacksonville.

"The Band this year is a young band," said Bandmaster Ernest Cowley. "Thirty of the 50 players are new to our group, including 21 freshmen, four transfer students and five 8th graders from Seminole High. However, I am sure that they will live up to the fine standard of performance achieved by the band in the past."

Absent from the half-time spectacular this year will be the Seminole Pep Club. This club has been dropped from extra-curricular activities due to lack of interest.

Vernon Dunn Charges Dodd Threatened Him

In a statement to The Sanford Herald this morning, County Commissioner-elect Vernon C. Dunn said that he had been "threatened" by present Commissioner of District 4, B. C. Dodd.

"This morning at 8, B. C. Dodd called my house," Dunn said. "He spoke to my wife and said that he understood that I had been in his district yesterday and talked to his men. If he does not back in my district again I'm going to straighten something out with him. He doesn't take of me until January, but he's trying to meddle in my business now. And then he runs to John Krider with information."

According to Dunn he found county road superintendent Walter

Negroes To Test State Pupil Law

MIAMI (UPI)—A direct challenge of Florida's Pupil Assignment Law loomed today as the Dade County School Board mailed out letters denying 14 Negro children admission to an all-white elementary school here.

The board voted late Wednesday not to permit the children to attend Orchard Villa, an all-white elementary school located in an area where several Negro families live.

Superintendent Joe Hall said a public hearing will be held Sept. 23 to allow parents a chance to protest the board's decision.

Board members said they would explain at that time on what grounds they refused to admit

U. S. Judge Rules For Integration; Schools May Close

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—A federal judge today granted an injunction which has the effect of preventing state courts from interfering with federal integration orders for schools in this southern part city.

Lawyers said it appeared that the temporary injunction issued by Judge Walter E. Hoffman could apply to any other Virginia cases where efforts are made in state courts to sidestep or nullify federal integration orders.

The action was expected to lead to the closing of six schools here by Gov. J. Lindsay Almond, even though Norfolk City School Board officials may attempt to obtain a stay of Hoffman's original order that 17 Negro students be admitted to the six schools in question.

Norfolk's 34 public schools have been closed for two weeks on a locally-ordered delay while state and city attorneys battled in federal courts.

City attorneys here expected Almond to close the six schools where integration has been ordered and to permit the others where integration is not involved, to open Monday. The governor gave a hint to that effect earlier today.

The governor announced he has cancelled plans to attend a Southern Governors Conference in Louisville, Ky., because of Virginia's integration crisis.

Almond "challenged" President Eisenhower and Atty. Gen. William Rogers to "join with us" in calling for an amendment to the Constitution to bring about desegregation.

Going To Series? Tickets All Gone

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you have already made application for tickets to the World Series games at Yankee Stadium, forget it.

The Yankees announced Wednesday night they were ready to accept mail applications for box and reserved seats, but warned there was only a small amount of tickets available.

During the past two World Series, mail order tickets were exhausted less than 24 hours after the sale opened.

Vice Consul Shot, Seriously Wounded

NISOCIA, Cyprus (UPI)—U.S. Vice Consul J. P. Wentworth was shot and seriously wounded today by two terrorist gunmen as he stood in the garden outside his home.

Wentworth was struck by three bullets. The gunmen were believed to have escaped in a car. He was taken to the British military hospital where his condition was reported serious.

Wentworth, who is married and has two children, came here two months ago as deputy to U. S. Consul General Taylor G. Helcher.

Lutherans To Get New Church Here

Sanford will see the establishment Sunday of a new Lutheran Church. The first service of the United Lutheran Church will be held at 10 a. m. in the Sanford Shrine Club.

The new church is sponsored by the United Lutheran Church in America. It is directed by the Board of American Missions and the Florida Synod. The mission congregation is associated with the National Lutheran Council and the World Council of Churches.

Board missionary is Ernest Bulck Jr., who has been in Sanford since July. The new church was established after numerous requests from area residents and careful study of Lutheran needs here.

Sunday School will begin in several weeks. Chartering of the congregation will follow soon. The initial service will include the regular Sunday services, preaching and special music by a youth choir from St. Johns, Orlando. Nursery accommodations are available. An informal coffee hour will follow.

Pastor classes and catechism training will be announced.

Faubus Favors Fighting School Closing In Court

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that the only way to keep the Little Rock school crisis from burning into racial conflict is to fight it out in the courts.

Faubus refused to say whether the formation of a private corporation to reopen Little Rock's closed high schools as private, segregated institutions, is his idea.

The Little Rock private school Corp. met and decided to make no effort to reopen the closed high schools as private institutions until after an integration election Sept. 27. The six members of the corporation denied that Faubus had anything to do with it.

"The purpose of this corporation is to get the schools open and by that I mean all the

Secretary Places Part Of Blame On Russia In Speech

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles called today for a prompt cease-fire and "suitable conditions" to end the fighting in Formosa Strait.

In a major policy speech in the United Nations General Assembly, Dulles said this should "eliminate provocations" and leave for later peaceful solution the Nationalist and Red Chinese claims and counterclaims.

He said Communist Chinese aggressive moves toward the Quemoy and Matsu islands pose "a grave threat with ominous implications" which endanger world order.

