Herbert Petition Of Intervention Denied By Judge Wright In Ruling This Morning

Technical Points Involved In Case Decision Hinges Upon Construction Of Language Of State Law

The City today emerged triumphant in the first round of a court fight instituted in a name of E. H. Ashcraft, receiver for the Seminole County Bank, who sought by petition of intervention to block the sale of $425,000 in refunding bonds.

After hearing arguments in the case yesterday afternoon, Judge Wallace W. Wright this morning handed down a decision denying the petition of the receiver, whose action was brought to force the sale of the bonds. The effect of clearing the validation proceedings except for an appeal to the supreme court of Florida.

The case was technical and hinged upon the interpretation of a state statute, passed during the session of the legislature and authorizing cities, towns and municipal corporations to issue refunding bonds. Counsel for the receiver sought a strict construction of the language of the act, while the city attorney emphasized the broadness of the intent of the framers and the language of measure taken as a whole.

The court held that interest, which refunding bonds were to be paid, constituted a part of the principal obligation of a municipal corporation and therefore an obligation which the credit of the city is pledged to pay. The contention of the receiver that the city would be compelled to pay double interest was denied and the court placed liberal interpretation upon the word "and" as used in connection with the provision regulating the rate of issuance of the bonds.

No definite announcement was made as to an appeal, but it was held that the case will be taken to a higher court, involving a matter of public interest, the case is expected to take precedence over ordinary cases and a decision may be expected in about six weeks, it was stated today.

In the opening of arguments yesterday, S. R. Dighton, attorney for Mr. Ashcraft, urged an objection to a motion for summary judgment which George A. Decker, counsel for the city, offered in answer to the petition of the receiver. The petition set out the following grounds:

That the statute, which is authority, provides that obligations to be refunded shall not be matured.

That it was not the intention of the legislature that a city should authorize the issuance of bonds for accumulated interest, as would be compounding debts.

That by dating the new bonds January 1 to refund interest which is due July 1 on old bonds, the taxpayers are compelled to pay double interest.

That various vouchers for the construction company and other persons were not obligations which the legislature intended for the city to refund.

The arguments centered upon interpretation of a legislative act authorizing the issuance of refunding bonds. The measure in question is as follows:

"That the governing authority of any county, city, town, municipal corporation or taxing district of the state may by resolution authorize the issuance of refunding bonds for the purpose of refunding any bond, note, certificate of indebtedness or other obligation for the payment of which the credit of said county, city, town, municipal corporation or taxing district is pledged, at or prior to maturity in the manner provided in this act.

"Said refunding bonds may be used within three months prior to the date of maturity of the obligations proposed to be refunded, or if said outstanding obligations shall be callable, within three months prior to the call date."

In the opening argument, Mr. Dighton went at some length in the definition of the word "at," which he described as having a general or relative meaning. He held it was not definite and too

SECOND SUIT IS FILED TO STOP GLADES BONDS

Court Action Attacks Validity Of Legislative Act In Creating Bond District And Seeks To Stop New Bonding

Injunction Sought In District Court

New Litigation Is Instituted In Behalf Of The Owners Of Preston Everglades Bonds

JACKSONVILLE, June 13.—A second suit was filed yesterday in the United States district court for the Northern district of Florida, attacking the validity of the 1927 legislative act creating the Everglades bond district and seeking to prevent the issuance of drainage bonds authorized by the act. The suit was brought by Murray, Aldrick and Roberts, New York law firm, and Cooper, Knight, Adair and Spitzer, Jacksonville, in behalf of Spitzer, Rorick and Co. of Toledo, Ohio.

The new action is designed to test the constitutionality of the 1927 Everglades act on the ground that it is in violation of the constitution of the state of Florida and the construction of the United States according to J. C. Cooper, Jr., of Jacksonville, who announced filing of the suit this afternoon.

One of the chief grounds on which is based the claim of unconstitutionality is that the act is in violation of the vested contractual rights of the holders of $10,250,000 bonds now outstanding against the Everglades district.

The litigation will be called up for a trial of temporary injunction before Judge W. B. Sheppard, of the United States district court, at Pensacola, next Saturday, Mr. Cooper said.

"The new suit is brought in behalf of holders of the present Everglades bonds," said Mr. Cooper, "and which are now outstanding. It asserts that the 1927 act and the new bonds sought to be issued under the act diminish and alter the security of the bonds already issued and outstanding under the previous drainage law."

"Spitzer Rorick and Co. had from time to time in the past bought all the Everglades bonds from state officials and have resold them to investors. The present suit is brought in behalf of Spitzer, Rorick and Co. and all present holders of Everglades bonds."

Another suit, filed some time ago by the local law firm and New York associates, sets forth in full a contract of the drainage board with Spitzer, Rorick and Co., dated June 10, 1925.

