FBI Leads Blitzing Search For Patty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst, the soft-spoken coed who screamed "let me go" as she was violently kidnaped 3½ months ago, was hunted today by hundreds of lawmen as an "armed and extremely dangerous" member of the terrorist group which abducted her.

With six of Miss Hearst's alleged captors dead after a series of weekend developments in which the case began to break open, the FBI led a blitzing search in this city today for the remnants of the nearly decimated Symbionese Liberation Army, and for Miss Hearst.

The FBI said Sunday night it would charge Miss Hearst as the woman who pumped automatic rifle fire into a sporting goods store on Thursday, the incident that triggered the army of lawmen into action as they began to close in on the SLA.

The FBI said it believes Miss Hearst, who 106 days ago was pursuing her art studies and quietly planning a summer wedding, to be part of what is left of her captors.

"Apparently she has joined forces with the SLA," William A. Sullivan, assistant director of the Los Angeles FBI office, said of the 20-year-old newspaper heiress Sunday night. He added, "She will be given the opportunity to surrender. If she opens fire on FBI agents or police, the fire will be returned."

Police said early today all units were seeking a young white woman and two black men "considered armed and dangerous and may be suspected SLA members" who tried to offer "several hundred dollars" to a landlady if she would give them a room Sunday night.

The woman was described as 18 to 20, blonde hair, blue eyes, with a sawed-off shotgun on a sling concealed under her coat. Miss Hearst has brown hair and brown eyes. The men were described as in their 20s, one 6-foot-3 and the other 5-foot-4.

Police said when the landlady refused to rent the room, she was slashed at with a knife. Her clothing was cut but she was unharmed. Her assailants reportedly fled in a red and black sedan.

Named in a warrant charging federal firearms violations were Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris, a husband and wife in their late 20s. The Harrises are white.

If there was any solid SLA connection with the two black men sought early today, police did not give it.

Six persons, including acknowledged SLA leader Cinque, are dead, victims of a Friday night shootout with an estimated 500 law officers that lasted more than an hour before their hideout house burned. When the charred remains of all six were finally identified by Sunday afternoon, the dead included what was believed to be all the top leaders of the SLA, which now appears not to have numbered more than a dozen.

In tape recordings issued as the country's first political kidnapping unfolded, Miss Hearst pledged her allegiance to the SLA, renounced her family, ridiculed her fiancé and repeated the violent SLA goals of revolution on behalf of the people. But her family always said it believed the statements were coerced. Most authorities appeared to believe that, until this weekend.

Formal complaints were to be filed today against Miss Hearst and the Harrises, who Sullivan said he believed were still in Southern California. A youth who identified Miss Hearst for the FBI said she told him she raked a sporting goods store with rifle fire as she and the Harrises made their getaway after a bungled attempt to shoplift a pair of 49-cent socks.

Randolph A. Hearst, Patricia's father, was "taking it pretty badly" and was not expected to have any comment until later today.

Orlando Operator Is Killed

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A service station operator was killed and his son died of a heart attack today during a gun battle with three holdup men, police said.

Police investigators said the operator of the Court of Flags Standard station was struck in the chest by a bullet while exchanging an estimated 20 shots with the three armed robbers.

His son, who witnessed the gunfight, died of a heart attack, police said.

The names of the service station operator and his son were withheld until their relatives could be notified.

One of the holdup men and a bystander also were wounded, police said.

The trio of holdup men were arrested at a construction site near the service station at the intersection of Interstate 4 and Sunshine State Parkway, police said.

Utilities: Can Meet Summer Demands

By The Associated Press

American won't have to sweat through the summer to avoid power cutbacks or brownouts, but utility officials say people will have to use electricity wisely if they want to prevent problems.

An Associated Press survey showed that electric companies expect to have enough power to satisfy summer demands, barring unforeseen breakdowns or abnormally hot weather.

They urge conservation, however, and say high electricity prices, caused by higher fuel costs, may help cut usage.

Robert Rives, a spokesman for the Kansas Gas & Electric Co., said, "We have adequate facilities and fuel to take care of people's needs, but we think they should use it wisely."

Rives and others suggested that people set their thermostats at 78 degrees—slightly above usual—just the way they bet the thermostat is slightly below normal during the winter.

Several utilities said they had extra reserve capacity. A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison of Chicago said, "Our reserve will be 16 per cent. The reserve normally is 11 per cent." He said the extra capacity is the result of a "slowdown in electrical growth. In past years there has been an electrical growth of 5 or 6 per cent a year, but so far this year, it's not growing at all."

A spokesman for the Public Service Co. of Colorado said the power situation looked good for summer.

So did Ernie Quicquel, a spokesman for the Georgia Power Co.

Consolidated Edison Co. of New York reported two more extra generating units this year than last. But the company was forced to make a voltage cutback last Friday when the temperature hit 92 degrees. Some equipment was out of service because of repairs and maintenance by company workmen trying to get things ready for summer.

Spokesmen for the New England Power Pool said the only chance of brownouts this summer would be if the weather turned hot at the same time plants were shut down for maintenance.

Officials said it would cost about $19 more to air condition one room in Massachusetts this summer than it did last year, but they said they didn't know whether the cost increase would be enough to cut consumption.

Gurney's Fund-Raiser Names 16

MIAMI (AP) — Larry E. Williams, former fund-raiser for Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., has named under 16 individuals involved in federal housing contracts who he says gave to a secret fund for Gurney, the Miami Herald says it has learned.

The Herald said in its Sunday editions that Williams revealed the names during testimony to a federal task force.

The Herald said Williams' testimony revealed contributions totaling $200,000. The Herald previously had reported that Williams told investigators he raised some $400,000 in Gurney's name in 1971-72, mostly from builders seeking influence with the Federal Housing Administration.

The newspaper said that at least part of the $400,000 difference may be accounted for in traditional political contributions.

Williams is serving a year in federal prison after pleading guilty to charges of attempted income-tax evasion and helping an FIA official collect an illegal payment.

Gurney, up for re-election this year, has denied any wrongdoing in connection with Williams' activities.

He has said that he did not know of the activities until mid-1972, when he learned that Williams had raised $100,000 in his name. Gurney said he then ordered the fund-raising stopped.

Gurney has voluntarily testified before a federal grand jury in Jacksonville reportedly probing the fund-raising and alleged housing fraud.

The newspaper said it sought comment from the builders who according to public records all engaged in tax-subsidized FIA programs to build low-income housing.

Four denied Williams' testimony, four confirmed making contributions; four declined comment and four did not respond to inquiries, the Herald said.

The Herald also said it learned that 13 of the 16 have cooperated with federal investigators. It did not identify the other three.

Swofford Calls Charges Lies; Seeking Grand Jury Probe

By DONNA ESTES
By Herald Staff Writers

ALAMONTE SPRINGS — Ex-mayor Lawrence Swofford today branded as "lies" charges of wrongdoing during his 20 years in public office, challenging State Atty. Abbott Herring to permit him to defend himself before the grand jury.

"I've tried to get before the grand jury, but they (Herring's office) won't let me," Swofford said, insisting he doesn't object to an investigation by anyone.

Over the past two weeks, former fire chief and now county fire protection administrator Gary Kaiser, current Fire Chief Tom Siegfried and past building official Jack Stowe have given depositions to Herring's office charging Swofford stopped their enforcement of building and fire codes at new construction sites.

Another past building official, Francis Jenior, now Lake Mary's building inspector, while admitting he has also given a deposition refused to reveal its content.

Herring last week said speculation on possible grand jury action against Swofford was premature.

"Anyone who says I didn't or wouldn't allow others to enforce the law or gained financially by wrongdoing is lying," Swofford said. He counter-charged Stowe with being unqualified and a "stuffed shirt," Kaiser with secreting a tape recorder in the mayor's office and Jenior with "sting" builders get by."

Swofford during his brief employment with the city acted like a "stuffed shirt," wanted to sit in his office and resented an order to be a working inspector, Swofford said.

Saying Stowe was not qualified for the position, he said the man wanted to double conversations in the mayor's office and "for cheating the people of Alamoonte Springs by going to school on city time."

He said construction began at the Elmonco and 701 Professional Buildings before the city fire codes were adopted and thus did not come under the purview of that law and that motels came under state hotel and restaurant commission regulations rather than city laws.

Siegfried said last week that a $25,000 fire at the Elmonco building could have been contained if sprinkler systems had been installed as required by the fire code.

Swofford said he did order fire department personnel to stop "harrassing" the Super Valu market on SR 436, because it was built nearly 20 years before the fire code went into effect.

"I never told anyone he did not have to have an occupational license," Swofford said, insisting that Mayor Norman Floyd "is trying to cover his own failings" by making charges against him.

Floyd has said that some 200 city businesses did not have licenses and that one firm told a police officer Swofford said a license was not necessary.

Jobless Vet's Amputation Nixed, Mulls Jail To Support Family

JUPITER, Fla. (AP) — A young Vietnam veteran who wants doctors to remove his damaged leg says a medical decision to save the leg has forced him to sell his baby's crib and consider going to jail to support his family.

Don Dagenhart, 22, wants the leg replaced from the leg makes it impossible for him to hold a job.

But a Veteran's Administration panel of three doctors says the leg should stay, despite its patient's wishes.

Broke, jobless and distraught, Dagenhart says his problems began in 1970 when he was in the Navy. He says he played for the team in a game against a Pensacola Navy Base team that was "the team to beat in the Navy."

He had two knee operations at Pensacola and three more in Chelsea, Mass. before his discharge in 1971. While in Chelsea, he met his wife, Anne, then a student nurse.

