Taste-science breakthrough gives low tar MERIT the flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

By locating certain flavor-rich ingredients in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have disproven the theory that cigarette flavor depends on the amount of tar that goes with it.

They've discovered how to pack flavor—unprecedented flavor—into a cigarette that delivers one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.' It's extra flavor, natural flavor, and only MERIT has it.

9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Tests Verify Taste

In taste tests involving thousands of cigarette smokers like yourself, MERIT was reported to deliver as much—or more—taste than current low tar leaders.

What's really startling is that these brands have up to 60% more tar than MERIT.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette. MERIT. Incredible smoking satisfaction at only 9 mg. tar.

THE RELUCTANT ELECTOR GOP'er Plante Will Vote And, If, But...

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

State Sen. Kenneth Plante (R-Winter Park) will be one of the state's 17 electors casting ballots in the state capitol, Tallahassee on Dec. 6 if President Ford wins Florida.

But, he doesn't really want to go and as of Monday had not returned an executed loyalty oath, practically the only requirement of an elector, to the capitol.

"I don't believe in the electoral college system," said Plante, who is to take office this month as minority leader of the state Senate. "I think the president should be elected by popular vote. We have had one or two presidents in our history who were elected by popular vote, but lost in the electoral college.

"I think there will be a change in the system in the near future. Now a presidential candidate can carry roughly 10 states, lose the rest and become president," Plante said. "Plante had decided that he would not participate in the system despite his appointment as a Republican elector by Gov. Reubin Askew on recommendation of the GOP state executive committee.

"I told the party better than six weeks ago that I did not wish to participate, but Bill Taylor (chairman of the state party) called me Sunday and asked that I change my position. So, I guess I will be an elector if Ford wins and I can serve legally since I have returned the loyalty oath," he said.

Plante opposes the electoral college system specifically because, even though the voters may choose a particular candidate, the electors can cast their ballots as they please and thwart the expressed wishes of the people.

The senator whose district 14 now is comprised only of Orange County, first became involved in politics in the 1964 Barry Goldwater election.

There were few if any Republican candidates for local office in Seminole County prior to 1966 when two GOP school board members were elected and the voters of the state elected its first Republican governor since Reconstruction.

In 1967 Plante became a candidate for the state senate district which included both Seminole and Orange Counties. His opponent was the late Sen. Beth Johnson of Orlando, the only female senator in the state at the time and very popular.

Plante won the election and has served a total of 10 years. Seminole County was part of his district for four of those years and at that time he resided in Altamonte Springs. The Plante family business is in Orléans.

A native of Winter Park, Plante and his wife, Sandi, have seven children, ranging in age from seven to 16.

Last summer Plante was offered a spot on the Florida delegation to the Republican National Convention in Kansas City, but declined the honor. "It is too big a hassle," he explained. "If I finish this term (to end in 1978) I will have served 12 years and I'm getting tired," he said.

The senator said he has no intention of using this senate seat as a stepping stone to higher elective office and hasn't even made up his mind whether he will seek re-election two years from now. "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it," he said.

He still spends time at the family business "to earn a living" and his senate responsibilities "are getting more time consuming." Active in the Ford campaign in Central Florida, Plante said he has been "trying to get things going for the President." He predicted Ford will win the election in Florida, but "it is going to be very close."

The new election laws have presented difficulties for both the Ford and Carter campaigns," he said. "According to the law, once the party primary was won, neither of the candidates could accept further campaign donations.

Both were given roughly $22 million by the government for their campaigns with about $14 million of that going to national news advertising, close to $1 million for traveling expenses and about $1 million to run national headquarters," Plante said.

The few million left had to be divided up for campaign efforts in the 50 states. As a result there has been no campaign literature available, killing work in the precincts. It's been a mass media campaign and I think it's terrible.

The party organizations have been funding boiler-room type operations with telephone polls to keep in contact with the people. Nothing could be sent out to the voters in the form of printed material. Locating literature and bumper strips for special events has been practically impossible," he said.

Electoral What?

The electoral college is a method of "officializing" the popular vote. Each state has a number of votes in the electoral college equal to the total of its senators and representatives in Congress (the District of Columbia has three electoral votes). Each of these votes is cast by an elector.

Electors are nominated in Florida by their state executive committees and are appointed by the governor. They are bound by oath to support their party's candidate. Each vote for a presidential candidate is actually a vote for his party's state electors. The candidate who wins a state's popular vote receives all the state's electoral votes (17 in Florida).

When the electoral college vote is tabulated, if no candidate has a majority of electoral votes, the U.S. House of Representatives chooses the president from the three candidates receiving the highest number of electoral votes. In this election each state has one vote and it must be cast in accordance with the outcome of that state's popular balloting in the general election.

Do people know all this? Herald Staff Writer Kris Nash went out to find out.

Question: Do you understand the American electoral college system?
Sandra Crews, 415 Lakeview Drive, Loch Arbor: "No. Since I don't understand the electoral college, I don't really know how a person can win the popular vote and still not win the election. But I don't like that system."

Nancy (Mrs. Ned N.) Julian, Banana Lake Road, Seminole County: "Yes, roughly. I can't think of how to simplify it. It's taken on the basis of delegates, and it's supposed to be representative of people who should know which candidates are qualified, because these are people who're in the legislature and have some background. It's just another bloc of votes, really, and one question might be: why campaign for two groups of people?"

Jeanette Ervin, Deltona: "Just slightly. I guess it's the best system. If the people's vote is that close, then there has to be some way of deciding who gets it."
Bob Allen, Winter Park: "Actually, no. That's something I've never really looked into. I think it only comes into action when there isn't a majority, like this year. I think this is an election when the electoral college may come into use."

Alvin Cummings, P.O. Box 3051, Sanford: "Well, the understanding I have is that each state has a certain number of votes, and the people choose the candidates they want. And then Congress and the representatives add their choices afterward."

Early Voters

In Dixville Notch...

