Car struck by train

SANFORD — A man was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital this morning after his car was struck by a CSX train at a crossing at Southwest Road and 18th Street. The man, who was identified only as in his 20s, did not appear to be injured seriously, said Florida Highway Patrol Trooper J.T. Watkins.

The accident occurred at about 9:45 a.m. as the man drove west on 18th Street. FHP Sgt. Michael Tindel said the man apparently tried to drive around the crossing guard gate and was struck by the train on the front of the driver's side of the car. The force of the impact pushed the car into the crossing signal, crushing the passenger door on the driver's side and knocking the signal down.

Conductor Al Lopresto said his 88-car northbound train was moving at 35 to 40 m.p.h. and was already braking as it entered the Sanford trainyard.

"I saw him," said Lopresto. "I was already braking."

Watkins said charges are pending.

Family disturbed by grave tampering

and SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writers

Family members of a woman whose two-month-old grave was a target of vandals last week are deeply disturbed by the attempted tampering and may offer a reward in order to find the perpetrators.

The underground grave of Margaret Oglesby in Lakeview cemetery was tampered with and the vault lid damaged. Mrs. Oglesby was 87 when she died in December.

Thelma Mitchell, one of Mrs. Oglesby's 14 living children, said the family is discussing offering a reward for information about the tampering.

"I haven't heard any more about it lately, but I'll find out more this weekend," Mrs. Mitchell said. Most of her brothers and sisters live in the Sanford area or Palatka.

There have been several grave tamperings reported in the five cemeteries clustered together on 25th Street. Some of the cemeteries are in the city while others are in the county. Both Sanford Police and Seminole County Sheriff's deputies have investigated the vandalism. Mrs. Mitchell said she was called back from a three-day trip to the beach when the grave tampering was discovered. She was so upset over the incident she said, "I thought I'd have a heart attack."

She added that her brother-in-law was so upset over the grave tampering, he has been hospitalized for a possible heart attack or stroke.

Mrs. Mitchell worries that the graves of her husband, a son and grandmother buried in Lakeview cemetery are at risk for tampering.

"Some people don't think there is a devil, but the old devil is out there alright," she said. "The Lord's stronger than the devil though."

Frank Cribbs of Palatka, Mrs. Mitchell's nephew and grandson of Mrs. Oglesby, visited the damaged grave this week.

"It wasn't broken open," he said, "but someone badly damaged the vault top."

He continued, "On Tuesday, a Palatka funeral director and I drove to Sanford to put a new top on the vault. We were in the cemetery from

Study helps fine tune Lake Mary Fire Department

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A study of the Lake Mary Fire Department has concluded. Everyone concerned is anticipating better times ahead.

"The director of public safety used to handle both police and firemen," explained City Manager John Litton. "Then, when we eliminated that post last year, we separated the two departments and hired Bob Stoddard as the city's first paid fire chief."

Prior to that time, Stoddard had served for over 12 years with the city's volunteer firefighters.

"But by establishing a separate department," Stoddard said, "we found there was a serious lack of guidelines for such things as training, documentation of records, vehicle maintenance, and several other matters."

Stoddard said he asked Litton to work with him in formulating new standards for the department. Litton obtained help from Duane Mehl, a retired fire chief from Winter Park.

County workers installed the wrong sign at the southeastern end of County Home Road. The sign should identify the intersection as CR 427, Highway 426, a county road and a state

Writer announces plans to marry Danny Rolling

By The Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — A freelance writer said she and Danny Rolling, who is charged in the August 1990 slayings of five college students, plan to marry.

Sondra London, 45, said she received a letter Wednesday from Rolling proposing marriage. He is serving five life sentences at Florida State Prison for an unrelated string of robberies.

"I had written him making the same suggestion," she said. "Our letters crossed in the mail."

London and Rolling, 38, began corresponding last summer. He has signed a contract with her giving her exclusive rights to any interviews and written material he produces, she says.

Earlier this month, London announced she was in love with Rolling and said she resented published comments by those who suggest she is using him only to make money from his story. She said the two professed their love for one another during their first face-to-face visit at the prison this month near Starke.

London, who has been staying in Jacksonville, said Rolling was speaking to the prison chaplain to arrange a wedding.

FAMU student's killer to join cousin on death row

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Two cousins, both convicted killers, will be reunited on Florida's death row.

There are many similarities in the cases of Richard Tony Robertson, 20, sentenced to the electric chair Tuesday, and his first cousin, Joe Elton Nixon, 23.

Both killed women and each confessed. Their mothers, who are sisters, refused to cooperate with defense lawyers. Their attorneys, both faced with overwhelming evidence, told jurors in opening statements that their clients were guilty, hoping to gain credibility for mercy pleas during sentencing.

In early police reports, Robertson even identified himself as "Tony Nixon."

