

Cure For Strange Disease Found

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK 23 — Medical science has succeeded, at last, in deliberately curing one case of an exceedingly strange disease. But the victory is rather embarrassing—because science isn't sure how it was done.

The disease is compulsive swearing which, scientifically, is "Gilles de la Tourette's disease." Some people who are forever making the atmosphere blue with their outing, are not victims of this disease. They're victims, rather, of habit.

The real victims have absolutely no choice about it. When an attack comes, they spout obscenities—loudly and clearly.

Georges Gilles de la Tourette, distinguished French neurologist, 1857-1904 got his name attached to it because he was the first to describe it scientifically, although not the first to observe it.

The classic case was that of a woman who was seven when she fell victim to it, spent a life-time isolated from society because she couldn't control it, and still had it when she died at 85.

Most authorities consider it a prelude to frank insanity. And all authorities are gloomy about the future of the victims, considering it more or less incurable. That is why the deliberate cure of just one case is quite big news in medical science.

The cure was brought about by Dr. Richard P. Michael in a London hospital and reported in full detail to the British Medical Assn. The victim was 28 and the disease had been building up since childhood. When he came to treatment he was utterly unacceptable in business, in social life, even in the family circle.

The reason was that compulsive swearing overtook him 10 to 40 times an hour. He was free of it only while asleep. The most thorough physical examinations and all possible laboratory tests failed to reveal a physical cause. The man was given psycho-therapy, that is, an effort was made to doctor his mind. It was completely unsuccessful.

Uses Carbon Dioxide
So Dr. Michael set out to treat the physical tension which seemed to be behind the spasmodic twitching which accompanied the swearing. He did so by having the man inhale an atmosphere that was 70 per cent carbon dioxide, which is the sparkle and bubble of soda water.

This was repeated 30 times, over two months. Gradually the twitching—and swearing—diminished in frequency until it was no longer present. The man has been out of the hospital for 14 months, is a success in business, well-liked by friends and family, and is free of the disease.

Michael thought that, perhaps, the carbon-dioxide had changed chemical balances of the blood. Suppose, he said, that the twitching and "repetitive" speed disturbance was due to a "self-perpetuating process" of muscular and vocal discharges. Then anything which interrupted the process—such as carbon dioxide—would also stop it.

CHAPTER 34
CURRY KING, Gene Dillingham and I were squatted in the brush among the boulders, with Easter Creek rolling along within ten feet of us, gathering momentum, it seemed, for the headlong rush it would make down the canyon. Daylight had thickened until we could see the curve at the end of the quarter-mile stretch of road below us.

Silence except for a jay that was squawking in the timber behind us. Then Dillingham said, "Will, I told you a while ago what Joe Pardoe would have done about them colonists. Now I'll tell you what I'm going to do. You're aiming to throw a little lead and scare 'em, but you ain't aiming to drill nobody. That right?"

"That's right," I said. "Won't work. I tell you there's only one way to do it. Hit 'em hard. Hit some of 'em and you've got 'em stopped. I'm going to ride along the east rim of the canyon. I'll wait till the first wagon is below me, then I'll roll a few rocks down on 'em. I'll smash that wagon up and bust the horses. Then I'll shoot the driver of the second wagon, and his horses will get boogered and get tangled up in their harness. By that time the rest of 'em will be backing down the grade as fast as they can roll, and they'll all get into a mess they'll never get out of."

"Sure, it would work. If the pilgrims ever did get back to the river with their wagons, they'd have their bellies full and then some. I looked at him, his face shaded because his back was to the sun, but I could see his expression pretty well, the brutality that was there, the anticipation. I thought, this is what he's been waiting for all this time."

"No, Gene." I thought my rifle around so that it covered him. "Joe's dead. There's only one thing that counts with me. That's protecting the Box P. The easiest way to do that is to keep these pilgrims out of the valley. If it doesn't work, we'll fight later, when the first settler rolls his wagon onto Box P again."

"But the valley—" "The devil with it. You think Dodson will turn a hand to help us? He won't, and I don't intend to help him."

"You're trying to make me kill you?" I asked. "By God, I will, if you keep pushing me!" He didn't move. Even with my side covering him, he didn't so much as blink. He just stared at me, as if trying to decide whether he had a chance if he jumped me. Curly King was below us. He held up a hand in a silencing gesture. He said, "Listen."

Dillingham swung away from me. I relaxed, sensing that, for the moment at least, he was willing to let our personal differences stand. Then I heard the horses coming. An instant later half a dozen of them rounded the turn below us. John Mathers in the lead.

"I'll do the shooting," I said. Outraged, Dillingham cursed me. "They'll run us down. You're yellow."

"If Gene makes a wrong move, Curly," I said, "plug him." I brought my rifle to my shoulder and squeezed off three shots, the first one close enough to Mathers' head for him to hear it whistler as it went by, the second and third kicking up dust in the road in front of them. Mathers and his men were off the road in a fraction of a minute, seeking shelter in the scrub oak and brush that grew in a jungle-like mass between the road and the steep hill west of the creek.

As I lowered my Winchester, Dillingham said harshly: "You could have got all of 'em. Now they'll get us."

We waited about fifteen minutes, my imagination running wild as I considered the various maneuvers Mathers might try. Then he stepped out of the brush waving a white rag tied to the end of a stick.

I heard Dillingham cack his ride. I said, "Ease your hammer down, Gene," and waited until he had; then I shouted at Mathers, "Come on!" He walked up the middle of the road to us, shoulders back, head high. He showed ribs, all right. If I hadn't been there, Gene Dillingham would have cut him down.

I didn't think Mathers would run a sandy on us, but there was no way to be sure. So we waited, with only our heads showing above the boulders, rifles covering Mathers. The first shot from his men would have brought quick death to him, and he was certainly smart enough to know it.

"I don't figure on you winning," I said. "Take your men back to the river and there will be no more trouble. We could have killed you a while ago, all of you."

His gaze shuttled to Dillingham and back to me. "I'm a little curious why you ain't feeling the way you do about this."

"I don't want any killing if I can help it," I said. "Those shots were warnings. Now you know what will happen if you bring your wagons up the canyon."

Mathers shook his head. "I have Mrs. Pardoe's word that we will not be molested. We were on our way to see her when you shot at us. Does she know you're here?"

"No. This is a man's job." "Man's?" Mathers said scornfully. "You mean a fool's job. Because, listen to me. First, you can't hold us off. If we have to use force, we will. Fifty wagons mean fifty families, some with boys old enough to fight. Most of our men have had war experience. We would be hard to whip even if there were a hundred of you. If I am forced to go back and bring my men up here, I'll put some on each rim and others in the road, and we'll sweep the canyon clean. You'll die, every one of you, and no law officer will touch us because you have no authority or legal right on your side." He shook his head. "No, this is not a man's job you're trying to do. I say you're a fool because you're trying to walk in the steps of a man who was a maniacal killer."

Dillingham straightened, throwing out a big hand toward Mathers. "What are you waiting on, Will? Kill him!"

"Let him talk," I said. "You may be honest, Beeson," said Mathers, "but you're not smart. So you'll stay here and die." He raked his lips, and his gaze fixed to the slope behind me. It occurred to me he didn't believe there were just three of us. Now he was wondering how many men were hidden among the boulders and scrub oak.

Will Beeson is outscored by a girl, and Gene Dillingham gets his walking papers as "Gunlock" continues tomorrow in this paper.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MANAGER John Krider displays a sketch of waterways leading into the proposed Cross-State Canal, Sanford-Titusville Canal, on into Jacksonville and Miami. The next meeting of the Waterways Development of Florida committee will be held on Aug. 1. (Photo by Bergstrom)

Waterway Development Group To Convene Aug. 1

The new Waterways Development of Florida committee, appointed by Gov. LeRoy Collins recently, will meet for the first time in Orlando on Aug. 1. John Krider, Manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce revealed today.

Time and place of the meeting have been set, Krider said yesterday, for 11 a. m. at the Anselmi Hotel.

The seventh member of the committee, to be appointed by Gov. Collins, representing the state, has not yet been named.

Six citizens already on the committee and the districts they represent are W. Palmer Van Arsdale, Fort Lauderdale; Gleason M. Stambough, West Palm Beach; Jack F. Fitzgerald, Tampa; J. H. Coppedge, Jacksonville; Roy S. Philpot, Panama; and John Krider, Sanford.

Naming the committee, Gov. Collins gave strong endorsement to the plans that are being made for the future development of Florida's waterways.

The statewide organization was promoted and the meeting called by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. The committee has now become active and interest is spreading.