Issue Is Simple
Dulles said the Quemoy issue is "a simple one armed conflict." "There are two indisputable and decisive facts," he said. "These are:

"1. The Chinese Communist regime has never during its nine years of existence exercised authority over Taiwan (Formosa) or the Penghu (Pescadore) or the offshore islands.

"2. The Chinese Communist regime is now attempting to extend its authority to those areas by the use of naked force."

The United States, Dulles said, hopes that a peaceful solution can be found.

Dulles said the United States did not ignore the argument that the Chinese conflict is "civil war" or that the offshore islands are physically close to the Chinese mainland.

"But we can scarcely accept the view that nations are entitled to seize territory by force just because it is near at hand," he said.

Danger To Peace
The fact is that when one regime attempts by force to take additional territory which has long been under the authority of another government, recognized as such by a respectable part of the world community, that is a use of force which endangers world peace.

Dulles laid some of the responsibility directly on Russia by saying that Red Chinese artillery used to bombard the Quemoy islands "was largely that supplied by the Soviet Union."

Champion 'Thief
Nabbed' By Police

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (UPI)—Police said a high school senior being held here today is charged with being the world's champion auto burglar thief.

When he was arrested of these charges, 17-year-old Chester Williams was driving a hot-rod car on a parked car.

He readily admitted being an expert at the practice and said he had timed himself at three seconds in removing a cap.

But the youth complained that there were so many mechanics in the business that the price for stolen burglar had "dropped to nothing," investigators said.

The boy was quoted as saying he collected about 1000 burglars last year and that his record for one night was 187.

New State Taxes Appear Inevitable

The latest cutback was disclosed at a special news conference at which Collins said a new financial survey showed that income will fall 83 million dollars short of record spending authorized by the last Legislature.

U. S. Pilots Told To 'Shoot To Kill'

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Nationalist Sabre Jets shot down five Soviet-built MIG-17 jets and probably damaged another in two separate air battles near the off-shore Quomooy Islands, the Nationalist Air Force announced officially tonight.

It was the first Formosa Strait air battle since Sept. 8, when the Nationalists claimed they shot down a record number of seven MIG-17s.

The Defense Ministry said Communist artillery shelled two Nationalist patrol craft. But it added that a supply convoy under protection of U.S. Navy and Nationalist forces fought its way through the intense barrage and landed supplies on Quomooy Island.

A U. S. military spokesman disclosed that American jet fighters flying cover over the convoys and protecting Nationalist planes dropping supplies on Little Quomooy have been ordered to "shoot to kill" if Communist planes attack.

The United States backed up this warning by sending F104 Star Fighters on patrol over the Formosa Strait for the first time today. The better than 1000-mile per hour planes are the world's fastest.

Thus far, the Communists have refrained from sending their MIG-17 jets into attacks against convoys escorted by American warplanes.

Communist artillery also has refrained from attacking U. S. convoy vessels and no American war-

Ford Strike Ends, Attention Turned To GM, Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers, having gained a "non-inflationary" contract from Ford Motor Co., prepared today to turn its famed "whipsaw" on General Motors and Chrysler.

Ford and the UAW agreed to a three-year contract Wednesday about six hours after Ford workers at 86 plants and parts depots throughout the nation walked off their jobs when the negotiators were unable to agree before an 11 a. m. e. d. t. strike deadline.

The settlement, expected to set a pattern for 600,000 auto industry workers, gave the union pay hikes totaling 24 cents an hour, improved unemployment benefits, pensions and job security — the matters UAW president Walter P. Reuther called "pressing human needs."

Fires Increasing,
Ranger Asks Care

Dry weather and a rash of small fires today brought an appeal for more care around woodlands.

County Ranger Robert L. Gray said the Florida Forest Service reported 94 wild fires to date in 1958, compared to only 89 for all of 1957. Total acreage burned by these fires was 1,267, compared to 1,463 acres for all of last year.

Gray said the Forest Service "is worried because of the big increase." He pointed out that the "fire season" covers the next three months. In the first 15 days of this month, the Forest Service reported four fires which burned two acres, compared to three fires last month.

The latest fire reported was a long a railroad, one mile north of Sanlando Springs, which burned one and one-half acres of woodland, Gray said. It is the last action of Ranger John Everett, who extinguished the blaze with the power wagon, the fire was under control before it could do too much damage.

"With the fire season approaching, it is important that more care be exercised," Gray said. "Any landowner desiring fire protection around his home or lot should contact us at the Florida Forest Service headquarters in Longwood."

Chrysler Next

The average Ford auto worker's wage now will be more than $2.40 an hour, with night shift workers getting a 10 per cent differential instead of 5 per cent.

Immediately after reaching the agreement at 4:05 p. m., Reuther were seeking to get Ford workers back on the job as soon as possible.

Reuther said he expected most of the workers to return today but "some have local problems which must be solved before the workers return."

We're Unhappy, Too

We're sorry. We're as unhappy as you are. But, we just couldn't get your paper to you any earlier today.

A gear broke. It was impossible to get the press started until the gear was repaired. The repair job took about four hours. Mechanical gadgets are wonderful, but they do fail on occasion. We hope you understand and accept our apologies.
