Hearing Set On School Board Plans For 64-Acre Tract

School Board plans to build a bus garage and maintenance facility on a 64-acre tract near Five Points are still alive, despite the county planning and zoning board's unanimous refusal to rezone the tract.

Seminole County School Board attorney Ned Julian Jr. said Wednesday evening the issue has been appealed to the county commission and a public hearing is scheduled for Jan. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in commission chambers at the courthouse.

He said his partner, Kenneth W. McIntosh, will represent the board at the hearing and school board members who wish to speak out on the issue may participate in the hearing.

The county's advisory Planning and Zoning Commission last Thursday night, facing an estimated 200 plus protesters, turned down the request.

The school board asked that the parcel, known as the Forest Green property, located between U.S. 17-92 and County Road 427, be rezoned to PLI (public lands and institutions) from its single-family residence designation.

Objecting strongly was Larry Dale, developer of Cardinal Oaks Estates, where homes valued up to $400,000 are being constructed. Dale's development is directly across CR 427 from the planned bus garage-maintenance property. The school board has an option to purchase the tract for $840,000.

Also among the protesters were Lake Mary Mayor

Walter Sorenson and representatives of the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce. The city commission in Lake Mary earlier adopted a resolution opposing the proposed rezoning, noting that the planned use conflicts with the county and city land use plans for the city's fringe area in the unincorporated section.

Lake Mary officials also insisted that the I-1 zoning is merely another name for an industrial use which is not compatible with existing homes in the area.

School officials have said the need for a central garage-maintenance facility may be greater than local zoning concerns and the Forest Green property with its adequate area and access to main roads is the best site for the complex.

"Our maintenance and support facilities are horrendous," said Benny Arnold, assistant superintendent for facilities and transportation. "We have three on half-acre lots and a transportation facility on five acres off 427 near Longwood. With all we own, we have only a total of eight acres for these needs."

"We are trying to get adequate facilities at a central location so we can dispatch our buses and we need a site large enough to be used for the next 20 to 25 years."

"It is not our intent to inflame or alienate anyone. We are approaching this from a business standpoint to consolidate the facilities and do away with duplication on small parcels," he said.

Girl Haunted By Assault Gets Wish

School Board Vetoes Staff-Forced Transfer

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

An eighth-grade girl, traumatized two years ago when a man exposed himself to her as she was walking home from school, is back at Lakeview Middle School today where she was transferred from by school authorities two months ago.

In discussing the case, the three women members of the Seminole County School Board banded together and with an assist from a vote by colleague Roland Williams, rejected 4-1 Wednesday an administrative decision to keep the girl at Sanford Middle School. The girl attended Lakeview for two years prior to the transfer to Sanford Middle in early October.

The transfer came after school authorities discovered the girl's mother had lied about their permanent address to keep the child at Lakeview. The mother admitted she lied "for the welfare of my daughter." She said by going to Sanford Middle school her daughter had to daily walk past the field from which a man had once exposed himself and tried to grab her. The incident occurred when she was in the fifth grade at Goldsboro Elementary School.

The board heard a report from a private psychologist which said the girl was depressed and fearful after the transfer and it was endangering her health.

In the two months she was a student at Sanford Middle, her elderly grandmother has been driving her there daily but the grandmother cannot continue, the single working mother said.

"My daughter is extremely unhappy, cries all the time and is not adjusting well," she said in an emotional appeal to the board. She asked that they overturn a decision made by the administrative staff, endorsed by a staff appeals board and recommended by School Superintendent Robert Hughes.

Board chairman Bill Kroll joined with the staff and superintendent's position, saying that the system cannot allow students to select the schools they would prefer to attend.

Although Hughes recommended the girl be kept at Sanford Middle School, he said he did not know about the psychological report until the meeting Wednesday evening.

"The emotional disturbance to her then and now has been overpowering. She is afraid to sleep by herself, to walk home or stay by herself," the mother said.

"There have been children raped in that field that the man came out of," she said.

When the girl attended Lakeview, her mother would drop her off at a friend's home in Pinecrest and she went to school each day on the bus to Lakeview from there, returning to the friend's house in the afternoon where her mother picked her up.

After someone complained to the county school office that the girl was going to Lakeview when she lives in the Sanford Middle School zone she was transferred.

A series of questions about the situation were asked by the women on the board — Jean Bryant, Nancy Warren and Pat Telson.

Mrs. Bryant and Mrs. Telson made the motion to reject the superintendent's recommendation. To Kroll's remark that the board could not allow students to select the schools they preferred, Mrs. Warren said this was a special case.

When Hughes asked that the transfer back to Lakeview be delayed until the end of the semester in January or February for the girl's academic good, Mrs. Warren asked whether her transfer to Sanford Middle was delayed until the end of a nine week school period.

Hughes said the girl was transferred Oct. 10 and that was prior to the end of the first nine week period of school.

"Let her return to Lakeview tomorrow," Mrs. Warren said.

Construction To Begin On Hamilton School

Construction will begin in 10 days on the new Hamilton Elementary School, the first elementary school to be built in the Sanford area in 14 years.

Notice to proceed was issued today to the Graham Construction Co., low bidder for the project at $3.86 million. Construction is to be completed by August, 1984 and the facility is to be ready for occupancy by Sanford students in the 1984-85 school year.

It will replace the old Sanford Grammar school, a 1902 vintage building; Southside Elementary, built in 1922, and Hopper, built in 1961, said Benny Arnold, assistant school superintendent for facilities and transportation.

The School Board accepted the low bid of Graham Construction for the kindergarten through fifth grade school at its meeting Wednesday evening.

The new facility, named for William and Aletia Hamilton, retired long-time school teachers, will be built on a 15-acre tract behind the county school office on Mellonville Avenue. Hamilton Elementary will face Eighth Street in Sanford.

The school will have a complete kitchen and cafeteria, a departure from other schools built in recent years where cooked food was transported to elementary schools from kitchen facilities at other schools.

The school is also slated to have a multi-purpose room and a large meeting area for community events, plus a covered outdoor play area.

Studen. capacity at the school will be 792, but the school's interior could be rearranged to take up to 900 students without adding on to the exterior of the building, Arnold said.

Arnold told the board the per square foot cost of construction for the building will be $46.58, compared with the state average of $54 per square foot.

In other business Wednesday, the School Board approved a recommendation from School Superintendent Robert Hughes for a four-day work week for board employees during the summer months.

Jury Out

A Seminole Circuit Court jury continued deliberations today in the trial of an Orlando man charged with armed robbery and burglary.

The four-woman, two-man jury deliberated two hours until 8:45 p.m. Wednesday, recessing after they requested the transcript of testimony given by a witness in the trial of James Alfred Elliot, 22, of 1919 E. Mark St.

Elliot was charged with the July 12, 1982 robbery of John Sobik III and Dennis Sobik and burglary of the home John Sobik Sr., of Fern Drive, Longwood. The Sobik brothers are sons of John Sobik Sr., owner of the burglarized home and a sandwich shop chain.

Crackdown County OKs Code Enforcement Board

Frustrated by delays in the prosecution of violators of county ordinances, the Seminole County Commission has decided to crackdown by creating a code enforcement board.

Also at its Tuesday night meeting, the commission agreed to spend $385,000 to computerize the dispatch systems for the sheriff's and public safety departments.

After six months of study by various county departments, the commission voted to follow the lead of the county's seven municipalities which already have established code enforcement boards and set up its own.

The code enforcement board will crack down on county code violators. The seven members are scheduled to be appointed in early January.

The county's new board will include an architect, businessman, engineer, general contractor, subcontractor and realtor. Members will serve three-year terms without compensation.

The board will hear cases involving violations ranging from land development to junk car laws. If it determines a violation has occurred, a deadline for compliance will be set and a fine of up to $250 a day can be levied. The board is not empowered to hand out jail terms.

Without the code enforcement board, the county has to take violators of its codes through the county court system with assistance from the State Attorney's office. Prosecutions for violation of county codes have had to wait while more important cases were handled.

When the board begins its work, county administrators said they expect cases to be handled quicker and more efficiently thus giving county inspectors more time for other duties.

The computer assisted dispatch systems are expected to shorten emergency response time by sheriff's deputies and fire and rescue personnel by providing instant information.

The county has designated $199,763 for the purchase of an IBM System 38 computer, software and six-month maintenance contract for the public safety department.

Experts: Sanford Should Begin Well

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A "brain bowl" composed of consulting engineers and Sanford city staff agreed Wednesday the city should begin work immediately to drill a new well in the Hidden Lake area near Airport Boulevard.

The well would be designed to expand the municipal water supply while the city is battling to rid three contaminated wells and a fourth well suspected of being contaminated with the pesticide EDB.

While this project gets underway, the group recommended that the city:

- Contract with Conklin, Porter & Holmes, consulting engineers, to assume the role of a coordinating and supervising engineer for the city.

- Contract with a professional firm of hydrologists, such as Environmental Science and Engineering (ESE) of Gainesville to study and make recommendations on removing ethylene dibromide from the contaminated city wells.

- Ask Dr. James Taylor, a civil engineer of the University of Central Florida faculty to test his activated carbon filter model in Sanford to see how effective it is on EDB contaminated water.

- Ask the Conklin firm to make recommendations on the use of large carbon filtering systems. Latest cost estimate on filters capable of filtering 1 million gallons of water is $150,000 per year.

- Ask Conklin to make recommendations on pumping the contaminated wells and disposing of the resulting water to rid those wells of EDB.

- Have Conklin coordinate work between the city and other consultants and agencies.

- Locate and acquire competent and acceptable (by state standards) laboratory facilities.

- Ask Conklin to make other recommendations as he sees fit.

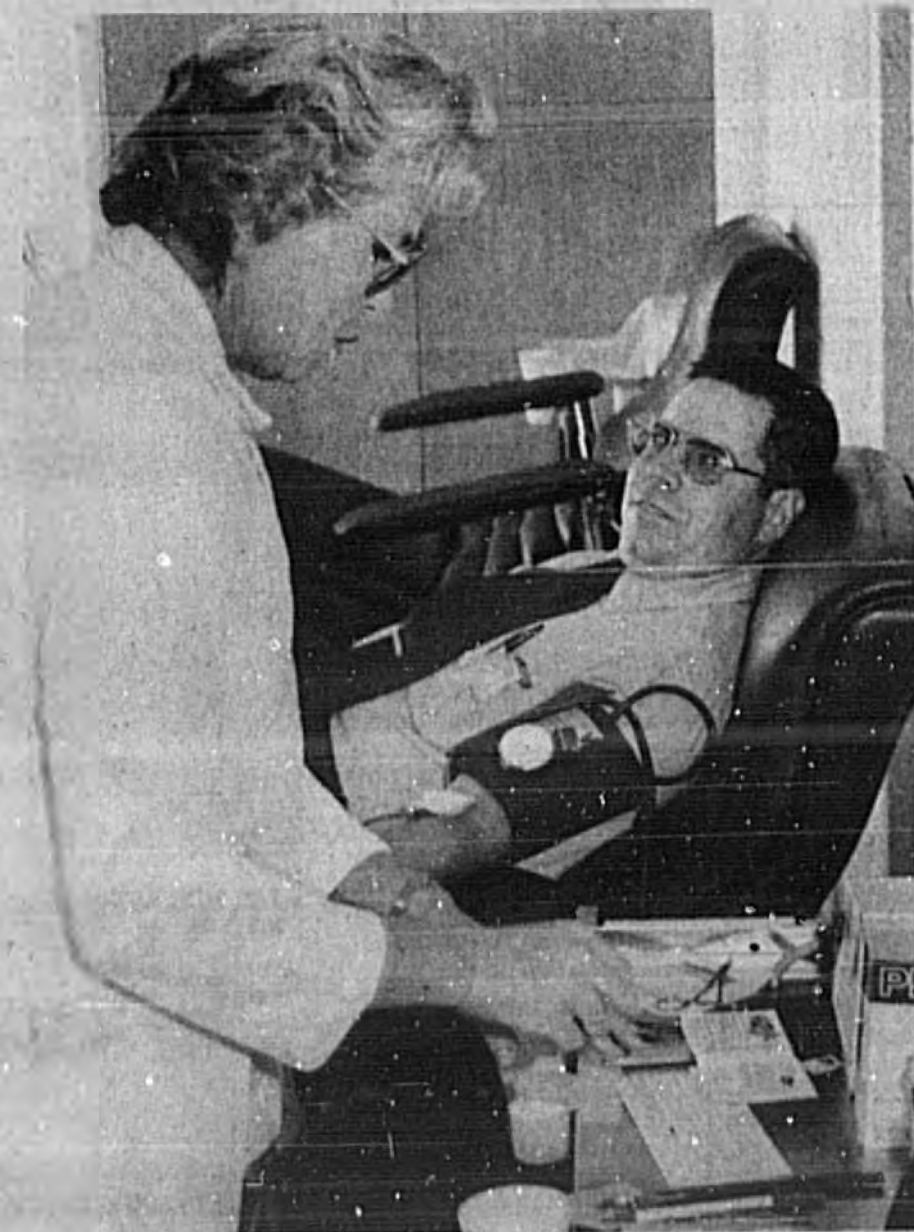

Meanwhile, the group decided the city will proceed to drill the new well at Hidden Lake Park with that well to be tied into the city's auxiliary water supply in the U.S. 17-92—Airport Boulevard area. The city staff is to finalize the plans, obtain permits, prepare specifications, bid the project and drill the well.