From either side of the state, the Mississippi Valley and the Adair's Intracoastal waterways groups are taking an active interest in the possibility of tying their organizations in with the Florida waterways planning to promote the use of waterways from the Mississippi Valley around the gulf coast, through Florida and up the Atlantic Intracoastal waterway to the eastern seaboard.

Local leaders and proponents of the Sanford Docks and Terminals project are hopeful that the intense interest shown in waterways development will recreate the enthusiasm in the local project.

By immediate interest and the establishing of a docks and terminals here would be firmly established, one of the docks and terminals proponents said yesterday.

Krider, yesterday, pointing to sketches of the Mississippi Valley, and Gulf Coast waterways leading into the Cross-State Canal, discussed the vast potential of industrial freight coming into Florida.

"This would include oil, iron, aluminum and many other products necessary for the development of Florida," he said.

The date of pageantry which marked the new-found friendship with boys from far away states, and the experience of camping and mingling together will long be remembered by the boys after they reach home.

Lie Detector Shows Wedler Told Truth

Some Details Debatable

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The court of last resort advised Gov. C. William O'Neill today that a preliminary lie detector test showed that Joseph Wedler told the truth in a Florida prison when he said he may have killed Marilyn Sheppard.

Wedler, a convict, told authorities in DeLand, Fla., he killed a woman in the Cleveland area on July 4, 1934, the night Mrs. Sheppard was killed. He did not mention Mrs. Sheppard by name in the statement he gave to Florida authorities.

The Ohio governor said he received a telegram from Eric Stanley Gardner, a writer of mystery stories, who conducts the Court of Last Resort for a magazine.

Text of the telegram received by O'Neill.

"Alex Gregory completed preliminary tests at 1 a. m. Thursday, Florida time, after three-hour interview. So far polygraph tests given no indication of falsehood.

"However, there are certain minor details in Wedler's story which do not agree with known facts. There is possibility these are due to the fact that Wedler admits being under influence of drugs at the time of the crime."

"While Gregory has so far found no indication of falsehood in repeated tests, he desires continued examination when the subject has been given a night of rest."

Stolen Church Money Is Found Buried Near Oviedo

Deputy sheriffs in the office of Sheriff J. L. Hobby, were busy this morning separating money from a stack.

A stack of small-change, pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters, and half dollars was dug from the ground late yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Morgan McClelland after being led to the spot by an 11-year-old Negro boy.

The coins were buried in a hole about 16 inches deep, said Deputy Sheriff McClelland, after he had taken them from the home of his aunt, Midge Howard, who is the treasurer of a church.

The cache was unearthed in the Snow Hill area near Oviedo about 200 yards from Midge Howard's home in scrub palmetto.

The 11-year-old youngster had broken into the woman's home on June 1 and had taken approximately $150 of the amount $115 dollars was found across the road from the home in an old pocket-book hidden in an insect-bite.

There was $95 also recovered in the boy's room in an old jar.

This second offense of taking money belonging to the church resulted in $25 for the youngster. He had broken a glass peggy bank in order to get the coins.

The boy is being held in the Seminole County jail.

Delegation Will Meet Here Friday To Discuss Airport

Delegations from five Central Florida counties will meet in Sanford tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 to further discuss preliminary plans for an International Airport here.

The meeting will be held in the Seminole County Court House, according to John Krider, Manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Counties sending delegations to the Sanford meeting are Volusia, Brevard, Putnam, Marion and Seminole.

The Chamber of Commerce from Sanford includes George Tuhy, Bob Crumley, B. B. Crumley, and Volie A. Williams Sr., who is the State Aviation Chairman for the statewide Chamber of Commerce organization.

Krider said today that members of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners and the Board of Seminole County Commissioners will meet with the committee to discuss the location of the International Airport at a spot near Sanford.

It was emphasized that the meeting is public and all persons interested in commercial aviation are invited to attend. Krider said that the more interest shown in the proposed project the better support the group will have in bringing the new airport into the final phase of its planning.

The meeting tomorrow afternoon will be the third held to discuss the importance of the centrally located International Airport available for use in nine Central Florida counties. First meeting of the group was held in Tallahassee, the second in Orlando, and the third is slated for tomorrow afternoon.

Sewage Treatment Plant To Be Topic Of Board Discussion

The proposed sewage treatment plant will be the problem discussed tonight by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners at a special meeting called to iron out the difficulties surrounding a program to be submitted to the State Board of Health for approval.

Following a meeting with Dr. M. B. Lee, sanitary engineer heading the State Board of Health's division on sanitary engineering, in Jacksonville, commissioners must now make official their action in an effort to get the plant constructed underway.

Commissioners will also discuss tonight the effects on the future subdivision development in the Sanford area as brought about by the meeting of minds at the Tuesday meeting in Jacksonville.

It is expected that the board of commissioners will approve the setting aside of funds from Utility Department revenues for the plant in order to get the treatment plant underway within the limit set by Lee.

Other than the Mayor, David Gatchel, those attending the meeting with Lee in his Jacksonville office were: Commissioners Merle Warner and Earle Higginbotham, City Manager Warren E. Knowles, City Attorney William C. Hutchison, George H. Garrison, developer of a subdivision on the Country Club Road, and Garrison's attorney, Jim K. Rosh of Orlando.

Beauty Wins Miss U. S. A. Contest In Borrowed Dress

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Leona Gage, a black-haired Connecticutella from Maryland who entered the Miss Universe contest with only $10 in her pocket, Wednesday night won the coveted title of Miss United States—in a borrowed dress.

The green-eyed, long-legged Miss Maryland drew cheers from the audience at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium when she accepted the pearl crown from last year's Miss U.S.A. and Miss Universe, Carol Morris of Iowa.

The 21-year-old Leona and her cousin, Barbara Gage, had taken the two-way plane ticket Leona received as Miss Maryland and converted it into two one-way tickets, figuring to work their way back home if she lost.

Midway Colored School Entered; Nothing Taken

Midway Colored School was found broken into yesterday morning about 10:30 but apparently nothing had been taken from the building.

The principal's office door had been broken into, according to a report to the sheriff's office by Superintendent of Public Instruction E. T. Milwee. He found the glass door broken and desk drawers pulled out with papers scattered over the place.

One other window on the south end of the building was also found open.

"Looks like kids had been in the place but nothing was missing," Milwee reported to the Sheriff's office.

ACL Commercial Agent Here Named

The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company has announced the appointment of James A. Shipman as Commercial Agent at Sanford, effective July 16.

Shipman comes to Sanford from Jacksonville where he served with the Coast Line as Freight Service Agent and succeeds W. M. Reeves Jr., who has been Commercial Agent at Sanford since Sept. 17, 1934. Reeves has been reassigned as Commercial Agent for the Coast Line at Rochester, N. Y., and will leave Sanford late this month to take up his new duties there.