In that contract reference is made to a bond of $3,500,000 new five per cent bonds authorized by the legislature in 1925, as well as to the $8,500,000 five per cent refunding bonds.

Attorney General Fred H. Davis, in Jacksonville attending the National guard encampment at Camp Johnson, was notified this afternoon of the filing of the suit. He was in conference with Mr. Cooper for several hours during the day.

Hoover Watches Results Of Convention With Only Little Change In Routine

WASHINGTON, June 13. (INS)—With scarcely a deviation from his daily routine which starts at 7:30 A. M. and ends at 10 P. M. Herbert Hoover watched the progress of the Republican National Convention today.

Less work was the only change from his usual days—and that because all but the "most necessary duty and fatigue" has been suspended in the Capital as all eyes are turned to Kansas City. Hoover bonned his reports by special telephone, telegraph and radio continued to pour into his office, dictating him as the G. O. P.'s "man of the hour."

As has been the custom in the Hoover household on S Street, just up the hill from the historic mansion where Woodrow Wilson died, the Republican nominee to be awakened by his "favorite" police dog "Tut" this morning. "Tut," a magnificent animal, climbs on to his master's bed every morning and does the "alarm clock" honking.

Breakfast in the Hoover home is as a rule something of a function. Beginning with the first warm weather and ending late in the Fall it is invariably served on a wide open porch, shaded by big forest trees. Frequently there are official guests, a custom that was established by the President with his famous breakfasts. Today there were none, however.

After breakfast it has been Hoover's custom since he has been in the cabinet to feed the hundreds of birds which lived in this park like section of Washington and in the bird houses which Hoover and his sons have built. Today was no exception to this function.

Accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, the secretary leaves for his office at 8:45 A. M. and at nine o'clock the daily grind of the business day starts. While conferring with his managers over the long distance telephone frequently during the last few days Hoover has left most of the active management of the drive for the nomination to them.

Yesterday at the lunch hour he listened in over the radio to the keynote speech and when the balloting starts the Secretary plans to enjoy what appears to be a first-hand victory in front of a powerful loud speaker that has been installed in his office.

"Hundreds of congratulatory telegrams reached Hoover's office today as a rule leaves his office for home at 6 P. M. and having of official engagements or functions is in the habit of retiring at 10.

If Hoover is elected president it means there will be some lively battles around the White House for the next four years—his grandchildren. These are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., —Peggy Ann, two years old and Herbert the third, a lad of eight months. Herbert Jr. is in an instructor at the Harvard Business School, but spends much of his time here. Allan Herbert Hoover, the younger son of the Secretary, attends school in California.

Convention Chairman Issues Challenge To Democrats And Smith

Senator Moses States His Party Is Ready To Meet Any Man In November Election Intends To Carry Fight To Enemy Speech Is Entertaining Departure From The Usual Caucus Talks

CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, June 13.—(INS)—A ringing and defiant challenge to the Democrats to "bring on Smith and we will bury him" was issued today by the Republican National Convention to-day, while beyond the confines of the flag-draped hall the sullen farmers and anti-Hooverites growled and grumbled and predicted dire things for November.

The direct challenge to Smith and the Democrats was sent reverberating through the vast auditorium by Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, in his speech accepting the permanent chairmanship of the convention. It was an entertaining departure from the usual cut and dried prepared speeches of convention chairman and it went over big.

Senator Moses, one of the original Hoover men, boldly took cognizance of the "defeatist" talk so audaciously spread by the rebellious Corn Belt spokesmen and the anti-Hoover leaders. "We enter this campaign," he declared, "in no posture of defense. We come upon the field aggressively militant. We intend to carry this fight to the enemy. And we challenge them to bring forth their strongest champion.

"Whether he emerges from another spectacle like the 100-round battle of Madison Square Garden, or whether he comes from an over-power convention held spell-bound by the glare of the Tammany tiger, we are ready for him. Bring him on and we will bury him. We welcome him with honorable hands to a bloody, grave-digging fight. And we care not whether his name be Brown, Jones, Robinson or Smith."

In every line of Senator Moses' speech it was indicated that the Republican leadership now on the oncoming campaign as "Hoover against Smith," and is preparing for it.

And the convention chairman provided a peek into the future by savagely attacking Tammany Hall by name, the dampness of Smith, the Democratic disaffectionment of the negro in the South, and Democratic fiscal policies. Gent charges, too, were thrown in.

It was a militant, fighting speech, and calculated to raise the morale of those Republicans whose confidence regarding November has been shaken by the bitterness and bickering that has marked the fight between the Hoover people and the coalition for many weeks.

The text of Senator Moses' speech follows: "The honor which you have conferred upon me is very great, and I thank you for it. The duties which your generous election lays upon me may prove to be difficult, but I hope to be able to perform them satisfactorily.

