Garbage Firm Revised; Issue Lingers

By BILL BELLEVILLE Herald Staff Writer. GREG DRUMMOND

The hearing, a continuation from last week, was set to determine if the refuse collection firm should be permitted to continue to operate in the county after repeated complaints from customers. The complaints, involving poor service and inconsistent pickup, were described by commissioners as numbering "more than the other firms combined."

The commission approved a motion to continue the hearing until next week "until the board can receive an evaluation of the new manager and a statement of intent from the new management team," which was initiated by commissioner Sid Vihlen, Jr.

Commissioner Greg Drummond, who had cited complaints from customers including one instance where a "collector used abusive language to a 12-year-old child" voted against the week-long extension of the hearing.

Last week, in continuing the hearing, the commissioners cited the need for a copy of the contract that has been sent to all customers that details the frequency of pick-ups, the amount of refuse to be collected and the fee.

Although Vihlen said Tuesday that he had mailed copies of the contract to the board, the document had not been received.

In addition, only a small part of the firm's 3,000 customers had actually signed the contract. Yet Vihlen said "we probably have more oral and written contracts than anyone else."

But commissioner Dick Williams, asking if the contract signers only amounted to about 10 per cent, was unable to pin Vihlen down to a specific answer.

Vihlen also did not produce a customer list as chairman John Kimbrough requested last week. "I didn't think the ordinance calls for us to give you a list of customers. We will live up to the letter of the law per se, but I don't think that's part of the ordinance."

The firm, controlled by absentee owner James Kuvrich of Rochester, N.Y., was initially put on six-month probation after a similar hearing in January.

Vihlen told the commission that he had received over 111 complaints "most of which were related to abusive language" concerning both the workers and the former management.

Complaints have also centered around rate changes without proper notification to the customer.

Johnson, who is not experienced in refuse collection, told the commission he would "resolve complaints as quickly as they could be resolved and would service accounts even during inclement weather."

Last week, Kuvrich told the board that "with inclement weather it was impossible to maneuver large equipment in and out of improperly maintained dirt roads to service accounts."

Johnson said he would add two more telephone lines to the existing two to handle any customer complaints. The management offices of the firm will be moved to Johnson's offices in Geneva.

A suggestion by Vihlen to put the firm on probation and fine them was nipped when county attorney Howard Marsee said that the ordinance does not provide for the levying of fines.

Public Warning Issued On Device

A local power company official has expressed doubt as to the value of a voltage regulator marketed as "Volt Guard," to save on home electric bills.

Scott Burns, manager of the Sanford office of Florida Power and Light Co., said more money could be saved by turning off a light or turning down the air conditioner, than by using such a device. He explained household current is fairly constant, and the regulator would not cause a noticeable difference in the electric bill.

Burns' comments were made in conjunction with a warning issued by the Division of Consumer Services, Florida Department of Agriculture. Robert J. Bishop, division director, cautioned consumers to be skeptical of the "Volt Guard" mechanism, handled by Southern Consolidated Corp., St. Petersburg. He cited the lack of testing data of the item, and added "electrical engineers with whom we've consulted are skeptical of the claims made for the product."

Advertising literature, in the form of a mimeographed flyer, stated the device protects household appliances from electrical surges, makes them more efficient, prolongs their useful lives and reduces electric bills.

Bishop said, "The pseudo-technical language used in the mimeographed flyer, the poor sentence structure, and the misuse of words indicate to us that this could be a con game to stick the unwary consumer with a worthless device."

But he agreed with the consumer warning, if no test results are available, skepticism should be the byword in dealing with the device or its promoters.

Hospital Sanitation Probed

A trustee's report of "atrocious" sanitary conditions at Seminole Memorial Hospital has triggered an administrative investigation and a promise that conditions will be corrected immediately.

Hospital board member Mrs. Sophia Shoemaker, a registered nurse, told fellow board members Tuesday of conditions encountered during a recent inspection.

She called sanitary conditions "atrocious" and said, "We spend untold amounts of money to keep the operating room sterile but not one cart was clean."

Administrator Robert Bessner said today he is meeting with department heads "to try to determine just what the situation is."

Tuesday Bessner assured trustees "this situation will be taken care of at once."

Bessner termed Mrs. Shoemaker's allegations "general and widespread" and said, "I'm trying to pinpoint the areas she mentioned."

Mrs. Shoemaker told fellow trustees of "back-passing" that followed her inquiries into whose responsibility it is to see that hospital facilities are clean.

She said she found breakfast trays still sitting around at lunch time and patients un-bathed while hospital employees were taking a "smoke break" in the kitchen.

Bessner reported today that the trays in question were from patients who had breakfast late due to morning x-rays before eating.

