

ACCENTING... A HOST OF LUXURIES...

Remember how excited you and your wife were when you first looked for a place to live? Remember how important the little things seemed? Was the kitchen right—would the sofa fit—where were your wedding presents going to go? And you settled for less than you wanted. But it was home—and your wife's eyes got a little starry when she planned her first dinner party.

Now you have another decision to make. You want to be sure this time. Sure that your children go to the right schools—play with the right companions. Sure that you will live in the right kind of neighborhood. South Pinecrest Second Addition offers you just this kind of assurance. Houses are well designed, individual. Streets are quiet and safe. No store or shop will be allowed to come to close. There is room to live—room for your children to play and grow.

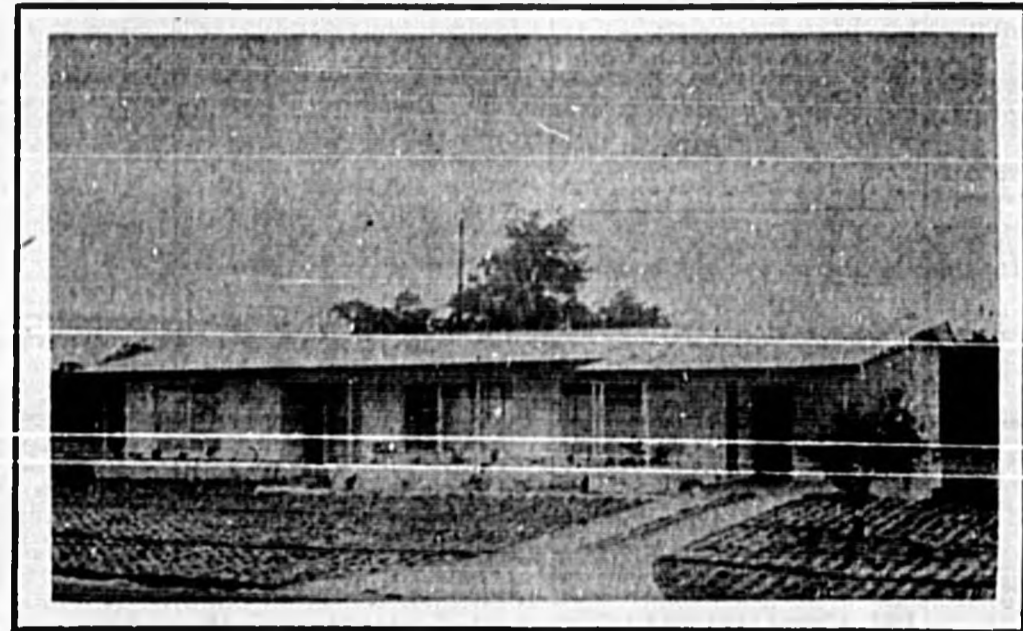

South Pinecrest Second Addition can promise you all of these things and more at a down to earth price. Only South Pinecrest Second Addition completely protects the money and the love you put into your home. Before you Decide see South Pinecrest Second Addition. Possibility Of Bond Issue For Construction Explained By Milwee

Top News In Brief

LONDON 4p — British and French officials warned today the Soviets could build a hydrogen bomb stockpile in Communist China unless the Peiping regime is included in any first-step disarmament proposals. Red China's exclusion from any such pact, they said, could provide Russia with a means of circumventing any East-West agreement on ending nuclear bomb production.

TALLAHASSEE 4p — Gov. LeRoy Collins is expected to issue a call this week for a special session of the Legislature next fall to deal with the reapportionment issue if it is not settled at the session on constitutional revision.

Spices On Ulcer Diets?