The city commission instructed city staff to come up with recommendations on pumping the problem of 3 of its 15 wells shut down for EDB contamination and the possibility that a fourth well is contaminated.

100th Pint —Not a Bit Low

Joann Barnett, LPN, supervisor at the Central Florida Blood Bank's Sanford office, takes 100th pint of blood donated by Waller Meriwether Jr., internal accounts auditor and risk manager for the Seminole County School Board. He is the chairman of school board's reserve blood account, having begun donating blood in 1956. "I have given blood to many people," he said. "Some I have never met. Each Christmas I receive cards from people I have never met but have given blood to." Meriwether said he also donates blood specifically on behalf of three elderly people and for the Hemophilia Association. "Blood donating doesn't hurt, and it helps a lot of people," he said.

NATION IN BRIEF

Wage Sex Bias Awards To Spur Nationwide Push

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — A national public employees union says it will seek to halt alleged sex-based wage discrimination across the country because of a federal court decision to reimburse Washington women state employees for years of low wages.

U.S. District Judge Jack E. Tanner ordered wage increases and back pay Wednesday for 15,500 Washington state employees — mostly women.

Under his ruling — the first ever in a "comparable worth" case — the affected employees will get a $100 annual increase in pay for 10 years, and a court-appointed special master will devise a formula for back pay and fringes retroactive to September 1979.

Tanner found the state guilty in September of discriminating against workers in predominantly female jobs by paying them less than men who work in other jobs requiring equal levels of skill and responsibility.

Radicals Plant More Bombs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police used robot-like devices early today to remove two live bombs left in front of the Honeywell Building by a terrorist group opposed to U.S. intervention in Central America, authorities said.

The bombs, left in suitcases, were found in front of a one-story building housing offices of Honeywell Inc., in Queens. The building was empty at the time.

They failed to explode at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday — the time a terrorist group taking credit for the attempted bombing said they would.

A group named the United Freedom Front claimed responsibility for placing the bombs in two calls to United Press International.

The United Freedom Front also claimed credit for the bombing earlier in the week of a Navy Recruiting station on Long Island.

High School Band Instruments Stolen

Thieves March To A Different Drummer

While some thieves may not be able to carry a tune, there is at least one, or more, in Sanford that can carry musical instruments.

According to a Sanford police report, someone recently entered room 700 of Seminole High School, 2701 Georgia Ave., and removed two oboes and a clarinet, then left via a nearby classroom.

The thieves, who entered the school between 3 p.m. Nov. 23 and 7:15 p.m. Nov. 28, gained access to the rooms with keys, police said. And according to the report, the band master, Robert McGuire, said his keys were taken Nov. 23.

Also taken during the heist were bags of cans collected by the janitor for recycling, according to McGuire.

McGuire said he is more interested in getting the three reed instruments back than finding the orchestrators of the theft. He added that the bandits left behind what he described as an easily-fenced $1,500 set of drums.

OFFICER ASSAULTED

Two Casselberry police officers who were trying to calm a disturbance at Season's restaurant on Dog Track Road were allegedly assaulted by a suspect they had arrested.

Officers Brady Myers and Jennette Rattner had been called by the restaurant manager around 3:20 a.m. Wednesday to remove two men who were arguing. Myers reported that he was kicked in the head and leg by a suspect who refused to follow instructions. The man was subdued and handcuffed after the assault. Ms. Rattner was injured while trying to handcuff the man, a report said.

John Paul Tidenberg, 29, of 786 Land Avenue, Longwood, was released from the Seminole County Jail Wednesday after posting $5,000 bond. His hearing on charges of trespassing and battery to a police officer is scheduled for Dec. 30.

Also arrested was Heidi Jo Townsen, 20, also of 786 Land Avenue. She was charged with interfering with a police officer and possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana. She posted a $500 bond and was released Wednesday. Her hearing is set for Dec. 23.

The officers were not seriously injured.

Someone took a 4-month-old chow-chow dog from a fenced yard at 250 Trailwood Drive, Altamonte Springs.

Leslie I. Cervo said that early Monday she was approached at her home by a young man who asked how much the $165 dog was worth. He left saying he would return to buy the dog, but at about noon a neighbor, Christine Shelton, 30, said she saw a young man running away from Ms. Cervo's house carrying the dog, according to a Seminole County sheriff's deputy's report.

Investigators said they believe the suspect may live in Ms. Cervo's neighborhood.

Reagan: No Tax Hike Next Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Regardless of whether he decides to propose a contingency tax in his new budget, President Reagan says there will be no tax increase next year.

Reagan, speaking to reporters during an informal news conference Wednesday, explained the concept behind the contingency tax "is that such a tax would only be considered on the basis of getting the spending reductions that we must have."

He added, "We're not close to any decision" on whether to include such a tax in the administration's fiscal 1985 budget proposal that he will send to Congress in February.

In any event, he said, "There won't be any tax (hike) in 1984."

