BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH, "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

Some day some society editor is going to get mad and write something like this:

"The Joneses entertained again last night, though how they do it on Jones' salary is more than most people understand, and the same old refreshments were served. The crowd was as good as the lunch, of course. Tillie has only three songs and she sang all of them." This column has frequently praised Tillie's voice, thus qualifying the editor for the feeble minded institute. As a matter of fact, Tillie's voice sounds like a klaxon horn, and everybody except Tillie knows it. Jones Smith's new wife accompanied her on the piano, which must be half paid for by this time. The crowd played a little 500 and went home, and Mrs. Jones washed the dishes until 2 o'clock in the morning. It wasn't such a punk affair, as such affairs go, and the most regrettable incident was the loss of Mrs. Brown's silver forks, borrowed for the occasion."—Kokomo Tribune.

Some people have queer notions about a newspaper. As long as you are fighting their own private battles they do not care what you say about the other fellow but once you dare to turn your guns upon them and they are sore enough to have you shot at sunrise. The average person does not want any thing but soft soap and it is surprising how the intelligent people are very much alike in this respect. The Palm Beach News size up the situation about right in the following:

Never a dry passes that the newspaper man is not stopped by someone, who wants something or something "casted." And always the newspaper man is expected to do the roasting on his own responsibility. Always he is urged under no circumstances to use the name of the person who demands that the roasting be done. It may be that at some time in the past the newspaper was considered the official "roaster" of the community and there have been newspaper men who considered that "roasting" as many people and things as possible was their sacred duty. They fell to the task with avidity and derived much greater pleasure from it than most people derive from performing what they consider their duty.

It is even possible that a number of the readers like that sort of stuff. They get into the habit of scanning the paper with that very thing in view, and are disappointed if there is no "toast" in the issue of their favorite sheet.

After all, that is an entirely wrong view. It is not the duty of the newspaper to be a common scold, a perennial fault finder.

Nothing is accomplished by trying to be that. And then it is over so much more pleasant to find things to praise. And that is easy.

It is a happy duty to attract the attention of the news gatherer, and that makes for the better things in life. And he who follows this course after all comes nearer to fulfilling the mission of the newspaper which is to give a faithful portrait of everyday life of the community, the state and the world. The "roaster" inclines to the mistaken view, that almost everything is bad and is growing worse, whereas in fact the world is growing brighter and better every day. Instead of asking the newspaper man to "roast" this or that person or this or that state of affairs, how much better to call his attention to some laudable enterprise, to something that merits praise. And by so doing, no doubt, better results are reached in the long run and the very things may be accomplished that can not be done through mere fault finding and "roasting."

Oldest Brass Band.

America's most ancient brass band has celebrated another birthday. "Gardner" writes in the Philadelphia Ledger. The Repass of Williamsport is eighty-four years old and stands first among the antediluvian music makers of our country.

It is an odd fact that this premier brass band had only one brass instrument in it at the start. That was a French horn, blown by C. Lawrence, who was a soldier of Napoleon.

The Repass played in a whig national convention that nominated Henry Clay for president. It furnished music for marching armies in the sixties and it blared out "The Star Spangled Banner" at Appomattox, while not far away another band in gray poured forth the strains of the "Bonnie Blue Flag" and "Dixie."

When the next Republican national convention gathers in Philadelphia I trust that the historic Repass band will be here to help keep things lively. It is a real honor to the state of Pennsylvania.

Sunday and Holiday Spring.

Is it not Frank Walton who tells of a river in Palestine that never flowed on Sunday? A strictly veracious story to match this is told in a recent number of the Proceedings of the Connecticut Society of Civil Engineers by Mr. Robert E. Horton. It appears that in the red sandstone of the Passaic valley there is a spring, located in a picnic ground, which formerly flowed perpetually. Its habits have changed, and it now flows only on Sundays and holidays. The mystery is easily explained: A number of artesian wells were bored into the sandstone in the vicinity of the spring to supply water to adjacent silk dyeing establishments. Except on Sundays and holidays, when the pumps are not running, the artesian slope is drawn below the level of the spring outlet and the spring ceases to flow.—Scientific American.

Hon. Elihu Root On Woman's Sphere

The question of Woman-Suffrage is an issue before the American people. Twelve states have adopted it, four more states vote upon it this fall and it is strongly urged that it become a platform demand of the national political parties. It is therefore the privilege and the duty of every voter to study carefully this subject. Hon. Elihu Root, in discussing this question before the constitutional convention of New York, recently said in part:

"I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women, because I believe that it would be a loss to women, to all women and to every woman; and because I believe it would be an injury to the state, and to every man and every woman in the state. It would be useless to argue this if the right of suffrage were a natural right. If it were a natural right, then women should have it though the heavens fall. But if there be any one thing settled in the long discussion of this subject, it is that suffrage is not a natural right, but is simply a means of government, and the sole question to be discussed is whether government by the suffrage of men and women will be a better government than by the suffrage of men alone.

"Into my judgment, sir, there enters no element of the inferiority of woman. It is not that woman is inferior to man, but it is that woman is different from man; that in the distribution of capacities, of qualities, our Maker has created man adapted to the performance of certain functions in the economy of nature and society, and woman adapted to the performance of other functions.

"Woman rules today by the sweet and noble influences of her character. The woman into the arena of conflict and she abandons these great weapons which control the world, and she takes into her hands, feeble and nerveless for strife, weapons with which she is unfamiliar and which she is unable to wield. Woman in strife becomes hard, harsh, unlovable, repulsive; as far removed from that gentle creature to whom we all owe allegiance and to whom we confess submission, as the heaven is removed from the earth.

"The whole science of government is the science of protecting life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In the divine distribution of powers, the duty and the right of protection rests with the male. It is so throughout nature. It is so with men, and I, for one, will never consent to part with the divine right of protecting my wife, my daughter, the women whom I love, and the women whom I respect, exercising the birthright of man, and place that high duty in the weak and nerveless hands of those designated by God to be protected rather than to engage in the stern warfare of government. In my judgment, this whole movement arises from a false conception of the duty and of the right of both men and women.

"The time will never come, when the line of demarcation between the functions of the two sexes will be broken down. I believe it to be false philosophy; I believe that it is an attempt to turn backward upon the line of social development, and that if the step ever be taken, we go centuries backward on the march towards a higher, nobler and purer civilization, which must be found not in the confusion, but in the higher differentiation of the sexes."

MODERN WOODMEN BANQUET

The Modern Woodmen of America and its auxiliary, the Royal Neighbors gave a joint banquet last Wednesday evening at the Masonic Hall in the Imperial Theatre. Nearly a hundred plates were served, and joy with gladness prevailed throughout the evening.

The hall and tables were beautifully decorated with the colors of both orders, which consisted of purple, blue, white and red. The presiding officer of the evening was Neighbor J. F. Hoolihan, Venerable Counsel of Camp No. 4 of this city. With apt and enjoyable remarks he introduced the following members of the order who spoke briefly.

Neighbor McDonald, Deputy Organizer, gave an interesting synopsis of the founding and the marvelous progress made by Modern Woodcraft, stating among other things that the order, numerically and financially stood at the top of fraternal insurance orders of the world; that the Royal Neighbors consisting of women also stood at the top of women's fraternal insurance orders of the world.

During his remarks Neighbor McDonald spoke in a vein of true fraternal spirit and evinced a broad and thorough grasp of this subject. While he spoke in all seriousness he entertained the guests with several anecdotes and interesting experiences pertaining to his work as an organizer.

Mr. Wingo H. Wright spoke extemporaneously on the relative value of fraternal and old line insurance. He contended that fraternal insurance is much cheaper, and, when properly managed on a basis of adequate rate is sound and practical.

Mr. Elmer E. Rogers spoke on "Fraternism, the Golden Thread of History." He sketched the history of the race from the primitive family and tribe to the modern state. The opposing forces in the present day society were shown to be a survival of the unavoidable fierce struggle between hostile tribes in the early periods of the race.

The speaker stated that helpfulness, compassion and forgiveness were the fruitage of cooperation within the tribal circle; that within the tribal circle there was rudimentary display of such feelings as equity, gratitude, loyalty, family ties, affection, personal friendship and regard for the feelings of others. But outside each tribal circle these noble constructive feelings turned to destruction, unsocial, warlike passions, such as greed, hatred, revenge, intrigue, cruelty, treachery and remorseless enmity. As the tribes and nations were forced into larger units by war these opposing feelings developed, side by side, within national boundaries, of ancient peoples, and finally gave rise to two definite distinct and opposing forces found side by side in the modern state, viz: Collectivism, Democracy and Equality and Monopoly, Tyranny and Inequality.

It was stated by Mr. Rogers that the fraternal spirit of collectivism, democracy and equality, inherent in the tribal period of the race, found expression and preservation in the secret organizations after the tribes, through bloody wars had grown into the great empire of antiquity.

"In spite of the great European war," said the speaker, "the race is gradually growing out of the anti-social passions of hatred, greed, cruelty, revenge, treachery and remorseless enmity, and the constructive feelings of forgiveness, compassion and helpfulness shall yet become the conscious controlling motive of man."

Mr. Rogers' closing sentence was "Fraternism, together with the teachings of Jesus whose ethical principles were the inspiration of the early Christian commune, have kept dimly burning in the hearts of men, the pilot light of human oneness, a light, my friends, which, one glad day will burst into a glorious effulgence, revealing in its dazzling splendor the realization of a race consciousness of the practical, eternal verities of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man."

The preliminary arrangements for the banquet were conducted by the following joint committee of the two orders: Mrs. J. F. Hoolihan, chairman, Mrs. Alexander Foster, Mrs. Lyman Baker, Mrs. E. J. Underwood, Mrs. Sandy Anderson, Mrs. G. C. Fellows, Mrs. Fernandez and Messrs. Webber, Foster, McDonald and Rogers. The committee on decorations and reception consisted of the following members of the two orders: Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Underwood, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Fernandez, Mrs. Fellows and Messrs. Foster, McDonald, Webber, Couch, Hoolihan and Rogers.

The following is a part of the guests present: We were unable to obtain the entire list of guests served. Mrs. E. J. Underwood, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Fellows, Mr. and

Mrs. Sandy Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Joo Fernandez, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Noel, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Pollard, Mamie Kate Williams, Mrs. W. W. Frye, Mrs. A. C. Williams, Mrs. R. T. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wright, Flo. Mickey, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Webber, Faye Mickey, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Dunlap, Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Chorpensing, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ellsworth, Jr., Anna Nelson, Mrs. Henry Egge, Mrs. J. M. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Lyman Baker, Mr. E. Truelove, Mr. E. Hodges, Mr. G. L. Sykes, Mr. Harry E. Walker, Mr. Alexander Foster, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hoolihan, Mr. August Vervin, Mr. W. J. Griffin, Dr. Miller, Mr. Walsh.

A most enjoyable feature of the banquet was the splendid music rendered by the city band, under the leadership of Mr. A. C. Wallace. Several very choice appropriate selections were played and many complimentary remarks were expressed. The Misses Mickey played and sang a number of popular songs, receiving many encores.

The members of the band consist of Messrs. Wallace, DeMont, Haskins, Graves, Wildman, Stankon, Fellows, Apinwall, Parker, Williams, Stumer, Barcliff and Frank.

Sanford Plays Good Game.

In one of the fastest, snappiest and hardest fought football games of the season the Sanford High School lost to the St. Augustine High School by the score of 12 to 0. A splendid crowd was on hand to witness the contest. Not only were they there from Sanford city but from several of our neighboring cities. It goes without saying that they were given their money's worth. Every minute of the game was replete with thrills and many brilliant plays were pulled off. It is hard to pick the stars of the game as every man on each side seemed to do his level best. However, especial mention should be made of the work of Murrill and Laing for Sanford and for St. Augustine Foy, Pritchard and Corby.

