County Looks To PSC

Bell Refuses Toll-Free Service To Orlando

If 17,000 Sanford and Lake Mary Southern Bell customers ever want to make toll-free phone calls to Orlando, they will have to petition the Public Service Commission.

Despite a request from the county's Council of Local Governments for toll-free service between the cities, Southern Bell says it won't provide it unless the PSC says so.

Southern Bell area manager Larry Strickler said Wednesday granting the request would force the company to raise monthly rates to those customers an estimated $5 or $6.

"What people don't understand is that local service is not free," he said. If calls to Orlando were toll-free, the expense to the company would be passed on to all the customers.

And that's not fair, Strickler said, because only a minority of the customers make any calls to Orlando.

"Anytime you have a small community next to a metropolitan area, you have people who move to the smaller community and then want toll-free phone service," Strickler said, alluding to Lake Mary. "But the service is not free. Somebody has to foot the bill."

Strickler said.

Since the cost would be borne by all the customers, Strickler said toll-free service is not feasible. He said only a request from the PSC, which regulates phone rates, could change the company's mind.

The Seminole County Commission has instructed county attorney Nikki Clayton to find out the procedures for petitioning the PSC for the service.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff has said the county suffers losses in tax revenues because businesses bypass Sanford due to long distance charges to Orlando.

"The area is disadvantaged in competing for industry or warehousing space because of the toll," Kirchhoff says.

But getting the PSC to agree with him may prove difficult and time-consuming, according to Strickler.

The PSC would have to conduct numerous surveys to determine if 51 percent or more of the customers in Sanford and Lake Mary, as well as Orlando, wanted the service, and potential rate hikes, Strickler said. The process could take two years or longer.

The commission's calendar is clogged with dates for hearings from other cities requesting toll-free service, according to George Hannon of the PSC.

"There are a number of these cases around the state that are pending," he said.

But Hannon said the PSC would still consider requests from governments or individual citizens.

Texas Vows To Fight Nuke Dump

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a decision that relieved 47 other states, the Energy Department announced that Texas, Nevada and Washington appeared to be the safest places to dump highly radioactive waste.

Texas authorities were in federal court within hours of the announcement Wednesday that Deaf Smith County was among the three sites considered the leading possibilities for the permanent underground storage of the lethal garbage, which remains dangerously radioactive for thousands of years.

"Before the people of Deaf Smith County will glow in the dark, sparks will fly," Texas Gov. Mark White said Wednesday.

The two other sites selected for more detailed study by the Energy Department are located at Yucca Mountain in Nevada and at the government atomic works at Hanford, Wash. The two backup proposals call for further study of the Richton salt dome in Mississippi and the Davis Canyon site in Utah.

Department officials said the two backup sites, as well as four other sites that were studied, also eventually might be considered for a second nuclear depository as nuclear waste continues to grow.

Energy Secretary Donald Hodel said studies for the final selection of a national storage site may take as long as five years and was quick to agree it was "safe to say" no state wants the site at this time.

He expressed hope, however, that further studies would make it acceptable to at least one state.

Under the law passed in 1982, the president is expected to recommend a final choice for the nuclear depository in about 1990. A state may veto the final selection, but that can be overridden by Congress.

About 10,000 tons of radioactive waste is now in storage, Energy officials said, and that amount may reach 40,000 tons by 1998. The waste, mainly spent fuel rods from nuclear reactors, now is stored at 27 sites located near reactors.

Environmentalists in Seattle were as angry as the Texas officials, but members of the business community and the

Kirkpatrick: Foreign Policy 'Male Bastion'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jeane Kirkpatrick, America's ambassador to the United Nations for four years, said Wednesday sexism "thrives at the United Nations and in the U.S. government."

"I've seen enough to know it is bipartisan," she added.

Kirkpatrick, a Democrat and former professor of political science at Georgetown University in Washington, made her remarks at a breakfast attended by New York area female executives and leaders.

Kirkpatrick defined sexism as "prejudice."

"I mean prejudice," she emphasized. "It is not ultimately disabling but it is always a handicap. It attributes negative expectation to some member of a group."

Kirkpatrick has said she will leave her job at the U.N. at the end of the current term.

She said the only difference between men and women in high politics is "the difference in attitudes about the use of force."

"I have never advocated ... use of force as a solution to a foreign policy situation in my life," she said.

More Drunk Drivers Land In Jail

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Arrests of drunken drivers and their rate of conviction have jumped significantly under the state's new drunken driving law, the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles reports.

The agency also released statistics Wednesday showing that more drunken drivers are ending up in jail under the new law, which went into effect on July 1, 1982.

"The real message is that citizens are tired of the slaughter caused by drunken drivers and the courts are no longer willing to excuse an individual's irresponsibility," said Leonard R. Mellon, the agency's executive director. "The system is dealing more severely with drunk drivers."

The agency polled court clerks in all 67 counties for the first comprehensive statewide survey of the new statute's effect.

The survey found that driving while under the influence (DUI) arrests climbed by more than 7,000 from 1982 to 1983, the first full year under the new statutes. The conviction rate jumped from just under 77 percent to nearly 86 percent.

The new law, considered one of the toughest in the nation, requires a first offender to serve 50 hours of community service, lose his or her license for at least six months, pay a minimum fine of $250 and attend a substance abuse course.

Penalties for repeat offenses within certain time periods increase dramatically and include mandatory jail terms.

Scuttled Shuttle Secret Peeves Pentagon, Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon's space age version of "I've Got a Secret" — featuring the shuttle Discovery as the mystery guest and the Soviet Union as the target of a new spy in the sky — has abruptly lost its intrigue.

Official fingers quickly pointed to The Washington Post Wednesday as the culprit for reporting that the secret military cargo on next month's space shuttle mission is a $300 million Air Force satellite that will spy on the western reaches of the Soviet Union.

The Post — just as quickly — pointed back at the government and said that if there were breaches in security they originated from official Washington because its story was based largely on public information.

The satellite could be used to monitor Moscow's compliance with arms control accords by intercepting radio signals from missile tests, the newspaper said. It will join a fleet of four or five other "signals intelligence" satellites now coasting high above Soviet territory.

Citing fears for national security, the Pentagon and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have imposed unprecedented restrictions on information about the shuttle mission, including a ban on interviews with the all-military crew and a refusal to give a specific time for the Jan. 23 launch. All ground-to-space communications will be in code.

Pentagon spokesman Robert O'Brien quoted Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger as saying the Post's reporting the story was "the height of journalistic irresponsibility."

O'Brien said several news organizations had been aware of the story, but abided by Pentagon requests not to make the information public.

Ben Bradlee, executive editor of the Post, denied that the story had breached national security.

"We kept out of our story information we knew the Pentagon considered sensitive," Bradlee said in a statement Wednesday. "Virtually every fact we mentioned is a matter of public record."

The newspaper, in its lead editorial today, echoed Bradlee's statements.

"We reserve the right, as all self-respecting journalists do, to challenge the government's decisions as to what material is and is not suitable to print," the editorial said.

Tax Flap: Bank Sues Seminole Officials

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

An Orlando bank disagreeing with the reclassification of seven parcels of land in Seminole County has filed suit against Bill Suber, the county's property appraiser and G. Troy Ray Jr., county tax collector.

Pan American Bank, trustee of the Weklva-Longwood Markham Land Trust, is seeking injunctive and declaratory relief from a reclassification of the land which removes an agricultural designation and raises taxes on the property over 500 percent.

Pan American states in the suit that up until 1980, the land trust was classified as agricultural. Suber then reclassified the land as undeveloped causing a dramatic increase in taxes. Pan American states its 1984 tax bill should be $565, not $20,132 as on its tax bill from Ray's office.

Suber said the suit filed by the bank is just one more complaint over the land reclassification.

He said he couldn't remember exactly when the land was reclassified.

Suber, who did not want to discuss the issue in detail because he was just served with notice of the suit, said the agricultural designation was removed because the land was used only occasionally for agricultural purposes. He said the purchase price for the property was not the expected price for agricultural property but closer to the price of developable land bought as an investment.

Suber said other land in the area is being developed and that the removal of the agricultural designation will remain until a court orders otherwise.

Pan American, through its Orlando attorney John Foster, states that the reclassification was wrong and illegal.

Soviets Blast America's Decision To Leave UNESCO

United Press International
The Soviet Union today accused Washington of pulling out of UNESCO because it opposed the agency's disarmament and human rights policies, but America's allies said they understood U.S. concerns.
"The United States is strongly riled by UNESCO's consistent policy in questions of the struggle for peace and disarmament and by its denunciation of the racist regime of apartheid," the Soviet news agency Tass said.
Tass also charged the United States with using blackmail to influence the United Nations agency's policies.
The United States formally withdrew from the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization Wednesday, citing the agency's "endemic hostility toward institutions of a free society."
A State Department official also cited budget mismanagement. The United States contributed 25 percent of UNESCO's budget — about $47 million annually.

Lawford Gravely Ill, In Coma

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Movie and television star Peter Lawford, a suave Englishman who ran with the fast crowd of Frank Sinatra's "Rat Pack" while making nearly 60 movies, lies in a coma and doctors say his condition is grave.
Lawford, 61, was treated earlier this year for alcoholism, and was admitted to Cedars-Sinai Medical Center this week with liver disease and failing kidneys, the hospital said.
A long-time Lawford associate who asked not to be identified said Wednesday the actor was "badly jaundiced" and was "mumbling incoherently" before slipping into a coma before dawn.
The son of a knighted British general, Lawford married Patricia Kennedy, the sister of President John F. Kennedy, in April 1954. They divorced after 11 years of marriage, which produced four children.
The children — Christopher, Sydney, Victoria and Robin — flew to Los Angeles Tuesday and were taken directly to their father's bedside.