In actions Tuesday the hospital trustees:

- Approved hiring of Dr. Sara H. Irigang, of Casleberry, as a second staff pathologist as recommended by a committee appointed by the hospital medical staff.
- Approved leasing of the latest in nuclear scanning equipment for the hospital radiology department at $1,585 a month to be delivered by Jan. 31.
- Approved leasing of the present equipment cannot be updated to make use of the new isotopes now available. Pat Riley of the Radiology Department reported that the department is now self-sustaining and is growing.
- Approved leasing of a stretcher combination for the emergency room; $1,000 stretcher for the recovery room in surgical department; two cardiac monitors at $4,000 each; an $8,000 electronic fetal monitor for obstetrical department; a $1,111 rotating Micro-tone for Pathology and a $500 operating microscope lens for the urology table.

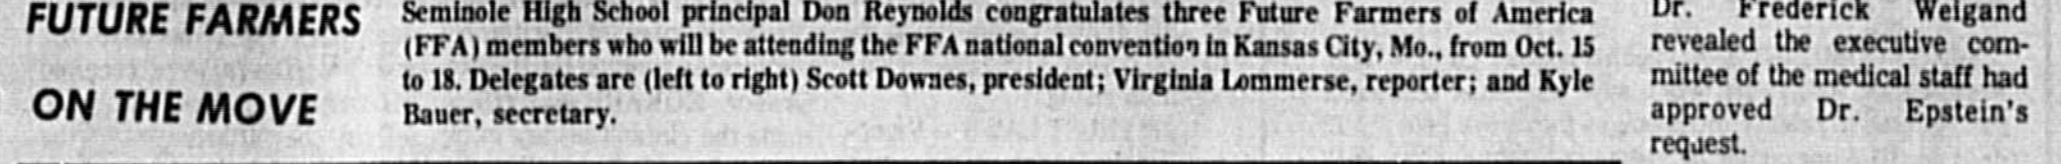

Dr. Irigang, interned in the Army and did a four year residency in Pathology at Baylor University Medical Center Dallas, Texas.

'Tent Or No Tent' Revival Continues

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Delmar Covey, who has been arrested four times in the past week because he refuses to get a permit for his revival meetings, says he plans to keep preaching.

Following the latest arrest Monday night, police also confiscated Covey's green revival tent and folding chairs, but Covey, 36, says he will conduct services in a vacant lot "tent or no tent."

The Lord spoke to me and told me to hold seven revivals in the Orlando area without a permit," Covey says.

Police say they won't interfere, as long as Covey holds a stand-up service.

building permit to erect his green and red 30 by 60 foot tent at W. 25th St. and Laurel Ave.

Officials said all Covey had to do to get the $1.50 permit was show certification that the tent was flame retardant and furnish electricity and two portable toilets on the site.

Covey had the certificate and electricity but said he wouldn't put in toilets and seek the permit. "I don't need it," he maintained.

Police allowed the tent meeting to continue pending County Court action on the case. Covey plead innocent and was fined after a non-jury trial but the fine was suspended.

Mrs. Covey said her husband finances his revivals and his new Cadillac as the co-owner of a roofing company.

"He never takes up a collection," she said. "We sponsor these meetings. If people want to give donations, that's something else, but my husband bought that car and he's paying for it from his roofing business."

Rev. Carl Brooks, an Orlando police chaplain who tried unsuccessfully to persuade Covey to obey city laws, said he believes the unordained preacher "is sincere in his faith and will stand fast by his position that he does not need a permit."

"Orlando is getting their judgement message," Covey says. "Unless they receive it, they will be destroyed. It's time to take a stand for Jesus."

Commission Agrees On Utility Purchases

A $4 million purchase of two privately owned utility systems was authorized by the Seminole County Commission Tuesday.

The Consumer Utilities, Inc. a new system that serves 4800 acres will go for $2.97 million. The Indian Hills utility system providing service to 630 acres, is expected to cost approximately one million.

The proposal was presented to the commission for formal action by county planner Roger Neiswender. However, the county body had been discussing the proposal for several months in work sessions. In addition, they had access to a feasibility study recommended from Russell and Axon engineers encouraging them to purchase the systems.

Commissioner Greg Drummond was the lone dissenter in the authorization.

Neiswender said if water and sewer rates are to remain reasonable, then the county should purchase the systems with the idea of setting up a regional service.

Citing the trend towards regionalization of utilities, Neiswender reminded the commission with county control there will be a better opportunity to protect and enhance the environment.

The feasibility reports revealed that Consumer has 10 connections with a capacity for 12,000 while Indian Hills has 1,548 with a capacity for 2,530.