Although St. Augustine gets credit for two touchdowns it is true that the Sanford boys kept the ball in St. Augustine's territory most of the game. Luck broke against the boys when it seemed that scores were inevitable.

The Sanford team is to be congratulated upon the improvement made during the season under the coaching of Mr. Hutchinson, who has not only taught his boys the science of the game but has instilled in them the spirit of fair play and clean athletics.

Mr. Ezell, the manager of Sanford's team states that the gate receipts for the afternoon were $88.80 and that he is very grateful to all the lovers of the game for their loyal support of the High School team.

The St. Augustine team was the guest of the Sanford team while in the city. They were domiciled at the Sanford House and given meals at the adjoining Bonita Cafe, where they were served an elaborate fine course dinner Thursday evening. Over thirty of the players of both teams, with the school officials and friends of each were seated around an immense table, where they enjoyed a social hour together as they did fall justice to the Thanksgiving turkey.

The St. Augustine boys left on Friday for Orlando, where they played Orlando High School.

Knew Where He Spoke.
One day, in the lively old time of cowboy activities, a timid tenderfoot at Bitter Creek asked tremblingly if that bad man, Bill Busher, was hanging around there yet. "No," replied the native who was asked. "But he was last week." "So you sure?" said the tenderfoot. "Positive. I had hold of the rope."

Plaster of Paris Casts. Renovated.
Casts of plaster paris, which have become galled, can be easily cleaned by melting some whiting in water. Dissolve a little whiting in warm water to prevent it from ribbing off. Stir the liquid well, and apply to the plaster with a soft camel's hair brush.

No Chance for Him.
"I suppose," said the timid young man, "when you recall what a handsome young fellow your first husband was you wouldn't consider me for a minute." "Oh, yea, I would," sweetly replied the widow, "but not for a second."

Helpful Suggestion.
Wood alcohol applied with a sponge or cloth is one of the best methods of cleaning either cloth or leather upholstery. A mixture of limes oil and turpentine is sometimes recommended for cleaning leather.

Meeting at Monroe. This gave me space in your paper for a few lines. We had one of those old time meetings last Sunday at the Baptist church at Monroe. Mrs. McGinnis surely presided over the greatest service I have ever seen. There was a special collection for the Spirit. Rev. Woodrow Wilson next Saturday at 7:30, Sunday at 11:00 and 7:30. Come, all to Christ.

AUTOMOBILE BURNED

W. F. Hayman had an automobile accident on Wednesday. That car only cost him his time. Cadillac car was wrecked and several wheels were bent. Hayman and several other people were in the car. When it was in his home in Orlando, he packed up several acquaintances on Celery avenue and was about to the city limits when in some way the car caught fire and the occupants were aware of it. The entire lower part of the car was in flames. They did all they could to extinguish the flames and Mr. Hayman was burned on the face while trying to save the car. The fire department even came to the rescue but the flames were too advanced and the car was towed to junk. Fortunately for the owner there was a small amount of insurance on the car that will partially repay him for his loss.

Florida Grown Potatoes Make Best Seed

The best seed potatoes for Florida are to be had from local stock. Seed brought from the extreme northern potato belt will not do so well as those grown in Florida. Farmers of several states have found that native grown potatoes are best for their purpose but this state is so far from that climatic and soil conditions that it is a warm sub-tropical climate is to severe and the stock raised here is not readily enough to produce the best seed.

Longwood H. Y. P. U. Meeting. Subject, Missionary meeting, "The Brotherhood of Man". Scripture reading by Mr. J. M. Wait. Song, Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me. Readings by members of Group 1. President in charge. Secretary's report. Song, Onward Go. Dismission with the Lord's Prayer. Reporter.

INVITE PRESIDENT WILSON TO SANFORD

President Wilson and his bride may come to Sanford on their honeymoon, which they expect to spend in Florida, if they accept the following invitation sent by the Commercial Club.

Sanford, Florida, Nov. 30, 1915. The Commercial Club in Executive Session.

To His Excellency, the President of the U. S., Hon. Woodrow Wilson, Greetings. On the eve of your marriage Sanford, the greatest section in the greatest state in the greatest country in the world invites you to visit this city while on your wedding journey that we know you will take through your beloved southland. We do the capital city of the United States is wrapped in snow and Florida is bathed in sunshine and we want the greatest man in the land and the first lady in the land to be our guests for a day, for a week, for a month if possible and if Sanford suits you we have a home furnished that will be donated to Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson when the borders and cars of state are finally had and you are ready to make Florida your winter home. Sanford on the broad bosom of Lake Monroe at the head of navigation on the superb St. Johns river offers you more enjoyment in all that makes life worth living than any other city on the globe and the city that had confidence in you at the beginning of your illustrious career still has that abiding faith in your precepts and example. Let us show you the real taste of southern hospitality that has ever been instilled in your bosom by your southern ancestors and here where the north and south have joined hands for the upbuilding of the nation let us shake the hands of President Wilson and Mrs. Wilson and offer you the fruits of industry and peace.

Signed, Forrest Lake, W. M. Haynes, President. Secretary.

Will Work the Hoboes

Work down in the slush in a man-hole in the sanitary sewer system will be assigned all hoboes roped in by Chief of Police Smith. Mayor Sperry stated today that this plan will be tried out thoroughly and he believes that it will result in the word going forth that Orlando is no haven for the Wreny Willies. Many complaints are already being made by residents who are harassed by vagrants and in at least one instance yesterday evening young ladies were followed on their way home by a man. Whenever trouble is experienced the police should be telephoned at once. Chief Smith believes he can handle the problem all right with the regular force at present. If it grows worse Mayor Sperry will take the question up with council.—Orlando Reporter-Star.

IMPROVEMENTS ON SANFORD HOUSE ARE TAKING PLACE

MR. S. J. CARNES, OF TAMPA, HAS TAKEN POSSESSION AND WILL PUT THE HOUSE IN CONDITION

Sanford will be able to take care of the travellers this season, at least after January first as at that time the Sanford House will be remodeled and made ready to accommodate them in regard to rooms. S. J. Carnes of Tampa has made arrangements to take the Sanford House and expects to put a force of men at work the first of next week. The fixtures and furniture will be taken out and new put in, bath rooms will be installed, electric lights will be placed all over the house and many other needed improvements made that will put the house in first class condition.

Mr. Carnes is a well known hotel man, having the Olive and the Merchants Hotels in Tampa and the Edwina at Dade City in charge at the present time and while he realizes that he has a stupendous task ahead of him in remodeling the Sanford House his many friends over the state feel that he is able to cope with the situation and if he thinks he can get the house ready in a month he will make good. The Sanford House in the past few years has not had much to offer the public in the matter of conveniences. The house is a good one and the rooms are large and well located, but there were no bath-rooms, no electric lights or many other modern improvements. With all these the new owner should be able to fill the house during the remainder of the season. The dining room will not be opened this season but the many good restaurants here will be sufficient to supply the demand.

Watson Case a Mistrial

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 2. A mistrial was ordered in Federal District Court here in the case of Thomas E. Watson, of Thomson, Ga., charged with having sent obscene matter through the mails. The jury which had the case before it since Tuesday afternoon reported it could not agree on a verdict.

Judge W. W. Lambdin, presiding had called the jury into court after a conference with counsel for both sides in which it was agreed that should a verdict not be reached to try a mistrial order should be granted. C. E. Brown of Tallahassee, Ga., counsel for the jury, stated in court that it was impossible for the jury to reach a verdict and on Judge Lambdin questioning other jurors, L. A. Crawford of Martinez, Ga., rose in the jury box and declared, "Your honor, this jury might remain here thirty years and never reach a verdict."

Judge Lambdin then ordered a mistrial and court was adjourned. Watson returned to Thomson before the case was called on. The order was taken at 8:35 p. m. after the case had been before the jury thirty hours. Several of the jurors, including C. J. Skinner of Richmond county; P. E. North of Augusta and Foreman Brown, stated later that the vote had been ten to two for acquittal on the first ballot and on each succeeding one. North and E. G. Denton, of Waynesboro, were the jurors who held out for conviction, according to statements made by North, Brown and several other jurors.

Watson was placed on trial Friday last, it being charged that he used obscene and otherwise unlawful language in issues of his publications. Articles specified in the issues were three parts of a serial entitled the "Roman Catholic Hierarchy, the Deadliest Menace to Our Liberties and Our Civilization," which appeared in his monthly magazine, and an editorial headed "Another Maria Monk Case Comes to Light in New Jersey a Few Days Ago," the editorial, appearing in the defendant's weekly paper.

Watson, a member of the Georgia bar, acted as his own leading counsel and sought to get into evidence his motives in using the language referred to as well as alleged "motives" behind the prosecution. The court, ruled, however, that the case rested upon the question of Watson's responsibility for mailing the publications and whether or not they were unlawful under Section 211 of the Penal Code. Watson assumed responsibility for mailing the matter but denied that the language was obscene. The indictment was returned in 1913, after a previous indictment had been quashed on a technicality, and after one Federal grand jury had refused to indict Watson on similar charges. The articles were published in 1911 and 1912. There was no indication tonight as to whether or not the District Attorney would press for another trial. There were approximately 100 spectators in the courtroom tonight when the final order was taken. Judge W. W. Lambdin, presiding, waited until 10:15 this morning before calling before him the jury, which at 10:30 last night had reported it still disagreed. After Foreman Brown today stated his verdict had been reached Judge Lambdin asked if the jury disagreed on a question of "law or fact." "Fact, your honor," Brown replied. "Does the jury wish any instruction on any point of law?" asked the Judge. "No, it's a question of fact, not law," replied Brown. "This case, must be decided sooner or later by some jury, therefore you should endeavor conscientiously to reach a verdict," the Court said, adding that "if any juror has agreed with others he should examine the basis of his conclusion and listen to argument from others on the jury." The Judge said, however, that if a juror had become conscientiously fixed in his opinion, he was "right in sticking to his conviction."

Eagles Will Dance

The annual masked ball of the Sanford Eagles will occur on the 21st of December, New Year's Eve and as usual the merry maskers will dance the old year out and the new year in. The tickets will be sold as usual to those who wish to attend and indulge in this great social event in Sanford and the dance will afford much fun and amusement to those who attend. The Eagles annual dance is looked forward to by every one who enjoys a good social time and the arrangements this year promise a big time for all. Remember the date and buy a ticket.

FAKE SCHEMES WILL BE INVESTIGATED BY CENSORS

R. and H. Will Be Cut

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.—No new rivers and harbors projects will be provided for during the coming session of congress in the opinion of Chairman Sparkman of the house rivers and harbors committee, who discussed the question today with President Wilson. Estimates for continuing old projects call for $46,000,000, he said, but it is probable the amount will be cut. He opposed the plan adopted by congress last session of appropriating a lump sum for rivers and harbors, and leaving to army engineers the apportionment of the money among the projects. The President explained to Mr. Sparkman the administration's national defense plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Everybody and Family: We invite you to call on us in the Wellborne block Thursday, Dec. 23rd. We will be glad to help you do your late Christmas shopping, also serve you a good turkey supper. Yours truly, The Daughters of Wesley.

