

Zoo Support Continues

The Central Florida Zoo has come a long way — but it still has a long way to go, and thanks to the continuing efforts of area clubs and organizations, as well as individuals, it looks as if the June opening will be on schedule.

Recently, 85 members and guests of the DeBary Garden Club contributed a total of $130 during a silver bowl collection taken by club president Mrs. James Wallin, chairman Mrs. Ard Whisler and treasurer Mrs. John Boffi.

Contestants in the Tri-County Roadrunners C. B. Radio Club's Little Miss Valentine contest, staged during the club's Feb. 15 Coffee Break at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building, raised $602.89 for the zoo, which was presented by club president Russ Williamson, Little Miss Valentine Leslie Downer and club members Wilma Bennett and Evelyn McCarty, to Zoo representative Charles Davis, Saturday.

An extensive membership drive is being conducted by the Deltona Public Library Association, Inc. during February and March with Mrs. Elizabeth E. Wyman as chairman.

Mrs. Wyman says that the support of all residents in maintaining an up-to-date library is necessary. Through the contributions and membership of the 675 friends in Deltona, it was possible for the Association to announce last Fall that the construction of a new and well stocked Library would shortly begin.

But, money is still needed to provide the furnishings. For this, the Association is depending on more members to come forward and swell their Association membership. The goal is 1,000 members in 1975.

Sanford Bus Service Slated

Could Begin By May 1

By JOHN A. SPOLSKI Associate Editor The Roads and Bridges Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce met this morning to review the progress of the soon-to-be built Osteen Bridge, located one mile south of Sanford on SR 415.

According to Co-Chairman Douglas Stenstrom all is proceeding according to previously announced plans and the construction should begin during the period beginning July 15 through Aug. 1, 1975.

It was to be the responsibility of Richard Taylor, assistant executive director of the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Transportation Authority to spring the surprise of the day when he told of plans to initiate bus service within Sanford. According to Taylor, the service could begin as soon as May 1 of this year.

Taylor said the $48,000 funding for the proposed two-carrier bus line was appropriated by the Seminole County Commission.

"This should not be confused with the present bus service being provided in the south end of the county," said Taylor, "it would be strictly inter-Sanford and not Sanford to Orlando, either."

The proposal would offer six-day service and operate Monday through Saturday and basically serve the two "traffic generators" — downtown Sanford and the Sanford Plaza. According to Taylor this bus service is designed to serve the elderly; lower income families; and those who are presently without any transportation.

The actual fare for riding the bus has not been established according to Taylor. However, in a survey report prepared in 1972 it was proposed to charge 20 cents. Additional economics on the matter reflect two buses operating 11 hours daily at a proximately $40,000 annually. Taking into consideration the report was planned in '72 and the costs have escalated since then, it's reasonable to assume that additional funding would be required to sustain a program like this," said Taylor.

The average cost for operating a bus today is $12.10 per hour according to Taylor. The bus line which presently serves the Altamonte area is funded by both Orange County (97 per cent), and Seminole County paying the remaining three per cent.

In other action, Stenstrom said with the completion of the Osteen Bridge, there are two other major projects before the committee. Top priority is the completion of SR 419 as a major artery into the county seat located in Sanford. The second effort will focus on building an overpass at the railroad crossing on SR 46, west of Sanford.

Long-range planning would include the four-laning of Lake Mary Boulevard from the I-4 Interchange to Highway 17-82. A motion was passed unanimously by the committee to serve the aid of U.S. Senators Lawton Chiles and Richard

FBI Enters County School Investigation

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

FBI agents will be in Seminole County "within the next day or so" to conduct a U.S. Justice Department investigation into civil rights implications of the closing down of Rosenwald Elementary, a spokesman confirmed today.

A Tampa FBI agent said his office launched the probe after justice officials contacted him yesterday and informed Tampa agents the investigation is at the bequest of the U.S. Attorney General.

The agent declined to specify the number of FBI agents that will be utilized in Seminole County, but he did say the investigation will last "about two weeks" and agents will turn over all information to justice officials for their evaluation.

The confirmed probe by the FBI is the latest in a series of events concerning Rosenwald since the school board voted two weeks ago to close down the Altamonte Springs facility and turn it into a center for handicapped children.

The school board stood by their decision to close Rosenwald last night by rejecting a proposal by School Supt. Bud Lauer "that all action by the board be rescinded pending an investigation by the U.S. Justice Department."

Lauer's proposal bit the dust when a motion by board member E. C. Harper Jr. to suspend the zoning line decision failed to receive a second.

"Let's scratch it and start over again," Harper said. Twice he made that motion, and twice it failed to get a second.

Then Casselberry resident, John Chambliss, rapped the board for not following the recommendation given them by their superintendent. Chambliss also appealed to the board to study further the "Lake Orianta Plan," which sparked a three-day countywide boycott by Seminole's blacks.

According to unofficial estimates by school officials, (Continued On Page 3-A)

Beltline Funds Not Available

By BILL BELLEVILLE Herald Staff Writer

A tri-county beltline that would cut through western Seminole County near Lake Mary would be financially unfeasible at this time, County Expressway Authority members learned last night. And, the news put the brakes on the activities of the newly organized Authority.

State Department of Transportation (DOT) Bonding Coordinator Sam Draper told Authority members that the gas tax funds, and other state revenues that would support the beltline, are just not up to expectations at this time.

At a later time when the economy takes an upward swing, such revenue will then make the project a workable one.