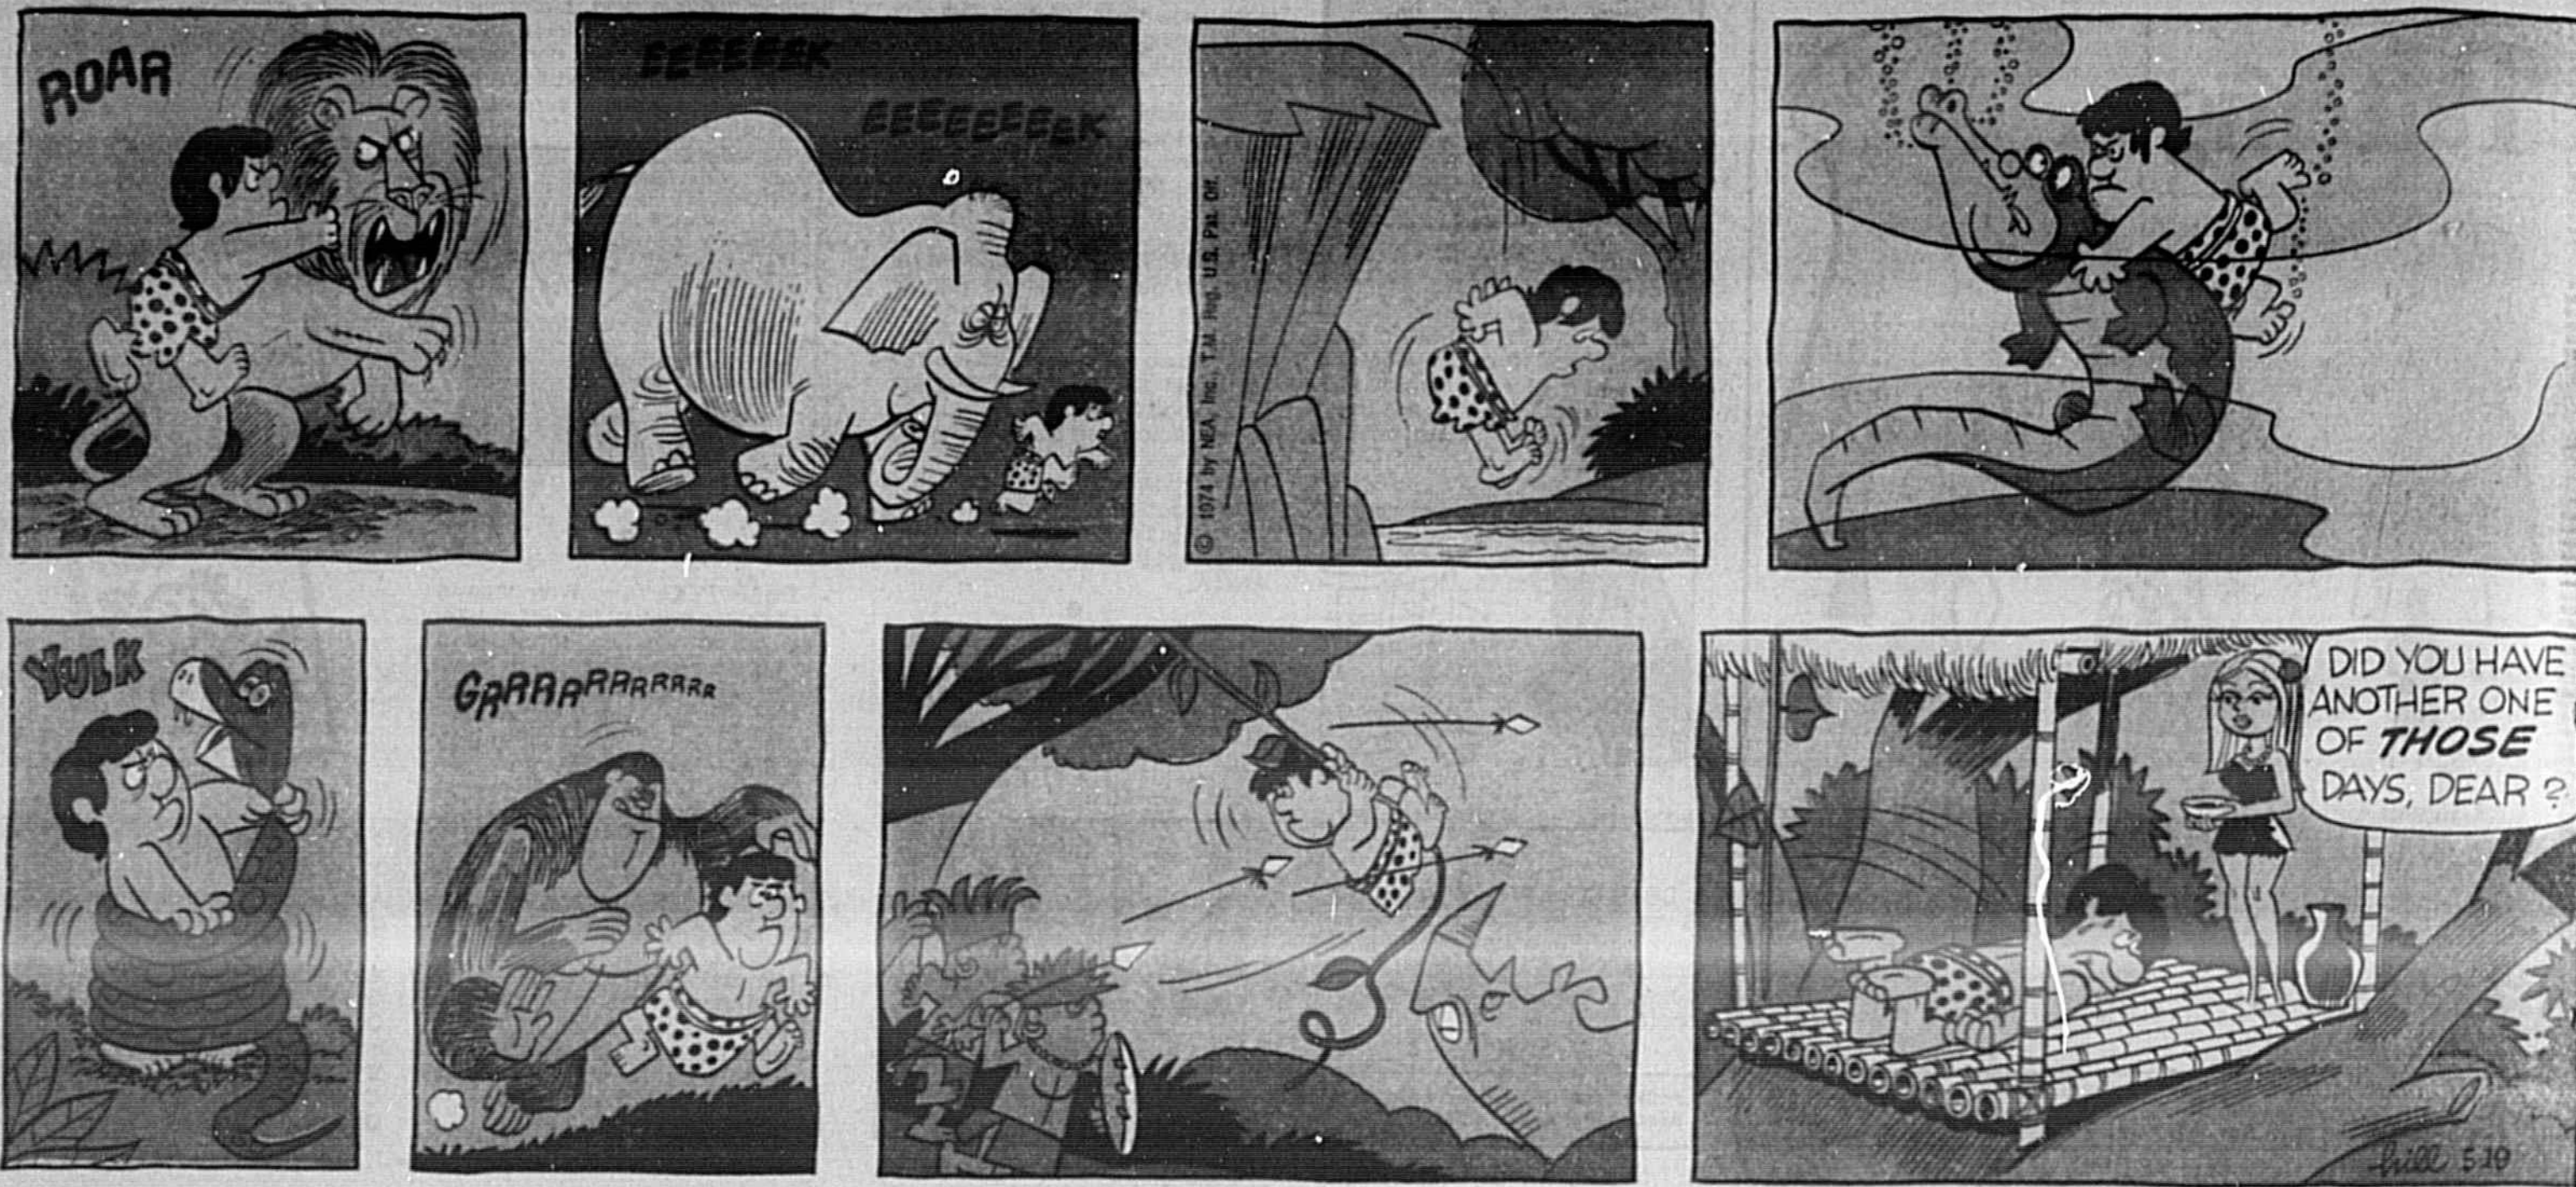

The couple moved to Durham, N.C., to be near Dagenhart's parents, and where he could receive more treatment at a VA hospital.

In Miami recovering from two more exploratory operations, Dagenhart's disability payments were increased from $49 a month to $57. They were reduced to $49 six months after he was released.

Early this year, the medical panel in Miami gave Dagenhart three alternatives: Have the knee fused and the nerves killed; keep the knee and wear a full leg brace; or amputate the leg and be fitted with an artificial one.

A re-examination in April caused doctors to withdraw two choices and recommend the full leg brace.

Turner Associates Rest Their Case

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Final arguments continue in federal court here today for five of seven men being tried along with promoter Glenn Turner on mail fraud charges. U.S. District Judge Gerald "Yofas" said today that he instructed the jury to consider each defendant as an individual when the case goes to the jury, halting a request by attorneys for three defendants over the weekend. In those final arguments, made in rare Saturday and Sunday sessions in an effort to wind up the nine-month-old trial, the jury heard defense attorneys contend that the government failed to prove its case. Defense attorneys have centered on the contention that the men were responsible only for operations of the Orlando-based companies and had no knowledge or part in the alleged misdeeds and false promises made to distributors in the field. The three men, along with Turner and four others, are charged in a 26-count indictment. The government contended the sales of distributorships although they lacked products and materials to back up claims made to investors. The government alleges the conspiracy ran from the founding of Turner in 1967 to May 18, 1973, when the indictment was returned by a federal grand jury in Orlando.