HUNTING IS FINE AT PRESENT TIME

This is the hunting weather and many of the local sports have been out or are going out to hunt the deer, turkeys and birds. Those who have returned report plenty of game and some snakes. County Judge Herring and Carl Gabbett and party have returned from a duck hunt on Lake Harney and report a good time and plenty of game. D. J. Thrasher, R. A. Newmar, Walter Hand, Dr. Puleston and party have returned from Taylor Creek and report two deer, six turkeys and plenty of small game. Frank Woodruff, A. T. Rossetter, Dr. Brown and party are home after a very successful hunt and bagged several deer and turkeys and birds. Claude Howard and party were also out several days and Claude killed a six foot rattlesnake and brought home the rattles along with the rest of his trophies. Yesterday, while Willie String-fellow and Dr. Puleston were out a few hours bird shooting they almost stepped on a large rattler and Will promptly shot his head off, but both of them stopped hunting after that as his snakeship took away the pleasures of the chase. The rivers are full of fish, the lakes full of ducks, the fields full of game and Sanford is the place for the sportsmen to come. With the Sanford House ready to accommodate the guests and the smaller hotels doing their part and plenty of places to eat, the sportsmen can be invited to come to Sanford and spend the winter season with the excitement understanding that they will get plenty of sport and have plenty to eat and a good place to reside while here.

Congregational, C. E. Notes

Last Sunday this society held one of its best meetings in several months, both as to attendance and the spirit of the meeting. The chief speaker was Mr. W. Blanchard Moore, who lectured the previous evening on Siberia. He spoke of his experience in Alaska, having been with the Esquimaux to within 600 miles of the North Pole. Next Sunday the leader will be Miss Margaret Strong, and Miss Margaret Cowen will render a solo. Come—6 p. m.

Candyland to Open

Candyland will be the title of the new candy store to open in the new Allen building on First street, next to Allen's Theatre. R. F. Washburne is the proprietor of the new store and the downtown store will be the distributing depot for the output of the factory on First street. Mr. Washburne is a first class candy manufacturer and has been making candy for the trade for several months but his candy booth is the first venture in the retail trade. That he will make good goes without saying.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY PRESIDENT LAKE WILL LOOK THEM OVER

Sanford will not stand for fake advertising. This much has been demonstrated in many ways by the merchants refusing to fall for the many and devious methods for separating them from their good money that goes out of town to the travelling fakir. In order that the merchants of Sanford shall not be bothered any longer by every fly by night advertising scheme the Sanford Commercial Club at the last meeting decided to have a censoring committee appointed that will investigate every foreign advertising scheme and if it is punk, as most of them are, they will be turned down. President Lake in a few words expressed the sentiment of the merchants of Sanford when he said that this money should be kept at home and if there is any advertising to be done the local papers should be patronized first and if there were any schemes outside of the newspaper it should be done by local people and not the travelling fakir. President Lake will make the committee known and every time a stranger comes to this city with a scheme of advertising, gold stock schemes, mining stock, oil stock and schemes, etc., the business men of Sanford do not need to be bothered with him one minute. Just refer him to the advertising and censor committee of the Commercial Club and his scheme will be investigated. If it is good enough to bear the light of day he will be given a respectful hearing. If not he will be told to hunt pastures new and the people here will not lose any time with the scheme. There have been thousands of dollars spent by the people of this city every year on the fake schemes and it is high time they were investigated by a committee and exposed. Some advertising plans of the foreign diplomats who that look here in the winter time might be good, but very few of them mean anything to the purchaser. The money goes out of town and no one is benefited except the smooth solicitor who makes tracks as soon as he can collect.

LETTUCE IS SOARING

Lettuces continues to soar in the market. Sanford lettuce seems to have the edge on the rest of the south or else there is but little good stuff in any other section. There will be about fifty cars or more leave here this week and it is said that the New York market today is $3.50 per basket for lettuce and there is but little headed stuff going in. The markets seem hungry for lettuce regardless of the heads and if it is in good condition it brings the price. The cool weather that prevails is making fine lettuce and the next few weeks will see some prime stuff going from Sanford, although the bulk of the crop will not be ready until about the first week in January. The western markets will be hot after the Sanford lettuce next week and the growers here who have any lettuce will realize good prices for the same. It all depends upon the great law of supply and demand and with no competitors in the markets the Sanford lettuce seems to have the field, with even a poor quality of lettuce. The good prices mean that Sanford will feel the cashed pulse of trade and the holiday shopping ought to be brisk the next few weeks. Already the merchants report a much better trade along every highway and the Christmas trade will be even better. Lettuces hope that it will be good all the season. Christian Science Services Regular Christian Science services will be held next Sunday, December 6th, at 11 o'clock, in the Woman's Club building, Oak avenue near Third street. Subject: God the Only Cause and Creator. The public cordially welcomed.

COUNTY HAPPENINGS

A BUNCH OF INTERESTING ITEMS FROM CORRESPONDENTS—EVENTS OF SEMINOLE COUNTY—EFFICIENT REPORTERS COVER TERRITORY FOR HERALD

CHULUOTA CHATTER

Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving was the date of a very pleasant affair at our public school, it being their Thanksgiving exercises. There was a short but very satisfactory program of songs, thanks giving prayers, recitations and dialogues which the children carried out quite nicely. The decorations were very appropriate, being pumpkins, fringes of corn hanging from the husks, bundles of rice, citrus fruit, etc., showing a bountiful harvest, for which all had gathered to give thanks. The exercises were followed by a supper given by the ladies of the neighborhood and was all that could be desired. There were quite a number of visitors from a distance. Some from Geneva, Oviedo, Orlando and Gabriella. All expressed themselves as being very much pleased with the entertainment.

WEST SIDE ITEMS

Mr. N. J. Stenstrom left for Tampa Tuesday, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Avis, where they will visit his daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Reynolds until after the holidays.

Mrs. Anna Darling and Mrs. Mable Martin of Ohio were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Billingsley last Wednesday. From there they extended their visit to Kissimmee.

Miss Lona Johnson was visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. Muse last week. Mr. and Mrs. John Badger and two babies spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson. Mr. and Mrs. Schmeltz had for their guest last week, Mr. Schmeltz's nephew, Mr. Rouse of New York.

PAOLA POINTS

"The Turtles" was quite lively this week. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Bishop, Miss Florence Frank and Mr. Sherman Lloyd spending the week end with Frank Brown, and Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Mr. and Mrs. G. O. DeCottes and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Watson motoring out on Sunday.

Miss Leodora Icenhour of Iowa from Ohio and her opened her winter home at Twin Lakes.

Miss Robinson from St. Louis, Mo., is the charming guest of Mrs. W. B. Buchanan.

Miss Mary and Julia Zachary spent Thanksgiving vacation with their parents, at Zachary, Ill.

Miss Helen Iserman spent Thanksgiving day here with friends.

Mrs. Buchanan was hostess at a charming missionary tea last Saturday afternoon. Many were present to enjoy the delightful affair.

Mr. J. P. Fel is having his groves fertilized and plowed. The fruit will be shipped to Eustis for packing. We will miss the busy rush of packing in our packing house here this winter.

EAST SANFORD

The first frost of the season was noticed Wednesday morning, both at this end of town and also on the West Side. No damage done.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Squires of Cameron avenue have as their house guests for the winter their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilmarth and Mrs. C. S. Worthing with her little daughter, Virginia, all of Potsdam, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Squires have added a commodious addition of several rooms to their residence recently.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Morris and family entertained Mr. Morris' mother, Mrs. W. C. Morris and his sister, Miss Oleene Morris of Forest City a portion of last week.

Miss Edith McClelland has gone to Eau Gallie to spend the winter with her aunt, Mrs. Edna Mathews.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rivers and son were in Geneva with her mother, Mrs. Jennie Prevatt for Thanksgiving. During his visit Mr. Rivers left his auto truck standing on the shore of Lake Geneva with the power on, when it took a cold plunge by its lonesome. It was rescued, however, little the worse for its foolish prank.

Rembert Lamb, who has been here with his uncle, J. F. McClelland some time has gone to Okeechobee City.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dressor and daughter entertained Mr. and Mrs. Alex Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ellsworth at 6 o'clock Thanksgiving dinner, after which there was a pleasant evening of music that was much enjoyed.

The committee on entertainment are busy with plans and work for the annual Christmas tree and program at Moore's Station church.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brown are expected here shortly from their summer home, Richmond, Indiana. We understand Mr. Brown is expected to have fifteen acres more of his hammock land cleared this winter.

Mrs. Maud Powell and children from the West Side spent a portion of last week at the Hart home at Beck Hammock.

Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Hart and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pitts visited Geneva relatives Sunday.

UPSALA AND ORAPIVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Lundquist and children celebrated Thanksgiving at the home of her brother, Mr. Elmer Lundquist and wife.

Mrs. Anna DeForest has been confined to her home by sickness ever since her trip to DeLand, with what seems to be a combination of lagrippe and stomach trouble. She is under Dr. Neal's care and we hope to see her about soon. Fortunately she has a friend with her from Connecticut to keep her company.

LaGrippe seems the order of the day just now, as a number are sick with it. Mrs. H. G. Lundquist and younger children, Mrs. T. O. Tyner's baby, Charlie Beck and Challey Clark.

Mr. Charlie Lundquist helped Mr. Joe NeRos lay the shingles on his new house.

Mr. J. A. Thompson was off with others on a hunt the first of the week, his brother Jessa taking his place in the meat market.

Walfred and Carl Pierson have begun work at Bothamly crate mill this week. It seems good to hear the whistle again, as it means work for so many men.

Norman Swanson visited his friend, Mr. Weeks, for a day or two at the beginning of the week.

Mrs. Stedt and daughter, Ebba were callers at Mrs. Thompson's Friday.

A children's party in honor of Woodard Bertelson was held at the home of his auntie, Mrs. Borell on the afternoon of the 26th. His seventh birthday came on the 18th but as it was a school day the party was held on the holiday. Those present to enjoy it were his grandmother, his Bertelson, his aunt, Mrs. Magnusson and Mrs. Ericson and his four little cousins, Margaret, Gilbert, Esthei and Ruth Ericson and Elmer Tyner and Florence Tyner. Refreshments were served, consisting of three large cakes, with candy and fruit. The little host received a number of nice presents and the good wishes of all for many more such happy days.

Mr. H. G. Lundquist, who has lately been doing some odd jobs as painting for Norman DeForest, banking trees for Mr. Magnusson pick-up and packing for Mr. Theo J. Miller begun work at the paper mill in Sanford yesterday.

We are all thankful that Jack Frost spared us this time and was not as bad as we expected.

Miss Mabel Tyner, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Fry at Windermere returned home Monday but expects to go back again today, as she has been offered employment there for the winter.

Mrs. Bertelson, Mrs. Borell and Mrs. Magnusson were pleasant callers at Mrs. Geo. Clark's the first of the week.

Roy, the faithful bus horse of Mr. Viblen is again on duty after suffering from a badly injured eye.

In not writing last week we missed an account of a birthday party given in honor of Mr. Walfred Pierson. All reported a good time with quite a number present from Lake Mary.

Last Wednesday night a surprise donation was given Rev. Alfred Ericson and wife and it was the real thing. As he has got been long in this work he has not yet become used to having such tricks played, but we think they enjoyed it, as well as those who took part in it. A number of lovely cakes were also in evidence and with coffee were served the happy crowd. Some were hindered from coming but were much present to show that we appreciate the work he is trying to do among us. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Swanson and son, Norman; Mr. Viblen and daughters, Misses Signa and Olga; Mrs. Stedt and daughter, Ebba; Mrs. Bertelson, Mrs. Magnusson, Mrs. Borell and nephew, Woodard Bertelson; Walfred and Carl Pierson; Mrs. Thompson, Edna, Andrew and Robert Thompson with Mr. and Mrs. Ballinger. Mr. and Mrs. Clark were also represented in the donation.

