By RAYMOND LAHR
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican congressional campaign chiefs today welcomed Sherman Adams' resignation as President Eisenhower's No. 1 assistant. They said it would prevent worsening of GOP prospects at the polls in November.

Democrats gratefully chortled "too late" and prepared to capitalize on Adams' dramatic TV defense of his activities by demanding equal time to "answer" the departing White House aide.

At least one network—the Columbia Broadcasting System—indicated it would grant the equal time, possibly tonight.

A Democratic National Committee spokesman said no decision had been reached on who would make the Democratic reply to Adams but that it might be National Chairman Paul M. Butler.

GOP Chairman Meade ALCORN was ready to take up the cudgels in defense of Adams and the administration's overall record in an appearance before the National Press Club this afternoon.

Defends His Record

Already, however, the official political lines had been drawn over the Adams case, most controversial issue involving a high White House figure in the Eisenhower administration.

Home Loan Rates Remaining Firm

By EDWARD COWAN
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Home loan interest rates are still unaffected by the recent tightening in the money market, top government and lending officials report.

Home buyers still can get a loan at rates well below a year ago. But, the experts are agreed, the softening that prevailed in the early months of the year has definitely ended.

making its own offers attractive enough to assure raising the sums it seeks.

For the time being, however, prospective home buyers who will be taking out mortgages are protected by the traditional lag characteristic of changes in mortgage lending. It is this lag, the experts say, that has kept the price of mortgage money fairly steady in recent weeks while other interest charges have been climbing.

Adams, unbending New Englander who ran afoul of a congressional committee's charges of "influence in government," announced his resignation over all major radio and television networks Monday night in an address that was broadcast as he prepared a departure as could be remembered for a high official.

In firm tones he defended his 22 years of public service and his 3 1/2 years as Eisenhower's trusted "chief of staff" and denounced his critics for what he called their "campaign of vilification" aimed at ousting him from public life for their "personal advantage."

Pardon Board Schedules Hearing On Noted Cases

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Georgia Pardon Board has set a parole hearing Oct. 21 for Rosa Lee Ingram, a Negro widow whose conviction of killing a white sharecropper caused a racial furor.

The board also will consider freeing her son Wallace, 21, and Sammie Lee, 23, who with their mother were convicted of murdering John Edgar Stratford, 66, on Nov. 14, 1947, in Southwest Georgia.

He said the evidence "clearly established" he had never influenced or tried to influence any government agency or employee, and he lashed out at a House investigating subcommittee for receiving "irresponsible testimony" — rumor, innuendo and even unsubstantiated gossip.

Committee Disclosed Gifts

He referred to the Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight headed by Rep. Owen Harris (D-Ark.), which disclosed expensive gifts to Adams from his million-aire Boston friend, Bernard Goodline, including a vintage car for "loan" of an original tag and expensive stays in lavish hotel suites.

Testimony also showed Adams had obtained information for Goldfine, a prominent textile manufacturer, from federal agencies which Goldfine's mills and spinners had little difficulty in getting a loan.

After their sentences in life imprisonment the case was adopted as a "cause" by minority groups which gained it nationwide publicity.

The convicted sons were 13 and 15 years old at the time Mr. Ingram, then 40, was the mother of 14 children, 12 of them then living. Another son, Charles, then 17, was tried separately and acquitted. An elder son, Jackson Jr., confessed robbing Stratford's body of $147 and was given a 12-month sentence.

Florida Losing Greatest Asset, Beauty, Man Says

JACKSONVILLE (UPI)—A planning expert says Florida's biggest asset—its beauty—is slowly wasting away.

Ray W. Johnson, national director of the Advanced Research Project, blames it on lack of planning by city officials. He warns that unless municipal officials take immediate steps, "Florida cities may drift toward bankruptcy."

Johnson spoke Wednesday before some 200 persons at a development and planning session.

"Defacement is marching from black to black across your cities," Johnson said, "spreading faster than any present program can cure it. The biggest single asset in Florida—beauty—is slowly wasting away."