By HERMAN N. BUSHNIM, M.D. SPICES is the variety of life. For years now we doctors have been telling those of you with ulcers what you should and should not eat. By and large, I am afraid, these diets have been pretty drab. Now it looks like we have been depriving you unnecessarily of some mighty tasty concoctions. Highly Seasoned Food Most ulcer diets ban spices and highly seasoned foods. Specifically, we advise patients to avoid condiments such as mustard, catchup and chili sauce and accessories like olives, pickles, etc. Take away these items and spices, too, and what food is permitted is likely to taste pretty flat. This has caused many ulcer patients either to ignore their prescribed diets completely or to follow them with great reluctance. Some Not Harmful Recent research, however, indicates that various spices are not harmful to ulcers and can be used in preparing foods even for those of you with active duodenal and gastric ulcers. In an authoritative article, the American Journal of Gastroenterology reports that it is permissible to use allspice, caraway seed, cinnamon, mace, paprika, sage and thyme in preparation of ulcer diets. While I personally do not know of any ulcer patients who have liberally tested this theory, the doctors who conducted the experiment went to great lengths to assure that the diets were by themselves from meals and on an empty stomach will cause distress, of course. But eating them with food in the normal way seems to cause no discomfort. Even more important, the spices I have mentioned apparently do not irritate the healing time of the ulcer crater. These Banned Such things as black pepper, chili pepper, mustard, cloves and nutmeg still are on the "must not eat" list for all of you ulcer patients. The experimenters tried these, too, on the patients tested with their diets and found they caused real discomfort. Before you run out and bring home a bag full of spices, however, better check with your own physician. I have told you what research says you may be able to do. It's up to your own doctor to say whether you can do it. OUTSIGHT AND ANSWER Mrs. S. D.: Does television produce eye strain? Answer: No, not unless it is watched for too long a period of time, or when an uncorrected eye disorder exists.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF A LADY had to elbow her way into a crowded department store and accidentally stepped on the foot of an overdressed, brassy woman who snapped, "Why don't you watch where you're going? Do you think my feet were made for a fool to walk on?" The lady answered quietly, "I hope so for your sake, madam!"

A movie director doing a picture of Blue Ridge mountaineers took his troupe on location and was overjoyed to see a dozen tough, heavily bearded gentls gathered in the village bar. "Just the extras we need!" he chorlled, and hired them all. Their accents, however, turned out to be all wrong. They were a touring House of David bearded baseball team, recruited in Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn! Chauncey Depew deduced laughter as "a safety-valve that permitted one to feel good all over, though showing it principally in one spot!"

Boaters Seek More Education For 'Common Sense Afloat'

All-Star Contest

CHICAGO — A survey by the Outboard Boating Club of America reports boaters are in favor of stricter enforcement of present laws and want more education for "common sense afloat."

As an example of "common sense afloat," Harry Fey of the club cited a case in which a friend called his 38-foot cruiser 15 miles off the coast of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and met a family in a 16-foot runabout.

"The gentleman was just slightly confused," Fey said. "He couldn't see, or for that matter didn't know the direction of land. To add to his confusion, he didn't have a compass."

Fey noted that in one state there is a boat motor limitation of five horsepower.

"If you put a five-horse motor on an eight-foot boat," he said, "you'd swamp it, while with the same motor on an 18-foot boat, you'd spend 10 days traveling five miles."

There is a brighter side to small boating, however. Fey said information from the Bureau of Vital Statistics revealed fewer small boat accidents now than five years ago, even with the increased use.

Detroit will have four representatives, starters Harvey Klemm at shortstop, Al Kalina in right field; Bunning and outfielder Charlie Maxwell.

Three teams placed three players each: second baseman Nellie Fox, pitcher and outfielder Minnie Minoso, who has an All-Star batting average of .306, join from Chicago; first baseman Vic Wertz, Moon and Wynn from Cleveland; third baseman George Kell, catcher Gus Triandos and Loe from Baltimore.

Veteran outfielder Ted Williams, appearing on the squad for the 12th year, and rookie infielder Frank Malone will represent Boston. Shortstop Joe DeMaestri is from Kansas City, and outfielder Roy Sievers from Washington.

24-Year-Old Girl Directing Camp

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A 24-year-old Kansas City girl has become the youngest director of municipal camps in the history of the city.

Blonde Beverly Brewer, who attends graduate school and pumps a black cocker spaniel, will direct the city's 400-acre Camp Lake of the Woods this summer.

Beverly admitted that the responsibility of directing an 11-week program for some 750 enthusiastic campers is bewildering at times.