A splendid service was held on Thanksgiving eve at the church. Rev. Ericson occupied the first half hour on the subject of Home Missions for the prayer-meeting topic, giving us a very heart to heart talk. Then Rev. Morey in the last section took for his text Habakkuk 3:7. "Although the fig tree shall not blossom, neither shall fruit be in the vines; the labor of the olive shall fail, and the field shall yield no meat; the flock shall be cut off from the fold and there shall be no herd in the stall, yet I will rejoice in the Lord, I will joy in the God of my salvation." POOR GIRLS HAVE HOPE—RICH GIRLS NONE.

Oh, that a dream so sweet, so long enjoyed,
 Should be so sadly, cruelly destroyed,
 I knew, I knew it could not last.
 'Twas bright, 'twas heavenly, but 'tis past.

It is often a wonder to many why poor girls often wed their first loves while rich girls do not. The explanation is simple. When the poor girl meets a young man whom she likes and who has shown interest in her she builds her future hopes about him. She is satisfied, nay happy, to be wooed and won by him. She looks no farther for a possible lover. She is not expecting to find faults in him, nor hiding any that she may have. Hope is her guiding star at this happy time.

With a rich girl, it is entirely different. She does not pin her faith to finding in the first man who pays attention to her a life partner saying to herself, "If I do not accept him, I can never get another opportunity to wed." She counts on having plenty of suitors. It will be which one she will take instead of which one she could get. Hope is not one of the blessings which make life a joy for her. She attends the theater with the one tonight, goes to the dance with another one next week, strolls riding with still another at a week end party, and has no time to crown any one of them the hero of her day dreams. She does not realize that, with hope's lamp not lighted she misses a gleam of earthly paradise.

The rich girl is never entirely sure that she will be wooed for herself alone. She never fears missing wedlock ultimately. Some rich girls imagine—erroneously if a poor young man is polite he will marry her for her wealth if not for love of herself. This is not hope but a delusion on her part. The poor girl hopes for a long life of wedded bliss after she marries. If she finds that the partner of her life has traits which she did not know of, she bravely does her best to bear with and make the best of them. She has no other home to go to, no other heart to lean on, none to take her part against him and tempt her to become estranged from him.

If the rich girl finds that her wedded path is not as rosy as she expected, she is perfectly independent with him. She knows that she can gain her freedom that she will not suffer thereby as far as support and a roof over her head go. The relatives who have an eye to her money take every little act of his as a lover to help them widen the breach between them and the hope of reconciliation is crushed in her heart.

Of the two, the one who has hope has everything to live for. The woman who is without it finds life dreary and the thought of the future unpleasant. It is not wrong for young girls to have love dreams. It is nature, therefore natural. Poor girls are not building their hopes upon finding a rich young man to wed. All they expect is a loving and true heart. With such a man they hope to win happiness and good fortune, if the latter is granted for them.

MARRIED ACTRESSES.

Give a man a girl he can love
 And I, oh my love, love thee,
 And his heart is great with the pulse of fate,
 At home, on land, or in sea.

What is the subtle charm about an actress which fascinates the hearts of so many people who know them only as they appear behind the footlights? If the actress is fair to look upon, youthful, there are many masculines to whom she appeals, irresistibly.

Perhaps one of a party of young men sitting in a box, or in a front row, catches her eye as she utters some bit of sentiment. He has a responsive heart. In an instant the torch of infatuation is lighted in his bosom. He bestirres the box office for an introduction, if he knows the manager. It does not occur to him that it is artifice when the manager puts him off with one plausible excuse and another. He sends the actress notes, flowers and bonbons. Fate seems to be against him because of the fact that they do not reach her. The messenger boy always returns with the gifts or notes bearing the same story—she was not there. If his infatuation for the actress has taken deep root, and he is a young man who has leisure and money to follow his inclination, he is apt to present himself in every town where the charmer is playing, quite oblivious to the fact that he has had no encouragement.

The people from behind the footlights, from the stage hands to the star, are having no end of merriment at his expense. To the actress herself, this homage forced upon her is

For Daily Use by the Housewife

To be neat and to be simple is the province of the dress which is made to be worn about the house for the daily use of the housewife. The house dress has its own devotees among designers, and their thought is spent upon making it attractive and substantial and entirely suited to the needs of the woman who busies herself with the affairs of her housekeeping.

To be successful with the house gown is to understand first how to select the material for making it. This must be a durable wash fabric in a neat pattern and stable colorings. The crispness and freshness of the newly laundered gown is its best attraction and this is to be kept in mind when material is bought for it. Gingham, percales, chambrays and similar fabrics are the standards of excellence which all others must measure up to. Coarse heavy linens are to be reckoned with, also.

As to color, the most pleasing models are made of combinations of white with the several fast shades of blue, green, lavender and light brown. These are often combined with a plain fabric in a solid color, as in the dress shown in the picture.

The house dress is to be cut in one piece and loosely adjusted to the figure. The sleeves are not to be longer than three-quarter length and the skirt should hardly reach the instep. The pattern should provide for easy ironing and the dress should fasten at the front or side-front, with buttons and buttonholes. There are many different designs to choose from, and they do not vary greatly from year to year. For the house dress is not required to follow the fads of fashion.

It is a good plan to shrink materials and test them to see if colors are stable, before making up. And the house dress must be complete in itself—needing no extra collar or belt but easily and quickly slipped on and fastened.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF THE DUDE?

Has the uncertain bosom ever strove
 With the first tumults of a real love?
 Hast thou now dreaded and now blessed
 The same?

Has the course and joyful to obey?

What has become of the dude, that pink of masculine, so called, perfection, with the scented locks and the mustache, who wore a crimson tie in the lapel of his coat, put on his shoes and who sported an ivory gold-headed cane?

He was a picture that many a romantic girl glanced furtively at as he stood on the street corners with his keen companions watching fair maidens. But his parents frowned him because he was a playboy. Women who could not give their opinions without fear or care, would not say whether they were attracted to the dude or the young man who had a waist as thin as the hourglass type to be quite natural. The tatters which he wore were the result of his pulling them in pretty tight at that.

The dude walked with a mischievous gait. His trousers legs were as tight as the girls' skirts are today. He spoke with a drawling accent, and acted shamefully. He was a walking fashion plate, whose sole occupation seemed to be to catch the eye of a pretty girl and bring a blush to her cheek because of his bold stare.

It has taken a decade of years for the species to disappear. But where have they gone? They certainly have not developed into sensible business fellows. They haven't brains enough under their tilted silk hats for that. The answer to the query is—they have married foolish girls whose papas were rich and able to support daughters' hubby. They have been transferred from the street corner to the old gent's office, where they strut about with important men, flirting with the stenographers and roundly abusing the male clerks for being so unfortunate as to be under their control. They live in brownstone mansions owned by their rich wives, flit about in automobiles and are first-birthers of operas and theaters. The dude will never work. He is of the poppet class, a family has married a dude that had been quite enough of a nuisance for her younger sisters. No wonder the younger girl profits by her experience. Her choice of a husband falls upon the ambitious, energetic man, who looks what he is, a self-made, sensible, energetic youth who dresses well, but not extravagantly; who has a stock of good sense in his head and the right kind of love in his heart, and is pushing and capable of supporting, without her father's aid, the woman who weds him. It is well for romantic girls that the dude has vanished and sensible men now have come to the fore.

Sanford may not have a real large hotel but we can accommodate some people and the word should go out that we have some of the best restaurants and boarding places in the state and also that there are many good places here to room. Sanford is not the desert waste that some people would make believe this winter, in fact Sanford is better prepared to take care of the visitors this season than ever before.

Cold weather is coloring the oranges, cold weather is coloring the cheeks of the pretty girls, cold weather is heading the lettuce, cold weather is bringing in a fine crop of celery, cold weather is bringing in business with a big B. Cold weather is what we all want despite the fact that some of the visitors may kick on any weather in Florida that requires a fire. But, we crackers, oh, we wait the coolness in the atmosphere at times.

Next Sunday the great heart of Elksdom all over the United States will be opened and the memorial services will be devoted to those who have gone before. In Sanford the exercises will be exceptionally good and as usual the public is cordially invited to attend. There is a lesson in every memorial service and the Elks annual service is no exception to the rule. An Elks is never forgotten in life or in death.

RUN OUT THE FAKERS:

Orlando is again being infested and the people pestered with the annual influx of tramps and beggars. The Associated Charities was organized during the summer, and has made a brave and partially successful beginning in handling the matter of worthy charity, but this problem of tramps and beggars is quite beyond the jurisdiction of the Associated Charities. That organization has neither the power nor the means to cope with this question, and it is plainly up to the city authorities to deal with it in such a positive manner as to relieve the town of it. Some summary method should be adopted and strictly adhered to, even if it be no better (or worse) than paying their railroad fares to the next town. It is not in all respects fair to unload an undesirable on the next town, but the next town is destined to get him in the course of time, and it would be in the nature of expediting the inevitable. These unfortunates are a burden upon the public, which is probably the best and most philosophical way of viewing the matter, and must be accepted. If they are permitted to remain in the town they are dependent upon whimsical charity in order to get further along the line. The cheaper way would be to pay their way out as soon as they arrive, and have the city rid of them at once. Their presence is undesirable and a menace to the town. Let the mayor and the chief of police give them the "move on" signal.—Orlando Reporter-Star.

Federal Reserve Act Affords Rural Credit

One of the greatest problems which faces the farmer is rural credit. This is especially true of the south where farmers pay such exorbitant rates for both store and bank credit. Rural credit is also important to the south in developing its resources and in standardizing farm products. No efficient system has been worked out for this country, but the Federal Reserve Act offers opportunity for extending credit to farmers by bankers who care to do so. An example of what can be done under the provisions of the act is shown by a firm in Gainesville. These men have established a warehouse where they buy and grade farm produce. They also store produce at a minimum cost if farmers do not want to sell at market prices.

THE TRUE STORY OF SAND ASPHALT

THE REASON WHY CLARENCE WOODS MADE THE FIGHT ON WILLIS POWELL

(CLEARWATER SUN)

To the many papers of the state who are devoting columns to the sand asphalt brick controversy:

This paper has ceased re-printing the roads of editorial either for or against brick roads. Our good roads campaign was finished Nov. 16th.

We do not care a tinker's dam whether any other county uses sand-asphalt, brick, clay, marl, cement, macadam, sawdust, turpentine chips, mill slabs, corn stalks, pine straw or a score of other road materials which have been touted in Florida.

But we do want to set the press of the state straight on the issue.

No one is objecting to Clarence Woods devoting his entire edition to his hobby of sand-asphalt roads. Our objection is based on this point:

Pinellas county had an issue before it which was the ratification of a resolution calling for a $715,000 issue to provide for 73 miles of BRICK ROADS.

Clarence Woods, a newspaper man of Lake county, and a member of the Central Highway Association, and subscribing himself as such, sought to DEFEAT the Pinellas county bond issue for brick roads, because it was BRICK roads or NONE.

He did not attempt to DEFEAT identically the same bond issue when voted upon Aug. 18, 1915.

WHY?

If his attack on Pinellas county's efforts were guided by lofty principles in the Nov. 16th election, why did he not attack the Aug. 28th bond election for brick roads?

Now what was his excuse?

In a letter written to the editor of the Sun dated Nov. 16th, 1915, the date of the last bond election, he says:

I will tell you frankly the genesis the beginning of my attacks on brick highways, viz:

Your unforgivable assault upon the Eustis asphalt road in August 1914, subsequently reported.