The meeting was part of a program to set up a system for urban development and planning within the framework of the American Council to Improve Our Neighborhoods.

Psychology Obtains Hidden Answers

By DELOS SMITH
 UPI Science Editor
 NEW YORK (UPI)—To answer a much argued question, here is an up-to-date outline of what the science of psychology can find out about the mental workings of any person whether or not he wants to reveal them or if he himself knows them. He has to sit still for psychological tests, of course.

Drs. Robert C. Harlow and Leonard F. Saitman of the University of Rochester, who made the outline, warned that psychological tests are never infallible, particularly those designed to find out what kind of person any given person is. They're limited, they said with the humility of scientists, by the "incompleteness" of science's knowledge of all the things which go into making people tick.

"Given these limitations," psychological tests will "infer" how a person both controls and expresses his underlying drives and impulses, and they will show precisely how he adapts himself to reality and how he defends himself when reality gets too rough.

Degree of Maturity

The tests also will reveal how mature the person is, the extent of his emotional responses, and to what degree he over-controls them.

Surplus Navy Jets' Use On Playgrounds Debated

By Patricia McFormack
 United Press International
 NEW YORK (UPI)—A playground worth its salt these days has swings, slides and a surplus Navy jet.

But a lively argument is going on among experts about the wisdom of placing a "symbol of war" on a par with sand-boxes and other childish delights.

play out fantasies. It gives them a chance to work out their feelings of anger, frustration and so on.

—Jets provide familiarity with the space age and children can use them to play fear about air travel.

Agrees to a Point

Dr. Korsch agreed that a certain amount of "acting out"—which is what the children do in jets—is off steam in a constructive way but she added:

In short, the tests will reveal "the framework of personality" and give an idea of whether this personality is doing as well as it should. The tests also will give insights into a number of things which "fill in the details." For instance, they'll show up what a man sees in women and what he makes of femininity.

Regarding the best known and most misunderstood of psychological tests, the "I.Q.," the psychologists said they were not altogether reliable and shouldn't be leaned upon too heavily. They do not measure a person's absolute intelligence, only his intelligence as compared to what is considered the normal intelligence for persons of his age.

Two Sides Shown

These tests have two sides. One are the tests which indicate how much and how well the person learns from merely living—from dealing with situations and persons and things. The other side is what can be "inferred" from the measurements regarding how good a mind nature gave the person in the first place.

"Two individuals of the same age may obtain identical scores on an intelligence test but possess quite different intellectual abilities and potentials," they said.

"There is, as well, especially in children, considerable variability in any individual's intellectual functioning which makes a rigid reliance upon the I. Q. untenable."

You can say an individual will usually do as well in intelligence as he does with an I. Q. test; the chances are he will never do worse. But you can't tell how much better he might do under different circumstances. Was he ill when he took the test? Was he tired?

There also is the matter of his mental state. His mind might have been barred with anxiety or he might not have cared whether he did well or poorly.

Admitted Slaying

The Negro and white families shared adjacent portions of the C. M. Dillinger farm in Shelby County, some 31 miles from Dawson in Terrell County, scene of the most recent controversy over the civil rights of Georgia Negroes.

Stratford's wife found his body about halfway between his and the Ingram's home. The mother and son admitted one or more of them killed him but changed details of their statements several times.

Represented by two of Georgia's white attorneys, mother and son gave unsworn statements as their only trial defense and the jury without being asked to decide death. The trial judge later commuted the sentence.

Today Is Little Rock Anniversary

WASHINGTON (UPI)— It was one year ago today that the 101st Airborne took over in Little Rock to enforce the Supreme Court's ruling against segregated education in public schools.

One year ago tonight, President Eisenhower told a national T. V. audience of his address in ordering the troops to move and of the firmness with which he intended to prevent unlawful interference with the court's decree.

If the President was sad, which he undoubtedly was, the prime emotion of some others peculiarly interested in the proceedings must have been stark astonishment. Such interested persons, for example, as members of the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights.