Tennessee Man Builds Execution Chamber For Self

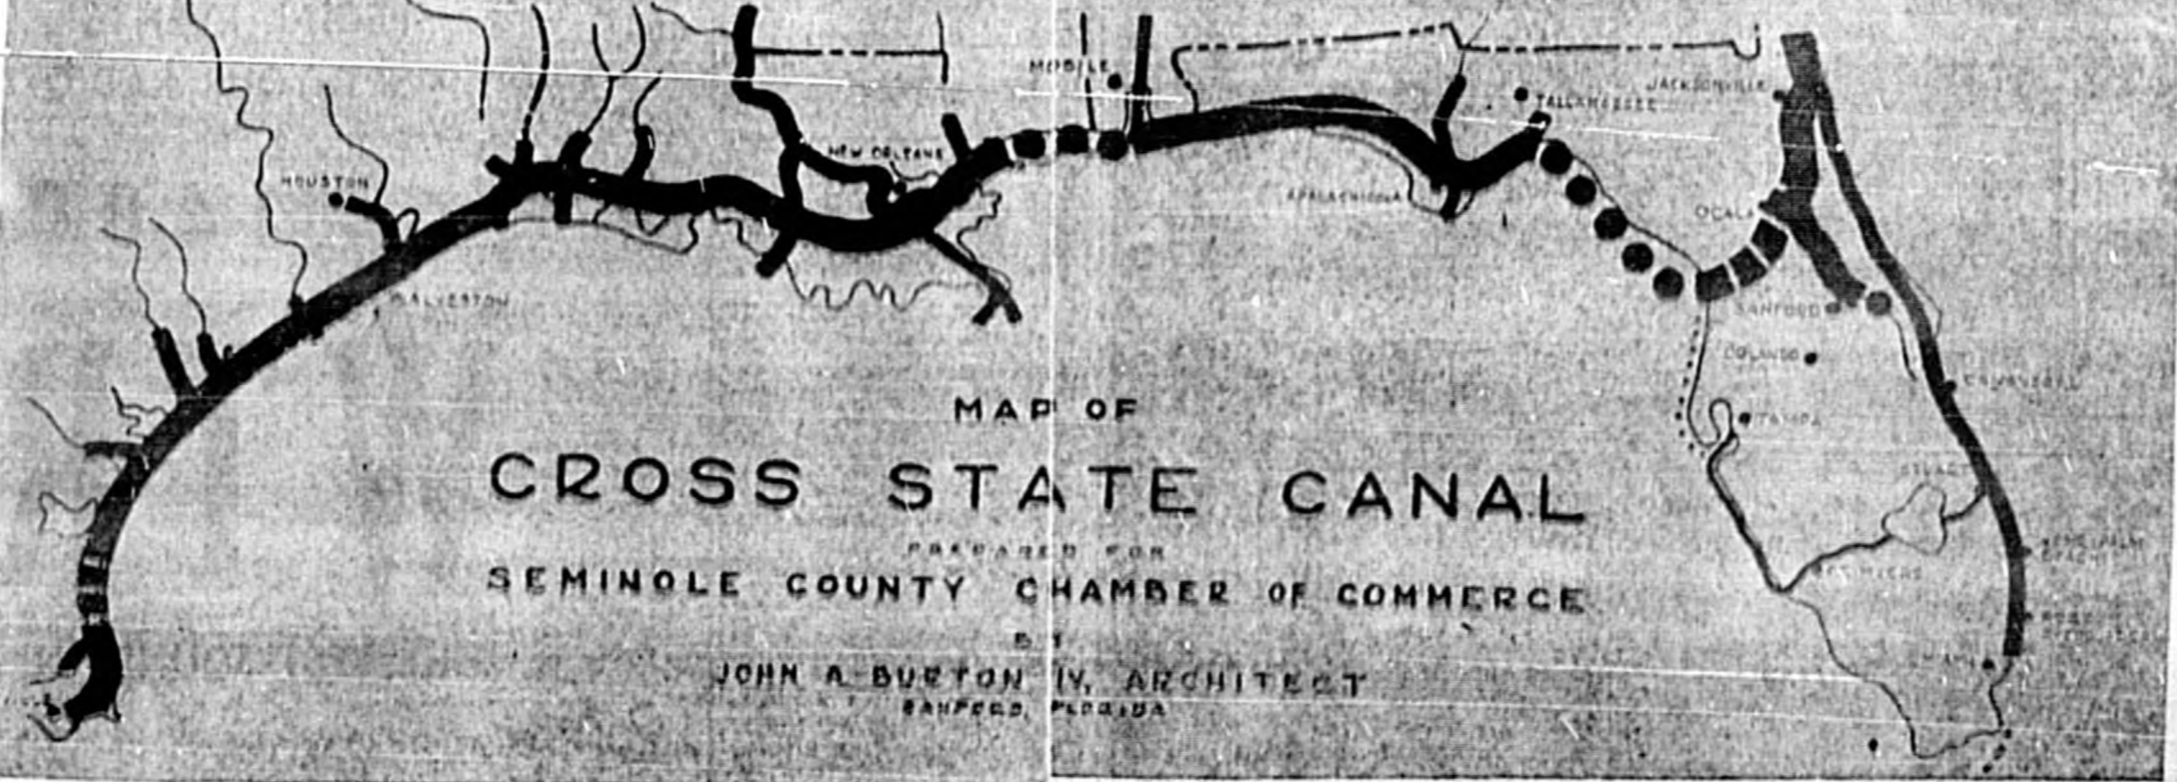

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP)—J. F. Eppinger spent several weeks building an air-tight plywood box for his own execution chamber, police said.

Eppinger's body was found Tuesday night in the "coffin" after he had climbed in, wired down the lid from the inside and tripped the catches on three carbon dioxide fire extinguishers.

Investigating officers said the box, 8 feet high, 4 1/2 feet long and 4 1/2 feet wide, was a "fine piece of workmanship."

"There isn't a nail in it," one officer said. "He used puts and bolts throughout."

Officers said Eppinger used sealing wax to make the box airtight. He died when the extinguishers filled the box with deadly carbon monoxide gas. Eppinger was found dressed in a hat, coat and gloves in addition to his regular attire.

Now Hear This!

JACKY FENWICK

Joyce Williams finally had her baby, and the last time I saw Cliff he had a grin from ear to ear, but that's about all! It was a girl, born sometime before noon yesterday. That's about all I know as of now; what they'll name it, how much it weighed, etc., will have to come later. Was sure I'd have the honor of rushing her to the hospital on Monday evening while we were playing cards, but she was much too considerate, and didn't want to spoil the game!

Congratulations also to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Godsur, another Navy family with a brand new daughter: Their little girl was born last Monday, July 15.

Rosemary and Bill Finnegan got tired of sitting around last Saturday, so they piled the "kids" into the car, and took off! Headed in the general direction of Miami, (where Bill has been promising to take her,) knowing, of course, that they wouldn't get that far, and even if they did, it would hardly be worth the long ride just to turn around and start back. So they set their sights on Melbourne Beach, first there and just about gave up with the motel situation. Tried Cocoa Beach, but that was just about as bad. When they finally did find one that had enough space for them, it was in Titusville, and that's hardly worth an overnight trip! So they came back to Sanford, and that's he sad end to Rosemary's "almighty" trip to Miami!

Not as much of a crowd at the pool yesterday, but at least those that didn't show up weren't caught in the rain! I had the foresight to close the car windows ahead of time, and when it started, all I had to do was throw the towels, etc., into the car, and put on my bathing cap. Couldn't see much sense in hiding in the car when we were all wet by that time!

So far this week I've been doing real good with the "ad-libbing", but I've just about talked myself out! Could go on and give you another "sales talk" about the P. O. Club, but I'd probably just "shot" it! Do want to say just a little bit about the list, as it is so date. I'm coming along just fine, and though I have what is probably a bare minimum of names, I'm going to give it the rest of the week, and over the week-end, and then plan on handing it in sometime in the beginning of next week. I'm going on in air with a plea tomorrow morning, at 9:45 a.m., over WTRR. I'll be on Helen Gallagers program, and try to give those who listen in a tough idea of what I'm trying to do. However, don't be surprised if you hear nothing at all! I'm very calm about it now, but I have my doubts about remaining calm and collected when I find myself in front of a

'Beginning Of End' Hits Thrill Jackpot

"Beginning of the End," coming to the Ritz Theater, July 26 and 27 is one of the most amazing and exciting films to hit the screen in years.

A science-fiction thriller starring Peter Graves and Peggie Castle, thousands of giant, man-eating grasshoppers are featured.

The most amazing aspect of the film is that the grasshoppers are not mechanical contraptions, special-effects magicians, but real live bugs; and you not only see them climbing buildings, but also in actual contact with people!

Don't ask how this film was made, it's a trade secret. He settled that it is an unforgettable cinematic experience.

The picture opens with Peggie Castle, a slick-chick and noted reporter-photographer, hot on a story that the village of Ludlow, Illinois, and its 180 population, have suddenly disappeared off the face of the earth.

While interviewing Peter Graves, handsome young scientist and of a nearby Department of Agriculture Station, Peggie sees strawberries the size of basketballs and tomatoes three feet in abnormal size through the use of radioactive materials.

Giant grasshoppers suddenly appear, kill Graves' assistant Peter realizes the bugs have grown to such size through contact with the radioactive material.

The young couple reach the National Guard in time to warn them of the advancing horde, but the troops are totally inadequate against the monsters. Chicago is ordered evacuated and permission received to drop an "A" bomb.

Graves persuades the Government to hold off the "A" bomb until he can try a unique scientific plan. With the fate of a nation on his shoulders, he puts his plan into operation just as the giant "hoppers" are climbing up the outer walls of the Wrigley Building.

A novel and exciting climax, the country is saved and Peter and Peggie are well along the road to romance.

Stike, on the pashandle waterfront southeast of Jureau, was the first post occupied by the Army in Alaska soon after the United States purchased the Territory from Russia in 1867.