DIXVILLE NOTCH, N.H. (AP) — In the snowy White Mountains of New Hampshire, where the presidential primaries opened nine months ago, the first voters in today's election gave President Ford a 13 to 11 lead over Jimmy Carter.

Twenty-five of the 25 registered voters walked past television cameras to cast their ballots at individual flag-draped polling booths just after midnight. The 26th voter had cast an absentee ballot.

One person voted for independent Eugene McCarthy and another had his ballot invalidated by voting for Carter, McCarthy and U.S. labor party candidate Lyndon H. LaRouche.

Dixville Notch, incorporated in 1960 just so it could stage the early-third vote and immediately release the results, has 18 registered Republicans and eight Democrats. After the vote count, Town Moderator Neil Tillotson spoke by telephone with President Ford's brother, Thomas, who was at a Dartmouth College radio station in Hanover, N.H.

"You can tell your brother, I don't know what the last vote will be, but I know what the first one was," Tillotson said. Tillotson said Thomas Ford had planned to watch the vote in person, but was "discouraged" from coming.

Thomas Ford said that when he phoned his brother to report the vote, the President said, "We're ahead." But Dixville Notch votes have not been noted for reliability as trend indicators. Except for 1972, when voters favored Richard Nixon 16 to 3 over George McGovern, the community has picked the loser in each presidential election since 1960.

In the lead-off New Hampshire primary in February of this year, Dixville Republicans gave Ford 11 votes and Ronald Reagan four. "We've found a way to get 100 per cent of the vote for 18 years," said Tillotson, owner of The Balsams resort, which holds most of the property in this pristine community. All but two of Dixville's voters work at either the resort or at a nearby rubber products plant.

County Seeks New Site School Rejected For Firehouse

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

Irate parents picketing English Estates Elementary School can put away their protest signs. Seminole County officials today said they will seek another site for location of a fire station to serve the Fern Park area.

In addition, the Seminole County Commission instructed administrators to insure that a public hearing would be held before any final site approval is announced.

Gary Kaiser, director of public safety, said he will seek to purchase about an acre of land on which to situate the fire station between now and the time a federal grant for $130,000 is expected to arrive here.

Kaiser said he expects to hear something from federal officials in Washington within 60 days.

Also, Kaiser said final approval would require a decision of the Seminole County School Appraiser's Board.

Board before the site could be located on the elementary school campus.

Kaiser was instructed by Seminole County commissioners Harry Kwasnowski and Dick Williams to hold a public hearing in the event the English Estates site is the only one deemed feasible.

Kaiser said an acre of land would cost Seminole County an additional $85,000.

"Everybody wants a fire station," Kaiser said, "but nobody wants one put in their neighborhood."

The school board tentatively approved locating the fire station on the school campus. Then the president of the English Estates PTA and about 20 other persons picketed the school Monday to protest the decision.

Picketers contend the station would endanger the lives of students.

"No one was notified" of the proposal in advance," said Edward Elstathion, president of the English Estates Homeowners Association. Elstathion said officials were "trying to jam it (the fire station) down our throats."

However, Kaiser said today that no one intended to jam anything down anyone's throat. Kaiser stressed that the tentative approval was granted in order to comply with federal grant requirements.

Although Kaiser said the English Estates site "is a good one" he said he will actively seek to purchase property to serve as alternate location.

"Be sure to establish a procedure which will include input from the residents," Williams instructed Kaiser.

No Continuance, Case Dismissed

State Atty Abbott Herring's office today dropped lottery charges against a Geneva retiree and his wife after Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGregor declined to grant a fourth continuance in the cases.

Assistant State Atty William Staley said, however, that the cases against Donald Alexander Dunn Sr., 65, and Margaret C. Dunn, 67, both of Lake Harney Circle, Geneva, will be re-filed in circuit court in Volusia County.

The Duns were arrested May 21 on indictments returned by a statewide grand jury probing illegal gambling activities. Dunn was accused of maintaining a gambling house, promoting a lottery and possession of lottery tickets. Mrs. Dunn was accused of aiding a lottery and possession of lottery paraphernalia.

The indictments came after state agents raided the Dunn residence April 3 seizing $1,012 cash and what agents termed lottery paraphernalia.

Herring's office unsuccessfully sought continuances Monday in the Dunn trials. The prosecution said it would be unable to produce this week a key state witness, Warren L. Holmes, from the FBI's Washington, D.C. laboratory.

Hot Ovens

By The Associated Press
PLAINS, Ga. — It is axiomatic in the land of cotton that when anything emotional occurs, happy or sad, a wedding, a funeral, a lull or a barn burns down, the women head for the kitchen.

Today, a man from the Deep South may be elected president of the United States for the first time in more than a century, and the ladies in his home town, Plains, population 683, not including Billy Carter's last baby, have been working tremulously at their microwave ovens.

Win or lose, there will be cakes, pies and cookies, on long tables tonight outside of the old train depot, which is now Jimmy Carter's headquarters, to provide the sustenance necessary to hear the verdict of history.

"Miss Allie" Smith, a reserved, graying woman in a rust-colored pants suit, baked her batterrum pound cake Monday. "I knew I'd be too nervous on election day," said the mother-in-law of the Democrat candidate. That nervousness was by no means limited to infolk Mrs. Ralph Cornwell, for example, who has been baking plum cakes for years to ecstatic reviews, baked her plum cake the day before to be certain that in the unlikely event the tension produced a failure, there would be time to make a comeback.

W.C. Lumb Jr., a one-man city hall who is city clerk, police chief and water superintendent, estimates there are about 300 eligible voters within Greater Metropolitan Plains. He further estimates that if they all turn out, the vote will be at least nine to one, or 180 to 20 for Jimmy Carter.

But what if he loses, a possibility not lost in the regional pride of Jimmy Carter's neighbors? The Rev. Eugene Cariker of the First United Methodist Church in nearby Americus, a tall thin man, considered the question with a visible shudder and answered, only in partial jest: "If Jimmy loses, the churches will suddenly have to find a lot of counselors to make condolence calls. Either that or there will have to be a massive group therapy session. It would be a form of shock."