Subcommittee hearings on the 1837 civil rights bill took place in mid- winter. The question which the President of the United States could or would employ federal troops to enforce civil rights laws or judicial decrees created quite a hassle.

Cited Force Bills

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D.N.C.) and subcommittee staff member Robert Young raised the question insistently to Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. They cited the so-called "force bills" enacted after the Civil War when the southern states became military districts under armed compulsion to approve certain laws and constitutional amendments.

The U. S. Congress specifically authorized the President to enforce with federal troops the civil rights thus projected. The point raised by Ervin and Young was that this authorization of the Reconstruction period equally would support the use of federal troops then and now.

The attorney general did not want to discuss that at all and, finally, indicated he would have to walk out of the hearing if the matters were pressed. Here are some questions and answers after subcommittee discussion turned to the Reconstruction bills and the use of U. S. armed forces.

Young: General Brownell, in the Republican 1954 platform, the Republican Party takes a definite stand against the use of violence in the enforcement of court decrees. There has been a deal of worry, as you know, as to how far the federal government is prepared to go in the enforcement of court decrees in segregation cases. I would like from you now an expression whether this statute (permitting use of force) is intended at any time or has it been discussed, as being used for enforcement of these decrees?

Brownell's Answers

Brownell: I am rather disturbed by you even raising these points, because, as I said so many times, public statements made by persons who intimate that there is any such thought in the minds of anyone here in Washington to use the militia in these cases does not represent the true state of facts and I think it can be brought into the discussion at all only to confuse the issue.

Sen. Ervin: We are entitled to make a record here that will show that if this bill is passed it will create a new type of remedy. Under which the President by existing law can enforce by use of the armed forces.

Brownell: I believe there is here an implication that the President would act recklessly if not unconstitutionally, and I cannot just sit by and have the record contain any such implication. This has gone far enough. I personally cannot stay here and allow any such implication to be drawn.

Red Generals Told To Peel Potatoes

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist Chinese officers including even generals may be peeling potatoes with the lowest private in a new army-wide political campaign.

This possibility arises from a recent directive, reported today by Radio Peking and the New China News agency, which states that "all cadres of the Chinese People's Liberation Army will spend a month every year in the ranks as ordinary soldiers."

General Yang Teh-eh and 12 other high-ranking officers in the Tsinan area left late last week to work as enlisted men in the companies, the agency reported.

"They will obey the orders of the company officers like the other men there," it added.

The directive follows a move earlier this year during which government leaders, even Mao Tse-tung himself, went out into the fields and factories to do nominal manual labor.

Children Spanked In Detention Homes

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Children's Commission reported today that boys and girls are spanked in many public and private detention homes in Florida, but always with the "child's welfare" in mind.

Gov. LeRoy Collins told his news conference that this report and a cover letter from the commission chairman "completely vindicated" personnel at the Boys School in Marianna accused of brutally whipping unruly children.

Boys School Supt. Arthur Dozier, a member of the Children's Commission, admitted shortly after the accusations were made that obstreperous youths are spanked. But he said the whippings are administered only in his presence and with his sanction.

"There is nothing brutal about it," he said.

The accusation of brutality came in testimony before a committee in Washington by a former psychiatrist at the Boys School.

But the committee said its use of its institutions, said "It is our opinion that both the Girls School at Ocala, the school for feeble-minded children at Gainesville and the Boys School at Marianna are being run in a very efficient manner with the welfare of boys and girls as the primary interest and concern of the superintendent who work with them."

In her cover letter to the governor, Mrs. Evelyn M. Caffrey, Miami, chairman, said "We are relieved and gratified that control and discipline in our state institutions was not as pictured."

"We are also relieved to hear about plans underway to provide other methods of control at the Boys School and we support Mr. Dozier in his request for funds to employ adequate staff to deal with the problem of control."

Besides the state schools, the commission also visited private and county youth detention homes in Pensacola, Tampa, Bartow, Jacksonville and Orlando.

