Proposed Barge Canal

Because no notice had been given locally of the hearing on the proposed barge canal across Florida until the day before and localities interested in the project did not have time to prepare their objections to it, the results of the hearing can hardly be expected to represent a fair picture of the sentiment in this state regarding the canal.

The Bradenton chamber of commerce has decided to keep in touch with the activities of the promoters of the proposed barge canal which Senator Pepper is asking the government to build on the route that was selected for the Florida sea level ship canal.

There is comparatively little feeling against a canal—barge or ship—across the peninsula, provided penetration of the water-bearing limestone strata is avoided.

Five Die in Blast: LONDON, Apr. 25.—(AP)—An explosion in the coal-grinding house of Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., at Billingham-on-Tees yesterday killed five workmen and injured a score seriously. Damage to the plant was described as slight. The population of China in the year 1281 was about 60,000,000.

Moe Annenberg pleads guilty to defrauding the government of $1,217,296 in income taxes in 1936. If he evaded over a million dollars in taxes, one wonders what his total tax bill, including the part he paid, was. And his total income tax was in excess of a million dollars, what in the name of heaven might his total income have been?

Speaking in Tampa Wednesday night, Senator Andrews told his audience that he was working for a "principle and not an individual," evidently referring to Dr. Tamm who is opposing Senator Andrews' reelection to the Senate in spite of the Senator's faithful service to the Townsend Plan.

The labor chief of the Building Services Employees International Union in New York City is accused of extortion. George Seidler, 48, stock ex-covert, and sub-chief in the A. F. of L. is said to have collected by means of intimidation more than $100,000 from New York hotels in the past year.

Natchez Fire

Natchez is one of the most beautiful cities in the South, and if you are a southerner, one of the most beautiful cities in the world. For here, as nowhere else on earth, the great columns of old colonial mansions rise before long avenues of magnolia trees and, inside, the silver candlesticks and rosewood furniture stand much the same as they did when Jefferson Davis was a boy.

In recent years the "Natchez Pilgrimage" has come to be almost as famous as the pilgrimages to the Holy Land. People flock from the four corners of the earth to see what is left of the Old South, no "authentic reproduction" but the real thing, exactly as it was before the war.

The picture of the great houses, or the pilgrimage itself, has not been helped by the fire which spread through a negro dance hall and trapped several hundred negroes a few nights ago. Out of three hundred members and friends of the Moneywasters Social club who were in the moss draped dance hall, 198 were burned to death, suffocated, or killed in the stampede.

Only one doorway provided an exit. Every window had been securely boarded up to keep out "gate crashers." The fire started near the single doorway while the orchestra was "sawing it" in the most approved fashion.

A fire is something which could break out anywhere. Panics and stampedes have been known to occur among the most highly civilized people. This could be marked up as just another accident, as a disaster for which no one could be blamed.

For the sake of a community's reputation as a whole, should three hundred persons be allowed to crowd into any hall from which there is only one exit? Should people be allowed to board up the windows of any building in which they intend to congregate?

Drainage Liens Not Destroyed By Murphy Act

TITUSVILLE, Apr. 25.—(AP)—Circuit Judge Millard B. Smith ruled yesterday that operation of the Murphy Act did not destroy drainage district tax liens.

The decision was made in a friendly test suit brought against the Melbourne-Tillman Drainage District by J. W. Carlie, involving several thousand acres of land.

Carlie sought to prevent the foreclosure of drainage district tax liens against lands that had reverted to the State under provisions of the Murphy Act.

The court held that title to the land sought to be foreclosed against went over to the State under the Murphy Act, subject to and burdened with said delinquent drainage tax liens described in the bill of complaint.

Judge Smith's opinion said that any other holding would violate the obligations of the contract made with bondholders.

Attorneys indicated that an appeal would be taken in order to obtain an opinion from the Florida Supreme Court on the point.

Ralph Chapman SAYS

Dear Friends: They say that a farmer and business man is not fitted to represent the interests of the farmer, merchant, and working man in the State Senate and that the people of this district should elect a LAWYER as their senator because a lawyer not only knows his own business but THEIRS as well.

German Invasion Solidifies Allied Home Governments

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Germany's invasion of Scandinavia brought heavy repercussions on the British home front even before the proportions of the expanding battle in Norway became clear enough to reveal its true significance.

Stimulated by events in Norway, Sir John Simon, British Chancellor of the exchequer, calmly informed parliament that Britain is bracing for a 1940-41 war effort that will cost more than 10 billion dollars. Behind his words lies the exclusion of both British and French war leaders that the Hitler invasion of Norway and Denmark has only served to stiffen the determination of their people to fight it out to the bitter end, whatever the cost.

