Deanna Is Free Of DUI Charge

The cloud of controversy surrounding Miss Florida Deanna Pitman's participation in the Miss America Pageant next month has been lifted with a Seminole County judge's dismissal of drunken driving charges against her.

County Judge Alan A. Dickey accepted Miss Pitman's pleas of guilty to charges of careless driving, driving without a valid driver's license and improper display of a tag and sentenced her Tuesday to 40 hours of community service to be performed within six months.

Dickey also accepted the state's recommendation that the charge of driving under the influence (DUI) be dismissed due to the fact prosecutors said they had insufficient evidence to support the charge. However, Miss Pitman's driving privileges have been suspended for three months because of her refusal to take a breathalyzer test, Dickey said.

"I'm very concerned about your driving record," Dickey told the 22-year-old Miss Pitman. "In your emotional state you had no business operating a motor vehicle," the judge said referring to Miss Pitman's state of being emotionally upset over an argument with her boyfriend just prior to the accident on July 16.

Following Dickey's decision, Miss Pitman was quickly ushered from the courtroom by her father, followed immediately by family members and friends.

"The whole thing is behind me now," said Miss Pitman at her home today. "I want to keep as busy as I can."

Miss Pitman admitted that in an interview today she has a driving problem as evidenced in her past record of speeding offenses and a license suspension but added that she plans to work hard to correct the problem.

"I'm getting ready to run 2 1/2 miles today and then I'm going to Nautilus for a little weight training," the Miss America contender said, adding that she is now turning her full attention to the Sept. 3-11 pageant in Atlantic City, N.J.

In the upcoming weeks, Miss Pitman says she plans to attend numerous promotional events, practice with a drama coach in Miami, shop in South Carolina and attend dance and choreography classes in New York City before heading to the pageant.

When asked if she still thinks she will be crowned the next Miss America, Miss Pitman said confidently, "Sure."

The controversy began when Miss Pitman, of 6 Myrtle St., Apopka, the former Miss Sanford and reigning Miss Florida, was arrested following a single-car crash near Altamonte Springs on July 16.

She was charged with DUI (alcoholic beverages), careless driving, driving without a valid license and having an improperly displayed license plate after her car veered off the roadway along Spring Valley Drive and destroyed a pillar mailbox, according to the Florida Highway Patrol Trooper Gerald R. Caves.

Judge Dickey agreed with prosecutors that Caves had cause to arrest Miss Pitman on DUI charges "and would have been derelict in his duties if he had not" after smelling the odor of liquor on Miss Pitman's breath at the accident scene and because of her emotional distress.

However, following testimony by Sara Irrgang, assistant county medical examiner, that a blood test taken from Miss Pitman about 3 1/2 hours after her arrest showed her to have a blood-alcohol level of 0.124, her level at the time of the accident was "probably 0.05 or below which is within the legal limits."

A person whose blood-alcohol level is 0.1 or higher is considered legally drunk.

While Miss Pitman reportedly told Caves she had not been drinking prior to the accident, her boyfriend, Kenneth Kirchman, 47, of 104 Spring Lake Lane, testified he and Miss Pitman had gone to dinner that evening, and that "Deanna drank no more than one, two or three glasses" of wine with her meal. He added that she did not appear to be drunk when they left the restaurant.

Upon returning to Kirchman's home, Kirchman said he and Miss Pitman argued and that she left his home "upset."

A short time later, while driving along Spring Valley Road, Miss Pitman's Datsun 280Z left the roadway and struck the pillar mailbox, owned by Ted Jones of 900 Spring Valley Road.

Caves, who responded to the accident, said he determined Miss Pitman was the driver of the vehicle in the accident and that he "smelled the odor of alcohol" on her.

Caves said he administered four roadside sobriety tests at the accident scene. He testified Miss Pitman failed the tests. Later, at the Seminole County jail, Caves administered the tests to Miss Pitman again while being filmed on video tape. That tape, played as evidence in

Accused Swindler Repays Christensen

Having been swindled out of $67,000 last November while buying two Mercedes-Benz automobiles, Seminole County Commissioner Barbara Christensen today said she is "so excited" that the man charged with defrauding her is "now paying me back."

Altamonte Springs finance broker Marc C. Bennett, charged with defrauding Ms. Christensen by never delivering the cars he promised her, has deposited $15,000 into a special trust fund and is expected to deposit the remaining $52,000 within 30 to 60 days.

"He (Bennett) has been working on some deals in Europe to raise the money and this $15,000 which was deposited in a high-interest account and will be dispersed to me through a court order was loaned to him by friends," Ms. Christensen said.

"His lawyer says they will hopefully add another $24,000 to that next week because Mr. Bennett is hoping to sell his home and they have a buyer for it. He and his family will stay in the area, though. They have a condominium here."

Also, Bennett was ordered freed Tuesday on his own recognizance until he is to appear in court to face criminal charges stemming from the incident. He was arrested in June on charges of grand theft, acting as an importer without a license, failing to register as a motor vehicle dealer and misleading solicitation.

In order to raise the money needed to repay Ms. Christensen, Bennett was allowed to leave the country three times to continue working on what he called multi-million dollar business deals in Europe. Under Tuesday's order, Bennett will still be permitted to travel abroad as long as prosecutors are informed in advance of the departure and return times and that he maintains communications with the State Attorney's office while out of the country.

DONALD WILLSON

D.W. Willson, Ex-Mayor, Dies

Former Casselberry Mayor Donald William Willson, 74, of 301 Lake Triplet Dr., Casselberry, died Monday at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford. Born in New York, he moved to Casselberry in 1951 from Syracuse, N.Y.

Mr. Willson served two terms as mayor and municipal judge of Casselberry and two terms as councilman. The last term was 1977-78, but he was appointed in December, 1978 to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of Charles Glascock. He also served on the charter committee and city road board.

He was a retired real estate salesman and a former builder having built several homes, stores and office buildings during his early days in the city. Prior to coming to Central Florida, he worked as a sales manager for a large manufacturing company in New York. Mr. Willson operated the Casselberry post office when it was still a contract station.

Formerly active in Republican politics, he was one of the first party members to run for county office in Seminole. He was a candidate for tax assessor in 1968, but lost to S. O. Dorniney.

He is survived by his wife, Hazel; a son, William, Casselberry; two sisters; and two grandchildren.

There will be no funeral services. Baldwin-Fairchild Funeral Home, Altamonte Springs, is in charge of arrangements. See a complete obituary on page 10A.

Longwood Joins Utility Service Discount Fight

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

The City of Longwood has become the second Seminole County city to officially go on record opposing a Florida Power Corporation attempt to abolish its Municipal Service Rates.

Under the Municipal Service Rate schedule, Florida Power gives various cities a discount of between 10 and 15 percent on utility bills for items such as street and traffic lighting if the various charges are consolidated into one bill. The single bill concept is less costly for the cities to pay and less costly for Florida Power Corporation to administer.

Last year, the City of Longwood saved about $10,000 in electricity rates under the Municipal Rate concept.

At Monday's commission meeting, the board unanimously adopted a resolution to oppose Florida Power Corporation's request to the Public Service Commission to abolish the rate. Last week, the City of Casselberry led an expected charge by other Seminole County municipalities by adopting a similar resolution that was forwarded to the Public Service Commission and the Florida League of Cities.

Florida Power is contending it is receiving complaints from cities that do not have a Municipal Rate schedule agreement with the utility.

Commissioner Russell Grant said it isn't Longwood's fault that other cities are paying more.

"If they didn't know enough to look out for their own interest and save themselves some money, well it's not our problem," he said.

In a related money-saving matter, the commission appointed City Administrator David Chacey as Longwood's official representative to a committee of Seminole County municipalities that are tackling a double taxation issue with the county.

A recent study released by consultants Kelton & Associates of DeLand identified areas of double taxation in Seminole County's budget totaling $2.4 million. The report says that city taxpayers are dishonoring that amount annually in county property taxes from which they receive no real or substantial benefit.

The committee of city representatives is to meet with county officials to discuss areas of contended double taxation such as police and fire protection.

The commission also moved to add one more step in its legislative process before placing an ordinance on its agenda for a public hearing.

Prior to Monday's meeting, the commission had been placing ordinances on weekly agendas for first approval and then holding a public hearing.

At the request of several residents who complained there wasn't enough advance notice of public hearings, the board moved to place ordinances on weekly agendas for initial discussion and then hold two public hearings on proposed ordinances prior to voting on them.

Ciuzio Abscam Jury Still Deliberating

A Washington jury is today deliberating the fate of Eugene Ciuzio, a Longwood businessman accused of conspiracy to bribe former U. S. Rep. Richard Kelly in the Abscam case.

U.S. District Judge William Bryant gave jurors the case against Ciuzio and Smithtown, N.Y., accountant Stanley Weisz Tuesday afternoon.

They were accused of being links in a conspiracy to get Kelly to accept a $25,000 bribe from FBI agents. The agents posed as Arab businessmen seeking congressional help for gaining political asylum in the United States.

At their first trial in 1981, Ciuzio and Weisz were convicted along with Kelly. The former congressman's conviction was later overturned.

Bryant granted the other two defendants a new trial, saying they should have been tried separately from the start. Closing arguments by both sides were completed Monday.

Weisz' lawyer, Michael Dennis, conceded that his client and Ciuzio were trying to "con" the FBI and its undercover operative, Melvin Weinberg, by asking $50,000 to produce Kelly at a bribe meeting while intending not to share it with him.

"But that is not what is charged in this indictment," he told the jury.

Despite Ciuzio's and Weisz' attempts to keep Kelly out of the bribe plot, Dennis argued, the principal FBI agent and Weinberg "were determined to bribe Kelly and to capture it on videotape."

A government tape showed Kelly stuffing $25,000 in his coat pocket. "Ciuzio wanted the money for himself," Dennis contended, and "neither Ciuzio nor Weisz knew that Kelly had the money" eventually given him by the FBI agent.

"The only ones who did conspire to and who did bribe Kelly were the prosecution witnesses (Weinberg and the FBI agent), and consider where they'd be if they were not operating as undercover agents," he asked the jury. "They'd be in the dock."

Prosecutor Stephen Spivack rebutted defense claims that Ciuzio was unaware of Kelly's involvement, arguing that the defendant simply didn't want to expose the congressman to anyone else in the plot and lose any future bribe proceeds.

Kelly was brought to the phony Arab businessmen on the pretext of getting investments in their districts—and cash—in exchange for legislative favors.

Among the spectators Monday was former New Jersey Sen. Harrison Williams, who was convicted in Abscam and resigned from the Senate rather than face expulsion.

Suit Against Officials Heard

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

The civil court trial of Seminole County commissioners, who denied a zoning variance to a Casselberry real estate broker in 1977, continued today in U.S. District Court in Orlando.

The suit, filed in 1977 by Arthur Lee Seligman, owner of Cross County Realty, Inc., in Casselberry, claims the commissioners as individuals are liable for his loss of $94,000 on property he purchased and then returned to sellers in the Spring Hammock area in 1977.

Named in the suit, which seeks the $94,000 and legal fees, are present Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff and former commissioners Richard Williams, Robert French, John Kimbrough and Harry Kwiatowski and arbor inspector Irvin Kaufman.

The commissioners denied a zoning variance to Seligman in 1977 because he refused to use the property for agricultural uses for five years. Aldo Icardi, Seligman's attorney said the five-year clause was removed from county ordinances in 1976.

Icardi said Seligman wanted to raise horses and plant a garden on the property but still did not qualify for the exemption because under the agricultural designation the property must be used for commercial purposes. Seligman claims the commissioners violated his civil rights in refusing to grant him the variance, thereby stopping him from developing or selling the 32-acre tract near Longwood.

Howard Marsee, representing the county officials, argued that Seligman did not meet qualifications to exempt him from the ordinance which prohibited tree clearing on the property near Spring Hammock.

The Spring Hammock area has been declared an environmentally fragile area and is being considered for state purchase under the state's environmentally endangered lands program.

In denying Seligman's request for an exemption, commissioners said clearing the land would endanger Spring Hammock, a water recharge area for Soldiers Creek, Marsee said.

Following the commission's rejection of his request, Seligman appealed to Seminole Circuit Court. A three-judge panel ordered commissioners to grant Seligman a permit to clear the land. An appeals court judge later upheld that decision.

But by that time, Seligman had returned the property to the sellers and canceled the deal. That action cost him about $94,000, Icardi said.

Marsee said Seligman did not intend to develop the property but filed the suit after he found "he had made a bad investment." Marsee said Seligman wanted the county to pay for his bad investment.

Marsee said the county adopted an arbor ordinance in 1973 to prevent developers from cutting trees six inches or larger in diameter. He said Seligman did not have the proper tax status to qualify to cut the trees.

IN BRIEF

Murderer Goes Calmly To The Electric Chair

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Former policeman Frank Coppola hugged a prison reformer, asked him to "please take care of my children," then was executed in the electric chair as he had requested.

Coppola, 38, convicted of murdering a woman during a robbery, died at 11:27 p.m. EDT Tuesday — about an hour after the U.S. Supreme Court ended a legal battle to block the execution. Death came after a three-minute blast of 2,400 volts.

He was the fifth convict executed since the high court reinstated the death penalty in 1976.

Coppola maintained he was innocent of the April 22, 1978, beating murder of Muriel Hatchell of Newport News, but said he preferred execution to life on death row. He fought all attempts to block the execution and sent a handwritten letter to the Supreme Court urging justices to let him die. He requested a summer execution so his sons, Frank Jr., 14, and Vincent Anthony, 13, would not be tormented by schoolmates.

Much Ado About Tax Bill

BILLINGS, Mont. (UPI) President Reagan, claiming that embracing a federal deficit is like hugging a greased pig, said today his $98.9 billion tax bill would have "very little effect" on most average Americans.

"For all the commotion surrounding the bill, it will have very little effect on the majority of individual taxpayers," Reagan said in a speech prepared for delivery at this western city's 100th birthday celebration.

Making his first public appearance since launching his personal lobbying blitz in behalf of the controversial measure last week, the president said the new money the legislation would bring in is "essential" to protecting next July's tax cut and bringing down the federal deficit.

Mass Murderer Confesses

HOUSTON (UPI) — A psychotic woman-hater, who stalked his 22 young victims on his days off and killed them because he thought they were evil, will not be tried for murder because authorities do not have "a stitch of evidence" beyond his confession.

Coral Eugene Watts, 28, pleaded guilty Tuesday to one charge of burglary with intent to commit murder in return for a sentence of 60 years in prison.

Prosecutors said Watts — believed responsible for as many as nine killings in Houston and up to 13 more in Austin and Galveston, Texas; Detroit, Kalamazoo and Ann Arbor, Mich., and Windsor, Ontario — would not be charged in any of the killings because investigators have no evidence.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — New information about Marilyn Monroe's death has prompted the district attorney's first investigation into whether her drug overdose was self-inflicted and eventually could include an exhumation of her body, officials say.

"For us, this is something of a fresh matter and we're going to look at it in that manner," District Attorney John Van de Kamp said Tuesday after announcing the investigation into Miss Monroe's death Aug. 5, 1962, which was ruled a suicide.

Faces Up To 30 Years In Prison

Sanford Man Guilty In Cocaine Case

It took a federal court jury just 50 minutes to convict a 27-year-old Sanford man of dealing in cocaine Tuesday.

John Justin Brunoehler, address unknown, was convicted in Orlando on two counts of dealing in cocaine following an investigation by the Drug Enforcement Administration that led to his October 16, 1980 arrest. Brunoehler faces a maximum of 30 years in prison and $50,000 in fines.