By purchasing the systems now, and expanding them later, the county will have access to almost 75 per cent of the expansion costs from federal funds. If the private companies expand on their own, the county will be left to pick up the new inflated tag by itself.

Revenue provided by the system will sponsor bonds used in the purchase of the facilities.

Seminole County will receive $68,734 from the U.S. Labor Department for the implementation of public works jobs within the county.

This is part of a $17.4 million allocation to be divided among eight southern states. The entire allocation is $14 million, equivalent to 85,000 jobs.

Joyce Ott, a planner with the Florida Labor Department's Manpower division, explained the funds were part of a program authorized last winter, and only being implemented now because of legislative delays.

In Seminole County the funds are expected to create 13 jobs to be administered by the county but paid for through the federal funds. The newly-created positions will run through June 30, 1975.

Cyprus coup. The Cypriot National Guard, the island-state's army, was trained and led by Greek officers, who engineered the revolt against Makarios.

However, the head of the criminal investigation department of the Nicosia police under Makarios, Kypros Mourizides, confirmed the article.

It was July 16 in the western Cypriot city of Paphos and Makarios was trying to board a British helicopter to fly to refuge at the nearby British base of Episkopi.

Sampson was at National Guard headquarters in Nicosia when the Greek officer in charge of quarantine sent in arrest Makarios radioed that he could see the archbishop through binoculars, crouching and running toward the helicopter.

The officer added that his artillery could blast Makarios before he reached the copter or his anti-aircraft gun could bring down the craft after it was aloft.

Longwood Workshop, Topics Of Park, Laws

LONGWOOD — Council has set workshops on the proposed industrial development of Lawdale (formerly the old Action Auto Parts property adjacent to Longdale) and on three new proposed ordinances. The ordinances set for workshop Oct. 16, at 7:30 p.m., include a sewer franchise agreement to regulate the privately owned Longwood Utilities Inc., package sewer plant serving E.E. Williamson Road developments. Other ordinances which will be considered include control of outdoor advertising (billboards) and peddler's licenses.

The peddler's ordinance, recommended by Council Chairman Don Schreiner would require door-to-door solicitors to obtain licenses from the police department. Some weeks ago council by an emergency ordinance called a moratorium on billboard permits until a regulatory ordinance could be adopted. A second workshop with an attorney representing owners of the proposed Lawdale Industrial Park will be held after Monday night's regular meeting.

The territory was annexed to the city after owners agreed to arrangements would be made with the state to provide an additional traffic lane on U.S. 17-52 if necessary. The owner also promised to keep the right-of-way extending through the property closed to Longdale Avenue so that the industrial traffic would not filter through the subdivision. In other action, council earlier this week authorized the Skylark Homeowners' Association to place a basketball backboard at the end of Sparrow Street.

Refund was delayed of a $5,000 cash performance bond posted by builder Al Stolte a year ago when he constructed Georgia Avenue east because the city cannot afford to take the money from its general fund at this time. It was noted that the bond money was improperly deposited in the general fund and spent rather than being held in an escrow account.

Council ordered a second police car. Both are to be paid with $10,154 in federal revenue sharing money received Monday. Acting City Atty. Ned Julian Jr., was instructed to prepare a resolution dedicating the new fire truck to the memory of the late Carl Lommier, fire chief and former city councilman. Lommier died of a heart attack 18 months ago while fighting a fire.

Auto Train-The Cannonball Success Story

By WILLIAM G. WILLIAMS Associated Press Writer HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — My car used 18 gallons of gas on a round trip from Pennsylvania's capital to Disney World in Florida, a distance of 2,056 miles.

closed carrier, is insured for damage. Passengers have their choice of riding on the first or second class of glass-domed coaches. A typical train carries 160 automobiles and about 500 passengers at an average speed of 60 miles an hour. Top speed is 79 m.p.h.

Auto-Train Corp. president Eugene Kerik Garfield, 38, an attorney, was an assistant to the secretary of transportation in Washington when he saw a research report in 1968 that concluded an auto-ferry concept would be profitable.

in 1969, got financial backing from private investors and formed the corporation. First, he signed agreements with the Seaboard Coast Line railroad and the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac line to lease their tracks for 15 years with a renewal option for 15 more years. Then he bought passenger coaches from the Aitchison, Toppa and Santa Fe, the Western Pacific, the Seaboard Coast Line and the Union Pacific. Next, he went to the Canadian National Railway for auto-carriers and to General Electric Co. for new locomotives. Finally, he had terminal facilities built at Lorton and Sanford.

Garfield's corporation paid 15 associates put the private rail road together. public sale of stock. The offering of 700,000 shares at $10 each was sold out in one day on July 15, 1971, and Garfield had $7 million. Within 4½ months, he and his associates put the private rail road together.