Britain's financial helmsman sharply reflected, also, the view of his cabinet colleague, Winston Churchill, that invasion of Scandinavia would prove to be Hitler's fatal blunder. Sir John labelled his 1940-41 estimates a "victory" budget; and his words evoked parliamentary cheers.

There is a psychological aspect about that for Berlin to ponder, in England, as in France, German invasion of Norway and Denmark has clearly become a settled Chamberlain and Reynaud war ministries far more firmly in the saddle of political power than they were two short weeks ago.

That parliament is ready to write a blank check to cover a stupendous war effort is hardly open to question. Despite differing

A mountainous pillar of smoke and water provides a spectacular, momentary tombstone for a death-laden German mine, harmlessly exploded by British navy. Picture, one of first to be released, shows result of equipping allied ships with "de-Gaussing" device to protect them from Nazi-sown magnetic mine fields.

French political methods, it seems clear also that the German thrust in Scandinavia has already silenced active opposition to Premier Reynaud's "push-the-war" program.

Many neutral observers, seeking to fathom Hitler's real reasons for breaking down the barrier on his Baltic flank, share the belief that he has already failed of his first objective. From the hour Hitler rose to power, nazified Germany has operated under his theory, voiced in Mein Kampf, that military action was only the concluding, mopping-up phase of war; that propaganda and incitement of fear in advance could win most battles before the shooting started.

That Hitler and his advisers who urged the sweep into Norway hoped not only to complete it almost as quickly and bloodlessly as the German occupation of Denmark now seems certain. Were it not for stubborn Norwegian resistance, the Nazis might have realized their dream of confronting the neutral world and the dazed Allies in the form of a subservient and completely occupied Scandinavia.

The gallant struggle of Norway's citizen-soldiers and the defiance of King Haakon have done more than upset that Berlin dream of a grand gesture to whip all other European neutrals to the

COOKING WITH CHEESE

Keep your eye on the heat when you cook with cheese. A low temperature for cooking cheese is the best way to keep it tender and to blend it well with the other ingredients. In fact, cheese should not really be "cooked," but merely heated enough to melt it. Overheating toughens the protein of the cheese and makes it stringy.

When using cheese in a baked dish, such as scalloped vegetables or macaroni and cheese, it is best to melt the cheese in the sauce before it is mixed with the other ingredients. But be sure to take the sauce off the fire first and to melt the cheese without over-heating it.

When cheese sandwiches are toasted under a broiler flame, the bread "insulates" the cheese against too much heat. If the sandwich is the open-face variety, it is especially important to have a very low flame.

A second rule for making successful cheese dishes is to break the cheese into small pieces before heating. Then it will spread more evenly among the other ingredients, and it will melt in less time. Grating is the easiest way to break up the cheese if it is fairly dry. Otherwise, you can flake it with a fork or shave it thin.

When the cheese is to be melted in a sauce it may be grated, flaked, or shaved. But when cheese is mixed in a batter or dough—as for muffins, bread, or biscuits—it must be grated first. These fine particles can then be mixed thoroughly with the dry ingredients; the cheese will not cling together nor form into hard lumps.

Use cheese with vegetables or cereals to supply protein and other important food values. A sharp cheese will make a pleasing contrast with bland-flavored macaroni, spaghetti, rice, corn meal, or grits. And it will give tang to a dish of scalloped potatoes, corn, cabbage, or other vegetables.

given time and opportunity to German heel. The Allies have been muster in Norway a battle strength which might turn the whole tide of war heavily against Germany.

Unquestionably that Norwegian refusal to accept German overlordship without resistance has forced Hitler into a defensive role in Norway within two weeks of his surprise invasion. Conflicting accounts of land and air actions already fought or in progress there make it difficult to discern yet just what the Allied military purpose is.

There is increasing evidence, however, that Franco-British strategists have a far broader objective than clearing Norway's western ports and fjords of the foe. Unless German air power, the most vaunted Nazi weapon, can stop them, the Allies' ultimate goal seems to be to pin the Germans into the Oslo area and against the Swedish frontier.

If that happens or seriously threatens, a German march into Sweden to hurl heavy supporting forces into Norway is likely. That would at once release the Allies for a major economic blow at Germany from the footholds they have already gained about Narvik.

Sweden's iron mines are still the greatest prize the Allies can win in Scandinavia. Narvik, scene of the first Allied-Nazi clash on the new north front, will become the war's most critical sector if Sweden is sucked into the conflict. And Narvik is already isolated by land and sea, its slender Nazi garrison in a closing Allied-Norwegian trap.