Moldy ACs May Cause Allergies

BOSTON (UPI) — If asthma or hay fever sufferers have trouble breathing in an automobile, the problem may be microorganisms hiding in the car's air conditioning unit.
Doctors at Louisiana State University Medical Center said tests on air conditioning systems in 25 cars showed 22 of them were contaminated with a variety of molds.
At the same time, nearly one out of five patients with hay fever or asthma told the researchers that they experienced breathing problems when they turned on the air conditioning in their cars.

The doctors speculated this may be an underestimate because all 224 patients questioned were on medication at the time.
The findings were reported today in the New England Journal of Medicine.
"Because we found that about 80 percent of the cars had these molds, one might expect that more people than 18 percent would have this problem," said Dr. Prem Kumar, the report's primary author. "But not everyone with hay fever or asthma is sensitive to these kinds of spores."
In addition to the survey, Kumar and his associates tested 25 patients to see whether their car air conditioners really did make it more difficult for them to breathe. They found that patients found it more difficult to breathe in cars with contaminated air conditioners than in cars that were uncontaminated.

The findings suggest car air conditioners are two-edged swords, because while they may worsen conditions for some, they also tend to filter pollen and dust out of the air.
Because only 25 cars were tested, Kumar said he could not be certain whether some makes and models are more prone to microorganisms than others.

Prices Up Slightly; Inflation Rate 4.1%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer prices rose just 0.2 percent in November, as Christmas season shoppers found bargains in new cars, clothing, turkey and chicken, the Labor Department said today.
The modest increase kept the 1984 inflation rate — January through November — to only 4.1 percent.
"The price performance has been remarkably consistent for three years," department economist Patrick Jackman said, with 1982's rate 3.9 percent and 1983's about the same at 3.8 percent.

The result is the purchasing power of a 1967 dollar — now 31.7 cents — has held its own far better lately after taking a beating during the double-digit inflation days of the late 1970s.
Actual marketplace prices overall did not change, the department said, but the department's seasonal adjustment process added the 0.2 percent price growth.
Prices rose 0.4 percent in September and October.

The Consumer Price Index for November is 315.3, meaning goods and services that cost $100 in 1967 now cost $315.30.
Surprisingly small mark ups for new cars translated into a seasonally adjusted decline. Together with declines for used cars — the fourth in five months — and less of an increase for gasoline than occurred in September and October, the important transportation index was up only 0.1 percent.
Shoppers found prices going down for clothing in November as retailers held sales to perk up demand.

Heavier competition than ever from cheaper imports, the softening world oil price and w consumer demand in the second half of the year, which pressured retailers to cut prices, all combined to hold the line on inflation.
Next year could be the same or better, forecasters say, if lower interest rates do not supercharge the economy so that demand outpaces supply.

Suspected Cocaine Dealer Acquitted

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer
A Tampa man charged with trafficking in cocaine has been found not guilty by a Seminole Circuit Court jury.
The six-member jury rendered its verdict after 2½ hours of deliberation during the third day of trial of Daniel Lon Stealey, 22. He faced a minimum sentence of 3 years in prison and $50,000 fine and could have received up to 30 years.
Stealey, arrested with two co-defendants who have been found guilty in the case, maintained that he was just in the wrong place at the wrong time and was not in possession of any cocaine.
One co-defendant, Michael Clark Flanigan, 21, of 1039 North St., Altamonte Springs, pleaded no contest Nov. 15 to trafficking in cocaine. He is scheduled to be sentenced Jan. 16 by Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. He faces a minimum mandatory sentence of 3 years in prison and a $50,000 fine.

A second co-defendant, Betty Revel Lowdermill, 27, also of 1039 North St., has entered either a no contest or guilty plea to trafficking in cocaine, according to reports, and is scheduled to be sentenced Jan. 9.
Ms. Lowdermill's plea was temporarily sealed by Davis so exactly what she pleaded and why is not public information.
The trio was arrested May 29 after undercover agents executed a search warrant and reportedly found four to five ounces of cocaine worth an estimated $7,000 in Ms. Lowdermill's home.
Agents reported buying cocaine from Ms. Lowdermill on May 17 and May 26. They were reportedly at her home making another deal just prior to the arrests. While she was in her living room negotiating with the agents, Flanigan was in a bedroom measuring a quantity of cocaine, a sheriff's report said.
Flanigan reportedly noticed backup officers in the area and tried to warn Ms. Lowdermill.
Stealey said he had nothing to do with the cocaine found in Ms. Lowdermill's home.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

FDLE Investigating Banks For Criminal Money Laundering

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Department of Law Enforcement is checking into some huge cash transactions in south Florida banks, where Comptroller Gerald Lewis says more than $600 million in questionable deposits have been made.

The comptroller's computers were put to work on large cash transactions under a new law, effective Oct. 1, intended to spot "laundering" of illegal profits of drug smugglers, gamblers and other criminal dealings that have large cash operations.

Since 1972, federal law has required banks to keep records of all cash transactions of more than $10,000. Under the new state law, the comptroller's office examines those federal reports.

Lewis said the law exempts grocery stores, department stores and other businesses with big cash flow. He said the new state law makes it more difficult for illegal profits to be "laundered" through banks.

Four Divers Rescued, One Dies

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Four scuba divers were rescued after drifting 86½ hours in the Gulf of Mexico atop their capsized boat, but one of the men, unable to reach his protective wet suit during the ordeal, died of exposure several hours later.

The men had survived four days on beer and a can of sardines. The Coast Guard cutter White Pine was on a navigational mission in the Gulf and happened onto them in dense fog through "a stroke of luck."

They were rescued at 4:50 a.m. Wednesday about 42 miles south of Panama City.

All four were experienced seamen, said Coast Guard spokesman Keith Spangler.

"Fortunately they were all in good health or we might have lost all of them," he said.

Turlington Questions Way Feds Rank Florida Schools

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Suggestions that Florida is spinning its wheels in its quest for educational excellence say more about how federal and state officials keep score than about the merits of Florida's schools, according to Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington.

Turlington conceded Wednesday that most findings in a federal "report card" on American schools released by U.S. Secretary of Education Terrel Bell are "probably close." He said Florida may be farther out of the top dozen states in overall education quality than it was when Gov. Bob Graham first set the goal of attaining to "upper quartile."

But until the states adopt similar ways of keeping track of school improvements, Turlington said, there is no way to determine accurate standings.

"Frankly, I think that the figures are generally probably close but probably understate what our effort is," Turlington said. "It is difficult to compare states but, that doesn't mean we shouldn't try."

"We should be able to look at ourselves and say where we've been, and where we are, and where we're going. That's the purpose of those measurements."

Bell's report Tuesday said Florida has improved on some criteria by which educational standing is judged, but the state has not generally increased its standing relative to other states.

There were some bright spots in the federal report. For example, Florida's ranking for student-teacher ratio improved from 38th in 1982 to 23rd in 1983.

But Florida declined in terms of teacher pay, spending per student and students achievement on standardized tests.

While the percentage of Florida high school students who graduated increased marginally from 65.4 percent in 1982 to 65.5 percent last year, Florida's national ranking regarding its graduation rate declined from 46th to 47th.

Other federal findings included: —In 1981, when its average salary was $15,563, Florida ranked 32nd in teacher pay. Although Florida teachers earned $18,275 on the average last year, the state's national ranking slumped to 35th.

—Florida increased its spending per pupil from $2,528 in 1982 to $2,680 in 1983 but the state's ranking fell from 31st to 33rd. It ranked 38th when per student spending is considered as a percentage of the state's per capita income.

—Florida's ranking among the 22 states that use the Scholastic Aptitude Test for college placement fell from ninth in 1982, when the average Florida score was 889, to 12th this year, when the average improved to 890.

Some teachers union representatives saw the report as an embarrassment for state leaders who have pledged to improve Florida's schools to rank among the top 12 in the nation.

Turlington attributed some elements of Florida's relative decline to efforts by other states to improve their own schools. The rest he attributed to the problems inherent in any comparison between states with sometimes vastly differing situations.

He noted that more black and Hispanic students took the Scholastic Aptitude Test in Florida this year than did last year. While those students did "dramatically" better on the college placement test this year than did their older brothers and sisters, Turlington said, as a group minorities didn't do as well as white students and their scores brought the state average down.

Accomplice Shows Up At Jail, Is Arrested

Pair Of Would-Be Thieves Nabbed

A Sanford man who claimed to be the brother of a woman nabbed near the scene of an attempted grocery store break-in has also been charged with attempted burglary after the woman reportedly told Sanford police he was her accomplice, not her brother.

Sanford police reported the man attempted to visit the woman at the police station shortly after her 1:25 a.m. arrest today. The woman is reported to be one of two suspects police saw fleeing from the rear of Robert's Grocery, 901 Locust Ave., Sanford. She was found hiding under a nearby vehicle, a police report said. A crowbar was found at the backdoor of the store and there were signs of attempted forced entry, the report said.

The man arrived at the police station at about 1:40 a.m. and told police he was Terrence Williams, the woman's brother. The woman told police the man is not her brother and she identified him as the other suspect being sought in the at-

Charged were Janice Olivia Mainor, 20, of 34 William Clark Court, and Terrence Kenneth Hill, 19, of 509 E. 4th St. Both were being held in lieu of $5,000 bond each.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
A thief who entered the Video Connection, Willa Springs Plaza, Red Bug Road, Casselberry, took a $500 video recorder early Wednesday.