"We come now to the central and most important tasks for which we are assembled. First, we are to formulate a declaration of principles which will embody the essentials of Republicanism and with which we shall submit our cause to the people.

"Inevitably, in a party thoroughly national in its vision and contact as ours is, there will from time to time arise differences of opinion. This is by no means the first occasion when Republicans have found themselves at odds regarding a question of cardinal consequence as affecting party policy. Heretofore, we have succeeded always in settling our differences within our own ranks through the wise spirit of accommodation which must characterize a great and strong organization like ours, upon which depends so much for the future."

JOHN D'S MONEY TO RESTORE OLD VIRGINIA SHRINE

Professor Of William, Mary College Announces Dream Of 25 Years Ago To Be Realized Through Generous Gift

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., June 13.—The restoration of Williamsburg to its pre-revolutionary setting as a shrine to liberty and the fathers of the republic, is being backed by Rockefeller millions, Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin, secretary of the corporation sponsoring the work announced last night. A faculty member of William and Mary college, Dr. Goodwin told a town meeting that the project, conceived 25 years ago, has been assured by Mr. Rockefeller's generosity.

"About a year ago," he said, "Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., came to Williamsburg as a guest of the Phi Beta Kappa Society in connection with the dedication of a building erected at the college of William and Mary in memory of the founders of that society.

"It was our good fortune to have a chance to explain to him our dream of restoring the town to its colonial appearance. As a result, during the past ten months, property necessary to the carrying out of that purpose has been purchased, including many fine old buildings.

The name of Rockefeller had been linked by rumor with the restoration plan ever since the corporation, with apparently unlimited funds at its disposal, began purchasing historical sites and properties.

Officials of the corporation estimate that the total cost of the work now contemplated will range from $1,500,000 to $5,000,000. It is understood that Mr. Rockefeller agreed to give the corporation whatever funds are required.

The corporation plans a ruthless weeding out of non-historical structures in order to achieve historical accuracy and recapture an atmosphere of colonial simplicity.

"Some of the notable old buildings destroyed by fire," said Dr. Goodwin, "will be rebuilt according to details and descriptions gathered from many sources. There will include the palace where the royal governors lived, the house of Burgess, in which the assembly met, and the Raleigh Tavern where Phi Beta Kappa was formed."

The house of Burgess, where Patrick Henry demanded liberty or death and where Washington and Lafayette planned the defeat of Lord Cornwallis, will be completely restored. Public greens and wide porches, as they did in 1632 when the town was named to honor King William, Ancient Raleigh Tavern, destroyed by fire in 1859, will be rebuilt.

NOBILE REVEALS FURTHER DETAIL OF HIS DISASTER

After Many Hours Of Silence, Commander Of Italian Dirigible More Detailed Account Of Driftable's Wrecking On Ice

ROME, June 13.—(INS)—After several hours silence another radio message was received from General Umberto Nobile today for the first time which revealed additional details of the disastrous landing of the dirigible Italia on the ice-floes north of Spitzbergen.

The disaster occurred at 10:20 o'clock on the morning of May 25, Nobile stated. Just a minute or two before that a radio message was received from the Italia and then came silence which was unbroken until operators began to pick up fragmentary messages in the latter part of last week.

The huge airship suddenly grew heavy and crashed to the ground from a height of 1,500 feet in two minutes, Nobile related. The ship's gondola broke up into splinters burying Nobile and six others in the car in the debris.

All emerged alive, however, although two of the members of the crew suffered broken legs. Nearly all the food supplies and other materials which had been taken aboard the ship were saved. Luckily, the radio apparatus and instruments for determining their position were also saved by the crew, although it was some time before the radio was repaired so that messages could be transmitted.

Those of the crew who were in other parts of the ship drifted with the free gas bag as it soared upward after the crash and landed some distance away.

UNINSTRUCTED AND DIVIDED DELEGATION CONTROLLED BY MAJORITY FAVORING HULL

RALEIGH, N. C., June 13.—(INS)—An uninstructed and divided delegation to Houston, controlled by a majority of delegates favoring the presidential nomination of Tennessee's favorite son, Rep. Correll Hull, was left today in the wake of the North Carolina State Democratic Convention.

Supporters of the Tennessee named delegates to cast 19 1/2 of the state's 21 votes in the national convention, while the other 4 1/2 were elected by backers of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York. At an all-night session an agreement was reached not to attempt to invoke the united rule upon the delegation.

Despite Hull's majority, Smith leaders claimed today that enough men elected by Hull supporters would switch to give them at least "seven or eight" votes on the first ballot at Houston. Zeb V. Turlington, Hull manager, declared all the Hull delegates were under personal pledge to vote for the Tennesseean.

The state convention was overwhelmingly for Hull, as evidenced by the election of four Hull delegates-at-large. The Hull slate of delegates at large was chosen over the Smith slate by an average vote of 1,073 to 860.