'Mazda Mama' Cites Speeders

SOUTH BAY, Fla. (AP) — There goes policeman Angelo Kelson, zipping her small foreign car in and out of heavy truck traffic until the 18-year-old, 5-foot-4 Miss Kelson has struck again. Fellow officers say trucks passing through this small town in western Palm Beach County are growing wary of the 18-year-old, 5-foot-4 Miss Kelson. "I've seen her pull two trucks over at the same time," says one highway patrolman. "There she is in that little patrol car smack in between two semis. Sometimes a trucker's going to get mad enough to run right over her and drag that little Mazda all the way to Lauderdale." Miss Kelson says her reputation as a fervent defender of the local speed regulations has earned mixed notices from the drivers, who have dubbed her "Mazda Mama: The Truckers' Delight."

Sewer Grant Funds Confusing To Cities

Altamonte Springs and Longwood city officials were astounded today to find out exactly what Sewer grants reportedly approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) are for. U.S. Rep. Bill Gunter (D-Orlando) said EPA has awarded grants of $2.1 million to Altamonte Springs and $782,000 to Longwood. Both cities have pending grant applications for sums in excess of the amounts Gunter reported approved. Gunter said the Altamonte money is to be used for a regional advanced waste treatment plant, interceptor sewers, pumping stations with stand-by power, force mains and an outfall pump station while the Longwood funds are to be used for an interceptor sewer, master pump station and force main. Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd said today the city received and accepted in December a $3.4 million grant to expand the city's 1.2 million gallon daily capacity sewer plant into a 7.5 million gallon capacity regional facility. Floyd said the grant to be approved for the interceptor system was supposed to be for $2,496,000. The grant for Longwood's interceptor system to hook up to Altamonte Springs' line was to have been $133,000, 75 per cent of the cost.

Lake Mary Zone Board Mulls Babcock Project

LAKE MARY—The Planning and Zoning Board is expected to make a decision today or not to favorably recommend to city council a planned unit development at the city's extreme Southern border tonight at 7:30 at city hall. The representative of Babcock Corporation presented plans for a 76-acre segment of a hoped-for 170 acre condominium-patio home development they will double the city's 2,600 current population at a work session last week. Later, developers said, they would ask the city to annex 100 acres adjoining U.S. 17-22 South, SR 427 and North General Hutchinson Parkway.

S/Sgt. Luber Helps Launch

Staff Sergeant Eric V. Luber, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. N. Luber, 123 Primrose Drive, Longwood, recently helped launch a U.S. Air Force Miniteman II intercontinental ballistic missile from Vandenberg AFB, Calif. The launch was one in a series of operational testing launches conducted by the Strategic Air Command (SAC). The missile, selected at random from those on alert at Minot, was transported — with its maintenance and launch crews — to Vandenberg. The crews operated from the Vandenberg control center where they monitored the missile in an alert status. When the launch message was received from SAC headquarters, the crews reacted, launching the missile as they would from their home base in combat operation. Luber attended Washburn Rural High School, Topeka, Kan., and attended Seminole County College.

Nation's Confidence Expressed

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The latest Gallup Poll, taken at a time of discontent with the President and Congress, indicates more than two thirds of Americans have "quite a lot" of confidence in the nation's future. Sixty-eight per cent of 1,537 adults interviewed March 29-April 1 expressed the highest degree of confidence, 19 per cent had "some" confidence, 10 per cent were "very little," 2 per cent had none and 1 per cent offered no opinion.

Seven Persons Drowned

SABINE PASS, Tex. (AP) — Seven persons drowned when their runaway car plunged into Texas Bayou near here on the Upper Texas Coast. Jim Bohler Sr., one of three survivors in a family party of 10, said, "I died in one but the water was swift." Killed in the Sunday night accident were Bohler's parents-in-law, Benson Cloud, 58, and Merlie Cloud, 49; the couple's daughter-in-law, Frances G. Cloe, and her children, Scotty, 7, and Todd, 5. Bohler and his brother-in-law Benson Cloud Sr., who had been driving, stepped from their parked car and left the engine idling. Suddenly the automobile lurched forward and gained speed as if someone inside hit the accelerator while nearly reaching for the brake, witnesses said. It then ran onto a boat ramp and plunged into the water. It floated briefly and Bohler's wife Dorothy, 28, escaped before the car sank with the other trapped inside.

Eagle Feather Worth $50

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old Duck Cop of the Fish and Wildlife Service is turning into a sort of environmental G-man. Instead of big heroin or 10-most-wanted buns, the big case around the service's Law Enforcement Division is likely to be seizure of a cheetah-fur coat or a shipment of hawk-billed shell hair clips. That's because the main beat for the division's 220 special agents is policing the endangered species list, and agents believe their beat is starting to involve organized crime. The traffic in illicit fur, shell and feather from species on the lengthy list is approaching dope-scale profits. A single eagle tail feather is worth $50. A tiger skin coat recently was valued at $40,000. A pair of Nile crocodile shoes is worth $12, and a live porcupine falcon can be worth $10,000 to a falconry buff, the service says.

Kennedy's Taxes Revealed

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy paid $217,844 in federal income taxes on an unadjusted income of $461,444 in 1973, according to tax records he disclosed to two Boston newspapers. The Boston Herald American and the Boston Globe today published the joint tax return filed by Kennedy and his wife, Joan, reporting the Massachusetts Democrat's income beyond his congressional salary of $42,500. Kennedy's income included $21,567 in dividends, $270,000 from the Joseph P. Kennedy 1926 trust, $126,257 from the Joseph P. Kennedy 1936 trust, $3,355 from publications, speaking fees and miscellaneous sources and $1,623 from four oil wells in Texas and Louisiana owned by the Forest Oil Co. The late Joseph P. Kennedy was the senator's father. Kennedy deducted from his gross income $38,773 in current taxes other than federal; $24,985 for mortgage payments; $4,678 for charitable contributions; and $26,308 in miscellaneous deductions. Kennedy declined to be immediately quoted about his tax returns, but said the data was released because of the public's growing concern about the extra income of elected officials.

Reinecke Request Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today refused to dismiss a perjury indictment against LL Gov. Ed Reinecke of California or shift his trial to that state. U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker denied motions by Reinecke's attorneys who contended among other things that he had been misled and trapped by federal prosecutors into cooperating with their investigation. "The court finds that Mr. Reinecke was unable to point to any statement made to him about a promise of leniency... in the unequal manner he suggests," Judge Parker ruled.

Tape Response Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is expected to reply today to the House Judiciary Committee's request for White House tapes related to the ITT antitrust case and the dairy industry's contributions to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign. The committee asked for the material on April 19 as part of its inquiry into whether Nixon should be impeached. The panel was expected to subpoena the material if the White House refuses to turn it over voluntarily. The committee had planned to vote last Thursday on a subpoena for the material, but the vote was delayed after White House lawyer James D. St. Clair said he was still studying the request and would have a response by today. White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler complained on Friday about the committee's closed hearings last week on the impeachment question.

Cronkite To Testify

LOS ANGELES (AP) — TV anchorman Walter Cronkite and several other top reporters are testifying in support of a colleague who is risking another jail term in order to keep confidential news sources secret. CBS anchorman Cronkite is one of several top reporters scheduled to appear at the court hearing which begins today to determine whether William Farr, a Los Angeles Times reporter who has served 46 days in jail, can be imprisoned again. Farr's principal witness list also included NBC-TV White House correspondent Tom Brokaw, Los Angeles Times' Washington reporter Jack Nelson and New York Times' San Francisco bureau chief Wallace Turner. Nelson and Turner are Pulitzer Prize winners. The issue on which they will be asked to testify is whether Farr, in refusing to reveal sources of a story during the Manson trial, was following an established ethical and moral principle of journalism.

Senate To Pass Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $23 billion education bill that would extend several of the most important school aid programs for four years is coming up for a vote and probable passage in the Senate. Restrictions on busing to achieve desegregation, the most serious hurdle to passage, were cleared last week with adoption of an amendment containing some limitations. The courts, however, would still be free to order busing where judges decide this is required to maintain equal rights. The Senate has agreed that no more antibusing proposals will be offered during today's final debate. But it has scheduled action on at least 11 other amendments before voting later in the day. The House will open debate on a $22.6 billion military procurement authorization bill, with votes put over until Tuesday. The big fight is expected on a move to cut military aid to South Vietnam from $1.4 billion to $900 million.

Male Police Officers Aren't Happy With 'Gals'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Typical of interviews, said many of the men in blue don't agree, but women have joined Washington's finest with flying colors, says the Police Foundation. Women are not aggressive and tend to lay back and act as a performance of 86 women patrol officers with that of 86 men showed "generally similar" results, the foundation said Sunday. The report said that "women made fewer arrests and gave fewer traffic citations," but added it was not clear whether that was because they were too easy or simply that men are too tough. It was clear, however, that many of the male officers aren't enthused about the presence of their women counterparts. "I have found female officers to be more intelligent... less quick to anger... I feel the intelligence and commitment of several female officers to be in refreshing contrast to the crybaby attitude of many males."

Editorial Mediation May Help Committee

President Nixon's decision to surrender no more of his recorded conversations - to any of the interested investigative agencies - is one more link in the somber mosaic of America's agony.

Unless somehow mediated, it moves the nation a major step nearer a constitutional crisis of gravity unequalled since secession.

The nature of the President's problem has no similarity whatever to the situation of a year - or even a month - ago. Appearance of the 1,300 pages of tape transcripts before the people at large has generated a widespread sense of disillusion and depression. In this atmosphere a presidential assertion that there is no more evidence relevant to Watergate in his recordings is just not enough. Congress has a role in determining the pertinence of evidence - it will weigh. Moreover, the people are not now in a mood to accept uncorroborated declarations, and it is therefore incumbent on the President to do something more.

It would be our view that an unqualified offer to play all of the requested tapes in the presence of the House Judiciary Committee members would be a reasonable step. There can be little objection to a determination to confine the disclosure to elected officials,

Recording Nixon's Historic Inaudibles

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
The Herald Staff

We all remember, of course, that President Nixon set up his White House recording system so he could accurately catch "history in the making" and later set down the finest presidential memoirs known to man.

Well, now, let's see how that's been working out.

First off, we know from the President and his aides that quite a few telephones around the premises are not even hooked into the tape system. Long ago we were told that Mr. Nixon took an important telephone call from former Attorney General John Mitchell June 20, 1972, right after the Watergate break-in, on an instrument in a hallway which was not tied in.

After that we ran into a rash of other difficulties. Some tapes seemed to be missing altogether. The way some of them evidently were labeled and stored would hardly match the efforts of an early 20th-century grocer trying to keep track of his sacks of rock candy.