Club Organized To Render Aid To J. E. Larson

The Seminole County friends of J. Edwin Larson, candidate for State Treasurer, have organized a "For Larson Club" for the purpose of better serving the interests of Mr. Larson in this county, and to further his campaign through out the State.

The following committee is serving with C. E. Rawson as chairman, H. J. Gut, H. C. DuBose, Hawkins Connelly, and T. L. Linco, Frank Talbot of Ovid, and R. W. Rivers, Geneva.

Mr. Larson is a lifelong Democrat, 39 years of age, married, and the father of three children; he is also a graduate of Allegheny College in Business Administration and the University of Florida Law School.

Mr. Larson has served in both the House of Representatives, and the Senate, and for the past six years has been United States Collector of Internal Revenue for the State of Florida. He is an active member of the Florida Alumni Association, is a member of the Methodist Church, and civic and fraternal bodies as well.

Mr. Larson will make an excellent state official, especially that of treasurer; his many years of service with the Revenue Department especially fit him for the office," stated Mr. Rawson, chairman of the local committee.

Allies Feel War Soon To Shift To Swedish Territory

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
 Associated Press Writer

There is a feeling in London and Paris that the nerve center of the war will shift to Sweden.

Whether this is correct or not is open to debate. Insistent reports of a German mobilization at Nazi Baltic ports indicate that Sweden may be next in line for a Nazi protective invasion.

One significant clue comes from Paris. A French official said ice-breakers were among the ships that Germany was reported to be mustering along her Baltic coast to carry or escort a new army of invasion somewhere.

If that is true, only one conclusion can be drawn. Germany must be preparing to race the Allied and Norwegian forces in the Narvik battle zone for possession of Sweden's far northern iron fields, vital to German war economy.

Lula, Swedish outlet into the Gulf of Bothnia for high grade iron ore, still is locked in winter ice. Reports reaching Washington state that it will not be ice free until early in June.

If Nazi strategists are preparing to counter the threat of Allied landing operations at Narvik, a dash-up-the-Baltic and the Gulf of Bothnia seems highly probable. To effect a landing at Lula, or at any rail-connected Swedish port south of that on the Gulf of Bothnia, would require ice-breakers to force passage for troop and supply ships.

The town of Kiruna is the center of the Swedish northern iron deposits from which Hitler has drawn millions of tons of steel to equip his armies. It lies in the shadow of twin mountains of iron ore. Kiruna is some 75 miles by air from Narvik, double that distance from Lula. A single track electric railway connects Kiruna with both ports.

Since the outbreak of the war, the Swedes have been making desperate efforts to double track the line to Narvik. The route was vital not only for troop export, but as a war-free route for importation of essential raw materials and foodstuffs for Sweden's own use.

Nazi invasion of Norway and Allied landings on the Narvik have of late not been mentioned in the news.

In Allied land, the Narvik-Lula railroad and the rail and road connections southward through Sweden could afford the Swedes vital arteries for food and war materials. There is an intimation that the Allied

Daisy Harriman Proves Success As A Diplomat

First Time U. S. Represented In War Zone By A Woman

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON, Apr. 25 (AP)—"Madame Minister" Daisy Borden Harriman, minister to Norway, is rattling around somewhere in Scandinavia. She's 70, and trying to keep up a line of communication between this country and the fugitive Norwegian government.

It's the first time the United States has been represented officially in a war zone by a woman.

She's Never Felt Better. She missed death at one spot by half an hour. She fled down roads under bombardment by German planes. She got over the Swedish border just long enough to phone news to our minister in Sweden. Then she slipped back into the danger zone, after arriving Stockholm in her Park Avenue voice, "Never felt better in my life."

That rings two loud bells for all the women in this country who want to hold public jobs. First, the state department never has liked women in diplomatic posts. Second, there is still apprehension among men politicians over the way women will react under fire. Mrs. Harriman's appointment to Norway was really a sop thrown to the thousands of Democratic women who worked through the '32 and '36 campaigns.

Olo Was A Quiet Spot. When her friend, Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, then our only woman diplomat, resigned her post in Denmark, Democrats cast around for another woman to appoint. The Oslo post fell vacant. It was a quiet, safe spot. The Scandinavians have no prejudice against women executives. So Mrs. Harriman was appointed.

"Would you consider the post?" she was asked. "Certainly," she said. "Who wouldn't?"