Sheriff's deputy Hugh Thomas reported responding to an alarm at the store about 3 a.m. and found the building apparently secure. Upon further investigation, he determined the thief had entered the store next door, Larry's Ice Cream Shop, through a rear door and had knocked a hole in an interior wall leading to the video store.

Winter Springs police dogs followed a trail from the video store to 1484 Tuskawilla Road, a halfway house for juvenile offenders, a sheriff's report said. No arrest has been made and the VCR has not been recovered.

A $400 television and two stereo speakers with a combined value of $700 were taken by a thief who entered the home of Randy Justice, 25, of 337 Longwood Ave., Altamonte Springs, Monday. The burglar removed an air conditioner from a window to gain access the house, deputies reported.

IN THE ACT

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy charged a Forest City man with burglary and possession of burglary tools after answering an alarm and finding the suspect inside a Forest City business.

Deputy K.L. Crosler reported looking inside Thrifty Auto Parts, state Road 434, and spotting a man using numerous tool while attempting to force open an interior door. Crosler ordered the man to open the rear door of the building, which the suspect had secured from the inside, a sheriff's report said.

Crosler arrested the suspect at 1 a.m. Wednesday.

After the man was transported to the Seminole County Jail, Crosler reported finding a bag of marijuana in the backseat of his patrol car.

William Robert Harnish, 25 of Willow Avenue, was also charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana. He was being held in lieu of $10,500 bond.

DUI ARREST

The following person has been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Mark Alan Rogers, 20, of 206 Bennett St., Winter Springs, was arrested at 3:55 a.m. Tuesday as his car, which was traveling too fast for conditions, fishtailed as it turned from Hayes Road onto Bahama Road, Winter Springs, a police report said.

1984 Was Best Year Ever For Filmmaking In Florida

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Department of Commerce figures indicate Florida had a record year in filmmaking, with movies and video productions budgeted at $187.7 million this year.

"This has been the greatest year ever for making movies in Florida," Lt. Gov. Wayne Mixson, who heads the Commerce Department, said.

The $187.7 million spent by filmmakers was 27.7 percent increase from the $147.4 million the industry spent in Florida last year.

Florida ranks third, behind California and New York, in on-location film and video production spending. The head of the Commerce Department film office said a new sales tax break, exempting equipment and services used by the industry, was a major advantage for Florida productions.

Included in the theater, television and commercial shootings were such major productions as "Miami Vice," which was counted twice in the financial tabulation as a two-hour pilot film and then as a series production, and "Porky's Revenge," a soon-to-be-released third installment of the teen-exploitation series.

Major films shot partly in Florida included "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom."

Ben Harris, head of the motion picture division of the Commerce Department, said costs of union restrictions and local government taxes are driving productions out of California. He estimated the West Coast would lose $1.5 billion in filmmaking this year because of rising production costs.

"The production companies are still headquartered in California," said Harris. "But the union problems, permit requirements and basically the attitude of local government out there, plus the advantages of locations in other states, are moving some productions out."

Harris said music videos accounted for $7.19 million in Florida filming — still a small percentage, but almost three times the $2.5 million spent on music video production in the state in 1983.

Unfair Trade

Since 1981, successive Japanese governments have cut import tariffs and pledged to reduce other non-tariff barriers covering many hundreds of goods and services that Americans would like to sell in Japan. That would appear to have been a credible effort by the Japanese to reduce their own protectionism and practice the free trade they preach. Regrettably, these reforms have too often proved more apparent than real.

A little-noticed study prepared recently for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by the State Department, the Commerce Department and the U.S. Trade Representative's Office gives Japan low grades overall on opening its markets. "The five sets of market-opening measures adopted since December 1981 have improved foreign access to the Japanese market. However, significant barriers to trade remain in a number of sectors," the report noted.

More specifically, the report concluded that, despite the personal rapport between President Reagan and Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, little substantive progress has been made in negotiations to open Japan's markets in the fields of telecommunications and high technology. These are areas in which American companies are world leaders and, by rights, ought to be successful in competing with Japanese firms within Japan's own domestic markets.

Instead, the Japanese seem bent on protecting these markets as part of a strategy for challenging America's share of the international market for computers, software and other high-technology products.

Cigarettes are another example of a market in which American products could do very well but remain largely blocked by a myriad of restrictive trade practices by the Japanese. American companies estimate that they could readily capture 20 percent of the $10-billion-a-year market in Japan for cigarettes and related tobacco products. But the market share of U.S. companies has risen to only 2 percent from 1.4 percent prior to a reduction in Japanese tobacco tariffs.

The villain in Japan's tobacco market, as in so many others, is less tariffs than restrictive trade practices. Some of this is attributable to the Japanese government and some to private businesses and trade groups within Japan. The Japanese government maintains a seemingly endless list of certification standards every product must pass before being allowed into the country. And Japanese businessmen traditionally base their commercial relations on long years of friendship and association; a factor that leaves most foreigners out in the cold.

The United States' trade deficit with Japan is expected to reach a whopping $31 billion for 1984, up from $20 billion only three years ago. And the anticipated trade deficit for 1985 is $36 billion.

There is no economic dictum carved in stone that requires every nation to maintain a perfect balance in commerce with its trading partners. But very large, sustained imbalances over many years are undesirable on economic and political grounds.

Under Secretary of Commerce Lionel Olmer told a Senate Committee in October that the U.S. trade deficit with Japan is "structural, not cyclical." And Mr. Olmer went on to note that "even if all Japanese barriers to foreign sales and participation were (removed), the U.S. would probably run a deficit in our trade with Japan of ... about $15 billion to $20 billion."

If so, that still means that Japan's unfair trading policies are costing American corporations and workers up to $15 billion a year in lost export sales. If the United States and Japan are to avoid serious strains in geo-political partnership vital to both nations, Tokyo must do much, much more to make U.S.-Japanese trade a two-way street.

Grassroots Help Needed On Budget

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the greatest threat to Ronald Reagan's budget-cutting proposals next year is the failure to begin a coordinated, national, grass-roots coalition campaign for their enactment.

Even though the administration's budget proposals are still in their final crafting stages, the time for mapping a skillful, broad-based lobbying strategy that exploits Reagan's 1984 re-election mandate to the fullest is now — not after Inauguration Day.

Yet a survey of major organizations such as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Realtors, the National Association of Manufacturers and many others reveals no coordinated effort is being made to mount a full-court press drive on Capitol Hill in January.

Why this is so remains a mystery. Perhaps at no other time in our history have so many groups and associations of such diverse political backgrounds been more concerned with excessive federal spending.

Republicans and many Democrats — from

New Right to Boll Weevil to neo-liberal — are saying that the deficits are intolerable and that future spending must be brought into line with the government's revenues.

The Washington establishment — the Big Media, the Special Interest groups, and the Permanent Bureaucracy — insists that spending can't be cut without hurting the needy, slashing defense or sharply raising taxes.

True, there are substantial savings that can be made in defense spending by requiring more competitive bidding in the procurement process; ending the 20-year-and-out retirement system that pensions our military as early as age 38; withholding next year's cost-of-living pay increase; and consolidating unneeded bases and facilities, etc.

All this requires legislative action by Congress and would save billions without cutting into our military muscle.

But as readers of this column well know, there are hundreds of other places in the budget where further savings can be made without hurting the needy.

While the president finishes work on his budget, it would be useful if his chief strategists got out the press clips on their first, 1981 budget-cutting drive and reviewed what made it succeed.

That was the year that a variety of outside organizations teamed up with the White House and conducted an extraordinarily well-orchestrated lobbying campaign in the halls of Congress. It was so meticulously organized that wavering members were visited repeatedly in their Washington offices by key community leaders from their districts who urged support for the president's budget cuts.

The White House, with the help of a lot of dedicated Americans and grass-roots groups, won that battle by wrapping the spending issue into one omnibus budget package and one easily understood challenge: You were either for controlling runaway spending or against it.

Reagan can win the battle of the budget again next year, but he's going to need the help of another massive grass-roots campaign, like the one in 1981, to be successful.

DAR Puts Pedigrees To Work

By Al Rossiter Jr.
UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Taking advantage of the well-documented pedigrees of its 214,000 members, the Daughters of the American Revolution has started a study aimed at uncovering previously unknown genetic links to a variety of health problems.

The organization, made up of women whose ancestors fought in the revolution, calls on each member to complete a chart showing known health problems for three generations of her family tree. The survey may be expanded to include her children or grandchildren for a total of five generations.

The completed information charts are to be mailed directly to the Vanderbilt University Medical Center, where the data will be entered into computers and screened for unusual or consistent disorders that may be hereditary.

Dr. John Phillips III, director of the Vanderbilt division of genetics, is overseeing the project and said the study should provide a unique look at a medical problems of at least three generations of a large cross-section of the American population.

"The reason you can do it with this organization and can't with other people is that they have all the genealogical data," he said in an interview. "We would hope we would learn some new genetic disorders."

More than 3,000 disorders occurring in humans are already known to have inherited links.

"Not only do we know 'from whence we came,' it is becoming clear to our members that, at least genetically, the past may well predict the future," said Sarah M. King, the DAR president-general.

Any suspicious health problems in families will be investigated and family members determined to be at risk of developing or transmitting a genetic disorder will be referred to local genetic centers for counseling and possible treatment.

"The purpose of this project is at once practical and altruistic," King said.

"Initially it will facilitate early detection and possible prevention of genetically transmitted diseases within specific DAR families, but more important, the valuable scientific information gained from this project eventually could benefit other families and future generations."

Beer Parties At EPA Headquarters

WASHINGTON — The nationwide crusade against drunk driving has given "happy hour" a bad name — but not at the Environmental Protection Agency. Every Friday at 4 p.m., employees of the Office of Pesticide Programs gather in an 11th floor conference room to quaff a little beer — even though federal regulations forbid the routine guzzling of alcoholic beverages in government office buildings.