Lions Club Given Preview Of New Telephone Service

By Mrs. Raymond Morris
CASSELBERRY — A preview of the new Metropolitan Telephone service, scheduled for Sept. and effective over a 528 sq. mi. area around Winter Park and Orlando, was given at the Lions Club meeting by officials of the Winter Park Telephone Co. Metropolitan Service was presented and explained by Kenneth Pelouquin, administrative assistant; Russell Hulbert, assistant to the V.P.; Roger Seney, purchasing agent and R. Clarke, director of public relations. A new central office has been built in Winter Park. After the move in Sept., calls within the 528 sq. mi. area will be made by dialing only, eliminating toll charges on calls to Orlando, Pine Hills, Dithlow, Wekiva Springs and Union Park. Extended service now in effect on a fixed monthly charge will be eliminated, with a basic rate benefit accruing to subscribers using that service. When Metropolitan Service becomes effective, the same basic rate will apply to all telephone subscribers. The rate will be less than the present one plus extended service. In conjunction with new automatic central stations, the metropolitan numbers will be prefixed with the first two letters of each exchange, which becomes part of the number. Orlando will have two exchanges, Garden and Cheery. Winter Park will be Midway; Casselberry, Temple; Altamonte Springs, Valley and Aranea Park; Chestwood. Subscribers in the metropolitan area will receive Winter Park and Orlando directories prior to the cut over time. Winter Park telephone officials said that most of the company's lines are now underground and future lines will be also buried. Also, the new system, including domestic equipment of the Winter Park Co., can quickly be integrated into the now limited nationwide dial toll system. Company officials employed a large dial, complete with exchange prefixes and equipped to give all dial tones effective in Metropolitan Service to supplement their talk.

Southern Bell's 10,000th Vehicle Is Placed In Service At Ft. Lauderdale

Southern Bell's 10,000th motor vehicle, a $2,500 installation and maintenance truck, was placed in service at Ft. Lauderdale, R. F. Shadden, Group Manager, announced today. This brings the total value of the utility nine-state motor fleet to $22,200,000. Vehicle investment in Florida is $3,550,000. Shadden said his firm is the largest automotive fleet operator in the State with some 1,750 vehicles serving 72 Florida communities. Last year Southern Bell's motor fleet in Florida averaged 1,500,000 miles per month meeting the continuing demand for telephone service. During 1956, he added, these trucks consumed 1,300,000 gallons of gasoline. Since 1901, when the utility purchased its first "gas buggy" a "locomobile", the addition of motor equipment has kept pace with the ever growing demand for faster and more efficient transportation. In 1960, seven years ago, the utility's automotive fleet hit 5,000.

City Could Become Hub Of Activity With Docks, Terminals Project

Sanford can become the hub of activity for Central Florida—and such an activity has been proven by Chamber of Commerce Manager John Krider.

For instance, the recent committee appointed by Gov. LeRoy Collins for the Waterways Development of Florida, came after the Sanford civic leader promoted, for the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, the meeting of waterways enthusiasts from all over the southeast.

Attention has been diverted, with the "strong approval" of Gov. Collins, to the importance of waterways for Florida as a whole and in particular to the Central Florida area in which the Sanford-Titusville Canal will play an important part.

With a clear sketch of the waterway along the gulf coast from Brownville, Texas right around the coast to Tampa, then across the state along the Cross-State Canal to Sanford and then up to Jacksonville one way and down to Miami the other, Krider has pointed out the vast potential of the system. Oil from Texas, iron and aluminum from the Mississippi Valley along with thousands of other products necessary for the industrial development of Central Florida can and will come into the Sanford Docks and Terminals if the initiative is provided here.

"It will be a multi-million dollar benefit to our area," Krider commented as he described the waterway system that will tie in the entire east coast, gulf coast, and Mississippi valley with the development of Florida.

"We can reach our potential," said Krider as he continued to boost the waterway that would provide raw products to the Sanford and Central Florida area for manufacturing firms.

The first real move has been made to secure support from the vast area along the Mississippi and along the Atlantic seaboard for the Sanford-Titusville Canal and the Cross-State Canal.

No doubt, within the next few months, real activity will begin toward the boosting of the most important development in the history of Florida.

Sanford, in order to benefit to the potential available, will have to join hands in the providing of a Docks and Terminals so that in reality, our community will become Distributing Center for Central Florida.

International Airport Big Project

Another move that is developing into a rolling snowball in the middle of summer is the International Airport.

On a number of occasions it has been pointed out in these columns the necessity for providing an airport of sufficient size and location to be useful to all Central Florida cities and communities.

The third meeting of the group interested in the promoting of an International Airport near Sanford will be held here tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

Leaders have pointed out that the meeting is open to the public and that the more interest shown the quicker plans will be developed to put the airport into more than a talking and planning stage.

Tomorrow afternoon, leaders from five counties will meet here to talk over and discuss the undertaking that will take the concerted interest of nine counties the International Airport will benefit.

It has long been known that an Airport located in a more central area would benefit thousands upon thousands of additional air transportation users. At one time the need for such an airport was denied, but since a real interest has been shown in the project, there have been hundreds of supporters for the project.

For the proper development of Central Florida—and as we look at development sort of selfishly—the joining hands of all forms of transportation is necessary. No one will deny the importance of railroads to any community. The same can be said of truck transportation. Water transportation is necessary as is the transportation by air.

The interest of every civic minded citizen, businessman and industrialist is needed to put over a project as big as the International Airport.

Food Distribution System

The head of the National Association of Food Chains says that in the 23 years since this organization was established "a revolution has taken place in our food distribution system. The corner grocery store has become an attractive, modern supermarket, whether operated by independent, chain, voluntary, or cooperative distributors. This change has come about on the remarkably low net profit of 1.36 cents per sales dollar on the average for the last 30 years."

The profit has been even lower lately—about 1.2 cents on the sales dollar. According to the Department of Agriculture, the average family now spends $1,534 per year for food. On that amount of business, a food chain retailer will retain a profit of just $18.41. All the rest goes right out—to buy stock, to pay wages, and for rent, utilities, advertising, taxes and other costs. No one can deny that the consumer gets an amazing amount of service and convenience in return for that $18.41.

Other branches of retailing operate under different conditions. Turnover is slower, inventories are higher, and the business is affected by such import and considerations as styles and seasonal trends. Their profits, therefore, must be somewhat higher than in the case of foods. But in all cases these profits are very modest—just a few cents on the sales dollar.

Vigorous competition seems to that—just as it seems to it that we, the consumers, get the best in service, the widest choice of goods and brands, and other attractions. No other nation is so well served by its retail industry.

Most Important Drink Is Just Plain Water

By HERMAN M. BUNDELMAN, M.D.

YOU can't live very long without water. It plays a vital role in our everyday life. Yet except during extremely hot weather, you probably seldom think about it or about how much you need to keep healthy.

Not Enough

The simple truth is that very few of us drink enough water. Fortunately, nature comes to the rescue by placing a thirst supply in many of the foods we eat.

While we doctors know water is important to our health and physical development, we do not know precisely what role it plays in many ways. However, we believe that our development, nutrition, growth of cells and our health in general depend upon certain chemical reactions.

Adequate Supply

If these reactions are to be carried out properly, the body must have an adequate water supply. If it does not, these actions are incomplete and our health suffers.

Although nature provided our bodies with a method of storing fat, she neglected to establish similar facilities for storing water. She did, however, supply us with a sort of an automatic danger signal which warns us when our bodies need water. The signal, of course, is thirst. Generally, the amount of water you drink in a single day can be regulated pretty safely on the basis of thirst. If you are excessively thirsty or otherwise ill health, it is a different matter.

For the average person in good health most doctors recommend from six to eight glasses of water and other liquids a day.

Eight Glasses a Day

On warm days especially, you probably should drink about eight glasses each day.

A sort of forced-feeding method might be advisable. Whether you are thirsty or not, drink a glass of water at regular intervals during the hot summer days.

You must remember that we have millions of perspiration glands, miles of ducts, lungs and kidneys. Through these we lose about three quarts of water each day.

To maintain good health we must immediately and continuously replace all this lost fluid.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Herlong Report

In approving recommendations of the Hoover Commission recently, we were asked to vote for an amendment which would have taken from Congress the right to review any proposed closing of military installations which had been in operation more than five years. I helped defeat this proposal. While I have no anticipation of any installations in my District being closed (in fact they're growing all the time), I and other members want to know what the Department of Defense is doing and its reasons.

The center of attention at the Capitol has been on the fight in the Senate over the so-called civil rights bill. How long it will continue we don't know. It is understood that there is a possibility of a compromise which would limit the legislation to a right to vote and guarantee the right of trial by jury. If we can get these amendments, it will be a victory for the South. However, I don't think that any kind of civil rights legislation is the answer to our problem in the South, and to pass the present bill would only magnify the whole matter.

We fought the bill in the House but the proponents outnumbered us so tremendously that they were able to steam-roller whatever precedent or logic they directed they wanted without regard to almost all of their attack at the South. Of course, we resented the mass accusations and indictments against us, and fought back with everything we had. You may want to know why Congress find ourselves in for some very busy days. The answer is simply because they are organized unless we of the South also organize and stick together we may rough sailing.

Frequently I have the opportunity to show visitors from the District around the Capitol. I always enjoy this because they make me feel that they too are enjoying it.