Of the 10 districts which named delegations with two votes each, only one—the tenth—was carried for Smith. In this district is located Asheville where the New York Governor recently spent his vacation.

Embittered Crowd Of Farmers Strive To Rush Convention

CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, June 13.—(INS)—An embittered crowd of hundreds of anti-Hoover farmers made an unsuccessful attempt to "crash" the Republican National Convention today at the hour of assembling.

After staging another protest parade against Hoover's nomination through Kansas City streets to the convention hall, the Corn Belt representatives demanded admittance, and when barred by the police at the door, tried to carry it by storm. A tightly formed cordon of police and hastily summoned sergeant-at-arms barred their progress and finally forced them back.

Observers estimated there were about a thousand farmers in the parade, only the head of which, however, tried the crashing tactics. The parade was led by Edgar D. Bush, of Salem, Ind., a candidate for lieutenant governor in Indiana.

COOLIDGES TO LEAVE

WASHINGTON, June 13. (INS)—President Coolidge and his official party will leave tonight for the summer White House at Percu Lodge, Brule, Wis., it was announced today. Mrs. Coolidge, whose indisposition forced postponement of departure Monday, was considerably improved and will accompany the party. The official party is due at Brule about 9 A. M. Friday.

Mabel Boll Awaits Weather For Flight

HARBOR GRACE, N.F., June 13.—(INS)—The trans-Atlantic plane Columbia, in which Miss Mabel Boll and three companions flew here from Roosevelt Field, L. I., on the first leg of a flight to Europe, was overhauled and refueled today in preparation for an immediate hop off. Miss Boll, pilot, Oliver C. Le Bouteiller, relief pilot, Arthur Argles, and mechanic Andy Surmi rested during the morning following their hazardous 1,100 miles flight up the coast.

Although she disclaimed any intention of racing the friendship across the Atlantic, Miss Boll said she was anxious to hop off before the rival plane could get in action. "Naturally I want to be the first," said the "Queen of Diamonds."

Hoover And Dawes Talk Goes Round About Convention

CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, June 13.—(INS)—"It looks like Hoover and Dawes." This was the word circulating about the floor of the Republican National Convention this morning as the delegates assembled for the second session.

As to the first part of the tickle, there was no doubt whatsoever. As to the second it appeared up to General Dawes himself. His friends were advising him this morning both ways. To one leader who got in touch with him at his home in Evanston and urged him not to accept second place, the General was non-committal. He said he wanted to see the platform first.

There are undoubtedly enough votes in the convention to put the Vice-president across again if he gives the word. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon considers him a "logical candidate." He is acceptable to other powerful Eastern leaders, and the Corn Belters are for him because of his espousal of the McNary-Haugen Bill. But a considerable number of the General's friends who are embittered over the Hoover victory are urging him to stay off the ticket and, as they put it, "let the Hoover people stew."

A knocker will open the big show. He will wield the gavel. His name is Senator Fess of Ohio.

Convention Is So Quiet Delegates View Sandwich Man For Excitement

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—(INS)—On twelfth Street is a little 2 by 4 hamburger sandwich shop. In the window is an uninteresting sort of a case doing stupid things with dull onions and cutting colorless capers with impossible hamburgers. It is fun to see a man for a minute or so and then, with no great talent or originality to speak of, finish up what a charitable world calls a hamburger sandwich.

Until today that fellow was to his wife and everybody else just another chump making sandwiches. Now he's a big man. He probably wonders whether or not he'd screen well and dreams of going into pictures. He's one of the biggest shows in Kansas City. And he knows that one of the littlest shows in Kansas City is the Republican National Convention.

If you don't believe it, count the number of poyoped, interested and amazed delegates flocked about his window, watching every move he makes—and then watch them yawn and try to stay awake in Convention Hall.

The Convention, stumbling along rapidly is a trial to its delegates, waiting patiently to send Hoover in and go home. The whole thing is so dull to them that they find the anaesthetic antics of the hamburger impresario as a spectacle as the circuses of Nero were to the Romans, who weren't civilized enough to have conventions.

There are none of these post-midnight conferences that made past conventions in Chicago famous. What is there to confer about? When a delegate awakens here after a good night's sleep of eight or 10 hours, its a toss up with him whether to sit about his hotel lobby and doze or stroll down twelfth street to see the hamburger sandwich man starting act III which is the same as acts I and II.

Former Stephenson Henchman Sentenced

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 13.—(INS)—Earl Klink, former henchman of D. C. Stephenson, was sentenced to serve one to three years in the state prison and was fined $100 and costs by special Judge Thomas E. Garvin in Marion Criminal Court today.

Klink was convicted late yesterday by a jury for forging the name of William Rogers to an affidavit purporting to retract the testimony of Rogers given before Senator James A. Reed's slush fund committee in St. Louis in 1918 that United States Senator James E. Watson carried an "imperial passport" issued by the Ku Klux Klan.

