Police Plan Sailor Drowning 'Interviews'

By SCOTT ABRAHAM, Herald Staff Writer

Although an autopsy Tuesday indicated death by drowning, Orange County Sheriff's Department authorities said this morning they are continuing their investigation into the death of a 22-year-old Orlando Naval Training Center student.

Mount: No Interest In Retirement Fund

Neiswender recommended renegotiating with Mount his contract under which he works for the county two days a week. "It would be extremely expensive to resolve a question the state hasn't answered," the county administrator said.

Deputy Richard King said John Joseph Carrol, an ensign who lived off base at a Casselberry apartment complex at 2100 Howell Branch Road, was found fully clothed in Lake Porter Monday afternoon. The lake is about a mile from the Orlando apartment complex where Carrol was last seen at a party Friday night, King said.

apartment building to the lake, King said, because the only route is a narrow winding road. King said this morning investigators do not suspect foul play at this point, but added "we have a lot of interviews to conduct."

King said investigators would be probing Carrol's background and would try to determine exactly where he was and what he was doing just before he disappeared from the party.

"We're not sure if he possibly went to the lake with others and they returned without missing him, or discovered him missing and then got scared and left or what," King said.

Carrol was enrolled at the Naval Training Center's nuclear power school and was due to graduate to advanced Navy schools in two or three weeks, a training center spokesman said Tuesday.

Carrol lived in the Plantation Apartments. He was from Cincinnati, Ohio, the spokesman said.

JOE MOUNT, commissioners' offer to become full-time county attorney for $32,000 a year.

Pat Telson: 'I Was Nervous...Really Nervous'

By MARYLIN SHEDDAN, Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board Tuesday elected Mrs. Richard (Pat) Telson chairman for the coming year. Mrs. Telson's election places her "in the highest policy-making position any woman has ever held in Seminole County," according to school board attorney Douglas Stenstrom.

Mrs. Telson said she "really did not expect to receive the chairman's position," and felt grateful that her four male counterparts had given her the responsibility. "I was nervous tonight, really nervous," Mrs. Telson told board members and School Superintendent William P. Layer after the regular meeting. She has presided at other board meetings in her capacity as vice chairman, but was required to serve at the regular school board meeting immediately after being elected.

Re-appointment of Douglas Stenstrom as school board attorney was made during the organizational meeting, with the stipulation by Layer that, in Stenstrom's absence, another member of his law firm would be used to aid the board.

The board specified that its meetings will take place on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Robert G. Feather, board member, pointed out he wished the board to be prepared to meet occasionally in the south end of the county if parent organizations felt such change of location was necessary.

Immediately after the organizational meeting, a regular meeting of the board was held, with Mrs. Telson presiding.

Bus Drivers OK Pact, 69-2

Seminole County school bus drivers Tuesday ratified their new contract, 69-2.

The three-year contract had been negotiated for nine months. It provides starting drivers with a salary of $3.64 an hour, and raises the annual base pay from last year's $3,831 to $4,015.

"The top salary a full-time driver with 10 or more years of experience can expect to make under this contract is $7,050," according to Gene Grooms, executive director of the Seminole Education Association.

Davis Heads Panel

Michael Davis, Orlando attorney and legal counsel to the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee, has been named temporary chairman of the proposed local government study commission.

The selection was made at a meeting in the board room of the American Woods Products Co. offices in Longwood. The committee will search out ways of improving efficiency and responsiveness in local government.

Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Cal DeVoney, to be succeeded in his Altamonte office today by attorney Harry Jacobs, was named temporary vice chairman of the committee. DeVoney has said that, while he has been helping to organize the committee, he will not be actively involved in its work.

Davis said today that his selection formally setting the group's functions and responsibilities to look into all facets of local government and requiring $30,000 in funding from the county will be submitted to the Seminole County Legislative Delegation later.

Names of persons, willing to serve on the committee, added by the group Monday night, included: John Krieger, real estate broker, former Sanford Chamber of Commerce manager and past county commissioner; Bob DeWahl, Sanford businessman; ex-county Commissioner Michael Hattaway; former Sanford City Commissioner Gordon Meyer; Leonora Mobley, member of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee; Richard Waters, machinery salesman from Eastbrook; Jan Lieben and Sig Pearson.

Others who already had indicated interest in being on the committee in addition to the organizers, Davis, DeVoney and Tom Kanellis, president of the Seminole County League of Civic Associations are: former Altamonte Springs Commissioner Dan Dorfman; ex-Lake Mary Councilman Virginia Mercer; past Casselberry Council Chairman Charles Glascock; former County Commissioner Al Davis; unsuccessful Altamonte Springs commission candidate, Robert Cuevas, and unsuccessful school board candidate and current member of the Seminole County Planning and Zoning Commission Gloria Ward.

Davis said the time and place of the next meeting has not been determined.

License Sites Closed

Both Seminole County Drivers License Examination Offices will be closed Thursday and Friday, for Thanksgiving. Offices are in Sanford and Altamonte Springs (Interstate Mall). They will reopen Monday, regular hours.

Want to cut down on your electric bill? Check your plumbing.

That's right. Your plumbing. And you can start with your hot water heater. Next to air-conditioning, it's often the second biggest user of electricity in the home.

But its cost can be substantially reduced. By simply adjusting the setting on your water heater thermostat. To 130 degrees. Or, if you have a large family or dishwasher, place the setting at 140. Any higher and you're probably wasting money.

If you insulate your water heater with a blanket of fiberglass, you could save even more. Up to 75¢ a month. It may not sound like much, but every little bit helps. And if you're going on a trip, turn your water heater off until you return. It'll save money. Even if you're away for only three or four days.