"You really have to have a vast knowledge of... well... everything from plumbing to astronomy," she said. "Just the other day I learned how to operate the filtering system on the swimming pool. And the day before that I had to roundup five horses that broke through a fence."

Beverly and her staff of 35 counselors, cooks and maintenance men have to deal with more than the run-of-the-mill problems.

In addition to special leadership training programs and regular sessions open to all Kansas City children, the camp offers a unique program for handicapped children. It is the only municipal camp in the country which plans special supervised sessions for the cardiac, cerebral palsy, diabetic and blind.

Most of the children are between the ages of 9 to 15. But one week each summer is set aside for the Golden Age session for the 65 years and older group.

Democracy prevails in all camp activities. Each day the campers meet with their counselors and discuss what they would like to do. In addition to swimming, horseback riding, archery, overnight hikes and cookouts, the children are taught such basic camping skills as building fires, chopping wood, erecting shelters and making furniture.

Likes Canoeing

For years Beverly has been working with groups. While studying for her M. A. in social psychology at the University of Kansas City, she has been graduate adviser and moderator of a group.

Pete Rademacher Training For Title Match With Champ

COLUMBUS, Ga. — Olympic champion Pete Rademacher is now training for his first professional fight, a 10-round title match with heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson Aug. 22.

Rademacher, a former Ft. Belknap, Ga., soldier, opened his training camp at nearby Lake Huston, Ga., and started off five scheduled weeks of conditioning with running, rope skipping and shadow boxing.

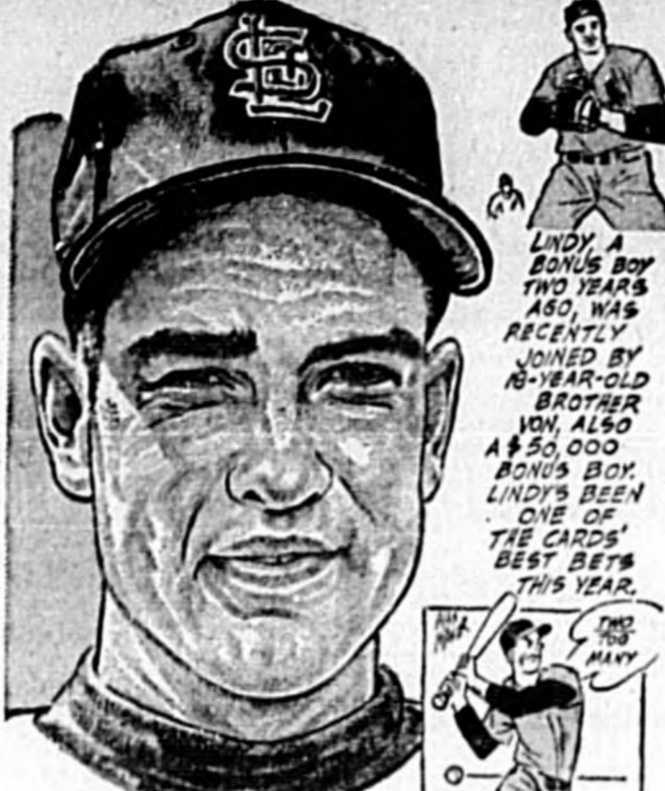

George Chermers, veteran trainer who flew here to work with the amateur heavyweight king, said the 212-pounder "has as good a chance against Patterson as any fighter."

The Seattle, Wash., match, the first ever to pit a heavyweight champion against a fighter making his first professional appearance, is conditional upon Patterson's defeat of Hurricane Jackson in New York July 29.

Patterson also won the Olympic heavyweight championship before turning professional.

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said that the method of selecting the All-Star teams would be discussed at the major league winter meetings as a result of the Cincinnati ballot box stuffing and it seems obvious that there are at least two better systems.

The fan pays the baseball franchise and it would be ideal if he could fairly select the All-Star team. But the way they did it in Cincinnati made old Tammany Hall look like a bunch of amateurs and proved that as of the moment it's a complete farce.

Frick admits that something will have to be done to "tighten it up"—and there are two good ways to come up with better teams.