Rhodesian Leaders Meet To Discuss Take-Over Date

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Ivor Richard, the British chairman of the Rhodesia conference, called black and white leaders to an informal meeting today to discuss a date for the blacks to take over the Rhodesian government. No agreement appeared likely. Black leaders were reported insisting on taking control from the white minority on Sept. 1, 1977. Prime Minister Ian Smith was said to be adamant that he would agree to nothing less than the two-year transition period proposed to him by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Rhodesians Stage Raid

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian government forces returned from Mozambique today after a 36-hour invasion during which they killed hundreds of black Rhodesian guerrillas and destroyed seven guerrilla camps, security sources reported. Casualties among the Rhodesian government forces were not known yet. Mozambique's black government accused Prime Minister Ian Smith's white-minority regime of a "major military assault on an independent sovereign state." It said its forces were battling fiercely to expel the invaders.

Truce Prospects Improve

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Prospects for a lasting truce in Lebanon's civil war improved somewhat today with the agreement by two important Christian leaders to allow the Arab peacekeeping force to police their territory. "We do not oppose deployment of the pan-Arab police force in any Lebanese area provided this force gains the confidence of the Lebanese people and becomes a source of security," said Pierre Gemayel, the head of the Phalange party. Former President Camille Chamoun, the leader of the National Liberal party, told President Elias Sarkis he also would accept the peace force.

Burundi Chief Overthrown

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Michel Micombero of the tiny central African republic of Burundi was overthrown in a military coup Monday a rebel broadcast announced itself. The broadcast, by a station calling itself the Voice of Burundi Revolution, did not identify the leader of the coup. Micombero, a member of the minority ruling Tutsi tribe, took power 10 years ago, replacing a Tutsi monarchy with a Tutsi republic. The majority Hutu tribe attempted to take over in 1972 but failed, and United Nations officials said the Tutsis massacred at least 80,000 Hutus.

Iowa Rainbow Girls Lose Charters Over Race Issue

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) — The International Order of the Rainbow, a service organization for young girls, canceled the charters of all 136 Iowa chapters after one of them voted to admit a girl whose mother is black. "I hit us like a bolt out of the blue," said Carol Holdsworth, grand deputy for Rainbow assemblies in an area of south central Iowa that includes Indianola.

She and other Rainbow officials said they learned Monday that the order had expelled Iowa's assemblies, with a membership of 5,000 girls, because the Indianola branch voted in October to admit Michelle Palmer, 12.

Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the 15-member American Helsinki commission, charged Kissinger late Monday with "obstruction" for his decision. Kissinger replied by accusing Fascell of "partisan politics."

Rhodesians Stage Raid

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian government forces returned from Mozambique today after a 36-hour invasion during which they killed hundreds of black Rhodesian guerrillas and destroyed seven guerrilla camps, security sources reported. Casualties among the Rhodesian government forces were not known yet. Mozambique's black government accused Prime Minister Ian Smith's white-minority regime of a "major military assault on an independent sovereign state." It said its forces were battling fiercely to expel the invaders.

Truce Prospects Improve

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Prospects for a lasting truce in Lebanon's civil war improved somewhat today with the agreement by two important Christian leaders to allow the Arab peacekeeping force to police their territory. "We do not oppose deployment of the pan-Arab police force in any Lebanese area provided this force gains the confidence of the Lebanese people and becomes a source of security," said Pierre Gemayel, the head of the Phalange party. Former President Camille Chamoun, the leader of the National Liberal party, told President Elias Sarkis he also would accept the peace force.

Burundi Chief Overthrown

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Michel Micombero of the tiny central African republic of Burundi was overthrown in a military coup Monday a rebel broadcast announced itself. The broadcast, by a station calling itself the Voice of Burundi Revolution, did not identify the leader of the coup. Micombero, a member of the minority ruling Tutsi tribe, took power 10 years ago, replacing a Tutsi monarchy with a Tutsi republic. The majority Hutu tribe attempted to take over in 1972 but failed, and United Nations officials said the Tutsis massacred at least 80,000 Hutus.

Iowa Rainbow Girls Lose Charters Over Race Issue

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) — The International Order of the Rainbow, a service organization for young girls, canceled the charters of all 136 Iowa chapters after one of them voted to admit a girl whose mother is black. "I hit us like a bolt out of the blue," said Carol Holdsworth, grand deputy for Rainbow assemblies in an area of south central Iowa that includes Indianola.

She and other Rainbow officials said they learned Monday that the order had expelled Iowa's assemblies, with a membership of 5,000 girls, because the Indianola branch voted in October to admit Michelle Palmer, 12.

Kissinger Bars Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is barring three administration officials from a congressionally approved mission to the Soviet Union and 23 other European countries to monitor human rights under the Helsinki agreement. Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the 15-member American Helsinki commission, charged Kissinger late Monday with "obstruction" for his decision. Kissinger replied by accusing Fascell of "partisan politics."

Good Weather Prevails

By The Associated Press
Good weather marked Election Day in most of the country. The dry weather pattern that prevailed over the nation Monday was expected to last through today in most areas. Precipitation this morning was limited to a few showers over northern Minnesota and west Oregon and some snow in northern New England.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court under Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, so goes the cry of indignant critics, is proprocessor and antiterrorist in its decisions.

But the Burger court's decision Monday on the appeal of a California man arrested at a suspect's home without warrants. The court refused to consider an appeal by California officials seeking to expand the right of police officers to make arrests at a suspect's home without warrants.

Juveniles Plead Guilty

Two juveniles indicted by the Seminole County Grand Jury for trial as adults on armed burglary counts pleaded guilty Monday in circuit court. John Jack Coen, 16, of Moraga, Calif., told the court that he was the wheelman and lookout for a juvenile gang that burglarized a Fern Park residence in June taking a quantity of firearms. He pleaded guilty, as charged, to the burglary.