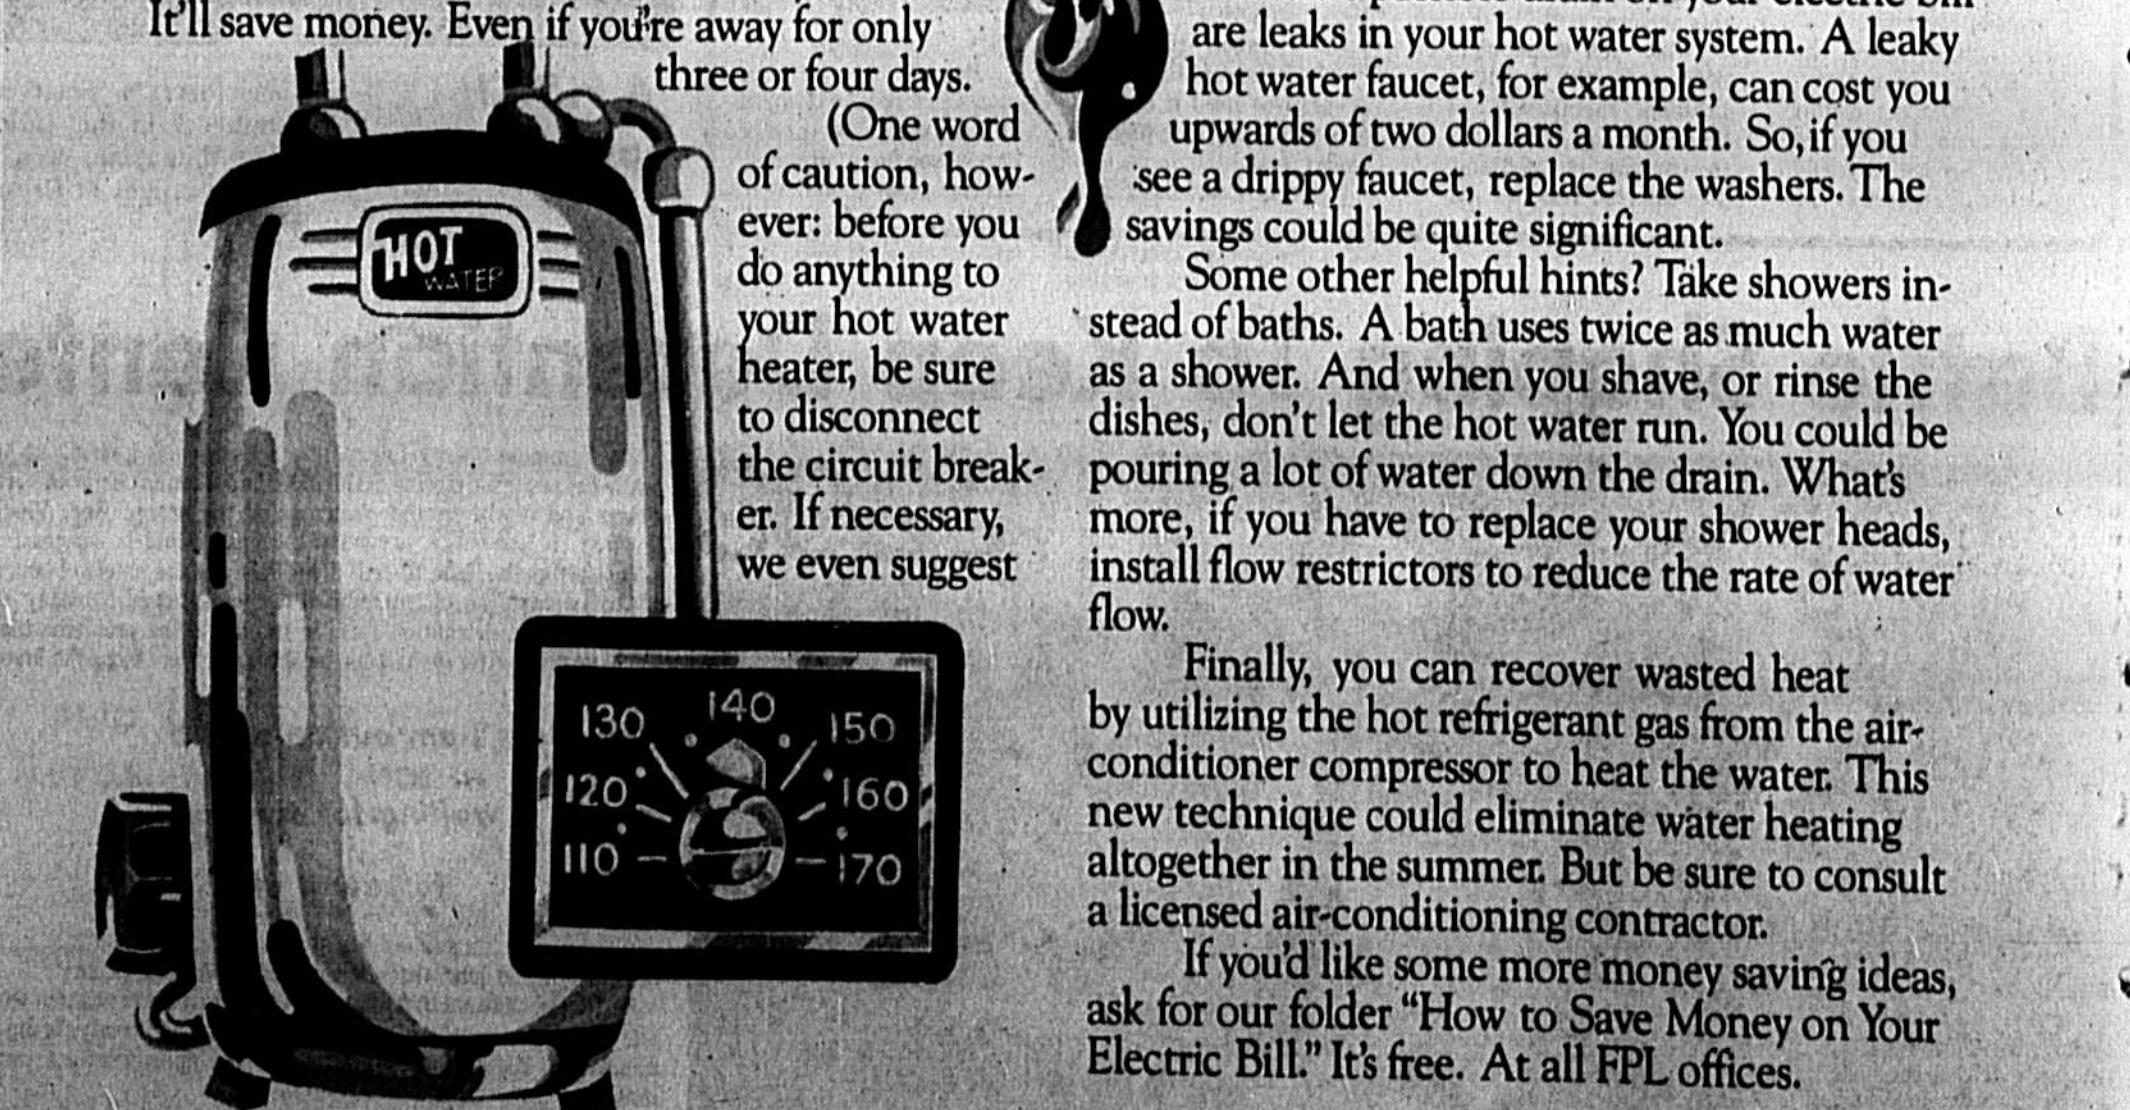

(One word of caution, however: before you do anything to your hot water heater, be sure to disconnect the circuit breaker. If necessary, we even suggest you call a serviceman.)

Another possible drain on your electric bill are leaks in your hot water system. A leaky hot water faucet, for example, can cost you upwards of two dollars a month. So, if you see a drippy faucet, replace the washers. The savings could be quite significant.

Some other helpful hints? Take showers instead of baths. A bath uses twice as much water as a shower. And when you shave, or rinse the dishes, don't let the hot water run. You could be pouring a lot of water down the drain. What's more, if you have to replace your shower heads, install flow restrictors to reduce the rate of water flow.

Finally, you can recover wasted heat by utilizing the hot refrigerant gas from the air-conditioner compressor to heat the water. This new technique could eliminate water heating altogether in the summer. But be sure to consult a licensed air-conditioning contractor.

If you'd like some more money saving ideas, ask for our folder "How to Save Money on Your Electric Bill." It's free. At all FPL offices.

The Federal Pay Hike

A federal pay hike for government workers amounting to 7.05 per cent now goes into effect for some 3.4 million workers. Just the increase will cost taxpayers over $3 billion per year.

State and local increases for government workers have been moving ahead faster than ever before. But this huge federal hike will surely accelerate the momentum all down the line.

For many years the prime excuse for increases in the various agencies of government was, "the gap needed to be closed between pay rates in public vs. private business." It was often said, "We need to be competitive in order to get a better class of workers."

For the most part, there is no longer much discernible competition in that direction. Survey after survey has revealed that government workers have all the best of most everything. It is highly debatable whether or not the better "class" has been achieved.

For the most part, there is no longer much discernible competition in that direction. Survey after survey has revealed that government workers have all the best of most everything. It is highly debatable whether or not the better "class" has been achieved.