The beer busts are the inspiration of Steve Schatzow, who was transferred from a water division to pesticides last June. Schatzow acknowledged that the Friday beer parties violated government rules, but defended them as morale builders and an opportunity for employees and bosses to exchange ideas.

"It's a tradition," he said. "We used to do it in my old office. It is not mandatory. If they don't like it, they don't have to come." He added that he had never seen anyone leave drunk.

JEFFREY HART

GOP's Wilderness

There is every indication now, with the selection of Sen. Robert Dole as the Senate Majority Leader to succeed Howard Baker, that the Republican Party in the Senate is preparing to return to the political wilderness. Republicans like Dole have resided there since 1932, apparently happy with their political minority status. From time to time they glimpse open country, courtesy of some larger-than-life national figure, who is something more than just an orthodox Republican: Dwight Eisenhower, or Ronald Reagan.

Both Eisenhower and Reagan showed a spectacular ability to attract voters used to supporting Democrats — Eisenhower because he was a national and even global hero, and Reagan because he offers to re-define Republicanism. Reagan offered tax cuts and a vision of an expanding economic future. He also recognized the necessity of appealing to socially conservative Democrats, including, yes, even Southerners and the Rev. Jerry Falwell. Putting together an overwhelming coalition, Reagan rolled up a 49 state victory. The Doles of the Republican Party want no part of this kind of political success, and probably do not even comprehend it.

During the recent presidential election, Dole harped on the federal deficit — which was a principal Mondale campaign theme. To be sure, the task of liberal Republicans during their years in the New Deal era political wilderness was to appear cooperative with the dominant liberal Democratic Party. They were being "responsible." And, even as a minority, certain perquisites were reserved for them. And now Dole is majority leader, and he will get a good liberal press for carrying Democratic water and cutting Democratic logs. Dole will have "grown" in "stature."

Sen. Dole desires a tax increase, just as would have a victorious Walter Mondale. It does not seem to have dawned on him that a) the deficit is a relatively small percentage of the Gross National Product; b) in terms of Gross National Product represents one of the lowest in the industrial world; and c) constitutes a potent piece of leverage for the reduction of the liberal spending programs. Dole, who doesn't pay much attention to the national election returns, will do his best to save those liberal programs.

If the Doles of the Republican Party control its destiny, it surely deserves to retire to minority status, and get used to losing national elections.

As Rep. Jack Kemp and other supply-side "populist" Republicans put it, Dole-style Republicans stand for "root-canal" economics — suffer now, and probably suffer later. They represent the Washington establishment. They lack the expansive optimism that is the glue for any national coalition. Dole can always move into Herbert Hoover's old suite at the Waldorf-Astoria.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Politics' Endless Cycle

One election ends and another election campaign begins. That's the way of politics in the United States in the late 20th century.

The American people are tired of endless campaigns, but there is no way to avoid them. As Walter Mondale said in his concession speech, the political process continues. So it does.

President Reagan enjoyed a landslide victory at the polls, but the much-discussed political realignment didn't take place at the congressional level. Conservative forces will continue to control the United States Senate in the next two years but only by a narrow margin. This means that the 1986 congressional elections loom as an immensely important battle. The various contests will begin immediately.

In Washington, the political analysts are pointing to the major electoral contests that will take place in 1986. They note, for example, that many of the conservative senators who came in with the 1980 Reagan tide will be up for re-election, including East of North Carolina, Denton of Alabama, Quayle of Indiana, and Hawkins of Florida. A number of key Senate liberals also will be facing the voters, including Hollings of South Carolina, Hart of Colorado, and Cranston of California.

The basic questions of public philosophy will be addressed all over again in 1986.

It will be constructive to observe the maneuvers of the incumbent liberals in the next session of Congress. Will they read the 1984 election returns in such a way as to move them in the direction of a centrist position? Or will they move to the left? It's too early to tell, of course, what will be the overall pattern. However, one can be sure that the radical fringe will be represented in the Senate by the newly elected Sen. Harkins of Iowa, Kerry of Massachusetts, and Simon of Illinois. They can be counted upon, on the basis of their records and campaign pronouncements, to continue the struggle against a strong national security policy.

The old New Deal Coalition may be dealt as an effective force in presidential campaigns, but the liberal-left groups are still alive and may have greater influence in state campaigns.

cooperate. "The problem is, should I be a team player or not?" explained one boss.

The hosts sometimes have to shell out as much as $20 or $30 from their own pockets, when there aren't enough beers, peanuts and other snacks to go around. Though each party-goer pays $2, "some people drink more beer than others," said one official.

The parties have made smugglers out of secretaries in the pesticides office, as their bosses assign them to buy the beer on their lunch hours. Since only 20 or 30 regulars attend the parties out of the 600 employees in the office, a couple of cases of beer usually suffice.

But sneaking that much beer past the building guards can pose problems. Usually it's done a six-pack at a time under a secretary's raincoat — or through lightly guarded basement corridors.

Pesticide personnel have also come up with ingenious ways to promote the affairs. The Exposure Assessment Branch recently passed out a flyer that read, "Expose yourself to a good time." Depicted on the flyer was a cartoon of a "flasher" opening his raincoat in front of two co-workers.

There is also, of course, the problem that not all those who attend the parties are off work when the three-hour affairs begin at 4 p.m. One boss recalled an occasion when he had to track down a colleague and drag him from the party to get some needed information.

"It is a strange way to do business," the official said. "I would hate to explain to my kinfolk that this is how their tax money is being spent" — a reference to those who drink beer on government time.

And even the purpose of the beer parties — morale boosting — may not be served. As one reluctant party-goer said, "Most people just want to get home after work on a Friday evening."

Bad Heart? Eat Garlic

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Garlic may be bad for the breath but good for the heart. Eric Block, a chemistry professor at State University of New York, says a team of scientists has found the herb contains a chemical compound known as ajoene.

Ajoene, from the Spanish word for garlic, was developed this fall in labs on the Albany campus.

Although it will take years to prove its medical value, Block says the compound may be useful as a blood thinner.

Blood thinners, or anti-coagulants, are useful in treating heart disease and numerous circulatory ailments, including phlebitis, arterial sclerosis and blood clots, which can often cause strokes and heart attacks.

The Bard Censored

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Virginia educators, after learning a publisher cut bawdy passages from a Shakespeare text, are now wondering if more school books have been censored.

Dr. S. John Davis, superintendent of public instruction, said other textbook publishers will be surveyed to learn if they have censored material.

The cuts in the text of the Shakespeare classics "Macbeth," "Hamlet" and "Romeo and Juliet" were spotted by a Fairfax County teacher in "England in Literature," a textbook published by Scott, Foresman and Co.

The publisher did not note the cuts in the textbook.

Board of Education member Margaret Marston suspects the publishers deleted the sections because of pressure groups opposed to sexual overtones in school books.

United Way Giving Tops $2 Billion, But Tax Reform May Curb Generosity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans gave more than $2 billion to their local United Way drives this year, according to officials of the charity organization, but that generosity could be crippled by current proposals for tax reform.

Robert Beck, chairman and chief executive officer of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America who serves as United Way of America's volunteer chairman, said the 2,200 local United Ways received $2.1 billion in this fall's campaign — the first time in history giving has topped the $2 billion mark.

The $195 million increase represented 10 percent more than in 1983.

But Beck said that Treasury Department tax reform proposals, which would eliminate the charitable deduction for many taxpayers, would "cripple" the volunteer organization's ability to raise funds and deliver critical human services.

A similar warning was voiced by Brian O'Connell, president of Independent Sector, who labeled Treasury Secretary Donald Regan a "Scrooge."

"In an administration that prods us to be a caring and generous society, its Treasury Department says 'humbug,'" O'Connell said.

Beck said the charitable deduction that the Treasury Department wants to limit in its proposal to reform and simplify the tax code "is not a loophole; it is a gift, to help others."

"If the Treasury plan becomes law, contributions to United Ways could drop by as much as 10 percent," he said.

Overall, Independent Sector estimates that between $9.8 billion and $12 billion would be lost to non-profit organizations.

"Even if one were to go with Treasury's lower estimate, $9.8 billion still goes an awfully long way in this non-profit sector," O'Connell said.

A study done for Independent Sector indicates that different charities would be affected differently if the tax reform proposal becomes law.

According to the study, religion, which receives the bulk of individual donations and currently accounts for $43.8 billion of the $59.5 billion donated annually, would lose 18 percent.

Other segments of the nonprofit sector would lose even more, according to the study, including a 27 percent drop in gifts to higher education, a 24 percent drop in donations to various combined appeals, a 24 percent drop in giving to medical causes and a 25 percent drop in giving to cultural activities.

Seminole Needs A Big Push For A Great Little Lady

Funny, but it's easy sometimes to overlook boosters. Physically, they can be loud and visible at games. That's when they stick out. But that's only once or twice a week.

The real boosters do more important things behind the scenes. They organize. They set up the concession stand. They attend meetings after meetings. They write letters encouraging others to join. They sell advertisements for the program.

It's the little, unnoticed things that make a school's booster club go. But the good boosters do more than that. When that worker doesn't show up, they work the concession stand. When the letters don't work, they go door-to-door and solicit memberships. When the businessman doesn't come through with the money, they reach into their own pocket and make up the deficit.

Marie Cushing was one of those boosters. This fine little lady wrote those letters, worked that concession stand, reached into her purse for money and was about the most positive influence possible on Seminole High School's Booster Club.