If the House is not in session, I like to take them into the House chamber and let them sit in the Speaker's chair. The visitors are also interested in seeing the bullet holes left when the Puerto Ricans fired on the members a few years ago. Two bullets hit only a few feet from where I was sitting at the time.

The holes are still to be seen in two of the chairs and there are two in the walls to the rear of the chamber. A hole in the ceiling was repaired sometime ago, as it marred the beauty of the room, but the spot is still visible. Entrance to the chamber is allowed visitors only when accompanied by a member of someone from their offices, so if any of you come to Washington and want to sit in the Speaker's chair by all means come by and see me.

Quite a few people from the District have dropped by in recent days and I expect a big influx when the Boy Scouts begin returning from the National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

Among recent visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Art Raynor and daughters Dayl and Pearl of Tavara, O. Charles Horton of Oakland, Lloyd Burns of Winter Garden, Col. W. Leroy Bates of Daytona Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barge and Marion and Mason Barge of Winter Park.

Try and Stop Me

IN A SKID ROW saloon, a character sat at a battered piano, and lazily thumped out old songs for patrons who, incidentally, never listened. A tourist in a rubberneck wagon watched the performance for a while, then remarked, "This is a terrible life for a big strong fellow like you. Isn't there something else you can do?"

"There is," agreed the pianist. "I play the violin, too, but there's no percentage in that. The schooner of beer always falls off it."

A taxi driver told his fare, "My wife won $32,000 on a quiz program last week and split with me."

"That was extremely generous of her," commented the man in the back seat.

"You got me wrong," corrected the driver. "What I mean is that she packed up and walked out on me."

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN

United Press Staff Correspondent
The ancient institution of monarchy may be headed toward a comeback in both Spain and Portugal.

In Spain, Generalissimo Francisco Franco has finally made official his intention to put a Bourbon king on the throne when he either retires from office or dies.

And in Portugal, Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar has caused considerable speculation by saying in a speech:

"The day might come when the monarchist solution might be the national solution."

The situation in both Spain and Portugal is a reminder that a lot of people believe that some countries which now are republics, in addition to Spain and Portugal, might be better off if they were ruled by constitutional monarchs.

Francisco's Intentions Specific

It has long been pretty certain that Franco planned to restore the monarchy in his country. In fact, as far back as 1947, Franco promulgated a law which declared Spain to be a monarchy and empowered him to name a king.

But Franco has never pinned himself down as specifically as he did Monday, when Luis Carrero Blanco, cabinet minister in charge of his office, told Parliament:

"When the generalissimo is not with us, the destinies of Spain will be declared by a monarchy."

It is generally held for granted that Franco's candidate for the throne is 19-year-old Prince Juan Carlos. Juan Carlos is the son of Don Juan, the actual heir to the throne as the son of the late King Alfonso XIII. Alfonso was overthrown in 1931.

Juan Still in Running

United Press dispatches from Madrid say that Juan has not been entirely erased from the picture. But it looks as Juan Carlos is the man. He is being given a big build-up. Franco has taken responsibility for his training. He has just completed a two-year course in the Spanish military academy, and has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the army. In the fall, he will start a two-year course in the naval academy.

In Portugal, 49-year-old Dom Duarte Nuno is the candidate for the throne if the monarchy is restored. He is a kinsman, in the Braganza family, of the King Manuel, who was overthrown in 1910.

A revived monarchy in either Spain or Portugal would be a constitutional one, in which the sovereign was ruler by title and parliament ruler in fact. That system has worked out pretty well in countries like Great Britain, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

ATTENTION, SPORTSMEN

Maybe you would like to join Congressman Bob Sikes in making a loud protest. The Alcohol Tax unit wants to set up a regulation that would require everybody to sign for all pistol or rifle ammunition they buy. Merchants would have to keep a "permanent" record of the sale. Sikes says, "This is supposed to cut down on crime. No gangster or criminal would be hampered by such a rule. If a gangster wanted to buy ammunition, he wouldn't hesitate to sign your name—or he wouldn't hesitate to steal it if necessary. I think it is another attempt for petty bureaucrats to throw their weight around. I am whole heartedly against it."

And hope we get a good strong protest from sportsmen before the hearing." Hearing set for August 27th.

Carol Nutt Will Attend Butler University As Dancing Major

Carol Nutt is a young lady who has already won fame for Sanford at the age of 17. She has been a head majorette at Seminole High School for two years and has been awarded a four-year scholarship to Butler University in Indianapolis, Ind., where she intends to major in dancing at the Jordan College of Music.

Carol was five years old when she won her first twirling contest with her own baton at the Winter Garden Grammar School. She became a majorette in the 8th grade at Sanford Junior High School. Since all majorettes must play an instrument, Carol tried the clarinet in the 9th grade, the bassoon (which she did not like) and the trumpet her second year.

Carol says that she has taken dancing since she was five years old. She states that "I have always admired majorettes; they seemed to have poise and self-confidence."

Carol has met and talked to the band director at Butler University, Charles A. Henzie. He selected her for the scholarship.

Carol has studied dancing at the Eban Studio in Orlando, the Fred Astaire Studio in Atlanta and the Duxbury School of Dancing here in Sanford. She took acrobatics up until a year ago, when she replaced this study with that of modern jazz. Carol enjoys ballet, and will probably major in ballet at Butler. There is a company there that tours the country.

Carol is determined to finish her education. She did not want to make a career of modeling in this age when nearly every pretty young girl pictures herself on the cover of a magazine. Her parents would like her to continue with dancing.

Carol attended the Smith-Walbridge Twirling Camp for two weeks this summer as an assistant teacher. The camp is in Syracuse, Ind. She had previously gone to the camp as a student, and feels that it helped her considerably. This, too, was on a scholarship.

All majorettes receive a baton medal, and will not twirl without it. It is considered a lucky piece much like a rabbit's foot. Carol uses a 30 inch baton for twirling, and a 28 inch baton for all district and state meets, because the shorter length is easier to handle.

Carol disapproves of the skimpy type of costumes, and believes

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN

Cliff McKibben is leaving Thursday to join Jane and the boys in Michigan.

New in VAHS are Berra Dene and Philip Harward. Phil is a LCDR. The Harwards bought a home on Westwood Court, and Berra Dene is having quite a time getting settled. Her four children, Jane, 11, Patricia, 8, Phillip, Jr., and Michael, 2, have been keeping her busy running around Sanford. Jane is in her third year of Girl Scouting, and Patricia is a Brownie. Jane has been taking the aviation badge course.

The Harwards came to Sanford from Albuquerque, N. M., where Phil headed the A2D project. He holds the speed record for an A2D flight from Hawaii to Albuquerque. While stationed with NASWF (Naval Air Special Weapons Facility) in Albuquerque, Phil also led the A2Ds in the tests at Eniwetok. That is an atoll in the Pacific, should the reader wonder. Don't see how there could be much left after all the years of bombardment.

Berra Dene Harward is a busy home maker. Her interests lie mainly with the children now, but before long she will find herself involved with Girl Scouts, P.T.A. and navy activities. Phil is interested in golf and is presently attending HATU. Both the Harwards are originally from Blackfoot, Idaho.

When Claire File was in Miami recently for her step-brother's wedding (William Cagle), she sent me a charming postcard of a furry Liberace pounding on his piano. His home is in the Monkey Jungle, south of Miami. It is evident that Miami is as gay as ever when even the monkeys must be equipped with candelabra.

Apologies to Rita Bauer for leaving her name out in several parties she recently attended. Should have known that she would have been there. Rita has joined the Hospital Auxiliary and had all of us in stitches Tuesday afternoon when she portrayed an Auxiliary member who chewed gum, wore beads, earrings, bracelet and flowers in her hair, discussed the patient with the patient (My, you look awful, I looked at your chart and you are in bad shape, aint you?) Recommended doctors (The doctors are lousy at his hospital), ran down the food (If it's left over they give it to you the next day and you might not get your own tray back), and finally ended by passing the patient to the floor. The patient had originally had a broken arm, but after Rita finished, she was ready for not only traction, but also a straight jacket. The things above are only a few of the things that Rita did, but of course all of them are wrong. However, as a former member of the Gray Ladies in Memphis, Tenn., Rita says that a surprising number of well-meaning volunteers are guilty of some of them, in moderation, we pray.

We welcome Rita to the Hospital Auxiliary, and are delighted that she will be giving of her tremendous energy to another worthwhile project. She is loaded down with them already. Girl Scouts, Welcome Wagon, and champion of lost dogs. It seems that Rita was forced to board a dog that had been left behind by a family that moved. She eventually took the animal to the animal shelter in Orlando, after considerable expense. I am only voicing her plea that moving families, please find homes for your pets when you leave. Homeless animals only cause sanitation and traffic hazards, besides being completely miserable themselves.