Most workers in the private sector are hard-pressed to meet the mounting costs of maintaining an increasing number of government workers at an ever-growing pay scale.

Workers in both sectors, private and public, are hit by increased tax bills and undermined by the continuing inflation factor. But to the extent that the gap in pay widens in favor of the public sector, private sector workers will get the brunt in lost living standards.

The percentage of public workers to those engaged in private business and industry has been steadily increasing and, as this trend continues, the private sector worker will be in a declining living-standard position.

His tax-to-income ratio will increase and that insidious hidden tax of inflation places him at a greater disadvantage. For as the dollar declines in value, what he has left will buy less.

Inflation bodes no good for the worker in the public sector, for he too will eventually feel its depth of hurt. So the very advantage that now seems to help him will in time take toll of him too.

There was no fiscally responsible means set up to take care of the enormous addition to the federal payroll. The added pay-out will end up in added debt. And, as the national debt rises, so will inflation rate rise.

Senate's Big Chance

Sens. Robert Byrd and Howard Baker have introduced a resolution calling for television coverage of the Senate's debate on the Panama Canal treaties, scheduled to begin in January.

There are few resolutions that so arouse the imagination. Will there be flash on the screen, for example, some senator slumped in somnolent bliss?

Senate forbid such a flash, more or less says James Allen, the Alabama Democrat. Sen. Allen would have the Senate control coverage, presumably dictating where the cameras should be placed, how they should be aimed, which indignities should go unrecorded, etc.

Sen. Dick Clark has said all that needs be said in reply to Sen. Allen: "The people should observe us as we are." And it is clear that if the people are to see Sen. Allen and company as they are, the networks should not be — let us use a word the Senate understands — regulated.