"She was really a neat lady," said Seminole Principal Wayne Epps. "First class all the way and a real positive person. She saw the best in everybody."

Yes, Marie was the epitome of the word booster. No one could be down or have a frown around Marie. She wouldn't let you. And believe me, the Seminole Booster Club has gone through some depressing times during the past few years. Ask Rose Futrell as she stares at the empty seats during the monthly meetings.

But Marie didn't complain. After all, she was there to boost. And boost she did, even while raising two of the finest kids you'll ever meet. Mike, a senior, was a wide receiver on the Seminole football team. Linda, a junior, is one of Seminole's great cheerleaders. Both are brilliant students and the kind of kids you'd like to call your own.

Bob, Marie's husband, is a former booster board member. This year he took over for Harry Unsworth as the main hamburger flipper at that famous stand which greets you as you wander into football games.

During the past few years, Marie had a bigger battle than trying to wipe out the apathy that afflicts past and potential Seminole sports fans. She had a bigger fight than running down people to work the concession stand. She had a bigger problem than writing letters and buying stamps or reaching deep for money to buy advertising.

She had cancer. A little over a month ago, Marie's biggest battle began to get to even this stout-hearted lady. She had to resign her position as vice-president of the Seminole Booster Club. She had to resign a position that meant very much to her — even though she never got the cooperation she deserved.

I'll never forget last Saturday morning, Frank Voltoline, who works in the back shop here at the Herald, came walking into the newsroom. It was early. There was just the two of us and Frank, a close friend of the Cushings, didn't look too well.

It was then that he told me Marie Cushing had lost her biggest battle. At age 46, cancer took this brave little lady away from her family and school and kids that she loved so much.

I was running late. I didn't have time to think about Marie Cushing. But I made time. I had to make time for this little lady who worked so hard and strived to make the Seminole boosters something good and great.

Sadly, Marie didn't get to reach her goal. Apathy still haunts the past and potential Seminole boosters. But the Marie Cushing story isn't over. It's time for you to do for Marie's death what she tried to do in life.

Sanford has a unique situation among high schools. It has a high school which is its own. It doesn't have a cross-section of students coming from other towns. Sanford is Seminole and Seminole is Sanford.

It's time for them to become one in more than just local. The Seminole Booster Club needs a boost. It needs members. To join, just call the high school (322-4352) and tell it you want to give a boost for Marie.

And next year, when that first kickoff is tumbling down, Marie Cushing will look down and smile. That will be worth the price of membership right there. Give this fine lady now what you didn't give her then. She's worth it.

Hawks Unveil 'Break,' Oppose Tribe Tonight

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

In their past three games before the Oviedo Outlook Tournament, all losses, Lake Howell's Silver Hawks had problems making their outside shots. It was no different in their first round game in the tournament. The Hawks had a miserable first half from the floor in which they fell behind Mount Dora, 22-18.

Although the shooting problems had them down, the Silver Hawks were not out. Lake Howell unveiled a devastating fastbreak in the second half Wednesday night en route to a 53-43 victory over Mount Dora at Seminole Community College.

Hayward Beasley provided the offensive punch inside that the Hawks lacked in their three losses as the senior forward pumped in all 12 of his points in the second half. Beasley also ripped down a game-high 14 rebounds, a number coming off the offensive glass.

"He (Beasley) was the key for us," Lake Howell coach Greg Robinson said. "He really got on the boards in the second half. We're going to need that from him every night."

Robinson will look for another strong game from Beasley tonight when Lake Howell, which stands at 5-3 for the season, goes up against one of the tournament favorites, Sanford Seminole, at 4:30.

"Seminole will be tough for us," continued Robinson, whose Hawks have won five of eight games. "They're coming off a big win. I hope we can handle their quickness and press."

Senior guard Efreem Brooks also turned in a solid second half performance as he poured in 18 of his game-high 22 points. Senior point guard Scott An-

Vicky "Spuffy" Pakovic scored 10 minutes into the game and Sherri Rumler added an insurance goal late in the second half as Sanford's Fighting Lady Seminoles upended Trinity Prep's Lady Saints, 2-0, Wednesday in the opening round of the Burger King Classic Girls Soccer Tournament at Lake Mary High.

While Pakovic and Rumler provided the scoring, Seminole's goalkeepers (Rumler in the first half and Kim Walsh in the second) combined for 20 saves to frustrate the Lady Saints.

Seminole, which upped its record to 4-0-2 for the season, faces a tough task today at 2 when it goes up against Gainesville Buchholz.

"The girls really wanted it and worked well together," Seminole coach Suzy Reno said. "Angela Freeman and Cindy Bengel did an outstanding job on defense and Rumler and Walsh did really well in the goal. We've got a tough one tomorrow (Buchholz) but so far we have been able to play up to par for the big games." Pakovic, who leads Seminole County's girls with 20 points, gave the Lady Seminoles a 1-0 lead at the 10-minute mark in the first half when she scored on an assist from Janet Hauck. Pakovic, a sophomore, has scored five goals in the last two games.

Most of the rest of the first half was played in Seminole territory as Trinity threatened a number of times but couldn't crack the Tribe's tough defense. Sophomore midfielder Katie Sams put a number of nice passes in front of the goal but the Lady Saints' forwards couldn't convert any of them into scores.

Rumler had seven saves in the first half as Seminole hung on to a 1-0 lead going into the second 40 minutes.

Rumler switched from goalkeeper to forward for the second half and she continually put pressure on Trinity's keeper, Leah Ferris. Rumler's first chance to increase Seminole's lead came with 11:40 left in the game when she broke loose for a one on one with Ferris. But Ferris made a nice diving save going to her left to keep the score at 1-0.

Rumler came back with another one on one situation with 8:25 left but again Ferris turned the Seminole sophomore away.

Trinity then came back with its biggest threat of the game when Sams placed a nice pass to Brooks McGorlick breaking toward the goal. McGorlick had just the goalkeeper to beat but Walsh stopped the shot to keep Seminole's lead intact. Walsh came up with 13 saves in the second half.

Seminole then sealed the victory with 5:27 left to play when Rumler scored on an assist from Bengel to make it 2-0. That goal demoralized Trinity as the Lady Saints never threatened again.

VERO BEACH TOPS HAWKS

In Wednesday's second game, Judy Pickel pumped in three goals to boost Vero Beach to a 4-0 shutout of Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks.

Vero Beach took a 1-0 lead three minutes into the game on Michelle Murphy's goal. Pickel's first goal gave Vero Beach a 2-0 lead 17 minutes into the game. Pickel added a pair of goals in the second half to put the game on ice for Vero Beach.

Vero Beach put pressure on Lake Howell's goalkeeper all game long with 32 shots on goal compared to just three for the Lady Hawks. Lake Howell keeper Darcy Misiak had an outstanding game with 17 saves.

LADY RAMS WHIPLUTHER

Lake Mary's Lady Rams scored four times in the first half and tacked on five more in the second en route to a 9-0 thrashing of Luther's Lady Crusaders in Wednesday's nightcap.

Brooke Taylor led the devastating Lake Mary attack with two goals and an assist while Jodi Gall, Amy Fluett and Vickie Warner added one goal and one assist apiece.

Fran Gordon, Kelley Broen, Maria Casella and Michele Padilla also added goals for the Lady Rams.

Lake Mary took 37 shots on goal for the game compared to just three for the Crusaders. Luther goalkeeper Dawn Pastorius came up with 17 saves. Laura Hellegaard had to make just three saves, only one of which was a serious threat, for Lake Mary.

Moghaddam, 2 Rams Head County's Best

Lake Mary's Andre Sanders and Jerry Meyers are tied with Lake Brantley's Mo Moghaddam with 14 points apiece in the first Seminole County Soccer Scoring Leaders released Wednesday.

Sanders, Meyers and Moghaddam each have six goals and two assists. Two points are given for a goal and one for an assist to determine the point total. Lyman's Brian Oseack and Lake Brantley's Ricky Williams are next with 10 points. Lyman's Keith Young, who leads the county with seven assists, is next with nine points.

For the girls, Seminole's Vicky "Spuffy" Pakovic has a one-point edge over Lake Mary Jodi Gall. Pakovic has eight goals and four assists while Gall has eight and three.

Peterson: McDowell Offered Position As UCF Coach

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

University of Central Florida athletic director Bill Peterson said Thursday morning that the head football coaching position would be offered to Gene McDowell, Florida State University assistant coach. McDowell was expected to accept and be at UCF for a 2 p.m. press conference.

"McDowell is our man, if he wants it," said Peterson about the choice. "Gene has had experience with the type of situation we're in. He understands the economics and he'll do a good job."

McDowell, practicing with the Seminoles at Orlando Evans High this morning, was unavailable for comment. Florida State plays Georgia in Saturday's Citrus Bowl game.

Although McDowell was offered the job at 11:30 a.m. by Peterson and UCF President Trevor Colbourn, it was no secret that the president and athletic director were leaning toward interim coach Jerry Anderson, who took over when Lou Saban resigned after the seventh game. Anderson went 1-3 for the final four games but did engineer an upset over Illinois State.

Colbourn had hoped to name Anderson shortly after the season but when pressured by several boosters, he turned to a national search committee. The committee received applications from 102 coaches and the list was eventually pared to four, including Anderson, Georgia Tech assistant coach Dwain Painter and Tennessee assistant coach Billy Shaw.

Sparse Turnout At Barnett Park

With Christmas coming up, it was a very small weekend at Gordon Barnett Park. Out of the turnout, only 13 Seminole County riders participated. Here's the results.

Seven expert Jay Staley brought home a first place in the 7-expert class. Jay also raced the 10-11 open class. Although Jay is only seven, he gave the older boys a run for their money. Staley was beating three boys for a second place, but an accident occurred and he could only place fourth.