State DOT's position was essentially the same one that it gave to the Orange County Expressway Authority last month.

There were not enough of the seven Seminole Authority members present for a quorum, so the meeting was not deemed "official." But those present generally agreed that the Authority would probably lay back until further information about financing is revealed, and not meet on a monthly basis as planned.

Members indicated that they would like to keep the proposed corridor for the beltline through Seminole free of development, but admitted that it would be hard to do without more specifics on the exact location of the proposed road.

Mom 'In Love' With Son-In-Law

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm crazy, but I'm in love with my son-in-law, Lenny, is 22, and he's in love with me. (I'm 37.)

It all started when I went to stay at my daughter's house while she was at the hospital having a baby. (She has one child, a year old.)

I don't know what happened. Abby, but all at once Lenny hugged me, and before I knew it, I was in his arms and we were kissing like a couple of teen-agers. I've never been so thrilled in all my life. We went the limit, and now I don't think I can live without him. Lenny says he feels the same way about me. He says the difference in our ages doesn't mean a thing to him. Me either. In fact this 22-year-old kid is more of a man than my husband, who is 42.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

I would be willing to go anywhere in the world with Lenny, but I don't want to hurt my daughter. Also I have a husband and five other kids at home. Please give me some advice, but don't tell me to give up Lenny. I'm too far gone on him.

$9-Million Office Park Plans Told

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Plans for a $9 million office park to be constructed on the 43-acre Joe Schrimsher property bounding Range Line Road and SR 434 were unveiled before the city zoning commission last night by development consultant David Farr.

Action on the requested annexation of the tract and rezoning from its current agricultural designation in the county to B-1 business district in the city was delayed until proper notices are sent to all property owners within 500 feet of the parcel and a public hearing held by the zoning commission, in accordance with city law.

In answer to a question from a zoning board member last night, Farr said no application had been filed with the county on the project.

Farr told The Herald today he discovered after the last night's meeting, that a member of the Schrimsher family talked with County Planner Roger Neiswander and Zoning Director J. B. Williams about the proposal last year to develop the property into apartment and commercial uses.

Farr said the county officials indicated drainage problems existed with the site and since the tract was bounded by Longwood perhaps it should be annexed into the city. Farr said the suggestion was made primarily because they (the county officials) "did not want to mess with it."

"But there was never a formal application made to the county," Farr said, adding annexation was discussed with then Mayor Eugene Jaques.

When Farr applied to the city for annexation and rezoning to commercial and apartment use last fall, residents of Ivesworth which bounds the Schrimsher tract protested.

Farr said last night approximately half the property is flood prone including the one-third currently under water. He said plans are to develop 22 acres out of the 43 into 300,000 square feet of office space and 1,000 parking spaces within 18 months to two years when the economy's financing picture has improved.

Access to the development will be via SR 434, Farr said, adding that Schrimsher will provide a traffic signal at the intersection of the entranceway with SR

434 if the state Department of Transportation (DOT) seems it necessary. Farr said, but building sites will be filled in somewhat. He said the developer will provide both acceleration and deceleration lanes on SR 434. The dike will be removed from the underwater side of the property to permit better drainage from parts of adjacent Ivesworth subdivision, he said.

Asked why Schrimsher would provide a traffic signal at the intersection of the entranceway with SR planner said city services — police and fire protection — would be necessary for the urban-type development.

He added when Schrimsher purchased the property two years ago, a city representative urged that he seek annexation. Farr said although the privately owned Sanlando Utilities Co. does not now have sewer system capacity to serve the property, it was expected capacity would be available in two years.

Zoning Commissioner Robert Hammond said it will not be possible at this point to drain the property through South Island Lake to Fairy Lake. It was noted that drainage water dumped into South Island Lake now eventually ends up in Crane's Roost in Altamonte Springs.

Mayor James R. Lormann urged the zoning commission to consider favorable plans for good industrial and commercial development and annexation when legal.

He said he wants to see the historical district encouraged and those businesses in and near the historic district that plan renovations to use the historical motif.

Five Cent Gas Tax Hike Pushed By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—House and Senate Democrats are ready to recommend at least a five-cent gasoline tax increase and perhaps a larger one as part of their comprehensive alternative to President Ford's energy program.

Task forces composed of Democrats in the House and Senate are scheduled to make the program public today after meeting to iron out differences that include a dispute over how much the gasoline tax should be increased. The federal tax now stands at 10 cents a gallon.

The Democratic task forces also have discussed oil import quotas, tax incentives for buying economy cars and for insulating private homes.

The Senate members of the task force reportedly were holding out for a small gasoline tax hike while the House members were said to be arguing for increases of 10 to 15 cents a gallon over a three-year period.

Hoover Report Read

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi is prepared to report that J. Edgar Hoover kept a secret file of derogatory information about members of Congress, two Justice Department officials said today.

Levi planned to tell a Senate Judiciary subcommittee today that he considers some of Hoover's file-keeping habits "inappropriate now," according to one of these sources.

This official and other sources in the department and the FBI said that Levi and FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley planned to testify in detail about the agency's past and present procedures for collecting and keeping information on members of Congress and other public officials.

Arab Blacklist Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is considering legal steps to prevent discrimination against Jews by companies or federal agencies seeking to improve their relations with the Arab world.

At the same time, Sen. Frank Church released a list of 1,500 U.S. businesses and organizations boycotted by Saudi Arabia for having some connections with Israel.