Public Service Commission Suspends FP&L Hike Request

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Public Service Commission now has up to eight months to wrestle with the largest rate-hike request ever put before it: A $349-million bid from Florida Power & Light. The PSC ordered the request suspended on Monday. Under state law, that action gives the three-member panel until next summer to study the matter and make a decision. But the commissioners said they would tackle the first thorny question in the hike on Nov. 29, that being a request by the utility for $40 million in increases in January. FP&L, the state's largest power company, is also seeking permission to recover construction costs of its St. Lucie nuclear power plant. The $500-million facility, scheduled to begin operation in December, would result in a drop in fuel-adjustment charges for the utility's 1.7 million customers because of the cheaper cost of nuclear generation.

Brannen Resigns Post

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — After being cleared of conspiracy and perjury charges and reinstated, Polk County Sheriff Monroe Brannen has resigned his 16-year post. Brannen said in a letter to Gov. Reubin Askew on Monday that his resignation would clear the way for Louie Mims, who defeated Brannen in a Democratic run-off, to assume the post Wednesday. Mims has no Republican opponent in today's general election. Brannen was acquitted of a perjury charge last month and a charge of conspiracy was then dropped. Both stemmed from an alleged plot to smear another primary opponent, Marvin Pittman.

Regent Approves Criticism

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — A preliminary staff study of the state university system's role in Florida affairs during the next 25 years has stirred up some criticism. And Chairman Marshall Criser of the Board of Regents says that's good. "I hope there will be a lot of disagreement and stress and turmoil," Criser commented during the regents' meeting Monday. "The only criticizing I will do is if you don't stimulate discussion and challenge the status quo." One proposal would merge the University of North Florida in Jacksonville with the University of Florida at Gainesville.

Miami's Buzzards Return

MIAMI (AP) — Neither shouts nor thrown objects nor scarecrows nor electricity could keep the buzzards from their appointed stop atop the Dade County Courthouse. So after 50 years of battle, the birds have won the right to roost in peace. Court house supervisor Sam Griffith says he and fellow employees will no longer try to shoo the carrion eaters from the building's pyramid-shaped roof. "They are conversation pieces for the tour groups," he said. "They really don't do any harm if we clean up the feathers, and even if they are gruesome close up, they are graceful in the sky."

HRS Awarded $1.3 Million

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services has been awarded $1.3 million in federal funds to set up programs for juvenile offenders in eight Florida counties. More than 5,000 juveniles are to be diverted from the corrections system into non-penal, job-stressing activities under the three-year program, Lt. Gov. Jim Williams said in a Monday news release. The counties are Alachua, Broward, Columbia, Lake, Marion, Orange, Osceola and Seminole.

Let Our Leaders Speak Their Minds

Foot in the mouth disease is endemic among those in high government service. A simple, honest remark that is misinterpreted often can give officials great trouble. The latest to return this lesson is Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The general has a reputation for directness, a quality not unusual for those who have dedicated their lives to military service.

Gen. Brown's comment to a reporter that Israel was a military burden to the United States created shock waves in Congress and the Jewish community. It should not have. The general made it clear that he was speaking in a strictly military sense about our commitment of supplies to Israel. He did not address the obligation we have to Israel as an ally, nor could he have since he has no policy-making authority in foreign affairs.

Gen. Brown was equally frank in his assessment that British military forces are "pathetic." One can argue about the fact that England's defense forces are a shadow of what they were or what they should be. Not surprisingly, a number of British officers came to Gen. Brown's defense when Jimmy Carter tried to make the Brown statements an overblown campaign issue.

The troublesome thing about the intense reaction to the opinion of Gen. Brown is that it is more against his candor and frankness than to the truth of what he said. That is also the case in the immediate public reaction to the advance text of a speech prepared by FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley which criticized the press. Because of the uproar, Kelley was asked by his boss, the attorney general, to delete the critical remarks.

It's too bad. Kelley should speak his mind, as should Brown, now and in the future, so the chips may fall as they will.

If the United States loses the capacity for frank and open discussion without undue passion, the cornerstone of the First Amendment will have tarnished a bit. Inhibiting speech is only a step behind preventing it.

Census Plan Bows

The move to a middledecade census, signed into law by President Ford, acknowledges the changing pace of life in the United States.

The American population has grown and become more mobile during the second half of the 20th Century. Federal policies, business initiatives, local government needs are tied to identification of trends within the great society.

The traditional method of counting and categorizing the nation's people every 10 years lags behind the changes in the habits of the population.

The scheduled national census for 1985 will replace hundreds of regional head counts undertaken at untold expense to meet special informational demands.

The revision of the census law is a Bicentennial recognition of the increased tempo of the American heartbeat and of the need to keep a close watch on the American pulse.

Around

The Clock

Figures, statistics, percentages — they've all been thrown and banded about in recent months, weeks and days — especially in connection with one of the proposed amendments to the Florida State Constitution on November 3, 1976.

The amendment, number 6, to Article II would prevent the number of fulltime salaried state employees from exceeding one percent of the official estimate of the state's population for the preceding year.

Coincidentally in that context, the Florida Chamber of Commerce in its October "Legislative Hotline" newsletter has added more figures to the mix.

According to the newsletter, Florida experienced a 10 percent rate of growth in state government, compared to an 8.5 percent growth for the United States as a whole from 1973 to 1975. But, as high a jump as this might seem, Florida was outdone by some of the other states often compared and linked to Florida as high-growth states: California, Texas, and Arizona.

From 1973 to 1975, it is noted, population grew 8.2 percent, while the number of state employees increased 10 percent. In 1973 there were 95,500 state employees, representing 1.22 percent of the total population. Last year this number grew to 106,000, or 1.24 percent of the state population of 8,484,230.

Total government in Florida, it is also reported, ranks first in terms of total wages paid. Between 1963 and 1973, for instance, total private wages and salaries increased 201 percent; while the state payroll increased 295 percent.

The 1975 state government payroll totaled $89.8 million, more than double what it was in 1970 and 33 percent more than what it was in 1973.