Let Big Leaguers Do It

The first would be to let the managers choose the All-Star teams but without selecting any of their own team members.

Another method which would be fair and equitable would be to allow each major league to pick an All-Star team—again without being allowed to name anyone from his own team.

At any rate, the Cincinnati landslide proved that the current system is ludicrous. Disproportionate voting would have placed Redjiggs in seven of the eight fielding positions.

There were 500,000 votes from Cincinnati alone in the last week. Of these, 481,882 were for Don Hoak — and you must remember that last year's top choice, Dale Long of the Pirates, won with only 179,744 votes. So Frick stepped in and knocked off three of the Redjiggs, putting Stan Musial, Willie Mays and Hank Aaron in the lineup.

You can't argue with the fact that they belong in the lineup. But, if you were a Cincinnati voter, you could argue over whether Frick has a right to do what he did. Ballots are taken and every other city had the same privilege of unlimited voting.

Points Up Farce

Yet it points up the farcical nature of the fan balloting. Any newspaper or radio station can conduct balloting by applying to the commissioner. Some count the votes religiously. It's no secret that others, buried under an avalanche of ballots, take a sample, weigh the rest and multiply the sample by the poundage involved.

Warren Giles, the National League president, has suggested that each city be given an equal number of official ballots. This would shut out some of the voters, and doesn't seem fair, either.

WHAT IS HAPPENING? When I was in the story, the house has been the Box P ranch in Eastern Valley in frontier Colorado since Joe and Sarah Pardee took him in a sometime, longish kid, seven years back. Will, having the deepest affection for the Pardees, was distressed by the bitterness between Joe and his wife, Sarah, who has lived in a wheel chair since an accident.

One morning Will rode with Joe Pardee and Gene Dillingham, another of Joe's cowhands. When Al Beams, who had challenged Pardee's re-election to Eastern Valley, when Joe Pardee died, killed Beams in a race of speed. Killed by his wounds, the told Beams. "Take care of Kathy Morgan," referring to a young woman who had attracted Joe's interest.

Sarah, taking charge of the ranch, names Beams' young son, who makes an enemy for Will for Gene Dillingham has counted on getting the job. That night, Dillingham picks a fat fight with Will and tells him: "The house has more cowboys than the Box P grass. I'll show you right between the eyes."

CHAPTER 7

ALBEC DODSON was elected the new president of the Eastern Valley Cattlemen's Association. Sarah insisted on going to the meeting.

I carried her to the buggy, and when we got to the schoolhouse, Sarah got inside and sat near the only rocking chair in the building. The men were surprised and disapproving, I think, but they were courteous enough. She was a ranch owner, and there was no way they could keep her out.

I stood beside Sarah's chair, thinking how different this meeting was from the ones I had attended when Joe was alive. He had dominated the association year after year. Meetings were short and well planned. Everyone knew Joe's attitude on all the issues, and they voted his way; but this time, even after Albec Dodson took the chair, there was a lot of wrangling. The meeting broke up without any positive action being taken.

On our way home, Sarah said thoughtfully, "Take a leader out of a small community like this, and all you get is a bunch of little men trying to be big. Albec Dodson has more cows than Joe ever owned, but that doesn't make him enough of a man to fill Joe's boots."

I looked at her, surprised at what she had said. It was the first time I had heard her speak well of Joe since his death. She stared straight ahead, her gloved hands folded on her lap.

She was a brave and beautiful woman, I thought, and if her body had not been broken she'd be on her mare running the ranch herself. But now I was all she had, and this first month as foreman was long enough to show me a few of my own shortcomings.

"Will," Sarah said suddenly, "I don't want you to take the attitude Joe did, I mean, to kill men to hold on to grazing land that we don't own. On the other hand, there's no sense in having a cat-

Fish Get Frustrated Under Strain

SEATTLE, Wash. — The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has learned that fish, like humans, become frustrated when placed under conditions of stress and strain.

The finding was the result of a series of tests made here at the Pacific Salmon Investigations laboratory.

Fish biologists set up a six-foot tank with three chambers connected at the top. One contained fresh water, another brackish water and the third, salt water.