Time after time, as we have it, the tape ran out right in the middle of conversations. And then there was that mysterious hum which wiped out 18 1/2 minutes of chat on June 20, starting just about at the moment when key aide H.R. (Bob) Haldean and top aide John Ehrlichman.

Forget the deleted excerpts and the passages expurgated as presumably irrelevant to Watergate. Those things are still on the tapes themselves, available for the writing of history. Some of the expurgated might make print, since some presents appear to treat a self-image of "ruthlessness."

The big thing is all those "inaudibles" sprinkled excluding paid staff members. On this point most Americans would probably agree. Certainly, anyone who has been reading the full text of the currently released tapes must have reached the conclusion that one of the real problems of Watergate is centered in the arrogant actions of non-elected, nonaccountable staff people wheeling and dealing behind the scenes.

While Mr. Nixon cannot escape a chief executive's overall responsibility for what his subordinates did, the longer term lesson for Americans is that there is a massive nonaccountable bureaucracy in Washington that is a mile off the reservation.

The 36 members of Congress who make up certain committees - every one a lawyer - ought to be able to recognize impeachment-pertinent evidence when they hear it. They are bound, moreover, by an oath and by an ineluctable obligation to their constituency to behave soberly and responsibly.

So, we would hope that Mr. Nixon, giving serious attention not only to the Ship of State but to the sensibilities of its millions of seafaring passengers, will come forward to furnish the elected Judiciary Committee members with the information they have requested as being essential to their proceedings.

Agreement With Javits Something Like Illness

At first I thought it might be something I'd eaten, or perhaps a stray virus. But I had no fever, and no localized distress of any sort; still I found myself agreeing with Senator Jacob Javits. Since Javits is one of the most Stakhanovite liberals in Congress, and I had never, as far as I could recall, agreed with him on anything whatever, I feared I might be ill. But, on further reflection, I have decided that there's nothing wrong with me. I'm not getting sick; instead, Senator Javits, in one important respect, is showing signs of getting well.

The New York Republican has proposed certain basic reforms in the relationship between presidents and the Congress, to strengthen the latter via a vis former. Since Javits and other liberals in both parties have for decades tended to favor expansion of presidential power at the expense of Congress, this is a bit like Brezhnev coming out for the free enterprise system, or the Soviet Union announcing that she had decided woman's place is in the home.

The reason for Javits' sunburst, of course, is not far to seek: the shoe of power has shifted temporarily to the other foot. When liberals were entrenched in the White House, they were most enthusiastic of ministring of executive authority. Could anyone who was sentiment in 1952 ever forget the fury with which

Ford Emerges As GOP Hope

By JAMES CARY
The Herald Staff

WASHINGTON - In the midst of the quickening pace of Watergate, Vice President Gerald Ford is emerging as the rock on which dismayed Republicans probably will attempt to rebuild their party. His swift ascendancy to a position of virtually unopposed respect in GOP politics also happens to coincide with the emergence of two strong figures among the Democrats - Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama. As a consequence, it is these three men - Ford, Jackson and Wallace - who have for the present somewhat uniquely become the focal points of the 1974 presidential race more than a year and a half in advance of the first primaries.

This does not mean that the political landscape might not be vastly altered by 1974. Certainly Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., has to be considered seriously in any speculation about a Democratic nominee, but there is a surprising amount of objection to him in current Democratic political conversation here. And the conviction appears to be spreading rapidly that his involvement in the drowning death of Mary Jo Kopechne at Chappaquiddick Island, Mass., July 18, 1969, is a political wound from which he cannot recover. This makes the triad of Ford, Jackson and Wallace even more interesting for the present. Each, it would seem, represents a turning away from charisma, personality, and even the slightest suggestion of the "New Politics," a return to an earlier, more basic type of political figure.

President Nixon is opposed to any public funding of federal campaigns and has threatened to veto. However, recent polls indicate solid public support for public financing combined with curbs on spending and contributions.

Campaign Reform Creeping

By BENJAMIN SHORE
The Herald Staff

WASHINGTON—Despite public opinion polls showing "Watergate" looming as an ill-defined issue in the congressional elections, Congress may fail to come to grips this year with legislation intended to reform campaign financing, spending and conduct.

Although the Senate approved a sweeping reform measure April 11 after prolonged and heated debate, the House is moving at a snail's pace on its version of reform legislation.

Furthermore, the House Administration Committee, which is drafting a bill from scratch instead of considering any already introduced, is likely to approve legislation that is significantly different from the Senate version.

This will force a long drawn-out compromise session which could end in a stalemate, committee officials suggest. Some committee members from both parties said in not-for-attribution interviews that for these reasons, they would not be surprised if there is not campaign reform this year.

"And if we get into impasse proceedings in the full House and the Senate," one Democrat commented, "a lot of controversial bills that can wait, are going to stall."

However, one committee staff official said in an interview that many congressmen feel it is important that Congress act on campaign reform "in this year of Watergate" and they are pressuring House officials and committee members at least get a House bill up for a vote before the November elections even if differences with the Senate cannot subsequently be resolved.

One of the major sticking points between the House and Senate likely will be federal funding of House and Senate election campaigns.

The Senate approved such funding, although it first had to break a filibuster intended to block it. Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Administration Committee, is firmly opposed to federal financing of congressional races, and the bill that will emerge from his committee (perhaps in a month or two) likely will not include it.

Hays also doesn't like federal funding of presidential campaigns, but he reportedly is prepared to accept it in a form of compromise. Meanwhile, many American taxpayers are indignant through the $1 check-off on their 1973 tax returns that they support public funding of presidential campaigns.

The Internal Revenue Service is projecting that $25 million will be designated this year for the 1976 campaigns, in addition to the $4 million designated last year.

If this rate of public support continues through the 1974 and 1975 tax years, said Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald Alexander, there should be a pool of more than the $60 million needed to make funds available to major candidates in 1976.

That level of public financing of presidential campaigns is intended to be accompanied by a congressionally imposed ceiling on campaign spending and individual contributions.

President Nixon is opposed to any public funding of federal campaigns and has threatened to veto. However, recent polls indicate solid public support for public financing combined with curbs on spending and contributions.

Jack Anderson Another Hazard From Cadillac

WASHINGTON—General Motors hasn't bothered to warn the owners of one million 1968-73 Cadillacs still on the road that a mysterious brake failure, called "phantom brakes," may plague them in an accident at any time.

Nor has GM notified the federal government, which monitors such defects. Yet the strange brake malady, which can afflict a Cadillac without warning and vanish before it reaches the garage, has been known to GM since 1968.

There have also been rare reports of "phantom brake" failures in Chevrolet and Oldsmobiles. GM has denied to us that any of its cars have dangerous brakes. Said a spokesman: "The brakes on the Cadillac are among the most effective in the industry... tested thoroughly under the most exacting conditions for millions of miles."

"Every failure," he added, "has a specific definable cause. Whenever an alleged braking complaint is filed, Cadillac attempts to determine the cause." The same is true, he said, for other GM models.

Yet we had access to documents, which GM seems to have hidden in its deepest files. These reports, which we have made available to the Center for Auto Safety, dispute the disclaimer from Detroit.

Not only have "phantom brakes" caused sudden crashes, according to the documents, but the GM wizards may not even know what causes the terrifying brake failures.

A typical experience was reported by Mrs. Ethel Harris who was driving her Cadillac sedan in New Kensington, Pa., at about 35 miles per hour. Ahead, she saw cars stopped at a light.

She pressed on her brake pedal, but to her horror the pedal sank flat on the floor. Thinking quickly, she swerved off the road to avoid injuring those in the cars ahead.

Her decision sent her to the hospital, with a broken nose and bad bruises. The Cadillac crashed into a house, causing $2,000 damage to the car and $1,000 damage to the home.

Police on the scene tested her brakes and reported the pedal "went all the way to the floor." Yet a few days later, a GM representative found a "good brake pedal" and full brake cylinder. The GM man listed the cause of accident vaguely as "brake pedal fade."

The GM documents cite "phantom brake failure" as the cause of a crash in Colorado involving a new Cadillac. And in Georgia, a Fleetwood owner reported two "phantom brake failures" before a third one sent him jolting into the rear end of a Pontiac, causing two injuries and $2,800 worth of damages.

In the limited number of Cadillac documents we were able to survey, there were 23 "phantom brake" reports. But the documents hint at many more cases. States one Cadillac official: "We have experienced several of these cases and so far have not been able to diagnose the cause."

The suppressed facts in the GM documents is supported by additional evidence of our own. The Center for Auto Safety has also received complaints from Cadillac owners.

A military officer wrote, for example, that he watched in horror as his wife pumped "the brakes down to the floor" and the big Cadillac rolled helplessly into a crash.

MIAMI (AP)—A policeman who was used in recruiting drives because he had "the kind of image you sent out to colleges" has been shot to death.

Dade County Sheriff's Sgt. Harrison Crenshaw, 28, an undercover narcotics agent, was killed Saturday night when he apparently stopped a car to check its occupants.

Crenshaw was a government witness in the Gainesville Eight anti-war conspiracy trial, but police said they had found no connection between the trial and his death.

Police said Vassar was arrested when he returned to a car that was being examined for fingerprints. Vassar was charged on the basis of witness identification, police said, but they would not say how many witnesses there were.

Ralph Paige, a sheriff's department information officer, said Crenshaw often was used as a recruiting officer because he loved his job and projected a good image for young people.

Crenshaw was involved in the federal government's conspiracy prosecution in Gainesville last year of eight members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War charged with plotting to disrupt the 1972 Republican National Convention on Miami Beach.

Crenshaw gave the jury information that he gathered by infiltrating the anti-war group. The eight defendants were found innocent by the jury.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—A Riviera Beach man has been killed and a woman critically injured in the crash of a light plane in an orange grove west of here, the Palm Beach County sheriff's office said.

The pilot was identified as Richard F. Collier, 28, and the woman as Caroline Freeman, 30, of Loxahatchee. Officers said the plane was a passenger in the plane.

Joint Panel OK's Condominium Bill

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A joint conference committee today gave final approval to a condominium bill after defeating several efforts to restrict recreation leases.

Meanwhile, House Republicans took a unanimous caucus in a position opposing a re-called $4.5 billion budget as each chamber of the legislature prepared for floor action on the appropriations bill.

The joint House-Senate Conference Committee approved the condominium bill 10-0.

But Senate President Mallory Horne has announced his opposition to any measure that does not prohibit recreation leases and has said he will attempt to get the full Senate to reject the conference committee report so that he can appoint a new slate of senators to the committee.

The original architect's plans called for the courtyards to be open so the plants would be watered naturally by rain.