REIS TALLY FIVE IN NINTH FRAME TO BEAT GIANTS

Grover Cleveland Alexander Returns To Form To Beat Boston White Cubs Defeat Robins; Yankees Are Beaten

NEW YORK, June 12.—(INS)—One reason why the Cincinnati Reds are leading the National League parade is that they are strong finishers, winning many of their victories in late innings. Yesterday they polished off the New York Giants, again 7 to 6, by scoring five runs in the ninth. Val Pleinich's second home run of the afternoon sent in the winning runs. Grover Alexander, pitching mainstay of the St. Louis Cardinals, regained his form and beat Boston 8 to 1, the Cards staying within two games of the Reds. Alex made it a perfect day by blowing himself to one of those trick Boston home runs. With Guy Bush doing the throwing for the Cubs stymied Brooklyn, 3 to 1, and closed in on the Giants. Jack Wilson, partly Cub outfielder, executed a perfect swan dive and saved Bush's bacon when he caught a low liner with two men on base. Playing ping pong instead of baseball, the Pirates made five errors and lost to the Phillies, 8 to 4. The Phils have copped three of their last four starts and now boast a grand total of 10 victories.

The Chicago White Sox make it three straight over the Yankees today, the Yanks will have suffered their longest losing streak of the season. Ted Blanksen held the World's Champions to four hits yesterday, winning 6 to 1. Fenwick was the victim, the Sox scoring all their runs in the third inning. Successive homers by Simmon, and Fox in the eighth staked Orlando of the Athletics to a 4 to 2 decision in a dual with Elam Van Gilder of the Tigers. The Senators continued their winning streak by noosing out Cleveland in the tenth 7 to 6, on a hit by Kenna, rookie catcher. The Boston Red Sox, slipping almost as fast as Cleveland, suffered a 2 to 1 defeat at the hands of Alvin Crowder of the St. Louis Browns when Danny McFayden made a costly bulk.

Daytona Captures Weird Game From Miami Team, 12-11

Daytona Beach, June 12.—(Special)—After Miami had called in everyone but the water boy to pitch and had thought up every means within reason to beat the Islanders after running up a 7-run lead of them, the locals won out after all, copping a 12 to 11 decision Monday. Hoover's Selection Seems Assured By Mellon's Statement themselves at Kansas City Hoover appears to come closest to the Coolidge pattern. Mellon said that, several weeks ago, he has not experienced any change of heart and for that reason as well as for the reason that Vero stole a march on him, the tactician treasury head was expected by the Hoover leaders this morning to fall in line. The draft Coolidge business was still on the fire this morning when the delegates began to wend their way to the beflagged convention hall. But the smoke from it was growing thinner and thinner. Even the home state delegation of 11 Vermonters who started for Kansas City determined to vote for Coolidge to the last ditch, have swung over to the Hoover cause, convinced that "I do not choose" means "I won't." William M. Butler the national chairman, and as much of a political oracle for the President as exists in Kansas City, told his Massachusetts delegation at midnight that, in his opinion, it was useless to think of drafting Mr. Coolidge. Butler and the whole Bay State delegation plan to vote for Hoover from the first ballot onward. Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, was busily engaged in telling all and sundry that the drafting of Coolidge would be a highly dangerous thing from a cold-blooded party viewpoint as it would lay the President open to the charge of insincerity and tricky dealing. And so it went all down the line. Nowhere seemingly, could the desperately maneuvering coalition leaders against Hoover find much comfort. Their one big bet for days has been Mellon and his Pennsylvanians, and Vero's announcement at least partially knocked their hopes in that direction, galley-west. But they refuse to give up. The allied captains of Lowden, Watson, Curtis, and Goff figure they have two days more in

Gift Announced

BALTIMORE, June 12.—(INS)—Announcement of an anonymous contribution of $500,000 to the Welch Medical Endowment, Johns Hopkins University, was made today by Dr. Frank A. Goodnow, President.

Public Debt

The public debt has been reduced eight and one half billions of dollars since 1921, he said, at the same time that taxes were being reduced nearly $2,000,000,000 a year, and the country being made prosperous. "This accomplishment," he asserted, "was not the result of accident, but rather of management."

Senator Fess

Under it, he continued, the American standard of living has been raised to the highest level in the world's history and kept there. By way of comparison he referred to "the regrettable experience of Grover Cleveland in his tariff-for-revenue-only policy and the long line of soup houses."

Senator Fess mentioned no candidate by name—unless President Coolidge can be considered in that category. But he did pay indirect compliments to Herbert Hoover, Andrew W. Mellon, Charles E. Hughes and Charles G. Dawes.