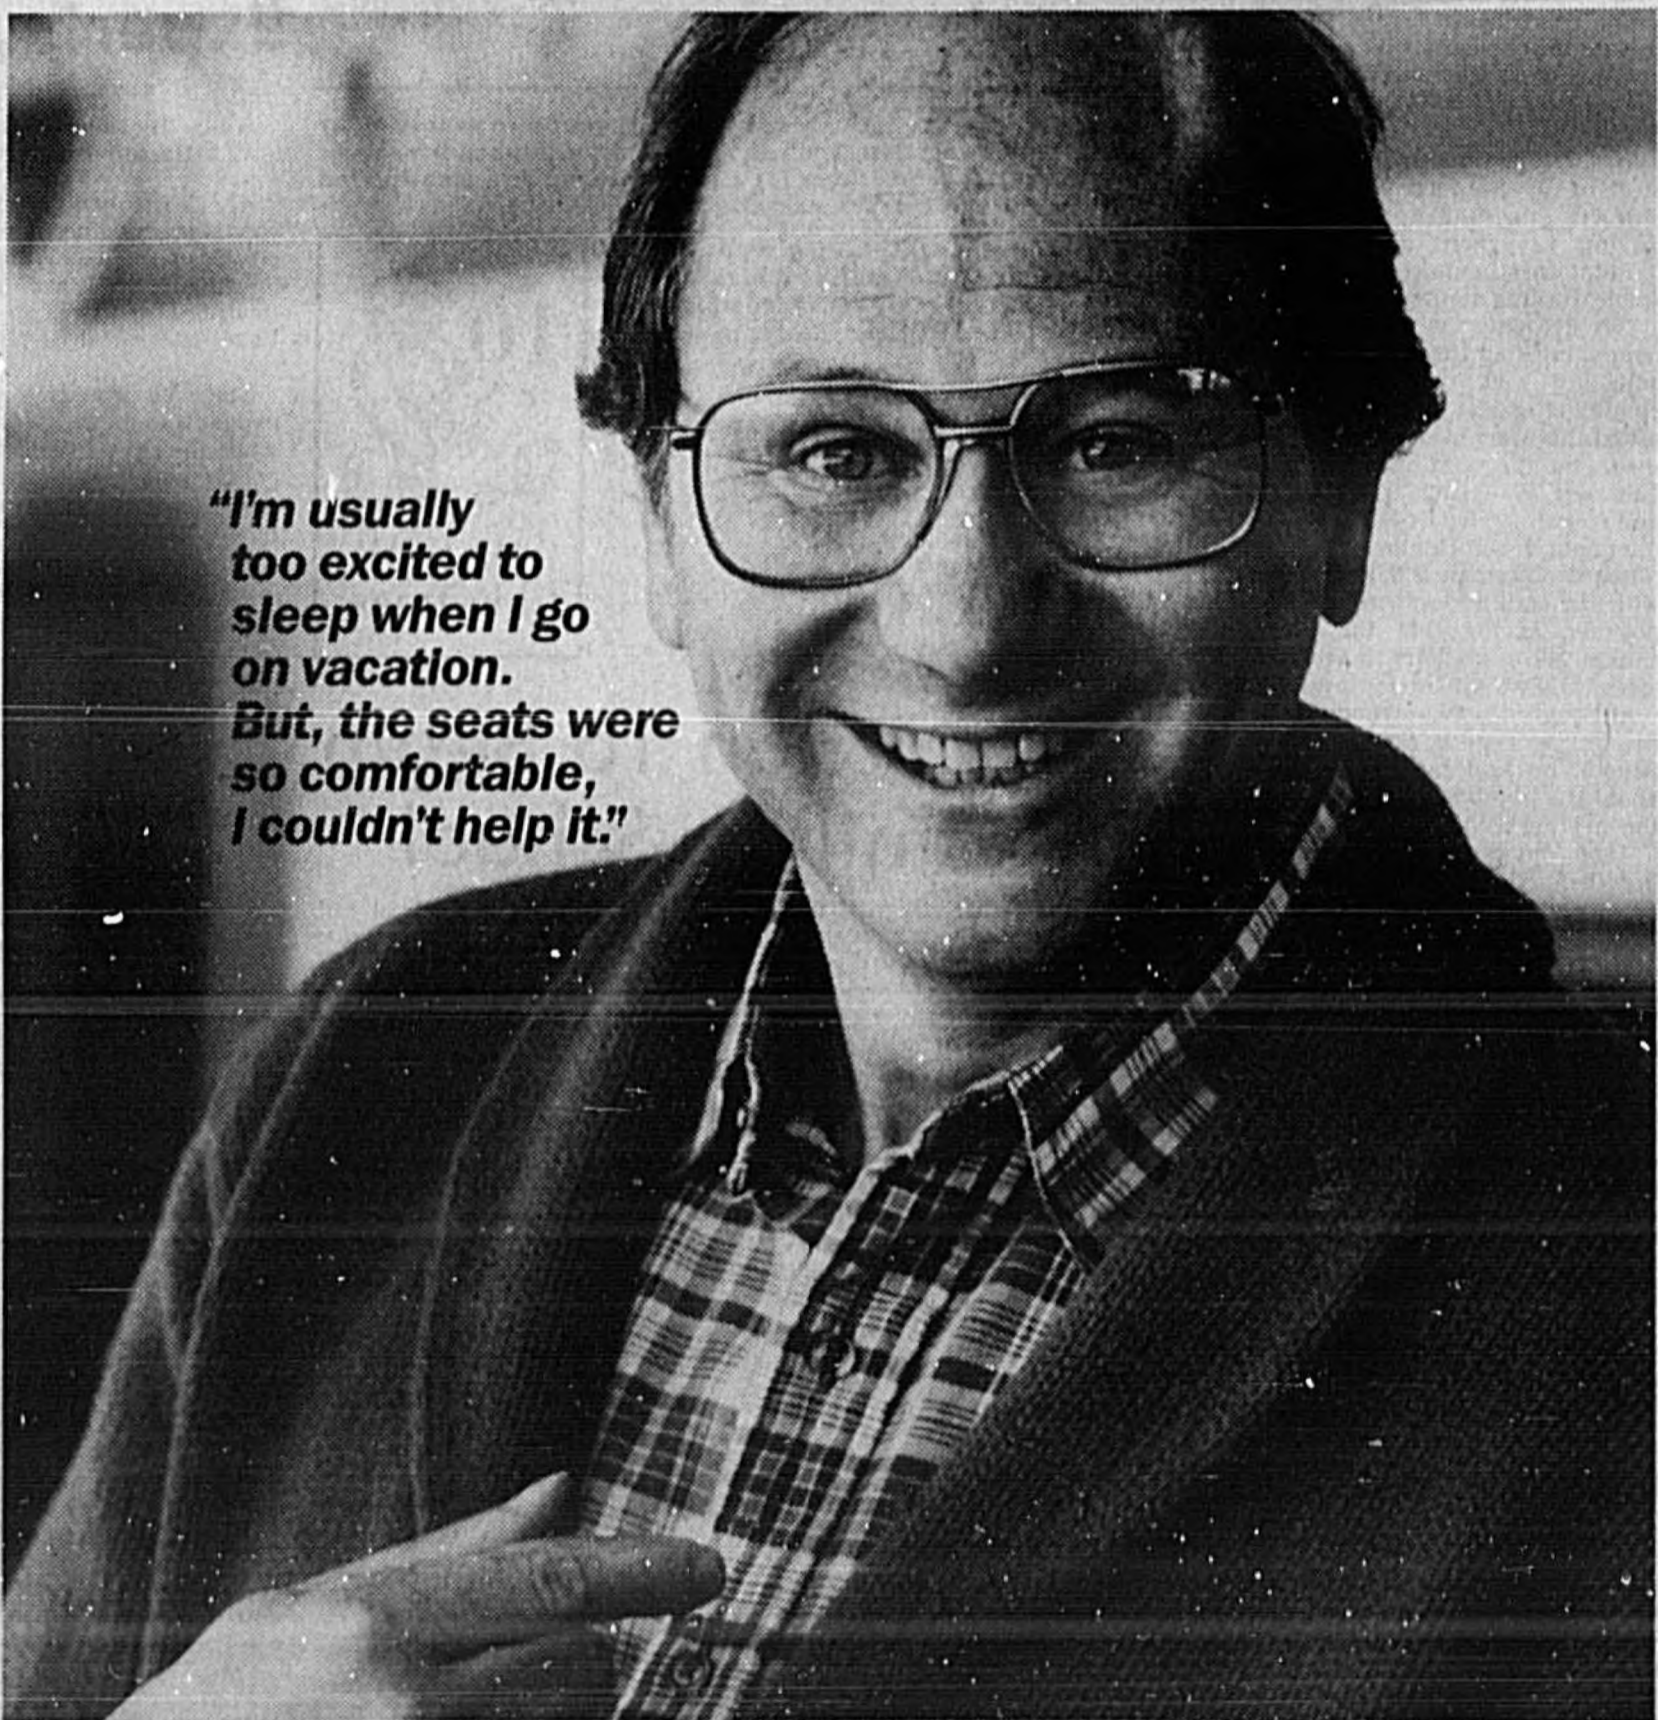

Earlier this year, Reagan proposed a contingency tax that would levy a $5 per barrel tax on crude oil and a 5 percent income surtax on individuals and corporations.

But the administration never actively promoted the tax plan, which was contingent upon Congress approving his requested budget cuts, the economy remaining weak and the deficit high. Consequently, it was never seriously considered on Capitol Hill.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said earlier this week a tax increase proposal would be included in the fiscal 1985 budget that would hinge on spending cuts — but not identical to the contingency taxes proposed earlier.

Meanwhile, the Senate Finance Committee held its third and final day of hearings on ways to reduce the federal deficit.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Robert Dole, R-Kan., has asked his staff to come up with draft legislation by Feb. 15 for a $150 billion, four-year deficit reduction plan that combines spending cuts and tax increases.

"I'm usually too excited to sleep when I go on vacation. But, the seats were so comfortable, I couldn't help it!"

Would-Be Mafia Hit Man Executed

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Thursday, Dec. 15, 1983-3A

JACKSON, Ga. (UPI) — John Eldon Smith, 53, an insurance salesman who thought killing two people might win him a job as a Mafia hit man, died in Georgia's new electric chair at 8:15 a.m. today, complaining only that the straps were too tight.

Smith's swift death emphasized the quickening pace of executions in the United States. The 11th man to be executed since the Supreme Court lifted its death penalty ban in 1976, he was the fifth to die this year — and the second in just two days.

Smith, a short, bald man with a walrus moustache, stepped jauntily to the varnished wooden chair and sat down and half a dozen blue-uniformed correctional officers hurried to strap him in, cinching his arms, legs and waist with arm leather straps two inches wide. He wore white prison denim with white socks, but no shoes or jewelry.

"Hey, there ain't no point in pulling it so tight," he told them.

The Rev. Richard Wise, a Catholic priest, walked with Smith to the death chamber.

"My final statement will be made by Father Wise," Smith told Warden Ralph Kemp, who read his execution order and asked if he had anything to say.

The short, gray-bearded priest, read from 2 Corinthians:

"Indeed, we know that when the earthly tent in which we dwell is destroyed, we have a dwelling prepared by God."

"Father, I abandon myself into your hands," he concluded.

Smith looked at the ceiling of the white-painted chamber and scanned the faces of the 13 witnesses, two guards and a physician's assistant watching through a window from an adjoining room.

A square piece of leather was draped over his face and a leather-strapped cap resembling a bicyclist's helmet containing an electrode was placed over his head.

So tightly was Smith strapped to the chair that it was difficult to tell when the three unidentified executioners threw their switches, two of which were dummies and one that set off a two-minute blast of electricity ranging as high as 2,080 volts.

Smith's body tensed as if he had taken a deep breath. His right hand curled upward, the thumb touching the index finger. No other movement was visible.

Smith steadfastly maintained his innocence in the murders of Ronald Akins, Mrs. Smith's former husband, and Akins' wife, Juanita, in 1974.

But testimony from a third man convicted of the murders showed that after Smith married the divorced Mrs. Akins she convinced him that the Mafia was looking for good men, and that he could make big money as a hit man.

He adopted the name Anthony Isalido Machetti, the witness said, and fell in with his wife's plan to murder Akins for his insurance money — still in her name — and to "make his bones" to win his way into the mob.

Kosher Inspector's Job May Not Be Kosher

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Taxpayers' money should not be used to hire a kosher inspector for Miami Beach hotels and restaurants because the job is a religious one, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union has charged.

The procedure violates the "provisions of separation of church and state," ACLU Miami chapter attorney Stanley Pred said Wednesday. He said the ACLU has received several complaints from Miami Beach residents.

Miami Beach instituted the job in 1967 and is one of the last cities in the nation that still hires a kosher inspector. Assistant City Manager Ed Gross said the city's kosher ordinance is to protect consumers from fraud.

The inspector's job is to insure that the city's 125 restaurants, hotels and grocery stores that claim to sell kosher food actually follow ancient Jewish dietary laws.

Good Samaritan Decked

MIAMI (UPI) — A former Marine with a reputation as a good Samaritan stepped in to rescue a woman under attack — only to be clouted by the woman, who promptly drove off with her assailant.

Yearend Warning To U.S. Tax Cheats

Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Roscoe L. Egger Jr. recently offered some good year-end advice to would-be last-minute tax savers. He said there were four factors that will guarantee a tax audit: "tax shelter, tax shelter, tax shelter, tax shelter."

With December a traditional advertising period for such tax savings promotions, the IRS is trying to discourage people looking for a fast buck because abusive tax shelters account for a large part of our nation's shocking tax loss.

Tax shelters are investments made to take advantage, through huge write-offs, of tax benefits in industries that the government is trying to promote for development. Some examples are real estate or oil and gas exploration. Financial analysts generally urge caution on tax shelters because the honest investments will require more than one month to build up any appreciable savings.

Last year, the IRS completed audits of 95,998 taxpayers who used "abusive tax shelters," assessing them $1.6 billion in back taxes. It also reportedly has approximately 350,000 other tax shelter cases involving both promoters and investors set for examination. The IRS announced the arrest of two men who attempted to bribe a revenue officer with $500,000 in return for the agent's assistance in solving tax problems the two had with a cattle investment scheme they were promoting.

Investment tax shelters aren't the only tax abuse. A similar ploy is to donate a gift to a charitable group, then overvalue the gift in order to claim an excessive deduction.

Altogether, the IRS estimates that the U.S. Treasury lost about $81.5 billion in unpaid taxes in 1981, which was more than that year's entire budget deficit of $65 billion. Most of that amount was attributed to individual tax cheats, not corporations.

Everyone suffers from such dishonesty. Tax cheating contributes to our national deficit, which in turn leads to higher interest rates, higher prices, fewer exports for other countries and loss of jobs. More IRS agents and computers will help fight the battle against tax cheats, but the best weapon is more honesty among American taxpayers.

The majority of Americans are honest when it comes to paying their taxes. And no doubt, they would rather think about something other than tax audits and the IRS at Christmastime. Still, the IRS high-visibility campaign concerning shelters is timely because it is aimed at the real Scrooges in America.

This Is Populism

It's all quite proper to be sniffy about populist movements, but before we dismiss them we should see what they're about. Within one eight-day period, the voters of Michigan have recalled by margins of 60 percent to 40 percent and 64 percent to 36 percent two Democratic state senators who supported Gov. James J. Blanchard's plan to ease an inherited $700 million budget deficit by a 38 percent increase in the personal income tax. The deposed legislators were the first ever ousted by a recall election in the state of Michigan.

Anti-tax groups are busy targeting other Democratic supporters of the high-tax idea. With two democrats now gone, the Michigan senate stands at a deadlock with 18 Republicans squared off against 18 Democrats. Of the two vacant seats, one will most assuredly be won by a Republican. The other is still a toss-up.

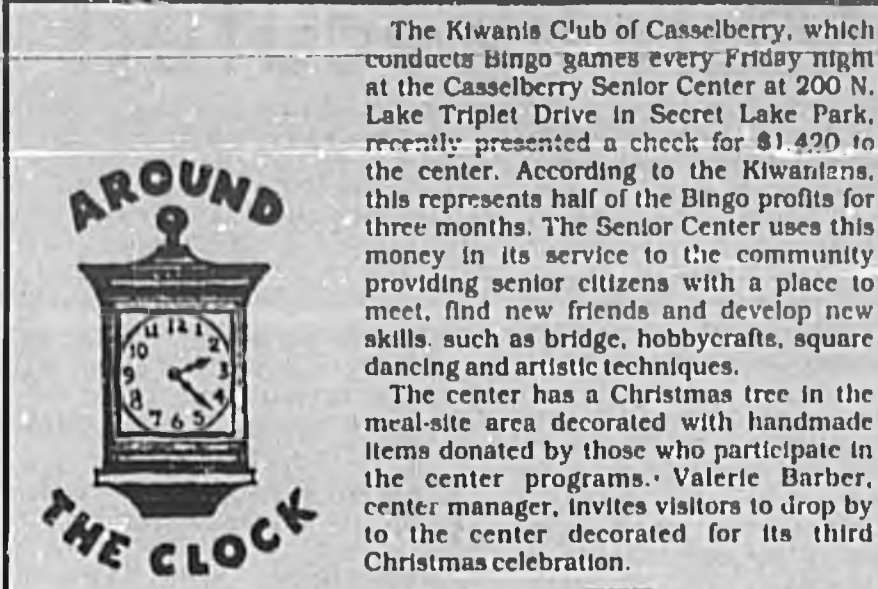

Senate Democrats responded to all this by drafting a redistricting plan (and passing it at the last minute before they lost their majority) that would favor their party over the Republicans, whom they believe are behind all this populist fury. The Republicans, for the record, have smiled, said they have nothing to do with this grass-roots movement, and urged the Democrats to heed the voice of the people.