Next weekend Jay will be taking off for Alabama to compete in the NBL National being held December 29-30. Good luck, Jay.

Brothers Dusty and Shawn Cummins had their night of mishaps Saturday. Fourteen-expert Shawn fell twice during practice and hurt himself. So he decided not to race.

Dusty, who races in the 8-expert class, raced his first race, but didn't feel well after that. So he didn't finish his racing either.

Tim Fink raced in the 9-10 novice-expert combined class, and placed first.

Twelve novice Craig Bowles placed first in his class Saturday night.

Second place in the 13-novice class, went to Scott Lucia, of Lake Mary.

Fifteen-expert John Poole placed fourth Saturday night.

Seventeen-cruiser Mark Koch and 14-novice Jason Hefington were first-place winners Saturday while Susan Koch, an 11-girls participant, placed second along with David Sanborn, an 11-expert competitor.

John Poole, 15-expert, and Andy Doering, 13-novice, each placed fourth. J.P. Adams, 13-novice, finished eighth. Merry Christmas.

kids came ready to play and they got their confidence back."

Lake Howell erased the halftime deficit early in the third quarter and it stayed a close game until late in the quarter when the Hawks started to pull away. With the score tied at 26-26, Lake Howell reeled off six straight points, four by Beasley, to take a 32-26 lead with 2:33 left in the quarter.

Kelly Sanders swished in a jumper to bring Mount Dora within 32-28, but Lake Howell went on to score seven straight points to take an 11-point lead, 39-28, at the end of the quarter. Brooks scored six straight points at the end of the period, including a jumper with one second left.

OVIEDO MAULS LUTHER

Four players scored in double figures Wednesday as Oviedo's Lions, the host team of the tournament, demolished Orlando Luther's Crusaders, 80-48.

Allen Unroe led the way for Oviedo with 16 points and 10 rebounds while James Stewart added 14 pints and eight boards. Rob Hughes tossed in 13 points and Terry Campbell came off the bench to hit 10 points. Bernell Simmons contributed eight points and eight assists.

Scott Jones led Luther with a game-high 17 points while Darryl Reifford added 11 and Vince Florence chipped in 10 and grabbed seven rebounds. Both Reifford and Florence are Altamonte Springs residents.

The Lions, who led 14-9 after the first quarter, outscored Luther, 28-18, in the second quarter to take a 42-27 halftime lead. Luther scored the first point of the second quarter to pull with 14-10, but the Lions roared back with six straight points, four by Stewart, to take a 20-10 lead with 6:11 left in the half.

Luther came back within six, 22-16, as Reifford's connected on four free throws, but Oviedo came back with six more points to take a 28-16 lead. The Crusaders got no closer than 10 points the rest of the game.

EDGEWATER TOPS LYMAN

Darrius Gallagher may have detained the Edgewater bus for five minutes but he didn't hesitate to hurry up the Eagles' attack Wednesday night against Lyman in the first round of the Oviedo Outlook Christmas Tournament.

Kept from the starting lineup for his tardiness by coach John Edwards. Gallagher made up for lost time when he did hit the floor, igniting an Edgewater fastbreak with 14 points as the Eagles toppled Lyman, 66-52, at Seminole Community College.

The 5-8 lefty, brother of former Edgewater and SCC standout David, continually penetrated the Lyman defense to points or passed off to teammates for easy scores as the Eagles erased a 4-0 Lyman lead and never looked back.

Edgewater's victory moves it into tonight's quarterfinal game against Lake Mary. "I know they'll be tough," said Edwards, who is in his second year as Edgewater coach. "They have a 6-2 guard (Darryl Merthie) who is real tough. We're looking for a very tough game."

Edgewater improved to 7-0 with Wednesday's victory. Lyman lost for the sixth straight time after winning its opener against Oviedo. Lyman plays the loser of the winner of the Mount Dora-Luther game on Saturday at 4:30 p.m.

After Lyman took an 8-6 lead on two baskets by 6-4 Ralph Philpott, Edgewater ran off eight straight points for a 14-8 lead. After a bucket by Brett Marshall, who led Lyman with 18 points, the Eagles outscored the Greyhounds, 6-2, to take a 20-12 first quarter lead.

The closest Lyman could creep in the final quarter was 12 points. T.J. Scaletta and Philpott each had 10 points and sophomore Robert Thomas had five assists. — Sam Cook

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Cubs Tired Of Dark Side, Sue For Lights At Wrigley

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs filed suit Wednesday seeking to overturn laws that prohibit night baseball at Wrigley Field — the only major-league ballpark in the country without lights.

The suit, filed against the City of Chicago and Gov. James Thompson, seeks a permanent injunction against enforcement of laws that block night baseball at the ballpark, built in 1916.

The Cook County Circuit Court suit says if the laws are enforced, the Cubs may be forced to play designated home games and championship games someplace other than Wrigley Field.

The Cubs gave up an extra home team game during the National League playoffs in 1984 in order to play day games.

Gators Emphasize Complaints

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — The University of Florida has emphasized its complaints about the severity of NCAA probation against the Gator football team in a 40-page supplement to the university's appeal of the sanctions.

The supplement, released Wednesday from university President Marshall Criser's office, argues the football program should serve only one year of NCAA probation and should not be subject to an overall scholarship cap.

The NCAA placed the school on two-year probation, barring the Gators from bowl games or live television, after it found the school violated association recruiting rules and improperly provided players with money, trips and other perquisites. The probation includes a reduction of 10 scholarships a year and an overall limit of 85 scholarships next year and 75 the year after.

Criser said the probation is unreasonably harsh and falls to reward the university for acting quickly to clean its house, by firing head coach Charley Pell and two assistant coaches, after the violations were revealed.

Lake Brantley took a 18-11 halftime lead and outscored the Grenadiers, 16-8, in the third quarter to take a 34-19 lead into the fourth.

Kirsten Dellinger led Lake Brantley with a game-high 12 points, Michelle Brown added nine and Ashley Thomas contributed seven.

DePaul Doesn't Measure Up, Tumbles To Western Michigan

United Press International
If the measure of a team is how it responds after a tough loss, DePaul was an extraordinary failure Wednesday night.

In the biggest upset so far this season, Western Michigan rocked the No. 5 Blue Demons 85-64 in Kalamazoo, Mich., winning on two foul shots by Pete Hansen with 16 seconds left.

This was the first game for DePaul since it was dissected 77-57 by No. 1 Georgetown last weekend on national television.

This time the Blue Demons did not have to worry about Patrick Ewing and a smothering, trapping defense that produced an NCAA title last year. John Thompson, the formidable Hoya coach, was nowhere in sight.

Western Michigan, expected to go nowhere this season in the Mid-America Conference, is of more modest stuff. The Broncos went 4-22 last season and 5-23 the year before.

"Western Michigan came out with great intensity and deserved to win," DePaul Coach Joey Meyer said. "Do not take anything away from Western. We have no excuses. They outplayed us."

The Broncos went up 61-58 on a basket by Hansen. DePaul moved on top 64-63 but with less than 30 seconds left Hansen was fouled by Marty Embry and hit both ends of the 1-and-1.

Western Michigan, 4-3, was led by Donald Petties with 17 points. Booker James added

College Basketball

10 points and Hansen and Steven Amundson 8 apiece.

Tyrone Corbin had 19 points on 7-of-9 shooting for DePaul, 6-2. Tony Jackson and Kenny Patterson added 11 apiece.

"After the first five minutes, we found out an effective game plan we could play with them and keep it close," Western Coach Vernon Payne said. "The more the game went, our confidence grew and I think DePaul pressed as the game went on."

Elsewhere, No. 1 Georgetown routed Morgan State 89-62; No. 2 Duke dropped Northwestern 78-55; No. 6 Southern Methodist hammered North Texas State 90-45; and No. 17 North Carolina State downed St. Francis (Pa.) 82-64.

At Landover, Md., Bill Martin's 22 points and 14 rebounds helped Georgetown, 8-0, in a laugher. Patrick Ewing did not play for the Hoyas because of a slightly sprained hand. Morgan State, 0-9, started five freshmen.

"I still do not think we are playing as good as people say we are," Georgetown Coach John Thompson said. "We have to execute a little better than we did tonight."

At Rosemont, Ill., Mark Alarie scored 19 points and Johnny Dawkins 18 as Duke raised its record to 7-0. The Blue Devils shot 78 percent in the first half to lead 36-19. Elliot Fullen had 15 points for Northwestern.

"I told my kids if they won, I'd give them the cookies, but if Digger Phelps knew about it, he'd probably turn me in," said Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski, referring to the Notre Dame coach who has charged that many schools violate NCAA rules.

At Dallas, Southern Methodist, 8-0, matched the best start in the 68-year history of its basketball team. The 45-point victory margin was the second largest for SMU. Carl Wright and Larry Davis had 17 points each for the Mustangs.

At Raleigh, N.C., Lorenzo Charles and freshman Chris Washburn scored 18 points for N.C. State, 5-1. It was the Wolfpack's first game since losing to Georgia Tech.

"The loss to Georgia Tech took an emotional toll," N.C. State Coach Jim Valvano said. "It's going to take us some time to build back up. We didn't have a good effort."

Cummings, Bucks End Boston's Streak At 17

United Press International

The Celtics had utilized their splendid fast break to run 17 straight teams out of Boston Garden. So the Milwaukee Bucks did the logical thing, putting their brakes to the parquet floor.

Terry Cummings scored 29 points and Sidney Moncrief added 23 Wednesday night, helping to snap the Celtics' 17-game home unbeaten streak with a 107-92 victory. Milwaukee utilized a slow-down offense and a defense which double-teamed the big men, challenging Boston to shoot well from the outside.