Brunoehler's conviction came in U.S. District Court in Orlando following testimony by two Jacksonville University students and a government informant who testified that Brunoehler supplied six ounces of cocaine in a $12,000 deal.

MAITLAND MAN INNOCENT

A south Seminole County man, accused of trying to ram police cars during a high-speed chase following a March, 1981 traffic accident, is free today after a Seminole Circuit Court jury found him not guilty of the charges.

James Turner Barnette, 21, of 447 Lake Howell Road, Maitland, walked out of the courtroom a free man following his two-day trial before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor.

The state had charged Barnette with leaving the scene of an accident and aggravated assault in connection with the accident involving a stationwagon at the State Road 436 and Interstate 4 overpass last year. Police and witnesses said they saw a car, driven by a man described as Barnette, hit the stationwagon then leave the scene of the accident with another vehicle in pursuit.

An Altamonte Springs officer, patrolling nearby, noticed the two vehicles and pursued them to determine what had happened, prosecutor Steve Plonick said. According to police, one of the motorists, identified by them as Barnette, attempted to ram police vehicles with his car. Barnette was arrested after his vehicle collided with a utility pole, police said.

WOMEN HELD ON SHOPLIFTING CHARGE

An Orlando woman and a Clermont woman were being held in the Seminole County jail today following their arrests at 6:40 p.m. Monday on charges of shoplifting.

Mary Jane Eutsey, 22, of Orlando, and Patricia Sandeta Taylor, 19, of Clermont were arrested after security personnel at the K-Mart department store, U.S. Highway 71-92, Fern Park, told deputies they saw two women leave the store with merchandise for which they had not paid.

Security officer Robert Herring said he observed one woman place about $23 worth of boy's clothing in her purse while another woman placed about $26 worth of similar items in her handbag. The women also placed about $64 worth of children's clothing in blankets under one of their babies, deputies said. Deputies said they arrested ms. Eutsey and Ms. Taylor on

MAN ARRESTED AT BAR WITH GUN

A 39-year-old Orlando man was being held in the county jail today under $10,000 bond following his arrest at about 6:21 p.m. Monday on charges of improper exhibition of a dangerous weapon, possession of marijuana, and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Charles Maurice Batchelor, of 10214 Acapulco, was arrested after deputies responded to a call at the Circus Circus A Go-Go, U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, concerning a man with a gun in the bar. Upon their arrival, deputies observed a man sitting in a van in the bar parking lot holding a loaded .44-caliber rifle, deputies said.

Deputies arrested Batchelor and after observing what appeared to them to be marijuana and a pipe lying on the van's dashboard, charged him with possession of the illegal drug as well as the firearm-related charges.

VACANT HOME BURGLARIZED

Thieves broke into a vacant Sanford house between 5 p.m. Saturday and 4 p.m. Monday and stole an undetermined amount of property which had been left behind by previous tenants.

Robert Rutledge, 54, of 1001 Laurel Ave., Sanford, who owns the house at 1317 Elm Ave., told police someone entered the vacant house after they broke the bedroom window.

LAWNMOWER LIFTED

A lawnmower, valued at about $170, was stolen from the home of Oscar Lynn Tolbert, 35, of 1110 E. 11th St., at about 9:30 a.m. Monday, police said.

HIGH SCHOOL HIT

Thieves broke into the Seminole High School auto repair shop, teacher's lounge and lunchroom between 5 p.m. Sunday and 6:45 a.m. Monday, damaging and stealing property.

Police said the thieves entered the lounge after forcing the door open and entered the lunchroom after breaking a window. Police are unsure how the thieves got into the auto repair shop.

IT'S A NO NO

Don't even think about parking here! It's not sure whether the fellow who does the parking lot painting for Winn Dixie just stepped away from a big night at the International Parking Lot Painter's Convention. But the message is clear, even for those with double vision. Parking here is a no, no. Herald photographer Tommy Vincent came across the double exposure at the Winn Dixie parking lot on East 1st Street in Sanford.

Broadcasting 'The Truth' To Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the understanding propaganda will be avoided, the House agreed to a plan to set up a government radio station in Florida to broadcast news and other programs to Cuba.

"The concept here is to give the people of Cuba the truth they've been denied for 23 years," Rep. Ed Derwinski, R-Ill., said during debate on the bill Tuesday.

The House passed the measure on a 250-134 vote and sent it to the Senate.

Critics of the plan warned that Cuba probably will attempt to jam the U.S. broadcasts, possibly causing interference with commercial radio stations in this country.

Supporters said the broadcasts would counter the propaganda now directed at the Cuban people by their own government and the Soviet Union.

The planned station would be called "Radio Marti," after famed Cuban patriot Jose Marti, and be located in the Florida Keys.

The bill originally authorized $10 million for fiscal year 1982 and $7.7 million for 1983, but the House voted to eliminate the 1982 amount and cut the 1983 authorization to $7.5 million.

The station would be overseen by the Board for International Broadcasting, which is also responsible for Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty.

Derwinski said the plan was long overdue and would deliver "a message of truth to the people of Cuba."

Rep. Gus Yatron, D-Pa., said the U.S. broadcasts could tell the Cuban people about their government's "military adventurism."

Despite the island nation's troubled economy, the Cuban government is "spending millions of dollars for troops in Angola," Yatron said.

Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, an opponent of the bill, won approval of an amendment directing that the station broadcast only "responsible news ... not propaganda."

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., floor manager for the bill, agreed the broadcasts "should be accurate, be newsworthy, be honest, not pure propaganda."

Fascell said the success of other U.S. broadcast efforts has stemmed from "the fact that people can rely on what we're saying on the air."

Opponents of the bill warned that the Castro government is constructing a powerful 500 kilowatt transmitter that could be used to send jamming signals on whatever frequency the U.S. station uses. They said that could interfere with commercial stations in the United States.

But the bill contains provision to compensate U.S. broadcasters for expenses they incur in overcoming the effects of any Cuban government broadcasts directed at the United States.

Despite Confession, Inmate Won't Be Prosecuted

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Self-proclaimed prison enforcer Johnny Fort will not be prosecuted for confessing that he killed fellow inmate Vertis Graham, although his confession may have helped absolve a third inmate accused of committing the crime, attorneys said.

Fort repeated his confession Tuesday, which he had made last year on national television, after a 12-member jury acquitted inmate Thomas Craig of killing Graham. Fort was brought to testify at the trial, but was never called to the stand because defense attorneys decided not to call any witnesses for Craig.

"You can never know what the jury based its decision on, but the fact that he (Fort) confessed was evidence. That came through in other testimony," said Ted Curtis, one of Craig's attorneys.

State Attorney Eugene Whitworth said that Fort will not be prosecuted because his "confession" is not true.

"We're convinced that we had the right individual, and that Fort could not and did not kill Graham. We did an indepth investigation at the time of that confession, but we were unable to corroborate it," said Whitworth.

"We're convinced now that the statement is untrue," he said of Fort's confession.

Fort told reporters from the television news program "60 Minutes" last year that he worked as an enforcer for prison guards at the Union Correctional Institute. He claimed he killed Graham in 1979 when he confused him with another inmate that prison guards had ordered him to kill.

Larry Turner, Fort's attorney, said that Fort would not be prosecuted because doing so would open the question of whether his client had ever actually served as a prison enforcer.

The burglars pried open vending machines, discharged fire extinguishers outside of the building, vandalized the teacher's lounge and stole an undisclosed amount of property, police said.

GO-CART GRABBED

Someone stole a go-cart, valued at about $114, from the home of Lucille Miller, 41, of 1936 Lake Ave., Sanford, between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. Sunday, police said.

DOBERMAN PINSCHER PILFERED

A 6-month-old Doberman pinscher was stolen from the backyard of an Altamonte Springs man's home between 1:30 a.m. Sunday and Monday.

Owner Ronald Moore, 24, of 124 Marcia Drive, reported the theft of the dog, police said.

WOULD-BE SHOPLIFTER BUMPS CLERK

Police responded to a call at the Dollar General Store, 205 E. First St., Sanford, at 10:56 a.m. today concerning a possible purse snatching, but upon arrival learned a would-be shoplifter had knocked a store clerk down while fleeing the store empty-handed.

Police said the clerk did not appear to be injured and that a nearby businessman was able to copy the license plate number of the getaway vehicle.

STORE MANAGER CHARGED

The manager of Robinson's store jewelry department in the Altamonte Mall is free on $2,500 bond following his arrest Tuesday on charges of dealing in stolen property.

Robert J. Sady, 27, of Orlando, was arrested at the store after Orange County deputies said he pawned three necklaces and a bracelet from the store at the Central Florida Pawn Shop, 1812 S. Orange Blossom Trail, Orlando.

Deputies said the pawned jewelry had been marked by Robinson security officials with invisible ink Aug. 3.

Deputies said Sady may be responsible for pawning more than $30,000 worth of gold and jewelry in Orange County and $35,000 worth of jewelry in Tampa.

SANFORD MAN KNIFED

A 19-year-old Sanford man was treated for knife wounds in his back and buttocks he received while walking home near 13th Street and Olive Avenue at about 11 p.m. Tuesday.

Harry Harvey, of 1606 Pear Ave. told police he was walking toward his home when three men jumped him. One of the men stabbed him in the back and buttocks with a knife, he said.

Air Florida Says Jetliner Caused Crash, Not Pilots

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Air Florida disputes the conclusion of a federal investigative board that the crash of one of its jetliners last January in which 78 people died was entirely the fault of the flight crew.

The National Transportation Safety Board said Tuesday the crash was due to the crew's failure to use the plane's engine anti-ice system before and during takeoff; the decision to depart while the plane had snow and ice on its wings, and the captain's failure to abort takeoff when certain instrument readings showed signs of trouble.

But Air Florida general counsel Robert Silverberg says the company attributes the crash to design problems inherent in the Boeing 737, one of the most popular jets ever built.

The 737 design was a major issue as the board struggled through an all-day hearing before reaching its conclusions.

The board recessed until today, when it will take up about a dozen recommendations to avoid future disasters.

Sources told United Press International there had been internal disagreement among board members on whether the tendency of the 737 aircraft to sharply pitch up when snow or ice adheres to its wings should also be cited as a cause of the crash, along with the crew's mistakes.

Air Florida's Silverberg said that factor should be listed as the sole cause.

"We concluded that the probable cause of the accident was a severe and uncontrollable pitch-up immediately after liftoff of Flight 90, from which recovery was not possible," Silverberg said.

However, the board ultimately backed its staff's recommendations and listed the pitch problem as a contributing factor, along with an unusually long delay — 49 minutes — between the time of the plane's last de-icing and takeoff, and the limited winter flying experience of the flight crew.

Records showed although Capt. Larry Wheaton had 7,000 hours of flying time with the company by May 1980 — above average for Air Florida pilots — only 60 of those hours were on flights requiring an instrument takeoff or landing as opposed to visual flying — an unusually low ratio.

The board concluded the ice and snow buildup on the wings — along with an engine power setting that was far below normal — combined to put the 737 into a deadly stall seven seconds after takeoff. It skimmied a bridge laden with rush-hour commuters from Washington and plunged into the Potomac River, killing 78 people.

Lake Mary To Review Fiscal 1983 Budget

The Lake Mary City Council is scheduled Thursday to thoroughly review the city's proposed 1982-83 budget of $82,563 which calls for a tax rate of $4.35 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

The council will meet at 7 p.m. at City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Road.

The budget includes: general fund, $657,590; federal revenue sharing, $19,408; and water and sewer, $175,565.

The proposed tax rate of $4.35 per $1,000 is the same as that levied this year, but with property assessments by the county property appraiser's office increased an average of 20 percent, property taxes in the city will be going up.

Mayor Walter Sorenson said earlier that the loss of the inventory tax, repealed by the Legislature, will cause the city to lose considerable money this year. Previously, the city received taxes on the inventories of such firms as Stromberg-Carlson and NCR.

Sorenson said anticipated revenue from the sales tax increase — about $68,000 — will take up the slack, however.

He also said that the tax rate will probably be reduced later as budget figures are refined. He said the $4.35 figure has been tentatively set because state law does not permit the proposed rate to be increased.

Sorenson predicted the tax rate will end up at about $4 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

The proposed budget of $82,563 is up from the current year's $792,448, an increase of about $60,000.

The budget proposes a 10 percent across the board pay increase for city employees at a cost of about $27,000.

Woman Sues County

Man Sues Due To Leaks

A Winter Springs man, who reportedly contracted to have a home built in Winter Springs in 1977, has filed suit against the builder seeking in excess of $5,000 damages saying the completed home leaks.

Ronald M. Marini filed suit in Seminole Circuit Court against Delco, Inc., of Orange City claiming that his home, which was completed Aug. 10, 1978, at a total cost of $99,078, began leaking rainwater on Aug. 14, 1978.

Marini says, in his lawsuit, that water leaks into the home through sky lights, the balcony decking, the roof and walls. Numerous complaints to the builder to remedy the situation have gone unanswered, the lawsuit states.

Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. is slated to hear the case concerning the house but no trial date has been set.

In another case, a New Jersey woman, formerly of Longwood, is suing Seminole County seeking damages in excess of $5,000 following an incident on Aug. 9, 1981, in which she says she was injured.

Winifred Hill filed suit with the Seminole Circuit Court this week alleging the county was negligent and careless while adding curbs and widening Sand Lake Road in Seminole county last year. She claims, in her lawsuit, that as a result of the road maintenance, concrete accumulated on the sidewalk adjacent to the road, near Classic Drive, and caused her to fall.

Ms. Hill claims in her lawsuit that as a result of the fall she has incurred medical bills, personal injury and suffered mental anguish. No trial date has been set, although the case is slated to be heard by Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr.

Sanford's Burpee Seed Building Is Coming Down

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

While some old buildings are being restored, one familiar Sanford landmark will bite the dust Saturday when the walls of the old E. Atlee Burpee Co. building are bulldozed down.

Workers have been gutting the building's interior the past week in preparation for the final demolition of the 78-year-old structure at 206 W. First St. The building was purchased earlier this year by Flagship Bank.

Dennis Courson, president of Flagship of Seminole, said there are no definite plans for the future of the site. The old building, Courson said, was in bad repair. The property, which is adjacent to Flagship's downtown bank, will probably be used for landscaping or parking, he added.

The W. Atlee Burpee Co., seed growers, had operated a sales and shipping facility in the building for 30 years until closing down here in June 1981.

After nearly half a century of shipping and selling garden seed to private growers and commercial customers in six southeastern states, Central and South America, from its Sanford facility, Burpee decided to consolidate its business operations. Those customers are now served from Burpee headquarters in Warminster, Pa.

Two Sanford companies involved in the destruction of the building are Tom Gracey Construction Co. and Bobby Barbour, roofing contractor.

Spillane Same In, Out Limelight

MURRELLS INLET, S.C. (UPI) — Shirtless Mickey Spillane sat at the head of his dining room table wearing dirty blue sneakers and smudged white shorts that accentuated his barrel-chested frame.

"I'm the same in public and private," the world famous mystery writer said. "I don't change myself. I couldn't be bothered."

He grabs a paper towel, wipes the perspiration off his face and finishes his glass of beer — Miller Lite, of course.

"I wouldn't do the ads if it meant losing credibility," he says of the humorous and highly successful television commercials Miller uses him in along with sports celebrities and others. "Just check my garbage cans."

Spillane, who has written four of the five all-time top selling crime novels in the world, lives in a modest two-story white frame house at the foot of a dead-end road that runs into the Intracoastal Waterway.

Across the water is Garden City, a small fishing village that is experiencing growing pains like Murrells Inlet.

In his carport is a gleaming white 1956 Jaguar and a red pickup truck, the multi-millionaire's self-proclaimed "Carolina Cadillac," sits in the driveway.