"Ridicule is a powerful substitute for reason and fact, and you used the former to the detriment of truth and economy and efficiency of road building in Florida, an action contrary to the best interests of all the people."

I do not find it in my heart to wish that your bond issue may fail to day, despite all that has been said about me. I do not want these mighty movements of progressivism to halt, especially through effort of mine. But if it fails and if any thing I have done shall contribute to its defeat, remember now and hereafter your unjust and unfounded characterizations of our splendid asphalt roads be back of and are inspiration for my war on brick roads.

The farmer brings his produce to the warehouse where it is graded. The farm issues a warehouse receipt and insures the produce. The farmer may take the receipt to the national banks and borrow money on it at 6 per cent for about 75 per cent of the present market value of the produce. The promoters of the enterprise are bonded and had to gain the approval of the Federal Reserve Board before they could get the receipts accepted by the banks.

According to the promoters this is the best enterprise of its kind established in the south. There have been cotton warehouses, but none for general produce. The good which will come to Florida and the south in general through this movement is incalculable. It will not only furnish money to the farmer at lower rates than he has been forced to pay but it will result in the standardization of farm products.

This firm has not been established long but the success of the enterprise is assured by the business done up to date. The example can be duplicated in any county if the bankers care to furnish the money.

Nobody Loves a Villain

To be a villain and be loved for it is the paradoxical sort of a niche into which William Russell has climbed since the production began of "The Diamond from the Sky," the $800,000 prize photoplay which appears weekly at the Allen Theatre. In portraying the part of Blair Stanley, Mr. Russell has been called upon to do some villainous things—and instead of hating him, the country's motion picture audiences love him for it—and they do so without detracting in any way from the hero and heroine.

It is the ability to present a personality entirely different from the real self that makes people actors. This great chasm between men and character was never wider than in the case of Blair Stanley and William Russell. Mr. Russell, despite his prodigious

"So, come what may today, your unrepented and unwarranted and repeated statements based upon little else than vivid imagination and a predilection of 'knocking' where others boast are responsible for much of the effort expended to expose the brick fallacy and establish the truth about asphalt roads."

"Fraternally, Clarence Woods."

This letter was written, undoubtedly as an I-told-you-so but as the bond issue carried in Pinellas, Mr. Woods did not print it in his paper—in fact, he did not carry the news that the issue in Pinellas for brick roads won out.

The letter from Mr. Woods establishes the fact that his fight against the Pinellas county bond issue was for revenge on the writer of the Sun; that if the issue had been lost he would take the credit for the defeat and further seek to impress the good roads people that Powell was instrumental for the defeat through his.

Powell's "unwarranted," etc., assault on asphalt roads in 1914, performed great service in Pinellas, as it ran from "our midst" one Kelly imported to show us how to build the roads, which he declared could be maintained at an expense of 25 cents per mile per year, and could be laid with grading and curbing at 55 cents a square. He had the taxpayers hypnotized and they hired a special train to go to Dade City to see him at work. But Powell fought Kelly and his silly assertions backed up by a bonding company to the extent of millions of dollars, and finally, Kelly, the impster, skipped the state.

That's the service Powell performed to Pinellas in 1914.

But Powell did not take his fight into Lake county in 1915 when Woods was pleading, with tears in his eyes, to have Lake county commissioners spend one-fifth of its good roads appropriation for sand-asphalt roads.

We felt it none of our business to butt into Lake county matters. We challenged Woods to show one word in the Sun, and it prints six issues to Woods one, wherein we even "peeped" about his efforts to have his own county adopt his chosen road material.

Although Mr. Woods, in his letter above, shows that vindictiveness was in his heart when he butted into Pinellas county's affairs, the Sun belongs to the old school of newspaperdom and does not intend to take its brick roads propaganda into counties or communities where they have the sand-asphalt boy.

It is our own business as the old woman said when she kissed the cow.

strength and towering physique has the gentleness of a child and the tender heart of a girl. His life-day by day is one of gentleness and his influence is exerted the same way. To chat with Mr. Russell at his ranch home in Santa Barbara is a real pleasure. It is interesting to study a man who is so gentle in life and so villainous in pictures, and particularly interesting when one knows Mr. Russell has stepped into the prize ring and sent to the floor some of the biggest men who ever wore a glove.

Mr. Russell takes keen enjoyment in personally showing visitors about his ranch. He will exhibit his wonderful gardens first and then the live stock.

"You see that little goat," he remarked to a recent visitor. "I arose at 2 a. m. yesterday to put his leg in a cast. It just happened that 'Joke' got too close to the hind legs of one of my saddle mares, and he went flying through space, about as fast as two good hoofs can send anything."

And the "villain" leaned over and adjusted the bagpate to the greater comfort of the little kid. A heat of thankfulness greeted the kind attention.

Sawed-Off Sermon. The trouble with the average self-made man is that the part he talks with is out of proportion to the part he thinks with.—Indianapolis Star.

General Federation Notes

There are 10,000,000 boys and girls enrolled in the rural schools of this country.

Twenty-four states are employing special state agents to devote their entire time to rural schools.

From every platform on which she stands in her journeyings through this land of ours our national president, Mrs. Pennybacker, pleads eloquently for the rural schools. No club service is nearer to her heart.

At the Chicago biennial, Miss Lottie E. Stearns, in her splendid address on "The Woman on the Farm," made an urgent plea for the traveling libraries.

She quoted the enthusiastic appreciation of country women in many neighborhoods of the little cases of books little cases of books that brought help and inspiration, that brought help and inspiration.

With the establishment of the traveling libraries, these books have become veritable missionaries penetrating to all sorts of dreary, isolated places, carrying with them a culture and a pleasure that will add in illuminating the long, dreary path of existence with the color of happiness.

The election of the president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will be held during the sessions of the biennial in New York next May. Those who have met and know Mrs. Pennybacker, whose time expires then by limitation, feel a personal regret in her retirement. Former presidents have come from the east, the south and the middle west and there is much speculation as to the choice of the next candidate and the state from which she will hail.

Mrs. Philip N. Moore, one of the past presidents says: "The great organization of the General Federation has come to the time when a leader should be sought irrespective of location of affiliations, a woman who has the largest vision, the strongest courage, the truest heart, the experience and knowledge that make her capable of grappling with things international as well as national; she should be given a board who could measure up to her leadership, and this again somewhat irrespective of locality."

A Well Dressed Woman

And pretty shoes are born companions. The lady who called the Footwear in our windows "dreams" was not far wrong. It is the dream of every woman to have a pretty and attractive foot. Many of the beautiful shoes we are showing can not be found elsewhere in Sanford.

Bronze Kid, Viet Kid, Patent Leather, Grey and Fawn Cloth, Top and Dull Kids are among the styles. A new consignment of the celebrated Krieger-Dittman Shoe has just arrived. Many styles to please the well dressed woman.

St. Agnes Guild The regular meeting of St. Agnes Guild was held at the Phillips studio on Monday afternoon with Miss Clara Phillips hostess. Plans were completed for the Christmas bazaar which will be held at Mrs. Mehrtens' French Millinery Parlors on Saturday afternoon and evening. At the conclusion of the business period Miss Phillips entertained her guests at the Royal Cafe for refreshments; those present were Mesdames Archie Betts, Gwynn Fox, Julius Takach, M. Minarik and Misses Belle Smith, Saidee Williams, Charlotte Hand and Frances Gonzales.

Mite Box Social On Friday evening Mrs. W. W. Abernathy will entertain with a "mite box" social at her charming home on Magnolia avenue, at which time the mite boxes will be returned and opened that were distributed several months ago. This money will be applied on the bill for wiring the new church, for which the women of the church pledged the amount. With her usual originality Mrs. Abernathy has planned a charming program of events, for the present a mystery that will be solved on Friday evening. The interesting, funny little menu follows: "What the patient had and what the doctor gets. Dirt and goblins. Green tarts. Gamblers' tools. Chip of the old block. Nature's contribution." Now just guess what this delicious menu embraces that is edible.

Three Bazaars Tomorrow afternoon and evening will be held the bazaars of St. Agnes Guild, at Mrs. Mehrtens' with fancy work, cooked food and home made candies; the Baptist Ladies' Aid bazaar at Roberts' grocery when the articles offered for sale will also be an assortment of pretty fancy and hand made needlework and cooked food; and the Junior Epworth League bazaar at the home of Mrs. L. R. Phillips. At this bazaar will be pretty things, candies and cakes for sale. A generous patronage of the public is solicited for all three.

Society Papers Owing to the near approach of Christmas, social activities have given place to the work of preparations, and there are but few social functions on the calendar. Churches are busy with their bazaars, the schools are preparing Christmas programs, and social pleasures are chiefly confined to the delightfully informal meetings of card clubs and sewing societies. Cupid too is off on a vacation for there are no marriages or "showers" to record. The week has been quiet socially and even people coming and going are but few, at least the little personal items have not reached the society editor, so we take it for granted that guests are few in the city, and our own people are staying at home. "Getting ready for Christmas" is all absorbing and social gaieties have taken second place.

Announcement Announcement of the marriage of Miss Willie Carter Persons and Mr. Wilbur Luther Tilden have been received in this city by the many Sanford friends of the contracting parties. The wedding occurred at the home of the bride in Orlando on the thirtieth of November. The bride is the daughter of Dr. W. C. Persons, one of the best known and most popular physicians in Orange county and the groom is the son of W. A. Tilden of the Oakland section. He is now an attorney in Orlando and also holds the position of prosecution attorney for the criminal court of record of Orange county.

Every Week Bridge Mrs. C. M. Vorce entertained the members of the Every Week with a tempting bridge luncheon yesterday at her home at Morris. Luncheon was served at one o'clock, after which the usual game of bridge was played. Mrs. Margaret Barnes carried off the prize, a feather box. Enjoying the hospitality of their gracious hostess were Mesdames Bernice Lak Smith, Barrett, Grubbert, Neal and substituting were Mrs. O. W. Brady and Mrs. Thigpen.

Sew-Sew The Sew-Sews have waked up after a restful summer siesta and their delightful meetings are being resumed, with the same jolly crowd of matrons still on deck, enjoying the usual good times for which this gay little coterie of friends are famous. Yesterday afternoon they were agreeably entertained by Mrs. May Dickins. Dainty refreshments were served and the hours spent together in delightful informality. The members of the club are Mesdames May Dickins, Henry M. Laubin, R. J. Holly, C. E. Henry, C. H. Dinger, R. L. Peck, O. L. Taylor, Frank Woodruff and J. S. Wilson.

Merry Matrons The Merry Matrons enjoyed a charming afternoon with bridge at the home of Mrs. Cecil Butt Thursday afternoon at which Mrs. Puleston won the prize, a pair of silk hose. The rooms were simply decorated with yellow alamanders and white star jessamine placed about on tables and mantels. Those present were Mesdames Puleston, Herndon, Newman, A. B. Wallace, Eugene Roumillat, Gonzales, Frank Miller, Braxton Perkins, and Miss Saidee Williams.

Luauella Club There was an unusually large attendance of the Priscillas yesterday afternoon and the usual delightful informality prevailed. A refreshment course was served, new pat-

The Romance of Elaine

A Detective Novel and a Motion Picture Drama

SYNOPSIS.

After the finding of Wu Fang's body and Kennedy's disappearance, a submarine appears the following morning on the bay. A man plunges overboard from it and swims ashore. It is the entrance of Marcus Del Mar into America.

His mission is to obtain information of Kennedy and, if possible, the lost torpedo. At the Dodge home, he soon wins the confidence of Elaine. Later she is warned by a little old man to be careful of Del Mar. This warning came just in time to prevent Del Mar from carrying out his plans.