Altamonte Receives OK On Sewer Plant

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has approved plans and specifications for the construction of the city's regional sewer plant and authorized bid-taking. Mayor Norman Floyd reported to City Council Tuesday night.

Consulting Engineer Bill Palm of the Glace and Radcliffe firm said today bids will be received on Nov. 19 for the 7.5 million gallon daily capacity plant and construction should begin soon after the first of the 1975 year.

within 90 days after the facility is in operation. EPA said the notification was given to Sanlando Utilities Sept. 26.

Council authorized Floyd and City Atty. Joe Davis to negotiate an agreement with Sanlando Utilities to bring treatment at the city's usual rate. Palm advised the city recently that a 45 cents per thousand gallons treatment rate would pay costs of the sewer plant construction will be down.

The East Coast run started on Dec. 6, 1971, and the Midwest run last May 24. Officials say success has been spelled out by profits, a long reservations list and the novelty of transporting a car.

Proceeding Palm said EPA is holding up finding approval for a sewer pumping station and force main on part of Montgomery Road where Sanlando Utilities is to connect to the Altamonte system. Palm said although building materials continue to bring premium prices and some items require 40 to 60 weeks for delivery, "contractors are hungry right now." He anticipates labor costs for the sewer plant construction will be down.

The firm's last financial statement, issued April 30, shows that revenue for the previous 12 months was $21,600,000, up 52 per cent from the $14 million taken in during the first full year of operations.

Earnings in the first year were $804,000. That figure jumped to $1,568,000 in the second year. Stockholders found their investment earnings almost doubling too, from 56 cents per share to $1.09.

Since the trains make no stops en route, except for servicing and crew changes, the costs are standard. On the Lorton-Sanford route, the base fare one way is $18 for an automobile and two occupants for the 856-mile ride. At Louisville, 988 miles from Sanford, the base fare is $225. Each additional passenger pays $25. And private sleeping compartments are extra, ranging from $45 for two people to $85 for five.

Except for liquor, soft drinks and gifts from a small shop, there are no other costs. The base fare includes dinner and breakfast, plus lunch on the Louisville run. There's also a free movie and live entertainment, usually a musician, in the nightclub car.

Winter Springs Salary Hikes Are Approved

WINTER SPRINGS — A recommended pay scale which would give city employees a pay increase retroactive Oct. 5 was approved by City Council at this week's meeting. The name of City Building Inspector Ray Bradshaw was added to the list over the objection of Planning and Zoning Commissioner Irene Van Epeol who pointed out Bradshaw was already making as much as others in more hazardous jobs would be making after the increase.

Councilman Donald Browning, who insisted Bradshaw be included, called the new pay scale "not a merit increase, but a cost of living increase." The new salary figures for the police department include Police Chief John Govortuk, $11,500; Acting Sgt. T.R. Hay, $8,500; Patrolmen Fred Roosevelt, $8,300; Steve Collins, Dick Hamm, John Moore and Edgar Smart, $8,200; John Poole, $7,968 (to be increased to $8,200 when certified); Dispatchers Janita Harper, $6,200, Charles Holzman, Jr., $4,800 (increase to $5,096 when fully qualified); and Nancy Edga, $5,096; and Cadet Mary Wilson, $2,250 per hour.

In presenting the list, Finance Commissioner John Daniels recommended that a replacement patrolman not be hired until a later date in order to offset the pay increases. New salary rates for other departments included: Firemen Charles Holzman Sr., $8,200 and Al Roggenkamp, $8,200; City Clerk Mary Norton, $5,000; maintenance man, James Hansen, $5,000; and Building Inspector Ray Bradshaw, $8,573.

Daniels suggested implementation of the Social Security program for city employees be delayed until Jan. 4, 1975 due to a lack of money. At that time 5.85 per cent of the employee's wages will be withheld and the figure matched by the city.

According to Daniels, revenue has dropped and unnecessary spending must be curtailed. Expenditures for September were $41,235.70 while income to the general fund totaled $38,628.71. Council approved hiring of clerks and inspectors for the Dec. 3 municipal election at $2 an hour. Council now held by Irwin Hunter, John Booth, Donald Browning and John Daniels seats will be at stake. Qualifying period for candidates will be Oct. 15 to Nov. 1. Because of the variations in bids on the new fire truck, Daniels said he will meet with Hunter at City Hall to consider new bids that have been asked to submit.