So what does this all mean? Are the people becoming barbarous? Are they unwilling to let their representatives represent them? Are they unwilling to balance the budget? No, Michigan is not populated by Visigoths and of course the people know that what government spends they must pay for. But they also know that in a state crying for economic growth, as Michigan is, an increase in taxes means a decrease in job-creating investment capital. Government cannot provide jobs. It can only provide services. Right now the people of Michigan prefer jobs. If the Democrats realize this, they'll be able to keep theirs.

"Which section do you prefer, sir — 'high self-esteem' or 'low self-esteem'?"

By Jane Casselberry

The Kiwanis Club of Casselberry, which conducts Bingo games every Friday night at the Casselberry Senior Center at 200 N. Lake Triplet Drive in Secret Lake Park, recently presented a check for $1,420 to the center. According to the Kiwanians, this represents half of the Bingo profits for three months. The Senior Center uses this money in its service to the community providing senior citizens with a place to meet, find new friends and develop new skills, such as bridge, hobbycrafts, square dancing and artistic techniques.

The center has a Christmas tree in the meal-site area decorated with handmade items donated by those who participate in the center programs. Valerie Barber, center manager, invites visitors to drop by to the center decorated for its third Christmas celebration.

Individuals and couples may sign up now for "Great Decisions, 1984" — a 10-week session scheduled to begin Feb. 1 at 2 p.m. at the Casselberry Senior Center with Tom Simpson as moderator. Discussions will center on foreign affairs and will be built around information gathered by the Christian Science Monitor and other objective sources.

It will be sponsored by the International Committee of Rotary. Dwayne Bailey, chairman, in cooperation with Seminole and Valencia community colleges. Materials will be available through the center office. Call 831-3551, extension 264 if you are interested.

The Foreign Policy Association of the United States is the sponsoring body. This will give those attending a chance to tally up their ideas and forward them to the Foreign Affairs committee of the Congress.

For the convenience of residents in the north half of Seminole, the Catholic Social Services, located in Orlando, now has a toll free phone number they can use in seeking assistance. The number is 647-5555. Catholic Social Services is an agency of the United Way of Seminole County and is not restricted to Catholics, but is available to everyone. Bob Walko, executive director of United Way said. Some of the services offered include adoption, child placement, foster care, aid and counseling to unwed parents, family emergency assistance and refugee resettlement.

The film, "The Cross and the Switchblade," based on the experiences of the Rev. David Wilkerson, who began his Teen Challenge ministry among the street gangs, drug addicts and prostitutes of New York's slums more than a decade ago, evidently still carries quite a spiritual impact. According to Seminole County Jail Chaplain Charles B. Pitroff he showed the film to 120 inmates at the jail and as a result there were 25 decisions for Christ.

An average of 122 Bible lessons done by the inmates were graded per week in November by volunteers.

Jail officials credit the ministry by the Good News Mission chaplain and his assistants and the Seminole Community College's high school program with the prisoners' keeping the climate of the jail cooled down. Recently, 10 of the inmates received the GED diplomas at a special graduation ceremony. They earned them while incarcerated.

Higher Taxes And Spending

We have lately witnessed an extended replay of the David Stockman confessions to the Atlantic Monthly in the media poutrette by the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, President Martin Feldstein. At this writing he still held his job. Like Stockman, Dr. Feldstein is getting his picture in the papers by disagreeing with President Reagan's economic program.

While Mr. Reagan has emphatically promised to veto any tax increases that come to his desk, Dr. Feldstein has been claiming repeatedly that the nation needs a big tax hike to reduce our looming budget deficits.

Unfortunately, the Feldstein view is shared by Senate Finance Committee chairman Robert Dole and Rep. James Jones, chairman of the House Budget Committee. These, and other "revenue enhancers" are looking for ways to cut the deficit the easy way: by lifting more dollars from taxpayers, rather than taking the politically courageous route of cutting government spending.

Sen. Dole's current tax hike proposal purports to cut spending and raise taxes by equal amounts. But the tax hike side is the only one that counts. The Dole bill would pile new taxes on the energy industry to raise a projected $39 billion; on individuals, through an income tax "surcharge," to produce another $15 billion; and raise the corporate income tax to the tune of $11 billion. Most important, the Dole plan would limit indexing of the personal income tax to 3 percent of the rise in the consumer price index, rather than the entire amount, effectively repealing indexing as a central provision of Mr. Reagan's 1981 tax bill.

As with the so-called Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of August 1982 that hikes taxes $100 billion over three years, the budget cuts are mostly illusory. With TEFRA, we were promised three dollars in cuts for every dollar in tax increases. It actually worked out to 21 cents in higher spending for every dollar in new taxes. So it would go with this latest plan. Reductions in cost-of-living adjustments in federal pay and pensions and Cabinet budgets already written into the law would be counted as new cuts.

The arguments against this legislative smokescreen are both political and economic. First, congressmen are under greater pressure to spend than to cut, thus dollars cut from one program invariably end up in another. Second, higher taxes represent a drag on the economy: on investment, on consumption, and thus on government revenues from both corporate and personal taxes.

Army Greased Skids For Meese

WASHINGTON — A year ago, White House counselor Edwin Meese III was quietly promoted to the rank of bird colonel in the Army Reserve. This sudden improvement in Meese's military fortunes, given its political overtones, outraged another reserve colonel who raised a squawk.

The Pentagon brass, always cautious in their derelictions, passed this hot potato to the Army's inspector general. He conducted a delicate investigation to determine whether "undue influence" had been involved in the promotion of President Reagan's right-hand man.

The still-secret IG report exonerates Meese himself of "any inappropriate actions." But the IG's investigators did concede that hallowed Army Reserve procedures were "misapplied, violated or ignored."

This has been confirmed by my associates Dale Van Atta and John Dillon who have just completed their own investigation. They found that Meese got a boost up the military ladder by pals in the Pentagon.

Though Meese wanted the promotion, which assures him a fatter pension, the brass hats appear to have wanted it even more, perhaps as a means of buttering up an influential White House

WASHINGTON WORLD

White House Discussion

By Ira R. Allen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House officials, from the president on down, have been amug in recent weeks with almost fanatical support from the public over the decision to bar the press from covering the invasion of Grenada.

Reagan even joked about it at a dinner honoring World War II pioneer aviator Jimmy Doolittle, whose "30 Seconds over Tokyo" wrote a new chapter in American heroism.

"How did you get away without taking any newsmen along?" Reagan asked the 87-year-old general.

Aside from his use of the masculine gender to describe a profession composed of women, too, Reagan's quip — coming as a national news magazine detailed the sins of the press — further heightened tensions between government and reporters.

Now that combat troops are off the island, there is another Grenada war casualty: David Gergen, who disagreed with the decision to bar the press from war coverage for two days and who was square in the middle when spokesmen — acting out of ignorance — called reports of an impending invasion "preposterous."

Gergen gracefully resigned as Reagan's communications director last week, finally accepting an offer, long considered, to teach at Harvard. It marked the departure of the one true intellectual in the president's circle of advisers. What remains are pals, pals and press agents.

In praising Gergen, while announcing his resignation, Reagan said, "Dave is devoted to honest, open and decent government and we shall miss him."

And that explains why Gergen is leaving the White House in January after crafting speeches and images for Presidents Nixon, Ford and Reagan with

Part of Gergen's job was to go beyond the official pronouncements made by deputy press secretary Larry Speakes — with whom he feuded on occasion — and provide the context necessary for reporters to explain administration positions.

In doing so, he would put the proper "spin" on a story to reflect well on Reagan's aims. But to those in the administration who prefer secrecy to open government — the ones who would strap a lie detector to every government employee — Gergen was seen as a "leaker," the most dangerous kind of colleague.

Gergen is known to believe that whether he did or did not leak — friends say he did make mistakes that might have temporarily hurt the White House — he was unfairly made a scapegoat by conservatives who never liked him anyway.

One associate said after Gergen's resignation was announced that since he would not be replaced, it would be easy to prove once and for all whether the "leaker" rap was accurate.

For anyone in the White House to expect that leaks will stop with Gergen's departure in January is to believe that Reagan will announce his re-election plans during halftime of the Rose Bowl. There will be leaks and there will be a new scapegoat.

ROBERT WALTERS

Looking At Reagan Priorities

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For those still uncertain about President Reagan's priorities almost three years after he assumed office, two recent events illustrate what his administration cares about and what it chooses to ignore.

The first event occurred in early December when the Justice Department announced that it was summarily abandoning a six-year antitrust investigation of four multinational oil companies suspected of conspiring to manipulate prices.

"The investigation has not discovered any... violations," the department said — but it also acknowledged that it had done virtually nothing to probe for violations since spring 1981, shortly after Reagan was inaugurated.

A lack of enthusiasm for investigating major corporations has become a standard practice for the Reagan administration. In the autumn of 1981, the Federal Trade Commission similarly terminated an eight-year probe of "collusive action" on the part of petroleum industry leaders.

The administration has been inordinately solicitous of the welfare of its corporate friends in other industries as well. In early 1981, for example, 35 different safety and air pollution standards were scrapped to save money for the country's leading auto manufacturers.

Prosecution of white-collar crime has declined markedly, federal regulations opposed by corporate friends of the White House have been scrapped and the portion of federal revenues collected through corporate income taxes has been slashed, from 12.5 percent in 1980 to 6.6 percent in 1983.

Domestic social programs have been decimated in the name of fiscal austerity, but the administration hasn't even tried to collect the $2 billion lost annually by the federal treasury through tax deductions for business meals and entertainment, the $16 billion lost through accelerated depreciation or the $23 billion lost through investment tax credits.

He has been equally considerate of wealthy individuals. Approximately 35 percent of all the benefits provided by the president's 1981 tax program will be shared by the richest 5.6 percent of the nation's taxpayers.

Reagan's compassion is limited, however, as dramatized by the second recent event. Only two days after the Justice Department announcement, the president's most senior adviser proclaimed, "I don't know of any authoritative figures that there are hungry children."

official.

In fact, one Army source says that Meese's powerful Pentagon friends are already plotting to grease the skids for his promotion to general. If this works out, Meese's military reserve career would be distinguished by the kind of rapid promotion that is usually achieved only by active-duty officers in wartime.

Here's the chronology of Meese's rise in rank:

— June 1981: Meese spoke privately to Col. Joe Sullivan, a friend who'd served with him in a California reserve unit. Meese indicated he'd like to be in the Ready Reserves, which would give him a better shot at a promotion. But he stressed that no rules should be stretched in his behalf.

Sullivan relayed these tidings to his boss, Maj. Gen. William R. Berkman, who commands the Army Reserve and, coincidentally, also served with Meese in the California reserve unit. Together with other Pentagon brass, they agreed that the president's closest adviser deserved to be a full colonel.

All that remained was to work out the grand strategy. This required some quiet finesse. They had to find an assignment that wouldn't interfere with Meese's White House duties and an excuse to relieve him from mandatory attendance at the Command and General Staff College, which he wouldn't have time for.

The Pentagon strategists came up with an artful solution: Meese would be assigned as the Selective Service System's liaison with the Defense Department. Promotion requirements in that branch, it seems, are less stringent than in other outfits.

— July 1, 1981: Meese was assigned to the Ready Reserve at Selective Service headquarters, in the specially created liaison job. The position called for a full colonel. Meese's mandatory retirement date, incidentally, was less than a week away. With unaccustomed speed, the Pentagon paper work processors beat the mandatory retirement deadline.

— October 1981: Yet another Meese friend from the California reserve, Thomas K. Turnage, was appointed head of Selective Service, assuring that Meese's status — and his pending promotion — would not be disrupted.

— November 1982: Meese was recommended for promotion to colonel. The supposedly ironclad requirement of staff college graduation was waived by giving Meese "constructive credit" for his White House experience. Gen. Berkman and others notified the Army promotion board of this unusual dispensation while it was considering the promotion — an action that some military officials equate to tampering with a jury during its deliberations.