Later Elaine gives a masquerade ball. Del Mar attends. Neither he nor his domino girl can locate the torpedo. A gray friar warns Elaine and Jameson of Del Mar's purpose, and his plans are upset. Del Mar succeeds in getting this girl in Elaine's home of a maid. She finds the torpedo in the attic, places it in a trunk, which with others is sent to Elaine's country home. A holdup on the train takes place. Del Mar's men carry the trunk away, only to find on opening it that they have the wrong trunk.

Upon Elaine's arrival in the country she again encounters the old man of mystery. He warns her to do her own unpacking. She does, and finds the long-lost torpedo, which she places in a dresser drawer. Del Mar's men enter her room during her absence and escape with the torpedo. They are seen by the old man, who follows them. A desperate battle follows in which the old man destroys the torpedoes. That afternoon as Elaine and Jameson are riding through the country, Del Mar's men plan to blow up a bridge at a time when they are crossing. He would have succeeded but the old man sacrifices his life to prevent Del Mar's car to cross safely.

TWENTY-EIGHTH EPISODE

THE CAVE IN THE CLIFF.

It was not long after the almost miraculous escape of Elaine and myself from the blowing up of the bridge on the shore road that Del Mar returned from his mysterious mission which had, apparently, taken him actually down to the bottom of the sea.

The panel in the wall of his library opened and in the still dripping submarine suit holding under his arm the weird helmet, Del Mar entered. No sooner had he begun to remove his wet diving suit than the man who had signaled with the heliograph that we had found Del Mar's message from "below" whatever that might mean entered the house and was announced by the valet.

"Let him come in immediately," ordered Del Mar, placing his suit in a closet. Then to the man as he entered the room, he said, "Well, what's new?"

"Quite a bit," returned the man, frowning still over Elaine's accidental discovery of the under-water communication. "The Dodge girl happened to pick up one of the tubes with a message just after you went down. I tried to get her by blowing up one of the bridges, but it didn't work, somehow."

"Well, have to silence her," remarked Del Mar angrily, with a sinister frown. "You stay here and wait for orders."

A moment later he made his way down to a private dock on his grounds and jumped aboard a trim little speed boat moored there. He started the motor and off the boat feathered in a cloud of spray.

It was only a moment by water before he reached the Dodge dock. There he tied his boat and hurried up the dock.

Elaine and I arrived home without any further experiences after our hairbreadth escape from the explosion at the bridge.

"We were in doubt at first, however, just what to do about the mysterious message which we had picked up in the harbor."

"Really, Walter," remarked Elaine, after we had considered the matter for some time, "I think we ought to send that message to the government at Washington. It may be of great importance."

Already she had seated herself at her desk and began to write, while I examined the metal tube and the note again.

"There," she said at length, handing me the note she had written, "how does that sound?"

I read it while she addressed the envelope. "Very good," I replied, handing it back.

She folded it and shoved it into the envelope of which she had written:

"Chief,
"Secret Service,
"Washington, D. C."

I was studying the address, wondering whether this was just the thing to do, when Elaine decided the matter by energetically ringing the bell for Jennings.

"Post that, Jennings, please," she directed.

The butler bowed just as the door bell rang. He turned to go.

"Just a minute," I interrupted. "I think perhaps I'd better mail it myself, after all."

He handed me the letter and went out.

"Yes, Walter," agreed Elaine, "that would be better. Please register it, too."

"How do you do?" greeted a suave voice.

"ident, he knocked the letter from my hand."

"I beg your pardon," he apologized, quickly stooping and picking the message up.

Though he managed to read the address, he maintained his composure and handed the letter back to me. I started to go out, when Elaine called to me.

"Excuse me just a moment, Mr. Del Mar?" she queried, accompanying me out on the porch.

Already a saddle horse had been brought around for me.

"Perhaps you'd better put a special delivery stamp on it, too, Walter," she added, walking along with me. "And be very careful."

"I will," I promised, as I rode quickly off.

Del Mar, alone, seized the opportunity to go over quietly to the telephone. It was the work of only a moment to call up his bungalow where the emissary who had placed the submarine bell was waiting for orders. Quickly Del Mar whispered his instructions, which the man took, and hung up the receiver.

"I hope you'll pardon me," said Elaine, entering just as Del Mar left the telephone. "Mr. Jameson was going into town and I had a number of little things I wanted him to do. Won't you sit down?"

They chatted for a few moments, but Del Mar did not stay very long. He excused himself shortly and Elaine bade him good by at the door as he walked off, apparently, down the road I had taken.

Del Mar's emissary hurried from the bungalow and almost ran down the road until he came to a spot where two men were hiding.

"Jameson is coming with a letter which the Dodge girl has written to the Secret Service," he cried, pointing excitedly up the road. "You've got to get it, see?"

I was entering along nicely down the road by the shore, when suddenly, from behind some rocks and bushes, three men leaped out at me. One of them seized the horse's bridle while the other two quickly dragged me out of the saddle.

It was very unexpected but I had time enough to draw my gun and fire once. I hit one of the men, too, in the arm, and he staggered back, the blood spurting all over the road.

But before I could fire at the others they knocked the gun from my hand. Frightened, the horse turned and bolted, riderless.

Together, they dragged me off the road and into the thicket, where I was tied and gagged and laid on the ground, while one of them bound up the wounded arm of the man I had hit. It was not long before one of them began searching me.

"Aha!" he growled, pulling the letter from my pocket and looking at it with satisfaction. "Here it is!"

He tore the letter open, throwing the envelope on the ground, and read it.

"There, confound you," he muttered. "The government'll never get that come on men. Bring him this way. Hurry up!"

He shoved the letter into his pocket and led the way through the underbrush, while the others half dragged, half pushed me along. We had not gone very far before one of the three men, who appeared to be the leader, paused.

"Take him to the hang-out," he ordered gruffly. "I'll have to report to the chief."

He disappeared down toward the shore of the harbor while the others prodded me along.

Down near the Dodge dock, along the shore, walked a man wearing a broad-brimmed hat and a plain suit of duck. His prim collar and the comported well with his spoked glasses. Instinctively one would have called him "professor," though whether naturalist, geologist, or plain "bugologist," one would have had difficulty in determining.

He seemed, as a matter of fact, to be a naturalist, for he was engrossed in picking up specimens. But he was not so much engrossed as to fail to hear the approach of footsteps down the gravel walk from Dodge hall to the dock. He looked up in time to see Del Mar coming, and quietly concealed himself in the shrubbery up on the shore.

On the dock, Del Mar stood for some minutes, waiting. Finally, along the shore came another figure. It was the emissary to whom Del Mar had telephoned and who had searched him. The naturalist drew back into his hiding place, peeping out keenly, at the two men.

"Well?" demanded Del Mar. "What luck?"

"We've got him," returned the man with brief satisfaction. "Here's the letter she was sending to the Secret Service."

Del Mar seized the note which the man handed to him and read it eagerly. "Good," he exclaimed. "That would have put an end to the whole operations about here. Come on. Get into the boat."

For some reason best known to himself, the naturalist seemed to have lost all interest in his specimens and to have a sudden curiosity about Del Mar's affairs. As the motor boat sped off, he came slowly and curiously out of his hiding place and gazed fixedly at Del Mar.

No sooner had Del Mar's boat got a little distance out into the harbor than the naturalist hurried down the Dodge dock. There was tied Elaine's own fast little launch. He jumped into it and started the engine, following quickly in Del Mar's wake.

"Look," called the emissary to Del Mar, spying the Dodge boat with the naturalist in it, skimming rapidly after them.

Del Mar strained his eyes back through his glass at the pursuing boat. But the naturalist, in spite of his smoked glasses, seemed not to have impaired his eyesight by his studies. He caught the glint of the sun on the lens at Del Mar's eye and dropped down into the bottom of his own boat, where he was at least safe from scrutiny, if his boat were not.

Del Mar lowered his glass. "That's the Dodge boat," he said emphatically. "I don't like the look of that fellow. Give her more speed!"

Del Mar had not gone long before Elaine decided to take a ride herself. She ordered her horse around from the stables while she donned her neat little riding habit. A few minutes later, as the groom held the horse, she mounted and rode away, choosing the road by which I had gone, expecting to meet me on the return from town.

She was galloping along at a good clip when suddenly her horse shied at something.

"Whoa, Buster," pacified Elaine.

Keeping Them Covered, We Made Our Way Up the Dangerous High Steps.

But it was of no use. Buster still reared up.

"Why, what is the matter?" she asked. "What do you see?"

She looked down at the ground. There was a spot of blood in the dust. Buster was one of those horses to whom the sight of blood is terrifying.

Elaine pulled up beside the road. There was a revolver lying in the grass. She dismounted and picked it up. No sooner had she looked at it than she discovered the initials "W. J." carved on the butt.

"Walter Jameson?" she exclaimed, realizing suddenly that it was mine. "It's been fired, too!"

Her eye fell again on the blood spots. "Blood and footprints—into the brush!" she gasped in horror, following the trail. "What could have happened to Walter?"

With the revolver, Elaine followed where the bushes were trampled down until she came to the place where I had been bound. There she spied some pieces of paper lying on the ground and picked them up.

She put them together. They were pieces of the envelope of the letter which we had decided to send to Washington.

"Which way did they take him?" she asked, looking all about but discovering no trail.

She was plainly at a loss what course to pursue.

"What would Craig do," she asked herself.

Finding no answer, she stood thinking a moment, slowly tearing the envelope to pieces. If she were to do anything at all, it must be done quickly. Suddenly an idea seemed to occur to her. She threw the pieces of paper into the air and let them blow away. It was unscientific detection, perhaps, but the wind actually took them and carried them in the direction in which the men had forced me to walk, after they had robbed me of the letter.

"That's it!" cried Elaine to herself. "I'll follow that direction."

Meanwhile, the men had hurried me off along a trail that led to the foot of a cliff. Then the trail wound up the cliff. We climbed it until we reached the top.

There in the rock was a rude stairway. I drew back. But one man drew a gun and the other preceded me down. Along the steep stone steps cut in the face of the rock they forced me.

Below, in a rift in the very wall of the cliff, was a cave in which already were two more of Del Mar's men, talking in low tones, in the dim light.

"As we made our way down the breakneck stairway, the foremost of my captors stepped on a large flat rock. As he did so, it gave way slightly under his foot.

A light in the cave flashed up. Under the rock was a secret electric connection which operated a lamp.

"Someone coming," muttered the two men, on guard instantly.

It was a somewhat precarious footing as we descended and for the moment I was more concerned for my safety from a fall than anything else. Once my foot did slip and a shower of pebbles and small pieces of rock started down the face of the cliff.

As we passed down, the man behind me, still keeping me covered, raised the flat stone on the top step. Carefully he reset the connection of the alarm rock, a series of metal points that bent under the weight of a person and made a contact which signaled down in the cavern the approach of anyone who did not know the secret.

As he did so, the light in the cavern went out. "It's all right," said one of the men down there, with a look of relief.

We went down the perilous stairway until we came to the cave.

"I've got a prisoner—orders of the chief," growled one of the captors, thrusting me in roughly.

They forced me into a corner where they tied me again, hand and foot. Then they began debating in low, sinister tones, what was to be done with me next. Once in a while I could catch a word. "Fear made my senses hypersensitive."

They were arguing whether they should make away with me now or later.

Finally the leader rose. "It's three to five," I heard him mutter. "He dies now."