The sports car was a gift from John Wayne when the two men were filming the "Ring of Fear." The Duke watched Spillane walk across the street during the lunch break nearly every day to eye the Jaguar in a showroom window.

Spillane found the car in his driveway several weeks later wrapped with a red ribbon and a note that read "Thanks, Duke." He had done a last-minute rewrite that saved the picture.

His flat-topped haircut and broad chiseled face are a familiar sight in the sleepy coastal community, and Spillane has become Murrells Inlet's top tourist attraction — a title he did not seek but accepts as a price of fame.

"The tourists come over here like you wouldn't believe," he says. "I must have had 40 or 50 yesterday."

He poses for pictures and gives them a small, flip-open ashtray supplied by his beer company.

"I don't consider them fans," he said. "I consider them customers, and customers are your friends."

"I only write when I need the money. I hate to work. What's the sense of making it if you can't spend it."

During the winter months, when the weather is bad, Spillane makes personal appearances across the country, usually three four-day trips a month. But the summertime is spent in "slovenly elegance" at the waterfront home he has lived in for 25 years since moving from New York.

"If you are going to live down at the beach, you are going to be sloppy," he says. "You've got to walk into the house wet feet and sand on them occasionally. How fancy can you live?"

It is a life he relishes and his wife Sherri distastes so much that she has chosen to remain in Hollywood to pursue a movie career. He has not seen her the last three years of their 18-year marriage because she enjoys the night life and glamorous clothes and he'd rather get up at 6 a.m. and go to bed at 10 p.m., he said.

"What are you going to do with money?" he asks rhetorically. "Uncle Sam is where it all goes. I'm not going to pile it up. My kids are self sufficient. I made sure they were that way."

A photographer arrives and Spillane puts on a black T-shirt, apparently bowing to convention. It is the most formal he gets during the interview.

"I've never been a dedicated fisherman," he notes. "If the weather is lousy, I don't go."

Spillane, 64, grew up in Brooklyn, N.Y., and started his writing career with Marvel Comics before progressing to the pulpy, sex-and-violence novels that feature his famed detective, Mike Hammer. Of the some 30 novels he has written, more than 160 million copies have been sold worldwide but only seven of the stories feature Hammer.

"Only Lenin, Tolstoy, Gorki and Jules Verne had had more books published than me," he said. "And they're all dead."

His frequent companions around the house are his son, who is helping him build a beer bar in his front yard; Bandit, a sprightly but tiny Yorkshire terrier; and Dave Gerrity, a neighbor and fellow novelist who writes under the penname of Del Brian.

He can crank out a book in two weeks time but feels no inner need to write.

Mexico Bites

Economic Bullet

The Mexican government recently took a painful and unpopular step in almost doubling prices on basic items used by all its people — but it was a necessary action if Mexico is ever to recover from its financial woes.

Mexicans now will have to pay more for tortillas and their bolillo rolls, gasoline and diesel, home gas and electricity. All these items have been subsidized for years by the federal government — a support that no longer can be afforded.

The Ministry of Commerce has complained that government price supports were depleting Mexico's weakened coffers. The government owes almost $80 billion in foreign debts — bills almost impossible to pay because the country's major oil and agriculture industries are stagnant.

The action had to be taken and now is the opportune time, as President Jose Lopez Portillo's term of office grows to an end. Mexican presidents are limited to serving only one six-year term.

The halting of subsidies is bound to boost an already awesome inflation rate that amounted to 32 percent for the first six months of this year in mainland Mexico and almost 40 percent in Baja California. Inflation could easily reach 60 percent by the end of the year.

The government's recent action comes on top of austerity measures enacted in April. At that time the federal budget was cut by 8 percent and prices and tariffs were boosted to increase revenues by $3 billion.

The new price increases set the cost of tortillas at 10 cents a pound and bolillos at 4 cents each. Electricity rates were raised 30 percent and gas for homes by 18.6 percent. Gasoline jumped from 46 cents to 77 cents for regular and from 77 cents to $1.15 for premium. Diesel went from 19 to 31 cents.

The price increases brought immediate objections from labor and political groups. The Unified Socialist Party blasted the government for enacting a policy favoring "industrialists and merchants" and called on workers to "prepare themselves for actions of struggle against government policy."

Most labor unions had agreed not to seek wage increases last February when the peso was devalued by 45 percent. Now they say that any agreement held with the government has been broken and they will demand emergency wage increases immediately and they will call nationwide strikes if increases are not granted.

Nevertheless, most economists agree that the price increases were necessary — that relieving the government of such subsidies is an important step toward economic recovery.

Other steps that must be taken include taxation of a small percentage of Mexicans who hold tremendous wealth, an end to an overwhelming corruption in government and business and a firm effort to control Mexico's burgeoning birth rate of 3.4 percent.

Action is needed now to solve Mexico's social and economic injustices before the country is hit by the kind of civil instability now being experienced in Central America.

"If Ron doesn't run, how about WATT in '84?"

For those Altamonte Springs residents who have become accustomed to tuning into City Commission meetings on Storer Cable Communications each Tuesday night, do not adjust your set, there's nothing wrong with your picture.

After making their live debut last week, the commission is taking a one-month hiatus from city duties. The board will return to your regularly scheduled programs and regular commission meetings on September 7.

Have no fear, though. The commissioners signed off the last televised meeting by reminding residents that they will all be remaining in Altamonte Springs through the month of August in case any resident has a problem or concern.

The commissioners can be contacted through Altamonte City Hall at 831-5700.

The Longwood City Commission also took a break last week.

Several of the commissioners recently returned from a trip to Chatanooga, Tenn., at the invitation of Hospital Corporation of America. The trip was for the purpose of giving city officials and a few city residents a firsthand look at the type of psychiatric hospital HCA wants to build in Longwood.

HCA cleared its first hurdle two weeks ago by getting approval from the city's Land Planning Agency. Now the matter goes before Longwood residents in the form of a public hearing scheduled for August 16.

If there's any doubt election season fever is beginning to creep up on local candidates for various offices, take a drive down State Highways 434 and 436. The proliferation of campaign posters and signs are already beginning to Further clutter up some already sign-cluttered sections of the two highways.

Things should heat up a bit around Casselberry the first of September.

Firefighter Frank Stone has begun circulating a petition to revive the city's referendum-mandated paramedic program that bit the dust last week. The City Council gave the program the axe in order for the city to meet its maximum property tax rate of $1.12 per $1,000 assessed valuation or lose more than $90,000 in federal revenue and state sales tax monies.

The city learned last week that the program couldn't be funded by a $1.00 per $1,000 special assessment because it would take the city's proposed tax rate over a state-mandate trim billcap prohibiting local governments from increasing their budgets more than 15 percent in one year.

Battle Rages In El Salvador

One of new Secretary of State George Schultz's first official acts has been to send to Congress a semi-annual report on the observation of human rights by the government of El Salvador. The report is required in order for the U.S. to renew military and economic aid to El Salvador, which is struggling under renewed assaults by Marxist guerrillas.

The report, in which the administration cited sufficient progress by the government in reducing human rights abuses, provoked an avalanche of protest from liberals. Columnist Mary McGroarty called the report "a basic statement of Ronald Reagan's foreign policy, which is 'better dead than Red.'" The American Civil Liberties Union and the Americas Watch Committee "regretted" the administration's recertification of El Salvador's eligibility for aid. Sen. Christopher Dodd of Connecticut called it "a sham." Various other congressmen yelped as if in pain.

There was a shade of difference in response to the recertification, however. The Washington Post, while suggesting that the new report "understates the Salvadoran government's accomplishments in rights and reforms," added that it "leaves the administration in a better position to counter the often exaggerated and politicized statements of many critics and to try to enlist popular support on a realistic basis."

In general, the dedicated ideological enemies of the regime in El Salvador, who are also ideological enemies of the Reagan administration, were enraged. But more objective observers supported continuation of aid. They recognize, first, that Eliot Abrams, assistant secretary of state for human rights and humanitarian affairs, is a man of integrity; second, that the report is quite clear that human rights abuses by security forces continue. There is no whitewash here.

Further, it is becoming clear that the romantic illusions about the Salvadoran communists have faded, at least a bit. The filmclips of El Salvador's popular election of March 28, in which 1.5 million people turned out to vote, are difficult to ignore. Salvadorans stood in blocks-long lines, in sweltering heat, ignoring automatic weapons fire by guerrillas trying to scare them away from polling places. To the discomfiture and shock of leftist groups in this country, the voters threw their support to the far-right National Republicans, who dominated the formation of an interim constitutional assembly, although a moderate president, Alvaro Magana, was named. Ordinary Salvadorans, while sick of violence, apparently fear it more from communists than from rightists.

The left's predictable response was to charge that the elections were fraudulent, taking cues from the guerrillas' PR man, Reuben Zamora. But Washington Post reporter John Dingee, after an exhaustive investigation of the voter returns and an interview with Zamora, wrote that there was no evidence of fraud, or of any way ballot stuffing could have been done. Dingee's article was remarkable, in that he is a former fellow of the far-left Institute for Policy Studies.

What is also predictable is the stepped-up violence by the Marxists, in the face of their overwhelming disavowal by the Salvadoran people. It is political bloodshed in its truest form, deliberate, horrific, unrelenting, by longtime communists who, as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations Jean Kirkpatrick has written, rival the fanaticism of the followers of Pol Pot.

It's 'All In The Family' At Laboratory

WASHINGTON — "It's not what you know but who you know" is an old, if ungrammatical, rule of thumb in government career building. It seems to be the operating edict at Los Alamos National Laboratory, the remote, super-secret weapons research facility in New Mexico.

While 45 workers were laid off last April in an economy-dictated reduction-in-force, the director's wife was put on the payroll in an unadvertised position. Relatives of other top officials have also been appointed to lucrative, unadvertised positions.

Here are some of the more outrageous examples of Los Alamos' "all-in-the-family" system:

- Alison Kerr, wife of the facility's director, Donald Kerr, was hired as an $1,800-a-month librarian during the RIF last spring. The job was not advertised. It was given to Mrs. Kerr after she had worked in the same position as a part-time consultant for almost two years.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Jobless Numbers Game

WASHINGTON (NEA) — On the first Friday of each month, a knot of reporters gathers outside the door of the Labor Department's press office.

A few minutes before 8 a.m., a department employee opens that door and begins to hand out one of the most eagerly awaited of the federal government's many economic reports.

It is the "Employment Situation" for the previous month.

At 9 a.m., the reporters begin breaking the news of the latest unemployment rate.

Despite the importance accorded the unemployment figures, few Americans understand exactly what they stand for or how they are obtained. This series will attempt to explain the unemployment numbers game and the problems inherent within it.

The unemployment rate is most simply defined as the percentage of the nation's "work force" that was seeking employment but unable to find it during the previous month.

Arriving at that figure is a long and involved process that begins with a monthly Census Bureau survey of 60,000 American households.

Those households are selected so as to reflect the characteristics of the entire population as determined by the decennial census. Each monthly sample should contain, for example, the same percentages of urban, suburban, rural and smalltown households as does the nation as a whole.

Then a small army of Census Bureau employees fans out to conduct personal interviews at each of those 60,000 addresses. The workers seek to find out who in the household is working, who is not and who has been looking for work but unable to find it.

This information is given to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which uses a complex set of formulas to determine the employment and unemployment rates for the month.

Of the major Western countries, only the United States, Canada and Australia use the survey method to determine their unemployment rates.

Great Britain, France and West Germany are among the many countries that base their unemployment rates either on the number of workers receiving unemployment benefits or the number who have registered with government employment services.

Statisticians with the U.S. government say that the direct household survey is the only feasible method of collecting employment data in this country. That's because the United States does not run a comprehensive employment service as do the European countries and because unemployment compensation is administered by the states using widely differing criteria.

Of course, the size of the employment and unemployment figures depends upon the way in which the "work force" is defined. The federal government defines the work force as the members of the non-institutional, non-farm population over age 16 who were employed or seeking employment during the previous month.

Excluded are the so-called "discouraged workers" who are no longer looking for work because they do not think that jobs exist for them. Many experts argue that these people should be counted because they would be seeking jobs if they thought they could find them.

Once the size of the work force is determined, a count is made of those who looked for jobs but did not find them during the month. These are the unemployed.

But the unemployment figure is still not ready to be released. It first must go through the little-understood process of seasonal adjustment.

In the early 1960s, the Bureau of Labor Statistics recognized that the labor force fluctuates in a regular pattern over the course of a year. For instance, many students join the labor force in May and June but leave in the fall when they return to classes.

Experts at the Bureau of Labor Statistics say that as much as 95 percent of all employment changes uncovered by the household survey may be the result of these seasonal factors rather than the underlying employment situation. It would be impossible to make month-to-month comparisons based on the data if they were not adjusted to reflect these cyclical changes.

Each month's Employment Situation report contains two sets of data, adjusted and unadjusted. The administration in power tends to use which ever set puts things in a better light.

This has never been more evident than in recent months when the Reagan administration alternated between adjusted and unadjusted figures in an attempt to bolster its argument that the recession was not as bad as it seemed.

Disease Awareness Fight

HOUSTON (UPI) — Barbara Dale feels much of the time like hot grease is being poured on her body, but she is not letting that keep her from cheerfully fighting to increase awareness of her little understood disease.

It is called scleroderma. The term means, literally, hardening of the skin, but scleroderma can strike the entire body, causing many kinds of tissue to harden.

When scleroderma strikes internal organs, it can cut off the blood supply and kill, although it most often is a slow crippler. It is incurable.

Mrs. Dale, 47, wife of an oil company lawyer and grandmother of two, has had systemic scleroderma two years. It is the worst kind, a threat to her life, but doctors cannot give her a real prognosis. Some people go into remission.

Doctors do not know what causes the disease, a malfunction in production of the fibrous protein called collagen that holds the body together.

Patients with the disease have too much collagen, hence the hardening. It causes painful hard places on the skin, in the connective tissue. Sometimes the hard spots become big collections of lumps visible on the surface of the skin.

Doctors can treat some symptoms, but they have no effective weapon against the disease itself.

"I know I look fine," Mrs. Dale said. "I feel like somebody poured hot grease over my body. I'm in pain all the time."

Mrs. Dale, who has lived all over the world and had an active life before being stricken, now cannot do the simplest things, such as holding a glass, picking up her grandchildren, driving, shopping or doing needlepoint.

She cannot stand long. She cannot walk long distances. She has dry eyes. She has a dry mouth. Sometimes she has trouble swallowing because of the effect the ailment has on the esophagus.

But she considers herself lucky because some scleroderms are much more crippled.

Mrs. Dale also still can read and — "as my husband reminds me daily" — she can still talk. She uses a speakerphone because she cannot hold the telephone receiver and friend Marion Fischer helps as her "secretary."

"I've willed my body to Baylor, but, by George, they can listen to me while I'm alive," Mrs. Dale said. "I'm hopeful that, by the time I get through with the state of Texas, we won't have to say 'sclerowhat!'"

Ignorance of the disease and the emotional isolation of its victims, whose symptoms often are visible and mysterious to the uninitiated, are Mrs. Dale's prime targets.

Although her husband Jim, her three children and her friends have supported her strongly, she experienced some of that emotional stress.

For a long time, doctors did not know what ailed her. Some wondered if the pain she felt was imaginary. When the diagnosis was made, she was devastated emotionally, then bounced back.

After regaining her emotional equilibrium and giving up on some of the drugs she used to kill the pain because they made her grandchildren look blurry, she went to work reading everything she could find. It wasn't much.

She recently helped organize a meeting of Texans with the disease, reaching them by publishing notices in newspapers and by word of mouth.