The networks left to themselves, the Senate can devote itself — it will have to devote itself — to ways of avoiding televised embarrassments.

These ways are obvious: good grooming, adequate syntax, an ounce or two of knowledge on the treaties themselves, and perhaps even — this being for those senators with show biz instinct — a bit of makeup.

If the Senate worries about these details and leaves the networks alone, its performance, even if disappointing, at least will carry the distinction of honesty. And perhaps the point of televising the debate in the first place — public understanding of the issues concerning the canal treaties — will be realized.

ANGLE-WALTERS Nixon's Haunted House

LAGUNA NIGUEL, Calif. — The door's hinges are dry. They screech when it is opened. When it is closed the sound echoes up and down the long, deserted corridors.

Outside, the vast fortress is cloaked in eerie silence, broken only by an occasional chirping bird.

The brown, barren Laguna Hills ring the buildings on all sides, blocking whatever sign of life might exist only a mile away.

This may well be the United States government's biggest haunted house, a pyramid-shaped edifice officially known as the Laguna Niguel Federal Building.

The architecture is tasteless, if not grotesque. The decision to acquire the building can be attributed only to gross miscalculation. If the structure was placed on the face of this earth for any significant purpose, nobody has yet to discover what it is.

Rockwell International, a major space and defense contractor, began construction of the seven-level zigzag in the spring of 1968 and completed it three years later, standing on a 92-acre site, the building contains more than a million square feet of space, three-fourths of it occupiable.

There are high-speed elevators and escalators, three cafeteria-style eating areas, 7,000 people daily, parking lots for 4,200 cars, sophisticated maintenance systems and elaborate security control devices — all built to the specifications of Rockwell's Autronics Division.

But even before the building was completed, Rockwell abandoned plans to occupy it. When no commercial purchasers could be found, the company turned to the federal government's General Services Administration (GSA).

In March 1974, GSA took control of the building here, appraised at slightly more than $20 million, and Rockwell received this as a pair of Air Force plants and a substantial amount of government-owned machinery and equipment, all located in the Los Angeles area and appraised at more than $19.5 million.

GSA's reasons for acquiring the building remain somewhat of a mystery to this day, because the facility is located in a sparsely populated area of southern Orange County, about midway between San Diego and Los Angeles but convenient to neither city.

Even while the Rockwell-GSA negotiations were underway, GSA was constructing three new federal buildings in Southern California, including one in Santa Ana only 20 miles north and another in San Diego containing 500,000 square feet of space.

There is one possible explanation, rejected by GSA but accepted by virtually everyone in this community and most Washington observers who have studied the curious case: Former President Richard M. Nixon's home in San Clemente is less than 15 miles to the south.

GSA acknowledges that it "delimited an area of approximately 45,000 square feet in the building for the temporary retention of former President Nixon's papers" and that "229 linear feet of partitioning was installed to create a secure area...for retention and examination of unclassified personal documents."

For years, more than 25 American companies have been buying coffee beans from the Ugandan government. Last year, more than 86 percent of Uganda's export earnings came from the sale of coffee, much of it to the United States.

In the first half of this year alone, U.S. coffee firms funneled $150 million into Amin's coffers. Most of the money, our sources say, is used to finance Amin's soldiers and policemen, who have reportedly slaughtered at least 150,000 Ugandans.

We have obtained a secret list of American companies which have been buying coffee from Uganda. During 1976 and 1978, the biggest American buyer of Amin's beans was the Folger Coffee Co., a subsidiary of Procter and Gamble. The firm paid Uganda $22 million for 53 million pounds of coffee.

Major Earthquake Hits Chile, Argentina
SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — A major earthquake hit Chile and Argentina today, awakening the residents of both Santiago and Buenos Aires and sparking fears of a tidal wave in the Pacific.

The Honolulu Observatory said the quake hit 7.3 on the open-ended Richter scale, large enough to inflict widespread, heavy damage.

Egypt Expels PLO Members
CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Egypt expelled three top Palestine Liberation Organization officials and 20 Palestinian students today when they became a political offensive to quell other Arab opposition to President Anwar Sadat's peace initiative.

Foreign Minister Butros Ghali met with the ambassadors of 27 African countries this morning to explain the reasons and results of Sadat's trip to Jerusalem, the first such journey by an Arab leader since the Jewish state was founded 29 years ago.

India Death Toll 15,000
HYDERABAD, India (UPI) — The death toll from a devastating cyclone that hit southern India is expected to pass 15,000 and cholera now has broken out in the stricken region, officials said today.

The cyclone slammed into India this weekend with 90 mph winds followed by an 18-foot tidal wave. At least 13 villages were wiped out, leaving about 100,000 people homeless.

The Shah of Iran has come and gone — his 15th visit to the United States. Politically, both he and President Carter seemed to get what they were after. For Iran, it's the arms they want to buy (despite Mr. Carter's necessary disclaimers); for the U.S., the Shah's active cooperation to keep OPEC oil prices from rising next year.

While conditions in Iran continue not to satisfy the human rights activists who demand nothing less than perfection-on-earth, the lot of the average Iranian has improved markedly as the Shah has accelerated his nation's industrialization.

Some say it is coming too fast, resulting in inefficient and duplication of effort. Even so, the per-capita income is rising and, politically, persons detained are declining in number. The Shah insists that those still locked up are Marxist revolutionaries. Considering past history and the fact that Iran is a staunch American ally right on the Soviet border, it is understandable that the Shah is skeptical about the motivations of his government's opponents.

That extends to the Paper Bag People in the U.S. last week. On seeing them massed in Williamsburg, Va. to shout and yell at him, he remarked "I wonder just how many people behind those masks are Iranians?"