It did not say what it found. The report said Florida law permits corporal punishment in public schools so long as it is not "degrading or unduly severe."

But the committee said its use in state schools is questionable because it is "fraught with dangers of abuse, public criticism and development of a philosophy of force." There is some likelihood it will increase adolescent rebellion, it added.

Collins expressed the hope that all types of whipping will one day be eliminated in detention homes.

But he said "there comes a time when some is necessary."

NEW YORK (UPI)—America's favorite dessert, apple pie in a novel version won top prize money of $25,000 today for Don de Vault, 36, mother of two, of Delaware, in the Pillsbury tenth grand national bake-off. Mrs. De Vault, wife of a real estate man, won the grand prize for her "spicy apple twists," made from strips of pastry twisted around quartered apples and placed end down in a baking pan. The 1958 version of apple pie baked in a brief 20 to 25 minutes, compared with 45 minutes required for ordinary apple pie. Mrs. Lillian Jehlik, a legal secretary in Westchester, Ill., took second grand prize of $3,000 for her "rich batter bread" recipe. Honors also went to one man, Gregory J. Patent Jr., 19, of San Francisco, took second place in the junior division, winning $1,000 for his "Golden Gate dessert bars." No male contestant ever has taken top money. Top junior winner was Miss Mary Ann Waslow, 18, of Grand Forks, N. D., who won $1,000 for her "double date double food," a layer cake. Third place in the junior division went to Trudy Roell, 13, of Peeta, Colo., one of four children of farmer William Roell, who won $500 for a "tomato chreeseburger pie."

Winners in the brides' category were:
Mrs. Betty E. May, of Sixesville, Md., who won $1,000 for her "lemon nut rolls."
Mrs. Lavonne Hills, of Port Alorton, Pa., who won $1,000 for her "peanut brownie drops."
Mrs. Sallawon $3,000 for her "mercy mincecakes," a cookie.

Winning Recipe

NEW YORK (UPI)—Here is the recipe for "spicy apple twists," which won the first grand prize of $25,000 for Mrs. Don de Vault, 36, of Delaware, Ohio, in the Pillsbury bake-off.

The judges, 11 food editors and home economists, cited the recipe for its spicy, buttery flavor and ease of preparation.

- Ingredients
2 baking apples, pared, cored and sliced into eight wedges;
1/2 cups sifted all purpose flour;
1 teaspoon salt;
1/2 cup shortening;
4 to 5 tablespoons cold water;
1/2 cup melted butter;
1/2 cup sugar;
1 teaspoon cinnamon;
1/2 cup water.

Method
Prepare apples. Sift flour with salt into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening. Sprinkle cold water over mixture, stirring with fork until dough is just moist enough to hold together. Form into ball. Flatten to about 1/2 inch thickness; smooth edges.
Roll out on floured surface to 16 by 10-inch rectangle. Cut into 16 by one-inch strips. Wrap one strip around each apple slice. Arrange in 13 by 9 by 2-inch pan, sides not touching. Brush with butter; sprinkle with mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Pour 1/2 cup water over pastries. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown. Serve warm or cold, plain or with cream. Makes 16 twists.

Road Vote Reflects Commission 'Split'

The Seminole County Board of Commissioners continues to be a "split" governing body. This was emphasized again yesterday by the 3-2 vote on funds for the completion of Dodd Road.

The road in question is located in the south end of Seminole County. Apparently the road got its name from Commissioner B. C. Dodd, whose property is located in the immediate vicinity. Dodd Road broke into the news last week. The road was being paved, although it was not included in the projects approved by the County Commission.

Board Chairman John Krider ordered the work stopped. Dodd, with consent of F. A. Dyson and Homer Little, resumed the work. Yesterday, the three last-named commissioners voted "yes" on a motion to include Dodd Road in the "approved list." Krider was joined by Commissioner Lawrence Swafford in voting against the proposal.

Citizens appeared at the meeting, some in favor of the paving, some opposed. Supporters of the paving cited good reasons for continuing the work. Those opposed gave good reasons why the work should be stopped.