"The key for us was to not get disgusted when the crowd wanted the pace to pick up," said Bucks Coach Don Nelson, who for years filled the important role of sixth man for the Celtics. "We were mentally prepared to go with our game plan. Even if we fell behind by 15 points, we were going to stick with it because it's a solid plan."

The plan produced the Celtics first home loss since March 23, 1984 when they were beaten by New Jersey. The streak included 11 straight victories this season.

"We prepared well for the Celtics tonight," said Bucks center Paul Mokeski. "We stuck Elsewhere in the NBA, Philadelphia downed San Antonio 123-118. New Jersey dumped Washington 115-92, the Los Angeles Lakers defeated Houston 123-116. Detroit dropped Denver 148-129 and the Los Angeles Clippers dethroned Seattle 91-86.

Wild-Card Entrants Falter

Dickerson Breaks Away With UPI Player Of Year

United Press International

A full head of steam is usually needed to make the NFL playoffs, but this year that method has gone the way of the pot-bellied stove.

The four wild-card entrants that begin the race for the Super Bowl this weekend have a combined 2-6 record over the last two weeks. Seattle and the New York Giants have lost two straight and both the Los Angeles Raiders and Rams enter the playoffs losers in their regular-season finales.

The Giants, who visit the Rams Sunday (3:30 p.m. EST), have spent the week fending off criticism they have backed into the playoffs after a lackluster 10-3 loss to New Orleans. But, quite frankly, New York inside linebacker Harry Carson doesn't care how his club got in.

"Hey, you gotta get through the door somehow," Carson said. "You jump in, you climb in, you come through the window... the thing about it is, you get in."

The Giants got little done against the Rams in Anaheim 12 weeks ago. They permitted a punt return for a TD, allowed three safeties in the third quarter, missed two extra points and had eight — count 'em eight — yards rushing in a 33-12 debacle.

Los Angeles coach John Robinson, however, insisted his team won't be overconfident.

"The opponent doesn't matter," he said. "In the playoffs, the incentive is to try to win. If you could get Joe's Butcher Shop, you'd get up for the game."

New York has had trouble stopping one-back offenses this year and will have to face the league's best running back from that formation in Eric Dickerson, who set the NFL all-time single season rushing record with 2,105 yards this year.

After eight straight wins, the Seahawks, who host the Raiders Saturday (4 p.m. EST), have lost their last two games in which their special teams have been playing anything but special.

"We haven't done much special teams-wise the last few weeks," said Seattle coach Chuck Knox. "We haven't been getting the plays."

RAM RUNNING BACK REPEATS AWARD

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Eric Dickerson, a breakout runner, is also a breakout winner.

Dickerson, who broke O.J. Simpson's single-season rushing record with 2,105 yards, Wednesday was named UPI's NFC Player of the Year for the second straight time.

The Los Angeles Rams' All-Pro, who set the rookie rushing mark last season with 1,808 yards, was the overwhelming choice for the award. He received 51 of 56 votes from a panel of two writers from each NFL city.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israel May Not Continued Deadlocked Troop Pullout Talks

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Lebanese army today moved into the northern city of Tripoli with the approval of local Moslem militias, but fought other militias opposed to their deployment along a key coastal road to the south.

Military sources said troops loyal to Christian President Amin Gemayel fought the Druze militias of Cabinet minister Walid Jumblatt on the hills overlooking Beirut.

Lebanese and Israeli military officials, meanwhile, met for the 11th time today at the Lebanese city of Naqoura to discuss the withdrawal of an estimated 10,000 Israeli troops from southern Lebanon amid reports Israel would not resume the talks as scheduled Jan. 7.

State-run Israeli television reported Wednesday that the talks today "will be the last. There will be no further meetings." The Jerusalem Post had a similar report.

The talks, which began Nov. 8, have been deadlocked, with Israel demanding its surrogate militia be allowed to patrol southern Lebanon after its pullout and Lebanon insisting its army be entrusted with security in the area.

Hong Kong Returning To China

HONG KONG (UPI) — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher arrived in Hong Kong today to reassure its 5.5 million people that China will not restrict their freedom after taking back the colony in 1997.

Thatcher's Royal Air Force VC-10 jetliner landed at Kai Tak airport from Peking a day after she and Chinese Premier Zhao Ziyang signed the historic agreement that will place the world's third largest financial center under communist control.

The accord, which takes effect on July 1, 1997, when Britain's 99-year lease on most of the territory expires, will end almost 150 years of British colonial rule.

Gorbachev: No Preconditions For U.S.-Russian Arms Talks

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Politburo member Mikhail Gorbachev assured British politicians that Moscow had no preconditions for next month's preliminary arms talks with Washington, despite the Kremlin's demands for a space weapons ban.

Gorbachev, seen as the heir apparent to Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko, made his remarks Wednesday on the fifth day of his weeklong visit to Britain as head of a Soviet delegation of legislators.

The 53-year-old Politburo member, whose genial public manner and stylish wife Raisa have drawn pages of favorable comment in Britain's press, was scheduled to visit a car factory in central England today and hold talks with officials on Anglo-Soviet trade.

Gorbachev's trip is being closely watched for signals of Moscow's intentions in next month's meeting between Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Geneva, aimed at resuming arms control negotiations between the superpowers.

"We attach great importance to the demilitarization of outer space," Gorbachev told opposition Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock, reiterating the Soviet position linking progress on arms control with a space weapons ban.

"We wish to stress that at the current moment and current stage the problems of demilitarization of outer space has acquired a special significance," he said, but added "we do not include this question as a preliminary condition and we have no preliminary conditions whatsoever."

In Washington, meanwhile, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the United States would continue to develop President Reagan's proposed "Star Wars" anti-missile system despite Soviet objections.

Evgeni Velikhov, vice president of the Soviet academy of Science travelling with Gorbachev, had said Tuesday that U.S. plans to test anti-satellite weapons in March would make arms talks impossible beyond that date.

Kinnock, along with Liberal leader David Steel and Social Democratic Party chief David Owen who met with Gorbachev, have declared their opposition to the "Star Wars" project and urged Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to press this view on Reagan when they meet Saturday in the United States.

Soviets Developing New Copter

LONDON (UPI) — The authoritative Jane's All the World's Aircraft said in its latest edition today that the Soviet Union was developing the world's first helicopter designed to fight other choppers.

The annual catalogue also said Warsaw Pact air forces had an advantage over their Western counterparts because the Soviet Union allowed its designers and engineers to build the best aircraft they were capable of producing.

"The West builds only what its government economists say it can afford," the catalogue said.

It said the new Soviet helicopter, a product of the renowned Kamov design team, had been given the NATO designation of "Hokum."

"It would be logical to expect Hokum armaments to include air-to-air anti-helicopter missiles as well as a gun and ground attack weapons."

The yearbook said the Soviets hold more than a 2 to 1 advantage in frontline combat aircraft in Europe.

"This did not matter while NATO had clear technological leadership," it said.

"That lead still exists in some areas, such as avionics and aircraft power plants, but the gap is narrowing."

Terrorists Claim Credit For NATO Car Bomb

MUNICH, West Germany (UPI) — West Germany's most-wanted terrorist ring claimed credit for an aborted car-bomb attack on a NATO military school and a top official warned of "a violent Christmas."

Attorney General Kurt Rebmann appealed to the public for help Wednesday in tracking down 11 fugitives of the Red Army Faction, or RAF, that apparently planted the bomb at the Oberammergau officers' school Tuesday.

A woman called the home of the editor of Munich's Sueddeutsche Zeitung newspaper Wednesday to claim credit for the attack on behalf of the RAF, Bavarian state police said.

The group, blamed for bombings and assassinations stretching back to the 1960s and linked to other terrorist organizations in the Middle East and elsewhere in Europe, is better known as the notorious Baader Meinhof Gang.

Rebmann said the bomb marked the start of a macabre holiday campaign in support of 30 RAF terrorists held in West German prisons. The prisoners went on a hunger strike Dec. 4, demanding to be kept in the same jail.

Only a defective timing device averted the blast of 55 pounds of explosives packed into the car from demolishing the NATO installation, authorities said.

The survey found that of 62,578 cases adjudicated in 1983, 11,807 defendants — or nearly 19 percent of those convicted — were sentenced to jail.

The comparable rate for the previous year was 14 percent. Jail terms came at rates of about 12 and 10 percent respectively in 1980 and 1981.

"I think there is strong evidence of a new attitude toward DUI," Mellon said.

Mellon noted that another key statistic — the number of drivers who were found innocent, had their cases dismissed or were not prosecuted — decreased significantly in 1983. Cases in which charges were reduced fell 42 percent from 1980 to 1983.

Mellon also cited evidence that the amount of fines paid by drunken drivers had climbed dramatically.

"For (arrests by) the Florida Highway Patrol alone, we saw the average fine for DUI rise from $177 in 1980 to $309 in 1983, not counting attorney fees and lost worktime."

Besides the 62,578 adjudicated cases for 1983, another 21,995 cases remain pending. In 1982, there were 71,238 adjudicated cases and 6,233 still pending.

Convictions numbered 53,675 in 1983, or 85.77 percent. There were 49,741 convictions in 1982 for a rate of 69.82 percent.

The survey found some differences from county to county. Duval, Hillsborough, Marion and Polk counties had conviction rates of 92 percent during 1983. In Dade, Orange and Pinellas counties, however, convictions came at a rate of 78 percent, below the statewide average of 86 percent.

More than 64 percent of convicted drunken drivers went to jail in Orange County while Dade jailed less than 7 percent and Broward fewer than 2 percent of their DUI drivers.