Sanford is a dull town on Wednesday afternoon. All the stores close up and at least half the population removes shoes and flaps before the fan. The lucky ones who have air conditioning may even be able to sleep. If I had my choice, I would go to the beach and spend several hours in the cool, green surf. Drive by the Mayfair pool, and saw only Mildred Smith and her children. The heat has run even Mildred off the golf course.

But the rest of Sanford sleeps in the dust and the hot air, waiting for the evening to come and perhaps a cooling shower. There are a few who still have to work, and I am one of them. That is why I'm complaining.

If greens or salad vegetables show any sign of dryness, wash or sprinkle them before stung in the refrigerator.

Cleaning Fluid Underestimated Hazard

—This is how three doctors sum up the cleaning fluid, carbon tetrachloride after a seven year study, says Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration Agent. Writing in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, the doctors call it one of the commonest medical causes of serious and even fatal kidney damage. The doctors warn that carbon tetrachloride can have dangerous effects, whether it is inhaled, swallowed or even absorbed through intact skin. If you use carbon tetrachloride, use it carefully. Store it safely out of reach of children. Keep it in the original container, if possible. NEVER put it in a beverage container. Label it clearly. Another finding of the seven-year study: Drinking beer or other alcohol before, during or soon after exposure to the fluid "greatly increases" the likelihood of kidney damage.

Divers Clean Tanks

Housewives! How would you like to clean your home under water with sharks or moray eels—the rattlesnakes of the sea—swimming around you for company? You might be a diver at the Miami Seagrass tank.

The divers wash all of the 224 windows twice weekly in the 50,000 gallon main tank and the 425,000 gallon reef tank, and vacuum the floors. The outside tank windows are cleaned daily. While they don't dust, they do take time out to scrub algae from the larger rocks in the two tanks which total 11,534 square feet, or about seven times the size of an average home.

And just like you housewives, the divers come up with dishespan hands, sore knees and tired feet. Even rubber gloves are not enough protection from coral scratches and nips from hungry sea turtles.

As tedious as housework can be, you housewives probably take care of your chores in a light-weight, cool and comfortable dress. The divers wish they could wear something similar, but instead they're packed into a cumbersome diving rig loaded with lead weights. Besides fighting simulated ocean currents, the diver has to be on his toes to make sure friendly porpoises don't get tangled in the airlines. Because divers can actually get into the water, cleaning those two tanks, while difficult, is not as big a problem as cleaning the shark channel which is impossible to enter because of the danger. One hundred huge man-eaters, some as long as 15 feet and weighing over 1000 pounds, cruise around the 770 foot long channel in a never ending circle. The wall and floor area, which need cleaning twice a week, total 21,400 square feet, or more than 10 times the size of an average home.

Since one slip into the channel might mean death, employees lean over the rails and in that way, laboriously vacuum the sides and bottom.

The two divers have a big cleaning job, but the scope of "operation clean-up" for the entire 65,000 square foot Seagrassarium is so huge that 25 men are employed to do nothing but clean. Their chores include continuously tidying up 6,500 square feet in three swimming pools where the two trained porpoises, "Corky" and "Sparkle" live.

The house-cleaning gets a little more complicated when the corridor tanks get their share of attention. There are 26, 426-foot tanks. The glass must be wiped, gravel and rocks removed and then scrubbed and after all the tanks are spotless, the process

The Barbeque Build Appeals To Cooks

Time was when you had to take your chances on barbecued chicken: it might turn out tough, dry and stringy—look and taste more like the charcoal than the chicken. This has all been changed by the newly-developed caponettes, those plump and pameled members of the chicken family. Not only a good bargain (more meat for your money, less waste), caponettes cook up tender, juicy and golden brown over a barbecue fire—thanks to a good, healthy distribution of fat under the skin and in muscle tissues. Our fine-feathered friends never looked finer. What's more, you can get caponettes in sizes proportioned to fit your family's (or friend's) appetites.

Informal Dance August 9 At B.O.Q.

The B.O.Q. will be the scene for an official opening of the new bar and lounge August 9. An informal dance will be jointly sponsored by the B.O.Q. and the Officer's Wives Club. Fresh paint air conditioning and new draperies are all part of the renovation. Tables and chairs in the ward-room are also new.

Cocktails will be served from 5:30 until 8:30, a buffet dining from 8 to 9, and dancing from 9:30 to 12:30. Drinks will be at reduced prices all evening, and the buffet dinner will be $1.75 per person. The menu consists of roast beef, fried chicken, baked ham, velvet gravy, pineapple sauce, snowflake potatoes, candied sweet potatoes, simmered Blue Lake beans, buttered peas, tossed salad, hot rolls coffee and apple pie and coconut layer cake.

Reservations must be in as soon as possible, since plans are being made for only one hundred people. The orchestra has not yet been announced.

The O.W.C. wishes to remind all naval officers and their friends that tickets will be sold only for the buffet dinner. The dance itself is free.

A free coffee will be given by the O.W.C. July 24 at 10 A.M. at the B.O.Q. All members are invited to attend. If their dues are paid they will be eligible for the drawing of a door prize that promises to be very handsome.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Whitley announce the birth of a baby boy July 12 at the Great Lakes Naval Hospital at Great Lakes, Illinois. The baby weighed 5 lbs. 15 oz. at birth and will be named Paul Mark.

Mrs. Whitley is the former Rochelle Eubanks of Lake Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Eubanks. Mr. Whitley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Whitley of Salisbury, N. C.

is started all over again. Two small tide pools and the pool where "Cleo" the sea cow lives, also are polished at regular intervals.

When those chores are completed and the entire floor area of the Seagrassarium washed, the sea collecting boats get their bath. Removing algae from the always submerged wells must be done underwater, a job both painstaking and difficult.

Even though you housewives and the men at the Miami Seagrassarium who handle "operation clean-up" handle your household chores differently, all of you have one point in common:

You're glad when you look around and see everything so clean and shiny—a fitting end to a day's work.

Happy Birthday

SPORTS

Cotton Brown Named To Head Sportsman Assn. Next Year

Today's Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Eddie Sawyer, who led the last band of Philadelphia "Whiz Kids" to the National League pennant in 1950 and a jaundiced eye at the accepted super-stars of baseball today and named a dream team which is loaded with surprises.

You can have your "name" stars such as Ted Williams, Hank Aaron and Yogi Berra. Sawyer, one of baseball's smartest strategists as he led the Phillies to their first flag in 33 years, puts the premium on team work as well as talent.

He even takes Willie Mays of the Giants over Mickey Mantle of the Yankees as a centerfielder, calling the "say hey" kid "by far the best centerfielder in baseball."

The Dream Team — Sawyer's all-star team — "the one I'd like to manage above all other I can think of today" — includes:

"And to manage that team, I'll take Walter Alston," Sawyer asserted. "He does the job the way it should be done."

"I still don't like left field this way, even though I have to give it to Mantle in a toss-up over Aaron," says Sawyer, who now is vice president in charge of sales promotion, for the Plymouth Golf Ball Co., exclusive manufacturers of the official PGA ball and Eddie's reason for being in Dayton where the PGA tournament opened today.

Explains His Choices — Taking his selections one by one Sawyer explained them this way: "Smith is the best catcher around. In my opinion, and along with Musial is one of the main reasons which make the Cardinals click. As for Musial, he's the best player I ever saw."

Sawyer describes Temple as "an Eddie Flanky with ability," and the best second baseman of the past 15 years.

"Boyer has everything," he insists, "and I'd play him at third

New officers were elected last night at the annual meeting of the Seminole County Sportsman Association held at the Elks Club.

Named to head the sportsman organization during the next year was Cotton Brown, W. G. Kilbee was elected as vice president; Bob Thomas, Secretary; W. M. Cameron, custodian. Named as directors for a term of two years were: Don Smith; Jim Ekern, Shinson Kinlaw, and Porter Lansing.

Nominations were made by John Galloway, the organization's nominating committee chairman. By unanimous approval of the group the entire slate of officers were named for the coming year.

More than 150 attended the annual meeting which was preceded by a fish fry. The crowd dwindled to approximately 50, however, because of a downpour of rain.

Principle speaker for the annual event was Don Southwell of Ormond Beach, Fifth District member of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

Southwell spoke on the "Hunting regulations for the 1967-68 season."

"We tried to make the opening and closing dates the same in every district," Southwell explained. He said, however, that "a lot of people fuss about them — but it's not an easy job."

For the first time in the history of the Commission no have good equipment, Southwell told the local sportsman group. And he explained that "we have put a few more men in the field and they're doing a better job of patrolling than they once did," and added "we have a good communications system."