In the heat of debate, however, it appears that many overlooked the real question. If the road had not been approved for paving, the work should not have been started. At least it should have been placed on the projects list at an appropriate place, behind all of those which already had been approved and ahead of those whose needs are not quite so great.

Regardless of the condition of the road, it should have been discussed by the Commission prior to the start of work. This is the accepted practice. Allowing each commissioner to build, pave or repair roads at his discretion would be somewhat like having five counties, rather than five members of a county governing body.

Dodd's statement to the effect that "everybody will get on me if I ever pave it," repeated by one of the supporters of the road program, should not be offered as an excuse to delay work past the point of safety. Neither should it be a reason to attempt work not authorized by the board. A commissioner always runs the risk of criticism when he stands to benefit from work done by the county. At the same time, however, most people will admit that a commissioner's road, too, must be improved.

Much of this controversy could have been avoided. It is our belief that the vote probably would have been the same, 3-2, if the road had been submitted for approval. The vote for approval might have been unanimous, including it in the budget by a 3-2 vote would have been better for Seminole County, and the officials concerned, before the work was started.

Starting the paving, then asking for approval, it seems to us, is going about the whole business in an unusual fashion.

Signs Of Recognition

Seminole County is getting the services of its first full-time Boy Scout executive.

We join Scouts, all volunteer workers in the Scouting field and the community in extending a welcome to Ed Andrews, who will move to Sanford to assume his new duties by Oct. 1.

This is another sign of recognition that Seminole County is assuming its rightful place among Florida's 67 counties. We feel that Seminole County can utilize the services of Mr. Andrews and that the new Scout executive will full-time probation-parole officer.

Scouting is an important part of the lives of young boys. We commend the Central Florida Council for its action, which will bring about expansion of Scouting in Seminole County.

Recently, Seminole County received recognition from the State when Jim Lee was appointed to serve as the first full-time probation-parole officer.

To both, we extend a very warm welcome.

INNER SPACE PROBLEM IN THE OUTER SPACE AGE

Conning The News

By Virginia Conn, Herald Staff Writer

If it appears to you that the news has not been "conned" lately, it's only because once involved with politicians, your eyes become blind to the green grass, the blue skies and the laughter of little children. Also, you can't see the trees for the forest. And news is made up of many little trees forming one tremendous forest. Frequently, the trees become so numerous that it is impossible to thin them. That's when one sweep of the arm pushes everything in the waste basket, and all the lovely editorials and stories are reposing in file 13.

As for the remark about politicians, that was of a general nature—and probably better off undeveloped. The subject is difficult to ignore in the light of recent events. But this reporter is not alone in thinking that the incidents

Man 'Sacrifices' 4-Year-Old Son

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Hari Singh is being held today on charges he had sacrificed his 4-year-old son to Kali, the goddess of power, to rid himself of poverty and the worries of life, New Delhi press reports said today.

Police arrested Singh as he was dancing in a temple. He had placed his son on a pyre and taken the head to a temple as a sacrifice.

The incident was reported in Gaatlah in Uttar Pradesh state, 18 miles from New Delhi.

Navy Scientist Creates, Destroys Clouds In Test

By CHARLES CORDRAY, United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy disclosed today that one of its scientists succeeded in creating three individual clouds and destroying seven others by using ordinary carbon black.

The experiments, carried out under the direction of Dr. Florence Van Straten of the naval weather observatory, took place over the southern coast of Georgia last July.

Dr. Van Straten, a woman, said it would be foolish to predict from her tests so far that clouds at all altitudes in the future could be either destroyed or created. Carbon black is the ingredient that forms inside a kerosene lamp chimney, makes rubber tires black, and causes printers ink to show up on white paper.

Temperature Change

Dr. Van Straten figured that bringing a hot unit temperature change in part of the atmosphere was a possible answer to weather control and she sprayed carbon black because it absorbs heat.