His skepticism did not extend to most U.S. news media. The Paper Bag People (they had cut eye and mouth holes and put the bags over their heads, they said, to avoid identification and reprisals by the Shah's secret police) got heavy on-camera coverage well before the Shah arrived in Washington. They staged a "fast" on the steps of the Capitol.

One man, about 30, identified himself as head of the Iranian Students Organization and said that all the Paper Bag People were Iranian students protesting the corrupt, fascist, repressive, U.S.-puppet government of the Shah. (If that's not an exact quote, it's close enough. The rhetoric was straight out of the campus riots of 1968, only the object of scorn had changed.)

In four days of steady coverage by the media, I found that television, radio, the wire services and the Washington newspapers routinely described the Paper Bag People as "crawling" anti-Shah and pro-Shah protesters massed near the White House numbered 8,000, almost evenly divided.

Can there be 4,000 Iranian students in the United States and, if so, can they all be apoplectic over their nation's government? You might think skeptical reporters would want to look into that and at least consider the possibility that some of our so-called protesters were paper bags because they had been in so many rallies for so many causes they might be accused of being hired from Rent-a-Rioter.

Since the Paper Bag People are so concerned with human rights, I have an idea for them. Why not go up to New York and protest the state of human rights in Cuba, the Soviet Union, Cambodia, Vietnam and all those one-man-all-votes dictatorships in Africa?

Fed to at least some government auditing. Burns bestirred himself up to the Senate and sought to head off the legislation. He met privately with Senate Governmental Affairs Chairman Abe Ribicoff, D-Conn., and also transmitted his disapproval to Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., the top Republican on the committee.

Thereafter Percy, with Ribicoff's advice and consent, requested hearings on the legislation. The practical effect was to delay at least for a while the passage of any bill authorizing government auditors to inspect the Fed's books.

Subcommittee has compiled several cases it feels the GAO should investigate. According to the subcommittee's confidential files, for example, the congressman want to know whether the Fed is procuring computers in the most efficient manner.

Questions have also been raised about lucrative security systems contract at the Fed's Oklahoma City branch. The General Accounting Office, with its expert auditors and accountants could resolve such questions.

The Fed fears the legislation would "constitute a significant step toward compromising the independence of the Federal Reserve System," spokesmen say.

Myth Or Fact, 'You Stay Home And Eat'
United Press International
A Briton newly arrived in this country described Thanksgiving this way: "The American has come up with the greatest holiday ever invented by man — you don't have to go to church or anything. You just stay home and eat."

More than 200 million Americans will be able to choose Thursday from an estimated 138 million turkeys — the second largest crop in the nation's history and a tradition of parades and football to honor the great American holiday.

That is, if it really is an American holiday. Some revisionists doubt it.

Dr. Donald Scheich of Indiana State University claims

Thanksgivings were celebrated by the ancient Egyptians, Mesopotamians and Greeks. The American Thanksgiving tradition is based on folklore rather than fact, he said.

"There is no recorded evidence that the colonists even took time out to say a prayer," Sheick said.

But not to turkey day's version of Scrooge, he said our Thanksgiving "is symbolic of some things in American history we think are very important and worth preserving and being thankful for."

Gloomier yet is the version espoused by 84-year-old Maine anthropologist William B. Newell. He said the first Thanksgiving was a celebration of the massacre of 700 Indian men, women and children holding their annual green corn dance in Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1637.

"Gathered in this place of meeting, they were attacked by mercenaries and English and Dutch. The Indians were ordered from the building and as they came forth they were shot down. The rest were burned alive in the building," Newell said.

Dr. James Dextz, an anthropologist professor at Brown

University in Rhode Island and visiting professor at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va., said Thanksgiving began in 1621 at Plymouth Plantation. That doesn't jibe with the views of Virginians, including Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. They claim the first festival was on Dec. 4, 1619, at Virginia's Berkeley Plantation on the James River.

The only massacres this Thanksgiving, however, could be on the football field. The Chicago Bears, eyeing the NFL playoffs after an upset win over Minnesota, meet the Detroit Lions in Pontiac, Mich., and the intense rivalry between the Washington Redskins and the St. Louis Cardinals will renew along the Mississippi riverfront.

A half-million spectators are expected for the 45-minute Thanksgiving Day parade in Detroit. Hundreds of thousands will be out to view the Macy's extravaganza in New York.

A raincoat that needs some growing into. The lure of a mud puddle mixed with the fear of getting caught. These are some of the seemingly unimportant parts of being young that turn into warm and unforgettable memories.

They're some of the things that eventually form such qualities as sentiment and human feelings... qualities which people carry through life and which we try to reflect in every service we direct.

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Steinbrenner's check-writing hand has moved again. Emboldened by his venture of 1977, when free agents Don Gullett and Reggie Jackson helped bring a world championship to New York, the Yankees' owner Tuesday signed free-agent relief pitcher Rich Gosage to a six-year contract estimated at $1.5 million.

After tonight there will be only one Seminole County team left in the running for the Rotary Bowl Basketball Tournament title. Tonight's semi-finals will pit host Lyman and Seminole High in the first, 7 p.m. game.

Lyman Coach Rick Steinke is looking warily at the clash with the Seminoles tonight. "Seminole is capable of beating anybody," Steinke said.

The consolation round is scheduled for Friday at 4 and 6 p.m. Finals are set Friday for 8 o'clock.

Albers Closes Season, As County Top Scorer

By DAN RUTLEDGE
Herald Correspondent
As the closing curtain comes down on the 1977 football season, it appears that Lake Brantley senior halfback Tommy Albers will be the year's top scorer in Seminole County.