In 1975 the average monthly earnings for state employees in Florida was $99, representing a 60.6 percent increase since 1970.

The U.S. average earnings for state government employees remains above the Florida average, but the gap, according to the Chamber, is closing. In 1970 the difference was around $100; in 1975, it was $55. Florida's average earnings are more than other southern states.

As for the future, the Florida Chamber of Commerce notes that if by fiscal year 2000 the state population is 12.5 million — considered a conservative estimate — and the employ percentage grows at the same rate as the previous 30 years, there will be 342,500 state employees.

It is therefore possible, the Chamber states, that state government will more than triple in size in the next 25 years.

Thus, the proposed constitutional amendment to Article II on today's ballot takes on added significance.

employment. And, among the Southern states, Alabama, Georgia and North and South Carolina also had larger increases than Florida.

Up until 1973, it was noted, these southern states were lower than Florida in some — experts suggest that the changing trend emphasizes the fact that Florida was harder hit by the recession than the others.

And, specifically on the matter of Florida government employment, the "Hotline" indicates that "as Florida's population has grown, the number of state employees as a percentage of that population has grown faster."

From 1973 to 1975, it is noted, population grew 8.2 percent, while the number of state employees increased 10 percent. In 1973 there were 95,500 state employees, representing 1.22 percent of the total population. Last year this number grew to 106,000, or 1.24 percent of the state population of 8,484,230.

Hechler-Crackpot Candidate

HUNTINGTON, W. VA. — Ken Hechler has always been an unconventional, even a crackpot, politician. A Democrat, he has told his constituents of the corruption in his party. A U.S. Representative for what was then the West Virginia statehouse. Moreover, "to make a point of it," he insisted on running without fund raising, without an organization, and without compromising a tad to the anti-people politics he deplores.

Naturally he lost. Idealism in politics is like Christian conduct in pro hockey. Folks in the know here still chuckle at the memory of the twelfth Hechler stumping the state in his red Jeep, talking of honesty and democratic process. Yuh, yuh. Ah, well John (Jay) Rockefeller outspit Hechler $1.7 million to $30,000, and won handsily.

So it was early this year, in the autumn of his ninth term in office, Hechler, 61, confounded pragmatism again. He decided to run for the West Virginia statehouse. Moreover, "to make a point of it," he insisted on running without fund raising, without an organization, and without compromising a tad to the anti-people politics he deplores.

Many Problems Persist

NEW YORK (AP) — The President of the United States will face the next four years continuing to deal with serious price problems involving the basic needs of food, shelter and health. His work is cut out for him.

The most encouraging view of the challenge is that at least a start has been made; from the extraordinary peak of 12 per cent in the midst of recession, inflation has dropped to between 5 and 6 per cent today.

But even as the rate came down, the economic landscape has remained pitted and pocked with mines yet to be defused. There is the chance of higher oil prices. There is the potential for shortages of food and other necessities. There are special inflationary problems involving housing, medical care and ecology.

There remains also the memory of the experience, and that too tends to be inflationary, threatening to swell demand in certain areas when fears arise that prices are likely to be higher in the future.

Though they experienced them, many families are still awed to realize that fish costs 75 per cent more today than five years ago, that food overall has risen 53 per cent, and that prices in general have soared 41 per cent.

And that medical care has risen 44 per cent in those five years, fuel oil more than 100 per cent, transportation 40 per cent, automobile insurance 40 per cent, used car prices 52 per cent —.

One of the most encouraging developments points out Fabian Linden of the Conference Board, which compiled these percentages, is that food prices over the past 12 months have risen barely at all. But can it continue?

The high jobless rate meanwhile has provided a far more stubborn than expected, a situation that chaotically has been attributed to entering the workforce that causes the problem, we are told.

Any woman who has newly taken a job knows the matter is more complex than that. Life style are changing, and many families now depend upon two incomes and, in growing numbers, on more than two incomes.

The outlook of women also is changing, and the country now has the opportunity to utilize the services and skills of many females who heretofore hid their talents in often rewarding but sometimes menial household work.

The opportunity to benefit from these newly released skills is erroneously viewed as the problem when, in truth, the problem is that we have failed to develop an economy that can benefit from this resource.

"Kendall told us that present trends indicate volume of vodka imports into U.S. could support the early construction of a total of 25 Pepsi Cola bottling plants in the U.S.S.R. He said his longterm goal was 50 plants."

A Pepsi spokesman said the State Dept. cable was wrong; he said the company has no plans beyond constructing five Pepsi plants in the Soviet Union. He also disputed the derogatory State Dept. memo; he said Kendall had worked unskillfully for the best interests of the United States on the trade council.

A Coca Cola spokesman said either Kendall or the cable was wrong; he said the offer to provide Cokes for the Olympics was between $3 million and $5 million not $10 million.

Meanwhile, Austin is trying to introduce "the real thing" to Russia and Kendall is trying to keep it out. This great cola battle may be decided indirectly by voters on Tuesday.

Footnote: Both Kendall and Austin have made an exploratory trip to the Chinese mainland. Both came back convinced that China isn't yet ready for cola. But both men are eager to introduce their favorite beverage to China, perhaps on a limited basis at first as a refreshment for tourists.

Kendall is ahead of Austin, according to State Dept. sources, in the backstage maneuvering to follow up a possible detente with Cuba.

Media Ignored Real News

WASHINGTON — One of the unfortunate things about Jimmy Carter's conversation with Playboy magazine is that the national news media focused exclusively on Carter's confessions about adultery and bad but totally ignored many other newsworthy aspects of this story.

Item: Crime is the hidden issue in this presidential campaign. A recent Gallup Poll showed it as the fourth most important concern to the American people. Yet Carter, when asked what kind of judges he would appoint as President, says he would appoint "competent and sound" but it would be "inappropriate to ask them how they were going to rule on a particular question before I appoint them."