— At about this time, a technical problem was solved by backdating one document by more than a year, according to an Army source. This practice is not illegal, but it is unusual.

The IG investigation was supposed to bury the Meese affair, but Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., learned of it and began making inquiries last August. The Army refused to turn over the IG report to her.

Meanwhile, my source says the move to make Meese a general is already afoot. A colonel who has been elevated to general is about to retire. When he does, there will be a general's job waiting for Meese.

Footnote: Meese declined to comment on the IG report but wrote Ms. Schroeder that "at no time did I request any favoritism or preferential treatment." This apparently is true.

All East-West Arms Talks End

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — Negotiators adjourned the East-West talks on reducing conventional forces in Europe today without setting a date for their resumption. The indefinite adjournment in effect suspended all East-West arms control talks.

A NATO spokesman made his statement at the end of the 31st round of the 10-year-long East-West talks on Mutual and Balanced Force Reduction in Central Europe (MBFR) following a plenary meeting at Vienna's former imperial Hofburg palace.

The Geneva talks on Intermediate Nuclear Forces, or INF, were suspended last month and the Strategic Arms Limitation and Reduction Talks, or START, last week in a Soviet protest against the NATO decision to begin deployment of 572 U.S. cruise and Pershing-2 missiles in Europe to counter Soviet SS-20s. No resumption date in either the INF or START talks was set.

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Thursday, Dec. 15, 1983—5A

Senior East Bloc diplomats had previously stressed failure to set a resumption date for the MBFR negotiations did not mean that the talks, which began in October 1973 and have been virtually stalemated since then, were off for good and said "the door is still open" for "serious negotiations."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Tunic Thought To Be Christ's Is Stolen

PARIS (UPI) — A bloodstained tunic believed to have been worn by Jesus Christ just before he was crucified has been stolen and a guerrilla group is demanding a $70,000 ransom be paid to Poland's banned Solidarity union, church officials said.

In calls to the Paris-based daily Liberation, the outlawed Action Directe group said "the church must hand over $70,000 to Solidarity" as "Jesus Christ was a revolutionary killed by religious imperialists."

The group also demanded the release of three jailed members of the organization, church officials said Wednesday.

The tunic, revered by French Catholics as a garment worn by Christ before his crucifixion, was stolen Tuesday from the basilica of St. Denis in Argenteuil, northeast of Paris. The fragile tunic had been kept there for the last 800 years and was only exhibited to pilgrims every 50 years. The next showing was due early next year.

Chile Bombed, Quaked

SANTIAGO, Chile — A strong earthquake struck Santiago and the country's populous central region today less than three hours after terrorists bombed major electricity towers, plunging 90 percent of the capital into darkness.

No damages or casualties were immediately reported as a result of the tremor, which shook buildings for almost a minute in Santiago and measured 5.8 on the Richter scale.

The tremor was centered about 120 miles north of Santiago near the Argentine border, the National Earthquake Information Service reported in Golden, Colo.

No group immediately claimed responsibility for the bombings, which followed an anti-government rally earlier Wednesday. No injuries were reported in the explosions.

Bolivian Cabinet Resigns

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — President Hernan Siles Zuazo's 18-member Cabinet resigned en masse, plunging the civilian government into a political crisis that could jeopardize Bolivia's fledgling democracy.

His administration, supported by the United States, has been plagued by repeated strikes and scandals and it stands accused of inept handling of the country's economic crisis.

Cease-Fire Talks Begin As 2nd French Soldier Killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Unidentified gunmen shot and killed a French peacekeeper today, the second French death in two days, as Lebanon's warring factions gathered in Damascus for crucial talks on strengthening the cease-fire.

Government sources said ranking Lebanese army officers, Druze and Shiite Amal militia officials were to meet with Syrian officers in a bid to cement Lebanon's much-violated Sept. 16 cease-fire agreement.

The stepped-up efforts to strengthen the cease-fire came after another day of fighting between Lebanese factions and the USS New Jersey's first massive naval bombardment of Syrian positions.

A spokesman for the 2,000-member French peace-keeping force in Lebanon said today's shooting followed by just hours the death of another French soldier late Wednesday night, who was killed when his observation post was hit by a shell.

The rightist Voice of Lebanon radio station said the observation post was located at a government-held mountain village overlooking Syrian and Druze positions in the Upper Metn east of Beirut.

The deaths brought to 80 the number of French soldiers killed since their deployment in Lebanon in September 1982. The gunmen involved in today's shooting near the Residence des Pins home of the French ambassador escaped, the spokesman said.

On Wednesday, three U.S. warships — including the battleship New Jersey — fired 71 rounds Wednesday at six Syrian anti-aircraft positions only 15 miles east of Beirut.

The shelling came in response to attacks on U.S. F-14 Tomcat jets during reconnaissance missions over Syrian-controlled territory outside Beirut, the Pentagon said.

U.S. Middle East envoy Donald Rumsfeld arrived in the Syrian capital within hours after the attack and met immediately with Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, Damascus radio said.

Syria claimed only one man was wounded in the attack, although the New Jersey alone fired 11 tons of explosives, enough to clear 11 helicopter landing zones, military officials said.

In Washington, President Reagan said "we want no conflict with Syria" but stood behind the right of U.S. peace-keeping forces in Lebanon to defend themselves.

"We continue to try to communicate with them, let them know to stop shooting at us," Reagan said at a news conference.

In the northern Lebanese port of Tripoli, guerrilla fighters loyal to Yasser Arafat sprayed machine-gun fire across the shoreline today to prevent a feared landing in the dark by Israeli commandos.

Tripoli residents said Arafat's positions in the port area came under naval bombardment for five minutes Wednesday.

Security

Recent Bombings Trigger Tighter Controls

United Press International

Despite weekly security drills, concrete barricades and extensive searches, kamikaze-style bombings have left U.S. Embassies and consulates around the world as vulnerable as ever.

There have been at least nine major attacks on U.S. embassies and consulates worldwide in the last decade, each prompting new waves of concern over security.

But now, kamikaze terrorists driving explosive-laden trucks into government installations are making security more of a watchword than ever.

In Lebanon's terrorized capital of Beirut, streets have sprouted concrete pillars, huge sandpiles and vicious "tank killers" to protect Western embassies from suicide attacks.

U.S. Marines, who lost 240 men when a truck exploded Oct. 23 beneath their sleeping quarters at the Beirut airport, have become so jumpy that one photographer had his hair searched for hidden weapons.

President Reagan has become so security-conscious in the wake of an explosion at the U.S. Capitol that he has had ground-to-air missiles installed near the White House to shoot down wayward planes.

But even as security becomes increasingly more important, some U.S. embassies worldwide still find themselves as vulnerable to suicide attacks as ever.

"We are concerned," admitted one Western diplomat in Madrid. "All you have to do is take a look at our embassies in Europe to see we are vulnerable."

In Madrid, the U.S. Embassy is a steel-and-glass structure located on a main street in the fashionable Salamanca district, separated from the street by a 10-foot-high black iron gate — only 10 yards from the building.

The embassy in London is similarly vulnerable, as are embassies in Vienna and the Hague.

Some embassies still do little more than run metal detectors and search handbags — hardly enough security to stop terrorists bent on committing suicide to kill Westerners in the name of Islam.

In fact, the U.S. General Accounting Office warned a year ago that inadequate planning and coordination had caused delays in implementing security measures at U.S. embassies abroad, including the one in Kuwait, where at least three people died Monday.

But government officials say they are doing what they can to protect government buildings.

At the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait, spokesman David Good said security drills had been staged weekly. All the embassies in the area were on heightened alert at the time of Monday's attack, he said.

In Manila, security was tightened at the U.S. Embassy following April's Beirut embassy blast, which killed 63 people. But no new security measures were taken when a timebomb was discovered at the embassy annex in Manila Dec. 2.

The U.S. Embassy in Rome recently stepped up security precautions, and advanced security measures are being built into the new U.S. consulate in Rotterdam soon to be opened.

In Paris, Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, security was recently tightened because of fears of retaliation following recent U.S., French and Israeli air strikes in Lebanon.

The Democratic front-runners are the leading getters and spenders in the presidential sweepstakes. The latest reports show the seven candidates have raised a total of $17.6 million and spent $16.4 million. Together, Walter Mondale and John Glenn are responsible for nearly 60 percent of the totals. (Jesse Jackson had not entered the race when the government compiled these figures.)

MILTON RICHMAN

Kuhn To Come Down Hard On 'Druggies'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bowie Kuhn has the opportunity of a lifetime today, and something tells me he's going to make the most of it.

I'm pretty sure he will even though I'm equally sure that deep down, it'll hurt him to do so.

At heart, he's a fan. He fell in love with ballplayers when he was a kid working the scoreboard in Washington and still feels the same way about them now as a grown man. He'll tell you that himself. He even had a favorite player, Washington third baseman Buddy Lewis.

From the time he first took the job as commissioner nearly 15 years ago, Kuhn never has lost sight of article 1, section 4 of the Major League Agreement dealing with the specific duties of his office. He probably can recite the section by heart.

It says that as long as he's the commissioner, he shall take whatever steps he deems necessary and proper in the best interests of the game.

Bowie Kuhn will do that today, Thursday. He will take such a step against five men, three of whom are in the big leagues right now and two others who were as recently as this year.

You can count on him coming down on them hard, within the boundaries of his jurisdiction, because no matter what else his detractors say about him, they can never say he shirks taking whatever action he believes to be in the best interests of the game.

For sure, there are five men quite likely to remember the decision Kuhn will make known today, no matter what it turns out to be.

The five are Steve Howe of the Dodgers; Willie Wilson and Willie Aikens of the Royals, and Jerry Martin and Vida Blue, both of whom were with Kansas City this year before being released. All five of these players were involved with drugs this year to some degree or other.

Howe was hospitalized for a month last summer for cocaine dependency and was suspended by the club twice subsequently. The Dodgers' 25-year-old left-handed relief ace never was convicted of any drug charges, but the other four were. Wilson, Aikens and Martin were found guilty in October of attempting to possess cocaine, and Blue pleaded guilty to actual possession.

Wilson and Aikens were each sentenced to three months in prison and fined $5,000 apiece while Martin got off with only a $2,500 fine. Blue is due to be sentenced next Monday.

Kuhn has said all along he would wait until he had all the evidence and investigative findings of his security staff before making his own decision, and now that day is at hand, what will he do?

He will suspend all five men.

What makes me so sure of that is his track record. Whenever he feels he's dealing with a major problem — and make no mistake, he's fully aware this one is — he uses the suspension as his most effective instrument.

If your memory goes back that far, you may remember he employed it against Denny McLain once for his bookmaking activities, with McLain a second time for carrying a gun; against George Steinbrenner after he was convicted for making illegal campaign contributions; Ted Turner, also, for tampering, and in a broader sense against Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle for accepting jobs with Atlantic City gambling hotel casinos.

I'll be very much surprised if any of the suspensions Kuhn hands out this time are for anything less than two months of the forthcoming baseball season. And it wouldn't shock me if Kuhn really gets tough and makes the suspensions for a full year.

I have made my own views on this particular subject known before. I think drugs constitute such a threat and menace to life, baseball, or whatever else you can name, that anyone mindless enough to become involved with them should be isolated from the game for good. His good and everyone else's. In that way, he won't be able to contaminate others.

The Players Association already is taking its usual adversarial position. It can't come out and say drugs are wholesome, but it is trying to keep Kuhn from taking any action against the five players, saying they have been punished enough. What a laugh that is.

To begin with, the Dodgers already have said they are going to stand by Howe, adding they do not intend to trade him and will do everything they can to help him.

"We consider him part of the family and are not going to desert him," says Dodger vice president Al Campanis.

That certainly doesn't sound like punishment to me. True, Howe did lose a month's salary, which came to $54,000, when he was out for that period of time undergoing rehabilitation. I know a lot of people who would interpret that more as wages deducted for not working rather than a "fine." The Dodgers have kept helping him since then, so where's the "punishment" there?