President Ford on Wednesday took note of recent reports of attempts by American banks and corporations to discriminate against Jewish firms in order to keep the door open for trade with the newly rich Arab countries.

Ray Awaits Decision

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A federal judge rules today whether James Earl Ray will be permitted to withdraw his guilty plea and face trial on charges he murdered Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray's attorneys said their client, serving a 99-year term in the state prison at Nashville, was optimistic that U. S. District Court Judge Robert M. McIver Jr. would rule in his favor.

Ray has waged a legal battle almost from the day he started his prison term to obtain a trial he availed when he pleaded guilty and accepted the sentence on March 10, 1969.

County Approves More Reorganization

By BILL BELLEVILLE Herald Staff Writer

The reorganization of the county government into new departments recommended months ago in an efficiency survey by Public Research and Management — was officially approved in part by commissioners Tuesday afternoon.

While five were approved, two more new departments are awaiting organization pending further research.

Commissioners meeting with department heads and the Atlanta firm's representative E. H. Underwood in Atlanta last week. The division of the county clerk's duties must be approved by a state law.

The suggestion for a professional county manager was voted in part by commissioners after they returned from a meeting with the county clerk's staff in Atlanta last week.

The departments approved include "County Development, Public Safety, Environmental Protection, Administrative Services, and Agriculture Extension Services."

County personnel to head the newly created departments were carefully evaluated in closed work sessions, with commissioners deciding to award talent already available in the county, rather than seek outside individuals.

Beginning Saturday, Administrative Assistant Betty Simcoe will head the Department of Administrative Services.

O'Malley Law Partner Cited For Contempt

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—State Treasurer Thomas O'Malley's former law partner has been cited for contempt of court and briefly jailed after refusing to testify to the grand jury that indicted O'Malley last week.

Miami attorney Bennett Feldman was ordered jailed Wednesday night by Circuit Judge John Rudd, who scheduled a bond hearing for today.

But state Supreme Court Justice Ben Overton later granted a writ of habeas corpus, freeing Feldman on his own recognizance until the hearing.

Rudd had sentenced Feldman, named in a dismissed indictment as one of two persons who allegedly gave O'Malley $40,000 in kickbacks, to six months in the Leon County Jail.

Rationing Would Hurt

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. tourism industry can live with 81-gallon gasoline but cannot survive rationing, a high-ranking industry spokesman says.

Peter Cas, senior vice president of Discover America Travel Organizations, said Wednesday that Americans will continue to travel as long as they are able to buy gasoline — no matter what the price.

"We can live with the President's energy program, which the administration says could raise the price of gasoline to 75 cents a gallon," Cas said. "And I think the tourism industry could even live with the various congressional proposals which probably would cause gas to go up to 90 cents or $1 a gallon."

Gurney Jurors Quizzed

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The names of 13 more prospective jurors will be drawn as the slow process of jury selection goes into the fourth day today in the bribery-conspiracy trial of former Florida Sen. Edward Gurney and four codefendants.

A marshal picks the names at random from a original pool of 70 people. So far, 37 have been called and screened and 26 of them have been excused.

Six men and five women remain but still are subject to challenge. Huddles by attorneys at the bench, out of earshot from spectators and the press, have primarily determined which prospective jurors are dismissed.

County Quizzed On Plan Funding

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS — City Councilman John Daniels asked Darrell Dilmore of the County Planning Department, who is in charge of the city's planning, how much more revenue than budgeted in terms of $20,000 and I do not project a deficit."

In order to allow time to consider a last minute application, Council postponed a decision on hiring the public works director until next week. The position will be funded by Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

Hired as a fireman under the program, J.C. Lawson will begin work today. He has been a volunteer with the Winter Springs Fire Dept., for more than eight years and is qualified by the state.

Henck's Death Notice Has 1875 Longwood Founding

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD FOUNDER IS DEAD FOLLOWING ILLNESS IN ORLANDO. The headline in Warren Henck published in the Monday, October 27, 1930 edition of The Sanford Herald.

And the obituary appears, long a question posed by history buffs in Longwood.

"In 1875," The Herald records, "the late Florida taking up a homestead on the site that is now Longwood, and named the town after Longwood, Mass."

He was in his 80th year at the time of his death on Oct. 26, 1890, at the Florida Sanitarium in Orlando. The obituary reported that Henck served in the Navy during the Civil War and had the distinction of being the last surviving member of the Guard of Honor at the funeral of President Lincoln.

"Through his efforts," the obituary stated, "the city of Longwood was founded in 1875."

He said the prospect that this year marks the city's centennial is exciting news and he will be preparing a proclamation noting the fact.

The proclamation, Mayor Lormann said, will be issued during ceremonies dedicating the city as a bicentennial community at 4:30 p.m. March 5 at city hall.

It was said that Henck was born in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1810. His father was for many years a professor of engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and was widely known as the author of many engineering books.

Mr. Henck's wife, Mary Augusta, the obituary states, was a daughter of the late Brewster who came over to the United States on the Mayflower. Mr. Henck was the past master of Longwood Lodge No. 99 F & AM and was at one time commander of the GAR. He was a direct descendant of the South Florida Railroad.

Many documents relating to the history of the city were included in the abstract of the property at 400 E. Church St. Longwood and have been kept by Mr. and Mrs. Auste Austin since they purchased it some years ago.