But, pray tell, why? In Oklahoma City last month Carter criticized Earl Warren's Supreme Court for having gone "too far" to the point where "sincere, honest, dedicated, competent law enforcement officers found it almost impossible to comply with all the technicalities... and obviously guilty people were released and unpunished and society in the process suffered."

What in the world would be wrong with President Carter asking his potential appointees to the Supreme Court or lower federal courts if they agree? I see nothing improper with this at all, or his asking about any other issues pertaining to law enforcement, for that matter.

Well, Carter doesn't say but his campaign manager, Hamilton Jordan, gives us a clue. He tells interviewer Scherer: "You're going to see new faces, new ideas. The government is going to be run by people you have never heard of."

This can hardly be reassuring to those who may vote for Carter but are still doubtful because they don't know where he really stands on the issues.

But Carter does say something that is undoubtedly reassuring to those who will make up his personal staff, if it is President. When asked about his own strict moral code and whether he would set a "puritanical tone" in the White House, Carter says indignantly, "I've been a governor for four years. Anybody can come and look at my record. I didn't run around breaking down people's doors to see if they were fornicating. This is ridiculous."

Now, this has got to be good news for Carter's press aide, Jody Powell, his speechwriter, Pat Anderson, his pollster, Pat Caddell, his media adviser, Richard Ralston, and his aide, who would set a "puritanical tone" in the White House, Carter says indignantly, "I've been a governor for four years. # Brock Challenges Public Defender Fee Schedules

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Newman Brock told Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor in a Monday hearing that circuit judges have "summarily, by some order" decided that appointed defense attorneys will get a maximum of $350 in second-degree felony cases and $200 in first-degree felony cases. State law sets remuneration for appointed defense attorneys in capital cases at $750 plus up to $250 for investigative expenses, he said. Brock said he contends that the $350 he received on court order for defending a man acquitted by a jury in September in a marijuana possession case is a violation of the lawyer's constitutional rights.

Brock submitted earlier affidavits from two other attorneys saying they thought Brock's services in the drug case were worth at least $1,500. Brock said if he had been hired privately in the case his fee would have been $2,500 to $3,000.

The Altamonte Springs lawyer said he feels his constitutional rights have been violated by the fee schedule situation in that his private property — his time and costs — have been taken for public use without just compensation. He cited a federal court decision that he says backs his position and argued his motion before a court reporter, apparently building a record should there be an appeal to a federal court. Judge McGregor reserved ruling on Brock's motion and said he will consult with other circuit judges on the situation. He said when he puts his name on a list of attorneys available for court appointment in cases where regular public defenders have a conflict in representing a defendant that he "was not aware of the minimum fee schedule."

Judge McGregor said the local judges adopted the schedule three years ago and if Brock "doesn't wish to be court-appointed and work for the prevailing rate" that he should have his name removed from the list. Brock said he takes cases for indigents for the local Legal Aid society as a public service.

Holiday Spirit Very Apparent; Many Urge Placing Orders Early

Lakeview Residents Enjoy Halloween Entertainment

Residents at Lakeview Nursing Center, 319 E. 2nd St., Sanford, enjoyed a Halloween Party last Friday forenoon and many of them were in costumes for the occasion. Children from Jeanne McClure Elementary School and the kindergarten at Sanford were on hand to entertain residents, singing songs and making the atmosphere "general party-like." The children were dressed in Halloween costumes for their annual visit. Following the party, all residents and the kindergarten children enjoyed a light lunch together.

Virginia Michalowski, "Mrs. Mike," as she is affectionately known, is Lakeview administrator, said that plans are underway for the Thanksgiving observance then there will be an annual bazaar, sponsored by the activities department. The bazaar, Dec. 6-10, will feature items the residents have made during the year. All will be for sale. Jane Miller is in charge of the event.

There are 105 beds at Lakeview Center, a skilled nursing home, and there are 80 persons employed there. Mrs. Mike said the 105 beds are usually filled. Susan Castrianni is assistant administrator.

RICKY BRYSON

Texas Tech Climbs 5th Rung

Unbeaten Texas Tech continued its steady climb in The Associated Press' college football ratings today, moving up to fifth place behind holders Michigan, Pitt, UCLA and Southern California.

The Red Raiders of Tech were unranked in the preseason AP poll and did not crack the Top Twenty until the second week. However, in the last seven weeks they have climbed from 20th to 17th, 15th, ninth, eighth, sixth and now fifth. Tech boasts a 6-0 record following Saturday's 31-20 triumph over Texas.

The top four spots are filled by the same teams for the second week in a row. Michigan, which has been No. 1 during the entire regular campaign after standing second in a ranking in the preseason ratings, received 57 first-place votes and 1,228 of a possible 1,240 points after raising its record to 8-0 with a 45-0 rout of Minnesota.

Pitt, a 23-13 winner over Syracuse, received the other five first-place ballots and 1,076 points. Last week, Michigan's point lead was 1,184-1,068.

UCLA owned Washington 30-21 and received 975 votes while Southern Cal turned back California and totaled 738 points. Texas Tech received 703 points in rising to fifth. The Red Raiders replaced Maryland, which

Oilers Have Door Slammed In Face Colts Psyched By TV Game, 38-14

BALTIMORE (AP) — Motivation took many forms. For Joe Ehrman, it was the presence of national television. For John Dutton, it was the memory of a rookie season best forgotten. And for Lydell Mitchell, it was the fact that it was "a big game."

Whatever turned them on, Ehrman, Dutton, Mitchell and the rest of the Baltimore Colts were ready for Monday night's nationally televised game against Houston, and the Oilers could do nothing to dampen the spirit.

The Colts, playing in their first Monday night National Football League game in four years, turned Houston turnovers into early touchdowns and held the Oilers' explosive offense in check for a 38-14 victory.

The triumph was the Colts' fifth in a row and gave them a 7-1 record and a two-game lead over New England in the American Conference East. Houston won 14-4 after losing its third consecutive game.

"We were high," said Ehrman, who had four tackles and a quarterback sack from his right defensive tackle position. "A lot of it was team pride, not a feeling that we had been slighted by TV, but we just had the chance to say, 'Hey, here we are.'"