When legislators objected that the courtyard should be enclosed, General Services decided to install artificial plants to avoid the watering problem.

But Agriculture Secretary Doyle Conner and members of the Florida Nursery Growers Association didn't like the idea and announce they would not work until prison officials from Tallahassee listened to them.

K.D. Conner, superintendent of the 800-inmate facility some 40 miles west of Orlando, said, "Some prisoners did get down on the ball field, but it wasn't a strike. They just got together to talk." Earlier he had denied anything had happened.

The relative, who asked not to be identified, also said they saw a fire truck backed up to the prison gate and a truck carrying dogs in the prison yard.

"The fire truck was there when I came in," Conner said. "I don't know what it was doing there. I don't know anything about the dogs. If those people said they saw dogs, they know more than I do."

One person who said she was a visitor said that when the delegation of six inmates came

Both the House and Senate budget versions are in line with the $4.5 billion sought by Gov. Reubin Askew, including a 25 per cent increase in state spending over last year.

At issue are spending for education, protection of the environment, environmental lands, state employe pay hikes, reorganization of the natural resources agencies and construction projects that include buildings for the state fair in Tampa.

The $4.5 billion budgets include general revenue spending money marked for special uses from trust funds and federal revenue-sharing dollars.

The largest sum in each general revenue spending budget is for education. The House budget provides a total of $1.43 billion for elementary and secondary schools, state universities and community colleges. The Senate would furnish $1.515 billion. Askew recommended $1.465 billion.

Both the Senate and House versions include $116 million to make up for revenue that would be lost if an Askew-backed proposal is approved to lower the ceiling on school property taxes from 10 mills to eight.

The House-Senate condominium panel voted Friday against banning recreation leases, but Senate President Mallory Horne warned that if the leases were not outlawed he would seek to appoint a new slate of senators to the panel.

Several relatives of inmates said the prisoners had complained that discipline was too harsh at Sumter. Conner said the prisoners had issued a list of grievances but that he could not discuss the grievances until he spoke to prison officials in Tallahassee.

made a device called a "telescope work platform" that we could use.

Seale said the state bought one machine for $6,768. The cost of artificial plants for the planters would have been $11,000.

The machine has a maximum lift of 36 feet.

Unfortunately, that's still not high enough for four planters in the courtyards. They have been left empty, but department personnel say after that the legislative session they will lower those planters closer to the other 14 so they can be reached.

Meanwhile, Hadley keeps going up and down, tending his hanging gardens.

"I am not scared of heights, so the work is great," he says.

Stone Blasts Export-Import Bank
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Secretary of State Richard Stone said today that the president of the Export-Import Bank had broken a promise to provide detailed information on a loan commitment to the Soviet Union.

Bank President William J. Casey promised in a telephone conversation to give the information, but said in a May 7 letter that the information could go only to the parties directly involved, Stone said in a statement released by his State campaign headquarters.

Stone said, "When public U.S. citizens' dollars are involved in foreign trade deals and the Ex-

Im Bank is lending your money, then copies of the preliminary agreements should be made available to anyone... Partial disclosure is not enough."

Stone also said Casey's testimony before a Senate subcommittee following a statement by Stone indicated that the bank did not take consideration of "possible adverse effect upon the vital resources of this country."

The Soviets agreed to sell to the United States another form of fertilizer developed from natural gas.

Strike Plans Withdrawn

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Faced with a government threat to use troops to maintain electric power supplies, militant Protestants have withdrawn plans to expand their general strike to all of Northern Ireland's power stations. Blackouts were continuing in many areas. Strike leaders backed down after Merlyn Rees, Britain's minister of state for Northern Ireland, declared a state of emergency empowering him to bring in army power engineers if the strikers honored their threat to shut down the stations at midnight Sunday. Most of Northern Ireland's labor force is Protestant, and the six-day-old general strike has paralyzed industry for the first time in almost five years of feuding between Ulster's Protestant majority and Roman Catholics.

Defense Cuts Planned

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Britain's Labor government expects to decide this October on defense cuts even bigger than those made in 1968, says a ranking defense official. Sir Rodgers, British minister of state for defense, made the comment on a trip through the Far East to collect the views of friendly governments on Britain's military presence in the area. He already has visited Malaysia and Singapore and will go to Australia. Rodgers said the 1968 defense cuts, which substantially reduced Britain's ground commitments east of Suez, "did not involve the savings of the size we are talking about now."

Asian Tour Cancelled

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, called off the remainder of an Asian tour after he fell and fractured the upper part of his hip bone, a spokesman said today. He said Rockefeller is in no pain from the injury he received Sunday night, but he has been hospitalized and will fly back to the United States Tuesday night. The spokesman said Rockefeller will not require surgery.

Kuwait Appreciates U. S.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Kuwait's oil minister says his country will not try to reimpose the Arab oil embargo against the United States under prevailing circumstances, the Beirut daily Al Bayrak reported today. "We do not want to be the enemies of the American people nor do we seek the hostility of the United States," Abdul Rahman Alkhi said in an interview with the paper. "We consider the United States is the only country that is sincerely working for peace in the Middle East... It has abandoned its traditional support for Israel because it believes in human justice," Alkhi said.

Planes Back Ground Attack

BEN CAT, South Vietnam (AP) — Backed by heavy air and artillery support, South Vietnamese troops launched a three-pronged counter-offensive today against North Vietnamese forces 25 miles north of Saigon. They were moving against the village of An Dien, captured Friday by the North Vietnamese, about 14 miles southwest of Ben Cat in the strategic "Iron Triangle" area along the Saigon River. Government artillery and planes were blasting the village, crumbling scores of ramshackle-lined homes. Most of An Dien's 2,000 civilians reportedly have fled to government lines. In other developments, the Saigon command reported a fourth day of widespread North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attacks across South Vietnam. It said sappers blew up a 250,000-gallon fuel storage tank at the country's biggest depot, six miles southeast of Saigon. One sapper was killed as his comrades escaped. American sources said the increased activity by the Communists apparently was meant to mark Sunday's 8th birth anniversary of the late North Vietnamese leader Ho Chi Minh. They also said the Communist command was trying to improve its military position and weaken the South Vietnamese in advance of a possible general offensive at some later time. Some South Vietnamese sources said an offensive already had begun. They expected heavy fighting to continue through June when the monsoons will have arrived in force.

Deposed Leaders Leave

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The deposed leaders of Portugal, Premier Marcello Caetano and President Americo Thomaz, left the Portuguese island of Madeira today for Brazil, a government spokesman said. The men have been granted political asylum in Brazil, sources in Rio said. Caetano and Thomaz were exiled to Madeira after the April 25 coup led by Gen. Antonio Spínola.