Wilson and Aikens originally were sentenced to a year in prison, but the first nine months of their terms were suspended. Wilson already has begun serving his sentence at a minimum security facility, which means he won't even miss any spring training.

Aikens is in the middle of one of those agreed upon trades that is pending Kuhn's decision. Toronto is willing to take him from Kansas City for Jorge Orta and that's fine with the Royals. In the meantime, Aikens has applied for and received permission from the judge who sentenced him to do his time in Canada. He plans to begin serving right after the New Year.

Kuhn's decision doesn't figure to affect the careers of Martin or Blue very much, if at all.

Martin, 34, was used in only 13 games by the Royals all season long before they released him and there isn't much call for his services anymore.

Blue, the best pitcher in baseball in 1971, also is 34. He was 0-5 and had a 6.01 ERA with the Royals this year. Before they let him go, they tried to make a deal for him. Nobody wanted him.

All of which leaves me with this one sad thought: How can Bowie Kuhn or anyone else really punish these poor foolish fellows when they've already punished themselves so much?

Rams' Cup Runneth Over, 8-2

Lake Mary's Donald Kelly, top, uses his head to deflect a shot by Seminole's Marc Disque, right. Kelly later scored a goal. At the left, Jerry Meyers controls the ball en route to an unassisted goal which gave Lake Mary a 1-0 lead. The Rams won the Mayor's Cup game, 8-2.

Sanders' Hat Trick Subdues Seminoles

Although neither Sanford's or Lake Mary's mayor was there, and only a few die-hard fans showed up, there was some excellent soccer played Wednesday night in the Mayor's Cup at Seminole High School.

Lake Mary's Rams jumped out to a quick 4-0 lead, but Sanford Seminole grabbed the momentum and scored two goals in a row to cut it to 4-2 still in the first half. However, Lake Mary score once more before the first half ended to take a 3-2 lead, and added three more goals in the second half to claim a 8-2 victory and the Mayor's Cup.

"Everyone played well for us tonight," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "That's a first for us this season. It was some of the best soccer we've ever played."

Lake Mary improved to 3-2 for the season while Seminole fell to 0-5. Lake Mary travels to DeLand Friday for a 7 p.m. matchup while Seminole hosts Lyman on Saturday.

"DeLand will be an important game for us," McCorkle said. "We need to have a good game before the Pizza Hut Tournament (Dec. 27-30)."

The Rams got on the board first as Jerry Meyers scored an unassisted goal with just two minutes gone in the game. At the 15:00 mark in the first half, Donald Kelly gave the Rams a 2-0 lead as he scored on an assist from Marcus Siebmann. Andre Sanders came back 30 seconds later and scored on an assist from Paul Holmes and, 30 seconds after that goal, Sanders scored again, this time on an assist from Siebmann as Lake Mary took control, 4-0.

Seminole got on the scoreboard with three minutes remaining in the first half as Matt Alberti scored to cut Lake Mary's lead to 4-1. One minute later, John Frederick scored for the Tribe and the Rams' lead was trimmed to 4-2.

But, with less than a minute to play in the half, Kelly drilled in a penalty kick and the Rams took a 5-2 halftime lead. "That was a big goal for us," McCorkle said. "Seminole had the momentum and that kind of snuffed it out."

Lake Mary came out in the second half and put up two more goals in the first four minutes to take a commanding 7-2 lead. Siebmann scored the first of the two goals and Sanders scored the second to complete his hat trick. Both teams flooded the field with reserves for most of the second half and Lake Mary's final goal was scored by Tony Fiorentino on an assist by Eric Zimmerman.

McCorkle cited the defensive efforts of Mike Dunlap and Jose Del Rosario along with the offensive work of Sanders, Siebmann, Kelly and Meyers.

In the junior varsity game, Lake Mary rolled to a 8-0 victory.

In girls soccer action Wednesday, Lyman rolled to its fourth straight victory with a 6-0 rout of Lake Brantley. Coach Cathie Well's Lady Greyhounds, 4-0, took a 2-0 lead at the half and put the game on ice with four goals in the second half.

Alyson Barnes led the way for Lyman with three goals. Sheila Mandy scored a pair of goals and Karen Abernethy score one. The Lady Greyhounds are back in action Saturday at Orange Park. — Chris Fister

Lake Mary

Crucial Turnover Kills Girls — Listless Boys Lose By 19

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

DELAND — Inconsistency has plagued Lake Mary's Lady Rams in the early going of the 1983-84 prep basketball season. Wednesday night, against DeLand's Lady Bulldogs, the good moments outnumbered the bad for the Rams, but the bad came at the wrong time.

Lake Mary made its most costly mistake at the most crucial moment of the game enabling host DeLand to claim a 44-43 victory in Five Star Conference action at DeLand High.

Lake Mary, 3-3 overall and 2-3 in the conference, is back in action after the Christmas break in the Lady Hawk Tournament at Lake Howell. The Lady Rams open the tourney with Metro Conference power Orlando Edgewater.

The two teams fought every inch of the way Wednesday night and it went down to the last 20 seconds to decide the outcome. DeLand had a chance to ice it with 20 seconds left and a 44-43 lead, but Bridgette Gordon missed the front end of a one-and-one situation and Laura Glass pulled down the rebound for Lake Mary. The Lady Rams quickly pushed it up the floor and, after a few passes, turned the ball over before getting off a shot and DeLand ran out the remaining few seconds.

"It shouldn't have been that close," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said. "We missed out on a lot of opportunities. We didn't play bad at times, but the offense and defense never played well at the same time."

Lake Mary dominated the boards, but missed numerous layups after offensive rebounds. The Lay Rams outrebounded the Lady Bulldogs, 31-17. Laura Glass had as many rebounds, 17, as the entire DeLand team. Glass led Lake Mary with 12 points. Lisa Gregory tossed in 10 and Peggy Glass added eight points and eight rebounds.

DeLand's Bridgette Gordon was the game's high scorer with 20 points and Nikki Williams added 13 for the Lady Bulldogs. Gordon led DeLand with eight rebounds.

Prep Basketball

The score ended up tied, 12-12, at the end of one quarter, but Gordon picked up her third foul with only 21 seconds gone in the second and she took a seat on the bench next to coach Clifford Cox. Gordon sat out the rest of the second quarter.

Lake Mary then outscored the Bulldogs, 10-3, in the next four minutes to take a seven-point lead, 22-17. Cox then figured, if his main offensive weapon was sitting on the bench, he wouldn't play offense. So, the Lady Bulldogs froze the ball with 3:50 remaining in the quarter and ran nearly two minutes off the clock before Amy Davis was fouled. Davis hit both free throws and, after a Lake Mary turnover, the Lady Bulldogs pulled to within three points, 22-19, on a layup by Williams.

Gregory hit a jumper with three seconds left in the quarter to put the Lady Rams up by five, 24-19, at halftime.

With Gordon back in the lineup, the Lady Bulldogs came out blazing in the third quarter and reeled off six straight points to take a 25-24 lead. Laura Glass kept Lake Mary in business in the third quarter as she pulled down seven rebounds and scored six points as Lake Mary took a 33-31 lead into the fourth.

The Lady Rams hit a dry spell at the beginning of the fourth quarter and didn't score for over three minutes. Meanwhile, DeLand scored six straight points to take a 37-33 lead.

Andrea Fenning finally broke the ice for the Lady Rams in the fourth quarter, but DeLand still managed to hold on to a three-point lead, 44-41, with less than a minute to play. Fenning came through again for Lake Mary as she hit a short bank shot with 29 seconds remaining to pull the Rams within a point and set up the turn of events in the last 20 seconds.

Flat, listless, lackadaisical, complacent. Those are just some of the words to describe the performance of Lake Mary's Rams the last two games.

You could probably pull out a Thesaurus and add a lot more words to the list, but one slang word (that's printable) can pretty much sum it up — crummy.

After being blown out by 22 points by Spruce Creek on Tuesday night, Lake Mary came back to lose by 19, 74-55, to Daytona Beach Seabreeze Wednesday night in Five Star Conference basketball action at Lake Mary High.

"It's frustrating," Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson said. "I don't have to say a word to get the team fired up for Seminole, but, no matter how much I say, they can't get fired up for Spruce Creek or Seabreeze. We came out listless and stayed that way until the last few minutes of the game."

Lake Mary, 2-3 overall and 2-2 in the conference, will be back in action Tuesday in the Oviedo Outlook Christmas Tournament at Seminole Community College. Lake Mary opens the tourney against host Oviedo.

Seabreeze came out and established the momentum from the start. The Sand Crabs went on to take a nine-point lead, 33-24, by halftime.

Seabreeze kept adding to its lead in the second half and led by more than 20 until Lake Mary put on a little bit of a spurt late in the fourth quarter. "We came fighting back, but it was already too late," Richardson said.

Fred Miller led Lake Mary with 16 points. Billy Dunn added nine and Albert Flores seven. Darryl Merthie, who got into foul trouble early, scored only five points before fouling out.

Jim Robinson led the way for Seabreeze with 18 points. Terry Johnston added 17, Bill Parks 16 and Al Jenkins 10. — Chris Fister

Boomer Seeks Redemption After All-Conference Shaft

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fla. Thursday, Dec. 15, 1983-11A

ORLANDO (UPI) — Maryland quarterback Boomer Esiason has come a long way — from a confused near-dropout to a first-rate quarterback and student — but he's not through yet.

He's angry about being passed over for the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team and says he still has something to prove.

"I got shafted," the blond left-hander said Wednesday as he prepared for this weekend's Citrus Bowl game against Tennessee. "I really feel I was short-changed."

Esiason, a senior, says he'd like to feed a little humble pie to his critics with solid performances in the Citrus Bowl and then in three post-season all-star games.

"I just want to satisfy myself," said Esiason.

The 15th-ranked Terps meet the Vols Saturday at 8 p.m. in Orlando Stadium.

Citrus Bowl

where a sellout crowd of more than 50,000 is expected. Both teams enter the game with 8-3 records.

Despite throwing for more than 2,300 yards and 15 touchdowns and leading Maryland to the ACC title, Esiason was voted to the league's second team behind Duke's Ben Bennett.

Esiason blames his plight on a North Carolina bias in the ACC, where half the league is located down Tobacco Road.

"Some people in the ACC have horse-blinders on," said Esiason. "They always get those Carolina schools in there. North Carolina, N.C. State, Duke, Wake Forest — it doesn't matter."

The native of East Islip, N.Y., also said the All-ACC team was "picked on stats alone."

Playing in a pass-oriented offense, Bennett was the star as he threw for 3,086 yards and set six NCAA records during his career for the lowly Blue Devils.

"But here it's not 'As Boomer goes, so goes Maryland.' No way," Esiason said. "I'm not the whole nucleus of this football team."

To prove his point, Esiason treated his offensive line to a weekend in New York City last summer that included a ride in a limousine.

"It was like baby-sitting a herd of cattle," laughed Esiason.

Esiason said he feels fortunate to still be at Maryland. He didn't play in 1979 and then was red-shirted in 1980 and on the brink of leaving school.

Bennett: Surprised

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Duke quarterback Ben Bennett said he is surprised and hurt by suggestions from Maryland signal-caller Boomer Esiason that Bennett is overrated.

"Prior to hearing about it, I thought we were friends," Bennett said Wednesday. "...I can't say if what he says is true or not true. It was obviously his opinion, however well informed. It hurt that he would say that about me based on the fact that I thought we were friends."

Earlier Wednesday, Esiason had said he was "shafted" when the Atlantic Coast Conference's sportswriters put Bennett on the all-conference first team and Esiason on the second.

Boomer Esiason looks for a receiver. Maryland quarterback said he felt he was shafted when Ben Bennett of Duke was picked as the All-Atlantic Coast Conference quarterback.