An ordinance establishing a city fire department and designating the fire chief as administrative head with authority to enforce ordinances and regulations pertaining to the fire department was approved on the first reading. The city presently has no autonomous fire department other than the volunteer fire department over which the chief has no authority. Following the motion by Hunter, Daniels remarked "Since the city is building a $175,000 fire station and has received bids for a $40,000 fire truck it seems only right it have a fire department to use them." Mayor Troy Pfund announced unless the work flow increases, Council could return to meeting every other week. A work shop on utilization of city vehicles is scheduled for Oct. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Florida Utility Calls For Equal Oil Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Florida utility called today for the Federal Energy Administration to equalize oil prices across the nation. J. Richard Sewell, Florida Power & Light's Washington representative, said that under the present arrangement some utilities are paying $5.25 per barrel of oil while others pay $12.

"The laws under which the allocation program was drawn up say that residual oil shall be equalized across the country," Sewell said. "That hasn't been done." Sewell commented as a delegation of Florida public officials and community leaders — including Gov. Reubin Askew, several congressional members and the mayors of Dade County, Orlando and Jacksonville — arrived for a meeting with federal energy officials.

The delegation planned to ask for immediate steps to lower fuel oil costs in Florida. "We're particularly concerned about lowering the price of imported oil," said Sewell, adding that his company's price for Venezuelan oil has tripled in the past year.

He said the rising price of fuel oil is linked to higher utility bills in Florida. All of the state's utilities have sought rate increases from the Public Service Commission. FP&L has asked for a 12 per cent rate hike.

Florida officials some months ago asked for more time to consider the EPA grant offer since a city referendum on the proposed sewer system there was scheduled. EPA's reply set a new deadline for action by the city but the time expired before the city received the letter.

Palm anticipated today that the new plan will be in operation sometime between June and December, 1976. Floyd said that the state DPC notified Sanlando Utilities, which serves most of the subdivision adjacent to SR 434 from Range Line Road west to SR 436, that it must connect to the city's regional sewer plant

Five From Lake Mary To Seek Public Office

Five Lake Mary residents have taken papers necessary for filing for the Dec. 2 municipal election. However, none has been returned to date. The possible candidates for either of three city council seats, or the Mayor's office, include Wade Mixon, Ed Zimmerman, Lee Wheeler, George Hess and J. Richards. The deadline for filing is Oct. 25.

Two of the council seats, currently held by Lou Blankenship and Deopers for a period within the city, City Building and Zoning Administrator Francis Junior stated Monday the builder had not yet complied with recommendations of the city engineer, and therefore the permits has not been granted. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for today.

Harry Terry are the holdover council members. Both Hess and Zimmerman staid in telephone interviews they were undecided at this point. Hess added he was uncertain of his wife Margie's intentions, although she has given him no indication she will not run for re-election.

The city is presently involved in a lawsuit with R.K. Builders, who contend the city has not issued a building permit to the developers for a project within the city, City Building and Zoning Administrator Francis Junior stated Monday the builder had not yet complied with recommendations of the city engineer, and therefore the permits has not been granted. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for today.

Irish Spud Really American

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer
In the 17th century, it kept the Irish going, and after World War II it helped stave off famine in devastated Germany. But it took years for the upper classes in the Western world to accept the graceless potato on their dinner tables.

By itself, the potato possesses little glamor, but it is probably the most important vegetable on earth and today serves as the main source of nourishment in many lands. The Spaniards discovered the potato in the 16th century during their conquest of the Inca empire in Peru and introduced the tuber to Europe.

For more than a century, the potato was grown mainly in flower gardens in England and on the continent. But by the end of the 17th century the Irish improved the potato and made it their main crop.

The Germans have a knack with potatoes, from pancakes to German fried cooked in butter and sprinkled with paprika. One of their best concoctions, in their opinion, is a potato omelet which goes under the sprightly name of Hoppel Poppel.

Add potatoes and onions and saute till potatoes are light brown, stirring occasionally. Add ham and saute a few minutes more. Beat eggs with cognac, salt, pepper and Worcestershire, and pour over potatoes and ham. Sprinkle with parsley and reduce heat. With a spatula, lift cooked egg mixture from the edges of pan so that the liquid part can run down and cook. When omelet is nearly set, sprinkle with grated cheese and place under broiler till cheese melts. Cut into wedges. Serves 4.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

One winter's day, Art, a teenager, was amusing himself by hurling snowballs at passing cars. One snowball missed its target and struck a pedestrian across the street, injuring his eye. Could Art be held liable for assault and battery?

In a court hearing, his lawyer said no. "Art had no wrongful purpose toward this man," went the lawyer's argument. "Hitting him was purely accidental."

However, the court ordered Art to pay damages. The court invoked the doctrine of "transferred intent," by which an original wrongful intent—in this case, the desire to hit the passing car—was transferred to the accidental consequences.