One of the more interesting items Mr. Henck will executed on April 21, 1890, and filed Oct. 29, 1930. The will states, "I request that no unnecessary expense be spent on my funeral and direct that my body be placed in a simple pine box covered in simple pine and the American flag and that it then be delivered to Carey Hand of Orlando, Florida, for cremation."

"I further direct that Mr. Hand shall take up the body of my wife from the Longwood Cemetery and be cremated at the same time and the ashes be placed in the same urn."

Sewer Connection Fee Explained

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — City commissioners Tuesday night referred to its planning and zoning commission for study and recommendation petitions from Bel-Aire Homes Inc. and Tompkins Land Co. Inc. for annexation of 233 home sites in the second sections of Trailwood Estates and Weatherfield.

Mayor Norman Floyd said the Weatherfield addition is contiguous (touching) other city lands at Lake Ruby and that Trailwood Estates is contiguous to Weatherfield. He added that the original section of Weatherfield is not part of the annexation request.

A representative of Bel-Aire Homes Inc. said the request is being made for the second section of Weatherfield, particularly to receive water and sewer service since the area is currently at the mercy of Southern Gulf Utilities," a privately owned utility company.

The developers' representative noted that setback variances will be necessary for 15 of the 115 lots in the Weatherfield addition and houses constructed will contain 1,000 square feet and sell in the $25,000 to $32,000 price range. He added Bel-Aire is willing to pay its proportionate costs of extending utility lines to the development.

In other business, the commission received a copy of a letter written by City Atty. Joe Davis to Coral Gables attorney Benjamin B. Tepper explaining the city's denial of a $30,900 sewer connection fee previously paid.

Tepper in making the refund request noted that plans to construct a multi-story building for a community development grant for countywide comprehensive land planning has been removed from the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council project review committee agenda March 12.

Kercher said it has become apparent that some modifications need to be made to the applications. A revised application will be sent to the planning council at a later date, Kercher said. The county's effort to gain federal funding for the comprehensive land planning has been endorsed by the CALNO Council of Local Governments.

Cartel Threat Growing Issue

The move toward global price-fixing of raw materials by Third World nations should send an economic shock wave through the industrialized nations whose economies still are struggling to recover from tactics used by oil-producing nations to send petroleum prices skyrocketing.

The strategy for establishing resources cartel was defined more clearly by representatives of 110 Third World nations in a meeting recently in Dakar, Senegal. That strategy already had been set in motion with a "Declaration on the Establishment of a New International Economic Order" adopted nearly a year ago in a special session of the United Nations General Assembly. That document warned the world that natural resources other than oil might be withheld from industrial nations.

The magnitude of the danger to the United States of America becomes clear with a realization that the United States imports 50 per cent or more of 22 of the 41 basic minerals it uses. For example, we depend on imports for 85 per cent of the nautiline and alumina, 80 per cent of the tin and 75 per cent of the nickel that we use.

A recent White House study of the possible threat from a raw materials cartel downgraded its potential danger, which is unfortunate. The report said that the U.S. depends on imports for "about 15 per cent" of its most critical raw materials. It ignores the fact that the 15 per cent could well be the margin that furnishes this nation with its high standards of living.

However, the United States is not powerless in its relations with Third World nations. The recent trade bill provides an avenue with which to respond to economic blackmail of the type contemplated by the Senegal conference. The bill grants trade advantages to developing nations but forbids them to nations which form market cartels. The bill can thus be used to fight any cartel attempting to deny the U.S. raw materials.

Resource sanctions against the United States could cause us some discomfort by denying us a few luxuries. In return the Third World would invite immediate economic retaliation by the United States. A large share of the world market would thus be denied to the cartels.

The industrialized nations surely have been warned sufficiently by the Third World, and, having been burned once by the OPEC nations, should be alert against other economic blackmail. The United States cannot afford to keep turning the other cheek and remain a leader in a changing world.

President Ford's decision to release $2 billion in impounded funds for immediate highway construction is difficult to justify in the present economic and energy situation of the United States of America.

Around The Clock

I had no intentions of "rehashing" the staged robbery by the senior citizens class at Lake Doral High.

However, since a letter was addressed to this column (as opposed to a Letter to the Editor), I feel obliged to at least provide the space for one of those students who was involved.

When writing on the subject previously, all I really wanted answered was "why" . . . why was it staged in the first place?

Evidently, this is the answer to the query, as submitted by student Joe Laughlin:

I cannot believe you reported the recent "fake" robbery without all the facts. You asked why we did it. I can tell you because I was the actor, robber, director and creator of the movie. I felt that in order for our class project on criminal life to have an effect on my fellow students, we could best explain the criminal's life and influences upon him in the order we had planned and studied through a home movie. We researched this subject thoroughly to make an accurate presentation.

We couldn't film in a "remote" area, as you suggested, because there is no "remote" area where an important consideration to us was that the store was convenient and people directly involved were, we thought, informed.

Why not point out that if the officer had prepared his replacement the whole project might have been reported as a creative, educational experience?

An irate reader asked what would happen if we handled rape in the same manner. This is ridiculous and it indicates a complete lack of understanding of the purpose of the project.

We had considered that a risk might have been involved. But we took pains to eliminate it by informing those involved.

The point of this project is to get the student interested in learning, instead of going through class book reading everyday. Outside class work is necessary, interesting, requires much study and work.

I guess I haven't changed much since my "senior" days. Joe, a slow learner . . . once I still haven't been able to learn from your reply the answer to my question "Why?"