The Norwegians—fact is, the whole diplomatic corps in Oslo—were soon revolving around Daisy just the way Washingtonians have for years. She went to palace dinners; acted as hostess for bachelor diplomats from other countries; learned the language rapidly. And at 67 decided to take up skiing. Her progress was watched affectionately.

She made one amusing diplomatic faux pas just ten minutes after she was sworn in here. Just the sort of thing that suave men diplomats tremble over.

Stowed With Faux Pas. She was asked: "Will you negotiate a trade agreement between Norway and the United States?"

"That's been done," she said. It was the first any one knew of it. She must have been charged. But she didn't do any back-tracking. Just took the gaff, and sailed for Norway.

Her first act was to run down the thousands of flying colors. That was the "City of Flint" incident. Remember the boat the Germans captured, took to Murmansk, Russia, and then tried to run down the Norwegian coast? From Russia we got no clear reports of the Flint's crew. Then the Germans put in at a Norwegian port. It became Mrs. Harriman's task to remind the Norwegians that the Germans had forfeited the boat by docking in a neutral port—a delicate spot for any diplomat. The Norwegians decided to return the boat to its American crew. Mrs. Harriman got an immediate report from the Flint's captain, and was the first to report to the state department what actually had happened.

Then came the morning of April 9. About three o'clock Mrs. Harriman's phone rang. The British minister was calling to ask if she take over his duties. The Germans were invading. He was leaving.

She rushed into her clothes and to her office. She called the Norwegian foreign office, confirmed the story, then called Washington. The arrival of her wire here was the first the rest of the world knew the war had broken out in earnest. There's no way of knowing yet why other offices didn't have messages as quickly. Maybe it was because Mrs. Harriman sent a straight wire stating the facts in regular English—no code.

By five she had her whole staff and their families around her, eating breakfast, and ready to set out across country to safety. It was some days later when she was heard from again—on the Swedish border phoning to report.

This is her second war. During the last one she got together a corps of 300 women volunteers and took them to France as a Red Cross motor corps.

She's a rich woman, private school graduate, had her debut at Delmonico's. At 19 she married the banker, J. Borden Harriman. She had a daughter, and for years lived a protected life. Then she began reading social problems. One day she started her Republican family by saying

Americans Flee To Safety With Military Attacks

STOCKHOLM, Apr. 25 (AP)—Ending a 12-day struggle through German air raids and the deep snows of Norwegian mountains by cat, truck, sled and foot, a party of American war-zone refugees from the United States legation in German-occupied Oslo arrived here yesterday.

The party was in charge of the United States Naval Attaché at Oslo, Lieut. Commandeur Ole O. Hagen.

Before starting to safety with the party of men, women and children, the attaché had obtained a promise from the Germans not to bomb Sjosjoen, where the women were quartered, until af-

However, the party encountered numerous air raids along the route and once took shelter in the same railway tunnel at Dombas, Norwegian railway junction point, in which Capt. Robert M. Lowry, 31, Assistant Military Attaché at Stockholm, was killed the next day, Sunday, during a German air raid.

The officer's body is expected here today.

Those in the party included Mrs. Ray Cox of Philadelphia, wife of the secretary of the Oslo legation, and their son, Alan, 10; Mrs. Austin Roe Preston of Buffalo, N. Y., wife of the American Consul, and their daughter, Shirley, 12; Mrs. Briggs A. Perkins, wife of a vice consul, and their son, Tony, 4; Mrs. Easton Kales of Ann Arbor, Mich., wife of another vice consul, and their son, Easton, Jr.; Mrs. Thorman O. Klath of Brooklyn, N. Y., wife of the legation's commercial attaché, and their daughter, Carolyn, 10; and Prof. Andrew Roscoe of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., his wife and two children.

With a pass through the lines and six United States flags, the party started from Oslo at 1:00 P. M. but was forced to return and make a detour because of a broken bridge.

Three hours later the caravan was ditched in five feet of snow.

from here on she was voting Democratic. Her husband, now dead, used to laugh and say, "It's fine. It makes our dinner conversations so interesting."

They must have been interesting. Since the 20's Mrs. Harriman has run the only true salon in Washington. She gathered for her Sunday night dinner guests—the cream of the day's leaders.

Historic debates were held. She had two rules. No one could repeat what they heard. She'll hate all the hullabaloo about her now. But no story about Daisy Harriman is quite complete without mentioning something about her appearance. She hates that, too. She argued with me once that she certainly was not handsome. But she is. Her height and her erect carriage does it. So up comes the story about Charles (Hell 'n Maria) Dawes. He saw her back across a Parisian hotel lobby one night, and said, "Well, there's Mary Garden."

"No, it isn't. That's Daisy Harriman," said a friend.