This widely recognized doctrine is based on the law's reluctance to let a wrongdoer get off scot-free. It has even been applied in a case of mistaken identity. Thus, a man snatched up behind another man, thinking he was an old antagonist, and bashed him on the head. Actually, the victim happened to be a total stranger.

But that didn't help the first man when he was hailed into court afterward to face a damage claim. Applying the doctrine of transferred intent, the court had no trouble finding him liable.

On the other hand, the doctrine will not apply if there was no wrongful purpose in the first place. Suppose, for instance, that a woman who is being chased by a mugger throws a rock in his direction. And suppose the rock misses the mugger and hits an innocent bystander.

Under these circumstances, the woman could not be held responsible for injury to the bystander, because she had acted in legitimate self-defense. With no wrongful intent to begin with, there would be nothing that could be transferred into legal liability.

Beans Get New Touch

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

We've tried a good many ways of serving beans and franks in our years of testing recipes, but one of the quickest and most attractive is this new casserole combination. It brings comfort to the hungry, pleasure to the short-of-time cook and benefits to the budget. Serve a crisp salad and cheese bread with the casserole and offer red apples for dessert and you have a supper with welcome contrasting textures and excellent food values.

NEW BEANS AND FRANKS 1/2 small onion, finely chopped (about 2 tablespoons)
1/4 cup catsup
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
25-ounce can New England style baked beans
5 all-beef frankfurters (about 1/2 pound), each cut in thirds
Scant cup French-fried onions (1/4 of a 3-ounce can)

In a 1-1/2 quart casserole stir together the chopped onion, catsup and mustard; stir in the beans. Burg the frankfurters in the broiler. Bake, uncovered, in a 400-degree oven until bubbling hot—about 20 minutes. Sprinkle with French-fried onions and continue baking until they are hot—about 3 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Note: The baked beans we used in testing this recipe are made with pea beans (they're small), pork, brown and white sugar, mustard and salt.

Hearty Party Dish Easy To Prepare

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

N.Y., decided to have a "Rendezvous"—an evening of "pay-for-dinner" at private homes. Once in a while a community group's venture into fund-raising yields a bonus. That's just what happened when member volunteers of the North Shore Science Museum, Plandome, consisted of cocktails, a first course and a main course with generous accompaniments. After dinner all the ticket holders assembled at the museum's headquarters for a choice of elegant desserts, coffee, entertainment and dancing.

So successful were the dinner that the participants exchanged notes on the menus the hostesses had served and clamored for the recipes. As a result of the fund-raising party the menu-and-recipe cookbook called "Company's Coming" that is a record of the Rendezvous. Sold for $2.50 a copy, the proceeds from "Company's Coming" go toward supporting the museum's work in fostering children's interest in science, nature and conservation (via schools and activities at the museum) and encouraging families to participate in this interest.

One of the Rendezvous dinners featured pastiches—a party-size version of the famous Greek pasta dish. Here's our adaptation of the recipe. The original version calls for pericelli or bucatini but we use the more available elbow macaroni. Eight ounces of Romano cheese should make the 2 to 2 1/2 cups (grated) used.

Vanilla Was A Luxury

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

My earliest memory goes back to dinner at my grandmother's house climaxed by creamy, homemade, ivory-hued ice cream dotted with black specks that alarmed me the first time I saw them. My grandmother told me with some asperity that they were straight from the vanilla bean and gave the ice cream its true vanilla flavor.

In school I learned that the explorer Hernando Cortes discovered vanilla during the 15th century when he quilled a cup of hot chocolate at the court of Montezuma. The Aztec Indians made this pungent beverage from the beans of the cacao tree, combined with bean pods the Spaniards named vanilla.

Whole vanilla beans can be used by those who cherish great grandmother's desserts, but the extract is used in most modern recipes.

Here is a liqueur sauce that in my opinion can transform a dish of ice cream or pudding into an epicurean treat. VANILLA-COFFEE LIQUEUR 1 1/2 cups brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup granulated sugar
2 cups water
1/2 cup instant coffee powder
3 cups vodka
2 tablespoons pure vanilla extract

Combine sugars with water. Bring to boil and boil for 5 minutes. Slowly stir in coffee powder. Cool. Pour into jug or jar. Add vodka and vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Cover and let stand at least 2 weeks. Serve over ice cream or pudding or as flavoring for milk drinks. Yields about 3 cups.