"I expect to pass through life but once. If therefore, there be any kindness I can show, or any good thing I can do to any fellow being, let me do it now, and not defer or neglect it, as I shall not pass this way again." — William Penn, Quaker founder of Pennsylvania.

DON OAKLEY 'Influence' Money Flows Like Water

In the same year that the Watergate crisis reached its culmination and the cleansing winds of honesty and integrity supposedly swept through the American political system, the activities of special-interest groups achieved new highs.

The year of Watergate was also an election year, and never did so many groups as so much of the campaigns of so many, on both the state and federal levels.

Pages would be required to list all the groups attempting to win friends and influence legislation. They run from labor unions to doctors' and dentists' associations to real estate and railroad lobbyists to insurance, construction, banking and teacher trusts.

About the only groups not making record donations last year were the dairy cooperatives, still gun-shy because of adverse publicity resulting from their massive contributions to ex-President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign.

Far and away the greatest contributor of all was the oil industry. According to a report last August by the National Information Center on Political Financing, union political committees had donated $2.6 million to House and Senate candidates, plus another couple million to candidates for state offices. With the election six weeks away, they still had $4.7 million to spend.

It was all quite legal, of course. But many people are beginning to wonder why it is wrong for businesses to contribute directly to politicians but all right for unions to do the same, especially since unions not only enjoy tax-exempt status but individual members often have little say in how their dues money is used.

Seldom has the connection between donations and legislation been more apparent than in the heavy, last-minute contributions by the trucking industry to House members during a lobbying drive to increase the weight and size limits for trucks on the nation's interstate highways.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Oil Nations To Seek Key Energy Dialogue

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The 13 major oil exporting countries today end a three-day conference after giving consuming nations a price-breathing spell and laying the groundwork for a key energy dialogue.

The ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) announced that they will wait until June before deciding whether to raise the price of oil to the average value of a "basket" of major currencies.

The measure was proposed by several countries to protect the purchasing power of their revenues against erosion caused by a sharp dollar decline. If introduced now, the complicated measure could have meant an effective hike in the oil price in dollar terms.

Iranian chief delegate Jamshid Amouzegar told newsmen the move could become a "two-edged sword," so the conference agreed to await the recommendations of OPEC economic commission experts and leave any decision on price measures until the next ministerial council conference in June.

Edwards quietly pleaded guilty to robbery last week and defense attorney Gerald Butler confirmed that a circuit court judge accepted the negotiated plea with the condition that maximum sentence for the youth would be 18 months if he is testified in the trial before Circuit Judge David U. ### Softball Loop Off Waivers

By MICKEY LOCHRIDGE
Herald Staff Writer

By benching a residency requirement for the city's adult softball league, Sanford City Commissioners have pulled the league off waivers for the 1975 season.

James R. Jernigan, director of Recreation and Parks Department, said this morning that the city "could not have a league this season with a residency cap on it" because the 10 per cent cap would prevent enough players from composing teams.

Monday meeting repealed a residency requirement imposed after the 1974 season. The requirement, which allowed no more than 10 per cent of each team to be non-residents of the city, was intended to provide an opportunity for more city residents to take advantage of the adult softball program.

But, figures compiled from team rosters, revealed that 42 per cent of the ball players in 1974 were non-residents. "Jernigan said there is no way to tell until team rosters are made if more city residents will participate this season. "We would certainly like to see more city residents involved in the program," Jernigan said. "That is the job we get paid for. We're not funded by the county."

The point on the city funding program in which nearly half of the participants are non-residents, also was the objection to repealing the 10 per cent cap requirement raised by commissioner A. A. McClanahan. "I was elected by city taxpayers, and I'm not in favor of incurring them with additional budget outlay for non-resident team players," said McClanahan who had single opposing vote on repealing the requirement.

The league is composed of men's and women's teams sponsored by local businesses and industries, some of which allow only company employees to play on the team.

Jernigan said he expects there will be a total of 15 teams beginning play during the last week in March.

Commissioner Julian Strom, in voting for the repeal of the residency requirement, said he was in favor of the league being reorganized before next year in order that more city residents may be able to participate in the league. The trio was charged with possession of

TOM TIEDE Passing The Buck But Good

LATTA, S.C. — (NEA) — Life has never been overly fine for Shirley Abrams. A black, she was born to deep poverty, forced out of school by economic conditions, and grew up semi-literate or perhaps retarded. Now married to a $35-a-week furniture salesman, she tobers over a household so astonishingly decrepit that, according to one sympathetic neighbor, "even the roaches avoid it."

Recently, though, the woman suffered what must be an ultimate degradation even for one so thoroughly degraded. In labor with a terminating pregnancy and unable to afford proper care, Shirley Abrams was refused attention by her doctor, denied admission by a hospital and forced to give birth in the streets of a nearby town.

It happened this way: Labor began late on a weekend evening and Mrs. Abrams, 23, asked her husband to call the Latta Rescue Service, the only ambulance in town. Her pains were slight at first, but by the time the ambulance reached County Memorial Hospital, the woman had severe cramps and discomfort was building. Knowing this, nevertheless, hospital officials refused to admit Mrs. Abrams even under emergency conditions.

The medics explained they were completely within their legal rights, saying they could not automatically admit a patient without a physician's order. As for emergency treatment, Mrs. Abrams did not qualify because, they said, obstetrics is not considered an emergency since an expectant mother has nine months to plan her care.