The Colts, playing in their first Monday night National Football League game in four years, turned Houston turnovers into early touchdowns and held the Oilers' explosive offense in check for a 38-14 victory.

That keeps us all working very hard. It was a learning experience, I guess, but I don't want to relive it."

Mitchell, whose 136 yards pushed his AP-leading total to 726, said he wasn't thinking that much about national exposure or atoning for past shortcomings when he took the field Monday night.

"It was a big game, that's all," he said. "In a game like that, all you have to do is win."

ATLANTA (AP) — Coach Doug Dickey of 12th-ranked Louisiana State said before the football season opened that split end Wes Chandler "might be the best player in the country."

Chandler, a 186-pound junior, was the winning edge Saturday when the Gators trimmed Auburn 24-19. His performance has earned him The Associated Press' Southeastern Lineman of the Week award.

Also, we'll find Notre Dame's Irish lads turning back Georgia Tech, 35-14. Texas Tech, thumping UCLA, 42-12. UCLA winning handily over Oregon, 36-4, and Alabama, preparing for its important meeting with Notre Dame next week, will down LSU, 24-17.

There's special significance in the Mid-American showdown battle between Bowling Green and Cleveland Buckeyes, our tabular cats. It's the classic matchup of the Falcons offense (averaging 392 yards per game) and the strong defense of the Bobcats (limiting opponents to a 239-yard per game average), with the conference title going to the victor.

Club Notes Glass Is Popular Collectible

The third most popular collectible in the country—after coins and stamps—is glass, according to Sanford Depression glass enthusiast Sara Myers.

Today there are over 300,000 collectors of glass in the U.S. Unique glass, contemporary glass—it all holds a fascination which makes people want to board it, trade it, show it.

The Central Florida Depression Era Glass Club recently presented books by Depression glass expert Hazel Marie Wheaberman to six libraries in Central Florida, including the Sanford Public Library, in an effort to stir up interest in glass collecting.

There already exist several glass enthusiasts in the area, and the Sanford Depression Glass Show has become an annual event which draws collectors from across the country. The fifth annual Sanford Glass Show will be held Jan. 29 and 30 in the Sanford Civic Center. Already, members of the Central Florida club are planning their exhibit.

The club meets the first Thursday of each month at 8 p.m. in the First Federal of Orlando building, 200 Senoran Blvd., Altamonte Springs. Members are both men and women, young and old. While Depression glass is the specialty of most collectors of other types of glass are also welcome to join the club.

Anyone interested in joining should either attend a meeting or call Mrs. Myers for more information at 322-6599.

Group Sex Idea Doesn't Suit Their Taste

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I belong to a gourmet cooking club that meets once a month. We are six middle-aged married couples who enjoy learning how to prepare foods of the various foreign countries. Recently, the conversation has turned more and more to sex, which has made my husband and me very uncomfortable. One couple keeps talking about "group sex." At first I thought they were kidding, but now I'm not so sure. Last evening we learned how to make a typical Mexican meal, and the subject got around to "hot stuff," and they were back on sex again. Several other couples seemed interested in the group-sex idea.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon at a beautiful formal church wedding, but something came up yesterday that disturbs me terribly. My future mother-in-law told me that Della, my future sister-in-law, who is coming to town for the wedding, plans to nurse her 4-month-old baby during the wedding ceremony. The baby's feeding time is the same hour as the ceremony, which Della doesn't want to miss, and she feels she just can't skip her baby's feeding.

I'm afraid if they put it to a vote, we'd be outvoted. Then what would we do?

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that may not seem like much to you, but it's more than enough for me. I am a 17-year-old girl, weigh 130 pounds and am 6 feet tall. That's my problem. I'm just too tall.

I have never had a boyfriend, and that's what I really want. Friends, both girls and boys, say I have a pretty face and a beautiful personality, and they are forever trying to fix me up with dates, but it's always just a one-night thing.

DEAR TALL AND LONELY: My mother says that one day the right man will come along, but I'm doubtful. Can you give me some tips on how a tall girl can get steady male companionship? I'm really desperate.

DEAR TALL AND LONELY: Lift up your chin, throw back your shoulders and think of yourself as a beautiful, long-stemmed model. Keep a smile on your beaming face, forget about yourself and concentrate on the other person.

DEAR TALL AND LONELY: Don't feel sorry for yourself, don't slouch, and NEVER mention your height. Show a genuine interest in fellows who are shorter than you. (Good things sometimes come in small packages.)

DEAR TALL AND LONELY: I've always liked to sew and always made my own clothes.

Shower Honors Ms. Burke

A lingerie shower was held honoring Sandra Bowes Burke, bride elect of Joseph P. Sequina and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Bowes Sr., Sanford, on Oct. 27, at the Country Club Road home of Mr. and Mrs. David Michael Anstey.

Refreshments of cake, pink lettuce, iced coffee were served from a table covered with a white linen cloth and decorated with yellow candles and a dozen red roses, a gift from the bridegroom to his fiancée. The hostess gift was a matching gown and slipper set.

The wedding was an event of Oct. 29 at the Mason et Jardin, Altamonte Springs.

Guests attending the shower included Mesdames R.L. Bowes, Robert Thomas, James Adams, Guy St. Dennis, Frank Bowes, MacCracken, Phillip Stokes and Rick Bowes.

Also, Mesdames Chuck Bowes, Glenn Anstey, Bill Crapps, Bill Kennedy, Thad Rush, Larry Rush and Dennis Brumham, and the Misses Tawny Fernandez and Nina Burke.

Meet Your Commissioners Women Walking Around In Dark

By MARYLYN TIPTON Herald Correspondent

June Gordon is a woman of many interests—and many degrees. Her BS Degree, Masters in Counseling, certification as a school psychologist (among other degrees) all came after her six children were born. She may get one other one if she decides it is worth her time and effort, "but I'm weighing that very carefully." June also coordinates Project 21st Century Woman at Seminole Community College.