Robertson was convicted of the August 1991 slaying of Florida A&M University student Carmela Fuce, 18, of Fort Lauderdale in her apartment near the Tallahassee campus. She was bound, gagged and strangled.

His lawyer, James Banks, called it a case of "bizarre deja vu."

Nixon was condemned for the 1984 slaying of Jeanne Brickner, a victim he selected randomly from a shopping mall parking lot in Tallahassee. Nixon took her to a wooded area, tied her to pine trees with jumper cables she had offered to loan him and burned her alive.

Unlike his cousin, however, Robertson asked for his death sentence during the penalty phase of his trial Jan. 25. The jury recommended that sentence on an 11-1 vote.

"If you don't kill me, I'll blow up the next time," Robertson said. "I'm scared to death. If I live any longer, I'll kill myself. So, please, let's call it justice. Take me just like I took Carmela."

His death appeal gutted Banks' strategy to save his life. "I sat there and watched this kid commit suicide 20 feet in front of me and there was nothing I could do," Banks said.

Testimony ends in carjack trial involving 2 murders

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — A 12-member jury began deliberating Wednesday whether three youths who admitted stealing two vehicles and executing two young men were guilty of violating a new federal law on armed carjacking involving violence.

Jurors adjourned less than 30 minutes after getting the case at 4:45 p.m., and will resume deliberations Thursday morning.

Defense lawyers didn't dispute the crimes, but contended that their clients were wrongly tried in federal court. The three defendants, facing life in federal prison, later will be tried on murder charges in state court, where convictions could mean the death penalty.

Federal prosecutors, trying the first carjacking case involving murder, told the jury that the defendants violated all the elements in the law adopted last October — a motor vehicle was willfully stolen by force by attackers using firearms.

Defense lawyers say this is "just a robbery, just grand theft auto," Assistant U.S. Attorney Randy Gold said in his closing argument. "But the government has proved a carjacking, a conspiracy, and the use of a gun."

Defense lawyer William Sheaffer said his 19-year-old client, admitted triggerman Jermaine Foster, "may be guilty of first-degree murder and will stand trial for that." But, said Sheaffer, Foster isn't guilty of carjacking under federal law.

Jurors got the case after less than five days of testimony. The other defendants, who also admitted roles in the execution-style slayings in a Central Florida pasture Nov. 29, were Gerard Booker, 22, and Alf Catholic, 21.

The defendants tried to convince a jury that car theft was only an afterthought to robbery.

The difference was crucial: life in federal prison without parole on guilty verdicts, compared to much lighter sentences if jurors decided not to apply a major section of the new statute adopted in October.

The charges are one count of conspiracy and two counts each of using a weapon during a felony, and car theft resulting in death.

Prosecutors stressed that all of the victims were targeted specifically for their vehicles.

The shooting victims — Anthony Clifton, 20, and Anthony Faiella, 17, and a third youth who survived, Michael Rentas, 20 — were ordered to remove all their clothes and lie face down on the ground. They were then shot in the back of the head.

The attackers then drove off in Faiella's Nissan Pathfinder, a four-wheel-drive vehicle. They abandoned a red pickup, which investigators said they had stolen earlier, because it had mechanical problems.

Rentas, wounded in a hand he had placed over his head, testified Tuesday against his attackers.

"I picked them up in my arms," Rentas told the jury, referring to his friends. "I didn't want to believe it..."

Clifton's girlfriend, Tammy George, 26, survived because she is black and the black attackers didn't want to kill a "sister," Ma. George told the jury. The victims were all white.

A fourth defendant, 17-year-old Leondre Henderson, pleaded guilty earlier and testified against the other three. Henderson also faced a life sentence in federal prison, but state prosecutors agreed not to seek the death penalty when he is sentenced in circuit court.

Henderson testified that a daylong robbery spree on Thanksgiving weekend began with a drug rip-off in Auburndale and ended with the killings 70 miles away in the Kissimmee-St. Cloud area.

"Wan't nothin' but a couple of seconds," Henderson said of the killings. "All of us was just watching," he said, stressing that Foster did all the shooting although he, Booker and Catholic also were armed.

Defense lawyers attempted to show that the first vehicle had been stolen as part of the robbery of three youths selling drugs out of their territory, and that the second vehicle was taken in the robbery of cash and jewelry, followed by the shooting of Clifton, Faiella and Rentas.

The royal treatment

Youth group rewarded for volunteer services

SANFORD — The Sanford Church of Christ Youth Group recently were royalty of the evening. The group rented a limousine, with the help of their church friends, and had a night out on the town as a reward for all their volunteer services.

The group has helped with the homeless in Orlando, along with Concord Street Church of Christ. Here they supplied the homeless with clothing, warm blankets etc. which were donated by the local church.