He praised the work of the Department of Commerce in the development of radio and commercial aviation under Hoover; he spoke of showing terms of the treasury record; he told how American statesmanship had made itself felt in the rehabilitation and peace of Europe through the Dawes plan and the Locarno Pacts. Foreign relations came in for considerable, though unsentimental comment. He avoided any reference to the world court, which the Harding-Coolidge administration sponsored and which the republican leadership of the Senate defeated. He reaffirmed Republican opposition to America's efforts to outlaw war by treaties and defended staunchly the Coolidge policy of sending Marines to the little banana republic of Central America.

Nicaragua and Haiti

Nicaragua and Haiti for any impertinent purposes, and asserted they would be withdrawn when the need for their presence was no longer felt. On the whole, he told the delegates, the party record has been one of outstanding success and accomplishment, and it is upon that record that the Republicans should seek a new lease of power.

Daytona Motorcade Passes Through City

Sponsored by the Daytona Beach Realty Board and Chamber of Commerce a motordade of 25 cars passed through Sanford Monday morning enroute to Albany, Ga., from where the party will begin an itinerary of southern Georgia in the interest of the annual Halifax Frolles in July. There are about 100 persons in the party. The cars were gaily decorated and carried large banners advertising the approaching celebration and carried large banners. A large supply of literature was carried for distribution in towns along the route.

The crew of the Bremen again brave the Atlantic, but this time in a boat.

The last time a party convention met in Kansas City, William Howard Taft was elected.

About the most conventional thing about this convention is that nobody who cuts any ice has got anything to say.

When an election remains undecided as long as the Hand-Me-Clelland tie-up, it makes it kinda hard for a fellow sitting on the fence to tell whose boots to lick.

Another issue which seems to be of paramount importance is whether Amelia Earhart or Mabel Boll will be the first to survive the Atlantic, if either.

A general impression prevails that Florida has alumped since 1925 and yet population statistics reveal that there are 100,000 more people in the state than there were three years ago.

Before they put Senator Fletcher on the Democratic presidential ticket with Al Smith, the gentleman from Florida will probably want to know on which end he is to be.

Less than two weeks it will all be over and then will come the chorus of "I told you so," from the wise political street corner orators.—Ocala Star. It hasn't taken two weeks around here.

A picture of armed guards shows how Tampa prevented the seizure of ballot boxes. When roughnecks learned that gunning was a game two could play, no more violent attempts were made.

A friend tells us that Lindberg, in reply to the recent attack by a Texas editor, said that, after being referred to as the "Lone Eagle," the "Ambassador of good will," "Lucky Lindy," and the "Flying Fool," it was a relief to be called a "swelled head."

General Allen, who commanded the army of occupation on the Rhine, has been mentioned for the Democratic presidential nomination. Pershing is another war hero who might land this job. Either of them would be better, and more likely to be elected, than Al Smith.

Kansas City has been allotted 825 tickets to the Republican national convention. The man who distributes them successfully among 400,000 persons should get the nomination.—Sarasota Times. Don't worry, they won't be distributed successfully, if that word has anything to do with "fairly" or with the 400,000 persons you mentioned.

A New Jersey city is now enforcing it from a law passed in 1884. Automobiles, then unthought of, must remain in garages on Sundays because their operation, it is held, violates a Vice and Immorality Act of that early date. Every once in a while an almost unknown city makes the headlines by digging up some antiquated law.

Cats is out of it. Read this from the attorney general: "Under chapter 12,038, acts 1927 amending chapter 9293, acts 1923, amending section 256 revised general statutes of Florida, if a person either votes or becomes a candidate in a Democratic primary, the law prohibits his name from being printed on the general election ballot as a candidate for any office whether by petition or otherwise. If a candidate in the primary is defeated, it will be illegal for his name to be printed on the general election ballot."

Gone To Hell

A year and a half ago Robert Pittman delayed too long before going home from work, saw his employer counting the day's receipts in his little office, was seized by some uncontrollable lust for gold, gold in such small quantity as to be of no temptation to a normal man, and taking a club proceeded in a fiendish fashion to murder the man who had provided him with bread and butter for months.

What phantasy had arisen in this misguided negro's mind to make him do such a thing? If he thought at all, what did he think he was doing? He could have had little or no hope of escaping punishment. What kind of training, or lack of it, had brought him to the point where human life was of such little value? What misfortune, or other incident in his youth, could have made an imprint upon his mind as to so utterly warp his mentality?

We do not say that Pittman was crazy when he committed the crime for which he dies today; but we do say that he was not sane, not sane as we have come to regard sanity who look upon such violent acts as relics of the old stone age. We believe that some physical defect in his brain, some disorder in his nervous system, some excess to which he may have been subjected, or some inherited characteristic, which may have come from several generations back, was more largely responsible for his crime.