Her physician, Dr. Joseph Spindler, said she might expect about 15 to attend. But 134 scleroderma victims came.

displays and expediting administrative actions for the director." In other words, she also hangs pictures.

Despite officials' protestations of innocence, another internal document shows that, at least in the case of the associate administrator's stepdaughter, there was a clear realization that a charge of nepotism might arise. On a memo requesting approval to hire Gilmore, an official added this notation: "Well, I guess we can live with this OK. There certainly is no need for intervention in an official capacity . . . (Director) Kerr should, however, be aware in the event that someone chooses to make an issue out of this."

Footnote: Approximately 840 married couples work at Los Alamos — nearly one-fourth of the facility's 7,000 work force. Officials explain that this is because the laboratory is the main employer in a small, remote community.

Drug Traffickers May Be Starting A Feud In Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — Authorities fear two multiple slayings during the past week, the murders of three Latin women at a suburban home and the execution-style shooting of four Latin men, could be the start of a violent feud between Miami drug traffickers.

Police officials said it is possible the triple slaying Tuesday could have been in retaliation for last Wednesday's drug-related murders. In that slaying, the bodies of four Latin men, aged 25 to 35, were found in a quiet Miami apartment building, each of them bound, gagged, and shot in the head.

The murders of the three women, who were also shot, were probably also drug related, police said. But investigating detectives were giving out few details about the women's deaths, and were cautious in characterizing them as drug-related.

Bermuda Triangle, Humberg

MIAMI (UPI) — Margaret Carson says the Bermuda Triangle isn't responsible for all those people missing south and east of Florida, but Cuba is.

"We're sure the Cubans have other people there that they're not telling us about," says Ms. Carson, coordinator of Operation Retriever an international committee of volunteers trying to locate as many as 60 people who have been lost in the area in recent years.

She doesn't think the mysteries of the so-called "Bermuda Triangle" — an area in the Atlantic Ocean where numerous people have disappeared without a trace — have anything to do with it. She and others in her group firmly believe that most of the missing are in Cuban jails.

The State Department doesn't agree. Government officials say they know of some 20 Americans and six Cuban-born U.S. citizens in Cuba, all jailed at Combinado del Este. None are among the people being sought by Operation Retriever.

Begin: PLO Evacuation Could Start Next Week

United Press International
Prime Minister Menachem Begin held talks today with U.S. envoy Philip Habib to hammer out the final details of a Lebanon peace plan and predicted the evacuation of Palestinian troops from west Beirut could begin next week.

Both Israeli and Lebanese diplomats said the evacuation of Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas trapped in the capital could be completed within two weeks of a final agreement.

Begin's Cabinet conditionally accepted Habib's peace proposals Tuesday as Israeli warplanes bombarded PLO targets in the heart of the embattled capital and Syrian SAM-9 missile positions in the central Bekaa Valley.

Syria agreed Tuesday to accept more than half the PLO fighters, reversing its earlier refusal to accept the guerrillas and making Israel's acceptance of Habib's withdrawal plan much more likely.

Another Bomb In Paris

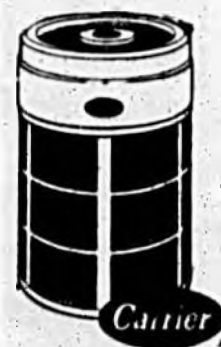

PARIS (UPI) — A bomb exploded today near a building housing Israeli firms in the Champs Elysees district, wounding one passer-by in the fifth anti-Semitic attack in the capital since Israel's invasion of Lebanon.

Parisians from all walks of life, meanwhile, were scheduled to attend memorial services today for the six victims, including two Americans, of Monday's massacre at Goldenberg's restaurant in Paris' Jewish quarter.

How Depression Compares To Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — During the Great Depression of the 1930s, when you fell out of work you bounced off bedrock.

There was no so-called "social safety net" to break your fall. No weekly paychecks, food-stamps, medical payments or childcare allowances to sustain you and your family — just seemingly endless despair.

The decade-long Depression, the worst economic period industrialized America has ever suffered, affected more workers more severely than any other period in United States history.

More than 5,000 banks closed nationwide and more than 12 million people — or nearly 25 percent of all workers — were unemployed. Monthly wages dropped to 60 percent of what they were in 1929 and dividends dropped to 57 percent.

Worldwide, the jobless figures soared to more than 12 million unemployed and this figure did not include those who worked only a few hours a week or the uncoupled masses who had no jobs in Asia and Africa.

Investments plummeted. An investor who had placed $1,000 in General Motors stock in 1929 had lost more than 90 percent of his investment by 1932.

Industry output declined to 50 percent its volume in 1929, steel plants operated at 12 percent capacity and farmers could not sell their goods despite low prices for their food.

In July 1932, the low point of the Depression, farm purchasing power was almost half that of 1929.

"The world price of wheat fell incredibly. In 1930 a bushel of wheat, in terms of gold, sold for the lowest price in 400 years," historian R.R. Palmer wrote.

"Between 1929 and 1932... world production is estimated to have declined by 38 percent and the world's international trade fell by two-thirds. In the U.S., the national income fell from 85 to 37 billion dollars," according to Palmer.

That was the Great Depression. How does it compare with the Recession of 1982, which some experts say may be over?

Economists surveyed by UPI generally agree a depression is a period of low economic activity marked by mass unemployment, "deflation," a decreasing use of resources and a low level of investment.

G.L. Bach, professor of finance at Stanford University and a consultant to the Federal Reserve Board, sees these differences between a recession and a true depression:

"The present situation is very much more mild. The unemployment rate during the Great Depression was 25 percent — 25 percent of all people did not have jobs. Now it's only 9-10 percent. That's an enormous difference."

The output level fell one-third during the Depression, he said, and now it's been even the last year or two.

"A recession is a slowdown in growth but the economy is not sent back very far," Bach said. "During the Depression prices fell farther and faster than now."

"In that depression the government did very little to help. Now the government is offering a lot of help to avoid hardships."

What would it take for the present recessionary economy to become an official depression? Economists say more unemployment, less industrial output and a general collapse of the entire monetary system.

"A lot must happen for the present recession to become a depression," said Robert Hall, economist at the Hoover Institute and chairman of the Business Cycle Dating Committee of the National Bureau of Economic Research which maintains a chronology of U.S. recessions and has a semi-official role deciding when recession begins and ends.

"I don't know exactly what unemployment rate and further reduction in output and employment would be required but they would have to be substantially larger. We are only a small fraction of the way to a depression," Hall said.

An array of economic catastrophes must occur before the world is plunged into another great depression.

"We could never have a depression without the collapse of the monetary system," Bach said. "Banks were all closed in the Great Depression. There was a collapse of the financial arrangement. It's not likely that will happen again. Yet this factor is always essential to have a major depression."

Bach said in a depression there is a serious decline of production and jobs, a downfall in confidence when business at some firms actually stops. But it is unlikely, he said, that government would allow the economic climate to deteriorate as badly as it did five decades ago.

"In the 1930s, the government was not aware of what was going on. Also it was not aware of what it should do. The philosophy of the government was, 'Let the depression run its course; it cleans out inefficient people and is a necessary part of the capitalistic economy.'

"We no longer believe that. We now look for signs, and are worried about them. If we saw real bad things coming, the government would move faster."

Bach said the only thing that could bring about a financial collapse would be some unforeseen international incident.

"I don't know what that might be... a depression could happen if something on the international level scared people so badly that they all ran to get money out of banks and savings and loans," he said. "Something like that could snowball into another 1930s depression, but we have a long, long way to go."

One economic warning sign that troubles economist Paul Samuelson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology is the rising number of bank failures.

"All the thrift institutions, with virtually no exceptions, are underwater," Samuelson said.

"If you started runs at samples of the large and small savings and loans and there wasn't insurance to bail them out, it could still spread like wildfire. We don't have an insurance fund big enough to handle a macro-economic massive run on the banks."

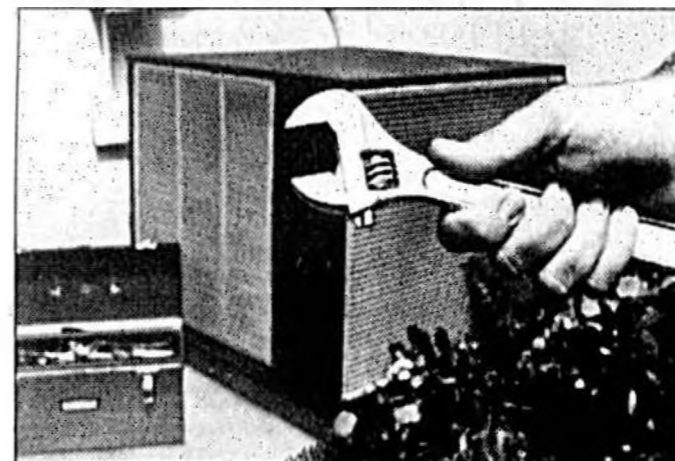

But Samuelson said the present recession is almost over.

"It could become a depression with mortgage foreclosures and bank failings, and I would call that a depression but the likelihood of that is remote."

FPL will actually pay you to conserve electricity four ways:

Our Cooling & Heating Incentive. FPL will pay up to several hundred dollars towards the cost of having an older, inefficient air conditioning system or heat pump replaced with a qualifying high efficiency system.

Our Ceiling Insulation Incentive. FPL will pay up to $300 towards the cost of having ceiling insulation installed.

Our Water Heating Incentive. FPL will pay up to several hundred dollars towards the cost of having an inefficient water heater modified or replaced with a solar water heater, water heating heat pump or heat recovery system.

Our Solar Film Incentive. FPL will pay up to $150 towards the cost of having solar-reflective film installed.

To qualify for the last three incentives, work must first be recommended by an FPL Home Energy Audit.

Will everyone benefit from Watt-Wise incentives? Yes.

These incentives are less costly than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient homes. Every 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity not used is a barrel of oil no one has to pay for. This also helps us postpone the building of expensive power plants. The less oil we use, and the less new building we have to do, the more we can help hold the line on everyone's electric bill.

For more information on how to qualify or to arrange for a Home Energy Audit, send us the coupon or call the Watt-Wise Line at 1-800-432-6563.

A Bible Changed His Life

Atheist's Son Works To Undo 'Error'

HOUSTON (NEA)—No doubt a lot of people remember Bill Murray as he used to be. But not so many may know him as he is. He once conspired to make history of a sort, and he is now trying to atone for his success. His is a decidedly American story, dramatic, familial and somewhat tragic.

Bill Murray, shown at 18 with his mother, Madalyn Murray O'Hair, four years after they made history by taking school prayer to the Supreme Court.

And it's worth the retelling. The story began in 1960 when, according to Murray, his parents decided to separate and divorce. His father is immaterial here. But the mother is most important. She was named Madalyn Murray at the time, later Madalyn Murray O'Hair, and she was to become the foremost atheist in the free world.

Murray says his mother was also a communist. Or at least had communist sympathies. And when the parents separated, she pulled Murray out of a Baltimore school and tried to set up a new life in Russia. Specifically, she is said to have gone to Europe to apply for a Soviet immigration visa.

Murray says the application was denied. But he doubts it was because the mother was undesirable. Instead, he thinks Soviet officials believed that the atheist could better serve the communist cause by remaining in America and as Murray now tells it, working to undermine U.S. laws and institutions.

And she allegedly agreed. Murray says the undermining started the day the mother returned to Baltimore to put him back in school. He was 14. The school was Woodburne Junior High. Murray says that when they walked through the halls to class, his mother stopped to listen to children repeat the Lord's Prayer at their desks.

The mother reportedly became livid. She complained to school authorities that classroom prayer was a violation of the constitutional separation of church and state. The authorities told her it was traditional, and it would continue, and Bill Murray's connection with history was forged.

The mother went to the newspapers. And the television stations. She said that she would not allow her son to be brainwashed by religion in school. She also said she would take the matter to court, if necessary, and eventually the mother and son precipitated one of the great national debates of modern times.

The mother did file suit. And she won the legal side of the argument. In 1963 the Supreme Court ruled, 8-1, that laws requiring the recitation of the Lord's Prayer or Bible verses in public schools were in violation of fundamental law. In effect, the decision cleared the classroom of all religion.

Murray's mother gloried in the victory. And she established an atheist organization in Texas to press other charges against the public display of Christianity. She objected to prayers being said in state legislatures, for instance, and she wanted to remove the phrase "In God We Trust" from coins.

But as the mother prospered in her way, the son says he suffered in his. He dropped out of school, and married at the age of 17. That marriage failed quickly, and Murray took to drinking and the use of drugs. He says he needed every prop; by the time he was 21, he was smoking 60 cigarettes a day.

Murray worked for his mother for a while. Then he went into private industry. He says he became increasingly disenchanted. He says he did not like the communists who were close to his mother; he insists that they funded her activities all along and he was starting to have doubts about atheism.

Those doubts led Murray to his first study of religion. He says he read about Buddhism, and Mohammedanism, and so on, but did not find answers to the questions he was asking. Then he says the revelation came. At 2 a.m. in a West Coast hotel room. He says he woke up with an urge to open a Bible.

That changed his life. He read several chapters and says he was transformed. He says he suddenly realized that what he and his mother had done in the name of freedom was a devastating affront to the name of God. He says he fell on his knees, asked forgiveness and vowed to make amends.

Last year he formally announced that the devil had made him do it. He told reporters he regretted his part in the effort to outlaw school prayer and he would no longer support atheism in any form. Instead, he said he would dedicate himself to Christianity, and the return of public religion.

His mother announced at the same time that the son had lost one of his running lights. But Murray aligned himself with Southern evangelists, and formed a Houston-based foundation that carries his name. He is presently telling his story to church groups and religious gatherings around the country.

He tells them that the mission of his new life is positive. He says he will work for as long as it takes to create the political pressures or legal structures necessary to revoke the 1963 ban on school prayer. And he adds that he prays every day that his mother, too, will see the error of her ways.

Knoxville's World's Fair Has Three Months To Go

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Indians wished a curse on it, Jews threatened to boycott it, a sniper took a potshot at it and some visitors called it a bore.

But the World's Fair, as it heads into the second half of its six-month run, is anticipating a $5 million profit.

Babe Ruth's bat, a 1,000-year-old Peruvian mummy, a piece of the Great Wall of China, a bronze Egyptian God of the Dead and a half-million hot dogs — they all have come together to draw an average of 68,000 visitors daily to the big show on the banks of the Tennessee River.

What is billed as the South's grandest extravaganza ever was controversial long before the hoopla began May 1 with the star-spangled pageantry of a presidential greeting.

The man Ronald Reagan beat — Southerner Jimmy Carter — shook the federal money tree for more than $40 million and state and local governments chipped in an equal amount to convert a down-at-the-heels railroad yard in downtown Knoxville into the 72-acre fairgrounds.

Some senators objected that the World's Fair amounted to little more than an urban renewal project for this Appalachian city of 180,000 and called the energy-themed exposition a boondoggle.

"Anything this large with this many nations — you're going to have a few blips along the way," World's Fair President S.H. "Bo" Roberts said from his plush office that looks out onto the fair's centerpiece — the 266-foot-tall, gold-domed Sun-sphere.

Then Roberts smiled, "But at this point, we're pretty confident of turning a profit."

Officials were not so confident early on when many tourists complained of dull exhibits.

Most of the 22 nations that traveled to Knoxville displayed little more than lighted pictures of energy technology. A large section of the Mexican pavilion, for instance, described in detail how many BTUs a Mexico City power plant generates. "Maybe some engineer could enjoy it. But I'm not especially thrilled," said Wade Vance, of Morganton, N.C., on his way out of the Japanese Pavilion. "Most of this stuff is above my level."