Handstand Death

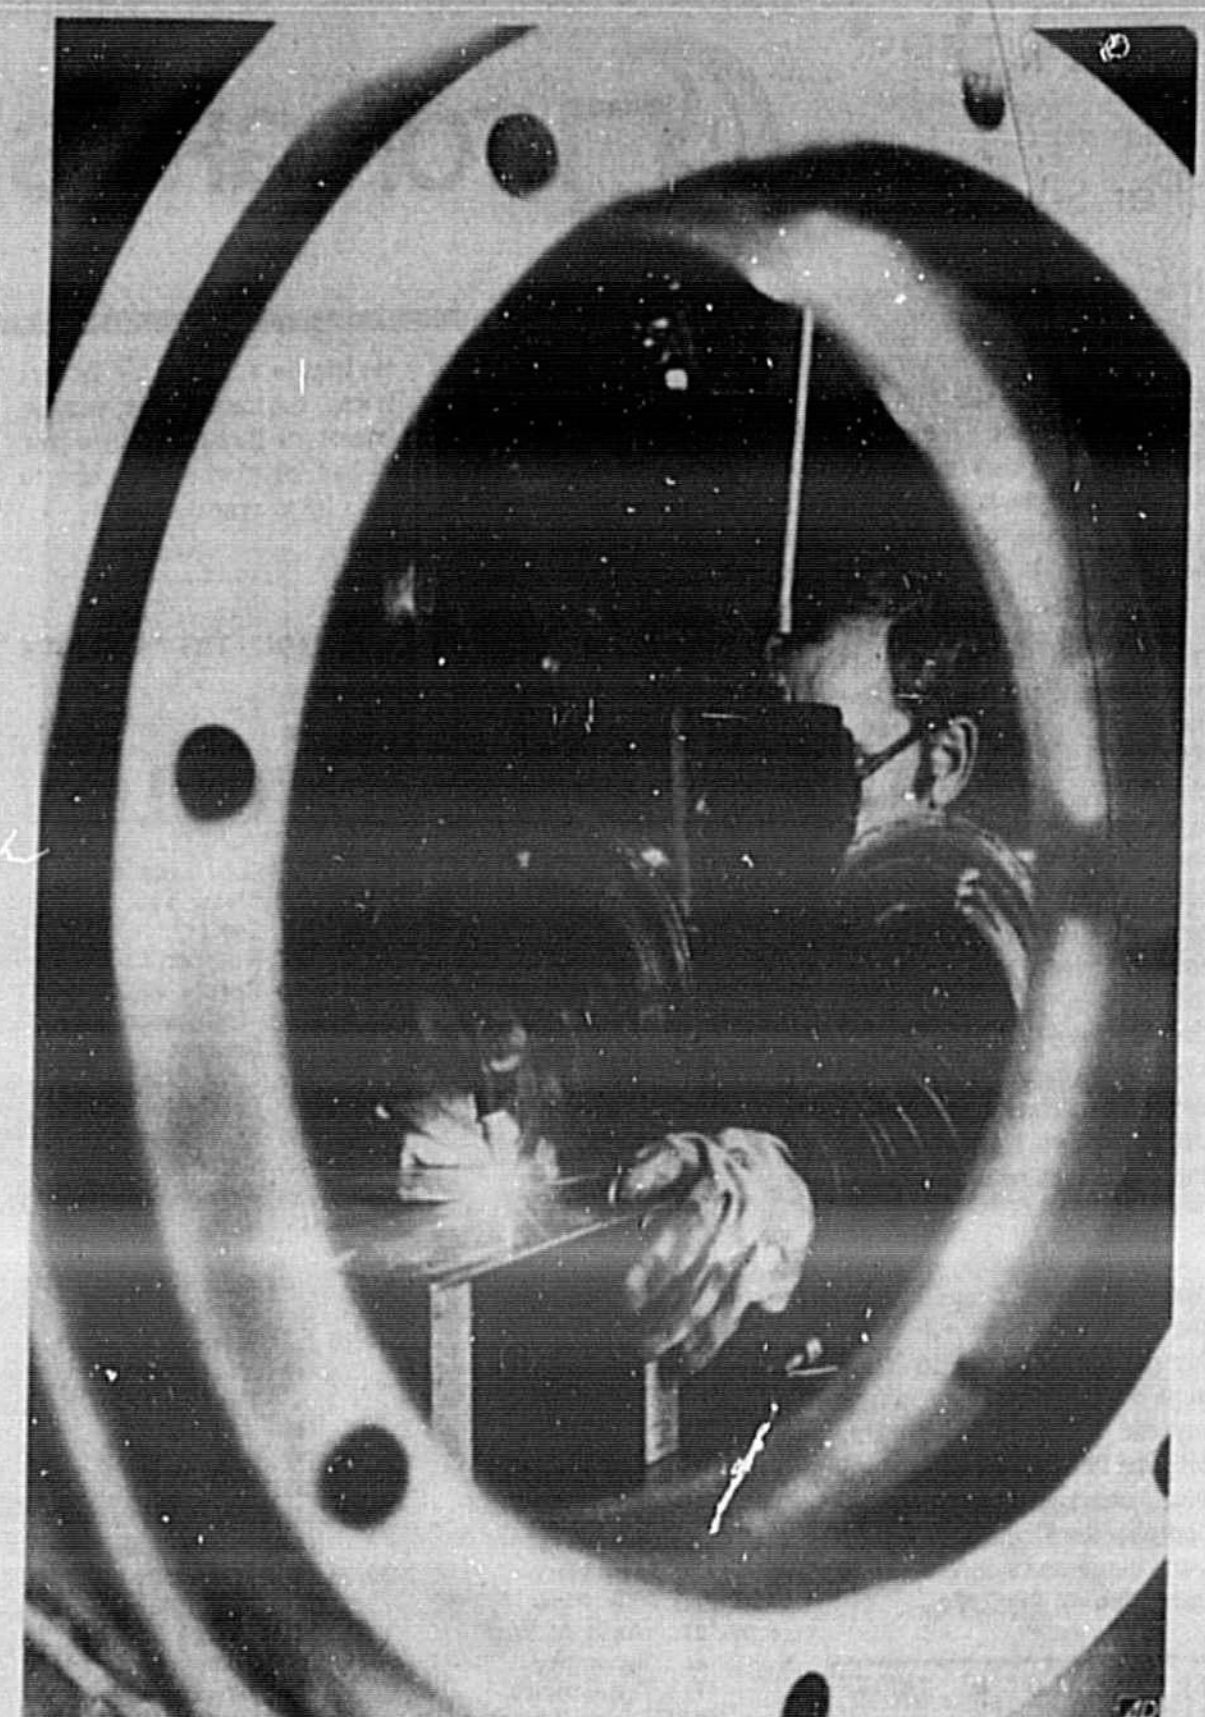

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) — Twelve-year-old Hiroyoza Takagi was known to his classmates as something of an expert at standing and walking on his hands. Police said the boy tried a handstand today on a window ledge at his school. He fell 37 feet to the ground and died three hours later in a hospital.

Indigents Must Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld the constitutionality of an Oregon law requiring indigent convicts to repay the cost of court-appointed lawyers if they subsequently gain the means to do so. "The fact that an indigent who accepts state-appointed legal representation knows that he might someday be required to repay the costs of these services in no way affects his eligibility to obtain counsel," wrote Justice Potter Stewart for the 7 to 2 majority. The Oregon statute allows the state to recoup the cost of appointed counsel only from defendants who are convicted. The court said the state can legally exempt acquitted defendants from the requirement. "We conclude that this classification is wholly nonviduous," the court said. "A defendant whose trial ends without conviction or whose conviction is overturned on appeal has been seriously imposed upon by society without any conclusive demonstration that he is criminally culpable."

d'Estaing Elected France's President

PARIS (AP) — Conservative Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, for years the strict finance minister in France's Gaullist government, has become the republic's 20th president in an election that could reduce friction between Paris and Washington. Latest official figures gave Giscard d'Estaing a lead of only 371,814 votes out of more than 26 million cast, more than 87 percent of the registered voters in the largest turnout ever in a French election. Interior Minister Jacques Chirac declared Giscard d'Estaing elected Sunday night with 50.71 per cent of the vote, 1.5 per cent more than Socialist Francois Mitterrand received. Foreign policy played almost no role in the free-wheeling, six-week election campaign. But the first foreign notable to congratulate the new president was President Nixon in a protocol-breaking personal telephone call, which French newspapers viewed as an omen of an easing in prickly relations between the two nations. Giscard d'Estaing has promised to make technical suggestions soon on European monetary problems and work towards eventual European unity in 1980. The election mainly on France's severe economic problems, and also reflected apparent voter discontent with 18 years of Gaullist rule that ended with the death on April 2 of President Georges Pompidou. Giscard d'Estaing and Mitterrand eliminated the official Gaullist candidate, Jacques Chaban-Delmas, in balloting May 5. Giscard d'Estaing still will have to rely on what now appears to be a disproportionately large Gaullist bloc in the lower house of the National Assembly to support his government. The 48-year-old president-elect heads the Independent Republican party, junior partner of the Gaullists in the governing coalition since Gen. Charles de Gaulle founded the Fifth Republic and became its president in 1958. He promised "change without risk" during the campaign and pledged to newmans Sunday, while awaiting vote tabulations, that his government would provide startling changes. Constitutionally, the formal proclamation of his election can take place at any time in the next 10 days. It is expected late this week, after which Giscard d'Estaing will name his prime minister to replace the caretaker prime minister, Pierre Messmer. Opposition figures made a point of stressing their acceptance of the democratic process in conceding Giscard's victory.

Kissinger Tackles Final Peace Hurdle

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Details of a general agreement to separate Israeli and Syrian forces on the Golan Heights region trickling out today as Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arrived for discussions with Syrian officials to overcome the few remaining obstacles. A senior American official said a buffer zone separating the two armies will vary in depth from less than half a mile to a little over one mile. According to this official, Israel has agreed to permit Syrian policemen to re-enter towns and villages within the demilitarized zone along with Syrian civilians. Newsweek also was told on the one-hour flight from Jerusalem that verification of the thinning out of armor immediately behind the disengagement lines would not cause a problem because the distances involved are not great. Now in the 22nd day of his marathon peace mission, Kissinger brought to Damascus Israel's approval of his proposal to separate the opposing forces, which the Israeli negotiating team gave Sunday. The Syrians accepted the plan Saturday, making final agreement by week's end appear a certainty. With agreement on the troublesome question of a separation line, the focus of negotiations now is expected to shift toward such problems as the composition of a United Nations

Australian Elections Confusing

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Prime Minister Gough Whitlam's Labor government appeared today to have won reelection, but newspapers and opposition politicians said the Labor's narrow victory margin was a warning from the voters. The latest returns showed Sunday that Labor had won 54 seats in Saturday's race for the 127-member House of Representatives, while Bill Snedden's Liberal-Country party coalition had 67. Six seats were undecided. The old House had 125 seats, 67 held by Labor. Most analysts predicted the final results — which may not be known for several days — will give Labor a majority of one to three seats. The leader of the majority party or coalition in the House becomes prime minister and forms the government. In the tight race for the Senate, the experts predicted Labor may take from 29 to 31 of the 60 seats. It held 26 in the old Senate. Snedden, 47, had forged his campaign on what he saw as voter discontent over the country's 14 per cent inflation rate. He refused to concede the election by Sunday night, although he said Labor appeared to be winning a majority. Snedden said Labor's lack of a big margin, and its apparent loss of seats, was a warning to Whitlam.

Orlando Gets Pro Football

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — "In the words of Hollywood, this is stupendous, colossal and fantastic," Orlando Mayor Carl Langford said upon learning his city has gained a World Football League franchise. Yet with no name, no name players and less than two months until the first game, the team's biggest job may be attracting fans. Already, sources say team owners are considering plans to reach fans in the hometowns of other teams beyond the Orlando area; travel agents are offering games in a package deal with a trip to nearby Walt Disney World. "I think it's an awful lot of teams for one area," said University of Florida Coach Doug Dickey, whose Gators play at Gainesville, 120 miles away. Unlike the Sharks, who have made huge contracts to get players with established Sunshine State appeal, Orlando apparently is first season with no players having ties to the area. Not forgetting that Disney World attracted some 11 million persons last year, Langford said, "I am convinced that Orlando is going to become the attractions capital of the world."

McCovey, Aaron In Grand Slam Tie

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer Willie McCovey has tied Hank Aaron's record. No, not THAT record. The other one. Still 208 short of Aaron's career record of 721 home runs, McCovey pulled even with Atlanta's superstar Sunday in the category of career grand slams. In Sunday's other National League game, the Cincinnati Reds bombed the Houston Astros 7-1; the Atlanta Braves turned back the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2; the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Chicago Cubs 6-5; the Montreal Expos took a doubleheader from the New York Mets, 7-4 and 5-0 and the Philadelphia Phillies and Pittsburgh Pirates split a pair. The Phillies won the first game 3-2 and the Pirates took the second, 5-1. Reds 7, Astros 1 Don Gullett pitched a five-hitter and Cincinnati used a three-run first inning to hand halflinger Houston its ninth straight loss. Braves 4, Dodgers 2 Hank Aaron and Dave Johnson singled home runs in a three-run first inning and Buzz Capra made them stand up with a five-hitter in Atlanta's victory over Los Angeles. Cardinals 6, Cubs 5 Ted Simmons' eighth-inning double scored Bake McBride and the run that gave St. Louis its victory over Chicago. 'Come-From-Behind' Curl Holds Off Nicklaus' Charge

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Championship glass in hand and lustily toasting his first triumph on the professional golf tour, Rod Curl, a Wintu Indian, announced: "My Indian name is now Yoso. It means Johnny Jump-up or Johnny-Come-From-Behind. My Mother named me. It took her 31 years to do it, but she finally did it." And jump up he did, overtaking Chuck Courtney and withstanding the wind, the heat and the challenge of Jack Nicklaus to capture the $250,000 top prize Sunday in the $250,000 Colonial National Open. The former California ditch-digger tamed Colonial's testy par-70 course with a closing 68, four-under-par and a stroke ahead of Nicklaus, who also wound up with a 68. "I'll tell you something," Curl said with a grin, "and you ain't gonna believe it. But I dreamed last night that I would beat Nicklaus by a shot... that's every golfer's dream. I'm just happy to get the best golfer in the world on one of the best golf courses in the world." Nicklaus, whose bid crumbled with a bogey at the par four, 17th hole, earned second place money of $28,500 with a 12-foot birdie putt at the final hole and said of Curl: "He never made any mistakes. He just kept right on playing... I was aware of his position... but I thought I might sneak in there. The turning point for me was the 17th." Courtney, who led Curl by two strokes and Nicklaus by one as the final round unfolded, shot a closing 72 and finished at 278 for third and $17,500. Julius Boros and Lee Trevino also had closing 68s with Boros taking fourth at 279 and Trevino fifth at 280. Gary Player wound up at 282 with a par 70. It was somewhat ironic that Curl, a nondescript player, would win the first of the controversial new "super" tournaments which require all the big names to compete. Courtney lost a shot to par at the 16th and fell out of contention. Then Nicklaus, with a poor drive, a poor lie and a poor approach shot, dropped back with a bogey at No. 17.