Also, some of the youth traveled to Jamaica the past summer where they did mission work with the minister, Tony Black, his wife, Pat, and Dave Wenner, youth director and deacon, and his wife, Susan.

The youth have also participated in the Adopt-A-Road program, having adopted West 25th Street to help keep clean. Last year, they sponsored a lifewalk to help benefit an adoption agency Christian Families Services and Accept Pregnancy Center.

UPS' good-neighbor policy questioned

DEAR ABBY: I would like to alert your readers to a routine, but undisclosed policy of the United Parcel Service (UPS).

I was told by a UPS representative that the company's policy is to leave a parcel with a "neighbor" if the individual to whom the parcel is addressed is not at home.

Does UPS realize that a "neighbor" may be a total stranger, thief or crook who has no interest in seeing that the package reaches the rightful party? Should UPS be shirking its responsibility agreed to in the delivery contract to deliver the goods to the addressee? And if UPS has this unwritten policy, shouldn't this policy be made known to the public, who place their trust in the company to perform the service?

I am writing this letter because my husband was the victim of this unwritten policy, and suffered a loss of an irreplaceable sports collector's item of much sentimental value. I was disgruntled to learn that UPS, contrary to its verbal assurance of making three delivery attempts before returning the package to its center, made only one delivery attempt, then left the parcel with a neighbor who was a complete stranger. The parcel was stolen.

This unwritten policy of the UPS is in stark contrast with our experience with the U.S. Postal Service, which appears to retain responsibility for delivery of parcels until other arrangements can be made. Although our loss is irreplaceable, we would gain satisfaction if our mishap can help others to avoid similar problems.

Until UPS changes its unwritten policy, sign us...

CONVERTS TO THE U.S. POSTAL SYSTEM
DEAR CONVERT: What an eye-opener! My office checked the above with a supervisor of UPS, who said the policy is that drivers will attempt to deliver the package. If no one is at home and they see a neighbor, they will ask the neighbor to sign for it.

However, if no neighbors can be found, UPS will make three attempts to deliver the package.

After that, an "undeliverable" notice is left, together with a request that the addressee call UPS when ready to accept the delivery.

DEAR ABBY: My husband will argue about anything. Here's the latest: We had a coupon that was marked "Expires 1/15/93."

I took that to mean that at the stroke of midnight on 1/15/93, the coupon would have read "Good through 1/15/93."

I called the merchant in question on 1/15/93 and persuaded him to honor the coupon, even though it was worded as if it had expired. My husband ridiculed my worry that the coupon had expired, and he belittled my accomplishment in talking the merchant into accepting it.

Your comments, please.

SALLY

DEAR SALLY: I took it to mean the coupon expired (meaning dead, kaput, worthless, flni) on the very last minute of 1/15/93 — therefore, the coupon was usable until 1/16/93.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I will be married 50 years this September and our children want to give us a big party.

Here's our problem: I was 3 1/2 months pregnant when we were married. What do you think we should do? Should we tell our children we haven't been married for 50 years? Then they will know that Mom and Dad didn't practice what they preached.

I'm sure we're not the first couple this has happened to. However, our first child was loved and wanted from the moment she was conceived.

Liquid antacids help to relieve reflux

DEAR DR. GOTT: A friend of mine has a condition referred to as reflux...

DEAR READER: You may safely continue electrolysis treatments...

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

to the skin as a treatment for acne. (It is not a depilatory.)

DEAR READER: Reflux, marked by indigestion and heartburn, is caused by stomach acid that backwashes up into the esophagus...

As a next step, your friend should try using over-the-counter liquid antacids...

If these measures fail, she'll have to see a gastroenterologist for further testing...

Because hiatal hernia is a common cause of reflux, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Hiatal Hernia..."

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm pregnant and have two concerns. First, can I continue electrolysis treatments to remove hair on my abdomen?

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

As I am a founding father of the Allurophile Society, the cliché I dislike the most is "There's more than one way to skin a cat..."

Take today's, for example. How would you plan the play in three no-trump, West leading the heart seven and East putting in the 10?

South's opening bid of two no-trump showed a good 20 to 22 points, in the modern style. Opening with a one-bid when you hold a balanced 21 points is dangerous...

Three declarers played the contract. The first won trick one with the heart king and immediately finessed the club queen. However, East won with the king and returned his last heart: two down.

The second declarer saw that if the club finesse was working, he didn't need it. After winning the first trick, he led the club queen (to tempt a cover) but put up dummy's ace when West played low.

The third declarer used the Rule of 11. Subtracting the number of the card led (seven) from 11, he knew there were four cards higher than the seven in the other three hands. And when East played the 10, declarer could see all of them. Therefore, West had several heart tricks ready to run if East got on play.

The moral is: Paws, (sic!) at trick one.