"The violators are hunting from air conditioned cars and oldsmobiles," Southwell told the Seminole County Sportsman group, "and we have to have equipment to catch them."

When you satisfy 100,000 sportsmen, Southwell said, you're doing a mighty good job.

In explaining the hunting laws and regulations, Southwell outlined the opening and closing dates for the group.

He said Florida's 1967-68 general hunting season for non-migratory game birds and animals will open Saturday, Nov. 16 in all districts of the state.

and panther — was set during a formal meeting of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission at Tallahassee, July 13.

Hunting will be allowed every day in the First, Third and Fourth Conservation Districts, Second and Fifth Districts, North-east and North Central Florida, and have staggered day hunting with the first six days (Nov. 16-Nov. 21) and the period from Dec. 25 through Jan. 2 open every day, and Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays closed at all other times.

Shooting hours for resident game species will be from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset.

A special spring turkey gobler hunt will be held Mar. 29 through Apr. 4 in the Second and Third Districts of North Florida, with morning shooting only.

Federal regulations on migratory birds were outlined by the Fifth District Commissioner. He said that the season for Duck, coot and geese will open on Nov. 23 but no closing date has as yet been set.

Snipe hunting he said, will probably open early in December with the closing date yet to be set.

For other game, he said that Marsh Hens will be hunted from Sept. 20 to Nov. 24, Dove from Oct. 3 to Nov. 26; Dec. 28; Woodcock from Dec. 12 to Jan. 30.

Southwell explained that bag limits for marsh hens has been set at 15, dove at 10, and 4 for duck, goose, coot, and snipe.

In the discussion period that followed Southwell's talk to the sportsman Association, Porter Lansing said "it's a disgrace to have hunting laws torn up like this — and the only way we can correct it is to fight for it."

Later in the meeting Lansing recommended to the group that two representatives be sent to every meeting of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission when hunting laws are discussed and set, Lansing's motion included a payment of $25 a day for the representatives for expenses.

The membership approved the recommendation.

The local sportsman group also recommended to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission that the $2,000 lease proposal to the Miami Hunting area in Volusia County be paid so that the area might remain under state supervision.

Mayfair Inn Golf Classes For Young People Expanded

Scotty Is One To Watch

GAINESVILLE — Walter Scott Dunlop III probably blushed mightily when a public print he was described as "a concentrated package of anatomical blessings" on the gridiron.

He would much rather be known as Scotty, but because of the way the 180 pounds, six foot one halfback performs his duties for Daytona Beach Seabreeze's Florida Conference champions last season laudatory phrases in the press are his natural due.

Scotty moves into gridiron action next as a member of the North Squad in the annual Florida High School All-Star game Aug. 8 at Florida Field here. After that he's headed University of Florida way, and many thousands of fans are slated to see an amazing young man in action over the next four years.

Here are some of the facts that justify the descriptive praise of Dunlop last season:

In ten regular season games he scored 18 touchdowns, one more than he did in 1955 as a junior. He also tacked on 11 extra points after TD. He carried 130 times for 1,215 yards, an average gain of 7.5 yards per trip. And all this does not include his talents as a long distance punter, a pass receiver and combative defensive player.

Bernard Kahn, sports editor of the Daytona Beach News-Journal who followed Dunlop's action season long, notes:

"In the season opener with Lakeview of Winter Garden, Scotty jogged 82 yards on a punt return for six points. In the 7-4 squeak past Ketterlinus of St. Augustine, he scampered 22 yards for the lone score. Against Starke, Scotty ran 70 yards for one TD and brought back a punt 66 yards for another. In the 32-13 conquest of Sanford he scored five touchdowns and piled up 219 yards rushing on 36 carries.

"Dunlop failed to score in only one game that was Deland which was a 20-0 victim. But he picked up 100 yards on 12 trips then and complemented the Crab offense by catching five passes for an additional 125 yards. And against Cocoa, Scotty scored 70 yards on 20 carries and six yards on 20 and six yards.

Watching Scotty go could be an interesting aspect of the annual game on the University of Florida campus. For that matter the combined squad features 87 other football players, all outstanding members of last year's finest prep grid teams in Florida.

The year round golf pro at the Mayfair Inn Country Club has revealed today that he is expanding the class for younger people to take in prospective golfers between the ages of 14 and 18.

Meris Carfagno said today that those wishing to take golf instructions in the classes for young people beginning at 10-years old will be furnished clubs free of charge.

This, in effect, would make two classes. One of the classes for both boys and girls, would be from 10 years old to 14 years of age. The second class would be from 14 to 18 years old.

Interest in the classes for young people is beginning to accelerate with the adding of the new class. High School students in the upper grades will be able to take golf instructions together in the proposed new group.

Those who would like to have added information concerning the classes and the times that the classes would be scheduled, may get in touch with Carfagno either at the Mayfair Inn Country Club or at telephone FA 2-9908.

The classes are scheduled to get underway on August 1, said the Mayfair Inn pro who has had such good success with instruction for classes of both younger and older people.

"Golf is an all round sport and recreation" said Carfagno as he pointed out the advantages of learning to play early. "The healthy aspect of golf is that it takes you out into the open air along with friends and acquaintances in competition that demands fair play and good sportsmanship," said Carfagno.

Major League 'Ball Expansion To L. A. Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) predicted that major league baseball will expand to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami and Houston in 5 to 10 years.

Price, a one-time newspaper sports editor, came up with his forecast in testimony prepared for delivery at a House anti-trust subcommittee hearing on professional sports legislation.

Price said many growing cities need a major league baseball and this could result in three eight-team major leagues, or two leagues of 10 or 12 teams each.

"I can foresee the inclusion of Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami and Houston in a plan to enlarge each of the two major leagues to 10-club circuits," he said.

"This is my own personal idea," Price said, "but one I predict will materialize in the next 5 or 10 years."

GUNLOCK by the prize-winning western novelist WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER

CHAPTER 15
"FIFTY families will start up the canyon as soon as I get back, Beeson," John Mathers said to me. "People who would have gone on living in the stink and smoke and refuse of a great city if I hadn't brought them out here. Every man has been carefully picked. Some are farmers. Some are carpenters. Blacksmiths. We have one gunsmith, a teacher, a doctor, a preacher and a lawyer. We will have a community of our own which will prosper on the only premise that will ever bring happiness to mankind. One for all. The profit we make will be shared equally. We ask just one thing, Beeson, a very simple thing: Let us alone."

"And you called me a fool," I said. "Think a crackpot scheme like yours will work? Why, it's been tried a thousand times. Think of the early days of the Virginia colony. What happened? They'd have starved if they'd kept on with it. And what about these socialist colonies? They all failed. You claim to be a leader and a smart man, but you haven't got sense enough to know that if a man doesn't work for himself he's not going to work at all."

"You're wrong," Mathers said hotly. "This plan has never been tried under circumstances like these, with a picked body of men in an area with virgin soil that can be tilled. But you don't have to believe me, I'm not trying to convince you of anything. We just want to be let alone."

"You're making a lot of noise for a man who don't want to convince nobody," Gene Dillingham jeered. "I thought miserably. I thought of the early days of the Virginia colony. What happened? They'd have starved if they'd kept on with it. And what about these socialist colonies? They all failed. too, and that was the worst thing I could think of. My voice trembled when I said: "That's the finish for you, Gene. You're fired!" He tipped his big head forward, scowling. "Sarah Pardee will have to say that before I believe it. Besides, you're going to need me. There's just three of us, Mathers. Nobody up there on the hill. Come and get us. You can wipe us out."

"It won't be necessary," Mathers said. "That was my daughter. She's gone after Mrs. Pardee."

He waded back across the creek and strode down the road toward where he had left his coolie. We might as well go home, I thought miserably. I thought of the early days of the Virginia colony. They'd have starved if they'd kept on with it. And what about these socialist colonies? They all failed. You claim to be a leader and a smart man, but you haven't got sense enough to know that if a man doesn't work for himself he's not going to work at all."

"You're wrong," Mathers said hotly. "This plan has never been tried under circumstances like these, with a picked body of men in an area with virgin soil that can be tilled. But you don't have to believe me, I'm not trying to convince you of anything. We just want to be let alone."

"You're making a lot of noise for a man who don't want to convince nobody," Gene Dillingham jeered. "I thought miserably. I thought of the early days of the Virginia colony. What happened? They'd have starved if they'd kept on with it. And what about these socialist colonies? They all failed. You claim to be a leader and a smart man, but you haven't got sense enough to know that if a man doesn't work for himself he's not going to work at all."

Over 60 Turn Out For Softball Games

The regular scheduled softball games sponsored by the Summer Recreation Program for the Colored schools were played at the Goldboro Recreation Area yesterday afternoon at 1:30.