Three fish were placed in the fresh water and soon separated, one fish to a chamber, apparently paying no heed to the salinity content of each chamber.

Then two other fish were introduced, and the three which had voluntarily guarded their homes, even to the extent of pulling out scales of the newcomers. The fourth and fifth, with no place in particular to go, flicked fins, quivered and shook in frustration.

Next the five fish were placed together in a large unpartitioned pool and they quickly lost all signs of fight or frustration and behaved like model children.

When a block of wood was floated on the pool, all the fish headed for the shaded spot.

But in a short time, one strong salmon proved himself "king" of the school and, through a series of der block of wood.

The fish denied the shady spot took to the corners of the pool and "shook all over," the biologists said. They appeared excited and were paler in color than a normal, well-adjusted fish.

Deadheats More Frequent Now

MIAMI — There will be a dead heat for the first time in every 228 horse races, if statistics from Hialeah are typical.

Which is many times more frequent than the days when racing relied on the human eye to decide the close ones. There were only 97 deadheats for win in all of American racing from 1910 through 1948, when the camera first came into general use to photograph horses going under the finish wire.

The total deadheats for, second, third and fourth increased from 20 in 1925 to 115 in 1955 to 203 in 1957. The last year American Racing Manual kept the count was 1951 and there were 371 deadheats.

Although the photo-finish camera now is required equipment for all horse tracks in the United States, it may be of interest that the pictures are not "official"; they are legally recognized as "aids" to the placing judges in making final decisions. There is no ease on record, of course, of the judges arguing against the photograph.

Hialeah was the scene of the first triple dead-heat for place, as well as a dead-heat in an important stake race.

The camera was unable to separate Colony Date, Arthur Pilate and Pincion on February 2, 1952 for second money. The most famous triple dead-heat was for first in the 1944 Carter at Aqueduct when Brownie, Boston and Walt-A-Bit were all even at the wire.

There have been all seven finishes for first in several other major American stake races in recent years: Dart By and Three Rings in the 1950 All-American at Atlantic City; Bryan G. and Arive in the 1951 Questionaire at Jamaica; Suleiman and Wiffenpoof in the 1951 Capitol at Laurel, Cocheise and Post Card in the 1951 Brandywine at Delaware; Fair Game and Pictus in the 1952 Governor at Suffolk; Queen Hopeful and Green Lady in the 1953 Mademoiselle at Washington Park; Page One and Thither in the 1953 Home-bred at Atlantic City (a race which saw dead-heat for fourth also); Hypbias and Candle Wood in the 1953 Princeton at Garden State (latter disqualified); Red Hannigan and Noble Risk in the 1954 Providence at Narragansett; Riverina and Happy Mood in the 1954 Acorn at Belmont; All's Pride and Lad Afor in the 1955 Cup and Saucer at New Woodbine; and Princess Turia and Bayou — both owned by Calumet — in the 1956 Acorn at Belmont.

6 Senators Start Drive To Liberalize Legislation

Local Law Officers Keep Around Clock Watch On Highways

Seminole County law enforcement officers are watching the highways around the clock to prevent, if possible, the loss of life during the 102-hour 4th of July holiday weekend.

Three arrests were made last night, one reckless driver at 9:23 p.m., one for improper passing on a double line at 11:30 p.m., and another for excessive speed at 11:58 p.m., as officers watched traffic closely to prevent highway smashups.

Traffic is relatively quiet with few on the highways, it was reported by Seminole County Sheriff J. L. Hobby.

However, elsewhere in the State there were two deaths—one drowning and one traffic fatality—near the opening of the Independence Day holiday.

A young housewife from Grove City, Ohio, Mrs. Doris Tahl, 23, drowned Wednesday night at New Smyrna Beach less than an hour after she arrived to begin her Florida vacation.

Police said Mrs. Tahl decided to go in for "a quick dip in cool off" after arriving by automobile at the resort city. She dove in from a shallow pier shortly after lifeguards left their stations for the night.

At Jasper, Mrs. Arlene Wills, 38, was knocked down and killed by a car as she attempted to cross busy U.S. Highway 41.