There also was trouble at fair-endorsed tourist housing. Thousands of fair visitors complained of cockroach-infested lodging, unsanitary conditions and surly motel managers who refused to refund rents.

Seven states warned consumers to watch out for "con artists" who promised more in housing ads than they intended to deliver.

The World's Fair housing bureau purged its listings of more than 100 lodgings but problems persist. The Local Better Business Bureau reports receiving about 50 complaints a day.

On the fair site itself, irate leaders of Jewish organizations demanded that promoters publicly deplore Saudi Arabia for handing tourists maps of the Middle East that ignored the existence of Israel.

The maps showed 10 Middle Eastern nations but contained a blank spot for Israel. Fair officials agreed the maps were inaccurate but recognized Saudi Arabia's right to distribute them, which the nation's pavilion managers still do.

American Indians condemned the World's Fair for unwrapping a mummy containing the remains of a 3-year-old child who walked the earth 1,000 years ago. An Indian leader called the unwrapping a sacrilegious sideshow and called down a curse on the Peruvian scientist who conducted the unwrapping.

"There is a disease that people catch when they open these mummies," Andrade said. "It's called valley fever. I causes very high temperatures and you can die from it. I hope this scientist catches valley fever."

Promoters restricted the unwrapping to 450 politicians, dignitaries and fair employees, who lined up to pose for pictures with the tiny skeleton after the white-coated scientist peeled away the mummy's cotton cover.

The fair's closest brush with disaster came when a vandal used a high-powered rifle to shatter a $2,000 window of the Sun-sphere just 20 seconds after a window washer walked away from the gold-dusted pane.

The blast sent fragments of the double-pane window into a sixth-floor restaurant in the lofty fair centerpiece. The window washer was not hurt. Police never caught the sniper.

Despite all the problems, the fair has lured 6.1 million visitors to date and sold 7.2 million tickets. With three months to go, the fair needs to sell just 2.7 million more tickets to turn a $5 million profit.

Credit for the fair's attendance success rests mainly with the highly-acclaimed exhibits of Korea, Egypt and China, which is making its World's Fair debut at the Knoxville exposition.

Those nations mixed displays of their cultural past with exhibits of energy technology. The most popular pavilion — China — holds thousands of art treasures and 22 bricks of the Great Wall, the first chunk of the ancient barrier ever allowed out of the nation.

Promoters who once promised to turn all profits over to charities now say they will pocket a healthy chunk of the surplus. Between 50 to 100 top executives will receive bonuses and severance pay amounting to $1 million, Roberts said.

He said the idea is to encourage the managers to stay on the job until the fair ends.

"It's nothing to be ashamed of," Roberts said. "It takes good people to put on a good World's Fair. We want to keep those people."

Plenty of other people are making money off the exposition. Promoters said the fair has created 20,000 jobs in the Knoxville area, many of them permanent. City officials are hustling developers to convert the fairgrounds into a bustling center for conventions once the fair ends.

Knoxville banking tycoon Jake Butcher and his buddies have taken their cut of the fair's gold. Butcher, a silver-haired multimillionaire and the fair board chairman, figures his bank alone will get about $40 million in deposits generated by the exposition.

No one denies that much of the $110 million cost of developing the fair went to Butcher's associates and pals, including $6.3 million in federal funds that helped build a $8.7 million private parking garage on the fairgrounds.

The developers with ties to Butcher were named to do the work without competitive bidding.

During O'Rourke's training, he received formal instruction in first aid, physical fitness, marksmanship, close combat techniques, Marine Corps history, customs, and courtesy, drill and nuclear, biological and chemical warfare.

Following his leave, O'Rourke will report to Camp Lejeune, N.C. for formal instruction at the infantry training school. There he will study general infantry tactics, weapons, scouting and patrolling, hand to hand combat, map reading, demolitions and camouflage.

Upon completion of infantry training school, O'Rourke will be qualified to supervise the training, routine functioning and tactical employment of a Marine rifle unit. O'Rourke will also be eligible to be sent on to specialized schools to learn additional skills such as underwater swimming, parachute jumping and scouting to aid in specialized reconnaissance missions.

Donna K. Long has enlisted in the Navy and will undergo training to learn how to operate and maintain the flight simulators used to train Navy pilots.

She will go through basic training at the Naval Training Center in Orlando and will begin active duty on June 1, 1983.

THURMAN THOMPSON JR.

Thurman Thompson, Jr., son of Mrs. Luthenia E. Brown of 1117 South Hickory Avenue, Sanford, has enlisted in the United States Marine Corps.

Upon completion of recruit training, Thompson will be home for a 10 day leave before going on for further technical training in a formal Marine Corps school.

Thompson enlisted for four years with a guaranteed assignment in radio communications. Prior to enlisting, Thompson worked for Winn Dixie and will be a senior at Seminole High School this coming year.

Expos Need Raines' Spark To Ignite Sluggish Attack

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

Catalyst — a substance which accelerates a chemical reaction (a spark plug).

Acceleration is something Tim Raines specializes in, and, when the Montreal Expos leftfielder is on the base paths, he usually reacts with a sudden burst toward second base which results in another stolen base.

The ex-Seminole High great has 51 stolen bases to tie Pittsburgh's Omar Moreno (as of Monday) for the National League lead. His batting average has risen to .291.

For his electrifying, all-around play, Raines is the Expos' catalyst. He's the man that must light the spark if they hope to catch the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies.

"I'm feeling great at the plate and on the base paths," Raines said Monday from Montreal. "I'm 100 percent better physically and mentally than I was at the beginning of the year."

Raines, by his standards, got off to a rather slow start after running rampant with 71 steals to lead the league last season and earn him The Sporting News Rookie of the Year Award. But, after the all-star break, Raines has caught fire and is sparking Montreal's surge toward the N.L. East Division Title.

In the seven days of Montreal's last road trip, Raines had one of his finest weeks of the year. For the week Raines hit .438, stole five bases and had a five-hit game Thursday against Philadelphia.

"The rate he has been stealing at has picked up," according to Expo Publicist Richard Griffin. "He had 21 steals after 51 games and after 108 games (two-thirds of the season) he has 51."

Griffin also pointed out how Raines' on base percentage has increased. "In the first 54 games he walked 20 times and hit 284. After 108 games he walked 53 times and was hitting .291."

Only four catchers have been fortunate enough to gun down Raines on stolen base attempts (John Stearns of the Mets, Milt May of the Giants, Tony Pena and Steve Nicosia of the Pirates). He has been picked off by lefthanded pitchers seven times.

Raines said his ability to get on base more has led to his second half turn around.

"I've been laying down a few bunts and swinging the bat like I'm capable of. At the beginning of the season I was being too aggressive, now, I'm hitting the pitch I feel I can hit and seeing the ball a lot better at the plate."

Before Wednesday's games the Expos were in a four-way dog fight for the division crown, five games behind front-running Philadelphia. Montreal will have its chance to cut into that lead as they play the Phillies in a five-game series that begins tonight at Montreal's Olympic Stadium.

"Now that we have the chance, I hope we can get back up there (division lead)," Raines said. "The lineup (with the addition of Joel Youngblood and Doug Flynn) is as solid as it has been in a long time. This is the lineup we feel is going to win it and it should stay this way from here on out."

A major factor in the Expos slow start was the team's performance at home. "We have to start winning at home," Griffin said. "We are under 500 now in home games after being over that mark the last three years in a row. For the remainder of the season we have 31 home games and 23 on the road, so we have a favorable schedule and have a chance to catch up."

Raines biggest concern right now is helping the Expos in their quest for the division title. But, if he continues his torrid hitting binge, the Sanford native believes a batting title is well within reach.

"The way I'm playing now, I feel I could win a batting title. I am a .300 hitter and if I keep getting on base and have a good second half, I have a chance at it," he concluded.

Chris Chambliss, Atlanta Braves' first baseman, holds Tim Raines close to the bag.

Payne Looking For Beds; Soccer, Men's Softball, Boosters Organize

It's not every day one gets a call requesting a bed.

But that's what new Seminole Community College basketball coach Bill Payne wanted when the phone rang Tuesday. It seems Payne has the players and the apartments, but he doesn't have those giant beds to hold this new recruiting class.

I told him he ought to try "Tradio" (Trj-de-o) every morning on WTRR. They could probably help.

Anyway, if you have a bed—small or large—call Payne at 323-1450. Throw in a couple of end tables, too.

Speaking of causes, the Seminole High Boosters Club will have its membership drive at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce on Friday, Aug. 20.

Considering the fantastic season the Fighting Seminoles had last year, the community support wasn't really overwhelming. The boosters would like to get the ball rolling early this fall in case coach Jerry Posey's Tribe comes up with another Five Star Conference championship.

An organizational meeting will be held on Monday in Principal Wayne Epps office at 7:30 p.m. to determine the strategy for Friday's big day.

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

Also Monday at 7:30 p.m., the Sanford Men's Softball Association will have its general membership and organizational meeting at the Sanford Youth Wing of the Recreation Department.

SMSA spokesman Renee Hughes says the league hopes to have two divisions this fall and plans to begin play the Monday after Labor Day.

Registration will be held the next three Saturdays for the Sanford Soccer Club. That's Aug. 14, 21 and 28 at PineCrest Elementary School from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

New players need two recent pictures, a birth certificate and the $35 entry fee.

Past players need the entry fee and two recent pictures. The league is for boys and girls ages 6 to 16.

From the turnout at the Golden

Gloves Boxing District Tournament last winter, it seems that there are still a lot of boxing fans in Sanford.

Dominick Polo, director of boxing for Aloma Productions, is trying to rekindle the interest in hopes of drawing ESPN to the Eddie Graham Sports Stadium.

Boxing was big at the old Orlando Sports Stadium when Sanford's Vic "Taco" Perez and Joey Vincent were knocking each other around. Polo thinks it can be big again.

"The ESPN people told me to put on three fights," said Polo recently. "If I can generate the fan support, they will come in and film the bouts."

Polo's first effort will be Aug. 20. "Slamming Sammy" Horne, a welterweight with a 20-1 mark, will take on speedy William "Teacher" Telfair in the main event. Horne is a veteran of ESPN battles and his lone loss was a close decision in the ESPN Welterweight Tournament.

A good showing will get him another shot on the popular sports programming network. And, a good showing from the Central Florida boxing fans may revive what was once a very popular sport in this area.

Introducing... The Los Angeles Raiders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Meet the Los Angeles Raiders.

The final legal hurdle was cleared Tuesday by the Raiders in their continuing struggle with the National Football League to move from Oakland, Calif., to Los Angeles as the 9th District Court of Appeals denied a request by the league to stay the team's move to Southern California.

But Raiders' General Manager Al Davis said he may have won in the courtroom but the struggle is far from over.

"We realize the harassment, bad faith and unfair dealings on the part of the NFL will continue," Davis said in a statement issued at the team's Santa Rosa, Calif. training camp. "These guys (the NFL) are the most massive media-control and power-hungry group in America."

What they could not win in the courtrooms of the United States they'll now take to the next step and try and bribe Congress to overturn the court system and have the NFL lawyers rewrite the Constitution of the United States.

The decision was handed down by the federal court just two hours after attorneys for both sides made their pitch in an emotional exchange.

During the proceedings, NFL attorney

Patrick Lynch compared the move to the Rosenberg execution and asked the court to intervene.

"I feel as if I'm arguing in the Rosenberg execution," Lynch told the three-member panel, referring to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the first U.S. civilians sentenced to death for espionage. "Do we execute the Raiders while appeals are pending?"

Lynch and Oakland Coliseum attorney Edwin Healy asked the three judges to review the U.S. District Court jury's verdict in Los Angeles in May that the NFL had violated antitrust laws by blocking the Raiders' move to Los Angeles.

Lynch noted the NFL was willing to pay triple damages — under antitrust laws — for any losses sustained by the Los Angeles Coliseum during the season if the team returned to the Bay Area. In contrast he said, the NFL and the city of Oakland faced "irreparable damage — with no provisions for compensation."

In addition to monetary losses, Oakland was losing "a public institution, which the Raiders have become during the last 20 years" there, Lynch said. "They are as much a part of the league's image, of Oakland's image, as cable cars are of San Francisco's."

The Los Angeles jury decided against an NFL rule that requires three-fourths of all team owners to approve a franchise move. The Raiders asserted the rule violated antitrust laws.

Lynch argued the panel should review "several salient issues, the most salient issue being the question... How could we get a fair trial in Los Angeles?"

The Raiders, who are training at their Santa Rosa training camp, play their first home preseason game Aug. 29 against the Green Bay Packers at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Bengals Stick With Anderson

Forrest Gregg intends to stick by a winning formula ... at least for a while.

The Cincinnati Bengals' coach announced Tuesday the starting lineup for Friday night's exhibition game at Kansas City against the Chiefs will be the same one that started in the Super Bowl seven months ago.

But not many of the starters are expected to stick around long.

"We will open with our regulars, then filter in the others as the game progresses," said Gregg. "We have a lot of people to look at."

Ken Anderson will start at quarterback, but most of the quarterbacking will be done by Jack Thompson and Turk Schonert.

Several Bengals may miss the game or see just limited action because of injuries.

No. 1 draft pick Glen Collins, a defensive end, sprained his ankle at practice Monday, punter Pat McNally has tendonitis in his left foot, wide receiver Don Bass has a pulled leg muscle, linebacker Guy Frazier had knee ligament problems, rookie nose tackle Arthur King has a dislocated left wrist and cornerback John Simmons has a dislocated left shoulder.

At Fredonia, N.Y., Buffalo Bills' Coach Chuck Knox has no fewer than 12 injured players to deal with, the most serious being the fractured elbow of running back Roland Hooks.

"Freak little things one after another," Knox said. "Sometimes a guy doesn't even get hit (and is hurt.) Is it something in the air?"

Knox must also contend with the absence of running back Joe Cribbs and wide receiver Jerry Butler — both are holdouts.

At Towson, Md., the Baltimore Colts cut four players while another walked out of camp. Cut were punter Rick Partridge of Utah, wide receiver Jeffrey Postell of Morehouse State, linebacker William Seidel of California (Pa.) State and linebacker Robert Shupryt of New Mexico. All except Partridge, a third-year player who punted for San Diego, were rookie free agents.

Ken Dunek, a tight end from Memphis State who played briefly for Philadelphia, left camp Monday, according to the team.

At Vero Beach, Fla., New Orleans Coach Bum Phillips has sent linebacker Glen Redd, the team's leading tackler as a rookie in 1981, to a Utah eye specialist because of recurring double vision.

"We don't know what the heck is causing it," Phillips said. "We just don't want to take any chances."

At Latrobe, Pa., the Pittsburgh Steelers reduced their training camp roster to 80 players Tuesday by cutting six free agents.

Waived were rookie defensive ends Don Fielder of Kentucky, Don Purifoy of Tulsa and Lester McIntree of Stephen F. Austin, and running backs Paul Longo of Wayne State, Ted Stoneburner of Central Connecticut and Eric Sams of Wisconsin-Superior.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Krider Named Most Valuable For Net Play

JAY KRIDER

Jay Krider, the grandson of the late John Krider, of Sanford, was named Most Valuable Player for the summer season at the Deland Racquet Club. Krider was undefeated in six matches over the summer and has won two major events in the last six months.

Krider was in the advanced intermediate division at the racquet club located in Brandywine.

Orlando Sweeps Twinbill

SAVANNAH, Ga. — The Orlando Twins played with reckless abandon here Tuesday in sweeping a doubleheader from Savannah, 3-2 and 11-0. The Twin-killing pulled Orlando within two games of co-leaders Jacksonville and Columbus in the Southern League's East Division.