He turned and took a menacing step toward me.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advice from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Thedford's Black-Draught, and out-taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it. I have now been taking Black Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it. I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me." Thedford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest. The Romance of Elaine Sequel to The Exploits of Elaine

A Detective Novel and a Motion Picture Drama By ARTHUR B. REEVE The Well-Known Novelist and the Creator of the 'Craig Kennedy' Stories. Presented in Collaboration With the Pathé Players and the Eclectic Film Company

Then, still keeping them covered, we backed out of the cave. Backward we made our way up the dangerous flight of steps again with guns leveled at the cave entrance. Elaine going up first. Once a head stuck itself out of the cave entrance. I fired instantly and it jerked itself back in again just in time. That was the only trouble we had, apparently. Cautiously and slowly we made our way toward the top of the cliff.

A moment later, in the queer little submarine office, Del Mar had evidently planned to take up the nefarious secret work on which he was engaged. Several men of a naval and military bearing were seated at a table already, studying maps and plans and documents of all descriptions. They did not seem to belong to any nation in particular. In fact, their uniforms, if such they might be called, were of a character to disguise their nationality. But that they were hostile to the country under which they literally had their hidden retreat, of that there could be no doubt.

Elaine and I had got almost to the top of the flight of steps, when suddenly we heard a shout above us and sounds of a terrific struggle. We turned and saw two men. Nearer and nearer the edge of the cliff they rolled. We crouched closer to the rocky wall, gazing up at the death grapple of the two. Who they were we did not know but that one was fighting for and the other against us we could readily see.

Death of E. W. Rowland
Sanford was shocked on Wednesday afternoon to learn of the sudden death of E. W. Rowland, who died at his home on Magnolia avenue about 5:30.
Mr. Rowland had not been feeling well for several days and coming in from his run that morning after being laid out several hours by the wreck near Orange City Junction, he complained of being worn out and laid down. His family did not disturb him during the day and allowed him to sleep as was his custom. Late in the afternoon Mrs. Rowland going in to see him found him awake and upon his request to get him something to eat she left the room and returning later found him dead. His soul had fled without a moment's warning and his spirit winged its flight with no pain or sorrow to mar the ethereal glow that still remained upon his face. Physicians were summoned by the distracted wife, but it was too late, and it is thought that heart trouble superinduced by an attack of acute indigestion caused his death.

Seldom has there a man been taken from our midst that occasioned such grief as the sudden passing of E. W. Rowland. He was universally loved and respected not only by his fellow workers but by the citizenship of Sanford. Ed Rowland, as he was familiarly called by all who knew him came to Sanford from his home at Springfield, Ill., some twenty years ago and brought with him not only the ripe experience in his chosen profession of railroad engineer but also the power of making friends with fellow employees and employers alike. All during his life in this city he was the mediator and father confessor for the railroad boys and by his gentle persuasion and clear, level-headed ideas of right and wrong he kept peace and prosperity in the ranks and his death leaves an aching void that will be difficult to fill.

The best and the best that one can say of E. W. Rowland is that he was a man, every inch of him and he treated his friends as men never failing to give them wise counsel and advice, every ready to help the needy and smooth the wrinkles from life's countenance and the thorns from life's pathway. His was a life of useful living for his family and friends, his home life being the ideal one of a loving husband and father.

Mr. Rowland was in the 56th year of his life when he was called home and was just upon the eve of retiring from active service to enter into an official position with the B. of L. E. the railroad order that he had served so faithfully for many years. He literally grew up with the railroads of this section of the state and ranked among the oldest engineers in point of service on the system. The Atlantic Coast Line loses a valuable employee and one who had their interests at heart. The employees lose a friend and counselor, and the city loses an upright, honest and industrious home builder from their midst and one that had the best interests of the city at heart all the time. He was a Past Exalted Ruler of the Elks, a member of the B. of L. E.

He leaves a wife, a daughter and a son to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father and loss of friends in the southern states and in the middle west, where he occupied the same position of trust and confidence among employers and fellow employees.

The funeral services occur today at 2:30 from the late residence at 607 Magnolia and will be in charge of the Messrs. Elks and Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Dr. Brownlee of the Presbyterian church will officiate and interment will be made in Lakeview cemetery.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the afflicted family of the deceased.

W. C. T. U. Meeting
The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in the parlors of the Baptist church Thursday, Dec. 3rd, at 3 o'clock with Mrs. W. T. Colbourne, the president in the chair. Interesting plans for work in the near future were discussed and decided upon.

It was voted that the Union should purchase several copies of that authoritative temperance reference book, "The Compendium of Truth" to be placed in the town and school libraries, in order that the public may have exact information at hand on this vital subject.

The announcement that Mrs. Lillian Tolson, a lecturer of prominence will be in Sanford and speak at one of the exercises at the Methodist church, Dec. 19th, will be a general interest. Due notice of details will be given in the Herald later.

Educational Criticism
A deputation waited on the president of the British board of education some time ago to assist upon this point. "That the present system of education tended to fit the child more for the life of a clerk and to unfit him for rural and agricultural life." And it might have been added that not only does it fit him for the life of a clerk but it unfits him for getting beyond that. It has put him through a system that has kept back all tendency to develop any initiative of his own.—Montreal Herald

Husband Had His Good Part
A London misdeed worker tells how shocked she was to encounter this bit of cynicism in the slums. The conversation was between two women whose married life had not been particularly felicitous. "Well," said one of them, "of course we have our troubles with all of 'em. But I'll say this for my second husband—he's better than my first. He's in jail so much that practically all I earn I has for myself."

Opportunity's Gates Open.
We may be sure that the typical American story of the rise from small beginnings to substantial achievements has not been told for the last time. The conditions which render the telling possible still exist, says the Philadelphia Ledger. For those who leave college as well as for those who lack this preparation for the struggle of life, the path is paved with chances which insight, pluck and perseverance can change to solid success.

Wanted to Be Hospitable
When I went to Paris, writes Gen. Torace Porter, I told my friends that any of them who got within a mile of the embassy must come to see me. The latchstring, I told them, was out; there was always a spare seat in my row at church. The latchstring was often pulled; the seat in church remained vacant. One of my friends who visited me stopped his subscription to the Christian Observer. He said he didn't want any observers while he was in Paris.

SANFORD ELKS A LODGE OF SORROW ON LAST SUNDAY

LARGE CROWD PRESENT AT THE MEMORIAL SERVICES AT THE STAR THEATRE.

The memorial services of the Sanford Lodge of Elks on Sunday at the Star Theatre was said by those present to be the best that the lodge has ever held and certainly the exercises were most impressive and the large audience went from the theatre building with the feeling that Sanford Elks had done all in their power to revere the memory of their dead in a most fitting manner.

The memorial services that occur in every part of the United States on December 5th are looked forward to by not only the Elks and their families but their many friends outside of the order who appreciate their services greatly. Sanford lodge was extremely fortunate this year in not only having an able speaker to deliver the oration but also in the selection of two good local eulogists. The musical program was also replete with good selections and the whole assembly merged into a most beautiful and appropriate service.

The stage of the Star Theatre was packed tighter than it did on Sunday afternoon being draped with garlands and stripes emblematic of the order and the entire front of the footlights banked with ferns, palms and flowers. The speaker, who was framed in the sparkling arches of the huge elks' head of the lodge and with the light appropriately shaded the stage reflect from the house was greatly enhanced. The services were concluded to take place at three o'clock and promptly at that time the members of the lodge met in their club rooms to the number of about 100 strong.

As they met in the building the of 2000 and their places and Exalted Ruler Neal, Past Exalted Ruler Peck and Barnes, Dr. Andrew A. Murphree, Chaplain Peck and W. F. Shelby and then A. DeCottes occupied the chairs. The body members of the lodge standing in a neat line behind the speaker. The Exalted Ruler called to the members of the lodge to rise and the dramatic piece was read.

The oration was delivered by Mrs. Bessie M. Holly, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. F. J. G. Morris, Miss Dorothy Frazier, Miss Gretchen, Miss Olga Schultz and Miss Grace Selby each a beautiful number. The Sluggers' Nuts and after a prayer by Chaplain Peck, Cecil Lawton of Orlando rendered two beautiful baritone solos, "The Rose and the Lily" and "The Lord of the Light" that were greatly enjoyed.

Miss Gladys Morris gave Thanksgiving with much expression and this young artist added new laurels to those already won. Accompanied by Miss Frances Aspinwall, Mrs. Lucille Aspinwall sang "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears" and this beautiful rendition of Harker's masterpiece rank with the very best of the genre. The eulogies were given by W. F. Shelby and George DeCottes were worthy of any man more mention. Mr. Shelby paid a glowing tribute to the memory of his departed friend and the worker P. W. Howard who departed this life on Wednesday and Mr. Shelby "Pete" in his heart.

Finally, the eulogy was given by George A. DeCottes in memory of the late James D. Roberts. Always a member of the lodge, Mr. DeCottes was one of the best and most devoted of former and both he and Mr. Shelby were the pillars of their friends upon the tablets of love and memory. "At Close of Day" by the ladies' quintette was another beautiful selection.

The oration delivered by Dr. A.

A. Murphree, president of the University of Florida was a treat to all that heard it. Replete with good advice, logic entwined with flowers for the departed and love for the living, Dr. Murphree carried his listeners to sublime heights and in simple language easily understood by the smallest child present carried his truths of life home to all. Dr. Murphree was sick with grippe on Saturday morning but would not disappoint his brother Elks and drove from Gainesville in his car to be present, and his address and his courage to be here won him a large place in the hearts of Sanford Elks and those who heard him. He is one of the greatest men in the state and his work as an educator is bringing him into national notice.

The memorial services closed with the lodge work and the singing of the song "Blest be the Tie that Binds" by the lodge and audience and another lodge of sorrow had slipped into history but will not soon be forgotten by the members of 1241 Sanford.

To the committees on program, speakers, stage and decorations and to Mrs. Roumillat, Mrs. Minnie Jones and Mrs. DeCottes, who assisted in decorating the stage and also those who so kindly donated the flowers the lodge owes a large vote of thanks that will be officially given.

The memorial services contributed to give Sanford another upward lift in many ways and strangers from a distance who attended said they had never witnessed a more beautiful ceremony for seen more interest displayed by a local lodge.

Will Bring Ministers Here

Among the visitors to the city on Sunday was Kline Graham, secretary of the University of Florida, Mr. Graham and the editor of The Herald were in Gainesville many years ago when the University of Florida was in its infancy and the athletic association needed money. We organized the University Ministers of which The Herald editor was a participant and the Ministers still exist with some of the old Gainesville men in it. Mr. Graham states that he will bring this organization to Sanford some time during the month of January. They carry their own band and give a performance as good as any professional one in any part of the state. They will give them a good home if they ever come to Sanford.

Sanford Defeated

On Monday Athletic Field at Winter Park, yesterday the academy eleven of Rollins College defeated the Sanford High School boys in one of the best games of the season. The score was 12 to 6. The last work of the academy was done in the early part of the game. The eleven suffered from over confidence towards the last.

Black started away at times during the game with his running with the ball. He repeatedly dodged the opposing interferences and made considerable gains for the blue and WW. Lutz's tackling was a feature of the afternoon as was the sunshine game played by Fletcher, who was at his best in the recovery of forward passes.

Sanford played a good game throughout but was outclassed by the academy team both as to weight and experience. The Seminole county boys made their own touchdown toward the last of the fourth quarter, and when the referee's whistle blew at the close of the game the pigskin was in Rollins' possession and had been caught by Fletcher on a forward pass. A large crowd witnessed the game, several from Sanford and Orlando attending. The "Celebrity City" boys took supper at the college commons, leaving shortly afterward for their winter trip. Winter Park News.