Auburn Fans Laugh Like The Devil Over Irsay's Offer For Jackson

By Milton Richman
UPI Sports Editor

You know what the people in Auburn, Ala., did when they heard how Baltimore Colts' owner Robert Irsay had said he could get Bo Jackson for $2.5 million? They laughed like the devil about it. That's an awful lot of money to laugh at, but the reason the people in Auburn did was because in their hearts they knew what Irsay had said just wasn't so and that he was merely saying something off the wall. What made them so positive was Bo Jackson's track record. All they had to do was go back and look at it. Had it been only money he was after, Auburn's spectacular, 21-year-old All-America running back couldn't have picked himself up a nice chunk without any trouble at all by signing with the New York Yankees as an outfielder-shortstop after he graduated high school last year. Jackson, getting ready to go up against Michigan in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 2, is so fast (they've clocked him in 6.18 seconds for the 60), he even has his heart set on trying to qualify for next summer's Olympics, so you can tell that money or playing in the pros right now aren't his top priorities.

Besides, he's only a sophomore. Irsay couldn't sign him if he wanted. It's against the NFL's by-laws. What about the USFL? They weren't shy about signing Herschel Walker while he still had a year left at Georgia. But Chet Simmons, the commissioner, is on record as saying the new league will "try" not to do that sort of thing anymore. Some of the scouts who have seen the 6-1, 222-pound Jackson already rate him higher than Walker. "We think so, too," says Auburn's Sports Information Director Dave Housel, who has been watching college football players 27 years but still could be a little partial. "We feel he's the best running back ever to play in the Southeastern Conference. That covers a lotta ground." It certainly does. It covers three top-notchers in the NFL now. Buffalo's Joe Cribbs, Atlanta's William Andrews and San Diego's James Brooks, all of whom were in the same Auburn backfield a half dozen years ago, and it also covers Walker. "We're not trying to downgrade Herschel Walker in any sense of the word," Housel made it plain. "As the coaches say, when you start calling the roll in a class with Walker and Jackson, there aren't many there. But we believe Jackson is a more complete football player than Walker in terms of blocking and trying to make something happen on every play. In terms of overall team play." Walker doesn't loaf, but he paces himself. Jackson doesn't. He's more gung-ho and give everything he has in him on every play. Anyone who watched him come up with that 69-yard touchdown run of his in the first minute of the second quarter and that electrifying 71-yard game-breaker late in the third quarter on national TV in Auburn's 23-20 squeaker over Alabama less than two weeks ago got a pretty good idea of how he generally operates. He picked up 1,213 yards in 158 carries this season to lead the SEC in total yardage and average 7.7 yards. Jackson's average was only a tenth of a yard behind that of Nebraska's Mike Rozier, this year's Heisman winner. The Yankees thought so much of Jackson's baseball ability, they made him their No. 1 draft pick in June of 1982. Gus Poulos, who scouted him for the Yankees while Jackson was playing high school ball in Birmingham, called him one of the best young prospects in the southeast.

"We tried our best to sign him, but were told he was so good in both the sports and the dedication that he wanted to maintain his amateur standing so he might still be able to keep his amateur standing," explains Yankees' exec Bill Bergesch. "From everything we heard about him, he was pretty much in the same category as John Elway. What I mean by that, he wasn't entirely sure whether he wanted to make baseball or football his career. Anyway, when we did make an attempt to sign him, we found ourselves sort of blocked off by Auburn." One of the Auburn people I spoke to about Jackson phrased it another way. "We protected our interest," was the way he put it. "Anyway, we didn't really have to do much. His mother took care of it for us." Bergesch talked with Jackson's mother over the phone and she told him she merely wanted whatever was best for Bo, or Vincent, which is his square name. Like any mother, though, she wanted to make sure her son had a good education, and in that regard, she definitely leaned toward Auburn. Jackson played center field and hit .279 for the Tigers this year, but a story goes with it. Two stories, in fact. The first one is that he never had a chance to work out with the baseball team at all because a year ago this fall he was playing football and last winter he was competing in track meets. That meant he hadn't even seen a baseball in a year when he suited up for his first game of the season in March. The second story has to do with a baseball game he played in later on this year. Auburn was playing Alabama in Tuscaloosa and some very vocal and belligerent Bama fans in center field were getting all over Jackson, but good. They remembered he had scored the winning touchdown against the Crimson Tide in last year's contest. Jackson never answered back. Instead, he jacked one out of the park for a home run a little later in the contest. His drive whistling over center field and actually forcing his critics to scatter to avoid getting hit. When Jackson returned to his position in the bottom of the inning, they had all returned and began letting him have it again. "Hey, you all do me a favor," he called to them. "How about you go getting that baseball for me? I hit it pretty good and would like to keep it."

Marino Earns Pro Bowl Start

NEW YORK (UPI) — Miami Dolphins rookie Dan Marino will be the starting quarterback on the American Football Conference Pro Bowl team announced today by the AFC and National Football League Players Association. Marino, the AFC's No. 1 rated passer who has led the Dolphins to an 11-4 record and the AFC Eastern Division championship, will be the first rookie to start as quarterback since the Pro Bowl began in 1950. The Los Angeles Raiders, who have clinched the AFC Western Division Championship, placed seven players on the 40-man team, the most of any franchise. Miami was next with six players. The AFC team plays the NFC team, announced Wednesday, in the Pro Bowl at Honolulu on Jan. 29. Joining Marino in the starting backfield will be rookie Curt Warner of Seattle and Earl Campbell of Houston, who ranked first and second in AFC rushing.

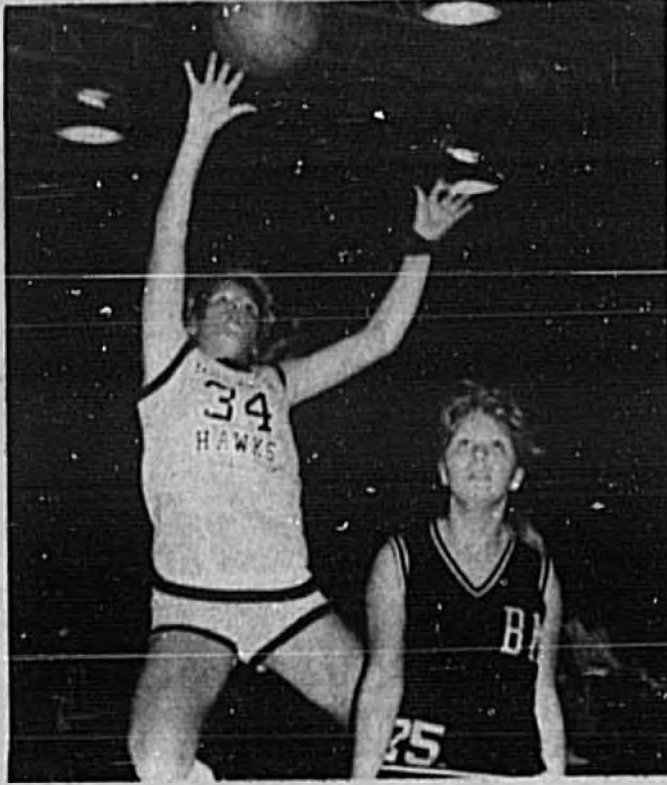

Pro Football

The only other rookie to make the AFC team is Baltimore guard Chris Hinton. The Raiders' Todd Christensen will start at tight end and Carlos Carson of Kansas City and Chris Collinsworth of Cincinnati are the starting wide receivers. The starting offensive line consists of Miami center Dwight Stephenson, New England guard John Hannah, Baltimore's Hinton, and tackles Marvin Powell of the New York Jets and Anthony Munoz of Cincinnati. For the defense, the starting front four includes Miami's Doug Betters and Los Angeles' Howie Long at defensive end, and Miami's Bob Baumhower and Buffalo's Fred Smerlas at tackle. The starting linebacker unit includes Cleveland's Chip Banks, Los Angeles' Rod Martin and Pittsburgh's Jack Lambert — who will be appearing in his ninth Pro Bowl. The starting secondary features cornerbacks Lester Hayes of Los Angeles and Gary Green of Kansas City, and safeties Deron Cherry of Kansas City and Kenny Easley of Seattle. New England's Rich Camarillo is the punter, Pittsburgh's Gary Anderson is the kicker and Los Angeles' Gregg Pruitt the kick returner. The backup quarterback will be Dan Fouts of San Diego, with Wes Chandler of San Diego and Mark Duper of Miami the backup wide receivers. The other offensive reserve players are tackle Brian Holloway of New England; guard Ed Newman of Miami; center Mike Webster of Pittsburgh; tight end Kellen Winslow of San Diego; and running backs Tony Collins of New England and Joe Cribbs of Buffalo.

Seminole's Bruce Franklin and Lake Howell's Tammy Johnson were selected as the County Basketball Players of the Week Tuesday by the Burger King Selection Committee. Franklin, a senior point guard, handed out 25 assists and made 13 steals as the Tribe whipped sixth-ranked Mainland and Oviedo after losing to Lake Mary. Franklin also hit 10 of 19 floor shots and 8 of 13 free throws for 28 points. Johnson, a senior guard-forward, connected on 13 of 29 field goals, converted 13 of 16 free throws, grabbed 12 rebounds and made 13 steals as the Lady Hawks trimmed Lyman and Lake Mary. Johnson finished with 39 points and four assists for the week. Franklin edged Lake Brantley's Eric Trombo (48 points), Lyman's Greg Pilot (15 of 22 field-goal attempts), Oviedo's Mike Schwab (50 points and 26 rebounds) and teammate Willie Mitchell (54 points and 29 rebounds) for the weekly honor. Johnson was selected over teammates' Mary Johnson (25 points and 12 assists) and Janene Brown (13 points, 24 rebounds) Lyman's Kim Lemon (35 points, 17 rebounds) and Valerie Jackson (15 points, 16 rebounds), Lake Brantley's Michelle Brown (21 rebounds, 21 steals) and Seminole's Dleidre Hillery (43 points, 55 rebounds). A Duck In A Poke

Nearly everybody's heard of a pig in a poke, but how about this duck? Elizabeth Knudson, 11, and her brother, Eric, 5, get a kick out of feeding the hungry duck. However Eric was shy about feeding the duck from his hand, so the duck just poked his face right into the bag for self-service groceries.

Christmas Came Early To Museum

Christmas came early this year for the Henry S. Sanford Library-Museum when four members of the Sanford Garden Club's Camelia Circle made an early morning appearance at Fort Mellon Park last week.

Mrs. Chal Horrell, Mrs. Emmy Sokal, Mrs. Jean Fowler and Mrs. Patricia Sentell broke the early morning serenity which usually prevails, as they trucked in spades, rakes, garden hose, planters, border grass, geraniums and an assortment of greenery to enhance the area immediately surrounding the Library-Museum.

Trough the efforts of Jim Jernigan of the City Parks and Recreation Department, Howard Jelferies of the Parks Maintenance Division, the Sanford Woman's Club and the "SISTERS" Club, many improvements in the grounds immediately surrounding the building have been made possible due to the installation of an automatic sprinkling system and piping spring water into Lake Arola, keeping the water at a constant level.

The Mmes. Horrell, Sokal, Fowler and Sentell, no amateurs at the job, noticing still another need, gifted the Library-Museum with their own very special brand of landscaping in time for the holidays.

Merry Christmas to all.

The committees have been appointed for the flower show, which is to be held April 6 and 7.

Tickets for the card party March 15, are soon to be released. Proceeds from the party will be applied to the Wekiva Scholarship fund.

A bake sale is planned by members of Magnolia Circle at Publix Food Mart, beginning at 9 a.m.

IN BRIEF

Pamela Bradley Earns Degree From Seminary

Pamela Bradley

Pamela Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Bradley, Sanford, will receive the master of arts/religious education degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary during winter commencement Dec. 16.

Bradley will be among 305 graduates of the world's largest seminary to receive degrees from President Russell H. Dilday Jr.

Southwestern is one of six seminaries owned and operated by the Southern Baptist Convention. In its 76th year, Southwestern trains men and women for vocational Christian ministry in schools of theology, church music and religious education.

Cornell Receives Grant

Joanne Cornell of Sanford, a University of Kentucky graduate student in psychology, is spending four months in a clinical psychology traineeship at Charter Ridge Hospital, Lexington.