Dumbfounded, the rescue squad placed a hurried call to a local doctor who had handled Mrs. Abrams as a patient in the past. But, too, declined interest or responsibility. Yes, he said, the woman had been his patient in the early stages of her pregnancy, but when she did not meet payments on her bill he told her "take the street." He said he would go back on that. Hence, the matter was out of his hands.

Finally, all pleas exhausted, and with no place left to go, the rescue squad opted for the only moral alternative: they delivered the baby themselves. Stopping at a curb, draping paper sheets over the windows, borrowing cold water from an outside faucet, and "praying the baby out as much as anything," the crew made a delivery at 6:15 a.m., seven hours after the ordeal began. The baby, a girl, was almost immediately christened "Faith" by crew and mother who determined, under the circumstances, it was fully apropos.

Mini-Bus Service
Please allow me to suggest if you would be good enough to print in your newspaper the possibility of inaugurating a Mini-bus service in Sanford.

If a city like Winter Park can afford a Mini-bus service, I am sure that Sanford could do the same. This would enable people that have no transportation to do their shopping, etc. The starting point for the bus could be at City Hall to French Avenue to 25th Street, north to Mellonville Avenue to Colony Avenue, to San Jose Avenue and back to City Hall.

The fare could be anywhere from 10 cents to 25 cents. I am of the opinion that enough people would ride the bus to make the venture pay for itself.

I am a retired person 79 years old without transportation and I am sure there are others in the same position.

GOP Women Oppose ERA
We, the members of the Sanford Women's Republican Club of Sanford, Florida would like you to know that we strongly oppose the passage of the E.R.A.

We feel that only the few noisy and unhappy women have heard on equal rights and that the majority of fulfilled women have not yet given voice. We would like to do so.

Since our club believes that the American woman is the most privileged in the world, we made a motion to oppose the E.R.A. We believe that this bill would discriminate against a woman's right as a woman and would eventually destroy her position in the family. Since the mother is the center of the family, the family too would be destroyed.

Change is necessary. Change is good. There is, however, danger in reckless change. We hope that you will consider all aspects of this bill.

Common Cause, the public-interest lobby which purports to represent the little person, charges that the law will in fact actually serve to enhance the power of special-interest groups. By limiting gifts by individuals to $1,000 for any one candidate, it will make candidates more dependent upon organized interests.

WASHINGTON—It can now be revealed that CIA agents have trained the elite units which guard favored foreign monarchs, premiers and dictators.

This has given the CIA contacts close to the seat of power, according to our sources, in such countries as Ethiopia, Indonesia, Jordan, Laos, Somalia, South Korea, South Vietnam and Thailand.

For Sewer Package Plant Operation Longdale Hook-Up Answer To Present Deficit

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The answer to turning the deficit operation of the sewer package plant serving Skylark subdivision into a self-supporting utility is hooking up adjacent Longdale subdivision to the plant, Councilman H. A. Scott told colleagues this week.

Scott made his remarks after ex-councilman Dick Crenshaw said he could not believe city figures showing the Skylark plant operation is costing nearly $2 for every $1 in revenue received.

A resident of Skylark and a member of the past city council that granted permission to Skylark developers, CAM Corp., to place the package plant on city property, Crenshaw said it had been planned the plant would serve Longdale as well until the city connected to the Altamonte Springs regional plant.

Councilman Jerry Connell noted assessing the costs to Longdale residents for pipe, etc., of connecting to the Skylark plant might be excessive and asked Councilman Don Schreiner, whose district includes the subdivision, for a feeling from the people there.

Schreiner said a number of septic tanks have been failing in Longdale and the residents may view favorably a move to have a sewer system installed.

Crenshaw insisted the annual financial report from accountant Harold Hartstock which showed that $17,000 was spent in sewer service last year while only $10,000 was received in revenues included costs of the Columbus Harbor package plant that serves the Sanford Orlando Kennel Club and the privately owned sewer plant serving E. E. Williamson Road developments.

Public Works Director Ralph Fisher said the package plant serving the E. E. Williamson Road area is owned by Longwood Utilities Inc. and that private enterprise pays its own bills. In addition, all bills for the Columbus Harbor plant are being sent to the dog track.

When Crenshaw was in office the city applied for and received permits from the state Department of Pollution Control (DPC) to operate all three plants and paid the operation costs although none of the three were owned by the city.

Final details are being completed to have two of the plants — Skylark and Columbus Harbor — decided to the city. Crenshaw criticized the city's abandoning of plans for a city-wide sewer system last year after an advisory vote by the people ran 2-1 in opposition to the proposed utility, saying it had not been intended that the Skylark plant would be a permanent facility.

He insisted that plans were for the monthly sewer rate at the city-wide system would be $4.50 monthly.

Council Chairman J. R. Grant refuted Crenshaw's remarks about cost on the city-wide system, saying with connection to the Altamonte Springs plant actual monthly charges would have exceeded $16 per homeowner.

Crenshaw, noting he was

Rockefeller Rules Out President Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller today virtually ruled himself out of presidential politics forever.

Citing his advanced age and a desire to keep President Ford's trust, Rockefeller declared, "I'm just not a competitive factor with the rising stars" in the Republican political front.

The vice president, 66, insisted that Ford is "bound to run and be a candidate" for re-election in 1976.

So "you've got to be talking about 1980" as to his own chances for the presidency, Rockefeller said. "And that's crazy."