A solo homer in the ninth inning by Mark Funderburk was the winning margin in the first game while Chino Cadahia's grand slam was the big show in the night cap. The Twins also got round trippers from Ken Foster and Steve Douglas in the second game.

Orlando is looking to cut into the first place lead as it hosts Jacksonville 7:30 tonight at Tinker Field.

McEnroe Dumps Saviano

TORONTO (UPI) — John McEnroe, back from his longest rest from the tennis tour in four years, was yearning for his old friends — tension, anxiety, and anger.

The world's No. 1 ranked player routinely dumped lightly regarded Nick Saviano, 6-2, 6-1, Tuesday in the first round of the $300,000 Canadian Open.

It was McEnroe's first day back on the job since his loss to Jimmy Connors at the Wimbledon final five weeks ago.

The 23-year-old southpaw said it was nice to be back. That was the problem.

Returning to the tour was only nice, not wonderful and as all-engrossing as he would like it to be.

"If I took a year off (like Bjorn Borg) I think I would end up liking it so much I would end up taking five off," he said.

"This is as long as I have ever taken off and for a while I was able to forget about tennis altogether and really relax," said McEnroe.

"It's nice to get back, but I was not as eager to get back as I would like to be."

McEnroe did indulge in a few of his customary tirades over officiating calls in his match against Saviano, a New Jersey native ranked 81st on the computer.

"It takes a while to adjust," said McEnroe, who attributes the emotional trough he is in, to a rigorous schedule and the job of defending rather than seeking the crown of tennis.

Manic Closer To Wild Card

TAMPA, (UPI) — The Le Manic of Montreal improved its chance for a wild-card berth Tuesday with a 3-0 victory over the Tampa Bay Rowdies in a two-game performance by forward Alan Willey.

The Manic victory was the death knell for the Tampa Bay season, however, as the Rowdies were eliminated from playoff contention for the first time in eight years.

Willey scored career goals 99 and 100 Tuesday night in leading his team to victory. He walked off the field with the game ball as a reward for his efforts.

The game's first goal was at 16:49 by Andrew Parkinson, when a miss-kick by Manic defender Harden Knight landed at his feet and he volleyed the ball past Tampa goalkeeper Jack Brand.

Then Willey went into action with a goal at 73:05 from a corner kick. He also scored the game's final goal at 83:52, teaming with Parkinson and Fran O'Brien to confound the Tampa defense.

A crowd of 7,131 endured constant rain to watch the game, often slowed by the soggy conditions.

"We felt we were in the playoffs before the game started," said Manic coach Eddie Firmani. The victory Tuesday night gives the Manic 140 points and a mathematical chance to make the playoffs.

Tampa coach Al Miller described the game as a continuation of a poor performance by the 11-18 Rowdies this year.

"The confidence is gone and absolutely nobody wants to take responsibility for the ball," Miller said. "The mistakes being made out there are criminal."

Dodgers Sweep Into First; Cardinals Creep Near Top

The St. Louis Cardinals are doing their best to remind everyone there are two mighty close pennant races going on in the National League.

The sudden collapse of the Atlanta Braves in the West — which allowed Los Angeles to take over first place by a half-game Tuesday night — has been more obvious, but the Cardinals very quietly have crept up right to the shoulder of the first-place Philadelphia Phillies in the East.

Following Tuesday's action, in which the Cardinals took the Mets, 7-2, at New York and the Phillies split two games with Pittsburgh, St. Louis was within a half-game of the top.

With David Green and Darrell Porter driving in two runs each and Steve Mura hurling a five-hitter, the Cardinals' triumph was made even easier by their keystone combo of shortstop Ozzie Smith and second baseman Tom Herr.

They turned over five double plays — the most by an NL team this season.

"Herr is the best second baseman I have ever played with," Smith said.

St. Louis scored four runs in the first inning off Randy Jones, who faced only six batters, then twice in the eighth, when Porter drove in Lonnie Smith and Keith Hernandez with a single.

At Philadelphia, Garry Maddox belted a three-run homer and Pete Rose and Mike Schmidt added two-run blasts to power the Phillies to a 9-5 victory, after the Pirates had completed a 9-6 decision, in a game that was suspended the night before in the eighth inning.

Phillies' Manager Pat Corrales saw some encouraging signs in the second game, including seven strong innings from starter Marty Byström, 4-4, who walked none and struck out four.

"The home runs didn't hurt," he said. "We've been looking for them for a while, and we got them tonight when we needed them. Marty threw the ball real well and that's what we need right now."

On the West Coast, the Dodgers' rapid rise to the top was completed when they routed Cincinnati, 11-3, after the Braves lost to San Francisco, 3-2.

National League

"This is one of the most unbelievable moments I've ever encountered in baseball," said Dodger manager Tom Lasorda. "We gained 11 games in 12 days."

At Los Angeles, Pedro Guerrero drove in one run and scored twice and Fernando Valenzuela pitched a six-hitter for the Dodgers. It was the first time since April 8, when Atlanta and Los Angeles were tied with 20 records, that the Dodgers have been in first place.

Valenzuela, 15-8, gave up a run in the first inning and then retired 15 men in a row. The loss went to Tom Seaver, 5-12.

Cubs 5, Expos 3
At Montreal, Junior Kennedy drove in two runs and Jody Davis cracked a double and a triple to help Chicago to its sixth straight victory.

Astros 1, Padres 1
At San Diego, Phil Garner hit a three-run homer in the sixth and Vern Kuble scattered eight hits over 8 2/3 innings to make Houston Manager Bob Lillis' debut successful.

Braves Lose Again

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If there was an award for Pitching Coach of the Year, Don McMahon of the San Francisco Giants would be the top candidate in the National League.

Between them, McMahon and Giants manager Frank Robinson have taken a group of strangers handed them by general manager Tom Haller in spring training and put together what is rapidly shaping up as one of the most solid staffs in the N.L.

Gone from last year's starting rotation are Vida Blue, Doyle Alexander, Ed Whitson, Tom Griffin and Alan Ripley. Haller traded away the whole bunch for such non-household names as Bill Laskey, Albee Hammer, Rene Martin and Rich Gale and resurrected Jim Barr from the scrap heap.

Starting in training camp, McMahon worked with the newcomers, especially Laskey and Hammer since they were rookies, and the result has been dramatic, so much so that the Giants now are in the thick of the fight for the West title.

"I haven't done that much," McMahon said Tuesday night after watching Laskey pitch a seven-hitter in leading the Giants to a 3-2 victory over the reeling Atlanta Braves for the team's ninth straight triumph. "Kids like Laskey have the talent. You can see that. I talk a lot with my pitchers, make a few suggestions if I see something is not quite right and let them go from there."

Be that as it may, Laskey and Hammer were going nowhere with Kansas City and it's obvious now all they ever needed was a chance.

Laskey won his fourth straight Tuesday night and now is 11-8. He reduced his earned run average to 2.52, and that's the second lowest ERA in the N.L.

By winning their ninth straight the Giants moved to within five games of the equally streaking Los Angeles Dodgers. The last time the Giants won nine in a row was in April 1971.

Mid-May's seventh inning solo homer snapped a 2-2 tie and decided Tuesday night's game as the Braves suffered their eighth straight loss and fell out of first place for the first time since April 8.

Once again, the Braves got excellent pitching — as they have throughout the current losing streak — but except for Dale Murphy's 29th homer they didn't do much offensively.

"I'm not concerned about first place right now so much as I am in getting the team straightened out," said Braves manager Joe Torre. "There's a lot of time to decide first place but we are going to have to start doing something soon."

"We need runs and we can't seem to get any, and it's putting a lot of pressure on our pitchers. Now, every time we make a mistake it costs us a game. In the past we could overcome the mistakes because of our run production."

Astros Fire Virdon, Names Lillis To Job

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Bill Virdon led Houston from the cellar to a division title in 1980, but with the Astros now mired in fifth place in the National League West, owner John McMullen has gone to his bench for a new manager.

McMullen fired Virdon Tuesday and named first base coach Bob Lillis interim manager. A team spokesman said "that will in all probability go through the end of the season."

At a brief team meeting before the Astros defeated San Diego, 4-1, Virdon thanked the players.

"The only thing I wanted them to know is that I appreciated their efforts. I was sorry things didn't work out," Virdon said. "I know they did the best they could for me and I'll be behind them all the way."

Lillis then conducted what he said would be the first of several meetings with the team.

"There won't be any wholesale changes," Lillis said. "We'll give what we got and hope we can make a run at it."

"We've played better ball the last couple of months and I feel we'll continue to improve as we go along."

"It really hurts when you lose two quality people from your bullpen," he added, referring to lengthy injuries to Joe Sambito and Dave Smith. "We've lost 21 games in the late innings. There'll be some minor changes, but I want to consult with my staff and the players first."

Sambito praised Virdon, saying the Astros' recent string of five losses in San Francisco was "not his fault."

"He'll be all right, he's a good baseball man and if he wants a job, he'll get it. He was so level-headed about everything. That's the way you have to be in this game."

McMullen said his decision was in the best interest of the team.

"We made the decision the Houston Astros were going to need a new manager next year and in the interest of both the ballclub and Bill Virdon, this seemed to be the appropriate time to make the change," he said.

Virdon, 51, of Springfield, Mo., was a former All Star with the Pittsburgh Pirates and former manager of Pittsburgh and the New York Yankees. He has been the Astros' manager since late in the 1975 season — one in which the team finished 42½ games out of first place.

Under his guidance, the Astros improved every year, challenging for the West Division title in 1979, winning it in a one-game playoff with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1980 and losing it in a five-game playoff to the Dodgers last season.

Despite a 49-62 record this season, Virdon is the most successful Astros' manager with a record of 544-522.

McMullen, with the firing, completed his housecleaning of the team's management since he bought the franchise in the 1979 season.

Lillis has been with Houston since its inception in 1962. He played as one of the Colt-45s and has coached, scouted or been a special instructor in the system ever since.

Steinbrenner Fears For Defense, Orders Physical For Alexander

United Press International
Yankee owner George Steinbrenner's latest whipping boy seems to be Doyle Alexander, the veteran righthander who has earned very little of his $2.2 million contract. After he was shelled Tuesday night in a 10-1 loss to the Detroit Tigers, Steinbrenner had a statement.

"I'm afraid some of our players might get hurt playing defense behind him," said Steinbrenner, who ordered Alexander to return to New York for a physical. "There's got to be something wrong with him."

"Yes, I'm going," Alexander replied. "But I want to say I'm seeing a medical doctor — not a psychiatrist. People have been known to go crazy playing in New York — but I'm not one of them."

Lou Whitaker drove in five runs with two home runs and a single and rookie Glenn Wilson had four hits, including a two-run homer, to back the four-hit pitching of Jerry Udjur.

Udjur, 6-5 and unbeaten in his last five decisions, gave up three walks and retired 16 batters in a row at one point.

Alexander, 0-6, has a 6.28 ERA in 10 games this season.

"I had no spring training, broke my hand and missed two months," Alexander said. "That's not an excuse at this point. I don't make excuses."

In other A.L. games, it was Toronto 4, Boston 0; Milwaukee 11, Texas 3; Chicago 9, Baltimore 4; Minnesota 5, California 2; Kansas City 5, Cleveland 1; and Seattle 4, Oakland 2.

Blue Jays 1, Red Sox 0
At Toronto, Rance Mulliniks knocked in a pair of runs with the first of his two doubles and Dave Stieb, 12-1, fired a two-hitter to give the Blue Jays their fifth straight victory.

Brewers 11, Rangers 3
At Milwaukee, Ben Oglivie hit a three-run homer and Gorman Thomas added a two-run shot to pace the Brewers.

White Sox 9, Orioles 4
At Chicago, Greg Luzinski drove in four runs with a bases-loaded double in the third and an RBI single in a five-run fifth that carried Britt Burns and the surging White Sox over Baltimore.

Twins 5, Angels 2
At Minneapolis, Gary Ward hit a solo homer in the sixth and drew a bases-loaded walk to cap a two-run seventh for the Twins.

Royals 5, Indians 1
At Kansas City, Mo., John Wathan singled twice and drove in two runs and reliever Mike Armstrong retired 15-of-17 batters he faced to lead the Royals into a tie for first place with California in the West.

Mariners 4, A's 2
At Seattle, Richie Zisk pitched a two-out, two-run double in the seventh inning to help the Mariners snap a five-game losing streak.

Assistant Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. Sara Irrgang (behind podium), prosecutor Angela Blakeley (center), and defense attorney Jack Bridges view a monitor in court Tuesday of Miss Florida Deanna Pitman taking a sobriety test at the county jail following her arrest July 16 for drunk driving and other traffic offenses.

...Deanna Ready For Atlantic City

Tuesday's court appearance, shows a distraught and crying Miss Pitman who performed all tests well.

When Caves asked Miss Pitman to take the breath test, she asked Caves what she was supposed to do and said she was confused.

"What are you trying to do to me," she said on the tape. "I don't know what to do. You're scaring me."

Caves explained to her that refusal to take the breath test would result in automatic suspension of her driving privileges for three months. An unidentified prisoner at the jail began shouting to Miss Pitman not to take the test and to call her lawyer. Miss Pitman refused the test and was allowed to talk with a public defender until her lawyer, Jack Bridges, was contacted.

Bridges arranged for blood samples to be taken from Miss Pitman at about 3 a.m., following her release about 3 1/2 hours after the accident.

Assistant County Medical Examiner Sara Irrgang, an expert court witness in blood alcohol analysis, testified and explained with the use of charts that Miss Pitman was not drunk at the time of the accident.

Dr. Irrgang said that at the time the blood samples were drawn, Miss Pitman was at or near the peak of her highest level of blood alcohol and was legally drunk. However, at the time of the accident, because of the amount of food ingested by Miss Pitman at dinner with the wine, she had not even approached the halfway point of the legal limits.

In addition, Dr. Irrgang said that because of the blood tests and videotape of the sobriety tests, she believes Miss Pitman was not drunk when the accident occurred.

Following Tuesday's hearing, Prosecutor Alan Robinson said he had no objection to ask for the dismissal of the DUI charge.

"With the videotape and Dr. Irrgang's testimony, it would have been difficult to prove otherwise," he said.

Prosecutors also reportedly told newspeople that they requested that the charges of DUI be dropped not only because of insufficient evidence to support the charge but because threats of a civil suit for malicious prosecution had also been made.

Shortly after a smiling Miss Florida left the courtroom, Bridges said he didn't consider the court action a victory but "justice." He added he will prepare possible options for the judge to consider concerning Miss Pitman's fulfillment of her sentencing.

"The way is clear for her to go to Atlantic City," said Miss Florida board Chairman Bill Wolfe today. "Careless driving is merely a motor vehicle charge and not a criminal charge."

Miss America pageant officials had indicated earlier that even if Miss Pitman had been convicted of the DUI charge it was doubtful she would be stripped of her title and barred from attending the pageant.

Seminole Commission OKs Casselberry Daycare Center

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County commissioners have cleared the way for construction of a child daycare center along Red Bug Road near Casselberry.

Commissioners Tuesday approved a request to waive subdivision platting requirements for a six-acre parcel owned by Amerifirst Development Co. of Central Florida and approved the site plan for a day care center, which is expected to care for about 100 children.

The waiver was granted for the property contingent upon creating an easement for drainage on the property. Construction of the daycare center is expected to begin as soon as legal paperwork is completed, a spokesman for Amerifirst said.

About half of the property has been sold to La Petite Academy for use as a daycare center, the spokesman said.