A grant from the hospital through the University of Kentucky Research Foundation provides a stipend for Cornell, who is a doctoral candidate. Her work at Charter Ridge is under the supervision of hospital psychologist Dr. Joanne Randall.

The arrangement with Charter Ridge Hospital is equivalent to others the UK department of psychology has with institutions such as Eastern State Hospital, the Federal Correctional Institution and Comprehensive Care Center.

Dr. Michael T. Nietzel, UK professor of psychology, oversees the traineeships.

Parents Yearn To Reach Gay Daughter

DEAR ABBY: Our 20-year-old daughter is gay. Don't ask me how I know. I just know. My husband and I love her and can accept her as she is without reservations.

Dear Abby

Our question: Should we confront her and say, "We know you are gay, and it's OK, we love you," or should we wait until she tells us she's gay? I have suspected it since she was 15. When she was 17, I confronted her, but she cried and denied it.

This girl has always been very tense. She is often rude, especially to her father and people in authority. She has a poor self-image, although she is tall and very beautiful.

Her high school years were a nightmare. She smoked pot, skipped school and drank. We offered counseling to her, but she refused. Our home was always open to her friends, but she rarely brought anyone home. I've met some of her friends (girls) and I genuinely liked them.

How should we handle this? We want her to be open with us, but don't know how to go about it.

WITHHOLD OUR NAMES

DEAR WITHHOLD: Don't make an issue of her sexuality. Just let her know by your actions that you love her unconditionally. She may never "open up" and disclose her sexual orientation — which is her right. Let her know you'll foot the bill for counseling if she wants it, and pray she takes you up on it. Only when she feels comfortable with herself will she feel comfortable with you. All gay children should have such understanding parents.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 24, very athletic and health-conscious. We have a good marriage, but there is a slight problem. My husband does not want to make love as often as I would like to. He is able, and even willing, but he has it in his head that sex saps a man's strength and makes him weaker. He says that men who engage in sex too often "age" faster.

I believe that just the opposite is true — that sex is healthy, and makes a man stronger and keeps him young longer.

Who is right? Sign me ...

"TIGER"

DEAR TIGER: You are ...

DEAR ABBY: I have become friendly with a woman who recently moved into my apartment building. We have much in common — we are both middle-aged divorced women who grew up in the Middle West. We visit each other quite often, but on invitation only — no dropping in.

I enjoy her company, but she has a habit that I find very irritating. When I'm visiting her and her phone rings, she leaves me sitting while she carries on a lengthy conversation. She doesn't apologize to me; she just talks on and on as though I weren't there. Last evening she got three calls. (I finally found a magazine to occupy myself.)

When I have a guest and my phone rings, I tell the caller that I have company and will call back tomorrow.

How should I handle this without offending her?

LA JOLLA

DEAR LA JOLLA: Let your friend know that you are offended when she engages in long telephone conversations while you cool your heels. And if she does it again, interrupt her conversation just long enough to say, "I can see that you're too busy for company. Bye!" Then walk out.

(Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Fainting Caused By A Lack Of Oxygen

DEAR DR. LAMB - I read your column about the man fainting when standing to urinate. Well, I have a fainting problem too. I faint once in a while when I have a bowel movement. I'm a 46-year-old woman. One time I went clear out and afterwards I felt weak all day. Can you tell me what causes this? The doctor I go to doesn't seem to worry about it. But I do. He checked my blood pressure and it was OK, but that was all that was done.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My doctor has restricted my sugar intake. I am allowed potatoes. Do sweet potatoes contain more calories than Irish potatoes. I am underweight.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Regardless of the immediate cause of fainting (seeing blood or being stuck with a needle, for examples), the mechanisms are usually the same and result in inadequate blood flow to the brain. Passing out while having a bowel movement is not so unusual as you might think. Many people strain and hold their breath, which may slow or even stop the heart and cause dilatation of the arteries in the legs. These effects of straining are well known to heart specialists who took care of heart attacks in the days when prolonged bed rest was the rule. Many patients died straining on bed pans. And electrocardiograms showed severe heart arrhythmias or a slowing or even stopping of the heart itself. Even a normal person can slow his heart by holding his breath. But you should have a more detailed examination. You might have a problem related to the brain itself, but most likely it is inadequate blood flow to the brain. I would suggest you see a neurologist, a specialist in brain function and possibly a cardiologist. It would be useful to record your heart rhythm during breathing maneuvers and

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY DECEMBER 16, 1983 Substantial material gains can be made this coming year, provided you are more concerned with cash than with the spotlight. Be pragmatic regarding the types of hoped-for rewards. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Promises made to you today should not be too heavily relied upon, especially if they are from persons who have let you down previously. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be on guard early in the day or you might do things which do not serve your best interest. By late afternoon, you're not apt to repeat this process. CANCER (June 21-July 21) If possible, do not become involved in social situations today that are replete with boring types. Instead, seek fun-loving companions. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unless you are truly motivated today, you're apt to have trouble getting into high gear. Success will be denied you if you just use half-measures. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) For reasons known only to you, there's a chance you might view yourself as the underdog today. Negative thinking produces negative results. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The family budget will suffer today if either you or your mate buy something that you both had agreed to do without for the present. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try not to be uncooperative today if you are, there's a likelihood others may not want to include you in their activities.

the stratosphere in his Blackwood 747 and South found himself in a slam. It wasn't a bad one. North had his values, and with any lead but a trump South would have been able to ruff two clubs in dummy and breeze home. As we have noted, defenders have a penchant for finding the best lead and West opened a trump. South saw that his chance to ruff two clubs had flown away, but there were lots of other possibilities. In any event, the best play was to start on spades. At trick two South cashed dummy's spade ace and ruffed a spade. Then he led a club. West rose with the ace and led a second trump. South noted the 3-1 trump break as he won in dummy. He led another low spade and ruffed. Both opponents followed, and South had found a 4-3 spade break, which was all he needed. He ruffed a club, came to his hand with the diamond ace, drew trumps and eventually discarded a low diamond and his last club on the king and seven of spades.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby South wasn't proud of his one-heart opening bid and less proud of his two-heart rebid, although 11 high-card points including two aces with a good six-card major suit are an opener for anyone who wants to be a winner. Then North took off for

'Eros America' Tame

By Andrew J. Edelstein
 Cinemax's "Eros America" is a magazine-style show about erotica, a slightly tonier version of material found on the Playboy Channel. It's part of Cinemax's plan to diversify its programming and establish itself as more than just HBO's all-movie, step-sister service. "SCTV," its other recent addition, enhances its lineup. "Eros America" doesn't. In the first edition, we see three "lifestyle" pieces (a fireman who doubles as a male stripper, a housewife who doubles as a female stripper, a high-class call girl) stitched together with sexual minutiae. This stuff is tame, not titillating. Except for the bared breasts and four-letter words (to remind you that this is, after all, cable TV), these reports are not much different than what you could see on "P.M. Magazine" or "Entertainment Tonight." Who needs cable for this? "Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous" was more interesting and entertaining and two hours back to back of "Dynasty" and "Hotel" is more arousing. So what? In 1978, this might have been new and exciting. But this is 1983 and what's new here? Sex is becoming as common on cable as rock videos. By airing "Eros America," Cinemax is reacting, not acting. Face it, most people, if given the choice, would probably prefer watching a tape of "Debbie Does Dallas" than this warmed-over pastiche. Maybe Cinemax should just add some raucier movies to its roster if they're looking for a new audience. Maybe Time Inc. should just start an entirely new service aimed for this audience. They could call it Sinemax.

FCC Grapples With Phone Porn Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission is trying to figure out the perplexing problem of how to allow adults to call "dial-a-porn" services while keeping children off the sex phone lines.

The FCC, in voting Wednesday to seek comment on the dilemma, said it would try to establish rules for enforcement of the new law in 180 days.

Legislation signed into law Dec. 8 gave the commission the difficult mission of determining a way that adults can call the numbers, guaranteeing their First Amendment rights, while forbidding access to those under age 18.

Hail To The 'Chief'

Duane Harrell (left), president of the Sanford Breakfast Rotary Club, was the surprised recipient recently of the Paul Harris Fellow Award, the highest honor for a Rotarian, which was presented by club vice president, Ernest A. Cavallaro, (center) as the proud Mrs. "Pinkey" Harrell looked on. The club honored the Seminole County sheriff's chief deputy for his service to the club and the community by donating $1,000 to the Rotary Foundation in his name.

10 Indicted In Court Corruption Scandal

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Justice Department's three-year investigation of corruption in the nation's largest court system has resulted in indictments of 10 judges, attorneys and court workers on charges of extortion, payoffs, racketeering and mail fraud.

The investigation — called "Operation Greylord" for the wigs worn by British barristers — used phony cases, bribes, electronic eavesdropping and an informant judge who hid a tape recorder in his cowboy boots.

Weeks before the indictments were made public Wednesday, a police sergeant subpoenaed to testify before a "Greylord" grand jury was found dead of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound, police said. The sergeant's name was not mentioned in the indictments but authorities said he worked for one of the indicted judges.

In a joint news conference, U.S. Attorney Dan K. Webb and FBI Special Agent in Charge Edward Hegarty announced that two special grand juries had returned indictments detailing at least $65,000 in payoffs, and 165 counts of extortion, racketeering and mail fraud.

Named in the indictments were three judges, four lawyers, a veteran policeman and two deputy court clerks.

"The indictments today are not the end of this project," Webb said. "If evidence warrants it, the grand jury will ... return additional indictments."

Webb also said the government would follow "numerous leads" apparently offered by attorneys seeking leniency should they be indicted.

"When this project is over ... it will be viewed as one of the most comprehensive, intricate and difficult investigations ever undertaken in a court system," Webb said.

In Washington, FBI Director William Webster praised the investigation, saying it showed "there are no safe harbors from investigations for corruption."

If convicted, the defendants face between five and 20 years in prison on each count, and fines.

All the indictments stemmed from phony court cases planned by federal prosecutors, who assigned a downstate Illinois judge to become "corrupt" and spot crooked attorneys.

Brocton Lockwood, a guitar-playing Williamson County associate circuit judge, played "mole" for the FBI. He concealed a tape recorder in his cowboy boots and spoke with his hillbilly twang in gathering evidence while serving as a visiting judge in Cook County.

"If I had known now how involved it was going to be, I probably would have just quietly quit and forgotten about the thing," Lockwood said.

Federal investigators used electronic eavesdropping devices to bug judges' chambers for the first time on record, officials said. FBI agents posed as victims, defendants, witnesses and defense lawyers, sometimes exchanging roles.

Webb defended the techniques, saying judicial corruption is "undertaken in a closed and secret environment" that does not easily invite investigation.

Marines Blast Away At Suspicious Taxi

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — U.S. Marines shot at a taxi that tried to drive an American television crew into their base through a wrong entrance, hitting the driver and cutting one of the Americans with glass fragments.

A spokesman for the National Broadcasting Corp. said Joseph Corcoran, an employee of WITN-TV, an NBC affiliate in Washington, N.C. was cut in the shoulder by glass and was flown to the aircraft carrier USS Guam for treatment.

The Lebanese taxi driver, Mustafa Mahmoud Najjar, was shot in the head and left arm. He was expected to be released from the hospital in three or four days, said NBC producer Tony Hillman.

The two-man television crew had just arrived in Beirut on an overnight ship from Cyprus and took the taxi to the Marine base to record Christmas messages from Marines and take them back to the U.S. for broadcast by WITN-TV.

Najjar approached the wrong gate and was halted by a warning shot over the car, Hillman said. The driver apparently panicked and slammed the car into reverse, prompting the Marines to open fire.

Hillman said the network tried to discourage affiliates from sending crews to Lebanon because of the danger. "There's always apprehension when you're going into a zone like that, but they're dedicated newsmen and they were willing to go in," Dick Paul, president of WITN-TV, said. "It was their idea and they wanted to do it."

"Our present slogan is 'Go where the news is,' but we're not supposed to be part of it," said Paul.