He also declared that "I'm fed up with that stuff — with politics. This is no time for it. I bitterly resent people who talk about politics in the future when we've got tremendous human problems today. It's in poor taste and offensive to the American people."

"I have no prospects, no thoughts and no plans for 1980. I don't think anyone gives a good God damn about 1980."

Rockefeller's remarks came during an hour-long, post-midnight session with reporters aboard Air Force Two as he returned to Washington from a speaking engagement Wednesday night before 3,000 automobile engineers in Detroit.

As he has before, Rockefeller

Grant assured that adequate notice and public hearing would be held before any sewer rate increase was approved.

Crenshaw and 10 other citizens from Skylark attended the council meeting to discuss the possibility of water rates not operating at a loss.

Connell urged that consideration be given to adopting the same requirements as lifting the City of Casselberry where commercial users are charged on the basis of meter size.

An old, unrequited family issue may surface and put the damper on relationships at home. Don't be the one who brings it up.

Rape Victim Tells Committee Of Trial

SALEM, Ore. — The young woman's voice was barely audible as she told a legislative committee what it's like to be a rape victim who goes to court against her attacker in Oregon.

"The whole trial was said on me, I felt," she said. "They said very little about the man."

Susan, not her real name, asked me do I wear a bra, do I have any see-through blouses, how many cigarettes I smoke, did I have an orgasm while I was raped, did I enjoy being raped?"

The jury acquitted the accused rapist, and Susan said he now is facing trial for another rape, an attack that occurred while he was free on his own recognizance before going to trial in Susan's case.

Susan agreed to testify before the House Judiciary Committee Wednesday only if she could remain anonymous.

The alternate panel is considering proposed changes in state law to prohibit the introduction of evidence in court about a rape victim's past sexual encounters or her general reputation in regard to chastity.

The changes have drawn the support of women's groups, police spokesmen and prosecutors as a means of protecting rape victims from courtroom questioning that preclude many rape victims from reporting an assault.

Susan told her assailant "told me he had killed four girls and raped them all. He told me he was going to kill me. I didn't know what to do except try to talk him out of it."

This Counselor May Need Help

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband was just 30. All of a sudden, Melvin started changing his shirt three times before going to work. He was working overtime, putting extra miles on his car, but was always short of money, so I figured something was up.

I asked a few questions, put two and two together, and found out the reason. She is a 24-year-old girl who works where Melvin works. She worked all summer in hot pants, and the place was air-conditioned. I understand that "Hot Pants" has been having lunch and coffee breaks with my Melvin, and they use the company parking lot for a "lover's lane."

When I asked Melvin about "Hot Pants" he said the poor kid has had a lot of problems, and he's been helping her get her life straightened out. Abby, that "poor kid" is divorced, has two kids, and makes $5.50 an hour. People who have seen her say she could win a Miss America contest if she put a sack over her head.

"How do I keep Melvin from making a fool of himself over her?"

MELVIN'S WIFE: It may be too late. But if he's acting as a counselor for her, he may need a counselor himself. Don't nag or humiliate him. A man in the foolish 50s needs an understanding wife.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to something you recently had in your column. I quote:

"What's the difference between a lady and a diplomat? When a diplomat says 'yes,' he means maybe. When a diplomat says 'no,' he means 'no.'"

League Hopeful On ERA Ratification

After a series of regional workshops throughout Florida, president of the League of Women Voters (LWV) of Florida, Eleanor Weinstein, reports it is apparent that members of the League, and other groups throughout the State, are in earnest about the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) by this session of the legislature.

The ERA states simply: "Equality of rights under law shall not be abridged by any state or by the United States or by any state or have come out publicly in favor of the ERA, including President Ford, Mrs. Betty Ford and Gov. and Mrs. Reubin Askew.

"We are optimistic about the results in 1975, in view of recent ratification in North Dakota and the overwhelming approval expressed in the survey of the citizens of Florida," said Mrs. Weinstein.

"We are asking all our members, as well as other groups who are interested, to

Dear Abby

When a lady says 'no,' she means maybe.

When a lady says 'maybe,' she means yes.

When a lady says 'yes,' she's no lady.

Your comment: "Thanks for a hard, dry brighter."

Abby, that joke is indeed odd, and should be dead. It's a degrading sexist gambit that makes invalid assumptions about women, and furthermore renders them powerless. I wish to amend that old story to read as follows:

I care not about diplomats, but,

When a woman says "yes," she means yes.

When a woman says "maybe," she means maybe.

And when a woman says "no," she means no.

And if a man persists, or uses force...he's a rapist!

Americans Ignore Slums

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans like to boast that theirs is the best-housed nation in the world, seemingly oblivious to the slums, the vast number of homes in disrepair, the poorly planned or fragmented services.

Housing now is the near depths of its collapse, having been undermined by high interest rates that siphoned off money to Uncle Sam and industry, both of which could pay the higher rates.

Homebuyers couldn't afford such rates, and neither could most homebuilders, the nature of the industry being that a goodly percentage of the work is done by relatively small, poorly financed businessmen.

Now, with interest rates falling and people returning their funds to the savings and loan associations, the biggest mortgage lenders, the outlook is beginning to show signs of improving.

For the first time in four months, housing starts rose in January. Nevertheless, the annual rate for that month was only 72,000 units, less than one-half the rate most officials feel is needed.

Ironically, one of the things that may hold back the recovery is a big inventory of unsold apartments and single-family houses. About 410,000 units remain unsold, largely because customers could not obtain mortgages.

