Dog Track Planning $6 Million Building

By DONNA ESTES

Longwood - The $3 million expansion of the Sanford - Orlando Kennel Club has been (enlarged to) a $6 million expansion, Councilman William Klosky told a group of Wildmere area property owners Sunday.

Klosky said due to the anticipated expansion of the dog track facilities, sewage treatment has become almost a necessity there.

"Jack LeDoux (manager and part owner of the track) wants to come into the city," the councilman said and gave this as one reason consideration is being given to permitting land developer C.A. Hobbs Jr. to install a package sewer plant on his 60-plus acres around Fairy Klosky continued that LeDoux is interested only in being annexed if sewer and water service is made available by the city. He estimated the city would receive some $25,000 in revenues annually from the kennel club when annexed.

The councilman said he had no inkling about any connection between the proposed Hobbs development and Kennel Club annexation until he was called to a meeting at the dog track some weeks ago and found Hobbs and associates there. Former councilman James Brown, a member of the group, said he personally has no objections to the dog track being annexed "but not at the cost of the residential district already in the city." Brown said the city has not grown much in recent years with the exception of "235" homes."I don't want Longwood to become a totally '235' town," Brown said, urging that

Building Inspection Expansion

There are few spots in Seminole county where the sound of bulldozers grinding and clearing areas for building lots or the sound of masons placing concrete blocks, craftsmen installing electric lines, plumbing facilities and skillfully putting on the finishing touches cannot be seen or heard.

Greater Sanford is not any exception. But in this older municipality there is another kind of construction now getting some overdue aid and assistance. This is in the matter of complying with an enforcement of the minimum housing

It is all to the credit of the Sanford City Commissioners that both of these important challenges are now being met either by present action or future plans.

Already an additional building inspector is on the job concentrating on the minimum housing code compliance. It is taking place not a minute too soon for this is tied in with the workable program, a prerequisite for any federal funding grants.

As commendable as this move by the city commission in improving and correcting the old structures which are a blot on the image of this city, especially when the brightness of new housing is near enough to invite a comparison, it is the future which is getting sound study.

That this is essential will be readily recognized if anyone would take a drive around the present limits of the city and view the housing which is already under way on former pastures, low land and vacant lots.

If this is an eye-opener, then the plans which are already in blueprint form or gleams in the eyes of bold and adventurous developers are even more astounding. These will be major factors for good or evil in Sanford as the next few years unfold.

While all of the commissioners are aware, some more keenly than others, of this challenge there are two city officials whose responsibilities make such a study as normal and necessary for them as opening the morning mail.

One is Warren (Pete) Knowles, City Manager. The other is Lynn Risner, City Building Official. Mr. Knowles has pointed out that there are about 1,000 new housing units in planning or construction stages in Sanford

Looking ahead he referred to the 12 subdivisions which have construction underway and estimates that there will be another three to four thousand units to be properly inspected in the not too distant future.

Mr. Risner does not need to do any research to be aware of the present mushroom rate of growth of construction. It is not the statistics that catches his attention. It is the flood of contractors who have come into Sanford, sniffing the profits which housing promises.

When building inspection is talked about it is entirely too often rated as a control over shoddy construction which is in the lap of the contractor - of concern to builders only. But what our building officials and our city commissioners are concerned about is the fate of the buyer, not the builder. It is the homeowner, the property investor, the individual who has spent his money to live or operate in Sanford, whose interests are being protected.

That there will be a need for more building inspectors and better facilities to conduct this essential part of the city's business cannot be logically questioned.

That it exists and can be remedied when proper funds are included in the budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, is a conclusion that we are sure the city commissioners will adopt when the time for action arrives. Common sense makes it a "MUST"!

College Reforms Urged By Pifer

BY KENNETH J. RABBEN Copley News Service Young adults should have alternatives as productive and seful as college to relieve colleges of students who attend because there is nothing else to do. Alan Pifer, president of the Carnegie Corp., one of the nation's most generous philanthropic education foundations. in his annual report says, "Unquestionably the most important way that society could lighten the burden on higher ducation would be to find ways to relieve it of remonsibility for the substantial numbers of young people who become students only because they feel they must avoid the stigma of not having attended college or see no other way to spend the threshold years of adulthood that holds out any kend of promise to them." Higher education, he explains, must invent "viable alternatives for some young people, alternatives that are at least as productive to society, as useful to the individual and no more costly than going to college." This advice is from a foundation that shares the responsibility for what John Keats calls "the sheepskin psychosis."

It is an illness that costs those paying the college education bill about $4,000 a year, not including the extras most students consider necessities. Victims believe that without a college degree life is blighted and that chances of earning large amounts of money are seriously retarded.

Recent research labels this assumption quackery.

At the same time Pifer seemingly reversing his position, higher education lobbyists are pleading with Congress to pass a higher education bill that will pour billions more dollars into colleges and universities - about $1,400 a year for every student who wants to attend - because they believe that everyone should have the opportunity for higher education at the taxpayers' expense.

Pifer presents a prescription for improvement that manages to touch basic questions facing higher education: should it provide a community of scholars and a citadel of intellectualism and preparation of well - rounded individuals or continue to be a glorified trade school, research and development arm of government and dedicated to saving

The foundation president says higher education should he allowed "to concentrate more, and with easier conscience, on its most central functions," which he does not define.

What amounts to a bloodless counterrevolution apparently has taken place in China.