Milwaukee's Jabbar Chosen NBA Center

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee's Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, winner of the Podoloff Trophy as the Most Valuable Player in the National Basketball Association, was named the NBA's first-team All-Star center for the fourth straight year, Commissioner Walter Kennedy announced. Joining Abdul-Jabbar andrazier on the first team were forwards John Havlicek of the champion Boston Celtics—also making his fourth consecutive first-team appearance—and Rick Barry of the Golden State Warriors.

FLORIDA FISTIC

By Lee Geiger

Word has reached me that negotiations are under way to match Walter "Snake" White with Gary Summerhays in Houston, Tex. To this I only ask only — why? Why bring two popular Orlando fighters to a town that knows nothing about either one? The fight in Central Florida is a natural. If it were handled properly it should make money for all concerned. Both men have lost questionable decisions to Mike Quarry. If a return bout for Quarry's North American title was guaranteed the winner, I am certain two excellent main events would be in our Fistic future. I understand the newly formed Pete Ashlock promotional combination is doing everything in its power to make Houston a major fight capital, but must be done at the expense of Central Florida.

The most popular fighter in the south, Tony Licata, was shown in that Texas town twice within a period of three weeks. Each time he was in with a rated opponent and backed up with an all-star supporting card. Yet, one fight drew 1,500 and the other only 1,200.

Last Thursday night in rain-swept Tampa 1,400 turned out in Curtis Hixon Hall to watch a group of bouts that figured to be poor (and I am sorry to report were) with the house scaled at $7.50, $6.00, and $3.75. The main event was the Southern Middleweight Champ, John Pinney and welterweight Al Cook. The fight lasted 17 seconds. The reason it took that long was it takes the referee 10 seconds to count out a man and Pinney was slow getting out of his corner. What kind of attendance do you think would have been present if Licata had fought a Top-Cal Jackson or Mike Baker? Pinney's win got him a fight with Mike Baker. Where? Houston, of course. It's June 4.

The so-called "Bible of Boxing," the Ring Record Book and Boxing Encyclopedia is available in its 1974 edition. It was one I wouldn't waste my money. There are thousands of errors and omissions. "Flash" Gordon, publisher of "TNP" (for my money the best thing available on boxing in the U.S.) refers to the Ring Record Book as, "The Book of Errors." There is one interesting thing in it. On page 18 it says the Canadian has a "speaking" 1-9-1 with the lone victory coming in his first pro bout, since then he has been perfect, all losses with that one draw getting in the way. Angelo Gomez continues to rack up impressive scores as he rounded out a eight round decision over Jose Rodriguez of San Diego. Gomez former Ring Prospect of the month was sidetracked with a three round knockout by Roy Barrientos last year in Orlando, but since then has been going great guns.

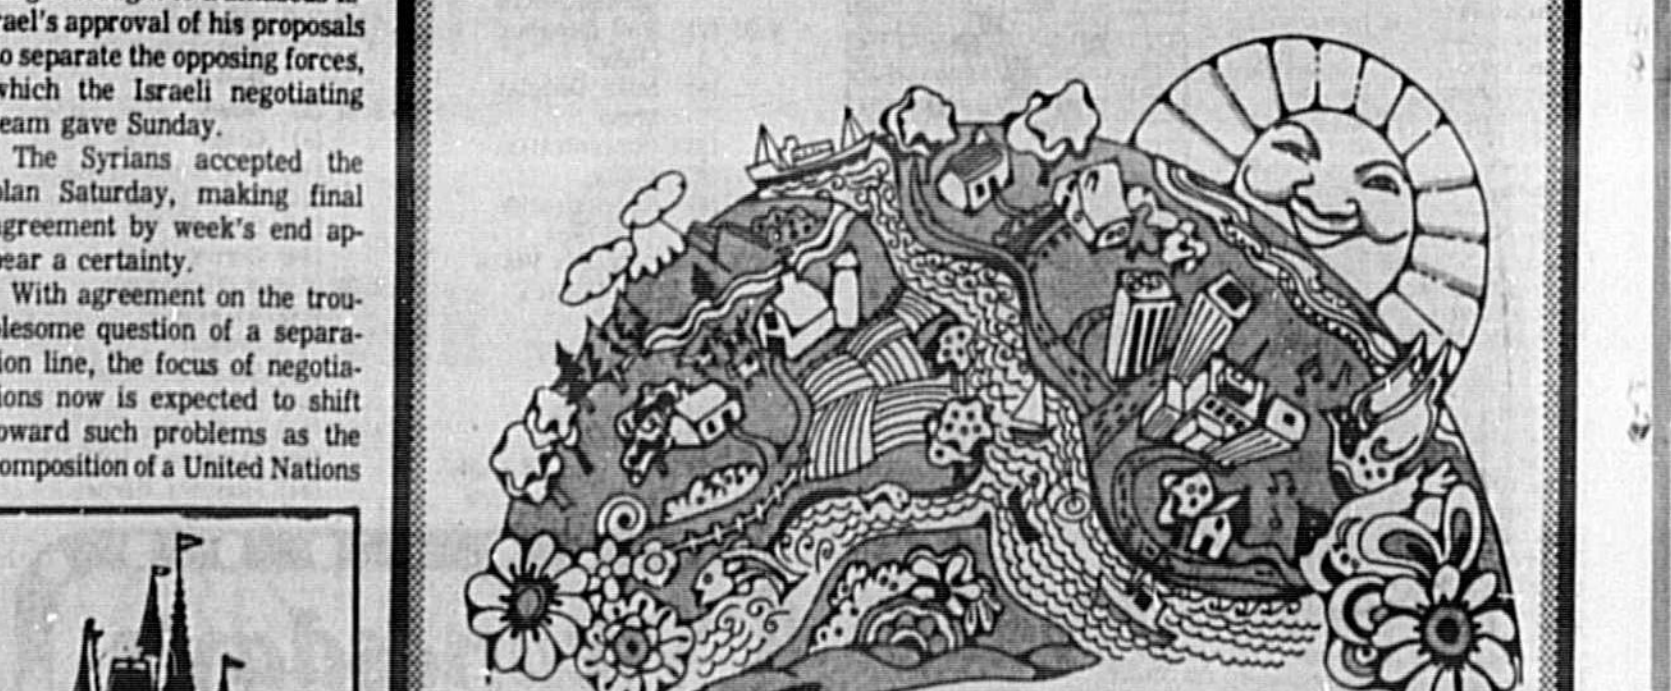

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Rod Laver is 35, no spring chicken, and he'll take all the help he can get. The Australian veteran used the newly resurfaced tennis courts at Caesars Palace to great advantage Sunday, easily defeating Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and winning tennis' largest first prize in the $150,000 Allan King Tennis Classic.

Laver Scrambles To Title

Laver was seeded only fourth but, scrambling over the slow hardcourt surface, he had little trouble stopping the unseeded Riessen by scores of 6-2, 6-2. Wida that gusted up to 35 miles an hour proved the only difficulty.

Laver earned $38,000 plus a $12,000 automobile, bigger by a shade than the $50,000 prize won by Australia's John Newcombe in the World Championship of Tennis tournament in Houston last week. Riessen, who upset Newcombe in the Saturday semifinals round, won $18,000.

AL 'Patsies' Turnabout, Rangers, Indians Winning

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer In recent years, baseball has been just a spring sport for fans in Texas and Cleveland. Late May is normally the time when the Rangers and Indians settle into their respective American League cellar and the fans' fancy football.

The Detroit Tigers 3-1 and 9-4. Elsewhere in the American League, the California Angels beat the Minnesota Twins in the opener 4-2, then lost 4-3 in the second game; the Boston Red Sox won a pair from the Baltimore Orioles 11-3 and 6-4; the New York Yankees tripped the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2 before dropping the nightcap 3-1, and the Oakland A's downed the Chicago White Sox 8-3.

RUTH AND GEHRIG CLOWNING

By IRA BERKOW The Herald Staff NEW YORK (NEA) — The bittersweet memories of the 1927 season are still fresh for those who were there. It was a glorious year in a golden era.

Marines got into a jam and killed some 300 Nicaraguans. Of those who were there, the St. Louis Cardinals of 1914 and 1942, the Chicago White Sox of 1919, the Baltimore Orioles of 1966, the Pittsburgh Pirates of 1901, the Brooklyn Dodgers of 1955 and the New York Yankees of 1923, 1938, 1960 and 1961.

But nowhere in pitching, or home runs despite Ruth's 60 and Gehrig's 47 (the 1961 Yankees of Mantle and Maris hold that record with 340).

Half Of Area Condominiums Stand Empty

By JEAN PATTESON
Herald Staff Writer
Condominium living—hailed as the great new lifestyle of the '70's—is looking gloomy in Seminole County where occupancy rates average only about 50 per cent, and there are few signs the situation is likely to improve in this immediate future.
Preliminary results of an extensive Central Florida development study indicate a residential market with over half of all condominiums built in the last four years now standing empty.
The study, a joint-venture of Fry-Hammond-Barr, Inc., Orlando, and Economic Design, Ormond Beach, also shows that two out of every 10 apartment units in Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties are unoccupied, and single family unit developers are holding high inventories.

"Developers in Central Florida thought the good times would last forever," commented Frank Brandon-Brown of Economic Design. "They didn't use professional research at the start and still won't pay for market analysis."
"As a result, this area is grossly overbuilt, and sadly is continuing to be overbuilt," said Brandon-Brown. "It's an incredible situation."
Study results have shown that the older condominium developments in Central Florida—those built in 1970 and 1971—boast high occupancy rates as they were sold before the market was flooded. Windmeadows Condominiums on Palm Springs Road in south Seminole was completely sold by 1972 and today has a 98 per cent rate of occupancy. However, the more recent condominium developments in the county are suffering occupancy rates as low as three and five per cent, reports Brandon-Brown.