"My reasoning was that if we could influence the temperature in part of the atmosphere we could dissipate cloud masses that exist and, under some conditions, we could create cloud masses," she said.

She had a Navy airplane drop five dollars worth of carbon black in her experiments. In a solid form, it destroyed seven clouds in times ranging from 2 1/2 to 20 minutes. In suspension in liquids it created clouds.

Previous so-called "seeding" of the atmosphere to modify clouds involved use of dry ice and silver iodide. The dry ice created sub-freezing temperatures and the silver iodide provided a nucleus on which ice could form.

Wide Possibilities

Dr. Van Straten's method, however, may make possible cloud destruction or formation in altitudes well below the freezing level and conceivably could lead to means of fog dispersal.

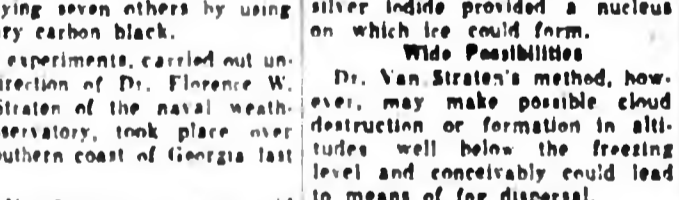

She said today that so far she had only created "effects." Full scientific investigation now must follow.

Some goals of clouds modification experiments are:

- Disipation of fog and low stratus clouds.
- Prevention of tornadoes and hail storms by limiting thunderstorms before they are dangerous.
- Hurricane control.
- Reduction of rainfall in flooded areas and production of rainfall in drought areas.

Williams Bats Sox By Yanks

United Press International
Ted Williams, who needs a fast win to catch teammate Pete Runnels and win his sixth American League batting title, paced the Boston Red Sox to a 9-8 win over the Yankees Tuesday night. The 40-year-old slugger drove in four runs with his 23rd homer, a double and a single and lifted his average to .317—eight points behind Runnels, who went 2 for 4. Williams, who singled home a run in Boston's favorite first inning and homered in the fourth, doubled home the tying run in the eighth and then scored the decisive home on Jackie Jensen's single. Bob Turley, the Yankees' 21-game winner, was hammered for nine hits and seven runs in three innings but Johnny Kucks, who yielded the two eighth-inning runs, was the loser.

The loss was the sixth straight for the Yankees but it may have scotched their pride, a bit to know the Milwaukee Braves didn't exactly look like champions in their first outing since clinching the National League pennant. A two-run seventh-inning single by Ed Roush enabled the last-place Philadelphia Phillies to top the Braves.

AS, and earn Jim Owens his first big league win. Outstanding pitching marked most of the other games in both leagues.

Jack Harshman struck out nine batters to give the Baltimore Orioles a 7-2 win over the Washington Senators. Paul Foytack's four-hitter enabled the Detroit Tigers to beat the Chicago White Sox, 5-1, and the Cleveland Indians topped the Kansas City Athletics, 7-5, in other American League games. In the National League, Sam Jones pitched a no-hitter for 7 2/3 innings as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-1, and the Chicago Cubs 3-2, in 10 innings.

2 Teams Are Tied For First Spot In Sanford Bowling

Auker Music Shop and Burnitt Painters are tied for first place in the Sanford Bowling League. The standings, however, could be changed tonight when the contest against New York Life in the other game tonight. Celery City Printing is matched against Gene's Seminoles Dry Cleaners. Burnitt lost the first game, then came back to take the next two from Auker to pull into a tie for first in alley action last Wednesday night. Both teams have now won eight games and lost four since the beginning of the season. George Swann paced the Mustangs with a 316 series, but couldn't stop the onrush of the Painters as Dick Richards, with a 314, and Tom Brown, with a 310, led them into first place.

Perfection Pads Bowling Lead In Win Over Robson

Garbage for the second spot, with Rounillat, Markot, Robson and Wilson-Mailer following in that order. High single game of the evening was rolled by Margie Woods, 191, scratch and 201, handicap. Woods and Olga Martin had high series and Edna Martin had high series with a 318.