The Florida Safety Council predicted earlier this week that 12 persons would die violent deaths in the state today-seven on the highway, three by drowning and two by miscellaneous causes.

The Highway Patrol, meanwhile, forecast 20 deaths on the state's roads over the long weekend which began at 6 p.m. Wednesday night. All available state troopers were ordered on patrol duty in order to keep the toll down as low as possible.

Local Law Officers Keep Around Clock Watch On Highways

WASHINGTON — Six senators have begun a drive to keep Congress from becoming a super-supreme court by directing the high court on how to interpret the Constitution.

The six are sponsoring an amendment to liberalize legislation, recently approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee, to maintain the confidential nature of FBI reports.

A similar bill has been approved by the House Judiciary Committee.

The amendment was introduced Wednesday by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), who complained that the Senate committee acted too quickly in approving the bill. Cosponsors are Sens. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.), James E. Murray (D-Mont.), Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.) and William Langer (R-N.D.).

The Supreme Court ruled last month that defendants in criminal cases have the right to examine FBI reports of government witnesses against them.

Under both the Senate and House bills, the trial judge would be authorized to examine the pertinent FBI report beforehand to determine what part, if any, need to be shown to the defendant.

3 Top Members Ousted

MOSCOW — Communist Party Leader Nikita Khrushchev can be expected to follow up the smashing victory for his liberalization policy with a major shakeup of the Soviet government, Western observers said today.

The Communist Party Wednesday accused three top members of anti-party activities and ousted them from the party presidium. They were former Premier Georgi Malenkov, former Premier Vyacheslav M. Molotov and Leonid Brezhnev.

But their high jobs in the government, technically distinct from party posts, have not yet been questioned. But it was almost certain they would have to leave the cabinet as well in light of Khrushchev's recent denunciation of "anti-party" activities before the law.

Accused of misdeeds

A 150-word party resolution accused them of the most severe misdeeds of party policy, but there was no suggestion of criminal activities.

In London Western diplomats said Khrushchev had emerged as undisputed master of Russia, bent on removing the last vestiges of "Stalinism" in the party and from Soviet internal and external affairs.

Yugoslav Communist leaders were pleased at dropping of the "old guard" Brezhnev and said the move would strengthen peace in the world. In Poland the Communist Party said the Russian purge would bring Poland and the Soviet Union closer together in political thought.

There was no immediate word of the whereabouts of Molotov, Malenkov or Kaganovich. They have not been seen in public here for more than a week.

Delegate Reports On International Kiwanis Convention

There were four primary features of the Kiwanis International Convention Ed Shinkler, president of the Sanford Kiwanis Club said yesterday as he reported to the local membership.

"I wish that every Kiwanian could have been on hand for this convention," he said as he described the four primary features as the place and its facilities; the entertainment; the speeches; and the election.

Most impressive was the auditorium which was headquarters for the convention, Shinkler told the Sanford Kiwanis Club. "It was memorable to such an extent that one is completely lost when in it," he said. "It's the only building I know of that can hold a football field and have additional room for the spectators, explained the club president. The auditorium will hold 40,000 people, 2,000 on the stage alone.

Of the entertainment program, Shinkler said "It was so diversified that it would be impossible to pick out the best." We saw and heard bands, choruses, singing groups — Miss America and her court — and a Broadway production "Showway To The Stars" which would require a five dollar ticket in New York.

"If you have any question of what Kiwanis or Kiwanis International means," Ed Shinkler said as he spoke of the speeches heard during the convention, "the president's message will clear them up for you." He commented on speeches delivered by Reed Ough, president of Kiwanis International; Carlos Romulo, Philippine Ambassador to the United States, and Vice President Richard Nixon.

The last feature of the convention described briefly by Shinkler was the election of officers for Kiwanis International. Elected President of the international organization was H. Bart Arnold of California.