"Nonsense," said Dawes. "There's only one back like that."

But it was Daisy whose busy these days proving that her backbone's straight both literally and figuratively.

CANDIDATE

Robert M. Moya, who is a candidate for the office of constable from District Four, subject of the will of the voters in the May 7 primary election, Mr. Moya is a graduate of Seminole High School and this is his first attempt in politics.

MacFadden Scheduled To Speak In Eustis

Bernarr MacFadden, candidate for U. S. Senator and publisher of national magazines with circulation of nearly 20 million per month, will make his central Florida appearance tonight at 8:00 o'clock at Ferran Park in Eustis. He will discuss the citrus industry and its problems.

MacFadden will arrive by plane, landing at the Eustis airport about noon.

MacFadden says he is opposed to the political domination of the citrus industry of Florida and favors returning the industry to the people.

150th Birthday Of Patent Law Observed In US

1790 Was First Year Of Federal Control; 3 Patents Issued

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
WASHINGTON, Apr. 25. —(AP)—From 1790 to 1940, from tal-

low candle to 1,000-watt lamp, from 10 miles an hour to 250, from horse back messenger to round-the-world telephone and wirephoto, from blood-letting to miracles in surgery and conquest of disease, from an average life expectancy of 34 years to 61—

On April 10, Inventors and Patent Day, the nation commemorated the 150th anniversary of the first United States patent laws.

It took President Washington, who signed the first Federal patent, seven days to travel by coach from Mount Vernon to New York for his inauguration. Today the trip can be made by plane in less than two hours.

Only three patents were issued in 1790—the first year of Federal control—Nov. 1 going to Samuel Hopkins of Massachusetts for "making pot and peal ashes" or common lye. More than 40,000 patents are now rung up yearly on Uncle Sam's register. The grand total is crowding the 2,200,000 mark.

One Prophecy
Henry L. Ellsworth, retiring as patent commissioner in 1844, told Congress his resignation was of no great concern since mankind had achieved about all of which it was capable in the direction of material perfection. That was before the telephone, the electric light, the automobile, airplane and radio. Patents of record then were less than 15,

000. Today 50 miles of corridors in the huge Department of Commerce building are lined with shelves of patent records, ranging from the toilet trap and potato to invisible glass and transoceanic airships.

A million and one other lease conveniences and comforts in slide eyeglasses for roosters self-lighting cigars, dimple-making machines and a shirt-guaranteed to stay put.

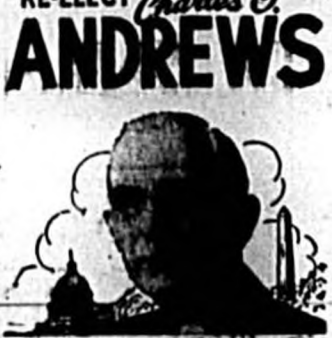

New tools and processes have a big hand in increasing the per capita wealth of the nation from $208 in 1850 to $2,677 in 1930, according to Bureau of Census figures.

Trends In Patents
What of the future in inventions? Scientific observers have noted these trends:

1. The typical invention formerly was a mechanical contraption put together by an ingenious individual to meet some definite need. Now it is a complicated electrical device or chemical process worked out in a well-equipped laboratory.
2. Older fields of invention have been pretty well worked out, and a new generation has less chance to develop inventive facilities in a push-button age which hides the working parts of many mechanisms.
3. In newer fields, however, such as chemistry and plastics every new discovery is a stepping stone to dozens of others with no limit in sight in the expanding horizon of science.
4. The trend is from the amateur—the professional, from the individual to the organized inventive group. More and more inventions result from planned attack by large industrial laboratories.

Despite the shift from individual to group workers in laboratories, the free lance inventor still tops the list as a patent recipient.

House Refuses To Override Veto Of FDR

President Contents Pension Bill Is Not Fair To All Widows Of Vets

Defense Program Moves Forward

Sub Nets Planned For Surrounding Vital Harbors In Nation

WASHINGTON, Apr. 26. (AP)—The House today refused to override President Roosevelt's veto of a bill granting increased pensions to 863 widows of Civil War veterans. The President's veto message contended "to be fair, it would be necessary to grant similar increase to many more on rolls."

The bill would have increased widows' pensions in varying amounts up to $20 a month. The highest pension under the bill would be $50 a month. The House yesterday overrode a veto legislation to give special allowances to 18,000 Spanish War volunteers who served in the Philippines after the treaty of peace with Spain.

The National defense program moved forward with plans to seal the Nation's vital harbors against marauding submarines in time of war and to increase the shooting range of three battleships.