Jury Calls O'Malley

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Leon County Grand Jury today subpoenaed state Treasurer Thomas O'Malley. He charged that his action was "patently political" aimed at subverting his re-election campaign. O'Malley was ordered to appear Wednesday morning before the grand jury that has been investigating his conduct as state treasurer and insurance commissioner and other matters involving his personal finances. He charged that the panel's special prosecutor, state Atty. T. Edward Austin of Jacksonville, "is doing everything in his power to interrupt the political process." "It is a travesty on the electoral process that this grand jury is being manipulated in such a manner," O'Malley said in a statement issued by press aide Jerry Davies. O'Malley was campaigning today in Brooksville and Jacksonville. He charged that Austin "must be extremely desperate after conducting an investigation of me for five and a half months." The grand jury has been investigating O'Malley's financial affairs for six months and is expected to conclude its probe by the end of next week. State law provides that O'Malley would have to be granted immunity from prosecution for any matters he discusses before the grand jury. Asst. State Atty. Robert Willis of Jacksonville, a grand jury special prosecutor, declined comment on the possible nature of O'Malley's testimony or the extent to which he might be immunized by answering questions. State law protects the secrecy of grand jury proceedings.

Shevin Surprises Utilities; Rules Fuel Charges Illegal

Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin's opinion today that the fuel adjustment charge levied by power companies to hit their customers is illegal, all a Florida Power and Light official "cold." "It has hit us cold," said Art Wortham, administrative assistant to the FP and L division manager at Merritt Island. Refusing to speculate on the consequences if the company is denied the right to levy the special charge, said, "It would be a blow." He reminded the Shevin ruling "is an opinion and not a court order." "The opinion includes the phrase 'without public hearing,'" Wortham said, adding his belief that all of the company's tariff schedules are the result of public hearings held on at least two occasions. Wortham said the company, after its legal staff has received a copy of the opinion and had an opportunity to review it, probably will release a formal statement later today. Shevin's opinion sparked Public Service Commission Chairman Bill Bevis to call an emergency PSC hearing for Friday morning. Bevis said the hearing would help the PSC "determine what course of action is mandated by this opinion." "I will personally recommend we cut it out for a while," Bevis said at an impromptu news conference. Meanwhile, PSC public council Frederick Karl said in a news release that he was not surprised by the opinion, which Shevin issued for state Rep. Harold Dyer, D-Hollywood. Karl said, "Florida citizens should be cautioned that the attorney general's opinion does not relieve them of the obligation to pay the charges." "The opinion does not invalidate the charges," Shevin told a news conference that customers should continue to pay the charges until the issue is settled by the PSC or the courts. In an opinion issued today for Rep. Harold Dyer, D-Hollywood, Shevin said that the state Public Service Commission does not have the authority to permit regulated utilities to automatically and unilaterally hike fuel adjustment charges without holding public hearings. "Inasmuch as I can find no statutory authority for the commission to permit utilities subject to their jurisdiction to unilaterally modify their rates for any reason, I have concluded that rates charged pursuant to a fuel adjustment clause—even when such clause is included in a tariff on file with the commission—are illegal." Shevin said that Florida law says "the commission must order and hold public hearings before allowing any change in rates charged by regulated utility companies." Fuel adjustment charges, even though set apart in monthly bills, are rates within the meaning of the Florida law, Shevin said. In St. Petersburg, Florida Power spokesman Bill Johnson said, "All I can tell you is that if we're not allowed to pass on this cost, in 60 days we won't be able to pay for the oil." He said no oil means no electricity. Public Service Commissioner William Mayo, contacted in Tampa, said, "I wish the guy would get one opinion and stick to it, and I'm referring to the one about two weeks old that said it was legal." "It's this type difference of legal opinion from whatever source which is helping compound the confusion in the mind of the public as to the justification and legality of the fuel adjustment clause." Shevin also said that after Jan. 1 municipal utilities and rural electric cooperatives must hold hearings before they raise rates. Last week, Shevin issued an opinion saying that the passage of 14 years since the present fuel adjustment formula was put into company rate structures had given it legitimacy. However, he said that the question was limited only to the questions raised by PSC Commissioner Paula Hawkins about whether a failure of the commission to hold hearings before adopting the formula invalidated it. PSC Chairman Bill Bevis said he had not seen Shevin's new opinion. The commission earlier this week scheduled a hearing for Nov. 18 on fuel adjustment as a result of Shevin's earlier opinion and questions by public counsel Frederick Karl about costs in the formula.