Two games were played with over 60 boys turning out for the four team competition. In the first game, Midway overran Oviedo by the score of 14-8. Rouse and Gainey were the batteries for Oviedo; Green and Johnson for Midway.

In the second game, Crooms quashed by Hopper with a score of 2-2. Crooms won the first game, while Hopper lost his first contest. This game was highlighted by the brilliant pitching of Donnell Burke for Crooms and Eugene Sutton for Hopper.

The games on top for next Wednesday afternoon at Goldboro Park will send Midway against Crooms and Hopper versus Oviedo.

Standings up to this point in the season: Hopper, won 3 and lost 1; Midway, won 3 and lost 1; Oviedo, won 1 and lost 3; and Crooms, won 1 and lost 2.

2-Car Collision Reported Early Today On 17-92

Two cars crashed nearly head-on early this morning about two miles west of Sanford on Highway 17-92. Damages were light, however, even though wreckage was scattered up and down the highway over a distance of nearly 800 feet. A 1933 Lincoln sedan, pulling a small trailer packed with vacation luggage, and driven by Roy Arnold Lyda of Orlando, was traveling south on a 1936 Ford station wagon driven by Frank Washington Saxton, 27-year-old Navy youth attached to the Sanford Naval Air Station was traveling north when the two cars met. Lyda, 19, was accompanied by his father, mother, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arnold Lyda Sr. and Saxton was traveling alone. The left front and side of the Ford station wagon was smashed. It traveled an estimated 460 feet before coming to a stop 50 feet from the highway on the left side of the road. The Lyda car traveled a distance of 300 feet after the impact. Damages estimated following the collision, according to Ed Cowan, Seminole County Deputy Sheriff who investigated the crash, were $500 to the Ford and $600 to the Lincoln. Saxton was taken to the NAB dispensary suffering with what is believed to be several broken ribs. There were no other injuries. Charges were preferred against both drivers, said Cowan.

City To Meet Health Board Conditions

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners last night agreed to meet the conditions as set down by David B. Lee, Director of the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the State Board of Health, in a four and one half hour meeting last Tuesday afternoon. Commissioners authorized City Attorney William C. Hutchison to prepare the necessary resolution for approval at the next regular meeting of the board Monday night.

VAH-9 On Board USS Saratoga

Elements of Heavy Attack Squadron NINE (VAH-9) normally based at the U. S. Naval Air Station, Sanford, have been on board the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga for the past week. Cdr. John M. Miller, USN, commanding officer, landed his ASD Skywarrior twin jet bomber on board last Monday, followed quickly by the remainder of the squadron's aircraft. The purpose of the operation which will run through next week is to qualify pilots, flight crews and maintenance personnel in all phases of aircraft carrier operations including both day and night carrier landings for combat readiness. Key maintenance personnel and spare flight crews boarded the giant ship last Saturday at its berth near Jacksonville. Weighing anchor early Monday morning, the carrier has been at sea off the coasts of Florida and Georgia the entire week. A Navy spokesman stated that the smoothness of the squadron's operations during the past week is due to the intensive training phase the squadron recently completed in the Sanford area. It was during the training period that four of the squadron's members died in an aircraft accident two weeks ago. Life aboard the Navy's largest ship is somewhat novel for the squadron's old timers and new hands alike. All living spaces on the aircraft carrier are air conditioned and flight crews are transported from squadrons ready rooms to the flight deck area on escalators. The large angled flight deck coupled with the Navy's newest mirror landing system permits Lt. Art B. Blisner USN, the squadron's Landing Signal Officer, to bring the pilots aboard with much greater precision and safety than was hitherto possible. The crews of Cdr. Miller and LCDR "Chuck" McBratnie were aboard the huge aircraft carrier for the second time in little over a month. On June 6 they flashed across the United States from an aircraft carrier in the Pacific to land on the U.S.S. Saratoga in the Atlantic in four hours and 20 minutes. President Eisenhower was on board at the time to personally greet them.

Canty Charged With Shooting

Willie Canty, a Midway Negro, is being held in the Seminole County Jail without bond pending the outcome of the condition of Allen Johnson. Johnson, said Sheriff J. L. Hobby's office this morning, was shot four times with a 22 rifle, as he alighted from a vehicle on his way home from work. Canty has been charged with assault with intent to commit murder. However, the outcome of Johnson's condition will determine further charges which may be placed against him. The incident occurred about 7 p. m. last night, said Justice of the Peace W. Hugh Duncan who issued the warrant for Canty's arrest. Johnson's condition, said law enforcement officials, is critical.

Top News In Brief

WASHINGTON — The State Department pitched into the job today of trying to figure out how many American reporters would go to Red China if travel restrictions on newsmen were lifted. JACKSONVILLE — Florida has stepped "way out front" in developing a nuclear research program in its universities, a state official reports. Dr. J. Plea For Zoning, Building Permit System Is Heard

Another plea came from residents of the SanLando section this morning for a system of permits for building and for zoning when two hours' session appeared before the Board of Seminole County Commissioners. Mrs. Frank Parke and Mrs. H. D. Johnston, whose homes are located in the area subdivided by Garapic, Inc. told the board "I like the homestead exemption but if that means I'm going to have shacks built up around me then we ought to pay our way."

County Attorney Mack N. Cleveland Jr. explained to the two ladies that a new zoning law was put into effect July 1 and that the board was appointed a new commission to put the law into effect as soon as possible. Clerk of the Board, G. P. Herndon read a letter from Gary I. Garapic relative to complaints about restrictions in the area for which zoning was requested. Mrs. Parke immediately told commissioners "I don't think I should answer that letter without my attorney since some of those statements are untrue. "We realize," she said, "that there were to be smaller homes but we were assured that they would be nice homes. I think he is taking unfair advantage of the situation."

Government Ends 1957 With Over $1 Billion Surplus

WASHINGTON — The government ended fiscal 1947 with a surplus of $1,622,000,000, the Treasury Department announced today. This compared with $1,626,000,000 surplus in fiscal 1946. Treasury receipts in the fiscal year ended June 30, were $71,914,000,000. Expenditures were $69,344,000,000. Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey and Budget Director Percival F. Brundage said in a joint statement that receipts were 341 million higher than estimated in January. Budget expenditures were 444 million higher than estimated, "mainly due to larger expenditures for the Department of Defense which were not fully offset by lower expenditures in other departments."

Humphrey and Brundage said that the surplus—the second successive fiscal year in the black—has resulted in a reduction of the net debt.

Neither Humphrey nor Brundage made any reference to a possible tax cut. But President Eisenhower has made it clear repeatedly that there is no present prospect of any tax reduction.

New Food Service Plan Employed By Reserve Unit

A new twist in summer camp messing and food service has been employed by the 3003rd Station Complement, which is the Reserve Unit at Ft. McClellan, Ala., and one of the very first in the Nation to run its own self-sustaining messing facilities. The unit is composed of enlisted men and officers from an area encompassing Sanford, Daytona Beach, Deland and their respective vicinities. The 3003rd Station Complement is commanded by Col. Floyd M. Call, Winter Park. In preparation for this operation, training for cooks and bakers was carried on at the Orlando Air Force Base and in a pre-camp training period of three days at Ft. Orlando. The training included all phases of food preparation—cooking, baking, serving, as well as operation and mess management. The unit scheduled for a four day bivouac and field training exercise, will find the mess personnel operating field kitchens and mess facilities for the unit, which has a strength at camp of 120 enlisted men and officers. The mission of a station complement, is to operate a mess, camp or station, and to provide training facilities and supplies for all units attached to it for training. Some of the subjects covered in the free lectures are: equipment and government regulations; rules of the nautical road; seamanship safety afloat; the mariner's compass; aids to navigation; charts and piloting and manners and customs on shipboard. The theatre manager starts crusade against smoking. NEW YORK — There's a new sign over the candy counter in a Brooklyn movie house: "Live Longer—Reach for a Sweet—Instead of a Smoke. Effective August 1, Sale of All Cigarettes, Plain or Filter Tips, Shall Be Discontinued At the Avenue U Theatre." The theatre's owner-manager, Albert L. Green, said, "I guess you could call it a one-man crusade. I hope I didn't bite off more than I can chew." Green said he started after the U. S. Public Health Service issued its report on the relation between smoking and lung cancer last week. He stopped smoking himself. He asked his employees to give it up. "My assistant stopped, the matron stopped, the operators stopped, the cashiers and the doorman—they all stopped," Green said. "There's still a smoking section in the Avenue U Theatre, "But I don't want to be a party to selling them." Green said. "Maybe if some of the customers can't buy them here they'll give it up and maybe they'll be grateful." Like the picture Green's showing this week, it's a "Friendly Persuasion."