The Navy disclosed it had asked for bids on parts for huge nets to be stretched across harbor mouths the moment war is threatened. The nets, suspended by floats and held in position by chain and anchors, would seal the approaches and prevent the entry of submarines that attempted to steal into the harbors.

The cost of the nets was estimated at $2,000,000 of which $2,000,000 already has been made available. The nets will be fabricated at the Mare Island, Calif., Navy Yard. The Navy has measured all principal harbors on the two coasts of the Continental United States and the strategic points of Panama and Hawaii for the nets.

At the Capitol, the House Naval Committee recommended passage of legislation to authorize an increase by 10,000 yards in the range of the main batteries of the battleships New York, Texas and Arkansas. Congressional experts say the present range of the three ships is about 15,000 yards or approximately eight miles, far short of the 12 to 18 mile range of other battleships of the fleet.

Sanfordites Attend Dianer Honoring Lieb

Five Sanford residents attended the star dinner given in honor of Tom Lieb, new University of Florida football coach, last night at the New Bayview Club in New Bayview. The five were T. Bradford Byrd, the oldest Florida alumnus attending, Dr. L. T. Doan, Coach Leonard L. Lopez, Guy Wood and Charles Chalkin.

Over 150 persons filled the huge dining hall of the club. Most of those present were coaches, alumni, and newspaper men.

Coach Lieb, introduced by Commodore Stratton, said he planned to concentrate on blocking and tackling for next year. He said that was the heart and core of any system. He also said that coaches for a winning team did not appear any too bright. "Banks could not have won with their outside Florida line," he asserted.

Coach Lieb will remain in Florida several weeks before returning to California to complete business and wind up his affairs there before returning permanently to Gainesville.

"Little Women" Of Seminole Seniors Is Artistic Success

By CHARLES CHALKIN
"Little Women," the annual play given by "Seminole High School Seniors last night, proved an artistic success and was well received by a large audience.

The drama, centering about the March family in the latter part of the 19th century, was capably directed by Miss Nell Williams assisted by Sam Byrd, Broadway actor and producer. The cast performed admirably and despite the handicap of poor acoustical reception in the school auditorium, held the close attention of the audience. Tonight the play will be presented again at 8:15 o'clock.

Both staging and makeup of the characters deserve special mention. The 19th century atmosphere was greatly due to the striking and colorful costumes worn by members of the cast. It was all there, from hoop skirts and bustles to Scarlett O'Hara waists and breeches.

Members of the cast presented Miss Williams and Mr. Byrd with gifts as tokens of appreciation for their services. Kent Rosseter of the business staff presented Colby Newman with a prize of $25.00 for selling the most tickets of any student—$24 worth.

A difficult play for amateurs to produce, the Seminole students gave a splendid performance in every respect. The cast was well selected and every member was suited to his part.

The lead was played by Jane Schultz as Jo. Her interpretation was done with charm and finesse and throughout she displayed mastery of her part. Mary Beldin commanded considerable attention with her performance as Aunt March. The "Little Women's" great-aunt. Whenever she appeared on the stage, interest definitely peaked up. As Hannah, the maid, Estelle Hart proved most of the comedy in the play and she proved apt indeed as the rather saucy maid who spoke her mind with no little emphasis concerning the family's doings.

Mrs. Beth and Amy, the three other March daughters, were played in convincing fashion by Rose Harby, Madelyn Truluck, and Mary Wiggin respectively. Mrs. March, the mother, played by Elise Hutchison was well portrayed with the restraint necessary to the part. The selection of Bruce Multhead to play the Rev. Mr. March, the Little Women's father, was a happy one.

The other male parts were taken by Jimmy Shoemaker, who played "Teddy," the boy next door; Arthur Beckwith, who played the part of John Brooke, Laurie's tutor; and Abby Jones, who took the part of Prof. Bhar, J. P. Gorman (father).

The play dealt with the four March daughters and the life from early youth to maturity, the action centering around the home life of the March family. In general, all parts were admirably handled and properly subtitled to the theme, the direction of Miss Williams and Mr. Byrd being greatly responsible for the polished performance.

Between the acts Betty Patterson, who played "Betty," accompanied by Helen Hutchison. A review of the play would not be complete without mentioning the names of the women who were the Misses Carolyn Dugan, Helen Hays, Lois Hays, Ann Beckwith, Jewel Beckwith, Edith Beckwith, Elizabeth Beckwith, Clara Ferguson, Susanna Ferguson, and the other women who were the Little Women.