Seminoles To Be Tested By Sandcrabs On Friday

The Sanford Seminoles will be gunning for their second victory of the season Friday night when they entertain Seabreeze of Daytona. This will be a first real test of the 1938 campaign for the Seminoles, who blanked a stubborn, but outclassed, Lyman of Longwood, 20-0, last Friday night. The Sandcrabs of Seabreeze should extend the Seminoles to the limit. Scouting reports indicate that Seabreeze has plenty of speed. This means that the Seminole defense will be tested much more thoroughly than in the opener. The Sandcrabs could be one of the toughest teams on the Seminole schedule this year.

NEW YORK (UPI)—For those athletes who want to do their shopping early, there is an impractical but gosh awful gaudy and expensive bit of male harness up for grabs between now and Christmas. It is five pounds of finery with a diamond-studded, gold-lined belt which a man could only wear by swapping his limousine for an armored car.

Mayfair Golf Tournament Results

Heat and bugs failed to dampen the enthusiasm of golfers Sunday afternoon at the Mayfair Country Club. This was the first tournament of the year for both clubs.

Phillies To Hold Camp At Leesburg

LEESBURG (UPI)—The Philadelphia Phillies announced today they will hold a winter training camp here next year for five minor league teams. St. Morgan, director of the Phil's farm system, said he could not disclose at this time what teams would attend the camp because several of the franchisees are in doubt. He did say, however, that four of the clubs would be Class B teams and one Class C. The camp will open March 16 and last for six weeks.

'58 Roughest Year On Schools, Says State System Head

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — State School Supt. Thomas Bailey said today that no other school year has been quite as "rough" on education and schools as that of 1957-58.

Writing in the Florida School Bulletin, Bailey said he was unable to recall another time when there was so much "criticism and vilification of educators as has been prevalent during the past 12 months."

Bailey was referring to criticism hurled against the schools regarding the lack of mathematics and science courses being taught by high school students. "Almost everyone had some criticism of the American school system after Russia launched her first Sputnik. "At times," Bailey said, "it has seemed almost miraculous to me that those of us who are dedicated to our work have not lost, in some degree, our confidence in what we are doing in the face of such a barrage of printed venom and unwarranted criticism,"

He said, as educators, they should be the first to admit that schools are not as perfect as they should be, "but neither are they as bad as some individuals would portray them to be."

The superintendent praised educators who he said had taken such criticism in their stride and "continued to plow down the middle of the furrow" to give students an education designed to meet the needs of the atomic age.

"This is no time for discouraged educators," he said.

Bailey said the "climate" he developed which will enable educators to get greater public support for improvements which have been sought for many years.

He said these improvements were reasonable class size, adequate guidance and counseling services, the utilization of new instructional aids and teaching techniques and the increased use of educational television and audio-visual aids.

Sanford Squadron Breaks Air Record

VAH-9, Sanford-based squadron, has established a heavy attack and possibly a NAVALIAST record for monthly hours flown by a carrier-based squadron.

In August, the squadron's "Sky Warriors" recorded a total of 710 flight hours, exceeding by 120 hours the previous monthly record of any heavy attack squadron, land or ship-based. VAH-9 is stationed aboard the USS Saratoga with the Sixth Fleet.

In the last six months, the squadron, commanded by CDR Bill Hazlett, has flown a total of 2718 hours, or a monthly average of 453 hours in the air.

Although the aircraft assigned to VAH-9 have been aboard ship for 13 of the last 12 months, Navy officials said VAH-9 had demonstrated that its aircraft, maintenance crews and flight crews are able to operate in a highly successful manner.

The squadron will return to Sanford early in October.

These were two suits before Miller and he disposed of both in less than an hour.

In one, the NAACP asked that the school board in Little Rock be forbidden to lease the high schools for private operation.

He turned down the NAACP, on whose side the U. S. Department of Justice had intervened, and refused to advise the school board whether it would be in contempt of court if it leased the buildings.