Albers has hung on to the top rung of the scoring ladder since the fourth week of the season — and had amassed such a lead that a late season scoring slump, only two touchdowns in the past three weeks, did not seriously endanger his position.

Tommy's 12 touchdowns is over half (total 22) of the state point production for the season.

Dec. 29 Gator Bowl Sellout For Clemson, Pitt

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Less than two working days after the selector of Pittsburgh and Clemson to meet in the 1977 Gator Bowl, officials announced Tuesday that the local supply of tickets was sold out.

As of two weeks ago, Emery said, the Gator Bowl had sold 25,000 tickets had been sent to Clemson and 11,000 to Pittsburgh.

Asked at a Jacksonville press conference how many tickets Clemson might sell if there was no limit, Clemson coach Charley Pell said, "I'd say 30,000 would be a conservative figure."

Dawson N.L.'s Rookie

NEW YORK (UPI) — Montreal Expos' center fielder Andre Dawson, who got off to a slow start but came on with a rush to reach most of the goals he set, today was named the National League's Rookie of the Year by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Dawson batted .282, hit 19 homers, drove in 65 runs and stole 21 bases. He became the second Montreal player to win the honor — Cal Ripken Jr. in 1970, was the first.

Now next year, I have to prove that 1977 was not just a lucky year. I'm going to set my goals even higher."

Bossy Islanders

By United Press International
The nameplate over Mike Bossy's locker in the New York Islanders locker room isn't made of engraved walnut like most of the team's — it's just a piece of masking tape with his name scrawled with black magic marker.

"I don't know," mused Bossy yesterday as the Islanders' 4-2 victory over the Colorado Rockies Tuesday night. "Maybe they haven't decided to make me a permanent member of the team yet."

The rookie sensation took over the NHL's goal-scoring lead with his 17th of the season, a goal that snapped a 2-2 tie with the Rockies and kept the Islanders' unbeaten streak at six.

With the goal, Bossy equaled the Islanders' goal-scoring streak of five games set by Ed Westcott in 1974-75 and matched by Clark Gillies last season.

Commissioners Renew Search For Central Landfill

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer

The day after a private landfill proposal was unanimously defeated by the Seminole County Board of Adjustment, county commissioners renewed their commitment to finding a centrally located, county-operated landfill site to replace the current Osceola landfill.

Commissioners also added an additional possibility for "future consideration" — a centrally located transfer station, which would permit closing the Sanlando station where 60 to 70 per cent of the county's garbage is handled en route to Osceola.

The centrally located transfer station proposal came from Commission Chairman Dick Williams, who said he feared Orange County's plan to establish a landfill near Apopka might place the two counties in a competitive situation for landfill customers.

In a series of consensus votes, commissioners decided to discuss future landfill plans with Orange County officials.

Inform the Osteen-based Clark and Hirt Co., which is interested in submitting a landfill proposal.

Emphasized that they welcome "any ideas for landfills" from Waste Management Inc., but won't issue a formal request for bid proposals for a decision on whether to appeal the denial to the county commissioners had not been made.

Buy three trailers at $28,000 each to transport garbage from the county's three transfer stations to the Osceola landfill in extreme northeast Seminole. Public Works Director Jack Schuler had recommended retiring at least three of the county's seven garbage trailers because they are in desperate need of repair. "It's a cheap investment to keep us out of good-sized lawsuits," said Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski.

Research the possibility of a centrally located transfer station, enabling the county to shut down its Sanlando transfer station.

Gazebo: Strike Up The Band

Sanford Architect Carl Gutman has presented plans for a proposed gazebo-bandstand to be built in Sanford's Centennial Park.

Work on the project, which is expected to cost approximately $5,000, will get underway immediately, according to Mrs. Walter Gleason, chairman of the Civic and Community Affairs Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

An eight-sided open structure of the style popular in village squares at the turn of the century, the gazebo will have benches and will be large enough to accommodate a band for concerts, she said.

Gutman donated his work on the plans for the 36 by 36 foot gazebo, Mrs. Gleason said. The committee when it met Thursday made plans for raising construction funds by holding a barbecue dinner and auction in the park, located on Park Avenue between Fourth and Fifth Streets, beginning at noon on Dec. 18.

By holding the event on a Sunday to coincide with the time the services are over at the several churches in the area, the committee hopes to draw customers from the various congregations, Mrs. Gleason said.

County Agricultural Agent Reginald Brown, a member of the committee, will be in charge of the auction.

The chamber committee, in conjunction with the city parks and recreation department and the Community Improvement Program (CIP), look on the project of landscaping and improving the park as a tribute to Sanford's Centennial. An automatic irrigation system has already been installed and some azaleas planted. The city provided labor and expertise, Mrs. Gleason said.

The committee also voted to commit funds raised through next Spring's azalea sale to completing the park project.

'If The Shoe Fits--Wear It'

DEAR ABBY: I am writing on behalf of the salespeople who sell men's shoes.

When a man goes to a doctor for an examination, he at least unbuttons his own shirt. So why do some men come into a shoe department, sit down, and expect the salesperson to undress their feet?

The salesperson is supposed to try the NEW shoes on the customer, not take off the old ones, but when I ask a man politely to slip off his old shoes, he looks at me like I'm crazy.

And while I'm on the subject of men's shoes, when a man comes in to try on shoes and I ask him what size he wears, nine out of 10 say they don't know!

Can you believe that a 50-year-old man has no idea what size shoe he wears? So we have to look in his old shoe or measure his foot. This takes time and most of us work on well. A few months ago my land came home and, out of the blue, he announced that he had a vasectomy! I couldn't have been more shocked. The more I thought about it, the more suspicious I became. (Wouldn't you be?)