Air Corps Is Getting More Trained Men

Civil Aviation Schools Have Raised Number Of Yearly Additions To 2,300

TULSA, Apr. 26.—(AP)—With the help of civil aviation schools, the army air corps has been able to boost its pilot output more than fourfold under the $300,000,000 air defense program, Brig. Gen. Jacob Ficker, assistant chief of corps, said today.

Speaking before the third annual southwest aviation conference, Ficker said that whereas graduates at Randolph and Kelly fields in Texas, used to number only 250 a year, the output under the recently instituted speed-up program will add 2,300 pilots to the corps in two years.

Nine civilian schools are employed to give the candidates for the corps preliminary training. From there they go to Randolph field for basic training and finally to Kelly for "abbreviated advanced training."

He emphasized training standards were not lowered.

Large Docket Of Cases Tried In Municipal Court

Led by the arrest of a large number during the week in the rigid enforcement of traffic regulations by the Police Department, more than sixty persons were hauled into Municipal Court before Judge Frank L. Miller this week, according to the Police Department docket.

Parking over one hour in the business district was the largest number of cases on the docket and those receiving red tags paid fines of $1. The indicted Glenn Govecek, Mrs. E. J. Meyer, Mrs. E. C. Harper, Mrs. Bern Chapman, George A. DeCotte, Mrs. E. S. Rockey, R. T. Cowan, E. B. Lamson, Roy Fox, Vivian Speer and T. W. Gray. The cases against the following were continued for non-appearance, O. E. Weaver, E. F. Housholder, Dr. Peter S. Roy, H. M. Watson, Hopkins Jones and George V. Gray.

The case against Elmer Eastbrook, charged with blocking a sidewalk was continued, as was the case against Hoyt Wood.

Others who paid fines for various traffic violations were Roy Rev. J. A. Benson, Virgil Gracey, A. B. Johnson, Fred Sisti, Jim (repeated on Page Two)

Mrs. T. E. Thornley Dies At Summerfield

Mrs. T. E. Thornley, 63, died at her home in Summerfield, Fla. Thursday evening.

A native of Columbus, Miss. Mrs. Thornley moved to Sanford in 1923 and resided here until four years ago. She was an active member of the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Survivors at her husband, T. E. Thornley, of Summerfield, a sister, Mrs. E. G. Plummer of Columbus, Miss.; three sons, J. E. Thornley of Sanford, E. E. Thornley, Jr. of Salisbury, N. C.; four daughters, Mrs. Dene Walker of Green Mountain Falls, Col., Mrs. G. Tyler, Jr. of Augusta, Ga., Miss. Ellen Thornley of Sanford, and Miss Lucille Thornley of Miami. Also ten grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Erickson Funeral Home here at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Evergreen Cemetery. The time will be announced later.

ANNENBERG PLEADS GUILTY AT CHICAGO

Moe L. Annenberg (left), Philadelphia publisher and former race wire czar, leaves federal court in Chicago after entering a plea of guilty to one of six counts of an indictment charging him with evading payment of income taxes and penalties totaling $5,600,000. Shown center is his attorney, Hammond Chaffetz.

Whitehair To Speak At Ball Park Tonight

Public Invited To Attend Free Barbecue Given By Supporters

A total of 9500 pounds of beef, pork and chicken is being prepared for the free barbecue to be given by the Whitehair For Governor club at the Municipal Auditorium this evening at 8:00 o'clock. Maxwell Stewart, secretary of the club, said today.

In addition a large amount of fish will be served to those who attend after 8 o'clock, and coffee will be served with the meat at 10 o'clock.

A special invitation was extended to all other clubs supporting candidates. For the sake of order, Mr. Stewart also advised that the committee office workers will be introduced, following the address by Francis P. Whitehair, the first public address of the Volusia county gubernatorial candidate in this county.

Mr. Whitehair will speak from a platform near home plate in the ball park at 7:30 P. M. and may sit in the grandstand and cheer for the grandstand and the bleachers, Mr. Stewart said.

The candidate for governor who will speak here tonight, told the citizens of Volusia that he will address these last night that "this is our time. I believe the citizens of Florida are going to turn their backs on the central lies and defining those which come from the information and distorted mind of an unscrupulous individual during a political campaign."

"I believe my fellow citizens are going to elect the man they believe is capable and worthy to a job for the honor and glory of this state I love so well."

"In a few days I'll know and you'll know whether our district officers and business men, honest and capable leadership or whether they will be hoodwinked and fooled by a lot of promises backed by no hope of fulfillment."