He said the company hopes to sell the remainder of the property for other commercial uses. If it sells the property, platting would have to be done on the remaining three acres prior to the sale, according to county statutes.

Prestige Lumber & Supplies of Longwood was granted a waiver of a county requirement to widen a substandard road but was denied waivers of fire flow requirements and construction of a left-turn bypass lane on State Road 419.

Commissioners agreed to waive the widening provision because a railroad easement is only 16 feet wide.

Emile Skura of Prestige Lumber had asked to change a requirement from a 20,000-gallon water tank to a 15,000-gallon tank. But commissioners said the accessibility of the area and the existence of a warehouse in the area dictated the larger tank.

Commissioners denied, by a 3-1 vote, a waiver of county paving requirements for All State Homes Inc. on Francis Drive, adjacent to State Road 436 near Casselberry.

The commission action requires All State Homes to pave the road to its driveway.

Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather voted to grant the waiver.

Commissioners voted to delay action on a borrow pit permit for RJK, Inc., of Sanford to remove 250,000 cubic yards of fill dirt for use on the Seaboard Coastline Railroad Overpass of State Road 46.

Commissioners agreed to delay action on the permit because Commissioner Bill Kirchoff was absent from Tuesday's meeting. The 25-acre site on Oregon Avenue near Sanford is in Kirchoff's district.

Commissioners also approved the purchase of a walk-in freezer from Still Associates of Sanford for $5,044.50.

The freezer will be used by the animal control office of the Department of Health and Human Services to temporarily store dead animals until they can be transported to the rendering plant. Still Associates gave county officials the lowest verbal estimate. No bids are necessary because it is an emergency situation, the commission decided.

The purchase is necessary because existing facilities have broken down, causing a health hazard, commissioners said.

Library Referendum Vote Unchanged; Issue Will Be On The Oct. 5 Ballot

Seminole County commissioners have agreed not to change the date of a countywide referendum on library service.

Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather said he had been unaware the referendum is scheduled for the run-off primary election in Oct. 5.

Feather said during Tuesday's commission meeting the run-off election will probably have the smallest turnout. Because of the importance of the $7 million referendum, Feather said, it should be held in conjunction with either the first primary in September or the general election in November.

The run-off election is held in Florida in races where no candidate gets a clear majority of the votes. In the run-off, the top two candidates go head-to-head.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn said the referendum steering committee has asked commissioners to place the referendum on the October ballot because committee members were afraid the referendum might get lost on the November ballot with other statewide issues.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen sided with Feather while Commissioner Robert Sturm voted with Mrs. Glenn. The motion lost due to lack of a majority.

Cook Of The Week

Dozens Of Cupcakes Come To Aid Of The Party

By LOU CHILDERS
Herald Correspondent

Trude Nopper is busy this week mixing politics and cooking. Past secretary-treasurer of the Sanford Woman's Republican Club, Trude is getting ready for the ninth Annual Elephant Stampede to be held Aug. 21 at the Central Florida Zoo.

The event is scheduled from 2 until 5 p.m., and is highlighted by a barbecue dinner and personal appearances from Republican hopefuls from the governor's post right on down to the non-partisan candidates.

Trude has baked dozens of cupcakes that will be among hundreds consumed at the barbecue the day of the Stampede.

When she is hosting friends in her Sanford home, Trude is likely to serve what she calls "GOP Gumbo," a recipe she and hubby Leroy are both fond of.

Another "company special" of Trude's is a dessert, Orange

Chiffon Pie with Strawberries and Cream. This pie is pretty as a cookbook picture — so pretty it's almost a shame to cut it. However, once this pie is cut, you will discover it tastes as good as it looks.

Trude consented to give out her "secret" to perfect, flaky pie crust. For each single crust needed, use one ice cream scoop of shortening, 1 cup all-purpose flour, 3 tablespoons of water, and a dash of salt. She cuts the shortening into the flour with a fork, adds the water and the dash of salt, and works the dough a little with her hands before rolling it out wafer thin.

Trude and Leroy Nopper's son, Leroy, Jr., now lives in California, but Trude insists that she still has to cook his favorite meal when he is "back home in Sanford for a visit." She says, "that meal always starts out with a shrimp cocktail, includes a 5 to 6-pound beef rib roast, and since we are eaters from way back, it ends with Pecan Pie."

Trude adds, "For a perfect rib roast, cook it fast for 3/4 of an hour, then turn the oven down to 300 degrees and cook for about 1 1/2 hours." The roast will be medium rare in the middle.

GOP GUMBO

- 3 tablespoons cooking oil
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 medium green pepper, chopped
- 2 stalks celery, chopped
- 3 buds of garlic, chopped
- 1 can tomatoes, cut up
- 1 can tomato sauce, small
- 1 can of water, small
- 2 cups okra, chopped
- 1/2 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
- 2 pounds of either shrimp or crab, cooked
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 2 bay leaves
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- Dash of hot sauce

Make roux with oil and flour. Add next 4 ingredients, stirring until just soft. Mix in tomatoes, tomato sauce and water. Bring to slow boil. Add okra. Cook 5 minutes and then add remaining ingredients. Simmer slowly about 1 hour.

Serve over rice and complete the meal with a green salad and corn bread muffins.

ORANGE CHIFFON PIE WITH STRAWBERRIES AND CREAM

- 2 envelopes plain gelatin
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 cup orange juice
 - 2 teaspoons lemon juice
 - 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
 - 4 large or 5 medium eggs, separated
 - 1 pint of strawberries
- Mix gelatin, sugar, salt, egg yolks, juice and rind in a small saucepan and stir constantly over low heat until gelatin is dissolved — about 5 minutes. Cool until it begins to thicken. Beat egg whites stiff, add 1/4 cup of sugar gradually. Fold orange mixture gently into egg whites. Pile into a cool baked pie shell. If crust will not hold all the filling, chill it 15 to 20 minutes, then pile on the remainder of filling. Decorate with whipped cream, orange slices and strawberries.
- Halve 1 pint of strawberries and toss easily with 3 tablespoons sugar. Spoon on pie as served.

SHRIMP SPREAD HORS D'OEUVRE

- 1/2 pound large (23 count) shrimp, cooked and deveined
 - 1 cup catsup
 - 1 heaping tablespoon horseradish
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - Dash Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 8-oz. package cream cheese
- After cooking and cleaning shrimp, reserve 6 symmetrical ones for garnish. Chop the rest of the shrimp medium, not fine. Mix catsup, horseradish and seasonings. Stir in chopped shrimp. Place block of cream cheese in small 3-inch deep serving dish. Pour shrimp mixture over cheese, covering it, then garnish with whole shrimp and serve with crisp wheat wafers.

RASPBERRY CAKE-TART

- 1 10-ounce package frozen raspberries
 - 4 tablespoons butter
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 2 tablespoons light corn syrup
 - 1 one-layer-size white cake mix
 - 1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell with high fluted edge.
- Thaw and drain raspberries pouring drained juice into small saucepan along with butter, sugar and corn syrup. Cook and stir until mixture comes to a boil and sugar is dissolved. Stir in drained raspberries. Cool to lukewarm. Prepare cake mix according to directions of package. Turn into pie shell. Pour raspberry sauce gently over batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-40 minutes. Serve with ice cream.

FLORIDA FRUIT CUP

- 3 grapefruit, medium size
 - 2 cups orange sections
 - 1 cup pineapple chunks, well-drained
 - 1 cup miniature marshmallows
 - 1/2 cup sour cream
 - 1 cup whipped cream or topping
 - 1 cup chopped pecans
- Halve and section grapefruit, flute edges. Use grapefruit knife to section both oranges and grapefruit to keep membrane and seeds out. Combine ingredients and spoon into shells. Top with maraschino cherry. Chill.

REFRIGERATOR BRAN MUFFINS

- 3 cups 100 percent bran
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 1/2 quart buttermilk
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1/2 cup shortening
 - 2 eggs
 - 2 1/2 cups flour
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 3 teaspoons soda
- Pour boiling water over bran. Add buttermilk. Let stand while creaming shortening and sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time. Add mixture to bran. Sift flour, soda and salt. Stir into batter just to mix. Do not over stir. Store in refrigerator in covered container until ready to use. Can be kept about 6 weeks in refrigerator. Bake in 375 degree oven about 15 minutes. For variety, add 1/2 cup of raisins or chopped dates, or well-drained pineapple for one batch. Place only 1 heaping tablespoon of batter into each lined muffin shell.)

Will Provides Right To Die

DEAR ABBY: About 10 years ago you advertised the Living Will in your column, saying readers could send for it by sending a few dollars to the non-profit organization called Concern for Dying, 250 West 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Dear Abby

Recently you advertised the Living Will and told readers they could get copies by writing to the Society for the Right to Die, 250 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Did the Concern for Dying organization change its name?

CURIOUS IN DELAWARE: DEAR CURIOUS: No. Concern for Dying and the Society for the Right to Die are two separate organizations. They were formerly affiliated, but due to some internal differences they parted company. They both distribute the Living Will and are equally legitimate, but are constantly confused because they both maintain offices in the same building. The only fundamental difference is that the Society for the Right to Die extends its function to trying to get the various state legislators to make "the right to die with dignity" part of the state law. It has been successful in many states.

DEAR ABBY: Ours is not an ordinary problem. We have a home in the country very near my husband's overweight brother (almost 400 pounds). We moved into our brand-new home a year ago. The first day "Brother" stepped on our porch, he broke the steps. Then he sat on a living room chair, which is part of a very expensive set, and broke one of the legs. There is only one piece of patio furniture he can sit on (the lounge), and the springs are beginning to sag already.

We are having a swimming pool installed now, and no ordinary ladder will hold him, but he keeps talking about how wonderful it will be to swim here every day when the pool is finished!

Fruits Herald French Treat

A fresh plum clafouti is one of the simplest dishes to prepare. French peasants are fond of clafoutis, made by pouring a light, sweetened batter over sliced, fresh fruits of the season.

When cooked, it looks and tastes like a warm, tender custard. You will enjoy the dessert at its best when it is served warm. Other fresh fruits may be used as the harvest season progresses.

PLUM CLAFOUTI

1 pound fresh California plums (about 6)

1 large fresh peach, peeled and sliced
Sugar to taste
1/2 cups milk
4 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
Powdered sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Slice and pit plums. Arrange plum and peach slices in a buttered 2-quart casserole (glass or ceramic). Sprinkle fruit with sugar, if desired. Into blender pour milk, eggs and vanilla. Blend 2 seconds. Add flour and 1/4 cup sugar and blend 5 seconds on high speed. Pour batter over fruit. Bake in middle of oven 1 1/2 hours. Cool slightly before dusting with powdered sugar, if desired. Serve warm or cool. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

NOTE: The fruit rises to the top during baking. Dessert resembles a baked custard and will sink a little as it cools.

Low Salt Ideas

One major health issue that concerns most Americans these days is sodium, especially in the form of ordinary table salt (sodium chloride). The Dietary Goals for the U.S. established by a Senate Select Committee call for reducing the average American's sodium consumption by about 60 percent.

Fortunately, there is one way to prepare foods without salt and still enjoy plenty of flavor — cook with fresh, low-sodium fruits and vegetables. (Did you know that almost all fresh fruits and vegetables are low in sodium?)

The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association recommends two dishes for those who want to restrict their salt intake. Both are delicious, one-pot meals for two that take advantage of available and nutritious fresh produce, and natural taste enhancers such as herbs.

A toothsome threesome of fresh tomatoes, zucchini and potatoes simmer in less than 30 minutes in Poached Chicken With Vegetables and you'll never know the salt is missing.

For a free brochure on sodium and low-sodium recipes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, "Low-Sodium Cooking," North Washington at Madison, Alexandria, Virginia 22314.

POACHED CHICKEN WITH VEGETABLES

- 1/2 cup water
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf thyme
- 1/2 teaspoon ground sage
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 new potatoes, peeled
- 1 tomato, peeled and chopped
- 1 small onion, sliced
- 1/2 cup chopped parsley
- 2 chicken breasts with wings (about 1/2 pound)
- 1 small zucchini, sliced 1/2-inch thick
- 1 tablespoon flour mixed with 1 tablespoon cold water

In large saucepan combine water, bay leaf, thyme, sage and pepper. Add potatoes, tomato, onion and parsley. Arrange chicken pieces on top of vegetables. Bring to a boil. Cover. Reduce heat. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes until chicken and vegetables are tender. Add zucchini slices during last 5 minutes of cooking. Transfer chicken and vegetables to serving dish. Add flour mixture to saucepan. Cook stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Serve sauce over chicken and vegetables. MAKES: 2 servings.

CASSEROLE AUBERGINE

- 1 cup cottage cheese
 - 1 egg
 - 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf basil
 - 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf oregano
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 small eggplant (about 1/2 pound)
 - 1/2 cup olive oil
 - 1/2 cup unseasoned packaged bread crumbs
 - 1 tomato, sliced
 - 1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
- In small bowl combine cottage cheese, egg, basil, oregano and pepper; set aside. Cut eggplant in half lengthwise. Cut each half into slices 1/4-inch thick. Brush eggplant, tomatoes and mushroom slices with olive oil. Arrange half the eggplant slices in bottom of shallow 1-quart casserole or in two 1 1/2 cup baking dishes. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons bread crumbs. Place tomato slices and half the mushroom slices on top. Spoon cottage cheese mixture over vegetables. Repeat layer of eggplant, bread crumbs and mushrooms. Bake in a 400 degree F. oven 25 to 30 minutes. Let set 5 minutes before serving. Garnish top of casserole with additional tomato slices, if desired. MAKES: 2 servings.

Refreshing Soup For Hot Weather

Despite its French name, vichyssoise, the chilled potato-leek soup, is basically American. It was developed from a country-style French soup, however, so it comes by its ancestry honestly. It has been in the American restaurant repertoire since its introduction in the U.S. in 1941.

This is a refreshing soup for hot weather and may be served as a soup course or as a main luncheon course with salad and fresh rolls.

VICHYSOISE

- 4 leeks, sliced (white part only)
- 1 medium onion, sliced
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 2 pounds potatoes, pared and thinly sliced (6 medium)
- 4 quart chicken broth
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 2 cups half-and-half or light cream

Chopped chives
In deep kettle lightly brown leeks and onion in butter. Add potatoes, broth and salt; boil 30 minutes or until potatoes are very tender. Puree in electric blender or rub through a fine strainer. Return mixture to kettle, add milk and bring to a boil. Cool. Strain through a fine strainer. Add half-and-half; chill thoroughly. Serve garnished with chives. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 to 10 servings.

Grill Goes Fancy

You're never too old to play "dress up." And for this season it's dressing up a barbecue on the patio. While corn-on-the-cob and ribs are always welcome favorites on an outdoor menu, make this summer's barbecue a little more fancy.

You can put on your white gloves and Great Gatsby clothes for a luscious marinated London Broil and savory rice salad, for instance. But your guests will never know how simple and economical they are to prepare. The beauty of marinades is that they add exciting flavor to inexpensive cuts of meat, while tenderizing them at the same time.

The perky marinade for our London Broil features such simple ingredients as zesty horse-radish and rousing red pepper sauce.

Make sure the London Broil is grilled rare or medium rare and thinly sliced across the grain on a diagonal to insure its tenderness. If you're fortunate enough to have leftovers, add thin, julienne strips of the London Broil to a crisp, green salad for a main dish the next day.

Nutty Rice Salad is a perfect complement to the London Broil. Not only does it say "journal!" with herbs and sassy Tabasco pepper sauce, but it's a fascinating mix of taste and color. The crunchiness of pecans, the biting flavor of scallions and the piquancy of tomatoes come through distinctively in this chilled salad. It's so flexible, you can add whatever vegetables you have at hand, too.