It is for this reason that we do not believe in capital punishment. Men are frequently held blameless when they do things under the influence of liquor; it is no more fair to condemn a man for something done while he is under the influence of a mental defect for which he is not responsible. We believe that the time will come when the normal will be sifted from the abnormal and confined to places where they can do no harm, but we do not believe they will always be executed for their involuntary acts of violence.

Until that day comes, when evolution has progressed far beyond its present point, we do, of course, believe that the laws should be enforced, and that Pittman, like all the rest, should take his place in the chain of life sent to his hell.

Outlawing War

On Monday, Secretary Kellogg, speaking at the three hundredth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, made an earnest appeal to the various religious groups of this country to unite in an attempt to achieve a declaration against war. He announced that "the time has come when a frank renunciation of fighting as an instrument of national policy should be made, to the end that the peaceful and friendly relations existing between the peoples of the world may be perpetuated."

While we do not wish to be placed in the category of "cynical individuals" who believe war will always be the means of settling disputes between nations, we do not view with too much optimism the enthusiastic efforts for an agreement among the powers that will be a solution for the aged problem of controlling the ambition and surplus energy of nations. It is reasonable that a great deal of good can be accomplished in delaying the occurrence and lengthening the frequency of wars by adopting a code for this purpose. But when the issues are too vital and when national patience has been tried beyond the power of endurance there remains, however regrettably, only one way to settle differences.

That this condition may change in the far distant future—so distant, we believe, that it will not be the concern of many generations to come—is not beyond the realm of possibility. A country is no better than the individuals who make it, and when people all over the world have become educated to the futility of war, have been inculcated with a spirit of fair play and tolerance, and have above all else read history, there will be little need for having laws to prevent fighting. We leave it with our readers to guess how long it will take to accomplish this.

More Tourists

When the "Friend of the People," Uncle Sid, was going about the state telling them that no tourists had come to Florida this winter, and that the folks in the resort cities were starving to death because all attractions for winter visitors had been done away with, he had not yet seen the report of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce.

A table, prepared by this organization, shows the number of automobiles which passed over the St. Johns River bridge at Jacksonville during the first five months of each year. And it shows that considerably more cars passed this way in 1928 than in any other year, and nearly twice as many as during the boom year of 1925.

"These figures, together with others showing the development of Florida's motor car and bus industries, with figures setting out the approximate number of out of state visitors coming here each year," according to the Jacksonville Journal, "are to be published in the forthcoming issue of 'Florida Business,' official semi-monthly bulletin of the state chamber, which it distributes only to its members."

THE SENATORSHIP TAMPA TIMES

The Times some time ago made up its mind that it would not comment upon the results of Tuesday's voting as it affected particular races and individual candidates until either the official announcement of the result had been made or those involved had themselves made statements showing that they considered the matter concluded. For that reason it has ventured but little expression upon the subject—that very general in nature.

Now that Governor Martin has conceded the victory of Senator Park Trammell in the race between them for a Florida senatorship and congratulated him, we shall comment upon that contest.

It is but reiterating what is well known to say that this paper had rather John W. Martin had been named for senator. We are impressed that, serving in that capacity, he would have given this state the aggressive representation in Washington, in both the upper and lower houses of congress. Were our entire delegation of the type of Senator Duncan U. Fletcher and of the type we are sure John W. Martin would have proved many things might have gone better for Florida than they have gone in the immediate past.

present state administration such a load, growing out of the conduct of the state road department, as was too heavy to be carried. Undoubtedly, the governor got caught in a cross fire that proved fatal when he and the chairman of the state road department sought the senatorship and the governorship, respectively, in the same election. The Times said, immediately that the candidacies of both of them were definitely determined upon, and that the governor would suffer most. That appears to have been a good forecast of the situation. It still believes that if John W. Martin had made his race from the inevitable blackwash of the other one the result would have been different from what it is. Rumors along this line do no good, however.

The Times hopes Senator Trammell six years of successful service, hopes that he will be a bit more aggressive than he has been, and hopes that he will have no other occasion to lift his as the one negative voice in a matter seriously affecting the democratic party—which has highly honored him.

And we are pleased at the fine spirit Governor Martin has displayed in his post-election statement. He says that he will take his place in the ranks and as a private citizen render Florida the best service of which he is capable. He is capable of rendering his native state great service—his work as governor has proven that. And he is young yet. It may be that at some other time Florida will call him to a high place of public service.

Election post-mortems haven't much value. But we feel that what has here been said deserved to be said.

"New York pastor jailed for law practice." Right enough. Still would anything happen to a lawyer who took it into his head to preach a sermon unless, of course he tried it on a judge?—New York Evening Post.

ROMANCE IN THE GLADES PALM BEACH POST

Years ago when the Seminoles ruled the back-country, when bandits and bank robbers used the wild district for a hiding place, when farms were few and far-between, the word Everglades had a romantic meaning for coast dwellers.