"If we cut out the red tape, the political racketeering and the fold-out of government in Florida, if we have a simple, workable administration of the people's affairs, we'll find Florida has more than enough money to pay $10 a month pensions ($20 coming from Uncle Sam) more than enough money to improve our schools, the lot of our teachers, to build better roads, help our dependent children and provide a department of health which can prevent and treat the diseases, which are molesting our people and the future of our state," he said.

35 Ballots Cast For Primary Election

At least 35 registered voters in Seminole County have already cast their ballots for the Primary election, County Judge R. W. Ware said today.

Absentee voting in the office of the County Judge began on Monday and will continue through the day as prescribed by law. Those who know they will be out of town an election day were urged to cast their ballots.

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 26.—(AP)—Congressman William Coldwell said yesterday he will be named as one of the Tallahassee law firm of Walker and Maguire. He is not a candidate for re-election.

Action Is Blocked On Legislation By House On Sugar

WASHINGTON, Apr. 26.—(AP)—Obstructionist tactics of Florida House members continued yesterday to block all action on proposed sugar legislation.

Representatives Peterson, Hendrick, Cannon and others of more than a dozen sugar interests groups, have joined to defeat all motions to report any sort of measure of the special steering committee in charge of sugar legislation. Full this evening at the various elements of the sugar bloc, western best, eastern refineries and Louisiana and Florida cane areas. At the last meeting earlier this week, even a motion to continue the existing sugar tariff which expires this year, was defeated.

The special steering committee has been in a week-long and needs no position to continue their action. Peterson approached the House subcommittee committee, and decided to delay all hearings on the proposed bill until the sugar tariff could be renewed by a concrete sugar production program.

The Florida committee expressed themselves as highly displeased with the delay. They explained that as far as a sugar production for the Florida sugar crop bill at all, the bill would be delayed until the end of the year. The bill would be delayed until the end of the year.

Allies Push Nazis Back In Attack

However, Germans Reported To Have Gained Ground In Another Sector

Rival Airfleets Aid In Battling

British Report Establishing RAF Bases In Norway

By Associated Press
Allied forces in seaway fighting in the heart of Norway were reported today to have forced back one German spearhead to their "considerable losses" to their foe, while falling back in another sector.

Allied success, reported in dispatches reaching Stockholm, occurred at Ostendalen, where the Germans yesterday pushed into Roms then fell back to dig in approximately 85 miles short of Tromsund.

Allied withdrawal occurred parallel in the valley to the west, at Guldstrandalen, where action centered on Dombas.

A new setback came after the British considered they already had lost the "first trick" in the struggle developing along the fjord-floated coast, through the center of the mountainous northland. The war office said "limited withdrawal" had been forced by some German forces, unaided, and aided by low-flying planes, south of Dombas.

Dombas, the railway junction south of Tromsund, 50 miles north of Rugebu, was reached yesterday by the westernmost of two columns driven up into the interior by the Germans in an effort to break their hold on Tromsund. Rival air fleets roared over the area. The British said their aircraft now had established bases in Norway, and began "vigorous offensive action."

The British reported they had planned to drop small British warships, transports, damaged harbor facilities, bombarded harbor, destroyed it Allied planes.

The British said of links south of Oslo were attacked, a large fire was seen, a transport attacked in a harbor on four large ships, and the airplane base at Stavanger.

Germans and no military damage was done in the Oslo raid. The British war ministry spokesman said several German troops left Oslo ports near the Swedish town of Narvik. Whether found by Sweden was "impossible to say" (Page Three)

Recreational Groups Are Planned By NYA

Further plans for an organized recreational program were discussed at the regular meeting of the Youth Recreational Club, organized under the auspices of local NYA officials, held in the Court House Wednesday night, according to Russell Ralph Goodspeed.

Formation of a diamond ball team, a tennis club, and a string band were discussed. Following the regular business meeting, the group began the study of public speaking and Capt. Constantine DeWolfe gave them pointers in this connection.

The next meeting of the group will be held at the Court House at 8:00 o'clock next Wednesday night and those interested in taking part in the group's recreational activities were invited to attend.

Merchants Discuss Half Holiday At Meet

Closing the stores for one-half day each week beginning in June and continuing through the month of August was recommended by the members of the Business and Professional Men's Association at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce building yesterday afternoon, Edward Higgins, acting secretary, said today.

In view of the movement throughout this section to close on Wednesday afternoons instead of on Thursdays, the day of closing was not definitely decided upon. The secretary was instructed to contact the other towns in this vicinity and find if such a change is contemplated.

LOCAL WEATHER

Considerable cloudiness tonight and Saturday preceded by scattered showers in south portion this afternoon.