Allen Treated the Children

A. G. Allen of Allen's Theatre treated all the school children yesterday, giving them a free ticket to the show. The picture was a comedy and especially for the children and they thoroughly enjoyed themselves as Mr. Allen had them laugh and yell to their hearts content.

BRICK ROAD BONDS ARE VALIDATED SOON TO SELL

SEMINOLE COUNTY WILL HAVE BEST SYSTEM OF GOOD ROADS IN THE STATE

The bonds for the new brick roads in the sum of $250,000 have been validated by the circuit court and nothing remains now but the few minor details of publishing the sale of the bonds and the next sixty days should see them sold and the work of paying the roads starting.

This new bond issue will take care of the stretch of road that now exists between the limits of the former special road district in this county and the boundary line of Orange county. This road is not in good condition at present as the work of keeping it in repair has practically stopped, awaiting the brick paving and this piece of road between the counties is very noticeable to the tourists, being the only bad part of the twenty five miles between Sanford and Orlando.

This road will probably receive the attention of the contractors first and will be built of brick with concrete filling which is said to be the best road building in the south. The road from Sanford to Oviedo and from Sanford to Geneva will also be laid, thus giving these two at once a complete system of good roads. It will also give these two cities a brick street through the heart of them.

Another road to be built with the new issue of bonds will be the stretch between the end of the bridge on the Sylvia road and the Wekiwa ferry, which is the last county line. Here our county will be aided by Clarence Woods' sand and gravel and will have a good opportunity to get the best of the road material and each will have the same travel.

With these brick roads built in this county every part of it will practically have an outlet over good roads and the new bridge on the Sylvia road and the Wekiwa ferry will complete a system of good roads and bridges second to none in the state.

SIXTY-FOURTH CONGRESS CONVENED YESTERDAY

Washington, Dec. 7.—Congress assembled and organized yesterday for the session which is expected to be the greatest within the memory of the present generation. Four hours work in the house saw Speaker Clegg returned to the chair. Representative Mann returned to the leadership of the Republican minority the introduction of 2,000 bills and resolutions, many of them proposing changes of national defence and many more in opposition; the reorganization of constitutional amendments, to enfranchise women and a miniature rules fight which flickered out with the adoption of last year's rules with a few changes.

In the senate practically nothing was done except the election of Senator Clarke of Arkansas as president pro tempore. Vice President Murphree was absent because of the illness of his wife.

House Speaker Clegg, after sending a joint committee to the White House to give the necessities of the opening of the session, adjourned until tomorrow when the real business of the session begins with President Wilson's address to a joint session in the hall of the house at 10:30 o'clock.

ADVERTISE THE STATE IN THE NORTH IS THE PLAN

"FLORIDA FIRST" COMMISSION HAVE MADE PLANS TO DO A GREAT WORK

The "Florida First" Commission that will meet in this city on December tenth to make final arrangements to advertise the state of Florida is making great progress in interesting the people of this state in the idea of placing advertising throughout the north. The following from the Jacksonville Metropolitan shows the results of some of their investigations.

Members of the "Florida First" Commission are veterans in the art of publicity. With the object in view of placing the "Florida First" advertising in cities and states where it will do the most good, they sent out letters of inquiry to newspapers throughout the country asking about the condition of business. Florida has so many good things to offer to those seeking health, recreation, investment or place of future abode, that the commission intends to present her claims to the people of prosperous communities only. Experience has demonstrated that in cities and localities where the people are enjoying a season of prosperity it is easy to interest the leisure and wealthy classes in a winter trip to Florida for a period of outdoor life and recreation. In many cases, these people have during the past twelve months, undergone a period of strenuous endeavor and nerve wracking work. The situation is now very much relieved by the era of prosperity which is prevalent in so many sections of the country.

Responses to letters of inquiry disclose a most remarkable condition in the eastern and northern states. Manufacturing is up to a 100 per cent capacity, the crops of the country have been made and exceed in volume and price the records of previous years for some time back. Money is easy all through the states, and a general feeling of confidence and optimism prevails. Most of the big business and manufacturing enterprises, if the country have resumed the payment of regular normal dividends. Orders are in hand that in many cases insure good business for many months to come.

Thousands of people have the time and means to enjoy a season of rest and recreation. The "Florida First" Commission intends to lay before these many thousands the advantages of the Sunshine State, where they can live out of doors every day through the winter months, where they can play golf, tennis, fishing, hunting, automobile and enjoy other healthful pleasures.

The investigations of the "Florida First" Commission as to business conditions at present prevailing have disclosed a most encouraging condition in many sections of the country. Take for instance, Pittsburg and vicinity. The dispatch, in a recent issue published a story in which it says that manufacturing plants are working to the utmost limit, that payrolls are bigger than ever, that present orders will take one year to fill, and that prosperity after the war ends is assured by demands already made. It says that Pittsburg manufacturers are riding the crest of the greatest wave of prosperity ever known in the history of the district that the daily payrolls of the manufacturing plants amount to more than one million dollars a day, and that skilled labor is at a premium.

Of business in general this Pittsburg Dispatch article says: "Every business house in the district is getting its particular quota of the wages paid, and every branch of trade is doing a land office business. The crowds on the streets and in the department stores are larger than ever before at this time of year, and the holiday season approaching promises to be the greatest celebration of the Yuletide ever known in the history of the Pittsburg district."

Sanford on the Wing
A delegation of Sanford men will leave here tomorrow for Gainesville and Hot Springs Lake. A. P. Conolly, R. J. Holly, L. A. Bramley, Schille, Manges and several others will go on the trip.

C. R. Walker and E. T. Wood will leave for the lower east coast to talk up the St. Johns river route for the inland canal. On Monday next a delegation, headed by Messrs. Walker and Woodruff and Conolly will go to Jacksonville at the behest of the engineers of the inland canal.

Arrivals New Sanford House
R. H. Bishop, R. M. Coleman, Jackson, W. J. Carraway, S. J. Carnes, Tampa; Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Rigby, Lawrence, Rigby, Ormond, Geo. Hamilton, John Westcott, Tampa, M. P. Tibbets and wife, Brockton, Mass. R. S. Levy, Newark, N. J. P. Mame, and wife, Seattle, Pa. D. Larkin, New York; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Sarton, Louisville; Anson Hopkins, Dayton; G. W. Kester, Baltimore; J. W. Coppage, Jacksonville; and R. S. Miles, New York.

Improving Sanford House
S. J. Carnes has arrived in the city from Tampa and has a force of men busy papering and painting the interior of the Sanford House. Mr. Carnes expects to install lavatories in every room and place more bath rooms in the hotel and will make the interior as comfortable as possible by the first of January. Meantime he wishes the travelling public to know that he can accommodate them with rooms and everything possible will be done to make them comfortable.

Notice, Royal Arch Masons
At the regular meeting of Monroe Chapter No. 15, Thursday evening, December 9th, the election of officers for the year of 1916 will be a part of the business program. Your attendance is earnestly requested. Oliver J. Miller, Acting High Priest. J. F. Karnatz, Secretary.

Social at East Sanford
There will be a poverty social at the home of W. W. Dresser Friday evening, Dec. 10, admission 5c. Refreshments of coffee and gingerbread. Proceeds will be used for Christmas tree at Moore's Station church. Everybody welcome.

NEW BRIDGE ACROSS ST. JOHNS RIVER AT MONROE

PILING IS BEING DRIVEN AND THE DRAW IS TO BE MADE SOON

The bridge across the St. Johns at Monroe ferry is a fact. The men are busy at work driving the immense piles for the wooden structure that will form the approach from each side of the bridge and this work will be finished by the first of January. This work is being done by the Beazley Contracting Co. of Savannah and the work is in charge of N. W. Shuman.

As soon as the approaches are finished the steel drawbridge will be placed in position by the Virginia Steel and Construction Co., and the bridge will be opened to traffic by February first if possible. While the ferry service at the Monroe road has always been first class in every respect the bridge will be much better and facilitate the crossing at this point. In the times when there are immense crowds going to Daytona Beach this ferry has been crowded for hours and with the new bridge in position they can be handled much quicker and safely.

The bridge is being built for Michael Sholtz and associates and the people here are anxious for the trolley line to be extended from Daytona to Orlando, via Sanford, and this bridge is thought to be the opening wedge for this great work of construction to be carried out. Mr. Sholtz now owns and operates the trolley line in Daytona and Daytona Beach and also owns the new concrete bridge across the Halifax river.

With the new bridge built across the St. Johns river at Monroe it will not be a matter of time before the counties of Volusia and Seminole purchase lands on a new drawbridge across the upper St. Johns river at the Osteen ferry, making a good road all the way to New Smyrna and the beach at Coronado. The summer of 1916 should see many improvements in the roads and bridges leading to the fine beaches along the Atlantic coast and the people of interior Florida need not leave the state to spend a pleasant winter in a few hours they can be at the beach and enjoy old ocean with the added pleasure of a fine trip going and coming.

Lake Will Build
Hon. Forrest Lake, member of the legislature, president of the Seminole Bank, president of the Commercial Club and with several other titles is counted among the progressive citizens of Sanford. Having made his money in Sanford, Mr. Lake believes in spending it in Sanford and his latest move in this direction is the determination to build a beautiful home here in keeping with the developments of the city. Mr. Lake owns one of the finest pieces of property in the city at the corner of Park and Sixth street and will move his present home from the lot and build a fine residence in the city.

Dr. Murphree Here
The many friends and graduates here of the University of Florida were glad to have Dr. Murphree, president of the University here on Sunday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Murphree and Kline Graham and they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Holly while here. Dr. Murphree is one of the foremost educators in the south and is very popular among the students. The University this year has about 350 students and is in a most flourishing condition. Much of the success of the school can be traced to the great organization work of Dr. Murphree and his ability to get the most out of the students. To know Dr. Murphree is to love him and the University is fortunate indeed in having such a man at the head of the state institution.

The situation is now very much relieved by the era of prosperity which is prevalent in so many sections of the country.

Responses to letters of inquiry disclose a most remarkable condition in the eastern and northern states. Manufacturing is up to a 100 per cent capacity, the crops of the country have been made and exceed in volume and price the records of previous years for some time back. Money is easy all through the states, and a general feeling of confidence and optimism prevails. Most of the big business and manufacturing enterprises, if the country have resumed the payment of regular normal dividends. Orders are in hand that in many cases insure good business for many months to come.

Thousands of people have the time and means to enjoy a season of rest and recreation. The "Florida First" Commission intends to lay before these many thousands the advantages of the Sunshine State, where they can live out of doors every day through the winter months, where they can play golf, tennis, fishing, hunting, automobile and enjoy other healthful pleasures.

The investigations of the "Florida First" Commission as to business conditions at present prevailing have disclosed a most encouraging condition in many sections of the country. Take for instance, Pittsburg and vicinity. The dispatch, in a recent issue published a story in which it says that manufacturing plants are working to the utmost limit, that payrolls are bigger than ever, that present orders will take one year to fill, and that prosperity after the war ends is assured by demands already made. It says that Pittsburg manufacturers are riding the crest of the greatest wave of prosperity ever known in the history of the district that the daily payrolls of the manufacturing plants amount to more than one million dollars a day, and that skilled labor is at a premium.

Of business in general this Pittsburg Dispatch article says: "Every business house in the district is getting its particular quota of the wages paid, and every branch of trade is doing a land office business. The crowds on the streets and in the department stores are larger than ever before at this time of year, and the holiday season approaching promises to be the greatest celebration of the Yuletide ever known in the history of the Pittsburg district."