Tell me, Abby, why would a man want a vasectomy when his wife has had a hysterectomy?

SUSPICIOUS IN OELWEIN, LA. DEAR SUSPICIOUS: He has obviously decided that he wants no more children with you--or anyone else.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting tired of reading about the atrocious things wives discover about their husbands after marrying them. For instance that they are unclean, that they have a temper or that they're stingy. All the clues are there during courtship. Why don't women see them and heed the warning?

It seems to me that if a woman chooses to overlook a fault in her husband BEFORE marriage, she should continue to overlook it AFTER marriage, and forever hold her peace.

Why should she expect a man to change overnight just because he put a wedding band on her finger?

DEAR REALIST: "Love is blind." Some women do not see faults before marriage. Other women (the predatory kind) marry a man knowing his deficiencies but hoping to "reform" him. They rarely do, and their failure eventually leads to frustration and bitterness.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting tired of reading about the atrocious things wives discover about their husbands after marrying them. For instance that they are unclean, that they have a temper or that they're stingy. All the clues are there during courtship. Why don't women see them and heed the warning?

She Reaches Out To Help Others

Verla Butler of Altamonte Springs, is people oriented.

"I enjoy doing things for other people," she said. As a foster parent, she always has children in her home, from tiny infants to toddlers and older. Visits to nursing homes takes up much of her spare time.

"I love the older people. Some of them aren't able to do as much as when they were younger, and they feel sort of put out to pasture. I don't like that attitude," she explained.

"As Crafts Chairman of the Altamonte Springs Homemakers' Club, Verla works in macramé, ceramics and painting, with beautiful samples of her work on display in her home.

Her 13-year-old daughter at home, Verla believes in teaching youngsters to cook.

"My daughter likes to mess around in the kitchen, so I encourage her to cook from scratch. You're not really learning to cook if you cook from a prepared mix in a box," she said.

Verla would like to see cooking stressed more in school programs. "I've judged 4-H contestants in cooking demonstrations and the same thing could be done at the end of the year in cooking classes in school," she said.

Admittedly to liking to make desserts, Verla

This Happy Feelings group started as a garage band and after 3 days rehearsal opened at Mr. P's. Versatility is their forte. Everything from Broadway to Nashville, 1940 to 40. They do it all. Billy Deigold, the group's leader and frontman, hails from Boston. Besides doing songs like "After the Loving" and all of Neil Diamonds hit songs, he also doubles on valve trombone and drums. Kevin Kruak, the keyboard player, is a music graduate from Tampa, Fla. He also holds down piano, organ, and string ensemble. Jerry Frazier adds a touch of the country side of life, vocally and is also the drummer. Jim Byers from Oviedo, plays trumpet, bass, valve trombone and slogs.

Happy Feelings is also graced with two dynamic female vocalists. Jamie Thomas, originates from St. Louis and is featured on tunes like "You Light Up My Life," "Torn Between Two Lovers," and "Telephone Man." She also plays flute and bass guitar. Peggy Hill comes from California where she studied dramatics and dance. She shows her talent on the Broadway show tunes and Barbara Streisand hits.

You'll have that "Vegas Feeling" when you are at Mr. P's with "Happy Feelings." So put on a smile and come see us.

A Matter Of Balance

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have had an equilibrium problem for the past 10 years. I get it about four or five times a year. It frightens me. I've been to two ear specialists, and they tell me it is caused by my internal ear. One said it has something to do with going through the menopause.

What I would like to know is, will this ever leave me? I have medication which I carry with me in case I should get this dizziness, and the medicine does help a lot. Other people have an irritation of the small balance canals in the inner ear secondary to an illness such as a complication to the flu. This is called toxic labyrinthitis.

I have heard from others who had it at one time, and now they don't have this problem any more. I would be the happiest person if this equilibrium problem would leave me. I'm 64 years old. DEAR READER - If it was caused by the menopause, you are certainly having a long menopause. Clearly, that is not the case.

Dizziness and vertigo are different things. Some people are dizzy because of poor circulation to the brain, or problems related to simple fainting. Others have "true vertigo," meaning that when they have an attack they feel like they are moving or the environment around them is moving when that is not the case.

True vertigo is often associated with an abnormality of the balance canals of the inner ear. If there are associated findings, it may be from disease of the arteries to that area, but in younger people without other findings, it is often related to the ear of the nerve between the ear and the brain.

The cause of the vertigo is important. The inner ear may be sensitive to motion and motion may cause a violent reaction to simple motion sickness. This problem is well-known to many people. It is self-free from restraints, you understand the folly of possessiveness. Yet today, you may try to limit the freedom of one you're fond of.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make it a point today not to be equally charming and gracious to all. A violation will offend one who loves you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Beware of romantic involvement today that are definite no-no's. It might cause complications that will really rock the boat.

Turkey Tips Make Roasting Bird Easy

When falling leaves with vibrant colors of red and gold signal the arrival of autumn, apogee change to yellow, and winter fare that goes with cooler weather. Though less casual than summer's outdoor meals, fall feasts often retain an informal air as menus are planned around sporting events, harvest celebrations and other fun times.

Roast turkey headlines a sumptuous feast thanks in a large part to the bird's succulent breast. Roasted turkey can be roasted unstuffed with only minutes of your time. Rinse the thawed turkey, pat dry, season and slip it in the oven. Once in the oven, it requires little further attention until serving time.

While dinner preparations are being completed, let guests enjoy Spicy Crab Dip and crisp Fritos brand corn chips. ROAST TURKEY Leave turkey in original bag for the hostess to prepare. a. No hurry - place on tray in refrigerator... 3 or 4 days. b. Faster - place on tray at room temperature in a closed grocery bag... 1 hour per pound of turkey.