Moreover, the resurgence of old-timers extends so far down through the ranks and to so many provinces that in many respects it seems to mean a repudiation of the tumultuous Cultural Revolution, which had aimed at restructuring Mao's China.

Whatever the meaning, the current shifts seem to bring back into prominence the same group of men who ran the Communist party in the days of the Yenan caves 27

It is almost always an uphill contest for a presidential candidate running against an incumbent president.

It is immensely tougher when the election comes in the middle of a war, and tougher yet when the war has not just a ship but the country's very hopes for peace, or so it is claimed.

The toughest thing of all, however, is to retain one's perspective when the war is the unpopular Vietnam war, when the incumbent president has spent longer winding it down than two previous presidents took to wind it up, and when those who aspire to be the next president are members of the party which got the country into the war in the first place.

what an American president says or offers, or what an American presidential candidate says or offers, has a measurable influence on strategy-making in Hanoi.

It has just been revealed that as early as July, 1965, when the United States had only about 33,000 troops in Vietnam, a peace bid was made to Hanoi.

When you flip the switch in 1976 will the lights come on?

We're spending almost s1 million a day to help make sure.

> You're using more and more electricity. And so are your neighbors. Our job is to try to make sure that the electricity you need is always on tap, ready to serve you at the flip of a switch.

It takes a lot of planning. That's why we have to look ahead five years and more. And it takes a lot of money. That's why we're investing over $300 million a year in facilities. Everything from new generators that make the power to new transmission equipment that keeps the power coming to you dependably. All aimed at making sure you can always flip that switch with confidence.

We can't afford not to.

Waitress unravels

restaurant mystery

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Someone wanted to know why some people come into a restaurant and sit at a dirty table when there are clean tables they could just as easily sit at. Well, I'm a waitress, and I think I know.

- · Some folks like to have a table that is NOT near the rest rooms. [And some want one NEAR the rest rooms.]
- Some like to sit near the music. [Others sit as far away from the music as they can get.
- They don't want to be near the kitchen. [Too noisy and too much hustling and bustling of the belp. I · Some like to sit where they can watch the door to see - who comes in. Some want a table where they can be seen.
- · Others prefer an out-of-the-way table where they're less
- Some like to sit near the window so they can look out.
- · Some like to sit where they can keep their eye on the · Some like to sit near the exit in case of fire.
- I'm sure there are other reasons, but I've got to go now because I'm on duty and must clear a certain table. It's the favorite with many customers because I if you'll forgive me for bragging l, it's my station. LOVE, LOIS

DEAR LOIS: It's easy to understand why customers like you. Thanks for writing. DEAR ABBY: My husband prefers long hair, so I let mine grow long. Recently, I decided to get a little trimmed off the ends to get a permanent. I called a beauty shop and made an appointment. The owner of the shop told the operator what I wanted done, and then I told the operator that I wanted only a little trimmed I then took off my glasses so they wouldn't be in the way. The operator then proceeded to chop off my hair, and t ended up VERY short. I was upset, but said nothing, thinking if the end result looked nice it would be all right. When I tried to tell the operator what style I wanted for my hair, she said they didn't do that there, and then she gave me an awful, childish hairdo.

When I complained to the owner, all she said was, "I'm sorry." What recourse do I have? Can an operator in a beauty shop just chop off hair without any responsibility to the customer? I'd appreciate any help you can give me. LOOKS AWFUL

DEAR LOOKS: Customers have been known to sue beaupariors for damages. But in order to collect, the cutr must prove that she has suffered a financial loss, cal pain, or disfigurement, or mental anguish as a reult of their services. This will be difficult for you to establish, unless your husband cuts off your allowance because you've cut off your hair.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal.

Some Simple Methods For Cutting Frozen Pies

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY-I have help for Mrs. J. E. M. who has trouble cutting frozen pies when she takes them from the freezer. She should precut the pies before freezing and use a spatula or, better still, a pancake turner when removing from the pan. Allow them to thaw somewhat before doing this,-MRS. M. C.

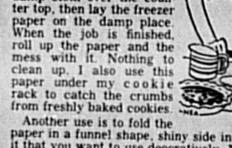

DEAR POLLY-One of my Pet Peeves is with fabric on which the design is not printed straight on the goods. waste both time and material trying to line up designs when making so many things.-LILLIAN

DEAR POLLY-I am eight months pregnant. I was finding it very difficult to sit at the table and eat comfortably, so my husband took a large, deep cardboard box and cut a hole for my stomach and another for my legs. This is great as it works like a tray and I also use it as a desk. I do hope some other pregnant girls can make use of this idea.-MRS. D. W.

Polly's Problem DEAR POLLY-In the older house we have just moved into the fireplace and hearth are black marble. How do I keep this clean and shining? We have been told that if we use the fireplace the marble will crack but I just cannot believe this. Does anyone know if this is true?-FAYE

DEAR POLLY-1 find using freezer paper for rolling out cinnamon rolls and pie dough works fine. Run a damp cloth over the counter top, then lay the freezer When the job is finished roll up the paper and the mess with it. Nothing to clean up. I also use this paper under my cookie rack to catch the crumbs paper in a funnel shape, shiny side in, and put frosting in it that you want to use decoratively. No bag to wash, just throw it away when finished. Two-way tape will hold the decorating tips to the paper .- MRS. L. S.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite homemaking idea. Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.