Parent Blasts School Board

Seminole County School Board members Wednesday night responded with mixed emotions to charges of "coddling" the southern end of the county in the education program. Reaction ranged from appreciation of the remarks to agreement to discontinue. The criticism came when George Willis, a real estate dealer from Sanford, gave a lengthy critique of the board's preferential treatment of the south end of the county. He mentioned the seven new schools in the south, none in the north, alleged "inadequate, unsafe and depressing facilities" which house the Sanford student population, and the lack of teachers for art, music and physical education. Board Chairman Davis Sims replied Willis was suffering from "tunnel vision" in failing to see the problems existing throughout the county. He stressed the board had accomplished all the goals it set for itself two years ago. Jean Bryant agreed with much of Willis' comments. "These are the same things I have recommended all along. We must bring all the schools up to the adequacy of the schools in the south end." Dr. Stuart Culpepper suggested the citizens of the northern area turnout in March and maintain the four mill tax used for capital expenditures. Both Allan Keeth and William Feather thanked Willis for his remarks and concern. Keeth suggested Superintendent Layer prepare a report, "not a rebuttal," on the matters Willis mentioned. Layer himself said, after the meeting "The quality of teachers is equal, the type of program is equal, with the exception of some small elementary schools, which do not have all the special programs such as music and art. The greatest difference is in the physical plant. The north end is inadequate compared to the newer buildings. But the need to house the influx of students in the south end mandated the money be expended there. If sufficient state capital outlay funds are provided this year and next, and if the voters retain the four mill levy or some part of it in March 1975, the needs of all old schools in the county will be met." Willis scored the principals for their salary adjustments which are deducted from the school budgets, some of which can't afford to hire teachers for those other residents of the district, and benefitted from the concentrated expansion. If the voters of the north end approve the levy in March with a massive turnout, the northern area would be the principal beneficiary of the districts next capital improvement program. He apologized to the board for the absence of a "group of ardent twisting parents," but he said the north end parents don't expect any solution "from a board which is too involved with empire building." GIRL LOCATED AFTER SEARCH

Search for 12-year-old Longwood girl missing since midnight ended happily at 10:30 a.m. today after a friend revealed her whereabouts upon questioning. Sheriff's Deputies Sgt. Oscar Redden and Sgt. Bill Hogan led the search aided by a dog from White Park Police Dept. K-9 Corps. The dog tracked the missing girl to Longwood-Lake Mary Road and her bicycle was found abandoned in the woods.

Utility Fee Ruling Awaited

A new circuit court ruling declaring unconstitutional utility connection fees could give three financially headachecities of Seminole's seven cities if confirmed by the Florida Supreme Court. The court decision in a case against the City of Dunedin is now before the Supreme Court, said Altamonte Springs City Atty. Joe Davis. Sanford, Casselberry and Altamonte Springs expect to receive utility connection fees totaling $520,000 this budget year. Sanford charges a combined sewer-water connection fee of $550 while Casselberry's fee is $750 and Altamonte is in process of adopting a new ordinance raising connection fees from $250 to $750. The $200,000 Casselberry anticipates receiving from the special fee represents fully 10 percent of its anticipated 1974-75 revenues. These receipts go into a fund for the sewer and water utility plant, expansion, actual costs of connecting new utility customers, and capital im-

More Retail Price Hikes Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose only one-tenth of a per cent last month as falling farm prices offset increases in the cost of industrial goods, the government reported today. The modest September price rise followed near-record increases in July and August. September increase was the smallest price advance since wholesale prices declined a tenth of a per cent last October.

Woodlands Penalty Invoked

The Seminole County School Board Wednesday evening instructed its attorney Douglas Stenstrom to invoke a penalty clause against George Willis, Inc. when he violates the contract deadline for moving the old Altamonte-new Woodlands Elementary School. The deadline is Oct. 13. School Superintendent William Laver reported Saunders had submitted a timetable declaring Nov. 30 as the revised expected completion date of the project. Laver added if all goes according to schedule the building may be occupied as early as Jan. 2. Laver stated during a public meeting on millage, the eight mill board's budget is based on not an increase but a decrease of two mills from the total tax package of last year. He said if any increase is noticed in the tax bill of individual residents the increase would be due to reassessment, not the eight mill levy. In another money-related matter, Laver suggested the board endorse Amendment No. 1 on the November ballot. The amendment provides utility tax receipts be used to repay capital improvement bonds, at no cost to the taxpayers. The board approved the motion. The board also approved the purchase of a gasoline tank to service 1975 model school vehicles. New cars and buses will operate on unleaded gas only, by federal law. The tank would be installed at the school district bus garage. Bids were submitted and approved by the board for basketball backboards at South Seminole Middle School, $1,800.75; duct work for several schools, $24,888.23; electrical supplies for air conditioning at several schools $93,058.49; and a change order at Tusculum Middle School, $21,220. The board received a written resolution from the Winter Springs City Council protesting the board's policy of extending busing programs of Winter Springs students to Jackson Heights and Oviedo Schools. The board also heard the remarks of George Willis of Sanford, concerning the condition of education in the northern end of the county.