Serve this fanciful meal with a bottle of Zinfandel or Beaujolais.

HEARTY MARINATED LONDON BROIL

- 2 pounds London broil (top round)
- 1 1/2 cups mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 2 teaspoons horseradish, drained
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

With sharp knife, score both sides of meat. In a small bowl combine mayonnaise, vinegar, horseradish, garlic, Tabasco sauce, sugar and salt. In shallow dish pour half the mayonnaise mixture over meat. Cover. Refrigerate 2 hours. Broil or grill, 10 to 12 minutes on each side basting once after meat is turned. Let meat stand 5 minutes before carving. Serve with remaining mayonnaise mixture. Serve with additional Tabasco sauce, if desired. YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

NUTTY RICE SALAD

- one-third cup olive oil
 - 3 tablespoons wine vinegar
 - 1 teaspoon dried leaf marjoram
 - 3/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
 - 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf thyme
 - 3 cups cooked brown rice, cooled
 - 2 tomatoes, diced
 - 1 scallion, sliced into 1/2-inch pieces
 - 1/2 cup pecan halves
 - 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
- Tomato wedges, optional
In large bowl combine oil, vinegar, marjoram, Tabasco sauce and thyme; mix well. Add rice, tomatoes, scallion, pecans and parsley; toss well to coat evenly. Chill. Garnish with tomato wedges and serve with additional Tabasco sauce, if desired. YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

Cooking For Two

Prepare A Romantic Dinner...

When you want to give that special someone the "red carpet treatment," make this elegant meal for two. Your partner will be impressed with its delectable taste, and you'll be amazed at its simplicity!

In Beef Burgundy for Two, tenderloin steaks simmer in minutes to perfection in a sassy sauce made with a single-serving envelope of instant onion soup mix. Delicately seasoned rice is the ideal accompaniment as Lemon Pilaf. Chocolate Almond Mousse, easily prepared with unflavored gelatine, is the lucious finale to a most memorable evening.

BEEF BURGUNDY FOR TWO

- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 cup dry red wine
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Wrap steak with bacon, secure with string. In medium skillet, melt butter and brown steaks 2 minutes on each side. Add mushrooms and cook until mushrooms are tender. Add instant onion soup mix, parsley and flour blended with water, wine, lemon juice, and Worcestershire sauce. Simmer, turning steaks occasionally, 8 minutes or until tender. Serve, if desired, with hot cooked julienne cut vegetables. Makes 2 servings.

LEMON PILAF

- 2 teaspoons butter or margarine
- one-third cup sliced celery
- one-third cup sliced green onions, including tops
- 1 cup cooked rice

A casual quick and summer picnic includes Curried Salad Ceylon, Spicy Sweet Chicken For Two and Quick 'N Easy Strawberry Dessert.

...Or A Picnic

Summer is the season to give the kitchen a rest and enjoy the pleasures of cooking and eating in the great outdoors. Whether it's on a lazy weekend or after a hard day at work, the two of you can share a wonderful meal without going farther than your patio or backyard.

Instant onion soup mix in single-serving envelopes makes a terrific base for a chicken barbecue glaze...in a snap. Versatile rice gets a taste of exotic India in a cool make-ahead salad.

Unflavored gelatine and fresh strawberries give it a whirl in a refreshing dessert to complete this exciting summer menu.

SPICY SWEET CHICKEN FOR TWO

- 1 envelope instant onion soup mix
 - one-third cup apricot preserves
 - 1 tablespoon orange juice
 - 1 1/2 pounds chicken pieces
- Blend instant onion soup mix, preserves and orange juice. Grill or broil chicken, turning and basting frequently with glaze, until tender. Makes 2 servings.

Rainy Day Chicken: In 1-quart oblong baking dish, pour glaze over chicken. Bake at 350 degrees, basting occasionally, 1 hour or until chicken is tender.

CURRIED SALAD CEYLON

- 1 1/2 cups cooked rice, cooled
- 1/4 cup diagonally sliced celery
- 3 tablespoons finely diced carrots
- 3 tablespoons thin green pepper slivers
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup sour cream
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/4 teaspoon lemon juice

Combine rice, celery, carrots, and green pepper in mixing bowl. Blend mayonnaise, sour cream, seasonings, and lemon juice. Add to rice. Mix well. Serve on salad greens and top with diced carrots or coconut, if desired. Makes 2 servings.

QUICK 'N EASY STRAWBERRY DESSERT

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 1/2 cup cold light cream or half and half
- 1/2 cup light cream or half and half, heated to boiling
- 1/2 pint fresh strawberries
- 1 egg
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- 5 drops red food coloring (optional)
- 1/2 cup ice cubes (about 3 to 4)

In 5-cup blender, sprinkle unflavored gelatine over cold cream; let stand 3 to 4 minutes. Add hot cream and process at low speed until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 4 minutes. Add strawberries, egg, sugar, almond extract and food coloring; process at high speed until blended. Add ice cubes, one at a time; process at high speed until ice is melted.

Pour into dessert dishes; chill until set. Garnish, if desired, with additional whole strawberries. Makes 4 servings.

In small sauce pan melt butter over medium heat. Add celery and onions and cook until tender but not brown. Stir in remaining ingredients and continue cooking over low heat until thoroughly heated. Makes 2 servings.

- 1/2 cup whipping or heavy cream, whipped

In medium saucepan, mix unflavored gelatine, sugar and cocoa powder; blend in milk. Let stand 1 minute. Stir over low heat until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 5 minutes. Stir in liqueur. Pour into large bowl and chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into dessert dishes or 2-cup bowl; chill until set. Garnish, if desired, with additional whipped cream and almonds. Makes 4 servings.

The Impossible Sensation Is Impossibly Delicious

Beat. Pour. Bake. As impossible as it sounds, that's the easy way to make the pie sensation that's swept the nation. It's known as the Impossible Pie because it does the impossible by making its own crust.

In the mid-1960s, a recipe for Impossible Coconut Pie began making the rounds of potluck suppers and family get-togethers. Passed along by word of mouth and through newspaper recipe exchanges, this tasty custard-like pie became very popular. Not only did it taste delicious, it was easy to prepare. Just place all ingredients in a blender; blend; pour; bake. What could be easier?

The idea caught on and soon the Impossible Pie was adapted as a delicious quiche-like main-dish, the Impossible Bacon Pie.

Today, there are many recipes for Impossible Pies...everything from first course through dessert. Here are some traditional favorites as well as exciting new recipes to try.

Expect Raves From Great Fresh Cake

If you think homebaked cake is "invited" to special occasions only, take a homebaked Walnut Spice Creamy Cake to the weekday dining table and see what happens.

Best of all, you can use what you need a refreeze for another time. Count on the rich, creamy taste and texture of this new dairy-based whipped topping to enhance all your favorite desserts.

Combine 1 cup of the whipped topping and the applesauce. Spread about 1/2 cup applesauce mixture on each of three layers and stack; top with fourth layer. Frost sides and top with remaining whipped topping. Garnish with walnut halves. Chill 1 hour before serving. Store any remaining cake in refrigerator.

Publix Salutes The Earl of Sandwich

Long ago in the Land of Britain, there was an Earl so attached to his cards that he refused to leave the gaming tables to eat. However, even Earls get hungry. So a way was devised to satisfy both of his appetites: thick slices of meat were placed between two slabs of bread and served to the Earl of Sandwich whilst he played on. Of course, the idea caught on among his fellow players who also ordered the meal, dubbing it a sandwich. Today, we still enjoy the convenience and almost endless variety of sandwiches all thanks to the hearty appetites of John Montague, the Fourth Earl of Sandwich.

It seems to me that recently I've read or heard about many more ways to use zucchini squash.

It pops up an ingredient in so many different kinds of recipes. This summer squash which comes in dark green or white skin is delicious sliced thin, mixed with onion and micro-sauted until fork tender, about 6-8 min. per pound.

Add salt and other seasoning when ready to serve. If you like to use zucchini in other ways try some of these unusual ones.

ZUCCHINI MEATBALLS IN SOUR CREAM SAUCE:

- 1 pound beef
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 egg
- 1-3 cup dry bread crumbs
- 1 1/2 cups shredded zucchini, unpeeled
- 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon pepper

- Sauce:
- 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup
 - 1-3 sour cream
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - dash of nutmeg

Bananas add different appeal to sausage or ham and eggs.

Imagination Helps Create Skillet Meal

Unexpected guests often mean a spur-of-the-moment meal. And, like most, this type of meal can fit into a family food budget and still be tasty and impressive.

For example, this skillet dinner takes little time to prepare and may be built around sausage and cabbage with tasty seasonings. What makes it different is the addition of bananas at the end for added nutritional value as well as flavor.

BANANA SAUSAGE SKILLET DINNER

- 1 pound ground pork sausage
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf thyme
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 6 cups shredded cabbage
- 3 bananas

In large skillet break up sausage and cook over moderate heat until browned. Add onion and cook until tender. Add tomatoes, lemon juice, salt, thyme and pepper; simmer uncovered for 5 minutes. Add cabbage and cook 5 minutes longer. Peel bananas, slice and add to skillet; heat. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 to 6 servings.

MUSTARD HAM AND EGGS WITH BROILED BANANAS

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1-1/2 cups milk
- 1/4 cup prepared mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups cubed cooked ham
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- 4 firm bananas

In medium saucepan melt 2 tablespoons butter, add onion and cook until tender. Blend in flour. Stir in milk and mustard. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in salt, pepper, ham and sliced eggs. Peel bananas and cut in half lengthwise. Place on baking sheet and brush with remaining 1/2 tablespoon butter, melted. Broil 6 inches from heat for 2 to 3 minutes, just until tender. To serve, spoon sauce over broiled bananas. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Kids Can Fix Malted Freeze

Kids can start their own home-style ice cream parlor with this cool and creamy malted freeze. Made ahead and ready for scooping into cones chocolate banana malted freeze is a breeze for kids to whip together.

The ingredient list includes many kids' favorites...banana, chocolate, malted flavoring, whipped topping, milk, and ice cream. Ingredients are combined in a blender, poured into a foil-lined pan, covered and frozen.

CHOCOLATE BANANA MALTED FREEZE

- 1 large ripe banana
 - 1/2 cup chocolate-flavored malted milk powder
 - 1 carton (4 oz.) frozen whipped topping
 - 1/2 cup evaporated milk
 - 6 scoops vanilla ice cream
 - Ice cream cones
- Line a 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/4-inch loaf pan with Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap leaving a 1 1/2 inch collar around edges.
 - Break banana in chunks into electric blender container. Add remaining ingredients except ice cream cones; blend on high speed until foamy. Pour mixture evenly into pan.
 - Cover mixture with a length of foil the size of pan and foil collar. Press out air from center toward sides. Fold cover and collar together, sealing tightly. Freeze until solid, lift from pan and return to freezer.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Thursday, August 12, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY

August 12, 1982

This should be an exciting year for you socially. Many new acquaintances are likely. Some who might not appear too attractive at first meeting will later prove to be friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could be intrigued by someone you met recently, but you must be careful not to become too deeply involved before you get to know this person better. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The plans you formulate for accomplishing your aims today have a good chance for success, but there's a possibility last-minute changes will negate them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Relationships with persons who can help advance your self-interests will be favorably conducted today, but you might not be as thoughtful with those who can't aid you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In joint ventures today, more might be demanded of you than is reasonable or fair. Be cooperative, but protect yourself so that everything balances out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're likely to be more influenced by your associations than usual today. If they're productive, you'll be productive; if they're not, you could while away precious time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is not the right day to impose upon social contacts for business purposes. Crossing the line may cause regrets or embarrassment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Important tasks should be attended to early. Your industriousness has its limitations today. Repress impulses to flee from that which needs doing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It may be easier for you to excuse the mistakes and foibles of outsiders today than it will be to overlook minor infractions of family members.

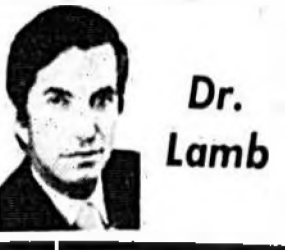

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will operate competently today in areas requiring a practical approach. However, socially you might not handle yourself as wisely as you should.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Think twice today before offering anything of value to someone who once neglected something lent by you. You don't want to repeat your mistake.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Decisions you make under pressure today may not reflect your best thinking. Don't let yourself be jockeyed into a position for quick "yeses" or "nos."

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Because of your desires to be helpful today, you might impulsively volunteer to take on responsibilities you'll later wish you hadn't.

Dairy Products Provide Calcium

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 25-year-old female in good health but I don't drink any milk and am wondering if this lack of calcium is damaging me. I drank milk while I was growing up until I was about 12 but I don't really care for it. I eat a little cheese and some cottage cheese but these are all fattening and I'd need a lot to get the R.D.A. for calcium.

Should I take calcium supplements or are there other low-calorie foods that are high in calcium? I don't want my bones or teeth to deteriorate permanently later in life because of neglect now.

Does calcium have anything to do with nerves and the nervous system? After I do regular exercises my muscles shake afterwards for awhile.

DEAR READER—Dairy products provide about the only reliable source of calcium in our diet. A lot of the vegetables and cereal products that contain calcium do so in a form that cannot be readily absorbed from the digestive tract and thus isn't really available for your body's use.

Dairy products include low-fat cottage cheese which is not a high-calorie food. And you can wash cottage cheese to eliminate the fatty creamy sauce that is added by the manufacturer. You might like low-fat yogurt or buttermilk. Both are good calcium sources without overloading you with calories. Otherwise you should take a calcium supplement. In your age group you need 800 mg of calcium a day or more and if you get pregnant you need much more.

Yes, calcium is very important to nerve function and muscle function. Calcium ions are important in muscle contractions. If you are low on calcium that could be a cause for muscular twitching and cramps. Calcium is an essential ion for the most basic body functions. It is essential to the function of your heart muscle and even to blood-clotting mechanisms.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 17-6, Nutritional Aspects of Minerals, which includes information on calcium with iron and other minerals. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a middle-aged woman who has had a severe case of poison ivy for the past month. After all the miserable itching, weeping and scabs it has left me nervous with extremely dry skin. My question is what does this stuff do to your insides, if anything—your blood for instance?

DEAR READER—Poison ivy and poison oak are really skin allergies and the reaction is called a contact dermatitis. They will not have any effect on your insides, as the allergic reaction is limited to the skin. A few people do have the jitters and insomnia, others some stomach and abdominal pain. That's about it.

Corticosteroids at the beginning of the allergic reaction usually solve the problem. A large dose initially, which is decreased over 10 to 14 days, is usually the most effective.

Prevention is important as you will be susceptible to any future contact. Secondary contamination can occur from clothing exposed to the plant or even the fur of exposed pets. If you are exposed, wash immediately (within 15 minutes) for the best results. You don't need to use strong soap; the ivy allergen is destroyed by moisture. Ask your doctor if your skin has recovered enough for you to use a lubricant now.

He was looking at 11 top tricks and wanted to rectify the count for a possible squeeze for the 12th.

West continued with the queen of spades. South took his ace and king of hearts and ran off five diamond tricks. He discarded two clubs and his last spade. East discarded his last spade on the fourth diamond but had to chuck a club on the fifth one.

South came to his hand with the ace of clubs and cashed his queen of hearts. West, who had discarded the eight of spades and a heart on the diamonds, had to throw away a club to hang on to the jack of spades. So South was able to throw dummy's 10 of spades and make the last two tricks with dummy's king and 10 of clubs.

The term "rectify the count" in paragraph one is bridge jargon. It means that you may concede an early trick to set up a squeeze at the end.