Underwater Time Travel

NEW YORK (UPI) — The latest project of Captain Jacques Cousteau is time travel — underwater, of course.

"Did you ever read 'The Time Machine,' by H.G. Wells?" Capt. Cousteau asked during an interview, in which he was explaining the basis for his new "Cousteau Odyssey" series on PBS.

"We have developed during my lifetime the means and the tools to penetrate the ocean — the Aqualung, the minisub, houses under the sea, underwater cameras, even television cameras, and much more.

"All this array of hardware we have used until now, for what I call the horizontal exploration of the oceans, exploring them as they are today anywhere, at any depth. To explore horizontally is to explore in space.

"In 1976 I tried to turn all this hardware into a radically different use — to explore not in space but in time — vertical exploration, to turn back the clock.

"The French undersea pioneer and explorer said that he and his son, Philippe, co-producers of the new series, will air four shows for PBS in the 1977-78 season, and eight more for the two subsequent series, "Calypso's Search for the Britannic."

"We wanted to start almost in modern times," Cousteau said. "We were turning the clock back more 60 years."

He said future "Odyssey" programs would explore subjects of increasing antiquity — Byzantine, Phoenician, Roman, Green, Minoan, pre-Minoan.

"We want to begin to investigate the relationship between human beings and their environment, as it has been in the past.

"Have human beings always been destroyers?"

"If they have, how did he cope? How much damage did he do? These are lessons we can get from antiquity."

So far, the answer appears to be that man has always been a destroyer.

"Man has always been a predator, always a destroyer, but there were so few people on this planet," he added. "When there were fewer than a million individuals on this earth, they could not do much harm. The trouble now is that the teeth of the predator have grown so long.

Cousteau today finds all the problems of pollution — from oil spills to overfishing to the other ills he has tried to fight over the years — minor compared to what he considers the overriding evil — the unresolved problems that heavy reliance on nuclear energy could bring.

"We propose a moratorium until there has been time to solve the technological problems. Otherwise what man does today could poison generations for thousands and thousands of years."

Thanksgiving Feasts

How'd Ya Like To Cook For 18,000?

Thanksgiving is fun for everyone but the cook, right?

After all, she (he) has to stuff the turkey, bake it just right, see to the vegetables, the salad and the once-a-year home-made bread and feed the relatives from out of town.

There are probably dozens who fit the description.

But what if you had to do it for 18,000 people—like Charlotte Whitmore, food services director for Seminole County Schools?

Or even about a hundred, like Sharon Lindsay, cook at the county jail?

Or even worse, what if you had to work at up-staging turkey, because you always serve it twice a week, like K. V. Benson Jr. food services director, Seminole Memorial Hospital. He was preparing rock cornish game hen.

The problems confronting Seminole County this month range from the 216 turkeys, weighing 20 pounds each, which were prepared for students in Seminole County schools on Wednesday to the one, or possibly two, serving the youngsters in the county detention center.

Rick Hughlett, at the center, says "We have turkey and a complete Thanksgiving type dinner. The VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars) auxiliary is bringing out some pies, sweets and nuts. But how much we will be cooking depends on how many kids are here at the time," Hughlett says. As of Monday there were 20 youngsters at the detention center, Hughlett said, "and parents who wish to come eat with the children were invited."

Mrs. Whitmore says that Thanksgiving day has been celebrated on "Thanksgiving Eve" in the 39 Seminole County school cafeterias, "for as long as I've been here, and that is 22 years. I'm sure they also did it before that," she says.

Mrs. Whitmore says the school menu included the turkey — 5,300 pounds of it — as well as whipped potatoes, green peas, cranberry sauce, and "sweet potato cake instead of pumpkin pie."

At Bram Towers, Sanford senior citizens residence, Mrs. Arlene Boyd, administrator, said that Thanksgiving dinner was a combination of turkeys supplied by the administration and potatoes supplied by the tenants.

"We have not yet calculated the number of turkeys," she said earlier this week. "It may be three, or may be at the most four. The tenants will dine together downstairs in the dining room."

At county jail food service, Mrs. Arlene Boyd, administrator, said that Thanksgiving dinner was a combination of turkeys supplied by the administration and potatoes supplied by the tenants.

"One year we served quail," he said. Even the vegetables served at the hospital include such delights as green peas with mushrooms.

Patients were allowed to have guests on Thanksgiving, and Benson's office was planning to feed about 150 people.

K. V. Benson Jr., food services director, says that his staff makes a real effort to turn holiday meals into something memorable for patients.

"Patients were allowed to have guests on Thanksgiving, and Benson's office was planning to feed about 150 people."

While Sanford police today were searching for two men who held up a grocery store in that city, Casselberry police had in custody a 20-year-old armed robber who got $34 in a similar incident, then made off on a bicycle.

The Sanford robbery occurred about 7:50 p.m. Wednesday at the West Third Street grocery, 805 W. Third St.

Two masked men, one of them armed with a shotgun, entered the store and held the owner, Ron Branley and his wife, Brenda, at bay and rifled the cash register.

"The one with the shotgun held it on my wife and told both of us to 'Be quiet. Be quiet.' while the other one went through the cash register and took about $34," Branley said.

The grocery store owner said the robbers spent only about two and a half minutes in the store, then left with the cash, as well as the cash register.

Police said the robbers drove off in green car which had been parked at Third St. and Holly Ave.

Branley said he and his wife were putting groceries on the shelves when the robbery occurred.

Grant all the money she had, which Grant later said was about $34.