Guests and visitors hearing Ed Shinkler and his report of the convention included: Vern Herbold, Jim Ed Summerhill, Bud Young, Groves Edmundson and Forrest Breckenridge of the De Land Kiwanis Club; Glenn Wimbush of the U. S. Treasury Department; Ken Crosthwait of Radio Station WIOD; John Andrews, Supervisor Motor Vehicle Department, Tallahassee; Captain Lloyd A. Arthur, Commanding Officer, NAS, Sanford; Bill Knight, Tallahassee; Earl Mann, Orlando; Lou Orwick, Orlando; Elmer H. Pryor; and Marvin P. Crandall.

Ed Shinkler was introduced by Representative Mack N. Cleveland Jr., program chairman for the meeting.

National Guard Reports 100 Pct. Camp Attendance

HIGHER FLYER — The high flying Lockheed X-17 blasts off on its journey into the atmosphere from Cape Canaveral, Fla., the spin rockets on its side give it a stabilizing twirl. The spin rockets, which are set off a few seconds after the launching, the Department of Defense revealed that the X-17 has reached the highest speed ever achieved by an instrumented vehicle. The research mission is being used to probe the heat barrier which would be encountered by long range missiles re-entering the earth's atmosphere from space.

Entomologist Says No Way To Control Blind Mosquitos

The Board of Seminole County Commissioners heard Tuesday that there is no effective way to control the blind mosquitoes that have plagued the community season after season.

Paul G. Hunt, Entomologist with the State Board of Health, told commissioners "If we have had a failure in the state it is on blind mosquitoes."

He explained that "they have built up a resistance and insecticides available now are ineffective to use them would be folly."

The fly problem in Seminole County is widespread and not concentrated, Hunt told the Board of Commissioners. "The sanitary land fill is regarded very high," he said, "and has done more toward controlling the fly than anything else."

The State Board of Health entomologist explained that he had spent two days in the county looking over the fly and mosquito situation here.

"The legislature has appropriated funds to match with local funds in the mosquito control program," Hunt said. For every dollar the county puts up, he said, it will be matched with $1.50.

The problem of mosquito control was taken under advisement by the commission with no action taken on appropriation of funds for the project.

Pilot Dies As Plane Crashes Into Lake

Naval authorities today sought the cause of a crash that killed a dive-bomber pilot whose plane plunged into Lake Kissimmee and sank.

The single-engine, propeller-driven plane was on a "cross country low level navigation flight from Cuba to Ocala, Va.," yesterday, when it unaccountably crashed into the big central Florida lake some 65 miles south of Sanford.

The name of the pilot is being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The flight of skyraider #4 attached to Attack Squadron 23 which left the U.S.S. Intrepid yesterday during an operation in the vicinity of Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Crash of the plane occurred at approximately 12:40 p.m. A spokesman at the Sanford Naval Air Station said "The flight leader was observed in land in the water with no apparent reason. The plane sank immediately without communication."

Two of the planes of the flight group remained at the scene of the crash and notified rescue services at the Sanford Naval Air Station and at Pinecastle Air Force Base. Helicopters from NAS, Sanford and Pinecastle AFB arrived in the vicinity of the crash just prior to one o'clock yesterday.

The three remaining aircraft landed at the Sanford Naval Air Station at 1:36 p.m.

The pilot's body was recovered by a small fishing party and then hoisted aboard a helicopter and brought to NAS, Sanford.

Independence Should Be More Than Memory

Independence is a word. Independence is an idea. Independence can be a singing in the hearts of a free people. Or it can be a memory of great events long ago, a memory dusted off and spoken of once a year on the date of the anniversary.

In America there was a proclamation of Independence. There was a war of independence, a revolution against tyranny. And when the war was over, a huddle of men and women on the eastern fringe of this continent faced a mighty destiny.

That destiny has been magnificently fulfilled. The United States of America has become one of the giants of the earth, a nation great and rich and full of the vigor of a people who rule themselves.

But 1776 was a long time ago; it's getting on toward 200 years ago now. It would be easy to forget what the men of those times were so excited about, what they gave their lives for. It would be easy to forget the centuries of struggle that had gone into the making of the liberties they proclaimed.

To remain great, the United States—which is to say, all its millions of individuals—must do more than recall, each year, the stirring days of 1776 and all that followed. Independence must be more than a word. Independence must be more than an idea. Independence must be a singing in the hearts of a free people.