It is probably for this reason that the bright news, the first in months, was partially eclipsed by a shadow of old problems. Housing permits issued, an indication of future activity, actually fell again.

And they either forget or fail to appreciate how housing in the United States is almost always the industry to feel the economic pinch the first and worst, and sometimes the last to recover.

Legislators have talked about it, industry and social service representatives have complained about it, and families seeking homes have been forced to tolerate it, but nothing substantial is done about it.

Flexibility Aids Car Hunt

DETROIT (AP)—A little flexibility is the key to getting a new car within hours of walking into the showroom. But if the buyer wants one of those hard-to-find machines, it could be two months before he gets the keys. The average is about three to six weeks.

That's the range found in a spot check of Detroit auto dealers and Big Three automakers.

Automakers are willing to ship cars hundreds of miles from one dealer to another to get a car out of stock to a buyer, rather than build one especially for him.

"Today, as compared with six to eight months ago, or even more so compared with 18 months ago, generally we can come up with your car considerably faster," said Jim Conlin, director of the sales section for General Motors. "We've got a considerable inventory, the shelf is full."

But even with a half-million Chevrolets in stock, it's very possible the exact car the buyer wants does not exist. Chevy, for example, can produce up to 250,000 of a single model without making an identical pair, because of the scores of options and colors available.

Ford and Chrysler have nearly similar numbers.

The industry has about 1.6 million cars built and ready to sell.

When the buyer orders his car, the dealer will do his best to sell him a car out of stock, and that means give him a better deal," a Chrysler spokesman said.

Certain cars, such as a full-size car with very little or no optional equipment, are hard to find. "Very few people order them," the Chrysler spokesman said.

The dealer will check his zone and neighboring zones to see if such a car is available. General Motors has 48 U.S. sales zones, Ford 34 and Chrysler, 22.

"We'll dealer trade across sales zones if necessary, from Chicago to St. Louis for example," a Chrysler spokesman said.

Being Different Is Way Of Life For Residents Of Town

GIBSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—In fact, sashcoth freaks are celebrities, says Ward Hall, founder of The World's Fair and Attractions, Inc. "These people are to Gibsonville what movie stars are to Hollywood," Hall says. "They are very much accepted and made a part of the community. If they lived in Columbus, Ga., they might not be invited to the mayor's banquet. But these people are invited to functions here."

Here he can escape from two-night stands, glittering hot lights, dusty fairgrounds, strange faces and stars.

Percella Belano is known as the Monkey Girl on the road. Long black hair covers her forehead and chin, crosses her head to chin and runs down her cheeks.

"It's like a blind man or somebody without a leg or arm," she says. "You get used to it."

She's not on the defensive. For her, it's a livelihood. "I have fun with my work," she says. "I get to see you for nothing but you have to pay to see me."

Then there's Pete Terlure, a midget from Breckendridge, Minn., who's been with Hall's Wondercade for 21 years. "To me, it's home," he says. "I like

Words To The Wise Frenchman

On Dealing With The 'Vikings'

By ROSSETTE HARGROVE
The Herald Services

PARIS—(NEA)—There are some 600 American business enterprises in France, with such multinationals as I.B.M. and General Motors in the forefront. All employ a large percentage of French employees.

Recently "Le Point", a pre-establishment, pro-government weekly and a rival to the left wing "Express", ran a "Do's and Don'ts" guide entitled "Working with Americans". "Le Point" prefaced the guide by stating: "They (Americans) are the Vikings of the business world. They have the money, technique, daring. What is more, the energy crisis can never modify their makeup. They are the champions of all systems—commerce, industry, investment, exchange. Even the Russians have recognized these facts."

And as it happens, the French have long since, to a certain extent, been "colonized."

"American business, either directly or through agents, asserts itself without undue haste, albeit deliberately. And they employ more and more Frenchmen."

"These conquerors of marketing and management have their habits. To collaborate effectively with them, it is wise to study them. It goes without saying that Americans observe the laws of the country, but even their hands it is customary for them to have two eyes, ears and hands like everybody else, they do not use them in the same way.

"There are customs which are proper to them. To which they cling."

These then are the "Do's" a Frenchman is advised he should learn:

- 1) Adapt yourself to "their ways," see the world through their eyes. At every level, the
- 2) Speak with emphasis. Say what you have to say simply and to the point, unemotionally, but with self-assurance, showing that you know your subject.
- 3) Forget your exultation in French essays. When writing a letter or a service note, stress
- 4) Don't hesitate to turn on the lights in your office. This would be hard to explain, could be considered incongruous.
- 5) Don't exaggerate your foreign accent but also don't try to imitate your version of the American accent. What is far more important, make an effort to learn the language and transmit the message.
- 6) Don't be late—either for a meeting.
- 7) Don't be "slippy"—either mentally or physically.
- 8) Don't expect company presents for Christmas in France. But if your job proves redundant, whether you are held in for one or 10 years, it can be terminated unobtrusively and you with it.
- 9) Don't forget names. Remember the Christian name or names of the person you are introduced to. Remember also that Christian names are often used right away.
- 10) Avoid appearing superior and unapproachable.
- 11) "Unbalancing" means joining the group within the enterprise for which you work. Learn to play golf. Americans like to get together on Saturdays at the golf club.
- 12) Go to the parties organized by the office. It would be discourteous to avoid them and would not escape notice.
- 13) Register your private telephone number.