"We're happy, you bet we are," said Richmond Mayor John Poynor, whose community is heavily dependent on the 13,000 jobs and millions of dollars already spent each year by the Energy Department and the nuclear industry.

On the whole, however, Washington state government leaders, wary of offending either side in the debate, reacted cautiously.

In Nevada, Gov. Richard Bryan vowed to use the state's veto power to block selection of the Yucca Mountain site about 100 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

Sanford's Santaland

Sylvia Ann Tillinghast, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darren Tillinghast and maternal granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wing of Sanford, is entranced with the huge mechanized Santa Claus that shook hands with all the children attending a preview reception of Edith Hakken's exhibit, "Santas From Around the World," the current exhibit at the Henry S. Sanford Library-Museum, 520 E. First Street, Sanford. Mrs. Hakken's Santa Claus collection includes about 2,000 replicas of the jolly gentleman representing the Christmas season and about 1,000 "Santas" are featured in the museum exhibit among the personal artifacts of the founder of Sanford, General Sanford, and his family. The exhibit, free and open to the public, will run through the first week of January during the regular museum hours, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday, from 2-5 p.m.

Cancer Victim Tells Teen-Agers About The Stupidity Of Smoking

DEAR ABBY: Please help me make my mother give me permission to smoke at home. I am a 14-year-old boy and I have been smoking since I was 12. My mother knows this, but she still won't give me permission to smoke at home. I can smoke in the homes of my friends but not in my own house. I think that's crazy.

I have begged my mother to change her mind, but she says, "No way." My stepfather says as long as I'm already smoking he doesn't see why my mother won't give permission, but he doesn't count around here — my mother has the whole say.

Abby, please tell me how I can make my mother listen to reason and be realistic. Thank you.

A BOY IN DULUTH

DEAR BOY: Your mother is right, and since she is your guardian, and your welfare is in her hands, she should forbid you to smoke anywhere. Please read this letter I received today:

DEAR ABBY: I am a 59-year-old woman. I started smoking when I was 14 because both my parents smoked. I realize now how stupid it was, but on with my story:

By the time I was 24, I was smoking three packs a day. I kept it up until 2½ years ago, then I got sick and the doctor said I had walking pneumonia. That's when he cut me down to six cigarettes a day. Then he found a tumor pressing against my air passage and it turned out to be cancer. Believe me, when I heard that, I quit cold turkey.

I was cancer-free until October, then the doctor informed me that the cancer was back again. I also have emphysema. I am praying I can beat it. Had I known years ago that this could happen, I never would have smoked that first cigarette. I have two sons — both heavy smokers who have trouble breathing, but they say they can't quit.

God in heaven, I wish I had never started. It's so hard to quit. Please print this for kids to see.

SICK AND SORRY IN WICHITA, KAN.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who calls me every day — sometimes twice a day — just to chat. I don't mind small talk every once in a while, but not every day. She goes on and on. It's boring and a waste of my time. She's a very sensitive person, so if I were to tell her not to call me every day, I know her feelings would be hurt.

I've tried taking my phone off the hook, but she keeps trying until she reaches me, then I'm trapped for more of her dull, time-consuming small talk.

What should I do? I'm beginning to resent her.

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Don't take your phone off the hook. When your friend calls, tell her you're sorry but you're busy and can't talk to her right now, and you'll call her when you're free.

Then call her the next day or the day after. If she calls you in the meantime, repeat the above message. Eventually she'll get the message. And if you lose her friendship, what have you really lost?

DEAR ABBY: I've been told that the only way a person can get crabs is by sexual contact. Is this true?

FIANCEE OF A SOLDIER

DEAR FIANCEE: No. Contact with soiled linen or a contaminated toilet seat can do it.

DEAR ABBY: I realize that my problem is minor compared to many that appear in your column, but I have a gripe that I would like to get off my chest.

Why do so many men assume that when a woman reads the newspaper she has no interest in looking at the sports page? I am a big football fan who enjoys reading about the trials and tribulations of my favorite team, and I'm sure I am not the only woman who likes sports.

Numerous times when I am reading the newspaper in a public place (a coffee shop or on a bus), I've been approached by men who wish to relieve me of the sports section. (One man actually reached over from the next table, picked up the sports section and said, "You won't be needing this.")

There, I said it! Thanks for listening.

FEMALE 49ER FAN

DEAR FAN: While "many" men may assume that women have no interest in sports, dedicated sports fans know better.

What women lack in numbers they more than make up for in enthusiasm and loyalty. Ask the male football fan who was cheering wildly for USC while sitting in the Stanford section. Some female seated in front of him turned around and broke his nose.

Managing Your Lifestyle Key To Ulcer Treatment

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 25 and try to watch what I eat and drink since I have an ulcer. About a year ago, after I had been drinking, I became very sick and had to be hospitalized for a week.

What are Librax capsules? I have been taking Tagamet and Librax four times a day for two months. I told the doctor that the pills really helped. He said I could continue the Librax, but not the Tagamet. He lets me take one Tagamet at bedtime. If I feel good, I'm to cut back on the Librax, too.

DEAR READER — Tagamet was first approved for use in the short-term treatment of ulcers. There was not enough information about its long-term effects and effectiveness to approve it for long-term use. It is now approved for use at bedtime, also, to help prevent recurrences of ulcers. Tagamet helps prevent the production of acid-digestive juices that cause ulcer pain.

Librax is a combination of an antispasmodic — which, like Tagamet, inhibits the formation of acid-digestive juice — and a tranquilizer. It is often very helpful in relieving digestive complaints.

However, there is much more to managing an ulcer than just taking these two medicines. You may get some help from taking antacids during the day. You shouldn't take them when you take Tagamet at bedtime, since that might interfere with its absorption.

Pay attention to your lifestyle. I'm glad you are watching your diet, but are you avoiding coffee, both regular and decaffeinated? You should not drink any tea or colas, either, and I hope you are not smoking. You also need to minimize stress. I firmly believe that stress is an important factor in causing ulcer and acidity problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — This past year I attended a college reunion. Some people seemed to have aged a lot more than others, notably a girl who used to be the best-looking individual in my class. Do people really age at different rates?

DEAR READER — They certainly do. The best way to have a long life — and that includes looking young — is to pick good parents who lived long, healthy lives, and then to take good care of yourself.

It seems as if we all inherit a program or script for life. That helps to determine when our teeth erupt, our hair falls out and our hearing falls. Along the way, we add to the script by drinking too much, smoking (which makes a person's face look 10 years older than that of a nonsmoker), eating too much, not staying in good physical condition, experience too much stress, and many other things. Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Pessimistic Pete was at the helm of today's sound game contract. Against the opening lead of a low heart, he would have had easy going — plenty of time to trump two diamonds in dummy and make at least 10 tricks.

But West decided to lead a trump. Pete just knew that the heart ace was offside. That's how he got his nickname, after all. So what to do?

After winning the opening lead, he played A-K of diamonds and ruffed a diamond in dummy. Then he overtook dummy's last spade with his ace and drew another round of trumps. He played his last diamond, discarding a heart from dummy.

East won that trick and played the fifth diamond. Pete sluffed his singleton heart and let a small club go from the table. Defender East was now between a rock and a hard place. If he played a club, South would lose only one club trick; if he played the heart ace, South would trump.

Even if West had the heart ace, the contract was safe. On a low heart lead from East, declarer would simply throw a club. If West won the ace, the king would be good for another club discard.

Generous George would have been proud of Pete for letting East win that fifth diamond trick. Incidentally, it's worth noting that if West had started with four diamonds originally, the same type of play would work. West wins the fourth diamond and leads a heart. South plays the 10 from dummy and East wins the second trick

CBS Edges Out NBC In Nielsens

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS narrowly edged out NBC for first place last week in the prime time Nielsen ratings, with NBC owing its strong showing in part to Bob Hope, Mickey Mouse and a football rerun. ABC was close behind.

The A.C. Nielsen prime time ratings for the week ending Dec. 16 gave CBS a 16.6 rating and a 26 percent share of the audience, NBC a 16.1 rating with a 26 share and ABC a 15.6 rating with a 25 share.

Among the top shows were Hope's Christmas special and "Mickey's Christmas Carol." A 10-minute rerun of the NBC Sunday NFL football game made it a three-way tie with "Hotel" (ABC) and "Simon & Simon" (CBS) for ninth place on the top 10 list.

The big disappointment for CBS was "Camille," an expensive Hallmark Hall of Fame drama that finished 38th in a Nielsen list of 70 shows for the week. The big winner in that Tuesday night time period was NBC's "Riptide," which occupied sixth place. The big loser was ABC's "Glitter," which finished 70th.

On the season to date, CBS leads with a 17.0 rating and a 27 share, while NBC has a 16.4 rating and a 26 share and ABC a 15.2 rating and a 24 share.

"CBS Evening News with Dan Rather" was the No. 1 evening news show again, with a 14.5 rating and 25 share. "NBC Nightly News" had a 11.6 rating and a 20 share. ABC's "World News Tonight" had an 11.0 rating and a 19 share.

- The top prime time shows for the week ending Dec. 16, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:
1. Dynasty (ABC)
 2. Dallas (CBS)
 3. Bob Hope Christmas Special (NBC)
 4. Newhart (CBS)
 5. Kate and Allie (CBS)
 6. Riptide (NBC)
 7. The Cosby Show (NBC)
 8. Mickey's Christmas Carol (NBC)
 9. (three-way tie) Hotel (ABC)
 10. Football rerun over Pittsburgh-L.A. Raiders (NBC)
 11. Simon & Simon (CBS)