Today the Seminoles are on their reservation, bandits and bank robbers are scarce, and farms are slowly but surely pushing the line of civilization back into the heart of the interior. Still the word Everglades has a romantic meaning, but it is all different. Today it means pioneering, it means progress, it means wealth for those who will work in the soil.

In a short span of twenty or thirty years the whole aspect of the Everglades has been changed. In the shorter span of two years the whole aspect of certain sections has been changed. Little trading posts, cross-roads in the backwoods are becoming thriving towns. Banks, up-to-date stores and bustling railroad yards are forming the nucleus for cities of tomorrow. Many of the villages have already become towns, realizing many ambitions of a few years ago.

If you have not renewed your acquaintance with the Everglades for the last year or two, you should do it at once. You will be astonished at the progress, the evidence of prosperity. You will find new opportunities for business there. New ties for the city and back-country may be quickly linked.

Romance of yesterday is passing, romance of today is in swift progress, romance of tomorrow will be achievement of success for the richest land in the nation.

Comedy Couple To Be Seen Today In Picture At Milane

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton have taken their second trip into the new motion picture realm of melodramatic comedies. This type of picture merited much success when introduced with "Partners in Crime." The new picture, "The Big Killing," is a lever satire, bristling with humor, on another section of American life, the backwoods mountaineers.

In "Partners in Crime," Beery and Hatton supplied the comedy overtones which gave the key-note to the characterization of the under-world life of the larger cities. Gang warfare, petty politics and police activities, all of which occupy so much front page space in the daily newspapers, were viewed from the humorous angle and serious situations were turned into convulsing laugh moments.

The new Beery-Hatton melodramatic comedy, "The Big Killing," which will show at the Milane Theatre today, goes a long way from the larger cities and even from the front pages of the newspapers. It deals with a family feud war among the moonshining mountaineers in the backwoods. This type of individual hill exists in the United States in large numbers but, being remote and his activities being largely confined to his own virgin territory, little is heard or known of him.

Occasionally, when a revenue officer is hurt in an attempt to wipe out an illicit still in these mountain regions, the backwoods mountaineer breaks into the news for a brief period but, usually, he goes his individual way unpunished about the conventions of civilization.

When the two moving picture comedy men enter this environment, there is a complete barrier of laughter thrown up around the serious aspects of this backwoods life but all the unusual customs and the peculiar activities, without distortion, to provide exquisite moments of fun.

"The Big Killing" is another step in the serious business of making good, intelligent comedy.

The program opened with a salute to the flag, after which Mrs. Brown gave a talk on the Observance of Flag Day. Plans were then completed for entertainment for the state conference which will be held in Sanford. Mrs. Brown then gave an exceptionally interesting talk on the convention recently held at Washington, D. C.

Moore Entertain On Monday For Friends

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Moore entertained a number of their friends most delightfully Monday evening at their home on Magnolia Avenue. The feature of the evening was music, each guest had been asked to come prepared to do some musical stunt, and the performance of many of these caused much merriment.

Mrs. A. M. Phillips and Mrs. Robert L. Glenn sang a duet accompanied by Miss Margaret Davis, Mrs. A. M. Walker won the prize for the best stunt, which was an old time song. She was given a basket of cut flowers. Miss Margaret Davis, impersonated her mother, Mrs. Tom Davis, at the piano. Mrs. S. J. Nix played a number of harmonica solos. Mr. Nix played his first piano number. Miss Pauline Cook gave a number of beautifully rendered violin selections accompanied by Mrs. C. H. Cook. Miss Mildred Nix played a number of piano solos, and Miss Mary Appley and Miss Mildred Nix gave a piano duet.

Miss Charlotte Nix, gave a piano selection which was followed by vocal solos by Mrs. Robert L. Glenn, Mrs. A. M. Phillips and B. C. Moore. Mr. Moore gave a comical reading and Mrs. Moore gave a musical game. The prize for this was won by Mrs. Robert L. Glenn, who scored the highest number of musical terms.

At a late hour refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by Mr. and Mrs. Moore assisted

CHURCH CIRCLE MEETS

Circle Number Four of the First Methodist Church, of which Mrs. H. H. Chappell is chairman, held a most interesting meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bessie Hutchison in Rose Court.

The devotional exercises opened with a song followed by scripture reading by Mrs. Chappell and prayer led by Mrs. Hutchison. Routine business was carried out and during the business session the resignations of Mrs. J. E. Preston, as vice-chairman, and Mrs. G. A. Radford, as treasurer, were accepted with regrets. Mrs. Norris was appointed as vice-chairman and Mrs. Preston was elected treasurer.

After all business had been transacted, Mrs. S. E. Jones, superintendent of mission study, gave a reading on "Spiritual Adventuring" which was greatly enjoyed.