He added that, despite the depressed market, certain developers have been able to maintain a near 100 per cent rental occupancy and condominium sales picture through using wise marketing procedures, including competitive unit pricing, desirable location, proper size and design and sound management.
"Much of the low occupancy rate in other developments can be blamed on high interest rates and taxes," said Brandon-Brown. "Current interest rates can raise monthly payments by as much as $50," he explained.

Seminole condominiums on S.R. 436 in Casselberry, of which 31 out of 50 units have been sold since October last year, recently obtained lower interest rates—8 1/2 per cent instead of 9 1/2, or a difference of up to $30 per month—in an attempt to attract more buyers.
The units, which range from $29,900 to $49,900 are still somewhat higher priced than most in the county because of their all-block construction, but are indicative of the general high prices being asked in the area.
Brandon-Brown termed all condominium development in the tri-county area "grossly overpriced," yet price is not always the deciding factor in selling a condominium. Greg Woodland Village North, off Maitland Avenue in Altamonte Springs, advertises units from $17,900, yet only about a dozen of the 180 units have been sold and construction on incomplete units is virtually at a standstill.
"There has been a lot of plain talk about high prices," said Brandon-Brown. "Some developers have dropped prices so sharply in just one week that they are working on a 50 per cent occupancy," he estimated, stressing that the longer established developments such as The Woodlands in Longwood, or the patio homes in The Terrace, Winter Springs, are enjoying more success than some other single family developments in the area.
Warren Williams, one of the developers at Sheoah Condominiums in Winter Springs, insists the market is too bleak as it has been painted. He said about 100 of the 215 completed units at Sheoah have been occupied, but admitted some of the 900 units in the fully-completed development may be converted to rental units.
Brandon-Brown argues development in Central Florida is not only overbuilt and overpriced, but many are poorly constructed and have little aesthetic appeal.
"In this area there are hundreds of miles of formless, spread-out cities of look-alike units. Nothing is unique," he said in an attack on the "row houses" mentality of some developers.
"You can pay $35,000 or $75,000 and there'll be little difference in the size or styling of a residence," said Brandon-Brown, adding the Orlando area is typical of many Florida cities in having no well defined "better" areas.
"You get these walled feudal communities—expensive developments hidden behind high walls—and right outside the main gates property values can drop as much as $40,000."
Brandon-Brown predicted this lack of unified government planning would be a serious detriment to the growth of the area and attraction of new high-paying businesses and industry.
He said there was a need for "creative" building which would upgrade the value of property over the years.
"Central Florida is turning into a young slum," claimed Brandon-Brown. "It's disgraceful to spend so much money on something so horrible."

Seminole Working On Noise Ordinance

Noise pollution can be as damaging as any other type of pollution, according to Seminole County Commissioner Greg Drummond, citing federal and other health studies showing actual physical and psychological damage caused by excessive noise.
Drummond, County Atty. Howard Marrese and Commission Chairman John Kimbrough worked out a proposed noise ordinance at Monday's city session with experts from Florida Technological University and Orange County.
According to the draft ordinance, noise levels in residential and commercially zoned areas will be restricted to certain upper limits during daytime hours of 7 a.m. to 10 p.m., with lower limits at night, 10 p.m. to 7 a.m.
Showing figures that a typical automobile attains a noise level of 70 decibels when running at normal speeds on an open highway, for example, the ordinance authors recommend that residential areas not be subjected to noise above 61 decibels during the day, and 55 decibels at night.
Other noise levels measured by federal studies range from 30 decibels for a library, to the "annoying" 80 decibels of an alarm clock, to the potentially harmful effects of 100 decibels caused by having someone shouting in your ear.
Perhaps the noisiest area receiving careful study is the deck of a U.S. Navy aircraft carrier, where sailors must wear special mufflers to avoid physical damage from 160 to 200 decibels put out by supercharged jet aircraft.
For an ordinance to be enforceable in court, Marrese warned the group, all decibel levels used as upper and lower limits must be shown to be based on sound scientific study.
More work sessions will be held on the proposal, Drummond said. As drafted, it will control noise levels of vehicles from rock bands in Seminole-based aircraft, motor boats and trucks to factory and commercial noise polluters.
Many cities and counties already have noise pollution laws, as well as the State of California.

Jaworski, Nixon Clashing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski says President Nixon is trying to "make a farce" of the charter guaranteeing the prosecutor's independence and his right to subpoena Watergate evidence from White House files.
Jaworski's challenge to the President's willingness to accept the prosecutor's independence was disclosed Monday shortly after U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered Nixon to obey a subpoena from the special prosecutor's office.
In Capitol Hill, the House Judiciary Committee scheduled another day of hearing evidence in closed session. Members were expected to listen to the tape of a March 13, 1973, presidential conversation with any tapes "relevant to a criminal proceeding," but Nixon counsel James D. St. Clair said the White House would appeal Sirica's decision. O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

At the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a Judiciary Committee member, Eastland scheduled an executive session of the panel for 2:30 p.m. EDT today and asked St. Clair and Jaworski to stand by if called to testify.
Jaworski told Eastland that in opposing the cover-up trial subpoena, St. Clair had said "it is the President's contention that he has ultimate authority to determine when to prosecute, whom to prosecute, and with what evidence to prosecute."
"The crucial point is that the President is challenging my right to bring an action against him to obtain evidence, or differently stated, he contends that I cannot take the President to court," the prosecutor said.
That position, said Jaworski, would make "a farce" of his charter and would render its guarantee of the right to take the President to court "an idle and empty one."
In his order directing the President to give him the subpoenaed material to determine whether it is relevant to the cover-up trial, Sirica specifically rejected what he called the President's "attempt to abridge the special prosecutor's independence."
Sirica said the need for evidence for the trial was "if anything, more compelling... since the matter has developed into a criminal trial."

Swofford Picks Up Gauntlet, Attacks Floyd And Kaiser

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer
ALAMONTA SPRINGS—Ex-mayor Lawrence Swofford in a press conference in his Florida Boulevard home this morning accused Mayor Norman Floyd of election law violations and perjury.
After the order, Vice President Gerald R. Ford said the White House should turn over demanding tapes of 46 conversations said as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Swofford said when he confronted Kaiser with the recorder Kaiser admitted he had secreted a tape recorder in the mayor's office and the fire department show.

Retail Food Prices Take Drastic Slide

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biggest drop in retail food prices in seven years helped slow the nation's inflationary increase in April to about half the level in each of the previous three months, the government said today.
The Labor Department said the Consumer Price Index in April rose six-tenths of one per cent on both an unadjusted and seasonally adjusted basis.
The increase was the smallest since last September and compared with increases of 1.1 per cent in March, 1.2 per cent in February and 1.1 per cent in January.
Despite the sharp drop in food prices, rapid price hikes on most nonfood commodities continued to spread across the economy in April.
The Food Price Index dropped an adjusted four-tenths of one per cent in April, the first decline since September and the biggest drop since it also fell four-tenths of one per cent in April 1973. Grocery prices alone fell an adjusted seven-tenths of one per cent, the most in any month since a drop of nine-tenths of one per cent last September.
However, while food prices declined, nonfood commodities jumped an adjusted 1.1 per cent and an unadjusted 1.3 per cent in April.

Tired of all that home-work?

By John A. Spolski
If you have the time...and you like reading books, may I recommend Super Cops by L.H. Whittemore.
It's a true story of a couple New York cops called Batman and Robin. Don't laugh. They used grappling hooks and rope from rooftop surveillance, swooping down on the crooks as if from thin air, thereby earning the name of Batman and Robin.
Within a brief period of only four years, these 24-year-old police officers set a record number of 600 arrests. And more than 90 per cent of 'em ended in convictions, too!
Can you imagine with all the outstanding sleuthing done by these two honest cops there were 20 separate investigations of them by their superiors, Civil Liberties Union, FBI, and the Knapp Commission of Police Corruption.
You have no idea of the corruption existing within the New York City Police Dept.
If you have the time...read it (and then be prepared to take some Pepto to calm your upset stomach). It's a wonder this country continues to function, what with all of the crooks hiding behind some cover of respectability.)

Teenagers Charged In Murders

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—A gas station argument over a dirty windshield ended with a father and son shot to death and three teenagers charged with first-degree murder, police say.
Killed in an exchange of an estimated 20 to 40 gunshot Monday were service station operator Anthony Clano Sr., 53, and his son, Anthony Clano Jr., 24.
Charged with two counts of first-degree murder each were Jerry D. Ward, Johnny Baker and Jimmy Dixon, all 18, all of Orlando, police said.
Police gave this account of the incident:
Dixon entered the station Monday morning, bought $1 worth of gas and told the younger Clano to clean his windshield. Clano refused.
Dixon went home, where his mother said she called police to keep him from returning to the station with two friends, all armed.
Before officers could arrive at the Dixon home, the three went to the station, pulled pistols and opened fire.
Attendant Robert Pavkov returned the fire with a rifle, wounding Ward, and the three fled to a partially-constructed motel nearby.
Police surrounded the area with drawn guns. The three came out offering no resistance.
The bodies of the Clanos were found at the station.

Seminole Union Drive Recruits 120

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer
Bouyed by a weekend meeting which has produced more than 120 signed pledge cards from city, state and county employees, the Seminole County union organizers have set a June 1 date for a second effort.
Joyce said he had hoped for greater representation from the county's 200 school bus drivers, but that "the drivers are fighting among themselves," and not many attended.
His primary goal is to raise base salaries, noting a recent county study which shows that Seminole ranges as much as 15 per cent below surrounding areas in salary levels, Joyce said.
Francis Joyce, a janitor at Lyman High School and leader of county union organization attempts today said employees from several cities, and the state motor vehicle inspection stations, requested another meeting aimed specifically at their colleagues.
Joyce said that although he was personally disappointed with the Saturday morning turnout of some 70 people, 28 of them are now actively engaged in an intensive effort "in the words of Atlanta regional organizer James Sela," "organizing in the public field" in Central Florida at this time.
Saturday's meeting was addressed by John Gibson, of Miami, an organizer for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, fifth largest in the AFL-CIO, with more than 600,000 members.
For the union to win the right to call for a vote on collective bargaining it must gain signed cards from 50 per cent plus one of whatever unit it is seeking to represent.
Another union, Laborer's International Local 517, already represents workers in Seminole, Orange, Lake, Volusia, Osceola and Flagler Counties.