She was one of the women who spearheaded the formation of the Central Florida Commission on the Status of Women.

"I'm on the Commission simply because I think it's needed," she says firmly. "Many people are stuck with stereotyped ideas regarding the roles of women especially, but also of men. We don't look far enough into the future."

"First I'd like to see the Commission doing some kind of research and studies about how women are included and excluded with regard to job opportunities and training. There should be answers to questions. Are women not participating? If not, is it by choice or by not being allowed to participate?"

"Then we should do something about it. Legally we can't really do much because we are only able to advise. Hopefully the Commission will get stronger in the future."

"Then we need community education with regard to the status of women in the various communities in Central Florida. If we find we need to present laws, to promote programs, then we must stick to our guns."

"We might also get to be a clearing house for women. We need a hot line with women, not professional counselors, who can stay anonymous—just listen, then tell a caller where she can get help. The problem might be alcoholism, child abuse, spouse abuse, but usually it would deal in some way with marital-family relationships."

"I'd like to see us publish some hard-boiled guidelines, on divorce, on marital separation, on legal rights. We don't have any guides at all. Women walk around in the dark."

Fashion Predictions From New Fabric Store Owner

Enjoy your earbstone outfits and natural heather color combinations this fall and winter—because they're going to be replaced in the spring with whites and blues.

That is the fashion low-down brought back to Sanford from the Southeastern Fashion Show in Atlanta, Ga., by Caroline Holtzlaw, owner of Milady's fabric store.

The new Milady's Shoppe, that is Mrs. Holtzlaw, assisted by her husband, Richard, has moved shop from her former small premises at 117 Magnolia Ave., to a much bigger store—the former B.E. Purrell's on the corner of Magnolia and First Street.

With the idea in mind of stocking her new store with three times as much merchandise as her old one could contain, Mrs. Holtzlaw traveled to the Southeastern Fabric Show Oct. 16-18.

Mrs. Holtzlaw has been in the fabric business since 1962. Her husband retired from the opera as a maintenance man, and she has worked across the country.

During that time, Mrs. Holtzlaw traveled with him, and thoroughly enjoyed the semi-gypsy life.

"I've always liked to sew and always made my own clothes," she explained. "My mother always stressed that quality lasts longer." It was natural, when looking to go into business in Sanford, that she should choose something related to sewing.

In fact, she not only sells the fabric, but also holds evening classes on basic knit sewing, lingerie, swimwear and men's wear sewing.

As if running a business of her own were not enough to fill her time, Mrs. Holtzlaw obtained her real estate license two and half years ago and now works parttime as a realtor.

'President Carter': Time To Fix Mistakes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect Jimmy Carter's long, once-solitary journey from Plains, Ga., will carry him to the White House in January with a victory forged from the traditional Democratic party coalition of the Old South and industrial North.

Carter was declared the victor over President Gerald Ford early today when his electoral vote total reached 272, two more than the 270 needed for election.

Ford called Carter to concede early this afternoon. The latest returns showed Carter carrying 23 states with 272 electoral votes.

The popular vote totals from 90 per cent of the nation's precincts gave Carter 36,565,737 and Ford 34,519,511.

"I pray that I can live up to your confidence and never disappoint you," Carter told jubilant supporters in Atlanta after the results were clear.

Carter praised Ford as "the most formidable opponent that anyone could possibly have." And he called his defeated opponent "a good and decent man."

Neither Ford, the first incumbent denied a new term since Herbert Hoover was swept from office in 1932, nor his running mate, Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, appeared at a Republican "victory party."

A White House spokesman said Ford had gone to bed before Carter was declared the winner.

Carter's desires for a change in Washington overcame their qualms about Jimmy Carter and their respect for Ford's experience in office.

Carter won by coaxing support from the traditional Democratic bloc, despite their feelings, expressed in the survey, that he has promised more than he can deliver and that he will be a less than excellent president.

French Wins, Other County Races ??

Eighty-three per cent — 43,395 — of Seminole County's voters cast ballots in the general election Tuesday, a record turnout, perhaps, for the entire state of Florida.

The turnout was exceeded in Seminole County history only by the Kennedy-Nixon election in 1960 when 87.57 of the county's voters went to the polls.

Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce, who had predicted an 80 per cent turnout, said today she is pleased.

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer Robert French (D-Casselberry) won a seat on the county commission in Tuesday's election, but names of the winners of two other positions on the board remain in limbo today.

In the race for the district three seat on the commission, only 298 votes separate incumbent Republican Richard Williams and Democrat Dave Guter with Williams holding the lead.

A surprise appeared as the polls closed Tuesday when William E. Kirchhoff (R-Sanford) was leading by 584 votes former Commissioner John Alexander (D-Sanford) for the district five seat.

It had been thought Alexander might challenge the absentee ballots because a box does not appear after his name. Seminole Elections Supervisor Camilla Bruce said today the form of the ballot had been approved by Secretary of State Bruce Smith's office.

The unofficial tally gave French 18,901 to 13,726 for his Republican opponent Vince Perry of Winter Springs and 6,692 to the former Democrat turned independent Tom Binford.

Williams, meanwhile, received 19,191 to Gunter's 18,898 for the district three spot and Kirchhoff received 18,829 to Alexander's 18,255.

The counting of the absentee ballots will determine which political party will be the majority.

French said today that he is "glad I didn't have to wait all day on the absentee votes to determine that I had won."

French, who easily defeated incumbent Chairman Michael Hattaway in the Democratic primaries, predicted more changes will be made in the commission by the voters two years hence unless business is conducted in the way that the people want it done.

French said he decided to run for the office in April. "It took six long months," he said, "before the Commissioners will take office Nov. 16."

Any votes out there? John Alexander, candidate for the District Five county commission seat, peers out window of Seminole County courthouse as election results poured in late Tuesday. Alexander's race against William E. Kirchhoff was extremely close, and absentee ballots were expected to prove crucial.
